The Royal Corps of Signals

THE ARMY TAUGHT YOU NEVER TO GIVE UP, SO DON'T

So there you are in civvy street. Completely at a loose end. But...why?...The Army's what you're good at. What about joining the TA? It's part of the British Army so you'll still be a soldier.

There are two options open to you. First, you can join one of the Territorial Army Independent Units based in the TAVRA region in which you have decided to settle. An ideal route for those who wish to serve locally. Which Unit you join will depend on those available in the area you live in. Second, if you are leaving a Corps, you could retain your cap badge and become a member of either an Independent Unit as above, or a TA Specialist Unit. In either, you can maintain and develop the special skills that you have learned.

The minimum commitment as a member of the Independent TA is 6 weekends, a two-week Summer Camp and some weekday evenings. As a Specialist we ask only 2 weekends and a 15 day annual camp. In return, you will earn Army rates of pay and an annual tax-free bonus of up to £1000.

For an information brochure call 0845 603 32 32 quoting ref WI004, or send the coupon to: Freepost, The TA, CV37 9BR.

FROM THE EDITOR

I expected a hefty postbag as a result of the flyer included with the December issue of THE WIRE.

Your response has substantially exceeded my expectations. Supportive and constructive is the first impression - with many ideas that will influence future copies of THE WIRE. How to play The Journal is now subject to detailed analysis of your comments. We will keep you informed and in the meantime, many thanks for your encouraging responses.

ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP

Part of the Royal Signals Association's charter is to help in the reunion of former friends. This task is made more difficult by the numerous soldiers who do not stay in contact with the Association after discharge. It is a proven fact that, later on in life, when family, job and home are more secure, memories of life in the Corps are often rekindled and an interest is taken in possible reunions with former pals.

When you are contacted by the Association upon discharge, please be sure to return the relevant card and stay in touch – believe us, one day you will be glad you did!

ROYAL SIGNALS MUSEUM ACQUIRES SIGNALMAN KENNETH SMITH'S GEORGE CROSS

by Colonel C. J. Walters, Regimental Colonel

The George Cross of Signalman Kenneth Smith GC has recently been acquired by the Royal Signals Museum, Blandford. The medal was recently auctioned by Spink who describe it as, 'A superb clandestine operations posthumous GC'. The London Gazette of 19 October 1945 describes the background to this posthumous award that became the subject of one of the official Royal Corps of Signals paintings.

'On the night of 10 January 1945, on the Island of Ist in the Adriatic (off the coast of Yugoslavia), Signalman Smith was a member of a patrol of the Long Range Desert Group, which was attacked by saboteurs, who laid time-bombs in the vital houses of the Island. After hearing some shots, Signalman Smith entered the Wireless Room and found one such bomb on the table. Realising that there were a number of partisans in the room and young children elsewhere in the house, Signalman Smith immediately picked up the bomb, which was ticking. He intended to move it to a place of safety behind a nearby wall, but he had only gone a few yards outside the house when the bomb exploded and he was blown to pieces. There is no doubt that Signalman Smith's action certainly saved the lives of many of his comrades, partisans and civilians, and that he showed superb courage and complete disregard for personal safety in lifting a time-bomb which was already ticking when he knew that it might explode at any minute'.

The George Cross is very rarely awarded and is, for instance, much rarer than the VC. King George VI originally instituted it on 24 September 1940 for, 'acts of the greatest heroism or of the most conspicuous courage in circumstances of extreme danger'. The Cross is intended primarily for civilians and is only awarded to members of the Armed Forces for actions for which purely military honours are not normally granted. In the first 59 years of its existence only 154 were awarded directly which include the one conferred upon the Island of Malta. A further 244 were awarded to replace eligible Empire Gallantry, Albert and Edward Medals that ceased; as such only 398 have ever been awarded.

Originally, the posthumously awarded GC of Signalman Smith became the property of his mother along with his five campaign medals. She in turn eventually gave her second son the GC and her third son Michael the campaign medals to safeguard.

Michael was only three years old when Kenneth won the GC so he did not know him but, '…..had always wanted to know more about the circumstances in which my brother had given his life. Then, in 1985 my sister saw an article by the Louth Branch of the British Legion in the Lincoln press. They were seeking information about my brother on behalf of the Council of Ist (pronounced EAST) who wished to erect a memorial to him. As a result we sent them a copy of the citation and a photograph of him.'

This incident further increased Michael's interest in his brother's award and was closely followed by a programme by Sir Fitzroy Maclean on the TV programme Pebble Mill, to whom they wrote. Following a number of other contacts it was eventually arranged with the Ist council that Michael, his wife and his son should visit the small Island in July 1988. They flew to Split, drove to Zedar and sailed to the Island. On the Island the few hundred Islanders treated them extremely kindly. They attended a reception, met locals who had known Kenneth and most important met Vjeko Smoljan and a friend Maria. Vjeko had befriended Kenneth and Maria, as a young girl, had been in the house at the time of the original fatal incident. She stated that Kenneth had saved her life. The visitors saw the original house, the original radio room and Kenneth's initial burial place. After visiting the Island, Michael and his family went on to the British Military Cemetery in Belgrade where Signalman Kenneth Smith GC was finally laid to rest after the War. The whole visit was an extremely rewarding and moving family occasion.

But the story does not end there because when Michael and Kenneth's brother died the GC could not be found; it was assumed to have been lost or sold. It was not until about two years after his death that his wife declared that the medal had been sold only six months after being put into his care. Armed with this knowledge Michael and his son Jamie set out to determine the medal's whereabouts. They had made no headway until Jamie, a computer specialist, tried the Internet. Within a short period he received an e-mail from a South African 'surfee' advising that the medal was in the hands of SPINK and would soon appear for auction. He made contact with them who advised him that the Royal Signals Museum had also sought information about the medal. Michael made contact with the Royal Signals Museum Trustees and was present when the medal was acquired.

The medal will now reside in the home of the Royal Signals and as Michael stated, 'I am delighted that the medal has finally found a safe home where it will be respected and treasured. I think it would have been a great pity for such a national treasure to have gone overseas or to a private collector. I am a very happy man. It will now be on show as a permanent reminder to the nation of those who gave their lives so courageously that we may live in freedom.'

How much will you be earning in 2 years' time?

"Computer specialists expect panic in 2000. The British Computer Society predicts that programmmers paid £350 a day at present will be able to command £1000 a day in 2000."*

THURSDAY 10 SEPTEMBER 1998

On Thursday 10 September 1998, the adventure was about to begin. I was outside the Headquarters Royal Signals, at Blandford ready with the advance party of five people to travel down to Cornwall for the start of Ex Iron Lizard. An Adventurous Training Exercise which would involve walking 60 miles around the Cornish Coastal Path and raise money in the form of individual sponsorship for the Joseph Weld Hospice Trust. Despite the fact that six walkers had dropped out we still had enough walkers to make a difference. The start would be at the Lizard Point and all being well, would finish four days later at St Ives.

The journey down was without incident and within five hours we had arrived at the first campsite. Boscrege campsite was owned by Chris and Peter Trevett who had loaned us their facilities for free. The rest of the afternoon was spent setting up the tents ready for the arrival of the main party, which was due to arrive later that evening, and making a recce of the start and finish points for each day. By 2230hrs, the main party had arrived at the site. After a camp safety and exercise brief everyone was tucked up early ready for the start of Stage 1 the following day.

After a rain soaked night - where the rain was so heavy we thought we were going to get washed away, the start of Day 1 had arrived. After getting washed and dressed, it was down to Safeway Supermarket in Penzance for breakfast. I had arranged earlier with the manager that for every three breakfasts I purchased, the fourth would be free. This would be a great help as a good full English breakfast was appreciated by everybody who would be walking and burning the calories. After breakfast and a quick read of the morning papers, we set off for the 30mins trip to the Lizard Point to finally get under way.

As everybody clambered from the minibuses the faces said it all. The clouds were gathering and the wind was picking up. Just time for a quick team photograph and we were off. No sooner had we joined the path and had walked about two miles the heavens opened and the whole group was soaked in minutes. This was not a good start. I could tell that morale would take a nosedive if the rain was to continue. But, luck was on our side and after about 10 minutes, the rain stopped, the clouds cleared and sunshine finally peeped through. The rest of the day was to continue in this fashion with a strong breeze that would dry the team out by the time we had reached Porthleven, the end of Stage 1. It was a good start to the walk and left nobody in any doubt as to what was expected from them over the next three days. Total distance covered on Stage 1 was 17 miles. After being picked up by the minibus it was back to the site for the team medic to look at any blisters. Three people had blisters, which were promptly looked at. That evening it was down to the local pub for our evening meal and a few well deserved orange juices and lemonades.

Yet another night of heavy rain greeted us for the start of Stage 2. Travelling down to Penzance for breakfast I could see that the mood was bleak and I think everybody would have preferred to stay in Safeway all day. I'm sorry to say that this is the Army and we had a mission to complete. So, with the group being dragged to the minibus kicking and screaming, we were off to Porthleven for the start of Stage 2. This would take us from Porthleven to St Michael's Mount and on to Penzance. The good news was no sooner had we left the minibus than the rain stopped and the sun came out. Morale of course soared to new heights and a good days walking was achieved. This part of the walk would take us over some spectacular scenery and with the added bonus of sunshine, it was enjoyed by all. Having arrived at St Michael's Mount, it was agreed that we would push on the extra three miles into Penzance. This proved to be a big mistake as it was all on tarmac. By the time we had arrived many of the team were complaining of sore feet. The medic would be busy back at the site! Total distance covered was 17 miles. Of course, during our absence on the walk the rear party had been busy. They had dismantled the site at Boscrege and moved to Higher Chellew, a superb location owned by Pam and Eric Bleasdale. Once again they had also given the use of their site for free. This site was just north of Penzance and would suit us well for the remainder of the walk.

That evening, after most of the team had limped to the minibus and the girls were awoken from their slumber, it was down to Penzance for a meal at the Branwell Meadery. Knowing we were on a sponsored walk, the Management had agreed to provide the table with free wine and mead. They treated us well and everybody was impressed with the food. The size of the portions proved so large that we made a booking for Sunday night.

SUNDAY 13 SEPTEMBER 1998

Stage 3 and no surprises, it rained again all night! But, once again, the day would be clear of rain with bright sunshine to accompany us all day. This was to be a long stage taking us from Mousehole to Lands End. But the scenery was spectacular! In the end we completed 18 miles, which was more than planned and a majority of the team were exhausted at the finish. Despite this most of the team did say it was the best days walking so far. That evening, after a short recovery, it was back down to Penzance to gatecrash the Meadery. Once again they provided a wonderful service with plenty of food to stock us up for the following day. Unfortunately, that evening we had our first casualty. One of the team who had been suffering on Sunday during the walk collapsed through exhaustion and was taken to hospital. After a night in hospital she was released the following day. She has since made a full recovery but will think twice before signing up for next years walk!

MONDAY 14 SEPTEMBER

Stage 4 and final day and most people just wanted to finish and get home. Only eight miles today and that would bring the total to 60 miles. The weather was still being kind to us so accompanied for the final stage by Col Ewbank, the Chief of Staff, and Lt Col Batho, who arrived the night before, it was off to the start of Stage 4 and the final push to St Ives. This proved to be quite a hike and most people were pushing ahead at a fast pace to get to St Ives in good time so it was full steam ahead. Even with the wind against us we got to St Ives by lunchtime. It was then back to the site to finish clearing up, and then on the minibuses for the long drive home.

Most people seemed to enjoy it and even mentioned what a good idea it would be to organise another one for next year. Of course, the walk is the easy part. Now comes the hard part of gathering in all the sponsorship money raised through this event and presenting it to the Joseph Weld Hospice.

As a footnote I would like to thank the following for their help which made it a lot easier for us to complete it:

Tescos - Blandford; Safeway Supermarket - Penzance; Hall & Woodhouse Brewery; Boscrege Camping and Caravan Park; Higher Chellew Camping and Caravan Park and all those who sponsored us . . .

Ex Purple Duster is over and the dust is now settling to be revisited in two years time. Next on the agenda is The Spring CPX that the TA Staff are busying themselves with. Time-scales may seem extended but actual planning time is obviously limited. The Autumn FTX is being examined before the Spring Exercise is even under way. Elsewhere in the Headquarters people have been prepping for the new financial year, and working on the outfall from the TA element of the SDR and on the Brigade Study period to be held once more at Longmoor. The Brigade dinner night was something of a success, as ever, with the next being planned for April.

A big hand goes to Maj Rod Thomas our outgoing and on going Chief of Staff. He is going on promotion to Lieutenant Colonel, where he is to serve with the Royal Engineers at Minley. He has been with the Brigade for three years and served with three Brigade Commanders over that period. With any luck he'll now have time to improve his squash (the Yeoman says he needs to). Incoming, is Maj Paul Kelly who is incoming from AFCENT. He is given a warm welcome and will need it during the winter if he continues to drive his TWO convertible cars that he has been seen with so far. The TA Staff have finally given their farewell to Lt Col Keith Knowles TD, who is to retire (again). He takes his peculiar sense of humour with him that will doubtless be missed. He is to keep himself busy with his company that he and his brother have set up (R & K Associates), though as it involves being at the beach in Rio in Brazil, its nature may be somewhat different to the Millennium Bug busting enterprise its said to be. Maj Alisdair MacGillivray produced some black whisky at their dinner that made the evening go with a (Highland) swing, that accompanied the Scottish theme rather well. Lastly on the ACISG side of the house, we welcome Capt Tim Bamber as the new SO3 ACISG. He has joined us on Full Time Reserve Service. He has served with 37 Sig Regt (V) for seven years and this included a 6-month tour with IFOR in Sarajevo . Previously working in the automotive industry, he has decided that FTRS provided a promising career alternative. It is worthy of note that of all FTRS now serving, 1 in 7 are with this Brigade.

This year's annual Brigade Study Period was entitled 'The Soldier'. The purpose of the weekend (yes! All you regulars, we have Study Periods at weekends in a Brigade with seven TA units) was to increase our understanding of a number of topical issues that effect our soldiers and to provide an ideal opportunity for the Brigade to meet more informally. There were a number of presentations, by individuals at the top of their respective fields, covering the topics of: 'Obtain', 'Retain' and 'Sustain'. A huge range of subject matter was covered in the one and a half days, including:

'Setting the Scene' - a look at the state of the Corps and some crystal-balling by Col Hadfield (Colonel Force Development). This was later to provide a great deal of lively debate in an Open Forum!

'Obtain' - recruiting our soldiers both TA and Regular. We had a brief from Col Blake on the National Employment Liaison Committee (NELC) who encourage civilian companies to support their TA employees. Lt Col (Retd) Kane of the West Midland TAVRA and Col Walters, Regimental Colonel, reviewed the state of TA and Regular Recruiting as well as giving plugs for the Corps' Internet Site and handing out some 'freebies'.

'Retain' - this became a particularly thorny topic – as the Brigadier knew it would – and included formal input from Col Hadfield (having just survived the onslaught of comments from 2 Signal Regiment in particular, concerning their future in his earlier presentation), and Col McDowall (MCM Div). The Commanding Officers of 35 and 33 (Logica) Signals Regiments (V) and their troops provided us with two very popular and amusing skits, including wolf whistles for Adjutant 35 Sig Regt, Capt 'Male Model' Andy Talbot.

Maj Mike Wise (DCOS)
proving that he can walk and chew Gum at the same time

Two slackers identified early on and called out to perform in front of the assembled Brigade – Capts Nick 'I didn't make it to bed' Range and Jason 'my head hurts' Kennedy

'Sustain' - having thoroughly sustained our bodies - and minds - at the Brigade Dinner Night we were all rudely awoken for a PT session of aerobics, on the Main Square, led by the local QMSI. All that is except Maj David Sullivan who had rather sneakily retained the role of photographer and managed to get some embarrassing pictures of everyone. The Study Period closed with an address - not sermon - from Padre John Whitton of Netheravon House.

The other high point of the weekend was the keynote address from Mr Bob Purkiss, a Commissioner from the Commission for Racial Equality (CRE). Most of us were expecting a fairly scathing attack from a civilian who could not possibly understand Army life and anyway, why were the CRE interfering when there is no racism in the forces? We were treated to a superb presentation by a very talented speaker who proved to us that he was, indeed, very much on our side, did understand us and that there were still, unfortunately, racial attacks and incidents of racism in the forces.

I believe that everyone had a profitable weekend (for the TA it was more profitable - two days pay), 33 (Logica) Signal Regiment (V) may have picked up some more recruits for the Regiment or for their 'sponsors' Logica! Lt Col Chris Wakerley's 2 Sig Regt 'Gang' worked well with Maj David Somerville providing a few (hundred) quiet, choice interjections to all the presentations, especially those concerning the future of the 'Gang'. And finally, Maj Mike Wise, DCOS, who was the project officer for the whole weekend did not get a short notice posting, unlike Maj David Sullivan!

BRIGADE STUDY PERIOD - SUPPORT TEAM ANTICS

With the annual Brigade Study Period looming ever closer, the HQ 11 Sig Bde Sp Team closed ranks and set too with a vengeance. Working tirelessly behind the scenes they pieced together the detailed administrative support to one of the Brigade's major annual events. The highly motivated team consisting of, Maj Phil 'Bills' Daisey and Maj Steve 'Seating Plan' Bellerby, headed by Maj Mike '7005' Wise took (not) a little time in putting together a cunning plan that would stand the test of last minute amendments to unit attendance lists. WO2 (RQMS) 'Get on Parade' Sadler, (Late Grenadier Guards) with impeccable style and in the true tradition of the Household Division, ensured the finer points of detail were not overlooked. Day one of the Study Period arrived. With tea urns fully charged, cakes and buffet lunches plated, and final adjustments to the Brigade Dinner Night seating plan completed, our intrepid team looked on in awe as the plan went forward with no last minute hitches - well hundreds actually but no one seemed to notice them. Which only goes to prove the old adage that 'Prior Planning and Preparation makes for Perfect Performance', or is it 'What the eye doesn't see .....'

EXERCISE PURPLE SOUND - A SAILOR'S VIEW

*by WO1 (YofS) Graham 'Popeye' Pardew

When Maj 'David' Sullivan said to me, 'Yeoman, you are deploying on Ex Purple Sound as the Joint Task Force Headquarters Frequency Manager in November', I recalled my predecessor, WO1 (YofS) Gary Shakespeare telling me stories of his deployment to Gibraltar and of similar exercises in Egypt and Jamaica. I had visions of sun, sand and rolling seas - little did I realise that I would only encounter sea, more sea and the sandy beach of Kinloss! What harsh realities lay ahead for me? All augmentees to the JTFHQ arrived at South Cerney Air Mounting Centre (AMC) on the Monday evening. We received a welcome brief, before being herded off to our respective Messes for a 'joint bonding session'.

Tuesday consisted of briefings on the functions of the Headquarters, the planning process, information management, change of command procedures and on the exercise itself. Unfortunately just before Lt Col Rimmell was due to give his CIS briefing, he was re-called to PJHQ to assist in the planning for an Operation in Belize – all of a sudden I was the 'CIS Guru', briefing all of the augmentees on communications within the JTFHQ! Luckily there were no awkward questions and the Colonel's hand-over to me was very thorough.

Wednesday came quickly with an early reveille in order to catch that comfortable flight by C130 to Stornaway (Outer Hebrides). We were transferred onto a waiting Chinook and then onboard HMS Invincible (JTFHQ Afloat). Apart from living on ships in the Falkland Islands, this was to be my first experience at sea. I had overheard some 'fish-heads' saying that they always took seasickness tablets, so I took no persuading in downing my tablets in one. The only problem was that you were meant to take two tablets, six hours before you thought you were going to be ill. Work that one out!

Once on board it was like living in a different Country. They all spoke in a totally alien language, for instance, 'Bravo Zulu, go past the Galley, starboard of the Bish's, mind the deckhead or else you will end up in the Sick Bay, that is where you will find the heads.' Translated to, 'Well done, go past the cookhouse right side of the Chaplain's, mind the ceiling or else you will end up in the medical centre, that is where you will find the toilets.' We were issued a 'guide to living on board HMS Invincible', which made life a little easier, but the 'fish-heads' took great pleasure in seeing the 'pongos and crabs' swaying from side to side across the deck and walking around aimlessly trying to find our way around the carrier.

I must say that I would rather keep both feet on land, and I was not sad to reach the shores of RAF Kinloss after spending four days on the Atlantic Ocean and North Sea! The RAF's Tactical Communications Wing (TCW) had already been deployed for three weeks installing the various communications systems (NSTN, PJOCS, ASMA and RTTS) to name but a few, and this was also the first time that the JTFHQ had carried out a change of command from afloat to ashore. This went smoothly under the careful eye of Lt Col 'Tim' Rimmell (SO1 J6) who had returned from his Belize hot planning task. To summarise, the Exercise provided me with an ideal opportunity to work in a unique Headquarters, alongside a diverse range of communications systems. The additional benefit is that JFTHQ deployments are the most likely scenario for any future operations, and HQ 11 Sig Bde will be the lead formation in providing the communications support.

PS: 'Can I go on the next deployment to Egypt?'

EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE 1998

After months of anticipation and frantic planning by the Brigade Operations Team, Ft Lt Farid Khan and WO1 (YofS) Graham Pardew, Ex Winter Eagle 1998 finally got under way on the evening of 20 November. This was the first occasion that our TA Regiments had deployed to local training areas with the aim of producing a countrywide trunk network, utilising fixed bearers installed in key locations. The trial of the Kilostream Network was a resounding success with communications quickly established between Colchester, Altcar Training Area, Newcastle-Under-Lyme and York. The Regiments then concentrated on their own Exercise aims and objectives. Principal amongst these was to merge their own local area networks into the Kilostream Infrastructure to produce reliable communications over a large geographical area.

The Commander and Deputy Commander visited the Exercise on the Saturday evening, the highlight of which was a particularly challenging conference call. Congratulations have to go to WO2 (YofS) Bob Jonas, 55 Signal Squadron (V), who had to ensure his elusive OC, Maj Nick Caleb, was available via SCRA(T)/CNRI. The highlight of Saturday's activities in the Brigade EXCON vehicle were tea and cakes in celebration of Capt John Hiorns 37th birthday.

Sunday saw the Brigade Staff gracefully exit the Exercise, with the WO1 (YofS) Graham Pardew and Sgt Nigel Jones leaving Newcastle-Under-Lyme in plenty of time to get back to Donnington for sherry and mince pies, and a Brigade Headquarters photograph. Unfortunately, somebody had left the keys to the Land Rover in the 4 Tonner driven by Sgt Nigel Jones. A quick test of the mobile communications coverage in the area saw their prompt return to hand the keys to our RAF representative, Flt Lt Farid Khan, who tried to blame his passengers, Capt John Hiorns and Capt Jim Sykes, for this oversight. Being RAF he was unaware that LE Officers don't make such mistakes - he knows now. Another Winter Eagle has passed, and so to Ex Spring Eagle 1999, and a few words from the Commander. 'Now that we've got the kilobit network up and running I would like to make a few changes to Ex Spring Eagle 1999...' Over to you YofS!

BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS CHRISTMAS FUNCTION

It was that time of year again - who was going to organise the Christmas Party for the Brigade staff or should I say who will be told to take on this onerous task. Yes - you guessed it, - the Chief Clerk, WO2 Kath Fenlon AGC and her merry band of young NCOs. Cpl Phil Beacall AGC was tasked with organising some form of an activities morning; quad biking, go-karting and paint balling were a few of his more workable ideas. After much deliberation these were downgraded to the less arduous sports of golf and pitch and putt and for the more energetic horse riding. Apparently, the horse ridden by Maj David Sullivan's was not as interested in jumping as Maj Sullivan himself, consequently the good Major ended up on his dignity.

The golfers left for the Golf Course at 0830 hrs only to find it shut due to frost - not as frosty as the golfers were on having their desire to play dashed. In a rare display of togetherness they decided to join the pitch and putt team. After a morning of lost balls and general hilarity we all returned to the Headquarters for pre lunch Christmas drinks. A request for 'approximately' three oranges to be marinated in Brandy overnight, for the orange juice punch, of course, resulted in enough punch being produced for the whole of Donnington Station. Amazingly, the entire concoction was consumed with the example being set by the Chief of Staff, Maj Paul Hudson, who was heard to mumble later in the afternoon, 'I think it was the seventeenth glass of Gluwein that did it'.

After our wives joined us we moved onto the coach kindly provided by '15 Regt RLC MT Tours Ltd'. We arrived at the restaurant having taken the scenic route and sat down to an excellent meal. Following lunch, trophies were presented for the Pitch and Putt champion and the best Golf (Pitch and Putt) score. Cpl Simon Emmett, the Commander's Driver (Fix) was the winner of the Pitch and Putt and Maj Phil Daisey beat the Commander to take the Golfers Trophy - Phil doesn't want to be promoted anyway. There was no trophy for the horse riders - liniment might have been welcome.

The Commander, Brig Jonathan Cook, bade a fond farewell to Maj David Sullivan and his wife, Maria. David is posted to 30 Sig Regt as the Operations Officer early in the New Year. Flt Lt Farid Khan, thinking he was inconspicuous in his casual outfit, was left in no doubt that his dress had been noted when loud comments about not dipping his tie in his soup were hailed across the Restaurant. We returned to the HQ 'Local', the Clock Tower, to continue the festivities. At 0130 hours, feeling socially disorientated, the Signal Brigade's Christmas Party for another year came to an end.

LUCKY SIGNALLER

by Michael Hancock

Foreword by Admiral of the Fleet
The Lord Hill-Norton

Forthright, critical, entertaining – Lucky Signaller is the highly readable autobiography of Major-General Michael Hancock whose military career began before the Second World War and took him all over the world. Michael Hancock joined the Royal Signals because of boyhood interest in wireless. After an abortive trip to France in 1940, he went on to America, Canada, North Africa, Norway and India. His post-war jobs were in England, Germany and Singapore, as well as with NATO in Paris, Washington and Brussels. Lucky Signaller records an unusually varied military career. From taking potshots at German planes in the desert to sitting on NATO committees, Major-General Hancock describes his many diverse appointments and travels with modesty and humour. With emphasis on the lighter side of military life, this is also a book to be taken seriously for its appraisal of the way our peace is defended and for its frank comments about former colleagues and the workings of NATO. Lucky Signaller is revealing for the layman and riveting for the professional.

Major-General Michael Hancock, CB, MBE, was commissioned into the Royal Signals in 1937. He served in the Tunisian campaign and, in 1945, he arrived in India with 1st Airborne Corps. In GHQ, he became the staff officer responsible for internal security in India. His periods on the War Office staff resulted in travels round the Middle and Far East. He served in Germany and in Singapore: and with NATO in Paris, Washington and Brussels. On retirement from the army he spent 15 years as a planning inspector.

TRAINING

11 SIGNAL REGIMENT

WHITESPEAR TROOP - EXERCISE GRID IRON

by Cpl Tony Brown

Sunday 11 Oct and its another early start for the long trip North to Capel Curig. On arrival I'm met by a smiling MGS who shouts, 'Alright Tony, leave our barrier posts alone, mate!' (previous trip incident) – then right on cue it starts raining. After settling in (bag thrown into corner of room), it was time to brief the Phase II trainees on what was in store for the week ahead. Ex Grid Iron is a week of adventure training designed to challenge the soldiers of 11 Sig Regt who are awaiting trade training. Eight handpicked and highly enthusiastic soldiers were about to try their hands (and various other body parts) at canoeing and climbing. The claustrophobes narrowly missed descending into the caves that could not be squeezed into the programme.

During a truly wet week which filled the rivers but failed to dampen spirits, the trainees spent the first day on the Afon Llugwy river in Grade I – II waters. The second day was spent largely under the Afon Llugwy in Grade III waters before moving on to some drier activities. The following two days were spent in pursuit of thinner air on the North Face of Tryfan and on to the Glyders. In spite of an exhaustive day and an early night, not much sleep was had because of the 50mph winds. Most managed to make up for this, however, on the bus home.

The adventure training section of Whitespear Troop has undergone some changes this year with the arrival of a new face, Cpl Tony Brown, and the departure of Cpl Matt Thomas to military training. With the impending preparation for civilian street by WO1 Bill Ogden, Sgt Chris Gleadow and Cpl 'Dave' Allen in 1999, the section will be losing a great deal of expertise. The message is very clear to anyone who wants to pursue adventure training in an instructional capacity, as a full time job, who has some basic qualifications and would like a posting to Blandford, then Whitespear Troop desperately needs you. Interested individuals, both male and female should go through their chain of command, but further details can be obtained from the 2IC 11 Sig Regt on Blandford Mil 2235.

INTER SQUADRON NOVICE BOXING COMPETITION 1998
1 SQUADRON CHAMPIONS

Team Manager	SSgt Adie Chapman
Team Trainer	Cpl Hughes
Team Trainer	LCpl Rayden
Team Trainer	Sig Foster
Team Trainer	Sig Johnson (Welter)

This year's Inter Squadron Boxing Competition began in September with the start of morning training runs at 0600hrs three times a week. This continued for two weeks until the teams' fitness began to improve and then skills training four nights a week began. As usual the numbers of people including the women, who were competing for the first time this year, started off at 83 but soon dwindled down to 30 as the training became harder and the mornings got colder. Only a few of the men had fought before but for the ladies this was a new experience which came to a head when light sparring with the lads began. The team took shape, but a few injuries and the realisation of what was in store further reduced the numbers, leaving the final team with a total of 13 male and 5 female boxers.

The prelims took place on the 30 November 1998, which the team came through well giving us seven male and five female boxers for the finals. The big night itself was a great occasion for 1 Squadron. Every boxer was well prepared and very psyched up and the sheer guts of all in the ring reflected this. Two members of the Squadron team scored the only knock outs of the night, both in the first round. These were Sig 'Scotty' Johnson and Sig 'Clubber' Smith 680. Special mention should also be made of Sig Fitzpatrick and Sig Flynn who both won the Best Boxer Trophy in their respective classes. With the Squadron winning seven out of the twelve bouts on the night, they secured the first ever male/female Inter Squadron Boxing competition at 11 Sig Regt.

THE HARROGATE CUP

by Sig Wildman & Sig Sidorowicz

The Harrogate Cup is an annual competition held between the troops and squadrons of 11 Sig Regt. Throughout the year different sports are contested between the teams. The competition is run on a points system, the squadron with the most points at the end wins the cup. The first to be played was five-a-side football with Rhino Troops' A team proving emphatic winners in the Inter-Squadron 1st team competition. In contrast Rhino Troop B Team struggled but luckily Kohima Troop B Team came good clinching the overall competition for 1 Squadron. 2 Squadron finished a close second, only one point behind. Most impressive results came from Iron Troop A team collecting a total of four points out of a possible six. Ulster Troop fielded a good side but 3 Squadron were let down by 2 poor sides from Lightning Troop. The second event was volleyball and proved an exciting competition. Spearheaded by both of Iron Troop teams who took maximum points and with Beaufighter Troop's fair efforts, 2 Squadron took the trophy. Iron Troop was again in the running when the basketball competition got under way. But this time the combat trades of 1 Squadron didn't get a sniff, finishing in last place. Meanwhile the competition between 2 and 3 Squadron was hotting up. The squash tournament was almost a repeat performance of the previous event, with 2 and 3 Squadron at loggerheads. Once again 1 Squadron hardly influenced the final result as the other two 2 squadrons finished level on points. The Harrogate Cup was it seemed, evolving into a two horse race.

The netball competition saw a rejuvenated 1 Squadron, especially Kohima Troop, who put in a sterling performance. But it wasn't enough as, once again, 2 Squadron, led by Iron Troop, stole the show, finishing ahead and securing a valuable place in the overall standings. During the football competition, it was the second teams that provided the excitement, with 2 Squadron clearing the table and taking the win. It was worth remembering however that 1 Squadron's dominating team from Kohima Troop had been mostly inherited by 2 Squadron so there was a quiet air of confidence that paid off with yet another victory for Iron Troop. With 2 Squadron steaming ahead in the overall points, 3 Squadron had a lot of catching up to do and their comeback started with the assault course and continued with a win in the drill competition. This set up the grand finale in the boxing ring:

2 Squadron had to beat 3 Squadron but it was not necessary to win the boxing competition outright to take the Harrogate Cup. It was the lack of female competitors from 1 and 3 Squadrons which proved to be the decisive factor as 2 Squadron had more than enough volunteers. In the end the more experienced boxers of 1 Squadron, three of who had boxed before, proved too much for the exceptional amateurs of 2 Squadron, winning the event by three points. A gallant performance from 2 Squadron, however, saw them finish second ahead of 3 Squadron who surrendered their lead in the Harrogate Cup to the victorious hands of 2 Squadron.

Col Le Gallais presents the Harrogate Cup to 2 Squadron at the conclusion of the Regimental Boxing Night

2 SQUADRON –FEMALE BOXING

by Sig Emma Lawton

The room was full, the noise deafening. 2 Squadron boxing team - the first meeting, only this time there was a new addition - a female squad. 11 Sig Regt allowed females to compete for the first time at the Inter Squadron competition. A lot of people were doubtful, comments such as 'females can't box' and 'they'll never do the training' were flowing but that just made us more determined. Our trainers Cpl Rob Kirk, Cpl Steve Riley and WO2 (SSM) Phil Christie were more than positive. In fact, I think they would have preferred to be training to box themselves.

So rising at 0530 hrs every morning to parade outside the gym became a regular thing. Often during our runs we would bump into an opposing Squadron and as if on cue everyone would start to run faster or push out enough press ups to beat a world record and shouts of 'losers' could be heard from both teams, but it was all friendly banter really. Every night we'd be in the boxing gym working up a sweat on the bags and pads and perfecting our skills. More trainers started helping out these were LCpl Chris Orr and SSgt Chris Pomfret.

The hardest part of the training was the sparring, not because of the pain and hard work but the fact that we now had to hit each other. We were friends, but before long it dawned on us that if we wanted to make the finals we had to think only of ourselves, just for this once, which was even harder because we were a team. As the time drew closer to choose the team for the finals, 3 Squadron had no girls and 1 Squadron only a handful while we had an army of females eager to don their gloves and get stuck in. Due to this shortage it meant only one thing - we could only enter boxers to match the weight categories of 1 Squadron, so only a few of us would actually fight on the night. The lucky ones were Sig Rachel Goodhall, Sig Julie Parry, Sig 'Red' Stables and Sig Debbie Myers. I had a walkover due to Sig Sarah Hardy (1 Squadron) dropping out because of injury. The rest of the team, though disappointed at not boxing, threw themselves into helping the fighters. The trainers would throw person after person into the ring with one of us until we were totally exhausted and nearly in tears.

As fight night arrived the team met in the gym and that's when the hard work put in was displayed. As the fighters were getting ready we cheered them on giving them plenty of encouragement and letting them know that they had our full support all the way. The first fight to be announced was Sig Rachel Goodhall to fight Sig Emma Flynn. The fight was full of true aggression with loads of effort and skill shown by both boxers but unfortunately for us, Sig Flynn was the winner. Next came Sig Julie Parry and Sig Mel Rudkin. Parry stormed straight in there as soon as the bell rang and was soon showing the audience just what she was capable of. The fight was stopped in the second round and Sig Parry was clearly the winner. Sig 'Red' Stables won her fight, which was also stopped due to the blood from Sig Lyndsey Smith's nose making the ring look like an abattoir before clean up time. By the last and final fight, the crowd were in a frenzy shouting themselves hoarse. In came Sig Debbie Myers and Sig Sonya Jamieson. Myers got straight in there and was 'kicking butt' when a sudden punch caused Sig Myers to drop her guard and the fight was Sig Jamiesons. All the female boxers showed excellent sportsmanship throughout the whole night. Who said females couldn't box!

The White Helmets

OC RSMDT	Lt Col Jack Amberton
Team Capt	Capt Gordon Newell
Team Sgt	Sgt Don Brebner

The year closed with the departure of the OC RSMDT, Maj Keith Russell. Fortunately he isn't moving too far - RHQ Royal Signals - so he can always keep his hand in - or feet on the pedals, so to speak! The Team thanks him for all his hard enduring work over the years and wishes Keith and Joan the very best for their future outside the Army. The Team welcomes the return of Lt Col Jack Amberton to the White Helmets. Over the past months the Team has gone through the quieter part of the year with soldiers away on upgrading courses and crammer exams. Needless to say, in the meantime the Corps has kept us busy with late-night appearances for the SOinC and the Princess Royal's Lady-in-waiting - riding out of the shadows in the Officers' Mess gardens is becoming a Team speciality. October and November saw the Team visiting a number of available units throughout the Corps to recruit for the Selection Course which took place between 30 November - 11 December 1998 at Blandford Camp and Bovington Tank Training Area. This was a terrific course with a week spent solely on cross-bike skills which many members had never experienced before. As the course took place the Triumphs were serviced and de-trimmed and the Teams' berets hung up for a number of well earned weeks of leave on the 14 December 1998.

REVIEW OF 1998 SEASON

by Cpl A. Malin

As the 1998 season for the White Helmets comes to a close we can look back at some of the highs and lows of this year. Nine new riders joined the team in January and commenced training during the bleak winter months at Blandford Camp and Bovington Tank Arena. In March the Team went to RAF Sealand near Chester for our annual training camp. It was here that the rough draft for the 1998 show was drawn up and also where this season's first-year riders surprised the Team Sergeant by almost all learning to reverse ride a Triumph, a feat normally achieved in the second or third year! There were a couple of inevitable accidents due to the nature of the training that led to some minor injuries including various bruises and the odd broken rib. Two unfortunate souls were a little bit unlucky and paid a visit to the local hospital, namely Sig Gary 'Fish' Fisher with a broken ankle and Cpl Andy 'Capp' Butterfield with a sliced, diced and broken thumb and forefinger - both riders are gladly back to full fitness.

In April the team returned to Blandford and began rehearsals for the SOinC's Opening Show. Everyone had their allocated tricks and places and all that was needed was a little spit, polish and finesse to bring the show up to scratch. Rehearsals went well apart from a couple of hiccups including Cpl Adam 'Lizard' Malin being spat off the back of a Triumph and watching in horror as it narrowly missed Maj Russell's car before being stopped by a brick wall. The final dress rehearsals went well apart from the rain resulting in a hurried trip to the dry cleaners to sort the uniforms out for the next day!

The Opening Show itself was excellent. The weather held off, the performance was smooth and trouble free and the SOinC's approval to go on tour was given without question. It seemed only fitting that after a show of such a high standard a celebration should ensue. The buffet and afternoon function were most enjoyable but the highlight had to be the 70's night disco with full-monty appearances from LCpl 'Tonka' Richardson and gang. A difficult party to top - until next year!

After a very brief break the 1998 tour began with a trip to JHQ Rheindahlen in Germany and SHAPE in Belgium. The Americans at SHAPE loved the Team and were overawed, but the highlight by far was with the Band at JHQ where the ten-man Tableau fell down in the middle of the arena with a Scottish piper on top of the ladder. Other memorable performances this year included the Royal Shows at Stoneleigh, Bath & West and Norfolk, all of which were huge. Other highlights were the Cromer Carnival with the 'Malin brothers', Sig Matty 'Karaoke King' Adams, the show at HMS Collingwood in Portsmouth and the Corps Cocktail Party. At the Corps Cocktail Party the Team produced a totally non-stop action show that was fast, furious and breathtaking - both for the spectators and ourselves. The team also enjoyed other highlights in 1998 including the Team Sergeant, Sgt Don 'I-don't-swear-much-honest' Brebner going through the barriers at the Royal Bath & West Show. At JHQ, Cpl Bob 'noxious-but-I-tell-a-good-tale' Sizeland chatted with the General, informing him about the crucial valve-clearances required on his recently bought Hoover and the Team won the Tug-of-war championship at the Bolsover Tattoo. The Team thoroughly enjoyed a day filming with Hale and Pace (yet again) and were subsequently forced to appear on TV. Although the much awaited trip to the Greek Military Tattoo in November was cancelled (surprise - not!) the Team have made a total of 99 performances this year at over 41 different venues and have spent over 90 nights away from home in Blandford Camp. This year's Shell road-miles added up to 24,086 - can you imagine how many free glasses you get for that - no wonder we can't get the bikes in the garages. Accidents in the arena this year have thankfully been below average with just one back injury and one leg injury. LCpl 'Riksta' Ross and Sig Matty Adams are now fully recovered. Accidents outside the arena have unfortunately made a bit of an impact on the team with Cpl Charles 'Charlie' Chester rupturing his spleen at the start of the season and Cpl Adam Malin breaking both arms and cheekbone in a biking accident in October. Fortunately our wounded warriors are now back to full fighting strength.

The 27 Triumph motorcycles have performed very well this year due to the TLC afforded by the mechanics, headed by LCpl 'Tonka' Richardson including Mr Ivor 'German bloke' Downer. Recruiting also went very well mainly down to LCpl Mavis Cann. LCpl Mavis Cann contributed to recruiting with a total of 968 recruitment packs dispatched by SORLS on information received from the White Helmets in many locations around the UK. Unfortunately the team has had to say goodbye to five riders this year, Cpl Victor Malin the team corporal, Cpl Rob 'Yeti' Downton, LCpl Mavis Cann and Sig David 'Darvid' Taylor all going to civvy street. Sig Gareth 'Tidy' Ryder posted and promoted to LCpl although he may be back soon! Promotions continue well within the Team with congratulations also going out to LCpl Charles 'Charlie' Chester now promoted to Cpl. This season ended with the arrival of the new Team Capt, Capt Gordon 'Gordybabes' Newell in time to practice his commentary at an absolutely massive Newbury Show. The 1998 selection course ended the year with twelve hopefuls trying for places in the team. If this year was anything to go by I am sure that those who are successful and make the grade will have a most enjoyable tour. Looking forward to 1999 the season is already shaping up nicely with more enquiries than we can meet. The Royal Tournament is confirmed and should be memorable as it will be the last Royal Tournament in its present form. Provisional bookings include the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst, the Army Exhibition for Schools at Catterick and many famous national and county shows. A possible highlight is the provisionally booked Belfast Show - the Team has not operated in Northern Ireland for many years.

SELECTION COURSE 29 NOVEMBER-11 DECEMBER 1998

The annual course ran for two weeks at the very end of the year that saw 12 hopefuls from across the Corps attend the challenge here at Blandford.

Selection Course 98

The first week was spent confidence building as the bikes threw the riders all over the moorland down on Bovington Tank Training Area. Injuries were a sad inevitability and this was the end of the selection for two hopefuls. Those making it through the jumps, streams, sand, mud and grit began riding on the Triumphs after a week and were soon performing some of the simpler tricks before the final show for the OC RSMDT. Here the media and Garrison support services for the course attended and saw the Team put on a final display with the Selection Course personnel joining in the display. In between PT, lecturettes, bike maintenance and inspections the two weeks are very busy - but the achievement at the end far outweighs the test! If any members of the Corps are interested in pursuing an out-of-the-ordinary exciting tour and would like to take the opportunity of being part of a unique Team then accept the challenge and call the Team at Blandford Camp on (mil) 737 2365 or (civ) 01258 48 2365. You are not expected to have a motorbike licence.

263 (HARROGATE) SIGNAL SQUADRON ARMY APPRENTICES COLLEGE, ARBORFIELD

OC Maj Steve France
SSM WO2 (SSM) Mick Senior

This term we say welcome first of all to Cpl Bob Ayres Para, who joined us in October from 2 Para, and Cpl Sy Cullen who arrived in November from 7 Sig Regt. A very warm welcome also to their families. Sadly, it is also goodbye to Cpl Dave Fitton and his family who go to Germany to join 1(UK) Armd Div Sig Regt. Our heartfelt thanks to him and his family for their companionship and support to the Squadron during their time with us. As the end of term approaches and Christmas recess draws ever closer, it's 'running around like headless chickens' time again, what with the drill rehearsals, Cadre week, Basic Leadership, Quad Games and the like all happening together, not to mention the end-of-term administration for ATs! We finish the year with our Senior Term ATs passing out on 17 December and the last working day of the College being 18 December.

A SHORT INTRODUCTION TO THE ARMY APPRENTICES COLLEGE

The College is a unit within the Individual Training Group (ITG) and part of the Army Training and Recruiting Agency (ATRA). The aim of the College is 'to provide young men and women with the military skills, education and opportunity to develop as leaders in the Technical Corps of the Future Army', and it is our vision 'to be the best training establishment in ATRA'. The College is currently established to train up to 1002 Apprentice Tradesmen (ATs) a year. Of these, 216 are RE, 246 R SIGNALS, 171 RLC and 369 REME; although, allowing for a maximum wastage rate of 20%, a minimum of 801 ATs are delivered to respective Phase 2 training establishments, like the Royal School of Signals. The College is commanded by a Lieutenant Colonel (currently Lt Col J. W. Mitchell RE) and comprises a College HQ, a Military Training Wing, an Education Wing and 4 Training Squadrons or Companies, of which 263 (Harrogate) Signal Squadron is one. The Squadron was formed in September 1996 after the closure of the Army Apprentices College at Harrogate. The course ATs undertake at the College is the Apprentice Foundation Course which runs for 28 weeks and encompasses Military Training to the standard of the Common Military Syllabus for Recruits (CMS(R)), Education/Key Skills, Leadership & Initiative Training and Character Development. The 28 weeks is divided into two terms of 14 weeks, the first 14 being devoted in the main to CMS(R) and the second comprising mainly education. Entrants to the College are accepted between the ages of 16 and 18½ and Royal Signals ATs are placed in either the Technician Trade Group or the Telecommunications Operator Trade Group. On application, potential Technician ATs must have Grade C or better in English and Maths at GCSE Level or equivalent, and potential Operator ATs Grade D or better.

BRADLEY AND PENNEY TROOPS EXERCISE JANNER'S JOY
*by AT LCpl Iddon and AT Jack

On Thursday the 26 November, as we departed from the College to Salisbury Plain Training Area, everyone was apprehensive because of the 'Baltic' weather conditions. We arrived at our drop off point at 2030 and had a 'Short walk?' to our location where we made a hasty harbour. Once we had arrived and set everything up we immediately headed out on an OP under the fearless leadership of Cpl 'Muz' Murray. We left at 2359hrs and returned to the harbour area around 0600hrs. We had to dig and dig in our harbour area in the morning and most of the afternoon. Then at night we embarked on a recce patrol returning back at 1200. Bradley Tp then carried out a Relief in Place of Penny Tp's Key Point Defence. What we hadn't realised was that whilst we had been relatively warm and dry, Penny Tp had been located in the 'Somme'. Knee deep in mud, we reluctantly changed locations. However, Penney Tp, who thought they were off to dry off in the Harbour, got a nasty shock as the heavens opened up on their 'tab' in, leaving them with swimming pools instead of shell scrapes.

The following morning was by far the best part, the final attack! 2 Section of Bradley Tp were seconded to Penney Tp and tasked to provide a dummy attack on the REME position. They ably sneaked up to 30m from the REME position and fixed them in place whilst Penney Tp stormed the position rapidly destroying all the enemy. AT Madine from the Penney Tp warriors became the ultimate human ground mat covering the barbed wire entanglement whilst Cpl 'Yak' Ayton LI spurred the rest to hurl themselves over him. Simultaneously Bradley Tp's key point was attacked by a combination of 'grunts' Infanteers and 'sparkies' REME, unsuccessfully, of course because of the heroic fanaticism of Sgt Mark Wigmore supervising the defence, which led to the annihilation of the attackers.

THE HARDEST THING IN TRAINING
*by AT Snelling

The time that I've spent in the college has been enjoyable, but difficult. It has been strenuous mentally more than physically, simply because of the amount of pressure dealt out over a long period of time. Everyone has different memories, high points and low points, some very low points! On many occasions I have felt like saying, 'I've had enough.' and throwing in the towel, but I've found myself gritting my teeth and getting on with it, with help from my fellow ATs, and ever caring Troop Staff? Ever caring, especially when I lost my glasses on Exercise just before the Judging Distance stand, in front of the Squadron OC, NOT! The hardest thing for me was Ex Dragon's Teeth during which, because I wasn't very motivated, I didn't perform well. The next day after the Exercise, I got picked up on muster parade for having cam cream on my neck - this really put the icing on the cake for me! After this I was on a real downer and I thought I might leave, but I got through it. The good times at the college have outweighed the bad. With one and a half weeks remaining, I am glad that I have succeeded and I look forward to passing off.

THE MOST INTERESTING THING IN THE COLLEGE

The most interesting thing about being at the Army Apprentices College is the military training. For the last 28 weeks the rest of the intake and I have been learning the basic skills of a soldier. These have included fun things such as shooting and field-craft, and the not so fun things like NBC lessons. Before I joined I had no idea of what being a soldier was going to be like. Even now as we prepare to pass off, we are still learning; although we have already learnt a lot. Unlike all other Phase 1 Training Units, we had to spend time in the classroom learning trade skills that would help us in Phase 2 training. Overall, the past 28 weeks have been a fun time with its ups and downs. The ragging and the praises and meeting new people from a variety of backgrounds all helped to make the Drill, PT, and other military lessons seem easier especially when some of your peers were worse than you!

EXERCISE SALERNO SABRE
*by Cpl 'Muz' Murray

I was originally selected to form part of a 4-man team to take part in an Italian-run NATO patrol and military skills competition, which was to be held in Solerno, Italy at the beginning of November. Capt Andy Elms REME, WO2 (QMSI) Chris Higgins APTC, Sgt 'Shaggy' Phillpott RE and I formed the intrepid team, combining our skills and knowledge of communications, demolitions, weapons systems, canoeing, military tactics and fitness to form what we perceived to be a team to be reckoned with.

Shortly before the date of departure, Capt Andy Elms informed us that the host Italian unit, having been put on standby for Kosovo, had cancelled the competition. We were naturally very disappointed, as we had been building up to the competition for some time, putting in a great deal of mental and physical preparation, only to have the anti-climax of no longer being able to go. Fortunately, when many would have quit, Capt Elms managed to drag the phoenix of a salvaged adventure training expedition out of the ashes of cancellation. We secured the funding and support to still travel to Solerno and run our own adventure training expedition, culminating with two days R & R in Rome. After liaising with the British Embassy in Rome and the British contingent in AFSOUTH, Naples, we managed to conduct a very enjoyable and fulfilling four days' adventurous training. These days included a trek up to Mount Vesuvius, a dormant volcano overlooking the ancient ruins of Pompeii, and a very adrenalin-charged two days' sea kayaking along the coast of Naples, under the ever watchful eyes of WO2 Chris Higgins. The R & R in Rome proved to be culturally fulfilling, and we left Rome with lots of bemused Italians wondering where on earth the four retro-1970s' Websters beer swillers had come from, or maybe what planet!

Thanks to Capt Andy Elms for his determination on making this a successful and enjoyable trip right from the start, to QMSI, Chris Higgins on being a constant source of amusement with a never ending supply of torture tactics and outstanding Scottish impersonations, to 'Shaggy' for his immaculate dress sense and fluent linguistic skills and lastly to me, for actually making it back alive. All in all, we had a Scorchio time!

RAWSON TROOP
REFLECTIONS ON THE SECOND HALF OF JUNIOR TERM
*by ATs Greenhalgh, Wilde and Macmahon

Since returning from half-term leave we have engaged in a variety of different activities, some military and some more civilian-orientated. We went on Ex Dragon's Teeth at Longmoor Training Area. This was our first 48-hour test exercise. We were tested on all our basic field-craft skills that we had previously been taught at the college. This included cam and concealment, judging distances, harbouring, range cards, sentry duties and administering ourselves in the field. Although the going was difficult, everybody was pleased with their personal performance. We all proved to ourselves, and our Staff, that we had learnt something from those 'exciting' fieldcraft lessons. We will always remember how COLD it was on those early morning 'stags'.

There have been a number of range days conducted over the last seven weeks. They were all training towards our Annual Personal Weapons Test (APWT). This is a major test in the CMS(R). On these days we also had a number of concurrent activities taking place. These ranged from field signals to recce patrols! The range days also gave us a chance to get out of camp. NBC has played a big part of our training recently, in preparation for our NBC attainment test, which we have just completed! We were all pleased to have passed this test.

External Leadership (EL) was a civilian type of adventurous training in Wales. We stayed at an Army camp in Crickhowell. From this base we conducted 3 different activities. These were rock climbing (including abseiling and a visit to a really good indoor climbing centre), kayaking on a freezing cold Welsh lake and mountaineering over the Black Mountain Range. Mountaineering was the best activity because it gave us a chance to get out in the wilderness and put our map reading skills to practice (plus, at 811 metres, the views were breath-taking). EL was a good experience for us all as it gave us all our first chance to relax together in civilian surroundings.

Rawson Troop also went to a Combined Services Entertainment (CSE) show at Churchill Hall in the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst. This was an enjoyable night out of camp, and was also quite a good laugh. The whole of the Troop hope the rest of our course at the Army Apprentice College is as good as the last seven weeks. Finally, a mention must go to all the Staff of Rawson Troop for their support and all their help.

SCOTT TROOP
AN AT'S VIEW OF LIFE SO FAR
*by AT Evans

After finally completing the first tough seven weeks and having a nice week's leave, we arrived back at Scott Tp lines to a smiling Sgt '2 pico-seconds' Wagstaff. Not knowing what was in store we went to have a look at the timetable; the first piece of good news was Muster parade and an inspection by the Sergeant Major! The best thing about coming back was we could wear our civvies and have our radios, although most of us had lost these privileges by the end of the first week! They have been given and taken away with regular monotony ever since! Nearly everyday we have had locker inspections by Cpl 'Tasmanian Devil' Brotherston, and Cpl 'MC Paul' Millington. These early inspections improved us considerably, or at least we like to think so. Latterly, we have been on External Leadership to not-so-sunny Wales. There we did Hillwalking under Capt Jeffries, Sgt Wagstaff and Cpl 'Short Cuts' Askin; Abseiling/Rock Climbing (good for those who like heights) at which even Cpl Millington had a go; and Kayaking, breaking the ice to launch the boats whilst Cpl Brotherston watched over the pies in the cafe! Now it's the last two weeks of term: last range day, last PT lesson, a trip to London, then home for Christmas and onto the Senior term in the New Year.

NEWS FROM BOSNIA

1 (UNITED KINGDOM) ARMOURED DIVISIONAL HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Lt Col E. M. Flint
RSM WO1 (RSM) M. A. Schofield

This issue of The Wire finds the Regiment deployed all over the world. 208 Sig Sqn are serving in the Falkland Islands, while 211 Sig Sqn, supplemented by personnel from 212 Sig Sqn, have formed the MND (SW) CIS Sqn in the Former Republic of Yugoslavia. We also have members of the Regiment serving on the prairies of Canada, at Corsham in the United Kingdom and of course our anchor back in Herford. It is a sobering thought (ironically), that the Regiment was able to stretch New Years Day to approximately 30 hours, (if it had wanted to)!

MND (SW) CIS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj A. A. S. Harwell
SSM WO2 (SSM) Palmer

The Squadron arrived in Theatre on or around 17 October 1998 and was immediately thrown into an extensive and efficient hand-over period with 3 (UK) DSR. Full responsibility for comms was handed over on 24 October and thereafter the 'con' was ours. Almost immediately the Squadron was in full swing, deploying Special Task Groups to cover a variety of incidents, practising the armoured tactical HQ in the Banja Luka area and deploying the GOCs Forward HQ by Chinook (a novel experience for an armoured war-fighting unit).

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Morton
Tp SSgt SSgt Wharton

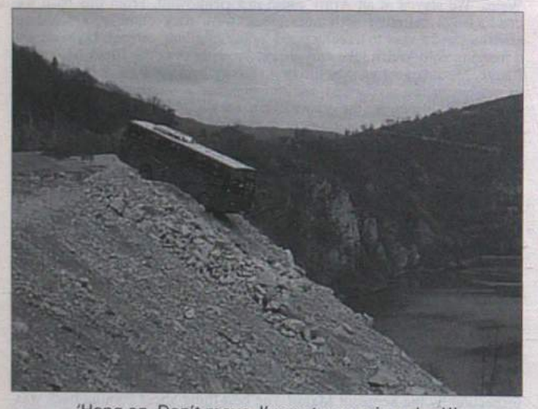
Mid October saw Comms Troop deploy onto the multitude of Hilltop sites and Rear Link detachments that are spread about the Divisional area in Bosnia. The hand-over/take-over from 3 (UK) DSR was so smooth and efficient that it was a shell-shocked group of men who on arrival in Split were bundled into the back of Land Rovers only to see the light of day at what would become home for the next five months. For those who may be forced to write a history in the years to come, the Troop currently mans 7 hilltop sites (Vitorog, Gola P, Lisina West, Radaljica, Sjenokosic, Ivovik and Banja Luka West) and six rear link detachments/message centres (Czech BG at Ljubija, Canadian BG at Corolici, Dutch BG at Sisava, Belgian BG at Tomislavgrad and the UK logistic bases at Kupres, Sipovo and Split).

Meanwhile back at 'the Ranch' (Banja Luka) the remainder of the Troop, less a certain SSgt (who was on holiday in USA sunning himself and not a postcard was sent), were getting to grips with the massive task of resupply. With the team driving well over 1000km of Bosnian road per week there was little time for relaxation back at Banja Luka.



'Hang on. Don't move, I've got a cunning plan!!'

Great credit goes to all the re-supply team for the many safe hours spent behind the wheel in some very testing conditions (Little credit however goes to SSgt (FofS) Amies for the few unsafe, never to be repeated, hours that he inflicted on Sgt Innes). Thanks go to Nintendo for the driver training that Sig 'Bleeding Eyes' McGennity received throughout the month on his games console. As the weather closed in and the snow began to fall the R & R plot came upon us. With comms firmly established, the 'Outdets' running smoothly and Christmas quickly approaching, our main effort has become ensuring all 'Outdets' personnel get home for R & R. Finally congratulations on promotion for Cpl Robertson, Cpl Carty and LCpl Bagshaw.

MOBILE TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Shakespeare
Tp SSgt SSgt Leach

We arrived in Bosnia looking forward to a happy sunny tour loaded with laughs and smiles! (The CO has implemented a policy of lots of morale or no food!) Split was still as warm as ever, even in October. The move to Banja Luka was an unprecedented success with all the vehicles making it in record time while adhering to SFOR speed limits (in case the CO is reading). As soon as we arrived in BLMF we set up the armoured HQ, much to the relief of everybody as we all wanted to get on with the job at hand. Since then things have been non-stop, with visits from CinC LAND, DCOMSFOR, the Master of Signals, Comd MND (SW), 3 foreign generals, 12 other important people and someone who looked a bit like Elvis! In addition, the Troop has conducted extensive comms recces in western Bosnia, an area of stunning natural beauty and a challenge to the brightest of Yeomen. A mention must go to Sig Shackleton who halted his vehicle in the middle of the road and ordered Sig Amanda Giltrow to stay out of harms way until he defused a particularly lethal looking boot which was blocking the road. Finally congratulations go to Cpl Ridgers and LCpl Cowley on their promotions.

HQ TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Gunson
Tp SSgt SSgt Hook

We assumed responsibility for Commcen HQ MND (SW) Main at Banja Luka on 22 October 1998. The staff were quickly divided into three shifts headed by LCpl Jenny Campbell, LCpl Angie Twist and LCpl Mandy Hill with Cpl Ged Halliday as ADSO and Sgt Mick Poyning as DSO. These five supervisors oversee the six actual workers: Sig Nicky Roberts, Sig John Garrod, Sig Al Keenan, Sig Baz Barrett, Sig Dean Thompson and Sig Kizzy Craddock who are employed to test the supervisors with fluctuating memory warps for every day details. Several operators from Mobile Troop also augmented these personnel for R & R cover. The first organisational hurdle complete we started to battle out the daily routine of the COMMCEN. The task ahead immediately proved to be more difficult than was first thought. In fact life became extremely hectic over a very short period of time, as we got to grips with over 2000 messages a week. However, human nature added the much-needed element of 'humour' into the equation, the main characters of the COMMCEN rapidly coming to the surface. It started with LCpl Mandy Hill gaining recognition for all the wrong reasons. Soon to be followed by LCpl Lee Gobie (temporary cover from Mobile Troop) managing to break every computer he touched, hence being awarded a special certificate of congratulations from the DSO. Leadership, however, does not end at the DSO, there is also the ADSO; Cpl Ged Halliday, whose accomplishments have included selective hearing when sat next to the phone and disabling one of the chairs.

'How come I've got two bits left? - Lt Gunson has a go himself!

SPLIT TROOP

Tp Comd Capt J. Nichols
Tp SSgt SSgt Dewar

The Troop deployed at warp factor two to the Croatian Riviera and assumed responsibility from 206 Sig Sqn for supporting the main rear comms link back to the UK. In addition, the Troop took full responsibility for the first and second line repair, and back loading, of all IT used in the southern half of the operational area. Not a mean feat by anybody's standards, especially as the Troop is only 19 strong! Sad farewells go to Sgt Mandy Jones, going back to blighty (lucky girl) and Capt Mosby moving up to greater things at Banja Luka.

'BLUEYS' FROM BOSNIA

From: Capt J. A. Symmons
Banja Luka

(Capt Symmons is currently serving as the Liaison Officer with the Serbian Army. His letters home give a very real feel for the situation faced by the Army in Bosnia and we much appreciate John's agreement to allow us to publish, perhaps with a little 'encouragement' from his father, Lt Col Andrew Symmons of Comms Project Div, here in Blandford).

Date: October 10, 1998

Sorry about the mailshot but time is at a premium here at the moment, mainly due to Kosovo. Well as I say I am very busy but still enjoying myself. The job is quite high profile with weekly meetings with the local Generals and daily meetings with the VRS (Serb Army).

Maj Vukovic, of the Serb Army, and interpreter in conversation with Capt Symmons

It is still quite warm here with temperatures in the mid-twenties on average, but we are all braced up for the big freeze. There have been several big thunderstorms recently and a medium strength earthquake (no damage) on Thursday night. I am living in a house in town with three French Colonels and an American Major. The situation here is under review and we are likely to be pulled back to the Camp (Banja Luka Metal Factory) in the near future. The locals are great at the moment, and there seems to be almost no tension. However, things may change soon. I have the rare authority to walk around town armed and alone, so the Commanders take my task very seriously. Most British troops are not even allowed out of the camp and go stir crazy inside the wire. I am very lucky, stress levels vary on a daily basis and currently I am on Stress State 7!

One of the most notable things about this country is the striking similarity to Germany. Rolling hills, mountains and deep river valleys. The scenery is quite stunning in places especially south of here. This part of Bosnia escaped the ravages of the recent war but the farther south you go the more scarred the landscape and buildings are. There are burned out cars and tanks all over the place and most of the houses are currently being rebuilt. Literal translation of Bosnia-Herzegovina should be 'Land of Breeze Blocks'!

I have already partaken in some of the local hospitality and the people here are extremely good at it too. Many people speak English but I have my own interpreter. The interpreters are some of the best-paid people in the town. Mine drives a BMW! Cars are very cheap but you have to keep them for six months before you can import them tax free. The restaurants are quite reasonable and the waiters most helpful. Twice I have had tips turned down because they are too much. I only left three quid! Everything is quite cheap. The local beer, pivo, costs just less than 25p a bottle! I have not been out and about much but there is plenty of time yet. Went up to the local ranges a few times, and saw the Serbian Tanks firing and some platoon live firing exercises. All their equipment seems in dire need of repair but they have no money with which to do it.

I hope all is well in England and that there are no problems. I have been driving a bit since my arrival and it is quite an experience. There is not a huge amount of traffic but that which there is seems to move almost randomly. The cars are mainly old bangers that would never pass a MOT in a month of Sundays. I saw a car the other day drive into an open manhole outside the house. When we helped him out the car was all smashed underneath and had a flat tyre. The driver drove off anyway. I've also seen a Yugo with a small cow on the back seat driving around town. 'Please don't do that Daisy, I've just had it valeted!!'

Monday October 19 1998

Nearly got blown up this week, most exciting! It wasn't a bomb or anything, just some workmen rebuilding a road we happened to be driving along, They were blowing a route for the new road and we just happened to be there when the charge went off. We weren't too close but some bits of earth landed on the bonnet of our landrover. Good job I was wearing my brown trousers! There is not much going on here. Things have calmed down at least for the time being in Kosovo. We were pulled out of the house for the last two weeks in case of attack but the people in the metal factory did not understand that there really is no threat. The only threat would be from a local drunk or someone like that, but better safe than sorry I suppose. Unfortunately they forgot about the French Colonels, who come under Sarajevo. They were here the whole time having barbecues and 'leetle soirees' while we were slumming it in a 'Corimec' every night, A Corimec is a tin box with beds in it, mine happened to be next to the Helipad and generators. C'est la vie!

I have also had to speak to the Defence Minister once, he was surrounded by large men in large cars with black windows. I had to tell him that the meeting he wanted to have with Commander SFOR was a go-er and his flight was leaving in one hour! Needless to say he told me (COMSFOR) to poke off. Life has its ups and downs. Now we are back in the house I am getting back into a little of the social life and relaxing a bit more. There are CD shops around here that sell pirate CDs for DM6 (about two quid). Had a meal tonight with three mates. The bill was DM 110 (35 quid) (USA computer has no pound sign). Must go for the mo. More soon.

Saturday October 24 1998

Well the second of my nine lives was accounted for today. There was a live firing demonstration held by the Serb Army (yes all of it!) and they were firing anti-tank missiles. One of them went a little astray and exploded about 100m in front of the viewing stand. I flinched a little, as did everyone else. On the whole though it was very impressive. The Serb army still uses the old communist doctrine and when they dig trenches they link them all together. Much like the scenes in Black Adder, most interesting. There was a whole brigade in defence and all the trenches were interconnected. You could walk for miles (or kilometres depending on your outlook) without going above ground. These things are mazes. They have bedrooms and all sorts.

Well that is enough for now I will write again soon.

I hope all is well in sunny England. You will be pleased to hear that nothing here has changed apart from the temperature, which is steadily falling. No frosts yet but they aren't far off.

No major dramas here for the past few weeks. Last week I had to go to a cantonment site with the Explosive Ordnance Disposal Team, to carry out a safety inspection. The site is a small barracks (looked like an old farm) in a village just outside Prnjavor (Northeast). The ammo bunker was a barn-like building with just a wooden door. When we went in the place was stacked from top to bottom with wooden crates containing all types of ammo. We are talking about grenades, rockets, anti-tank missiles, you name it. There is also an amnesty operation going on, whereby if anyone finds or has explosives at home then they hand it in to SFOR for destruction. Unfortunately this has drawbacks, as the VRS do not fully understand the danger. Either that or they are blasé about it, probably the latter. We found a box of handed in stuff in the clothing store. It was just sat there! It contained various mines, explosives, rifle ammunition that had all just been slung in a box and left to deteriorate.

My old 2IC has left now and the new guy, LCpl Mellows or 'Mez', is settling in very well. He is somewhat quieter than 'Baz' but that is not a bad thing. I am still doing the rounds of the local establishments, slowly. Our local is the town's best fish restaurant, called Alas (pronounced Alash) and much of my hard earned wedge is spent there. I took the Chief of Staff, from our HQ, there a couple of days ago. He was suitably impressed. I think though that he may have ideas about the house. I'll just have to wait and see. It has been great here for the last few days as the French have been away a lot. Even the American Major has not been seen for the last four days.

We went to a Conscripts Oath-Taking Ceremony today. After twenty-two days of basic training the conscripts passout at this huge ceremony. There was 1890 of them, and 1000 spectators. Although massive there was a certain lack of style, such as we are used to. They just stood there, there was no marching or anything. Nevertheless it was quite an interesting morning out. Afterwards Major Vukovic took us to the Hotel Bosna for a drink, which was nice. The Hotel Bosna is the best hotel in town. It is where all the dignitaries stay when they are visiting parliament etc.

Well what else is happening? Not a great deal really. There are always lots of small problems to be solved but at the moment there are no major ones. I did come into my own last week though. We were called out to attend an RTA just up the road from here. Luckily no-one was hurt but they were all damned lucky. The driver of the Landrover braked just hard enough to avoid going under the back of an articulated lorry with a puncture that had caused it to jack-knife across the road just in front of him.

Well as you can see life here is not too hard with the odd social event mixing in with the normal daily grind.

Wednesday November 11 1998: I had my five minutes of fame today. I had to do a quick interview with BFBS Radio Live. Nothing special, just a case of, 'What do you do?'Doesn't that sound interesting, tell us about it? That was after I had to escort the General to a meeting this morning. That and having to sort out 80 soldiers who were wandering round town with rifles, it made for an interesting day.

I had to go to Viterog again today. If I haven't already told you, it is a mountain of 6,500ft and is where the Serb Army has a maze of undergound tunnels that are designed to provide a headquarters in the event of war. The weather was incredible, sideways snow! When we arrived, there was about one inch of snow. However, when we left four hours later, there was over one foot. Driving was a nightmare. The temperature must have dropped to about minus 10 degrees. Needless to say I stayed inside as long as possible!

See you all soon! - John

Date: 17 December 1998

Well here is the latest 'diary' supplement. Life is still OK and the VRS are slowly coming round after the recent incident. Spent today driving to a place called Bugojno for the regular meeting of the Entity Leaders. Quite tedious really but for the Generals it was quite useful. They were all in agreement over the points put across by SFOR. Namely, Joint Demining programmes, Security of Sites and Site safety. We sat down to lunch, that was a four-course effort. Soup (not bad), meat pie which was tasteless, lamb (to be more accurate, cold lumps of sheep) and some cake type stuff. It was fine but I really was not in the mood for it having had a long night watching the news from Iraq. Well what a turn up for the books that was. There was a Quiz Night at the Officers Mess last night and halfway through they stopped it and announced the Operations in Iraq. Can't say it wasn't expected though.

I had my first drive in a HMMMV (Hum V) the other day. It was the armoured variant and I expect it weighed 4 or 5 tons. The doors were so heavy they were difficult to open. It is a fully automatic tank on wheels and was actually quite easy to drive. It is almost as wide as a Double-Decker (John should know as he works for London General Transport!) My familiarisation on the Hum V was in snow and ice on a mountainside, so all in all quite interesting. The weather here is quite odd, it has warmed up a little and the snow has all but melted. However, the smoke from all the wood fires lies thick over the town. Snow and Smog! Visibility is about 15 metres.

The French (with whom he shares the house) are doing their handovers at the moment. Franco has left which is a shame. He was the one with the sense of humour. His replacement is quite quiet, which is not a bad thing, he seems reasonable enough. Col Rey leaves tomorrow. He recently discovered that I know a little about computers and has been pestering me ever since to help him with this and that. 'How do I delete this letter?' 'Why is my printer not working?' etc, etc.

Pedja (Interpreter) went sick today. He said he had forgotten about a Dentist's appointment in Belgrade for the next six days. The dentist is a friend of the family. I spoke to OC Interrupters (SFOR – speak for Interpreter) about it and he was not happy to say the least. He does not have anyone who can cover for Pedja. Pedja has just come back off leave too.

Got hit by another earthquake yesterday. Just quiet rumbles nothing to worry about. Went up to the Metal Factory a couple of times this week for a beer (or maybe 2). The barmaid at the officers' mess is a former Miss Yugoslavia. The normal response to that is, 'must have been a few years ago'. Had a chat with Tony Dowson regarding Pedja and will give Pedja a written warning when he gets back from Belgrade.

Maj Vukovic has invited Mez (LCpl Mellowes RM, John's driver/2IC) and I to a friend's house tomorrow for a St Nicholas Day Celebration, should be a good time. Hopefully he will know where I can chop down a tree for the house. I will write about it when I get back if I'm in a fit state. I am inviting some people around to the house on Xmas Day for Drinks. Then on Boxing Day I have a DLO Conference in Vitez. Sounds like an excuse for something else to me. Who's complaining. Not I Sir!

It being Saturday there is much activity in town. Saturday is wedding day in Bosnia. The celebrations involve driving around town in large convoys leaning on your horn and occasionally letting rip with whatever piece of hardware you may be carrying at the time. It sounded like a small gun battle going on earlier. What with that and the kids with firecrackers it can be a little disconcerting at times. I have yet to work out how you tell the difference between 'celebratory gunfire' and incoming. The best answer I can give is that celebratory gunfire doesn't put holes in things until it comes back down!

NEWS FROM NORTHERN IRELAND

XV HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN IRELAND & 15 SIGNAL REGIMENT

THE BLESSING OF THE CORPS STONE PALACE BARRACKS MEMORIAL GARDENS

by WO2 (SSM) Steve Russell

Past and present members of the Corps may be interested to know that Palace Barracks, Holywood, houses a memorial garden for those that have fallen in the service of peace in Ulster (and to some degree the Falkland Islands). The garden was the concept of Mr Albert Owens, an ex member of the Parachute Regiment who devotes an inordinate amount of his own time to its upkeep. The Royal Corps of Signals stone commemorating those that have died during Ulster's troubled recent past has now been laid. On 29 October 1998 a service of Blessing and Remembrance was held.

The service was conducted by the 39 Bde's senior chaplain, Maj John Tee and was attended by the Regiment Colonel, Col Walters, Comd Comms NI, Lt Col Gordon Rafferty, CO 40 Sig Regt, Lt Col Nigel Beacon, and the OCs (or their representatives) for the three Bde Sig Sqns in the Province, Lt Col (Retd) Terry Lightfoot represented the RSA. The wreath was laid by the Regimental Colonel and was followed by a traditional act of Remembrance.

A point worthy of note is that a number of those members of the Corps who gave their life during the Falklands conflict are commemorated on other memorials within the garden, they are: Maj Forge, Lt Barry and SSgt Baker.

Lest we forget:

233 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj R. P. Giles
SSM WO2 (SSM) Day

The Squadron is currently going through a busy period with the tear down of bases and Permanent Vehicle Checkpoints, all happening at an impressive rate. Through this busy period, in the run up to the Festive Season, Capt Jules Walster has managed to swan off on a couple of jollies. Firstly to South Africa with the Corps Netball team for two weeks and then an attachment to RSS to assist in the running of the SORLS desk (her old job). The OC and all ranks of 233 Sig Sqn would like to congratulate Capt Walster on her recent engagement to Ewen and wish them all the best for the future. We say a fond farewell to Cpl Mick Graham (AGC) on his move across to movements in RHQ and welcome Cpl Stu Brittain (AGC) from Comms Branch HQNI who takes over the singleton post looking after the administration of some 200 soldiers.

ROMEO TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Nick Massey
Tp SSgt SSgt Allen

In the aftermath of the Good Friday Peace Agreement, the Troop has failed to see the benefits of any peace dividend. The workload has increased due to the removal and re-sitings of SF bases. The manning of our detachment, 'the hill', still goes on, and it occasionally sees some funny moments. One such time being when Sgt Justin Woolen decided to do the burning. After emptying an ENTIRE bottle of heptane onto the paper, he proceeded to light it. He then picked himself off the floor, wiped the blackness off his face and neck, and inspected the damage done to his non-existent eyelashes and eyebrows! Needless to say, he has not done the burning again!

The Troop said a personal farewell to the Sqn Comd, Maj N. Keen, who impressed us all with his abilities in drinking the half-yard. That was until a new arrival LCpl Helen Sheffield shocked us all into silence with her half-yard talents! The Troop would like to congratulate Cpl Iain Galloway and his wife on the birth of their daughter Katie-Louise. Also well done to Cpl 'Birdy' Bird on passing P Company, he will be leaving us soon to join 16 Air Asslt Bde. Congratulations to LCpl 'Ickle' Davies on his long awaited promotion to full Cpl. Finally a tip for Sgt 'Tug' Wilson... go to the doctor when you feel a pain... alternatively leave it six weeks before complaining about a BROKEN leg!

SPORTSMAN AND WOMAN'S DINNER AND AWARDS EVENING - 17 SEPTEMBER 1998

On the 17 September 1998 the Sportsman and Woman's dinner was held to highlight the achievements of individuals within the Regiment. It was a night to award colours to a select few who have represented the Regiment and Corps in a varied selection of sports from tug-of-war to Golf.

CO presenting the Regimental Colours for Rugby to Sig Huggett

Also prizes were awarded in various categories from the Most Improved Individual to the Best Sportsman/Woman in the Regiment. The night was organised by WO2 (SSM) Day and turned out to be the talking point for at least two weeks. Being a professional group of Sports persons this was the end of the season for a lot of people so copious amounts of amber nectar were had by all. Steven Watson a sports presenter from UTV, kept the night going with some jokes and few words during the evening and yet again the hierarchy got some stick with jokes thrown in their general direction.

On a serious note the night was meant to highlight all the prospects and sporting achievements that can be accomplished even in a busy operational unit. The persons in attendance also proved a point that there are fewer of the younger generation joining in and getting involved in the sporting field within the Regiment. There will definitely be a recruitment drive for the Tug of War and Rugby teams for next season with WO2 (SSM) Dave Rook headhunter for the teams. All in all this was a very successful night and enjoyed by all in attendance even it there were some seriously unfit people suffering the next day. Needless to say Rugby training was cancelled that day! A final congratulations has to go to Capt Jules Walster who won Best Sports Person in the Regiment for her achievements in Triathlon, Netball, Skiing and her achievements as the female focus for all sports in the Province.

FOOTBALL CRAZY IN THE STATES
A PERSONAL VIEW OF THE USA CUP 98

by Cpl D. P. Steele

Until I became an Army Referee, I never dreamed that I would be able to go to the USA and referee football matches in the sunshine (a very rare thing in NI) for two brilliant weeks. I flew from London Heathrow to Minneapolis Airport (via Reykjavik). The first thing I noticed on leaving the plane was the incredible heat - around 90°C, a bit of a change from Lisburn. There were about 12 Referees, or 'Men In Black', as we became known on the plane and we were immediately taken to the National Sports Centre (56 full sized football pitches - the biggest in the world - and they're talking about building another ten). It's right what they say, everything IS bigger in the States, from the beer - served in pitchers - to the sports centres. The teams themselves, and the Referees, were from as far afield as USA, Japan and Colombia!!

On a normal day I would referee four games, ranging from 12 year old boys and girls to Under 21 teams (future World Cup stars perhaps). The humidity was the worst thing - sun block was compulsory, and there were refreshment tents at every pitch. When I wasn't on the pitch there was lots to do! A few of us hired a car and tried to see some of the sights of Minneapolis. The Tournament Organisers really looked after us, and even laid on a VIP party. Tournament Officials, Players, Senators, Team Managers and even the local Mayor attended. What a night that was! The Refereeing itself was hard work, and for those of us with aching muscles the Organisers had even laid on massages (sometimes it's so hard being a football Official!).

Cpl Steele on duty

The one game that sticks in my mind was Colombia v Italy. The Italians scored twice within the first ten minutes. The Colombians decided that they did not like either my assistants or myself and I was forced to call security (six huge men - I already said, everything's bigger in the States - even the bouncers). Fortunately I survived the experience, without a Colombian necktie! All in all, I had a memorable two weeks, and made some very good friends. I would love to go again - but I think I'd avoid refereeing the Colombian team they take their football very seriously in these South American countries!

FAREWELL TO THE COMMANDING OFFICER
29 SEPTEMBER 1998

On a bright and sunny September afternoon the junior ranks of the Regiment gathered in the Peake Inn to say farewell to Lt Col Rowlinson on his departure to the Military College at Shrivenham. After a few drinks in the Peake Inn, a small presentation of a picture of the Mourn Mountains was made and the usual speeches ensued. Luckily these didn't last too long and the ex CO was whisked away in a snatch landrover sporting a Viking helmet complete with horns and waving a blow up axe, to a waiting Gazelle for a final trip round the sights of Lisburn. Photos over page

COMMUNICATIONS SECTION

Comms Section continue their work for communications in the 3 Inf Bde area. The section consists of four teams: Syscon, COMMCEN, Crypto, and Trials. Take one of these vital parts away and the whole shebang falls apart. For the unlucky few, the tours of these unsung heroes are coming to an end, and for the lucky, it is all about to start (God bless them all). We say goodbye and veni vidi vici to Lt Ivan 'Boy Wonder' Bates going to Bassingbourn, SSgt Jan 'Butts' Seymour going to Blandford, LCpl 'Beaker' Phillips off to the Falklands, and Sig 'Not so' Smart off to 30 Sig Regt. Salutations are extended to 2Lt Forbes Guthrie and SSgt Bob Wallace. Finally, congratulations to LCpl Tony Adams on his recent promotion.

TM SECTION

The last three months have been very busy, largely due to the forthcoming move to Portadown. Apart from the normal day-to-day work carried out by TM Section, there has also been a lot of packing up for the move. Salutations to Cpl 'Time for Telly Tubby Toast' Webster, wife Denise, and children Shinise and Connor. Hope you and your family has a good two years here. Another hello to Cpl 'Brummie' Baker's wife Elaine who we hope also enjoys her time out here. Congratulations are to be extended to Sig Stainer on coming off the recent F Board, earlier this month. Also LCpl 'Dogsy' Barker has managed to complete his Driving Instructors course. God help us all. Finally, Cpl Solly Webster has been awarded his Army Colours for Karate for the second time. Well done.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
DAY OUT PONY TREKKING

More days out to boost morale of the Troop. Off we set on a peaceful Sunday morning once everyone had arrived at the Mini-bus, complete with hangovers from the previous night. When we arrived at the riding school we were kitted out with our riding helmets. Sig George Marshall. was given an original looking helmet with graffiti all over it. Each horse had its own nameplate on the door of its stable. Upon looking around at these, Sig George Marshall insisted that he have the horse called Barney. Not being the tallest of people, George was a bit shocked when an enormous Shire horse emerged from the Barney door. To his credit, he still maintained this was the horse he wanted. He seemed to be suffering from altitude sickness when he finally managed to mount this gentle giant.

Private Johnson feeding her horse

Once we were allocated our horses we began circling around the school, attempting to strike the correct posture upon our mounts. At this point we were all feeling fairly confident and decided to have a go at trotting. However, Sig 'shoulders' Moore's wife Karine had a bit of a shock when her horse decided it wanted to become a National Hunt horse, and proceeded to go over one of the jumps and start cantering. Poor Karine held on for dear life as the animal beneath her ran amok. We deduced that this may have been for one of two reasons:

1. This type of event is commonplace among newlyweds.
2. Karine's helmet was too big for her head, and kept covering her eyes so she couldn't see.

Knowing Sig Moore, we believe the latter to be the more likely. Anyway, onto the horse riding. Karine eventually managed to control her horse, and all the other horses were well-behaved. Sig Emma Jones' horse was a bit of a donkey and struggled to walk let alone trot. Emma did not seem to mind this too much as the expression on her face did not change for the whole of the lesson. She seemed very relieved at the end. After the lesson, we had worked up a thirst and appetite, and proceeded to the nearest restaurant for our nosebags. We congratulated ourselves on our impressive performance over the day, and nursed our sore legs for a few days after.

PARACHUTING

The aim of this day out was to complete a tandem dive from 12,000 feet. The definition of complete is simply to hit the ground at such a speed as to avoid any internal bleeding. We thought that being strapped to an instructor would remove the possibility of Jibbing' out. After putting on all our layers of warm clothing and jump suits, we looked like Michelin Men. First down was Sig Si Frost who performed a type of Cossack dance upon landing. He was so thrilled with the experience that he wanted to go up again. The rest of the group went up one by one and landed successfully. Sig 'I've done static line before' Marshall was the last to go up, but looked slightly different after the jump than before. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the day, and found the adrenalin rush fantastic.

EXERCISE ENDLESS SUMMER

Yet again it was another hot and clear sunny day in the Province (not), but this was not going to spoil the high morale as we set off to Portrush. The transport was stocked up with wetsuits and freshly waxed surfboards. The night before we had all watched 'Point Break', so we thought we knew what we were doing. After a two-hour drive we arrived at 5 R IRISH in Coleraine. It did not take us long to unpack and hit the beach where we soon realised the Irish coast was no Hawaiian paradise. The cold weather aside, we climbed into our wetsuits, threw the surfboards under our arms, and headed towards the surf to show the locals how bad we really were. After some top instruction by Sig Tony Adams, we managed a few hours in some good 5 - 6ft breaks before nightfall finally descended.

The subsequent night was successful, especially for LCpl Maynard and Sig 'keep it in the family' Marshall. The next day was also good for surf, but it took some time to get going as our heads weren't really up to it yet. The day went well with some good waves but WO2 'of course you can drink and surf' Duncan, LCpl 'my wetsuit's wet' Bushell, and Pte 'Shadwell flannel' Humphries were all too cold to carry on. This left the die hards Cpl 'wizard' Cator, Sig 'dancer' Adams, and Sig 'stalker' Stainer to make the most of a great weekend.

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt F. Payet
RQMS	WO2 (RQMS) D. Craig

Welcome to LCpl Carlton who was promoted to Cpl only two weeks after arriving to the unit. Also, congratulations to LCpl Osborne and his wife Nicki on the birth of their baby girl Molly. Farewell to Pte 'Geordie' Parkin, posted to 2 Log Sp RLC who is also undertaking a charity parachute jump for another member of the Troop whose daughter is seriously ill. The aim is to raise enough money for her to go to Disneyland. Good luck with the fund-raising. RQMS Dougie Craig is posted on promotion to RSM, and to top it all his wife Tracy is having their first baby in January. Many thanks for your hard work in the Troop and good luck with the nappy changing and your new posting. It follows, therefore that the replacement of the RQMS has arrived. Welcome to RQMS Andy Strudwick.

EXERCISE WATER FINN

The Troop organised an adventure training Exercise in the Lake District between 15 -25 September. This involved 20 personnel from the Troop and a visit from the Sqn OC, Maj MacRostie. The activities consisted of hill-walking, canoeing, and mountain biking. All personnel had a great time and the following diary extracts from Cpl Paterson and LCpl Howard summarise it all.

DERWENT STORM
*by Cpl Paterson

Day one, week one. Got underway at 0700 hrs with the QM in a non too happy mood with Sig Albert Finney. After a couple of hours listening to Albert snoring the night before, he could take no more and eventually moved rooms. The phrase 'I'll kill you' was definitely heard at one stage. Is this a new miracle cure for snoring, because Albert's condition definitely improved after that point. After a hearty breakfast we set off to Derwent Water for a day's canoeing. The weather was foul and a gale was blowing. Not deterred, everyone got kitted in their top of the range wetsuits supplied by HM Forces Kinnegar, and off we floated with our instructor, Pte Andy Lorimar. We managed to bluff Andy that we were all skilled in the art of Eskimo Rolling and didn't need to practice this manoeuvre in the freezing water. The weather didn't help at all, and canoeing was a struggle for most. After a couple of hours it was obvious that none of us would ever make it to the Olympics, so the QM decided that this was a good time to call us back in and take us mountain biking. After warming up back at the villa, we changed clothes and received a safety brief. We were then taken to the drop off point and shown the route we were to take. This included a steep climb that meant that most of us ended up mountain walking rather than biking. The downhill bit was far more fun than the uphill bit, and the route led us conveniently to the local pub.

SHORT WALK UP A HILL CALLED HELVEL
*by LCpl Howard

At the car park, just some 215m above sea level, looking up at Helvellyn and its first peak, our faces dropped a bit. Before we set off, the QM gave us his master plan for the day. In order to improve our navigation we were to map read throughout. If, at any point we were unable to give our location, we would have to go back down the hill 50m and come back up. The first victim, Pte Wayne Rickard was tasked to navigate over the first stage. Almost immediately, he became navigationally challenged but was set right by the QM. Spirits were high with jokes and song until a true view of the path leading up to Helvellyn became clear. Step by step we made our way up the path and slowly the group began to spread out with Cpl 'Green Gills' Turner holding up the rear. The responsibility of navigation passed from Wayne Rickard and Paul Lawler to Geordie Parkin with his new walking boots bought the previous day. The OC on the other hand walked in a pair of trainers and subsequently decided to buy a pair of boots that he didn't use. Approaching the summit we passed a steady stream of walkers coming down from the hill. With our group huffing and puffing but still trying to look as though we were enjoying it, we were passed by a group of young ladies. How embarrassing. We eventually reached the summit and had a spot of lunch. This consisted of doorstep sandwiches which most of the lads turned their noses up at. Once the QM started to get a bit cold he decided that it would soon be time for a pint, so off we set again. Once down off the top of the hill the pace picked up with the end in sight. The joking soon started again but the group found themselves slightly lost which dampened spirits once more. The QM took over as point man and soon found the main path. He also stepped up the pace as the village lay ahead with the pub beckoning. After a few pints we jumped in the transport and made our way back to the four star accommodation and Barbecue. The QM insisted that we were going nowhere until all the sausages had been eaten which we duly managed along with a few pints. We then went into town!

MERCURY CUP – MILITARY SKILLS COMPETITION

The almost victorious military skills competition team consisted of Lt Ivan Bates, Cpl 'Ozzy' Osborne, Cpl Tom Wise, LCpl Scott Maynard, LCpl Ian Pearce, LCpl Andy Nunns, Pte Paul Ridgeway, and Sig Carl Stewart. Our first stand was the equipment check that we were very optimistic about as our RSM was running it. Until that is, we started to lose points for 'the wrong T-shirt, and it's inside out', and another team member forgetting his ID card (well done, Sir). 'It's in my trousers' just doesn't count in the dog-eat-dog world of military skills competitions. Next up was the assault course. We knew the time we had to beat, but failed in our attempt - badly. With much gnashing of teeth and flailing of limbs we just survived the torture of it all. The FRG stand was our third stand. The team had an infallible plan that seemed to be left at the start line. All was going well until the rioters began to get a bit excited and started to throw themselves at us. We needed batons, and fast. Congratulations must be extended to the firers who were obviously using the 70's tactic of trying to bounce the rounds off the floor. Our fourth stand was First Aid. We would have done so well had Lt Bates found the final casualty. Also Pte Ridgeway lost us some points by refusing to give up his warm jacket so the casualty would have had a chance of survival. However, overall it was a good performance and the team managed to accrue enough points to come second in this event. Team medics rule. We came first in the next event, the pistol shoot, which involved scrambling from wooden cars. In high spirits we moved onto the final event, the clay pigeon shooting. This was more fun than competition. Worst shot was Sig Stewart and best shot was Lt Bates.

All in all it was a very enjoyable day, and the final score was such that three teams at the top (including us) all had the same score. This meant that the final positions were decided on the assault course timing that, needless to say, meant we came third. 39 Inf Bde won the competition but won't next year.

FAREWELL TO MAJOR R. J. HEALEY

On 10 September 1998 a fun day was held to bid a fond farewell to the Sqn Comd, Maj Rob Healey. The day began with breakfast in the Sgt's Mess followed by a city flight around Belfast. Upon his return Maj Healey was hoisted up the mast to the rear of the Squadron and then undertook a high-speed descent. The OC assured all present that the green tinge around his gills when he reached terra firma was due to dinner the previous night. The rest of the day revolved around the Officers and Seniors taking on the junior ranks at all the OC's favourite sports; namely football, hockey and volley ball. Highlights of the various matches were Maj Healey's hat trick on the football field, Sgt Avery receiving a smack around the chops during the hockey and a distressing level of uncoordinated bodies in the Officer and Seniors' volley ball team. Experience bested youthful energy and the Senior ranks beat the juniors in all events. The day was rounded off by a superb curry supper in the Horseshoe Club followed by presentations, speeches and some very enlightening skills. The Squadron presented Maj Healey with a crystal horseshoe and wished him and his family all the best in their new home at RMCS Shrivenham. The Squadron welcomes Maj Nick Borrill and his family. He takes over as OC of the Squadron.

TM SECTION

Well, as our last entry fell into the Bermuda Triangle, we'd best catch up with the crazy goings on at 39 TM Section. We ought to start with some hellos and goodbyes. The Riggers have said goodbye to LCpl Ali Lloyd who is off on her travels to Cyprus, although we hear that she's not too happy about it. Meanwhile, Sgt 'Lex/Taff' Lougher has taken the helm as Section Sergeant. The workshops have lived up to their role as an alternative TI crammer and sent Cpls Gethin Tudor Bevan and Andy 'Evil Knievil' Ward to Blandford. We have also had the arrival of Cpl Eric ' Devo' Cassee who is on his RSCC before he leaves to join everybody else at Blandford. Sgt Fete Barber joined the great unwashed masses in civvy street after a long and distinguished career. Finally, Cpl Marcus 'Hockey-boy' Murcott leaves, surprisingly to play hockey at 16 Sig Regt.

Arriving, we have LCpl Gallagher and Sig 'I can drive, to be sure' Wade straight from the factory. Congratulations to Cpl Sean 'Homer' Wedge on completing his RSCC, with extra marks for being able to watch for enemy with his eyes closed. Sig Jim Lawrence completed his caving course, further improving our relations with all manner of gnomes, dwarfs and pixies, and let us not forget the Grim Reaper Sgt 'Six Million Dollar Man' Bates who has had yet another rebuild on his knees. Ouch!

ROVER GROUP

Congratulations to the newly weds LCpl Jim Bowen and wife Karen we wish them all the best for the future. A warm welcome goes to LCpl. Mick Constable into the group who has come down to us from SYSCON to replace LCpl 'Dick' Hartley who has left to do his PTI thing In the gym down at Blandford; Good Luck to him.

The drivers in the group have been stealing the limelight of late with LCpl Martin 'Stop or I'll Fire' Walsh nearly apprehending armed robbers, but apparently his door was stuck. LCpl 'LALA Geordie' Owens managed to drag himself away from the NAAFI staff to do a spot of driving only to get caught speeding. The group continues to fill the Squadron teams for every Military Skills competition going; Mercury Cup, Motrose Cup and any other Cup you care to mention, you name it we'll be doing it. A final note, if anyone was wondering why the paramilitaries have called a cease fire just have a look at the photo, I must emphasise that the two 'Warriors' pictured were unsuccessful, Rover Group. Kev and Marko enjoy the photo.

THE GREAT NORTH RUN 1998

by Sgt S. Hylan

In most years the Squadron entered a team in the Great North Run. Our accommodation was an 'A' grade 5 star hotel on the coast of Whitburn. The team consisting of WO1 (RSM) Hawkins BEM, WO2 (RQMS) Lawes, Sgt Hyland, Cpls Wardale and Cassee with the support staff of Pte Binney, had trained over the past months and were ready 'for battle' on Sunday morning. In the meantime we had a lot of historic sites to visit and visit the sites we did, most until the early hours of the morning.

On the day of the run we all arose bright and early, jumped into the admin transport and disembarked at South Shields. Then it was onto the famed Melro rail system and from there to the very front of the run. Once the run started the going was easy for the first 500 yards. Then the ground seemed to go uphill and carry on going up hill until 500 yards short of 13 miles. An excellent time was had by all and everyone said that they would love to participate in the run again next year.

EXERCISE PEAKS FINN - 4-10 OCTOBER 1998

Exercise Peaks Finn was an adventurous training exercise carried out by members of the Squadron. The aim of the Exercise was to walk the four highest peaks in each of the home nations, which included Slieve Donard in County Down, Ben Nevis in Scotland, Scar Fell Pike in the Lake District and finally Snowdon in the Snowdonian National Park. Each day a different mountain was climbed, ending up in Wales for two days, one for R and R (DRINKING) and the second for canyoning which involved climbing up waterfalls and jumping off cliffs. The OC Squadron and RSM visited the team in Wales and enjoyed some of our great hospitality and choice of night-time venues.

RQMS' DEPARTMENT

by WO2 (RQMS) S. F. M. Lawes and Sgt S. Hyland

Under the auspicious leadership of WO2 (RQMS) S. F. M. Lawes the department has worked tirelessly towards the ultimate reward ot a sports afternoon, but as usual to no avail! Rumours have been flying around that due to the amount of time the department spends cleaning and tidying the stores that the Pope was going to pay us a visit and he would give us the said sports afternoon. This was quickly quashed by the RQMS who announced the Logistics Inspection Team was visiting in his place. Much has happened since the last mention in The Wire some months ago including Sig 'Faye' Edwards who was due to attend a gliding course at Bicester. However, the hire car she was given failed to reach its destination and also the neck brace she had to wear stopped her from flying it and also impeded her filling out the FMT 3. LCpl 'Mac' McGuinness has spent the last four months whinging and moaning about the state of his accounts and even carried this on whilst on holiday in the seaside resort of Magilligan. Sig 'Sticky' Bunn has finally escaped from the clutches of the RQMS and moved to the MT Section. He is at present in the process of retrading; we all wish him well in his future career.

Cpl 'Paul' Selby has, after many years of service, finally completed a number of courses. That was after the usual comments of '*What do you want that for, you're a storeman'. These courses included MLT, (walking in the Lake District) and also a Map Reading instructors Course (walking in Berkshire) and he is now in the planning stages of taking the Department out for a days walking (using various local hostelries as key focal points).

We are pleased to announce the arrival Sig 'Kev' Pack into the Department. He has joined us from 1 (UK) Div HQ & Sig Regt and who, after initial reviews and arrival procedures, was promptly booked into the Dental Centre for major surgery. We would also like to welcome Pte 'Steve' Binney (RLC) to the Department who has joined us from the MT.

MOURNE MINDER II

by LCpl Mandie Smith

Having just arrived in Province, my new Staff Sergeant, Staff Robinson, decided that it wasn't on that I had time to settle in or even unpack. So after being put on a couple of courses and thrown into my new job feet first, he wasted no time at all volunteering me for the Squadron's much talked about Battle Camp, Mourne Minder II (no surprise there then!) We deployed on the exercise on 1 November. We all met outside the Squadron, jumped into our mini-buses and left sunny Lisburn in fairly high spirits. The high spirits soon turned into moans and grumbles on arrival at the not so sunny Magilligan Training Centre! Day one was dry training... although dry is the last word I'd use to describe the first day - wet, soaking and drenching are words that would be more fitting. Even though the weather was appalling we still managed to fit in a fun packed day of section battle drills, pairs fire and manoeuvre, first aid and a pyro demo. Oh, we also managed to have quite a laugh at those that forgot to bring their waterproofs and a number, like LCpl Leicester Richardson, who did bring them, but only had the 3p crisp packet type, so got soaked to the skin anyway!! As the week went on the weather did dry up a touch, as did the enthusiasm, but luckily for us Sgt 'Donkers!' Coates had plenty to keep us busy. Daily tasking were dished out each night on our briefings, along with much pleading for us to turn up for breakfast each morning as the DS didn't like eating alone .....Aaaahhhh!

The third day was spent on the ranges, with nearly all the Squadron passing their APWT and APWA. A miracle in itself. The background activity was Practice Grenades ready for the Grenade range the following day. Sgt Scotty Cain seemed cool and calm whilst teaching us the basics in the Troop shelter, but didn't seem quite so brave once he realised that I was actually female and threw like a proper girl!! Day four saw the beginning of the end (of the Exercise and not me killing everyone on the grenade range!). We spent the morning throwing grenades and later getting to grips with the riot gun, both of which we all enjoyed. The afternoon was the Section competition that the DS had lovingly concocted. It comprised an NBC stand, First Aid Island, Command Task and finally a stretcher race. There were three sections that took part and we all seemed to have quite a laugh - unless you talk to my section about first aid that is! The day went fairly well overall with only one real injury. This was Pte Kev Wills, from One Section, who decided that instead of following the people in front of him on the log race and running round the wall, he would attempt to run through it, causing himself a little bit of pain!

That evening we completed a live firing exercise, once again the rain graced us with it's presence, along with the wind. The idea was to do a Platoon Section in defence. It all seemed to be going pretty well with Sgt Rich Avery being chuffed to bits with the set of orders he gave us, only to have them blown into the wind due to us running out of range time. Not that that really mattered as the Exercise had to be cut short due to a minor accident on the GPMG effects gun involving a 'cook off'. On the last day we finally got to spend some time in civvies and undergoing driver training. The intention was to conduct skid pan driving manoeuvring and a written test, but nothing seemed to go to plan with the skid pan car breaking down. This was a shame as we had to go home early! All in all it wasn't a bad a week (apart from the horizontal rain). It was very obvious that all the DS had put a lot of effort into making it an interesting and informative exercise, and I think that we all managed to have a laugh at some point; even if it was only in the coach on the way back!

MERCURY CUP MILITARY SKILLS COMPETITION 1998

The Mercury Cup Military Skills competition was held at Ballykinler on Monday 23 November 1998. The competition was contested by all six Regular Squadrons in NI and the results are as follows:

Tp Comd 2Lt W. Burlinson
Tp SSgt SSgt R. Breheney

Since the deployment of the Bosnia Squadron the Troop has been busy maintaining the Squadrons A and B fleet vehicles. However, in between they have managed to take part in a number of activities. Ex Cluster Crew was a Squadron navigational 'rally' which led to Cpl Tris Dunbar, LCpl Dom Rowe and Sig Gav Wilson taking part in Ex Magnum Spirit. The Troop has also taken part in the Inter-Troop 5-a-side football competition. As SSgt Bob Breheney had already defected to another team, Sig Gav Wilson led the Troop. The other team members were Cpl 'Geordie' Pearson, LCpl Ian Fowler, Sigs Bob Yuille, Jim Callender, Tony Grimes and 'Shep' Heap. Playing under the name of the 'Pink Pansies' the team went on to win their league and eventually progressed to the final, where they came up against an experienced 1 ADSR Rear side, which included SSgt Bob 'the traitor' Breheney. After a hard fought 2-2 draw after normal time, the game went into extra time and the 'Pink Pansies' eventually went on to win by the 'golden goal' scored by Sig Gav Wilson. Well done boys!

The Troop would like to welcome the following new members and their families: 2Lt Louise Burlinson, Sgt Tony Rosen, Cpl Mac McCallum, LCpls Ian Fowler, Al Royston and Sigs Clare Brydon, Si Bums, Ilona Caufield, Baz Harvey, Dave Honeywill, Mark 'Weeble' Robinson, Jo Thomas, Gav Wilson and 'Taff' Wilson. We would also like to congratulate LCpl Ian Fowler on his promotion to Cpl and Sig Dave Honeywill on his promotion LCpl. Lastly, we say farewell to Cpl Tris Dunbar and LCpl. Dom Rowe who are leaving us shortly, Goodbye and Good Luck!

TRUNK GROUP - PANTHER TROOP

Firstly, we would like to welcome our new Troop Commander 2Lt Chris Biddulph and say a fond farewell to 2Lt Mike Morton, who is serving out in Bosnia. (No Sir, you haven't been sacked; you've just been moved sideways!). The Troop has been busy over the last month preparing for the Station bonfire and the Station Christmas Fayre. However, we have still had time for some fun. We completed a successful exercise in Poland. All the soldiers involved gained a vast amount of experience in both communicating and learning how to follow the Polish Military Police at 30kph for 5 hours. We have demanded sunglasses for the lead Landrover on Ex Ulan Eagle 1999!

by Cpl McCallum

On Saturday 28 November six other members of the Squadron and myself set off for Augustdorf as guests of the 2nd Company 212 Grenadier Panzer Battalion. We were primarily going to shoot the MG36 the latest edition to the German personal weapon family, but there was also a competition shoot that involved firing the MG36 and the Uzi 9mm. We arrived at Augustdorf, after having got the 'adult' out of bed (cheers Sgt 'Barney' Balmforth), at about 09:15 and introduced everyone to SSgt Stephan Schreckenberg, who would look after us for the day. The first call was for us to have a good old strong German coffee before we began. For interest Stephan had organised for us to fire the German equivalent to the GPMG, the MG. After everyone had had a couple of goes we were in full agreement that, although not quite as scary as the GPMG, we still wouldn't like to be on the receiving end of it.

SSgt Stephan Schrenkenburg showing Sgt 'Barney' Balmforth how to fire the MG36

After our short period on the MG and another coffee, we went off and had a quick run through and hands on the G36. For those of you not familiar with the weapon, it comes with both a sight similar to the SUSAT and, above this, a RED DOT laser sight! We went onto the 25m range to fire the first part of the competition shoot, which was with the red dot sight. Although we only had a few minutes with the weapon before hand, everyone shot well. Cpl Tris 'wait till the Uzi shoot' Dunbar scored a maximum 60 and everyone else was in the high 50's. We then went on to the Uzi 9mm and split into groups of three for the shoot. After my confirmatory shoot of three rounds at 100m there was apparently calls from local aircraft that they were being shot at! Investigations are ongoing after my six shots, allegedly, took down a British Airways M! (I scored 4 out of 60!) Cpl Tris Dunbar has a confirmed kill with a score of 2. Congratulations were in order for our civilian gate guard, Petra Hilling, who scored 45.

SSgt Stephan Schrechenburg showing the 1 ADSR team how to use the Uzi 9mm

The final discipline was a 200m shoot with the G36. The scores were getting close now and everyone wanted to do well for a prize. Sadly LCpl Dom Rowe had to face embarrassment when he only scored 36 on his round while his wife, May, got the top score of 53! With the competition over we went back to the bar for the prize giving, even though we didn't expect many to be coming our way. After a few beers the SSM got up to announce the results. In the women's competition on the G36, Mrs May Rowe came first. In the German Army regulars competition Stephan came first and Petra Hilling came 7th. From both SSgt Stephan Schreckenberg and his SSM congratulations go to Petra for an outstanding performance against the men. For the guest team competition we came first. Overall, the whole day was a brilliant experience for both us and the Germans and a few things are now in the pipeline for the future. Finally I would like to thank everyone for coming along and making it a worthwhile day.

LADIES CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

In order for the females of 1 ADSR to form a Cross Country team, the Regiment had to deploy to Bosnia. Finally though, with a small amount of persuasion, a promise of a running strip and seven Royal Signals and one Adjutant's General clerk later, the team was ready to rock and roll. The female team normally travelled to races with the male team. However, after travelling to one particular race in Hohne it was decided that we would make our own way in the future. The journey began at Hammersmith Barracks at 1000hrs where we all piled into the minibus and waited while the driver tried to work out where first gear was in relation to third! Our driver will remain nameless apart from the fact that the individual concerned was an Adjutant's General clerk and female.

Firstly we took a slight detour so that our Cross Country officer (who shall also remain nameless) could purchase some cream for his delicate skin to protect him from the harsh conditions that were waiting for us outside. Once the shopping was over we finally headed to Route 2. The driver, having never been to Hohne, had to rely on directions like, 'Just keep going straight until we tell you otherwise.' Basically that meant driving straight past the exit and carrying on for at least thirty minutes until someone decided to look at a map! Whoever made the comment, 'Never give an officer a map,' could not have been closer to the truth. Have you ever tried to come off the autobahn at one exit, only having to drive for another 20km before you can go in the opposite direction? So, we were finally heading in the right direction, driving somewhat like Nigel Mansell. Considering the time was now 1330hrs and we should have registered 10 minutes earlier, the female aspect of 'girl power' put her foot down, literally. Several red lights and tractors later we were still driving around Hohne. It's quite a nice place really, in the middle of nowhere and no Army Barracks to be seen for miles.

The passengers in the 'happy bus' were now becoming quite restless. Most of them had been asleep since leaving Herford, including one bright male spark who kindly informed us that we were nowhere near Bergen Hohne! This was the first time that Bergen had been put in front of the word Hohne. It was decided that it was time to stop and for us all to agree that we were not going to make the start of the race in fifteen minutes. OK, so we saw parts of Germany that we had never seen before, some of them closer than we had anticipated. However, that was down to having 'squidgey brakes,' the men would have said it was the driver. Seven and a half-hours, a snow blizzard and a 6km tailback on Route 2 later, we finally returned to Herford.

Now for the best part, a race was being held at 4 Regt RA and both male and female teams were going to compete, that was until a better offer came along for the men to play a 5-a-side football competition at Herford. Well, that was not going to stop us from competing. We arranged a minibus and a driver, even though it was a male, and drove to Osnabruck. This time we arrived in plenty of time (and didn't get lost) and had a chance to survey the course and the opposition. The team had been initially told that the course was 4.5km, however, the briefing was to inform us differently. Well, what's 2.5km between friends? It was an extremely cold day and the ground was very hard from the night's frost. We were told that the course was 'undulating' (the posh word for hilly) with some straight parts! Twenty-eight girls set off, pushing and shoving each other to get away from the main pack and get a good position. We had entered two teams of three and all did extremely well. Team 'A' got 3rd, 4th and 10th, whilst Team 'B' got 17th, 18th and 19th. Overall, out of the seven teams our 'A' Team came first. We had achieved something without the aid of the men and it felt good. Here's to the next race!

The Squadron has, as usual, had an abundance of people coming and going in the last three months and sadly, there is not a publication big enough to list them all. However, we wish them all the very best for the future. In SHQ, we say farewell to Capt Graham Reith who goes to 19 Mech as the QM. Welcome to the new Families Officer, Capt Geoff Woodcock, fresh from the hallowed turf at Blandford. With the build up of the festive season the Squadron has seen a varied and busy period of activity including RSIT, PRE, a Mil Skills Competition and various sporting events.

On 11 November, we held an inter-department Mil Skills competition. This was a one-day event consisting of a CQB Shoot, Confidence Course, Assault Course, SAT Shoot, First Aid and a General Knowledge Quiz. Each department entered a team with the exception of M Troop who had hedged their bets on two teams. The day proved to be a great success and was a hard fought battle with plenty of calls for re-counts, such was the competitive nature. Last years' winners, Catering Dept came a close second, but the Techs had the day with their first team scooping overall victory. Our thanks to SSgt Gardner and Sgt Bladen for organising the event and some good news, as a result of Sgt Fauld's General Knowledge Quiz, he was volunteered to sing solo at the Regiment's Carol Service!

RHQ/RAO
EXERCISE SHINY EBOR 5

A dark winters morning brought together the RHQ and RAO under the heavy skies of the North York Moors. All met at 0600hrs sharp, except for the 2IC and RAOWO (excused an early start as recommended by Age Concern). A team building al fresco breakfast, beautifully prepared by the RCWO's staff gave us a hearty start before striking off in to the wilderness of Goathland for a days' hill walking.

Having arrived in the heart of Heartbeat Country, most were disappointed that the actual surroundings bore little resemblance to the television programme and that no-one would be spotted as future talent for Yorkshire TV. It was also noted that the Aidensfield Arms was still shut – and it was at least 0830hrs! Time to get started and Traffic Officer, Capt Mick Boxall immediately took charge of the map reading. For the first few miles, his isolated silhouette could be seen on the skyline, as no one actually believed he knew where he was going. Then the rain came down and the mist rolled in, and most decided that Capt Mick's heels were a pretty good view to admire, so we all followed on (that is, until he put his back out and got back on the mini bus). Speaking of mini buses, our trusted safety gang – Cpl Julie Ward, Sgt Jayne Doherty and Cpl Gaz Hartley, tried to ensure that we had the odd break out of morale by turning up with piping hot tea, just as another muddy excuse for a path led off in to the gloomy distance. At one point, they surpassed themselves as supreme administrators by producing a birthday cake, complete with candles, for WO1 (YofS) Simon Lock who was indeed, 21 yet again. He said that this was a birthday he would never forget!

Maj Frank Riley (2IC), WO2 Pete Aggett (RAOWO)
Sgt Shane Carnell, Sgt Bev Lumb,
WO1 (RSM) Dave Whitaker, Sgt David Lloyd
WO1 (YofS) Simon Lock

By now, our young and trendy walkers, LCpl Karl Smith, Cpl Conrad Williams and Pte 'Nobby' Clark were all reluctant to go on. Not, as you might imagine, because the going was too tough but because their Caterpillar boots and designer outdoor wear began to look a little less than polished. That having been said, even the best Chris Brasher Gortex didn't cope well with the bog-land we began to encounter. The cries from Det Comd (and newly appointed Press Officer) Capt Linda Johnston that were supposed to be for photo opportunities; were more likely a ploy to allow her to catch up!

Around five or so hours after we'd set off, that well defined landmark 'The Red Lion', appeared before us. A mile as the crow flew (about 2½ for the route we took!) and we would be at our journey's end. At this point, WO1 (RSM) Dave Whitaker proved that he really could walk on water and without so much as a patch of marshland touching his soles, took off for said landmark with amazing determination. Sometime later, amid 17 unthawing bottoms against the Red Lion's blazing fireplace, mutterings could be heard regarding Shiny Ebor 6 taking place during a time almost unheard of for team building events – SUMMER! HQ Squadron and indeed all of 2 Sig Regt, join together to congratulate WO1 (RSM) Whitaker on his recent selection for a commission in May 1999.

VIKING TROOP
Tp Comd — 2Lt Peter Hale
Tp SSgt — SSgt Terry Shiels

Viking Troop has had a quiet few months since returning from Battle Camp. This stable period in Barracks has been used to complete ATD training and in preparation for RSIT and PREs. For many in the Troop it has been their first RSIT and the experience has proved to be an education. The Troop has however managed to escape the rigors of barrack life a few times. On one particular day in early November the Troop participated in a very successful OBUA day held in Catterick. This contained plenty of fighting through buildings, molatov cocktail throwing and other activities that couldn't strictly be included in day to day training. The day was enjoyed by all and was said by many to be excellent preparation for forthcoming Troop trips. A special well done also has to be said to Cpl Cadywould who came twelfth in a recent Army Cross-Country race.

On the arrivals front we would like to welcome Sigs Pember, Elliot and Parker who have arrived fresh from Blandford. A big welcome also goes to Cpl Kama who joins the Troop on promotion from Tornado Tp. Viking Tp are now looking forward to the Christmas period with a number parties and a well deserved break.

ROMAN TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Adam Honor
Tp SSgt — SSgt Morrison

Roman Tp has had a number of notable postings out of late. These include Sgt Kleppang and Cpl O'Brien. Both will be sorely missed, especially Sgt Kleppang and his useful lifts to visit girlfriends. Thanks Del! Cpl O'Brien left on a high note, after 22 years of exemplary service, he was dined out in great style with a local member of the constabulary visiting to bare all. The Troop has also said farewell to Cpl 'Schimper' Stevens and Sig 'The Druid' Wilson. A recent update on Cpl Stevens is that he has finally discovered what hard work is all about.

Other than this the Troop has had a quiet period with the only highlight being an exercise supporting the Territorial Army. Ex Winter Eagle took place over the weekend of 20 November and Roman Troop was based within the barracks for the duration. The Troop established itself in eager anticipation for the first links to drop in that evening but alas the Troop were still waiting at 0530hrs on the Saturday morning. Eventually terrestrial links were engineered and the network lattice took shape. The exercise continued at the same pace for the remainder of the weekend, with trunk nodes moving around the North East of England. Cpl Warburton continued to lead from the front, his robust performance on the Play Station inspired those around him but no one could even get close to his high score. The Exercise eventually finished late afternoon on Sunday with all parties feeling the aims had been achieved.

TORNADO TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Bee Bryan
Tp SSgt — SSgt Neil Cooper

We have had our fair share of new arrivals and the Troop has grown to a respectable 34. So a big 'Welcome' to Sgt Graham Norris from 14 Sig Regt and Sigs Stockdale, Griffiths, Holmes and Dawes all from Blandford. Goodbyes go to Cpl Marcus Bailey, off to 21 (AS) Regiment on promotion, and Cpl Charlie Kama, who stayed a little closer to home, and is sampling the third Troop in 214 Signal Squadron with an inter - squadron posting to Viking Troop. Maybe one day he will find one he likes and stay there for a bit longer! Also, congratulations and a temporary 'Goodbye' to Sig Vicki Brighton who got married and is now Sig Wilford. We hope to have you back in the Troop in the not too distant future. Finally 'Congratulations' to Sig Graham Rennie who came off the board for promotion to Lance Corporal. He will be off to 16 Signal Regiment shortly and is, at present getting plenty of practice in for that posting on the ski slopes of Austria.

THE VISIT OF WELBECK STUDENTS
2 SIGNAL REGIMENT

For the second year running 2 Sig Regt played host to an enthusiastic bunch of Welbeck students who were interested in joining the Royal Signals upon commissioning from Sandhurst. The visit lasted three days and was designed to be a healthy mix of education, enjoyment and entertainment, with a common thread of competition running through it all. The nineteen students arrived at lunchtime on the Wednesday and spent the afternoon being briefed on the Regiment and the Corps from both regimental personalities and the SORLS team who came up from Blandford for the visit. The evening was then taken up with a Regimental Dinner, complete with band. For many this was their first visit to an Officers' Mess. It was an opportunity for the young subbies to do their bit for recruiting and convince the Welbexians that the Corps is the best not only for career opportunities but also for Mess life. This did not seem to take much effort as the bar bill was picked up by SORLS, and everyone had a thoroughly enjoyable night and eventually got away to bed in the wee small hours.

Battle PT at 0800hrs sorted out most of the bad heads the next morning before a three way circuit of stands run by 214 Sqn. This consisted of driver training, a 30 metre range and a radio relay task. In the afternoon 219 Sqn took over and introduced the students to orienteering in Land Rovers, map reading and radio detachments. In the evening, the subbies took control again for a cultural visit to York. This did not go on too late as the students had to up early for a range day. The range was run as a competition with prizes for the best individual shot and section. The students left after the prize giving lunch, following a very successful visit.

After just a week back at work from the summer leave period, it was back onto exercise supporting the RAF on Ex Rustic Reiver. Most of SHQ had a rather easier time of it at Otterburn Camp at EXCON while the rest of the Squadron had to do things like dig trenches and put lots of nice green and brown make-up on at least twice a day. The Exercise was a great success even though we did lose the new 2IC to hospital as he tried to attack one of the Trunk Nodes and his nose had an argument with someone's Kevlar helmet – oh well!! Such are the rigours of playing war. After all that it has been relatively quiet up in SHQ apart from FofS SSgt Richie Paterson getting everyone psyched up ready for the 'infamous' RSIT Team arrival. And, of course, who could forget the YofS SSgt Billy Barnes and his Falklands Stuff!

EAGLE TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Alex Clixby
Tp SSgt — SSgt Andy Allen

Since Battlecamp, at the end of September, the Troop have been busying themselves with a number of Troop training days and an exercise for visiting Welbeck College students. Since Welbexian Eagle, the Troop has been kept busy with a number of training days, including a visit to the SAT range and a driver training day. The SAT range was great fun, although the technophobic, oldies in the troop (including SSgt Andy ' this doesn't beat a wet range day' Allan) were not convinced. The remainder of the Troop's time has been used in preparation for the forthcoming RSIT and PRE inspections – good fun for all. During this time we are saddened to lose a large number of the Troop. The leaving members are Cpl Al ' in the good old days' Hanlon, Cpl Andy 'where is my bike' Moffat, Cpl Mickey 'good sneck' Mitchell, Sig Andy Kay and Sig Cath 'what is 19 Mech Bde' Hermitage. We have also lost two of our soldiers to Civ Div, Nick ' fireman' Brown and Tam ' hat' Dick. Lastly, congratulations to LCpl Gaz Willaims on his promotion to Cpl and Sig Kelly 'you can stop creeping now' Thompson on her promotion to Lance Corporal. We now look forward to start packing our thermal vest and long johns for our deployment to JCUFI.

FALCON TROOP
Tp Comd — 2Lt Kerry Cochran
Tp SSgt — SSgt Carl Tucker

Firstly, we would like to congratulate LCpl 'Maureen from driving school' Lawrence on his promotion. During October assets of the Troop deployed on Ex Arreade Fusion, a two-week static exercise in the pleasant surroundings of Blandford. The majority of Squadron manpower managed to complete the whole exercise except the part timers Tp OC, 2Lt Kerry 'go Ricky' Cochran and SSgt Carl 'get to your BASHAs' Tucker, who seemed to be only able to manage a week each.

On return to Imphal, the Troop increased the output rate in preparation for the RSIT team to come and inspect our new SAN Airportables. Unfortunately for them, it was felt the Troop wagons were in good order and they were left slightly unfulfilled. Now that RSIT has been completed the Troop can return to normal garage routine and, the majority of the hard work now completed, can return to making a more interesting and varied training programme. The Troop are even willing to stay during their NAAFI breaks, but this is to compete in a darts league. Currently led by Cpl Billy 'Bristow' Morris who usually partners the weaker players and Cpl Craig 'Robin Hood' Purdon. For the more intelligent members of the Troop, Sgt Cas 'curly sue' Cassidy and the Sys Ops produces the Trivial pursuit cards. With the build up to Christmas, everyone was looking forward to the Troop function that was held at the York brewery and of course the Squadron deployment to the Falklands. Finally, another mention for Cpl Billy Morris and Sig Tam Dick who both took part in a gruelling two-day marathon over the North York Moors in aid of the Macmillan Cancer Relief Fund. The guys successfully raised over £200 by completing the course through some of the worst weather conditions seen on the Moors this year. The Karrimor International Marathon is an annual event covering 50kms of arduous terrain. The competition is a notoriously tough challenge, only 20% of the entrants finished the course alone, not to mention raising money for charity at the same time; well done lads!

Sqn Comd — Maj R. J. Quinlan
SSM — WO2 (SSM) S. G. Jackson

1998 was a good year for the Squadron, the majority of whom have returned from an operational tour, a little bit stronger and wiser. At the beginning of 1999, the Squadron is likely to be detaching more people in order that the Regiment can continue to provide support to operations, but in the interim, and for the first time under Maj Quinlan's Command, the Squadron is now a single team again. In the few short weeks between post-operational tour leave and Christmas stand-down, the priority has been to reconstitute and practise the Squadron in its war-fighting role in preparation for our first Exercise in January. This has involved reorganising personnel and equipment into the three Troops, accounting for stores, and conducting a short PACEX to remind most, but also to teach some of our newest soldiers what supporting a Divisional Headquarters in the field is really about. It is with great regret that we trade in a vintage Sergeant Major, WO2 (SSM) Tait who is moving to be RQMS, and we all wish him very well. This year's latest model is WO2 (SSM) Jackson who we are pleased to welcome from the Training Wing. Also to RHQ we lose our IBM Mainframe WO1 (FofS) Osborne to whom we send our thanks and best wishes. Welcome, then to the Pentium-driven WO2 (FofS) Ramsdale who takes up his appointment in Sqn Ops.

WATERLOO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt C. E. Caie
Tp SSgt SSgt A. J. Crawford

The Troop returned to work at the end of November after a month's post tour leave. We were met by the unsmiling faces of the rear party who glumly pointed at the empty shells of all the Panzers we left behind. Well, not to worry, three weeks until Christmas stand down to get them ready for Exercise in January and to indulge in the usual round of festivities. Hopefully, in the haze of these happy occasions, the haemorrhaging of personnel leaving will not seem quite so bad.

We say hello to Sgt John MacNamara who joined us at the beginning of December. Goodbye and congratulations to Cpl Steve Piper and Emma who go on promotion to 33 Sig Regt at Liverpool. Also to Cpl 'Buck' Rogers and Emma who also leave on promotion to 14 Sig Regt. Goodbyes also go to Sigs 'Juice' Joyce and 'Scouse' Traynor and finally, farewell to Sig Chris Pimlott on his departure to Civvy street where it is rumoured that he will keep a certain Hospital department in business.

OVERLOON TROOP
Tp Comd Capt L. Rendricks
Tp SSgt SSgt J. R. Stillie

The Troop has finally reformed after being spread to the Four Corners of the globe. No sooner have we become a Troop again than we are already saying goodbye to a few older members. SSgt Jim Stillie is soon to leave us for the warmer climes of Cardiff UOTC. Cpl Steve Sorbie and LCpl Olivia Barnes are both leaving the Army, good luck! Also good luck to those soon to be posted away from Bulford; LCpl Joey Collins, LCpl Charlie Edwards, Sig Andy Bedward and Sig Thompson. We welcome to the Troop Capt Jimmy Hendricks, Sgt Claire Clark and Sigs Baber and Fox. The majority of the Troop made up the over worked and under appreciated Squadron rear party. We have worked like demons while the rest of the Squadron has been sunning itself in Bosnia, the Falklands and Canada. Who do they think painted the Squadron Offices and maintained all the wagons while they were away? We did not realise watching paint dry could be so exciting! Presumably concerned about the Blu-tack that had been used instead of filler, SSgt Stillie was heard to shout in true Sergeant Major fashion, 'Don't lean on the walls, they've been there longer than you have!' In any case the offices now look very smart, including the notice board being used to cover the holes that even Blu-tack would not cover.

BUSSACO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt D. A. Jackson
Tp SSgt SSgt A. Dick

After a well deserved month's leave, the Troop exchanged their civvies for coveralls and returned to work in the garages, setting about those jobs which the rear party were too busy to do. We would like to welcome Cpl Bob 'I like my food' Dryden, LCpl Jim Annis and LCpl 'Mice lover' Maxwell also Cpl 'Plug' Graham, Cpl 'Taff' Thomas and Sigs Giblin, Warden, Hunter and Wrightman. A sad farewell goes to and LCpl 'Flash' Kidner and LCpl Jim Stewart. Finally, we say farewell to Sig Bob 'Noxious' Steel.

206 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Following a turbulent and varied year the Squadron is now once more whole and back at work following post Bosnia and Falklands leave. The Squadron is now in full swing preparing for a busy Exercise season in the New Year, even managing a short Exercise a whole 48hrs after everyone returned from leave! It was all jolly exciting to get the train set out of its box for the first time in 18 months, and it all went surprisingly well. Also a big welcome goes to WO2 (SSM) Stu Archer who takes over the Squadron on 18 January 1998. The outgoing SSM, WO2 (SSM) Chris 'The Wig' Hymas, moves temporarily to the Training Wing before posting to 1 Div as RSM next year. All the best Chris!

INKERMAN TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Alex Fennel
Tp SSgt SSgt Steve Bartlelet

After returning from post-Falklands leave the Troop began the task of turning around all of the vehicles and equipment that had been left behind. After a great deal of hard work three more vehicles returned from Bosnia and there was just time to get these ready around for Ex Rhino's Return 1. This comprised of a plug-up followed by 36 hours relearning all of the old skills whilst moving to locations on Salisbury Plain. To get everyone in the right frame of mind there was non-stop rain for the duration of the plug-up and a few teddies definitely got thrown around, mentioning no names Sig Kennet. While pausing for lunch the new (and some old) members of the Troop got a lesson in Inverted V antennas from Cpl Sean 'Richie' Richardson though it must be said that due to the rain they were not a very receptive audience. Just before the end of this phase LCpl Shaun 'The Drive' Thomas took some of the Troop through the use of four wheel-drive on the wagons. This should hopefully stop the stench of burning clutches every time we pull into location. Sig Lynnette 'Diesel' Anderson learnt that generators don't like the wrong fuel and Sig Jason 'Einstein' Leroy learnt just what a tent looks like when it's inside out. Due to the inclement weather the Plain was like a speedway circuit and the Troop OC, Lt Alex 'Ninja' Fennel and SSgt Steve 'Stirling Moss' Bartleet very nearly had an embarrassing moment when they took the recce vehicle through some tank tracks.

The remainder of the Troop got back from their Post-Bosnia leave just in time to help clean the vehicles and this resulted in an unofficial competition amongst the guys as to who could get the most mud on their wagon. Congratulations go to Sig Steph 'Bianca' Catney who got married recently, shame her other half is in 222 Sqn. Finally there are a few farewells to Cpl Jo 'Disco' Ruth moves to 210 Sig Sqn and Sig Garry 'Spide' Wilson goes to be a bad influence on Officer Cadets at Sandhurst.

MONS TROOP
Tp Comd Capt P. M. Newton
Tp SSgt SSgt R. Bed

The early days of November heralded a brief re-union of Mons Tp after returning from their deployments across the globe. Farewell to three Troop stalwarts, LCpl Andy Stoker (CivDiv), Cpl Jo Biddle (Germany) and Cpl Scott Day (Germany). From the ashes rose a new Mons Tp with a welcome to Sgt Tony 'Nice Hat' Wringe and Sig Mick Sutton. Sgt Wringe has come fresh from the colds of South Georgia with the new Troop mascot, Daphnie the Alsation who has proven to be better than his master at barking out drill. Sig Sutton has found life in the Troop a little difficult since it has come to light that he is related to the new RSM. As a result he is suspected of being a mole and is rarely told Troop gossip.

EXERCISE IRON SPEAR–KENYA
Exped Ldr Lt Alex Fennel

Ex Iron Spear was an adventure training exercise in Kenya that ran over the period 11- 28 September 1998. Ten of the twelve participants were veterans from the Regiment's recent JWFI tour and were keen to experience hot weather after six months of being cold in the Falklands. After a delayed flight out of Heathrow we very nearly missed the connection from Brussels to Nairobi and after a mad dash through Brussels airport everyone took their seat with minutes to spare before take-off. The main aim of the expedition was to climb Point Lenana, the third highest peak of Mt Kenya and the highest point accessible without specialist climbing equipment. Before the ascent could begin we had to get to the base of the mountain and this was achieved in what felt like the slowest truck in the world. Everyone got their first four blisters on this journey - on our hands, caused by hanging on grimly during a particularly rough 10km section. The first night on the mountain was spent finding out what items of kit proved impossible to use in field conditions. In particular the tent owned by LCpl Mark 'Where am I' Flintham took an age to set up. In addition the stoves had a habit of dripping burning fuel everywhere and at one stage a hut we were using for shelter was nearly set alight by LCpl Dave 'Home boy' Corcoran. Altitude sickness set in on the first full day of the trek for a couple of people and so the pace was fairly slow which gave everyone a chance to admire the spectacular views along the Chogoria route up the mountain. To try and combat altitude sickness Sgt Chris 'Why am I here?' Cheesman spent the day drinking Dioralyte as if it was going out of fashion. As we climbed higher more and more suffered from altitude sickness and the night spent just short of the summit was agony for everyone. As Sgt Pete 'Fire starter' Rodriguez pointed out 'I haven't had this much fun since my Grandad's funeral.' To ensure a spectacular dawn view of Africa from the summit everyone had to get up early to start climbing at 5a.m. The weather was unkind at this point and instead of the glorious dawn view across the savannah we looked at the inside of a cloud for a freezing twenty minutes. Everyone took heart from LCpl Mariah 'Amuse me now!' Harrop's comment of, 'It's not cold, just a bit windy.' The sun did come out briefly and after a quick photo session on the summit it was time to begin the descent.

At the end of the expedition there was time for 24 hours of R&R in Mombassa. After some fierce negotiations WO2 Gaz 'Live to party' Wilson secured two beach front cottages for the night. A very relaxing day was spent on the pure white beach looking out over the blue waters of the Indian Ocean. After catching the overnight train back to Nairobi there was just time to buy some souvenirs before heading to the airport for the flight home.

222 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj M. Billingham
SSM WO2 (SSM) F. Roberts

SHQ Troop has had a busy period since summer leave including Squadron Battle-Camp which took place in 'Sunny' Sennybridge with members of the Troop getting expert tuition on tactics, ranges and getting soaked and getting wet and miserable drills! The Troop also deployed on a shakeout exercise with the new OSC crew deploying for the first time, peace and harmony there was 'NOT'. The run up to Xmas will be a sober affair with only 33 parties to attend on SSM WO2 'Mine's a Xmas Tree' Roberts social list! Congratulations to newly promoted SSgt 'The Nose' Curtis, Sgt Meadows, Cpls Anderson, Burman, Pilmer, Stenning and LCpl Pereria. Welcome to Sgt Simons and Cpl 'Windy' Gale to the Troop and a sad farewell to SSgt Jarnell, Cpl's Dawes, Sibbald, Welch and LCpl Ashman.

MASIRAH TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Emma Fawcett
Tp SSgt Sgt M. Emmerson

After a fine period of block leave the Troop prepared to deploy on the Squadron Battlecamp. A selected elite were sorry not to experience the deep joys of sunny Sennybridge but departed the country, heading in search of adventure, in South Africa. Ex Kruger Iron proved to be a great success with a large number of the troop represented including SSgt Al 'I wish I was posted' Keen and Lt Al 'Boss' Rawes. This left Sgt Emmerson holding the reins once more. It's all change at the top fgr the Premier Trunk Node of the Squadron. A fond farewell to SSgt Al 'Did I tell you I was posted' Keen moving back up north to 2 Sig Regt. Also it's farewell to the founder Lt Al 'Danger' Hawes. Having arrived back from adventures in South Africa only to find that the 2IC's chair vacated by Capt Adam 'the beret' Hillary is now his. A warm welcome to 2Lt Emma 'even shorter than Emmerson' Fawcett, the new Tp OC coming straight from the Blandford Chocolate Factory.

OMAN TROOP
Tp Comd Lt R. Sellwood
Tp SSgt SSgt Baker

Once again it has been a turbulent time in Oman Tp with lots of postings in and out. The Troop has also been busy with the first communications exercise since it was reformed. This saw the Troop touring some of the finest pig farm locations Wiltshire has to offer. This Exercise included a special guest appearance of SSgt 'Bru' Baker, who spent a suspicious amount of time 'looking' for kit on the back of the Admin Bedford. The Troop would like to welcome Sig Walters and Sig McCarther from the factory, Sig Millar and Sig Swailes back from counting penguins in JCUFI and the Three Amigos back from BATUS after six months of Exercises with the infantry and armoured corps. Farewells from the Troop go to, Sig 'Big Vicki' Ashworth and Sig Swailes both posted permanently to Civ Div. Sig Blackett and Sig Millar both go up to 2 Sig Regt in York and Sig Wright is posted to 7 Sig Regt. We all wish you well in your new jobs.

SHARJAH TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt A. Johnson
Tp SSgt SSgt Lang

The Troop recently took part in Ex Arabian Reprise. A squadron exercise that was a very short, but a badly needed one. It gave the rest of the Squadron a chance to catch up to TN 093's standards, especially after the digging out of Sig 'Bri' Dents truck. Sharjah Tp was located around Hungerford and the local area with some of the areas being a little 'tricky'. The first location resulted in the whole Node being crammed into a tiny space that didn't have enough room to swing a sprog.

In November Sharjah Tp forced themselves to go on a brewery trip, big mistake. The trip began with a tour of the brewery, this tour was supposed to last for an hour. However, when the guides noticed that the entire Troop were puppy eyed, they managed to get us round in ten minutes (who cares where it comes from, we just want to drink it). After 22 years service in the Signals, Cpl 'Elmo' Ennis has finally retired to Civ Div. Elmo will be greatly missed by everyone including the Kiwi, Bulford's local pub, as Elmo is their best darts player (and drinker). Elmo was seen off by the Troop with a meal and a lot of drinks. A fond farewell and congratulations to Sig 'Prince of darkness' Harkness for coming of age, the LCpls' board and his subsequent posting to 1 Div. Hopefully the women and children will be able to sleep better at night now, but I don't think the landlords will.

ADEN TROOP
Tp Comd Lt C. Crowther
Tp SSgt SSgt Hogg

The last couple of months have been hectic for Aden Tp. On our return from battle camp we were straight out again on a Comms Exercise - 'Arabian Reprise'. This was an opportunity for the Squadron's trunk nodes to blow off the cobwebs on their skills and drills and their wagons! The period has seen several Troop personnel away on various courses. Cpl Hobson has been away in Tidworth learning to read and write on his EFP course while Cpl 'Chalky' White and Cpl Graham Parkhill have been in Blandford on their Class 1 understanding their role in the trunk node (they are still none the wiser). Congratulations go to Cpl White and Cpl Parkhill on their promotion to Cpl and to Sig Hemley who win pick up LCpl early next year along with a posting to Blandford soldier on! A number of our flock are significantly happier having passed their 3-2 upgrade exam and securing some extra beer tokens each month, namely, Sigs Martin, Brewer, Robb and Webster.

Outside of the routine the Troop has managed to keep itself busy as ever. We were invited to return to the village of Eddington to assist with Remembrance Sunday. The parade was followed with copious amounts of booze, chips and war stories from those past and present. It also provided an opportunity for Sig 'Ginger' Davies and Sig 'Taff' Francis to make the most of their final days of freedom. They have both been sentenced to a fate worst than Bosnia.... Marriage! Congratulations to both ... we hope.

The Troop also managed a trip to Portsmouth to see how our counterparts in the Navy lived in the days of yore. The day comprised of a visit to HMS Victory, Admiral Nelson's flagship and to HMS Alliance, a 1950's diesel hunter-killer submarine. After the initial giggles the lads soon realised that their lot in the back of a Ptarmigan vehicle is luxury compared to some of the stories. The trip was followed by a few jars in Portsmouth. Everyone had a good day out except for SSgt 'I'll just lie here and die' Hogg.

EXERCISE ARABIAN BATTLE 4 - 16 OCTOBER 1998

Ex Arabian Battle was the Squadron Battle Camp of the year. The Exercise took place on SENTA training area. The training package was compiled by Lt 'Crazy' Crowther, SSgt Brad Hogg and Sgt Jas Meek. The training composed of three distinct packages; a live firing week supplemented with military training, a patrol competition weekend and a dry (yeah right) training four day exercise. There are far too many anecdotes to recount within the columns of this magazine, however, the Squadron's exploits will live forever more on the lips of those who took part and those who, in hindsight, wished that they did! The Exercise has been recorded and summarised by LCpl Andy Morris of Aden Tp. He recounts the Troop's experiences. 'The assets and men of 222 Sig Sqn came together on the 4 October 1998 to deploy on Ex Arabian Battle (Battle-Camp 1998). The first phase was a seven-day range and training package; whose aim was to relearn and revise many of our forgotten infantry skills. The second phase would see the Squadron implement the skills that they had learned the previous week. The Squadron arrived at SENTA, Sennybridge on Sunday evening and split down into the respective Troops. We then trotted to the NAAFI for what was to be our last drink for at least a week (a long time for many of us). Most lads had a couple of beers followed by an early night in anticipation of the early start the next morning but Sig 'Swampy' Martin had a reputation to uphold and successfully managed to maintain this on the first night of the Exercise. The Squadron rose early on Monday morning to deploy to the ranges. Throughout the week each Troop would get the opportunity to shoot on the IBSR, MMTR, live Field Fire and a Night Shoot. Whenever a Troop was not on the ranges they were on one of the many and varied background activities. One such activity was the Night Navigation Stand conducted by Sgt 'Angry Little Man' Emmerson. He disqualified A Tp just for using their initiative (cheating). The Troop would most likely have got away with the scam only for the big mouth of Sig 'Scouse Snitch' Davies. The week ended with the inevitable Patrol Competition and the infamous Sennybridge Assault Course. After the event the Squadron returned to SENTA for a night off and the presentation to the best section for the first week which was won by 2 Sect, A Tp. The following morning the Squadron would deploy on Exercise but not before the designated OP commanders had the opportunity to recce their positions from a Gazelle helicopter that was somehow acquired by the Squadron. The Exercise finished with a Coy level attack on the enemy position. The attack was set to launch at 0700 hrs (first light). Unfortunately somebody (Sqn Comd) accidentally set off a trip flare at 0635hrs which managed to catch the enemy off balance along with the rest of the Squadron but we managed to successfully overcome the little mishap and won the war (again).

BA (G) CROSS-COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIP 1998

*by Cpl Templeman

A day to go down in sporting history, it had never been done before, one Regiment winning both male and female events. For this to be accompanied by ladies champion, first junior, second junior and third individual overall makes you wonder if it was worth the opposition turning up. This was a great day for SSgt 'Stu' Taylor to bow out of 7 Sig Regt cross-country. The whole team would like to wish him and his family all the best in his new posting in SHAPE. Also welcome to SSgt Scott who will be taking over SSgt Taylor's mantle.

The ladies' event was run first and much encouragement was offered to ladies team by the male competitors. Most of this was well received apart from Cfn 'Maz' Cooke whose limited vocabulary couldn't muster a witty response. The first lady in for the team and overall winner was 2Lt Noakes who won the event convincingly even though being slightly geographically challenged for part of the race. A big welcome to LCpl Hemstead who was the second team member to finish in 11th place closely followed by Sig Paula Barratt and Sig Siobhan Nolan in 14th and 16th respectively. There was also a valiant effort by Pte Leane Dick in 44th and Cfn 'Maz' Cooke who brought up the rear. The men's event started immediately after the ladies finished with most people trying to keep their warm kit on until the very last second. Reports from the girls said that it was a very hilly course fortunately this was changed for the men into a quite ridiculously hilly course. The hill approximately halfway round was particularly sadistic. I say approximately as I was trying to stop my spine falling out at the time, it's been a while since I've seen grown men cry.

First in for the team and 3rd overall was WO1 (YofS) Lee Kiely and just over a minute behind, depending on who you talk to, was WO2 (RQMS) Jed Keane. SSgt Stu Taylor managed 7th closely followed by Sig Lee Manton who was the first junior. Sgt 'Tiny' Tindale put in an excellent performance compared to last years slightly OLAK effort. Sgt 'Col' Forrester came in two places behind 'tiny' in 13th and I'm sure the fact he is now Cpls course trained was of great use to him on the course. The 2nd junior in was LCpl Musgrave in 14th place who maybe could do better if he stopped smoking but I was told not to mention that. After somewhat of a battle at the rear of the pack Maj Smith came 26th with Cpl Evans and SSgt Scott 27th and 30th. A special mention I think must also be made of those individual runners who did not get picked for the team even though one of them did come 6th out of the Regiment. Those runners were 2Lt Howarth, LCpl 'Hoppy' Hopkinson, Cpl Steve Templeman, LCpl Steve Baulch, Cpl Hayword , LCpl Duddles and Sig Wilkinson. Absent on his PTI corse was Sig Aaron Garside but I think we proved our point without him and if the points-margin had been any clearer the other units might have got suicidal.

CO'S FUN RUN 1998

On 23 October, 7 Sig Regt held the British Forces Germany wide CO's Fun Run. It was a charity event in aid of the British Legion Poppy Appeal. Those who competed in fancy dress had a shorter route to run. This incentive led to an amazing display of ingenuity and creativity. Uniform Tp united to produce a snooker table with their heads representing the different coloured balls. It was a great costume although they did not complete the run at great speed and were not too impressed when the Officers, who were perambulating around in black tie with champagne, decided to use their umbrellas to have a game. Bill and Ben the flower pot men put down roots half way round and brightened up the route. An escaped prisoner began to wish he had not opted for the real ball and chain as it was more like the CFT for him. However, some managed more practical costumes. 7 Sig Regt raised the second largest amount of money in 1997 and aim to raise the most this year. The final total was DM 1382 and it has not yet been announced how that compares to the rest of Germany. Everybody enjoyed the event and it was an excellent way to support the Poppy Appeal.

OP MARINA FOR BELORUSSIA

During the month of July, clothing and food was loaded aboard a truck, that was paid for by a German charity 'JESU', bound for Minsk, Belorussia for distribution to orphanages and old peoples homes. The truck, fully laden with supplies, was bound for the orphanages and old peoples homes in the areas of Belorussia which had been severely contaminated by the Chernobyl nuclear reactor meltdown. 'JESU' informed us that though they had much more to send they were unable to, as the cost of another vehicle was DM 4000 and that their main priority was paying for children to come and stay in Germany at Christmas and during the summer months.

Members of 7 Sig Regt decided to raise the DM 4000 needed in order to hire the next truck. This had to be done by the end of October, as afterwards there would be problems on the route into Eastern Europe due to the onset of winter. It was done with the aid of many. The YMCA donated a 22 inch teddy bear for a raffle, this raised over DM 500. The families NAAFI, Krefeld, allowed us to hold a collection point for loose change and NAAFI stamps for the purchase of supplies and food and toiletries. A kiosk was set up, at the Bradbury Barracks swimming pool for the selling of drinks, sweets, crisps and ice-creams, this raised in excess of DM 1000. Donations from the Sergeants Mess Welfare fund, 231 Sig Sqn, 229 Sig Sqn, 232 Sig Sqn and HQ Sqn, 7 Sig Regt resulted in nearly DM 1000 of donations. Also a 24hr sponsored BFT, held on West Park, prior to the start of the Bradbury Fair raised in excess of DM 3000. Donations were also received from supporters of JESU, led by Mrs Brenda Lawrence from JHQ of DM 450, raised at a car boot sale. All these gave us the money for the truck that departed from Germany, once again fully laden on 14 October. On the truck was clothing, toys, food and baby care products collected throughout Germany ie Hameln, Osnabruck, Krefeld, JHQ which were stored along with other supplies in RAF Bruggen. Krefeld Primary School donated the Harvest Festival Gifts from Year 1 and 2 children - these were all tins and were presented in a special assembly to Maj Gregg. JESU have said the tins were especially well received by the Belorussians, because they are safe food for the children to eat - uncontaminated, unlike the raw food they are use to most of the time.

Many of the baby products came from companies made aware of Op Marina by Jenny Nairn, Courses Clerk, 7 Sig Regt, who wrote over 30 scrounging letters with replies and help from four, they are: Bettacare Ltd, PHP, The Great Little Trading Coy, Tomy. These companies had already exceeded their annual allocation of donations to various charities but still came up with the goods and the cost of postage to Germany. We would like to thank them on behalf of Op Marina.

Much fun was had throughout the fund-raising, especially during the sponsored run, with four teams taking part, two teams consisting of Royal Signals personnel, one team AGC personnel and one team REME personnel. Those who could not commit themselves to the full 24hrs nevertheless were not to be left out. Members of the 7 Sig Regt insisted on joining in the running at lunchtime, in the evening and throughout the night. The WO's and Sergeants' Mess came over and gave all runners a break by running a few laps midway through their dining out of the RSM, Pete Griffiths (at 0300 hours).

WO1 (RSM) Pete Griffiths
leaves the Regiment with his swimming pool

This was very entertaining for all runners as they took one step forward and two steps back! The first runner had a broken leg, but being fully anaesthetised at the time did not seem to notice. The pre-run briefing which was given by Maj Cathie Gregg, OIC 43 AEC, included the instruction that plenty of fluids were to be taken on board - she didn't say what type of fluids, and there was a lot of giggling at around 4.00 am. As the money we raised exceeded the amount required, fund-raising will continue next year in order to pay for another truck in March 1999 as there are still more supplies to go.

The first Op Marina truck arrived in Minsk on Sunday 18 October and was successful in reaching Olga Cawoll, the Minsk representative of JESU. She fought off the attentions of Customs and managed to get personal parcels to the JESU children delivered and will oversee distribution of the rest through various distribution points set up by the charity. Anybody wanting further information on Belorussia and the 'Chernobyl Children' or wishing to offer help can ring Maj Cathie Gregg on Krefeld Mil 2236 or Cpl Geoff Richards on Krefeld Mil 2378.

7TH US SIGNAL BRIGADE 'VOICE OF FREEDOM' PARADE

Friday, 6 November saw the 7th US Signal Brigade change its Commander. The incoming Commander is Col Melita E. McCully who was commissioned into the US Women's Army Corps in 1976. The momentous event was marked by a parade at their Taylor Barracks Camp in Mannheim. The 7th Sig Bde maintains a combat ready, forward deployed signal force. The parade was attended by both American soldiers and soldiers of those nations who work closely with them. The parade was made up of officers and soldiers from the Headquarters and Headquarters Company-7th (US) Signal Brigade, 44th (US) Signal Battalion, 7th (UK) Signal Regiment, 40th Regiment De Transmissions (FR) and the 990 Fermelde Regiment (GE).

The British contingent was led by 2Lt Jones and WO2 (SSM) Ward. The practices were interesting to say the least. With each version being made different by 2Lt Jones's excellent improvised drill. The night before the parade a bit of Anglo-American integration was indulged in. The medium for this event was line dancing. Sig Murray and LCpl Sigston both Linemen, showed the Americans how to really do it. To make sure everyone was ready for the parade a spot of PT was called for in the morning. The parade passed with no incident except a solo drill movement by 2Lt Jones again.

REGIMENTAL CADRE COURSE

*by Sig Ranson

On 25 October 27 Signallers and a Lance Corporal embarked upon 7 Sig Regt's most demanding and arduous course, the Regimental Cadre Course. The course was lead by three Section Commanders. 1 Sect was headed by Cpl Matt 'Just done my Skillies' Eastman, 2 Sect by Cpl Stevie 'I love the parade square' Evans, and 3 Sect by Cpl Geoff 'This is better than running the cinema' Richards. The course students were subjected to a character readjustment in the first couple of days. It consisted of a BFL on the Monday, and a boot run on the Tuesday. Cpl 'Taff' Evans combined gymnastic skills with swimming in large puddles, simulating Welsh Mountains by running up near vertical hills. Wednesday was supposedly an easy circuit training session in the gym, which left most people staggering out at the end. Towards the end of the first week we were told to prepare for the first Exercise, Ex First Venture. What we weren't told was that from the first minute we were on the training area it would rain and continue to rain. There came a point when you couldn't tell thunder and lightning from thunder flashes and flares, and our shell scrapes filled with water quicker than you could dig it. Part of this Exercise was a very cold and wet Night Navigation Exercise where the incentive was to get around as quickly as possible in order to get back to your sleeping bag and thaw out. The most feared event the stretcher race, was renamed the 'Lets stick a bit of tank track on two scaffold poles' race and run around the area with it. This was okay until the gym staff decided we would go swimming in - yes, you've guessed it - large puddles! We were, however, pleased to hear that we had the weekend off to wash and iron kit, bull boots, write up notes, prepare lessons and then get some sleep.

Week 2 arrived, halfway there or half still to go? Monday mornings, notoriously bad anyway but with only one (scheduled) PT lesson to go things were looking up. Tuesday morning, Drill Test - Rain. These two words seem to always follow side by side. The evening was a contender for the longest ever orders lesson, followed by deployment onto the final exercise. The expectations for Ex Final Endeavour were going out into the field and getting wetter for longer than in the first Exercise. Unfortunately the DS had forgotten to book the rain and so it did not come. This Exercise was unpopular as we missed the Regimental bonfire night, so the Tp Sgt, Sgt Carl 'Keen and Green' Budding, decided to have one of his own disguised as a platoon attack. A big thanks to the OC Training Wing, Capt Boyle for his enlightening lesson on 'The Memo'. It was enjoyable if not informative. A good course was had by all. Congratulations go to Sig Samuel for Top Student, Sig Roberts for Best Field Soldier and Sig Flook for Best Endeavour.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Bob O'Hara
SSM WO2 (SSM) Angie Hilborn

The Squadron would like to say farewell to WO2 (SSM) Hilborn and we wish her luck not only on posting, but also on her new appointment as RSM. We all know just how happy she is to be going home to God's Country and on to sunnier climes in 'Bonnie Scotland'. The SSM would like to thank the OC for the constant supply of biscuits (or rather thank Maureen!). We welcome WO2 (SSM) 'Stretch' Barry and wish him well.

UNIFORM TROOP

Tp Comd WO1 (FofS) Steele
Tp SSgt SSgt Matt Wakeling

The Troop would like to welcome SSgt Matt Wakeling along with wife Lisa and family. We say a tearful Goodbye to SSgt Rob Hood who joins 231 Sig Sqn, Cpl 'Taff' Powell to his A1 course, LCpl 'Ollie' Oliver off to earn a living in civvy street and last but not least a tearful goodbye to Sig Miranda 'Bombdog' Jenkins also off to civvy street. The Troop decided to make a name for itself in the annual Poppy Day Fun Run. This year it was decided that we should run as a Troop. After a week of careful planning we decided to go as a snooker table. With 48hrs to go we managed to get hold of a large amount of cardboard which was hurriedly painted and holes cut out. Table legs and pockets were then made and painstakingly attached. The only things to add were the balls that were ingeniously made from our heads being placed through the holes. These were in turn painted using hair dye, face paint and cam cream. Needless to say all our hard work paid off as the Troop were judged winners in the 'Best Dressed' category.

CIS TROOP

*by LCpl Matt Duddles

Tp Comd Capt (TOT) O'Brien
Tp SSgt SSgt Tipple

We bid farewell to our old Tp Comd, Capt (TOT) 'Noddy' Baugh and his wife, Debbie on their posting to JHQ. We wish them all the best. We welcome the new Tp Comd, Capt (TOT) O'Brien and his wife, Julia, and their two children, Laura and Michael. They came from SSSU, RAF Digby, where the TOT reportedly only spent two afternoons in nine months there. I can't think where we got that information. We also say good-bye and good luck to Sgt 'Paul' Elgenia and his wife Jackie and family, they're off to sunny CIS in 2 Sig Regt, York.

Congratulations to Cpl 'Jacko' Jackson on promotion to Sgt, we wish him and Lynn a safe tour at his new post in Northern Ireland serving with 1 QLR. September and October saw the troop working like dogs ('mules!' cry the masses) with two new additions, LCpl 'Shaz' Dainty and SSgt Neil 'Taff ' Evans having a traditional CIS welcome of excessive working hours during Ex Arrcade Fusion. Unfortunately for 'Shaz', her beret and belt were lost right at the start in an incident involving LCpl 'Tommo' Thomson and a portaloo. The mind boggles. And remember 'Shaz' not to hang freshly washed underwear up in a BSV to dry. We all thought the paras had landed!

Meanwhile Cpl 'Dunny' Dunnington and LCpl Bob Morton were sunning themselves in Milan, with 3 IT Div enjoying plenty of pasta and pizza. But of course they hated it, according to the e-mails sent during the dead of night; we sympathise honest. One cause of confusion for them was the Italians NBC warning sign. It's the same as the NATO 'all clear', mask on, mask off, mask on, mask off. MNDC got their share of hard work (we're sure) where Sig 'Ange' O'Sullivan and Sig Neil 'Boz' Borrows handled the show pretty well.

OFFICERS' MESS

Mess Mgr Sgt Mick Angove
Head Stwd Cpl Steve Peacock

The Officers Mess of 7 Sig Regt has come to the end of an era. After 39 years, the military staff is to fade into history with their jobs being demilitarised and handed over to the civilian sector. Due to this fact the trusty military team of SSgt 'Angry' Angove and Cpl 'Old man' Peacock, Sig 'Scouse' Dowell, and Sig Sutherland are attending the vehicle park rehabilitation centre, to aid their impending move back to their roots of origin. The military team are looking forward to shorter working hours, going back on Exercise and a social life. As we are on the eve of a new era we must remember all the Officer Mess staff who have served it so well over the years. For all their hard work we thank them. We wish all the civilian staff past and present all the best in the future and thank them for their loyal service. As the end of 1998 approaches the Military team say 'Goodbye'.

229 (BERLIN) SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Chris Robinson
SSM WO2 (SSM) Stevie Bovan

The Squadron has just returned from Ex Shelldrake Sword that lasted from 1 November to 13 November 1998, after an eight-hour journey to the bitterly cold northern outpost of Hohne. The aim of the Exercise was to provide SCRA communications for the Royal Artillery. Apparently, once a year on their major Exercise, each Gunner, if he has been a good boy, is given the opportunity to fire one, yes 'One' live round. Fortunately for us in the Signals, we were there for their big day. The Exercise was mostly static for Trunk Nodes 011 and 012. This was most unfortunate for Radio Relay detachment 12B. They set up in what appeared to be an 'allegedly' haunted area of woodland. They reported much lower temperatures in their part of the wood, and shadowy figures were seen loitering around their det. A feeling of uncertainty and fear went sweeping through the ranks of Trunk Node 012. WO2 (SSM) Stevie 'Aahhh' Bovan decided to quash these unfounded rumours. Bravely, he ventured into the 'allegedly' haunted woods, alone. He was later seen attacking the corner of a 9x9 tent with the butt of his rifle. So there was something out there, 'allegedly'! The next day, the node home was to attend a briefing, and was told in no uncertain terms that the merest mention of ghosts, shadows, UFO's, Leeds Utd winning the double and all other paranormal events were strictly forbidden.

CHARLIE TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Caroline Evans
Tp SSgt SSgt Gary Davies

A sad farewell to Cpl Paul 'Houndog' Hounsell who moves on to Londonderry, and also to LCpl Lee Glaves who leaves us for AFCENT. Congratulations go to LCpl Ian 'Hoppy' Hopkinson and LCpl 'Mac' Donnell on their recent promotion. We would like to welcome 2Lt Caroline Evans as our new Troop Commander. During Shelldrake Sword, some members of the Troop were treated to a fire power demo by our friends in the Royal Artillery. We also managed to fit in Wolf Training (Not the howling variety!) and just to fill out our days we managed to include some cross trade training. On a more sobering note, some members of the Troop took a trip to the Belsen Memorial Site. Now for some hello and goodbyes: Firstly a sad goodbye to Lt Annabel Taylor who leaves us as Troop Commander. Many congratulations go to Sig Andy Mc Farlane and Anna on the birth of their new baby on 5 September. The Troop says a big welcome to Jack Owen who weighed in at a bouncing 9lb 4oz. We would like to welcome our Sgt Steve Foord and his wife Rachel. Finally, farewell to Sgt Kev Wood who is off to do RSIT. No doubt he will be back to haunt us.

WHISKY TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Wilson
Tp SSgt SSgt Robson

It has been a busy period for Whisky Tp over the past few months, what with exercises and the Cadre Course coming and going, and a couple of promotions too. First of all we would like to say hello to LCpl 'Col' Villiers who has joined us from 2 Sig Regt in York. Straight from the factory are Sig Taylor, Sig McCabe, and all the way from 231 Sqn, Sig Townsley. I'm sure they will all be a great asset to the Troop! There have been a few promotions within the Troop, starting off with the boss, Lt Wilson. Also congratulations must go to former LCpl Russ Ryan who is now Cpl Ryan. Last but definitely not least our No 1 ED LCpl Bonney has just received his stripe after a long stretch in the Officers' Mess. The whole Troop would like to congratulate LCpl Martin 'Jack' Horner and his wife on the birth of their daughter Charlotte, who was born on 6 November 1998 weighing in at 6lb 6oz. Sadly though, we will be saying goodbye to the Horner family at the end of this year, so we wish them good luck at 21 Sig Regt. Between 18 October and 6 November 1998, a Cadre Course was taking place at 7 Sig Regt. The only member of the Troop to complete the course was a Scouser. Sig 'Ruby' Murray, who did extremely well, and came very close to being top student. Hopefully we'll be seeing him come off the board sometime next year.

231 SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj 'Dumb Waiter' Whitehead
SSM WO2 (SSM) Ward

Now in the twilight days of Maj Whitehead's command, the Squadron prepares to wish him, Debbie and Bryony a fond goodbye and best wishes for Warminster. The build up to Christmas has been hectic but season for being jolly has now arrived. The Regimental reshuffle will change the Troops that make up the Squadron, so here is their reports for the last time as all part of 231 Sqn.

OSCAR TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Jones
Tp SSgt SSgt Dunseith

The Troop has had yet another amazing month. NOT! What with Arrcade Fusion, Board of Officers, and the Regimental reshuffle, it has been a very busy month for the troop with 10 per cent manning. Arrcade Fusion started the month out at Ayrshire Barracks again. This went without a hitch, except for the fact it took a few attempts to site us. We also lost our beloved leader 2Lt 'Don't ask me' Hamilton, who goes to Blandford to attend his Troop Commanders Course. Papa Tp eventually got their comms in and joined the Exercise, although they only had command for 24hrs. Surprise! Surprise!

No sooner were we back from exercise than it was time for the Board of Officers, and with SSgt 'Have we got it' Dunseith and Sig 'Yes' Curran checking all the kit five times this didn't go too badly! During the Board of Officers someone thought we didn't have enough to do so they thought we would move the Troop and the accommodation around at the same time. The good thing was we got rid of Papa Tp. They might now have to do some work for once and we might get to share the workload fairly.

We're now into our UWI prep. The Troop says farewell to LCpl 'DJ' Lyons who will be joining Civ Div after an extensive resettlement period. We say hello to 2Lt 'I love Lima' Jones all the way from Lima Tp, Cpl 'I'll get there one day' Wilson, Sig 'They're not big' Constable and Sig 'I like running' Walker. We would like to welcome more but then we might be able to make a Troop.

PAPA TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Lowther
Tp SSgt SSgt Gemmell

The Troop has just experienced another turbulent time in its busy life. With SSgt Archie 'Do you know I can fish?' Gemmell now firmly settled in the co-pilots seat, it was time to say goodbye to some of the Troop. 2Lt 'Is Tropo in yet?' Lowther has been elevated to the dizzy heights of OC Tac Tp and Cpl 'There is nothing wrong with my switch' Lund has been posted on promotion to 3 Div. Before you could say 'Regimental reshuffle', Papa Tp found itself moved to 232 Squadron and under the guidance of 2Lt 'Tanya' Noakes, fresh from her Troop Commanders course. Long live Maj 'Can I shoot it?' Stringer. As if that wasn't enough to contend with, Cpl 'I'll sort it.' Jackson did a magnificant job in preparing both the Troop and the stores for the recent Board of Officers. Many thanks.

QUEBEC TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Richard Byfield
Tp SSgt SSgt Rob Hood

Much has happened in the busy world of Quebec Tp in recent months. However, we have moved garages and exchanged all of our old Landrovers for the new 'Wolf' version. We must say well done to both Sig Jimmy Samuel and Sig 'Robbo' Roberts who did exceptionally well on the Regimental Cadre Course. The Troop has changed considerably and welcomes SSgt Rob Hood, Sig Danny Pincott, Sig 'Leo' Learmonth, Sig 'Interesting' Lane and Sig 'Twiss' Twissel. Unfortunately we couldn't keep our manpower up too high so we had to say goodbye to LCpl 'Ollie' Olver, Sig Karen Stafford and Sig 'Scottie' Steele who are all off to 21 Sig Regt. We also say farewell to LCpl Lee 'Hank' Hankinson who goes on to 19 Mech Bde. Finally our congratulations go to Cpl Stu Hunt and his wife Nikki on the birth of their baby boy Thomas.

LIMA TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Steve Jones
Tp SSgt SSgt Phil Hay

We would like to welcome SSgt Phil 'I've got every qualification' Hay, wife Rachel and family. We hope they have an enjoyable and fruitful tour with us. Farewell to 2Lt Steve 'Barnsley' Jones although he is only going next door to Oscar Tp. Congratulations to Cpl Steve Evans on his promotion to Sgt and posting to 14 Sig Regt. SSgt Phil Hay arrived at the Troop just in time for Arrcade Fusion, unlucky for him. The Exercise started in the usual way with Line Tp getting stuck straight into the action, this we did faster than any other time 'thanks to the diagrams'. As the Exercise calmed down and the hustle and bustle subsided, Line Tp settled into their normal working routine.

Cpl Steve 'I'll see you when I see you' Evans found it difficult fitting into a daily routine and never got his combats dirty. We must say a word on Sig Jamie 'Cheeky boy' Smith, who has to be the only one who could reduce five lengths of faultless cable into a 'birdsnest'. We would like to remind Sig Jock 'Sicknote' Fleming that the best way to move a Bedford is to drive it and not with his head. Our other Line Det based at Louth Trg Area was under the command of Sgt Drew 'Where's my NBC suit' Drewett who neglected to bring it on Exercise. It was a good job the back of the truck was NBC proof.

As the Exercise drew to a close, rumours started circulating about half the Line Tp moving to 232 Sqn. This proved to be correct and the relevant people were informed, after the SSM made sure everyone had bought a Squadron sweatshirt. This is a end of a era as 231 Sqn, Line Tp is one of the only 'real' Line Tps left in the Royal Signals. Impostors in black line belts be warned (HQMT). Even though the Troop is split we hope we all remain close friends and thanks for all your hard work in the past. 'KEEP IT UP'

232 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Alan 'Jerry' Stringer
SSM WO2 (SSM) Hughes

SSgt (YofS) 'Gaz' Tabor has purchased a caravan and it is important that all those who know him in the Corps realise his change of character. Apparently he is keen to start a club for those fellow caravaners in the Krefeld and JHQ area. The OC temporarily got excited over the prospect of an operational deployment and promptly cancelled his diving trip to the Red Sea. Last seen sat at his desk in cold Krefeld, nobody is allowed to mention diving especially the five hundred pounds he spent on his dive computer. Congratulations to the Squadron Clerk, LCpl Anne 'I'm in charge 'round 'ere' Bristow, on her marriage to Cpl Tony Simmons of HQ Sqn. All the best for the future. Finally, congratulations to Cpl Blair 'Mac' MacDonald on selection for the Yeoman's Course next year.

DELTA TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Stef' Newton

Hello to everyone out there in Wireland from Delta Troop. In October the Troop deployed on Ex Arrcade Fusion with some lads and lasses going to Italy again. LCpl 'Sean' Ablott and Sig 'Connie' Turner went to Greece with 16 Sig Regt while the rest of the Troop went to Euskirchen, 40 miles down the road from camp, less those of course who were fishing or packing to go to Nepal. Despite the last minute changes everyone deployed to their respective locations on time. The Exercise went very well for everyone except LCpl Damon '2 pints' Gauchi whose exploits in Milan included crashing a Landrover and losing his passport. In Euskirchen Cpl Matt 'Cleggy' Clegg had his SAN working like clockwork, giving himself enough free time to set the fastest stage time on Colin McRea Rally. Next time Cleggy, next time.....

In the run-up to Christmas the Troop was kept busy with the Board of Officers and the UWI's which went well for the Troop, so well done to everyone. On a final note we say congratulations to Sig 'Paddy' McFarland and Sig 'Lance' Buckle on their recent promotions to LCpl. There's hope for everyone!

TAC TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Young
Tp SSgt SSgt Mackenzie

Welcome to Cpl 'Randy' Randerson and Cpl 'Gwa' Grey and their families and congratulations to both of them on promotion to 'full screw'.

More hellos go to Sigs 'A. Cleft' Dinsdale, Debbie 'Bob' Shillinglow and Trish 'Jimmy Cranky' Drummond. Sadly we must also say farewell to Lt 'Peanut' Young who is now off to pretend to be warry in Cyprus. SSgt Phil 'It's not a Harley, it's a Chopper' Mackenzie is off to HQ Sqn with both of his beloved bicycles.

RADIO TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Nicky James
Tp SSgt SSgt George Farrar

First a few hellos and goodbyes. LCpl 'Lee Spandex' Renwick leaves the Troop and Regiment with our best wishes and good luck for the future. Sig 'Shaggy' Palmer with his wife Emma and son Jack are also leaving. Congratulations to the Palmers on the birth of their new son Dylan Hellos to Cpl 'Si, The Pimpernel' Riley and his wife Claudia, LCpl 'Ken' Barlow who with only a few days in the Regiment went to Nepal with Sig 'Audi, Q, Nancy, the Siggy formally know as Corrigan' Qualtrough, for a spot of hill walking. Sig 'Not a Scouse' Hallway and his wife Gill and their daughter Kayleigh also arrived along with Sig 'Andi, 450 DM for WHAT???' Porter fresh and interested from the sunny School of Signals. We thank them dearly for sending him. Congratulations to LCpl 'Oz' Bowden on his promotion to Corporal.

Morale is as high as ever with comments such as 'Where do all the leaves come from?' (Sig 'Village' Parkin), and 'Yes Officer I'm pretty sure it was stolen....oh hang on a minute, it was me' (Sig Ian, 'Where's your licence gone' Walker). The Troop is looking forward to Christmas and then skiing in the New Year in Bavaria. Finally congratulations to Sigs 'Flossy' Fallows and 'Merc' Ainscough on their imminent wedding.

EXERCISE ARRCADE FUSION 1998

7 Sig Regt began deploying assets into the field on Monday 21 September to prepare for the large-scale multinational Exercise, Ex Arrcade Fusion. 231 Sig Sqn constructed communications to headquarters at Ayrshire Barracks and Louth. They also provided the majority of the Regimental manpower. 232 Sig Sqn deployed radio to support all locations and Secondary Access Nodes commanded by 2Lt Nicki James (Italy) and Lt Pete Young (Euskirchen) in support of Divisions. Thanks must also go to 229 Sig Sqn who played a major role in filling the gaps that undermanning has caused in the other Squadrons. The Regiment proved to be well prepared and although problems developed with CIS equipment regularly, the technicians dealt with faults effectively. They even managed to provide technical assistance to other units including Royal Artillery BATES and 7th US Signal Brigade. A good working relationship developed with the American Satellite team who relied upon 231 Sig Sqn; especially Cpl 'Ginger Ninja' Crompton who was awarded a medal for 'outstanding work beyond the call of duty'. Overall the Exercise went well and 7 Sig Regt, Exercising for the last time before Regimental reorganisation, provided a service to Staff users which was appreciated at the highest level.

EXERCISE ARRCADE FUSION ITALIAN SAN

The one and a half day journey began by Sig 'Jordie' Ainscough having to squeeze into the back of the HF det owing to the undue amount of kit the OC, 2Lt Nicky 'friend-of-generals' James had brought. The warnings from the Ex Able Condor Italy trip that the diet would consist of pasta and lettuce was forgotten on the first night in the American base where an 'on tap' coke machine and 'help-yourself-mister-whippy' ice cream machine were heralded with delight. However, two weeks later the repetitive menu of pasta, lettuce and bread made us appreciate even more the egg and bacon baguettes prepared by Cpl 'Itchy' McIntosh and his handy helper Cfn 'Scratchy' Williams. On arrival there was no sign of Italian activity so we indulged in a pre exercise R and R trip to Milan. However the work started in earnest when the cam net was erected. Cpl 'Random Peg' Millikan finally took control and the end product was worth all the effort and lost teddies. As the Exercise progressed we relaxed into the shift system and the sunshine. The LAN Managers Cpl 'tall man' Dunnington and LCpl 'keep your pants on' Morton kept rushing down to the HQ to help the Italian staff find the 'send' button for the email. LCpl 'Unfortunate' Gauchi tried to keep himself out of trouble by being the most reliable person to switch on the loudspeaker for the conference calls.

The SAN was kept on its toes by a stream of visitors from the Squadron OC, Maj 'I'm not here for a holiday' Stringer to COMARRC himself. There was the ongoing task of trying to locate the Portuguese Brigade for conference calls. Staff 'It is I' Hannah kept himself amused when comms worked by practising his Italian wink or accidentally tripping into LCpl Morton's bag of cookies. The exercise, the comms and Staff's patience ended in an impressive electrical storm. Cpl Millikan's cam net masterpiece had to be taken down soaking wet. The trip back was achieved in safety by Sig Holt restraining himself from taking out the Italian Caribinari motorbike escorts and Sig 'Scouse' Hallway wisely ignoring a direct order from the OC to close his eyes as he drove through Switzerland. The SAN group arrived in Krefeld to enjoy a cold, wet weekend with no pasta and no Splügen.

EXERCISE MAGNUM SPIRIT

A military driver training exercise known as Magnum Spirit 1998 took place in and around 21 Engr Regt at Quebec Barracks in Osnabruck. 7 Sig Regt entered one team consisting of Sgt Leigh Northeast, the driver, and 2Lt Emma Hamilton-Green AGC (SPS), the navigator. The event was a test of driving skills, navigational ability and endurance of the crews. The event started off with a 200km Night Navigational Exercise followed by daytime Special Sections and then another 170 km Night Navigational Exercise. Apart from fatigue the other hazards thrown at the teams were the snow, ice and freezing fog. This proved too much for some crews as a few Landrovers ended up in ditches! But not 7 Sig Regt's crew. The skill of Sgt Northeast's driving combined with the fairly accurate navigational skills meant they came 38th place out of a starting number of 85.

DHEKELIA DASH

On November 28 1998 hundreds of runners gathered for the 32nd Dhekelia Dash. A record 54 teams had entered to compete over the undulating 15 mile route. Each team comprised 15 runners who each had to complete, an approximate 1 mile leg.

The Ladies Team from Ay Nik, who have won their category for the past two years, entered with some trepidation. With the reduction of numbers within the Regiment over the past year the pool of females to choose from was slightly limiting, but the Ladies were still determined to do well. The team, which consisted of a combination of wives and military personnel waited eagerly at their respective checkpoints to give their all on each leg.

Epi Strollers had an outstanding team this year and had obviously carried out much training in their quest to take the female trophy away from the Ay Nik Ladies. They were successful in their bid, so congratulations Epi Strollers, but watch out next year we will be back. Ay Nik Ladies put in a very good effort coming a commendable second place.

EXERCISE ISLAND WIDE
THE LONELINESS OF THE LONG DISTANCE RUNNER

Approximately four months ago, Pte Steve Houghton, now LCpl, of the QM's Department decided he would like to organise a charity event that had not been attempted before. The idea was to have a team of runners who would run through all the UK military bases on this paradise island, including the Troodos Station in aid of the Cyprus Anti-Cancer Society and The Anthony Nolan Bone-Marrow Trust (UK). So was born Ex Island Wide. The team of five runners would run relays with a support team covering the following route: Ayios Nikolaos Station-via Larnaca & Limassol-Akrotiri-Episkopi-Troodos-via Nicosia-Ayios Nikolaos Station.

The next step in the plan was to gain big sponsors. After many futile letters it was obvious no one thought the event viable and alas no offers were forthcoming. This did not deter Steve Houghton in his perseverance. Next were the team, he and four other volunteers plus a support crew. Despite initial misgivings, the runners came forward and the support crew was selected. The route and the necessary paperwork had to be cleared through CyPol and the relevant Garrison Headquarters, eventually the initial idea became a reality. The date was set for Sunday 20 September to begin at 0500hrs. Each masochist would run 30min slots with a 2hrs recovery supported by a coach and two safety vehicles with water and rations in abundance. The estimated time of completion was late Monday evening.

After numerous last minute worries the big day arrived. The CO of 9 Sig Regt (R), Lt Col Whitby kindly set off the first runner with all the encouragement anyone could muster at 0500hrs. Very soon the runners settled down into their routine of run, drink, eat, rest and run again. The safety vehicles were leapfrogging backward and forward which caused some consternation with the SBA motorcycle escort as the local population looked on in bewilderment. Dhekelia flew by without a second glance; Larnaca came to a stop as the tourists looked on, causing more confusion. Once on the coast road to Limassol the sea views and villages were the last thing on the runner's mind -Macdonald's was calling. A detailed list of orders was rustled together by support team members SSgt Andy Slack, Cpl Mick Marvel and LCpl 'Mac' McCulloch and despatched at full speed to get the grub! Back down the road with food the now weary runners were back on top form after the boost of Big Macs and milkshakes (just what the dietician ordered!)

Next was Limassol where the support team was again despatched to shake buckets in poor unsuspecting faces. It didn't take long before they found the area of scantily clad beach-babes in abundance-they managed to raise 30 cents and a case of temporary blindness. Once again the runners brought the place to a standstill, the recovery rate was amazing once the beach-babes were spotted. The route through Akrotiri was a case of through the station past Tommy Tuckers and back out, but the response and the monies donated were much appreciated. Unfortunately there was no time for the suggested visit to BFBS Radio. Regular phone calls were made to the presenters who constantly cajoled and encouraged listeners to give money. On the spot live broadcasts were given with the support team being ridiculed for their poor radio voices and the constant updates were readily broadcast thanks to the very helpful BFBS DJ's. Next to come was Episkopi Garrison, in through the front and out through the back with a bemused Light Infantryman unlocking and locking up afterwards. Obviously Sunday night is sock sorting night with not a soul to be seen.

There was now the daunting sight of Troodos looming in the distance. Fortunately with some forward planning there was a chance for the resting runners to get a shower and a hot meal once within the Station. Needless to say the run-up was full of incident, mainly because by this stage we had lost our Police escort. This was a definite nightmare knowing patience is not a virtue amongst the local drivers. Surprisingly, at one point the runners were held up by a lorry, which was travelling even slower than they were. By the time they reached the top morale was at its lowest ebb, and legs and feet were suffering their own private hell. The effort and determination not to walk was a sight to behold, regardless of the pain and frustration of stiff joints. Once the top of Troodos was breached it was turn around and run back down, the runners were well ahead of schedule but it was now dark. The safety vehicles were placed front and back with flashing lights and lots of concentration involved. The pace picked up and before we knew it Nicosia was in sight. The route planners had a little hiccup on the outskirts of Nicosia with one of the vehicles disappearing and then phoning from a phone box to arrange a meeting point. Luckily the now testy runners were oblivious to this as the off shift were now able to pass out within seconds of climbing back aboard the admin coach. The golden blanket would have to be shared. This also became a no-go area for non-runners, as the smell of sweaty socks and trainers was enough to banish even the bravest.

Sgt John Brooke, Nicosia to Larnaca

Following the road parallel to the motorway Larnaca soon came into view. The worry was now arranging a reception committee back at camp some 12 hours ahead of schedule despite protests from the team to make the most of it slow down and enjoy the scenery. After the Larnaca ring road it was back onto familiar ground back up the Corridor Road to Ayios Nikolaos. The support team shot forward with the escort vehicle leaving SSgt Kev O'Neill, Sig Jimmy Brooks and the Duty Medic, LCpl Nicky Holdridge, holding the fort behind the runners. On arrival in Vrysoulles it was envisaged the team would catch up at 1230hrs-wrong-they were now motoring with the finish in sight. At 1210hrs they were spotted coming into the village. Panic stations, the reception committee was expecting them at 1300hrs and they only had about 10mins of running left to do. There was no stopping them now, so they swept through and up to camp to receive a slightly smaller reception, but never the less enthusiastic one. Finishing 12hrs ahead of schedule and still standing the incredible feat was accomplished by the following:

LCpl Steve Houghton, Sgt Dave Churchward, Sgt Adie Davidson, Pte 'Pez' Perry and the old man of the bunch, WO2 (SSM) 'Taff' Thomas. Reserves were Sgt John Brooke, Cpl 'Paddy' Reece and Pte 'Swede' Stephen.

The statistics are as follows:

Total Distance:	224.6 miles
Total Time:	30 hrs 21mins
Distance run by each runner:	44.6 miles

TRAINING WING TROPHY 1998

On Wednesday 25 November 1998, the annual Training Wing Trophy Competition was held around the Ayios Nikolaos Station. The competition comprised of nine Military Skills Events and was entered by a total of six teams from each of the Squadrons within the Regiment. An all female team was also entered, obviously intent on destroying some male egos. The competition took the format of a round robin, with teams being awarded point's dependant on their final positions in each event, the team with the lowest score at the end being the winners. Each team was given a different start time, Support Squadron got the competition underway with the obligatory kit inspection by WO1 (RSM) Sherrard. From this the teams went on to the assault course (twice!) carrying a jerry can of water throughout the various obstacles. This was followed by the range, a command task, written tests on ATD's, a stretcher race, first aid and finally an unopposed river crossing. From the beginning the Operations Squadron Team knew they had a strong chance of winning. The many days spent training gave the Team Captain, Lt Short, a difficult choice in deciding the final team. Eventually resorting to the old 'Short' straw method. They made a strong start represented by Lt 'I can't believe I only hit 3/10 clays' Short, Sgt Paul 'I'm not ginger' Timmis, Sgt Kev 'I can't believe we have to do it twice' Taylor, Cpl Jas 'Follow me I'm a PTI' Roberts, LCpl 'God damn it' Bond, LCpl 'Zebedee' Timewell and finally the two side-kick reserves Cpl Mike Foster and LCpl Colin West. Despite this being the hottest 25 November for ten years, in Cyprus, all the teams put in maximum effort. The girls' team must be commended for at least attempting the assault course, but it was clear after only five events that Operations Squadron was going to run away with it. They put in a commanding performance throughout the day and were justified in gaining overall first place, second place being a very close ten points behind!

Congratulations must go to all those who took part in the competition and special thanks to the Training Wing and Gymnasium staff for organising an overall enjoyable day. The quote of the day must go to WO1 (RSM) Sherrard, who at the Operations Squadron river crossing remarked 'Look, the DI (SI) team are all wet'. Thanks Sir!

VISIT OF COL D. T. W. GIBSON MBE

After nearly 40 years a momentous occasion was marked in the Regiments history when the first and last Commanding Officer of 9th Signal Regiment (Radio) met on 2 November 1998. The Regiment welcomed back into the fold Col D. T. W. Gibson MBE, the incumbent CO from 1958-60 when the unit was raised, who had taken time out from a family holiday to visit.

After a tour of the Regiments facilities and the lozenge Col Gibson and his wife Monica were entertained in the Officers' Mess for lunch. Col Gibson then gave an informative presentation on life during the formative years of the Regiment and the challenges faced when working with National Servicemen. About having to live out of tents as the infrastructure of the barracks had yet to be built and having to cope with the political tensions of the day.

Both Col Gibson and his wife commented on the remarkable improvements that had taken place during the 38 years since their departure. Most noticeably for them was the present geographical position of the old CO's house, now across the border in the Turkish controlled Republic of Northern Cyprus. The Regiment would like to thank Col Gibson and his wife Monica for making time to visit and allowing us to mark such an occasion.

226 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Another busy period for the 226 Sig Sqn (EW) hierarchy, Capt Paul Newson and WO2 (SSM) Al Jenkins are both swanning on a recce to Belize. Capt Paul Newson is then away skydiving in Florida. It's all right for some. WO2 (FofS) Dean Briers has just spent two weeks on a combat survival course with a few blisters as a souvenir. Maj Rob Meinertzhagen and WO2 (YofS) Dick Rutherford have been busy in sunny Rheindahlen on Ex Arrcade Fusion.

640 SIGNAL TROOP

Congratulations to Sgt 'JP' Walker on becoming the Army Driving Champion and congratulations to Cpl Simon Green on passing P Company. Congratulations to Greg Mulley, Paul Pettman, Jay Aldred and Chas Caley on coming off the Corporals board and to Chas Caley again on passing his Tl upgrading. Finally, congratulations to Cpl Nicky Dawson, the 226 PTI, for all the biscuits and chocolates.

On 27 September seven members of the Troop, under the watchful eye of the Troop OC took four of the Troop's specialist vehicles to Salisbury plain to take part in the Staff College demonstration. Over a period of three days the OC and the Detachment commanders were to each give a total of 55 briefings to the groups of visiting officers. Some of the groups that come round were from foreign nations, in particular Kuwait, which provided a few language problems while trying to describe how the British Army and particularly 640 Tp conduct electronic warfare operations. LCpl 'Chuck' Norris and LCpl Mark Young had the task of entertaining the visiting officers with a mobile display of one of the Troop's wildcat jammer vehicles moving into location, while helicopters flew overhead and the artillery fired off their guns a hundred yards away. The EW stand generated a lot of interest amongst the visitors and we regularly ran out of time before we could answer all their questions. The Troop is well acquainted with giving briefings and demonstrations and the three days passed with out any major hitches. Although the Troop OC did have to help Cpl 'Skid' Rowe out on one occasion when he became tongue-tied after seeing an attractive young female amongst one of the groups. Although we enjoyed ourselves the lads were happy to see the back of the cold showers at Rolleston Camp and head off back down the M4 and its obligatory Burger King stops, which now seem almost SOPs.

In October the Boss, Capt Jim Brown thought it would be a good idea to have a Battlecamp so he tasked Sgt 'JJ' Walker to run one. So with some anticipation the Troop paraded at 1400hrs on Sunday 4 October to be issued all the paraphernalia that accompanies this sort of Exercise. The low level Dafs commanded by LCpl Holdridge arrived at the HLS dead on time for the move to Sennybridge. On arrival in location we were told the scenario was that our detachments had been over run and that we had to make our way back to friendly lines. We soon found out how hard it was to map read in the dark whilst moving tactically across the area. Five hours, and a few lost teddies later we finally arrived at the friendly locations. The next morning three teams found they had all slept within two metres of each other and not even realised. After breakfast we waited for tactical pickup, but when the Boss arrived he was horrified to find that we all appeared just to be waiting for the No.22 bus, and made us walk back! Once back at Farm 2 we had lessons from Sgt 'JJ''s friends from the Pathfinder platoon, 23 PFA and 2 PARA. Due to the live firing the next day we were then allowed the compulsory ten hours sleep.

Day 3 already and the start of the range package, Individual CQB. First down was Sig 'Mothball' Taylor anyone would have thought it was midnight the way he ghost-walked down the range. There were also a few other people who obviously needed the practice. Cpl 'Mac' MacDonald should book himself into the opticians as he claimed there were no targets, only tree stumps. Cpl 'Scouse' Meehan was quite glad of the impromptu weapon-cleaning lesson, after dropping his rifle nose first into the mud 30 seconds before crossing the LOD. That night both sections were tasked to recce some woods, with the intention of using them later in the week. After setting off with good intentions it all too soon went down hill. 1 Section were quickly caught and decided to share a brew with guy's from 216 while waiting for 2 Section to return. They proved no better, walked straight past an enemy Landrover and stepped over two of the enemy before entering the wood. After walking round the wood the obligatory blue on blue nearly happened when Sig 'Drew' Connor proved that ED's really cannot count. 2 Sect also missed the bus as the map-reader and point man had a lack of communication. If it had not been 18km back, we would still be walking. Pairs fire and manoeuvre, a few heart stopping moments for the DS. Sig 'Adam' Welton found out that if you shoot at the targets in the wrong place they have a tendency to fight back. The evening entertainment was lessons on FISH and CTR's.

The big day, Section Attacks, everyone was quite excited. However, the DS looked a tad apprehensive about the whole thing. 1 Section proved they were no marksmen, when only 18 rounds had hit the target after leaving the start with over 1500. 2 Section's went a little smoother after the contact there was at least 200m to cover on belt and buckles before everyone could see the target and were in cover. By this time the Sect Comd's and 2IC's voices were already nearly gone. Luckily no one died although Sig 'Gaz' Roscoe looked a bit nervous as he went to post his non-working grenade. Afterwards everyone then had a go on the 'I don't want to play' GPMG. After returning to Farm 2 we got issued our sawes kit for the next phase.

This phase was to move into the woods that 2 Sect had so expertly recce'd earlier in the week. Once in the wood both Sections were given two separate building's to CTR. Fortunately for 2 Sect they had driven past their objective about ten times that week, so they just sat around in the very cold Sennybridge night and waited for the truck to take them home. Later that night the Sections were then given their orders for the daring morning raid on 1 Sect CTR objective. At 0430hrs, 2 Sect rose from a glorious night's sleep ready to meet 1 Sect at 0515hrs. 1 Sect obviously wanted a late start and did not turn up until 0530hrs. We then moved to the Bergen cache and put on the sawes kit. Which immediately gave our position with it's bleeping. The Sections all moved to the start line ready to cross at 0700hrs when the fire support would open up. At 0700 and 9 seconds SSgt 'Franco' Flaherty finally got the thunder flash to work and all hell broke loose. 1 Sect moved in to take the bottom floor, which turned out to be quite a struggle and a few choice words were spoken between LCpl Roberts and LCpl 'Trigger' Wilson. 2 Sect moved through to take the top floor, their attempts to get up the stairs were halted by a number of stoppages and in the commotion one of the enemy managed to jump out of the window. No sooner had 2 Sect got up the stair than they were called down to assault the next building but with only 3 out of 16 soldiers left alive the DS decided to call it a day. Not, however, before an Assault course race between the two Sections. 14 minutes later a very wet and muddy 2 Sect claimed victory. We made our way back to Farm 2 where we handed in all the stores before spending the night informally debriefing each other with the aid of alcohol.

Early October also saw four Troop members deploy to Germany to take part in the CP Ex Arrcade Fusion while the rest of the Troop roughed it on battlecamp in Sennybridge. Although other members of the Regiment deployed in support of the ARRC, the Troop was to act out its role in support of the Multi National Division. The Troop OC, Capt Jim Brown and Q Andy Jensen managed to wangle themselves on a flight with the Regimental Operations Cell while Cpl 'Skid' Rowe and LCpl Steve Frost were left to drive the vehicles to Germany via the Ramsgate ferry. Once the troops had met up they were to split up again. The Q and LCpl Frost going to play the role of the troops assets on the ground at Ayrshire barracks and the OC and Cpl Rowe, along with WO1 Thirsk from Regimental Ops, travelling to Euskirchen and the MND HQ. Settling into the routine at the German barracks and the divisional HQ took only a short while, although the menu did not agree with everyone's idea of ideal cuisine, the inclusion of jelly babies and sparkling water surprised most people. Before the Exercise started the troops enjoyed a relaxed period and got to sample some local hospitality in the way of the local bars. Thanks to the OC's manoeuvre approach to tactics (the art of running away), the paper troop suffered no casualties, which is more than can be said for the rest of the division. The Exercise was quickly renamed Arrcade Confusion by some! By the time endex had been called everyone was more than ready to let their hair down and relax for the day or two before it was time to set off again back to Brawdy. The empty trailers we had brought served there purpose in providing us somewhere to stash our duty free allowances, but next time bigger trailers may be needed. Thanks must go to Maj Danby and SM Bruel for hosting us during our visit to MND HQ.

HOTEL TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Michael Powell
Ops WO	WO2 Nigel Watton

In an attempt to escape the humdrum of the vehicle bays most of the Troop headed up to Capel Curig, in Snowdon, for five days hill walking, which was blessed with clear weather. On return there was a quiet period disturbed only by Cpl 'Gym Queen' Dawson's shouts as she beasted us around the Gym, the majority of the Troop now being sent to school with Racal in Heckfield. Those who remained behind are packing their bags in preparation for various adventures. Cpl Danny Clayton is jetting of to Barbados to play cricket. LCpl 'Evel' Hildreth is heading off to the factory in Blandford for White Helmets selection. LCpl Joe Gallagher has already begun a six month stint in sunny N.I. and Sgt 'Father Ted' Whichelo has been packed off to equally sunny Bosnia for a white Christmas along side Cpl Tony Taylor and LCpl 'Webby' Webster.

Congratulations are in order for Cpl 'Pottsie' Potton on his recent marriage to Emma and Cpl Chris 'Daddy' Dunn for passing his pilot selection. Well done also to LCpl Niomie Wilson and Sig 'Woody' Woodrow for their recent performance in the army swimming championships and LCpl 'Dinger' Bell for managing to swing a golfing swan in South Africa.

A big hello to SSgt Frank Campbell who has been posted in to sort out our admin along with his wife Jo, and we look forward to seeing Cpl Lee Holmes, Cpl John Panlihurst and Sig Dianne Bradley who will return from Bosnia in January. Finally goodbye to LCpl Katie Heath who along with her husband Mick are due to begin life afresh in civvy street.

ROMEO TROOP

The year continues to be challenging for the Troop. The main event of the year took the shape of a deployment to the sunny island of Cyprus for Ex Sienna Sands. The work element proved 'interesting' as did the R and R that followed. All in all it proved to be a successful deployment and enjoyable by all who took part in the Exercise. The Troop has continued to enjoy some varied activities, namely windsurfing, coasteering, surfing and a cross-country driver training day at Sennybridge organised by Cpl Daz Brown. This day saw the Troop putting the Wolf Defenders through their paces in testing conditions that also brought out the lunatic element in those who took part. As always the turnover in manpower has had an effect on the Troop, sad farewells to SSgt Steve 'werewolf' Moffet on completion of his Supervisor Radio course, Sgt Bill Riley to civvy street along with Cpl Steve Miller LCpl 'Scouse' Littler and LCpl 'Bamber' Barron. Good luck to you all !

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

OC/SSgt SSgt Paul Jude

A big Comms Tp welcome to all our new Cut and Thrusting members, Sgt Steve Brown and family, Sgt Titus Reene and family. Cpl Stu Latham and Sig 'Gibbo' Gibson who have returned from sunny Bosnia. LCpl Bill Scourfield on return from London, Sig Davey 'When I was in NI' Kerr from JCUNI Sigs Mike Mcghee and Phil Bartlett from the sausage factory. GOODBYE to the one and only SSgt Paul 'Hobo' Jude to 2 Sig Regt, a fond farewell and all the best for the future.

EXERCISE BONNIE DUNDEE

From the two operations being required, the whole Troop ended up deploying to Otterburn and Scotland in support of Highland 51 Bde and Lowland 52 Bde. An Exercise with a difference was this one. All started well with our initial deployment to 55 Sqn (L) to pick up some TA personnel. Then came the follow on to Otterburn. The first few days were spent on Comms tests to establish what coverage could be given to support the final FTX of both Brigades together. Day 3 saw the Troop split off to go to their various locations to meet up with their respective Bde's. LCpl Stu Kelly fought long and hard to get himself back to Scotland only to wish he hadn't. The more we neared Glasgow the more excited and stronger his accent got. Only to drive straight past and keep going. After our RV with the Highland BDE at Perth we embarked on our journey to Gareloch Head North of Glasgow. A lot has to be said for some drills in the TA. The convoy Commander was 2IC of a red VW Golf. Certainly raised a few eyebrows from the regular contingent after eventually arriving at our destination the two RRB's were deployed. Due to the shortage of maps RRB 1 was taken out and given a map. RRB 2 was led round the mountains and once it was established that all the gates to the sites were locked the RRB was told to stay put in a lay-by until the morning when something would be sorted. After eventually getting on the site, the link was established between Gareloch Head and Culty Braglaw. On Friday the net went deathly quiet. Once Comms were established on the mobile phone the RRBs were informed that endex had been called 'Nice One' not. The following phase was 2 Bde's commanding for the final push where we were given a lesson on electrical torture by Sig Jono Johnson. He does like to go out with a spark or two 'Eh Jono.' 1 x Gene lead and 2 Gene's later the RRB was with power.

LEWT - FAREWELLS

The Troop bids a temporary farewell to Sgt 'Brads' Bradbury on roulement tour to Bosnia for six months and welcomes back Sgt England, Cpl South and Cpl Clarke from recent tours. The Troop also welcomes the arrival of LCpl Bradshaw on his recent posting to the Troop from 9 Signal Regiment (Radio). We bid farewell to Sgt 'Nico' Nicholson on posting.

EXERCISE MEDMAN 5 - 5 SEPTEMBER - 8 OCTOBER 1998

The LEWT Troop deployed to Canada on Medman 5 as a part of the OSG Battlegroup. This was an excellent opportunity for the LEWT to participate in field firing including LAW 94, GPMG, explosive techniques and battle inocculation. The Troop was able to qualify and conduct live Artillery target indication that concluded in directing fire from five AS90 guns. The remainder of the Exercise included Heli Ops and a full force on force TESEX. Post Exercise entertainment included an R&R package to sample the delights of Edmonton.

EXERCISE FOXES' LOOK–23 NOVEMBER - 2 OCTOBER 1998

Five members of the LEWT deployed to Hohenfels, Germany, attached to 101 MI Battalion of the US Army. This was an Exchange Exercise culminating in a force on force TESEX. This provided an excellent opportunity to see how the 'Big Green One' operates. The Troop looks forward to possible Exchange Exercises in the future. Presently the Troop is in a period of rest and recuperation and is preparing for the next wave of annual exercises, both abroad and at home, including 5AB and 24 AirMobile that started in earnest in January 1999. It is also intended to hold a LEWT cadre in mid 1999.

EXERCISE ULAN EAGLE 1998 - POLAND

This September saw the Squadron take part in the biggest Exercise of the year. Around 3000 British Troops took part, with a Polish Tank Company, and the MF joining in for good measure. This was the first time British and Polish soldiers have trained together since the Second World War. 245 Signal Squadron (Electronic Warfare) provided a Troop of 37 men and 16 vehicles. The Troop was commanded by Lt 'Rich to his mates' Bailey and included an ECM Jammer and Direction Finding capability.

The Exercise began in the early hours of 17 October, with a road move from Brawdy to Harwich. This was to be our first introduction to the joys of serious convoy moves, something we became more practised in as we made our way across Holland and Germany (and eventually to Poland). Most of the vehicles arrived safely, in hope of some major 'surgery' in the field. In Hohne we were brilliantly looked after by 207 Sig Sqn, who bent over backwards to make things as comfortable as possible for us. After the first night in Germany, when we boosted the bar profits somewhat, the OC, Cpl Cam Logan and Cpl Luke Venni organised a trip to the site of the old Bergen concentration camp. This was a moving and eerie visit, and everyone was deeply touched.

The next couple of days were spent making sure that all the pre-deployment admin was completed. SSgt Jez Clarke managed to pull an absolute blinder by landing the coveted position of IC 'Train Party' for the move of the 432's to Poland, a job that meant the stress of 20hrs continuous sleep. He was obviously chosen for his excellence in this role back in barracks. The Yeoman, WO2 'Taff' Owens insisted on initiating every comms procedure known to man and some good comms training was conducted in the field. It is unfortunate that the Ptarmigan link proved to be so unreliable - which of course was blamed on the YofS. The Ops WO, SSgt Roy Poulton busied himself with a fine display of juggling, whilst Lt Bailey alternated between sleep and JOTES revision! SSgt 'Wally' Wallace busied himself with the admin role - although his need to do resups at high speed, cross country was sometimes lost on his passengers. Our main role was to support OPFOR, and provide D17, force protection and ECM. All three aspects were successfully provided and we received excellent feedback from the final exercise. The highlight was the OPFOR prep day, when we received a truly excellent Warrior demo, close up examinations of Challenger and CVR (T) and the chance to crawl over the T-72s provided by the Poles. The return to Brawdy was fairly uneventful, especially if you ignore the Ops WO's ability to lock himself in a Portaloo. Questions were asked as to why he was singing George Michael tunes all the way home! All in all, the Exercise was very good. We provided good product, and had the opportunity to train in field conditions using the Armour properly. Congratulations to Sgt 'Midge' Midgely for his promotion in the field.

ZULU TROOP - EXERCISE RUNNEL STONE 1998

Zulu Troop was invited to take part in Ex Runnel Stone by 1 (RBY) Signal Squadron (SC). The Exercise was an unconventional warfare exercise that took place in Northern Denmark. Preparation for the Exercise took the form of Helicopter training on the airfield, this training was followed by low level patrolling, CTRs and CQBs on Sennybridge training area. With patrol orders complete, the team boarded the C130 at Luton for the Club Class flight. Quite surprisingly, none of the team was airsick, but some of the more experienced airborne travellers had a little bit of trouble! The flight abruptly ended with a rather bumpy Tactical landing onto a beach where after a quick sandblast from the departing C130 we established our first RV. The team split into two patrols and headed towards our respective targets for CTICs. The first patrol had a successful Recce under SSgt Donnelly managing to be clear of the target by first light. On the other hand the second patrol, led by Cpl Dirk McMullen, had a more eventful evening. After getting compromised they managed to split up losing the Danish tour guide and Sig 'My Way' Green, who were subsequently captured by the Danish home guard. A patrol the next afternoon had a brief contact with the enemy, however they managed to escape under smoke before the enemy could organise themselves. With orders received preparations began for the final attacks. Plan A for the enemy to be distracted by the Welsh naked Yo Yo champion (LCpl Tony Gallagher) was not possible due to him leaving his yo yo at home. Plan B was a success with both targets destroyed. The team exfiled from the enemy area on foot to a prearranged FILS and after a rather cold and wet wait, the Puma arrived to airlift us back to our safehouse. After breakfast and debrief the tired and weary team boarded the C130 for the flight back to Blighty in time for tea and medals. We would like to thank 1 (RBY) Signal Sqn (SC) for an excellent exercise. We hope to see you next year.

SQUADRON CHARITY WALK

On a pleasant sunny afternoon in mid September, sixty members of the Squadron set off on a charity walk along the estuary of the Cleddau River in Pembrokeshire. The aim of the walk was to raise a substantial amount of funds in order to re-equip the children's ward in Withybush Hospital, the local hospital in Haverford West. During the three-year period that the Regiment has been in Wales, several children of Squadron personnel have had cause to use the limited facilities of the hospital. Cpl Rab Grice, whose daughter was one of the patients, decided to grasp the initiative and organise some funding. He cajoled, persuaded and frightened enough Squadron personnel to take part in an extended PT session, walking and jogging around the sixteen-mile course so as to raise 'some dosh'.

There were no casualties on the afternoon and some enterprising Sqn members - Cpl 'Taff' Carter and LCpl Benny Burns - even managed to squeeze some cash out of the locals en route. As part of the tradition, after a few hours exercise, a period of rest and recuperation was required at the end of the route. This was overseen by WO2 (SSM) Mo Fisher, who warned off a local landlord that he was about to be invaded. Needless to say, he had no objections as he saw his profits hit new heights. As this item goes to press, money is still being collected, but early indications suggest a possible total of a thousand pounds. Well done 245 Sqn and especially Cpl Grice. Finally, the Squadron bids a fond farewell to the OC, Maj Mark Davis, Debra and Mary as they depart for Germany, where Maj Davis is to be 'Our Man at ARRC'.

REGIMENTAL BOXING

Not withstanding RSIT and numerous other commitments, the Regiment made the brave decision to hold an evening of boxing on Friday 27 November 1998. With the date firmly implanted in the minds of those concerned, not least the boxers, it was all hands to the pump, and planning began in earnest. Squadron programmes were manipulated to ensure that, where possible, soldiers were given a minimum of six weeks training. Tasks were issued by the RSM with WO2 (SSM) Paul Fleming and SSgt (SS1) Jan Kilsby heading up the show and before long the night itself arrived. With everything in place, boxers psyched and spectators whipped up into a frenzy by SSgt Nick Hawkins and his sound system, it was time to. 'get down to it'. With a crack of thunder and to the sound of a tune that the RSM certainly didn't recognise, the boxers were called for.

First up were WO2 (SSM) Paul Fleming and WO1 (SMI) 'Molly' Molloy who gave a stunning performance of how you should, and shouldn't, conduct yourself in the ring. Following this and with the help of a Prince Naseem style light show (complete with smoke, laser and the sound of his favourite 'tune'), each boxer made his way into the arena. The smell of adrenalin filled the air as each boxer made what has been described as 'The Long Walk' to the ring and it suddenly dawned on them that it was time to put all that training to the test. In an atmosphere befitting Caesar's Palace, each boxer gave a performance to be justifiably proud of. Worthy of a special mention are Sig Teesdale, who boxed with considerable style and panache. Sig Barron who was awarded the trophy for 'Best performance by a runner up' (a pair of boxing gloves donated and signed by Shea Neary; WBU Welterweight champion of the world), and Sig Ramsden who was declared the 'Best Boxer' of the evening and awarded the Leicester Belt.

Sig Ramsden with Leicester Belt for the best boxer of the night

Finally, congratulations must go to all of those involved in the event, in particular the boxers, all of whom showed great courage and commitment in providing the spectators with an incredible evening of boxing. The Boxers: Sig Ferguson, Sig Wells, Cpl Angus, LCpl O'Connor, Sig Delaney, Sig Ross, Sig Teesdale, Sig Moor, Sig Bashford, Sig Barron, Lt Hutchinson, Sig Ayscough, Sig Weston, LCpl Womble, Sig Ramsden, Cpl Stainthorpe.

LEICESTER TROPHY ORIENTEERING

The new season has had a slow start with the postponement of both the UKSC (G) League and 16 Signal Regiment's Leicester Trophy, due to commitments and land clearance, but at last the runners are off. This season has seen the popularity of orienteering increase with welcome new blood, and not a moment too soon, as last season 16 Sig Regt's team average age was close to 36 years old. Still leading the way, however, are Maj Jim Wood, now with 1 Sig Bde, WO2 (SSM) Kenny Sykes and Sgt Martin Jeanes. Sadly the 'Old Daddy' of the game, WO2 (SSM) Rod Oakley, has had to concentrate on resettlement as he's leaving the army shortly. One of the early high points of the season was the inter-troop competition, the Leicester Trophy, which runs throughout the year in a variety of sports. This year's event was a standard cross-country event with three courses, ranging from 4km to 5km in length and of varying difficulty. A team's overall time was calculated from the best three individual times on each of the courses. Individual results are as follows:

A Course	1st	Sgt Jeanes	63mins 45 sec Regt Champion
	2nd	SSM Sykes	63mins 49 sec
	3rd	Sgt Evans	70mins 38 sec
B Course	1st	Sig Argyle	42mins 03 sec
	2nd	WO1 Algar	47mins 07 sec
	3rd	Sgt Hudson	48mins 31 sec
C Course	1st	Sig Hatchard	38mins 16 sec
	2nd	Sgt Yeomans	39mins 27 sec
	3rd	SSgt Hawkins	41mins 30 sec

As for the team results, congratulations go to Comms Troop, 252 Signal Squadron for winning by a clear 70mins over the second place team from Forward Support Troop, 255 Sig Squadron. A special thankyou goes to Maj Wood for setting the course and controlling the start/finish point on the day and to newly promoted Maj Bell, for the overall control.

EXERCISE MAGNUM SPIRIT 1998

On the 19 November 1998, three teams from the Regiment deployed to Osnabruck to take part in Ex Magnum Spirit 1998. The Exercise is organised by the British Army Motoring Association to test the driving skills, navigational ability and endurance of crews. The competition is divided into three separate events, namely, a night navigation phase (200km), a large section to test driving skills, and finally another night navigation Exercise (200km). After much hectic vehicle preparation, and a last minute dash to the LAD for Sgt Jason Goldsworthy to repair the electrics on his Rover, we set off for Osnabruck. On arrival, all vehicles were inspected. Unfortunately, Sig Ross 'The VM' Turner reported that his rover had failed inspection due to 'an oil leak from the fuel pump' - to our knowledge this is a first ever in vehicle faults! With the inspections over, we booked in and were issued our maps for the Exercise, which we proceeded to mark with the relevant information. The VM amused everyone when he asked 'Do you just cut the maps so they fit onto the map board then?' Well done Ross!

Team No 39, Sgt 'Kit' Knight and Cpl Dave Sawyers were the first of the 16 Sig Regt teams to depart. Followed 30mins later by Team No 64, Sgt Jason Goldsworthy and LCpl Chris Hoggard, and then by Sig Ross Turner and Sig Gaz Restall 5mins after that. The first stage was the night navigation Exercise. This proved rather more difficult than first expected with several checkpoints in well concealed positions. Sgt Knight and Cpl Sawyers finished the first night in a very healthy 36th position, followed closely by Sgt Goldsworthy and LCpl Hoggard, two places behind them. Unfortunately, Sigs Restall and Turner were disqualified for finishing over the time limit. The second stage consisted of an orienteering phase and a water-carrying phase, but due to administration problems, not everyone completed this phase. The final phase was another night navigation Exercise, again checkpoints were plotted and the route was planned. We set off for the final phase in abysmal weather, minus 5 degrees and fog visibility down to 40m, after a 'dear diary' night of map reading, the overall results were as follows:

2nd Royal Signals team	Sgt Goldsworthy/LCpl Hoggard, team 64
9th Unit team	Teams 39 and 64

TRUNK NODE 014 - LONG LOST WALLET

Tp Comd	Lt L. Thirsk
Tp SSgt	Sgt R. White

On Friday 13 November, Sig Steve Welsh and Sig Daz Kirby were volunteered to translate for a Second World War veteran named Thomas Keff, who, towards the end of the Second World War, found a wallet belonging to a young German soldier in the undergrowth of the Black Forest. It was Thomas's dream to be able to hand the wallet back to its rightful owner. Unfortunately, the German soldier was pronounced 'missing in action' in Northern France a year before the end of the war. However, Thomas did manage to trace the sisters of the German soldier, and with the help of the Regiment, Thomas and his daughter Rosemary Hastings flew over to return the wallet to the rightful owners.

Sig Welsh and Sig Kirby met Thomas and Rosemary at the airport, escorted them to their hotel and entertained them for the evening. On Saturday morning the German newspaper, TV and Sixth Sense reporters all turned up to interview Thomas. The wallet, which contained photographs of Josef (the German soldier), was then returned to Josef's sisters. The German family spent the rest of the weekend entertaining Thomas and Rosemary with a tour around the village castle, a meal in the local hotel and finally a trip around the village graveyard and a German poppy day. Sig Welsh and Sig Kirby made such an impression on both families that they have been invited to visit them for New Year. The German family and Thomas have decided to keep in touch and have promised to visit each other every year. Thomas and his daughter were very grateful for the Regiment's assistance, as were the German family concerned.

TRUNK NODE 015 - EXERCISE ARRCADE FUSION 1998

Tp Comd	2Lt S. Gladwin
Tp SSgt	SSgt K. Marshall

Ex Arrcade Fusion started on the 6 October 1998. However, the Technical and Line Dets of 230 Signal Squadron had started the Excon build some two weeks prior. The Team headed by SSgt (FofS) Jamie Harper, set about installing the 75 subsets and drop leads around the Excon hangar, along with access points for the ADC1S and BATES users. Several kilometres of quad lay later, and with the comms assets in place, the Techs and Linemen sat down, to await the arrival of the Staff. True to form, the Staff arrived and promptly explained to the FofS how Excon really should have been set up! Once the FofS had recovered from his coronary, the subsets and leads were moved (again) and the hangar was ready.

For the next ten days Excon was a hub of activity, throughout which the occasional fault was enough to drag those on shift away from the television screen. The most bizarre type of fault were the seven quads which had a habit of mysteriously coming apart at night. The fact that the CO was in the location each time led to a great deal of discussion. Throughout the Exercise the faults were minor and easily repaired keeping 'subset down time' to a minimum. SW 014 was its usual 'set-your-watch-by-it' reliable self. It managed to crash daily, three minutes before the CO's conference call. Still towards the end of the week the Switch and Relay Operators could implement the TACE patch plan within 10 pico seconds!

Heartfelt thanks go to Kowloon Tp for the loan of Sig 'Late again' Cole, LCpl 'VTC' McKenna and LCpl 'Sleepy' Frazer. Their sterling work and effort throughout the Exercise was much appreciated. The award of 'Golden Blanket' goes to LCpl Burgess who was always complaining of not being able to sleep when off shift. Congratulations go to Sig 'I don't like heights' Langley who spent most of the build 30ft off the ground laying the quad. The biggest thanks, however, go to the Excon Chefs who yet again did us proud by providing the best food any members of the Team had ever seen on an Exercise. Once Endex was called, whilst a rather noisy tear down took place, the Staff got in the way during their debrief. Any rumours you may have heard that 230 Sig Sqn did such a good job and that they are in the frame for the same job next year are totally untrue.

TRUNK NODE 016 - EXERCISE BURNING HARMONY

Tp Comd	Lt P. Connor
Tp SSgt	SSgt N. Fisher

Ex Burning Harmony, otherwise known as Ex Burning Bale by our Ops team or Ex Groundhog Day by those who deployed, was a three-week NATO Exercise carried out at the Warrior Preparation Centre in Kaiserslauten. It was a high level CPX of which our beloved ARRC was only one of the four Corps players. We were tasked with providing a COMMCEN facility for the duration of the CPX, with our main role being to act as an 'air interface' between the CRONOS and TARE circuits. This proved very demanding as, on some days, up to 15 messages needed transferring. Exhausting work for a mere crew of nine! (In truth we were under-worked because amazingly none of the systems crashed, otherwise it would have been hectic. Honest.)

However, slow the work, the facilities provided were excellent. All personnel were accommodated in single rooms with double beds, mini-bar, microwave, TV and video as well as an en-suite bathroom. Slightly better than the 9x9 and roll-mat which the Americans would get if they came on Exercise with us. When off shift, there was a multitude of activities to keep our idle hands busy. Sig 'Kingpin' Sanders and Sig 'Bullseye' Mettham defended Britain's sporting reputation against International opposition, albeit badly, while Sigs 'Shop 'till you drop' Simms and Taylor spent more time in the PX than in the COMMCEN. The rest of us seemed content to frequent the Irish Bars of Kaiserslauten, except for Cpl Musgrove who preferred the 'frozen microwave meals for one' section of the Commissary. All that remains now is to sweat off three weeks worth of Burger King and Guinness, which is easier said than done!

252 SIGNAL SQUADRON - ARMISTICE PARADE IN YPRES

by LCpl Lisa Paul

Sqn Comd	Maj A. Thomas
SSM	WO2 (SSM) K. Skyes

The time has come again for us to remember those lost in the search for peace. Over the years millions have died and it is our duty not to forget. Every night in the Belgian town of Ypres at 2000 hrs, under the arch of the Menin Gate, the Last Post is sounded. Come rain or storm they remember . I was honoured when I was asked by my Troop SSgt to parade in Ypres with our colleagues from SHAPE. He has attended the ceremony for the past five years and said that it was a very moving event.

We assembled on Tuesday 10 November with brasses and boots gleaming. There were 10 members in total: Capt 'Cindy' Crawford, SSgt Nick Hawkins, Sgt Chris Neison, Cpl Trish Cox, Cpl Andy Paul, Sig Sam Hindson, Sig Mark Milne, Sig Pete Beardsley, myself LCpl Lisa Paul and Sig 'Tommo' Thompson, who was acting as our driver and photographer. The journey to SHAPE was long, but we busied ourselves perfecting our rendition of 'Roll out the Barrel', which apparently is an essential number when meeting the old comrades and members of The British Legion, which we would be doing after the parade. No amount of practice, however, would make our singing perfect! We booked into our accommodation at SHAPE and, following one trip to the cookhouse, there were many cries of, 'How do you get a posting here?' After a few sociable drinks in the bar we all retired to our beds for a good night's sleep, it would be an early start in the morning. Once we had all consumed a hearty breakfast, we loaded up and were once again on our way. As we neared the town, SSgt Hawkins gave us an insight into the history of the area.

There were four major battles at Ypres in the Great War and the British alone sustained over 50,000 casualties in the Salient, the town itself was reduced to a pile of rubble. We drove down towards the Menin Gate Memorial, past the infamous Hellfire Corner where so many soldiers fell. After dropping our kit off at The Cloth Hall, SSgt Hawkins, still acting as our guide, took us on a whistle-stop tour of the parade route. He must have looked quite the professional as, at one stage, we acquired two Japanese tourists who thought that they were getting a freebie tour! Back at The Cloth Hall with everyone suitably attired we assembled outside to be sized off. Once everyone was in their respective ranks we marched off to join the parade. I don't think I have ever felt so proud to wear my uniform, standing in awe of the old soldiers that had come to pay their respects to their friends and comrades, many of whom were weighed down by their medals of courage. We paused along the route to pay our respects at the Belgian Memorial, it was a very moving moment as the band played 'Abide with Me', and friends and family once again said goodbye to their loved ones. The procession continued through the town up to the Menin Gate where the wreaths were to be laid. The feeling was very sombre; the Memorial itself is inscribed with the names of all those lost in the Ypres, Salient section of the Western Front who perished with no known grave. Words can not describe the feeling when you stand inside the Gate - too many names! The service was conducted in both Flemish and English and was very fitting. I was so moved when the voices of the male voice choir echoed around the Memorial as wreath after wreath was laid in honour and respect. Thousands of poppies sailed from the sky and once more the Last Post was played. We marched back from the Memorial with heads held high, proud to be members of the British Army. Following the parade we met up in the British Legion bar for a few drinks and a sing along, something the old comrades looked forward to every year. The bar was packed full of friends that annually make this pilgrimage, how sad though that each year their numbers become fewer. SSgt Hawkins came prepared this year and to ensure that no one forgot any words he arranged song sheets with classics such as 'Roll out the Barrel' and 'Maybe its because I'm a Londoner'. With beer in hand and hot soup in our stomachs we were happy. It was nearly time to leave our friends and put the war stories on hold for another year, but not without the presentation of our Regimental plaque and a heartfelt thanks for their hospitality. The hardened few moved on. The town was now thriving, with hundreds lining the streets to catch a glimpse of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, and the King and Queen of Belgium who were due to follow our route up to the Menin Gate to pay their own respects. By this time we had lost Sgt Nelson and Cpl Cox who were apparently nabbed for an interview with a Belgian TV company (keep your eyes peeled for that one!) The rest of us were ensconced in the back room of a local hotel to continue singing and reminiscing, our thanks must also go to a young Belgian man who came to buy us all a drink, his father had served in the World War 1 alongside the British. After a last walk to the Gate for one final tribute and to once again witness the sounding of the Last Post, it was finally time to go home. We will remember and we will return - that we can promise.

255 SIGNAL SQUADRON - EXERCISE TRUK BACKSTOP

Sqn Comd	Maj A. Ross
SSM	WO2 (SSM) R. Oakley

Considerable sub-aqua diving training has been carried out by members of 16 Sig Regt and 255 Sig Sqn during the year. This started with members of the Regiment completing Novice Diver courses, organised by the Rheindahlen Sub-Aqua Club, using the Blue Pool on camp. Having qualified as basic divers, it was off to Gibraltar on Ex Wreck Backstop organised by 2Lt Caroline Odebar and Major Alistair Ross. Here, as well as progressing to the next diver grade, all experienced deep wreck diving. SSgt Willy Ryan enjoyed controlling all the girls on the expedition, while Sig Kerry Sims won the award for underwater dancing and Sig (now LCpl at last) Dave Storey got everyone very worried when he turned green with sea sickness.

Following on from the expedition in Gibraltar, Ex Truk Backstop was a Joint Service sub-aqua diving Exercise to Truk Lagoon in the South Pacific Federated States of Micronesia over the period 25 September - 7 October 1998. Truk Lagoon is where the US Navy executed Operation Hailstone on the 17-18 February 1944. Operating from nine aircraft-carriers, wave after wave of aircraft rained a devastating combination of ordnance onto the Japanese Armed Merchant Fleet in this deep water anchorage and in two days sank 180,000 tons of shipping. In total almost 50 ships were sent to the bottom of this clear tropical lagoon during the battle and today they are described as a 'Wreck Divers Heaven'. Many of the wrecks are intact and their holds contain complete Zero fighter aircraft, mines, arms and ammunition, and various war supplies. The wrecks are not war graves as such, but there are still human skeletons and remains to be found, which can be a very eerie and sobering diving experience! Both expeditions gained funding from the Corps that enabled this progressive training, culminating in a very adventurous and ambitious Exercise, to take place.

MAN TROOP - ARMISTICE PARADE IN COLOGNE

Tp Comd Lt S. Hutchinson
Tp SSgt SSgt S. Crawford

This year, 16 Sig Regt were invited to provide the Guard of Honour at the Commonwealth Remembrance Parade held in Cologne. Twenty-six members of 230 Sig Sqn provided the guard along with wreath bearers and poppy sellers. The morning began smoothly - except for one small detail. Until arrival at the cemetery everyone was oblivious to the fact that the Guard Commander was absent, left waiting for the transport in the Guard Room back at JHQ. Obviously, 'If you're not 230 you're not coming,' was the motto of the morning! Despite their best efforts he managed to get there in time to do his bit. The parade was a success, attended by representatives from over a dozen commonwealth states including the British Ambassador, Sir Paul Lever. Next year's parade will be in Berlin. It is hoped that 16 Sig Regt will once again be requested to provide the Guard of Honour.

FORWARD SUPPORT TROOP
EXERCISE ARRCADE FUSION 1998, GREECE

Tp Comd 2Lt E. J. Bruce
Tp SSgt SSgt W. Ryan

On 1 October, 21 members of Fwd Sp Tp and a crew of four party led by 2Lt Bruce, prepared to deploy SAN 872 to Greece in order to provide comms for 2 Greek Mechanised Division. The SAN deployed on what was to be a six-day drive, a first for many members of the Troop. The drive was broken up by several stops, the first an overnight stay at Manheim, a US Army Camp close to the German-Swiss border. The next stage was a 14hr stretch through Switzerland to Italy with many breath-taking views on the way. The Carabaneri, the Italian Military Police met us at the Italian Border, which was an intimidating experience. They were to escort the convoy through Italy to the next port of call, stopping for nothing or no-one including traffic lights, until we reached an Italian Army Camp in Solbiate Olona where we stayed for two nights.

The next day we continued our journey to Ancona where we joined our ferry to Greece. At the port we were met by six members of a US Satellite Det and were then ready to board the ferry. The boarding itself provided some hair raising moments for those with trailers as we had to reverse them on with the help (or hindrance) of Greek guides! During the 24hr crossing we were able to relax and let our hair down in the bar and the casino, although some like Sgt 'brews on, fags out' Partridge and Cpl Richie Turnbull never found their sea legs! We finally arrived at Igoumenitsa in Greece. It was warm and the sun was shining, but we still had a 12hr drive through Greece with some heart-stopping mountain peaks and crazy Greek drivers to tackle before reaching our final destination. The Greek Army escort saw us safely all the way to Kalenzou Camp, Edessa - our home for the next two weeks.

An early start was made setting up the SAN and the Greek HQ with an IARRCIS cell and Ptarmigan facilities for the Greek Staff Officers. Once set up, we established a link over the Sat Det back to Germany, with an E1 link as a standby. Ptarmigan and Hermes were linked together by the Tactical Interface, and the Rad Det, from Man Tp, provided HF comms. WO1 (FofS) 'Bobby Womack' Lewis and 2Lt 'How Bizarre' Bruce were constantly observing the set up. With language problems and a few comms problems the Exercise became challenging for all concerned, but the Greeks appeared very grateful for all our hard work and our tolerance of the cook house food - if you could call it food! At last, the long two weeks were over and the Greeks sent us on our way with a little party, speeches of thanks, several photographs and a bottle of ouzo each (which the OC banned opening until return to JHQ - as if we would Maam!) If we thought the drive was hard the Exercise proved a lot harder, so when it was time to drive home we were certainly looking forward to it - and with the news of two days R&R in Milan for our efforts who could complain!

REGIMENTAL TRAINING WING
EXERCISE LADY WARRIOR 1998

OC Trg Wng Capt P. Stoddart
Trg YofS WO2 (YofS) S. Hartshorne

It is a dark, rainy morning and Krefeld Lines resounds to the sound of marching feet. This sound, however, is not generated by soldiers for this is Saturday October 10, and the start of Ex Lady Warrior 1998. An Exercise for the wives of 16 Sig Regt to experience army life in general, and that of the Royal Signals in particular.

To set the ladies off on the right foot, the Exercise commenced with drill, where, under the watchful eye of WO2 (SSM) Paul Fleming, the ladies executed a myriad of movements around Krefeld Lines. Then it was onto the coaches and off to RAF Bruggen for some driving training. Here, under instruction from the ever calm Cpl Dave Sawyers and LCpl James Womble, the ladies enjoyed some cross-country driving over, under and around the Hill-60 area. The fastest lady on the solo run was Mrs Heather Fleming, wife of the MTWO - it obviously must run in the family. The defensive driving period involving a spin in a skid car was, said the ladies, good practice for the snow and ice to come. The afternoon saw the ladies on the Small Arms Trainer. Under the gentle coaching of Sgt Ollie Oldroyd they engaged the enemy in a number of scenarios. The award for best shot went to Mrs Debbie Prowse. Next stop was Arsbeck Army Training Area and a lecture by Cpl Jan Nicholas on the delights of DIY accommodation for the night (to the uninitiated that's basha building). WO2 (Yofs) Stu Hartshorne, highlighting along the way the differences between the officer and the other ranks ration packs demonstrated catering in the field. It was the bottle of Chardonnay in the officers' pack that made a few of the ladies just a little bit suspicious! After a pleasant supper, Menu A was very popular, a Night Navigation Exercise (in torrential rain) made the night's sleep that little bit more restful.

Sunday morning and it was time for the natural-born leaders to come to the fore. Command tasks, under the critical eyes of Lt Lucy Thirsk and 2Lts Simon Gladwin and Mark Crinnion, left the ladies with a completely different opinion of ropes, benches and medicine balls! The tempo continued apace as the ladies, in two groups, then commenced setting up a Radio-Relay detachment, with just a little assistance from SSgt Neil Fisher and his team. Unfortunately, the radio path between the two vehicles could not be established before it was time to get back to JHQ and the delights of an indoor assault course. SSgt (SS1) Jan Klisby had set-up a most demanding course. Firstly, however, there was a little warm-up to get the bones moving again. All of the ladies gave the assault course their best effort, with the fastest lady being Mrs Manuela James. Then, it was time to go to the Wall and Willow for a well-earned drink, buffet and the prizes, including the best individual won by Mrs Irene Geere, presented by the CO, Lt Col James. Many of the ladies were asking, 'What does next year hold?' That would be telling wouldn't it?

REGIMENTAL BATTLECAMP
EXERCISE TARTAN BEAUFIGHTER 11 - 24 OCTOBER 1998

Ex Tartan Beaufighter took place in the Inverness area over the period 11 - 24 October 1998. The main body departed Colerne at 0700hrs Sunday morning for a coach journey, that lasted 12hrs, to Cameron Barracks, Inverness, which is a strong contender for the coldest place on earth. Battlecamp started in earnest on the Monday morning at 0600hrs with a nice spot of PT just to get us in the mood. The first week was spent dry training and live firing on a wide variety of weapons, including; AK47, Simonov, Browning 9mm, GPMG and the Sniper Rifle. The prize for the sniper of the week had to go to Sig Turner, who from a distance of 25 metres managed to hit the target a mighty 19 times from 50 rounds. Just the sort of guy to have on your side when the going gets tough!

Saturday morning came and along with it, the march and shoot competition which was won by Section 6, under the leadership of LCpl Daz Daniels. This was followed by a very demanding afternoon, a visit to the Glenfiddich Whiskey Distillery, where we were given a guided tour and shown a bottle which retailed at over £5000. Everyone showed great determination, however, and completed the gruelling event none the worse for wear. The following day the Regiment played 1 BW at both football and rugby. We're still not sure which team Sig John Marlborough was playing for as he scored one of the greatest own goals ever witnessed when he threw the ball into his own net! After finishing our live firing phase, early in the second week, we moved into the final Exercise. It was now that all the training we had done was put to good use in the dreadful conditions (I'm sure they booked the weather especially for us-as they say, 'if it ain't raining then it ain't training'). All in all it was a hard but very enjoyable two weeks and a great parting gift from WO1 (RSM) Chris Laycock who has moved to Blandford to take over as the Corps RSM.

EXERCISE FISH TAIL IRON

Ex Fish Tail Iron was a 21 Sig Regt (AS) adventurous training expedition that took place in Nepal over the period 4 - 28 October 1998. Ten members of the Regiment took part in the expedition to circumnavigate the Annapurna Massif in Nepal, a trek called the Annapurna Circuit. The route totals 250km and ascends a total height of 30,000 feet reaching a maximum altitude of 17,750 feet. The trek was completed on foot in 80 hours, over 17 days continuous walking. The team of 10 was fully self-supporting, each individual carrying a Bergen of at least 35lbs in temperatures ranging from +30 to –10 degrees centigrade. The route travelled through primary jungle, the Trans – Himalayan zone to glaciated arid terrain. The following extract from an individual's diary describes the day the Team ascended to the Thorong La Pass. 'It is dark and our head torches provide us with the light required for our slow steps. After two hours the steep gradient flattens slightly. There follows a further two hours of false summits. Finally we near the top of the pass just as the sun is rising over the Chulu Mountains and Genjang Mountain. The view is awesome as we are also surrounded by Yakawakang Mountain to our North and Khatung Kang and Saya Gang Mountains to our South. The pass is marked by prayer flags and a large cairn. It is bitterly cold and the wind has picked up and we do not spend long at the top once the high point of the expedition is reached. The descent is severe and it takes two to three hours to descend to a more agreeable gradient for the knees but the views on the descent are very different to those we have enjoyed so far. The mountains appear very brown and stretch out before us as far as we can see. They point towards the country of Tibet and the terrain makes us appreciate what a hardy race the Tibetans are. Muktinath is a welcome sight.

LCpl Mike Napier looking up towards Gangapurna

SSgt Paul Duke, Lt Owen Finnie, Sig Ian Blair and Sig Al Taylor arrive after seven hours and quickly set about refuelling empty stomachs. The last of the Team come in after 10 hours and everyone is exhausted but extremely satisfied. Individuals recount that today has been one of the most physically demanding of their lives, in summary, an outstanding expedition. Thanks to all in the Corps who have contributed to make it possible.

After several long months the offices of SHQ have now been filled with the appropriate personnel, much to the relief of the over stretched (according to him) 2IC, Capt 'lots of hats' Richards. Tp Comd WO1 (FofS) Martin Drake
Tp SSgt SSgt Nige Roberts

TM Tp welcome new arrivals SSgt Nige Roberts from JCUNI and Cpl 'Polly' Poulson fresh of his T1 course. Congratulations go to both LCpl Ed Chwieseni on his recent promotion and Cpl Shaun Allsopp on passing his T1 entrance (for the second time!) Well done. The arrival of SNCO's, and concentrated training has increased the technical ability within the Troop to a level not seen for a long time, indeed the 'Baby Techs' now understand that to get the best results, they need to connect a power supply to the equipment before switching it on. They all had their military skills and perseverance tested to the full on Battle Camp, except for Cpl Shaun Allsopp who decided that he would sit his T1 entrance examination at the 'right time'. Individuals of note during the Exercise were Sig Nicki Ryan who unfortunately fell down a rabbit hole (how unlucky can you get, MEDIVAC from both the Cadre Course and Battle Camp). Also there was Cpl Dave Clayton-Batty and LCpl Mark Taylor who upheld the good name of the Troop by spending the two weeks as administrators (pan bash).

MT Tp like every other military organisation are now dealing with TQM, ISO 9000, IIP, and anything else anyone wishes to throw at us and have a philosophy of 'panic before an inspection'. The immediate action as always is the same, dash, down, crawl, sights, observe, and rush around to get it right on the day. And then the LSI was upon us. The Master Driver (a nice man) from Div HQ, arrived, inserted his cassette and started to question the systems and principles that 'worked for us'. On questioning, Cpl Howie (the POL expert) explained that, those that asked nicely were entitled to draw fuel and that yes it was all there, at least it was on the day it was delivered. Cpl O'Neill our driver training professional explained that 'driver training did happen and yes we went on Exercise with our new Landrover HS (HS - high spec - still no radio) and as a matter of fact (in a very proud voice) all vehicles had a driver'. On MT details Cpl Eskdale explained the concept of no procedures and out dated vehicle documents. Amidst the chaos and mayhem of the day the 'management team' (maintaining a low profile) were deciding which of the statements 'lets do it' or 'can do, will do' would become the new Troop mission statement. Having made light of a difficult day and hard inspection it should be noted that the report was satisfactory, so either the systems in place or the explanations worked. Congratulations to all of those personnel involved.

Due to the TA SDR we who are currently in Trowbridge are due to move to Bath in the near future, the good news is that the ever loyal and very supportive TA soldiers will move with us. Despite the failing accommodation and rumours of close down our membership remains excellent and we are fully recruited. In fact attendance on training nights and weekends are ever increasing.

As a direct result of full integration with the regulars SSgt Jackie Herbert has fulfilled a life time ambition to join her husband as a regular soldier and has become the first TA soldier to join the Regiment under the FTRS scheme. Congratulations.

Throughout the year we have completed a variety of training and fulfilled many tasks in several countries around the world. 621 FAC Detachment commanded by Maj David Bird PARA deployed to Canada on Ex Western Vortex with a detachment consisting of, Cpl Speed, Cpl Tony Welling and LCpl Alan Mitchell. Sgt Graham Anderson and LCpl Ross Pierson deployed to Denmark on Ex Flying Rhino in support of JFACTSU. On a more normal training note our summer camp was deployment to the north of England with the regulars on Ex Rustic Reiver in support of Support Helicopter Force RAF.

Fully supportive of town activities we were all pleased when LCpl Margie Gilbert was crowned Carnival Queen of Trowbridge. She is now involved in many of the town's social events along with her TA pay duties, two young children and a college course. Well done.

On the sporting scene we have had several successes, particularly in the field of Cross-Country Running. Sig Emma Flaherty came third overall in the TA National Cross Country Championships with her mother, SSgt Jackie Herbert coming in third vet and the team achieved a creditable third overall placing. Congratulations go to the mother and daughter combination who were both awarded their TA national colours for Cross-Country.

EXERCISE RUSTIC REIVER

Ex Rustic Reiver took place in the Carlisle and Otterburn areas in September and was originally the NATO OPEVAL for the SHF, RAF. 43 Sig Sqn deployed on the Exercise and several members of the Squadron took the opportunity to deploy and in the process qualify for Annual Camp. The Exercise proved to be testing for all concerned as the Squadron maintained control of communications for a large part of the Exercise. The Exercise started with a drive of 10hrs to Carlisle in torrential rain and our first location was extremely wet. The Exercise was busy and we were faced with a number of scenarios generated by the EXCON team. The most notable incident involved a civil disturbance at one of our locations in which shots were fired. Several lessons were learnt but we all now fully appreciate the complexities of ROE. The whole Squadron worked hard during the exercise to integrate with our Regular counterparts and make it a success. Our training standards have improved and it would be fair to say that our camps have changed dramatically over the last couple of years. We are now providing a good level of service to the SHF as part of the only joint Regular and Territorial Regiment.

DRIVER TRAINING.

The Introduction of the new Landrover (or TUM HS) has given the Squadron the opportunity to undergo some worth while and mandatory conversion driver training. A number of weekends were used to put the vehicles and drivers through their paces over the Braunton Burrows, a sandy terrain with good steep climbs and descents. The Squadron is indebted to Sgt Rick Tapley for his work in organising the road and off road driving.

BBC CHILDREN IN NEED

Upon arrival at the Marina Centre in Great Yarmouth the producer told us that at 15.30 there would be a sea dash, which would involve us running into the sea in boots, lightweight trousers and tee shirts, then running back out again. When we asked why this was necessary, considering there was a freezing horizontal November wind coming in off the murky and polluted North Sea, the producer said it was to see how wacky we were. Interesting, normally eight pints of bitter and a couple of inflatable condoms would have provided a better manifestation of these sort of attributes! The time arrived and accompanied by some equally unfortunate civilians, we duly obliged for the cameras, coming out of the water faster than we entered, heading as a squad, off up the beach to the changing rooms to avoid exposure. Once the transmission was under way, we managed to present the DM 4,500.00 Squadron cheque live on air. Although we had been promised a national slot, it was transmitted only to BBC Southeast viewers during the local TV opt out, so none of the people back in Germany saw it. Still never mind, it's all in a good cause. Thanks to everyone who took part or helped us.

NEWS FROM THE FALKLANDS - 220 SIGNAL SQUADRON JCUFI DETACHMENT

(Good grief! A set of notes from the South Atlantic, well done down there, obviously 'Cas' is angling for the job of Unit Press Officer now that Capt Knight has been posted to 1 Mech Bde).

The Crew: Sgt Dave Cascarino, Cpl Alfie Mangera, LCpl Martin Ferguson, Sig Bev Smith.

We have all said our goodbyes to LCpl Marc Quinn and Sig Kerry Stewart, gone but definitely not forgotten. We warmly welcome LCpl Martin Ferguson and Sig Bev Smith. As usual, work is piling up, but the Telemechs who wear the 'Red Beaufighter of Courage' are more than up to the task. Things down here in FI have presented a steep learning curve for us all, but with the issued crampons we are scaling the heights with plenty of style. One of the most amusing elements down here has been getting used to living with the Squadron of a Divisional Signal Regiment, especially the PT. The onset of summer was boosted by the arrival of Cpl Alfie Mangera, he is still attempting to improve his sun tan by burrowing out of the cable ducts in the Theatre Operations Centre. Whilst LCpl Martin Ferguson has been crawling about on all fours in their Alternative Theatre Operations Centre, both are part of the many projects going on at the moment. Sig Bev Smith is finding her feet, which when she draws herself up to full height, aren't very far from her head. As IC works orders, she has taken on the task of installing the trunking and routes in the accommodation. The boss Sgt Dave Cascarino is having kittens planning the rewire of the TOC, which is planned for mid January. On the social front, LCpl Martin Ferguson and Sig Smith have fitted in very well, taking on the section ethos of trying to drink the Stanley Globe Tavern dry. Finally, we wish all of you back at the Squadron a very merry Christmas and best of luck for 1999, see you all in February, take care.

THE MAYOR OF WANDSWORTH'S CHRISTMAS CHARITY BALL - 5 DECEMBER 1998

The Mayor of Wandsworth, Cllr Professor Elizabeth Howlett, invited the CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison to attend her Charity Venetian Ball in a plush marquee in Battersea Park on Saturday 5 December. The Commanding Officer, in her infinite wisdom, kindly invited the rest of the RHQ rabble in the form of the Trg Maj (Maj Alfie Brand), QM (Maj Ken Clark), Adjt (Capt Mel Rayner), RSM (WO1 Hall) and their respective partners to be her guests. All attempts at an incognito appearance were foiled when the Mayor announced that she wanted us to attend in Mess Kit. Considering the guest list included all the local councillors, dignitaries and businessmen we decided that it was too good a PR opportunity to miss and dutifully obliged. A splendid night was had by all and thousands of pounds were raised for the Mayor's nominated local Charities.

NEWS FROM THE SQUADRON

After Regimental Annual Camp, the Squadron has continued with collective training organised by both the Squadron and the Regimental Training Team. Potential recruits continue to enter our TA Centre. Numbers are now at the best they have been for quite some time. Cpl Tanya Campbell, under the leadership of Capt Dave Parr and WO2 (SSM) Harding, heads up the Southfields Recruiting Cell. Despite the demands of the job, she is producing excellent results as the recruit figures suggest.

Promotions - The Squadron is pleased to announce the promotion of Sig 'Mac' McKay after serving several years as both an Infantry and Royal Signals soldier. Mac's dedication to the Squadron is beyond reproach, very well done LCpl McKay and keep up the good work.

Regimental Trade Training - 6/7 November 1998 - After arriving and getting the lay of the land, the Regimental Yeoman of Signals, WO2 (YofS) Simon Tyler, decided to deploy all the operators to one of the many training areas used at both Squadron and Regimental level. The two Squadron Detachment Commanders were Cpl Becks Strickland and LCpl 'Small One' Ogle. Other members of the team included LCpl Si Roberts, LCpl 'Mac' McKay, Sig Bob Plant and Sig Andy Pollard. The PSI was impressed with the overall standard of trade training (is that because he (SSgt Bruce) has conducted all the training and instruction?). The deployment and set-up were executed to a standard that would put any other unit to shame. The Exercise was greatly appreciated by all those who took part. The Yeoman went away with plenty of ideas and plans for training for the next year. Several valid points were raised by the troops in an open forum at the end of the training.

Liaison Visit by Col Titus, Commander 1108th US Army Signal Brigade 19-23 November 1998 - The Bde Comd, Col Titus and his Ops Offr, Mr David Graham arrived in UK on Thursday 19 November to commence a five-day visit. By Saturday they had already been briefed at Bde HQ in Corsham, visited Windsor Castle and Stonehenge and called in on a Comms Exercise in Pippingford Park. On Saturday night it was the turn of the Officers' Mess to host the visitors. To mark the visit in appropriate style, the Officers' Mess held a dinner night at the rather impressive Worshipful Company of Innholders' Hall near Mansion House. The Master of the Innholders', Mr Tony Lorkin and the Bde Comd, Brig S. G. Hughes were also on the guest list. The Hall is steeped in history and dates back to the 16th Century. It undoubtedly provided a very fitting location for the Dinner. The end of the dinner was marked by the exchange of gifts between the CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison and the US Bde Comd.

It goes without saying that the subalterns were on fine form and continued the party in the Officers' Mess at Mercury House, Duke of Yorks' Bks well into the wee small hours. On his arrival the following morning, the RSM, WO1 Hall really did not need to be greeted by Lt Scott MacSween in his boxer shorts! Well done Scott.

Lt Liz Fitzpatrick, Capt Stephen Ong, 2Lt Kieran Francis, Lt Scott MacSween

Having got through Saturday night (only just in some cases!), the schedule for Sunday was a whistle stop sightseeing tour of London. The tour guides for the day were Capt Mel Rayner, WO1 (RSM) Hall and SSgt Craig Bruce BEM. The tour began with a visit to the forecourt of Buckingham Palace for an inside view of the Changing of the Guard. This was organised by Capt Paul Samways who liaised with the Lord Chamberlain's Office, and the RSM who touched base with the RSM of The Duke of Wellington's Regiment, WO1 (RSM) Dowdall. The Duke of Wellington's was the oncoming guard and their RSM was able to give a running commentary of the proceedings and the traditions involved. This greatly impressed our American visitors and we are thankful to the RSM for his assistance. Other sites on the tour around the Capital included St Paul's Cathedral (just in time for Choir Practice!), Westminster Abbey, The Tower of London, Covent Garden and Trafalgar Square. WO1 (RSM) Hall had obviously read and digested a London Guidebook and was the fount of all knowledge! Having successfully purchased traditional English Teapots as souvenirs the day finished off with a 'handover/takeover' of the guests to the CO, Lt Col Harrison. She whisked them of to the final port of call that was The Waldorf Hotel for the Sunday Afternoon Tea Dance. The CO and Adjt had entertained the idea of attempting to 'trip the light fantastic' but upon seeing the rather professional dancers twirling around the dance floor, Lt Col Harrison and Capt Rayner decided the best option was to keep quiet and carry on munching sandwiches! It certainly turned out to be a very fitting end to an excellent day. A big thank you goes to the RSM and SSgt Bruce for doing such a fine job as Tour Guides and to WO2 Brenda Prater for disguising herself so successfully as a London Cabbie! The Americans departed on Monday morning with promises of reciprocal visits to their HQ in Maryland and further visits to London. Without doubt the visit had been a storming success.

ARMY INDIVIDUAL & INTER CORPS ORIENTEERING
28-29 NOVEMBER 1998

With their sanity well and truly remaining in Southfields Capts Sarah Streete (56 Sig Sqn) and Mel Rayner (Adjt), Sigs Chris Cox and Chris Hanlon (HQ Sqn) departed RHQ on Saturday morning bound for a chilly Sennybridge and the Army Combined Night and Day Orienteering Championships. What else would you rather be doing on a Saturday night than running around the Welsh hillsides trying to find little white and orange flags! Up to your knees in water, falling over in the darkness and becoming lost again - sounds much better than a night down the pub! Having just about recovered from the night event we headed off to Methyr Common for the daytime activities. What joy, visibility of more than 1 metre, but what a barren and featureless landscape it was. Commiserations to Sig Cox, who after an eventful night managed to twist his knee on the day event and had to limp home. Congratulations to Capts Streete and Rayner who formed half the Corps Team that finished runners up in the Inter Corps Championship to a rather swift AGC team. The two other members of the Corps Team were Maj Jean Payne, HQ 11 Sig Bde and Capt Sam Harrild JSSU Digby.

TROOP WEEKEND 17-18 OCTOBER 1998

Led by their illustrious OCs (Lts Beth Pollard and Debbie Speakman) K and N Troops deployed on a Troop Activity Weekend 17/18th October. N Tp deployed to Organford campsite near Poole, Dorset, where they discovered Sgt Brian 'Scouse' Traynor had already found a short cut to the local pub - albeit via a ditch! After a night of gales and storms (who was it that ended up in the dodgy tent?), the Troop set off on Saturday morning to walk sections of the South-West Coastal Path. Teams kept in radio contact with each other (who needs a control station anyway?) and had a mini trivial pursuits competition over the net along the way. On Sunday the Troop attempted the Burnbake Ropes Course. A series of challenges designed to encourage teamwork and confidence. Some took the idea of team bonding a bit too far - Lt Debbie 'I'm in charge' Speakman, Sgt Amy McAuliffe, LCpl Julia May and Sig Vanessa Coles may never be the same again!

K Troop deployed to Gibraltar Barracks on the Saturday morning where they put the Sandhurst horses through their paces, (some fine horsemanship in action). In the afternoon they visited the Gurkha Museum at Winchester. On Sunday the Troop had fun in the swimming pool at Gibraltar Barracks, and the weekend was rounded off by a ride in a Gazelle to conduct a recce on Pippingford Park. Several members of the Troop were regretting the previous night's beer intake so I heard.....The teams on the 618 det have been active again, conducting comms training with the US 1108th US Army Sig Bde. Their Bde Comd has been visiting the Regiment recently to get the perspective of the other side.

REMEMBRANCE PARADES

On Sunday 1 November members of the Squadron attended the PLK Remembrance Service at the Duke of York's Barracks in Kensington. Members of the Princess Louise's Kensington (PLK) Association, many of whom fought in the Second World War, accompanied them. The service was made more poignant by the fact that the PLK Regimental Colours and Drums were on display. The following week the Squadron was on Parade in Coulsdon for Remembrance Sunday. The Squadron marched from the TA Centre to Old Coulsdon Church, where Canon Stephen Maslen presided over the service. Capt Steve Jones laid a wreath on behalf of the Squadron, having paid our respects and completed the formal part of the day, we marched back to the TA Centre for a curry lunch.

NEWS FROM THE SQUADRON

Still riding high after the successes of Annual Camp, 56 Sig Sqn (V) launched into its autumn training programme with customary enthusiasm. In fact, three members of the Squadron were so inspired by two weeks in Dartmoor and Sennybridge that they decided to volunteer for something a bit more long term and are now serving six month tours somewhere in Bosnia. (Where hopefully the weather will be a bit better than the average day in Sennybridge!) Our best wishes go to WO2 Jim Paine, and to Sigs Richard Baldwin and James Coleman-Brown and we look forward to their return in February. These were not the only moves. Congratulations go to Capt Tony Potter on his recent commissioning and appointment as Comd 858 Tp. We would like to thank him for all he did as SSM. He can rest assured that that job is in safe hands with WO2 Kevin Godden to whom we also offer congratulations on his promotion and good luck in his new appointment. Well done, too, LCpl Jo Reader for passing her PTI's course and gaining promotion. Congratulations also go to LCpl Mick Childs on his recent promotion. Finally, a warm welcome to 2Lt Kieran Francis who has joined us from Edinburgh UOTC and taken on the job of Comd 857 Tp. We are now in the happy (or not, depending on your point of view!) position of having a full complement of officers.

LORD LIEUTENANT'S MERITORIOUS AWARDS

The annual Lord Lieutenant's Meritorious Awards Ceremony took place on 27 October in Brighton. The Lord Lieutenant of East Sussex, Admiral Sir Lindsay Bryson KCB, presented awards to TA soldiers and cadets from all over the county. Our CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison, and OC, Maj Brian Howe, were present to see four members of the Squadron receive awards. WO2 (SSM) Godden received his TEM and a Lord Lieutenant's Certificate for Meritorious Service. Sgt Dickie Bonner also received his TEM and a Lord Lieutenant's Certificate for Meritorious Service. Sgts Robert Cooper and Martin Cooper were presented with their TEMs. Congratulations to all concerned!

EXERCISE RED RAG I

The final Squadron Exercise of 1998 took place on Pippingford Park training area. Detachments deployed to various locations for a tactical HF Comms Ex. Having left the TAC at dark o'clock that morning, the sight of the Master Chef, WO2 Fred Bramble, greeting the Squadron with a hot breakfast at Pippingford Park was a welcome one indeed. Breakfast over, and it was time to set up for the Exercise and prepare for the visit of Col David Titus, Comd of the 1108th US Army Sig Bde. Of course, there was no extra pressure to make sure that the Exercise was executed with even greater precision than usual. After minimal moving of detachments from location A to location B and back again, the complex was set up in record time. Even the Sqn Comd, Maj Brian Howe, and the SSM, WO2 Kev Godden, were heard to compliment the troops. By 1145 everything was ready for the VIP who arrived with the CO. Suitably impressed by the Squadron's demonstration of its role, Col Titus then moved on to our FRT618 det that was one half of a trans-Atlantic long range HF comms link with Signals units based on the east coast of America. The Colonel was able to talk to his 'boys back home'. Meanwhile, much to the disbelief of all present, out of the trees emerged a group of American GIs. Having chatted to them, the Bde Comd felt reassured that he was not actually starring in a remake of 'Back to the Future', but had in fact come across members of a WW2 re-enactment society out for a Sunday stroll! As the Bde Comd settled down to a splendid lunch in the field courtesy of WO2 Fred Bramble and Cpl Steve Howell, little did he realise what the Regt FofS and YofS had been up to. WO2's Bob Wymer and Simon Tyler had been helping to extinguish a bush fire - are there no limits to the talents of the Ops Team! Fortunately they managed to complete their stint as Fireman Sam and get to lunch in time (funny that!). FofS - next time wash your face first please! Lunch was followed by a tour around the complex led by the OC Sqn. The Bde Comd had a thoroughly enjoyable visit, seeing for the first time a British Royal Signals (TA) unit deployed in the field. He kindly handed out Comd Coins of Excellence to a few of the fortunate personnel on duty. It was noted however, that SSgt Willie Loch, the Sqn PSI, did not receive one.

CEREMONIALS

The Squadron was involved in two ceremonial occasions in November. A pleasingly high number braved the lashing rain and wind to attend Eastbourne's Remembrance Parade where Maj Howe laid the Sqn's wreath. The following weekend seven members of the Squadron travelled up to London to form part of the Regiment's guard of honour outside the Royal Courts of Justice during the annual Lord Mayor's Parade. By all accounts, a great day out was had by all!

LORD MAYOR'S SHOW 1998

The 83 (London) Signal Squadron (V) detachment of drill pigs left the Duke of York's HQ, on the evening of Friday 13 November, to rendezvous with the remainder of the Regiment at the London UOTC TAC in Russell Square. After some quick revision on weapons drill, which never goes amiss, it was either in the bar, or for the more adventurous amongst us to O'Neill's, an Irish Watering Hole within staggering distance of the TAC. SSgt Dez Eldridge got the first round in for a change, (must be Christmas!). The RSM, WO1 Hall got chatting to one of the locals. He was quoted as saying 'This bar is the canines privates, we were here last year, it was a jolly good night out' or words to that effect. 'Oh I'm glad to hear that. I'm the owner' retorted the listener, slurping over a Bacardi Breezer, or something of a similar Southern shandy drinking beverage! Well after a hard night out it was into our maggots for a good nights sleep. Five minutes later (or so it seemed) we were woken up by the RSM. 0530 hrs is not a good time to get up on a Saturday! After breakfast, more drill practice then the usual hurry up and wait until the parade at approx 1100 hrs. For the mathematicians amongst you, we had 5 hours from the time we got up until the parade started! - Thanks RSM. The parade had its usual display of spectacular floats. Needless to say we were thankful of something to look at, as our particular role was to stand still for what seemed an age as the Guard of Honour for the Lord Mayor. After a successful parade (albeit numb limbs and sore heads!) it was back to the TAC for fine food and a hair of the dog for those chaps who don't know when they've had enough. Well done to Capt Steve Ong, the Parade Commander, for a stirling performance. However, next year Sir, can you please give the command to Change Arms either before or after the Band of the Household Division go trundling past - not during! We might be able to hear you then! So far so good. Dunstaffange was reached on time and the crew awoke for coffee and bacon rolls at the Wide Mouth Frog. Boat taken over by 1130hrs with the help of a helibourne - CoS Maj John Montieth and then the serious business began.

Safety Brief - The 'inherent danger to life and limb' brief or Adventurous Training, unstable decks Fire, Gas, Explosion, Drowning, Sea, Wind, Tides, Monsters of the Deep Mundane Matters - Personal fitting of Harness/Life Jackets, airing of foul weather gear. Familiarisation with the boat sea cocks, heads, lights, sails, ropes, location of gas bottles, fire extinguishers etc.

The weather was now suspiciously good – sun, wind, blue skies the lot. The outline plan was confirmed – three days workup and then the dash South.

THE VESSEL - LIGHT INFANTEER

She is a 34ft, Auxiliary Bermudan Sloop built by Sadler Yacht and commissioned in 1995 for ISA, is in extremely good condition with an excellent sail wardrobe, good systems documentation, fully functional navigational aids and the best set of chart folios outside a RN warship (Compliments to her bosun). My own vessel, a Westerly Conway ketch is a nimble old lady but this vessel was a joy to drive – a pure bred racing filly. (for the novice - a sloop has one mast, the ketch, two). An unforgettable experience and an achievement to be proud of, well done shipmates. Final tally 390 miles at sea with 20 hours at night and a lot of fun. No damage to life or limb but the question is posed - who shot Jack Sound? Answers on a post card.

SQUADRON LIFE

After returning from Camp the Squadron has been getting round to the yearly preparation for inspections and has started to build up towards next year's military skills based annual camp, with the Squadron training weekend, 'Weekend Warrior' in late October. The weekend began with the Squadron deploying to a hide in the woods outside Edinburgh, where thankfully the weather gods looked favorably on us and let up on the rain that had washed through the country in the preceding week. After a good nights sleep under the stars - only rarely interrupted by the odd enemy attack and the road works 300m away, it was time for ranges. As background activity Maj Roddy 'Call me Biggles' Sutherland arranged for most Squadron personnel to get a trip round Edinburgh by Gazelle, with a select few flying off on a two hour recce of Garelochhead training area. As tradition would have it the weather that stayed kind to us on Friday night broke for the ranges, with a howling gale and torrential rain adding the customary dampness to proceedings. To round the day off a party was held in the Edinburgh Squadron's TAC and thanks go to the Capital Squadron for giving us 'soap-dodging-weegies' a roof for the night. A late start on Sunday morning was followed by a few hours practicing off road driving, where Lt Milne 'I'm off to Oz' Weir the new ICP Troop commander took the opportunity to introduce himself to the Squadron by pranging his rover on the route.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to Sigs Ward, Finnigan, and Augusto on their promotion to L/Cpl. Congratulations also go to WO1 Terry McVey and WO2 Karen Swan as they keep it in the family with Karen taking over from Terry as Squadron Sergeant Major as he takes over from her as Recruit Training Warrant Officer.

SQUADRON ACTIVITY

The most noteable event in the post-summer period was, of course the highly anticipated and often fraught involvement in Annual Camp. Things got off to a cracking start when, as the engines roared at the start line in a effort to get going, SSM Gary 'London's Burning' Garland set out to prove that a trailer (with a little assistance) could go faster than the towing Landrover. Cpl 'Aint no mountain high enough' Fair completed the mayhem by breaking down at Chesser Cresent gates. The 'vehicular' theme continued at camp with Cpl Paula 'Postman Pat' MacLean being required to explain her 'excessive' speed within Deverrell Barracks to the Royal Engineers and Cfn 'Wes' Florence finally earning his licence after having been 'done' for driving without an er...um...licence. The Squadron had the opportunity to indulge in a spot of Adventure Training which, inevitably included abseiling. The occasion was remembered more for LCpl 'Jamsie' Costello's remarks about the effects of the harness on the posterior region, than by any standard of vertical descent. Once again Sgt Martin 'Stars in their Eyes' Garner won all the Karaoke prizes going, and was particularly pleased to dedicate 'Splish Splash I was taking a Bath' to the Soap Dodgers who managed to make it out on Exercise for a change. (Careful explanation was required in order to tell them the difference between cam cream and soap). Following the chaos of camp, a cloud of mystery descended on the Squadron as, during the first post-camp weekend Maj Brian 'The truth is out there' Murray was responsible for the instigation of a nationwide search following his strange disappearance during a food foraging Exercise by the Squadron officers in the local village. A very worried Squadron 2IC reported the loss of his traffic officer to the CO and was then told 'search the village, alert the police'. All local shops and hostelries were visited and a description issued, small man, mid fifties, moustache. The most amusing response was, 'Oh dear, wandered off from a home has he?' One hour after disappearing the bold Major was found in the dining room of a local hostel. His greeting for the 'rescuers'? 'Where have you been? These gammon steaks are lovely!' The mystery continued as a male and female soap dodger were later found locked in the Armoury (Why was Mrs Fair one of them we ask ourselves?) On a more exotic note Lt Phil 'Sans Pantalons' Donegan selflessly volunteered for a two week stint with the United States Army Reserve in Louisiana, USA during July/August. Despite being assigned to the wrong unit he still managed a bout of heat stroke, Karaoke in New Orleans and an interview with the anti-terrorist police at Heathrow (Something to do with a hand-grenade we hear).

CONGRATULATIONS

A special congratulation for the elevation of Maj Brian 'The merciful' Shankland to OC Squadron. Responsibility beckons! Gone now are the days of rolling around on the grass outside the Squadron CP. Well done also to Cpls Davidson and Park for their completion of the Det Commanders Course and subsequent promotion. Promotion also came at long last to LCpl 'Victor Meldrew' Robertson, proof that patience does pay off in the long run! Wedding fever hit the Squadron in August. First off the blocks was LCpl Betty Saunders who had her particulars taken down by her fiancee Constable Ian Robertson. Confusingly we now have two LCpl Robertsons, although thankfully they look completely different (Betty's not balding yet!). Next up was the joining together of two of the Squadron's most valuable assets Capt Domhnall 'Doddsie' Dods and Capt Jackie 'Four foot and a fag-end' Lockhart in holy matrimony. Training Major take note, Married Quarter Accommodation required for annual camp next year. Well done indeed to Sig Anderson for completing her recruits course - welcome to the Squadron! Sgt John 'Recruiter specialist' Faichney is to be congratulated (?) for earning his PTI's swords, please report to the stores for your triangular body and 'norman-nae-mates certificate'.

EMIGRATIONS

In July, the Squadron bade a fond and tearful farewell to the outgoing OC Maj Fiona 'Farquhars' Farquharson who leaves after three years at the helm. The greatest tears came for the 'bad back sufferers' who were bemoaning the passing of a free physio service. We wish Fiona well in her post at the Territorial Commissions Board. Also departing was SSgt John 'Calm Down' Leach our reliable PSI. His farewell dinner must go down as being unique in Corps history as, among the attendants were his predecessor, successor and a few 'bewigged scouse gits' (No thefts were reported after the dinner).

IMMIGRATIONS

Possibly the best transfer acquisition of the year was Sgt Ian Stallard. His arrival represents a huge increase in 'value' training within 61 Sig Sqn as there's nothing he doesn't know about everything. (What end do we hold the rifle?) He has quickly learned however that TA soldiers are all too willing to leave as much as possible to the PSI and is rapidly learning not to take on too much of their work. The Squadron welcomed Lt Patricia 'The Stripper' Baird back to the TA after an extended absence. The absence can apparently be accounted for by the length of time it took to get rid of the grime acquired from her previous stint with the Glasgow Squadron. Another convert to soap arrived in the form of our new PSI SSgt Steve Harrison who is here to find all the televisions reported missing during his predecessor's stint. A hearty and Capital welcome is extended to you all.

REMEMBRANCE PARADE

61 (City of Edinburgh) Sig Sqn were again honoured to participate in the annual Remembrance Parade held at the local Stenhouse church. A simple but nonetheless touching service was conducted by the Minister who predicted a happy outcome for the Squadron under the SDR - the benefits of a direct line to Higher Command? One of the few occasions when we can be publicly seen parading the local streets and this time in step. The absence of a piper might have had something to do with that.

During the service the Squadron laid their customary wreath at the Church memorial which boasts a very local Victoria Cross award. The wreath bearers this year were Cpl David Crampton and LCpl 'Victor' Robertson.

MILES FOR SMILES

Several Squadron members successfully completed a 93 mile sponsored walk over the very reputable West Highland Way. This well known Scottish path starts just South West of Glasgow and Fort William through some of the most beautiful geography in the UK - dependent on the weather. For their efforts they managed to raise the sum of £1102.50 for The Royal Sick Children's Hospital, Edinburgh which the Squadron have adopted as their 'personal' charity.

The Team

Here the OC Maj Brian Shankland is proud to present a display cheque (as well as the genuine article) to Ms Maureen Harrison of the Friends of the Sick Kids. Congratulations to all concerned in raising this splendid amount.

SPOTLIGHT ON PERSONALITIES

Over many weekends we have all enjoyed what pleasures the TA has to offer. All too often the 'Service Support' elements which work behind the scenes go unmentioned in despatches. We are please here to feature two of our most important 'Support' personnel.

33 (LANCASHIRE AND CHESHIRE) SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

CO Lt Col R. J. Steed MBE
RSM WO1 (RSM) K. C. Hallett

Life in 33 Sig Regt (V) continues to move along at a frantic pace, but all is not lost. Reinforcements have arrived in the shape of Capt John Harrington who has recently returned from his sunshine tour in Turkey (where's the tan?). Outgoing Adjt, Capt Nick Range, is currently handing over the reins and showing John the seedier side of Liverpool. Also joining us are LCpl Karen Ballard, Sgt Alan Townsend, LCpl Stephan Piper, LCpl Craig Robertson and Cpl Craig Stevens. A warm welcome to you all. Finally, a big thank you and goodbye to WO2 (SSM) McGarry who departs for 2 Sig Regt. Good luck for the next tour.

REGIMENTAL TRADE TRAINING DONNINGTON OCTOBER 1998

The Regiment held its second Trade Training Camp at Donnington over the first two weeks in October. The overall organiser of this devilish scheme was the Regimental Yeoman WO2 Nick Nicholson who devised the training so that soldiers could be trained up to class 3 standard in their respective trades over a two week period which would count as their annual camp. The following Trade Courses were run: Tele Op Sys (Access), Tele Op Radio Relay, Tele Op Radio, Driver Electrician, Driver Lineman.

Also a Driver Training Course was run by the MTWO, WO1 Ian Thorneycroft for all those soldiers who required the correct driving qualification for their trade.

The Tele Op systems (Access) Course run by Sgt Tony Hartley was in depth, and the two students Sig's Dave Halsall and Sharon Halden have now full working knowledge of the SAS/MC. The Instructors have quite a few headaches after the amount of questions asked by the students, especially in the revision periods set aside in the evening. Hopefully these question and answer sessions ironed out any problems, which occurred during the daytime classes. Sgt Tony Hartley will now be allowed to go for a shower in peace. Congratulations to both students in achieving their class 3 in trade all they need now are their driving qualifications. Special thanks to LCpl Paula Scully who ran around trying to do eight jobs at once and putting everything she has learnt with the Regulars into practice (if in doubt make the Yeoman a cup of tea).

The Tele Op Radio course was run by Sgt Ade Hamilton. Cpl Steve Peters was able to bewilder the two students Sig's Farrow and Wright, especially the lessons on BATCO and ensured they used it at every possible moment. Operating the different Clansman radio stations, fault finding, installing radio equipment into FFR's and the numerous VP Exercises were all covered on the course along with all the visits that occurred during the weeks training. At the end of the week both students were relieved to have passed the course, and so were the over-worked instructors. We wait to see if all the training will pay off on the next Regimental Exercise.

The Tele Op Radio Relay course run by SSgt Jim 'Get off my train' Eddowes had the honour of having two students from 35 Sig Regt (V) in the form of Sig's 'Alexi' Sales and Phil 'Trainspotting' Williams as well as Sig Hitchen from the Regiment. All three soldiers learnt everything that they needed to know from the two main instructors, Cpl's Steve 'fuzzy eyes' Davies and Keith 'Monotone' Langan. Hopefully the lads from 35 Sig Regt will have gone back to their Regiment with a whole new meaning to the words Radio Relay. If anyone has seen the Chief Instructor can they point his train in the general direction of Liverpool.

42 SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

Sqn Comd Maj I. J. Kelly TD KINGS
SSM WO2 (SSM) Paul Williams

At the Manchester outpost of 33 Sig Regt (V) life continues to be as busy as ever, We have emerged relatively unscathed from the Strategic Defence Review (SDR), having suffered regrettable cuts to our Regular man power, but fortunately not to our TA strength, and we are now actively recruiting from the luckless units that have been disbanded. This has not proved to be as successful as expected due to the relatively small number of local units affected compared to the rest of the North West area. Around Manchester only the QLR in Bolton, 3 Cheshire in Macclesfield and 75 Engr Regt, Oldham detachment, have been unfortunate enough to be closed down.

This reporting period commenced with a bracing military skills weekend at Warcop (17-18 October). Here the weather was atrocious in the main, although 'sods law' dictated blue skies and sunshine when it was time to go home, and where the CO's mandatory test of map reading was made just slightly more difficult by driving rain and howling gales. Anyone who found the wooden classroom, from the multitude of similar huts which abound in the Warcop Training Camp, and where the theory part of the map reading test was due to take place, was awarded extra points by an amazed 42 Sqn PSAO, Capt Gerry Whelan, who had been confidently expecting an undisturbed snooze in between reading the daily paper.

PRE followed swiftly on the heels of Warcop, to be precise the day after our return, and the Cumbrian mud was frantically hosed off in time for the arrival of the intrepid men from 42 Bde at Preston. The next weekend saw elements of the Squadron deploying to Thorney Island near Portsmouth to Exercise with 63 (SAS) Sig Sqn. This proved to be well worth the nine-hour drive down and gave those involved an interesting insight into the SAS world while at the same time providing valuable training in their trades.

EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE–20 - 22 NOVEMBER 1998

The main event of this period was Ex Winter Eagle that took place in and around the North West of England. This was a Brigade level communications exercise linking the rest of 11 Sig Bde via the new kilo-stream pick-up point at the Altcar Training Area. The Exercise was very well attend with the Squadron fielding a variety of installations including the Trunk Node, Access Node and a Central. After a hard working weekend with plenty of moves the Squadron returned to barracks early on Sunday morning, with the exception of those lucky enough to man the mini node that was set up on the aptly named Winter Hill. This provided links for all Regimental assets as they moved back to TA Centres. SSgt Maurice Aarons, Sgt Lesley Deakin and Cpl Doreen Stringer provided a cheerful welcome to the returning members of the Squadron by serving up a superb Sunday lunch and rounding off a highly successful weekend on a high note.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY

The Squadron marched through Manchester, headed by Maj Ian Kelly, the Sqn Comd, to take its place at the Cenotaph during the Remembrance Sunday service. After the parade a curry lunch took place in the Norman Road TA Centre to which the Squadron had invited a number of civic dignitaries including Mr Duncan Lawton, Deputy Lord Lieutenant of Greater Manchester, Cllr Tony Burns, Deputy Lord Mayor (and Lord Mayor designate) and Assistant Chief Constable Malcolm George.

CONGRATULATIONS

A number of congratulations are due. The first and warmest are to our Recruiting Sergeant Sue Edge on the birth of her daughter Georgina at Warrington Hospital on Tuesday 24 November 1998. Congratulations also, to the following individuals on their recent promotions: Sgt Tim Mounfield, Sgt Hazel Trotman, Cpl Duncan Anderson, Cpl Ken Bryan, Cpl Mick Hanna, LCpl Karl Bartlett, LCl Paul Bennison, Officer Cadet Curtis-Rouse and Officer Cadet Williams.

WELCOME

Finally, we extend a warm welcome to our latest Regular soldier posted in from 21 Sig Regt, Sig Julie Houghton, whose claim to fame is that she is the only female Driver/Electrician in the Corps. We wish her an enjoyable and successful tour with the Squadron.

59 SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS) REMEMBRANCE DAY

On Sunday 8 November the Squadron paraded in Liverpool City Centre as a part of the Remembrance Day celebration. Ably led by Maj Chris Heaton, the squad that had been put through its paces by WO2 (SSM) Bob Patterson the day before, paraded in No 2 dress for the very first time. This is by no means a small feat for a TA unit and much credit must go to SSgt (SQMS) Frank Hale for his endeavour and resourcefulness.

SPORT

The Squadron played in the semi-final of the TA soccer cup for the North West of England on Sunday 19 November. Although soundly beaten by 238 Squadron RLC a good effort to progress so far, and an even bigger effort to drink the bar dry afterwards. Cpl Gaz Hayhurst has asked that the other Corps footballers do not know he was playing.

80 (CHESHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

Another year rapidly came to a close and the millennium breathing down our necks. For 80 (Cheshire Yeomanry) Signal Squadron the past year has been a mixture of consolidation and change with a sprinkling of the unusual thrown in for good measure. In January a dozen members of the Squadron went to Austria for a week's skiing while the remainder made final preparations for a Squadron Exercise in Catterick. The aim of the Exercise was to practise basic military skills and learn some new ones. We are fortunate to have in our midst two ex members of the Brigade of Guards in the form of the PSAO, Capt Chris Hopkins, and the SQMS(R) SSgt Sammy Collister. Their combined knowledge of Infantry training and exceptional level of physical fitness ensured a thoroughly testing, but at the same time, enjoyable weekend for participants.

In March six squadron stalwarts, led by the OC, Maj Stan Fitzgerald, joined other members of the Regiment to deliver much needed aid to hospitals and orphanages in Odessa in the Ukraine. This has become an annual pilgrimage for the unit and close ties are being forged. Annual Camp this year took place in Germany. The remainder of the year was taken up with Squadron, Regimental and Brigade Exercises interspersed with training, maintenance and competitions. Maj Stan Fitzgerald led a team of young enthusiasts up and down Ben Nevis, Scafell pike and Snowdon over one weekend while our two aforementioned intrepid NRPS took part in the Army and European Quadrathon Championships as well as a myriad of other equally lunatic activities. The OC is now affectionately known as 'The Grand Old Duke of York'. This year we dined out Maj Chris Fidler, the outgoing OC, and welcomed Maj Fitzgerald. We have also recently been joined by Capt Wendy Kirby, who is to become the Squadron Ops officer. She is an ex-regular who should bring considerable expertise to the unit.

THE DASH TO RAISE CASH - THE RACE TO THE FINISH

The Regiments association with and assistance to the Birmingham Childrens Hospital is now legendary and we continue to be heavily involved in the hospitals fund-raising efforts. These efforts were duly rewarded on the opening of the new hospital (now renamed 'Diana Princess of Wales Childrens Hospital) when the Regiment was invited to provide escorts and stewards for the official opening ceremony on Friday 30 October. The actual ceremony was performed by Her Majesty the Queen and His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh. On arrival the Queen and Duke were received by the Chief Executive of the Hospital, Mr Colin. Hough and the Chairman of the Trust, Judy Clements. In attendance was the Secretary of State for Health, Frank Dobson. Her Majesty and His Royal Highness were then invited to sign the visitors' book, which was in the safe custody of Sgt Dean Nicol and Cpl Carl Rossall, before starting their tour of the hospital. Prior to the tour a special reception was held in the hospital's Victorian Conservatory. Here the Queen and Duke were presented to groups of supporters, which included the CO of 35 Sig Regt, Lt Col Miles Stockdale and his wife. At this stage of the visit His Royal Highness took the opportunity to chat informally to the RSM, WO1 Kev Winkles and to SSgt Ed Perry who explained the Regiment's long term commitment to the Hospital. The Regiment was immensely honoured to be part of this very special and historical occasion and all those involved can be proud of the contribution they made no matter how small.

The fundraising team from the Regiment and Hospital in front of the Diana Memorial Window

It will undoubtedly provide many happy memories and conversation pieces for years to come. Especially for those members of the Regiment called upon to help and in particular to Capt David Brough, who was so overcome by the occasion he forgot to put a film in his camera as well as forgetting to put on his Corps tie! Our happy and productive association with the hospital continued to develop in December when 48 Sig Sqn hosted the Ward 9, Children's Christmas Party at Sparkbrook TA Centre on Sunday 6 December. The Children and their parents and helpers were treated to a festive feast and were entertained by an inspired magician who left the children in stitches (sorry) with a unique blend of magic, comedy and tenderness. Santa also made a pre Christmas stop with presents for all the delighted children.

During a short break in the festive fun and the face-painting the CO, Lt Col Miles Stockdale welcomed all the children and parents and together with Lt Carolyn Daly, presented a cheque for £1000 to the Ward sister, Michelle Snipe. Once again a special thank you is reserved for SSgt Ed Perry and his team of helpers for transforming the Drill Hall and turning it into an enchanting and delightful fairyland that ensured a successful party. The laughter of the children and their shrieks of joy are still ringing in my ears.

EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE

Opinion is generally divided as to when you can expect the best support for an Exercise -is it the depths of Autumn or is early Spring a more favourable time; is the weather a factor or perhaps more significantly the final sprint to complete mandatory days before bountiful time. Either way even though I always favour the latter my attendance predictions are usually way off course and I am always proved wrong.

Winter Eagle was no exception, the weather forecast was dire ranging from bitterly cold to freezing conditions and attendance was bound to reflect this - who on earth would voluntarily give up a comfortable weekend at home just to suffer inhospitable field conditions with an SDR briefing thrown in. Thankfully the CO's confidence in the dedication and tenacity of the TA soldier paid dividends and he was rewarded with an excellent all round attendance and despite one or two minor hiccups the Exercise was hugely successful. During the weekend the GOC 5 Div, Maj Gen R. V. Searby visited the Exercise area and, despite Sgt John Scotts cautious insistence for a password before he would let the GOC on site, was clearly pleased by what he saw. Following a Regimental briefing given by the Adjt, Capt Andy Talbot and the Trg Maj, Maj Tudor Hill, the GOC toured the Regimental assets located at Chillington Hall and chatted to many members of the Regiment. Following his tour the GOC took time out to present Maj Ivan Thomas the clasp to his Territorial Decoration and presented Efficiency Awards and clasps to WO2 (SSM) Bill Macquire, Sgt Kevin Hand and Sgt Nigel Knowles.

The medal recipients pictured with GOC 5 Div

After the presentation the GOC congratulated and thanked all the recipients for their long and valued service and then joined all ranks for a special lunch before returning to Shrewsbury. The Exercise ended on a high note with the CO briefing all ranks at Swynnerton Training Camp on the results of the SDR and the good news that the Regiment had survived with only a few changes to endure, including an impending move of the RHQ to pastures new in Coventry in the New Year!

A scene from the Exercise!

THE FIRST STEPS INTO CHRISTMAS

The Christmas festivities this year once again started with the acclaimed Council House Dinner which was held on Saturday 28 November. This elegant and sumptuous event provides the highlight of the year for the Officers Mess whose members and guests once again celebrated Christmas in style until the early hours in the magnificent, auspicious and celebrated surrounds of the City of Birmingham Council House. Distinguished guests at this prominent function included Cllr David Roy who was deputising for the Lord Mayor of Birmingham, the SOinC (A), Brig J. H. Griffin ADC and Comd 11 Sig Bde, Brig J. R. B. Cook.

Guests were greeted by the CO, Miles Stockdale and the Hon Col, Brig Ian Sim. Music was provided by the Corps Band. During the function the CO presented Lt Peter Ayre with the Dobson Cup which is presented annually to the 'Best Young Officer' in the Regiment. Once again many old friends joined the Regiment at this grand occasion which again was expertly organised by Capt George Cairns. The Council House Dinner tends to kick start all other Regimental functions and following in hot mince pie and cream pursuit the first off the ice cream block was the Permanent Staff lunch hosted by RHQ on Friday 4 December. Dish of the day was a rather festive turkey curry - a simple case of starting where you usually finish!

A scene from the Council House Dinner

A day later 48 Sig Sqn enjoyed their Christmas Function with a reported shortage of Christmas Belles (or was it bells) but nonetheless an excellent party. Hot on 48 Sqn's heels was 89 Sig Sqn's Victorian Banquet held in their TA Centre, on Friday 11 December, which was transformed by SSgt 'If I can find it I'll scratchit' Walker and his talented team to match the theme. Singled out for special mention are LCpl Liz Judge and Sig Jane Bell for producing such excellent props and backdrops and for not losing their sense of humour. As we make our way towards that well earned Christmas Break the Sgts' Mess, HQ, 95 and 58 Sqn will be holding their functions in their respective TA Centres before the closedown. Once again a busy but often uncertain year has ended on a positive, reassuring and relaxing note!

NEWSROUND

Here is a quick round up of newsworthy events that have taken place throughout the Regiment during the past few months. On Tuesday 17 November Her Majesty's Lord Lieutenant for the County of Warwickshire, Mr Martin Dunne JP visited 89 Sig Sqn in Rugby. The Lord Lieutenant was met and escorted throughout the visit by the CO, Lt Col Miles Stockdale the Sqn Comd, Maj Steve Pell and the Deputy Secretary of TAVRA, Lt Col Dennis Kane. Following the visit the Lord Lieutenant joined all ranks in the Sqn Club for a curry supper. Here he took the opportunity to chat to many members of the Squadron. The visit was a resounding success and prior to his departure the Lord Lieutenant remarked on how impressed he was with the efficiency, proficiency and dedication of Warwickshire's TA soldiers.

A rather sad event has also taken place recently with the departure of perhaps the most resolute PSAO in the Brigade. After a remarkable total of 46 years service Maj Roger Breese, PSAO of 58 (Staffordshire) Sig Sqn since 1986, finally retired from the Corps on 6 November. Roger was one of the Corps stalwarts and true characters and his fondness for storytelling and his presence will be sadly missed by all ranks as will his humorous antics. Fortunately Roger has no plans at present to move from the area and we hope to see him at many future functions - keep the handkerchief handy Rog! A special warm welcome has also been extended to his replacement, Capt Mike Gleeson and his wife Barbara. We wish them both a happy and rewarding time with the Regiment and Squadron.

To end on a light note 95 Sig Sqn also made the headlines on Friday 6 November with their involvement in restoring the Wrekin Beacon on top of the famous Shropshire landmark. It was for the first time in over 30 years that this much-loved 'friendly light', which was a sign of home to generations of Salopians will have shone from the Wrekin. Members of 95 Sqn took the new beacon to the summit and after SSgt Derek Adams and Sig William Aston gave it a final wipe down the beacon was switched on for test transmissions. Thankfully the light in 95 Sqn's life has now been fully restored!

LORD MAYOR'S SHOW

Once again, the Squadron was honoured to be invited to enter a mounted contingent into the procession of the Lord Mayor's show – the annual celebration for the inauguration of the Lord Mayor of London. Selected from a cast of many willing volunteers, the participants had undergone some training before the day of the parade, courtesy of the Household Cavalry Mounted Regiment. They had also had their No 1 Dress uniforms tailored to perfection under the watchful eye of their former Coldstream Guards PSAO, Capt Ian Wadley.

The day itself started extremely early. The riders and support team paraded at Knightsbridge Barracks to be issued with their chargers for the procession. To say the horses are enormous would be no exaggeration, and it was only due to the presence, on horseback, of the RMO, Capt David Thompson, that several cases of vertigo were avoided. Having settled down, and collected accoutrements such as lances and swords, the party set off in file through the streets of London to the assembly point. The weather, although cold, was dry, so they remained in high spirits as they waited to set off. The parade was extremely well received with thousands of people on hand to cheer them on their way and revel in the spectacle.

The only significant highlight of the morning was when one of the horses took fright at a balloon being waved from a nearby float, almost unseating his rider. Fortunately, however, the disaster was averted and everybody made it intact to the lunch stop. Having been in the saddle for over four hours, it was a welcome relief to reach the grounds of Middle Temple where a well-stocked Mess tent was set up. After a reasonable break and a pause for photographs, the contingent then remounted, to continue the second half of the procession. This part went as successfully as the first, and the riders had returned to barracks in time to catch a glimpse of the fireworks after nearly eight hours in the saddle.

FESTIVAL OF REMEMBRANCE

The Squadron was further honoured by being asked to participate in the televised Festival of Remembrance at the Albert Hall. Six members of 68 (IC&CY) Sig Sqn were joined by two members of 265 (KCLY) Sig Sqn in commemorating the nation's war dead. Having been fitted with No 1 Dress Uniforms to the satisfaction of the PSAO, they had a couple of rehearsals at Lincoln's Inn, prior to the full dress rehearsal on the day before the event. Their efforts were well recognised by the Garrison Sergeant Major who complimented them on their drill and turnout. A Coldstream Guardsman, he does not give praise lightly, so every credit goes to those who took part. The praise was received with considerable relief – at 6ft 7', the GSM is not a man to mess with!

FAREWELL

Prior to this year's Remembrance Day Parade, the Squadron said farewell and thank you to the Squadron Honorary Colonel, Brig Colin Brown. Brig Colin has given the Squadron tremendous support throughout his tenure in the post.

Maj Palmer presents a farewell gift to Brig Brown

His final act with the Squadron was to assist the Mayor of Chelmsford in taking the salute during the Remembrance Day March Past, and then presenting Territorial Efficiency Medals to Sgt Tony Perry, Sgt Nick Wilks and a First Clasp to the Efficiency Medal to WO2s Mark Bell and Richard Pieper.

Awards recipients – Sgt Malyon, Sgt Wilks, Sgt Perry, WO2 Pieper, WO2 Bell

WELCOME

At the same ceremony, the Squadron welcomed our new Honorary Colonel, Col David Casstles TD DL. Col Casstles is well known to the Squadron. He was a former Squadron Commander from 1972 – 1980 and later commanded the Regiment, taking over from Brig Colin Brown. He is Deputy Lieutenant for Essex and has in previous years kindly presented HM Lord Lieutenant's Certificate of Meritorious Service to Essex to members of the Regiment. This year, Col David presented the award to Sgt Brian Malyon.

BTEC NATIONAL DIPLOMA IN PUBLIC SERVICES

At Chelmsford we are fortunate in having a strong connection with the local Chelmsford College and the department organising the BTec National Diploma in Public Services. The Diploma in Public Services is a two year course and is equivalent to A Levels for male and female students who wish to join the uniformed services, military, fire, police or ambulance. SSgt Liz Murphy, in her civilian occupation with the college, is the course leader and has encouraged her students to join the Squadron. We currently have eight course members on strength, and in the past members of the course have gone on to join the Army and the Metropolitan Police. A former student who is still with the TA is currently serving with 1 (UK) Armd Div on Op Palatine. The students use the facilities at Chelmsford TAC twice a week, and naturally receive assistance from the Squadron, when required.

SQUADRON REUNION

Thanks go out to the SSM, WO2 Keith Wrate for organising an extremely successful inaugural Squadron Reunion, which was held in November at Bexleyheath. Over 130 people attended, with some guests dating back to the Sixties. Three previous Sqn Comds, (Majs Simon Malik, David Hannam and David Hewer) and two previous SSMs (Mark Penny and Danny Farmer) were also present. This was a long overdue event which was enjoyed by all concerned, both young and old. It is hoped that this will now become an annual bash, provided we can obtain sufficient sandbags to sit on and enough lanterns to swing. However, we may have to outlaw the phrase 'Do you remember…?' as this was being used to excess, with tales of derring do, mostly involving the harassment of the vertically challenged Sgt David 'Heed, Weeman' Whitehouse.

OTHER NEWS

The Squadron was more than happy to hear that there is no change to their establishment post SDR and that we can now knuckle down to the new Trade Training season with renewed vigour, as well as the seemingly endless round of Christmas get-togethers. We would like to welcome back SSgt Steve 'Razors' Shelley after a stint in Bosnia, with enough stories to see us well into the new millennium.

EXERCISE STREET FIGHTER

Eastmere OBUA village was the setting for the 887 Tp Exercise where, under the watchful eye of the range staff and our instructors from B Coy Londons, our FIBUA skills were carefully honed to make us the promised lean mean fighting machines.

Most of us, having recently watched 'Saving Private Ryan' had a better insight to what support would be expected, but Eastmere having very little in common with Hollywood provided us with Chorley grenades and battle sims. The weekend culminated in, surprise surprise, a dawn attack where Cpls Andy Wilton and Andy Keeler led their respective sections in their well rehearsed drills. Things were going relatively smoothly until Sig 'Mad Dog' Williams (clearly having watched too many Arnie movies) abandoned his buddy, Sig Tracey MacKenzie (despite unprintable threats) and single handedly attacked a three storey house through a first floor window. Fortunately it didn't come out in the video, and even more fortunately Sig Williams was only attached to the Troop for the weekend.

After successfully clearing the houses and just before the tea and medals bit, the weekend's final activity was the confidence course which if you survived would definitely give you confidence. Fortunately, we all did survive and a fantastic weekend finished up.

KVCC AWCS DEPLOYS AGAIN

In addition to our indefinite presence in SFOR, an AWCS Mobile Communications Module (MCM) has deployed to KUMANOVO in the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia as part of the Kosovo Verification Coordination Cell (KVCC). Aboard two C17 globemasters travelled the OC, Maj Kelly, SSgt Andy Chalmers, Cpls Billy Eckett and 'Caz' Castle and LCpl 'Doc' Savage. These five R SIGNALS soldiers were the first British personnel on the ground which in time will see the KVCC dealing with KOSOVO verification matters and co-ordinating the activities of the French led Extraction Force comprising French, British and German helicopters and infantry. AWCS provided access via satellite and switching facilities to link KVCC with HQ AFSOUTH and SFOR.

EXERCISE OR DIE

Burning Harmony is now just a pleasant memory of an event that occupied us for seven weeks in five locations throughout The Netherlands and Germany. R SIGNALS Capt Martin Fielding exclaimed, 'Thank God I have the best soldiers in AFCENT' to which Cpls Harry Harris and 'Slasher' Heron enthusiastically agreed whilst working the night shift in MAIN. In fact the Exercise was so enjoyable that Sgt Andy Butler pined to join his HICOM switch and flew in from Sarajevo just to be with his pride and joy.

AWCS ON SAFARI

Capt Martin Fielding led a merry band to Zimbabwe in October where all had a thoroughly good time. A big red maple leaf goes to Cpl Billy Eckett who got more that he bargained for. It's only fitting that SSgt Andy Chalmers deployed on the KVCC two days after Zimbabwe, though he looked well tanned in anticipation of the delights of Skopje.

ALAS FAREWELL

We lose with this issue an OC, Maj Kelly who is off to be COS, 2 Sig Bde as well as SSgt Keith Carter who is taking his first steps towards civvy life. Leaving on promotion are Cpls 'Slasher' Heron, John Mcloughlin, 'The Knife' Ibinson and Billy Eckett.

Thank you, good luck and farewell.

PAPA TROOP
by Cpl Pearsall
Tp Comd — 2Lt Dave Hills
Tp SSgt — SSgt Norman Finnegan

The troops returned from Poland after vanquishing the evil orange forces forever (or at least until the next Exercise). After tea and medals we looked forward to a quiet time, a wind down period before we all depart on leave for Christmas and the New Year. This time was only interrupted by a few minor events, such as our LSI, 2nd line inspections, PRE and PRE monitoring team visit, HASAW inspections, Ex Magnum Spirit, JOTES exam and practical, squadron plug-ups and JRDF mobilisation practice. Not forgetting of course the ongoing programme of servicing and inspections and normal detachment maintenance drills. In the two or three weeks in which all the above happened there are certain troop members who, due to their outstanding efforts truly deserve a mention. Cpl 'I'll just take the day off' Steve Heywood, who made the Troop store look like a Troop store again, finding the anchor of the Mary Celeste at the same time, as well as Lord Lucan's slippers. Sigs Glen 'ears' Hislop and Mal 'I had two' Pattinson for slaving away on the entire rover fleet and getting them through all their inspections with respectable results. Sig Neil McElhinney for winning the coveted 'Best Marshall' award, although how? and why? are the questions on most peoples' minds! The second lines went nearly according to plan with the lads putting in the effort and consequently getting the reports that they deserved, especially Sig 'Franz Klammer' Stanton and Sig Paul 'sleeping bag' Henderson, both managing to keep the 'A' job sheet clean.

On the JOTES side of things 'Lt Rupert Walsh' is to be commended on his valiant effort to try and wind our new boss up.....unfortunately a valiant effort was all it was because he wasn't having any of it. Never mind there's plenty of time yet sir.....Sadly we have had to say goodbye to some valued Troop members. Departing to pastures new are: Cpl 'Dinger' Bell and his wife Jo who are leaving us upon promotion for good old Blighty. LCpl Andy 'Parky' Parkinson and his wife Marie are both off to the Royal School. Last, but not least we say goodbye to Lt (now Capt) Andy Hopcraft who leaves us for the warmer climate of the Ops Office as he takes over as the new Squadron Ops Officer. We all wish you all the very best of luck in your new postings and appointments. At this stage we welcome into our midst 2Lt Dave 'bit of a bayonet' Hill who joins us straight from his Troop Commanders course, and Sig Glyn Hayes who also joins us straight from the factory.

SUPPORT TROOP
QM — Capt M. Smith MBE
RQMS — WO2 (RQMS) V. E. McNaught BEM

Once again this has been a busy time for Support Tp. In October we said farewell to Sgt 'Taff' Doughty who is posted to sunny 1 Div, and Sig Mark Bryden who is now enjoying himself in Civvy street. We would like to say a warm welcome to SSgt Dave 'Tit for tat' Patrick and his family, Sgt Mick Pryce and his family, and Sigs Thewlis and O'Connor straight from the factory. Whilst on Ex Ulan Eagle Sgt Titch McGiffen managed to disappear when his wife Lesley gave birth to their daughter Laura - some people will go to any lengths to get off an Exercise! (Congratulations from everyone in the Troop). On 19 June Support Troop held a farewell party for SSgt 'Suntan' Hizzet and SSgt 'Barbie' Saunders that was organised by LCpls Paul Creeley and George Callander. The evening was well prepared and organised apart from the weather, but what's a drop of rain compared with the water tank that both members ended up in by the end of the evening. The Bunjee run and sumo's made the evening a night to remember.

Farewell Party

EXERCISE WET RAT 17-23 OCTOBER 1998
by Sig Lee Slater

With the planning and organisation complete, it was time to head off to Keil for seven days adventure sail training around the Baltic Sea. With a motley crew of six, we set sail for Marstal, our first destination. Whilst underway we had a general shake out and tried to get to the boat, which seemed to have a mind of it's own, despite the amount of experienced crew that we had on board. As we were to find out experience counts for very little when Capt Andy Hopcraft and myself spent the best part of the day hanging over the side and Technicolor yawning in unison. With not one jot of sympathy for the two temporarily indisposed crew-members, we crept into the harbour at Marstal under cover of darkness. After turning the boat around it was full steam ahead, off into the town, led by our trusty skipper Cpl Stu Reynolds, to sample a bit of Danish culture. Egos were bruised when the pick of the local female population brushed aside the younger, more sprightly members of the crew and flocked to our older and apparently more stylish skipper who handled the matter with tact, diplomacy, and subtlety and sent them packing. Cheers Stu!

It was to Farborg that our journey took us next. After spending the previous day settling in, it was time to get down to some serious sailing and teaching the two novices, Sigs Jim Findlay and Tim Stanton what it was all about. What the different parts of the boat are, how each part works, how each piece of kit made the boat move differently and all other basic aspects of sailing. It was a tired crew that pulled into Harbour that night, but for Cfn Phil 'Trucker' Taylor the day was not over. We had engine trouble, and being our resident mechanics expert as well as day skipper, it was down to him to try and sort it out. With only a few spare parts and a bit of inspiration, an hour later the yacht, Kittywake was seaworthy once again.

The following day was harder still, but our spirits weren't subdued. We took it in turns at the helm and sail changing and generally putting the boat through its paces, catching some excellent waves and putting the boat on its side. Although we assumed everyone had settled down Capt Andy Hopcraft proved us all wrong, by saying hello again to at least one meal a day. It turned out that Sonderborg was to be our last port of call and happened to be our home for the next two nights due to severe storm warnings. Even though the weather restricted us to the harbour area, the next day we still made use of the time and took to learning knots and the ropes that go with the job. An early finish allowed us to look around the town and a chance to do some quick shopping as well as the obligatory night life recce.

A cooked breakfast for the rest of the crew and a quick clanking of the kettle, which was the only thing that would motivate our skipper, was what saw us off the next day. As well as feeling a touch on the rough side, we had to cope with the sea, which, although calmer than the previous day was still quite rough. It was a long sail and some of the crew tried to get themselves below for a quick siesta before docking at Damp for the evening. To put our minds at rest as to who copped for pan bashing that night it was decided that we should go out for a quiet meal before turning in for some needed rest. Our final leg took us back to the port of Kiel, where, once docked it was time to clean up the boat and hand back all borrowed equipment and head off to camp. After what turned out to be an interesting and enjoyable week, everyone was glad to be back on dry land permanently, especially Capt Andy Hopcraft who could at last start eating properly again!

EXERCISE ULAN EAGLE
by Sig Nicky Moxon

This was the third time that the Squadron had been to Poland in a year - but it was the biggest exercise by far - a Brigade FTX to test us all and it was hard work. People were tired, including myself, and levels of morale varied throughout! Most of the Squadron travelled to Poland by train which took about 24 hours and was the opportunity to get plenty of sleep as we knew that the next two weeks would be tough, but it was also an excellent opportunity to catch up on sleep on the way back. I was located at ECH CP after a rather 'pleasant' trip with the not so cautious 432 driver, Sig Tim Stanton, from which my nerves eventually recovered. The first few days were difficult getting into the routine of shifts and remembering things that were not new to me, but needed a bit of practice. The Comms Tps were busy in the main complex and alternate, the constant change and moves making everyone really tired, however the work rate and standards remained the same throughout. Everyone, no matter what their role put in 100% effort. That is why I think that the Exercise was beneficial to the Squadron as everyone at every level learnt something. That said, I was glad to hear that brilliant phrase 'ENDEX', but feel that I achieved a great deal as I am sure most of the Squadron would agree.

7 ARMOURED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (207)

As an extremely busy year draws to a close, the Squadron is looking forward to a well deserved break. In the period since the last edition we have supported a number of Exercises as well as the normal routine of inspections and military training. The change from training support role to training in 1999 will be welcomed by all and will provide a whole fresh set of challenges. Now, on with news from the Troops. . .

ALPHA TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Helen Murphy
Tp SSgt — SSgt James Runchman

The Troop has had an extremely busy time of late with Exercise upon Exercise being slotted in between the usual daily tasks and inspections and we are now looking forward to a well earned rest over the festive season. Ex Ulan Eagle saw the Troop deploying to Poland in support of 4th Armoured Brigade at the end of their training year under the command of Lt Helen Murphy and SSgt James Runchman. Sgt Tony Ward unfortunately had to give Poland a miss due to injury and commanded the Alpha Troop rear party that consisted of LCpl Bernie Clifton (how the time flew for the Tp Sgt). On the return from Poland, the Panzers underwent a major re-furbishment with all radio equipment and furniture being removed from them before everything was cleaned, serviced, painted and replaced, all under the watchful eye of the Complex Cpl, Dave Langridge.

It hasn't all been hard work though and the Troop has managed to deploy on a few social trips as well. Lt Helen Murphy, LCpl Gaz Woolley, Sig 'Rossy' Ross and Sig 'Des' White went running off to Prague for the weekend along with other Squadron Members - a good time was had by all. Some members of the Troop, along with a few wannabe's from Bravo Troop trucked up to Berlin for an evening of entertainment and culture, being kindly accommodated in a local Bundeswehr Camp - again, a good time was had by all.

We would like to welcome to the Troop Sgt Tony Ward, his wife Anja and their two sons who join us from 15 Sig Regt, we hope you enjoy your time in the Troop. Sadly we must bid farewell to LCpl Gaz Woolley who leaves us in January for 1 Signal Squadron and to Sig 'Jock' Devaney who also leaves in January for 1 Mech Brigade, the Troop wish you both well in your future careers. Finally, congratulations go out to LCpl Ginty McTurk on being selected for promotion to Cpl, to LCpl Dale Petty on his recent engagement and to Cpl Phil Jenkinson on his forthcoming marriage and honeymoon in the Carribean.

BRAVO TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Adam Corkery
Tp SSgt — SSgt Dave Sloane

The last month or so has been a very busy period for the troop. Firstly we would like to welcome Sig Andy Barker straight from Blandford and Cpl Jim Bean and his wife Sharon from 2 Sig Regt. Congratulations also to Sig 'Bob' Zimmerman, Sig Greg Dick, LCpl Chris Moore and Cpl 'Jonah' Jones on selection for the BAG football squad for a tour in Denmark. Since Ulan Eagle the Troop has been to Sennelager on a BBGT Exercise and then supported Alpha Troop on Ex Sheldrake Sword (due to a lack of good tradesmen of their own?) The Troop has also been busy with 1st lines where some quite impressive reports were achieved. We would like to say congratulations to Sig Ian Danter and his new wife Stephanie on their marriage and to Barny Beevers on his promotion to LCpl. Finally some farewells. Firstly to Cpl Damon Walmsley and his wife who has left us in favour of 1 ADSR and also to Sig Laura Cummings who is re-badging to the AGC. Good luck to both of you.

OPS/ES TROOP
Tp Comd — Capt Jason Gray
Yeoman — WO2 (YofS) Parsons
Foreman — SSgt (FofS) McCullum

Finally the end of a very busy year is drawing to a close having just finished BBGT and Ex Sheldrake Sword, with the Troop performing outstanding feats of engineering and battling the elements to provide technical assistance to the Brigade complex. To say that we spent the majority of the time playing cards in an air conditioned ERV is just a blatant lie! Massive congratulations must go to Sgt. Jules Thorne who, whilst trying to bluff SSgt (FofS) 'Mac' McCallum on the qualities of the new test rig, completed spec testing on a VRC 353 to prove his point only to be told by Mac that he hadn't even turned the set on! Nice one Jules! Cpl Richie 'Scratchy' Brown has discovered that perhaps he is not quite ready for his class 1 as he was having difficulty accepting that 18 months was 1.5 years - never mind Richie, you never were very good at arithmetic! Lastly a fond farewell to Cpl Tony Thirlwell who is off to NI (Maybe to do some work??) and a big hello to our newest recruit, LCpl Roger Mortimer, I hope your time here will be as enjoyable as ours.

SUPPORT TROOP
QM — Capt (QM) Drain
RQMS — WO2 (RQMS) Cowan

The Troop has been busy since returning from Ex Ulan Eagle 1998, packing and sending the worlds biggest supply of tentage back to Dulmen. During October we provided admin support for HQ RA on Ex Shelldrake Sword. Once again LCpl (GWA) Rowles declined the offer to join us on Exercise, using his promotion on posting to 4 Bde as an excuse. Good luck to him, or is that 4 Bde?

Congratulations to Capt (QM) W. J. Drain who is posted on promotion to 7 Sigs as OC HQ Sqn and to Sig Robinson on promotion to LCpl (and already wearing it). We are all looking forward to a well earned Christmas break before preparations start for the forthcoming LSI in February.

19 MECHANISED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (209)

ALPHA TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt J. S. Griffiths
Tp SSgt — SSgt G. Steel

It has been a while since Alpha Troop had an input into the 'Corps Mag', so there is a fair bit of news to be reported on. After a rather hectic few months following summer leave, which included numerous exercises, a Staff College Demo, a Brigade CAST (BBGT to older members), an ATD camp and RSIT, it was time for us to get away for a few days as a Troop. We embarked on a Troop Range Camp, on the north east coast, for a few days, to Whitburn Training Camp, near Sunderland. After arriving, the first days activities eventually started once the keys to the target shed were found in SSgt Gaz Steel's pocket (apparently he forgot that he'd signed for them 30 minutes beforehand). The first day consisted of zeroing the rifle 5.56, and then an introduction to firing automatic, with mixed results. Put it this way, the fish won't swim so close to the beach in future. Day two we fired LSW & GPMG, and with more than 400 rounds per person on the GPMG, it was surprising the barrels stayed straight! On the third day, we had a demonstration of non-service weapons courtesy of the Durham Constabulary Fire Arms Squad, including sawn off shotgun, Uzi, sniper rifles, and the majority of issue service weapons dating back to the nineteenth century. This was followed by a march and shoot competition. Of course, there were 'extra-mural activities' during the evening which all contributed to an excellent week away.

HELLOS & GOODBYES

Finally, we would like to welcome the following to the fold; Lt John Griffiths from 216, Sgt Neil Hunt, Cpl Jones from NI, LCpl Monty Monteith, Sigs 'O' Kay, and Hermitage from 2 Sig Regt, and Sigs 'Unlucky Alf' Moore and Sig '21D' Rakocevic from the factory, hope you enjoy Catterick (By the way, we now have 3-man crews). Fond farewells go to Lt Mike Wong to 216, and LCpl Nick Ions to RMA Sandhurst, hope you enjoy your new postings. All in all, a busy period, we now look forward to winding down for Christmas. Bye.

BRAVO TROOP
by Signallers Whatmough and Banks
Tp Comd — Lt J. E. Toze
Tp SSg — SSgt M. O'Brien

On the 8 November, two lucky members of Bravo Tp, 19MBSS, Sigs Eddy Banks and 'Flymo' Whatmough, joined the crew of HMS Monmouth for a week with the boys in blue. HMS Monmouth being a type 23 Frigate whose primary role is to hunt submarines. She is the only member of the fleet to show the black flag, as Duke of Monmouth was a traitor. The JOCOMEX exercise involved establishing a RATT link between 19 MBSS and HMS Monmouth. We were the 'Lucky' individuals chosen to stay on the ship, which meant we had almost a whole week at the hands of the NAVY. With stories about lonely sailors and long sea journeys swirling around our heads we bid farewell to the land and headed out to sea.

On our first day we were issued with our seasickness pills and as we bobbed around on the waters of the Channel we were told 'Ne bother lads, just a millpond this. Be rougher later on in the week.' Words which were still with us as we crawled into our tiny beds that night. We were given a guided tour of the ship by the Yeoman and told that we could visit any part, and would have the opportunity to work in the different sections. The first of these was the ops room where we were introduced to L.O.M. 'Taff' Ford who showed us his radar, and how the ship tracked aircraft, boats and submarines. He also told us about the weapon systems and how they worked. That night after a few drinks from 'THE FRIDGE' in the mess, which we shared with 37 other members, it was time to hit the sack.

By Sunday it was getting rougher and it took all our concentration to walk up the stairs and corridor to the comms room to meet our naval counterparts where OMC, 'Stan the man' Felton showed us around. The only familiar thing was the radio operator's log, which hung uselessly on the wall. Basically the ship works with signal messages from the land, via a satellite link, as well as an HF voice link when manoeuvering close to other ships. The brief tour of the comms room over Stan took us up to the bridge where we had a good view of the steadily roughening sea. With the Engine Room beckoning in the morning it was time to hit the fridge in the mess with our other 'shipmates'.

Monday brought the stokers and their engines. The ship runs on four diesel engines and two powerful gas turbines similar to jet plane engines. These required a lot of maintenance and we spent our time scuttling in small holes trying to find them. As we passed through the Orkneys we were thrilled as the waters quietened and the ship steadied. Another trip to the comms room which we now knew as the MCO (Maritime Communications Office), and we were introduced to OMC 'big Steve' Hacking who went into greater detail. He explained how officers could send messages from most parts of the ship, they could also pick up their messages by entering their passwords into the consoles scattered around the ship.

1400hrs on Monday and we were at anchor off North Scotland. 24hrs later and we were refuelling at Loch Ewe, and this gave our land loving Signaller's time to stretch their legs in the far north of Scotland. Back on board, the ship was refuelled and ready to go. We sailed passed 'Anthrax Island' which, as we later found out was where the British tested their biological weapons during the second world war and headed back out into the Northern Atlantic and more rough waters.

At 0811hrs the teleprinter jumped into action and we received the first test from Catterick. The link was strong and stayed almost unbroken for 48 hours. A few different conversational subjects were encountered throughout the night, but still the link held. Friday morning and it was land ahoy as we docked at Faslane. Our transport was waiting for us and we bade farewell to HMS Monmouth and headed, on dry land, back to Catterick.

We would both like to thank the Captain of HMS Monmouth, as well as the whole of the Ships Company, especially the 39 Man Mess and the staff of the MCO for their hospitality and efforts in making us feel part of the crew.

BENGAL TROOP - BRIGADE MAIN HEADQUARTERS

by Sigs Chris Elliston and Andy Campbell

Tp Comd Lt Andy Stead
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Gosney

A warm welcome first of all to our new arrivals: LCpl Spaerpoint from 249 Sig Sqn and Sig Foster from RSS Blandford. A sad farewell to LCpl 'Willy' Wilson moving to 15 Sig Regt and LCpl Kev Bickford on the move to 16 Sig Regt in Germany, good luck to both in their future careers and postings. The Troop has continued in its busy month with deployment on Ex Certain Death II, a Troop level shake out of the Brigade Main HQ. A highly enjoyable and constructive exercise for most, the exception being Sgt Spence 'Pathfinder' Wolf, he decided to take a short jolly around Salisbury Plain to complete what should be a ten minute journey in only a few hours, things look good for the forthcoming Sgt's Course Spence! The Troop is now looking forward to the Squadron Xmas 'Bad Taste' party and of course Xmas leave after another hectic year in Tidworth.

SABRE TROOP - BRIGADE FORWARD HEADQUARTERS

A farewell goes to Cpl Tony Rosen good luck in Herford and then there's a hello to Sig 'I'm too posh' Dunn and Sig 'Swiller' Latimer recently arrived from RSS Blandford. The Troop has carried out a number of individual tasks that deserve comment. Sig Chris Elliston spent a busy week with his father, Sgt Gary Elliston, and Cpl Dave Penelton recruiting for the Corps. Based in the Bath area they visited schools and taught up to 300 pupils to ride 80, 125 and 200cc motorbikes. A highly enjoyable and constructive week for themselves as well as the Corps being well represented. Cpl 'I've upgraded my RAM' Williams and LCpl ' The Colonel' Shaw spent summer leave in the COMCEN at Batus, unfortunately though it was great fun, they won't be getting the leave back, sorry boys!

EXERCISE BLACK SABRE II

The last chance to practice Troop and Squadron SOPs prior to deployment to Bosnia in March 1999. With renewed vigour the entire Troop threw themselves into vehicles ready to face the world of the renowned quagmire, that is Salisbury Plain in winter. Lt 'FA Cup' Muir, the illustrious Troop Comd had obviously spent many a night in the Mess planning this little gem of a training programme. The vehicles departed on Day 1 to the armoured vehicle maintenance stand and the self-proclaimed armour king Cpl 'Big Norm' Crook. Assisted by SSgt 'TinkyWinky' Rutland who did his utmost to persuade Sig Kinsella that he was enjoying the experience and comments of 'I'll stick to my rover if it's all the same,' would not pass as a valid excuse not to take part. A hectic programme followed, the Tidworth Nav-ex Rally commenced with Sig 'Chest Prodder' Russell breaking down only 1km from the start, the eventual winners turning out to be the Tidworth Orphan duo of Sig Campbell and LCpl Knowles.

Not to be outdone on the recruiting the Troop then hosted Tidworth CCF, eager to learn more about the Royal Corps and army life. LCpl 'Sheepdog' Simpson frantically herded the cadets to the waiting arms of LCpl 'Cam them up' Saunders and an introduction into high tech world of the Clansman radio. Somewhat shell shocked they then moved to see that black magic known as the Ptarmigan equipment. This was too much for them to take, as it was for most of the Squadron who also believe Ptarmigan to be a small scary, rather rare, animal and not a form of communication. Next came Sgt 'Ginger Princess' Storey's last surprise, the CS Chamber. The NBC Instructors shenanigans were too difficult to avoid and it was with slightly puffy eyes that the Troop once again set off into the next convoy drills session, luckily this time reaching ENDEX. The relief was obvious, whilst some simply collapsed under the emotion of it all, OCdt 'Barry' Jeffrey took the moment to quickly reflect on how not to run any more generators on Kero! At last back to camp for the turnaround and the debrief in the relaxing surroundings of the pub for the informal PXR points that ensure the Troop remain at the cutting edge of the modem communications world. Next stop Bosnia 1999, no more Salisbury Plain for at least a year, can it really be true?

MOTOR TRANSPORT DEPARTMENT

MT SSgt SSgt Forrester
SNCO Sgt Smith

A busy time in the MT, but firstly a welcome to Support Troop MT, Sig Steers, Sig Davies, Sig Turowski and Sig Tucker from Blandford. Congratulations on coming off the Corporals Promotion Board, LCpl Andy Pursglove, LCpl 'Salty' Towner and also to Cpl Chris 'Colonel' Umney who successfully passed his Corporals Course and is keeping the MT in shape, and Sgt 'Smudge' Smith who has at last passed his Motor Bike Course. After returning back from Ex Lion Sun the MT has started the role of Pre Bosnia Training and getting the vehicles ready for deployment, which will be taking place March 1999.

QUARTERMASTERS DEPARTMENT

QM Capt Phil Abbott
RQMS WO2 (RQMS) George Crozier

Since returning from Summer Block Leave, it has been a very busy time in the QM's Dept with the Unit preparing for Ex Lion Sun, the annual LSI inspection and the usual handful of PRE's. But despite these side issues Sig Debi Heath found time to get married to LCpl Scott Lewis of 3 (UK) Div Sig Regt, so congratulations to her and also Sig Ann-Marie Read on the arrival of a baby boy. Also many congratulations to the QM on being selected for a time extension to his SSC (LE). Most of the Department deployed to Cyprus. The prize for the best tan goes to the Quartermaster and his FAN ASSISTED HAT! SSgt Forrester was seconded to the QM's Dept to act as RQMS, and after some rudimentary training by Cpl Brad Bradley and LCpl 'Cheesy Fat Cat' Deas, settled into the job very well.

Despite the restrictions put upon exercising units, Cpl Bradley and LCpl Deas managed to be socially active throughout. Sgt Brown managed to gain some valuable training for his impending Sgt's Course, which must have paid off because he has now successfully completed the course. LCpl 'Rat Boy' Jones and the Siggies stayed behind with the RQMS and did a complete clean up of the office and stores areas, not very exciting when the majority of the Unit where 'relaxing' in Cyprus. After everyone returned from Ex Lion Sun the Department started preparing for the impending inspections and prep for Op Palatine, Bosnia 1999. Sadly a few people will not be coming with us, so we say farewell to LCpl 'Rat Boy' Jones, who is off to 19 Mech Bde at Xmas. It is also farewell to Sig Ann - Marie Read and Sig 'Brew Assassin' Carter both of who leave the Service in early 1999.

Good luck to all of these and every success in the future. The Department welcomes Sig 'Smudge' Smith from Blandford, we hope he has a successful tour with the Unit. The Support Troop commitment to the Tidworth Community Action Plan continues in the form of providing assistance to 1st Tidworth Scout Troop in their efforts to build a new Scout hut. Thanks to the efforts of the QM and RQMS the car boot sales to raise money for the new Scout Hut continue to be a great success. The hut is at last starting to take shape in that the concrete foundations have been laid and for this a big thanks goes to 22 Engr Regt for their efforts. The next stage is the arrival of the pre-fabricated building which, with a bit of luck, should be on site at the beginning of the New Year.

TECHNICAL WORKSHOPS

Tp Comd SSgt Watson

It's been a busy period for the Tech Wksps, with many commitments such as Ex Purple Sound and Cambrian patrol safety comms. We have also had a few postings in and out of the workshops.

Firstly, and with regret the Workshop lost Sgt Reg Ebanks to the School of Signals, a character in his own right and the only mobile ES library in the British Army. Good luck for the future Reg! The long awaited arrival of the Tech SSgt was next when SSgt Bob Watson came to us from 37 Sig Regt (V) and immediately developed a nasty back strain. Whether this was due to the workload or a batman costume is unknown at this time. Sgt 'Chicken' George is still sowing his own brand of chaos and mayhem, although we have found that he seems to function better with his beret on! Cpl Colin Hooson is now well and truly settled in the Squadron, and is looking 'un' happier every day. Cpl Mark Murphy has been so busy representing the Squadron in various competitions that he frequently forgets his way to work. Both Cpls Jelley and Paul Faizey are counting down the days to their postings, only a few weeks to push now and sunny Tidworth will only be a warm memory. LCpl Stu Rowbottom remains as ever at the bottom of the food chain but with all the departures and operations looming he hopes to gain advancement.

EXERCISE LION SUN 1998

On 10 September, 215 Signal Squadron set off on Exercise Lion Sun. The aim was to develop the command skills of Junior NCO's. The secondary aim was to win the sun-tanning contest! The Exercise was split into three phases - the Live Firing Phase, Infantry Training Phase, and the Final Exercise. The phases were interspersed with adventurous training that included a medley of water sports ranging from dinghy-sailing to sub-aqua and water-skiing. There was, of course Rest and Recuperation that produced wide and varied memories, though none were sufficient to get us an early flight home.

A cross-section of rouges from the Royal Scots, A&SH, Artillery and Engineers gave us an excellent Live Firing package, really stretching the skills of all that participated. After mastering CQB ranges and live fire-team attacks, the grand finale was a live section attack through a parched valley. The GPMG sent rounds thudding over the heads of the sections whilst they destroyed an enemy tank using LAW 94. Sections then descended into the dustbowl for some hard fighting; with skills and drills honed by a week of build up training the results were impressive. After the re-org, sections tabbed back for a well deserved ice cream from 'Toni Bell', who had the knack of knowing our next location before we did!

Next came the Infantry Training Phase, a four day round robin spent in the field. The knowledge gained here was to see the troops through the Final Exercise, so OP's, Ambushes and Map Reading had to be covered. The OP's were characterised by the stars and moons seen through the CWS and NVG's. Troops learned to receive and deliver orders here and on the Ambush stand. On the Ambush stand the anticipation of triggering off their first ambush was enough to keep many eyelids open, and the results were good. The map reading was completed with comments like, 'You must be joking!... it turned out that the locals had been out and 'removed' the markers - great! However, everyone realised that if they were to get anywhere on the final Exercise the map reading would have to be spot on.

Sgt Storey and Lt Stead Live Firing GPMG (SF)

Ex Trojan Patrol, the Final Exercise was devised along the lines of a Cambrian style patrol. Patrol teams deployed on Rigid Raiders and once ashore set off in search of patrol B20 a lost Special Forces patrol (corny, but fun!) After finding the remaining patrol members and performing life saving first aid, patrols set off with a box of equipment to the next grid. This 'ammo-box' race was testing, with teams not only battling against the tough terrain but also the rising heat. After resting through the mid-day sun (there were only mad dogs out this time) teams continued on to a heli site but not before crossing a 'dangerous ravine' in the form of a command task. The patrols swarmed from the helicopter and were immediately faced with a gruelling map reading challenge before some well earned rest.

LCpl Shaw about to put a stop to Richard Branson's latest balloon challenge

Over the next night the patrols carried out Op's onto Paramali Village. The RAF unsuspecting of the eyes trained on them throughout the night. The final task was an ambush for which the patrols came together into Platoons. The now toughened soldiers were so exhausted that they had to adopt the buddy-buddy system to keep each other awake. After slaughtering the Rambo style enemy, all that remained was the extraction tab to the beach. The consensus was that Ex Trojan Patrol was hard; but that was good because it gave everyone a sense of achievement.

For Rest and Recuperation the majority of the Squadron descended onto Paphos for wild nights and hazy days. The local night clubs were inducted into the novelties of toga parties, though not all will adopt the idea! Others caught the ferry to Egypt and had a whistle stop tour of the Pyramids which was thoroughly enjoyed. After R & R the only thing left to do was to pray for rain in rainy England - and I can assure you that our wish came true!

5 AIRBORNE BRIGADE
HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (216 PARACHUTE)

Farewell to Maj Olly Halstead and hello to Maj Scott Workman on his return to 216 as the new OC Sqn. Good luck to Capt Rob Anderton-Brown as he departs for JCSC and greetings to Capt Roddy Wilson as he takes on the role of Ops Officer.

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt T. W. Day
Tp SSgt SSgt K. Read

What was to be a relatively quiet period in the Squadron's calendar, and thus an opportune time for members of the Troop to attend courses, transpired to be an active few months with various commitments. Ex Lanyard II saw a rapid deployment of TALO Tac by C-130 Hercules from South Cerney on to Watton Airfield, closely followed by Para 1 HQ with the Rapid Air Land. Support for 1RGR during the Exercise was minimal, with the result that we found ourselves extracting by C-130 after a matter of hours on the ground.

During November, the majority of Alpha Tp took part in several days of troop training on a number of local training areas. A short comms phase, was quickly followed by 48hrs of military skills training which included, patrolling, close target recces, night orienteering, first aid, cross country driving and a sniper exercise. Cpls Ted Page, Paul Coxon, Dave Briscoe, John Hilton and Rob Dawson were, amongst others, responsible for running the Exercise which culminated in a Troop Barbecue. In SSgt Read's absence, Sgts Sid James and Craig Dudley headed up the Troop's responsibility of organising this year's 'All-Ranks' dinner, which was an outstanding success. A piper, a comedian and the traditional after-dinner skits represented the evenings entertainment, with special mention going to Cpl Rob Dawson for his impersonations of the RSM. The remainder of the period saw members of the Troop away on Rigex 1998, 2Lt 'Doris' Day, Cpl Eddie Cochran and Sigs Nic Hillyard, Steve Jones and Keith Williams on Cambrian Patrol 1998, SSgt Kev 'Kebabs' Read on his EFP and Cpls Paul Clancy and Mark Wyldes on CIS conversion training in Blandford.

Congratulations go to Sigs Brett Appleyard and Keith Williams on their return from Brize Norton and earning their military parachute wings and to Cpl 'Dog' Barker, LCpl Scott Finn and Sig 'Dangerous' Armstrong on passing P Coy. Hello and welcome to Cpl 'Dog' Barker, LCpl 'Archi' Archibald and Sig Dan Fallows. The Troop says hello again to Sigs Andrew Crabb and Dave Reid, who recently returned from Batus, and farewells to 2Lt Olly Gardner who has headed for Blandford to begin his troop commanders course, and to Sig Gordon 'Flash' Wilkie who has headed for Northern Ireland with 2 Para. Finally Sgt Sid James, LCpl 'Pommie' Pearson and Sig Dan Fallows recently represented the Army at Wembley for the 50th Anniversary of Scrabble Championships. They are now beginning a prolonged period of training in preparation for world domination in 'pass the parcel.'

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt M. Wong
Tp SSgt SSgt S. Gorton

Despite being busy with various Squadron commitments we have still managed to find time for members of the Troop to disappear off on courses. Congratulations to Sigs Steve Andrews, Lee Bourne, Mike Allan, Russ Fyfe and Stu Yates on passing P Coy and to Sig 'Smudge' Smith for gaining his military parachute wings at last! Welcome back to Sig 'Melv' Melville who has tried to short cut his way to getting to jump out of planes by spending his R&R after his attachment to 1PWRR on a civi parachute course. Cpl 'Nosher' Brown returns to these shores after a brief spell in Bosnia to have his long awaited knee operations – timing! Cpl Si Barker and Sig 'Foxy' Fox visited Slovenia with 249 AMF (L) Sig Sqn and Sig 'Shez' Sherrington leaves with 2 Para bound for the sunny climes of NI. 30 Sig Regt were subjected to intense preparation for combat survival by SSgt 'He's been scalped' Weaver, LCpl 'Digger' Barnes, LCpl 'Colonel' Sanders and LCpl 'Zero to Hero' Witham, who was taking a break from arresting criminals. Fair dues to Sig 'Delbert' McDowell was awarded his Army colours for Tae Kwon Do, Sig Blackmore for being the 'SUPER TOM', LCpl 'Daz' Barnes for getting married, LCpl Attwell for getting married as well and also being voted the best tradesman. Congratulations also go to Cpl Bruce Thornton for winning the prize for the 'Best all-round Sqn contribution for the last year! Finally welcome to SSgt Steve Gorton who takes over from SSgt 'Wav' Weaver who leaves us to hunt and fish in Germany.

The Squadrons annual 'Super-Tom' competition, aimed at discovering the Signaller in the Sqn with best all-round military skills was organised by Sgt 'Chimp' Oliver and was a rousing success. Sigs from across the Squadron battled through 24hrs worth of stands on the local training area, in a bid to prove their ability in a variety of areas including map reading, NBC, recognition, military knowledge and a physical phase. Good luck to the Squadron boxing team, as they put the finishing touches to their training for the Army Boxing Semi-finals on December 14th.

CAMBRIAN PATROL 1998

*by Sig Hillyard and Sig Jones

Patrol: 2Lt Tom 'the bad back' Day, Cpl Eddie 'slow down' Cochran, Cpl John 'navigator' Fawcett, Cpl Paul 'amphibious' Maguire, LCpl Kev 'Sniper' Dade, Sig Spence 'Yomp' Blackmore, Sig Nic 'Batco' Hillyard, Sig Steve 'Wake up' Jones. Reserves: Sig Justin Dine, Sig Keith Williams.

Following a month and a half of training and preparation, including a two week training package in Sennybridge, we finally travelled up from Aldershot to Cwrt Y Gollen camp at Crickhowell on Wednesday 28 October, for an early start the following morning. At a secure holding area in the early hours of Thursday, 2Lt Tom 'Boss' Day received a set of orders whilst the rest of the team were subjected to a thorough kit inspection. Following a set of patrol orders by Mr Day we eventually arrived at a DOP at 1300hrs to begin the patrol phase.

LCpl Kev Dade and Sig Spence Blackmore in an attempt to prove that landrovers float

We tabbed all afternoon to reach our first task which was a quick recce of a building and after half an hour we proceeded on our way when we were contacted by a patrol equipped with tracker dogs and found ourselves split up for a short period. We dodged the headlights of various rover patrols before regrouping and heading off to meet an agent. On route to the agent, Cpl 'Spud' Fawcett took various detours down unseen drops of up to 30ft. We were tasked by the agent with conducting a quick recce on another building, the suspected location of an enemy arms cache which we tabbed through the night to reach, eventually getting eyes on target as the sun rose. Patrolling through the entire morning we eventually reached our next agent, who gave us various grids, requirements and timings for the next task, a route recce and anti-armour ambush site recce. A transit van took us to our next DOP where we conducted the recce of the route and ambush site, before going to ground in a concentration area to complete a patrol report detailing our findings so far.

It was then a race against time for the patrol, keen to make progress over a long stretch of high open ground before night fell, making navigation difficult. Inevitably, night did fall and slow our progress, however we made it to the agent RV by the river, expecting a task that would involve getting wet. Prolonged heavy rain and mass flooding meant that instead we were directed to a bridge and instructed to head for the partisans HQ situated in a quarry nearby. Some confused instructions from the agent resulted in the patrol heading for the wrong quarry, by the time we realised the mistake and corrected it we were several hours behind schedule. The patrol now beginning to feel the effects of some 48hrs worth of intense patrolling began to negotiate two steep climbs to get back on route. Resorting on occasions to sledging on our Bergans, and following Cpl 'Magoo' Maguire through raging rivers we eventually reached the partisan HQ and an NBC scenario. Whilst the boss received further orders, the remainder were required to conduct confirmatory NBC tests and questions. The patrol then received a set of QBOs from Mr Day for a farm clearance. Instructions then arrived for the patrol to board a transit van to take us to our HQ.

On arrival at our HQ we were processed through a check of the patrols equipment, to determine the effectiveness of the patrol for future operations and to ensure that we were operating without any compromising material in our possession. There followed a patrol interview, to enable extraction of information gathered during the patrol. In a dark, cold underground room, it started to become difficult to respond to questions as some individuals eyelids began to droop. Endex followed the examination of the patrol and we were transported to Sennybridge Camp for showers, food and beer. Despite confusion of the location of the partisan HQ and subsequently excluding two stands, the Patrol received recognition for the high standard it had maintained up to and including its final agent contact resulting in the team being presented with a SILVER AWARD! Special mention should go to those who assisted in the training of the team prior to the event, but particularly to SSgt Jack Hawkins for overseeing the entire training and for his painstaking attention to detail.

Promotions, big congratulations to LCpl 'Gibbo' Gibson and Sig Mick Breydin on coming off the board, at last. Congratulations are also in order to the OC, Maj Steve Hunt, for finally getting his ACSM (only ten years late sir!) he is no longer a ching free zone.

GOC LONDON DISTRICT VISIT TO THE SQUADRON

Maj Gen Webb-Carter visited the Squadron on 22 October 1998 to see what the Squadron was doing in terms of the Army CIS Group. After taking an in depth look at the Squadron, he presented a LS and GC medal to Sgt George Roper and a UN medal for service in the FRY to Sig Jenny Mills

SOINC'S VISIT TO THE SQUADRON

Brig J. H. Griffin and the new Corps RSM, WO1 (CRSM) C. Laycock, visited the Squadron on Monday 16 November 1998. The SOinC had not previously visited the Squadron in any capacity, and it was the CRSM's first day in the appointment. However, a day out in London seemed a good idea and we were able to work in the sights of the capital with a brief on the various aspects of the Squadron.

EXERCISE BLAZING BRUNO 1998
2(NC) SIGNAL BRIGADE BATTLE CAMP
*by Sig G. Burgess

Ex Blazing Bruno was this years' 2 (NC) Sig Bde Battle Camp held at Sennybridge from 4-9 October 1998. It all began at a horrendous hour on the morning of 4 October 1998, when Ex Blazing Bruno burst into life. The first step we had to overcome was getting everyone loaded onto the DAF's, no mean feat with the night-clubs having not long been shut. The first DAF left about 0445 driven by Sig Mags 'Mind the Gate' West, followed shortly by one of our Civvy drivers Mr Alan 'Brake Pumper' Slack.

We eventually arrived in Sennybridge seven hours later and it was straight into the programme with an excellent Pyro Demo by the two dangerous brothers, SSgt 'Fuse Bar' Hadley and Sgt 'Schoffs' Schofield who gave a perfect re-enactment of the TV Fuse Bar advert. We also had lessons on cam and concealment with LCpl Lee 'Uncle Fester' Lester who didn't quite grasp the fact that your war paint doesn't go on with a paint roller. The week progressed with first aid taken by Cpl Paul ' we need more blood' Crabb and SSgt 'Resusci Annie' Smith and patrolling/field craft taken by SSgt Bob 'Bundline' Lawrence, also several range days were included in this package. The week culminated in a dawn attack on a series of skills houses, this was the biggie, the final push and the DS threw everything at us. Casualties were taken during the final attack in the form of Sig 'Ouch' Ford who discovered it wasn't in his best interests to grab the barrel of an SF role GPMG after letting of a thousand rounds.

Hats off also to Sig 'Ever So' Slight who, after seeing Sig Ford burn his hand, thought he would have a bash to escape the assault course. He unfortunately came away a bit luckier with nothing but a carbon mark on his hand (Subtle Hint) next time try it while the barrel is still glowing a bit). After the attack we moved to Sennybridge assault course and took part in an inter-section competition that was triumphantly won by 2 Section. All in all an excellent week had by all.

GOC'S SPORTS DAY

On a cold and wet day in October the Squadron was fully committed to winning the GOC LONDIST Sports Day. The Squadron entered all events, Cross-Country, Rugby, Football, Badminton, Squash and Basketball. After a long day and much battling the Squadron came away with a creditable position and some silverware from the Badminton court, much to WO2 (SSM) 'H' Wells' delight in the bar afterwards.

Event	Winners
Basketball	Mike Troop
Rugby	Mike Troop
Potted Sports	Oscar/SHQ Troop

Just the Sportsman's Dinner to be held in the Mercury Club, Duke of York's on 11 December to complete this year sporting calendar. Mike Troop have won this years' competition and seem to be smarting but remember SHQ were part of the early Mike Troop wins!

Final Postions:

1st	Mike Troop	32pts
2nd	Oscar / SHQ Troop	22 pts
2nd	Radio Troop	20 pts

CORSHAM OPEN DAY

Members of the Squadron combined with 243 Sig Sqn personnel to present a stand at the Corsham Open Day. The day started with Brig Hughes giving a presentation to some 60 high ranking officers, using the 238 Sig Sqn PA system, complete with sound effects, provided by Mr John Aked and his team. Delegates then moved around a series of stands demonstrating the capabilities of the Brigade. The final stand showed the range of skills to be found in the Army CIS Group. Whilst 243 Sig Sqn provided a trencher, fibre optic splicer, CAT 5 cabling and a PA system, 238 Sig Sqn were able to show off the discrete radio equipment used for ceremonial and state occasions and the Pan European motorcycles used for Buckingham Palace dispatches. It seems that at the end of the day, all the delegates had a much clearer understanding of the skills on offer to them through the six Regional Signal Squadrons.

MIKE TROOP

Tp Comd	Maj Richard Howes
Tp Sgt	Vacant

The Troop welcomes Cpl Dean Spiers from Germany, LCpl Mick Ambler from N.I. and Sigs Stew Blevins, Keith Ford, Chris McGuire and Ayesha Muhammed, all of whom have arrived from the joys of Blandford. The Troop says farewell and good luck to SSgt Dave 'Strawberry Blonde' Purver who has made the reverse journey to Blandford. Also to Sgt 'B & H' Kempton (Cyprus), Cpl. Andy Thompson who has found himself an excellent job in the Far East, LCpl Daz Mark (Civvy Street) and Sig Jimmy Wilson to 220 Sig Sqn. The whole Troop has been very busy lately. The Systems Techs have been dealing with the increased workload from ACISG, whilst Radio Section, ably assisted by some members of Systems Section, have had various 'ceremonials' to deal with - Remembrance Sunday, the State Opening of Parliament and various State Visits - all of which passed off without incident. PA Section has been kept incredibly busy as well and is anticipating next weeks Subbuteo competition in the Line Stores. Finally, congratulations go to the entire Troop on our glorious victory in the Squadron's Challenge Shield. Dedication, power and commitment were just three of the qualities on show by the Mike Troop Globetrotters!

OSCAR TROOP

Tp Comd	Maj Dave Gilchrist
Tp SSgt	SSgt Karen Ripley

The Troop would like to say goodbye and good luck to Sgt George Roper, Cpl Dave Housley (after 22 years service), and Sig Nadia Mitchell who have left to join civvy street, and farewell to Mrs Tracy Harrison the CO3 from London Central COMMCEN who is off to pastures new. A Hello goes to Sgt Sandra Thompson who joins the Troop from NI.

RADIO TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt Kerry Levins
Tp Sgt	Sgt Scoffs Schofield

Yet again life in Radio Troop moves from the sublime to Full Throttle hold on tight. During the month of November Radio Troop was a blur, with Remembrance Sunday, Prince of Wales's Birthday, State Opening Of Parliament, Diplomatic Reception and a State Visit in the same month. Things could not have been busier. If any one has a slight clue on the amount of effort planning and rehearsals that go into these events then the post of Troop Commander comes up soon. All CV's to Troop Sergeant Please.

Remembrance Sunday and the timing of firing the cannon with Big Ben's first strike of eleven, was the job of Maj Gilchrist and Sgt Simon 'where's the lift then' Schofield. They would like to say farewell to Brian 'the Clock' Davies who is retiring after many years service and giving the same tour every year as we climb the 292 steps to the clock room. We noticed the rest breaks became longer and more frequent each time we went up the tower.

On the 13 November we were summoned to Buckingham Palace for the Prince of Wales's Birthday to assist the dignitaries and guests to their cars. This is not usually a problem, but on this occasion we had to compete with a full choir, a drunken Charlie Chaplin staring up your left nostril and dodging the Fire Breather. All this and you still had to be diplomatic with the guests, also how many other people can say that they have had sausage beans and chips at the palace. This event was followed closely with the State Opening of Parliament. There was a Three o'Clock Parade for an Early Morning Rehearsal. Mention must be made of Sig Baz 'Mickey Mouse' Maitland who had to be retrained in the art of speaking, as no one could understand him over the net when he used the new covert harness. That evening we were again at the Palace for the Diplomatic Reception where Sig Mags 'who is William Hague then' West, called over the PA system for all to hear 'Car for the BATACAN' and had to be reminded by the Ambassador that it was in fact the Vatican. Lastly The State Visit of the President of Germany at Windsor this time with a Two o' Clock Parade for an Early Morning Rehearsal. On the actual State Visit Sig Baz 'approximately two over' Maitland distinguished himself in front of Her Majesty the Queen when he snapped to attention in true Military fashion and one of the lenses of his glasses fell out.

The Troop would like to welcome Cpl Steve 'Bart' Storey and his wife Elaine and say farewell to Cpl Jon 'I'm going to be a copper and nick all of you' Rowe and Sig Andy 'Bouffant' Birt who with a new career at McDonalds should be a General by Christmas.

242 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Since our last article, several years ago, much has changed in this 'Fixed' Signal Unit. Many personnel have come and gone and we are now, primarily, a civilian manned unit with a nucleus of military personnel. We now have:

OC	-	Maj N. S. Stevens (Ned)
21C	-	Maj (Rtd) G. A. Carmichael (George)
TOT	-	Capt (TOT) L. F. Brown (Lee)
WOIC H Tp	-	WO1 (FofS) Alexander (Dave)
FofS	-	SSgt (FofS) O'Donnell (Jim)

AND - yes for those of you who have served here the Chief Clerk is Jean Livingstone. We have recently added the range at Kirkcudbright and the Scottish 197 Help Desk to our tasking. Unfortunately a change in role for the RA Range, Hebrides has meant us no longer manning the St Kilda Detachment as it is now a DERA responsibility. Added to this we are to leave the island of Benbecula on 31 March 1999 and H Troop will cease to exist. An article by Sgt Chris VDK (Van den Kerkhof) on St Kilda is below. Some things do not change and we continue to lend intensive support to the Edinburgh Military Tattoo that takes up our time from the middle of July, when we start to build, to the middle of September, when we have recovered all equipment, annually. This takes two teams of six who do night on/night off for the 24 performances during August. One team is pictured below.

ST KILDA
*by Sgt Chris Van den Kerkhof

St Kilda is 42 nautical miles West of the Outer Hebrides and is the most isolated part of the British Isles. Being mainly cliff-bound and with great difficulty of access they have become nicknamed 'Islands on the edge of the World'. They boast the highest sea cliffs in Britain at 1400ft and the tallest sea stack at 676ft. The island of Hirta was inhabited until 1930 when the population was, by its own request, evacuated and since then it has been looked after by Scottish Natural Heritage on behalf of the National Trust for Scotland. The islands are popular for their remoteness, large colonies of sea birds and a primitive breed of wild sheep.

In 1957 the Army were granted permission to use three areas of Hirta. Two for radar tracking sites and one as a base camp. The radar tracking permitted testing of some of the larger Naval, Army and Air Force missile systems as well as the range based on Benbecula. To support this a military detachment, commanded by a Captain Royal Artillery, was stationed on the island of Hirta providing communications, power, water, heating, food, sewage disposal, medical cover and day to day maintenance. The R SIGNALS had an SNCO technician based on the island permanently who rotated through the Troop on Benbecula.

The role of the R SIGNALS personnel was to provide support to all aspects of communications including the microwave link to South Uist that carried missile telemetry, target TV systems, tracking data, telephones and the most vital of all the card-phone used by the detachment for the daily call home. Then there was the ISDX that BT was seldom able to attend, the coastguard and range safety HF radio and anything else on the island. All in all we were kept fairly busy. Sadly, after over 40 years, the Corps withdrew from St Kilda on 1 April 1998. Although many R SIGNALS will have memories of the island (some fond, some not so fond) no-one can beat the REME record of four years and six months continuous duty!

The handover continues and on 31 March 1999 the Corps is to leave the Outer Hebrides for good. All members of the Corps, past or present, who served on Benbecula, S Uist or St Kilda are invited to attend the farewell day.

EXERCISE BLAZING BRUNO 1998 - THE SEQUEL
*by WO2 'Paddy' Morrow

Just to remind those who missed out on Ex Blazing Bruno 'Part One', the Exercise was a combined Static Signal Squadron Battle-Camp that was conducted at Sennybridge over the period 27 September - 9 October 1998. The Squadron was overall responsible for the co-ordination and execution of the Camp. The events of Week One of the Camp were covered in the last issue of The Wire and went very well, culminating in a visit by the Commander HQ 2 (NC) Sig Bde. Fully revitalised after 36hrs R&R, SSM 'Paddy' Morrow and his merry band of DS eagerly awaited the arrival of the troops for week two of the Exercise. Surprisingly there was not as many dropouts as was in week one, with the Admin completed and the troops fully briefed the training commenced in earnest.

The Night Navigation exercise which was conducted on the Monday evening proved fun with the Junior Tactics Wing, ITC Wales providing recce patrols and ambushes in and around our check points. Day 2 brought the first of the injuries with Sgt 'Lofty' Bartlett injuring his knee during the Casualty Handling Exercise and Cpl 'Shorty' Woodhouse injuring his shoulder during a fieldcraft and tactics lesson. The weather for Sennybridge remained surprisingly good which kept morale high. The training went smoothly and was pretty much uneventful. 0615hrs on the Friday morning saw the final assault on Farm 13, it is thought that we used up the Corps entitlement of Pyro on that assault. Two of the exercising troops who shall remain anonymous went to the extreme to be excused the Assault Course by placing their hands on the barrels of very hot GPMGs, fortunately only minor burns were received. The exercise culminated with the Assault Course competition and the SSM receiving an early bath thanks to Sgt Gaz Hinton and friends. On returning to Sennybridge Camp, the weapons were cleaned and the Troops debriefed, then it was aboard the transport and home to the various corners of the UK, surprisingly the morale was still high as the troops departed, we must have been doing something wrong! Our thanks go to those personnel from 238 and 251 Signal Squadrons who formed part of the DS, for making the Camp such a success. We now look forward to the 1999 camp that is being organised by 238 Signal Squadron. See you there!

GENERALS CUP ORIENTEERING

*by Sgt Jim Robertson

The Generals Cup Inter Branch Orienteering Competition at HQ LAND just happened to fall on Friday the 13th, the sky was dark and 67 runners were keen to get started. Team 6 consisted mainly of Signals and Artillery personnel, in particular were SSM 'Paddy' Morrow, Sgt Jim Robertson and Cpl 'Greggs' Gregory who finished joint second overall, finishing the 60 minute course in 48 minutes. Currently, Team 6 is leading the overall Generals Cup Competition with one sport remaining that is 'Superstars' (Whatever that is!)

LS&GC MEDAL PRESENTATION

*by Sgt Ellie Pomeroy

The Squadron Officers and Seniors assembled in the Sgts Mess at HQ LAND Comd on 17 November, in order to bestow the LS&GC medal upon Sgt Pomeroy. ACOS CIS, Brig J. M. Shaw MBE, kindly excepted our invitation to present the medal. The presentation was organised by Sgt George Quar under the watchful eye of the SSM. The only major decision the SSM had to make, leading up to the event, was whether Sgt Pomeroy's husband would appreciate a bouquet of flowers or a bottle of Whiskey, a decision for the latter was made. The presentation itself was incident free and after a Curry Lunch everyone retired to the bar, where copious amounts of cheer were consumed and the old stories told, mostly by Ellie Pomeroy herself on how she managed 15 years of undetected crime!

THE VISIT OF MAJOR GENERAL REITH CBE COMMANDER (AMF(L))

Maj Gen Reith (CBE) visited the Squadron on Monday 2 November whilst we were conducting our annual training programme prior to deployment to Slovenia. Maj Gen Reith (CBE) was met by OC Sqn, Major Peter Holliday, and the SSM, WO2 Dave Cumming, at SHQ where he was invited to sign the Sqn visitors book. Then, after a brief Squadron update by the OC, Maj Gen Reith, visited all the Sqn personnel who were on various activities.

Papa Tp was the first port of call, who were enjoying 2Lt Lindsey Calderhead's lesson on the Law of Armed Conflict, which he interrupted, by introducing himself and chatted to the lads. During this chat he asked if there was anything that they wanted to complain about, the state of single soldiers accommodation was top of the list. Included in the General's reply was the possibility of the Squadron moving to Germany, which brought a smile to some faces and a shock of horror to others! '

He then visited Support Tp who were on an NBC practical lesson and popped his head into the 12x12 were he found Cpl Dean Wilson in 3 Romeo having just lit his third CS tablet. Consequently, he received an unexpected mouthful of CS. Needless to say, the General was a little put out. The General then moved on to watch the Landing Point Commanders (LPC's) and the Rigger Marshallers battling it out whilst practising the rigging of trailers led by Sgt Jase Raybould.

Finally the General was entertained by the Seniors in the WO's and Sgt's mess where he presented Sgt Phil Render with his Long Service and Good Conduct medal.

249 SIGNAL SQUADRON (AMF(L)) - KIWI TROPHY 1998

The Kiwi Trophy is the Squadron's annual march and shoot competition. It covers a distance of 22kms and involves carrying 301bs and a rifle and a ten round range shoot at a distance of 200 metres. This year the main competition took place on 29 October. The challenging course starts and finishes at the giant Kiwi, that is a chalk carving in the hillside above Bulford Camp in the shape of the New Zealand bird. It was first carved out of the hill after World War 1 by New Zealand Troops who were stationed near Bulford while they waited for their transport home. When completed, the Kiwi was 128m high and its beak 46m. It remains today as a major landmark that can be clearly seen across the Plain and the Squadron is responsible for the maintenance of the giant bird. This year the Kiwi clean up was carried out by Oscar Troop under the direction of SSgt Chris Martin.

The competition is a gruelling test of an individual's fitness, stamina and ability to shoot accurately. Competitors start in pairs at two-minute intervals and, as it is up to individuals to set their own pace, it is a great test of personal motivation. The course includes sections on metalled roads and on dirt tracks.

The firing range presented a major obstacle to most of the competitors as each shot missed resulted in the addition of a three-minute penalty to the individual's time. After the range only 3kms of the course remained and, for many, this was the hardest part of the route, particularly as muscle cramps had begun to set in after resting in the prone position on the firing range. The Kiwi trophy was this year won by Cpl Dean Wilson in a total time of 2hrs 18 mins. Cpl Wilson has won the trophy twice in the last three years.

The Barry trophy, which is presented in memory of Lt J. Barry, a former Troop Commander in 249 Sig Sqn (AMF(L)) who was killed at the Battle of Goose Green during the Falklands conflict on attachment to 2 Para is awarded to the individual with the fastest combined times for the Kiwi trophy and the 10km Nordic ski race, which is held earlier in the year, and was won this year by Cpl Mo Pay.

EXERCISE CO-OPERATIVE ADVENTURE EXCHANGE 1998 SLOVENIA

On 14 November at, 'Oh my god o'clock' the main body of 249 Sig Sqn (AMF(L)) left Bulford for the snowy scenery of Slovenia. The flight was on time and all appeared to be going rather well until it was discovered that, in the hectic collection of vehicles at the port, one lone Land Rover appeared to have been left behind. So, the recovery party set off on the 5hr drive to the port. However, on reaching the Rover it was discovered that the keys for the fuel tank remained in the pocket of SSgt (YofS) Gaz Currie. But SSgt Ken Marsh and Sgt Jase Raybould didn't mind the drive (much).

The Squadron was dispersed to all four-corners of the Exercise area, the two principle locations were the echelon at Cerklje airfield and the Radcon element, as part of the TOC, at Brestinica. In addition the main part of the Squadron was deployed to CP and RRB locations to provide full communications facilities for the exercising Troops.

It seemed as if we had been in Slovenia for a week before the exercise had even started but that is because we had. SSgt (YofS) Gaz Currie had been particularly busy attempting to teach other nation's watch-keepers (AMF(L)) voice procedure. He also convinced himself that he was the reason that the girls from Alpha Troop insisted on doing day shifts.

As the Exercise progressed the voice procedure did improve especially after Sgt Ady Simms (I am putting weight on honest) realised that in fact he was not the GOCC! LCpl Johnny Whitrow managed to convince the German NBC Platoon that the blown up bridge was just exercise play! Meanwhile SSgt 'Saddam' Marsh shared his culinary knowledge with the Americans, as his new friend Marty insisted on his advice for the banquet for the visit of the Belgian princess. We managed to stop them serving Brussel sprouts. As Marty was so generous with his chocolate and cereal donations, SSgt Ken Marsh didn't have the heart to tell him that he was not in fact the Squadron's Head Chef.

What better way to finish an Exercise than with a march and shoot competition? The NATO Challenge Cup this year was over a distance of between 8.5 and 9.2 miles (allegedly) and, during the team briefing, the event was likened to a CFT. Some CFT! The route included sections going up waterfalls and down near vertical slopes and in total took approximately five hours. The whole team worked extremely well, but a mention must be made of Sig Adam Rudge and LCpl 'Buz' Bury who both did good 'crazy leg crane' impressions - some people will do anything to get rid of their Bergen's. The team finished in third place overall and a sterling effort was made by all with everyone who started completing the route and it was with smiling faces that we received the results and found that we had beaten many infantry units including 3 Para.

264 (SAS) SIGNAL SQUADRON

EXERCISE BIANCO DRAGON 2 - 12 SEPTEMBER 1998

Seven members of 264 (SAS) Sig Sqn recently returned from an Alpine Mountaineering Expedition to the French and Italian Alps. The primary aim of the expedition was to climb Mont Blanc the highest mountain in Western Europe at 4807m. After travelling by road to the chalet at Servoz, in the Chamonix-Mont Blanc Valley, training and acclimatisation was undertaken. This comprised of a traverse of the Aiguilles Crochues (2840m), glacier training on the Mer de Glace and a night in the Albert Premiere Hut (2702m) on the edge of the Glacier du Tour.

The following couple of days were spent in Italy climbing the Gran Paradisio (4061m). This mountain is situated in a national park and the walk up to the Chabod Hut (2750) was very scenic. This particular hut served splendid pasta (for carbo-loading) and a very fine red wine to wash it down. An early start the following morning in poor weather conditions, led through moraines, up a crevassed glacier and finally to a rocky summit tower. This achievement was everyone's first alpine 4000m peak. There was then a long descent via the Victor Emmanuelle hut.

The following day we started our ascent of Mont Blanc using a cable car and mountain railway, then walking for a couple of hours to the Tete Rousse Glacier. We now had to negotiate the Grand Couloir, this is very exposed to stone fall, thus requiring the sprinting speed of Linford Christie to cross it. The route then climbed a rocky rib for 600m to the Gouter Hut. Starting at 2am the next morning we walked for several hours in the dark until reaching the steep and narrow Bosses Ridge, which due to icy conditions over the previous fortnight had been the scene of over a dozen fatalities. Fortunately, the fresh snow made the ascent of the ridge safer. It was now only a short distance to the summit and shortly after dawn on 9 September all seven members of the expedition stood proudly on the top of Mont Blanc. After admiring stunning views of the Alps we descended via the same route, reaching the valley at 5pm, a very long but satisfying day.

The Matterhorn looked like a nice mountain to climb next, one thing is for sure, Pen-y-fan and the Brecon Beacons aren't going to seem very big for a while.

EXERCISE WINDY DRAGON
VIEW FROM STC 1 - A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE

Following my little weekend sailing excursion back in June of this year, I decided to take the bull by the horns and go for a whole two weeks. We were never too far from a port in case of trouble therefore it wasn't too bad and we were alongside every night so we weren't bobbing about too much in our bunk beds. This time we took a slightly bigger boat, a Victoria 34, which had seven berths, as there was only five of us on this boat we had plenty of room. We picked up the boat from JSASTC in Gosport. Once we had taken on board all the compo, fresh rations and waterproof kit, it was time to get the boat ready for our first passage.

Even though it has been three months since I had been anywhere near a boat, remembering what you had to do with the foresail and main sail and which rope went where came back quite quickly and it didn't take too long to get back in the swing of things. The weather was pretty good to us for most of the time so shorts, t-shirt and trainers seemed to be the dress for most of the two weeks. Over the two weeks we managed to log about 212 miles sailing, going from Gosport to Lymington to The Folly on the Isle of Wight to Southampton to Beauliea to Cowes to Hamble to Gosport, to The Folly, to Hythe and finally back to Gosport. Therefore we managed to practise all the skills that we'd learnt on the first weekend and develop a few more. I even managed to remember the names of the ropes and different types of sails.

Over the two weeks travelling from place to place we all took it in turns steering and changing the foresail and mainsail in all sorts of weather conditions. Most of the time however it was nice and sunny, despite a few days when it rained and was a bit windy. It's amazing how good the promise of hot cup of tea and a hot meal seems when you've been sailing in the wind and rain, when you know that when you get into port you still have to put the boat to bed. We managed to get this cracked by splitting the crew into two watches. Although whilst we were actually sailing everyone took part, when coming into a port one watch would be below deck getting the tea and evening meal started while the other team would bring us into port. Then we'd all pull together and put the boat to bed so that we could all sit down to the evening meal as a crew. We would have dinner and then depending on where we were and how tired everyone was, we'd either go out to see what that particular town was like or just stay on board and have a few glasses of wine. This time we all had our own log books, so at the end we managed to get them signed to say that we can actually sail a bit. All in all it was a great two weeks and you never know maybe next time it will be somewhere nice and hot with blue skies, clear blue water and golden beaches, (Yeah right if you look quick you might just catch Nessie swimming past!)

COMSEC MONITORING TEAM (UNITED KINGDOM)

Sqn Comd — Capt T. C. Crosby
YofS — SSgt (YofS) Hogan

Congratulations (twice!) and goodbye to LCpl (now Cpl) Geoff Wilman and his wife Jo on their recent marriage, posting to 21 Sig Regt (AS) and Geoff's promotion. Having been on his Class 1 course and moved house three times in the last four months, I'm sure he will be happy to settle down. Also out of the lucky bag were LCpl Scottie Hoffman and Sig Rennie Stuart (now LCpl), both selected for promotion. We also say half a farewell to Tracy Hogan who is now on her PC Plod training up in Oxon. Finally, about to leave us is the OC, Capt Terry Crosby and his wife Trudy. They are bound for HQ MND (C) in Rheindahlen in February 1999. We wish them well, at least the orienteering hotline will quieten down!

FROM AUSTRALIA TO WALES TO SCOTLAND..... OH AND CANADA

Never let it be said that the Team doesn't travel. Whilst the OC swanned off to BATUS with half of the team, SSgt (YofS) Mark Hogan was busy climbing the Sydney Bridge in Australia. The sight of the bridge suddenly reminded him that he hadn't ordered any tickets to get across the Severn Bridge for a forthcoming Exercise and promptly faxed the Team from his hotel to remind us! Sad isn't it. Less than 12 hrs after getting off the flight from Australia, the YofS was off to Wales (bridge tickets et al!) with augmented mapower from 14 Sig Regt (EW). LCpl 'Elts' Eltringham and Sig Phil Lee moulded in so well, the latter even won an all expenses holiday for two in Antigua for performing the best 'full Monty' at a local night club! Wind swept from Wales, the Team set off for Scotland only for Sig Kurt Muller to firstly bog one veh in at 45 degrees and then to have its gear box seize on the homeward leg. It broke down near Carlisle - guess where he lives? Meanwhile blissfully unaware in Canada.....

NEWS FROM THE TROOPS & UOTCs

ARMY ELEMENT AIR WARFARE CENTRE RAF WADDINGTON

Well, we finally decided it was about time we let ourselves be known to the Corps and the outside world! The Army Element here at the Air Warfare Centre (AWC) is some 15 strong, comprising of 10 Royal Signals (nearly all Tele Op (Spec) bar one Tele Op (Data)), 4 Intelligence Corps and our 1 (token!) Army Air Corps representative. Having previously been named the Army Electronic Warfare Operational Support Unit (Army EWOSU) at RAF Wyton, we now operate from the Thomson Building, home of the AWC, located at RAF Waddington just outside Lincoln. Personnel are fully integrated into a tri-service environment and are dispersed throughout the building on various flights and sections, working shoulder to shoulder with our RAF and RN counterparts. The Army are actively involved in maintaining and updating the live UK Defence EW Database and also in support of Electronic Warfare (EW) equipment used by the Army Air Corps, Royal Navy, Royal Marines and our very own 14 Sig Regt (EW).

ARMY SUPPORT SECTION, LAH (EW) PROD FLT

Priding ourselves on being the only true Army 'section' in the building, we are nicely tucked away in a green corner of a mainly blue flight. Under the leadership, (is that what you call it), of newly promoted Sgt Danny O'Neill, we program, test and validate all Pre-flight messages (PFM's). These are used on Radar Warning Receivers (RWR's) fitted to Lynx and Gazelle helicopters of the Army Air Corps and Royal Marines and Sea Kings of the Royal Navy's Fleet Air Arm. We also program mission libraries for the ESM systems of 226 Sig Sqn, 14 Sig Regt (EW). The past few months have been a fairly busy period. In between knocking out streams of PFM's and libraries for the users, members of the section have been busy on their travels. The ongoing support of Op Palatine has seen Sgt O'Neill, Cpls Lee 'Goatie' Ghaut, Andy 'Bushy' Bush and LCpl Ray 'Karl Marx' Chrispin at some point spend a week or so on holiday in Bosnia. One memorable trip saw Danny 'look I can select all the gears now' O'Neill drop the gear box out of a land rover which was on loan from the Gurkhas. This left the team stuck in Gornji Vakuf but Martin 'My name is Sgt....' Gill came to the rescue, and with one swift phone call a Royal Navy Sea King was on its way, specially tasked to pick us up and take us back to Split. We also managed to drink more Fosters ice than is probably recommended. Sgts O'Neill and Gill (EW Ops) also 'deployed' to China Lake, California for what they claim was a terrible five weeks of hard graft in support of the Royal Navy Sea Kings on Ex High Rider 4. In between, we have been blessed with our regular jaunts down to 14 Sig Regt (EW) at sunny Brawdy, just to keep in touch with the real world and see how things are done at a proper Signals Unit!!

SPORT & SOCIAL

Despite being small in numbers we do manage to keep the Army flag flying very high on the social scene (mainly down to our two social hand grenades, alias Gill and Bush!). Cpl Lee Ghaut organised a highly successful Air Warfare Centre sports day in which the LAH team romped to victory, captained by Cpl Andy Bush (it was the tins of Carling that kept him going!). We recently said farewell to Maj Dave Luckett. He is posted to JSSU Oakley and we wish him well in his new surroundings. One outgoing Major means one incoming and we welcome Maj Dave Dolling and his family to Lincoln and the Air Warfare Centre (we're still waiting for the house warming drinks by the way). Also leaving us is 'Mr' Ray Chrispin. He has completed 12 years of glorious service and takes his soapbox with him into civilian life! All the best Ray, no doubt you will keep in touch, even if its just to give Martin an ear-bashing every now and then, I'm sure he'll miss it! We have also managed to make our presence felt outside of the AWC around the station. Our Intelligence Corps contingent, Sgts Andy 'Barbie' Barber and Mark 'Tug' Wilson continue to represent the Station Shooting team, Cpl Bush has run for the Station Orienteering team and Sgt O'Neill plays for the Station Football team.

PTARMIGAN SECTION

The most recent trip for the Section was to send a team to Shrewsbury for the annual screening of 35 Sig Regt (V). The team consisted of WO2 (FofS) Mick Cambell, SSgt (FofS) Dave Petty, SSgt Keith Mardling, Sgts' Dave Doody, Kev Wosika and PTO, Mr Garry Annetts.

We arrived in Shrewsbury just before the River Severn burst its banks, and awoke the next morning. Not only were we and the town isolated, our transport was stranded on its' own island. The team involved itself in MACC by helping the hotelier rescue his furniture, but unfortunately he couldn't find the generosity within him to give us a discount. Eventually the team and transport were reunited and the trip cut short, with a promise to return on a not quite so rainy day. On a more serious note, Garry Annetts is about to leave on promotion to HPTO and a new job in Abbey Wood, and SSgt Keith Mardling is leaving the Army on completion of 22 years service (will he come back as PTO?) We wish them and their families well in their new jobs.

SATCOM/EUROMUX SECTION

There have been two changes in personnel within this section of RSSST (UK). The first to go was SSgt Nige Quaile after completing 22 years service.

SSgt Nige Quaile delivering his speech at his dining out much to the amusement of WO1 (YofS) Bleddyn Williams (now Capt)

SSgt Ian Munford replaced him and found that his first duty was to arrange his predecessor's dining out from the Sgts' Mess. The second change was for SSgt Max Inman to be posted to Army Mail (the building next door), to be replaced by SSgt Chris Gouldson from RSIT (in the same building). Meanwhile, SSgt (FofS) Chris Wilson and PTO, Mr Charlie Cave have been on several courses to try and keep up with ever moving technology, and ever increasing commitments.

PCGC

SSgt (YofS) Nige Richards ably supported by his team of Sgt Steve Pope, CO4 Mrs Sara Clayton and PTO Mr Campbell Hamilton (yes he is a Scot), have continued carrying out the task of keeping the Ptarmigan world equipped with all the software required to work. PCGC is in the unfortunate position of only being noticed if we make a mistake. What is even more unfortunate is that we are often the only ones that notice our mistakes, especially regarding the switch database. Who realized that there were no ULSIE channels for node commands for two versions of the database? Or that Air Defence Regiments were deleted from the database for three years (before my time, I add hastily)! If you are constantly having to create or amend records then please inform us, we are only a 'phone call away.

CDPT

The Comsec Data Production Team is a two man team, responsible for the production, distribution and accounting of the Corps 'Communication Information Packages' (CIPs), (if you use them you will know what they are)! The arrival of Cpl Jase Wells who joined the Troop on promotion from 30 Sig Regt, was most welcome, as he succeeded Cpl Matt Petts who had left five months previously for the twilight world of 264 Sig Sqn, a 100% increase in manpower overnight, thank you ACM Glasgow.

EMAN HEADQUARTERS LAND COMMAND

*by WO1 (FofS) Harris

When I arrived in this post in July, all seemed quiet and calm, with the outlook the same. Then August arrived and the words Spectrum Pricing and IIP became known, and the deeper you dig the bigger the hole you create. So I began to fill the hole with paper on the two subjects, and at the moment IIP is winning on the paper output side. Having reached the point of desperation, I accepted a week's break in Texas, courtesy of G6 HQ Land to find out how the Americans account for their frequencies. Finishing on Spectrum Pricing, you will all become involved in this sooner or later, the bottom line is, if the frequency is popular then it will cost a lot of money.

EXERCISE PURBECK CHASE – 3/4 OCTOBER 1998

by WO2 (SSM) Tivey PSI

Following a well deserved Summer Break 12 Troop ULOTC set off on the first Special to Arms Training Weekend of the new term. The weekend was the brainchild of Capt J. Symmons (Late ULOTC - now DLO Banja Luka!). The Saturday was spent roaming Dorset looking for checkpoints expertly hidden by 2Lt Johns and WOCdt Swatridge (Tp 21C). The Voice Procedure left a lot to be desired but we did manage to successfully negotiate a long and arduous course without over running into valuable socialising time. Sunday comprised of everyone volunteering £15 to undergo a civilian high ropes course, most found it fun and challenging with great spirit being shown, especially when it took a great Troop convincing effort to coax Miss Philp back down! In summary an excellent weekend was had by all and a big thank you must go to the organisers - 2Lt Johns and WOCdt Swatridge.

EXERCISE FIRST LOOK (BLANDFORD) 1998

On the 30 October the Troop departed on it's Annual visit to Blandford to introduce the Second year Troop members to the home of the Corps and give the Third Years an excellent opportunity to catch up on a few old friends in the Officers Mess. Due to inclement weather Saturday was spent in the classrooms where the Troop were given Death by VP! (Judging Purbeck's efforts this was well needed!). The evening was spent being hosted by the Troop Commanders in the Officers Mess for a Halloween function as usual a fantastic night was had by all and thanks must go once again to Capt 'Dish' Dave Duggan for hosting and organising the event. Having been sponsored by SORLS for the whole weekend we thought it was only right to drag the new boy, Capt Allan Gaffett, out of bed to put the Troop through its paces on the Command task course. Hopefully having completed the course with Megan as the chief instructor this will stand us in good stead for the forthcoming Lightning Strike this year. Thanks Megs and your dad!

VISIT BY HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS ROYAL CHANCELLOR OF THE UNIVERSITY OF LONDON UNIVERSITY OF LONDON FOUNDATION DAY 18 NOVEMBER 1998

On the 18 November 1998 WO2 (SSM) Tivey and the Ceremonial Squadron were requested to provide the Guard of Honour for the University of London Foundation Day held at Senate House London in the presence of Her Royal Highness The Princess Royal The University of London Officers Training Corps Honorary Colonel and Chancellor of the University of London. On arrival HRH was invited to inspect the Honour Guard by WO2 (SSM) M. S. Tivey - Royal Signals PSI. The Guard of Honour was a Tri-Service Guard provided by the University of London Officers Training Corps, The University of London Royal Naval Unit and the University of London Air Squadron. The evening was an outstanding success. A great deal of effort was put in by members of ULOTC, who provided the Guard of Honour and proved to be a credit to their Unit.

SIGNALS TROOP - SARAWAK 1998 - 1999

Tp PSI	WO2 Bob Pye
Tp Comd	JUO Matt Carter
Tp Sgt	JUO Samantha Yardley

Last year was again a very busy training year for the Troop. We worked hard and had lots of fun. The Troop is responsible for Military Training Qualification 2, signals training within SUOTC. Last summer four officer cadets visited Blandford to complete the UOTC Signals course and two more members of the troop are attending the next course. A trip to Blandford Forum was arranged early this year that proved extremely interesting and informative. We had a tour of the camp, then a visit to the Museum that was fascinating and everyone agreed it is one of the best Museums they have ever visited.

An escape and evasion weekend was organised in March this year based in Swanage and Lulworth Cove. This involved a sea move for the 'evaders' on HMS Blazer and an RLC landing craft. They had to make a train journey where tickets were obtained from various agents. MoD guard-dogs had a role to play in chasing and frightening the 'evaders'. Apart from one cadet taking it too seriously and going missing, (twice!), everything went smoothly.

Summer Camp 1998 was a very active time for Sarawak Tp. It was two weeks of intensive training, based in Thetford. We had some of 14 Sig Regt from 226 Sig Sqn (EW) Troop attached to us for the duration. Their Tp Comd, Lt Charlie Roberts a former member of SUOTC, returned to reminisce and spend summer camp with us. We were lucky enough to have their fleet of new Wolfe Landrovers to test out. We had the opportunity to split into Detachments and to put our theory into practice. With help from 14 Sig Regt the Troop learnt how to set up and site det's, use REBRO's, HF and lay line. Also how important it is to keep the generator topped up with fuel at HQ.

A number of the Troop were deployed into the field as platoon signallers and also operated in the coy HQ. To ensure more realism there was frequent moving of det's and changing of security codes. 14 Sigs also played enemy for our final attack. During camp, the Troop learned convoy drills and various skills. We visited RAF Conningsby, to see 'the Battle of Britain' exhibition. The trip also involved a practice at fire fighting.

On our R&R day we decided to descend upon Great Yarmouth! Some of the Troop and most of 14 Sig Regt soon cammed up in Union Jacks and wore silly hats to match making the locals even more wary. As usual many pubs were on the agenda. Daz and Stan decided it was worth spending a week's pay on alcohol for the night and a long taxi ride back to camp. Annual camp 1998 has been very successful and enjoyable for Sarawak who came away with improved knowledge, ability and confidence. Much fun was had by all. A big thank you to all of 14 Sig Regt who joined us. After summer camp we said goodbye and thanks for all your hard work to WO2 Roberts who has gone to 3 Div at Bulford. Also welcome to WO2 Pye, who doesn't yet know what he has let himself in for!

Forthcoming events include Ex Lightning Strike, in March, the UOTC Signals Troop competition at Blandford where we hope to do well. This weekend is renowned for bringing the different signals elements of the OTC's together and is an excellent opportunity for inter OTC competitiveness, not only in the field but in the Mess also where everybody applies themselves to the task of meeting and greeting with ardour. Many members of the Troop have moved of late. We say hello to Liz Allen who is at Sandhurst, and hopefully will join the Corps. Many thanks to Sonia Taylor who was the Tp Sgt last year and played an invaluable role on summer camp; who has now left us to play nurses!

ACF CCF CADETS NATIONAL RADIO NETWORK

The origins of the ACF/CCF Cadet National Radio Network are obscure, but it is known that after the Second World War, ACF and CCF - units were issued with WS12 and R107 sets. These sets augmented by WS19, WS22 and WS 62 were used widely on ACF/CCF networks run by the various UK Army Commands. In the 1950s a cadet National Radio Network for voice and CW was organised and sponsored by the Corps. This network, now including data, has operated ever since and very many Royal Signals personnel have obtained their first long distance HF radio-experience as cadets operating on the allotted frequencies. Adults have always monitored the net, some of them additionally being registered amateur radio enthusiasts. Amongst the monitors has been Capt Jack Hargreaves MBE, formerly Signals Officer at Brighton School CCF. Capt Hargreaves was awarded the MBE for services to cadet Signals training and was active on the National-Radio Network frequencies until 1997.

The photograph below shows Maj Mike Vokes TD, currently County Signals Officer, Hampshire & Isle of Wight ACF handing over a plaque to David Walker of the Royal Signals Museum. It bears a suitable inscription and QSL card confirming radio contacts in 1997 between Capt Jack Hargreaves, Lt John Wresdell, the current Signals Officer, Bridlington School CCF and Maj Mike, whilst Hants & Isle of Wight ACF were at camp in Crowborough. Maj Mike was himself a cadet operator at Peter Symonds School CCF, Winchester in about 1958, Capt Hargreaves first took up his appointment as the Senior Net Monitor. Lt Wresdell learnt his operating skills at Bridlington School CCF from Capt Hargreaves.

at the R. Signals Museum

ACF/CCF Signals units now use PRC 320 equipment, displayed elsewhere in the museum. This equipment is a far cry in size and performance from the WS12 and R107 used almost fifty years ago. Due to security of premises and other constraints on cadets free tune, activity is perhaps not quite as prolific as it was 40 years ago, nevertheless three competitions still take place annually with as many as 20 - 25 participants. Some lunchtime and Saturday activity remains and the adult monitors try to persuade ACF units to join up on Thursday evenings at 2000hrs.

If any of the readers has precise information regarding the formation of the National Radio Net, would they please forward it to either: Maj Vokes, 21 Hocombe Drive, Chandlers Ford, Eastleigh, Hants SO53 5QE (01703 262551): or to Capt Mike Buckley, Senior Net Monitor, 12 Ramnore Ave, Croydon, Surrey CR0 5QA.

A TOUR OF DUTY
SOUTHAMPTON UOTC

News of my posting to Southampton UOTC seems like a lifetime ago! That happy day dawned in Sipovo, central Bosnia when the pace of life with 4 Armd Bde ensured that no real consideration was given to what lay ahead. Having returned to Osnabruck there were two pieces of advice which I remembered. One was from the QM, Capt Douglas, who said that I was to go away, get stuck in and have a good time - or words to that effect! Another set of adjectives came from the 2IC who said, 'Enjoy two years off' I wish! My predecessor was WO2 'H' Wells, a fine man who had done a fine job. His hand-over/take-over was fast efficient and he got out of the way quickly! His departure was the start of a well founded telephone 'Hot Line' brought about by two things. The first was my appreciation for the total lack of comment, during the hand-over, on personalities within the unit. He obviously presumed it was better to find those sort of things out for myself, he was right. The other was a dire need for informed knowledge on all manner of topics, often on a weekly basis.

JUO John Cload on the lighter side of life – September 1997

The unit in Southampton was well situated, being physically attached to two pubs. There were also some 20 drinking establishments within a couple of hundred yards, although I would doubt any had the licensing hours the unit had! With the city just next door and military vehicles and other training facilities miles away it took a little getting used to. Having just completed an operational UN/NATO tour I was launched into a unit with irregular hours no prospect of the sight of troops for another 14 weeks. This was together with continual offers of days off. At the other end of the building was this pipe smoking grey haired 'middle-aged' man who kept saying take more days leave Sergeant Major; when the students get back, you won't know what's hit you! He was the Adjt, Maj Derrick Heffron MBE RLC, who had been in the British Army for far too long and in the unit for longer than I had been in the British Army. Having enjoyed a busy career, including Previous time with the TA, I thought I was ready for anything; I was not ready for the Officer Cadet, in Southampton's case 130 of them with a sprinkling of TA officers and SNCOs. The largest dilemma was working out who they were. Officer Cadets, students, officers, potential officers, soldiers, civvies, military fanatics or just plain alcoholics? I soon learnt that it was best to look at each case and score the individual on merit, at the bar!

Sarawak Troop – Mast training on the Dorset coast (September 1997)

The Adjutant was right with his wise words and as soon as the Troop returned from their many summer adventures it was time to get stuck in. Drill Nights became known as National Nightmare Days. My role from the start was to look after all signal aspects within the unit. In reality that has involved training at the three different Military Training Qualification levels, supervision of the radio stores and equipment, and the major task of equipment nationalisation, from external sources, for major unit exercises. Each member of staff is also challenged with any number of other tasks. For me, that included taking up to 120 individuals away for an adventurous training week at Sennybridge in Wales each Easter. The complement of other minor tasks included maps, video support library and the management of unit training publications. The latter took three solid months to sort out -but that's another story. The interesting fact here is that I did not have to look after MT; welcome my replacement WO2 Bob Pye from HMS Collingwood - he does!

Cambrian Patrol Orders – Summer Camp 1997

It clearly became apparent that assistance from external units was essential. There were two R SIGNALS units with which we had affiliation. The first was 202 Sig Sqn, part of 3 (UK) Div at Bulford and also 63 SAS Sig Sqn (V) at Thorney Island. Over a period of two years we used all my favours in many corners of the country, more specifically:

3 (UK) Div Sig Regt. Manpower, RRB dets, generators.
14 (EW) Sig Regt. A whole Troop!
21 (AS) Sig Regt. RRB Det.
1 Mech Bde Sig. Sqn manpower, RRB det, generators
5 (AB) Sig Scla, Instructors, generator
238 Sig Sqn Instructors.

The list is not conclusive, and the opportunity is taken to thank all members of the Corps who assisted Southampton UOTC during the recent two years.

Southampton is one of the few OTCs to be blessed with a dedicated Signals Troop. There is a rank structure consisting of a Troop Commander, Sergeant and a number of Junior Under Officers (JUO's). Soon after my arrival I met JUO's Natalie Zimmer, Matt Carter and 'Taff' Davis who were to form the backbone of my first year in Sarawak Tp. Having been referred to as the poor relation of the other Advanced Wing Troops, namely Imphal (Infantry) and Elbe (Engineers) it was clear that either some hard graft or some good PR was required.

A clear characteristic in the average cadet is enthusiasm; lots of it! I have been privileged to serve two years in a Troop that has been blessed with many keen people, many of whom have been happy to stand up and teach. This has set the way for a steady improvement in many comms practices across the unit. At the top end, the introduction of a more formal EXCON function has resulted in standard command and control tasks are now performed by the Troop as a matter of course. The net result has also enabled Troop personnel to be marching men, and women, and play a full part in the unit as a whole. Assistance from our sponsor unit continued and we were pleased to take Sigs Grifiths and Hall from 3 (UK) Div Sig Regt on Summer Camp to Tregantle Fort. The line exercise was good fun, a function only surpassed by drinking skills and skits on the final night.

Having settled into the Unit it was clear that more fun was to be had in the second year. The summer period was spent on the Swanage Railway during Ex Topham Hatt with 16 Officer Cadets and a number of regular soldiers. Over a four-week period the team, with the help of staff at 11 Sig Regt, managed to rescue 160 soldiers, from Charlie Tp (now Kohimia Tp) and show them another part of Dorset. By October the hierarchy of the Troop had changed and JUO Matt Carter took over as Troop Commander assisted by JUO's Sonia Taylor, Matt Hall, Matt Denby and Zoe White. Autumn saw the annual presentation by the Signal Officer in Chiefs Recruiting and Liaison Staff. During this we were pleased to welcome the Regt Col, Col Walters, Lt (now Capt) Parkinson from 3 (UK) Div Sig Regt and a member of 63 (SAS) Sig Sqn (V). The visit served to further enhance interest in the Corps, although it has to he said that some of those interested have since fallen by the wayside.

In February the Regimental Colonel made a return visit in order to present the Sigs PSI with his LS&GC medal and as was likely all the sordid tales of Christmas trees to come to the fore. It was excellent to see 35 or so serving and ex-members of the Corps at the event including Capt John Mackay who had flown in from Bosnia, Sgt Tony Ward who flew in from elsewhere and former members Dee Brooking, Lee Hilligenn, Mick Nevill and Andy Sinclair. The event concluded with an 'in your face band' during which Capt Scott Youngson managed to scupper the Regimental Colonel's taxi arrangements. He eventually left at about three in the morning; the Officer Cadets were amused as they had never seen a real Colonel out so late before!

MASH 1998 was to see the Unit with 90 Officer Cadets in Wales engaging in adventure training activities. JUO Matt Carter assisted the PSI Sigs as Exercise 2IC, and JUO Zoe White took on mountains of stores. Grateful thanks are extended to Capt Kerry Levens (238 Sig Sqn), Lt Steve Short (216 Sig Sqn) and Sgt Mick Openshaw (11 Sig Regt) who assisted in the entertainment, on all fronts! Possibly the biggest coupe was the deployment of 20 members of the Radio Troop from 226 Sig Sqn, 14 Sig Regt (EW) on this years Summer Camp (held at Thetford in Norfolk). Under the Command of Lt Charlie Roberts, himself an ex member of the Unit, the team arrived with SSgt Paul Jude after an 11hr arduous drive from Brawdy (all noted the absence of Lt Roberts in the arrival party). Sarawak Troop, with its complement of 'wah' regulars deployed during the first week and were busy with many tasks. The dilemma during the training phase was one of balance; whether to teach JUO Carter about a Bde HQ and its moves across the countryside, Sig Mel Satmon how to tune a VRC353 or Sig Al Copestake how to look after the OC's weapon. Perhaps even Sig Jonah Jones on how to shoot. Cpl 'Daz' Mordeacai how to drive or LCpl Matt Quinn how to keep a driving licence! Anyway we had a plan. It involved HF training, a trip to the Battle of Britain Memorial Flight at RAF Conningsby, some convoy instruction, fire fighting with the RAF and a navigation quiz on the way home (to a field) for another barbecue. So well done to LCpl Jeff Fawcett for leading his team through the assessment points and Cpl Si Quinlan for showing the Cadets how to lose a teddy, professional style.

A long report, but then it has certainly seemed like a long tour; it was extremely enjoyable, but also hard work. Before I was posted Lt Col Chris Melhuish enquired whether a Technician would be well suited to the post. The answer - yes, but do a Yeomans course first or simply accept the verticle learning curve. Some of the things I will miss; Southampton, long Summer holidays, the enthusiasm of the Cadets, honest opinions, offers of help from buzzing individuals and the Adjt, Maj Derek Heffron who retired on the day I left after 42 years and finally of course, my Troop. Things I will not miss; Batco, equipment acquisition and National Nightmare Day on Wednesday!

EXERCISE ANNAPURNA BACKSTOP

by Sig Adam, 7 Signal Regiment

After months of planning and a lot of hard work, ten young-keen-fit soldiers, an officer and a SNCO, from the Army Youth Team in York, embarked on a journey of a lifetime to the roof of the world, Nepal. Much fund-raising went into the expedition, which included a 100km walk in the Bavarian Alps and a cocktail party held the night before we left. The 12 members of the Annapurna Backstop team were 2Lt 'Doc' Farrimond, SSgt 'Paddy' Hammil, Cpl 'Rob' Murray, LCpl 'Ken' Barlow, LCpl 'Jo' Cooper, LCpl 'Lindsay' Kinghorn, LCpl 'Mick' Walker, Sig 'Claire' Adam, Pte 'Leane' Dick, Sig 'Bibbs' Bibby, Sig 'Kate' Leaning and Sig 'Q' Qualtrough. Our aim on the Exercise was to trek an arduous section of the Annapurna Circuit up to Annapurna Base Camp in order to develop fitness and enhance interdependence, endurance and self-reliance. These were all achieved so read on to find out more.

On Sunday 25 October we made our way to London Heathrow by public transport. It was quite a scene with all of our army issued rucksacks trying to scramble onto the London Underground. We checked in at the terminal and realised that we were the only Westerners on the flight, hardly surprising considering we were flying Biman Bangladesh airlines. The upholstery on the plane was like something out of Austin Powers! The music and the films on the plane put us in the mood for a taste of Nepal. 10 hours later we landed in Dhaka, Bangladesh. We then had more than enough time to have a snooze, to pluck one's eyebrows and to freshen up before our next flight. Blaming it on jet lag of course Sig Adam and Pte Dick decided they would use the water to brush their teeth. It is a 10-day incubation period for worms. They were warned! We landed in Kathmandu mid afternoon. It was amazing. The noise of the horns, the smell of open sewers on the street and the little cafes selling 'fine English breakfast, only 70 rupees'. Most of all we noticed, these people had nothing but would do anything to make the tourists welcome. We were treated like royalty almost all of the time. We spent a day here getting organised and then it was off for a 6hr-bus journey to Pokhara where we would begin our 12-day trek.

On the Wednesday night we stayed at the British Gurkha Camp, it would be our last night of luxury. Early Thursday morning we set off from New Bridge to Tikhedunga. It was a short 3hr walk to acclimatise and to get used to carrying our rucksacks that would be on our backs for the next 11 days. Each night we stayed in teahouses. Our JSMEL, who had been before, said that we would be living on dal bhat for the duration. This would make it easier for the meals to be prepared and considering that the cooks basically worked in the dark on small gas stoves it would make it easier for them. But, oh no, not 12 soldiers. Sig Bibby with his chips and omelettes and 2Lt Farrimond eating six meals at one sitting, we just knew that we would have to allow at least two hours stopping for each meal!

We continued to make our way around the circuit we had chosen to do, all the time knowing that we had to get to Annapurna Base Camp situated at 4170 metres above sea level, bearing in mind that we had started off at1300 metres. The weather was hot, the sweat poured off us, we drank gallons of mineral water, but still we kept plodding. We moved further up through the valleys, onto Ghorepani, Poon Hill, Tadapani, Ghandrung, Chromrong, Himalaya and finally arriving at MBC (3700m) on Wednesday 4 November. Only another 500 metres to climb and we would have achieved our aim. We were woken at 4.30 in the morning to begin this final climb. It was a cold-crisp autumn morning and we started a slow but steady trek up the mountain. When we arrived the sun was just starting to come up over the Annapurnas. It was a glorious sight. The sense of achievement was felt between us all. We had made it in one piece, with all of our kit and with all the members of the team. From where we had started the trek, the Annapurna mountain range had seemed so far away from us and yet here we were on Thursday 5 November standing right in front of them. The feeling is so hard to explain.

We then began our descent back to Pokhara. It had become an enjoyable routine of walking, admiring the view, taking a cold shower and using the 'hole in the ground' toilets, particularly for Cpl Murray. During the day however, he saw a lot of the trees and the bushes! Very few injuries occurred during the trek that was quite surprising. However, Sig Leaning had an accident in the toilet and 2Lt Farrimond fell down a sewer- what a combination. On the return journey we thought we would be going downhill but at one stage we had to climb 2020 steps to Chromrong. We were all still smiling on arrival at the teahouse. Each night on the trek we were entertained by our porters who would play the drums, sing and dance to Nepali music. Each night we were asked to join in and it would have been very disrespectful if we were to turn down the invitation of learning more about their culture. On our final night of the trek, in appreciation, the porters and our guide Babu Ram decided that it was their turn to cook us a meal. So they made us a curry and a massive chocolate cake. It was definitely the best food I had tasted on the trek. We could trust the meat as we had seen the chickens being killed. We celebrated with the new friends we had made by drinking rum tea (later forgetting about the tea) and beer, and of course not forgetting our nightly dancing and singing.

On Monday 9 November we concluded our trek in the Annapurna Region and made our way back to Pokhara. Here we had a days rest. Relaxing by the lake, sightseeing, shopping for souvenirs and probably the most memorable part was eating at the Everest Steak House. Here they served buffalo steak, which was superb. We left Pokhara on the Wednesday as it was now time to head off for the white waters of Nepal where we spent two exhilarating days rafting. We rafted from Malinga to Fishling, here we stayed overnight on the beach in tents. In the evening we sat round a big fire and chatted about the expedition so far. This was also the start of a touch of food poisoning for the group, still nobody really knows what caused it, however it was nothing serious. The next morning the males in the group decided that they didn't want to shave in the freezing cold river and so begged to wait until the sun came out. However, being an officer, 2Lt Farrimond, decided to show the guys how brave he was by shaving. Not so that day! Today was the day that 'Bob' decided to join us and we then realised we had some stiff competition. 'Bob' was a dead human floating harmlessly down the river. Not really what you expect to see two metres in front of you while shaving! The rapids were sometimes small however we did experience some fairly scary moments. We did a lot of swimming and jumped off rocks. For some of us a little helping foot was needed by LCpl Walker - cheers Mick! We concluded the white water rafting phase at Panchkilo where we had lunch on the beach. We then headed off to the bus once again and travelled on for Phase 3 - Chitwan National Park.

The heat was even more intense here. Our journey into the Park was by a small wooden boat. It took four trips to get the team and the belongings across. We stayed in tents that were similar to 12 by 12s with a thatched roof. Once at Chitwan we went for jungle walks. We were excited at the thought of this as we were expecting lions, tigers and bears. Instead we smelt tiger wee, looked at rhino poo and ate leaves from a tree. However, later that day we rode on elephants. It was magnificent. All of a sudden the elephants would begin to make a lot of noise and start charging in to the bushes. The elephants had surrounded a rhinoceros and were chasing it into the water. It was great to see wildlife in its natural habitat. But the worst was yet to come. The elephants went wild again. This time they had spotted two bears. In 1993 the park decided to name them the Sloth Bear. These bears are extremely dangerous and kill a handful of locals every year. Three elephants decided to surround the bear, it ran towards us but soon backed down. It was easy to see who the King of the Jungle was now. Later the rest of the group came across the bears. This time the bear went to attack the back of the elephant. The elephant pushed up against the tree temporarily crushing Cpl Murray's legs. Additionally while we were in Chitwan we took part in elephant washing, and went on a boat ride during which we saw five crocodiles. On the final afternoon we visited a local village and met some of the locals. It made everyone appreciate what life is like in a third world country, especially since most of the group had never left Europe.

On Sunday 15 November we travelled for eight hours on the bus back to Kathmandu where we spent the last two days. During that time we went sightseeing with our guide. He took us to Durbar Square and the Royal Palace in the old part of Kathmandu. We ate out in all the lovely restaurants and of course we had to try out some of the bars, just as a small wind down of course. Wednesday 18 November was probably the saddest day for everybody, as we had to leave a beautiful country where we met so many special people. We had all realised that there is a lot more to life and that everybody has got so much to give.

The whole team loved this expedition to Nepal, we can't just put it down to one thing. It was everything. The only way to realise what its like is by going there, and ask any of us, it is worth the world ten times over.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF BOY ENTRANTS TO THE ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS

by Lt Col D. P. Herring, R. Signals

FOREWORD

It must be borne in mind that during the period covered by this article the school leaving age was 14 years and children of that age were expected to earn their keep, even or especially when living at home. Apprenticeships were not easy to obtain, were poorly paid, and conditions were hard. It was not uncommon for children as young as 10 years old to start their military careers in earlier times by carrying the armour and weapons of soldiers on campaign. Many of them were the sons of soldiers whose families followed the army. Wives of soldiers killed in battle were often taken over by other soldiers or cooked and cleaned for them. There were many drummer boys and buglers killed in the course of battles prior to 1914 Most of the soldiers killed in both the Great wars were young people under 25 years of age. From this it will be understood that the offer of a career with an apprenticeship was sought after and this was recognised by the government of the time as a good investment. They could afford to be selective.

PRE 1939

In 1919 the Signal Service Royal Engineers was located at Maresfield Park, Sussex. However, in 1921 this unit became the Corps of Signals. The Signal Service RE had at that time a number of boys who were being trained as Signal Mechanics, Operators and Trumpeters. The latter were also trained as Wheelwrights and Smiths; this was later changed to Despatch Riders.

In 1921 these boys were transferred to the newly formed Corps of Signals and thus began the tradition of Apprentice Boys in what became the Royal Corps of Signals.

In 1923 the War Office introduced a policy for the recruitment of boys aged between 14 and 15 years of age. Entry was by competitive examination, 60% of which would be trained as operators, 40% Instrument Mechanics and 10 Trumpeters. Education would be aimed at the Army Second Class Certificate and some up to Army First Class Certificate.

NB: in those days a second class certificate was required for promotion up to sergeant and first class to Warrant Officer.

In 1925 the Signal Training Centre moved from Maresfield Park to Catterick

In 1926 occurred a redesignation of Company names, which were lettered A B C etc in those days. At that time the boys were trained alongside the Adults in their Companies but the decision to segregate them was made and F Company became boys only with a Cadre of adults for training and administration. Thus the first Royal Corps of Signals Boys Company formed to train boys from the age of 14 years to 18 years in the trades required by the Corps.

In 1933 the Education Centre at Kemmel Lines, Catterick was constructed specifically for the educational training of boy soldiers in F Company. It was considered that selected boys were an excellent source of tradesmen required by the modern army. It was a condition of their recruitment that these boys would continue with their formal educational training. For many it was a second bite at the cherry.

By 1939, at the onset of the Second World War, F Company consisted of 180 Apprentice Boys and 10 trumpeters. 60% of which were under training as Operators, 20% as Instrument Makers and 20% Electrician Signals. Operator boys spent 18 months at the Post Office School in the middle of their course. After this they did a considerable amount of lineman training. Poor operators were mustered as linemen. Recruitment of boys was stopped probably because all available resources were required to train adults.

POST 1942

By 1942 there remained some 50 F Company Boys who were due to pass out into mans service in that year. The War Office decided to recommence the recruitment of boys and so the Boys Company Royal Signals was formed in Catterick as a Company of the 1st Trades Training Battalion, Royal Corps of Signals. In those days the Corps was formed into Battalions as if it were an infantry unit and companies were called A, B, C. etc. Hence the pre-war name of the Boys Company was F Company. To this day boys who trained pre 1939 are known as F Company Boys. The change to Squadrons occurred later when it was decided that as the Corps was originally a mounted unit and had its origins in the Royal Engineers, they should properly be called Regiments and Squadrons. In April 1942 the first of the new generation of Apprentice Tradesmen, called Boy A/T's arrived in Catterick to start their training firstly as soldiers and secondly as tradesmen. They were greeted by a number of F Company boys who had been recruited in 1939 and were still too young to go to war. These F Company Boys became the barrack room NCO's of these new recruits who were no doubt made aware of their inferiority.

RECRUITMENT

All Boy entrants were recruited through the normal recruiting offices using the competitive exam system first used in 1921, throughout the country. They were required to meet certain educational standards and sat an examination at the Recruiting Centre. This was no simple exam as I recall and most of the boys were of Grammar School standard. They were to be between the ages of 14 and 15 years, no older. About 1943 it was decided that older boys could be accepted into the army up to the age of 16. These boys were classified as General Duties Boys (G/D Boy) and they were to be trained in the lower skills of lineman etc. In fact many of them were trained in the higher skills and did equally well in their chosen career. As these G/D boys arrived at irregular intervals they did not fit in well with the established twice yearly intakes, Many joined courses late whilst others attended specially adapted courses. All entrants were required to sign on for eight years with the Colours and four years on the reserve from after the age of 18 years. They were committed on entry.

TRAINING

Education - All entrants were required to complete a six-week Drill and Duties course under their drill sergeant, (they could be returned to civilian life but this was quite rare). They were also required to attend education classes in English, Mathematics, Geography and Map Reading, to prepare for sitting the Army First Class Certificate of Education. It was arranged to be taken over two years, half of the subjects were taken in each year and examined separately. On completion of the exam the certificate was awarded. This qualification was required for promotion to Warrant Officer. Those who completed the First Class Exam were further trained in French, English(C), Mathematics (B) and Physics (E&M) which comprised the Army Special Certificate of Education This certificate was required for entry to Commissioned Officer Rank.

Trade Training - At the beginning Trade Training was undertaken with the adults but gradually the Company obtained its own facilities and eventually became completely separate from the men. All entrants were required to train as Operators Wireless and Line (OWL) for their first year of service. At that stage they were able to send and receive Morse Code at up to 20 words per minute, although the actual trade test was set at 12 WPM. Voice procedures were also taught and tested as a part of this training. During this first year the entrants were given aptitude tests to enable them to be graded for the next stage of their training. These Tests were called D & SP Tests and were early attempts to assess intelligence. On completion of the first year the intakes were divide up into different squads by trade and completed their training over the next two years. Training for the technician trades was restricted to those who expressed a desire to become technicians and who had performed satisfactorily as operators. The trades which were taught were as follows:-

Operator Wireless and Line (OWL B11)
Operator Wireless & Keyboard (OWK A111)
Operator Keyboard & Line (OKL B11
Radio Mechanic (RM A111)
Telegraph Mechanic (TM A111)
Line Mechanic (LM A111)
Lineman PL
Lineman Field

NB: The designation A111 reflected the pay scale of the recipient who were able to progress to A1 the highest rate for the trade. B trades were paid on a lower scale.

Before leaving the Company all boys were taught to drive cars, trucks (3Ton) and motor cycle and took a driving licence examination. At 18 years they were ready and willing to get out there and practice their trades. Many of them left the army after eight years and led successful lives in the community as civilians.

It is worthy of note that many of those remained for a full career of 22 years whilst others were commissioned, one of the ex F Company Boys reached the top of the tree and became Signal Officer in Chief (Major General) whilst others were brigadiers and colonels. A large number became Quartermasters in the Corps and specialist Officers such as, Technical Officers Telecommunications (TOT), Traffic Officers (TO) and MT Officers (MTO). Today these appointments still exist and are filled by Late Entry Officers; the current designation of those commissioned directly from the ranks. In 1948 those boys remaining in Catterick were transferred to the AAC Harrogate. They took with them the traditions of Royal Signals and for some it was not a happy marriage. Their esprit de Corps went with them and they acquitted themselves well in all fields until in the fullness of time they all passed out into the Corps. By 1945 there were some 350 boys under training.

In 1948 the MoD made a decision to combine all Army Apprentice training for the army at a new facility in Harrogate. This meant that all of the Corps who had apprentices had to send them there for training. The Army Apprentices School at Harrogate was given to the Royal Army Education Corps to run and the military side was handed over to the Guards. Naturally that was the beginning of the end but it was not to last as before long the RE and REME decided to take back their boys and the AAC became Royal Signals only. The original concept of a school of 1000 boys was dropped and in 1987 the AAC closed. The remaining boys were sent to Blandford to be trained there, but shortly after it was decided that there was no need for apprentices as the school leaving age was 16 years giving insufficient time to train the boys at a special establishment. The decision to set up a combined Regiment for all the Corps at Arborfield with a squadron for each arm was made with training as adults after completion of their induction courses. For the moment that is the status of apprentice training. They are back where they started in 1929 being trained with the adults at Blandford, the new home of the Royal Corps of Signals, after their basic training at Arborfield

OTHER BOYS ORGANISATIONS IN THE ROYAL SIGNALS

There have been other boys training schools set up for the army and in particular R Signals. These were for Junior Leaders, boys who were too old to go to AAC Harrogate, but before AAC there was a Junior Leader Squadron at Beverley, Yorks. This Squadron moved to Newton Abbott in Devon. There was also a Junior Leaders Squadron at Ouston, Northumberland. All these boys entered the Corps at 18 and were trained as tradesmen with the adults at Catterick.

EXERCISE ZAMBEZI BACKSTOP

by Sgt S. Nice Royal Signals

A grey cold Saturday 3 October saw a group of ten AFCENT personnel assemble in Brunssum, Holland for transport to whisk them away toward Frankfurt airport and then on to Victoria Falls, Zimbabwe, to take part in Ex Zambezi Backstop. The group, led by Capt Martin Fielding, and made up of eight other members of the Royal Signals plus one member of the RAF, had been in training for the expedition since May. The training had involved Kayaking, PT sessions and treks; we were now going to see if it would pay off.

SUNDAY 4 OCTOBER

After 15 hours of flying the team finally arrived in Victoria Falls. Following a trip to the Bureau De Change, where we discovered that we were all now, what could only be described as very wealthy. We were then taken onto what would be our base for the next two weeks, a basic but comfortable backpackers lodge on the edge of town. Whilst some members of the team went off to carry out recce's for the various activities and discover how great African bureaucracy can be, the remainder spent some time acclimatising and discovering the charms of the town. After twenty minutes the main charms had been discovered in the shape of Explorers bar and the Downtime club as well as local specialities sampled (well, local beers anyway!)

MONDAY 5 OCTOBER

Our first full day, more acclimatisation, and forced changes in our plans. We agreed to meet for lunch at what can only be described as a shining example of colonialism. The place: The Victoria Falls Hotel if you have the means I'd recommend it. Sitting on the patio sipping cocktails with our food, we were told of the changes to our trek plans. Once we moved away from the delights of the hotel some went to check into kayaking, others to look at the falls or around town. It was at this point our RAF team member chose to show his true colours and bought himself a safari waistcoat which when worn gave him a certain resemblance to Christopher Biggins.

TUESDAY 6 OCTOBER

Trek Day One: At 9:00 am packs loaded, large amounts of water being carried we set off on the trek with our guide named okay, (whose sense of timing was out as everywhere was just 15 minutes away). For some reason he seemed to think we were on a CFT or so it felt with the pace he was setting. Once out of town we moved off the roads and into the bush. With the temperature already into the thirties the going was tough and water consumption very high. As timing goes, this was probably the worst moment to start experiencing food poisoning, as Billy 'Biggins' Gilroy became the first of four to complain of stomach problems caused, apparently, by the local Vumba cheese! After four hours hard walking we finally reached the top of the gorge and we were greeted with a spectacular view of the river. The descent into the gorge was at best treacherous with a series of steps and ladders held together by pieces of wire and stakes, which had often worked loose. Cpl Chris 'Don't like the sun' Eckett now became the second victim of stomach problems during a knee hammering descent. On reaching the bottom of the gorge the group split into two for the next leg that was to a campsite for the night with the packs of Billy 'Buzz Light Weight' Gilroy and Chris Eckett having to be carried by SSgt 'Quarke' Alexander-High and Sgt Rob Ash.

A quick water stop on the trek. Nice hats lads!

The conditions in the gorge were beyond anything we had expected with no shade and no path, just an undulating line of boulders to scramble over. With temperatures now into the high thirties and heat reflecting off the rocks the going, to say the least was tough. After another break which saw Sgts Jon Hatch and Si Nice going through the 'Vumba' motions we finally reached a campsite by the side of the river and pitched camp for the night. After a quick dip in the river, during which SSgt Andy Chalmers scared all wildlife away by going natural, dinner was eaten by the then tired and hungry team and all settled down for the night, only to be regularly disturbed by Chris Eckett and his impression of a man about to die, end of day score: Zambezi Backstop 0 Vumba Cheese 4.

WEDNESDAY 7 OCTOBER

Trek Day Two: An early start at about 5:00am. Chris had made no improvement on his condition overnight and we soon realised that we would have to split his pack up between the rest of the team. By 9:00 am the sun had hit the gorge and the heat was becoming a relentless force to contend with. The terrain once again hindered us and we were covering ground at a much slower rate than planned, around 1km per hour, with plenty of stops required. After 7km we reached rapid number 18 the aptly named Oblivion, and rested up for a few hours. Due to Chris's condition the decision was made to end the trek early and leave the gorge. The walk out was by no means easy for anyone, even those who hadn't eaten the cheese. We were met at the top by transport, which carried a very tired and relieved group back to Victoria Falls.

THURSDAY 8 OCTOBER

Trek Day Three (Well it should have been): Originally planned as the final day of the trek; a change of plan was undertaken to fill what would have been an idle adrenalin free day, with a moment of sheer terror-a bungi-jump off the Victoria Falls bridge! One hundred and fourteen metres straight down, with only knicker elastic to keep you alive. Before heading out to the bridge where the jump takes place, the Zambezi Backstop Golf Classic was played on the beautiful Elephants Hill golf course. The result being that the OC expedition won the match, but only after he insisted on having a 28 shot handicap for 9 holes. Eventually we trooped out onto the bridge, and made our leaps of faith. The OC, of course, led the way (the draw for jump order wasn't rigged) and like lemmings the remainder followed. A special mention must be made of LCpl 'Scouse' Mcloughlin and his attempt to fly. No matter how hard you flap those arms you will still go downwards.

FRIDAY 9 OCTOBER

Rest Day: Everyone took advantage of the day to rest and sort their kit. Followed in the evening by a game viewing cruise down the river. Unfortunately some one forgot to tell the game. Each time we got close to any animals they made a sharp exit, but aside from that a pleasant evening was had by all. Watching the sunset as we drifted down the river whilst enjoying a beer or two.

SATURDAY 10 OCTOBER

Almost Kayaking: Having found out late the previous day that we would not be able to get the required kayak equipment for the day, a day's safari was arranged in the National Park. A morning game drive following the line of the Chobe River gave us all the chance to see plenty of wild life up close in their natural surroundings, a definite improvement on Chester Zoo. After lunch it was all on board for a game cruise, where this time we saw plenty, managing to get right up to a Hippopotamus. This prompted plenty of comments to Sgt Jon 'Hippo Hunter' Hatch about his previous night's conquest.

SUNDAY 11 OCTOBER

Kayak Familiarisation: After having to bodge some repairs onto the kayaks we had hired (die black nasty tape always comes in handy) we found ourselves at rapid three for the day, getting use to the high volume of water. Under the guidance of our resident experts Rob Ash and 'Buzz Lightweight' Gilroy, even such kayaking novices as Si Nice managed to stay upright temporarily. Longest swim of the day to Sean Alexander High who was last seen floating toward rapid four with his kayak doing a good impression of the Titanic. Most stylish kayaker goes to SSgt Andy Chalmers who seemed to be wearing a tutu as opposed to a spray deck.

MONDAY 12 OCTOBER

Kayak Phase Day One: The start of the main kayaking phase opened up at rapid number four. A gentle grade three to start the day, which was just enough to give a taste of what was to come. Some of the highlights of the day included rapid number eight with two possible lines. We all seemed to lose control of our senses at this point and chose to take the 'go big' line known as Star Trek. With just the experts making it through, the remainder decided to try it from other angles (generally upside down). This turned out to be an excellent test of our buoyancy aids. Once you've been thrown around a few times under water, up can be a difficult direction to find. The next rapid called 'commercial suicide' turned out to be an excellent test of our sandals as we took the sensible option and walked around. A name like that is only gained through good reason. The rest of the day saw us through such aptly named places as the Devil's Toilet Bowl, the Washing Machine, Three Sisters, the Mother and the legendary Oblivion. Which is made up of a sharp drop and three very large waves, one of which is bound to get you. A mention must go to Billy Gilroy who achieved the fastest ejection ever while in a Duo (a type of two-man kayak), leaving Si Nice at the front of the kayak to shoot the remainder of Morning Glory underwater. Kayaking novice Cpl Phil Heron showed us how its done by being one of only two people to complete number twenty three upright, the other being resident Kayak guru Rob Ash. Rapid twenty-three also saw the end for the day and time to camp up for the night.

TUESDAY 13 OCTOBER

Kayak Phase Day Two: The day saw a much more leisurely day with long slack areas of water to follow as the gorge opened up into Crocodile water. Not the best place to practice rolling a Duo, Rob Ash, especially if you don't achieve it. There were some slightly more technical rapids; as well as longer rapids such as Narrows One, Two and Three. Due to the size

Cpl Phil Heron riding his luck through rapid number twenty three of some of the rapids, portage around was required. Though Rob Ash and Billy Gilroy were usually willing to play with the big water. The final rapid of the day gave some close calls due to the tightness of the line and the rocks on either side, which seemed for a few a little too close for comfort. The day finished at a proposed dam site for the Zambezi with a long walk out to our campsite for the night where the OC had arranged for beer and food to be dropped off for us. A fitting end to the kayak phase, as we swapped stories and watch the sun drop below the surrounding hills.

WEDNESDAY 14 OCTOBER

Return to Victoria Falls: An early pick up from our campsite saw us back to our lodge for lunch, after a bone-shaking ride. Once showered and suitably refreshed the group went to view the falls and have the obligatory Wire photo taken. The falls themselves are an awesome sight, even though they were not in full flow at the time.

THURSAY 15 OCTOBER

For our final day we decided to get back on the water, and this time white water raft down the river for the morning. The raft guides Sven and May, seemed to think that they were on some sort of mission to traumatise the whole group. This generally involved turning the raft over as often as possible in as big a water as possible. Perhaps this was the reason Andy Chalmers seemed to spend the morning hiding in the bottom of the raft, though how Billy Gilroy could fall out with the slightest ripple of water remains a mystery. After the lunch stop we changed to Body Boards to try and 'surf the river. An experience well worth trying but very tiring all the same. Going into the third wave at Oblivion was compared to running head on into an All Black fullback, a description that didn't seem far from the truth. By the end of the day we thought we were more proficient than we actually were, though I'm convinced our Barrel Rolls were pretty impressive.

FRIDAY 16 OCTOBER

The final day found us with just enough time to souvenir shop and to have a last couple of cocktails and lunch. Some more than others, or perhaps it was just jet lag that affected John Mcloughlin on an internal flight! It was soon time, to move and make the return trip to Holland where it was only as we expected, cold and grey. A great experience was had by all and Zimbabwe is highly recommended as an expedition location. It just remains to thank Capt Fielding for arranging the expedition and all others who supported us and helped make the expedition a success.

INVESTORS IN PEOPLE

A unit perspective to gaining the award

*by Maj S. C. Green BSc (Hons), MIIE (Elec), TEM

WHAT IS IIP ALL ABOUT?

I first became aware of IIP whilst casually reading 'Focus', the MOD Journal. In it was a list of the latest awards for Investors In People (IIP) and third from the top was a Territorial Army (TA) unit which sparked a casual enquiry that became a route to my Regiment joining a select few Army units. This was in early 1997 and 16 months later, 34 (Northern) Signal Regiment (Volunteers) has gained IIP accreditation for its TA, Regular, and Civil Service staff covering five TA Centres (TACs) across the North East of England.

The first point of contact was the local Training & Enterprise Council (TEC), in our case this was the Tees Valley TEC. Each TEC has an IIP advisor who is there to promote the standard within their region. Initial meetings and a visit to the Regiment by the advisor gave encouragement and an early realisation that IIP really is about people and their part in the 'corporate goal'. IIP is intended to focus Training & Development (T&D) within a business organisation ultimately towards greater profit, output and competitiveness. For a military unit this business output equates to Military Capability (MC) and, as the Army generally considers the soldier its most valued asset, the standards seemed ideally suited to improving unit standards. The Army, The Royal Corps of Signals and the Regiment had so many different systems already in place, it was difficult to see where we might be going wrong - if at all. The first step was to see how the unit measured up against the IIP standard that is measured against 23 different indicators, in the areas of Commitment, Planning, Action and Evaluation.

THE PRINCIPLES OF INVESTORS IN PEOPLE

The IIP standard is based on four principles:

COMMITMENT to develop all employees to achieve the organisations goals and targets.

PLAN and regular review of the training and development needs of people throughout their employment.

ACTION to meet the training and development needs of people throughout their employment.

EVALUATION of the organisations investment in training and development to assess achievement and improve future effectiveness.

MOTIVATING FACTORS

A more detailed investigation of the indicators revealed that IIP is largely common sense and good leadership - qualities that should abound in plenty in any Army unit. For a TA unit conducting all of its Class 3 and 2 trade training in house, much of its recruit and promotion training, and all of its continuation training, it was a good method of self-evaluation and of focusing meagre resources more efficiently. In addition TA units undertake their own publicity, advertising and recruiting, therefore IIP would provide another avenue for raising awareness with local employers and potential recruits. The annual turnover of personnel within the Regiment was around 20%, some of which is quite normal and healthy, some of which could possibly be eliminated by more effective training and career management. At this time, the MoD was still defining its own policy regarding IIP, so no guidelines existed, and more importantly no rules existed to prevent the unit commencing accreditation. I consider the main benefits to be gained by IIP are at unit level. Whilst it could be argued that the Army or MoD, as a corporate body, would provide the best top level solution, the higher up the chain-of-command IIP is applied the more removed from the workforce the principles become, and some of the potential effectiveness is diluted.

AUTONOMY AND AUTHORITY

An initial hurdle to be overcome was to prove that the requirements by IIP(UK) for both authority and autonomy were satisfied. A short justification was submitted to the TEC advisor who supported the Regiment's application. As a subordinate unit, we were granted written authority from both OPCON and ADMINCON Brigade Headquarters. Although the case for both authority and autonomy is, I agree, debatable for a unit, in broad terms we satisfied sufficient criteria (only 3 from 5 are required) as follows:

Mandatory

- The unit had a separate written but flexible plan that set the unit's goals and targets.
- Devises and implements its own plan for the T&D of staff and has authority to change it.
- Controls resources that support T&D within the unit.

Other Organisational Features

- Has separate financial and management accounts.
- Has a branding identity that is separate from any parent organisation.
- Is the main focus for loyalty for its staff.

ROUTE TO ACHIEVEMENT

As a benchmark exercise, to determine how close we were to meeting the standard, the TEC offered a model questionnaire for Managers (Sergeants and above) and Employees (all ranks), this was completed by 120 members of the Regiment during a PTARMIGAN Deployment Exercise in April 1997. The advice and bench marking are all conducted free of charge by the TEC, so this offered the unit, at the very least, a method of determining the current effectiveness of our T&D, effectively an external audit. The results were very encouraging, quoted as 'the best initial survey results the Tees Valley TEC has ever seen'. From a standing start, and using a questionnaire in IIP terminology, we were about 80% effective at meeting the standard. The results, however highlighted the following areas for improvement, which from previous ADTN articles appear common to many:

- There was a lack of readily available information on T&D
- The civilian staff felt woefully neglected.
- Some managers did not want to take responsibility for T&D matters for subordinates.
- There was a general feeling that individuals did not appreciate their position and contribution towards the 'mission'.
- There was a lack of communications in the internal chain-of-command.
- There was a very distinct difference of perception between employees and managers - the workforce was not as well looked after as the managers had thought!

In terms of the four areas, we were certainly lacking in the amount of evaluation we were doing, at the three constituent levels: individual, squadron and regimental. Most of those surveyed thought the unit was committed, but there was some uncertainty about how this was planned and what action was related to improving standards. The detail provided from the evaluation of the results meant that problem areas could be related to sites, such as squadrons or troops; groups of individuals, such as managers or employees; and types of employees such as civilian, TA or Regular.

As a method of providing incentive to the dispersed squadrons the results were promulgated to squadron commanders for their own evaluation and to encourage 'problem ownership'. Although the initial aim was to develop squadron action plans many of the problem areas were so common to each site it was decided to have one basic regimental plan. The Regiment is dispersed over five geographical sites at; Middlesbrough, Darlington, Leeds, Newcastle-upon-Tyne and Hull. For the unit to gain accreditation, assessment would have to be undertaken on individuals at each site. Though evidence of compliance is submitted as a portfolio, an on-site assessment is also carried out on at least 10% of the workforce. Providing unrestricted access to an external assessment body on a random selection of the soldiers under command could be the Commanding Officer's ultimate test - or nightmare! From this initial evaluation an action plan was devised, each serial specifically targeted at one or other of the 23 indicators. Some of the primary means used to improve our T&D are outlined below:

- Regimental Training Instruction. A baseline document that specified both the Regimental frame work and the CO's annual training plan was lacking as a formal document. The Regimental Training Instruction published the guidelines, from sources such as the Signal Officer-in-Chief (Army) Policy Directives SOinC (A) PDs and Royal Signals TA Training Objectives (TATOs). In addition this framework document was used to introduce Systems Approach to Training (SAT) techniques for the much needed post-training evaluation. For any Training Officer the Management of Training Course (ADP Code 5767) at the Army School of Training Support is a highly recommended qualification. In addition to conducting the unit's own Internal Validation (INVAL), a form was introduced to justify both the need for specified courses and to evaluate the benefits gained from specific training 2 months after its completion. Chapters covered training systems for Officer & Soldier Careers, Management Training, T&D Policy and Structure, Trade Training, Recruit Training, Continuation Training (ATDs etc) and Adventure Training (AT). Distributed widely and hung on T&D Notice Boards, there was no excuse for not having access to the information considered missing during the initial survey.

- T&D Notice Boards. At each TAC a large notice board was found in a prominent place, to act as the focal point for course information, trawls for assistance to Regular units and operational tours, Post Exercise Reports (PXRs), and also the sub-unit record of training achievement. A Royal Signals specific Training matrix was modelled showing the sub-unit's nominal roll vertically against the ideal career path horizontally. By using a simple model to show career progression and the course or training required to attain the next rank it quickly gave a graphical representation of the unit's T&D state. Someone had to be reading it, as several inked-in corrections appeared. In essence this illustrated the formal training required to progress from the bottom rung of signaller to the top of being the Squadron Sergeant Major.

- Promotional Publicity for T&D. As internal communications were so vital, and in some areas were so lacking, several methods were employed to promote T&D. The unit issued to every soldier the annual training calendar of events and bright colourful Regimental Mission Statement posters were displayed everywhere in the unit lines and communications vehicles. In addition, personal ATD record cards were produced and individually issued. All meetings and briefings were 'encouraged' to have a T&D aspect. After 6 months to overhear a young soldier say to another - 'Oh that's to do with Investing-in-People' was joy indeed to the Training Major's ears.

- Induction and Indoctrination. As part of an overall change to the culture of T&D all aspects of presentational material was examined for quality, accuracy and relevance to the Mission. Special relevance is placed on sub-unit recruit rooms at each TAC and to the indoctrination packs issued to all potential recruits. In addition the Regimental Yeoman of Signals completed a review of all trade training courses, some 1,270 x 30 minute periods (a task delegated to nine Trade Co-ordinators) with special importance placed on emphasising career structure and future development opportunities.

- Use of Existing Systems. Many other reporting systems were also factored into the IIP process, the bi-annual Measurement of Fighting Power (MFP) as a final action has been incorporated into a detailed Regimental Training Report, specifying the unit's T&D health against the many measures of performance in the ADMINCON and OPCON Brigades' plans. Monthly financial planning tools such as TA Management Information System (TAMIS) were used to measure progress and determine value for money in broad terms.

THE ASSESSMENT PROCESS

Once the Action Plan had been agreed in consultation with the TEC, the Regiment signed its formal commitment to the IIP process and Certificates of Notification were posted at each TAC. The plan was then distributed and a settling-in period of eight months was established with progress meetings held every two months. In particular Regimental events, such as exercises and centralised trade training, were used as vehicles to indoctrinate the T&D ethos. During this period a portfolio building software package was obtained from the TEC and work started on compiling the portfolio. The package's front end has a 'story board' questionnaire requiring the user to show evidence of compliance against the 23 IIP indicators and successful completion of this was used as one of the final quality control measures just prior to confirming assessment dates. At the same time a second employee/manager survey was undertaken. This time a guided questionnaire, using familiar military terminology was used, leading the employee to the means by which the indicator topic should have already been achieved. Though this might be considered 'cheating', it had two benefits, firstly to teach those who may have been missed and secondly to remind others prior to assessment of T & D activities. The final survey was very good, and did show genuine improvement, in all but one of the 23 indicator areas where action was still on-going relating to Regimental level evaluation and feedback.

Up to this point the Regiment had had no financial support and achieved and met the standard at no real cost; certainly a few hundred hours of my time had been spent, but only about 12 TA Man Training

Days (MTDs) for one project officer had been used. The final assessment is priced at £550 per day, with the TEC granting a subsidy of £200 per day. An organisation of 400+ personnel would take 5 days to assess 10% of the employees across 5 geographical sites. As the end of the financial year was approaching our Regional ADMINCON Brigade, 15 (North East) Brigade granted financial support to this and the unit's National Vocational Qualification (NVQ) programme.

The final portfolio was kept within the 30 pieces of evidence suggested by the TEC and special attention paid to both relevance and brevity, both of which were to be commented on favorably by the assessor. An assessment programme was agreed with the assessor, spread by rank, location, gender and employment, as follows:

THE ASSESSMENT SCHEDULE AND TIMETABLE
Date	Event/Location	Assessment Personnel	Remarks
18-20 Apr 98 (Week end)	Ex Spring Eagle (Field locations)	49 Sig Sqn (V) 745 Sig Tp (V)–Hull 742 Sig Tp (V)–Newcastle	3xOffrs 1xWO 5xSNCO 3xJNCO 9xOR
21 Apr 98 (Drill Night)	Darlington TAC	50 Sig Sqn (V)	1xOffr 1xWO 2xSNCO 2xJNCO 5xOR
23 Apr 98	Darlington TAC	Civil Servants	3xstaff
25 Apr 98	Brambles Farm TAC	HQ & 90 Sig Sqn (V)	2xOffr 2xWO 3xSNCO 4xJNCO 6xOR

The first day of assessment was a bright and breezy day on a PTARMIGAN field deployment in the Yorkshire Wolds. Filled with apprehension the assessor was collected from a prominent RV - the Little Chef on the A64 and taken to the first location. Personnel were then selected at random from the nominal roll with the first interview lasting some 45 minutes! The exercise was actually used by the assessor as a vehicle to measure the four IIP component areas of commitment, planning, action and evaluation, and also provided an excellent audit trail for the final report. As the week progressed it became apparent that the worries of assessment were unfounded, as the assessor was very good at drawing out information from the interviewees, and the soldiers were confident, well trained and motivated. Many of the qualities taken for granted by the military, such as morale, team spirit and loyalty, are often missing in large civilian companies - this proved an outstanding feature and an asset in achieving the IIP standard. The final report and presentation were put before the Awarding Board by the Assessor and on the evening of 28 May 1998 the Regiment was finally accredited with the IIP award, some ten months after commitment date.

The report was very detailed and has provided the unit with areas for improvement, many of which are to provide individuals with better goals, targets and objectives for training and for formal courses. Some of the benefits have already been felt in the short term whilst others will only become evident in the long term, such as improved retention and better recruiting. Some of the benefits are shown below:

- Reduced wastage of training resources, Man Training Days (MTDs) etc.
- Enhanced quality of training provided to TA soldiers especially with internal trade and career courses.
- Improved motivation and commitment brought about by career structures and better counseling.
- Public recognition of quality training with local employees and potential recruits.
- Better retention rate - more satisfied soldiers, brought about by NVQs and high quality training.
- Structured T&D leads to better quality control and training standards across a dispersed regiment.
- Improved unit pride and morale.
- Focus on 'core business' of providing Military Capability.

PUBLICITY

The TEC provided both the copy-writer and photographer, for their internal publicity material, and for future case studies in their promotional material. A Media Plan was completed and the unit's sources for recruiting material targeted in addition to several additional educational and employment publications identified by the TEC. At this point it certainly proved very helpful having one of our TA JNCOs working in the publicity department of the TEC! Although the Regiment was not been the first TA unit to gain accreditation, it is the first in The Royal Corps of Signals and was only the 40th establishment in the MoD, so has joined a relatively select few. Now that the MoD has developed its own IIP policy directing Divisions and Brigades to achieve IIP status, the Regiment has acted for both its parent OPCON and ADMINCON Headquarters, 11 Signal Brigade and the 2nd Division, as a pilot unit feeding in experience and its action plan to assist their IIP Project Officers.

CONTINUOUS REVIEW

Once the unit gained the award the report from the IIP assessor provided a base for the continuous review. A TA Officer was appointed as IIP Project Officer, to sustain the standard and provide continuity to the ever changing Regular Training Major. The direction in future is to complete a new revised rolling programme suggested by the Tees Valley TEC for reviews every 12-15 months, as opposed to a full assessment every three years. Another option may be that the unit now gains re-accreditation through its parent OPCON Brigade, ensuring an economy of effort and funds. It is also reassuring from an Army corporate perspective that many recent initiatives such as the new open reporting system for all Service officers and initiatives for a TA all ranks appraisal report, are IIP compliant and complement the unit's continuous improvement plan.

LOOKING BACK

At any level in the Army if a unit is working well it should be meeting the IIP standard. A unit such as a TA regiment is specifically suited to internal improvement with regards to recruiting, retention and training. The Forces have a generally high standard of training and this linked to morale and team spirit fosters the type of ethos that can be lacking in a commercial business. Although IIP was introduced to promote business improvement by valuing the people delivering the product or service, the essence is identical for the military. The key in using IIP for the military is not to progress into business practice, principles or jargon, but to retain what is well established and measure a unit against IIP standards, adapting it where applicable. Looking back some of our experiences are summarised below:

- Not as painful as might be expected - retain military culture - it works!
- Be pragmatic and common sense should prevail, keep in military terminology - it's familiar.
- Evaluation & feedback are vital at all levels (unit, sub-units, detachment and individual) for all activities (courses and training events).
- Everyone in the team must 'Know their worth' and contribute to the Mission Statement.

HIKE IN THE TIEN SHAN MOUNTAINS OF KAZAKHSTAN FOR MENCAP

by Capt R. C. Gamble Royal Signals

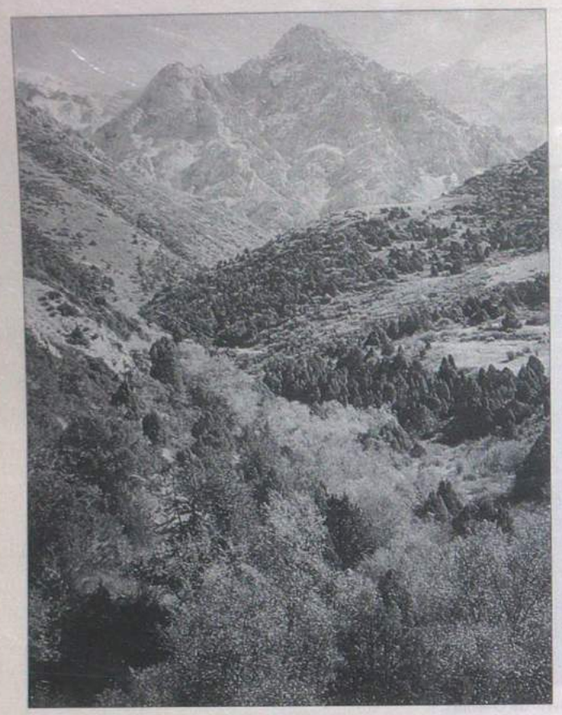
It was in late March 1998 that I first saw the advertisement to 'Walk in the Shadow of the Hindu Kush for Mencap'. At that time I had no real idea of what Mencap was but the thought of trekking somewhere so remote and unspoilt fired my imagination. I quickly discovered that all I had to do was promise to raise £1,950 in sponsorship for those with a learning disability (Mencap), pay £300 to cover my own costs and get a Visa from the Pakistani Consulate in London. If all went well I could then expect to join a bunch of like-minded persons for the trek of a lifetime. Although I formulated a good plan for raising the required amount, the easiest part of all turned out to be paying my own £300! Anyway, American Cruise Missiles flying across Pakistan to targets in Afghanistan served to prompt the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to deter UK citizens from visiting the Hindu Kush of Pakistan and so, at the eleventh hour, an alternative location had to be found. This is how I came to trek for eight days in the Tien Shan of Kazakhstan. Kazakhstan is a member of the Commonwealth of Independent States and lies between the Caspian Sea to the West and China in the East, with the Russian Federation to the North and Uzbekistan and Kyrgyzstan in the South. It is a large country given in equal portion to mountains and a wide expanse of rolling grassland, the ubiquitous Russian Steppe.

DAY 1 - Heathrow to Tashkent. The first day of our trek saw us meeting at the Uzbekistan Airlines check-in at London Heathrow Airport Terminal 2, on Tuesday 29 September 1998. Never even having heard of Uzbekistan Airlines was enough to fill our minds with the dread of ancient Aeroflot flying coffins. It was with considerable peace of mind therefore that we eventually boarded a modern Airbus A310 for our six hour flight to Tashkent in Uzbekistan. This flight will remain with me for many years, as I sat next to a bearded Sikh Preacher who, though resplendent in flowing white robes, insisted on hawking and clearing his throat every 10 or 15 minutes...

DAY 2 - Tashkent to Camp 1. Having crossed Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Russia, and Kazakhstan we eventually landed in Tashkent to find the sun had been up for about an hour, and was serving to make last night's rain glisten where it lay, lending an air of antiquity to this once regular stop on the Silk Route to the East. Completing the Customs Declarations that were presented on cheap green paper in size 7 font, and in Russian, caused quite a headache for our single interpreter. It was the lucky ones who cleared this bureaucracy early and were able to while away the three hour wait in the sunshine outside the terminal building, sampling the local Water Melon which was both very juicy and inexpensive. After what seemed an eternity, we eventually boarded three large German coaches for the next leg of our journey. About half an hour after departing the Airport we negotiated the border into Kazakhstan and then spent the next four hours crossing the treeless rolling landscape that we came to know as the Steppe. The blazing sunshine, fatigue and the repetitive monotony of this vista served to transport us all into a state of profound slumber. We woke to find ourselves coming to a halt alongside the Saryaygir River where half a dozen small battered Buses and what was obviously an army surplus six wheeler with a box body on top were parked. The plan, we were told, was to get into our walking kit with Day Sacks and put our Bergens on the truck. We would then be transported up the Saryaygir Valley to a drop off point from where we would walk the final six kilometres to our first camp. It was a very British group who undressed at the roadside in order to get into shorts and boots, an event not lost on the locals who obviously thought the English very comical. Once we set off again it rapidly became very obvious why the buses looked so dilapidated, as we spent the next hour bouncing around inside a metal box, with no suspension. This, on an unmetalled road, that was full of potholes which varied in depth between several inches and a couple of feet. We were certainly all loosened up by the time we debussed and prepared for our walk into the foothills in search of Camp 1. This initial walk, though all up hill, gave us a chance to both stretch our legs and fill our lungs with beautifully clean mountain air. The campsite was situated on a low meadow adjacent to a stream a few hundred metres short of its confluence with the Saryaygir River, and it was immediately obvious that the military had been at work here. The two-man tents were neatly laid out, as were ablutions, lavatories, mess tent and kitchen. As all this administration had to be man-packed it was of necessity spartan, though nonetheless very functional. Most of the locals employed by the trekking company (Across the Divide Ltd) to act as guides, porters, cooks etc, had obviously done National Service. One particular guide of the lean and mean variety sported a Special Forces style blue and white striped singlet atop his combat trousers!

DAY 3 - At Camp 1 (1,700m). The next day we were woken at 6.30am to discover the sky was clear with the sun almost over the hills and into our valley. To say this scene was idyllic would have to be an understatement, it just took your breath away. Where the Steppe had been treeless, the valleys in the Tien Shan were thickly covered in both coniferous and deciduous trees, with wild flowers, brambles and Broom in abundance. It quickly became apparent this whole area was untouched except for the very few who were fortunate enough to live in the area.

The routine for this and the next six days would be similar, with a morning call at 6.30am, Breakfast 7.30am, Stretches (warm ups) 8.30am and departure at approximately 8.45am. Breakfast was served on a long low table in the mess tent at which we sat on tiny plastic stools with our knees almost around our chins. On this and all the days to follow we were served with Porridge or Semolina (made from thick sweet milk and sugar), Bread, Salami, Cheese and Green Tea. At a conservative estimate



The valleys in the Tien Shan were thickly covered

Breakfast was easily in excess of 2,000 calories, and there were those in the party who had to be convinced of the absolute need to consume all that was available. It is worthy of note that as the days progressed there was no one to be found who would give up their morning porridge. Indeed this excellent diet was to give us the energy to spend many hours climbing, and we would all return to the UK surprised that a couple of inches had gone from our waists. Group 3 was formed with guides Andre at the front and Alexis at the back and we set out up the valley for a 6km 'Shake Out'. This may not seem far but we had climbed up to 2,100m by the time we stopped for lunch and we were all feeling weary from the altitude and the heat, which at midday was above 40C. For lunch on this and all consecutive days we had tinned Pilchard or Herring in oil, Bread, Salami, Cheese and Green Tea, all consumed by the side of a mountain stream. By the time we returned to camp we all understood the need to ensure our boots were good and tight, as ankles were to take a hammering as we moved across both uneven ground and scree. Dinner was served at 7.30pm and it was with deep joy we discovered the greasy watery soup and the greasy watery stew were not only accompanied by bread but half litre bottles of Vodka. This beverage you would certainly not find on a supermarket shelf in the UK (unless in the motoring section under Antifreeze), but on a starless freezing cold night in Northern Asia, it served to warm those bodies furthest from the campfire whilst ensuring a good nights sleep for all.

DAY 4 - Camp 1 to Camp 2 (1,900m). Another gloriously sunny dawn heralded the arrival of Day 4 and the trek over the Bezimanniy Pass to the Sayramsu River. Following a long slow plod we eventually reached the Pass at noon, and from its 2,300m vantage we looked over the foothills and out to the Steppe to the Northwest and to the East, the Tien Shan massif. Having lunch amid this gorgeous scenery, with fantastic views all round, was so much like being in a Swiss Alpine meadow, that none of us would have been surprised if Julie Andrews had appeared to a refrain from 'The Sound of Music'. Sadly it was to be after this lunch break and whilst climbing down a pretty severe gully that Anne, a member of Group 5, fell and received a nasty compound fracture to her lower right leg. Our group had reached Camp 2 by the time this happened and so were not involved in the drama, but suffice to say, the 2 Team Doctors and Russian stretcher-bearers did a fantastic job of recovering her from an extremely difficult position. We heard that evening that Anne had been taken by helicopter to Tashkent Hospital, and from there to the Airport to meet an Air Medevac which flew in from Calcutta and on to Heathrow just for her. This sad event served to remind us of our mortality, and we went to our tents that night thankful for the comprehensive trekking insurance policies we had initiated prior to departing the UK.

DAY 5 - Camp 2 (1,900m). Just one or two very small clouds marred an otherwise perfect start to Day 5, and it was obvious (to us later) that from talk at breakfast, none of us except the Russians understood the significance of those few small clouds. The plan for Day 5 was to walk up the Sayramsu Valley to the headwaters of the Sayramsu River. This was to be the longest day's walk so far, with the groups departing as normal just after breakfast and reaching 2,500m for lunch before pressing on to the high lake at 2,700m.

Looking Southwest down the Sayramsu Valley from the headwaters of the river

One or two stalwarts stripped off and swam in this glacier cold lake before we all started back down the way we had come, returning to camp just as night fell, and very much looking forward to dinner and bed.

DAY 6 - Camp 2 to Camp 3 (2,800m). We had been briefed on the evening of Day 5 that today's walk would be a pretty severe uphill slog, with Camp 3 being established below the Sayramsky Glacier. The camp was to be relocated with the aid of a helicopter (MI 8 Hip), if the weather was good enough for it to fly, a subject open to much speculation as yesterday's few small blobs of cotton wool were today's partial overcast. By mid morning the cloud had burned back and we departed the Sayramsu Valley on time, and were soon as foretold, slogging up a winding ridgeline with the Sazanata River below us to the North. There was not so much talking within the group now as we were becoming more and more preoccupied with our apparent inability to get enough air into our lungs to provide the energy for the next step. It was with deep gratitude we eventually made camp and, devouring dinner and Vodka, settled down for a good rest before attempting the glacier tomorrow. Sadly, for some the good rest was not to be had, as the evening brought with it very high winds which filled the night air with a cacophony of noise. Our tents were taking a real beating in the face of winds so strong you had to take care not to be bowled over as you staggered to the latrines.

DAY 7 - Camp 3 (2,800m). Day 7 dawned overcast and dull, and forsaking a shave in deference to the cutting wind, we were never more appreciative of either our morning bowl of porridge or steaming mug of Green Tea. Today we would attempt the Sayramsky Glacier and more than one anxious glance was given towards the heavens. Departing camp at the normal time we soon found ourselves climbing over huge banks of scree covered Lateral Moraine, which served to severely hinder our progress upwards. By late morning it had started to snow and by noon we had got to about 3,700m when, in near blizzard conditions, a temporary base was established. While our Russian friends prepared lunch we launched ourselves up and across the final snowfield barring us from the top of the Glacier. It was a race against time as our guides were keen to get us off this particular face of the mountain as soon as possible, and certainly before dark, when any movement would certainly guarantee a fall and injury. Try as we might we could not rush this final leg as our breathing became more and more laboured, and then after what seemed an age, we suddenly found ourselves at the top, and at a height of 3,800m celebrated our achievement. After a few minutes of furious picture taking amid swirling snow, we quickly dropped down to our temporary forward base and, just as quickly, chomped through our snow covered salami sandwiches. It was obvious to everybody that the important thing now was to gain the shelter of Camp 3 before we lost the daylight, and so, helping our injured, we retraced our route back down the way we had come.

Apart from a couple of sprained ankles, we all made it down safely and discovered that in our absence the wind had totally destroyed one tent and severely mauled a couple of others. Following the necessary re-shuffling of bodies it was not long before we were able to toast our day's accomplishment with Vodka, over a meal of lovely, hot, greasy and watery stew. That night tucked up warm in our sleeping bags we were dismayed to hear the sound, both of the wind as it rose and the unmistakable patter of frozen snow being driven before it. Needless to say not a lot of sleep was to be had as we were constantly outside removing the snow as it drifted against the weather side of our tent.

DAY 8 - Camp 3 to Camp 4 (1,900m). Our second Tuesday dawned heavily overcast, and we emerged from our tents to discover a world of white, with snow at depths of 6 inches where it was flat, to a couple of feet where any slope allowed drifting. There were several unfortunates among other groups who had not heeded the advice of the guides and their tents were barely recognisable as such under a blanket of white. The Mess tent and kitchen areas had been severely affected by the weather, with tentage ripped and equipment buried. Breakfast was therefore eaten standing in similar fashion to that adopted by Penguins in the cold, with us all huddled together munching on, joy of joy, hot Frankfurters a complement to our normal Salami and Cheese.

Camp was broken early this morning, with everyone carrying all they could in order to ensure a clean exit from this high and dangerous place. We set off in orderly fashion and re-traced our steps of Sunday (when we slogged our way all day up this same ridge line), and despite being all down hill, it was still mid afternoon before we came once again to the Sayramsu River. It was really amazing to find that at this lower altitude the sky was clear and the sun shining, but a glance back over our shoulders was all that was required to confirm the Sayramsky remained wreathed in cloud. This our final camp was on the site of a summer hikers rest area, and came complete with quite a few metal TIR containers which some of us were able to utilise in order to save on tents, a lot of which were still on the mountain behind us. We had barely established ourselves when our guides informed us the helicopter could not fly, and asked for volunteers to go back to Camp 3 and help bring down the residue of stores. Despite the fact that our Camp Staff continued to shuttle stores down the mountain well into the night, dinner was nonetheless put before us on time. It was during this meal that word was passed to the effect that a Sauna existed in the trees only 300m away, and it would open tomorrow at 8am. One of our group immediately made contact with the bearer of this news and negotiated for the Sauna to open at 7am, a gem of information we kept to ourselves.

DAY 9 - Camp 4 (1,900m). Only a few scudding clouds marred an otherwise perfect start to Day 9. Our group met at the Sauna at 7am as arranged and, following a good Beeching from an athletic and enthusiastic Russian, had the luxury of a shower and shampoo in ice cold water. It was not to be until after breakfast that the soporific effects of this super sauna were to be realised, and by then it was too late, as we were preparing for the final walk which would take us up to the high ground right in the centre of our previous seven days endeavours.

The Sayramsu River and the Tien Shan

It was late afternoon when a bedraggled and thorn torn Group 3 crossed the Mencap Finish Line, receiving our medallions and mugs of Champagne from the Mencap representatives, along with their thanks for a job well done. Apparently our combined efforts had seen sponsorship in excess of £250,000 raised for Mencap. The evening meal was consumed to the accompaniment of more local champagne as we sat in our group and reflected on all we had done. Not only in raising the necessary sponsorship, but also the achievements of the past week when we had helped each other over some very impressive terrain.

DAYS 10 AND 11 - Camp 4 to Heathrow via Tashkent. Our return to Tashkent went by in a blur, mostly brought about by the tiredness to be associated with trekking for 8 consecutive days over rough, steep and sometimes hazardous terrain, exacerbated by sleepless nights lying on the hard ground. Retracing our steps we stayed overnight in a Hotel where we had our farewell party, which in the way of such things, was a huge success. The following morning Tashkent was in the middle of a blizzard and it was obvious to all that Winter had arrived. Nonetheless we set out to purchase our souvenirs prior to being ferried to the Airport in time for our 6pm departure for Heathrow. It was a sombre Group 3 who stood around the luggage carousel that Friday evening at 8pm in Terminal 2. Having agreed in principle to a reunion in either November or December and having had a volunteer come forward to organise it, we shouldered our Bergens, said our last goodbyes, and disappeared one by one into a dark rainy Heathrow night.

BADMINTON

INTER-CORPS BADMINTON TOURNAMENT

The Inter-Corps Badminton Tournament took place at Perham Down during the 27-28 November 1998. Five Corps entered the competition, only the Infantry was missing from last year. The teams varied in strength due to 'Operational' and other commitments. This, unfortunately, destroyed the R. Signals preferred squad, however, as the Corps has much strength in depth, albeit not at the highest standard, we were able to field a reasonable team.

The first match was against the R. Engineers, a grudge match, as they were last years winners, having defeated R. Signals, (in the last match, last game, last point). The Engineers were missing a key player for this match, but thought they could win the match without him as they had already had a warm-up match against the RLC. The plan did not go well for them, as the R. Signals team had a better balance between their pairings and were eventual winners by the odd game. The second match was against a very strong REME team and after only winning two games in the first six games, R. Signals conceded the match in order to save themselves for the next match against the RLC. This proved to be the case, as R. Signals won the match 7-2.

The last round of matches saw the RE v REME and R. Signals v AGC. These were to be the deciding games which meant the difference between a 4-way tie for first place, a 3 -way tie for second place or places would be decided if certain teams won the matches. The AGC, had the strongest team in the competition and easily won the match 8-1 which meant that the R. Signals team were hoping that the REME would beat the RE who had gained their extra key player. The match went to the last game and REME won 5-4. The final positions were as follows:

1st Place - AGC 8pts
2nd Place - REME 6pts
3rd Place - R. SIGS 4pts
4th Place - RE 2pts
5th Place - RLC Opts

This was an excellent performance by the R. Signals team despite the setback of players being injured, not being released from courses and Operational commitments. Dare I say it, 'Maybe next year?' The Corps runs it's own competition each year for players of all standards and new players are welcome either as individuals or as a member of a team. If there are any 'closet' players out there who wish to join the 'Elite' players of the Corps, contact Capt Inman on Blandford Mil (737) Ex: 2661.

RUGBY

The Royal Signals RFC V RMCS 2 December 1998, the fixture took place at Shrivenham, the Corps dominated the scrum and line out but did little to turn this advantage into points. Whilst there was an abundance of determination, from the Corps side, there was little structure or consistency in their game. The score at halftime was 15-12 to the Corps. A number of substitutions at halftime slightly improved the situation with the Corps producing some good running, but it was thwarted at the last hurdle by RMCS defensive play. The final score was 22-20 to the Royal Signals.

OFFSHORE SAILING 1999

Following the Yacht Club AGM a programme was developed for offshore sailing during 1999. The aim of the programme is to introduce more of the Corps to offshore sailing, provide basic training to Day Skipper level, and compete in the ASA Regatta. The programme will be run to meet demand; sailing officers and individuals are requested to contact the organiser to register interest. The flagship event will be the Royal Signals Sail Training Week (STW) run from Kiel. This builds upon a number of successful events and a wealth of support. Already five of the nine available boats have firm charters. The overall programme, with points of contact, is as follows:

May (dates TBC)	5 day training course	Solent Malvern South 6799	Capt I. Gray
May (dates TBC)	weekend social sailing	Solent Malvern South 6799	Capt I. Gray
	(to follow the qualification course)
4-6 June	Rally	Solent Bulford 2252	J. Grierson
9-19 July	STW	Kiel Malvern South 6799	Capt I. Gray
Sep (dates TBC)	weekend social sailing	Solent MOD MB 82678	Maj T. C. Wadey

I will also be looking for skippers and crews to enter two boats in the ASA regatta, probably during early July. If any one is interested would they please contact Maj T. C. Wadey on MOD MB 82678. As already stated these events cannot run without active participation. The organisers are looking for skippers and crews of all abilities from beginner upwards. They do, however, offer members of the Corps a very good way of trying and then learning more about a sport with growing civilian popularity. It will also offer the opportunity for more Corps members to sail and get to know the Corps Yachts based on the South Coast.

Continuing in the Corps tradition, ex-WO2 (Supvr R) Cas Hayes has received a bravery award from the Chief Constable of the Nottinghamshire Constabulary. On leaving the Corps in 1994, after completing twenty-two years service Cas Hayes joined the Nottinghamshire Police Force, where he serves in Newark as a response driver. The Chief Constable, Mr Colin Bailey, said, Constable Hayes is to be commended for his courage and bravery, in disarming and arresting a violent, drunken and unstable man, brandishing a large butchers' knife. Thus bringing a potentially life threatening incident to a satisfactory conclusion.

SWIMMING & WATER POLO

ROYAL SIGNALS VICTORIOUS AT INTER-CORPS SWIMMING AND WATER POLO CHAMPIONSHIPS

Report by Maj T. P. Langford

The Royal Signals achieved the impossible at the 10th Inter Corps Championships by taking all three titles; a feat never achieved before and unlikely to be repeated. The selection and training of all teams had a rather indifferent start .....

INTERNAL CORPS COMPETITION

The Internal Corps Competition was conducted at Colerne on Tuesday 27 October 1998. The Competition is 'fought' between UK, Germany and ITO. It was obvious from the start that a very weak Germany Team would achieve very little this year and the Trophies and Medals would be between UK and ITO.

The first race of the day, the 100m Freestyle, was won by Sig James Greenlee from ITO in 61secs, UK were 2nd and Germany 3rd. UK won the 50m Freestyle with Sig Scott Miller recording a time of 29secs. The first female race saw Sig Helen Stanyer win the 50m Freestyle for Germany in 33secs. ITO returned to their winning ways in the fourth event as Sig Craig Chilvers won the 50m Backstroke. Sig Chrissy Tilley, for Germany, won the female 50m Backstroke in a time of 37secs. The 50m Butterfly, with an older competitor or two (Maj Tim Langford and WO2 Danny Thornton) saw ITO win again with Sig Ollie Smith. The 50m Butterfly gave LCpl Lisa Gibbons the opportunity to display her class as she won by over 2secs for UK. In the 50m Breaststroke events Sig Sean Peart won again for ITO in the male race and LCpl Sarah Lee was victorious for UK in the female race. As we began the all important relays the scores were:

UK - 21
ITO - 18
GER - 15

The first relay was the male 4 x 50m Freestyle which saw UK win in a time of 2min 21secs, Germany were 2nd and ITO third. The 4 x 50m Male Medley Relay was won by ITO in 2min 16secs and the final event, the Female Medley Relay was won by UK. The final positions were:

UK - 29 points
ITO - 23 points
GER - 20 points

UK Swimming Team

The Water Polo was always a two-horse race. ITO and UK both beat Germany comfortably; 11-5 and 13-6 respectively. The final between ITO and UK was a very close contest with neither team managing to assert themselves until the third quarter. In this quarter WO1 Pete Griffiths in the ITO goal denied three 'certain' chances and ITO managed to open up a three goal lead at 5-2. In the last quarter UK could only score once with ITO managing a further two. ITO was victorious at 7-3 and won the competition.

INTER CORPS PREPARATION

Selected individuals then remained in Colerne for training. SSgt Paul Gorman, from 11 Sig Regt, constructed a good swimming programme and Mr Mick Flaharty, from the Gymnasium in 11 Sig Regt, (ex Navy and Combined Services Water Polo Player) coached the Water Polo Team which embarked on a hard programme of matches.

On the evening of Tuesday 27 October we travelled to Cheltenham to play their Juniors who had three Under 18 Internationals. They were superb which was reflected in a 26-4 defeat for the Corps. Wednesday 28 October saw us in Bovington playing our Coach's Civilian Team Wessex who are based in Weymouth. In a narrow pool the score was always going to be tight and we managed a 6-4 victory. On Thursday 29 October we moved to HMS Collingwood to play a RN Portsmouth team. We played well and our superior skill and experience ensured an easy 16-5 victory, Cpl Rob Love scored 9 of our goals. The Bristol Harlequins entertained us on the Friday 30 October in the Bristol South Swimming Pool. After our initial concern as to the probability of our transport being stolen whilst we played, we enjoyed a very close match. We were finally defeated 12-9 but we played well and felt we were playing better as a Team. On Tuesday 3 November we returned to Cheltenham and managed a better score line losing 25-4!! The Wessex Club was our 'enemy' again on Wednesday 4 November at Bovington and we beat them again, this time 5-2. With six 'practice' games behind us, some highs and lows, we eagerly looked forward to the Inter Corps Competition.

INTER CORPS CHAMPIONSHIPS

In the swimming events we were defending Champions in both the male and female competitions; indeed the girls had won the previous three years. The first event was the male 4 x 100m Freestyle Relay where a very strong RLC quartet won by nearly a length, we finished 2nd with APTC 3rd and REME disqualified, Sig James Greenlee swam our anchor leg and recorded a time of 60secs. The second event was the female 4 x 50m Freestyle Relay where REME won, RLC were 2nd, we finished 3rd and AGC were 4th. The third event was the Male 4 x 50m Breaststroke. The team of Capt James Langley, SSgt Bas Ward, Sig Craig Chilvers and Sig Sean Peart won comfortably with Sig Sean Peart recording a 33sec leg. REME were 2nd, RLC 3rd and APTC finished 4th. The next event was the female 4 x 50m Breaststroke. Our best Breaststroker and Team Captain, Cpl Sarah Lee, was injured. However, the Team of Sig Helen Stanyer and Sig Nikki Fallows, Sig Chrissy Tilley and LCpl Naomi Wilson were victorious in a time of 2mins 53secs. AGC finished 2nd, REME were 3rd and RLC were last. The fifth race was the male 4 x 50m Freestyle where the strong quartet from the RLC were again winners, REME were 2nd, we finished 3rd and APTC were last. The final female race was the 4 x 50m Medley, the scores going into this event were:

REME 6 points
R Signals 6 points
RLC 4 points
AGC 4 points

As you can see by the points above any team was capable of winning the Trophy and a disqualification was suicide! Our girls were superb, Sig Chrissy Tilleyswam the Backstroke leg, Sig Nickki Fallows the Breaststroke, LCpl Lisa Gibbons the Fly and Sig Helen Stanyer the Freestyle to win easily by 7secs and retain the title. AGC finished as runners-up. As we entered the final male event, again the Medley Relay, the scores were tight:

RLC 10 points
R Signals 9 points
REME 6 points
APTC 4 points

Any of the top three teams could win. However, our squad of Capt Ian Hargreaves on the Backstroke, Sean Peart on the Breaststroke, Sig Stuart Reid on the Fly and Sig James Greenlee the Freestyle, won by an amazing 6/100th of a second with Sig James Greenlee recording a 27sec 50m Freestyle. Brilliant, we retained our title with RLC as runners-up.

The Water Polo only had three entries this year ourselves, REME and the defending Champions APTC. Each game was 7min quarters which we were more than happy with after our intense build up. We were drawn against APTC in our first game and defended the deep in the first quarter. It was a very physical game and in the first quarter SSgt Bas Ward in defence and WO1 Pete Griffiths in goal were magnificent. We finished the quarter without either team scoring, we were happy! Defending the shallow in the second quarter we expected to build a lead. Again it was very hard and goals from WO1 (RSM) Gaz Johnson and Cpl Rob Love gave us a 2-1 lead. In the third quarter our fitness and tactics began to tell and goals from SSgt Graham Weavers and Cpl Rob Love stretched our lead to 4-2. In the last quarter Maj Tim Langford and SSgt Graham Weavers both scored with no reply to secure a 6-2 victory. Onto the REME. Again we defended the deep in the first quarter and built up a 2-0 lead. After this quarter it was all down hill. We finally won 9-0 with Cpl Rob Love (4), SSgt Graham Weavers (2) and Cpl Andy Carneigne, Capt Darren Cooper and WO1 (RSM) Gaz Johnson with one apiece scoring our goals. We were Champions.

It was a memorable day with the Royal Corps of Signals winning all titles. This was the 10th Inter Corps meet and no Corps has ever achieved all three titles before and I suspect this will never be repeated.

My thanks to Lt Col J. A. Terrington and 21 Signal Regt (AS) for all the support we were given. Also my thanks to all units that allowed their Officers and Solders the opportunity to represent the Corps and a special note of appreciation to SSgt Paul Gorman for training the Swimming Team and Mr Mick Flaherty for coaching the Water Polo Team. The Internal Competition will be held at Colerne on Tuesday 23 November 1999 in preparation for the Inter Corps on Thursday 2 December 1999. Anyone interested in representing the Corps can contact Maj Tim Langford on Thorney Island Mil (729) Ext 8258, lets do it again!

SSgt Bas Ward being presented the trophy for Royal Signals Best Player- Well done Bas!

The Association communicates with its branches and individual members through the pages of The Wire, which contains accounts of Branch affairs as well as a forecast of Association events.

Branch Secretaries are asked to check that their Branch members receive sufficient copies of The Wire. Association HQ can arrange for copies to be delivered in bulk to Branch Secretaries for further distribution if this is convenient: it helps us save on postage.

Dates of Branch events can always be published in The Wire and should be submitted to the Editor. We also welcome letters, requests to contact old comrades and announcements of births, marriages and deaths. We hope that each Branch will contribute a short account of its activities, preferably with photographs, at least once a year.

NOTES FROM THE AO's DESK

Branch Affairs. Mr Peter Dooley has been elected as the new Hon Secretary of the Southport Branch. Peter can be contacted at 17 Cavendish Rd, Southport PR8 4RT. Tel: 01704-569083. Brian Podmore has resumed the office of Hon Secretary of the Shropshire Branch. Brian's new address is; 22 Westwood Court, North Str, Leek, Staffs. Tel: 01538 381695.

Cenotaph Parade. There were 14 or so members who marched in the Corps section of the leading column at last November's Remembrance Day Parade at the Cenotaph, Whitehall. However it was noticeable that there were many more who marched in other parts of the parade with other organisations; i.e. Korean Vets, Burma Star etc. Whilst respecting their right to march with any group, may I invite those members to consider joining their old Corps at the next parade. Tickets to march with the Corps section, will be available from this office, please let me have your name if you would like one. Those members who plan to attend should look out for, and fall in under, the board marked 'R SIGS', on Horseguards Parade - again a volunteer to hold the board will be called for in due course. My thanks go to Bud Abbot (ertswhile RQMS at the School of Signals), who kindly sent me a smashing 1999 calender of scenes in Oman, where he now works. Much appreciated Bud. Also many thanks to those who kindly sent Christmas greetings cards to us here in Association HQ.

Star & Garter Home and Chelsea Hospital. The Rep Col Comdt, Maj Gen S. R. Carr-Smith and the Regimental Secretary, Col A. F. Carter visited the Star and Garter Home at Richmond, Surrey on 17 December. There they met former members of the Corps; Maj John Cox, Claude Allen, and Frank Martin. John handed to Col Carter, the absolutely fascinating memoirs of an Old Contemptible, handwritten by a sapper signaller in two exercise books with over 36,000 words. Far from just being stored in the Museum Archives, I understand that plans for this story include serialisation in The Wire. Prior to that the General and the Colonel had visited the Chelsea Hospital to have Christmas lunch with our 20 former Corps members. They found them in good spirits and enjoying life to the full.

Corps Carol Service. Nearly 100 members (plus the choir of 36) attended the Corps Carol Service at Westminster on 17 December. The readings were by Brig J. H. Griffin SOinC (A), Capt A. J. Mould of 71 Sig Regt (V), Capt M. C. Brookes of 34 Sig Regt (V), Sgt S. M. Thompson of 238 Sig Sqn, Sig G. Plumb of 31 Sig Regt (V) and Maj Gen I. O. J. Sprackling Master of Signals. Our thanks once again go to Lt Col John Chambers for his organisation of the event and his hard work as Master of the Choristers. Many thanks to those who travelled from far and wide to attend, including dear Ida Harvey all the way from Manchester, plus Lt Col David Hargreaves and Capt Mark Brookes from Middlesbrough. Those who live within reach of Westminster and never attend this lovely service are missing out - so make a note of this year's service; 16 December.

ALDERSHOT BRANCH

It is with great sadness that we report the death of Maj Neil Horler. From the time that the Branch was reinstated to its present success Neil has been a most energetic and dedicated Member. Friends from other Branches and many still serving will remember the very enjoyable Quiz Nights that he organised and conducted so ably. His Branch Standard was carried at the funeral, attended by many friends from the Corps. A Corps trumpeter sounded Last Post. Our deepest sympathy goes to Gill and her two daughters. We hope they remember they still belong to our Branch.

On a bright though chilly day in November Members of the Branch were joined by Ron and Pat Killer on a visit to Denbies Wine Estate. Maj 'Dusty' Miller is Chairman of the West London Branch and we were delighted to see him and Pat. We toured the cellars, tasted the wines, then relaxed over a light lunch in the restaurant.

November was a busy month for our Standard Bearer, Fred Bridges, who paraded our Standard at Aldershot on Remembrance Sunday and at the Canadian service at Brookwood on Armistice Day. In April 1949 Gen Fladgate and 'Dodger' Green formed the Aldershot Branch and this year on Friday 9 April we are holding a very special Celebration Dinner, details of which appear elsewhere in this edition of The Wire. Musicians from the Corps Band will play throughout the evening. We hope that many friends will help us enjoy it.

BATH AND DISTRICT BRANCH

The Bath and District Branch members are so far-flung, coming from Wootton-Bassett, Warminster, Trowbridge, Bradford-on-Avon, Frome, Chippenham, Bath, Bristol, Portishead, Bridgwater, Taunton, Wimborne Minster and all points in between, that we are unable to meet as a group as frequently as many Branches can. However, we do enjoy those occasions when we do meet. This year we have had a well-attended Curry lunch in May and a Barbecue in August, held at Pockeridge House, Corsham: courtesy of The Officers' Mess 2 Sig Bde. Next we had our Annual Luncheon in October held at Azimghur Barracks, Colerne, Wilts; courtesy of the WOs' & Sgts' Mess, 21 Sig Regt (AS). This last was particularly well-attended and we were honoured to have as our guests Lt Col J. Terrington, CO 21 Sig Regt, Maj R.Thomas, Chief-of-Staff 2 Sig Bde; WO1 (RSM) D. Laycock and WO1 (GSM) C. J. Dubique. We think we are particularly fortunate in being able to hold our functions at serving Signals Establishments: it gives a real feeling of belonging. At the Annual Luncheon, as a gesture of thanks to the WOs' & Sgts' Mess 21 Sig Regt, the Chairman of the Branch, Lt Col Geoff Oakley, presented to RSM Laycock a framed print of a painting of a Field Communications Site.

We also held our Annual General Meeting at the same mess in April. Unfortunately the turnout for this was rather disappointing. When the Committee met in November we decided that the reasons for this might be that we hold the AGM in the evening; members have to travel so far: and because so early in the year the weather is highly unpredictable for driving home in the dark (and, alas, usually rain). Therefore it was agreed that the Chairman would approach the Messes to find out if it is feasible to hold the AGM at lunchtime.

As usual the Branch was represented at the War Memorial in Bath on Remembrance Sunday, in the presence of the Lord Mayor. The Chairman, Lt Col Oakley laid the wreath and the Secretary, and Committee Member Mr Roy Platten also attended. Our Standard Bearer was unable to attend and a brand-new member, Mr Neil Stewart, with only a few minutes instruction in the nearest car park, paraded the Standard. He did it beautifully but what courage: The Secretary and Roy Platten also attended and paraded at the War Memorial in Combe Down, Bath on 11 November.

We were pleased to see the splendid picture of Edgar Harrison who was our last Chairman, in the article in The Wire about the Ceremony of Remembrance for the Battle of Karamate.

BRIGHTON BRANCH

Well what can your poor, humble scribe tell you? Was it a success? It was a smashing success. Then was it a sell-out? It was indeed, 107 sat down to dinner – absolute capacity. Thank goodness they did not all try to get on the dance floor at once. Point taken where was it? Brighton of course. OK, what was it? It was the Annual Dinner of the Brighton Branch of the Royal Signals Association 1998.

Brigadier Hughes, Dee Barber, Liz Hughes

Was there a splendid speaker? Yes, not only did Brig Hughes make a splendid speech he is also a poet. Yes a poet, Joe Soap said he was being nominated for Poet Laureate, but there was a snag – it appears that the new Poet Laureate would have to live in Barbados. Possibly the Brigadier would not want to live in Barbados. Was there anyone with him? Yes, of course, his charming wife Liz.

Tell us more. Such as? Who were the other two guests on the top table? Ah! You must mean Peter Cuckow and his charming wife Sheila. Where did they come from? Some place called Blandford. Where is that? Oh it is in some primeval part of Southern England. Whereabouts? Well as far as we know it is between Brighton and Landsend but we are not really sure exactly where. Well how will Peter and Sheila get back? No problem, they will get the 11 o'clock Camel Train. Camel Train? Oh it is much better than the Donkey Post. What about a train? What Train??

Any sad points? Yes there was one, our popular President and his charming wife were unable to attend. You mean Brig Colin and Heather Brown? Correct. Does anybody need thanking? Good heavens yes, the officers, the committee and a host of helpers. Without them we could not have had the dinner.

Alan Foot, Bill Daley, Joe Morrison

To go back to Blandford; Yes? What is it like? Well a year or two ago it was like a bomb site. And now? Very smart, very smart! What about the people there? Smashing, just smashing. How is that? Because they are the same sort of people as the Brigadier and us. They are all Royal Signals!

DERBY BRANCH

September 1998 - Four members of Derby Branch, WO2 (Retd) Dorothy Williamson, Sgt (Retd) G eoff Allman, Sgt (Retd) Jim Haynes and Mrs Joy Elliott were invited to spend a few days with 46 (City of Derby) Signals Squadron at their Annual Camp near Weymouth. We were regally entertained by all members of the Squadron and were privileged to be present, along with The Mayor of Derby, when three of our Derby Branch members - Sgt D. Snow, Sgt C. Ryan-Gilbank and SSgt P. Burns were presented with their Long Service and Good Conduct Medals. Visits were made to Poole, Weymouth and Portland Bill accompanied by our Vice-Chairman, SSgt Alan Landsborough SQMS 46 Signal Squadron. Visits were also made to the Tank Museum at Bovington and The Royal Signals Museum at Blandford, which all found very interesting.

November 1998 - Our Remembrance Day Parade again took place at the local Drill Hall by The Memorial in front of a cross placed there by Derby Branch in remembrance of all who gave their lives in the service of their country. 25 World War 2 Veterans of the Royal Artillery who served in the siege of Malta and for whom the Drill Hall where we hold our Parade was built joined us. Wreaths were laid by both retired and serving members of Derby Branch and by the Royal Artillery Association. Col A. Hawksworth TD DL, President of the Derby Branch and Capt R. C. Ward, one of our Vice-Presidents, took the parade. A Salvation Army bugler played the Last Post and Reveille. 46 Signal Squadron provided an excellent lunch after the parade. Our grateful thanks are extended to the OC, Maj Flanagan and all members of 46 Signal Squadron who support us in our effort to continue this tradition for our members.

NEWS FROM MEMBERS

Congratulations to the following members who were married this year. LCpl Tracey Cordon and Sig Simon Houchin, Sgt Darren Snow and Cpl Leanne Eley, WO2 Alan Whittaker and Tracey Waring. We wish them all every happiness for the future. Congratulations and welcome also to the 'new arrivals' Twin boys for Capt and Mrs David Tomlinson and a son James for WO2 Jim Batchelor and his partner SSgt Jane Atherley. Our best wishes are sent to Maj Pam Kettle a long time member of the Derby Branch who has been unwell for some time. Our Treasurer, Capt Williams visited her recently in Wafton Hospital Chesterfield and took a small gift. He spent an enjoyable afternoon talking over old times. We wish her a speedy recovery. We also said goodbye to Mrs Olivey (Sgt (Retd) Irene Knutton) who died on 22 September 1998. Two Committee members attended the funeral in Derby on 1 October 1998. Our sympathy is extended to her family. Her son and daughter also served as members of the Royal Signals. Our Senior Members were again taken out for a Christmas Lunch at a local restaurant. This is now an annual event which all look forward to. The Committee and all members wish to extend their sincere thanks to the WO's and Sgts Mess at Derby for allowing us, over the last 12 months, to use the Mess facilities for our meetings and for social events. Thank you to all who have supported the Branch throughout the past year, and we look forward to a successful 1999.

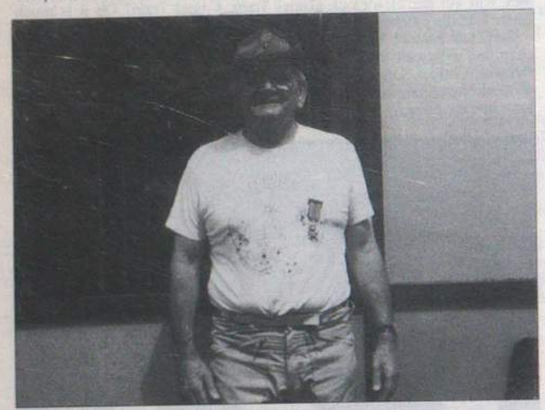
ANOTHER SUCCESS FOR A DERBY BRANCH MEMBER

Mr Dewi Treharne a life member of the Association has notched up a further notable success in July of this year by completing the Nijmegen Marches. The Marches are held each year in the City of Nijmegen over a period of four days, participants walk 25 miles (40 kilometres) per day. The photograph shows Dewi after being presented with his medal on completion of the four-days march.



This was the second Nijmegen march that Dewi has completed, his first was in 1954 when he was a corporal technician attached to 22 LAA Regiment Royal Artillery in Germany. Dewi said that it took him 44 years to forget the pain and hopes that he will be fit enough to do it again after another 44years. He also thinks that he may have been the first Royal Signals member to complete the march, not counting the ones that did it for real in 1944/45. He may also, at the age of 63 (going on 33) be the oldest Royal Signals member to complete the march.

Dewi works as a lecturer at the number one Radio School RAF Locking Weston-Super-Mare and was sponsored by the Station to the sum of £224 that was collected for the RAF Benevolent fund.

EAST KENT BRANCH

Forty four members and Frank Castle's grandson met for an excellent lunch at the Manston Airport departure lounge restaurant on Sunday 11 October 1998, after or before which many went to the Spitfire Museum a takeoff's length away. Out through the picture window could be seen an array of monster aircraft, some of Russian descent, but interestingly enough, there was no activity around any of them. We can recommend the cuisine and the Museum, which is desperately trying to improve on volunteer funds. It is worth a visit for the history in pictures alone.

REMEMBRANCE DAY PARADE SUNDAY 8 NOVEMBER

Once again the Branch produced a larger contingent (other than the serving elements) than anyone else. Moreover nearly everyone had sensibly brought a black umbrella but being typically British, these had to be carried rolled 'at the port' even though it was teeming. Col Mike Barrett and the Hon Sec were seen conferring upon a modification to their bowler hats that would allow the water which was overflowing from the upturned brims to be provided with a down pipe which would carry it out of harms way! The party in the Cathedral numbered 28 for a moving service, one of the most poignant parts being at the very end when the choir sang 'We will remember them' set to Edward Elgar's music.

The 13 strong marching contingent behind the Standard carried by Keith Chamber and under command of the Chairman, Trevor Allison, marched past the Lord Mayor (again in pouring rain). Our breasts filled with pride as the spectators seemed to burst into applause as we marched past them. However, we discovered this was largely due to our supporters club (the wives) who positioned themselves at intervals and started to clap as we approached which was taken up by the public around them! Brilliant! Donald Crisp's cartoon depicts conditions.

NEWS OF MEMBERS

Eadie Thomas has been in Kent & Canterbury Hospital for further treatment, pleased to say she is now at home and recovering. Edith, in her eighties still likes to organise the Branch raffles and is a staunch supporter of the Royal Signals Benevolent Fund. Thank you Eadie for all your efforts. Donald Crisp is now a SSAFA caseworker, so this will give the Branch added support for its Welfare cases. Peter Foakes has won five more Gold Medals in the inter service swimming but despite this, he allowed the Navy to win. Six Members, Fred & Joan Oaten, Alan & Clare Sunnucks, John & Gillian Badcock found themselves together in Leicester on Halloween Night for a Reunion Dinner of the High Speed Wireless Squadron in Ceylon during the war. Fred and Alan served in it and John was their OC.

NEW MEMBER

We are delighted to welcome Mr Andy & Mrs Eva Aston of Littlestone, Kent to the Branch. Andy served from 1945-48 with 18 Air Formation Signals, in Egypt, Palestine and the Sudan.

GLASGOW BRANCH

Branch members with family and friends managed to attend the Beating of Retreat, by the massed bands of the Royal British Legion (Scotland), on the esplanade of Edinburgh Castle. A meal was arranged at an Edinburgh hotel before the ceremony. It was a worthwhile trip enjoyed by all, with all the colourful plaids, kilts and headgear of the pipers. The only snag was to find toilets on the homeward journey. It being a Sunday evening the cafe on our side of the motorway had closed down for the night. A mad dash over, the foot bridge to the cafe on the other side of the motorway, (which fortunately was open), saved a lot of embarrassment to one and all, and we didn't even buy a cup of tea.

Our monthly meetings are well attended and we have gained a few more members since our last contribution to The Wire. The Annual Dinner and Dance was held on Saturday 28 November, in the Drill Hall of 32 (Scottish) Sig Regt (V) with the kind permission of the CO of the Regiment, Lt Col A. C. C. Lapsley. The Branch President, Maj Gen A. A. Anderson CB, sent his apologies for not being able to attend, but wished all concerned a very enjoyable evening. The members and guests were greeted with a glass of sherry on arrival, before being piped in to a well set out dining area of the hall, decorated in the Corps colours with table mats, napkins and candelabras with candles in the Corps colours. A two foot high silver 'Jimmy' placed on the Top Table. All had been loaned for the night from the Regiment, signed for, and counted out by our Chairman.

A total of 85 members and guests sat down to an excellent dinner provided by WO2 Master Chef John Wren his Chefs and staff. Again the members wish to convey their thanks and appreciation for a first class dinner, combined with excellent service. My guests turned down an invitation to another function opting to accompany me, having enjoyed the 1997 dinner so much. Congratulations to you and your staff John, your fame has spread beyond the limits of the Branch. Alistair Wilson, (the newest recent member to join the Branch), was given the assignment to propose the Loyal Toast and the Toast to the Colonel in Chief, HRH The Princess Royal. WO1 (SVWO1) Terry McVey of 32 Sig Regt proposed the toast of the RSA Glasgow Branch. At the Top Table was Lt Col A. C. C. and Mrs Ruth Lapsley, the Branch Chairman Bill Taylor and Mrs Betty Taylor, Branch Treasurer Eric McWaters and Mrs Annice McWaters. The guests included WO1 Terry McVey, representing WO1 (RSM) MacLachlan who was unable to attend, WO2 (SSM) Karen Swan, Sgt Jackie and Mrs Peggy Dollen, of 32 Scottish Sig Regt (V).

Lt Col Lapsley with Mrs Ruth Lapsley and WO1 (SVWO1) Terry McVie

Lt Col Lapsley was asked to say a few words. He was able to update the company of the latest position regarding cut backs proposed by the Government. The effect on the Royal Signals Territorial units, with units merging, and few cut backs affecting the strength of the Corps Regular, or Territorial, was well received. Bill Taylor thanked the Colonel for his speech. He thanked all the members, family and friends attending the dinner, for their support. He also thanked the CO, and members of the Regiment, for their support of the branch at the monthly meetings and use of the facilities, and Peggy Dollen for tending the bar at those meetings. He thanked those who donated prizes for the raffle. Bill then requested everyone to go downstairs to enjoy coffee cheese and biscuits whilst the hall was rearranged for dancing. The Piper who had played several tunes during the meal then piped the company from the hall to the Messes downstairs. The band named Prime Time was first class, suitable to everyone, with the decibels at the right pitch. At the start someone let on that it was the scribe's 78th Birthday, so all sang, and I was dragged onto the floor at the beginning of the first dance. The raffle raised £142. Every lady present was presented with a fresh white carnation tied with a blue ribbon representing St Andrews colours.

Members and Guests at dinner

The Branch Committee put a lot of hours in preparing this event, so that everything is 'Alright on the Night'. Thanks to them everyone enjoyed a splendid evening. Finally I apologise to QM Norma Sproule, who, on our visit to Ripon also looked after our interests for which we thank her. I missed her name on my notes. Sorry Norma from a VERY OLD EX QM.

HARROGATE BRANCH

The first recorded meeting of the Harrogate Branch of the Association was held on Friday 16 November 1951. This meeting was held in the Drill Hall situated on Strawberry Dale and was attended by 19 members. The last recorded meeting was held on Thursday 10 October 1970. This was held in Hut 15 in Hildebrand Barracks with four members in attendance. On the 11 February 1971 an AGM was called, members present three. The meeting was cancelled and no further entries were recorded in the Minutes Book.

On the 28 March 1982 and 2 May 1982 meetings were held to discuss the re-establishing the Branch. These meeting were attended by Lt Col (Retd) L. J. D. Davies TD, Maj (Retd) K. G. Doyle and Mr P. C. Wood. The result of these meetings was that it was decided to have a reinaugural meeting on the 21 May 1982 in the Cpl's Club (the old Sgt's Mess) in Uniacke Barracks. The re-inaugural meeting was supported by 48 members and apologies were received from 9 others. Amongst those present to give their support and to answer any queries that may arise were: Col P. Verden Commandant of the Army Apprentices College, Lt Col R. L. Murray OBE General Secretary of the Royal Signals Association, Maj (Retd) B. Edwards President of the Leeds Branch of the Association. It is now 15 years since that re-inaugural meeting and the Branch continues to flourish with an average membership of 60. The Committee is guided by our Chairman, Maj (Retd) J. Newman. The finances controlled by Brian 'Paddy' Black and the work horses consist of Jack Kendle (who is now in his 11th year) and Bruce Graham. I ('Chippy' Wood), for my sins, carry out the duties of the Secretary. November is the month when the Branch is at its busiest. It starts with the Annual Dinner that is always held on the Friday preceding the Remembrance parade and culminates with the parade itself. From 1982 to 1995 the Branch Annual Dinner was always held in the Sgts Mess at Army Apprentices' College. With the closure of the College many thought having lost the use of that facility that finding a new venue for the dinner would pose a bit of a problem. However, these fears proved to be unfounded.

Our new venue is the Oakdale Golf Club. This year a total of 84 members and their guests were greeted with a glass of sherry and then sat down to a 5-course dinner. At the end of the dinner our President, Maj (Retd) Chas Birchall, gave the assembled members a brief on the current state of the Corps, interspersed with snippets about the two weeks reserve training he had just completed with 31 Signal Regiment, in Devon and Wales. After this the members adjourned to the lounge bar to finish the evening off with a disco. A report on the annual dinner would not be complete without mentioning ex Sgt Brian 'Paddy' Black. As is his wont he arranged to borrow some table furniture, organised the catering and the bar, printed the menu, produced the seating plan and paid all the bills. Others worthy of a mention were Dave Aldous who organised the Raffle and Bruce Graham who, amongst other things, was responsible for producing the professional looking place names. Once again this year the Harrogate branch annual dinner, organised by ex Corps members matched the Regimental Dinners of bygone days.

On Sunday 8 November 30 Branch Members paraded behind the Branch Standard and marched to the cenotaph for the Remembrance Service and the laying of wreaths. This year the Branch wreath was laid by our President, Maj (Retd) Chas Birchall. At the conclusion of the Parade 13 members and their wives returned to the Oakdale Golf Club for lunch.

During the remainder of the year the Branch is still active. The third Friday of each month is our social evening when members get together for a drink and a natter. We also run our own Golf Society this is supported by an average of 21 members who get together for matches two or three times a year. One of the highlights of our golfing calendar is playing in an 18-hole match play, knockout competition for the 'Tom Stoddart Trophy'. This trophy, which was presented by Lt Col (Retd) Tom Stoddart MBE, is a replica of the St Andrews Claret Jug. This for the last two years has been won by Pete Shepherd. Although we no longer have contact with the serving Corps we of the Harrogate Branch maintain the spirit of comradeship and endeavour to keep the Corps to the forefront in Harrogate. If you live in the area and wish to make contact, or, if you are visiting, you will always be welcome.

LOUGHBOROUGH BRANCH

Royal Signals Association, Loughborough Branch held their Annual Dinner Dance on 14 November 1998 at the Carillon Rooms, Loughborough. 76 sat down for dinner, which was followed by dancing to a live band. They came from all over England, (Cheltenham, Southport, Bristol, Bracknell, Derby) as well as our local Branch members and friends. The evening was a tremendous success and naturally there was lots of reminiscing amongst us all. We are all looking forward to next year's Annual Dinner Dance that is booked for Saturday, 20 November 1999. Anyone wishing to attend next year please contact the Chairman, Ben Banyard, Tel: 01509 557686.

NEWCASTLE BRANCH

Dear Mrs Herring,

In reply to your personal request in the October Issue of The Wire, made to 'Mr Apology' of the Newcastle Branch, for news of our Branch. I, as an ex-secretary of the Newcastle Branch, and as such having a little knowledge of joined-up, have taken it upon myself to answer your plea.

However, before I get down to news of the Branch, I must draw your attention to the most honoured and …….. yes privileged position in which you found yourself on that day in Blandford, when you met face to face with 'Mr Apology'. Let me explain. We of the Newcastle Branch, probably the oldest Branch of the RSA (just thought I'd pop that one in), have members in our ranks, who go back as far as Noah (000001 Sig Noah), who have never seen 'Mr Apology'. Although they have heard his voice when answering the phone on a meeting night saying, 'Please put in my apologies I can't make it tonight', in fact there are not many left who have not been 'apologied' on the phone by our 'Mr Apology'. Indeed some unfortunates have found themselves in this position more than once and as a result have been given counselling by our specially trained counselling team.

As you may have gathered, your meeting with 'Mr Apology', face to face, in a pub in down town Blandford (the city that never sleeps), details of which will never leave the tip of my pen, make you a member of an elite band of 'Apology Seekers'. I, myself have not only met him, but as his one time controller, also know his true identity. I have spoken to him about your meeting in Blandford and how close he had come to 'blowing his cover'. However, after a lengthy debriefing I am sure that his cover is still intact and have returned him to the field, where he can be best employed going around apologising for not being where he should be.

Enough of this frivolity and on with the news of the elite 'Geordie' Branch of the RSA. As mentioned, we do have our share of veterans. One in particular, I believe, deserves special mention. Mr Sid Whitfield, a member now for well over 50 years (Honour Badge awarded), who despite his health problems over the past two years, of which he has had many, continues to think of his fellow members first putting aside his own problems. Over the past ten or more years we have discussed, on various occasions, renewing our Branch Standard and the end result has always been that the Branch could not afford the cost and the matter was shelved. However, at our October meeting a large cardboard box took centre stage between the Secretary and the Chairman, on opening the box, yes you've guessed, a brand new standard was revealed, fully embroidered with the name of the Branch, paid for and donated by Sid Whitfield to the Branch.

Where was Sid? He was sitting at home, he had sent in his apologies saying that he was not feeling too good. Those of us who know Sid, also know that he just did not want to be centre stage that night or any other night, such is his nature. Our new Standard will require a dedication ceremony, probably at the RSA Reunion at Blandford in June 1999. Our old Standard, which has seen a great deal of history and many a 'campaign', Catterick reunions Remembrance Day Parades etc, will require a place of rest either in our own garrison church here in Newcastle or in the Corps Museum. These matters will be decided by our members prior to June 1999.

I would like to take this opportunity on behalf of all our members to say, Thank you Sid Whitfield for your unselfishness, dedication and generosity that you have shown to us all with this much appreciated donation. Also we hope that we have succeeded in embarrassing the hell out of you. Thanks Sid.

P.S: 'Mr Apology' sends his apologies for not writing himself but he is far too busy writing letters of apology!

This man was seen in Blandford on the day in question claiming to be 'Mr Apology'. Please rest assured this is an impostor and disregard any claim made by him as he can not be held responsible for his actions, due to an overdose of Newcastle Brown Ale. (Guy Turnbull, one of his henchmen in Blandford).

NORTHERN IRELAND BRANCH

It is time once again to remember those Comrades who are no longer with us. Our Branch was fully involved in various local functions during November. At Belfast City Hall Garden of Remembrance where the ceremony was led by the Lord Mayor and the Councillors of Belfast City, Paul Robertson and Norman Coulter laid a cross on behalf of the Branch. In Palace Barracks, Holyrood, Co. Down a service of remembrance and the dedication of a memorial stone in memory of those Royal Signals personnel killed in the Northern Ireland troubles was attended by Col Walters, the Regimental Colonel, our Branch was represented by Lt Col (Retd) Terry Lightfoot. On Remembrance Sunday there was a good turnout of Branch members for the church parade to St Marks Dundella, Belfast, as guests of 40 (Ulster) Sig Regt (V). Billy Dickinson carried the Branch standard. Jim Reilly once again laid the Branch wreath in the church. The buffet laid on by the Regiment afterwards was most welcome. At a Remembrance Parade and ceremony, organised by 85 Sig Sqn in Newtownards a wreath was laid, on behalf of the Branch, by Chris Montgomery.

The series of talks was continued at our November meeting. This time it was the turn of 66 Sig Sqn, when SSgt Mark Barrass brought us up to date in a most interesting way on the working of the Squadron. An unusual feature on this occasion was the practical demonstration given in the vehicles by Cpl Dave Burgess and indeed by our own Hon Sec, Sgt Ian Wolfe. A disco for the younger members and friends was organised in Clonaver TAVR Centre by Ian and Debbie Wolfe. It was very successful both socially and financially. The thanks of the Branch goes to all those who helped to make it a success and those who donated prizes for the draw.

Don't just read these notes. If you are in Northern Ireland, visiting, posted or living here come and meet us. We are not hard to find each third Wednesday of the month. The Officers and Members of the Northern Ireland Branch would like to thank the Chairman, Secretary, Admin Officer and all the Backroom staff of the RSA for the help they have given to the Branch during 1998 and we wish them a Prosperous New Year.

READING AND DISTRICT BRANCH

Our Year ended with a Christmas Social Evening at the Brock Barracks (which is still, after the big cuts, home of a small R. Signals TA Unit), where we all had the type of fun that one expects at a well organised 'do'. Nobody was disappointed. We all had our fill. Plus, we all remembered why 'Christmas'..... and we once again ended the evening with carols around the Christmas tree. The portable organ was again there. The past six months have been hectic with so many events organised, like Branch Meetings in pubs; Sandhurst - to see the final Rehearsal of Sovereign's parade/picnic, the Blandford Reunion, 'Scaleybacks', it was a super parade. Then there was a Barbecue, Informal dinners in a 'posh' restaurant, visits to neighbouring Branches as guests to their dinners, Chelsea Royal Hospital; Cenotaphs, and Museums. Alan, our Hon Sec also Hon Sec for one of our Steam Railways hosted a Christmas Dinner on 'his' train. Look out for the photographs. Just a quickie ... Next year's (29th) Annual Renuion Dinner is going to be on Saturday 20 March 1999. So hold back booking those holidays if you intend to come. WEST LONDON BRANCH

In October we held our Annual Dinner & Dance at the Civic Centre in Hounslow. Among the guests were friends from other Branches, whom we always are happy to see and it was a most enjoyable evening.

Our Christmas Party this year, with music for dancing, was at our new venue, the Infantry Barracks in Hounslow. We thank the resident unit for their hospitality and for arranging the buffet. The evening was enhanced by our President, Maj John Daw showing the video that he took of our annual church parade in September at the Royal Hospital, Chelsea. We were pleased to see John and Margaret, who came up from home on the Hampshire coast to be with us.

MALTA/LIBYA ROYAL SIGNALS ASSOCIATION OLD COMRADES BRANCH

A meeting was held at The Denbigh Arms, Lutterworth, Saturday 26 September 1998. Roy and Pat Andrews, Les Blackmore, Betty and Peter Charles, Rita and Dennis Croot, Angela and Arthur Harris, Beryl and Dave Harvey, Maggie and Bill Lawrence, Billy Wild. Alan Wilcox and Harry Holberry attended the Reunion on Friday 25 October but owing to other commitments left early on Saturday morning. A few members said they would be going to Blandford at the end of June 1999.

The Members
Standing (L-R): Pat Andrews, Les Blackmore, Roy Andrews, Billy Wild

79 ARMOURED DIVISION SIGNALS OFFICERS ASSOCIATION

As is our custom, the members of this dwindling Branch of the Association met together for a weekend Reunion. We have varied the locations of our meetings over the years but for the first time, because one of our members is a fanatic, we went to the Island of Tresco in the Scilly Isles from 16-19 October. Sadly two of the seven remaining members could not be with us. However, Capt Chris Denard, Capt Les Wardell, Capt Cliff Heap, Lt Jimmy Humble and Lt John Badcock (Ranks at the time of serving!) met at Penzance Heliport late on Friday afternoon in pouring rain, gale force winds and low visiblity. The Siskorsky carrying 20 passengers and one dog flew 'blind' for the half hour flight to St Marys, where we then bussed down to the harbour for a three mile trip in an open boat in mountainous seas to the landing stage at Tresco. A tractor and trailer, the only permitted motor transport allowed, took us to our very comfortable hotel.

On Saturday and Sunday we were blessed with sunshine though on the first there was the continuing gales whipping up the Atlantic to crash in on a myriad of rocks and reefs and on the Sunday dead calm with reflections across the bays. We walked the coastline in stages on the first day with suitable refreshments at the only other inn and joined the numerous 'Twitchers' who were studying the bird migrations. The second day we joined a boat tour of the Eastern Isles with their sea lions and many sea birds calling in on St Agnes for a cuppa before returning to Tresco.

On Monday we choppered back but this time from what is known as Terminal 1 on Tresco, a well appointed hut otherwise used as the cricket pavilion, to the mainland in a clear blue sky with SW England laid out before us. We felt that Maj Denis Strange and Lt Robin Jennings had missed one of our better reunions!

MIDDLESEX YEOMANRY ASSOCIATION

On 23 October veterans of No 4 Squadron, 2nd Middlesex Yeomanry, (22nd Armoured Brigade Signal Squadron) attended the unveiling ceremony of the Memorial to 7 Armoured Division (The Desert Rats) erected in Thetford Forest where the Division prepared for the invasion of Normandy in June 1944. The ceremony was performed by Field Marshal Lord Carver who was greeted by a fanfare of four trumpeters from The Blues & Royals. After inspecting the Guard of Honour provided by the lst Royal Tank Regiment, The Royal Yeomanry and Standard Bearers of the Royal British Legion, Lord Carver said, 'It's a useful reminder to people who come for walks in Thetford Forest that we were here during the Second World War playing a very important part in ensuring that people are free to walk here at all.' The memorial represents five years work by former Desert Rat, Les Dinning, who had the idea after visiting Normandy in 1993.

Christmas has gone, New Year's resolutions have been made and it's heads down for the year 2000, good luck everybody, keep your powder dry.

Since our last notes for The Wire we have paraded at St Paul's for Lafone Day. The Parade Commander was Maj Mike Lansdowne, with a very good turnout by all. Pre-Parade Lunch, with wine, assisted some members of the Association to swing their arms a little higher. Several members, including our Chairman George Key and Membership Secretary Ted Hawkins, attended the unveilling ceremony to the Armoured Division, of which 4 Squadron Second Middlesex Yeomanry were a part.

The Annual Dinner, at the Duke of York's HQ, was a success with a good number attending. Our Guest of Honour was Col Ted Scarlett, ably assisted by our President Col Simon Beazley.

Our President checking the bill

On Remembrance Sunday we again paraded with the Squadron at the Ruislip Memorial. The Association wreath was laid by Maj 'Dusty' Miller. After the parade the Squadron hosted us to a splendid curry, back at the TA Centre. The Squadron are to be congratulated for a very smart turnout and thanked for their generous hospitality.

Our next get together, other than our regular meetings at Knightsbridge Barracks, will be The Cavalry Memorial Parade in Hyde Park on 9 May 1999. Get out your Regimental Tie and polish your shoes, it's not to be missed. The massed bands alone are worth turning up for and are very good to march to.

31 SIGNALS REGIMENT ASSOCIATION

A Belated Happy New Year to you all and may 1999 be good to you. 1998 finished on a high note. A successful 'Cheese and Wine' party, organised by Sally Bentley and Chrissy Mills, was held at Mercury House, Duke of York's HQ. Two other hard workers, beavering away to make us all very happy were Ed Bentley (Sally's husband) and LCpl Paul McGarrity, our thanks to them all. The CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison was there to prove to three former COs, who were also in attendance that the Regiment has lost none of its social skills. These occasions are very good at attracting former members of the Regiment back to the social scene and this year was no exception. Alan Parry and his wife attended and boy did the lamp start swinging.

Unfortunately our Carol Service in December clashed with the Corps Carol Service which caused a few decisions to be made. Our Service was organised by our Regimental Chaplin, Maj David Crawley, who insists that he is in Sales and not Management.

Our annual trip overseas this year will be to the Somme and the V2 Rocket sites at La Cuople 28-30 May. By popular request we will have the customary singing of Tibetan sea-shantys on the coach, organised by our social secretary Ron 'Dusty' Miller. Anyone wanting further details of this trip should contact 'Dusty' on 01784 250756. A reminder that our Annual Dinner is on the 17 April, details can be obtained from our Secretary, Henry Holman on 0181 848 4597.

Congratulations to one of our committee members Steve Bland, who did a sponsored motorcycle ride from Lands End to John O'Groats, in aid of the Royal Signals Benevolent Fund. A sum of around £300 was very well received by Lt Col Ian Hamilton at the 56 Div City of London Signals OCA Dinner. Well done Steve.

56 DIV (CITY OF LONDON SIGNALS) BRANCH OCA

The Branch has again joined forces with other Branches at events like attending the Governor's Parade at Chelsea Hospital on 6 September (with 31 Signal Regiment Association and the West London Branch). Secretary, Steve Bland could not join the parade this year as he was riding his motorcycle on a charity run from Land's End to John O' Groats. One of the charities he sponsored was the RSA Benevolent Fund for which he raised over £300 from the generous sponsorship of members from 56 Branch and the newly created South London Branch. He took the opportunity to present the proceeds to Association Secretary, Ian Hamilton, who was Guest of Honour at the 56 Branch Annual Dinner held at the Union Jack Club, London on 13 November. Other guests were Peter Cuckow, the RSA Assistant Secretary, Lt Col Linda Harrison the CO of 31 (City of London) Signals Regiment (V) and Capt Dave Thomas, PSAO of 83 Signal Squadron (V), the successor Unit to 56 Div Signals.

Peter Cuckow looks on whilst Steve Bland presents the cheque to Ian Hamilton. 56 President Roy Hughes appears to be still tackling his dessert

Ian Hamilton appears to be complaining to President Roy Hughes about a violent attack on his left elbow by Chairman John Robson - to the amusement of Peter Cuckow

REUNIONS

THE 5TH (LONDON) CORPS SIGNALS OLD COMRADES ASSOCIATION

The 5th (London) Corps Signals Old Comrades Association held its 53rd Reunion meeting on 24 October 1998 with a lunch at the Duke of York's Headquarters Club in Chelsea. Over 80 members and guests were present, and following the previous 'theme' Reunions, covering North Africa, Italy and Austria, the 1998 Reunion celebrated 'Back Home' with a traditional English meal that, of course, included roast beef and Yorkshire pudding. The occasion was rather special. Not only had the Association Secretary, Sid Prior, mounted a fine exhibition about the National Memorial Arboretum, following the Association's presentation of a tree and a park bench in May, but the principal guests at the Reunion were David Childs, the Arboretum Appeal Director and his wife Jane. David gave the meeting a full and interesting update on progress at the Arboretum and developments planned for the future. Another event made the occasion rather special. In the course of the Annual General Meeting the Vice-Chairman, Frank Reed, made an announcement not on the agenda and certainly not expected by the Chairman, Bob Roberts. (Although it turned out later that it was not unexpected by his wife Edith). Frank Reed announced that is was Bob Roberts, 51st year as Chairman of the Association. He also presented Bob with a plaque bearing the 5th Corps sign (the Viking Ship) and an inscription together with a bottle of champagne and a promise of two further gifts to arrive at his home after the weekend, then he presented Edith with a box of chocolates. He went on to present the Secretary, Sid Prior, with an inscribed plaque that recognised his contribution to the Association, as a founder member, and his notable service in recent years as Secretary, following the death of the previous Secretary.

The Secretary, Sid Prior, displays his plaque with the Chairman beside him

Bob Roberts has been noted for getting through the Annual General Meeting with commendable brevity and speed but members were delighted not only at the recognition of his service but this time to be rather taken aback by the event. It had been a well kept secret. The 53rd Reunion was a happy occasion despite two less cheerful items. The Association's oldest member could not be present because of restrictions, following hospital treatment, but a card signed by all present was sent to him to mark his 95th birthday. The Association also said goodbye to Louis Lilyveld, the Headquarter's Club Manager and his Assistant Pat Howard who were retiring at the end of the year and who had provided for the Association's Reunions for 20 years. The future of the Duke York's Headquarters in Chelsea is now uncertain but it is hoped that the 54th Reunion can be held there in 1999. Once more 238 Signal Squadron provided an excellent service of amplification at the Reunion and the Old Comrades are very grateful for this help

ROYAL SIGNALS MILITARY TRAINERS 1st REUNION

The 23 October saw the first coming together of Royal Signals Military Trainers past and present. The day started off by personnel arriving from all corners of the globe, some spending their well earned cash getting to Blandford. A special thanks for their efforts must go to SSgt John Laffey, SSgt Phil Hay, Heather and Liz for their determination to attend the Dinner. Most people came down to the woods to see where the Squadron was put after it left Catterick, some not realising that we had spent time at Colerne. After spending a lot of time looking at all the old photos of the 'Staffies and Detties', off we all went to the Sgts' Mess for a Reunion Dinner and a few lemonades. All who attended will agree that the evening was a great success. Capt Alan Hoensch must be thanked for both the idea and the work involved before the Dinner. For the organisation of the accommodation and the Dinner all the credit and thanks must go to WO2 (SSM) 'Doggie' Eaglesham. Lookout for the excusive tie that was made for the reunion. (Only a few left, cost £7.50). Yes it was the first Reunion but it won't be the last. If you couldn't make this one then put in your diary 27 October 2000, this is a provisional date. The dinner is open to all instructors who have served with the Wing/Squadron.

On 1 November 1998 the Military Training Squadron lost its title and its link with 11 Signal Regiment and now comes under the command of the School of Signals. Our new title is NCO Training Wing, Command Training Group.

254 OBA CLUB REUNION

The ninth reunion of the 254 Club took place in the Tillington Hall Hotel, Stafford over the weekend Friday 30 October and Sunday 1 November 1998. This is something of a milestone when you think that, on joining as a boy soldier, you had EIGHT years to serve in the ranks AFTER completing your term of Boys' Service. At the time that seemed to stretch forever into the distant future and here we are fifty years plus on celebrating a NINTH reunion. A total of 154 attended comprising 90 ex boys and 64 wives.

Being the custom, Friday is the arrival day when everyone settles into their rooms and starts to get reacquainted with the others that they probably haven't seen since last year, or 10, 20 or even 50 years ago. Considering the weather with floods hampering progress both from North and South and the congestion on the motorways all attending did well to arrive at all, especially 'Deadly' and Daphne Baker who took over seven hours to get from Dover. Terry Beare from Australia (yet again), Colin Williams and wife from America and John Dove and Anna from Sunny Spain were the ones who had furthest to travel. They all combined their trip to the reunion with an extended holiday in UK.

For the second year, the event has been most excellently organised and attended by Anne and Pat Fox-Roberts, a lot of work but highly appreciated by all who attend. The reacquainting went on well into the 'wee small hours' of Saturday, but then that's what it's all about! It was nice to see first time attendees Alan Crabtree (haven't seen him since our commissioning day in April 1996) and 'Titch' Spedding (haven't seen him since I left X Watch War Office Signals in July 1948— over 50 years ago.) Saturday was devoted to a late start with a visit to the Wedgewood factory to let us see how the good things in life are made — one or two were able to try their hand at the art of potting. After lunch in the excellent restaurant at Wedgewood we all went to their Seconds outlet in Stoke on Trent where many were relieved of some of their hard earned Old Age Pension! It was then back to the hotel for a bit of R & R prior to getting ready for the now well established semi formal dinner. It took the usual format with George Severs in the chair who invited the Revd Jim Ireland to say grace. To round off the first part of the evening Peter McNaughton proposed the toast to all those Ex-Boys who are no longer able to join in our reunions — the roll of Honour now totals Eighty-Eight. After dinner the band got going in the ballroom and those who wanted danced the night away, others were content to sit, drink and natter. Eventually the hotel fell silent. Sunday dawned and after breakfast those who were leaving said their farewells with a promise to be back next year. There were a few couples who stayed on to take advantage of a third night in the hotel. The atmosphere at this reunion was excellent and everyone had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

1ST ARMOURED DIVISIONAL SIGNALS IN AFRICA 1942/43

FAREWELL REUNION

The Farewell Reunion of the Officers of 1st Armoured Divisional Signals in Africa 1942/43 was held at the Naval and Military Club, Piccadilly on 4 December 1998.

The unit was commanded by the late Brig W. R. Smijth-Windham CBE, DSO during the Knightsbridge-Alamein-Mareth period of the 8th Army. The Reunion has been meeting annually since its inauguration in 1964. Numbers have of course been falling rapidly in recent years, but the five members shown in the picture were able to meet and enjoy this final occasion.

LOST COMMS

The former service pals of SSgt Michael John Palmer are sought for a possible surprise reunion. In particular the following: Dave Vince (28 Sig Regt 71/72), John Scurr (233 Sig Sqn 73/74), Bernie Cummings (9 Sig Regt: 74), 'Mac' Macdonald (8 Sig Reg 75/76), Derek Styles and Ali McKenzie (28 Sig Reg 84/85), and Norrie Ruddiman (7 Sig Regt 87/88). Mick also served in the Junior Leaders Regt at Denbury, 4 Armd Div Sig Regt, 10 Sig Regt, at Wilton, 255 Sig Sqn Bahrain and 35 Sig Regt (V) in Birmingham. If anybody knows the current whereabouts of any of these, plus anyone else who remembers Mick, is asked to contact the RSA Admin Officer at Blandford.

22717342 Barrow J. M. National Service Group 52/18. Service with Betfor Signals 1953/4 would like to make contact with other RS personnel from that time period, for reminiscences and a chat.
E-Mail: jmbarrow@btinternet.com

Mr Geoffrey Lewis is seeking the present whereabouts of his former pal Clifford Treadwell. They served together in Egypt during the 1940s. Anyone who can help is asked to call Geoffrey on 01628 626545.

Tony Kitchener ex Northampton now living in Coventry since 1962 is looking for Cyril Bridgestock LKA, 29 Heston House, Tanners Hill, Deptford, London SE8, Approx1961. He was in the Royal Signals, Dvr MT Section, Saighton Camp, Chester and was demobbed 1957/8. Contact Tony on Tel: 01203 689048 or e.mail: Tony4679@aol.com or any one who served with him 1955/58. Catterick Gallowgate Camp, Rippon, Saighton Camp, Chester HQ sqn.

Mr E. F. 'Tommy' Tomlin is keen to hear news of his former pals from the Northampton Branch, from around 1946/47. In particular Henry Knight, Ron Deacon and Bill Bruxby. Anyone who can help is asked to call Tommy on 01495 220923.

24591622 Signaller Lee 'Sly' Silvester, having served in the following regiments between 1981/86, JRRS, OUSTON, 30 SIG REGT, 633 SIG Tp Belize, would like to contact anybody that knows him. He can be contacted on 01216017307 or email: LEE@lsilvester.freeserve.co.uk

Mr Dalton Spinola is seeking the whereabouts of his former pal Graham Hyde. They served together in 7 Signal Regiment, Herford in 1962 and Graham was a Tg Op. Anyone who can help is asked to call Mr Spinola on 01222 345962.

The SAS Association is seeking the whereabouts of the former Royal Signals Sgt W. P. Duffy. He was known as "The General" during his service with the SAS in WW2. He survived an attack on his jeep, which killed his OC. Apparently Sgt Duffy, despite being wounded, bravely returned fire and was only captured when the vehicle crashed into a tree. He later escaped from his POW camp and was later honoured for his actions by the French. Sgt Duffy would be in his 80s now and anyone with any knowledge of him is asked to call Maj (Retd) Jeremy Whittaker on 01428 712292.

Mr Ian Dunningham's father, (Maj Stanley Dunningham), was the manager of Mercury House (one of the Corps homes) in Florence Rd, Boscombe, Bournemouth, from 1948 to 1957. Ian, who was a lad at the time, has contacted RHQ saying that he would be pleased to hear from anyone who stayed at the home during that time. He can be contacted on 01454 312737 or by E-Mail ian@dunningham.demon.co.uk

Mr S. F. Rouse is seeking the whereabouts of his former colleague Gerald McHugh. Also his former OC, Capt Oswald (from Ireland) and RQMS R. Townsend (from Reading), both served with Syd in the Somaliland Signals in the 1940s.

Anyone who knows the whereabouts of former SSgt Ted Pearce, who was the Chief Clerk in 1 Wireless Regt/13 Sig Regt around 1958/60, is asked to contact Lesley Banyard, Hon Treasurer of Loughborough Branch of the RSA on 01509 557686.

CORRESPONDENCE

A LETTER FROM THE WIRE'S CORRESPONDENT IN BARBADOS, CARIBBEAN, WEST INDIES

Dear Sir,

I thought your Wire readers would wish to know that the Barbados Branch of the Royal Signals Association was host to a recent long-range Signals Recce Patrol from UK. Details are sketchy but your cunning correspondent in the Caribbean came across some fascinating snippets of intelligence in early November as he was taking a stroll along a southern beach near Worthing close to Bridge Town.

Long-range Signals Recce Patrol Barbados 1998
Singing 'SAGA Calypso'

It was early evening and the sun was setting into a calm rich blue sea leaving behind a stunning after-glow in a sky that formed the backdrop for a Bunch of Royal Signals Brigadiers and their Wives as they frolicked in the surf. I approached with caution. There was much merry-making and I recognised a recently retired Signal Officer in Chief trying to organise a 3 phase beach landing operation for his long range patrol. I lay low and hid between the folds in the sand. I sensed dissension in the ranks. There was much talk about Saga Sentries, Saga Sensors, Saga Calypsos and Saga Sensations. Could senior grown up Royal Signals officers really behave like this? I kept still. The beach landing was a farce. The patrol leader did a leopard crawl up the beach. The moon shone brightly. And giggling girls emerged from behind big waves to create a bridgehead next to Sea Foam Haciendas. I watched and waited. The LRRP deployed inland to complete their mission - the capture of the World's largest Rum Distillery!

Brigadiers Wood,Wilcox, Waugh, Hughes and Rev Maj Max Springer BEM and 'Mercury'

I checked the beach for some detailed information and found two photographs and some scraps of paper containing a SAGA Operation Order. The photographs are enclosed in the hope that you can publish them in The Wire. Many of your readers will recognise the high-spirited holiday makers. But I wonder how many recognise our Barbadian Host and Guide proudly holding MERCURY. The scraps of paper gave me some clues:

- He completed a full career in Royal Signals reaching the rank of Major.
- He served under the command of the 4 Brigadiers in the photograph.
- He is married to Sybil and he has a daughter married to a Corps Officer - Captain David Sullivan.
- He lives in Mercury Lodge close to the Airport in Barbados.
- He is Chaplain General to the Barbados Defence Forces.
- He is now in charge of a Church of England Parish in Bridge Town - St Ambrose.

He is The Reverend Maj Max Springer BEM BA. He and his wife, Sybil, send warm wishes to all their friends in Royal Signals. For those thinking about visiting Barbados I can recommend the Wendy Wood Saga Tours Holiday Company. With warm wishes from the Caribbean.

Dear Editor,

For the past 14 years a party of ex-service personnel and members of their families, including myself, have annually made a pilgrimage to war graves in Holland and Germany, these being at Eindhoven, Arnhem, and the Reichwald Forest in Germany. I have always made a point of visiting the graves of Corps Members buried in these cemeteries, in particular the ones in the Oosterbeek cemetery at Arnhem. Where possible on these visits, I have always placed a Poppy or Remembrance Cross on these graves. Our annual visit this year took place from 8-12 October. Owing to a decline in my health, this year could be the last one I can go on, so to highlight it, so to speak, I decided to have a wreath made, courtesy of the Royal British Legion. It was made, as near as possible in the Corps colours, light and dark blue carnations with the Corps Crest in the centre, and finished off with a green ribbon and the following words in gold, ROYAL SIGNALS ASSOCIATION. On the morning of the 11 October, on the Airbourne Memorial at Oosterbeek, Arnhem, a fellow RSA member Mr F. Bailey and myself laid this. We were accompanied by a friend, an ex Guards Armoured member. Being a member of RHQ RSA, I took the liberty of laying the aforementioned wreath on behalf of RHQ, the accompanying card was made out to all Corps Members who lie at rest in that area, and laid on behalf of RHQ ROYAL SIGNALS ASSOCIATION. Thank You,

Dear Sir,

I am writing in the hope that you may possibly be able to help me in my search for a copy of a picture that was produced, and the scene set in Northern Ireland circa 1975 – 1977. My husband was promoted there during this period and obtained a copy of this print but unfortunately over the years it has been misplaced and I would dearly love to obtain another print for him.

My husband served with 39 Inf Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (Comms Troop) and the picture was drawn/painted as a whole picture but with smaller scenes, depicting different skills and aspects of the Royal Signals in Northern Ireland. I could greatly appreciate if at all possible any help you may offer or suggest.

Yours sincerely

Dear Col Carter,

Thank you indeed for making the arrangements for a trumpeter to play at my father, Col B. H. P. Barnes, funeral. LCpl John Bilby played beautifully was immaculately turned out and his performance was greatly appreciated by the family, as well as other former Corps members of my father's era who were present. My father, as a long time supporter of the Corps Band, would have greatly enjoyed it tremendously himself. Please pass my thanks to the trumpeter, LCpl John Bilby, and commend him for his efforts. I would like to show my appreciation further by making a special donation to the Royal Signals Association and I enclose a cheque accordingly.

Yours Aye

Dear Sir,

I am an ex-Territorial Soldier who joined the Royal Signals in May 1939 and was proud to think that I was a trained soldier when the war broke-out. I am now 78 and was saddened when I read in the newspapers that they are cutting down the Territorials and closing down lots of Drill Halls around the country.

So I wrote this little poem and I wondered if you would consider it good enough for publication in our WIRE magazine.

Yours Faithfully

THE T.A. ARMY

They are cutting down our T.A. Army, which I think is very barmy,
In fact I think it's quite the limit
So must the lads who are serving in it.
What the Government chooses to ignore is there could easily be another war,
In 1940 it wasn't fun when we stood alone to face the Hun,
But we had no need to despair because the T.A. Army was always there.

From: Brig F. L. Clarkson

Dear Editor,

There is a small error in your December 1998 issue on page 474 – 'The Corps Brooch'. The officer's name was Fearfield, not Fairfield; we were personal friends – his wife was called Ros. He and I passed into the RMA Woolwich ('The Shop') on 25 August 1939 – it closed a week later on 1 September 1939 because of mobilisation! We all went on to 151 OCTV in Aldershot and were commissioned in May 1940.

Yours sincerely

Deighton - former SSgt Barbara Deighton W/379206. Barbara served from 1952 to 1977 first with 15th. Ack Ack Signals until she retired in 1977 and then with 34 (N) Sig Regt TAVR, during this time she was with the Leeds Squadron that was 49 (WR) Signal Squadron. During her service and after she served on the committee of and always gave good support to all the Leeds & District RSA functions until through ill health she had to retire from the committee. The last year even though she was in a wheel chair she still continued to attend our socials and every one would make her very welcome as she was so well liked. It was sad when she departed from this life on the 27 October 1998. Our treasurer Margaret Egan seldom missed a day when she did not visit Barbara in hospital our thanks to you Margaret. Our condolences go to Barbara's brother Ron and sister Vera.

Gavin – Sig R. W. Gavin – Bill maintained his contact with ex members of the Corps through his work with SSAFA. He was a caseworker and latterly Divisional Secretary

Winter – Alexander H. Winter died on 30 October 1998 aged 84 years. He served in the Royal Corps of Signals from December 1932 to February 1946 leaving with the rank of CQMS. Alex was with 43rd Div until 1942 when he was posted to 44th Div and later to 5th Div in Italy. He was a long serving member of the Southampton RSA and for many years was their Standard Bearer.

Child – WO2 Alfred John Child. Alfie joined the Signals in 1939 and went to France with the BEF. In 1940 he was taken prisoner and then spent until 1945 being transferred from POW Camp to POW Camp, ending up working on a POW Farm in Poland where he mastered the craft of making wood alcohol! In 1947 he joined 56 (London) Armd Div Sig Regt and rose to WO2 (SSM) serving at Atkins Road, Balham until the reorganisation in 1961 when he transferred to 39 Signals, at Worship Street in the City of London. He was a member of 56 Div (Signals) Association until his death on 6 December 1998. His funeral took place at Croydon Crematorium on 15 December 1998.

Bell – Maj (QM) Harry Bell. It is with deep regret that the death of Harry Bell is announced. Harry died after a long illness on Monday 21 September 1998. Harry's service record reads like a modern day travel catalogue: Catterick, Harrogate, Egypt, Dusseldorf, Sheffield, Singapore, Malaya, Brunei, Herford, Cyprus, Plymouth, France, Northern Ireland, Lippstadt, Gutersloh, Munchen Gladback, Belgium, Northern Ireland, Aberdeen, Denmark and Holland being his posting locations. He also had the odd spell in Sudan, Malta, Turkey and Penang. He enlisted at the age of 14 and served over 43 years before retiring to live at Fort Matilda Place, Greenock. Harry continued to keep in touch with the Corps attending the Quartermasters' Dinner until illness prevented him from travelling. He leaves a wife Catherine and sons Duncan and David, as well as many friends within the Corps who will be saddened by this loss.

Eeckelaers - Major (TOT) Albert Eeckelaers - died on 15 December 1998 at the age of 83. He joined the Royal Signals in 1937 as a Signalman; after his induction at Catterick he was sent to the North West Frontier in India during the 1939-1945 war. Returning to Catterick once again in 1945 his linguistic skills were used to train refugees from the Continent. He served two tours in Germany during the 1940s in Bad Lippspringe in 1946 and in Hannover in 1948. His unique skills at radio maintenance and languages were recognised by the serving Major at the time and he was subsequently recommended for a commission that was granted in 1954. He served tours in Dover, the Ministry of Defence in London (when he also worked on the communication systems of the Blue Streak Rocket at Woomera in Australia in 1956), and Aldershot. He was then posted for a three year tour to Singapore from 1958-1961 to serve with the Air Formation Signals in Changi where he also captained the regimental athletics team. Shortly after his return to the UK he was posted to Germany where he served from 1961/64 at St Tonis (near Krefeld) with 28 Signal Regiment and then with 16 Signal Regiment at Krefeld. He returned to the UK in 1964 where he was based at Catterick until his retirement in 1968. When he retired he became a sales representative for a new generation of computerised cash registers. This he did until the early 1980s. He married Violet Ottmann in 1942. She, his 11 children (3 sons and 8 daughters), 26 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren, survive him.

Rozier - David Rozier Served 08/01/52 to 15/01/74. It is with much sadness that we report the sudden and untimely death, on 17 December, of our much loved and esteemed comrade Dave Rozier. Dave had been Branch Treasurer of RSA Cardiff, for some years and as an ex-BBC operative had been instrumental in gaining our Branch the hospitality of the BBC (Wales) Social Club not only for our regular monthly meetings but also for the Annual Dinner and other social functions. After serving with distinction in the regular Corps in such widespread locations as Singapore, Borneo, Kenya, Northern Ireland and Germany, Dave rounded off his career with a posting to Cardiff as PSI to 55th Signal Squadron. Past members of 7 and 22 Signal Regiments who served with Dave in Germany will no doubt remember him with as much esteem as did we here in Cardiff where he and his vivacious and charming wife Molly decided to domicile themselves for a peaceful retirement. The obsequies, first at St. Peter's Church then at the Thornhill Crematorium were attended by a very large company of mourners both from the Cardiff RSA and the BBC Wales. At the Crematorium the standard of the Cardiff RSA was displayed with three others from associate units and a trumpeter from the Royal Regiment of Wales played the Last Post and Reveille. Jimmy Lister, President of the Cardiff Assoc, orated the "Exhortation" and Eric Powell, Branch Chairman, Read the Collect of the Royal Corps of Signals. Dave will be sorely missed by us all and our hearts go out to Molly and her two sons, John and Christopher at this most harrowing time.

Carter – Major A. E. 'Nick' Carter. Nick joined the Corps in 1932 when he was 16 years old, and became a Dispatch Rider. He served under Montgomery with the 21st Army during WW2. Nick remained with the Corps for more than 35 years, retiring as a Major. At the Queen's coronation, Nick was proud to be the RSM leading the parade of the Royal Signals and his skills as a rider made him into a key figure in the Display Teams at many Military Tattoos. Nick was actively involved in Church life during his Army days and his keeness in gardening led to not a bloom in his garden being out of place. Nick was a past Chairman and President of the RSA's Shropshire Branch until illness forced him to step down. The Branch Standard and many Branch Members were present at his funeral in December. Our condolences go to his wife Louise, to whom Nick was married for nearly 59 years, and his family.

RETIRE IN GOOD ORDER TO THE ROYAL HOSPITAL CHELSEA

For a comfortable and active retirement you can't beat being an In-Pensioner at the Royal Hospital Chelsea, a magnificent home for old soldiers founded in 1682 by Charles II and designed by Sir Christopher Wren. You'll be well dug in, with a room of your own, and in good company with former soldiers like yourself. The setting is idyllic: 60 acres close by the famous King's Road in the heart of London and near the Thames. Your every need will be met in a carefree life. You will eat in the Great Hall and relax in the In-Pensioners Club. There's a billiards room, a good library of books and videos, and an Arts and Crafts Centre and a Post Office. The Royal Hospital also has its own Chapel, as well as a Roman Catholic Chapel. A splendid medical service includes an Infirmary staffed by caring doctors, a matron and nurses. In addition, there are support facilities which include a chiropodist, a physiotherapy department and a fitness centre.

You are eligible to apply to become an In-Pensioner if you are:

- in receipt of a pension for Army service or disability due to military service; if you are an Officer on retired pay with at least 12 years in the ranks you may also apply
- 65 years or over; exceptionally, if you are between 55-65 with a disability pension you may apply if you are unable to earn a living because of disability
- able to look after yourself and walk around unaided
- free from obligations to support a wife or children
- passed medically fit for admission

Remember: the Royal Hospital is primarily a residential home, NOT a hospital.

CHOOSE THE GOOD LIFE!

SO DON'T LEAVE IT TOO LATE TO APPLY.

KING HUSSEIN OF JORDAN 1935-1999

King Hussein bin Talal had a remarkable career. When he came to the RMA Sandhurst in 1952 he was already the Monarch of his country, but of that country little was known. The Grandfather whom he succeeded was known as a fine and brave man, and the Arab Legion, commanded and officered by the British had a colourful reputation somewhat like that of the French Foreign Legion.

By the time of his death King Hussein was known, loved and admired throughout the world and was a major figure in the politics of the whole of the Middle East. There was a magic about this man who could converse happily with people of any station in life.

He made a moving speech when taking the Sovereign's Parade at Sandhurst at the invitation of our Queen saying that he enjoyed true friendship in his time as a Cadet with Officers, Warrant Officers and NCOs as well as with the Civilian staff. There were a few in Royal Signals who were fortunate to become his close friend or forged the strong bond that is made between Cadets of the same Intake. Best placed of all was Major David Horsfield, Commander of Inkerman Company which 'Mister King Hussein, Sir' joined. The pupil set out to play the part of a cadet to the best of his ability and to enjoy the experience, succeeding fully on both counts. Now a retired Major General, David Horsfield reports:-

It was thought that King Hussein should be given some rather wider experience than that given to other cadets. The programme was prepared in conjunction with Professor Boswell, at one time my own instructor at the RMA Woolwich. Visits were made, for example, to The Times and a London Liveried Company. In more relaxed vein I accompanied him to the Motor Show, where he bought an Aston Martin. We also visited Goodwood for the motor racing. Here the interesting triangle developed where the Duke of Richmond called Hussein Sir, he called me Sir and I called the Duke Sir.

King Hussein had an exceptional capacity for friendship with all the advantages that brings in so many activities in life. There is much more I could tell but now is not the moment.

WHAT IS IT?

The Royal Signals Museum would be pleased to hear from anyone who may be able to help in recognising this item. Ex-SSgt John Hodgkiss (Royal Signals) found it in a field at Furness End village, near Coventry, in July 1996.

The item is made of brass and appears to have had two pins protruding from the back of the plate, (located either side of the crown). The actual dimensions are 2mm thick, 50mm depth and 30 mm width. If you have any ideas write to Mr Dave Walker at:

THE ELEVENTH ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CAROL SERVICE IN LONDON

Lt Col John Chambers once again organised the Annual Christmas Carol Service at St Stephen with St John Church in Rochester Row on Thursday 17 December 1998 the eleventh in the series. A choir comprising nearly 40 members of the Corps, their families and friends, was assembled to lead the Service and the six Lesson Readers were Sig Plumb of 31 Sig Regt (V), Sgt Thompson of 238 Sig Sqn, Capt Mould of 71(Y) Sig Regt (V), Capt Brookes of 34 Sig Regt (V), the SOinC and the Master of Signals. The congregation was a little smaller than in recent years. However, on the other hand we were well supported by vicars with Revd John Scott from 71 (Y) Sig Regt (V) and Revd Peter Clemett the Honorary Chaplain to the Royal Signals Association supporting the home team.

Although the pressures of work and long hours at Main Building prevented some from attending there was a good cross section of Branches present. It was also good to see representatives from Blandford and rural Dorset and from as far away as 34 Sig Regt (V). In addition to a good number of serving members of the TA there were several members of the 'Retired Corps' both Regular and TA including representation from 'industry' and the Association. The service was conducted at a cracking pace in order that we could move on to the mince pies and sherry at the Church Hall. The Choir still being in need of lubrication for their throats, a foray to a local hostelry ensued to round off a successful evening.

Please note, for your diaries, that the 12th Annual Carol Service will be on Thursday 16 December 1999 at 1800 hrs at St Stephen with St John in Rochester Row.

ROYAL SIGNALS MUSEUM MEDAL PRESENTATION

The medals of 2325636 Corporal Steven Carter R SIGNALS were recently presented to the Museum by his friend, Mr Phil Hudson. Steve recently died without a next of kin and Mr Hudson came to the Museum to make the presentation. Unfortunately, very little is known about Cpl Steve Carter as he was a very private person who kept very much to himself We are aware that he was entitled to The Indian GSM 1937-39, War Medal, and stars for Italy, Africa and 1939-45. He was also awarded the Greek Military Cross Class 3. Fortunately, the IGSM and Military Cross, with its certificate, have been found and presented to the Museum. We would like to hear from you if you know anything about the service of Cpl Carter.

CORPS BENEVOLENCE AND THE ONE DAY'S PAY SCHEME

All members of the Corps should be aware that one of the primary purposes of the 'One Day's Pay Scheme' is to provide support for needy members of Royal Signals both serving and retired, and this includes their dependants. The Royal Signals Benevolent Fund support to the needy is administered by the Royal Signals Association and readers will be interested to know that over £250K was given to those in need last year.

It may not be well known that the Corps has very close links with the Army Benevolent Fund, a very large charitable fund who also helps the needy. The Corps makes an annual donation to the Army Benevolent Fund of approximately £50K, however, last year the Army Benevolent Fund helped our needy with about £105K. This is in addition to the £250K the Royal Signals Benevolent Fund gave.

Maj Gen Alan Yeoman is the Chairman of the Royal Signals Association. He recently received a letter from the Controller of the Army Benevolent Fund thanking the Corps for its donation and in turn he, as Chairman of the Association, would like to pass on a big 'Thank You!' to all serving members of the Corps who subscribe to the 'One Day's Pay Scheme', for their support to a most worthy cause. He also adds, 'You never know, you might need help from the Corps in the future?'

SQUADRON SERGEANT MAJOR JOINS THE SAFETY ELITE

David Rook of 225 Signal Squadron HQNI & 15 Signal Regiment has received the prestigious British Safety Council Diploma in Safety Management in an awards ceremony at Armourers' Hall, London. Mr Rook was among 48 safety professionals who were presented with their awards. They passed a 450 question exam in order to gain their Diploma.

In a message to delegates Alan Meale, the Minister with responsibility for health and safety at work said, 'Effective management is the key to improving health and safety standards in the workplace and preventing accidents. I welcome the commitment that you have shown and hope that you are able to build on your achievements.'

Sir Neville Purvis, Director General of the British Safety Council, says, 'Good safety is good business and can save firms hundreds of thousands of pounds. In achieving the Diploma in Safety Management, David Rook has shown a commitment to improving health and safety in the workplace. Proper training for people at all levels of an organisation is vital, as accidents and illnesses at work cost this country up to £16 billion every year.'

Diploma delegates study safety law, communications, advanced safety management, occupational health and hygiene and total loss control (risk management). The internationally recognised qualification also provides domain knowledge for the National Vocational Qualification in Occupational Health and Safety Practice at Levels 3 and 4, subject to an assessment of competence in the workplace.

THE SPORTS TOUR OF SOUTH AFRICA

Many of you will have read the report of the South Africa Sports Tour undertaken by the Corps. We felt that you may be interested in one letter we received resulting from our visit to Soweto. Just after Christmas we received the following letter written by Mrs Ivy Nkutha, who was the social worker from Soweto who accompanied us during our visit there. She says:

Dear Sir,

Greetings!!! I am so sorry it took so long to write to you after our meeting at your tour of Soweto when you were here in South Africa visiting our military bases.

That was a wonderful experience. Meeting people who showed interest in our well being and growing. I thoroughly enjoyed spending that day with you.

My greatest hope is that you enjoyed the rest of your tour of the other parts of our country that you managed to visit. Meeting you was one of the most wonderful things that ever happened to me. Once again, I, now, together with the staff and children of Vulamazibuko Primary School, wish to express our warmest gratitude for the most wonderful present that you gave to us. 'The Soccer Kit'. Here is a picture that I took with the team, to show you how well it fits and those happy smiles. 'GOD BLESS YOU' for putting them there.

You asked me what my top priorities were concerning school developments and my answer was sports fields and facilities as we have absolutely none. I would be really grateful if we could get help towards that. Being involved with children has taught me how easy children are. All they need is love and guidance.

May you please pass my warmest regards to all the team you were with and your families. Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy prosperous New Year. May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You All. I pray God that this is the start of an everlasting relationship.

Yours sincerely

Ivy Nkutha

PS. Sorry I nearly forgot; the children have asked me for two more soccer kits since we have four teams in the School, please!!!

The punctuation marks are Ivy's not mine. Next year the Army Soccer Team is to visit Soweto during a tour that they are undertaking and it is hoped that they may be able to meet some of the pleas that Ivy makes. Meanwhile it is nice to know that our visit was well received and that the soccer kit which we gave, which you will remember was funded mainly from the efforts of tour party members holding a charity soccer competition at Blandford, is not only being used but is greatly appreciated.

THREE GENERATIONS OF ROYAL SIGNALS OFFICERS

On 11 December 1998, 2Lt Jon Mayne was commissioned into the Corps from RMA Sandhurst, via Wells Cathedral School CCF and University of London OTC. Jon is the third generation of his family to be a Royal Signals officer: he is the son of Maj (Retd) Nick Mayne (served 1966-1984), and the grandson of the late Capt F. P. 'Pat' Rickard, who served during the Second World War.

1984-1999
ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS & SWANAGE RAILWAY
FIFTEEN YEARS IN ASSOCIATION

The Royal Corps of Signals has assisted in the rebuilding of the Swanage Steam Railway in Dorset since 1984. Soldiers installed the first telecom cables in 1984, installed the Corfe Castle telephone exchange in 1990 and built the home for the third telephone exchange at Herston in 1997. Around 1,000 tradesmen from the Royal Signals have been involved. Telecom assistance continued in January 1999 commencing with a replacement programme for 12 telephone poles. (222 Signal Squadron). Exercise Topham Hatt has been approved until 1 April 2003 by HQ 3 (UK) Division.

EXERCISE TOPHAM HATT

All aspects of planning, administration, health and safety and finance have recently been revised; the work has resulted in the Topham Hatt Planning Document. There is a fitted carriage for use during Ex Topham Hatt; it provides accommodation, messing, tool and stores facilities for up to eight personnel. The Royal Signals have adopted an area of the railway including Herston Halt, and have commenced a general refurbishment programme of basic DIY tasks throughout the whole area; many major telecom tasks remain. All Royal Signals units are invited to consider involvement in the project, specifically by small parties managed by Sergeants or Corporals.

THE MERCURY GROUP

Over 130 members of the Royal Signals have joined the Swanage Railway as Premier Life Members, each paying £350. There is a military support group within the Railway known as 'The Mercury Group'. The Group meets at least once a year.

THE 15th ANNIVERSARY REUNION will be held on SATURDAY 12 JUNE 1999

in Swanage

All members of the Royal Signals, past and present, who have supported Exercise Topham Hatt, or the Mercury Group, are invited to attend.

CORPORATE MEMBERSHIP

11 Sig Regt is the official link between the Royal Signals and the Swanage Railway; the Regiment has been a Corporate Member of the Railway since 1993. Soldiers and staff with a Blandford Camp postal address may apply for travel concessions on the Railway offering 50% reductions off fares. As part of the 15th Anniversary Celebrations a 50% reduction on all tickets is offered to serving soldiers, their families and supporting staff. Please show your military ID card/Civil Service card when visiting the Railway during the periods:

Saturday 5 June - Sunday 13 June 1999
Saturday 24 July - Sunday 1 August 1999

THE SWANAGE RAILWAY CO LTD

The company operates a steam railway 18 miles south of Blandford. This year is the fifteenth anniversary of the Association between the Royal Corps of Signals and the Swanage Railway. In recognition of the substantial amount of work undertaken by the Royal Corps of Signals since 1984, the railway is pleased to offer for all members of the Corps, their dependants and government staff with a Blandford Camp postal address.

CONCESSIONARY TRAVEL

By obtaining a

SWANAGE RAILWAY COMMUNITY CARD
(previously only available to permanent local residents within the Isle of Purbeck)

Holders will be entitled to half price discount off normal Swanage Railway train fares. The card costs £5.00 and is valid for one year. This concession is offered to all personnel associated with 11 Signal Regiment (and associated Blandford units). The Regiment is a Corporate Member of the Southern Steam Trust. The Trust is the registered charity which manages the Swanage Railway. Further information on the Community Card, and the many special events held at Swanage can be obtained by contacting:

NEWS FROM HEADQUARTERS

HEADQUARTERS' MESS ROYAL SIGNALS

FAREWELL TO JUDITH IRONSIDE

On 10 December a representative group of mess members led by the Signal Officer in Chief (Army) bade farewell to Judith Ironside after 30 years service to the HQ Mess.

During a lunch in the Corps Room held in Judith's honour, Brig Griffin presented a silver salver on behalf of the Officers of the Corps, past and present. He also paid tribute to Judith's extensive and loyal service to the Mess. A summary of her service appears below.

Judith was first employed in the Mess in 1968 as a temporary comi and kitchen porter. Fortunately, she was persuaded to take up a permanent position by Brig John Cubberley. Her potential was soon recognised and she was promoted into the Reception and later she became a steward in the Bar. During the period 1973 -1975, Judith did in fact work in the West Moors Mess as Chief Steward but found it too quiet and sought to rectify this by further employment in Blandford!

On her return she became Chief Steward 2 in charge of the Bar/Dinning Room/Reception and later became Chief Steward 1 in overall charge of Front of House. As Chief Steward 1 she assumed the rewarding duty of being responsible for the Corps and Mess Wine Cellar. From 1984 for five years she was the Mess Accountant having achieved an A+ on the Service Fund Accounting Course. In 1989, at the time of contractorisation in the Mess, Judith's commitment and dedication as a civil servant was formally recognised by the award of the GOC's Commendation. The contractor soon realised that they needed Judith to advise on the general running of the Mess particularly for function etiquette. Consequently, she was appointed Mess Manager, an appointment she held for nine years prior to her departure in May.

Additional tributes have been received from many officers a selection of which follows:

I remember Judith arriving as temporary bar staff. I was on a course at the time. She was very good at looking after the young officers and keeping us out of trouble in those lazy days of the late 60s.

A wayward young officer.

I have many reasons to be grateful to her particularly during the period I was running the Headquarters Mess (or was Judith running the HQ Mess!?)

A grateful Mess President (one of many).

In my opinion Judith has done a fantastic job in the Headquarters Mess. She has always been helpful often under pressure. Her long service has done much to give the Mess the family feeling so important to us all, especially the young officers.

Another old young officer.

Judith was always particularly helpful to me in getting the TA courses accommodation, messing, and general well being sorted out. I am most grateful to her for all the extra time she always willingly gave to this most frustrating of tasks

A TA Officer.

There can be no more than a handful of very wrinkly officers, in the Corps who remember the Blandford Mess pre Judith!

Another admirer.

Thank You Judith from all past and present members of the HQ Mess, those that are wrinkly and those that are not so wrinkly!

THE BAND

A NEW BANDMASTER FOR THE CORPS BAND

After three years, it was time to say 'goodbye' to WO1 (BM) Kevin Davies, who is now Bandmaster to the Irish Guards, and welcome WO1 (BM) Andrew 'Bill' Booth.

After joining the Royal Green Jackets in 1981 and touring the world, Mr Booth undertook a three-year bandmaster's course, which started in 1994. Upon graduation with a BA degree, he was posted to the Gibraltar Regiment as their Bandmaster. We welcome 'Bill' and his wife Christine and daughter Lindsey to the Corps, and hope his tour with us is a happy and enjoyable experience.

The thought of leaving Blandford all got too much for him

(After) - Over to you Bill.

THE ROYAL SIGNALS BAND VISITS BOSNIA

It was on a damp Sunday, two weeks before Christmas, when a small ensemble from the Corps Band set off for Op Paletine. With four members fresh from the Sgts' Mess Christmas Ball the ten musicians, led by the Assistant Bandmaster, WO2 Matthew Brown, loaded the MFO boxes at 3am and set off for RAF Lyneham. It was at Lyneham that we were told that the temperature had been 25 degrees below only the week before and we wondered if we would be able to play! Our arrival at Split was very pleasant as we stepped off the Hercules to Mediterranean temperatures of 17 degrees and after clearing the airport, it was on to HQ MND (SW) for documentation and the do's and don'ts of "Theatre". Here we met our escorts for the week, Capt Jason Nichols and Sig Philip Smith, (later to be known as 'Bodie' and 'Doyle'!), who led us to our accommodation and the QM's, for the issue of Flack Jackets, Morphine and ration packs - just in case! No tour goes without a first night out, so it was time to hit downtown Trogir and a chance to get to know 'Bodie' and 'Doyle' a little better, try the local pizza and negotiate a dodgy bus inspector. Monday morning arrived and it was time to hit the road and start the week-long journey around Theatre.

Our first engagement was for MND (SW) HQ & Sig Regt at Banja Luka. This was a very relaxed evening in 'Tommy Tuckers', their amenities centre. Our aim for this, and all other engagements, was to get the audience involved with our performance, and after a few carols it was time to go into the solo routine. The Post Horn Gallop is always good for this and the Band Sergeant Major, WO2 Russell Duckworth, and Sgt Martin Hancock provided the necessary entertainment. This was followed by the hose-pipes, our version of the Waltzing Bugle Boy - audiences always marvel at what can be obtained from a length of plastic tube and a tin can. The Post Horn soloists were joined by SSgt Kelvin Bryant, Drum Major Tony Wilson and Musician Clive Membury for this rendition. The merry group of musicians went on to entertain B Battery, 1 RHA in Glamoc for their regimental dinner night. This was also the last night that the Kiwi Gunners would be with the Regiment before returning to New Zealand. Here we involved the guests in a rendition of "The Twelve Days of Christmas". Our only problem was that we found that volunteers were not forthcoming, so it was up to our whip-cracking flautist, LCpl Martin Hutchinson, and solo clarinettist Musn Lee Singleton to round up the prey. The 1st Battalion REME at Sipovo was next on our list. On arrival we joined them in the garages for a curry lunch. Quite an unusual venue we thought! That evening it was time to sing for your supper. Each Squadron had to compete to decide who would eat first. The easiest way was of course, a singing competition. Afterwards the four SNCO's entertained the Officers Mess members with a few more carols. 1 WFR in Gornji Vakuf was next on our hit list. Firstly a carol service in the gymnasium. This didn't seem to be high up the list of the most popular things to do, and we were feeling very apprehensive towards the evening concert. Somehow we managed to turn the tables and get them going. This was helped along by our own LCpl Paul Hill, who gave an excellent verbal ND in a piece entitled 'The Snowman With a Terrible Temper', and Capt Nichols helping eleven members of the Regiment to sing 'The Twelve Days of Christmas'. There are some jobs that give you a real sense of achievement, and this was definitely one. Our last day away from Split took us eastward to UK NSE detachment in Sarajevo, passing the monument of 'Tito's Fist' en route. It was here that our task of playing for the lighting of the Christmas tree was upstaged by local children performing carols and dances. Of course, a visit from St Nicholas with many helpers was perfect for this occasion, and the delight on the children's faces was not to be missed.

Following this was one of the biggest dinner nights that we have ever been involved in. Held in a marquee, the British contingent hosted the Canadians, who made their own special mark on the occasion, and whose donations to the band were welcomed, especially by Cpl Simon Stember on tuba.

The Christmas spirit was terrific, and in the presence of the Commander British Forces, we could not have wished for a better last day out of base. The time to return to Split had suddenly arrived and after many an ice-covered road, a thoroughly rewarding week, and seeing more of Bosnia than many see in a six-month tour. We left the snow-clad mountains and headed for the warmth of the Mediterranean and Croatia. The final carol service in HQ MND (SW) gave us the opportunity to publicly thank Capt Nichols and Sig Smith for their great comradeship, help and friendship during a week that we will always remember. It was then time for our farewell visit to Trogir before the flight home.

ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS PIPES AND DRUMS

Band President Capt M. J. Chambers, Adjt 32 Sig Regt (V)
Band WO WO2 D. Y. Smith, 32 Sig Regt (V)

The Pipes and Drums are coming along in leaps and bounds. We now have CSgt (Pipe Major) J Stout, HIGHLANDERS established in Blandford who is, in addition to his main task of SQMS, Whitespear Troop, running piping classes for anyone interested in learning or improving current standard. We welcome to the band Jimmy and his wife Anne. For those of you who don't know who he is, he is the only man in a kilt and funny green jumper at Blandford.

With the kind of assistance of 2 Sig Regt, the Band has started to train on weekends in York. This provides a central location that all band members, regular and TA can attend and train to improve the standard of the band. As the Band develops, so does the demand to hear it. In the past three months we have given piping support to units in Bosnia, Sweden, Cyprus and Germany. The tropical paradise of Benbecula awaits us as do confirmed requests to play in Germany. We say a sad farewell to WO1 (RSM) Showell, who was the first regular to join the band and has now finished his time with the Army. We wish him all the very best for the future.

The Band is unfunded and relies completely on the goodwill of the Corps for assistance in achieving any credibility. Many thanks for your support so far, but we are currently short of bagpipes and if any one has a set they no longer require, we would be most pleased to deal with them. If you are able to help, please contact WO2 D. Y. Smith at 32 Sig Regt (V), 21 Jardine St. GLASGOW, G41 3AN or fax 756 5041.

OC Trials Tp/SO3(W) Trials Maj Andy Cameron

CHANGE AT THE TOP

Having managed to squeeze in a final football tour to South Africa in October of last year, the time has come to say farewell to the Main Man of STDU, Maj Pete Smurthwaite, as he gets ready to slip out of uniform and into Hush Puppies and Slacks in order to move across on retirement to a Retired Officers post in HQ Army CIS Eng Gp. His tour at STDU marks the end of 38 years of Colour Service, much of which has been spent playing, coaching and managing Corps Football. His time at STDU has been marked by his persistent dedication to the task and the career management of all those within the Unit; all of whom have at least one instance to be grateful for the Boss's guidance and leadership. STDU wish you and Trish all the best and thank you for all of your efforts and support throughout your time in Command of the Unit.

NEWS ON THE GROUND - TRIALS TROOP

by Sgt 'Taff' Jones

Before I open the book on another chapter in the life of Trials Troop, let me first congratulate Maj Andy Cameron and LCpl Kerr Laye on their recent promotions. Good luck to Paul Barrett in his business venture after a rewarding 22 years in the Signals. A fond farewell to Johnny Atkinson, hope you find civvy street as easy as you hoped. Welcome to WO2 (YofS) John Evans hope you find life in Trials Troop to your liking and finally, hi Pete 'The Civvy', I bet it's been a while since your last Wire mention.

ALL AT SEA!

by Cpl Mark Beasley

An opportunity had arrived that would whisk me away from the hum drum life in Blandford Camp, a weeks sea trial testing a specialist piece of equipment. My job was to make sure that this item didn't interfere with a Lynx's operational systems. This involved copious amounts of flight time observing instrumentation looking for glitches; now this may not sound exciting but it sure beat first lines!

In order for us to venture over or onto the sea we had to be kitted out with immersion suits. Now, these things are the most unflattering articles of clothing you could think of, however functionality over fashion has always been the precedence for all the HM Forces and these were veerryy functional. Imagine if you will four overly large blobs swishing their way down the jetty, looking something akin to four very large pints of Guinness and that might give you an idea of what we looked like. At least they kept you dry, which was a good thing as the weather took a turn for the worst. I was flying high, well clear of the squall, however my colleagues were not so fortunate; battling 10ft swells trying to get onto a Trawler from a Ridge Raider with no ladders or ropes would have certainly set my heart beating faster. I'm sad to say that nobody fell in which was quite disappointing as there was beer riding on it, but you can't have everything. WO2 (YofS) Paul Barrett as the trial co-ordinator performed admirably in the face of such adverse conditions the only problem was his mind was telling his stomach 'Flat sea, Flat sea FLAT SEA!' but unfortunately it didn't believe him. Sgt 'Taff' Jones also had a problem convincing his stomach that the sea does not have swells, along with Sig 'Butch Dingle' Roberts. Whereas Sig 'Swamp-Rat' Porter won his argument much to his delight.

At the end of the trial I managed to catch a ride on the Ridge Raider to see if I could face the sea, like the rest of them who had by now turned into salty old sea dogs wondering around saying AAAARRRR! to all and sundry. I felt that I did fine, I experienced no arguments, but of course the sea was flat, so they told me that it proved nothing, oh well I'll see next time.

OUT OF RANGE

by Sgt Taff Jones

Two weeks after Christmas leave we received our first fastball of 1999 from 3 Commando Brigade asking Trials Troop to range test their old field radios, alongside new ones of the same make as there appeared to be a problem. This we did and rather than use Land Rovers we had to walk about 60km (more if LCpl 'Rah' Guthrie was map reading even with Cpl 'Old Bloke' Jenkins helping). Unfortunately this trial coincided with the heavy rains that plagued the south which meant lots of detours and some swimming (or was that the other way around?) One of the routes that we had to walk happened to finish at a pub and the two that were walking this route Sgt 'Northern Bloke' Lord and Sgt 'Welsh Bloke' Jones didn't have any money with them, but they still fancied a pint. Undeterred 'Taff' went in armed with water bottles and came out with two pints an excellent example of resourcefulness. Knowing this, SSgt 'Olly' McGrail and WO2 (YofS) John Evans volunteered for that route the next day using the excuse that they had to settle the tab for Sgt Jones's and Sgt Lord's two pints. Hmmmmmm!. The trial ended successfully with all teams finding their way back, much to their disgust as it now meant that Lakeland Volunteer was definitely going to happen.

EXERCISE LAKELAND VOLUNTEER - COVER STORY !

Ex Lakeland Volunteer was a Public Relations Training Exercise executed during the week 31 January - 5 February 1999, in the Lake District National Park, Cumbria. The Exercise provided a work party (total 12 personnel) to conduct strenuous labour in support of National Trust conservation projects within the boundaries of the Lake District National Park. The aim of the Exercise was to support the conservation work of the National Trust within the Lake District National Park, an area much used by military units for training, in order to assist in the maintenance of 'good will' between the Park Authorities and the Military.

All conservation project activities were under the direct supervision of National Trust/Lake District National Park representatives. Exercise personnel were centred on the National Trust Basecamp at High Wray, near Ambleside and tasked daily by National Park staff. Tasks included path/wall building and repair and other conservation activities!

THE TRUE STORY!

by LCpl Kerr Laye

The week started out with the always reliable MT giving us a shed of a van which looked like it had just returned from the scrap heap. We eventually headed off north with lots of abuse and heckling being fired at our Tp Sgt, Sgt 'Taff' Jones. We arrived at High Wray National Trust Base Camp late afternoon ready and eager to start work the next day. Although not before sampling the surrounding public houses, for good food!

Monday morning was here, breakfast was not on the table as promised by our A La Carte Chef, Cpl Mark 'Wibble' Beasley. After some deliberation amongst the troops, not including Sig Duggie 'Swamp-Rat' Porter who was still practising water sports, we decided that Cpl John 'Jenky Boy' Jenkins aided by non other than Cpl Craig 'Burger Boy' Walker would make the scoff from then on in, especially after the Boss managed to burn the toast! Our first task set by the National Trust was to pull and push a cast iron barrow up 2000 feet of mountain, this was not funny and Sgt 'Greengrass' Jones (OC Ex) started to fear for his life as some of the group were becoming very irate. Eventually many hours later we were at the top. An achievement I think we were all very proud of, and being well trained Soldiers we made it off the hill in record time and began the long tedious task of replacing bodily fluids.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Please advise the Subscriptions Clerk at RHQ, IN WRITING, of any change of address.

THIS INFORMATION SHOULD NOT BE TELEPHONED

Days two and three consisted of building various types of walls, drainage ditches and generally making the lakes a nice place to visit, unless you were part of the Boss's team, Maj Andy Cameron, which consisted of Cpl Mark 'Wibble' Beasley, LCpl Kerr Laye and Sig Duggie 'Watersports Fanatic' Porter, who decided to dig a drainage ditch the width of the M4! Meanwhile on the other side of the mountain an elite team of trench diggers led by Sgt 'Northern Bloke' Lord ably assisted by LCpl 'Rah' Guthrie and Sig 'Maximum Bob' Roberts were making good their escape from the hill just in time for tea. The remainder of the Troop, Sgt 'Taff' Jones and Cpls Jenkins and Walker could be seen beavering away on drainage ditches and (lucky Blokes) positioning stepping stones through a particularly smelly patch of boggy ground. 'Old Burger Boy' Walker had assumed the mantle of Chief Construction Engineer for this group and is so proud of his achievements, his wife is going to receive a guided tour over the Easter Break (Lucky Lady!).

The fourth day was more digging, which we were becoming very accustomed to by now and some of us were getting quite good at it until our two Technicians decided it would be fun to throw wheelbarrows at each other. The day ended and we said our good-byes to the kind people of the National Trust and we then found ourselves returning to our more natural environment, namely being the local hostelries. The Exercise was a brilliant week away from the 'norm', although we can now appreciate what is meant by the song 'working on the Chain Gang'!

DANGER - Eco-Terrorists at Work

HEADQUARTERS 11 SIGNAL BRIGADE

After the build up to and the excitement of Christmas the Brigade Headquarters has lapsed into a period of relative calm as many make use of a maximum leave period. Calm though it appeared, a near disaster (not quite of San Andreas Fault proportions) made all think that half day working was to be the norm, when at 1530hrs on the 6 January a power black out switched off Donnington and Telford. There was disappointment all round when the backup lighting (candles) could not be diverted to drive the IT. There is no truth in the rumour that the SO3 CEC, Capt John Hiorns was seen trying this. While the activity has not been as newsworthy as in previous periods it would be a brave man who says it has been a quiet period; especially in this Headquarters! It would be fairer to say the routine continues at pace and great magnitude, and the expression, 'You want what, by when?' has taken on a new dimension.

FITNESS

As the new boy I have joined with enthusiasm (honest), the twice weekly physical training sessions. While the infirm, old or just plain grumpy (with apologies to Cpl Jackie Simpson) head for the delights of mechanical torture in the multi-gym, the racing snakes try to keep pace with the Brigade Commander, Brig Jonathan Cook, over distances of varying pain. Is it just my imagination or do runners always smile like that?

BUILD UP TO ANNUAL CAMP

Planning has already started for this years FTX, Ex Able Condor (UK). The round of planning weekends and Exercises in the build up to the Exercise started in January. The Chief of Staff, Maj Paul 'This will only take a few hours' Hudson, led the way with a short meeting that led to a late lunch followed by an even later tea. One of the results of the weekend was the production of the first edition of Maj Steve 'I'm a Loggie' Bellerby's time/action chart which is already large enough to paper the lounge and hallway of a modest size 'semi'; it's also more colourful than most wallpaper and of course less useful! Forward planning as always we have been directed to Scotland next month by the Commander who wants us to recce the Brigade FTX for training year 2001. Even though inexperienced in the ways of this Headquarters I detect that there is some reluctance amongst the Headquarters Staff to follow this directive, reluctance which I put down to the arduous winter conditions they all seem to be expecting. Well why else would they have already packed the skis, boots and ice axes!

HAIL AND FAREWELL

Maj Andy Cornish has arrived from RARO to take over as SO2 G1 MS (V), the post vacated by Maj Angus Maude last year. Also joining us on Full Time Reserve Service is Sgt Nigel Jones in the new post of Staff Assistant Projects. The more astute will be aware that for Sgt Jones this is only a change of employment not location. Maj David Sullivan eventually departed to 30 Sig Regt in mid-January and his replacement (or is it relief?) Maj Graham Addley is now firmly in place. The new fount of all knowledge claims he is free to take questions at any time! We wish him and his wife Claire all the best during their new tour.

TALES FROM THE OPS CR (ECHE) YPT - OR THE NEW BOYS PERSPECTIVE A REPORT FROM THE OPS STAFF

by Major Graham Addley

Having arrived in the Bde HQ in the second week of January 1999, I took with a pinch of salt the constant comments from all the staff (including the Commander) on how busy the HQ was and what long hours everybody worked. This couldn't be more hectic than Northern Ireland, could it? After all there were only a couple of Regular and a half dozen TA units to worry about! My hand-over week proved my preconceptions completely false and I now realise how very sheltered my existence in Northern Ireland had been from the incredible amount of work going on in mainland UK, dealing with ongoing operations world-wide, new equipment programmes, TRIT and SDR.

One of the outcomes of the SDR was the formation of the new Joint Rapid Reaction Force (JRRF). This Force, the first elements of which are to be formed by 1 April 1999, is to be commanded from a new, deployable HQ called the Joint Task Force Headquarters (JTFHQ). At the risk of stealing someone else's thunder, one of the Brigade's units (30 Sig Regt) will be responsible for the provision of all the CIS and Life Support for the JTFHQ. Although 30 Sig Regt has for a long time been responsible for world-wide strategic communications supporting various scales of deployment this will be the first time that the unit has been tasked to provide such a comprehensive infrastructure support as well as strategic links.

As part of the build-up to the readiness date of 1 April 1999 the CO 30 Sig Regt, Lt Col Mike Lithgow MBE, hosted a demonstration of a 'worst-case' Headquarters. JFHQ staff from Northwood, Commander 11 Sig Bde and other Brigade staff attended on Friday 15 January 1999, in weather which matched the worst case scenario. In a large hangar in Bramcote, the JTFHQ Squadron, commanded by Maj George Odling, had built a massive tented complex and laid out example communications and IS, according to initial JFHQ requirements. The demonstration showed clearly how far the Squadron had come in only a few months in meeting the headquarters' needs. However, they were also able to explain some of the real problems likely to face the unit should the JTFHQ be deployed.

At the end of the demonstration an outstanding curry lunch was served by the field kitchen which left the visitors in no doubt as to the abilities of the unit to provide real 'life support'!

GENERAL

The Brigade Headquarters is standing tall(er) and proud as the recent arrivals have pushed the average height to just over six feet. This is believed to be a sign of the good nurturing that occurs around here. It's a Corsham thing. The COS, Maj Paul Kelly, has been seen in another car (for regular readers) although this one has a fixed roof. Tels, Capt Dave Drinkall, the HQ action man is currently off skiing in Norway, honing those skills he mastered on his Christmas skiing trip. A great deal of work looms with the millennium issue drawing ever near. Heading the project from our end is Lt Col Malcolm Sinton, Controller, ACISG. The Brigade as a whole has a variety of equipment and resources that may be used in a grand master-plan for the millennium period. Time will tell. What hasn't been told is that he is posted as of 31 December 1999. Does he know something we don't?

BRIGADE STUDY PERIOD

The major event of the current period was the Brigade Study Period, the theme of which was 'Moving Forward - From Vision to Reality'. The aim was to ensure that all Officers of the Brigade would focus their minds on the year ahead and the more tangible business of translating high level Defence and Brigade plans into action on the ground. All of the Brigade's Officers are given a variety of lectures, presentations and time together to learn about their wider and closer environments. Well over 150 people attended the weekend, which was directly after the Christmas break. Once again, Longmoor was the setting where the adequate, and in some ways salubrious surroundings provided their own element of making the weekend a success. The bulk of the work party came from 39 Sig Regt (V) who helped the HQ staff with the setup, (many thanks should you read this), before the multitudes turned up on the Friday night to be swiftly processed before making their own way to luxury style accommodation. Saturday morning kicked off with a hearty breakfast before the first presentation; an update on British Army Doctrine.

Senior guest speakers included Brig John Griffin, Brig Bev Smalley, Brig Tony Verey, Col Paul Acda, Col John Ewbank and Col David McDowell. Once again the far reaching tendrils of the Brigade managed to attract another special guest speaker. The Deputy Commander, Col Steven Foakes, had invited none other than Jilly Cooper to speak. As part of wider education and general interest, she spoke on how she goes about researching and collecting information to write a novel. Most of us have told a few stories in our time with limited time to develop one properly, so this could have proven very useful in being able to concoct a really convincing tale. There were other presentations given by regimental representatives on issues directly affecting the Brigade and also on emergency planning, led by Lt Cdr Damian Belgonne.

There was considerable face time to be had during the evenings activities. The Master of Ceremonies and creator of all things devious for the evening was Maj Peter Williams. It would appear that the evening was rather successful and enjoyed by all. A few interesting photos have since been developed. The HQ staff really showed their sporting prowess in the boat race with a team largely made up from WOs. Not only was this shown in winning the event but also in their sporting behaviour by letting 39 Sig Regt win on a 'technicality'. Perhaps their embroidered version of events is recorded elsewhere within this issue. Anyway, anything for good morale. Next mornings BFT was welcomed by all. Few really pushed the boat out as there was a BFT to run the next day. Transport was not available as nobody had had the foresight to submit their AF756 on time. The pass rate was quite shocking with only minimal failure.

Longmoor is a rather old camp and being winter with bad weather there was likely to be a little bit of a problem. Although it can be argued that it happened at the best time (to provide a finale that nobody would forget) or at the worst time (as the SOinC began to deliver his encapsulating speech) the slight problem of electricity supply reared its unmistakable but invisible head. The whole camp was supplied by a dying and desperately surging power supply, which it would seem, was affecting the whole area. Without nature's own light source (no windows) Brig Griffin gave his words of wisdom with the aid of a maglight torch. At least there were no distractions to look at. Thus ended another extravaganza from the Brigade, done once again with panache, style, and a lot of smiles!

Happy Shiny People

TRAINING

The White Helmets

OC White Helmets Lt Col Jack Amberton
Team Capt Capt Gordon Newell
Team Sgt Sgt Don Brebner

The Team continues to train and will be involved in the opening shows of the season by the time this is published. The SOinC's Opening Show takes place on the 23 April, with the season then taking us all over the UK, Germany and Belgium. At the end of last year the selection course brought forth a number of new riders to the team. LCpl V-Mal Hildreth drag-raced himself into the limelight during training and his thoughts on the Team are carried below.

JOIN THE WHITE HELMETS

by LCpl Hildreth

After ten years in my trade I felt that I had pretty much seen and done most of the things that my trade had to offer. I needed a new challenge. Having known a couple of people who had been in the White Helmets I knew basically what they were about and had thought of trying for the Team earlier in my career. I still had things I wanted to do in my trade back then but now the time was right. The White Helmets provided the perfect opportunity to combine a favourite past-time (motorbike) with work and there was no doubt in my mind it would be challenging and rewarding. Also the opportunity to perform as part of such a highly regarded team in front of large crowds and on television had its appeal. I knew I would be living and working along side like minded people with similar interests and this I knew would help to make a great job even better. I had heard the selection course for the team was hard work and challenging but I was fit, could already ride a motorbike, and had a positive attitude going into the course.

THE SELECTION COURSE

Cpl John Strachen shows some Corps pride by performing the 'Double Jimmy' with the aid of an established Team member

The selection course itself was pretty much what I had expected but I don't think anything could have prepared me for the sense of achievement I felt at the end of each day. The first week was very physical with PT before breakfast each day, followed by a room and kit inspection after. The day then consisted of the Selection Course personnel loading the cross-country bikes onto the transport and a short journey to Bovington. Once at Bovington it was a long day of very challenging riding that progressively got even more challenging as the week went on. Even if I had not passed the course I would of come away from the first week with increased confidence on a motorbike and a sense of pride in my achievements.

The second week was very different from the first but no less challenging as we started to learn the tricks that have made the Team famous. I felt privileged to be allowed to ride the actual bikes that are used in the shows. If someone had told me at the beginning of the week that I would soon be riding around the arena stood on my head I may not have believed them, but sure enough there I was doing exactly that within a day or so of the second week starting. The instructors were excellent and very patient and within a short time we were all performing some pretty impressive looking tricks. The highlight of the week I think for most of the Course had to be the fire jump, it was so exciting that I hardly noticed the loss of facial hair. At the end of the Course we were all shattered, as everyone had put a lot of effort into a physically demanding course. Unfortunately not everyone passed the Course but most of those that failed vowed to return next year to give it another shot. Having had a small insight into the work the team does and seen what life on the team is like, I can't say I blame them.

A Selection Course member performs the famous 'Fruit Bat' trick

Now I am looking forward to my first season with the team. I have been made to feel very welcome and the accommodation is excellent. Serious training begins at RAF Sealand soon and it is then that those new to the Team will be integrated into the show and longer serving members try something new. Looking at the schedule we will be performing at a big variety of shows this season at home and abroad, from Small County shows to the Royal Tournament. I love to travel and there certainly won't be any shortage of that this year. To finish with I'd just like to say that if you are finding life a little dull, enjoy a challenge, and prefer working with a close knit and friendly crowd then look no further than The White Helmets.

SHILLINGSTONE SCHOOL

The Team also gets involved in other local projects. On Wednesday 10 February four members of the Team went to the Forum School in Shillingstone. The school, which deals with children with special needs, is doing a project on transport and wanted the team to let them see some of the bikes and a few tricks to encourage the children to draw some pictures for the project. It was a very frosty morning and a very slippery surface but turned out to be a very enjoyable day for the school and the four riders involved.

3 (HARROGATE) SQUADRON CHRISTMAS PARTY

On the 3 December 1998, 3 (Harrogate) Sqn enjoyed their annual Christmas Party in the Semaphore Arms. The usual merriment was enjoyed by Cadre and trainees alike producing some memorable moments as captured on camera.

11 SIGNAL REGIMENT DRILL COMPETITION 1998

by Sig Harrocks of 3 (Harrogate) Sqn, Ulster Tp

Exactly Two weeks before the event date (7 November 1998), 20 others and I volunteered to participate in the glory hunting event that is the annual Drill Competition. Two days before the dreaded event we were ready, almost. At knockoff on the Thursday someone in their infinite wisdom decided that we, the TEAM, needed extra personnel to compete. WO1 'You are getting better, but it still needs some work' Banner, threw a slight wobbly and started volunteering people out of the good of his heart, awful nice the way he does that.

With three new members on the team we started from scratch. The day finally arrived for the Competition. With broken hearts we watched the amazing performances of 1 Sqn and 2 Sqn then it was our turn. Off we went to our destiny, marching on with our heads held high and our arms swinging like two ton pendulums. I could have sworn that my collar was going to leave a permanent scar in my neck. 1 Sqn, the archenemies of the Technician world, looked like favourites to take the pole position. As it happened the positions were called out, 3rd 2 Sqn, 'Thank god we didn't come last,' was heard from one 3 Sqn team member. Second, 1 Sqn (slight pause while it sank in that we had actually won) then the cheers erupted. Grinning from ear to ear like Cheshire cats we left the square at the end of a nerve-wrecking day. After a short (yeah-right) speech from SSgt Richie Plummer, we left to celebrate in true 3 Sqn style! Happy days.

3 Squadron – 11 Signal Regiment Drill Competition

FAREWELL TO MAJ DAVE LUMB

October 1998 saw a turn around of the Squadron Commander with the loss of Maj David Lumb and the arrival of Maj Andy Duncan. After two years of dedicated leadership to 3 (Harrogate) Sqn, Maj Lumb leaves us to seek pastures new (revisited) on the sunny shores of Cyprus. Maj Lumb was overcome by emotion as he said farewell to 3 (Harrogate) Sqn, while WO2 (SSM) Eric Udell could hardly contain himself but managed a rare smile. The Squadron wishes you and Brenda all the best for the future and offers a warm welcome to Maj Andy and Claire Duncan.

OPERATION PALATINE – THE LAST LEG

On 20 January 1999, the Royal School of Signals (RSS) undertook the demobilisation of 54 TA/Reservists returning from Bosnia having served there for six months on Op Palatine. It was the fourth occasion that the RSS had conducted the processing of troops to and from Bosnia. As on all previous occasions, the work was done by the staff of 11 Sig Regt. Under the co-ordination of the Regimental 2IC, Maj P. A. Brown, WO2 (SQMS) Goudge for the initial processing met the returning soldiers at RAF Brize Norton. Once they had moved back to Blandford WO2 (RQMS) Fradley put them all through a dekitting and weapon cleaning programme and reunited them with whatever MFO was awaiting them. The Medical Centre Practice Manager, Sgt Birtwell, then picked up the baton and directed them past both Regimental doctors for the necessary final examinations. Once all fingers and toes were accounted for it was time to sign off and drive away in brand new hire cars arranged for their collection by the MT SNCO, SSgt Baxter.

Many of those returning from Bosnia had actually been mobilised in Blandford last July. As beautiful as the Camp is on a brisk January morning, it was of little surprise to see the soldiers' enthusiasm to depart. It is to the credit of 11 Sig Regt that all were smiling when they commenced the final leg of their journey home just six hours after arriving in Blandford. Bon Voyage.

MT NEWS

Looking through old copies of The Wire, it's fair to say that it has been a little while since the MT of 11 Sig Regt has put anything into The Wire so here goes. I would like to start by saying hello to Sig Griffiths, who has been posted in from 3 (UK) Div Bulford. The MT will also be welcoming three new lads that will be posted into the MT in the next couple of months which will hopefully make the work load a little lighter for the rest of us. The MT has been its usual busy hive of activity with LCpl Orr on the details-desk.

Juggling between his computer and the telephone which never seems to stop ringing, while Cpl Mick Stewart is running around trying to get all his green vehicles back in on time ready for inspections. The MT would like to wish Mick good luck on his forthcoming NCOs Course at Mil Trg Sqn. I am sure there won't be too many late nights. We would also like to congratulate LCpl 'Togs' Teague and his wife on their new baby girl Nina, who was born just before Christmas. We will shortly be losing SSgt Kev Baxter who will be leaving the Army, we would like to wish him and his family all the best in his new job and life in Civvy Street.

CROSS COUNTRY

It was just not her day. Sig McStravork had every intention of going to the Spar to buy a chocolate bar when she was diverted by the offer of a free packed lunch and an afternoon of fresh air. Minutes later the bus left Blandford, bound for Longmoor Camp and the venue of the 1999 Army Cross Country Championships. She was just one of six willing runners from Kohima Tp that ran for the Women's Team that day. The others, for the record, were SSgt Lindsey Manktelow, Sig Emma Flynn, Sig Helen Caplin and Sig Rachel Jacklin. The Team, complemented by Capt Sophie Davies of SORLS, ran their hearts out over the 3-mile Race. In a race where participation was more important than position, everyone was brilliant. Commiserations to Cpl Kendra Hughes and Sgt Sarah Strawn, stalwarts of the women's team, as neither were able to start the race.

Like the women, the men's team had won the 3 (UK) Division Championships to qualify for the Army finals. Unfortunately two key runners were missing, Sgt Stu Maughan who was ill, and WO1 (RSM) Laycock who was away shooting sheep at Sennybridge. Fortunately the entire team survived the traditional and very precarious cavalry charge, where 360 runners push and shove each other around the first field, that had been thoughtfully churned up for the occasion. The old dependables WO1 (YofS) Stu Little and Sgt Bho Pradhamwere up there with the first 60 leaders, along with Sgt Dave Clark who was taking a break from his Foreman of Signals Course. Well down the field, in what he describes as an essential sweeping role was the not so old Regimental 2IC, Maj Phil Brown (now a junior veteran). It was his task to encourage the four junior runners from the newly elected Kohima Tp men's running team. The six - mile course, comprising 5% firm flat paths, 5% impossible mud and 90% undulating sandy tracks, is enough to intimidate the most seasoned athlete. However, Sig Peter Tucker, Sig Glenn Gibbs, Sig Paul Romback and Sig Dan Snelling stuck to their tasks with determination and finished in style. It was certainly an afternoon to remember, or was it to forget, certainly Kohima Tp runs will never seem as bad again.

1 TRAINING SQUADRON
ROYAL SIGNALS ARMY TRAINING REGIMENT
BASSINGBOURN

OC Maj J. M. Norris
SSM WO2 (SSM) S. Slaney

ATR Bassingbourn is a mythical place. Those who have not served, or trained, here have many pre-conceptions. They are mostly inaccurate! More of the realities later, but suffice to say this is a challenging, rewarding environment and, yes, it is a good career move. Here at ATR Bassingbourn our six training teams of highly skilled instructors battle it out against the odds to deliver able bodied and willing recruits to Phase II at Blandford. However, we DO NOT deliver Field Standard. Phase 2 moves them from this intermediate level to that which you receive in the field Army.

For these last few months the theme has definitely been charity fund raising, more so than ever, with each Troop raising over £1000 for various charities. The Troops continue to organise charity events for each intake of recruits. Despite this, we find ourselves caught up in a whirlwind of sporting events that we manage to fit in to the hectic training schedule. All six Troops have been down to Tregantle Fort, Devon for Adventure Training. Activities include caving, climbing, canoeing, dry slope skiing and hill-walking. Alpha Tp even managed to fit in Go Karting! The Squadron also bids farewell to Maj Charlie Cooper as he briefly commands Wray Coy before heading to Australia! (Is this a precedent – I hope so – New OC). Maj John Norris has assumed command arriving hotfoot from HQ 3 (UK) Div.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT CMS(R)

Capt Fiona Hay

There are a number of misconceptions surrounding the Common Military Syllabus (Recruit), or CMS(R) in the field army. In an effort to allay fears over the standard of recruits being trained at ATR Bassingbourn, and to highlight a few facts about the training, here is a quick guide to CMS(R). ATR Bassingbourn trains all recruits for the Royal Corps of Signals. On arrival each recruit undergoes 'Week 0', when kit is issued and initial physical tests are undertaken. On successful completion of 'Week 0' the recruit will start CMS(R) - more of that later. Should a recruit be unable to pass the initial physical tests, they will be sent to the Army Foundation Scheme Company – known as AFS, where they will receive remedial PT. The tests include a jerry-can lift, lifting an ammo box, completing a 31 sit up beep test and a 1.5 mile run in under 12 min 15secs, which is squadded for the first 500 metres – making faster times harder. Recruits who lack confidence, maturity or the correct attitude to begin CMS(R) will also be sent to AFS at this stage to undergo training in 'Whiskey Troop', which involves a number of field exercises and packages designed to address character weaknesses. Recruits in AFS are reassessed every two weeks and sent to CMS(R) when they are ready to begin training.

Recruits meeting all the required standards begin CMS(R), which lasts for 11 weeks. Each Troop is trained by a training team consisting of a Tp Comd, Tp Sgt and four Tp Cpls, who are section commanders. Each Troop normally begins training with 48 recruits. At the end of CMS(R), recruits are able to do the following:

Pass an APWT (TS)
Complete TOETS
Pass an NBC attainment test
Pass a First Aid attainment test
Run 1.5 miles in 11min 45secs
Carry 2 full jerry cans for 90m
Lift an ammo box weighing 25kg
Carry out basic map reading
Pass MST
Complete a 6 mile Recruit CFT in 90 mins

In addition they will have spent a total of six nights in the field, living under normal field conditions. There is not a 'pink and fluffy' approach to training. It is demanding and testing while also being totally fair to each recruit, regardless of age, sex, race and religion. There is NOT a red stress card system and recruits are not in the NAAFI every night – most are lucky to spend more than one or two nights there during their time at Bassingbourn. In conclusion, there are a number of areas where recruits can be expected to be fully competent trained soldiers. However, on arrival at a field unit, they will not be fully trained and this has to be borne in mind by receiving units.

Finally . . . working in a training regiment is demanding but it is also rewarding and enjoyable. The syllabus offers physically active instructors ample opportunity to make their mark on tomorrow's soldiers. We encourage everybody interested in trying their hand at instructing or something challenging to get themselves here. The hours may be irregular but the job satisfaction is real!

ATR BASSINGBOURN GOES TO THE DIV CHAMPIONSHIPS

ATR Bassingbourn fielded a team of hardy skiers to compete in the 2 Div ski championships in Serre Chevalier. Ten members of the Regiment were finally chosen to make the long journey; six sweaties and four alpine racers. Unfortunately, due to the lack of snow (which was, in fact, non-existent) a two hour journey every day had to be undertaken to reach the nearest resort with snow. Alpe D'Huez became our new training ground for the week before the championships commenced. The races were hit and miss for the whole competition. Lack of snow caused the alpiners to have alpine starts every morning; 0530 reveille in order to complete the race before any holiday makers wanted to use the piste. So, no drinking for them …!

The Regiment managed to field excellent teams, winning the combined Alpine and Nordic award for 2 Div. Lt Kate Simmonds then went on to compete in the Army and inter-service championships in Valliore, France. She won the downhill race and came third overall in the combined event. Thanks must go to Echo Tp training team, who were working the recruits while she was away, and certainly let her know about it when she got back. (Cpl 'Mac' McIntyre thought it would be a good idea to fill the boss's bergan up with some extra weight before exercise!).

NEWS FROM ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Jamie Balfour
Tp Sgt Sgt Roy Turner

Alpha Tp have just moved a staggering 45 recruits on to Phase II training. In between fitting in numerous courses, they managed to raise over £1600 for the Elgin and Lossiemouth Arthritis Care charity. Many thanks go to the past recruits and their families for their money raising efforts. The Training Team have managed to get themselves away on numerous courses, much to the envy of the rest of the Squadron. An example is Sgt Roy Turner – having completed his Battlefield First Aid Trainer (BFAT) course, Mountain Leader Training since the last intake of recruits, and now trying to get on his Drill Course and Sergeant's Course! Cpls Mitchell, Revell, McBean and Smith have performing miracles with both the recruits and the troop lines, achieving a 90% pass rate with the recruits and a complete professional redecoration with the latter.

BRAVO TROOP SPONSORED CLIMB

Tp Comd — Lt Charlie Roberts
Tp Sgt — Sgt Paula Matheson

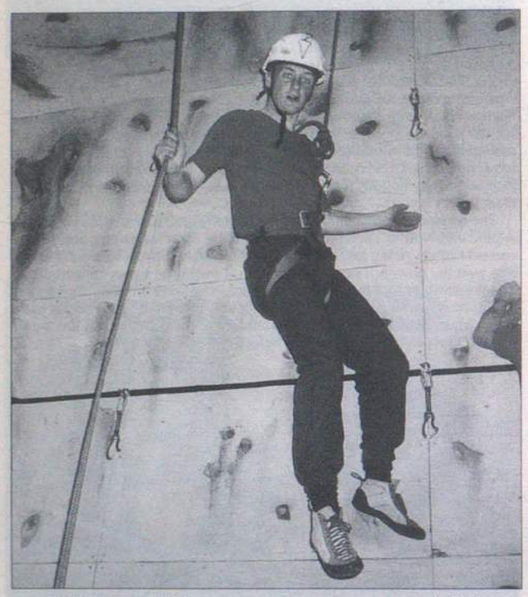
On the 24 November 1998 members of Bravo Tp, undertook a sponsored climb on behalf of the BBC Children in Need appeal. The event was organised and run by Cpl 'Richie' Richardson and aimed to climb the total height of Ben Nevis (4406 feet) on the indoor climbing wall at ATR Bassingbourn. The event was a great success and the total height was reached. Parents and relatives raised the money on behalf of the recruits and we were able present the BBC Children In Need Appeal with a cheque for the total sum of £544.00.

Since December and some very welcome Christmas leave the Troop has once again started training, this time with Royal Signals recruits rather than the RLC! The Troop Corporals have been keeping themselves busy and we are pleased to welcome Cpl McKenzie back from his short tour with the Regimental Discharge Section (running it, not leaving the Army). Cpl Percival R Anglian is fully integrated into the Corps now and is taking the opportunity to gain every qualification the Army has. The Troop hopes to see him soon so that he can train some recruits before he goes on his diving expedition to Belize. Cpl Richardson is also catching up on the qualifications and has got his head well and truly stuck in the PAMS on his SAA course. That leaves Cpl Young who is about to start on his own courses quest with MLT and Battlefield First Aid Trainer Course. In amongst all this Sgt Paula Matheson is keeping the ship running smoothly with occasional assistance from Lt Charlie Roberts when he isn't arranging his next sailing trip.



Pte Mooney RLC hangs around on the sponsored climb

NEWS FROM DELTA TROOP

Tp Comd — Lt Ivan Bates
Tp Sgt — Sgt Jason Smithurst

Since the previous Delta Tp contribution to The Wire, a good deal of change has taken place amongst the permanent staff. Firstly, the Cavalry representative, Lt Christopher Stanley-Smith has moved over to the School Leavers Scheme to help transform the youth of today into viable trainees for the field army. In his place arrived Lt Ivan Bates from 3 Bde HQ and Sig Sqn in Northern Ireland. Here he has found that the streets of ATR Bassingbourn are far more dangerous than the streets of South Armagh! Having completed recently their adventure training package near Plymouth in Devon, Delta Tp are now refreshed and are ready to develop their recruits with boundless enthusiasm.

FOXTROT TROOP FUNDRAISING AND ADVENTURE TRAINING

Tp Comd — Lt Simon Coeshott
Tp Sgt — Sgt Phil Graham

Foxtrot Tp managed to raise over £1100 for The National Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC) with their marathon abseil at Royston Fire Station. The recruits managed to abseil from the fire brigade training tower continuously for eight hours in bitterly cold conditions. Foxtrot Tp deployed on adventure training to Dartmoor training area and though the weather was disappointingly mild, the recruits all had a challenging time getting through the bogs that they seemed drawn to. The recruits particularly enjoyed the canoeing phase, where they braved icy Devon water through sheer enjoyment and prompting from the Training Team. Special mention must be made of Cpl Paul 'Diesel Power' Smith who attempted to run the (diesel) adventure training minibus on four-star petrol. A warm welcome must go to Sgt Phil Graham and Cpl Gavin Wilson, just posted in from the sunny field army, and a fond farewell to his predecessor Sgt Mick Aver who moves on to another training job with 6 Cadet Training Team. Enjoy those lie-ins!

263 (HARROGATE) SIGNAL SQUADRON ARMY APPRENTICES COLLEGE, ARBORFIELD

Sqn Comd — Maj Steven France
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Mick Senior

The Spring Term kicked off on 4 January with the new intake (99A), 86 in number, being received into Bradley and Penney Troops and inducted into the Army way of life. We said goodbye to Capt Carmel Winskill AGC(ETS) who handed over Bradley Tp to Lt (now Capt) Kelly Holloway AGC(ETS). Kelly is revisiting all her skills of Troop Commanding, having spent all her time after Sandhurst teaching in an Army Education Centre, whilst Carmel has decided to embark upon a law career in the near future, for which we wish her well. We also welcome Cpl Craig Woolass who joined us from 264 (SAS) Sig Sqn to work in the Gym as a PTI. We wish him a very successful tour at Arborfield. By the time this article gets published, our Apprentice Tradesmen (AT) of Intake 98C from Rawson and Scott Troops will be passing out of the College and eagerly waiting to get on their trade courses at the Royal School of Signals. Our slot in this edition of The Wire features news of their main activities.

EXERCISE SARAH SANDS 28 - 30 JANUARY 1999

by AT Hayes

Before the Exercise began we were nervous as having PT just before dinner and deployment was not what we would class as an ideal scenario. After dinner we formed up, cammed up and ready for war, wishing we had a B-Chit. When we arrived at our destination we had to 'tab' 2.5km to our location. It was at this time that tiredness sank in and we all wanted to go to bed. Arriving at our harbour location we started digging our shell scrapes and soon got tired of hearing 'Dig deeper' by our Troop staff. We were sure we were digging to reach Australia! We then split off into our section activities and for the next 18 hours we went on patrols, conducted OP's and practised harbour defence. This took us up to Friday tea-time. All Friday night we did stag and slept, dreaming of the 'final attack'. Saturday morning was worse than a hangover, in fact it was a disaster as we got attacked and everything went wrong. If things had been for real we would have been dead without a doubt! Even though Sgt Hodgskins shouted at as all, it took us about one hour to vacate our location, but by this time we were all in 'mong mode'.

We tabbed to our hasty harbour where we got our orders from Capt Cooper. At this stage we ate what we could from our 'tasty' ration packs. At approximately 1400hrs we headed for the final attack and the adrenalin was high, our hearts were pumping - in fact, we were lean mean fighting machines. In the attack we demolished the enemy and achieved our mission, the only problem being clearing out the casualties. We then tabbed back to our collection point which was a relief because the Exercise was more or less over.

We got our warm kit on, packed our bergens and headed back to Arborfield. In bed that night we snuggled up to our quilts, glad to be back, although we all enjoyed the exercise and had a real sense of achievement. Roll on the next Exercise, Ex Janner's Joy.

SCOTT TROOP

Tp Comd — Capt Tom Jeffries
Tp Sgt — Sgt Bruce 'Waggy' Wagstaff

During this senior term, when much of the curriculum is Education, Cpls Millington and Brotherston have admirably kept the troops licked into shape and road tested the Troop computer to its limits, whilst Sgt Wagstaff has been doing his square bashing (on the All Arms Advanced Drill Instructor Course) and Field Exercises (on his RSSC)! In the meantime news of activities to date are covered by the ATs below.

THE MARCH AND SHOOT COMPETITION – 15 DECEMBER 1998

by AT Harris

In the weeks prior to the big event, the staff of Scott Tp had shown great emphasis on their compelling need to win the competition, Cpl Millington treating it as a life and death situation and making out that the honour of the Troop was at stake. This gave our Troop the rapid rise in morale it needed and we began our preparations. Eventually the day arrived and seeing this as an opportunity to get in the good books of the Troop staff, we decided we would go all out to win the competition and show the RE, RLC and REME how it's supposed to be done. Before the event started there was an inspection by the OC of the Military Training Wing (MTW), Maj Don Jellard MBE D and D, of all our kit, down to the minute detail of having two ten-pence pieces taped to our note books. As usual we were on the ball.

The event itself started off with what the staff called 'a gentle stroll in the countryside'. This stroll, as far as I was concerned, was anything but gentle. Cpl Yates A and SH, our PTI, made sure of that, setting the pace. Capt Jeffries brought up the rear with Sgt Wagstaff and Cpls Brotherston, Millington, Lowe and Askin running up and down the Troop making sure we were all giving 110%. The tab took us over a couple of hills called the 'Sisters', whose name still gives us cause to miss a heart beat whenever they're mentioned. I'm not sure how many there were, but each time we got to the top of one, the staff kept saying there's just one more to go. As we ran the route several things then began to happen, such as Sgt Wagstaff went for a trip which sent him flying face first into the mud. Cpl Millington used his fitness to get us to the top of each hill using the 'grab onto my webbing and hold on tight' method. Cpl Brotherston, however, gave gentle encouragement as usual - YEAH RIGHT!

Then it was time for the shoot - lined up at the 200 metre point with our weapons loaded, waiting for the off. The signal was given and we sprinted down to the 100 metre point. Once there, we all made ready, took quick steady aim, controlled our breathing and the rounds then began to fly down the range to the plates. Remembering our detailed briefing from the staff, the outer people took the outer plates and worked in and the inner people took the inner plates and worked out. Of course we won, coming out of the competition with the glory and the honour we set out to gain. Now whenever the College doubt Scott Troop, 263 (H) Sig Sqn, we simply say 'March and Shoot'!

BASIC LEADERSHIP (BL) 16 - 17 DECEMBER 1998

by AT Lord

Picture the scene, you are stuck behind enemy lines having to learn new ways to survive with only what you are wearing and what resources you can find locally. Under the direction of Scott Tp permanent staff we were taught the basics of surviving in adverse weather conditions in the field without our bergens. This included how to humanely kill, pluck and gut a chicken under the careful supervision of Sgt Hodgskins. While cooking the chicken, we were wishing the RLC (chefs) were there.

AT Baines being put to the test on the Confidence Course

Other tasks included the High Wire confidence course where we all did our 'Elvis' impressions, shelter building and a 'stretcher' run that seemed to last forever with a very odd and particularly heavy stretcher. On our first night we completed a navigation exercise before retiring to our bashas. The woods looked as if they had been taken over by an anti-road demonstration group and we shivered the night away huddled around our small fires trying to keep warm. On the second day we were introduced to command tasks which everyone enjoyed. Although not all were completed successfully, the staff remained happy as we entertained them with our solutions.

AT Vickers on the cantilever during a Section Command Task

All of us learned a great deal from the Exercise, but were thankful when endex was called and at last it was time to depart on Christmas leave.

NEWS FROM NORTHERN IRELAND

XV HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN IRELAND & 15 SIGNAL REGIMENT

ECHO TROOP - 225 SIGNAL SQUADRON

In the deep dark recesses of HQNI & 15 Sig Regt, Echo Tp were nudged by the real world and told that it was Christmas. Amid cries of 'Humbug' were the occasional cheers of merriment from those fortunate enough to own a calendar. With no windows to the outside world, the only thing to give the fact that it was actually Christmas was the increased frequency of functions, promotions and postings.

First and foremost congratulations go to WO1 Dave Ruddock for his promotion and posting, a whole 20 metres, back to 321 EOD. Our congratulations also go to WO2 Paul 'PFG' Gardiner who has been promoted from the shop floor to the dizzy heights, and day shirking, of the Sqn OPSWO. Other promotions include Sgt Dave 'JR Heartley' Marrs and Sgt Sarah 'Dodgy Pegs' Matthews. It is heavily rumoured that the Troop has a 'new' OC masquerading under the name of Lt Nat Baker. He can be identified by his dodgy handshake and a fondness for George Michael. However, with the skiing season in full swim, there is more chance of meeting Lord Lucan riding Shergar around the quarter-deck of the Titanic.

The festive season has taken its usual toll on the Troop with many planned, and even more impromptu, functions arranged under the guise of celebrating the season of goodwill. The mandatory Phoenix Bar New Years Eve bash was once again a hit thanks to the meticulous planning of Cpl 'Pepsi' Mattacola and his wife Vicky. At the stroke of midnight 'Pepsi' cracked the traditional bottle of Champagne seeing how many people he could ricochet the cork off.

With the conclusion to the season of merriment our continued goodwill goes with Sgt Chris Ashworth who is off to the black hole known affectionately as JSSU Digby, and Cpl Aidy Russell who landed a plumb posting to HQ ARRC. Out with the old (in Aidy's case very old) and in with the new. Those being LCpls Helen Waites and Lisa Shaw from Digby, plus 'Baps', Woodhouse and Steve Price from 14 Sig Regt (EW). The manning situation continues to change as posting season hits hard and new faces arriving every week. The Troop spirit continues unabated and we still ask Q Gardiner's immortal question 'Where is my Aston Villa Pennant?'

VISIT OF LT GEN PIKE, GOC NORTHERN IRELAND

The new General Officer Command Northern Ireland, Lt Gen Sir Hew Pike KCB DSO MBE paid a visit to the Squadron on 16 December 1998 to see in detail the mission of the Squadron and how we supported his Troops on the ground. He visited both TM Tp and Romeo Tp and received in-depth briefs on their Troops specific roles within Northern Ireland, before presenting LS & GC Medals in the Officers' Mess Annex to various members of the Regiment including our very own WO2 (YofS) 'Russ' Darlington.

OFFICERS v SERGEANTS MESS ANNUAL RUGBY MATCH

Every year in the run up to Christmas and the beginning of the party season there has to appear somewhere on the calendar the date for the Annual Rugby match, between the Officers' Mess and the Sergeants' Mess, to sort the men from the boys. In previous years the Officers have taken a keen interest in leave passes being pushed around the Regiment before deciding the date, to ensure the maximum number of players available to play the Sergeants' Mess are on leave or unavailable. This year was different, the boot was on the other foot, the Adjt, Capt Guy Bennett had run off scared (although his impending marriage to Harry may have had something to do with it) and Capt Dave Worden arranged an early posting to Command Group to avoid the game, a little drastic me thinks. So on a cold and wet (we are in Northern Ireland, what do you expect) December day we prepared to do battle, the beer tent was up and once the Officers had warmed up their weary old bones, we drew a line in the sand and kicked off. Obviously the Sergeants' Mess had not warmed up sufficiently in the beer tent as the Officers scored and converted a try within seven minutes and shocked everyone, watching as well as the SNCO's team and the band of merry supporters (not influenced by the beer tent). The game continued at a furious pace, set by Capt 'Gig' Plumb the TOT and the Sergeants' Mess soon levelled the score, with a try created by the forward effort of WO2 (SSM) Dave Rook and Sgt Steve Legg. This was the turning point with the experience of WO2 (SSM) 'Doz' Day, WO2 (RQMS) Paul Downie leading the back line and the Old and Bold pack, the SNCO's began to come out on top. The 95 metre try scored by WO2 (SSM) Day and set up by Sgt Paul Cleghorn was the final nail in the coffin and the Sergeants' Mess ran out fairly confortable winners, revenge for the defeats in the two previous years games. WO2 (SSM) Day would like to thank Capt Jules Walster and WO1 Fiona Nelson for dressing up as cheerleaders and warming everyone up on this cold winters day.

ROMEO TROOP
NEWS FROM THE WORKSHOPS

Farewell's go out to Cpl Jayne Simmons and Cpl Si Butler, both of whom are off to do their upgrading. A welcome goes out to LCpl John Connolly. Congratulations to newly promoted Sgt Jones, and to Cpl Andy Dobson on his 'recent' engagement.

During December, we managed to fit in our fair share of Christmas parties, and a very merry time was had by all. At the Troop 'Christmas Do' there were some rather suspicious going's on. Cpl Bri McLean (Who was not present) winning seven of the prizes in the raffle 'MMMMMM'! He did happen to be the one selling the raffle tickets! A democratic conclusion was reached in his absence and being the generous guys that we are, decided that he could have ONE prize, and no more. Cpl 'Swanny' Swannick won the £160 cash prize, complete with IOU from the boss. He's still waiting!!

As we get into January Sgt 'Del' Trotter and Cpl 'Ickle' Davies, had to send for help in the form of a 4WD vehicle during a recent task, apparently they wouldn't be able to make their return through a heavy snow fall. Upon arrival of the said 4WD vehicle it was discovered that the two cowards had in fact been afraid of nothing more than a slight snow flurry, also due to the fact that they had been working inside hadn't noticed that there was NO SNOW. A posting is being organised for them both to 249 Sig Sqn to enable them to get some snow under their boots. We also had two very lucky vehicle owners in the section, Cpl 'Birdy' Bird and Cpl Pete Mulcahy who are not in the market for 'In Car' entertainment systems. Anyone selling a car stereo contact the Troop, any reasonable offer considered.

FROM THE OPERATIONS SECTION

After soldiering on with the minimum of manpower the cavalry has now arrived to the section in the form of Sgt Craig Brookshank and Cpl Dean Rudd. The baby boom has continued to flourish with Cpl Steve Simpson and his wife Tanya who are to be congratulated on the arrival of Emily. A good time was had by all at the Troop Christmas Function which was organised by Sgt Treff Davies assisted by two kitbags. Let it not be said that they couldn't organise a 'booze up in a brewery'. Sgt Brookshank would like to say a special seasonal thank you to the Sqn SSM, WO2 Day, for allowing him to do a Christmas Day Guard Commander duty after only 17 days in the unit. Needless to say the SSM is off Craig's Christmas card list for 1999.

SURV SURF

The Section said goodbye to Cpl Dave Thomas, who had one of the shortest leaving speeches in the history of the Troop. He either had a squeaky clean past or none of his friends were willing to dish the dirt. He now has ventured out into the big bad world and has become a human being, the Section wish him all the best in civvy street. The Section Christmas 'do' went off in fine spirits. Sgt Pete Reeve wiped the floor during the Ten Pin bowling, Cpl Andy Webb went into hiding after an impressive score of 34 showing the rest of us how not to do it. At the Troop function Sgt Ralph Johnson re-lived Saturday Night Fever and we have the photos to prove it. LCpl 'Wrighty' Wright has suddenly come into an unexpected windfall however the Troop OC recently paid out a ransom demand for his sports jacket taken during the evening, apparently the two incidents are not related.

COMMCEN TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt Walster
Troop SSgt	SSgt Jackson

There is a COMMCEN Troop at 15 Signal Regiment!!! Will be the cry I hear when The Wire is opened. Truth is we have been far too busy to even look at The Wire never mind get an entry into it, that is my story and I will be sticking to it. Well it has been a funny period for the Troop what with finding out that the Corps no longer requires the specialist trade of HANDBAG and juggling the person power (bit of Political Correctness for you there) about to man some shifts. So who has made a mistake over the last few months which is worthy of Corps wide humiliation, there have been too many to mention but one which is due a mention is the mouse in the COMMCEN incident.

Let met set the scene, a busy COMMCEN in NI (operational theatre) a number of night shift operators working very hard on the SKY TV cct. When a mouse on a covert recce mission blew its cover by moving from the fridge to the cupboard. Breaking the most basic of fieldcraft rules, movement. Like the coiled springs that they are, the operators dash for cover and send a Contact Report to the Troop Staffy who as you would expect was sleeping with one eye open. The slick call went something like this 'S S S S S Staffy, Th th th th there is a mouse in the COMMCEN'. As you can imagine a situation like this needs to be handled in a professional manner. 'Leave it to the morning, bye.' So when the Staffy arrives in the morning he finds the shift had drawn weapons and had been stagging through the night. I would like to finish this story but it would take a page on its own. No names have been mentioned to date as a court case is pending, the gripping conclusion will be found in next month's issue so do not miss it.

Now to the hello and goodbyes, recently we have said goodbye to Sammi Lee-Davis and Sarah Staff who have been posted on promotion to full Corporal and remained in Province. Sorry to all those goodbyes we have missed over the last few months but hope you are enjoying your new postings. The hellos are to Sigs Hannam, Pennock and Simpson who arrive straight from the School and have not spent enough time here to even get nicknames but no doubt they will appear in future Wires. One more thing, Happy New Year for 1999 from all members of COMMCEN Troop.

EXERCISE GLACIER FINN - CORPS SKI CAMP 1998

Within two days of leaving the decadence of Lisburn life the intrepid team from 15 Sig Regt endured more adversity than most Expeditions encounter throughout their whole period. There was a brush with an irate traffic policeman, an eight hour breakdown in the sub zero wasteland of Carlisle, unfriendly natives in a service station in Germany, erratic driving conditions and even more erratic drivers on the Austrian border . . . The list goes on and on. Despite almost every adversity possible hindering our progress, the weary team found its way to Zell-Am-See in a mere 52 hours, ready to join the Corps Ski Camp for three weeks and compete in the Corps Championship in the fourth week.

Led by the intrepid Lt Nat Baker it was the first time the Regiment had been represented at the Corps Camp and we began far from the top of the seeding list. After the first day of assessment we were split into rough ability groups which we stayed in for the duration of the training. As each day brought the competition closer the mood become more festive as the team gelled, with the Sunday morning McDonalds in bed becoming the highlight of some team members week. Cpl Tim Rigby threatened not to eat anymore McDonalds but after they foresaw bankruptcy they folded and gave him a bulk discount.

Our time in Austria coincided with a festival called Krampus which involves local farmers dressing as Demons from the mountains who come down to beat naughty children with wicker sticks. If you happen to be a tourist you are a prime target as SSgt Rob Allen found out. If confronted by one of the creatures the immediate action is not to shout,'Come on then,' because you will find yourself surrounded by another four of them and you will be black and blue after thirty seconds. Another option was taken by Cpl Marie McChesney who chose to dive through the nearest open door, lock it behind her and take photos of the marauding creatures. Cpl Sharon Lothian found that being blonde was hazardous to your health as it was a monster magnet but managed to hide behind everyone else so they got hit instead. Cpl Mat Quirke's personal mission to destroy his liver and bank account was thoroughly successful and he even managed to find time to be the most improved skier in the team and develop an allergic reaction to sweetcorn. Cpl Louise Phillips constantly astounded all the members of the team, not by her skiing but by the amount a girl of only four foot ten can eat.

As the first day of the competition was postponed due to three foot visibility the competition got underway on the second day when visibility had increased to six foot! Sgt Watkins began her own personal tradition as a permanent fixture as a start gate keeper, (a job given to those who finished in the last ten of the previous race). Her efforts were rewarded with the prize for the most utilised gatekeeper. Sgt Al Newman broke this trend with constant high placing throughout the competition narrowly missing out on the individual Slalom on the final leg and finishing fifth in the overall combined competition. Not bad for a man who hasn't raced for four years.

The Regiment did not leave empty handed as SSgt Allen romped away with the Combined Discipline Veterans prize amid tense and heavy competition. Cpl McChesney ran, or rather walked away, with the prize for the longest time to complete a course with a time of three days four hours and twenty three minutes. Although not the most successful team (with a few notable exceptions) all the team members gained a great deal from the Camp and had an excellent time. The Regiment will be attending again next year, only this time we will be a little better prepared and (we hope) better equipped. The Corps Ski Camp is an excellent opportunity for some productive training and is, above all, great fun!

The team and our saviours of Carlisle

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

– Welcome to WO1 (RSM) McGinley just arrived from 2 Sig Regt. Also welcome to Cpl Searles and his wife and family, as he arrives to take over as our VM. Farewell to WO1 (RSM) John Black as he hands over the mantle and prepares to resettle. Also to SSgt Mo Howarth and Cpl Johnson from the LAD as they both leave the Army. We hope to see Cpl Johnson again as a TA soldier in the near future.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to WO2 (YofS) Paul Rose and SSgt Dave Watson who were both selected for promotion in January.

SERVICE OF REMEMBRANCE

LCpl Lightfoot

On Thursday 14 January 1999, Lt Col (Retd) Terry Lightfoot, laid a stone in the Remembrance Garden at Palace Barracks, Holywood, in memory of his son LCpl Lightfoot, a member of 264 (SAS) Signal Squadron, killed in a helicopter crash in the Falklands in 1982. Lt Col Lightfoot and members of his family were joined by members of the Regiment at a Service to remember his son.

SUPPORT SQUADRON

Sqn Comd — Maj V. Beggs REME (V)
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Cook

The Squadron has had a very busy time since returning from Annual Camp in September. We dined out Maj Joe Haldane as OC and also welcomed our new OC, Maj Victor Beggs, formally the OC LAD, who has not wasted much time in outlining the future for the Squadron.

All the plans are laid for the Sqn Winter skiing training in the Scottish mountains. The exercise is once again the brain child of the SSM, WO2 George Cook, ably assisted by SSgt 'Ginge' Coburn and the SQMS, SSgt Ed Hedley. There are some 30 members of the Squadron who will be braving the winds of the Cairngorms and Lecht ski resorts near Aviemore. Many were first time skiers last year and hope to improve on what they achieved on Scottie Finn 1. The rest are listening to the war stories.

It has also been a hectic time for the caterers and mess management, firstly with all the festive functions and then the change over of RSM's. WO1 (RSM) John Black has handed the reins to WO1 (RSM) Chris McGinley, who is looking forward to serving in the land of his youth. There has been a Dinner night on every Friday since the turn of the year. SSgt Jim Hagan ensuring that every little detail has been covered, whilst SSgt Duncan Short and Sgt 'Spud' Murphy have produced some excellent meals with the help of Cpl 'Monty' Montgomery and Pte 'Salty' Jamieson.

We are also saying farewell to the CO, Lt Col Beacom, who is leaving the Regiment and returning to the Mainland. The Squadron formed up on HMS Caroline, permanently moored in Belfast Harbour on Sunday 31 January to have a farewell photograph.

We all wish Col Nigel and his wife Isobel and son Jack, all the best in the future and we will no doubt see them from time to time.

Not to be out done, the LAD has seen some changes over the last couple of months with several comings and goings. Having lost their OC to SHQ, sadly, they said farewell to Cpl 'Jono' Johnson, who is retiring from the Regular Army, but the good news is that he intends to enlist into the Regiment as a TA VM. We have also seen some promotions for Sgt's 'Daz' Dalzell, Davey McCardle and Pete Youll, who incidentally will be defending his 'Best Student' title on Ex Scottie Finn in February. Well done fella's. Congratulations go to SSgt Duncan Short and his wife Jeannie on the birth of their son Michael, who weighed in at 6lb 12ozs.

UPDATE

Castlemartin (Annual Camp) was a distant memory as the Squadron propelled itself towards the Christmas festivities and into the final New Year of this millennium.

Support Squadron's farewell to the CO

CONGRATULATIONS

The Squadron would like to pass on its best wishes to Sgt 'Izzy' Hill on her recent marriage – Good Luck for the future. Also congratulations on promotion to Capt Andy Woods, Sgt Tommy McCardle, Cpl's Davie Burgess, Anne Scates and Suzanne Small, LCpl's Glen Adams and 'Sandy' Reid.

ARRIVALS/DEPARTURES

All members of the Squadron would like to wish Capt Carl 'Gods on my side' Kinghan all the best of luck for his new appointment as PSAO, 85 Sig Sqn (and he'll need it). Welcome to Maj Ray 'It's only just begun' Kinkead on his arrival at Clonaver TA Centre from 85 Sqn, as joint PSAO for Sp Sqn and 66.

EXERCISE YORKIE BAR

This Exercise held over the weekend of 9-11 October 1998 saw nine members of the Squadron deploy to Castle Kennedy in Scotland. The aim of the Exercise was driver conversion for newly qualified drivers to green vehicles. Training was intense but varied and included trailer reversing, convoy drills, first parades, vehicle manoeuvring, camouflage, night driving and vehicle documentation. It proved to be a very worthwhile Exercise and was enjoyed by all who took part.

EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE 1998

This was the annual end of year deployment, designed to remind the Regiment of its comms role (and how to spell EUROMUX) before the Winter break. It changed format to become a local comms testing exercise. This involved the deployment of EAN 561 to Carrickfergus, with 562 remaining in Clonaver, with the OSC attached controlling the phases. With the preparation complete Sgt Darren 'The recce' Anthony deployed to Carrickfergus with EAN 561. The Troop OC, Lt Janette Ferry managed to escape the Exercise for a short period to partake in a photographic session with the Officers' Mess. It wasn't discovered until the Sunday that LCpl Andy 'the Tan' Colwell had got the sleeps confused with the camps sauna/solarium – Well done that man.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

The Christmas period came and went with much frivolity and merry making with the Squadron Annual Christmas meal again held in a restaurant nearby. This started some years ago as a few Radio Relay Ops and now some 30 people attend, and a special mention goes to SSgt Ian 'Where's your ticket' Wolfe for the organising. Again the Squadron got the vote for best Christmas disco for our effort on 18 December when we rocked the TA Centre before the stand down. A small mention must go to Crazy Sunday which passed by without any drama's and with all its normal craziness including the normal Seniors and Officers all chipping in to get drinks for the Junior ranks – the 50cl bottle of diet water nearly went round twice!!!

THE ARRIVAL OF 1999

The final New Year of this millennium passed without incident although the Squadron members of the Sgts Mess trod wearily through the month of January with a mess function on every Friday. The Burns Supper was again superbly organised by SSgt Stew 'Hoots Mon' Mullen the NRPS staffie, with guest appearances from Squadron members, the SPSI – SSgt Mark 'The Tartan' Barrass with the 'Immortal Memory' and SSM – WO2 Derek 'No tash' Irvine with 'The Sassenachs'.

LOOK FORWARD

The Squadron is currently working very hard, to prepare for its annual RSIT inspection, the first weekend in February. (Subsequently we received a good report). This is immediately followed by our annual long weekend skiing in Aviemore. The following months provide the build-up to annual camp in June.

69 Sqn farewell to the CO - 'The Giant's Causeway'

Welcome back to LCpl Anna Marie Cleminson who has spent the last year in Bosnia as an Information Ops Cell clerk in the Banja Luka Metal Factory.

On Armistice Sunday the Squadron provided the Cenotaph Guard in Limavady which consisted of WO2 (SSM) McKnight, Sgt's Colhoun, Gamble and Cpl's Palmer and Ritchie. Maj Brian Houston and WO2 Lyle laid a wreath in Limavady. Capt Lynch and Sgt Williamson also laid a wreath in Londonderry. In the afternoon 30 members of the Squadron along with members of 5 R IRISH, 1RWF and local youth organisations went to the church service. The Squadron also provided the escort for the Royal British Legion Colour Party, one Officer and eight other ranks. Two pipers from the Squadron also took part in Armistice Services, Pipe Maj Taylor in Limavady and Cfn Wilson in Newtownards.

The Squadron said farewell to SSgt Mo Howarth after over two years with the Squadron and over 15 in the Army as he heads off to civilian life. We all wish him well. We welcome Capt Neil Turnbull to the Squadron as Second in Command, and SSgt Harry Harrison from 1 Mech Bde.

EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE

The Squadron provided two RATT links and one voice link for 11 Sig Bde's Exercise. The remainder of the Squadron provided four RATT dets for the Regimental PACEX.

VISIT BY COMMANDER 107 (ULSTER) BRIGADE

Early December Brig O'Lone came to visit for the first time. Newly arrived in Province he was having a look around the real estate. He was given a brief on the Squadron's role in the Regiment and 11 Sig Bde by Maj Brian Houston after which he toured the Centre and saw trade training and recruit training in progress. The Brigadier had lunch with the Officers and SNCOs before leaving.

SQUADRON COMMS EXERCISE

In January the Squadron conducted its own Commex which mainly focused on antennas, antenna theory and propagation. The Exercise was a success and much was learnt by all involved. We also saw the last of our Series III Landrovers go and the issue of 10 FFR Defenders.

SQUADRON FOOTBALL

The Squadron Football Team finally played its second round tie of the Northern Ireland Football Cup with last year's winner C Coy 4/5 Rangers at the third attempt. Unfortunately the Squadron was defeated 6-0, better luck next time.

Sqn Comd — Maj C. R. Sutherland R Signals (V)
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Brotherston

The Squadron has had a busy period leading up to and going past Christmas. There is still much to be decided under SDR but one thing is certain the Squadron will move from Newtownards to its own TA Centre, the third in the Regiment, by Mid 1999.

The Remembrance Sunday Parade took place at the Cenotaph in Newtownards. We were given the opportunity to produce a Cenotaph Honour Guard, and the Royal British Legion Newtownards Branch were heard to say that it was the best Newtownards has seen. However, sadly this will be the last year we will be able to participate in Newtownards. The opportunity posed by the relocation of the Squadron is second to none and gives us access to a huge recruiting catchment. On the recruiting front we hope to recruit 30-40 from the disbanding unit whose centre we are taking over. As we prepare to move congratulations must go to Cpl Wilson with a baby daughter and LCpls McMillan/Robertson with a baby son.

ARMY ANGLING ASSOCIATION
BRITISH SHORE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Saturday 14 November 1998 saw the team assemble at Clonaver Park. They were LCpl Jim McFerran (organiser) and SSgt Gary Shaw, travelling via Liverpool followed by a 300 mile drive to Shorncliffe, to participate in the Championships. Some other members could not attend. Joining up with members from Antrim, 9 R IRISH (The Crazy Gang), Ballykelly RLC (The Quiet Man) and Lisburn RLC (Slop Jockeys), Area 6 Northern Ireland made up a formidable combination.

Day 1 and 2 - Fishing started early on Monday morning with a boat trip out to the Dover breakwater. Arriving on the breakwater after a climb up seaweed covered steps, all anglers took up their peg numbers and upon the signal horn fishing commenced in earnest. Species caught consisted of Cod, Pollack, Flounder, Plaice, Dover Sole, Poor Cod, Dab and Pouting, with a great many fish captured and released back to the sea. The day ended and all fish cards handed in to WO1 Jimmy King, Secretary of the AAA, all points recorded and results posted. On Day 2 the same species were captured and returned, Cod up to 9lbs weight and Pouting up to 1.5 lbs were taken. During both days the weather was very kind and remained sunny and warm throughout.

Day 3 - This consisted of presentations of prizes, unfortunately none for the Area 6 Team (except raffle prizes). However, during 1998 LCpl McFerran did capture a Haddock of 370gms from the shore to take the Army Shore Record. On the Wednesday morning the return trip was made to the Province. Preparations are now underway for 1999 when, once again, the Championships are being held at the Dover Breakwater. Hopefully more members will be able to attend. For the millennium year, the Area 6 group have offered to organise the Shore Championships here in Northern Ireland, under the direction of the Secretary, WO1 D. Moore, 9 R IRISH, LCpl McFerran and other members of the AAA.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
Tp Comd — 2Lt F. D. Guthrie
Tp Sgt — SSgt R. Wallace

Communications Section: 'The Senders' - Comms Section say farewell to Cpl Ted 'Fat Hands' Heath, who leaves us to take up the vacant position of ship's cat in Radex, Blandford. A warm welcome extends to Cpl Sarah Staff from Lisburn and LCpl Kerry 'Illusive' Davis who has joined us from 3 Div. 2Lt Forbes Guthrie straight from the Troop Commander's Course, and SSgt 'Call me Bob in the bar' Wallace from 14 Sig Regt (EW) are now firmly in the chair. For Comms Section, Christmas was a jolly affair with plenty of parties being attended and beer quaffed. We now are all looking forward to the coming year; perhaps SSgt Bob Wallace and Sgt Sam Parke will make guest appearances as Troop Seniors, and help lower 2Lt Guthrie's blood pressure. The Troop is looking forward to lots of recreational trips, adventure training and sport, all the while ensuring that the Brigade's TAOR is suitably supplied with communications support.

Congratulations go out to LCpl Krissy Strain, LCpl Nelly Nelson, and of course LCpl 'Moggsy,' Morris from TM Section, on their recent promotions.

Technical Maintenance Section: 'The Menders' - Over the Festive period, congratulations and thanks must surely go out to Mrs Elaine Baker and the local industrial cleaning company for what must have been the clean up operation of the century. Next time she will know better than to invite all remaining members of TM Section for Christmas Dinner. A special mention must go out to LCpl 'Dogsy,' Barker, who was allegedly seen wearing ladies underwear and holding a badger on several occasions during Yuletide season; typical 216 warrior.

Before returning from a deployment, Cpl Dean 'Colin McCrae' Morgan and Sig 'Iz' Stainer decided to simulate the Camel trophy in their Landrover Discovery. However, they were to find that Landrovers are not as good 'off the road' as they had thought, especially on Saturdays. One phone call and an hour later, Sig Carl 'Schumacher' Stewart and Cpl 'Billy' Bremner turned up to demonstrate the towing capabilities of the Isuzu Trooper. Final score Landrover 0 - Isuzu 1.

LCpl 'Shippy' Ship has gone to start his Class 1 course, before being posted to 39 Bde (we think) and picking up his second on the way. Cpl 'Brummie' Baker and LCpl 'Dogsy' Barker are soon to leave for the sunny skies of Blandford for their retrade to EDs. Cpl Tony 'Mad Dog' Raby is going back home to 19 Mech Bde and Sig Carl 'Schumacher' Stewart is leaving for a life at AFCENT and getting his first 'banana' into the bargain. Finally, congratulations go out to Cpl 'Tosh' Pope on his timely EFP threshold pass and EFP 1.

3 INFANTRY BRIGADE MARCH AND SHOOT COMPETITION

The Brigade held a March and Shoot competition in January for all units, major and minor, within its TAOR. 3 Inf Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (203) entered a twelve man team to compete against teams from the likes of 2 Para and 42 Commando. The competition started with an eight mile tab, followed by a spot of assault course antics, and finished off with a falling plates shoot. All in a day's work for a lowly Syscon worker, I thought. Once the competition was under way, SSgt 'Light speed' Lothain was determined to do well. However, some of the other members of the team had a different idea. After a short spell walking, things got back to a normal pace and before we knew it we were at the assault course. The assault course was a blur, the fatigue (not to mention all those bacon butties we had eaten in Sands' Restaurant) ensured that we were extremely glad to see the finish line.

The shoot demonstrated what we had previously feared, Iron Sights are definitely not as good as SUSATs when it comes to falling plate competitions (at least that is our story and we are sticking to it). Needless to say we did not leave with a trophy, but we did have a moral victory over one of the 42 Commando teams, who came in behind us. The Team comprised:

SSgt Lothain	LCpl Ashton
Sgt Parke	LCpl Barker
Cpl Baker	LCpl Humphries
Cpl Carlton	LCpl Pearce
Cpl Gaddas	Sig Frost
Cpl Webster	Pte Ridgeway

MERCURY CUP
by Sgt Mills

The order came through; it was the last event in the Mercury Cup. Even though we didn't have a chance of winning the overall cup, we thought we should try and do well in the last event. The event was advertised and the volunteers come flooding in (not). We eventually got a team together, and looked into training. 'How many weeks have we got before the event?' was the question, the answer was a bit of a surprise, 'Three days.' Oh well! 'What does the event consist of?' was the next question, again the answer back was almost as good as the first 'No idea!'

The day of the event arrived and the team set off at 0400hrs (what no sleep) to arrive at the competition location for 0630hrs, at least we were the first there! The first event organised, by SSgt Laffey, was a first aid stand and very realistic it was too, with legs, blood and guts all over the place. The team mucked in and we ended up doing well in this event. The next stand was a pistol shoot with a difference, firing from cars. This brought home to us the difficulty of this type of shooting as we didn't hit the target too often, but it was a good shoot and well run. After two events, we were third. The next event was the clay pigeon shoot, another well-organised range. All the team scored apart from Sgt 'Pete' Mills who was thought to be a member of the clay pigeon liberation front. After lunch came the kit check, and with points lost for empty oil bottles (which had leaked out on the transport down, honest), we headed to the assault course. After a quick stretch-off by PTI Andy Richards we were ready. 'GO' was the order to start the first obstacle, a wall, (not a problem) second was the water jump (huh). We were in turbo mode. Next came a few monkey bars, a six foot wall flattened, then the problem of THE DREADED ROPE CLIMB. We actually finished the course in the fastest time but picked up 20mins penalty points on the rope (honest RSM Sir it wasn't just Sgt Mills that couldn't get up it).

The final event was a baton gun shoot. Unfortunately none of us had ever fired it before. We were given shields, baton guns and helmets and off we went. 'Advance' was the order, and we advanced. Unfortunately so did the civilian population, straight into us. At this stage all that could be heard was Cpl 'Rambo' Ruscoe, who had hurt his hand sliding down the dreaded rope, saying, 'If that +I/- jumps onto my shield once more he's going to get it.' At this LCpl Andy Richards and Sig Karl Stephenson received a hit from a twenty stone monster and fell over. The end of the day arrived and the prizes were given out, unfortunately no prizes to 8 Inf Bde & Sig Sqn, but now we've lured you all into a false sense of security. You had better watch out for next year! (We are already training to climb ropes!).

Finally, this month was particularly sad as two members of the Troop left us. Sgt 'Have you heard the joke about the strawberry?' Bentley on his posting to 604 Signal Troop, Aldershot and LCpl 'Spotter' Stanford on his return to civvy street. We all wish them well for the future.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS
Tp Comd — SSgt J. Hughes

Over recent months there have been many comings and goings within SHQ. We say farewell to Maj Perry and family and wish them the best of luck on their return to civvy street. Best wishes also to WO1 (RSM) Fisher and family who go off to sunny climes in Blandford and also farewell to WO2 (FofS) Court off to 'I'm not really going to watch the baggies' 30 Sig Regt. Cpl Lewis travels just down the road to Hollywood and LCpl Kennford goes on promotion back home to mum's cooking in sunny Kent. Congratulations to Pte Smith, selected for promotion to LCpl and posted to 7 RHA.

Now the hellos, firstly welcome to Maj Thackray and family who join the Squadron from Hohne. Congratulations to WO1 (RSM) Higgins who joins us on promotion from his previous appointment as RQMS within the unit. Welcome also to WO2 (FofS) Brown and SSgt Redman who join the merry band in the Ops/Plans world. Welcome to Cpl Goldsmith, LCpl Banyard and their families and to Pte Cumming who joins us straight from AGC Depot. Finally we say a sad farewell to Maj 'Percy' Broad and his wife Ivy, who retire after 35 years of service, the last five of which he has served with us. We wish you both well and best of luck on your move to SSO post at Ballykelly. You will certainly be missed.

RLC MILITARY SKILLS COMPETITION
by Pte Street

We drove down to the port playing cards and had a few sociables before embarking. Once on the ferry we ditched the bus and headed straight for the bar and we didn't see our cabins until closing time. We arrived on the mainland tired but ready to go. We headed for the first MacDonalds for 'breccy' as they say around those parts. After the long drive to Aldershot we kicked out the mice and took over the accommodation. We gathered some bedding, ironed our civvy wear and decided to find out what the night (and afternoon) life, in Aldershot was like. We had a good night in Aldershot and set off early on Saturday morning for Deepcut, where we booked in our team.

We started the 10 miler and found the first four miles the hardest, the first checkpoint didn't come quickly enough. After two more checkpoints and another six miles we eventually completed the march. We were all really pleased to have finished but then we realised that we had an assault course and shoot to do. The assault course would have been tough but was made even worse after the ten mile march. The first obstacle, the wall, burst everyone's blisters when they landed. We finished the course in good time and made our way to the range for the shoot, which consisted of shooting six falling plates. We had ten rounds each and thought that would be enough, but we only managed to hit four. We finished 36 out of 72 but all in all it was a pretty good result and we all had a good day.

ROYAL SIGNALS CORPS 6'S FOOTBALL COMPETITION BLANDFORD
by Pte Collins

Our journey to the mainland turned out to be probably the worst flight any of us had ever been on and it was not helped by Cpl 'Kev' Cooney playing hide and seek with everybody's baggage receipts. Further problems arose when Sig 'Geordie' Harrison decided to take 40mins to sign for his super pad-mobile hire car, we all thought was a nice slow family people carrier, but obviously 'Geordie' knew differently. We set off on our journey to Weymouth at the pace of a thousand gazelles on Speed. On arrival in Weymouth we booked into our 'bomb shelter' accommodation and departed on a sight seeing tour of the local watering holes. We returned to the accommodation that in polar bear terms was a little bit chilly. The few of us who had brought quilts and sleeping bags had the chance to have a laugh at the RSM who was determined to wear everything he had brought with him including one of the designer curtains fresh off the rail.

Squadron Football Team

The next morning was the start of the football and to our dismay we were drawn for the main competition against the favourites, 3 UK Div. It was a hard fought game in which we missed a couple of chances to take the lead. The misses of the day have to go to Pte 'Moff' Moffat and another by Pte 'Steve' Collins. We eventually lost the game by a single goal, but were told by most people at the end of the day that as a squadron we did ourselves no harm at all and gave them their hardest game. Unfortunately we failed to qualify for the next round of the main competition so we went into the Plate. We thrashed the pants off the opposition in the early rounds and qualified for the final. Our opposition was ATR Bassingbourn, who had cruised quietly into the final so we knew very little about them. The match was fairly even, we took an early 2-0 lead; LCpl 'Andy' Richards scoring the first and LCpl 'Jase' Catchpole scoring the second. By half time ATR had pulled a goal back. The second half started with us holding the ball well despite the horrible wind. ATR then equalized due to a goal keeping error by Cpl 'Dave' Rabbage. LCpl 'Jase' Catchpole scored a second, (a half way line effort that was luck to say the least) to put us in a comfortable, if not a winning, position. However, due to a couple of refereeing decisions and another disastrous goal-keeping we lost the game 4-3 in the last seconds.

Despite the disappointment of losing we left Blandford in high spirits looking forward to a night drowning our sorrows and listening to our very own Elvis and our even better Marty Pellow alias Sig 'Geordie' Harrison and LCpl 'Andy' Richards. We returned to Londonderry with empty wallets, but had a brilliant couple of days in which our standard of football had impressed a few people, including ourselves.

The advance party departed which consisted of Cpl 'Dave' Rabbage, Cpl 'Dan' Benson, Pte 'Steve' Collins and Sig 'Ian' Billings and headed to HMS Gannet in Ayrshire. The next day we drove off to Irvine to collect the six Motorbikes on loan to us from 251 Tp RLC. The main body that consisted of Cpl 'Steve' Birch, LCpl 'Rob' Cruickshank, LCpl 'Dave' Wardle, LCpl 'Jase' Harris and Sig 'Kelly' McCulloch arrived at HMS Gannet in the early evening. The week of training went well with everyone getting a pass except for Sig Kelly McCulloch who stayed on for extra training. Friday saw the departure of Week 1 students and the arrival of Week 2 students who were Sgt Steve 'Wheelie' Pattenden, LCpl Maria 'Scary Spice' McDonagh, LCpl 'Your Getting' Stojanovic, LCpl 'Claude' Green and Sig 'Where's my teddy?' Palmer. The second week on Cat B, LCpl ''Rob' Cruickshank instructed Sig 'Kelly' McCulloch, LCpl 'Maria' McDonagh and Leslie Morris a Wren from HMS Garnet. Cat A students for the second week were Sgt 'Steve' Pattenden, LCpl 'Claude' Green, Cpl 'Eddie' Stojanovic and Sig 'Roy' Palmer. All students passed the Cat A test. Unfortunately there were a couple of failures on Cat B, LCpl 'Maria' McDonagh and Sig 'Kelly' McCulloch. The week nearly ended in disaster when LCpl 'Maria' McDonagh put the car in to the camp sick bay. Our thanks go to the 3 DDE's, WO2 Tom Hair, WO2 Tom Scollen and SSgt Danny Ferguson for carrying out the testing.

WELL HELLO AGAIN

by Sig Dawson

So here I am, six months of service with 8 Inf Bde HQ & Sig Sqn and what is there to say? It has been an interesting change from normal Brigade HQ as there is not one 436 in sight, (but I am not complaining about that at all). When I first arrived, the Cougar Net was a little bit of a nightmare but after a few very long nightshifts, a lot of instruction from my shift supervisor, Cpl 'SUSAT' Benson, Sig 'Did you know I was in EOD?' Herd, and not forgetting Cpl Marrit, it soon became as clear as mud!

THE BRIGADE COMMANDER'S VISIT TO THE SQUADRON

by LCpl Healy and Sig Prigmore

On Tuesday 19 January Brig P. E. O'R. B. Davidson-Houston OBE came to visit 218 Sig Sqn. LCpl Dave Healy and Sig Gav Prigmore were tasked with giving him a practical demonstration on the joys of antenna rigging. The Brigadier and the OC Sqn were given a brief about what was involved in rigging, and in particular the safety aspects. While the Brigadier was being suited up Maj Thackray zipped (sort of) to the top of the mast, soon followed at a more sedate pace by the Brigadier. When they reached the top of the mast the OC pointed out the sites of beautiful Derry to the Brigadier. On returning to solid ground the Brigadier mentioned how cold his hands were, at which point LCpl Healy realised that he had forgotten to give him his gloves. The Brigadier then continued on his visit, blowing on his hands to warm them up, and LCpl Healy was persuaded to get a crate in.

FOOTBALL CLUB - THE SEASON SO FAR

by LCpl Andy Richards

The first game versus SNONI had a few highs and lows. Firstly the lows. We had six first team players missing and managed to lose 5 - 1, despite being 1 - 0 up (courtesy of Cpl Jasper Marritt) and the opposition having a man sent off! The high points were that we actually managed to score with both our strikers missing and the OC Sqn being booked within two minutes of coming on as a sub!

The next game versus 8 BPU was a bit better, despite the team being without its inspirational leader WO1 (RSM) Higgins. With our flashy strip on (see attached photo) we won 4 - 1, with goals from LCpl Andy 'Skips' Richards (2), Pte Stevie 'I'll pay for the end of the season party myself' Collins and Sig Geordie 'Oh no you won't' Harrison. The only bad note was Cpl Kev 'Give us your tickets' Cooney having a nose bleed when he forgot which sport he was playing and rugby tackled the opposition by mistake. This resulted in a scored penalty for them and the 'Donkey of the match award' for Cpl Cooney! We lost the next two matches, 1 League and 1 Cup. However, we decided to stay in the one cup that we are least likely to win, the NI Challenge Cup. We do like challenges.

To finish off, I don't think that any of us will be gracing Hampden or Wembley in the near future. However, one thing is certain, with Pte Collins and Sig Harrison around, no one else need contribute any money for the end of season function. Life is never dull around 8 Bde HQ & Sig Sqn FC and so as they say 'bring on Man Utd.'

EXERCISE KESWICK RUNNER II 17-22 JANUARY 1999

by Sig Oliver and Sig Stevenson

Ex Keswick Runner was a week of cross country running held in the Lake District. It is the second time that the exercise has been run and was organised by Maj Wood and Capt Turnbull (who may I say has a lovely collection of pink running kit).

We arrived on the Sunday ready for a week of hard work, we had no idea of what hard work was until now!! Both Maj Wood and Capt Turnbull briefed us on the week ahead and everyone was happy and raring to go. Our first session was a time trial that was just over two kilometres and was described as 'It is not a race! It is simply to decide which ability group you are suited for'. Everyone then kitted up and did a lap of the course as a quick warm up. It was emphasised again that it was not a race, but as soon as we heard the command 'GO' the race began. What seemed like hours later we finished and were allocated to our groups.

As for the rest of the week there was a light training session in the morning and a hill or a fartlec session in the afternoon. Although the morning session was light you certainly worked up a sweat, and as for the afternoon session you soon found out why the morning sessions were only described as light. Midweek we entered a cross country race at Catterick, the course was not so much cross country but more like motor cross in my opinion. By the end of the week legs were aching, feet were sore, and people were generally tired. The thought of coming back to NI did not seem so bad. Above all, the week was a great success and thoroughly enjoyable. I would recommend it to anyone who is a keen runner or interested in starting the wonderful sport.

EXERCISE RICHMOND CHALLENGE

The Squadron departed on the first phase of Ex Richmond Challenge. This is now to be the Squadron's annual ATD camp, which involves all of the ATDs with a few little cheeky bits added to make it all the more enjoyable! Cpl 'Its my train set' Marrit and myself, armed with a GPS, 349, map and compass not forgetting a damn good sense of humour set out on the Night Navigation. We eventually arrived at our first checkpoint, and this is where the fun really started. We tried to radio in our position and to receive our next grid, but to our surprise we were out of range so we decided to start walking back towards the camp. We eventually got Comms to the safety wagon, but only after about a one and a half kilometre walk. Eventually we received our next grid that was in the same direction we had come from. So instead of heading back down the same road, we had earlier seen LCpl 'Holly' Glen and Pte 'Richie' Street heading to the checkpoint we had just been given so we decided to wait for them then we could get the relevant information from them.

First Aid Stand

By this time we had met up with another three teams with similar Comms problems. Shortly after this 'End Ex' was called so we all went back to camp to get ready for the next day's fun filled agenda.

The next morning kicked off with a PT session on the logs, taken by LCpl 'Lets waste'em' Baxter and Sig 'Lets play football' Palmer. It lasted for an hour and it was very painful, especially after doing a CFT the day before. We continued with some solid military training in the classroom and ended the day with Padre's hour. We returned to the Waterside Bar, where at 1930hrs the proper training began.

ENGINEERING SECTION

by Sig Prigmore

OC — SSgt Evans

A sad farewell to our now civvy comrades LCpl 'stomach' Stamford and Sig 'bouffant' Setchfield. We all wish them the best in their new found careers. The new arrivals to the section are Cpl Paul Hounsell and LCpl Gaz Welch from 7 Sig Regt. Also from 7 Sig Regt, flying in via sunny Colchester, Sig 'my God he's short' Dacey. I'm sure they will be a big asset to the section. We also have new meat from Blandford, lets give a big hug to Sig Dave King. Sig 'Ollie' Oliver and Sig Rob Passey.

OPERATOR SECTION

by LCpl Carr

OC — SSgt Laffey

The last couple of months have been fairly busy for the section. Over the Christmas and New Year period the number of people around fell by about half to allow everyone to get away for some much needed leave. December began with the Squadron Christmas function at the usual venue as well as the Squadron Wives' Club Christmas Party. The Section also had a particularly busy period on 12 December for the Lundy Parade in the city, with LCpl Andy Carr and LCpl 'Bertie' Baxter deployed out to work with the RUC. With the return of all the Squadron personnel after the New Year we had promotion drinks for Sig 'Fun Bobby' Dowson, Sig 'Eyebrow' Wood and Sig Andy Herd. The section is also saying goodbye to SSgt John Laffey off to ACIO Norwich, Cpl Andrea Mills off to CENTAC, Cpl 'Tellytubbie' Marritt returning to 21 Sig Regt and his family and Cpl 'Scary Spice' McDonagh off to 15 Sig Regt.

The section also welcomes LCpl Matt Thomas from 14 Sig Regt, Sig 'Sid' Sidorowicz straight from the factory and Cpl Gaz Moore from 19 Bde. The Squadron is now in the preparation phase for the 'Bloody Sunday' parade in Londonderry which is at the end of January.

QM'S DEPARTMENT

by WO2 (RQMS) Kev Tunstall

RQMS — WO2 (RQMS) Kev Tunstall

Farewell to Sgt Mark Chivers on his posting to 7 Sigs, good luck 7 Sigs, his replacement is due on the 12th of never. Congratulations to Cpl Jase Steen RLC on his recent promotion, we still have not seen the drinks! Congratulations also go to Cpl Mike Harvey who has just passed his selection course for a change of trade to photographer. There was meant to be a photograph to accompany this entry to The Wire but when Mike went to have it processed it did not come out, enough said!

The new RQMS, Kev Tunstall, is now in the chair. He was originally on his way to sunny Belgium from Cyprus, however on his last day in Cyprus he was asked if he wouldn't mind making his way to Londonderry instead. Of course he was only too delighted, who wouldn't be with the money he is on. It can't be true that he is trying to get out of Londonderry already, unless it is for more money.

Now down to the nitty gritty. Sgt Mark Chivers is on the lookout for a couple of pairs of binoculars, he says that he needs them for bird watching but we think that he needs them to cover his exercise losses! He must think that everyone here is like himself, 10 coupons short of a pop up toaster!

MT TROOP

by LCpl Howarth

Tp Comd — WO2 (MTWO) Hair RLC

Tp Sgt — Sgt Stanley RLC

The Troop would like to mention LCpl Stu Palmer who made the colossal journey over the Sperrins from Lisburn to Londonderry, LCpl 'Mac' McCall from 24 Airmobile in Chester, Pte Kev Foster from Support Battalion HQ ARRC and Sig Phillip Bloxham from Blandford. Farewell to Cpl Dan Benson, LCpl Rob Cruickshank and Pte 'Muff' Moffat who are all off to join 1 UK CIV DIV. Also good luck to Sig Palmer who is leaving sunny Londonderry to go to sunny JSSU Falklands Islands on promotion.

Christmas, as expected, was a very busy time for MT with the Brigade personnel shooting off left right and centre. Escaping on leave, usually at the most unsociable of hours, these trips sometimes involved the treacherous journey over the Glenshane pass. Sheets of ice and squaddies do not normally mix well, but with exceptional driving skills (or just sheer luck) everyone managed to reach their freedom bids on time with the unfortunate exception of Pte 'Mo' Morris.

There was the obligatory JNCO's Versus Officers and SNCO's football match that the juniors narrowly won 8 - 3. This was despite the six goals the juniors had disallowed. The grown-ups' goals were all of a dubious nature. The first was a penalty awarded for the OC's monstrous dive from outside the box and onto the penalty spot. Then a second dubious penalty that the OC took. Cpl Dave Rabbage saved the shot but unfortunately for him the ref said that he had moved before the kick and so it had to be retaken. This time the OC managed to find the back of the net. It seems that the ref's CR must be due. The other goal was awarded to the Yeoman after the RQMS nearly broke the cross bar with his thunderous shot from the half way line leaving the Yeoman with a simple tap in for the goal.

The rest of the Christmas period went quietly until Boxing Day evening when the MTWO and Tp Sgt were rudely interrupted from their evening refreshments (a sociable gathering we were told) by the news that the biggest tree in the world had fallen onto their precious fleet of cars. Result, two cars and a minibus written off, OOPS!! It took the pioneers 15 days to chop the tree up. The Brigade Officers now no longer need to buy firewood to keep warm during the winter. Therefore, all you officers who received the logs can we have the moneys due, paid in by 1 February 2000!

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT
by LCpl McGuinness

The Department would firstly like to congratulate our illustrious leader WO2 (RQMS) 'Brummie' Lawes on his promotion to WO1, also to Pte Steve Binney on his promotion to LCpl. The Department finally received its well earned sports afternoon and even though it was Christmas Day it was well appreciated. We also got a pre-Christmas treat with Cpl 'Just over the hill' Selby who treated the Department to a small trek around the Mourne Mountains, in which Sgt 'Get off me!!' Hyland and Sig 'Come here sarge while I push you off a cliff' Edwards enjoyed the day immensely. The Department now looks forward to a hectic next few months with the unit PRE Battle Camp and Province Cadre Courses all on the agenda.

ROVER GROUP

The Rover Group has changed in many ways in the last few weeks with the deployment of various assets to other departments within the Squadron, but only if we have the available manning. The RLC contingent now also work in the MT and Training Wing when not on Group taskings. The Group Rad Ops meanwhile had to cut the cards to see who was lucky enough to go and give upstairs a bit more strength in SYSCON. LCpl Kev Brown can now be seen most days giving an outstanding impression of Father Jack on the front desk. The Group now get together in its entirety for a three day training package every month to keep on top of the 'skills and drills' needed. These days are also to give the Ops Team a chance to get the essential maintenance done by MT Section on comms sites around the TAOR. This month has seen much needed crews into the West and North of the city ably led by LCpl 'Route Galute' Owens. Hellos go out to Cpl 'Lurch' Howe who has arrived from 23 Pioneer Regt in Bicester. Farewell goes to Cpl 'JC' Moses to 518 Pioneer Squadron. Good luck to them both.

DOING THE NORTHERN IRELAND THING
by Sig Jamie Buyers

I arrived at the Squadron on 7 December 1998 not entirely knowing what to expect. Already I had been told that I would be running for the Cross Country team (don't tell your Troop SSgt that you enjoy running when you first get to a unit!!!) and I was already going to both of the Christmas functions that had been organised. So basically I turned up at my first unit already lemoned to run, not knowing what I was doing and told to get the first round in. Then to cap it all off I was told I had no leave left for Christmas, so all in all I had a good start in my new unit. Getting to know all the personalities in the Troop did not prove to be a problem as the first time I met most of them was at the Troop Do, where everybody was let's just say a tad chemically imbalanced along with myself. I would like to say a special thanks to our Yeoman, Dave 'I'll charge you if you transmit a PDS' Brudenall for selling me to the close protection group as their female dog, but I still contest I was worth more than a pint!!!

The job itself was not hard to get to grips with, but getting up to actually go to work proved increasingly difficult over the first week, I can't think why? After settling in at work I embarked on my NIRTT Course which was quite interesting. I never realised the Provo's had so many ways in which to blow us up. On arriving back at Lisburn I left within hours on a Corps Cross Country Running Course in the Lake District in a little backwater town called Keswick (another week out of province), this running lark is all right you know). Cpl Nige 'Two Six Back Door' Rogan and myself were the only ones from the Squadron to attend the course, which lasted for five days of enjoyable hard graft.

As for here and now its business as usual. I have the Lanyard Trophy coming up soon, so that's another excuse for me to skive off. It can't be that hard ambling up and down the mountains. Also before I forget I want to say a special thanks to Sig Stevie 'Apples and Pears' Ireson for showing me the ropes and to anybody else who gave the new bloke a point in the right direction.

Hello to Cpl Sam Lee-Davies, who came to us from across the road to join those hard working dedicated people in Crypto. Hello also to myself Sig Jamie 'Can't think of an amusing anecdote to call myself' Buyers as I have arrived straight from the factory to join those happy shift workers in the COMMCEN. Farewell to Cpl Roy 'Lardy Boy' Davies who has moved downstairs to make the brews for the ADPLO. Good luck to Cpl Ken 'I hope to complete my class one' Johnston who has escaped sitting in SYSCON to go and sit in the classrooms at Blandford for four months.

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE TROOP
(ALIAS THE BLUE HELMETS)
by LCpl Suzie Watt

First of all let me wish you a Happy New Year for 1999; may it be full of excitement and laughter. The changes in personnel have been many. The good-byes go to Sgt 'Lord Lucan' Barber who is off to civ div, Sgt 'Basher' Bates who is off to Tempest Team, Blandford, Cpl 'Cas' Cassee who is now on his T1 at Blandford. Cpl Steve 'Not so happy' Reeves to TM Troop, Blandford and LCpl Jim 'Beast Master' Dryden to 220 Sig Sqn RAF Bruggen. Welcomes go to Sgt Dave 'The heart and soul of the party' Catlett, Cpl Gail Harper who has arrived from the sunny part of the south, Bulford. Four more Tech's who have arrived from the factory, LCpl Kev Gallacher, LCpl Bedden, LCpl Dignall and not forgetting Sig Paul Wade. Congratulations go to SSgt Hartley on his selection for promotion to WO2. Good luck to all in the Breckons as Tech Cpl Wedge is allowed on the loose with his gun. Sig Neil 'Toothless' Leatham is set to become a Beast Master. Our busy schedule has seen us do many displays which has now labelled us as 'The Blue Helmet Display Team' and may the excitement in TM Troop continue.

EXERCISE KESWICK RUNNER 1999
by Sig Jamie Buyers

Ex Keswick Runner took place from 16-22 January 1999. The purpose of the Exercise was to introduce potential Corps and middle distance track runners into the sport of cross country. The Exercise was spread over five days and consisted of two training sessions per day.

The morning session being a five to six mile run with an extensive warm up and warm down. The afternoon session was different types of hard training, ranging from short hill repetitions to fartlek training. On the Wednesday the course took part in a league race at ITC Catterick. The race itself was a very difficult course and was agreed by all an enjoyable run but arduous at the same time. On the whole the Exercise was a great success and Cpl Nige Rogan and myself, found the training hard, but extremely beneficial to our own personal fitness, physically and mentally. The Exercise itself was run by Maj Wood and Capt Turnbull who are always looking for potential runners throughout the Corps. There will be another Keswick Runner later on in the year and I certainly hope to attend the course and I would recommend that anybody who is interested in improving their running skill and training, attend the course in the

MULTI NATIONAL DIVISION (SOUTH WEST) HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Lt Col E. M. Flint
RSM WO1 (RSM) M. A. Schofield

The Multinational Division (South West) Headquarters and Signal Regiment is in good spirits as we approach the end of our winter tour in Bosnia. It is now nearly five months since our tour began and many of us are keenly looking forward to our return to Herford after what has been a successful tour. The Regiment's role is to provide command support and communications to Multinational Division (South West). This breaks down into a wide range of tasks. In Banja Luka we support and maintain the Divisional Headquarters and the headquarters of the British National Support Element. We also stand ready to deploy an airmobile headquarters, an armoured headquarters and special communications detachments into the field. Across the Divisional area we run the Division's telephone systems, radio nets and computer networks, and to make this possible we have men and women based in more than twenty different locations. Our most remote detachments are on the top of some of Bosnia's highest mountains, where the temperature sometimes drops below – 40 degrees.

Most of our people live and work in Banja Luka Metal Factory, or Dragocaj Barracks as it is now known. One of the Regiment's biggest jobs is to run the site and administer the 1000 soldiers who live there. This keeps the Camp Commandant and his men very busy, but they have earned widespread admiration and respect for the high standards of accommodation, administration and catering that they have achieved. While 21 of the Regiment's officers and 295 of our soldiers come from 1st (UK) Armd Div HQ & Sig Regt, we must not forget the large contingent from 30 Sig Regt who provide us with satellite communications, nor 14 Sig Tp from 14 Sig Regt (EW), the Support Helicopter Force Signal Troop from 21Sig Regt, or the many individual augmentees from other regiments throughout the Corps. All have played an important part in restoring peace and freedom from fear to the people of Bosnia, and can be proud of what they have achieved.

MND (SW) CIS SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj A. A. S. Harwell
SSM WO2 (SSM) Palmer

The Squadron has continued to provide a suite of communications throughout the Divisional AO despite the plethora of new challenges thrown at us by the current climate. The comms expert, Pete 'Yeoman Plod' Van Den Broek, and the snowchains manager, FofS Andy 'The Route Lesley 1' Amies continue to whinge, moan, snap and wind each other up, oh and occasionally do some work in between Echos (to the uninitiated that's Naafi) trips. The Sqn Ops Officer and resident IT expert (not) Capt Kev 'I know I've just done an IS Degree but we never covered page formatting or…' Mosby has finally arrived from Split after the longest stay at the Theatre Reception Centre ever. The latest addition to the office is WO2 (SSM) 'The ablutionarily over publicised' Palmer who became lonely in his own office and so moved in with us. (Actually - we use him as telephone monitor, it's amazing how many people put the phone down when faced with the answer 'Ops – Sergeant Major')! Oh, and apparently we have got a clerk somewhere, siting reports will be much appreciated. Congratulations to both the Sqn Ops Officer and Foreman for successfully managing to glean an extra week of R&R on the Croatian Riviera…cheers to 'Plod' for stagging on during our absence!

HEADQUARTERS TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Gunson
Tp SSgt SSgt Hook

As a frantic tour based in Banja Luka Metal Factory draws to a close we take a look back over the achievements of the last five months. The COMMCEN under the watchful eye of DSO Sgt Mick Poyning has handled more messages each week than they would in a month in Herford and have perfected the delicate art of dealing with the Staff. Congratulations to LCpl Nicky Roberts and LCpl Dean Thompson on their recent promotions. Cpl Holman's RADCON has managed the, at best, temperamental nets, and provided remarkably reliable conference calls, weather and EUROMUX excepted. A team under constant pressure from the staff. Good work LCpl '2Lt Gunson' Barker for his sterling efforts in such a high-pressured working environment. Well done to Sig Claire 'Rocky' Bentham for keeping her head down long enough to be allowed to go on leave. SYSCON has battered EUROMUX and Satcom into submission and now have the largest repertoire of 'no comms' excuses in the Corps. Congratulations to the IC, Sgt Paul Haigh on the birth of his son Callum.

The tech workshop is only now starting to slow down with the weather and the amount of PT instigated by SSgt Jim 'Phys first, Phys second, Teching third' Hook, but the second line repairs continue at full speed. Run by Sgt Dave Crowther and lost without Cpl Jase 'Jock' McBain. Not to be out done the Tech FRTs have taken any opportunity to improve their already encyclopaedic geographical knowledge of Bosnia - and Split and Zagreb. The Line Kennel has never stopped running, arguably the busiest detachment in theatre, and work more as 'Mechs' than 'Lineys'. LCpl Paul Allen has had his detachment augmented by TA Sig Paul Glennon and Reservist Sig Dave McCarthy. Farewell to LCpl Angie Twist departing for 21 Sig Regt and LCpl 'Chaz' Charnock off to 15 Sig Regt. We wish you all the best for the future.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Morton
Tp SSgt SSgt Wharton

Since deploying last October the Troop have maintained both the VHF Div Comd net and the Euromux telephone systems. This has been done in some very harsh winter conditions with the hill top sites of Gola Pljesevica, Sjenokosic and Viterog experiencing the most extreme. The Viterog has been inaccessible by road since early November. Also the Troop has been responsible for the manning and running of six static COMMCENS, five of which are attached to other nations. On a lighter note, the Troop Commander Lt 'Mickey' Morton has continued to spread his personal equipment throughout all thirteen locations without fully realising this much to the pleasure of his detachment commanders!

MOBILE TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Shakespeare
Tp SSgt SSgt Leach

Since our deployment on Operation Palatine, Mobile Troop has deployed the Armour in its forward guise to Manjaca Ranges for Ex Joint Resolve XIII and in its TAC guise to Banja Luka airfield with true Mobile Tp success on both occasions.

We have also needed to learn the alien idea of under slinging our headquarters (though I must add in the form of Land Rovers) under the

Another bleak days' work in the Former Republic of Yugoslavia the Exercise location at Manjaca Ranges

Chinooks of the RAF. We deployed our fly forward HQ to the Shoe Factory in Mrkonji-Grad showing our skill at providing communication assets for the General in the field. The busiest area of the Troop by far is our 'Special to task' fleet supplying fast efficient communications anywhere within the DAOR, including supplying communications for the Czech helicopter crash and communications for the Canadian BG during their operations in the area of Titov Dravar.

'Wish we were not here!'
Sig Scheidecker (don't let the name badge/rank slide fool you) and Sig Johnson experience less than favourable weather conditions during Ex Joint Resolve

The tour is finally drawing to a close, thankfully, as we need to defrost ourselves thoroughly! Things have calmed down since our last notes to The Wire but the locals have kept us on our toes over their Christmas and New Year with their celebratory fire. Lt 'Shakey' Shakespeare arriving back from R&R, was bundled into the back of a vehicle and sent straight on Ex Joint Resolve XIII. Looking after him as ever were SSgt 'John' Leach, Cpls Allen and Murray 'Alias the chuckle Brothers' LCpl 'Taff' Williams, LCpl 'Ky' Wilcockson, Sig Helen Johnson and Sig Scheidecker. If it were not for the excellent food provided by LCpl Cairns, I believe we would have to wait for the spring thaw to retrieve them! The Troop has continued to provide the General with Special to task communications and will continue to do so until the 1 Mech Bde HQ & Sig Sqn come to rescue us! Congratulations must go to LCpl Black on his recent promotion and to Sgt Innes on his promotion to SSgt on his return to Herford.

EXERCISE JOINT RESOLVE XIII
by Lt Adam Shakespeare

Ex Joint Resolve XIII was to be a live firing exercise for the BG and the GOCs' Armoured Forward Headquarters was to deploy to the barren wastes of Manjaca Ranges in conditions that would normally require soldiers trained in arctic warfare! We built the complex in heavy snow and temperatures well below zero although everyone was kept warm through the frenetic activity that was put in by all to complete the complex by last light. Throughout the exercise we had severe snowfall and temperatures plummeting to –25 C but the soldiers still managed to provide the full suite of communications for the whole exercise. Everyone came back dreaming of the hot showers and the Playstation Championships awaiting them at Banja Luka.

SPLIT TROOP
Tp Comd Capt J. Nichols
Tp SSgt SSgt Dewar

Having had an eventful tour, Split AO Sig Troop is preparing to handover next month. Faces have come and gone, or just gone elsewhere, but the majority of the clan reached the end of the tour unscathed. Apart from running the COMMCEN, FRT, ISM and SYSCON the Troop has been involved in running and repairing the local SKY and BFBS system, a job which has had its pitfalls for Sgt 'Richie Matress' Matless, who spent three days trying to find the BFBS satellite! The LAD was kept busy by the FRT who insisted on wrecking the FFR at all available opportunities! However the prize must go to a young Signaller from 16 Sig Regt, who drove 18km with the handbrake on…we know who you are Sig 'Griffy G' Griffiths! By the way Sig Griffiths have you noticed that the R&R flights are quite regular! A few people in the Troop had birthdays over here and one in particular raised a question that was to become the subject of an investigation …who exactly was it that sat on the cake? The cake conspiracy went on for a week or so until photographic evidence was obtained Cpl 'Gazza' Dine…you were rumbled! Cross training between trades made for an interesting insight into the lives of some of our colleagues, never again will the Techs say that operators have an easy life. Everybody is looking forward to being reunited with loved ones and friends and we wish 1 Mech Bde a successful tour.

QM DEPARTMENT

QM	Maj Maycock
RQMS	WO2 (RQMS) Smith

The department continues to press on at full pelt cramming in one years worth of inspections and stocktakes into half a year but there has been time for other things too. QM, Maj 'Butch' Maycock, now fluent in Serbo-Croat swearwords, has been seen gracing the five-a-side pitch while Cpl Alfie Garnett searches for a pair of shorts big enough to fit in. He should take a leaf out of SSgt Trev Henry's book and tuck his shirt into his underpants to cover his modesty! LCpl Jules Cope and Sgt 'Duck Van' Dack are now the worlds experts in finding Motorola radios and welfare videos. (If anyone in Bulford or Catterick have their own supply they would be delighted to hear from you!). Cpl 'Taff' Phillips and Sig 'Rodders' Rodriguez have been helping out on the G5 project at Kulijana School.

The department made a very special Christmas Day for the pupils with a year's supply of stationary, toys, presents and even put on a free jumble sale of clothes for the whole village on Boxing Day. Cpl 'Brad the Impaler' Swinton AGC keeps vampires and other customers away from the stationary store and Sig 'Chad' Chadwick is now so good in the clothing store he only issues to full Colonels and above. LCpl Eddie Law has escaped from the expense store and departed to Blandford on his Class one course. Sig 'McPlop' McLean also escaped for a two-day turn around in Split, which lasted almost a full week, with our only satisfaction being that it snowed there too!

With the kids at Kulijana School

Readers will be pleased to hear that our loyal Serb workers Ivan the Huge, Snowdrop and the beautiful Sandra are still with us and doing sterling work. All efforts are now directed towards a good LSI, producing the 100% complete Board of Officers that every other unit has done in the past and giving 1 Mech Bde a great hand-over. Some continuity posts may be available soon here at the BLMF Man at Q & Ms. Quartermasters and stores Accountants should get their bids in early, care of MCM Div.

30 SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO	Lt Col Lithgow MBE
RSM	WO1 (RSM) Gary Johnson

SATCOM TROOP-OPERATION PALATINE

The elite fighting force known locally as the Mighty Ducks, from 30 Signal Regiment and 249 Signal Squadron, clock up Christmas no. 6 in the Balkans. We say, 'Bloody hell, I'm off!' to Capt Jules 'assimilated' Hill and WO2 (FofS) Bill 'Pilkington man' McCreath and a ,'Hows about ye.' to Capt Graham 'wireless' Ingram and WO2 (FofS) Paul 'look at all my presents' Hubble.

The biggest hellos and goodbyes must go to the changing HQ & Signal Regiments. The 'Borg' have gone, after valiant efforts to assimilate into their collective, all those who came into contact with them. Resistance was futile, but after sacrificing the Capt of the ship we escaped. Standing on the steps we watched the first 'happy bus' of 'Judean Peoples Front' arrive at the grim surrounds of Banja Luka Metal Factory. Before long they were in their stride (or at least in step). Having passed an immediate resolution at the inaugural conference of their tour, after a vote of course, they agreed to conduct urgent talks, once a seconder had been found, to make plenty of changes. (But only if these proposals were accepted by the forum of democratically elected officials.)

The next challenge facing SATCOM Troop has been laid down by MOST Cat in Sarajevo. As they actually have a pet cat the challenge is open to the other MOST Dets to produce their name sake animal as a det pet. The responses from MOST Bear and MOST Aardvark have been muted.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE DETS
MOST CAT SARAJEVO:

The jewel in the SATCOM Tp crown temporarily became the morale void of the Troop after the bar was closed by the Camp Commandant. The bar area has now become a 'Bistro' where you can join us for coffee, tea and board games. Sgt Flynn, Cpl Wilkie and Cpl Kidd came down from Banja Luka for a re-supply and overnight stay. Sgt Flynn flaked out early and hence the two judges covered his face in boot polish. The two judges also tried and convicted LCpl 'Snake' Chapman with four offences; namely stacking, spillage, being a snake and sexy correspondence with a female Signaller who will remain nameless. The latter being more serious than joining a religious cult in the Pagan environment of Sarajevo. His punishments were four inches either side of the jaw followed with being banished outside in his boxer shorts. It was -12 degrees Centigrade. He'll never spill again.

Sig Rickman's replacement turned up Sig 'Bas' Basanta and for the first couple of days fitted the true mantle of a DE, he even bathed in diesel. It turned out that being vertically disadvantaged he was holding the Jerry can over his head to reach the filler cap on the generator. He was subsequently done for spillage too.

NEWS FROM THE REGIMENTS

1 (UNITED KINGDOM) ARMOURED DIVISION HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

HAREWOOD GROUP

Sqn Comd Capt Jo Evans
SSM WO2 (SSM) Steve Hughes

Harewood Group is now a well established and rapidly expanding Squadron albeit rather young – 30 new recruits from Blandford making up more than a third of the manpower and soon to be on the roads driving AFV 432's in Herford! Having finally recovered from the Christmas silly season where somehow a Panzer got painted pink - the less said about that the better - the workload has continued with maintenance of vehicles being a priority along with endless duties. 211 and 212 Sigs Sqns' personnel will not recognise the Camp when they get back from the Falklands and Bosnia with the amount of work that is currently under way, however the number of workmen on camp involved with the 'face lift' have reduced rapidly; something to do with the firm going bust no doubt or it being too cold.

212 LCP TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Louise Burlinson
Tp SSgt SSgt Bob Breheney

212 LCP Tp (the crazy gang) have seen some changes in the last few weeks. The arrival of Sgt 'RV Socially Confused' Balmforth the work enforcer, has ensured that the whole Troop leaves work with dirty hands, including the Troop Commander. Other arrivals welcomed are Sig 'Smiler' Athey, Sig 'Carpenter' Cannon, Sig Hobbs, Sig 'Ginger Spice' or is it Pink Spice' Stables and Sig 'Train Spotter' Todd. They all arrived straight from Blandford and so are still trying to work out one end of a panzer from the other. SSgt 'Grandad Fireman Sam' Breheney has just returned from his Fire Course but is now waiting for his Green Goddess to arrive. Congratulations go to Sig 'Swims like a fish' Wilson, who has passed his PTI Course Class 3. No doubt he will enjoy beasting us all round the Gym before too long! We saw Sigs Caulfield and McKenzie deploy to Bosnia for the remainder of the tour and Sig Robinson will shortly be following in March.

EXERCISE RICKSHAW RAMBLE

Ex Rickshaw Ramble, in January, took Sigs Wilson, Thomas, Brydon, McKenzie and Caulfield back to the UK for four days rallying, The Exercise was thoroughly enjoyed and it is hoped that we can participate in any future Exercises. Other than that the month has been quiet and morale is high.

211 LCP TROOP

by Sig Kenny Smith

Troop SSgt SSgt Harvey

The last few months have been very hectic for 211 LCP Tp with everyone going to Bosnia. But even with that, the lads and lasses have stuck together showing real teamwork. Most of the Troop knew it was possible to deploy to Bosnia at any time, the first to leave us being Sig Yuille and Sig Record with LCpl Hutson, Sigs Grimes and Heap completing the UNTAT training and deploying early March. SSgt Bob Harvey controls the good ship HMS 211 whilst Sgt Si Boase acts as his Midshipman. He is about to leave us for the fairer waters of Blandford on the Yeoman of Signals Course (good luck goes to the future brew boy to the staff). Congratulations to LCpl 'Tips' Tiplady on completing his DMI Course at sunny Bovington. He has already taken the 'Rhino' firmly by the horn and is fully booked with running Commanders and Driver courses until the Regiment is back in March. The Troop was tasked with maintaining the remaining Squadron vehicles, so at great length we have checked, tested and painted every single Panzer, Bedford, Daf and Wolf that's left behind. However, with the increase of personnel posted into the Troop this should lighten our tasking load. New personalities include Sgt Tony 'Nice Duran Duran hair cut' Rosen and Sgt Ade 'I have to walk over drains with my arms out wide' Sims. Blandford are pumping out new soldiers faster than we can put names to detachments and so we welcome Sigs Brown, Chaisty, Holdworth, Howard, McSharry, Moore and Wilson along with Sig Dean who has joined us from 30 Sig Regt.

TRUNK GROUP - 201 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Colin Lawrence
SSM WO2 (SSM) Harry Kemp

Since our last report a fairly hectic timetable of Christmas Parties, presented the requirement for some quality 'Gut Busting' Squadron PT sessions, which the extremely capable PTI staff duly provided. The Squadron has been occupied with mainly routine activities, made particularly more so by the Regiment's current operational demands. What the Squadron needed was a quality day of Cunning Stealth, Good Drills, Rapid Reaction and All-out Aggression. SSM Kemp duly responded with a CQB range day held at Sennelager ranges. The event was a welcome break from Barrack routine and a new and exciting experience for many of our younger soldiers. There have been a number of new faces arriving and old ones departing recently, for details of this and Troop news, READ ON!

PANTHER TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt C. N. Biddulph
Tp SSgt SSgt Robertson

It has been another period of change for the 'Mighty Panther'. No sooner had 2Lt Morton arrived then he was off to Bosnia without his Troop, to be replaced by 2Lt Biddulph, fresh from Blandford! Also welcomed to the troop are Cpl 'Geordie' Jones and LCpl 'no nickname yet' Hendry. Good luck to LCpl 'Wilf' Warnes on his forthcoming tour in Bosnia. Congratulations of the highest order go out to SSgt ' did you know I was LSGC' Robertson on being awarded his LSGC for 15 years of exemplary conduct and service (17 years as a stormtrooper). A sad farewell to Sig Bartlett, who is posted to Blandford on promotion to LCpl. His expertise as a PTI in the Gym will be missed. Finally, best wishes go out to those temporarily separated from the Troop whilst serving in glamorous sun-drenched corners of the globe, Namely Cpl 'Gyros' Garret in the Falklands, Cpl 'Jasper' Scarrott in Bosnia and Sigs 'Markey Mark' Hayden and 'Nickey' Park at the hub in Corsham.

201 SIGNAL SQUADRON CHARITY MARCH

On November 6 1998, 15 members of 201 Sqn successfully completed a formidable 26 Mile March, whilst carrying 401bs, in a time of 5hrs 30mins. The event raised DM2700 for the Royal British Legion Poppy Appeal. In preparation for the event, both Cpl Crooks (Team IC and Sgt McIntyre (Team 2IC) took the remaining team members through three gruelling weeks of build-up, consisting mainly of tabbing up and down the Steinmeyer, and yet again up and down the Steinmeyer. Whilst the Team coped well with the daily rigours of arduous training, other members of the Squadron couldn't quite understand what had got into these boys, they were mean, mean and wild! A last minute volunteer, SSM Kemp, provided a virtual guarantee that all 15 members were going to finish the entire 26 miles.

The event proved to be a success, and despite a few sore feet everybody finished in high spirits. After a quick photo it was shower and change and over to the British Legion for some extremely cheap beer, and as you can imagine, the first pint went down very well indeed! The team was:

SSM Kemp	Sgt McIntyre	Cpl Crooks
Cpl Doe	LCpl Gough	Sig Bartlett
Sig Vickers	Sig Keers	Sig Owens
Sig Smith	Sig Gallagher	Sig Goody
Sig Entwistle	Sig Brown

CLOSE QUARTER BATTLE RANGE

With the Regimental Battlecamp fast approaching and the cobwebs of Christmas leave still in the air Trunk Group made the short trip from Herford to Sennelager for some much needed revision. The training was split into three areas - a fire and manoeuvre revision stand, a first aid stand and finally the CQBR itself. The F & M stand dealt with the basics that would be needed on the CQBR although one fire-team did their own thing when two Signallers (who shall remain nameless) ran through the objective, across a small stream and disappeared into a forest. The action began to hot up on the first aid stand when 2Lt Biddulph and Cpl Crooks had to deal with a small fire in an abandoned car. The CQBR was run in pairs or in threes under the close guidance of WO2 (SSM) Kemp and Sgt Wood. This gave the troops the chance to put into practise the lessons that they had learnt earlier in the day and needless to say they got stuck in. No one more so than Sig Mills who found himself waist deep in a bog and had to be dragged out by his safety supervisor. The day on the CQBR proved to be as popular as it was useful and gave some of Trunk Group a welcome change to routine in barracks.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS TROOP

Tp SSgt SSgt Chapman

After an eventful period of Christmas leave, the MT boys were straight back into a hard working routine. LCpl 'Geordie' Gough went away on his driving instructors course in Leaconfield, he should have a few new war stories for the lads. LCpl Mick 'Schneckworth' Hepworth was placed at the helm as Sgt 'Slick' Whitworth took two weeks of 'Maternity Leave'. Congratulations Sergeant on the birth of your baby daughter, Millie. Finally, Sig Lee 'Buba Gump' Brown claims that he knows everything about the Shrimping business, and Sig Terry 'Deals on wheels' Frank has recently purchased the Lime Green Love Machine, only to find he is no longer keen on it, any offers considered. Everybody in Power section wish Sig Neil 'Who ate all the pies' Pearson the best of luck and happiness in his marriage to Miriam in early February. Thanks for getting us all the day off to attend! Congratulations are also extended to LCpl Gaz 'Oily Tash' Roberts on his recent promotion and to Sgt 'Designer label' Whitworth and his wife on the birth of their daughter Millie. Best of luck to Sgt Andy 'Get the brews in' Young for his skill at Arms course.

The Technicians, who are all extremely busy at the moment, send their best wishes to all members of the Troop on tour in Bosnia and the Falklands, we look forward to your return, and a reduction in workload! We welcome LCpls Savage, Topping and Lynn to the Troop, and say a fond farewell to Cpls Joe Smith and Steve 'Whippy' Whipp, who are bound for 15 Sig Regt.

SQUADRON QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

SQMS SSgt North

Well, it's been a busy time for the SQMS Dept with the departure of Sgt Don Cunningham and LCpl Andy Humble, the ('B' team) to sunny 21 Sig Regt. A warm welcome goes out to the 'X' team SSgt (SQMS) 'the Yorkshire Diplomat ?' North and his family from 16 Sig Regt also LCpl Andy 'that's a slab you owe me? MacPhee and his family from 4 Bde Osnabruck.

I don't know if the Squadron is going to see much of the 'Q' this year as he let it slip out in the Sgt's Mess at a Christmas function that he is a JSMEL (that's Joint Services Mountain Expedition Leader to us people that never get to go on adventure training, hint hint). It's now rumoured that he's leading an expedition to Peru (God help them) and to top that off he also gets to swan off to the Ham mountains to do some hill walking 'just in case there's no snow' we believe you 'Q' many wouldn't, have a cracking time and we'll see you next year if you can find your way back. Also a quick mention must go out to SSgt Chapman (SHQ SSgt) who just came in as I was writing this and said he had to go in The WIRE because it's a cool thing to do, nuff said.

208 SIGNAL SQUADRON (REAR TROOP)

Tp Comd Lt Michele Hanlon
Tp SSgt SSgt Willie Scoots

Squadron Rear Troop has been working hard during the Regiment's deployment to the Falkland Islands and Bosnia. We have seen quite a few departures from the Squadron over the last few months. We wish the best of luck to Sgt Jones and Cpl 'Bos' Boscowan on their departure into the unknown (Civvy Street!) Congratulations and farewell go to Cpl Hardy not only on her promotion but also on her recent success on her PTI's course, best of luck with her new posting to the Province. Goodbye also to Cpl Bri Hurcombe who is off to new greener' pastures with the Intelligence Corps and Sig Hodge on his posting to 3 Div.

Congratulations to LCpl Nessling and LCpl Doe (at last) on their promotion and now for the hellos to the Squadron. A large welcome to Cpl 'Geordie' Ferry and Sgt 'Taff' Doughty who have teamed up to revolutionise the Squadron's generators and also to LCpl 'Natie' Dorrian and LCpl 'Chippy' Hayward. Hello also to Cpl ' Fisherman's Friend' Walmsley fresh from 7 Armd Bde and to new Signallers on the block, Sig Young and Sig 'Russ' Abbott. Final congratulations go to LCpl 'Des' Hill and his wife Karen on the birth of their new baby girl Ashleigh.

1 (UK) ADSR ALPINE SKIING TEAM – 1998-1999 SEASON

by LCpl Topping

Selection for this seasons Regimental Alpine Skiing Team proved difficult as many of the Regiment's skiers were committed on operational tours, consequently a novice team was gathered from all around the Regiment. Training began in earnest in November in Kaprun, Austria in preparation for the Divisional Championships. The team was captained by Lt Michele Hanlon under the expert guidance of SSgt Cal 'Firestarter' Bruce, the ringer on the team. other members included LCpl 'Sunglasses on' Topping, Sig 'Sillivan' Sullivan, Sig 'Admin' Bird and Sig 'Red hot magma' Raw. During the training everyone improved dramatically (some by 100%) which was fortunate as we were soon to be hurtling down black runs at the Divisional Championships. All went well but be advised never to get on a ski lift with Lt Hanlon.

After a well earned break over Christmas we departed for the Divisional Championships held at Les Contamines in France. Considering it was the first time the majority of us had raced we all did quite well, especially Lt Michele Hanlon who won best ladies alpine skier out of a cast of thousands .... well done!! The award of Maniac of the Exercise must go to Sig Danny Raw who dived, soared and fell over (anything to get his picture taken) at every opportunity on the snow. He also did a marvellous job keeping the piste clear for everyone else as terrified skiers dived for cover or faced certain death.

HERFORD STATION CHRISTMAS FAYRE

by Capt Jo Evans

Herford Station Christmas Fayre was a great success and raised over DM 4000 for the Station Charity Fund which donates money to worthy causes throughout the year, a lot of preparation went into the event. SSgt Mick Shirley insisted on getting a 'jingle' on BFBS Radio which irritated everyone for two weeks leading up to the event. SSgt 'Geordie' Hancock made sure the grub was good and even invited the Pasty Lady! Father Christmas or rather Sgt Barny Balmforth wanted to arrive by helicopter but his plans were scuppered and so he improvised with one of his tanks!

212 LCP Troop's finest example of light care and preservation. Santa's Panzer is now stored away with Santa's Christmas uniform

Finally, SSgt 'Robbo' Robinson surpassed himself by leaving everything to the last minute and then raising over DM1500 by dressing up as Rasta Clause and hassling everyone in the Regiment and Divisional Headquarters for donations.

Helpers and Staff from Herford Rainbows and Créches raising money for charity

The day was obviously for the families with so many members of the Station in either Bosnia or the Falklands and despite the snow we had a good turnout. Highlights of the day were dance routines by Lister School children and 'Calling the Balklands' by Jonathan Bennett.

Jonathon Bennett from BFBS Radio taking a message for calling the Balkans

For those hung over from all of the Christmas functions there were ample Hot Chocolate, Gluhwein and Irish Coffee stalls to get everyone in the festive mood.

YORK

CO Lt Col C. Wakerley MBE
RSM WO1 (RSM) D. A. Whitaker

The Regiment has had a dramatic start to the New Year. Not only are most of 219 Sig Sqn deploying to the Falklands as we speak; by the time you read this, most of the rest of the men and women of 2 Sig Regt will be scattered around the Balkans. The shock news that the CO and his Command team would be deploying to Bosnia in early March was followed by a warning order to make ready for a swift move to Kosovo. Having a sense of humour has had much to do with the way in which assets have been turned around ready for the challenge. As ever, the personalities and professionals that make up this Regiment have certainly ensured that we are up to the job. Well done everyone and good luck.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj J. Walker
SSM WO2 (SSM) A. Terry

There's little to report from HQ at present. Everyone has found themselves supporting the triple whammy of post Christmas deployments. However, we would like to congratulate Sgt Bev Lumb AGC (SPS) on her selection to promotion to SSgt (perhaps we'll get a little more sense out of her now that the board results are out!). Also, farewell to the AGC Det Comd, Capt Linda 'Kinky Boots' Johnston. Capt Johnston came on an attachment from 39 Regt RA, but the drop shots want her and her boots back in Newcastle! We also congratulate LCpl Harvey on the birth of her new baby

214 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Dave Somerville
SSM WO2 (SSM) Forshaw

On returning from a well-earned Christmas break the Squadron were in the depths of preparing for a very busy year. There have been no changes in the Squadron hierarchy which suggested some stability in a hectic year. Exercises in Cyprus, America and all over the UK were already in the advanced planning stage. These Exercises promised a very busy but exciting period and an opportunity to fulfil the Army's eternal promise 'Join the Army, see the world'. All these plans were then of course shattered by the breaking international news and now the Squadron is planning to return to the Balkans for more medals.

Everyone in 214 Sig Sqn congratulates YofS Wright, FofS Oliver and SSgt Keen on their well deserved selection for promotion to WO2.

ROMAN TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Adam Honor
Tp SSgt SSgt Morrisson

The close of 1998 was the usual liquid end to an incredibly busy year for Roman Tp. With the obligatory 'slabbing' of individuals, the end of year bash was LARGE, with the Troop 'ripping it up' down at York's premier night club (NOT!!), TOFFS. Lt 'I love the Army' Honor did his usual of redecorating York centre, earning a gold medal for style and prowess! The Troop Christmas function at York Breweries was typically predictable for Roman Tp, with gorgeous women, large amounts of cheap ale and Cpl 'Travolta' Leek shaking his thing on the dance floor, and getting his knee down at least twice! The Troop continues to sweep aside all in its way, winning Inter Troop Football and Hockey.

The start of 1999 saw the Troop have an excellent Regimental deployment onto Ex Key Flight. The Troop proved once more invincible, making Viking 'Quad' Troop eat their words. The Exercise in general was challenging, with movement every 24hours and always at daft o'clock. The final location for the Troop was perched on a 'peak' similar in size to that of Mount Everest, with views and temperatures to match.

There have been some sad farewells in the Troop, saying goodbye to LCpl 'Slugger' Warrender who is now working within Amsterdam on some communications project (pull the other one Dave!), Cpl 'Big and scary' Francis who has moved to 21 Sig Regt, Sig 'I need a special helmet to fit my enormous Noggin' Fiddes who has sped off to the White Helmets and finally LCpl 'Badger' Culver who has mutinied to Viking Tp (Why?). New arrivals into the Troop include Cpl 'lets get naked' White who arrived from 24 AirMob Bde HQ & Sig Sqn, Cpl 'twin of the Adjutant' Mcloughlin from AFCENT, Sig Stroughair, Sig Welburn and Sig Jones. The Troop now looks forward to an operational tour to the Balkans and playing an active role in the forthcoming six months.

VIKING TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Peter Hale
Tp SSgt SSgt Terry Shiels

December seems such a long time ago. The party season passed in a blur of food, wine and the anticipation of some well deserved leave. Most of the Troop appeared to have had a good Christmas and returning to work came as a welcome relief from the continuous partying. The Troop would like to extend a warm welcome to Sig Sexton, Sig Elliot and Sig Munnings who have all been posted in from Blandford. A welcome also to LCpls McNally and Culver who have come to the Troop from within the Squadron

January started with a low level Troop Exercise, which was designed to shake out the cob-webs after a Christmas leave. This was followed the week after with an inter Troop competition that involved trade, driving and physical tests. The pressure was really on as the results of this competition would go forward to decide which Troop would go to America on Ex Roving Sands. As the results of the competition were announced it became clear that the Troop had done exceedingly well. We had beaten the others in all the disciplines and a feeling of impending warm sun and cool American beer spread through the Troop. The other deciding factor of who would go to America was the performance of the Troop on Ex Key Flight. Ex Key Flight was a Squadron level, week long, Exercise conducted around Catterick and Otterburn. Over 30% of the Squadron were new arrivals from Blandford and had never been on Exercise before. Everyone performed admirably ensuring that the whole Exercise was a great success. The day of the announcement of which Troop would go to the States was eagerly awaited. For about two hours the Troop regaled in the prospect of buying suntan lotion and deciding where to send the postcards. Unfortunately, on the same morning the Regiment also received a signal, stating it was on 72 NTM to go to Kosovo. It seems the suntan lotion might not be needed after all.

TORNADO TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Graham Wills
Tp SSgt SSgt Neil Cooper

The Troop has been very busy – in line with Regimental policy – over the last few months. Ex Chimera Challenge being the first Inter Troop Competition of the year. Designed to test every level at every skill; newcomers 2Lt 'Willsie' Wills, Sig Loach, Sgt 'Snoz' Nairns and Sig 'Donna' Holmes were all confused to say the least. Things didn't go completely to plan, although we did come second overall (out of three that is!).

Ex Key Flight was our next challenge. This week-long Exercise took place in the picturesque countryside surrounding Otterburn. The wet weather kept everyone's spirits up and frequent moves were a bonus. The Exercise was a steep learning curve but thoroughly rewarding.

FAREWELLS

We said goodbye to Lt Bryany Brian, Cpl Strachan and Cpl Hanlon who are all off to new units. Also to Sig Carlyon who decided to be a civvy. Good luck to Sig Hunt and LCpl McNally who have left to join an 'enemy Troop'. Finally, congratulations to Cpl Lees who has recently had a new edition to the family – a little boy called Jack.

219 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj D. C. Gaul
SSM WO2 (SSM) M. Neighbour

This still remains a busy time for the Squadron as we anticipate the departure (finally!!) of the JCUFI manpower for penguin patrol in the Falklands. 219 Rear Squadron have an intense and task filled programme ahead of them supporting 214 Sig Sqn for the Exercises. SSgt Carl Tucker, fresh from his MAPRIC course, is intent on utilising his new found skill with many planned jaunts to the hills to practice the soldiers map reading. SSgt (YofS) Billy Barnes has finally cleaned up his desk area, the map store and the remainder of the ops room prior to his deployment much to the relief of SSgt (FofS) Richie Paterson. Congratulations also go out to the both of them and the SSgt (SQMS) Terry Hague for their promotion off the last SSgt to WO2 board – well done! Congratulations also go out to Maj Dave Gaul and his wife Helen with the birth of their first daughter – also well done!!

EAGLE TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Alex Clixby
Tp SSgt SSgt Andy Allen (currently in South Georgia as part of JCUFI)

It has been a reasonably quiet few months for the Troop, as preparation for our deployment to the Falkland Islands takes place. Lots of people are away on courses and the remainder are trying to cram in as much leave as possible, before we depart for less sunny shores in February. See you soon, Penguins!

219 SIGNAL SQUADRON ATTACHMENT ON HMS YORK

by Sig Stu Whale

Due to the deployment to JCUFI in February, the lucky few that have been left behind on rear details got the chance to experience the Navy way of life aboard HMS York (see pictures for HQ/214 also swapping air waves for ocean waves). The lucky few were 2Lt Kerry Cochran, 2Lt 'John Boy' Lyons, Cpl Craig Purdon, LCpl Kelly Thompson, Sig Willy Wilson, Sig Chris Brown, Sig Stu Whale, Sig Ian Bailey, Sig Ross Dourley and Sig Al Allardyce.

The visit began at Garelochhead on the West coast of Scotland where we boarded the ship. During our visit we were shown all aspects of the ship from the engine room through to the impressive weaponry systems on board. The biggest surprise of our visit was the size of the accommodation - very small and compact. The sailors onboard the ship made us feel welcome throughout our stay. The crew were always hospitable and during the evening most of us participated in a few sociable beers. However, as our journey progressed further up the west coast of Scotland and into the expanse of the North Sea, the beers remained in the fridge. This was due to the fact that the majority were feeling a little sea sick. Credit should be given at this point to Sig Al Allardyce who managed to drink (in moderation!!!) to the early hours most nights - luckily he regretted it the next day. The final leg of our journey took us down the east coast and into Hull where we departed. HMS York had the freedom of York parade on the Saturday followed by a meal at the Regimental cook house. The visit aboard HMS York had been a fantastic experience to all of us but it can be said that we were all glad to be back on dry land.

3 (UNITED KINGDOM) DIVISION HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

CO Lt Col N. D. Couch
RSM WO1 (RSM) G. J. Stoker MBE

Life in a Divisional Signal Regiment is never meant to be quiet and it certainly isn't. The Regiment is expected to have to juggle the reinforcement of 1 (Mech) Bde's Bosnia tour with the current manning state and a full programme of Exercises on Salisbury Plain: Op Agricola, which was not expected and has put a large number of the Regiment on standby. Fortunately the trunk elements who were largely untouched by Palatine have borne the brunt this time but even so 35% of the personnel have only returned from a six month unaccompanied tour within the last twelve months. All of this is taxing even the 2IC whose mission it is to keep as much sport and adventurous training in the programme as possible. Look out for future reports from New Zealand and Canada as well as Kosovo.

REGIMENTAL POTENTIAL JNCO CADRE COURSE 22 JANUARY – 5 FEBRUARY 1999

It all started at 8am on Sunday morning, yes Sunday! The 3 (UK) DSR Cadre course was off to a flying start, as the students completed their initial BFT. Although some had a not so flying finish, most managed to overcome their 'Sticky Carpets' hangovers! This was to become the first of many tests for the budding leaders. Sig 'Curly' Watts was the first across the finishing line, what a champ! The following days CFT managed to kick the students into action. It warmed them up nicely for the following mornings PT session at 0600hrs.

The first week was mostly classroom work culminating in a range package and confidence course at Copehill Down Fibua village. This is where Sig 'Cat' Catney fought her fear of claustrophobia and finished admirably earning herself best endeavour of the course. Friday night was spent running around the Kiwi, no, not the pub, the hill! Section 2 managed to expertly run past the last checkpoint on the night navigation exercise. They turned up an hour later with Sig 'Pathfinder' Locke adamant that he knew where he was all the time. The weekend brought about the written exams and a lecture presentation that every student had to prepare. This is the part of the course where LCpl 'Peda' Fildes presented the SSM with an outstanding presentation on the maintenance of the combat boot. Well done soldier!

The next phase of the course was the Exercise, which started on the Monday night with deployment orders. By this time the students were raring to go, or in some cases not. The final day of the Exercise came and the students found themselves on their belt buckles in a twelve inch deep puddle courtesy of the SSM who in the end even ordered combat clerk LCpl 'Albino Pasty' Hine to take the plunge! The SSM couldn't even hold back DS Sgt's Mick 'Screaming Airborne Warrior' Brown, Phil 'Universal soldier' Cooper and Jase 'Northern Git' Cook from showing off their leopard crawling skills. All this madness was in preparation for the course photo that was taken at the end. And didn't they look like real war dogs! LCpl Kenny 'Shiny Arse' Irwin even made the effort to get out of the training wing office and hang out with the real men. Well done to Sig 'Shady Man' Robb who came top student and Sigs 'Westy' Westerman and 'combat spice' Mates for their second and third places respectfully.

202 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd	Maj R J Quinlan
SSM	WO2 (SSM) S. G. Jackson

The last couple of months have seen the Squadron conducting a major spring clean in order to prepare both Divisional Main HQ (Overloon) and Step up HQ (Waterloo) for the training season. All the armoured and wheeled vehicles were 'dug out' in time for a good CO's inspection and the Squadron training plan looks set to pay dividends on the upcoming Regimental and Divisional Exercises. The last couple of weeks have seen a change in emphasis away from these Exercises as the Regiment works up its commitment to operations in Kosovo. 202 Squadron will be providing one third of its soldiers, who will soon be detached to form a new Troop in readiness to deploy when the order is given. With this in mind, and under the firm control of SSM Jackson, the Squadron has launched into a furious training schedule in order to prepare everyone to be ready to deploy if required.

WATERLOO TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt C. E. Caie
Tp SSgt	SSgt Wringe

Nothing stays the same for long in Waterloo Tp as the new Troop SSgt Tony Wringe is finding out. Having arrived at the beginning of February from 206 Sig Sqn, during his first week he was warned for operations in Kosovo. Waterloo Tp had already been reduced to a step up headquarters through losing manpower to Bosnia, but with the Kosovo operation looming large Waterloo Tp's armour looks set to be out of action for the rest of the year. That's good news for the new Troop storeman Cpl 'Barney' Rumble who has returned from RSCC in time to sign for the whole Troop! Goodbyes to LCpl 'Jay' Hunter who is posted to CIS Blandford, LCpl 'Angie' Wright who is off to 24 Airmob Bde and Sig Chris Pimlott who is leaving the Army. Congratulations and goodbye to Katy Caie who is posted to Cyprus on promotion to Captain. Also Congratulations to LCpl Marsh on his promotion (Not before time Sid!) Finally, farewell and good luck to all those people who are off to Kosovo – maybe!

OVERLOON TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt L. Hendricks
Tp SSgt	SSgt A. J. Crawford

Under the misdirection of the Troop Commander and part time Weapon Handling Instructor Capt Hendricks, the Troop has been slaving hard to prepare for the Exercise Season. On Ex 'Tricorn Bull'. Cpl Towers was working so hard that he managed to get forty winks at the wheel of his panzer during a move into one of the sites. Thankfully those Troop members who were awake had a good Exercise and are looking forward to going on Exercise with whoever is left after the deployment to Kosovo.

Congratulations to our newly promoted NCOs, LCpl 'Peder' Fildes, LCpl Scadden and LCpl 'Bomber' Lancaster. LCpl Lancaster almost had his promotion revoked after he was tasked with painting a new, corps-coloured sign for the front of Div Main. Minutes prior to the GOC's visit, eagle eyed SSM Jackson thought to check his spelling of 'Headquarters' (he had a dictionary!) and LCpl Lancaster was duly put to shame. Well done to Cpl Hoffman and Cpl Adams on successful completion of their RSCC. We welcome LCpl Bysouth who has arrived from Germany, and Sig Hocking and family. Hello and Goodbye to Sig Murray who is another footballer and part time soldier. Finally, goodbye to Cpl Sorbie and Sig Grant who have both gone to pursue a second career outside the Army.

BUSSACO TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt D. A. Jackson
Tp SSgt	SSgt A. Dick

Bussaco Tp has also been out on Exercise in support of the two headquarters. The experience passed off without incident and most of the Troop were glad to be out of barracks. Bussaco contributed well to the Squadron's wooden spoon in the Regimental Sports week but with two sprained ankles, one broken wrist and a few cracked ribs, no one can accuse them of not getting stuck in!

Congratulations to LCpls Hogan, Slade and Long who found their first tapes in a cornflakes box. Several members of the Troop attended a Regimental Cadre course for two weeks and despite being cold and wet for most of it, all seemed to have taken something from it, even if it was only blisters.

Hellos to Sig 'Sprogg' Silcock and Sig 'Hopalong' Jones who have both recently joined the Troop. Goodbye to LCpl Long who leaves us to be with all the good looking girls he supposedly knows, and LCpl Hogan who too is off to pastures new.

206 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd	Maj Paul Glibbery
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Stu Archer

Once again it is all hands on deck as the Squadron prepares for a potential operational deployment. A large number of Squadron personnel are currently on stand by for Op Acrigola in Kosovo and await final confirmation of deployment (this is in addition to the 16 Sqn personnel who are deploying to Bosnia with 1 (Mech) Bde). Just as well the Squadron has been exercising like mad in the weeks following Christmas leave!

INKERMAN TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt Alex Fennell
Tp SSgt	SSgt Steve Bartleet

Shortly into the new year the Troop took part in a week long exercise which was designed to shake off those Christmas cobwebs. Two of our detachments were attached to 202 Sqn, to the delight of the Det Commanders Cpl Sean 'Don't call me a greengrocer!' Richardson and LCpl Lorna 'Static comms are for winners' Moses. Their escape was not for long as we grabbed them back when 202 tried to send them home a day early. After a short nights sleep in the crew room (or in the back of a Bedford in the case of Sig Mark 'I'm joining the Met' Jenkins) it was time to get up, finish the wagons and go home.

The first day of the next Exercise started with a snowstorm, much to the distaste of the guys who were really looking forward to five days spent in the snow. Someone was obviously looking down on us because at the last minute the Exercise was cancelled. Relief quickly turned into apprehension as we trooped off to Tidworth for a briefing on the Kosovo situation. The bottom line was that if we were going to deploy then Inkerman Tp would be one of those going, to provide Rebro coverage. The last few days have seen us ready our vehicles for deployment and triple-check everything that we might need. The exact detachment manning has yet to be decided, but everyone now knows who is down to go. As would be expected from a Rebro Tp this means just about everyone, including such worthies as LCpl Lorna 'Can I take my Bikini?' Moses, Sig Iain 'Can I take my snowboard' Johnson and Sig Stuart 'Can I take my pies?' Stephen. By the time this comes to print we will either be there or still here on notice to move.

Inkerman Tp welcomes Sig Sarah Hill from 19 Mech and says farewell to LCpl Simon Worsley who joins the slacksters in 222 Sqn. Good luck also to all of the Troop attached to 1 Mech for their Bosnia deployment; LCpl Scott 'I was on TV' Lewis, Sig Ben Andrews, Sig Laura 'I want to come back' Best, Sig Clint 'I thought I'd got away with it' Brady, Sig Edward 'Can I go back to Ireland' Brown, Sig Tim 'Short' Cooper, Sig Julie 'I was on TV too' Cornfield and Sig Mick 'Whizz' Gee.

Finally congratulations go to the OC, Alex Fennell, who was promoted to Captain by no less than General Sir Michael Walker (CinC LAND) during a recent visit to the Regiment.

CAMBRAI TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Liz Allan
Tp SSgt	SSgt Carlos Sinclair

Life has been fairly hectic since returning from Christmas leave. Some lucky members of the Squadron found themselves returning to work during leave for a mad day of prepping the Cambrai Spec Task vehicles for deployment to Cyprus! The lads worst nightmare came true as Troop OC, Lt Liz Allan and WO2 (FofS) Joe Docherty found themselves delving deep into the detachment cages and finding out what exactly the boys hide in their cages. However, many thanks to LCpl Kev 'Join the Army and see Bulford' Meek for returning to work even though he'd already been posted (What is that all about then?) Good luck in 249 (AMF(L)) Sig Sqn Kev. The vehicles themselves have had a pleasant months cruise to Cyprus and back and we didn't even get to deploy with them.

Cambrai Tp seems to be returning to its 1997 form as Cambrai Section, with numbers dwindling rapidly from 44 soldiers in October to 17 in February. LCpl Martin Kennie, Sig Dave 'the hockey goalie' Harris both volunteered for Op Palatine and have gone to raise the standards at 1 Mech Bde. Cpl Baz Cadman, LCpl Charles Whenman, Sig Michelle Amis, Sig Alexander 'Hammer' Mace, Sig Colin 'Naughtiboy' Mortiboys and Sig Grant 'Robbo' Robertson (we will miss those bagpipes Robbo) have all been cross Squadroned to 222 Sig Sqn, and no they are not all on a three month bender. Farewell and good luck to you all with 222 Sig Sqn. A sad farewell to LCpl Guy Davies who by now is probably throwing himself out of a plane with 216 Sig Sqn. Welcome Sig Charlotte '962' Driscoll who recently arrived from 202 Sig Squadron. Currently having been put on standby for Kosovo, the Troop finds itself packing and re-packing the Dets as well as fitting in a bit of pre deployment training and hopefully some leave.

BOSNIA BRIEFING TOUR

January 1999 found Lt Liz Allan, Cpl Bob Dryden, LCpl Andy Bennett and Sig Dave Marshall all on a ten-day Bosnia Briefing Tour in schools around Edinburgh.. We spoke to a variety of age groups ranging from 4th to 6th years, unfortunately, to the great disappointment of the boys, we had to cancel our presentation to the one and only all female school which was in our programme. Better luck next time lads. The presentation was about 40mins long. Starting with Lt Liz Allan giving an extremely exciting history brief followed by Sig Dave Marshall's top brief on pre Bosnia Training and mine awareness. Last but not least LCpl Andy 'motor mouth' Bennett rendered the audience speechless with his war stories. Cpl Bob Dryden excelled himself with his outstanding slide projector abilities.

SHQ Tp has had a busy period since Christmas leave and with the OC away a number of the troops disappeared for a touch of train-spotting with SSM, WO2 'Mine's a Xmas Tree' Roberts on Ex Topham Hatt. Now we face the next challenge, to Kosovo we must go!

Congratulations to SSgt (FoS) 'I must get my deposit back' Gorman for coming off the board and tying the eternal knot. A sad farewell to SSgt (YoS) 'footballs coming home' Best and Cpl 'The Brigadier' Austin-Williamson. Welcome to Sgt 'where do I start' Howlett to the Ops team and acting Yeoman for ten 'long' minutes. A strange welcome back to Cpl 'Give those chocolates back' Austin-Williamson (It must be operational requirements ?!) and to SSgt (YoS) 'Regt Ops part-timer' Yates back in the chair once again.

SHARJAH TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt Adrian Johnson
Tp SSgt	SSgt Lang

December was not the usual pre-Christmas wind down that the troops were hoping for. CO's day took place on 8 December and a tremendous amount of work was put in by all. This paid off as the CO was suitably pleased. It served as a good exercise in which to get everything in order before the Christmas break. After the thousands of functions over the final few months of the year Sharjah Tp staggered out into the New Year. It was goodbye to Sgt McNeil, Cpl Knapman, LCpl Mcdougall and Sig Leach who are all off to Bosnia in support of 1 Mech Bde. Congratulations and a sad farewell to the 'Prince of Darkness' Lance Corporal to be Harkness. A warm welcome to Sgt Pickering and Paula fresh from three years with the Weekend Warriors. Hello to LCpl Fearns, LCpl Worsley, Sig Mortiboys and Sig Mace who have all had inter Squadron postings to bolster the man power in the Squadron. January was taken up with preparation for the busy Exercise period in the coming months. A small surprise was in store though. We are now in the middle of fast moving preparations for a possible deployment on Op Agricola to Kosovo. Busy is the key word.

MASIRAH TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt E. J. Fawcett
Tp SSgt	Sgt M. W. Emmerson

Many changes have occurred in the Troop during the recovery period from the Christmas festivities. Farewells have been said to Sig 'Chubbsie' Claridge and Sig Crewes on their posting to Blandford on their promotions to LCpl. Sig 'the beret' Cornfield moves to HQ Sqn as the CO's driver. Sgt 'which is my best side' Howlett moves to the hectic Ops room and Sgt 'Lenny' Lyons takes over his post. A well done goes out to Sig Watt for a good result on the Regimental cadre course. Things have definitely livened up in the Troop as the Squadron is put on notice for Op Agricola and the Troop seemed to double in size over night. A warm hearty welcome to all new arrivals specially to Sgt 'I'm mad as a hatter' Howes and Sig 'I didn't get lost, honest' Newbold. In the busy run up to deployment we say a temporary goodbye to Cpl 'W.D.' Catney, LCpl Pozo and Sig Dent. With a busy, yet exciting time ahead the Troop is ready for anything, even the jokes from Sgt 'Small but perfectly formed' Emmerson!

OMAN TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt I. Hemy
Tp SSgt	SSgt Baker

The Troop kicked off the New Year in style with a deployment up to the Beacon on Exercise Two-Names-Depencs-How-you-Feel, involving comms and mud gathering as well as a change of Tp Commander, 2Lt 'send me' Hemy, straight from the Blandford Chocolate factory. A chance to prove that Troop morale had not died at the hands of OSC, although it still remains somewhat dependant on the arrival of Sig 'I make them myself' Dawson's mail and its dubious photographic contents. New arrivals Sgt Phil 'Shaggy' Howes, Sig 'Hyacinth' Onslow and Sig 'Steam' Ions are welcomed into the Troop, as are Sig Georgina 'Doris One' Walters and Sig Lindsey 'Doris Two' Melia (to be known as one, two!). Oman Tp continues to survive despite SSgt 'Bru' Baker's legendary commitment to Hockey ('A team with women, what else can I say') and the timely disappearance of the new OC on Ex Nebel Iron ('Skiing is training'). A temporary farewell to newly promoted Capt Sellwood (one crate!), Cpl Christison, LCpl Appleby and Sig Brady down the road to 1 Mech for a stint – good luck over there. And not forgetting Capt Sellwood's rapidly approaching nuptials (two crates!) – all the best to you both from the Troop.

EXERCISE TOPHAM HATT 99/1

The Exercise was led by WO2 (SSM) F. Roberts. Promising top grade accommodation and plenty of social fluid it was with some caution, after hearing tales of old that 25 fearless warriors from the Squadron departed for the very popular tourist resort of Swanage on Ex Topham Hatt 99/1 at the end of January 1999. On arrival Mr Topham Hatt or SSM Frank 'Footplate' Roberts allocated tasks to Gangs before retiring to the luxurious comfort of the Scenery Carriage. The weather was very kind to all except Cpl Mick 'Gonzo' Eades who attracted severe wind burn to the nasal area while repairing Herston Halt with Cpl Jack 'Stig of the dump' Hawkins and Sig Jamie 'Braveheart' Miller. Sig David 'Slippery' McArthur has to be commended on the standard of woodwork and maintenance that he performed while working with the SSM,' it will take more than sharpening a few chisels to get your promotion soldier!' Sig Chris Andy McNabb Newbold took this opportunity to hone his military skills by slipping off into the night to carry out a perimeter check of the town, or did he just get severely lost? LCpl Taff The Inspector Francis and Sig Andy The Butcher Carvin, when not planting telegraph poles, entertained the expeditionary force with an excellent rendition of Swan Lake, 'but please, guys not at 3.30 in the morning!' Sig Lee First Scrafton, Cpl Karl Second Stenning and Sig John 'Third' Hemming pursued a common goal whilst socialising, 'gentlemen our compliments'. On the whole a fantastic but very tiring 5 days work and socialising was had by all.

CHARLIE TROOP

Tp SSgt SSgt Gary Davies

Exercise, people coming and going and a planned Adventure Training period in Kosovo has provided many challenges for the Troop. A warm 'Get yourself on Exercise tomorrow,' welcome to Sigs Claire Roberts, 'Luca' Giann, Alex 'Lemming' Leeming, Kev '4 Ace' Smilie, George Walters and goodbye to LCpl Mark 'I'm after my second stripe' Cozens, who will be missed by his MacDonalds partner Sgt Dave 'Elvis' Whitfield.

Snow arrived with the Exercise period, providing laughter and mayhem. Sig 'Taff' Phillips and co-driver LCpl Lee Shipley played chicken with a German civilian vehicle, resulting in an easy victory for the Radio Relay Tag Team Duo and Sig 'Jay' Preston's large ears appeared cunningly disguised as an American Tropo Det. Casualties of the Exercise were Cpl George McMinn who was hit by a low flying snowball, and Sgt Dave 'Elvis' Whitfield who dropped a Jerry can on his own head. Sig Steph Evans and Sig '4 Ace' Smilie were taught how to be good Central Operators by LCpl John McDonnell and then spent most of the Exercise asleep. Well done to 2Lt Evans for keeping her sanity and SSgt Gaz Davies for not losing all his hair. Finally congratulations to LCpl Paul Brown and his wife Claire on the birth of their baby girl.

ROMEO TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Nicky James
Tp SSgt SSgt George Farrar

0500hrs Monday 4 January we assembled, bleary eyed on the parade square to embark on an 8hr journey to Bavaria. We arrived safely after the routine MacDonalds stop ready to start Ex Badger Backstop. There were different levels of experience in the Troop so we split into three groups - Beginner, Intermediate and Advanced. The performer of the beginner group was Sig Porter who was aptly christened 'Ditch' by those who had the pleasure of seeing him crash on more than one occasion. The group progressed well but never really mastered the dreaded 't-bar' ski lift - everyone fell off at least once, much to the amusement of SSgt 'Instructor' Clarke. The Intermediate group, led by LCpl Dave Honeywill, played wacky kamikaze racing down the slopes with extremists LCpl 'Axle' Rhodes and LCpl 'Blade' Woodall having a few ups and downs along the pistes. The famous girlie cry of Sig 'Chaos' Dodd was heard by all on the slopes as he proceeded to wipe-out as many Germans as possible. We believe that it was his skis that were in charge. Meanwhile the Advanced group led by their instructor Tasha Weston consisted of LCpl 'Air' Barlow and Sig 'Bullet' Matthews, who classed themselves as the 'kings' of the piste. Fancy turns here and there leading the group of nutters down the hill, stopping every so often for the OC, Lt James to catch up after her speedy downhill parallel turns. The highlight of this group was to try and wipe everyone else in the group out, because it was funny. During the Exercise various merits were awarded ranging from two star to four stars. A very big congratulations go to Cpl 'Tone' Caprio and Sgt Tony Downing for being the only four stars on the piste.

DELTA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Stef' Newton

Congratulations on promotion from Signalman to Lance Corporal 'swing the lampshade' Buckle, Gareth 'I'm not allowed to drive, honest' MacFarland and Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond on getting his 'second'. We are also looking forward to welcoming a new member to the Troop - Sig Kirkbright is pregnant and Sig Knowles has defected to Papa Tp due to the Regimental reshuffle. Elsewhere much has happened in Delta Troop since Christmas thanks to Mr Malosovich - we have changed role from the normal two Secondary Access Nodes to ARRC TAC Peace Support Operations (PSO) and ARRC FORWARD PSO.

On the first deployment of the two new Headquarters nobody really knew whether it was shrove Tuesday or Sheffield Wednesday but after four weeks of Exercise it finally came together, (ish). Moving locations proved challenging - especially if your packet had Sig Dobbing in it. Instead of following the rest of the packet towards Dortmund he decided to go for a tour around Germany taking everyone behind him with him and adding two hours to the journey. The OC, 231 Sqn, also stopped our air portable vehicles, mistaking them for one of his convoys going the wrong way. All this added pressure on Lt Farrimond (packet commander) to keep the packet together. He did this by driving along with his arm out of the window with a rear view mirror in his hand before losing his beret on the autobahn. He has to wear his skid lid for the rest of the Exercise which provided us with much amusement.

Finally a special good bye and good luck for Sgt Clark who is off to beast recruits in sunny Bassingbourn, maybe the recruits need the luck more than he does. Sgt Clark has done five years sterling service to the Troop.

HOTEL TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Howarth
Tp SSgt SSgt Ironside

From the ashes of CIS Tp, with a generous helping of 'Men of Line' and some Technical wizardry was born Hotel Tp and despite early teething problems, no furniture, no buildings, no vehicles, to name a few, this motley crew has gelled superbly. What you learn quickly with a new Troop is who you can trust, and who you can trust to really botch it up. Early into the charts comes Sig 'Warn them I'm coming' Evans and Sig 'Is this the way to Hannover' Dobbing who learnt the cheeky lesson it's not merely enough just to tie the line together, you actually have to join it. Congratulations to Cpl 'Smoothy' Wilson and LCpl 'Running Man' Duddles on their recent promotions, and SSgt Ironside on the recent birth of his daughter Hannah. Best wishes go to Cpls Graham and McNally on their forthcoming postings. Finally the Troop would like to thank Sig 'SSMs special friend' Murray for his outstanding hospitality. I think next time we'll try to be out of the house before his wife gets back.

PAPA TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Noakes
Tp SSgt SSgt Gemmell

The Troop wishes a fond farewell to Sgt Steve Easter and his wife, Chris, as he swaps webbing and helmet for the pipe and slippers he will need in CIS Tp. Welcome to our new boss, 2Lt Noakes as well as Sigs Chris Haddrell, Louise Allen, Si Cartmel and 'I am a Switch guru' Knowles. All fresh from the factory along with our two new baby Techs LCpls Mundy and Ross. Also a big hello to Sgt Andy Mapstone and his wife, as our new boots and haircut man! Last but not least, hello to Cpl 'Dave-get your coat' Burke, fresh from N Ireland.

Exercise season began with a squelch as the Troop broke all records on Ex Frosty Cobweb! After taking a staggering three and a half hours to set up, Sig 'my foot slipped' Grant managed to park her Bedford on our new Wolf. A few hours later Sig 'Pugsley' McLaughlin parked the same Wolf on a trailer! Three Exercises later and at last we are back up to scratch ready for our imminent departure to Kosovo in our new role as ARRC FWD PSO.

Tp SSgt SSgt Angove

TAC Troop has had a hectic start to the New Years with coming and goings - so long to Lt Young who has left for Cyprus, SSgt Phil 'sons of ferrets' MacKenzie has gone to sunny TM Tp, LCpl 'autobahn' McKenna to 4 Bde and Sig 'Dicko' Dickenson as he patrols to 3 Inf Bde. Welcome to 2Lt Lowther who has interrupted a busy skiing schedule to find his office, SSgt Mick Angove who joins us from the Officers' Mess bringing the three immortal words, 'make it so!' Cpl Rob Murray has been promoted from Radio Tp and LCpl Ferguson has come across from Quebec Tp. Another crowd have arrived from the factory - LCpl Neil Cansfield, Sig Trish 'Jimmy Cranky' Drummond, and Sig 'Matron' Hawkins.

Exercise has dominated the first couple of months providing the chance to perfect the art of tent construction. In order to make sure the REME weren't left twiddling their thumbs, Sig Ross Sutherland experimented with his wolf by filling it with petrol. Not to be outdone, LCpl 'NAILS' Fitzpatrick-Swallow took the spotlight by ignoring the road. TAC Tp also took time on Exercise to compose a poem . . .

Chicken 'Tac' Masala

Here lies Anchovie snoring softly, wishing that he had a softie
To the chicken farm Tac did go, away from all the mist and snow
As HQ go quote, 'This is it,' apart from all the chicken st
It wasn't us that wrecked Kohima, we just bugged out, well sort of, see ya!
Benz and diesel can cause a hitch, so can a RATT det in the ditch
We watched the trunk go down the sink, amid the calls of where's the link
Of casualties little to be said, apart from Sarge who split his head
So Staffs still dreaming of the day, the Troop will let him have his way
To perfection we all know, the one command . . . make it so!!!!

THE ARMY CROSS-COUNTRY FINALS

by Sig Aaron Garside

Following the superb win in the BA (G) Cross-Country finals in December last year, the units team headed for the Army finals in the UK on 3 February 1999. On arriving at the course, in Longmoor, the team was in two minds whether to wear spikes or wellies, on a muddy and demanding course. A superb 7th place to 2Lt Noakes helped the ladies' team to 3rd place overall. In the men's race over four hundred of the best lined up focused on the narrow passage. Only 20m in front of them and after lots of shoving the runners settled into their places for three hard laps. Excellent positions for WO1 (YofS) Lee 23rd and WO2 (RQMS) Ged 'GLEAMING' Keane 49th, who helped the men's team to a very respectable 4th overall position. On a final note the team wishes to say farewell to SSgt Stu Taylor, who has gone on to run even more at SHAPE, thanks for all your help and commitment.

ALPINE SKI TEAM

The Regiment deployed its finest skiers to Kuprun, Austria to the Corps Training Camp to endure freezing conditions – however, the après-ski did make the situation bearable. The hardships paid dividends the team finished first in the slalom, third in the giant slalom and second overall. A special congratulations to Sig Matty Hartigan who was named the overall Corps Champion. New Year demanded the Team's presence at the Divisional Championships – Les Contamines France. The higher standard provided tough competition and the Team did not win any prizes but congratulations to the Team led by Lt Crowther who made their mark by qualifying for the Princess Marinas Cup - an achievement not completed by a Royal Signals team for a number of years. The alpine team consisted of Sgt Carpenter, Cpl Evans, Cpl Findlay, LCpl Dransfield, LCpl Macmillan, Sig Hartigan, Sig Lane and Sig Sosinski.

NOTES - PORTFIELD SCHOOL VISIT

On 14 December 1998 The Regiment hosted the disabled children from Portfield School in Haverfordwest for an activities day and some festive entertainment. The kids were met off the transport by WO1 (RSM) Hardwidge who organised them into four groups for a mornings' frenzy of activity. 3, 2, 1, GO!

245 Sig Sqn provided a 'panzer' ride around the adjacent airfield. WO2 (SSM) Fisher and his gang of willing sinners loaded the troops into the 43's and sent them off on a magical mystery tour with the kids all having the chance to be mini Field Marshal Rommel's for forty minutes.

The Gymnasium set up an indoor hockey arena under the supervision of Cpl Dawson and the rest of the gym staff. Although the kids have varying disabilities all were able to participate. Although the hockey team may have nothing to fear, the Japanese Samurai had better watch out as there were fierce stick wielding skills on show.

Next up was the Small Arms Trainer under the eagle eye of SSgt Strefford and the training wing staff. The kids and their carers were invited on a 'dawn patrol' and several other scenarios of high intensity Needless to say the kids loved it though some of our 'virtual' American compatriots would have been less than enthusiastic as they were 'blown away' in a very gung-ho spirit. All left the SAT with a smile on their face and a certificate of merit, top guns!

Finally it was down to the bowling alley for a good old game of skittles. On hand to entertain the kids waiting to go on the activities were the Regimental clowns (steady) WO1 (FofS) Ball and Sgt Inglesant who laid on games, conjuring, balloon bending, songs and all manner of top quality entertainment once FofS Ball had convinced half the kids he wasn't the devil in disguise - (scary make-up).

A top level nosh up was provided by Sgt Speake who served up burgers and chips for the hungry masses who were waiting for the arrival of the main man. Santa (SSgt Campbell) arrived by Wolf (isn't that supposed to be reindeer) to a chorus of hurrahs from the crowd and handed out festive cheer and presents to all. Unfortunately it was time to call it a day having had a thoroughly enjoyable day as had all those involved in making the day work.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Stewart
Tp SSgt SSgt Murray

A busy period straight from our extended Crimbo leave, starting with a Squadron Exercise, called 'Whale Herd'. Perhaps 'Nothing Heard' would have been more appropriate. There were various stands throughout the first two days. However, the most important stand that was missed by some Squadron members was the excellent Harbour/Packet drills by our very own Sgt Titus 'Watch The Fence' Reene. The main effort of the week, with elements of Hotel Tp and Romeo Tp blistering onto Comms Tp side (How privileged they must have felt!) to act as OPFOR against the one and only 640 Tp with strict instructions to ensure capture. For three days all traffic was serialised to ensure that utmost traffic gets transmitted and to provide a target for receiving dets. A successful Ex and one in the cap for Comms Tp. A big warm welcome and morale boosting mention to Cpl Callurn Black and family from Paderborn, and farewell and good luck to Cpl 'Secret Squirrel' Quinlan leaving for the dizzy heights of Civvi Street. Although she's only made an appearance for 5 days in the last two months, welcome also to 2Lt Fiona 'Away skiing' Stewart. We look forward to her more regular attendance with the Troop.

KILO TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Reid
Tp SSgt SSgt Speirs

It was a busy couple of months for the few members of the Troop left in the Squadron bays while the rest worked hard in Cyprus. The Troop would like to say hello to 2Lt 'Porridge' MacReid who returns to the Regiment after completing his Troop Commanders Course at Blandford and to Sig Parker straight out of trade training. The Troop sends its congratulations to SSgt Jim Speirs who successfully came off the WO2 promotion board. We will wait until he returns from his course for the drinks. The Troop is looking forward to a number of Troop and Squadron level Exercises testing both military and trade training over the next couple of months. We all have to hope that the equipment can handle the test.

Welcome back to LCpl Phil McDiarmid and Sig Phil Lee from there 'arduous' two and a half month skiing competition. Amazingly they both promptly asked for leave claiming that they have had no time off. A special mention has to go out to Sig Bradford who managed to hit a figure 11 target 13 out of a possible 15 times with a respirator on. He is currently being questioned about what he wears when sitting in his room at night.

LEWT

SNCO IC SSgt Campbell

Another busy couple of months for LEWT under the leadership of SSgt 'Sane as ever' Campbell with demos for the RAC at Bovington and the Snipers course in Warminster. They enjoyed the Squadron range week at Castlemartin, with excellent shooting from Cpl 'Sniper' South. The other members of the Squadron particularly 'enjoyed' the two mile battle run with LEWT members. On a sad note, we say goodbye to two Troop stalwarts, Cpl 'Tez' Blakely, who is off to mould our young soldiers at Bassingbourn, and Cpl Martin South off to brush his SCROAT skills up at university. We look forward to the start of our Ex Season and jumping into France with 5 Airborne Brigade and also the LEWT cadre in the summer - all DISI trades welcome.

VICTOR TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Smith
Tp WO WO Matthews

After a welcome Christmas break Victor Tp returned to work on Monday 4 January. The Troop was almost back to full strength with the majority of personnel back from Cyprus. A busy couple of weeks followed in loading all the returned equipment, then back into the normal routine of services, first line inspections etc. The Troop deployed with the rest of the Squadron for a range week from 25 to 29 January at the Castlemartin Ranges where most people got the opportunity to fire a variety of weapons, on several different ranges. It was a good week enjoyed by most, which made a welcome change from the normal hum-drum routine of bay life. The Troop would like to bid farewell and good luck to LCpl Eltringham on his posting to JCUNI. A warm welcome is also extended to Sig Pete Nex, LCpl Dave Orme and Sgt Jez Ward on joining the Troop.

With the usual Christmas festivities a distant memory, the Squadron is settling in for what will be a busy and interesting year. We take receipt of eagerly awaited new equipment in a matter of weeks and the Squadron is shifting up a gear. We have also taken delivery of a new OC, Maj Guy

Owen, and we offer a warm welcome to him and Charlotte. Many congratulations to SSM 'Mo' Fisher, on his selection to WO1. Stand-by any unit awaiting an RSM in the next few months!

WHISKEY TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Crapper
Tp INTWO	WO2 P Kennedy

November and December saw Whiskey Tp, the Squadron's intercept force involved in a Squadron Level Crashout Exercise. Amongst other things, this involved causing maximum chaos on the Pembrokeshire lanes, by convoy after convoy of FV432 variants inching their way to various exotic locations. The Troop welcomed back it's long standing boss, Lt Alun 'Grumpy' Crapper from an arduous summer spent undergoing hard training with the Royal Australian Signals. We look forward to witnessing his new found BBQ skills. Welcome back also to the numerous personnel returning from six months in Bosnia and Bon Voyage to their replacements. A more permanent welcome to LCpl Nicky Davies, joining husband 'Taff' who lives in HQ Sqn.

JULIET/YANKEE TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt R. Bailey
Tp SSgt	SSgt (Supvr R) M. Wallace

J/Y Tp settled back into the swing of things following Ex Ulan Eagle, and was immediately thrust back into the routine of servicing and inspections. December proved relatively quiet with the usual round of Xmas merriment, accommodation inspections and ever present equipment maintenance. On our return, the Troop deployed straight onto Ex Moufflons Blitz. The highlight of this was a first class day of Bromure instruction from Sig Tom O'Hanlon.

HELLO'S AND GOODBYES

Greetings to LCpl Chris Dowd from 216 (Para) Sig Sqn, Cpl 'Buck' Rogers and LCpl 'Taff' Rees both from 3 Div and to Sig Ian Campbell from 4 Armd Bde. Welcome back to the Troop's Bosnia contingent and a sad farewell to Cpl Cam Logan (RP Cpl), Cpl 'Scan' Kelly (Germany) and LCpl 'Smudge' Smith, who get early parole for good behaviour. Congratulations to LCpl Chris Sweeney, who gets even more time off for earning a place in the Army Ski Championships.

ZULU TROOP

Tp Comd	SSgt Donnelly
Tp SSgt	Sgt Turner

The Troop sent three of it's rank and file on the units potential JNCO Cadre course, they were Sig 'Hot Shot' Hanks, Sig 'Admin' James and Sig 'Sturdy Girl' Musson. Whilst these were hard at work the rest of the Troop were hard at play getting in some hard training for all the normal Christmas functions. Speaking of which the Troop Christmas thrash will go down in the history book, the town's amount of gorgeous girls actually doubled on the night to a total of eight.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

We say a sad fairwell to LCpl 'Flying V' Thomas who leaves us to go to 8 Bde. We welcome into the Troop Sig 'Good Start' Clarke and Sig 'The Cat' Heathcote and Cpl 'Sammy' Samuelson and his family.

QUARTERMASTER'S (TECHNICAL) DEPARTMENT
'A GRAND DAY OUT'

QM	Maj Dean
RQMS	WO2 (RQMS) Newton

Friday 14 January saw the QM(T) department escape Cawdor Barracks and head off for a day of adventurous training. After a few minor hitches, such as no fuel, we bundled into the Regiment's best minibus and drove off into the unknown. Arriving at a secret location somewhere in the Pembrokeshire countryside we tumbled out the bus and awaited our brief.

Our first task involved making an A Frame from three logs and a selection of ropes. Once this had been accomplished we had to walk the frame from one end of the field to the other. We were about to get to work when we discovered the catch or catches in this case. A member of the team must be transported on the frame, no member of the team could touch the wood and to top it off nobody must speak. Well we soon had the frame built but moving it was another thing all together. We were eventually put out of our misery when Dave Thom, our task master for the day, gave us a possible solution. Even with this solution we had a few problems one being Sig 'Scouse' Caine attempting to pull over the frame with SSgt 'Fablon' Abson clinging to it. Two more arduous tasks later we paused for a bite to eat much to the relief of Sgt 'Jacko' Jackson and Cpl 'Cowy' Coward.

Next on the agenda was a course of various rope obstacles, which caused a few laughs. Several rope burns later we had reached the final challenge, a large gap spanned by six rope swings. Sgt ' Denise Van' Haughton proved to be the Tarzan of the Troop managing three ropes, the rest of us being more like Jane managing one or two. Moving on we made our way to our most challenging task yet, a succession of bridges, ropes and scramble nets strung high in the trees. This proved to be too much for a few of us but most plodded bravely, or stupidly depending on your point of view, over the course. Once all feet were firmly planted on the ground again we set of for our final command task.

Stuck behind enemy lines with only one boat and several pieces of important equipment, we had to escape. Our only way out was the river and unfortunately the equipment was not waterproof, several minutes later the equipment was strapped into the boat and our worried faces were looking towards a very cold and fast flowing river. The first half of our team plunged into the icy depths whilst the rest searched down river for enemy traps. Moving down the river as carefully as possible we were soon knocked off our feet and shot down the rapids like crazed Pooh sticks. We would have surely drowned if LCpl John Blowes hadn't wedged his leg in a tree just below the surface plugging the river and saving our lives. During the second stage of the river Sig 'Cockney' Mackay managed to get stuck under the boat but was retrieved looking slightly blue. A few problems later we had reached the end of the river stage, very cold and slightly bruised, and hauled our cargo to the safety of a convenient bridge. The day was rounded off with a Ten pin bowling contest and lottery syndicate scratchcard bonanza. Congratulations to Cpl Mick Rees and Dave Thom, our local Army Welfare Officer, for organising such a successful day.

The Troop would also like to wish Sig Becky Connor, luck with her pregnancy and we hope she will keep in touch in the future.

POTENTIAL JNCO CADRE COURSE
22 NOVEMBER TO 4 DECEMBER 1998
A SOLDIER'S VIEW

NOTES FROM SIG SLATER- STUDENT

It all began when I got the joining instructions from the MTWO. I thought to myself, 'What has the Boss done to me now? He is sending me to Sennybridge in the middle of winter for a Potential JNCO Course, which will mean long days and early starts along with the usual wet and cold mornings.' So my first thoughts were ones of anxiety and doubt over the course content. It all started with detailed briefing from SSgt Eric 'Green Machine' Strefford and SSgt Andy 'Gadget Man' Evans. They painted a wonderful picture for us stating that there would be lots of food, gentle training and generally a really good time to be had by all 'NOT'. Gentle words of encouragement were given by SSgt Strefford and SSgt Evans after the briefing.

The course had started, I think, on the Sunday morning when the students gathered for an admin briefing from the DS. They carried out an in-depth brief and stressed the importance of motivation. Morale among the students seemed to be high, but there were still 12 days to go. The first few days seemed a bit hectic with a high emphasis on both classroom and practical training. There was plenty of physical activities as well. We also began to form up in our sections to strengthen our teamwork. Teamwork was obviously the watchword of Sgt 'Scouse' Peters, as he was continually stressing this throughout all activities. During this initial phase all sections began to gel together and to prepare for the forthcoming Shakedown Exercise and the FTX. The Shakedown Exercise came upon us very quickly and the days became very long and testing. The Shakedown phase allowed us all to put into practice all that had been taught during the first few days. We all had to prepare a ten minute lesson and also to practise the Orders process. At times there did not seem to be enough hours in the day to accomplish everything but we struggled through. Prior to the Shakedown Phase we had, all been eating centrally but had now moved onto 24hr Rat-packs. These were filling but we missed the gourmet meals that had been prepared by the Chef, LCpl Morley. Food was also very important to the DS, and as Sgt 'Taff' Williams stressed, 'Food is Fuel'. We were fortunate for the weather during the Shakedown as it was the usual Sennybridge cold, but at least it stayed dry. We practised all the skills we had been taught during the initial phase, with varying degrees of success, and as SSgt Evans pointed out, 'Now is the time to make mistakes, not during the FTX'. At last the FTX phase began, with a great deal of panic and confusion, as we were bugged out at 0400 from our camp location to our initial hide locations. My section were soon settled into their field routine and working on all cylinders, with Sig Tom Hanks providing the morale boosts we needed, especially when Orders needed to be given early or late. The FTX was arduous and everyone found it hard going both mentally and physically, so this was when we all pulled together and helped each other as much as we could. The FTX finished with a Battle Shooting Exercise. We had to occupy a Defensive Position and provide fire support, if required, for our Comms Site. This was enjoyed by all. Finally it was Endex and we were finished on Sennybridge but not with the course, as we still had all the stores to clean and then prepare for our end of course drill parade. It was great to be back in barracks and to appreciate sleeping in a nice warm bed again after Sennybridge. However, this was balanced against kit preparation and ensuring that our boots were 'Highly Polished' ready for the parade. We practised Drill all day in order to get it right. At the end of that day 'It had all been worth it'.

The day of the parade began early with last minute checks of uniform prior to the inspection, but finally we were ready to march onto the square. The parade itself went well, and I was shocked and delighted to be named as Top Student for the course. I felt that I should share it with the others from my Section, as we had become a good working team. After the parade the course and the DS sat down to an end of course Lunch and the bar was opened for us all to have a couple of well deserved drinks. We also said goodbye to Sgt Peters and wished him well on his next posting. We also wished good luck to all those lucky (?) enough to be selected for next years course, they will need it.

EXERCISE SPARTAN HIKE 1999 - ALPINE SKIING
by LCpl Sweeney

In the early hours of the 2 January, when the New Year had barely had time to wear off, four members of the newly crowned Corps Champions headed off under the command of 2Lt Fi 'why won't you let me drive?' Stewart, bound for Serre Chevalier, Southern France to compete in the UK Land Command Skiing Championships. With the recent shock victory at the Corps Championships (well done to 7 and 16 Sigs anyway!) held in Kaprun, Austria the team were still buzzing on 'race adrenalin' and high hopes were already pinned on securing some more swag for the Alpine trophy stash. Twenty-four hours of motorway, the usual ferry dramas and an overdose on imperial mints, a slightly less buzzing (in that sense anyway!) ski team arrived in the World Downhill Champions territory, hail Luc Alphand! His picture on every billboard, in every shop window and even in the bar, if you didn't know of him already, you would by the end of the Championships.

The first week consisted of precious training days at Les Deux Alpes, due to the fact that there was no snow in Serre Chevalier. The journey of 1 hour each way was made worth while by the awesome glacier conditions, and the much needed instruction from Cpl Andy 'BASI' Dawson. During the training week we forged close relations with another team headed by an unmistakable character and former member of the Regiment, identifying himself as Capt 'Robbie' King, now the Adjutant of Cambridge UOTC. In his unique style he produced much of the entertainment in the days to come. With only two days before the start of the competition the team had already incurred two injuries - one ski related and the other Apres-ski related. LCpl Chris 'Who's got my ump training managed to lock onto shades ?' Sweeney, whilst practising the necessary speed (and destroy) a snowboarder whilst rendering himself unconscious, making full use of the E 111. Whilst the previous evening returning from a night socialising in Le Frog, 2Lt Fi 'Zebedee' Stewart had a close encounter with a magic roundabout in the nearby park, and no more than 5metres away from the door of the apartment, Cpl Andy 'Ahh me ribs are killing me' Dawson managed to slip and bruise a rib or two.

Cpl Dawson

Finally the first race day arrived and the seeding Giant Slalom run was eagerly participated by all 137 competitors, showing determination and drive commendable of any Ski Sunday athlete. Day two was a team event, and the CO, Lt Col Mackenzie and the Adjt, Capt Julius Caesar could be heard from the side of the piste rallying their support despite the early morning start time of 0700hrs. The third race saw the team slalom take shape amongst a sea of blue and red poles with all team members successfully negotiating their way down, the best skiers, including Cpl Andy 'Banana' Dawson setting off in the dark. The individual slalom seemed to bring out something not yet seen in LCpl 'Do you know why they call me River?' Johnston's character, as an obsession with the reverse block technique saw him hitting every pole even if it wasn't within striking distance. The penultimate race was the Super G, a tense stage of the competition for those hoping to qualify for the Army Championships. Helmets were worn by all competitors on the last day of racing which was an extended Super G in lieu of the Downhill, due to the lack of snow. A race which takes superior courage to attempt and was bravely attacked by all, and saw the predictable number of crashes, only one from our team. LCpl Chris 'Have you seen my -shades?' Sweeney managed to take out a double gate (and his shoulder) in the process.

Come presentation night the team did themselves and the Regiment proud, winning the 5 Div combinations Alpine/Nordic trophy, and the Alpine combination second. Later that night the team departed Le Frog bar having achieved what they had come to do, despite three out of four of the team members never having raced at Divisional level before. Congratulations to Cpl Andy Dawson and LCpl Chris Sweeney for qualifying to go on to compete in the Army Championships.

EXERCISE NORDIC DRAGON
20 NOVEMBER - 20 DECEMBER 1998
by Sig Lee

Team members:

Lt Ben White	WO2 (QMSI) Smith
LCpl Dave Orme	LCpl Phil McDiarmid
Sig Tony Chapman	Sig Phil Lee

This newly formed team departed for Sweden on 20 November in high spirits for their four weeks of Nordic ski training. The team led by Lt Ben 'Chocaholic' White arrived at Idre Hall with much hard work ahead of them. The training was undertaken by WO2 (QMSI) 'Earl Blitzer' Smith and was definitely harder than most of the team had anticipated, but with Smudge's PT Corps background we shouldn't have been surprised. So with many references to our training and that of the Jamaican Bobsleigh team, 'Coach' set about trying to turn five uncoordinated Non-Skiers into a half decent cross country team. We soon set into a hard routine of morning technique lessons followed by endurance sessions in the afternoon. Just to make things harder we had to contend with temperatures dropping to -12, before wind-chill.

To relax we were allowed Saturday night off in the local Swedish disco. Our dreams of dancing the night away with leggy Swedish blondes evaporated, when 'the reality of night life in a country where Phil Collins is still in the Top 10' hit home. LCpl Phil 'Social hand grenade' McDiarmid really cheered us all up with stories of his first Norway, his second Norway, and so on ('No really Phil, tell us again how you drove your BV whilst chipping ice off your mast in the down draught of a Puma, while going through the ice in an avalanche.'). LCpl 'Dangerous Dave' Orme tried livening things up with a series of death defying, equipment destroying stunts, while Sigs Phil Lee and 'Leon' Chapman set about studying foreign literature.

Other Units training in Sweden were amazed at our unconventional technique, state of the art equipment and impeccable dress. The Exercise was a great success with all ranks becoming (quite!) competent skiers, and thanks must go to our ever patient 'Coach'.

16 SIGNAL REGIMENT

EXERCISE PIPEDOWN

Alpine ski racing, how easy is that? All you have to do is point your skis downhill, get through the course quicker than everyone else, and you've won! Or that is what a lot of people think. However, it is a bit different when you are faced with a sixty degree slope, and you know that if you loose control at the wrong time, you are getting the ambulance sledge down with two broken legs.

Ex Pipedown is the Divisional Alpine Ski Championships. Ten days of racing in Les Contamines in the French Alps. To prepare for the competition you first have to learn how to race - getting out of the skis close together (everybody look at me) 'punter' siding. For training purposes, we were first put through the Corps race training camp at Zell am See in Austria, concluding in the Corps Championships. This is where you first find out that everyone involved in racing is actually a complete lunatic once they have skis on. After the third day I was wondering whether the instructors actually knew what traversing was! Sig John Cox, however, doesn't have a problem with the fear factor, but this probably comes down to him being the blindest man in NATO. We trained at short swings (slalom), and we trained at long swings (giant slalom). On the edge, off the edge, on the other edge, on the outside ski and then with only one ski. We thought we were quite good. Then we tried racing. The gates were positioned and the course was set, all we had to do was get down it. So there you are, you have your seed number, you are at the start gate about to break the clocking barrier, you remember the training, you are ready - bag's of aggression .... five, four, three, two, one, GO.

You have good races and you have races where you take time out to have a bit of a sit down and look around. We did quite well as a team, leaving for the Christmas break with medals and high spirits. Then onto the 'Divs' for a real eye-opener. Longer, harder courses, and competitors from the top teams who ski all year round. The races start, Slalom and GS -you know what you are doing. Then there was Super G. Time to put the helmet on. Longer skis and a much quicker course, with speeds at thirty to forty mph and a bit of 'air time' thrown in for good measure. The ten days flew past. With the top sixty-three racers going onto the Army Championships (unlucky number sixty-four), the rest of us idiots will just have to try harder next season.

INDOOR HOCKEY LEAGUE

The Rhine Armed Forces hockey club was starting at the beginning of November under the driving influence of the CO, Lt Col James, to play in the local civilian area indoor league. The team is open to all members of the British Armed Forces and civilian attached personnel, although at present the bulk of the squad is made up of 16 Sig Regt personnel. The first half of the season has seen the team trying to come to terms with the different skills required for the indoor game, as most members had not played this fast and furious version of the game for many a year. The team has steadily improved over the course of the season, with Mr Dave Dart and Maj Andy Williams now providing the backbone of the side in midfield. This gradual improvement is surprising our civilian counterparts during our return matches, and should mean that we are able to turn some of our close defeats from the first half of the season into wins.

MOUNTAIN TRAINING WITH GEBIRGSJÄGERBATALLION 233

16 Sig Regt have a long standing friendship with 233 GebirgsJager, a German Mountain Infantry Battalion based in Mittenwald, Bavaria. During the period 9 January-5 February 1999, I (SSgt Mark Bullivant) was invited to join 4 Kompanie for their annual Winter Mountain Training. On arrival at Mittenwald I was met by Oberleutnant v.Witzendorf of 2 Platoon, and introduced to Stabsunteroffizier's 'Blacky' Schwarz and Mathias Goetzke, who were to be my mentors for the next four weeks. The first phase of training consisted of a week Ski Marching around the local peaks of Mittenwald. This was carried out under the watchful eye of the resident Burgsfuhrer Oberfeldwebel, Florde Hagn. A typical ski march entailed a four hour, 1000m ascent followed by a two hour descent of the same route. The average distance covered was around 15km, carrying bergens. Mastering the art of the German Army ski touring proved to be a nightmare for me, but endless entertainment for my comrades. By the end of the week I had earned the nickname 'Eddie the Eagle'.

The following week saw the Kompanie deploy to the Michelfeld training area for Ex Winter Biwak, a winter battle camp/mountain survival exercise. The Exercise began with a gruelling 10km ski march into the training area carrying full CEFO, bergens and weapons. On arrival Kompanie positions were dug in, along with snow holes, which were to act as our patrol base throughout the Exercise. The whole of the Exercise was on skis and consisted of fighting patrols, ambush drills, heliborne insertions by Bell Huey and night navigation. Instruction was given on various types of snow holes, igloos, fire trench and defence positions. The Exercise concluded with section attacks and a long ski out of the training area.

The weekend gave us a chance to recover before deploying to the Bundeswehr mountain hut at Bad Reichenhall. Located at 1600m in the Reitealpe training area, the hut provided an ideal base for our eight day Wintkampf. Over 2 metres of snow fall in the first three days did not deter our training, and daily ski marches were conducted to the various peaks in the area. Training was given in avalanche rescue, first aid, emergency stretchers and rope work, culminating in an Avalanche Rescue and Casevac Exercise. The final day consisted of a Kompanie Ski Competition with 2 Platoon taking the first prize, followed by a social function in true Gebirsjäger style.

On return to Mittenwald I was given an introduction to the German Infantry Fighting Vehicles and a chance to travel in the Fuchs Armoured Personnel Carrier and the Weisel Armoured Weapons Carrier. It was now time to hand in my equipment, exchange presentations and take part in the final Kompanie deployment to the local night-club. Overall the attachment gave a good insight into how a German Mountain Infantry Kompanie operates in a winter mountain environment. 4/GebJgrBtl proved to be the perfect hosts and many new friendships were made. Many thanks go to Maj Louise Tomkins for making the attachment possible and to Hauptmann Carstens, OC 4 Kornpanie, and all members of 2 Platoon for putting up with me.

DAIMLER-BENZ VOICE TESTING

16 Sig Regt has been drafted in to help a German Company build the ultimate in car accessories. An in-car computer allows drivers to operate the windscreen wipers, lights and choose CD tracks, with a simple spoken command. The voice-activated system is designed to improve safety by allowing drivers to keep their hands on the steering wheel whilst operating various functions. The system has already been adopted by Mercedes and BMW in Germany and the USA, but there are also plans for versions in Italy, Spain, France, Japan and in the UK. During research, however, it was discovered that the computer could not understand some of the broad local dialects found within Britain. As a result, Daimler Benz sought the help of 16 Sig Regt to 'teach' the computer how to cope with the vagaries of the English accent. The soldiers were required to read out loud lists of words, including place names, numbers and simple commands like 'turn CD off'. It is hoped that the engineers will now be able to assimilate the recordings and design a programme to cope with every accent from 'Scouser' to 'Scotsman'!

2LT COVEY-CRUMP'S ATTACHMENT

After leaving Sandhurst, I spent six weeks on attachment to 16 Sig Regt before going on the Troop Commanders Course. I spent the vast majority of my attachment with 230 Sig Sqn. Initially being attached to TNO 14 led by Lt Lucy Thirsk and then later to TNO 16 whose Troop OC, Lt Phil Connor, was away skiing. The Squadron had a lively atmosphere and I was made to feel very welcome. Two out of the six weeks was spent on Exercise. It was nice to know that in the real world we had warm tents to sleep in and a chef who cooked doughnuts, as well as a vehicle to work from. After being threatened with Court Martial for damaging some Crypto and a DM4000 fine for environmental damage all in the name of a wind up, I learned a valuable lesson - don't trust anyone! During my six week attachment, the Regiment had an Opeval. When the team came round and asked where the Troop OC was, Sig Daz Kirby dropped me in it by pointing at me. I was whisked away to be interrogated, protesting all the while! Towards the end of the attachment, all eyes turned towards the future deployment to Kosovo (or Greece for some). I wish them all well and hope they have a quiet tour -watch out for the sunburn!

Tp SSgt	SSgt S. Crawford

The first training session I (LCpl Tracy Milligan) attended nearly put me off going on Ex Sjusjoen Backstop. It was fartleg training led by Lt Crinnion and for 5-6 miles I thought I was going to die. Similar training sessions followed but they proved to be very beneficial for the skiing that was in store for us. The journey to Norway was long with a few hic-ups along the way. On the way to collect one of our instructors, I opened a bottle of coke which exploded and I soaked for the rest of the journey. When we got to the port in Denmark, Cpl 'Bananaman' Blears, Sig Pete Beardsley, Sig Crayton, Sig Kathy Williams and I, went successfully looking for a bar to have a social drink. On arrival at Larvik we lost Pete who had been collared by security guards and strip searched, which he proceeded to tell us all about for the four hour drive to Sjusjoen, where we were staying. The Skiing was amazing. I'd never even had skis on before, and by the end of the week we were going on 20km loops around a gorgeous lake. The day that made it all worthwhile for me, was when we went on a 25km trek across some of the best scenery Norway had to offer I was tired, hungry and my legs were sore but when I finally got to the top of the hill and looked down on everything below, I felt a sense of achievement that I had never felt before. We got ski-lifts down to the bottom where the mini-bus was waiting for us. Kathy, SSgt 'Dad' Crawford and I, got on one lift together. At the bottom, when we were getting off, 'Dad' got trapped and fell which meant the ski-lift had to stop.

I couldn't believe how much I had learnt in four weeks. It was such hard work and most mornings I didn't want to get out of bed. One of Kathy's favourite sayings was 'You're living up a tree', which we heard every time we were challenged to do something different. We had a trip to an Alpine Ski Slope where we were told to egg it down to the bottom and we'd get the ski lift back to the top. Kathy and I were a bit wary about this, and it took us a while to pluck up the courage to proceed down the hill. On the way down I hit a bump and dobbed. Kathy kept falling and got so worked up that she took her skis off and started walking to the top. I thought this was a very sensible idea, because if I had carried on I'd have broken my neck, so I followed behind her. Our instructor, Mick, persuaded us to try again and after about an hour we got to the bottom safely and extremely happy that we'd achieved another challenge that had been presented to us. There were a few races to determine which lads would be in the team which would then go to France after Christmas leave. Kathy and I were there as guinea pigs to see if there would be a girls team this year. Personally, I think we proved that girls can be just as good as lads at this sport. There were things I enjoyed and things I didn't enjoy, but it was an experience that I'm glad I had the opportunity to have. It brought out a lot of things in us, as people. We learnt to live very closely with each other, to be a team and it gave us confidence to do things that some of us would never have dreamed of doing before. I'm planning on going back this year and I hope other girls and lads will follow.

FORWARD SUPPORT TROOP
EXERCISE INSTANT WHIP

Tp Comd	Lt E. J. Bruce
Tp SSgt	SSgt G. S. Roberts

The Exercise started well, with constant rain and drizzle for the first three days turning our Squadron harbour area into a bog. For these three days we participated in interesting lessons of First Aid, NBC and Driver Training. In the evenings, 255 Sig Sqn and 230 Sig Sqn tried outwitting each other with tactical recces, observation posts and various night patrols. Then the fun really began, as all the FFR dets deployed with their respective SANs, MANs and Trunk Nodes but not for long. After 48hrs we was recalled back to A Ech to complete some unknown command task. Rumours and good advice was rife, but it was not until I was in the Ops vehicle with the Ops officer and RSM did I believe what I was being told. My mission was; 'You are to utilise the four FFRs with crews, and deploy to trig point 715 in Sauerlands and set up a rebroadcast station. Oh, and by the way you probably won't get the vehicles to that point! When you've finished with the vehicles they are to be left with the nearest Trunk Node. Thanks!' This wasn't a problem in theory. After preparing the dets and warning the crews, we were off. Things couldn't be better, until we got lost and a trailer ended in a garden! At 2000hrs, five hours after we had initially deployed, we finally arrived at the correct location. Having already bogged in several dets over the Exercise Cpl Dan Hitchmough and I (Cpl Biddle) decided to leave three dets at the bottom of the hill and ferry the kit as far as possible with one rover. This left us with 500 metres to climb to the trig point - with a lot of kit to carry (3 x VRC353, 2 x EVHF, a 1500watt generator, 2 x 12V radio batteries, a 9 x 9 tent complete, 2 x jerrycans of water, 1 x jerrycan benz, 2 x 10 man ration packs plus, last but not least, everyone's personal kit with weapons!) Even with eight of us carrying the equipment, it took three trips each to get it all to the top of the hill. Once all the equipment was at the top, it didn't take long for us to get in and have it working. At 0200hrs we had a visit from the CO, Col Jarnes, who'd tabbed 10kms with his drivers, Sigs Nikki Kenyon and Rob Brown to reach our location. Unfortunately, the 9 x 9 tent was already jam packed. In the morning when the sun finally rose, we realised that the admin area was very open and could be seen from every angle, so we moved it 20 metres backwards and cammed it up with freshly cut spruces. Now that everything was tactically cammed up, it was time for a few lessons in basic re-broadcasting and home-made antennas, as everyone apart from Cpl Dan Hitchmough and I had never touched that side of comms before - especially as we had two Data Ops on their first 'real' Exercise since training and a Liney with us. On tear-down, although it had been a good Exercise, we were all pleased to see that the 4 tonner had got 200mtrs further up the track to the HLS than we had. Funnily enough the kit went down faster than it went up! We can all communicate and survive with our vehicles, but every now and then it pays to communicate in different environments, which we proved we can do on this Exercise.

EXERCISE INSTANT WHIP - THE DRIVING PHASE

After a very busy 1998, 255 Sig Sqn returned from Christmas and New Year leave to another hectic start. After an intensive week of ATD training run by Sgt 'Kit' Knight, the Squadron prepared itself for Ex Instant Whip '99. Once again, with bergens packed and vehicles checked we braced ourselves for the CO's taskings! With Trunk Node 099 and two Squadron SAN groups, we deployed into the frozen backyard of Germany, and the Exercise began in earnest. As usual the 'man power' consisted of a lot more power than man and it was necessary for the Sergeants to pull a few stags. I found it quite amusing when Sgt Knight complained about the amount of stags he'd had, asking if he had extras or something, until he was reminded that he had actually written the guard list himself.

With the Exercise progressing into mid week TN 099 led by Lt Bruce, was tasked to do a spot of Bridge Building at the nearby German Armoured Barracks. With a few mutterings of, 'I thought we joined the Signals, not the Engineers.' all non essential personnel and vehicles made their way to our set grid reference where we were met by a German soldier carrying a radio. 'Follow me,' said the soldier in German. Unfortunately, as I (Cpl Paul) was the only idiot wearing the colloquial badge everyone looked in my direction for a translation! We drove into the German Training Area and waited with baited breath at the top a steep incline, we were all expecting the worst (probably a couple of hours manual labour and back breaking bridge building). Our guide mumbled a few words into his radio, in the wood line to our rear a thundering engine sprang to life. With the ground trembling beneath our feet, to our delight, a Bundeswehr Tank Bridge Layer rounded the corner (Hooray, no manual bridge building for us)! Our German counterparts proceeded in giving us an excellent display of modern bridge building explaining every detail at the same time, I must at this stage apologise to one and all for my shaky, if not colourful, translating! Once the demonstration was completed we were given a chance to use the Training Area Cross-Country Driving Course. With engines revving and gritted teeth, our vehicles began to make their way to start point. It was rumoured that the CO had said he wanted to see at least five vehicles bogged in before we left! True or False we don't know, however if true, the Colonel soon got his wish with Sig 'Coops' Cooper being first to sink his GS Bedford into a rather deep puddle. Luckily our German counterparts were at hand with their Leopard I tank to tow the Bedford out. I do feel however that Sigs Cooper and Stewart should be mentioned for the fact that they must have passed their military swimming tests just trying to attach the tow rope! With vehicles racing up and down the training area, a special mention should go to Sig Nikki Kenyon who under direction from Capt Percival managed to turn the CO's new Landrover into a submarine, thus giving the troops a much needed morale boost!

During the cross country phase, the Germans mentioned that they could give a few soldiers a drive in the Leopard Tank. Being duty translator, I felt well within my rights to keep this under my hat until I'd had my go! After a few pointers from the Tank Commander, I released the brakes and hit the accelerator. I thought I would try and mimic the Challenger II sales video, however, I was unaware that the front splash plate was not working and proceeded to race across the training area with half of it landing in my face! Both the OC and Sgt Knight tried to flag me down to retrieve the CO's Landrover from its watery grave, but I was in a little world of my own, one where the 'Fun Police' couldn't take me alive! Once I ran out of training area, I reluctantly handed back the tank controls to their rightful owner and proceeded to survey the destruction surrounding me, with vehicles in various states of disarray. Half an hour later, with our vehicles recovered, the fun was over and it was back to the Exercise. A big mention has to go to Sig Sam Gontier as he managed to shatter the clutch plate on his vehicle (CP 16) after driving over one mound! A big thank you should also go to Sgt Mick Eccles and the rest of the REME crew who worked well into the early hours sorting out our mess (what's the saying lads, 'we bend 'em you mend 'em!').

220 SIGNAL SQUADRON
ARMY BOBSLEIGH

On Saturday the 16 January, LCpl Dave 'Twinkle Toes' Heath, a Technician serving with 220 Sig Sqn at RAF Bruggen competed in his first ever Army Novice Bobsleigh Championships at Innsbruck, Austria. Ably assisted by his trusty brakeman from 33 Eng Regt, and calling on experience limited to a few practice runs, LCpl Heath pushed off the 200kg of fibre glass and jumped in. So started his first competitive 2-man lauf. It took just 56 Seconds and they achieved speeds of over 75mph down the icy run. Thanks to some excellent driving and brake work the pair ended the competition in a very respectable third place and earned an invitation to the Army and Inter Services Championships to be held in February at Lillehammer, Norway.

Many thanks go to the Ped Flight at RAF Bruggen who gave their financial backing, to the Troop for all their support, and to the Corps Games Club who have offered financial support to help LCpl Heath get to Lillehammer. Watch this space for more news of 220s Tobogganing Tech in the next edition of The Wire, and in the meantime get the beers in Dave! Any members of the Corps wishing to glean more information on this dangerous but exhilarating sport can contact LCpl Dave Heath on Bruggen Mil 2569.

LIFE IN H TROOP

Tp Comd — Lt Toby Heath
Tp SSgt — SSgt 'Taff' Bryant

H Tp has once again seen a busy period before Christmas come and go and now are experiencing times of great change within the Troop. With the imminent closure of RAF Laarbruch and the disbandment of our sister Troop based there, many changes are afoot to enable the remaining elements of 220 Sig Sqn to support RAF Bruggen to the highest standard.

H Tp consists of some 35 Telemechs and a small technical support staff, who together are responsible for the installation, maintenance and upkeep of the cable infrastructure and airfield communications equipment deployed around RAF Bruggen. The Troop works hard and plays hard, and benefits from the many sporting and social activities on the Station. Despite being small in numbers in comparison to our RAF counterparts we still manage to give a battling account of ourselves. (Some of us doing more than our fair share of the battling!)

Looking forward, the Troop will continue to carry out its numerous roulement tours to theatres near and far, and many more deployments are around the corner. Therefore anyone who thinks telemechs get it easy stuck on a big RAF Station should come and check out our year planner.

HELLO'S to:

SSgt 'Taff' Bryant and Family (congratulations on the birth of Erin). SSgt Gaz Tinsley and Family from AFCENT, Sgt Harry Harris from Laarbruch, Sgt 'Scouse' Deegan from up north, Cpl Paul Walker from 216 (Para) Sig Sqn, LCpl Gwennap, Sigs Sharratt, Brooker, Tweddell, Dugan, Brampton, McGloughlin.

GOODBYES to:

SSgt Lloyd Bath to 16 Sig Regt, Sgt Dave Scragg Civ Div.

CONGRATULATIONS to: LCpl Jim Figel on his promotion.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

The past couple of months have seen a major turn around of personnel in the SHQ, specifically with the Sqn Ops. WO2 (YofS) Pete Goodliff was the first to arrive from 40 Sig Regt to replace WO2 (YofS) Kev Robinson who is off to the Regt Trg Wing. Then within the week SSgt (FofS) Sue King from 15 Sig Regt replaced SSgt (FofS) Tess Brown who is posted to 8 Inf Bde Sig Sqn on promotion to WO2. Finally Lt Jason 'Short Bloke' Nichols (Acting Ops Offr/2IC) was posted to 1 ADSR, so Capt Jules Hill was short toured from Bosnia to assume the appointment of OC/21C/Ops Offr until Maj Richard Wilson, Ruth and family arrived to take control of the helm.

The Squadron programme is full with personnel deployed with a VSC501 det to Slovenia with the AMF (L) and others on short NTM's to deploy on Operations. The Squadron will be picking up additional tasks in the New Year, which will provide opportunities to deploy in support of the AMF (L), ARRC and NATO to Germany, Italy, Florida and Cyprus. There is also the mandatory PT, Sport and social activities that ensure that the weeks are full and the pace of life fast.

OPERATION JURAL

Op Jural is a deployment of the British Army and the Royal Air Force in Saudi Arabia with responsibilities to protect Kuwait including the Saudi region with the help of USA, France and Saudi Elms. Gurkha Soldiers from 250 Sig Sqn are based in the capital of Riyadh and are attached to the RAF's Tactical Communication Wing (TCW). Our main task is to provide world-wide communication including internal secure communications using Euromux. Total tour of Op Jural is normally four months.

The RAF have some recreational facilities in the base where we pass our time with friends, either British or American and also the Americans run some sports competitions ie: Volley Ball, Football, Horse shoe, 5km run etc. However, the only down side is that alcohol cannot be consumed, unless at special functions held in the British embassy. A perk of the tour is R&R in Bahrain, which is a relaxed Islamic state, where you can get everything that is not normally available in more traditional countries. On R&R we were accommodated in a five star hotel.

EXERCISE SWAN CONNECTION

by Cpl. Shantiram, W Troop

The 30 Sig Regt took part in Ex Swan Connection that was held at the Llydd and Hythe Ranges in Southern England from 12-16 October 1998. There were 74 people involved in the Exercise, including the safety staff. All the range staff left Bramcote Camp three days prior to the main body for recce and familiarisation of ranges. It was the very first time 30 Sig Regt had used this range. There were more than six stands such as CQBR, AMM shooting moving targets from the moving vehicle, long range shoot for guns, zeroing points and falling plates shoot. The weather on the first two days was rainy and windy but later luckily it was bright and sunny throughout. As a safety supervisor, I really enjoyed operating the remote controlled targets on the fire and movement. It is very important to have knowledge of shooting moving targets and especially CQBR and dealing with own force casualties. The event was video taped and shown later during the debrief. We were not allowed to take any photographs due to security reasons. Lastly, I would personally encourage people to go and enjoy themselves, who haven't been there this year. It is good fun and at the same time gives you a lot of knowledge about who you are on the ranges. 30 Sig Regt will look forward this kind of opportunity in the future. So why not you to be a one of the volunteer to take part and enjoy.

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd — Capt 'Who?' Ingram
Tp SSgt — SSgt 'Ikky' Gratrick

A Troop have continued to be busy with the usual workload: Operations Upminster, Palatine and Bolton and current preparations for Ex Cobb Ring in Florida. As the Regiment restructures, we have handed over two of our TRC 522 detachments to 258 Sig Sqn to fill their role as JTFHQI. We now sit and hope for some more kit so that we can fill the JTFHQ2 role. Ex Apocalypse Ram was a week long Military Training Exercise at Swynnerton. The traditional competition was run on the combat trail, practising fire and manoeuvre over obstacles. Sig 'Gung Ho' Ashley completed the course four times, beating LCpl 'Gunny' Guntrip's long standing record of three.

Cpl Grist breaks in a new pair of feet

The Troop says welcome back to Capt 'Lord Lucan' Ingram from Op Palatine who on his return set a personal best of 30mins in the Troop office before disappearing to who knows where! Also welcome to John McCone, Nickie Ranon, Bishnu and anyone else.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd — Capt Ben Fitch
Tp SSgt — SSgt Hurren

Bravo Tp would like to welcome SSgt Hurren, Sgt Paz, Cpl Nelson, Cpl Allen, Sig Dodgson and Sig Smart to the Troop. We would also like to congratulate Sig 'Taff' Roberts and his wife on having a baby boy and wish them all the best on his posting to 4 Armed Bde. Congratulations to Sig Steve 'Longshanks' Air who recently got married and comes into work every morning with a permanent smile on his face.

At this time the Troop has personnel in Germany and Antarctica on different Exercises. Also five members of the Troop are in Kenya on Ex Grand Prix including Sig Jonny 'Fat Boy' Devine and LCpl Neil 'Geordie' Coils enjoying the sun and sending postcards just to wind the Troop up. Everybody else in the Troop is having a quiet time under the supervision of Dave Bennett.

EXERCISE CYGNET VINE

Ex Cygnet Vine was yet another arduous Squadron deployment to Ayilos Nikolaos, Cyprus in September. With a bit of SATCOM and a slack handful of strategic HF we went for some rear link action in the sun.

Cpl Anscombe trys to get the better of Laura Croft again

The team was led by Lt 'Danny Boy' Ingram, SSgt 'Iky' Gratrick Karaoke night down the 'Orange Grove' will never be the same again. We were so busy that the station swimming pool, air condition gymnasium and clay pigeon range weren't on our agenda at all . . . Much! Some days it was so hot that we were climbing the walls, or the fence in the case of Sig 'John Denver' Nicolson. Before long his bags were packed, he was taken home by country roads, over rocky mountains high, so he could be leaving on a jet plane the very next day.

We balanced all the hard work with a bit of R&R. The Dehkalia water sports centre broke up a long day soaking up the sun with, water volleyball, canoeing, water skiing, swimming and racing around on some very fast racing jet skis.

NEW SQUADRON ROLE

Amidst a fanfare of Warning Orders and Mission Statements, 258 Sig Sqn has been announced as the new Joint Task Force Headquarters (JTFHQ) and Signal Squadron. The new role will take effect from 1 April 1999, but, needless to say, the midnight oil has already been burning in SHQ to ensure that all goes to plan on the big day. The Squadron has already begun the process of restructuring and procuring all the CIS, tentage and other stores needed to build a brand new Tri-Service Headquarters entirely from scratch. With other commitments still to be met, the Squadron faces a challenging, but potentially very rewarding time in the months ahead.

CHILDREN IN NEED - SPONSORED TRUCK PULL
20 NOVEMBER 1998

In response to a challenge from a local truck firm, fifteen of 258 Sig Sqn's finest (or should that be heaviest) turned out in force on 20 November 1998 to raise monies for Children in Need. Led by WO2 (SSM) 'Mr Motivator' Webb, the team of challengers had to race against teams from Warwickshire Fire Brigade and the Dennis Eagle Vehicle Company over a distance of 100 metres... pulling a 14 tonne refuse truck and then a fire engine. Amazing the lengths that some will go to in order to miss CO's PT.

LCpl Repworth giving it some!

Needless to say, the Squadron team won the day and returned as heroes, having raised just under £100 (at very short notice) and gained a mention on BBC 1's 'Live Children in Need'. The Squadron has been invited back next year for what is hoped will become an annual event in support of this extremely worthwhile cause.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS - SOUTHFIELDS

CO	Lt Col L. F. Harrison TD
RSM	WO1 (RSM) Hall

Having ended 1998 on a high note with the normal round of Squadron Christmas Parties, the Regiment returned from the Christmas Stand-down with renewed vigour to face the challenges of a New Year. With the last hangover and mince pie of Christmas still lingering, the Regiment swiftly launched itself back into training. The Regimental Officers all deployed to Longmoor on the 8 - 10 January for a Brigade Study Weekend, whilst the soldiers got stuck into trade training, recruit courses and bounty training days.

2(NC) SIGNAL BRIGADE STUDY WEEKEND
8-10 JANUARY 1999 LONGMOOR CAMP

It was with no small amount of enthusiasm that the Regimental Officers arrived in Longmoor on the first Friday after the New Year (honest). The weekend promised to be interesting due to the massive turn out from the Brigade and the calibre of the presenters. For the representatives from HQ R Signals the warning 'to duck' was issued as various post SDR questions flew around during the open forum session. Well done to Capt Sarah Streete of 56 Sig Sqn for being commended by the Brigade Commander for her presentation. Prior to the weekend, each Regiment had been tasked to supply a recruiting display board for the main theatre. RSM 31 Sig Regt (V), not known for doing things by halves, grabbed the task between his teeth and wouldn't let go until the Regiment had the biggest, all singing, all dancing display board that Longmoor had ever seen. Well done WO1 (RSM) Hall for your outstanding effort.

With the daytime presentations complete it was time to move on to the lighter aspects of the weekend. The evening activities started well with a talk from guest speaker Jilly Cooper. Having spoken about the research that she conducts for all of her books, we began to wonder if her next best-seller was going to be based on the comings and goings of an Officers' Mess - what an intriguing thought! We then moved onto supper and a games night. The CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison, led from the front as usual and did her bit by trying to bump up the team score in the golf game. All seemed to be well and quite respectable until the Brigade Boat Race Challenge took place. Although the Regimental Team did not win, they are convinced that they acquitted themselves well and did not have to resort to cheating - unlike some teams we could mention. Well done to Capt Steve Goodburn, Capt Tony Potter, Capt Tim Winterson, Capt Mel Rayner, Lt Scott MacSween and 2Lt Kieron Francis for an honourable, if not successful attempt. To ensure that his Brigade Officers were in fine fettle the next morning, the Brigade Commander decreed that an early morning BFT was to take place. What an excellent start to a Sunday! It did the trick though and at least most people were in good order by the time the SOinC (A) gave his address. All together a very successful and worthwhile weekend.

MEDAL PRESENTATION

The other important part of the GOC's visit was a medal presentation to both TA and Regular soldiers. The recipients were as follows:

SSgt Dez Eldridge	- GSM and a GOC Northern Ireland's Commendation
WO2 (FofS) Bob Wymer	- LS & GC
WO2 (RQMS) Meg Garven	- TA Efficiency Medal
Cpl Pat Gould	- TA Efficiency Medal
LCpl Dave Misell	- TA Efficiency Medal

The presentation went off without a hitch under the watchful eye of Acting RSM WO2 (RQMS) George Coffin. All the medal recipients had invited a number of friends and family to attend the proud occasion. Special mention goes to Cpl Gould who must have invited his whole clan. It was tremendous to see so much support from friends and family and it certainly made for an excellent evening of celebration. A big thank you goes to the GOC for presenting the medals and to the Master Chef WO2 Fred Bramble and his able assistant Cpl Steve Howell who yet again laid on a superb spread.

VISIT BY GOC LONDIST - MAJ GEN WEBB-CARTER

Having rounded off 1998 with a visit by DCinC Land, Maj Gen Stokoe, the Regiment started 1999 on a similar theme with a visit by the GOC LONDIST on 9 February 1999. The visit was a great success. Special congratulations go to SSgt (YofS) McAuliffe for an excellent presentation about the PLK Colours. Well done to the technicians Sgt Oliver, Sgt Threadgold and SSgt Fisher for managing to make 2nd line inspections sound interesting. Well done also to the LAD - Capt Steve Goodburn, WO2 (AQMS) Andre Schrivener, Sgt Gunter and Sgt Jones for an informative brief.

FAREWELL

The Regiment has two farewells, firstly to Maj Joe Owen, AGC(SPS)(V) who retires after more glorious years of service than he probably cares to remember. He performed a sterling job as RAO(V) for the Regiment and is now enjoying a well deserved rest, well at least from his second career anyway. We would like to extend our great thanks for the work that Maj Owen has done over the years and the commitment that he has shown to the Regiment. We would also like to wish him all the best in the future. Farewell also to the RSM, WO1 (RSM) Duncan Hall, who retires from Regular service after 22 years. We thank him for his dedication to the Regiment during his tour and wish him well in his new life in Civ Div with Brigitte.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON - SOUTHFIELDS TAC

Sqn Comd	Maj Chris Mahony
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Lovett

WELCOME TO 1999

The Squadron is well underway with the activities of the New Year. The emphasis at the moment is trade training, as laid down by the current Yeoman, WO2 Si ' I may be short but I know my stuff' Tyler. The Regiment is raising its operator and technical standards with every weekend that takes place.

ARRIVALS

The Squadron is pleased to announce the arrival of LCpl Cowlard RAMC transferring from Special Forces. LCpl Cowlard has served with the Regiment in the past and will play a major part in the recruiting process currently in force here at Southfields. Welcome and we hope you enjoy your time back in the Squadron.

REGIMENTAL BURNS SUPPER - 30 JANUARY 1999

To commemorate the great Scottish Poet, Robert Burns, the Officers' and Warrant Officers' & Sergeants' Mess held a Burns Night Supper at Southfields TAC. The evening was greatly supported by both Messes. Those Scottish members of the Regiment are congratulated for the pride that they showed in their heritage by putting on such a wonderful display of tartans (a few Southern type people also made the effort, so well done for that). There also seemed to be a hidden agenda with a 'who can wear the biggest sporran competition'!

The entertainment for the evening began with the Commanding Officers' husband, Alasdair, executing a word perfect 'Address to the Haggis'. Following an excellent meal it was time for SSgt 'I am the best RTG in my quarter' Loch to deliver Burn's 'Address to the Toothache' and a fine job he did, well done 'Wullie'. To ensure that the evening ran smoothly and was executed in true highland fashion the event coordinator, SSgt 'If you're not a jock I don't want to know' Bruce BEM, imported a number of guests from North of the Border. These were in the form of an ex Scots Guards piper, Mr Calum Bruce, and a guest speaker, Mr Mitch Bruce, (is it coincidence that they all have the same surname????) who were both flown in from Fife in Scotland. Mitch carried out a perfect 'Immortal Memory to Robert Burns' and Calum's piping was excellent. They were both appreciated whole heartedly and the Commanding Officer and the Regiment would once again like to thank them both.

Further entertainment came from the Quartermaster, Maj Ken Clark and SSgt Mick Johnson with a joint effort of 'To a Mouse'. SSgt Johnson recited the poem in Burns' original words and the Quartermaster read his very clever translation into 'Queens English'. A very unusual way of reciting the poem, but very enjoyable to all that witnessed it. At least the non-Jocks could understand the translation! The remainder of the speakers were Maj Brian How and Mr Colin Wilson who proposed the 'Toast to the Lassies' and would still be speaking now if the PMC had not intervened. The 'Reply from The Lassies' was delivered by the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner, who managed to get some revenge for the ladies.

The evening then concluded with a burst of inspiration in the form of a Ceili Band who played into the small wee hours of the morning. Such was the hour of departure, that most people stopped for breakfast on the way home! The Burns Supper was enjoyed by all those who attended. A very special thank you goes to SSgt Craig Bruce for his tremendous hard work and dedication and to the RSM for steering the 'ship'. All the other workers who played a part in the success of the night are thanked whole heartedly. We now look forward to next year to see if there are any more 'potential Jocks' within our Regiment who will come forward to organise the event.

CHRISTMAS BALL

To ensure that the year was rounded off on a high note, the Squadron held their annual Christmas Ball and Raffle on 19 December. The event was ably organised by the dynamic team of LCpl Julia May and LCpl Maria Traynor. New Recruit Sig 'not quite the OC' Aoife Baker won the first prize of a weekend away for two. Sgt Brian Traynor won two tickets to see Saturday Night Fever, and many others won equally exciting prizes. The Squadron were once again called upon to use their imagination and ingenuity to provide the evening's entertainment. The Ball was a tremendous success and proved yet again that 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn not only know how to party, but know how to do it in style!

EXERCISE WILLSWORTHY CHALLENGE
SQUADRON WEEKEND 15-17 JANUARY 1999

Our first Squadron Weekend of the year saw the OC Sqn, Maj Steve Baker, leading the Squadron quad biking amidst the muddy hills of Dartmoor.

OC Sqn, Maj Steve Baker, looking in serious need of a bath!

The Squadron left Coulsdon on a cold and rainy Friday night to drive what seemed to be the longest journey of our lives to Willsworthy Camp near Okehampton in deepest, darkest Devon. Thankfully, we awoke the next morning to sunny blue skies. We set off in high spirits to Ashcombe Activity Centre, where we undertook activities such as quad biking safaris, and slalom races (both forwards and backwards) around the track. LCpl 'Mudman' Andy Wallace deserves a particular mention for his enthusiastic efforts. No need to lean quite that far forward, but about time you had a bath anyway! Sgt 'Lean Mean Driving Machine' Travis demonstrated why he is NOT a panzer driver. Nice 360 spin - pity you didn't mean to !

The Commanding Officer, Lt Col Linda Harrison, Training Major, Maj Alfie Brand and RSM, WO1 Duncan Hall visited us on location. The CO proved that she is not afraid of getting her hands dirty. She donned waterproofs and set off on safari with the rest of the group - nice yellow overalls Ma'am!

The afternoon saw teams racing skid-carts around the track. Pit-stop techniques left a lot to be desired - in the haste of competition many found themselves forcefully evicted from their carts. At least the best team won!

After a hard day on the track everyone enjoyed a relaxing 'social' on the Saturday night. This was excellent preparation for Sunday morning's BFT! What could be better than a run around Okehampton Camp on a cold, crisp winter morning with a snow covered Yes Tor in the background?

Sqn Comd	Maj Brian Howe

BACK TO WORK!

After a hectic but very successful year's training, the Squadron's main effort in December was to see out the old year in suitably festive style. We were glad of a relatively quiet month with a bit of time to relax and recuperate before the New Year's busy schedule kicked in. Which of course it did all too soon! And so, well rested, fortified with copious quantities of roast turkey and mince pies, washed down with (hopefully!) a generous helping of our loved ones' goodwill to all (TA) men (and women) for another year of Tuesday nights and weekends away, we embarked with renewed enthusiasm on the 1999 training programme.

CHRISTMAS PARTY 1998

The drill hall was positively heaving with humanity (mostly!) for the Squadron Christmas party on 19 December, not that you could really recognise it as a drill hall. Many thanks go to Sgts Chris Maginnis and Martin Cooper and their team for all their hard work in putting up the decorations and setting up table and chairs. (The crisp white table cloths would have done one of our Squadron VIP lunches in the field proud!) Thanks also to Cpl Kyle Manns and Cpl Avril Tough for organising the raffle. The display of prizes was a veritable Aladdin's cave! (Amazing what you can pick up in the 'Everything Under a Fiver' shop these days!) That, plus a (very loud!) disco and the usual sumptuous fare provided by chef, Cpl Steve Howell, ensured that a brilliant time was had by all. It was also a great way of saying thanks to our other halves for all their support over the year.

EXERCISE RED RAG II - 15-17 JANUARY 1999

Alas, all good things have to come to an end, even the Christmas and New Year break. And what better way of chasing away the temptation of another helping of left-over Christmas pudding than a weekend away at the Squadron's home from home, Pippingford Park Training Area? Our first Comms Exercise of the year was, predictably enough, accompanied by miserable weather. Fortunately, the howling gales and driving rain of the preceding week abated long enough to make conditions boggy, but bearable! In tandem with the main Exercise we also ran a Comms Exercise with units across the Atlantic. We were also visited by our CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison, who arrived in style, care of a helicopter. This was immediately commandeered by OC 859 Tp, Capt Sarah Streete, LCpl Jo Butler and Sig Michael Scott for a bit of a joy ride. Naturally the real reason to take to the air was to get a bird's eye view of 858 Tp and to see how well OC Tp, Capt Tony Potter, had cammed up his vehicles. It was 2Lt Kieron Francis' first Field Exercise with us and, as he and his detachment were despatched from Pippingford in the direction of Beachy Head late on Saturday night, we thought this was probably going to give a good indication of what he thought of it so far ..... We needn't have worried. Sunday morning came and with it a beaming Tp Comd and his merry men returned back from the brink!

ARMY PRESENTATION TEAM EVENING - 19 JANUARY 1999

Eastbourne Town Hall was the distinguished venue chosen by the Army Presentation Team for its latest briefing to local communities. The Squadron Officers, along with those from other local units, were asked to help out with hosting the 150 or so guests to the event. They came from various local companies, local government and other institutions deemed of strategic importance to the Army. They had been invited to listen to the Team's briefing on the Army of Today (Regular and TA). This was followed by drinks and a rather tasty buffet supper (yes, there was even enough for us hosts to grab a morsel or two!) The CO and RSM very kindly made the journey from London to help us out (the RSM doing a grand job as chief forager and glass filler!) Not to be forgotten are the other members of the Squadron who helped out behind the scenes. The presentation itself was extremely impressive, interesting and informative, very professionally put together and delivered. Judging from the guests' reactions afterwards, it did a great job in transmitting a very positive message.

RSM'S FAREWELL - 26 JANUARY 1999

Alas and alack, woe and great misery . . . Could it really be true? The RSM's tour over so soon? Surely not. Why, it seemed like only yesterday that the Squadron had first encountered the figure of WO1 Duncan Hall, when his soothing, dulcet tones wafted gently across the breeze through the trees somewhere in deepest Surrey at the end of his first Comms Ex with the Regiment. NOT! We rapidly came to the conclusion back then in Spring 1996 that here was a force to be reckoned with, and he certainly didn't disappoint us! But seriously, we reckoned the RSM was, as RSMs go, a pretty good chap and deserved a suitable send-off, which duly took place in Eastbourne at the end of January. It was a chance for us to say thanks for all the support and enthusiasm WO1 Hall has shown the Squadron and for allowing us to be privy to his own unique brand of humour on so many occasions . . . It was also a chance for him to say a few words (did I say a FEW?) and to accept a small token of our appreciation, a framed print showing a view of Eastbourne. So goodbye and good luck, RSM, for a successful transition to civvy street.

SQUADRON CHRISTMAS PARTY

The 83 (London) Signal Squadron (V) Grand Christmas Party was held yet again in the Drill Hall at Mercury House The Duke of York's Barracks. This annual black tie event was as usual very well supported. Notable quests returning to visit were Maj John Irvine (previously OC) and Karen, Capt Brian Alderson (previously Adjutant), and his darling wife Mel, Mr John Dadley and Denise members of TAVRA (GL). The function apart from a couple of minor incidents went extremely well, with the babes(!) of 83 Dancing til! dawn. A thoroughly intoxicating time was had by all. The OC, Maj Mike Jackson graciously assisted by Glynis saw that diplomacy and tact prevailed during the evening. The OC thanked all the permanent staff, especially Capt Dave Thomas and SSgt Roy Smith who he presented with gifts of thanks.

EXERCISE CRYSTAL COCKNEY V 8-10 JANUARY 1999

Ex Crystal Cockney was upon us again, earlier this year than previous years. The migration of southerners to the depths of Ballater near Balmoral was upon us. This Comms Exercise was an HF long distance link. This year to our sister Squadron in Eastbourne, 56 Sig Sqn, who were ably led by their PSI SSgt Willie Loch. During free time, off shift personnel had the chance to ski on the local ski slopes at Glenshee. Communications were BOOMING! In the words of the In - Patient of the Royal Hospital WO2 (SSM) Jim McMahon who in a previous life was a regular PSI and RTG. A number of soldiers did try Snow Boarding without too much success. SSgt Roy Smith having just returned from his Christmas Skiing Holiday in Andorra was a hard man to catch on the slopes.

32 (SCOTTISH) SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

CO — Lt Col A. G. C. Lapsley (TD)
RSM — WO1 (RSM) A. B. Hilborn

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS ARRIVALS/DEPARTURES

The Regiment says farewell to WO1 (RSM) J. McLachlan, Mel and the boys. Jim we wish you well on your return to 'civ div' and we welcome the new TARA a fellow Scot, WO1 (RSM) Angie Hilborn.

THE SCOTTISH PATIENT

The location is Kenya, Ex Grand Prix, and 1 KOSB Battle Group has been reinforced by a crack team of Signallers from 32 Sig Regt (V). WO2 ' Mad Dog' Anderson was sent out into the African plains (Impala Farm Ranges), with 2 x Bergen, Webbing, Suitcase/Large, Holdall, a Suit Carrier and then we didn't see him again until the flight home! Cpl 'Sweeny Todd' Harvey became the boy from Company A. He looked like the infantry, spoke like them and after ten days in the jungle he smelled just like them too. (That smell had no connection with him spending six days Adv Trg on a Portaloo). Sig 'O/Cdt Space' Sheridan and Sig 'Thrasher' Lambie along with Lt '40 winks' McBride were the first to sample Jungle Training in conjunction with the Jungle weight loss plan (fortunately there isn't a video.) Newly promoted LCpl 'Lucky' Gray heard that she may have to do some Jungle Training. On learning that the jungle houses snakes, scorpions, tigers and rats (ROUS), LCpl Gray decided that it was better to do three weeks in hospital than a week on point in the jungle. To give herself a convincing injury, drastic measures had to be taken. While she was travelling as a passenger in a land-rover, the vehicle hit one of the many pot-holes in the road thus allowing her to take a dive and feign an injury. Unfortunately her fall was a little too convincing and resulted in her ankle being fractured in three places and indeed, required major surgery! The upshot of this was that LCpl 'Lucky' Gray got her vacation in hospital and Lt '40 Winks' McBride got to drive six hours per day for three weeks to see her. Back at base camp, LCpl 'Dancing Queen' Nursimaloo held the fort. 1 KOSB did try to recruit her with two years in Cyprus but we saw her first boys. The story would not be complete without our own commandos, AGC Pte 'Happy' Mondie who was based at HQ when she wasn't kick boxing with the Go Go dancers and AGC Sgt 'La La' Peebles who began the Exercise as a driver but after the MTO ran out of trucks, moved over to provide admin support for the Adventure Training.

51 (HIGHLAND) SIGNAL SQUADRON (V) - ABERDEEN

Sqn Comd — Maj Morna Strachan
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Donald Webster

As we lead up to Christmas the Squadron is gearing itself up for a recruiting drive in the new year. We welcome SSM Jim Waddell (Ex 3 Hldrs) into the fold as our RRTT supremo - welcome to 51 Sqn Jim. Also back in the fold is Sgt Nige Allen recently returned from Bosnia as a mil/civ liaison officer. Nigel did sterling work helping the local population with various projects including a much needed fresh water project (undiluted water is a first for Sgt Allen). On the departures scene we have to say farewell to Cpl Jim Douglas who has just joined the Regulars as a Technician - our photograph shows Cpl Douglas being force fed to build him up for regular service under the supervision of our PSI, SSgt Tim Abbot.

The photo was taken during a recent medieval night at Gordon Barracks where the Sqn 2IC, Capt Mackie turned up in his normal clothes (claiming they were fashionable at that period in time)! Also present at the fun filled event was LCpl 'Baldrick' Hunter and LCpl Allison 'Chastity belt' McKay .

LCpl McKay' and Cpl Hunter

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to SSgt Karen Paterson and husband Roy on their recent new arrival to the family our best wishes to you all.

61 (CITY OF EDINBURGH) SIGNAL SQUADRON (V)

Sqn Comd — Maj B. Shankland
SSM — WO2 (SSM) G. Garland

The Squadron received an early Christmas present in the shape of escaping any form of cutback under the SDR, in fact the Squadron establishment has increased slightly so the Recruiting Team will have plenty to keep them busy in 1999. An added bonus was the news that we are to move to a newly refurbished TA Centre a mile down the road from our current home. Formerly occupied by our 'grandfather' Corps, the Royal Engineers we are hopeful of persuading a few of their number to remain with us.

CONGRATULATIONS

In the interests of making sure we all continue to get paid we have to mention that at last MOD have been persuaded that LCpl Lynn Drummond is indeed the 'best pay clerk in the world' (as she has claimed for the last two years) and awarded her with promotion to Corporal following another excellent course report. Cpl Drummond decided to set up a web site to spread the word rather than fly posting the entire TAC so we still have a photocopying budget this time. Congratulations also to LCpl 'Too Easy' Davidson, the world's biggest (only) NCRS fan who successfully passed his HGV driving test. On the last training night of last year we received a visit from the Commander 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Brig Hughes who presented Yeoman of Signals 'Jeff" Jephcote with his Efficiency Medal after umpteen years undetected crime. 'Jeff' liked the glint of the medal so much that he's now off to work with SFOR for six months - the things some people will do to keep up with their wife's medal count!

NEW RECRUITS

A particular well done to Sig Lowe who at long last completed his recruits course at Blandford. Undeterred by the problems in booking a course at RSS, Sig Lowe actually completed his B3 Radio and Data trade training months before he ever went near a Recruits Course. He's currently studying for his Staff Officer's course.

NEW YEAR - NEW EXERCISE

To celebrate the New Year, the Sqn Ops Officer, Capt 'Mad Dog' Middleton and Tech PSI, Sgt Ian 'Rambo' Stallard planned the ultimate in 'warry' exercises, Ex Frosty Ferret 99. The weather certainly lived up to the name but we still wonder where Capt Middleton hides his Ferret! The Exercise was radical since it involved leaving the NCRS wagons in the garage and going for a gentle stroll in the moonlit hills above Edinburgh. They even insisted that we take weapons and wear cam cream!! Sgt Stallard had a great weekend with his 'Perfect Model' though most of the boys were expecting something a little more like Cindy Crawford. His quest for realism may have gone a little too far though as it involved re-landscaping the caretaker's garden. In between patrols he also taught the Squadron how to play 'Killer Pool' and finished the weekend with more money than he started. The climax of the weekend was a final assault uphill during which LCpl 'Run, Forest Run' Crampton distinguished himself with a solo death or glory charge which would have made Rambo proud. The dynamic Stallard - Middleton duo are planning a sequel in March - Ex Slightly Thawed Rabbit run'.

33 SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

Times are-a-changing in the Regiment, with the on-going implementation of the Strategic Defence Review. We have recently had an influx of troops from 55 Sig Sqn (V), who are being disbanded, with the majority of soldiers going to 59 Sig Sqn (V). The Regiment has never seen Capt Geoff Downey, the PSAO of 59 so excited. The Officer plot has also had some slight alterations with the addition of Capt Wendy 'Mess Bill' Kirby, ex-regular, and now TA (she just could not keep away), who has become OIC of the OSC. She practised this position to great effect on the last comms exercise, and now the Adjt won't go near the vehicle! Capt Nick Range is now firmly back in the Tech Adjt's slot, and is contemplating returning to his studies. Congratulations from all the Regiment to WO2 Henley on his recent promotion to WO1. Good luck on your move to 14 Sig Regt (but not yet).

MERCURY DRAGON - 3 JANUARY 1999

33 Sig Regt's winter sports adventure training exercise to the Italian Dolomites got off to a fine start at 4am, at Manchester Airport when our glorious leader Capt Bill Dixon discovered that he had left his passport at home. Luckily for him, most officials were understanding and didn't give him too much of a hard time, unlike his travelling companions. Our accommodation in the resort of Canazei was in a delightful chalet strangely named 'The Horse From Hell'. The Horse clearly bored with eating hay found members of the Regiment far more interesting as Cpl Mike Prendigast in his glitzy new fleece found to his peril whilst rolling home each night from the Deodate, our local hostelry. Showering at the chalet proved difficult which tended to suit Sig 'Sooty' Vincent due to shared bathroom arrangements and 2Lt Karen Reddy's love of the bath which always smelt of lavender and joss sticks for hours after she had been in it.

The area was chosen for both its abundance of snow canons and excellent skiing which included the 11,810kms of piste of the Dolomite super ski area. One of the aims of the trip was to conquer the Sella Rhonda. This involved a clockwise or anticlockwise 60km circuit. In practice this proved a problem for most because of a 5km gap due to the poor snow conditions around the resort of Gardinia. Only Sgt 'Ebineeza' Wylie actually completed the circuit with the help of a 50,000 Lira bribe to a local Minibus driver called Alberto. Anyway, the trip was soon over and with many new skills learnt, kilometres skied and bodies we returned to the UK to post Christmas blues a week later than everyone else. As the Italians would say, 'Ciao Baby'. As Cpl Clint Kerry would say, 'Chow'.

Capt Bill Dixon, Sgt Wylie, and Cpl Kerry in the three-legged ski competition, or are they waiting for the lift?

42 SIGNAL SQUADRON

December in Manchester has brought the usual hectic social programme with departmental Squadron and Regimental functions taking place, culminating in the Squadron all ranks Christmas party on the day of the Regimental stand-down. Of particular note, was the Manchester Branch of the Royal Signals Association Christmas dinner, held in the Trafford Hall Hotel in Old Trafford - adjacent to the famous cricket ground. The guest of honour, was the Master of Signals, Maj Gen I. O. J. Sprackling OBE, accompanied by his charming wife Annie. The Squadron was well represented by the Sqn Comd, Maj Ian Kelly, and the PSAO, Capt Gerry Whelan, together with two very smart pennant bearers, Cpl Mark Ranna and LCpl Andy Brady. The dinner was a huge success, to the obvious delight of the Secretary Mr Harry Ferguson and The Master gave a memorable speech which fully updated the association members on Corps matters and painted an exhilarating and exciting future for members of Royal Signals, post SDR.

FRANCIS HOUSE

Francis House is a children's Hospice in South Manchester which offers the families of terminally ill children a respite from their role as carers and gives the children a loving home from home. It was opened in 1991 by Princess Diana and cares for children from Greater Manchester, Lancashire, Staffordshire, Isle of Man, Derbyshire and Cheshire. 42 Sig Sqn has a long association with Francis House and one of the more pleasurable duties prior to the Christmas stand-down was to present the Hospice with a fully decorated Christmas tree. Our picture shows members of the Squadron with Sister Aloyisious who runs the centre.

GLOSSOP RECRUITING WEEKEND - 9 JANUARY 1999

The OC, Maj Ian Kelly, decided to get the New Year off to a flying start by holding a recruiting weekend based in the town of Glossop. Glossop is situated in the extreme west of Derbyshire surrounded by some of the most magnificent scenery of the Peak District and only 14 miles from Manchester. The recruiting weekend was built into a communications scenario with the command post set up on the cobbled forecourt in front of the Norfolk Arms in the centre of Glossop. A video and computer demonstration together with children's events communication vehicles and tents completed an eye catching display to attract the interest of the local population.

Cpl Fitzgerald manning the Squadron recruiting stand in Glossop Town Centre with two potential ACF recruits

Glossop had its own Royal Signals unit from 1939 to 1967 and a great many local part time 'Terriers' served in the Second World War. Unfortunately, under the TA cut backs of 1967, the Glossop detachment closed and the TA Centre was sold. It is hoped to rekindle the strong historical links which exist with 42 Sig Sqn (V) and at the same time attract new recruits from the area.

WELCOME AND CONGRATULATIONS

We would like to welcome to the Squadron our brace of new Troop Commanders and to congratulate them on their recent commissions. Lt Paul Edwards, taking over as OC Trunk Node - last year he was serving as RSM 37 Sig Regt (V) - and 2Lt Karen Reddy, taking over as OC Access Troop. We also welcome back to the Squadron our two prodigal sons, WO2 (SSM) Graham Ward and Sgt Paul Duffin. Graham Ward has just spent two years as SSM at HQ Sqn in Liverpool and Paul Duffin was the MT Sergeant for a year at 80 Sqn in Runcorn. Finally we congratulate Sgt Dave Coussons on his promotion to Sub Sergeant.

59 SIGNAL SQUADRON
EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE

The Squadron went into the festive season immediately after Ex Winter Eagle which was a very successful 11 Signal Brigade Comms Exercise in the North West of England. LCpl Paula Scully as det commander Switch 032 was responsible for ensuring the Kilostream snatch at Altcar Training Area was successful and did so without the help of her backup SSgt Paul Weston.

SOCIAL

The all ranks Christmas party was a tremendous success and much of the thanks must go to Cpl Frank Goodwin and his depleted committee. The next day carrying sore heads the children's party organised by Sgt Ted Littler was again well supported and the children had a most enjoyable time. Father Christmas (Sgt Chris Simpson again) provided the highlight of the day for most of the young ones and has promised to do it again next year.

80 SIGNAL SQUADRON
AN EDUCATION FOR ALL TA OFFICERS WHO ATTEND JSCSC (TA)

by Capt Dan Tanzey

I have recently attended the above course, having first been warned off by the Adjt that he wanted me to give a synopsis to the other eligible officers in the Regiment when I returned. As the first Officer for some time to attend a Staff Officers' course, and certainly the first to attend the new-format course. I was, he cheerfully informed me, being used as a guinea-pig. Isn't it nice to be appreciated? There was also the fact that, 80 Sqn having supplied the only candidates (and therefore the Regiment supply) for Range Qualifications Stage 4-5, it seemed only natural that we should lead the way intellectually as well as militarily!

IMMEDIATE IMPRESSIONS

There are reams of preparatory reading and not enough time to do it. There is very little outside work, but many written exercises. The normal day-to-day dress was loosely interpreted as any combination of a variety of green trousers, lightweights, SD trousers, the odd kilt here and there, or (for the ladies), an equally varied range of skirts, all with a multiplicity of pullovers in all the colours of the rainbow. There also appears to be some tradition, I am not privy to, as the mess sells masses of Smarties. One frequently heard rumour was that the dye in the blue ones contained a drug closely related to Prozac. No, I don't understand it either. Finally, there was a dinner night at the end.

SOBER REFLECTION

Like 'The Hitchhikers Guide to the Galaxy', the alternative motto to 'Serve to Lead' should be DON'T PANIC. More than half the students on the course had read less than half the preparatory work. What is more, the course DS, from the Colonel down were neither surprised nor annoyed at this. They seemed to think it was amazing that anyone had read anything at all, given that most had full-time civilian jobs and families. In fact, turning up for the course was a major brownie point in itself. Lastly, it was not just the TA; the regular course were Smartie junkies as well!

THE COURSE

Tip one: aim to arrive the afternoon before the course starts, or at least in the early evening. Those who arrived on the day had a nightmare trying to catch up with everything that was going on, and no one to sell them Smarties.*

On arrival, you will receive a crate of pamphlets, Aide Memoirs, handouts, exercises and précis. The first two you have to hand back, the latter three are yours to keep and constitute the destruction of a small rain forest. The précis include exercises that have to be done in your own time - and you can check your results because the answers are in the back! All five will form the basis of what you will be studying over the coming days and cover every aspect of staff officer work.

Tip two: get hold of an up-to-date copy of the Staff Officers Handbook (SOBB), and the Tactical Aide Memoires 1 and 2.*

The first day or so is fairly relaxed, in a frenetic sort of way. They cover introductory addresses, meeting your syndicate DS and the rest of your syndicate, with a creeping death of explaining who you are and your career to date, etc. This gets quite competitive, as the first candidates give a condensed and modest version of their career, while succeeding speakers expand and extol the variety and gloriousness of their passage through the ranks to the heady height of Captain, or even Major. Eventually you could be forgiven for imagining that you were in the presence of the Chiefs of the Defence staff - past, present and to come. Then comes a series of presentations and syndicate room discussions. These will lull you into a false sense of security that, other than a few details about organisation, roles, employment, equipment, capabilities, weapon ranges, classifications, strengths, and so on, there is really nothing to learn (see tip two). Then they hit you when you're not looking. MISSION COMMAND. In letters that big. We are now talking serious brain work. Let me put it this way; when you make a note to yourself to 'do the shopping' it implies a multitude of items. So does a simple order like 'take that hill'. I'll say no more about this here, as it's one of those subjects that requires a book or nothing.

Tip three: get up to speed on Mission Command, IPB and orders. Everyone will think you're a girlie swot, but it does give you more time at the bar later.*

Then there is Combat Service Support, or CSS. What to you or I is a fairly minor and uninteresting section of orders, is life and death to some people (in the case of RAMC, QUARANC and casualties, quite literally). I had a REME officer on my syndicate who lived, breathed, drank (coffee), slept and dreamt about the wonders of CSS. Typical conversation:

'Where did you go for camp this year?' Well, we were back loading this 4-tonner .....'. Or, 'Have you come far?' 'Not as far as we had to go to get a 6-pin, 24 volt, bipodal spring knobbler for a Drops last weekend'. CSS is a subject with a message and the message is, leave well enough alone; if you are not already involved in it, don't go poking your nose in.

Tip four: read about it anyway; it'll look strange if you have a total blind-spot where it's concerned. Just don't get carried away.*

Another delight that awaits you is Service Writing. We all know that the Adjt considers himself a world-expert on this topic, and his comments on one's writing style and presentation do have to be borne. A couple of points. One, the handbook has changed and nothing is how it was. Two, you will have a golden opportunity to discover the wonderful world of service writing as you write Official Letters, Demi-Official Letters, memos, and briefs. To say that this is tedious is like calling the Sahara desert hot and dry, a major understatement. Having had words with the Adjt for the standard of some document you've produced, nothing is more pleasant than pointing out that it is he, in fact, who is out of date and you have the new format. On the other the Adjt is not someone to get on the wrong side of. Diplomacy is called for here. Volunteer the information that you have a copy of the latest standards to hand and offer to let him have a copy.

Tip five: all the work for this part is classroom based, apart from a couple of exercises in the précis. But if you don't do them before hand - and some didn't in my syndicate, no one will really mind. Just say you were revising the ES-leg of CSS; the DS won't believe you, but it will get you off the hook. If they ask any ES-leg CS questions and you get them wrong, explain that that's why you are revising. Devious or what?*

The TEWT has to be approached with a proper sense of reverence and determination. There are a number of sessions in the syndicate room where you and your sub-syndicate prepare your appreciation, plan of attack and presentation. It is absolutely vital at this stage to memorise and use those phrases that Training Majors and CO's relish, like 'The Commanders Intent is . . . with his Main Effort as . . . therefore my mission is . . . IN ORDER TO . . . etc'. Your plan could be totally useless but if you've got the phraseology off-pat, you're half-way home. To explain; in 'My Fair Lady', Rex Harrison/Professor Higgins remarks of the French that they 'don't care what they say as long as they pronounce it correctly'. This preparatory stage is much the same. As you present your solution, the critique will concentrate on the format of your plan, not the content. 'Two up, left flanking with bags of smoke, follow me lads, it's VCs all the way,' is right out. So you complete your plan for the assault and then go out on the ground. This is when you discover that 'Two up, left flanking with bags of smoke, follow me lads, it's VCs all the way', would be just the job.

Final tip: don't get too carried away with it all.*

In summary, the course is immensely enjoyable, challenging in terms of what you can remember and packed with information. Above all, remember that this is a Staff Officers' course - and a Junior Staff Officers' course at that. You are not expected to be the next Alexander the Great or Field Marshall. Nor are you expected to be bang-up-to-speed on all the latest military doctrine and tactics. You are expected to know the basics of soldiering, roles and organisations, capabilities (but not exhaustively) and how the Armed Forces work, with particular emphasis on the Army. Go there, stay calm, listen in and make notes. And make sure to make time for the mess every evening to keep your supply of Smarties up to stock.

A 'quiet period' in RHQ has seen no changes other than more smog from ICI, an acre of Rain Forest destroyed for us and no advance on establishments. Now the Tech Adjt wears his new found smile! For those of you who do not know the CO and RSM, the RSM is grinning as he controls the pace-stick!

EXERCISE POLAR EXPLORER - 25-27 SEPTEMBER 1998

49 Sig Sqn conducted a leadership exercise over the weekend 25-27 September 1998 in the Keswick area of the Lake District. The aim was to identify future NCO's within the Squadron and to teach and practice squadron personnel in rock-climbing, map reading and leadership.

The rock-climbing was all going to plan until a rather attractive female appeared on the rock-face, or was it the world famous climbing transvestite from Ambleside. Only Cpl Haynes knows the answer. The mist did not prevent Lt Drennan's walking group from reaching the cafe for a well earned hot drink. In fact some would say that the only reason that they found the cafe was because it appeared from nowhere. The more strenuous group decided to tackle Striding Edge assisted (or should that be hindered) by the OC, who was heard to mutter the following words of inspiration to his troops - 'How much more of this is there?' whilst halfway up in the mist and clouds. He was ably assisted by FofS Steve Moore, who was caught short while on top of Striding Edge and used the mist as cover.

TRADE TRAINING

Trade training began without WO1 (YofS) Jim 'I'm off to Oz' Thompson, not that this was the only reason for it's success. 49 Sig Sqn attended both daytime and night time activities with relish and enthusiasm.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to Lt Ruth Middleton, upon her marriage to 2Lt Andrew Powell, of 38 Sig Regt. In the finest traditions of equality they have decided to amalgamate their surnames to become the Middleton-Powells, although this tends to be abbreviated to Middleton when on exercise.

CARLTON GATE TIGERS

The Squadron has entered the local six a side astro league. Things can only get better, after finishing in an embarrassingly low position last season. So far this season we have got off to a good start with a 4-1 victory in our first game, with 2Lt Keith 'twinkle toes' Williams getting two and Sig Ben 'I don't dye my hair' Martindale getting the others. Following on from the last edition of The Wire, it is regretted to inform of the demise of the Squadron in the TA Cup against Sheffield UOTC. Despite a spirited first half performance which saw the scores level at 1-1, age plus a dodgy penalty missing performance from WO2 (FofS) Kev 'I'm not normally this bad' Sturman we ran out 4-1 losers.

742 SIGNAL TROOP

The Troop has been busy over the past few months, with RSIT and Adventure Training along with a lot of other activities to keep us busy. RSIT proved again to be a great success for the Troop with all of the vehicles achieving excellent results. LCpl Neil Watkin managed within the space of a week to improve his Det from five pages on first line to 15 lines on RSIT and Sig Paul Broadbent, also achieved an excellent report. Well done to all who took part and lets try even harder next year.

The Troop had a good turn out for the Regimental Training Weekend that took place at Ripon Barracks and although the weather was a bit off the spirits were kept high throughout. Once again an evening out proved to be too much for some and after the disappearing act made by SSgt Tom 'I think I have the flu' Lappin who failed to mention what time it was (Cheers staff!) a good night was had by the remainder of the Regiment.

The Troop would like to extend a welcome to our most recent members. Sig Louise 'Snowy' Snowdon who has transferred in from our Squadron, Sig Steve Armstrong and Sig Paul Albone who both join us from the Regulars, Cpl Richard Gibson and Sig Graham Black who have moved up here from Blackburn. We hope that you all enjoy your time within the Troop. The Troop social functions have been going well and the latest was a great hit. The Squadron Foreman, Hank Potts, managed to drag himself away from his hectic workload to buy the long awaited, and much talked about, beers. Thanks again Foreman.

Congratulations to Sig Helen Watt on passing her recruit's course and also to Sig Alan 'Urban' Hession on being promoted to Corporal.

ARRIVALS/FAREWELLS

Welcome to Cpl Paul Robinson and family who have joined us from 3 (UK) Armoured Division and Signal Regiment on a three year posting. Farewell to Sig Emma Martin-Law, who has left us to join the regular army and become a 'Muppet', best of luck.

PROMOTIONS

Congratulations to the Squadron's Recruit Troop Guru, Sgt Al Gregory on his recent promotion (again), the steady queue of people waiting to join the ranks of the TA, a testament to the excellent work he continues to do. Also to LCpl 'Dutch' Holland, who on his promotion impressed the Colonel when he refused to ring the bell in the JRC! The rumour is that he didn't want to buy the drinks, because the rare Abyssinian Lesser-Spotted Moth was hibernating in his wallet

SQUADRON DINING OUT NIGHT

The Squadron held a joint-mess triple dining out night, where we said, 'So long and thanks for all the fish,' to the Regimental TA Foreman of Signals, SSgt Simon Land, who gave the longest speech ever heard in the Squadron's history. Also it was goodbye to WO2 (RQMS) Kev Appleby, who didn't give the longest speech that the Messes had ever heard. Finally, goodbye to Capt 'Taff' Watts who delighted the gathered masses with his rendition of The Corps March on his harmonica for which he has become a legend in his own lunch time. Gentlemen, thank you for your contributions to 50 (N) Signal Squadron (V), you will all be missed. A special thank you to WO2 (SSM) Steve Tinkler who did a sterling job hosting his first Mess dinner night and even managed to keep his old comrades in tow!

EXERCISE WINTER EAGLE

The second Brigade Communications Exercise of the year saw the Squadron deployed to the darkest depths of North Yorkshire. Well assisted by the SPSI's and PSIs both Troops conducted themselves very well and the weekend was a great success all-round. Regulars from 19 Mech Bde, who were using the Exercise as trade familiarisation, joined us for the weekend. The girls from the switch gratefully accepted their contribution and hopefully this will be the first of many Exercises together.

90 (NORTH RIDING) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)
ADVENTURE TRAINING/LEADERSHIP EXERCISE EXERCISE CAT'S EBOR

by Capt 'Taff' Watts

Ex Cat's Ebor was my first weekend after taking over as Squadron 2IC. 'We're off to Warcop for some adventure training,' they told me. 'Warcop? Warcop? I haven't been there since 1976 - and I didn't like it then either!' was my reply - but they made me go anyway. We took over a little compound - which saved us having to move in and out of the camp itself every time we wanted to change activities - and set up our admin area. This was run by our regular FofS, SSgt Ian Walling, assisted by SSgts Alex Durnall and Ian Ward. They set to with a will and soon had the whole thing running like clockwork.

The weekend's activities included hill walking, map reading, clay pigeon shooting, climbing, and abseiling. Cpl Si Haynes' climbing and abseiling stand proved once again that a sixty foot climb looks a lot further from the top than from the bottom - the look of sheer terror on some faces confirmed that. SSM Kev Turrington and Lt Simon Smith showed everyone why it's often safer to stand in front of a gun than behind it - although they did help the Padre to achieve a lifelong ambition to shoot at and hit a target! SSgt Gary Jowers managed to get everyone back safely from the hill walking - although one group did get back late (where could they have been?) We had a barbecue on the Saturday evening followed by the night's activities which included Charades and Draughts - but not like I've ever played them before. The novel way of disposing of your opponent's draughtsmen left me quite intoxicated with excitement - thanks Foreman, good game! On Sunday morning, just to clear our heads, we had some potted sports. After a quick clear up we brought everyone back safely - if just a little tired. One thing that sticks in the mind - and stuck to the ribs - was SSgt Alex Durnall's salmon and ham pasta dish covered by a sauce made from compo cheese, chicken soup and ham left over from the sandwiches. Thanks Alex, next time I want to re-lay my drive I'll give you a shout! It was a good weekend, made so by the enthusiasm of all who attended, and it left everyone asking for a similar Exercise next year - but please, please not Warcop!

THE ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS TA BAND (34 NORTHERN)

The Band programme of events for 1998 proved to be as equally busy as in previous years, despite a drastic reduction in the allocation of Man Training Days (MTDS). This regrettably, meant that events scheduled for Corps Units, 35 Sig Regt in Birmingham and 81 Sig Sqn in Colerne had to be cancelled.

One of the major events in the Band calendar for the early part of the year was the dinner for 39 (Skinners) Sig Regt held in Skinners Hall London. This was a magnificent setting for the Band to perform, albeit after making several attempts to locate the venue. However, the Tour of London' was free! Our next main event took us to RAF Digby in Lincolnshire where we performed for their 80th Anniversary and met new acquaintances in the Signal Squadron attached to RAF Digby. The only civilian engagement we had in our 1998 calendar took place in April at the Belfry Golf Club near Birmingham. This was to play at a charity dinner for the BACTA organisation, a subsidiary of Rank Leisure. Again the setting for the Band to perform in was magnificent.

The end of May saw the Band perform their first Marching Display of 1998 at the Catterick Garrison Open Day and Yorkshire Services Football Cup Final, The presence of the Band obviously inspired 2 Div Sig Regt who eventually overcame the RAF to win the Trophy! It is hoped that the one of the three parachutists bringing in the match ball and whose canopy failed to open until the last minute landed safely some distance from the football pitch. Had he been the one with the match ball we may well have still been waiting to kick off! The major Corps event for the Band this year was at the RSA weekend in Blandford where we linked up with the Corps Band and 32 Sig Regt Pipers to perform the Beating of Retreat Ceremony.

The Band Annual Camp for 1998 was held in Jersey, Channel Islands where the Band performed at Concerts Displays and Town Marches. It was also arranged for the Band members to brush up on their Medical Training. All in all a very busy work schedule, but one which presented excellent PR for the Corps, the Regiment and the Band. The Band continues to go from strength to strength and is currently fully established at 35 musicians, eight of which are female and twenty-two who are ex-regular musicians. The Band also played for the 39 Sig Regt Freedom Parade celebrations in Banbury in July and at 11 Sig Bde dinner in Donnington in October. It is hoped that even more Corps events can be added to the Band Calendar for 1999 MTDs permitting. Advance bookings for the Band can be made by contacting the Band PSI, SSgt Jim Robinson, on 01749 872313 or Catterick Military (773) 2313.

HATCHES AND DESPATCHES

A number of staffing changes have taken place since the beginning of the year and we have welcomed many new faces and said farewell to their predecessors. HQ Sqn have said farewell to Cpl Gordon Tumington and welcomed his replacement Cpl Simon Marsden. 48 Sqn meanwhile have bade a sad farewell to Cpl Mark Lynch on his discharge and wish him well in his future career as a civilian. 58 Sqn on the other hand have extended a welcome to Sgt Steve Colledge who arrived in January from 4 Armd Bde and has now settled into the TA environment. 89 Sqn, however, have endured almost a complete changeover of staff. They have said farewell to Sgt's Kevin Parkinson and Jock Reid and welcomed their replacements Sgt Andy Egan and Steve Crooks. The Squadron has also welcomed Cpl 'Wink' Watson to the fold who replaces Cpl Steve Saunders who has now left the Army to pursue a civilian career. 'Wink' is an FTRS volunteer and joins the Squadron from 58 Sqn who are naturally sad to lose him. Also welcomed to the Squadron in February was Cpl Martin Walton from his TI Course - we hope he is as competent a technician as he is a Map reader! Finally 95 Sqn have said farewell to Sgt Steve Pickering and his family on posting to Culford. The Squadron has also bade a particularly sad farewell to WO2 (SSM) Clive Winstanley who leaves the Squadron after 18 years service (eight of which were as SSM) on posting to HQ Sqn as RQMS TA.

A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVES

Fresh from her mobilised service in Bosnia Capt Helen Molyneux decided to continue her globe trotting when she volunteered to go on holiday; sorry, participate in Ex Transglobe over the Christmas Period. Ex Transglobe was the second leg of the Joint Services Round the World Yacht Race. What follows is her account of this tremendous voyage, which hopefully will bring some sunshine into all of our lives: Sun, blue sky, warm clear sea, white sandy beaches, fresh melon and pineapple washed down with champagne, early morning swims and snorkelling - definitely the way to spend Christmas Day. Antigua is a small island located in the West Indies, it has 365 beaches and here is where I spent two weeks, whilst preparing for the second leg of Ex Transglobe. I had been lucky to gain a last minute berth on HMSTC Racer, the RAF boat and joined the boat at English Harbour. Following a week of preparations repairing the generator, engine, sails and just about everything else we set sail on 29 December across the Caribbean Sea to Panama where the race would end. The start was really thrilling, with the three yachts in our group tacking back and forth to keep in the area of the buoy until the starter signal had been heard - then we were off.

Helen at the Wheel

The Army entry Broadsword took the initial lead but we kept fairly level with the Navy entry Adventurer, but there was very little between the boats for the first few hours. As we neared Montserrat the competition raced off in a Southerly direction and that was the last we saw of them until we finished the race. The race itself took six days and we reached speeds of up to 13.9 knots. When I took control of the helm I was extremely pleased at reaching a speed of 12 knots. During the race there was the usual rivalry between the boats with false positions being given to the various skippers (they were correct - just a couple of hours old). There were scenes of jubilation when we heard that Broadsword had lost a spinnaker and most of its halyards and celebrations when news came through that Adventurer had broken her boom. Within a few miles from the end we caught sight of Broadsword, but despite a last ditch effort to catch up they went on to finish and win the race. Needless to say I was delighted that the Army had won and even more delighted that Adventurer came in several hours later missing the victory party. After a couple of days in Colon (the second most dangerous city in the world according to US troops), we were woken by the pilot at the crack of dawn to prepare to transit the Panama Canal. The canal was not what we had expected; it is actually a lake with lock-gates at either end. There are three locks to enter the canal and two to leave, one of which is a double lock, known as Miraflores. Our progress through the canal was smooth, with only a few hairy moments when massive container ships got a little too close for comfort. After a day we were finally through to the Pacific. We spent our final six days cleaning the boat, visiting Panama, repairing new faults and enjoying some last minute sun-bathing. We also held a cocktail party, during which the crew of the Adventurer was presented with a new dinghy to replace the one they lost somewhere in the British Virgin Islands. It was a memorable and exciting fours weeks and, I am proud to say, I have finally conquered sea sickness!

PASS OFF PARADE

Our recruiting fortunes during the past year can only be described as mixed, but happily we continue to attract high quality recruits and the number of potential recruits walking through the doors of TA Centres has already begun to show a major improvement. This is not only due to the ongoing efforts of our excellent recruiting teams but also due to individual members of the Regiment introducing friends or work colleagues, which is proving to be a most effective way of attracting new blood. Happily another recruit course, the last of the year, passed off at Cateswell House on Sunday 13 December. Once again the parade was attended by family and friends to whom the CO, Lt Col Miles Stockdale, paid his traditional tribute. Following the parade recruits, their family and friends joined his instructors and Squadron representatives at a small reception held in the Sergeants Mess.

The best recruit and brother.

REFLECTIONS OF A GOLF DRIVER

A telephone from the Regimental Yeoman of Signals, WO2 Terry Burbidge requesting me to give some coverage to the Regimental Golf Team aroused my curiosity. Being a driver of the famous car marque I was almost convinced that he was forming a VW owners 'Golf Club'. Sadly I was mistaken, as he was anxious only to enlist my dubious photographic skills to cover the Regimental Golf Competition, which took place at the Belfry on Thursday 17 December. Following my introduction to the colourful golf terminology and rules of the game (yes they do exist) my confusion reigned supreme. Consequently I didn't know whether to Tee-Off or Pee-Off, but did discover that a sand-wedge left in the bar (which for some reason was called the 19th hole) was something you couldn't have with a cup of tee, even if a caddy was available! Obviously I was handicapped because these golfing terms were beginning to drive me mad. On my wander round the course, by now feeling a little under par, I fared no better when SSgt Stu Waring (the oldest swinger in town) sensing my bewilderment started talking about birdies in particular eagles and albatross's - that did it for me I took my final photograph, hitched a lift on a golf trolley and made my way to the 19th hole, went off my trolley, and had a cup of coffee!! I am, however, still left with many unanswered questions such as why every team member seemed determined to place their golf balls in the centre of a lake, rather than on the green? Why (I hasten to add with the exception of the CO, Lt Col Miles Stockdale, and his brother Chris who both had a remarkably good round and of course the Honorary Colonel Brig Ian Sim) do they all dress like Alan Partridge (is he their TV hero) rather than Nick Faldo, Tiger Woods, Ian Whatshisname or Bobby Clampett!

The CO and his brother on the green

Now that my interest has been aroused, however, I'm putting in for a golf course - all I need now are some irons, a pringle sweater and a funny hat! Joking apart I was left with a sense of admiration for this hardy group of sportsmen who relentlessly pursue their game no matter what the weather conditions and do not believe for one minute that it is just an excuse to get out of the office. Finally some results and acknowledgements. Firstly a special thank you to The Belfry Manager, Scott Jarvis and his staff for supporting the event and allowing our use of The Belfry and its facilities. Congratulations are also extended to Scott on winning the event and to Terry Burbidge for winning the longest drive and finally to FofS Pete Stowell and his family for winning just about everything else.

A jubilant Pete Stowell minus his family!

REGIMENTAL SPORTS

To maintain the sports theme now is a good opportunity to provide an update on the sporting activities that have taken place during the past couple of months starting with our intrepid Rugby Team captained by that immensely talented but equally 'modest, tactful and reserved' Capt Martin Pulwer who led his team to an impressive victory against the Sutton Coldfield Perthelians on Sunday 13 December. Unfortunately the Regimental team, despite a valiant effort, could only manage a draw on the return match on Sunday 7 February. The Rugby team at the moment appears to be streets ahead of the Regimental soccer team who desperately need strikers to reduce their goal deficit or a new manager (sorry chief) having lost eleven out of twelve games. It is rumour-mongered that our two goalies are in competition with each other, with Cpl 'Wink' Watson (who is to goal-keeping what Glen Hoddle is to Scope or what Joan of Arc was to fire-fighting) who let in twelve during the last game beating Capt 'Chopper' Kennedy's record of eight (the term chocolate ashtray on a motorcycle springs to mind). Team Captain, Sgt Rod Thomas is reportedly seeking counselling or the advice of the Manager of Nottingham Forest (Not)!

On a much lighter note the Regimental Sports competition started in a positive but relaxed manner with Netball that not surprisingly was won by HQ Sqn with 58 Sqn coming a close second. The Orienteering competition, expertly organised by SSgt Dave Arnot, took place at Lichfield on Sunday 24 January and produced no surprises either, with 89 Sqn as expected taking the team prize. Congratulations are extended however to SSgt Alf Holyoak whose timing of 39.02 on Course 13 qualified him as Regimental Champion and to Lt Anna Cliff who succeeded as Female Champion with a record breaking 23.37 on Course 15. Team members were also delighted to be joined by the Comd 11 Sig Bde, Brig Jonathan Cook who participated as a guest runner and very nearly won the runner up prize! The following Tuesday, teams gathered again at 58 Sqn for the indoor football competition. As expected this was a highly competitive, tough and fierce competition, points were at stake and the principal players were anxious to secure their ranking in the championship league. After some tough games during the evening and despite losing one of their key players 89 Sqn triumphantly overcome the opposition and won the day. They now trail HQ Sqn who are maintaining their position at the top of championship league. Next is Hockey, followed by Volleyball and Basketball so the competition is still wide open!

Needless to say, being in a TA unit at the moment is full of rumour and counter rumour, depending on whom you talk to or what you want to believe. I for one just get on and do my job until someone tells me to stop! Maybe by the time you are read this, the situation will have been resolved one way or another and we'll know what's happening to who and why. SNCO & JNCO CADRE COURSE JANUARY 1999

The Course is a promotion qualifying course for Signallers to LCpl and Corporals to Sergeant held over two concurrent weekends. The first weekend is an intake test and teaching weekend followed by a test weekend in the field. This year we had 21 Signallers and 10 Corporals all trying to qualify for promotion, a good turn out over recent years. The course was planned and organised by WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton on Stanford training area. The PSIs were given their subjects to teach and SSgt Martin Wright took up the challenge to run the admin side of things. The course started with a good old BFT at 0630hrs when it was still dark and misty led gently by Sgt 'Pegasus' Back. A quick shower and breakfast and onto the square to listen to the dulcet tones of Sgt 'Tasmanian' Tuff and the RSM's inspection. Before they knew it they were in the classroom for intake tests followed immediately by weapon handling tests, or was it a test of the instructor's patience? The rest of the day found the students learning all about squad control and Internal Security, then the JNCOs on navigation and the SNCO course on admin in the field and formal orders. After a long day scratching their heads it was off to the bar for a beer and study their test results. Sig Wilson and Cfn Izzard were looking strong on the JNCO course , but this was the teaching phase after all.

Sunday morning came all too quickly and there we were treading up the BFT route again trying to pass or improve their times. Some did, some didn't and some tried to help others who hadn't. More drill, vehicle navigation with Sgt Pete Stidwell or admin in the field with SSgt 'Satan' Sullivan followed by an IS practical with Sgt Laurence Jarvis and before we knew it we were all heading home for some well earned rest. A quick week in the office and 'Aaagh', it was the weekend again! This was the weekend to find out who could put into practice what had been previously taught. With stores issued and bergans on, we set off for our respective training areas, the JNCO course going through the slow time practicals, the SNCO course going a little faster! Sig Garfoot led the way as Patrol Comd showing grit and determination, but what he didn't know was that the SNCO course had been given orders to recce their harbour location, which they did quite successfully. With light fading and the temperature dropping, the JNCO course started to send out OPs and the SNCO course prepared to locate and attack them. This happened at 2100hrs and if I was an umpire I have to say that the JNCO OP would have taken out the SNCO patrol. After the fire-fight each course returned to its own location to carry out night time routine, until 0300hrs of course, when Cpl Romans was selected to receive the Platoon Commander's orders for the dawn attack, not much sleep there then!

At 0600hrs the Commanding Officer, Lt Col Jackie Allan TD, arrived at the RV point to be given a brief and pyro demo. By 0620hrs the CO and RSM were in position and 10mins later the JNCO course were given the traditional early morning wake-up call! The SNCO course advanced to the target and tactically stopped two feet short of the trip flares which lay in wait for them, much to the annoyance of SSgt 'Peacemaker' Pollitt. The banter will go on for weeks about who killed who etc etc, but all in all it was a good learning curve for all of the students. A quick breakfast and cleaning of weapons and before you knew it we were into an IS phase in the form of Op Wideawake followed immediately by a TEWT. The courses were mixed and divided into teams of three. 90 minutes later the teams handed in their solutions to the problem. After watching the teams on the ground and looking at their answers, it showed that they had put in a lot of thought and wanted to get it right and all were not far from the mark. An excellent way of carrying out IS training and certainly recommended to anyone looking for ideas.

After the course photo, it was onto the square for the final results. 'Top bananas' were Cpl King for the SNCO course and Cfn Izzard of the JNCO course, who was immediately promoted to LCpl and received the Top Student shield. I wonder who will be turning up for the next course?

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj D. Watson
SSM WO2 (SSM) M. Grimshaw

Recently it was decided to practice the Squadron at map reading and HF comms on a Sqn Comds weekend. The weekend started off with an orienteering competition at Waltham Abbey Country Park. The map reading skills were varied and this was denoted by the size of day sack or bergan that they were carrying! Some had obviously planned for an hour or two, some for a week or two.

Everyone was set off at three minutes intervals with Capt Alan Newbery leading at a brisk pace. Others set off more sedately, however due to heavy ground tremors; it seemed that the rumours of Sgt 'Babs' Babester breaking into a trot were well founded. As more people set off the competition hotted up, with Sig Rodwell and LCpl Hughie Rowlands in particular, warming up with more than the usual enthusiasm. LCpl Karen Nicholls would like to extend her gratitude to PG Tips for providing her tea urn that she carried around in her daysack because, as she says, 'I can't go for more than an hour without a cup of tea'. An enjoyable day was had by all and most managed to achieve all 24 checkpoints. Cpl Richie Fisher from the LAD was the first vet home, with LCpl Hughie Rowlands brushing aside the competition to start second to last and cruise home first for victory. A special mention must go to the gallant efforts of Sig Robbie Buhler who although only found a few checkpoints, managed to navigate back to the start muttering 'I never could master the left and right stuff, let alone north and south!'

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE TROOP

Tp Comd Capt (TOT) Alan Newberry
FofS WO2 (FofS) Steve Elsworthy

TM Troop has been a hive of activity lately (honest), with such things as the Corsham hub commitment and second line inspections prior to RSIT. So much so that the TOT and FofS have been doing some of the second line inspections, but that is only the latest rumour, has anyone actually seen them? Sgt Laurence Jarvis has been busy in the workshop while Sgt Kev East found a spare afternoon to go off and win the Army Angling Fur and Feather at Aldershot's Gold Valley Lakes. He came back with an impressive Christmas hamper but would like to know where the wine went. The Troop would like to say farewell and thank you to Sgt Kev 'Have you seen the iron?' Young and a warm welcome to Cpl Dana Grills and LCpl Dave Davidson. On a final note Messers East and Jarvis would to like to say to the TOT and FofS 'Keep up the good work, we're off skiing!' So after reading this... Crack on FofS!)

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

We say a big hello to SSgt Gaza Sullivan all the way from the CTT at Woolwich, who takes over at Bedford TAC, welcome and don't try to avoid your COs interview, (broken down rover my foot!) We have to say a sad farewell to two stalwarts of HQ Sqn, namely Mrs Iris Burton (How will we ever replace you?) and WO2 Mick O'Brien, thanks for all your hard work over the past years.

ANNIVERSARY LUNCH

On the 20 December 1998, 38 Sig Regt (V) hosted an Anniversary lunch for Brig Claude Fairweather CB CBE TD. The 94 year old retired Brigadier, who is a veteran of the Battle of Kohima, and his wife Alice were joined by the Corps hierarchy past and present to celebrate almost to the day the 70th Anniversary of his commissioning into the R Signals.

EXERCISE HEAD CHECK

This years CO's TESTEX was based at the Nesscliffe Training Area. The Regiment deployed under the pretence of a normal Regimental Comms Ex in the Midlands area, however, early on the Saturday morning, the true nature of Ex Headcheck was revealed.

The troops made their way to a camp near Donnington, where they were fed and watered, before they moved to Nesscliff Training Area and briefed on the scenario of a downed aircraft carrying a hazardous cargo. The RAF Fire Service provided a realistic crash site complete with lots of aircraft wreckage, smoke, fire and the odd corpse or two. The troops then watched as the fire was extinguished and the fire team left as quickly as they had arrived. This left the bewildered troops to pick up the task of dealing with casualties and cordoning the area.

Life was not to be so easy though; the Squadrons had to establish command posts that were quickly inundated with numerous tasks requiring the skilful management of their resources. These included house clearance, vehicle recovery, confidence courses, VCPs, search and dealing with the press. The torrential rain and gale force winds played an important part in the weekend. Up until the last minute, there was a distinct possibility that the troops might be required in their real time MACA role, to help local authorities overcome the problems posed by severe flooding of the River Severn. Nesscliff Training Area was at the centre of this alert, with a planned watermanship stand being curtailed due to the sheer volume of water.

When Endex was called, the troops retired to the warmth of the camp for a smoker. The final test was a number of inspections to test the R3 capability of the Regiment including vehicle documents, personal equipment, technical inspections and roadworthiness checks.

64 (CITY OF SHEFFIELD) SIGNAL SQUADRON (V)

The Sheffield based communicating squadron continued its charity activities with an Inverness to Loch Lomond cycle ride. The 9-person team completed the 200 mile trip in just three days using roads and tracks for the most direct route. This event is one of a series of fund raising activities in aid of the Leukaemia ward of the Royal Hallamshire Hospital in Sheffield. To date the combined effort of the Regiment and The Fairleigh Club has raised over £3000 to provide direct benefits for the recovering and terminally ill patients of the hospital.

EXERCISE NIGEL'S REVENGE

WO2 (SSM) Nigel Caldicott organised another one of his infamous military training weekends, cadets from Nottingham and Long Eaton joined in the fun by acting as enemy. The tough guys of the Squadron, famous for their participation on these weekends changed roles and carried out the DS tasks with a 'sadistic' enjoyment. Cpl Paton confessed that he had felt quite stressed getting things to happen 'to the plan'. Others involved in planning the weekend with the 'Master of Darkness' (SSM/SL) were Cpl Dion Brittain, Cpl Ibbey Nevill and Cpl 'Deer Hunter' Willmer. Well done lads, you may now get more to organise!

CONGRATULATIONS ON PROMOTION

Congratulations on promotion go to the following members of the Squadron: SSgt Frank McCubbin to WO2 (YofS), Cpl Stu Nesbitt to Sgt, LCpls Nevill, Willmer, de la Billiere and Brittain to Cpl, Sigs Duffin, Doran and Rawlings to LCpl. There have been major changes in the Squadron management team. We say farewell to Maj Tom 'McTavish' McCappin who goes for a well deserved rest to the 'Wendy House' as Regimental 2IC, and Maj Andy 'Rumpole' Smith, who has gone on promotion to be OC 64 Sig Sqn in Sheffield. A warm welcome to Maj David Tomlinson, our new OC. Welcome back to Sgt Mandy Jones who has just returned from nearly a year in Bosnia.

SDR EFFECTS

The Squadron's Recruiting Team (SSgt Chrissy Bull, Cpl 'The Valkerie' Helen Mountney and Cpl Ibbey Nevill) are extremely busy persuading soldiers from infantry units to join the Squadron following SDR.

NATIONAL VOCATIONAL QUALIFICATION SUCCESS

Three members of the Squadron have just attained a Level 2 NVQ in Telecommunications: Cpls Andy Doran, Ibby Nevill and LCpl Jason Rawlings. Congratulations to them on a first for the TA, Corps and Regiment. Congratulations also to the two qualified assessors for all their efforts, WO2 (FofS) Frank McCubbin and Sgt Carol 'MS NVQ' Lee.

NVQ Practical, Sgt Crogan and Cpl Doran

Finally, happy birthday to Capt Bev Swift who leaves the Flirty Thirties and joins the Naughty FORTIES, The question is asked, 'Why didn't the Adjt get an invite to the party?' Answers please to the Squadron.

The last few months have seen the Regiment continue in a busy vein. On returning from the Christmas break, it was straight back in to a Regimental Training Weekend and the Brigade Study Period. The soldiers' trade skills and the Officers' knowledge of the Corps of which they are a part, were both immensely improved! Two weeks later the Regiment were on parade again for Ex Bronze Lynx - the first Regimental Comms Exercise of three. The Exercise was very successful with our tradesmen getting their first chance to brush up on rusty skills since Annual Camp - it was just like riding a bike! The Regiment would also like to welcome Sgt Norman, PSI Tech for HQ Sqn who joins us from Blandford. We hope you enjoy your stay.

1998 PRESENTATION OF LORD LIEUTENANT'S CERTIFICATES AND AWARDS
by LCpl Taylor

We assembled at the Artillery Grounds, Whiteladies Road, at 2.30 on 29 November 1998. There were many awards and presentations for members of both the Reserve Forces and the Cadets, with representatives from the Army, Navy and Air Force. Of the six Lord Lieutenant's Certificates being presented, four of them were to people from 39 Sig Regt: SSgt Burn Sgt Marsh, LCpl Taylor and Arthur Cheetham, who is now a civilian driver with the Regiment.

A Citation for each individual was read and mine was found to be rather humorous since I started in the RNR then on reorganisation moved to 37 Sig Regt (V), then on reorganisation moved to 71 (Yeomanry) Sig Regt (V), then on reorganisation again moved to 39 (Skinners) Sig Regt ('V). I was also presented with my Long Service and Good Conduct Medal and Bar. I had been looking forward to this presentation for a long time - a real milestone in my Reserve Forces' career.

After the presentation, photographs were taken and light refreshments given which finished the afternoon off very well. It had been a very pleasant day. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Col Crackett, Capt Pengelley, Capt Cullen and any other officers who have helped me over the years to make these awards possible.

1998 was an excellent year for the Squadron. A full and interesting training programme kept everyone occupied. The Squadron was granted the Freedom of Banbury with a parade taking place on 5 July 1998 and the Mounting of an Exhibition at the County Museum and the publication of a book to celebrate the Bi-centenary of the Queen's Own Oxfordshire Hussars. We have said farewell to Maj Paul Wenlock who commanded the Squadron and takes the full responsibility and all the credits for the events during 1998. We welcome back to the Squadron Maj Robert Stone who took command on 1 October 1998. We also bid farewell to SSgt Andy Baird who left us on promotion to join Exeter University UOTC. In his place we welcome SSgt 'Scouse' Simcock who has already attended Annual Camp, RTW 1, 2 and 3 and a 14 day Exercise in the Canary Islands - See Separate Report to see how arduous it was!!

THE YEOMANRY EXHIBITION
(QUEER OBJECTS ON HORSEBACK)

Following 12 long months of fund raising and collecting memorabilia by the Yeomanry Trust Members and the PSAO, an exhibition to celebrate the 200 Years of Oxfordshire Yeomanry was opened at the County Museum in Woodstock by the Duke of Marlborough on 20 November 1998. Her Royal Highness The Princess Royal who met Trustees, Members of the Squadron and QOOH Old Comrades Association, also visited the exhibition on 17 December 1998. The Corps TA Band led by SSgt Jim Robinson travelled down for the evening to provide a splendid fanfare. The exhibition will be touring Oxfordshire for the next 18 months. The Trust have published a book The Story of The Oxfordshire Yeomanry 1798 - 1998, £8.95 incl. p&p. Copies of the book and the dates and locations of the exhibition are available from the Trust Secretary on 01295 262178.

VISIT BY BRIGADIER S. G. HUGHES CBE, COMMANDER 2 (NATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS) BRIGADE & COTSWOLD GARRISON TUESDAY 19 JANUARY 1999

The Squadron Commander welcomed Brig Hughes to Banbury on an extremely wet and miserable training night. It was his first visit to 5 Sqn and Banbury. The Commander met all the officers and was then given a fully detailed brief on the Squadron. He then toured the garages and workshops meeting squadron personnel preparing vehicles and equipment for Ex Bronze Lynx.

THE SQUADRON CHRISTMAS FUNCTION 1998

On Saturday 12 December 1998 the Annual Squadron Christmas Party was held in the TAC. The organisers, Cpl (Now Sergeant) Milner, Cpl Mark 'Buster' Taylor and Steve 'Big Boy' Brady must receive special thanks for all the hard work in putting together a marvellous event.

The evening started with a bang with pre-dinner drinks, followed by a sumptuous banquet prepared by our own Master Chef, Sgt (Now Staff Sergeant) Lee Kavanagh, Cpl J. C. Nick Hawkins, LCpl Sharon Scutt and Pte Sean Buckley. After such a fine spread and in the absence of the PSI (Ops), SSgt 'Scouse' Simcock on duty in the Canary Islands! the PSI (Tech) Sgt Robbie 'I'm on Resettlement Sir' Hall presented LCpl Sharon Scutt with the much coveted PSI Trophy for the most improved soldier for 1998. The after dinner speeches were led by the OC, Maj Robert 'Helium' Stone, who made a presentation to his predecessor Maj Paul Wenlock. The OC also promoted Sgt Kavanagh and Cpl Milner. Well earned and congratulations to both of you. After the meal everyone retired to the bar where to the sheer amazement of all, including her husband Ash, the Adjt Capt Bobby 'Tinkerbell' Davis rang the bell. An invite for next year has already been sent to RHQ. Much more drinking, dancing and singing followed, led by SSgt Paul Johnson and fellow chicken fancier Cpl Kev Durno. Once more, thanks to the committee and chefs for a fantastic event.

FULL TIME RESERVE SERVICE (FTRS)

We wish Cpl Nick Hawkins every success in Fallingbostel with the RHF on his 12 months FTRS. Hope Bosnia is good, and Sharon misses you

CONGRATULATIONS

Well done to our two ACTC Pay Clerks, Pte Lizzy Matthews and Pte Scott (I came top Sir) Garthley on passing their Class 2 Course.

OPERATION NEW WORLD - AN ADVENTURE IN THE SUN

by SSgt 'Scouse' Simcock

The story goes something like this: On a dull, rainy Monday morning at the end of November 1998 the Regt YofS, WO2 Mark 'Fluffy Head' Whiting phoned up SSgt (PSI Ops) 'Scouse' Simcock at the TAC in Banbury. 'Scouse, there is a fast ball been thrown round. I need a volunteer from around the Regiment to go away in two weeks time to the Canary Islands to take nineteen women and four blokes on a civilian run course. If you know anybody that would like to go will you let me know as soon as possible?'

Once I picked myself up off the floor and stopped laughing I asked him if this was an early April Fool's joke - to which I don't think he realised what I was on about! Now what you must remember is that 'Fluffy Head' is not quite as quick on the uptake as most normal people. However, I eventually managed to persuade him that I would be the ideal candidate for the job - that is suave, intelligent, witty and desperate to go anywhere in the sun for free! After getting permission from the kindly Capt Bob Sheldon (PSAO) and trying to keep it a secret from as many people as possible (especially Sgt Robbie Hall, PSI Tech) and all the PSIs in the Regiment until it was confirmed I was on it, I then let it be known to as many people as possible. It was then a case of trying to get everything ready as quickly as possible. Fine details had to be worked out, for example, how many sunbed sessions would I be able to get in before I left (14 sessions in the end!) and what was the exchange rate at the moment?

The day of departure eventually came and I met up with everybody at Gatwick Airport. The first person I was to meet was SSgt 'Tel' Smith, 38 Sig Regt (V) (REME) - he was the other regular soldier attached for the 'Op'. 'Tel' had just had an operation on a certain part of his anatomy and was finding it quite difficult to walk without it being extremely painful - a fact that I was to chuckle over the next few days! In charge of Op New World was Miss Anne Leonard MA. She was the driving force behind the whole operation and an inspiration to all the students. This was Anne's 8th Op New World. She ran them all completely voluntarily and in her own time. Along with Anne were the two lecturers Dr Colin Ryall and Tim Jenkins MA.

Op New World is a self-help programme designed for young unemployed (18-25) and its main aim is to get participants off the unemployment register and into worthwhile jobs. Since it started in 1995 the success rate so far has been 90%. Applicants come from all over the UK working in partnership with Farnborough College of Technology. The programme provides a unique opportunity for young people to get restarted. There are three parts to the course all designed to enhance their teamwork, study skills in Environmental Science and practice these skills learnt on the two week fieldwork trip to the Canary Islands.

We spent two weeks on La Gomera, an island off Tenerife, doing forest regeneration in the Garajonay National Park. Much of that two weeks, Tel and I actually spent doing mundane every day army things like unblocking the toilets, cooking breakfast, cleaning up and basically being a jack of all trades and master of absolutely none! The normal admin jobs that every squaddie becomes adept at! We also had to take the students out every day on little 'hikes' up mountains (for which we never got thanked). Other lessons taught were survival skills, first aid skills, map reading skills - we even managed to get some night navigation in (well it was a 10 minute walk from the Spanish bar to the 'luxurious school' we were staying in). Fortunately we managed to spend a small amount of time at the beach - not as much time as we spent with some of the students in the local hospital where we became regular visitors, sprained arms, legs, infections, oh and of course Tel's little problem with his operation! However, my sunbed sessions back in Blighty came in rather useful as it meant I could go straight on the beach and cover myself in coconut oil!

The time came when we all had to depart and with duty frees all bought and packed away we returned to a rather cold Gatwick and thoughts returned of Xmas and what Santa was going to bring us all. Op New World was an experience not only for the civilian students but for me as well. It was very different being in charge of 24 civilian students and lessons were learnt on all sides. Hopefully now they have all got different ideas as to what a squaddie is really like and on my part I now don't think that environmental students are tree-hugging, eco-warriers ready to strap themselves to the nearest tree - well not all anyway!!!!!

Finally, Op New World is an incredible success and is well worthwhile. The drive and enthusiasm of the students and the lecturers amazed me at times. I was very privileged to take part in this field work trip and recommend this to anyone who would be interested in helping out. If anybody is interested in Op New World please send a SAE to me and I will get back to them as soon as possible!

Happy Xmas and New Year and may there be peace and goodwill in the New Year - along with a nice win on the lottery for all concerned at 5 (QOOH) Sqn in Banbury.

Miss Anne Leonard AM founder of Op New World and SSgt 'Scouse' Simcock outside the school

The Squadron says a fond farewell to Sig Liz Blaber who is transferring to 265 (KCLY) Sig Sqn in order to combine her TA training with her studies at Sussex University. We wish her well and thank her for her service with the Squadron.

WELCOME

The Squadron welcomes LCpl David Liddle who joins us from 57 Sig Sqn in Cheltenham. We hope he enjoys his service with the Squadron.

VISIT OF COMMMANDER 2 (NC) SIGNAL BRIGADE TO CHELMSFORD

The Squadron received a visit from Comd 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Brig S. G. Hughes CBE. 882 Sig Tp from Harlow also attended the training evening. The Comd was initially briefed by the Sqn Comd and was then taken on a tour of the TAC, commencing at the Officers' Mess where he had coffee with the Officers and SNCOs. He continued his visit and saw Operators undergoing trade training in the classroom, Technicians under instruction in the workshops and the DE's and Dvr Lmn in the garages. At the end of his tour the Command addressed all ranks before moving on to an informal buffet with all ranks in the Squadron bar.

NEWS FROM THE SQUADRONS

1 (ROYAL BUCKINGHAMSHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (SPECIAL COMMUNICATIONS)

Sqn Comd	Maj D. S. Raleigh
SSM	WO2 (SSM) D. Scott

It seems an eternity since the Squadron last featured in The Wire, but that's what happens when you're a busy operational unit. August saw the departure of Maj Gordon Duncan to Blandford. Maj Duncan commanded 602 Troop in Bicester, before the formation of 1 (RBY) Sig Sqn (SC) in Bletchley. The Squadron is immensely grateful to Maj Duncan for his hard work and dedication in what was a very challenging period. In his place Maj David Raleigh has made good his escape from HQNI and seems to have found excuses to visit most parts of the world already. At the same time the 2IC, Capt Julian Gregory also felt it was time to move on and we have welcomed Capt David Goddard from 94 (BY) Sig Sqn. Capt Ros Brown could not put off AJD any longer and handed over to Capt Richard Newhouse, another refugee from the Province. We wish Capt Brown the best off luck at AJD and subsequently at 35 Sig Regt.

The busy Autumn training programme started with the biennial camp at Jersey Camp in the Isle of Wight. This was an intense period of trade training culminating in a test exercise at Thetford. Time was also found for an NCOs cadre course, a fun packed sports day overseen by a slightly biased WO2 (YofS) 'Ginge' Willlimont and unfortunately PT including a stretcher race... thanks for that, Sgt 'JD' Dennison. The Camp was extremely successful and with the qualifications awarded, promotions were soon to follow.

EXERCISE SAFFRON SANDS 1998 - JORDAN
by LCpl Wayne Miller

Every year the resident Infantry Battalion in Cyprus holds overseas Training Exercises in the Middle East. 1 (RBY) Sig Sqn (SC) have provided a rear link detachment for the Exercises for the last three years. With 1998 being no exception, Cpl Ann 'I'm a networking guru for the REME' Coombs and myself had the pleasure of joining 1st Battalion Light Infantry in the deserts of Jordan for five weeks, throughout the months of October and November.

After the obligatory delays with the flight, we finally arrived in Jordan. The journey to Camp Habib from the airport was provided by a local bus company, and to say that it was scary would be an understatement. Was the driver asleep or just visually impaired? That we will never know, but the phrase 'white knuckle ride' springs to mind. With communications to Cyprus swiftly established, Jim and I began to adapt to Battalion life. Speaking from my own personal experience, I strongly advise all Corps personnel who are attached to the Infantry, not to address 'Colour Sergeants' as 'Staff' Whoops! Halfway through the Exercise our boss Maj David 'Honestly, I've never played Black Jack in my life' Raleigh flew out to Jordan and paid the detachment a visit. Not one to shy away from the hardships of being a real soldier, he declined the RQMS' offer of a luxury bed in the officers mess, and joined 'his boys' in roughing it on the floor in our 12 x 12! Good on you boss.

The detachment was lucky enough to be included in the excellent R&R package that the Battalion had put together. A visit to the Dead Sea was one of the biggest highlights. Speaking from personal experience, I strongly advise anyone who is going to be swimming in a sea with the highest salt content in the world not to have a shave prior to doing so! It really, really hurts. We also managed to visit the ancient city of Petra, and do some sea canoeing, and diving, in the Gulf of Aqaba. On returning to Camp Habib, Cpl Jim Coombs kindly volunteered me to represent the detachment at the remembrance parade which the Battalion was holding. What I did not realise, was that I would have to learn Light Infantry drill in the space of five minutes. Let's just say that I didn't quite cut the mustard! All in all, the Exercise was a great success for the detachment.

EXERCISE RUNNEL STONE 1999

Ex Runnel Stone is one of the most exciting Exercises of the year, held annually in different regions of Denmark. Designed primarily to test the Danish Home Guard, the Squadron invites various airborne and special forces Royal Signals units to recce and then attack installations which the Danes are guarding. This Exercise has a considerable history and attracts considerable interest within Denmark, from both the military and the civilian populations.

The Squadron deployed an advance party by ferry to set up communications at safe houses around the region. The main party then deployed on Friday evening, by C130 from Luton Airport to Tactical Landing Zones on the Danish coast. The TA soldiers love it - at 1600hrs there're at their civilian job, three hours later they're on patrol in Scandinavia!! Over the next 36 hours an intense period of close target recces, comms schedules, visits and attacks took place at a furious pace, before both sides declare victory at endex. Sunday afternoon the main party then board the C130 back to Luton for 1600hrs. Phew, what did you do at the weekend?

All in all, this was a very successful Exercise for the Squadron (and perhaps we'll invite you next time, if you're still with us MC). Next year should be bigger and better, with para infiltrations for those who've done the course.

THE LOOK FORWARD

Relaxation in a sunny climate was required and the OC and YofS got the latter, haring around at a very silly pace, considering the temperature in America and Bermuda for two weeks. All that for the recce of our three week Ex Global Lynx 3 to be held in March - if they'd tried to seek sympathy, their pleas would have fallen on deaf ears!! Watch this space for details of Ex Global Lynx 1. Back in the UK (briefly) Maj David 'I think I went to Bletchley once' Raleigh went off to visit more of the chaps, and WO2 (YofS) 'Ginge' Willimont took Sgt 'I work for the Foreman, honest' Marvel off to Norway, to recce the forthcoming skiing holiday (That is - 'communications exercise'). The year finished with a cracking Christmas party and a deserved break over the festive period, although 1999 looms with a range of Exercises in many countries throughout the world. It's a hard life.

EXERCISE SHORT LYNX

Whilst all the overseas exercises give the Squadron a chance to practice long range HF, basic comms skills need to be practised and honed to a fine edge. This is where the Short Lynx Exercises come in. Ex Short Lynx 7, in December, was just such a weekend exercise using training areas in Piddington, Hullavington and Bramcote (thanks, 30!) as well as our own TA Centre. Thanks to the efforts of SSgt 'Deano' Poole and Sgt Colin Roberts it proved a very successful deployment.

633 Tp are responsible for the Base Detachments. LCpls Sue Jordan and Sarah Jakeman put the youngsters through their paces, and although Sig Stu 'Sausage Fingers' Adams managed to delete half of the messages most of the traffic got out to the field eventually. 602 Troop's LCpl Flo Jordan was more concerned about simple survival up in Bramcote, as his crewman Cpl Luke 'Golden Boy' Stanley had managed to forget to pack both the heater and any pans to cook on. Ex Short Lynx 8 was a similar deployment organised by Lt Angus 'Paper Boy' Evers. Hoping that some of the success of 'Station X' would rub off, SSgt Debbie Stock deployed her Transportable Base to Bletchley Park and started decrypting messages about U-Boats. By Saturday morning, though, LCpl Paul Evans had reminded her that the War was over and comms to the field had been established.

In the meantime, Cpl Mark Gott had deployed his field det to Piddington, not exactly the home of creature comforts but an awful lot warmer than Hullavington where he had been on Short Lynx 7. Just recently promoted, Cpl 'Gotty' was keen to demonstrate his leadership abilities, dragging LCpl Paul Dalton out of the stores because 'he's a grafter and makes a mean egg banjo'. Hopefully he may have to do some work when in Belize next month!

VISIT OF THE DCINC LAND - MAJ GEN J. D STOKOE CBE
by LCpl Thompson

On the morning of the 3 November 1998, the Unit was visited by the DCinC Land, Maj Gen J. D. Stokoe CBE. The visit involved a brief visit onto the Squadron vehicle park to meet the troops followed by coffee with the Officers and Seniors which included a medal presentation with Brig N. R. Parker, Comd 20 Armd Bde in attendance. Cpl Calum Black was presented with his LS & GC for 15 years without getting caught, Sig Bowring was presented with his NI medal and finally myself LCpl Thompson was presented with my Joint Commanders Commendation for Op Resolute. Our wives were also presented with flowers and champagne was opened by the OC and RSM (pictured) to toast the recipients. It was a day in my career I will never forget as it is not very often you get to see an officer so far up the 'ladder' let alone speak to him. I must confess though that for once being known as 'Gobby' Thomo was a bit untrue as I was totally stuck for words. A meal was laid on for the recipients and all the families, seniors and Corporals from the Squadron. I would like to thank the OC and RSM for a memorable day and congratulate Cpl Black and Sig Bowring for their well deserved medals.

ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS SKIING CHAMPIONSHIP 1998

The Corps championships began on the 5 December 1998 for the Squadron's ski team. The team consisted of Lt Rhidian Jones, Lt Paul Randell, Cpl Ray McLeod, and LCpl Morgan Lewis. After spending an hour trying to leave camp due to the wrong type of snow falling, the team was off on what was to be a mammoth trip to Kaprun, Austria. If it wasn't for the fact that German Autobahns are all heated by underground radiators (a fact pointed out by LCpl Morgan Lewis) the team may not have got there at all.

Sixteen hours after leaving Paderborn, we arrived in Zell am See, just in time to begin skiing the same morning. The remainder of the Corps ski teams except the Brigades, had arrived two weeks earlier and already had an advantage over our very inexperienced minor unit team. The first week involved ski training, an hour on the slope at the end of the day to ski like lunatics and finally back home for a little snooze. Then followed LCpl Lewis' special compo surprise, a couple of beers and then off to 'Crazy Daisies' the local night spot for a 'couple of jars' until the early hours.

The second week was race week. The team had now found their race legs and were raring to go, first stop the Individual Giant Slalom. LCpl Lewis was first to go, having the greatest amount of seed points, next to go was Cpl Ray McLeod, followed by Lt Randell, and finally myself the illustrious captain with an all time low seeding of 61st out of 74. When I arrived at the bottom of the slope, my worst nightmare had come true. Three snow covered racers resembling my team, had all fallen, and all had set a precedent for the rest of the week. As a team we were destined to do badly, but all had gained a taste for racing in their first season and all were itching to return next year to set the records straight.

EXERCISE PIPEDOWN XXXIV
DIVISIONAL SKIING CHAMPIONSHIPS 1999

The Divisional ski championships, began in early January in Les Contamines, France in the shadow of the great Mont Blanc. The ski team had one change to that of the Corps, with Lt Randell losing his place to the Chief of staff Maj Tim Lai. With the inclusion of the 'Skier from Geneva', the team was greatly improved, and looked quite formidable. That was of course until we all started falling with great style once again. The week passed quickly without event, except Chamonix and Hotel a la Bank foyer, but some things are best kept quiet. The OC, Maj Richardson MBE arrived towards the end of the week with his illustrious driver, the 2IC, Capt Nick O'Kelly. Before we knew it the championships were over and the prize giving was upon us. A congratulations goes to Maj Tim Lai, for winning the Individual Slalom, the Veterans Individual Slalom, and the Veterans Individual Combination. A well done also goes to the team for coming third in the Minor Units Team event and for winning the scruffiest team award. To all the other teams, all the best and we look forward to 'Crazy Daisies' next year.

BRITISH ARMY (GERMANY)
INTER UNIT BADMINTON CHAMPIONSHIPS 1999

The Championships were held at Hammersmith Barracks on the 8/9 February 1999. The unit entered a team under the organisation and training of Capt Mick Bohanan. After two weeks of training the team pairs were chosen and a battle plan drawn up. The plan was simple, pair one Capt Bohanan and Cfn Ritchie Stoneman would win all of their games because they were unbeatable, pair two Cpl Roberts (RLC) and WO1 Graham Du-prat would then win some and lose some, and pair three WO2 Dave Bobbett and Sgt Rog Moore would hopefully pick up the odd point here and there.

With the plan in place we started the day with high expectations of trophies and medals only to be beaten by last years runners up 32 Engr Regt 3-0. However, the team bounced back well winning against 2 RTR 3-0, 2 CGS 3-0 and then 3 AAC 3-0, This set up a thrilling last match against HQ 1 (UK) Armd Div with second place up for grabs. The first match Cpl Roberts and WO1 Graham Du-prat was a heated confrontation which went right down to the wire (excuse the pun), however, HQ 1 (UK) Armd Div scraped a 2-1 win which meant our next two teams must win in order to achieve 2nd place. So, next up were Sgt Roger Moore and WO2 Dave Bobbet who, despite being our weaker team achieved a good 2-0 win. This meant that the very last game would decide the final positions. Capt Mick Bohanan and Cfn Ritchie Stoneman went into the final game confident of victory but found their opponents equally as determined to win. The match was played at a great but skilful pace which entertained the watching crowd to the end, but unfortunately, HQ 1 (UK) Armd Div triumphed 2-1 to take this years' runners up place.

The final positions were as follows:

Winners	32 Engr Regt
Runners up	HQ 1 (UK) Armd Div
2rd Runners up	20 Armd Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (200)

A special mention must go to our captain and coach Capt Mick Bohanan who recently won the open doubles and the veterans doubles while bunking off work at Chilwell in the UK, well done.

ALPHA TROOP

by Cpl McDonald

Tp Comd — Lt R. Jones
Tp SSgt — SSgt M. Payne

As Alpha Tp moved from the old year to the new, the workload was increased in preparation for the up-coming RSIT inspection due in February, with some notable grafting and good first and second line inspection results from all but Sigs Bruce Morrison and Mat Dorling in particular. This was mainly due to the amount of personnel that were on courses and detachments. These included: LCpl Andy Nolan (Class 1 Upgrading), Sgt Steve Mayell (SAA) and Sig Mat Coverly (PTI), courses which they all passed. We also wish luck to Cpl Don Garner (SAA), LCpl Ross Thurbron (RSCC) and Cpl John Reardon (DMI's again) on their various courses. We should also mention LCpl Keith Knox who has the pleasure of spending the winter at BATUS and the 'Sin-Bin' in particular.

We would like to say farewell to LCpl Crowder on his posting to 1 Mech Bde and Cpl McDonald who is moving to 30 Sig Regt and welcome LCpl Benson, and Sigs Brough, Hepworth and Wilkinson into the Troop. Congratulations go out to: Bruce and Corrie Morrison and the birth of their daughter Courtney, Ross and Kirsty Thurbron on the birth of their son Ethan and finally Andy Nolan and Sarah Booker on the birth of their daughter Hannah.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd — Lt P. N. Randell
Tp SSgt — Sgt J. Crabb

The run up to Xmas whilst largely an alcoholic blur was considerably eased for the B Fleet crew thanks to Sig Rachel Reeve and Sig Steve Bowring. Thankfully the shipment of calendars arrived intact, if only the same could be said for the Rover! Post Christmas, the Troop immersed itself in an alternating cycle of pre-RSIT maintenance and PT. Newly appointed PTI Sig Andy Moss descended upon the Troop and Squadron like an avenging angel. His mission to fight Christmas flab has been executed with a vengeance. Will we survive or is the Squadron soon to be manned by waifs with arms like Garth? Watch this space!

Congratulations to LCpl Tony Ramwell and LCpl John Spinks on their first (better late than never Spinksy!) and to Lt Randell on saving his last cornflake token and dropping the '2nd'. A large welcome to Cpl Tris Dunbar who gains the Fleet Managers hot seat and goodbye to LCpl Evans to Ireland.

SUPPORT TROOP

Farewell to Sgt Deegan and his wife Anne off to Bruggen and in his place we'd like to welcome Sgt Leigh Northeast and his wife Silvia. We hope they enjoy their tour here and don't find it too stressful. We would also like to welcome Sig Sarah Billany from the factory, the learning curve starts here! Congratulations to LCpl Chris Mooney and his wife Mirelle on the birth of their daughter Brittany

MAINTENANCE TROOP

A warm welcome to the new arrivals, namely Sgt Nigel Kenyon and his wife Caroline from 7 Sig Regt. Also welcome to Cpl Al Crossman, LCpl James Alexander, Dave Trot and Cfn Richard Stoneman and his wife Michelle. Also welcome to LCpl Darren Ormiston and his wife Christine. Hope you have all settled in now and have a great tour with the Squadron. Goodbye and goodluck to Cpl Leslie Jay who's off to 1 Sqn (Special Comms), well done on passing the course. Also farewell to Cpl Mark Evans and his wife Lisa, not moving very far to the Unit down the road, QRH. A very quiet period as far as activities go, but a very busy month work wise, what with 1st lines, 2nd lines and now to top it all RSIT around the corner, what more joys are they going to throw at us.

42 DISTANZMARCH THUN SWITZERLAND
5 DECEMBER 1998

The 'Black Rats'

Preparation for the Lanyard Trophy started early this year, with some light training before Christmas culminating in our entry to the 42 Distanzmarch, in Thun Switzerland. This was a march against the clock, the aim, to cover the greatest distance in the allotted time. It was an arduous course in and around the area of Thun, with a team of ten men, each carrying 20/25lbs. The march started at 1400hrs, to ensure that teams covering the greater distances would complete their march during darkness. We set off at a good pace and in high spirits, with a fresh snowfall from the night before, but the sun was shining. Our route took us around the large lake outside Thun, passing through several control points where each team member had a control card stamped by a Swiss army official. We maintained a good pace and completed the first half of the course in 3½hrs, some 15 miles, sporting our BLACK RAT T-shirts. However, once we had lost the light, the temperature plummeted, hats coats and warm jackets were the order of the day. Unfortunately the melting snow also now had frozen, causing a considerable problem underfoot. This second half of the course seemed to drag on, but eventually we arrived at the finish at 2135hrs, having completed some 33 miles - the greatest distance covered by any of the 130 teams who entered the march.

During the prize giving the next morning, each team member received a medal, the team received a ceremonial bayonet and Napoleonic snowshoe both inscribed. At this point it was also announced that the BLACK RATS, were the first ever British Army team to enter the march in its 42 year history. I would like to thank all the team for their efforts in training and in the march, and welcome any new members. (Hope you like blisters).

OSCAR TROOP

Tp Comd — Lt R. J. Odling
Tp SSgt — SSgt K. Johnson

Oscar Tp would like to take this opportunity to welcome the following people to the Troop, SSgt Johnson, Sgt Oliver, Sig Cole, Sig Roberts, and Sig Trotter. On a sadder note we say farewell to SSgt Heaton (11 Sig Regt) and Sig 'Dodge' Dodgeson (30 Sig Regt) the Troop wishes them the best of luck in the future. Also we welcome back LCpl Smith after six months at BATUS Canada.

Four members of the Troop took part in the Squadron's Skiing Exercise (Ex Snow Rat) in Austria. This was held in Zell-Am-Zee over November and December 1998. We managed to stay out of barracks (and hospital) for a full month in training in Alpine Skiing, ski touring and cross-country skiing. The Squadron's two ski instructors Sgt 'Homer' College and LCpl 'Nige' Stiff managed to plan an excellent training programme that taught us how to ski down the slopes, then across them before going up them and eventually into the mountainside with snow holes. Hard graft from day 1! Ski touring and cross-country training seemed to still be a novelty, at least for tourists in Zell-Am-Zee, so we certainly stuck out from the crowd. This was more because of our lack of style than anything and helped during Apres Ski when certain members of the exercise only managed a few lines of conversation before falling asleep (even when not talking to Lt 'Crash' Odling). Despite this, we all enjoyed ourselves thoroughly, learnt a great deal about skiing and continued to get paid for the duration of the Exercise. You can't say fairer than that.

LCpl Rob Sirgnano with his explosive handbag

RANGE DAY WITH A DIFFERENCE

by Sig Kev 'Pepperami' Bishop & Sig Nigel 'Old Man' Wilcox

It all started early with a nice leisurely drive to Haltern, which took twice the time due to Sig Tony 'Marlon' Brandon's 'ability' to drive. Once there the range was set up, briefs given and it was time to test our skills on the out door trainer with some expert tuition from Cpls 'Gaz' Christie and Andy 'Scouse' Delaney. There were some good 'K' Kills, much to the excitement of Sgt Dickie 'Range God' Dyer. Then it was time to fire the 94mm Rocket something that only two of us had done before. The 45 LAWs were unpacked and were kept under the watchful eye of WO2 RQMS Vince McNaught who for all we knew had acquired them off the back of a lorry.

WO2 Vince McNaught asleep with his rocket

With Sigs Bishop and Fiona 'Fifi' Francis to fire first, they were joined in the firing bays by the safety instructors and a good job too, because they were needed for the very first rocket which refused to fire. It was up to Sgt Dickie Dyer to make it safe and remove it from the range, to be disposed of safely. With little drama the rockets were fired until it was time for Sig Nige Wilcox the most nervous man on the day to fire his. After some slick drills and good spotter rounds it was time for a big bang, only we got a small fizz, and shout of 'CHECKFIRE' and a very distinct smell, after 60 seconds the rocket was made safe and Sig Wilcox ran like the clappers, shame it wasn't his BFT! All that remained was to destroy the two misfires. WO2 Mcnaught and Sgt Dickie Dyer took on this enviable task. After planting the PE they too made admirable BFT times before the biggest bang of the day. A special mention must be made to LCpl Robert 'Efficiency' Sirignano, who after years of training managed to blow up the ground 200 metres in front of the tanks. GOOD EFFORT ROB!

CCE

by LCpl Jason Hawksworth

My future in the Royal Corps of Signals was looking bleak in November 1997, I was doing very well within my own trade as Tele Op Radio, I'd achieved all the right grades, and expected to come off the next board. The results of the board came, I was not promoted and I was informed that my service was to be terminated ie: I'd be leaving the Corps the following October. After lengthy discussions, my OC asked me if I'd given any thought to a retrade as a Stores Accountant. I felt that I still had so much to offer that I had to give it a go. The course started in April at Blandford, followed by C+E and HAZMAT in June. During this period I had a fantastic time, and met many new friends, so if any one is in the same boat as my self, I'd recommend they go for it, the future for me is now looking much better. I've since passed my class 2 up grading course, and a MHE course, the department I work for is excellent, but hard work, and now I'm finding all my doors wide open.

FROM BLANDFORD

by Sig Leeroy Thewlis

I arrived in Osnabruck on Monday where upon I was met by Sig Bryden who had done the hard work of getting me a bed space complete with bedding and a message from the then MT Sgt. Sgt Doughty had left the message that I was to deploy on Exercise Ulan Eagle and on Wednesday there I was in Poland. Within a few hours of arriving in the training area I had met the QM, Capt Smith, and it was not long before I became very familiar with the guard roster too! During my first week I started to meet more of the lads and lasses that I would be spending my next three years with, like Sgt 'me,me,me' Pryce and Cpl 'where's the kettle' Reynolds. As the Exercise went on I started to get more involved and not only was I stagging on, I was also sent on rolling replens. It was during one such replen I learned that even with a GPS you can still get lost, mind you I have found (to the loss of Sgt Doughty that it isn't that difficult to lose a GPS)! Needless to say it was a short, sharp introduction to the

With the festive season over, the Troop is settling into the start of the training year, but the hard work still continues. January saw us deploying on Ex Jerboa Launch, aimed at getting rid of a few Christmas cobwebs which it certainly succeeded in doing. Shortly afterwards we packed the wagons again and headed out to the Hohne Training Area to take part in Ex Jerboa Charge, a Troop level Exercise to prepare both Troops for the Squadron Test Exercise, ended up being as much a test for the LAD as for the Troop, with four wagons coming down with faults.

Congratulations to Cpl Phil Jenkinson on his marriage to Teresa. Meanwhile certain members of the Troop have kept the Med Centre busy especially Sig Gaz 'Jim Miller' Ayto with his laminated sick chit and Sig Jase Court after his skiing exploits. Hello and welcome to Sig Tony Muers, Sig Kevin Cannon and Sig 'Magic' McDermott, all straight from the factory, who got here eventually after an unplanned detour to RAF Bruggen.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Adam Corkery
Tp SSgt	SSgt Dave Sloane

Firstly welcome to Cpl Rob Luke, Sigs Mark Jessop and 'Johnny' Cash. We hope you enjoy your time here. Secondly farewell to Sig Ian Danter and his wife Stephanie who go to 3 Div. After a good Christmas break all the troops returned refreshed and in high spirits ready to start the New Year. We came straight back in at top speed with a good Exercise to start the year with as it gave some of the new lads an insight into the year ahead. As this was a Troop Exercise we thought the last night would be the best time to say farewell to Sig Danter in true Bravo Tp style - enough said! This was then followed by a Squadron Exercise one week later called Rats Link. In this Exercise all the Squadron assets were deployed and all the lessons learnt on Ex Jerboa Launch were tested. Again, all objectives were achieved with a few new lessons learnt. Special mention ought to go to LCpl Beevers for his outstanding efforts with the Kipling. This was followed by another Troop Exercise one week later made enjoyable by large quantities of 5.56mm and GPMG rounds to play with - just don't mention cam nets to LCpl 'Titch' Meakin or track bashing to the Tp Comd! The year ahead is uncertain but B Tp feels ready and willing to meet the challenge!

SUPPORT TROOP

QM	Capt (QM) Dave Wilson
RQMS	WO2 (RQMS) Rod Cowan

We'd like to wish a big farewell to the QM, Capt Wally 'warm fuzzy feeling' Drain and his wife Jackie, who are leaving us to go to 7 Sig Regt on or about the 9 February 1999, (on promotion to Major and of course assuming that the QM doesn't get demoted to Cpl after the LSI). Also a big welcome to Capt Dave Wilson who joins us from 1 ADSR, we hope you enjoy your time here. LCpl Dean 'eck! eck!' Lightbody who is also leaving us to go to 7 Sig Regt (as the QM's brew boy). Good luck to LCpl 'Taff' Elston on his. A big welcome to Sig Phil 'Black-eye' Brown and to LCpl 'Shortie' Long who's not here yet but can get a slab in when he arrives. Congratulations to Sig Ronald 'ooh la la' Pierrepont on forthcoming promotion and posting to 30 Sig Regt.

GENERATOR BAY

We'd like to send congratulations to Cpl 'Taff' O'Connor on his promotion to Sgt (watch out 14 Sig Regt). Another farewell now to Mr Lee McKone who has traded in his uniform for an easy, breezy life on the rigs. A big welcome to Sig 'Geordie' Soppitt, who on one of his first trips to Sennelager took a detour past Hamburg (next time use a map). Last but not least, congratulations to LCpl 'Den, four slabs' Nordon on his promotion to Corporal.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

Congratulations to WO2 (RQMS) Rod 'dancing man' Cowan on his recent selection for promotion, the Sgt's Mess will miss you strutting your funky stuff!

Recently the Dept has continued to work towards ensuring that the Comms troops are provided with the best possible service and support. Sgt Al English is preparing for civvy street (18 months too early!) dream on Al! Cpl Andy Carrick is sweating on the next promotion board, but Cpl Carrick if you get any thinner you'll dissolve. LCpl 'Robo' Robinson continues to strive for physical perfection, its a pity its not during Squadron PT as he's not often there (he says he does it in his own time!) The remainder of the team are doing nicely, especially Sig 'Blodwin' Davies the new Corps recruiting pin up.

THE SKI TEAM 1998/99

by Sig Court

On Saturday morning, the 5 December, four people sat in a white minibus speeding down the A7. Destination, Kaprun near Zell-Am-See in Austria. Yes these four people were the 7ABSS Ski Team. They were Lt Adam Corkery, Cpl Jim Bean, Sig Phil Green and Sig Jase Court.

We were given one week to train before competing in the Royal Signals Championships. After arriving at our accommodation we went out to explore Kaprun. While socialising over a few drinks we were suddenly attacked by some large monsters with whips and bells - don't ask! Apparently it is part of the Austrian culture to go out dressed as monsters and whip all the naughty people on 5 December while St Nicholas goes around giving presents to all the good people.

It was a well organised event with about 75 competitors from the UK and Germany and went smoothly and uneventfully until the end. Or did it? The idea behind these two weeks was to prepare us for the Div. Championships which were held from 9 - 19 January in Les Contamines, France. So it was that on another Saturday morning after Christmas we were again sat in the minibus getting ready for an eleven hour drive with twice as much confidence as before. The standard of skiing was very high with many teams having apparently done little but ski for the whole of the preceding year. The team this time was made up of Lt 'I can ski better than you' Corkery, SSgt 'Admin' Runchman, Cpl 'Stay out of my kitchen' Bean and Sig 'Egg It' Court. Again the organisation was 100% and everything went smoothly except for the fact that one of the team was wiped out by the dreaded Snowboarder on the second to last day which left him with a broken clavicle .The victim was in fact me and I would like to say thank you to my OC and the organisers who made sure I got off the mountain safely. Even with this loss to the team, 7ABSS managed to do well and should be a strong force in next years competition (assuming we're not in Kosovo!) Finally thanks to Cotswold The Outdoor People for their sponsorship and well done to the team for hard work and good results.

EXERCISE PUIG EBOR DECEMBER 1998

by Lt J. 'Loose rock (don't ask)' Toze

Shock! Horror! The OC had agreed to allow both troop commanders to go on adventure training at the same time! Not wishing to allow him time to reconsider, Lt J. 'Micro-wire' Griffiths and myself were on our way to Spain faster than a thousand speeding gazelles. With a tear in our eye at missing the decoration of the mess (..maybe not), we embarked on two weeks rock climbing in the Costa Brava, carefully shepherded by our expedition leader WO1 (RSM) J. 'Guru' Howell-Walmsley. On arrival at Alicante airport the eight of us headed for base camp…the Flamingo Playa hotel in Benidorm, and set about establishing ourselves. It immediately became apparent that the winter population of Benidorm is of an average age of about seventy, much to the delight of LCpl Eddy 'Crack monkey' Banks and his never ending collection of Yves Saint Laurent shirts. That night rock tactics were discussed, and a devious and cunning cover story concocted to explain our presence in the geriatric capital of Europe. By day climbers embracing the rock like mountain goats on Viagra, by night the co-op climbing workers, or C2W as we liked to be known. Over the next two weeks we climbed on over a dozen crags, single and multi pitch stances, bolted and traditional pitches. The climbing was simply fantastic, typically conducted in idyllic surroundings with temperatures of around 25 centigrade. Highlights including Sig Mary 'Rock vixen' Andersons belay beastings, Cpl John 'Rock fossil' Hart's siesta at the top of a pitch (something he will never let us forget), and some random civvy and his amazing gravity boots. However, highlight of the week came when WO2 (FofS) A. 'Turfa (as in winch) tortoise' Williams demonstrated his patented climbing technique. This involved making grunting noises (which should have resulted in David Attenborough flying in to investigate migrating elephant seals), whilst making a grab for anything to hand, animal, vegetable or occasionally mineral. By night the weary party entertained itself with extensive karaoke therapy, relaxing Line Dancing and interaction with the indigenous population. Entertainment award must however go to the RSM, when he appeared in the bar dressed in a pink ladies shell suit, posing as a bag filler for the co-op!(he nearly bottled..). I take this opportunity to thank WO1 (RSM) J. Howell-Walmsley for all his hard work in organising the expedition and hope his dislocated toe, gained as a result of a particularly tricky move on concealed and wet limestone, recovers fully! In addition, a word of warning to 15 Sig Regt, don't let this man within fifty feet of a karaoke machine!

P.S. If you don't believe the shell suit episode, we have the photos!

Tp SSgt — SSgt M. O'Brien

1999 and back into the swing of things for Bravo Tp. A JNCO cadre behind us, we now look forward to spending much of our time down in Bulford, as we work towards Brigade FTX in September. In the Troop office things continue apace, SSgt M. O'Brien continues his abstinence from alcohol, despite the occasional 'Wee' lapse. Sgt M. Toes (yes there are two Toes/Tozes in the Troop!) continues to suffer under the dictatorial brew making regime, and I continue to strive to avoid tasks from the 'Evil' 2IC, Capt C. Vaudin! In the crew room we have a number of recent additions, Signallers Kemp, Richard's, Robinson and Tunnycliffe aka 'Tuna fish', good luck and may the force be with you. We also welcome LCpl Hankinson and Cpl 'Nice haircut' Kiff to the fold. Promotions have also struck, and congratulations go to LCpl E. Banks, LCpl C. Petty, LCpl C. Watts and Sgt D. Leask. Farewell and good luck to Cpl Davis and his family, as he moves into civvy street. Shocking news has also reached the Troop of Sgt R. Enderby's temporary relocation to the guardroom as RP Sgt. We look forward to a new diplomatic regime in this part of the Squadron.

24 AIRMOBILE BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (210)

EXERCISE MUIR MARATHON

Ex Muir Marathon was the Squadron's much awaited expedition to complete the world famous 210 mile John Muir Trail, with the final phase being the ascent of Mount Whitney (the highest mountain in the United States of America, standing at 14,497ft). With California being the venue and only a maximum of fourteen people going on the expedition places were hard to come by, eventually though the volunteers were whittled down to the final selected group.

The start of the expedition couldn't have gone better with our cheap Northwest American airline tickets being swapped for British Airways and after a night in Los Angeles we made our way to Yosemite National Park. Our first night in the wilderness made us all think twice about what we were doing, with stories about bear attacks being floated about by the park rangers. This caused some panic and we ended up spending a large chunk of expedition funds on bear boxes to store our food in. (The correct storage of food was also a constraint placed on us by the Park Rangers). The thought of the expedition being a holiday soon diminished on the first day when we confronted our first hill and the 60lbs that we were each carrying didn't help to change our minds. Whilst the main party was grafting hard in the outback the initial admin team Sgt Andy Wyatt and LCpl Tudor Williams decided to introduce themselves to Jill Dando, who was filming the holiday programme in the area. They also spotted the only bear of the expedition, however, unlike the Jill story they couldn't provide us with photographic proof of the bear meeting. On our first night out the hierarchy Capt Andy Coulston and 2Lt Dan Ashton decided that bear stags would help them to sleep better at night, so one tent at a time we took it in turn to do our two hours. Not a peep was heard until Sig Karen Abbott took her turn on guard and demolished the peace and quiet with a piercing scream. She came face to face with a fox as she was getting out of her tent, in time honoured tradition not one bloke came to the rescue as thirteen burly squaddies all pretended to be asleep!

Apart from a few sore feet and some spectacular scenery the rest of the expedition went along smoothly and two weeks later Mount Whitney came into sight. The ascent to the top took us two days with the views from the summit being breath taking.

Conquest of Mt Whitney completed, with all team members present

Equally as breath taking was Sig Tony Richardson taking a three-day old Big Mac out of his bergen and handing it round for a unique photo opportunity.

Nobody mentioned snow in California!

After the descent we spent a scorching day sight seeing in Death Valley whilst transiting to Las Vegas. Vegas proved to be an ideal place to let our hair down for a couple of days before we went back to Los Angeles. A trip to Disney Land proved a hit with the big kids and Universal Studios the next day was just as popular. Eventually all good things come to an end and even though the expedition was hard work everyone had a once in a lifetime trip that none of us will forget.

EXERCISE PHOENIX ASH

The Squadron found itself in the rare and enviable position of having some spare time, that is time when we weren't running around like headless chickens, which meant that the three Troops had the opportunity to plan and run their own, Troop Level Exercises. The Exercises all went under the moniker of Exercise Phoenix Ash, and that is where the similarity ends. This is their story . . .

ALPHA TROOP

Alpha Tp deployed on a Troop Level Exercise to Dartmoor in October. The weather was booked by some Jack-the-lad who decided he'd test the OC's ability to stay calm when his world was falling around his ankles. As the storms took grip of the West Country, the wind took grip of Brigade Main and promptly destroyed it! The inter-generator standing jump competition also took place that night with the winner being CV 1's gene achieving a convincing 25ft. As if that wasn't enough, it then began to rain.....again. The Troop's attached REME VM decided he was bored and needed a challenge when he bogged a rover in up to its axles...and then it began to sink!.....and rain. No injuries had occurred to Troop personnel until the final evening when during a spot of Inter-Troop rugby training they sustained a sliced eyebrow and a set of broken ribs.

BRAVO TROOP

Bravo Tp's Exercise was held in the somewhat bleak and hilly area of Otterburn, which is located in Northumbria, about 70 miles South of Edinburgh. After the first hour of the twelve hour drive up north, the first casualty of the war was the POL truck, which unfortunately was also carrying most of the rations and cooking equipment. Despite this rather inauspicious start, the training began fairly smoothly and the communications phase began first thing on the Monday morning. Luckily for us, SSgt May and Sgt Owen who were making their own way up, passed the distressed Truck and cross loaded the rations. That piece of good luck, coupled with the ingenuity of attached chef, LCpl Duffin meant that at least we wouldn't go hungry. The first phase went fairly successfully, with the Troop establishing the longest HF radio link in over 18 months with Alpha Tp who were located on Dartmoor, and the Ptarmigan crews cutting their teeth on the basic principles of working in a command post. The next phase put the lads in a totally unfamiliar situation, as the Troop management took a step back, and command appointments were given to various people.

Sig Richardson called his raft Titanic!

SUPPORT TROOP

It all started quite badly with wacky races on the square and then the cluster with the first set up but once on the road things settled down. First we moved down to Portsmouth with success and with good instruction moved in apart from Sig 'I owe a crate' Comery, who decided to bog his vehicle in. Each person had a task to complete and everyone worked very hard. The sea crossing went superbly and the move up to Bath also went well. Although the Troop was full of new members moving into location was done with true skill (I wonder if it's something to do with only wanting to do it once!) The next phase was the driver training, and again Sig Comery lived up to expectations by nearly breaking a truck and blaming someone else. Overall it was a successful Exercise and everyone learnt a great deal - including Sig Comery!

EXERCISE GRYPHONS SCHUSS 1999

With last years' Squadron Skiing Exercise having gone so well, it seemed only the decent thing to do would be to kick the a$%& out of it and ensure a repeat performance this year. This time, a happy band of 27 officers and soldiers from both the Squadron and the Brigade Headquarters packed themselves into minibuses for the 800 mile trip to Tignes, France. After an uneventful (sic), journey we arrived to find that we couldn't take over our accommodation for another seven hours – it's a good job we hadn't yet discovered the Crowded House bar!

After the initial hassle, the time came to hit the slopes. Although initially extremely cold, the skiing conditions were perfect, and with the added convenience of being able to ski directly from the hotel to the ski lifts the scene was set for an excellent week. After ski, is of course time for Après Ski, and whilst Tignes is no Val D'Isere as far as night life is concerned, there is still some fun to be had. Happy hour in the Crowded House proved to be the absolute favourite, and when Cpl Webster won a free round, things became interesting. If you disagree, then consider that the round he had just ordered came to approximately £100 pounds, and maybe you'll get the picture!

The cross country skiing was provided thanks to Cpl Adam 'Weasel' Horton from ATR Bassingbourn, to whom many thanks are owed. Many thanks also go to instructors Maj (QM) Ben Britton, Maj Allan Docherty, and Capt Tim Marston without whose help the Exercise would not have been possible. The Exercise again, was a resounding success with excellent weather for all but the last day, and a great bunch of people to share it with – roll on Schuss 2000!

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd — Lt D. Ashton
Tp SSgt — SSgt C. McKenna

The new year started with Ex Parthian Shot. The Exercise took place as usual in sunny Thetford. We were given an opportunity for some of the new Wolf Landrovers to fly for the first time with some unexpected dented bonnets (looks like JATE have got to have a rethink). The rest of the Exercise was uneventful until the last day when we had the satisfaction of watching the Staff unexpectedly set off on a four mile tab back to camp.

The Troop would like to welcome newcomers Sgt McGuiness, Cpl Heynes from Bravo Tp, and Sig Smith. Cpl Jo Ruth from 3 Div and Sig Jase Williams from the factory. Best wishes also to LCpl 'Titch' Vellacott who is on tour in Kosovo, LCpl 'Slasher' Slaughter who is posted to Ireland and Sig 'Pez' Perry who is currently trying to be the first person from 210 to pass P Company. This week we have also lost Sig Gaz Lawson, Sig Nick Kershaw and Sig Andy Bellamy to 1 Royal Scots, lets hope they enjoy their six month tour of Ireland. Farewell to Sig Whale, and congratulations to Tp OC, Lt Ashton, on a long awaited and well deserved promotion to Lieutenant, also to Cpl Wilson and Cpl Hill, and LCpl Moran on promotion.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd — Lt G. K. Bowdler
Tp SSgt — SSgt A. May

It was a long Christmas period with lots happening. LCpl 'Log' Stewart arranged the Troops' Christmas party, which was attended by over 50 people, including the OC Squadron and the RSM. All who attended agreed that LCpl Stewart did a excellent job. 1999 started with Ex Parthian Shot. It was a five day Squadron level Exercise held at STANTA, which involved Troop level training, individual detachment drills and helicopter deployment drills.

Congratulations go to Cpl Jase Curley, LCpl Chris Marshall, Cpl Kirk, Cpl Barringer, and LCpl Tucker on their respective promotions. We would like to welcome SSgt May and family from 3 Div and LCpl Bettle from JCUNI, LCpl Chris Guntrip and Sig Rob Hack who have joined us from 11 Sig Regt. We also welcome 2Lt 'Mogs' Southern who has joined us for a few months between Sandhurst and her Troop Commanders course at Blandford. The Troop would like to say goodbye to Cpl Rob White who has gone to 2 Sig Regt and Cpl Kev Kiff who left for 19 Mech Bde, both of whom left on promotion. Extra special Troop farewells and best wishes go to Cpl 'Spike' Poole, Cpl Steve 'Bish' Bishop MBE and LCpl John McNally who have now left the Army. Finally, Cpl Paul Kirk and Sig Marie McKenzie have decided to do away with MCM Div and breed their own new Troop members. Congratulations on your new daughter Natasha!

Tp Comd — Maj (QM) Ben Britton
Tp SSgt — SSgt Phil Latimer

1999 - and the festivities are over. Time for Exercise - under the guise of Parthian Shot, our first under the new Sqn OC, Maj Ivan Hooper. We deployed to Stanta and Ech set up as Admin Support for the first two days (before returning to camp!). After that Diamond 3 took over with the only eventful moment being Cpl Critchley inadvertently somersaulting from his DAF and breaking his little finger! Injuries aside, everything else passed off uneventfully as we shook ourselves out into our routine ready for Gryphons Flight in late February. Hello to SSgt Del Elesmore and LCpl Edwards to the LAD, and Sgt Makings as the new Provo Sergeant, LCpl Williams. The Troop would like to congratulate the following on their well deserved promotions: Cpl 'Wolfie' Oldfield, Cpl Hall, and LCpl Hall (no relation), WO2 Knight, WO2 Tomlinson, LCpl Fulton, Sig Comery . Cheerio to Sgt Davis, Sgt Wyatt, LCpl Barker and LCpl Hall. Sad farewells go to SSgt Tony Taylor, posted to 10 Regt, Sgt Davis to RSS Blandford, Sgt Wyatt, and also LCpl Barker, LCpl Hall. Good luck to Cpl Tipper who has gone to make her way in civvy street. Finally, well done to Cpl Thompson and family on the birth of their new daughter.

243 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Calling all ex members of the Squadron both young and old, serving or retired.

The Squadron is currently in the process of creating and placing an order for a Squadron Tie.

We are extending an invitation to the aforementioned to take this opportunity to place an order with the Squadron for a Tie.

Additionally Squadron plaques are also available for purchase.

For further information contact the SSM on 01980 672618 or Bulford Mil 732 Ext 2618, alternatively contact the Sqn 2IC on 01980 672617 or Bulford Mil 732 Ext 2617.

5 AIRBORNE BRIGADE
HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (216 PARACHUTE)

Farewell to Capt Steve Morgan on his departure to Blandford to take on the role of OC Mil Training and good luck to Sgt Sean 'Chimp' Oliver who has headed to 4 Armd Bde HQ & Sig Sqn in Osnabruck. Also, farewell and Bon Voyage to typist Miss Angela Neilson who has decided to put away her secretarial skills to travel around the world.

Finally, congratulations go to WO2 (YofS) Tony Redman, WO2 (RQMS) 'Geordie' Marshall and WO2 (RCWO) Dave Rollins on being selected for promotion to WO1.

WO2 (RQMS) 'Geordie' Marshall gets the good news from OC Sqn, Maj Scott Workman

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt T. W. Day
Tp SSgt	SSgt K. Read

In early December the Troop deployed on the Squadron's Ex Winged Lanyard, an opportunity for the new OC Squadron to observe everyone operating in their operational roles. For a bit of variation we found ourselves heading, once again, to Salisbury Plain to a forward mounting base where we awaited orders to deploy. The following morning, Para tac and two elements of Brigade Main were flown to locations by Royal Navy Sea Kings with landrovers and trailers underslung, the remainder executing a road move. The quick establishment of 'Main' enabled a fluid change of control from Para tac. Opportunities for sleep over the following three days were few and far between, as Alpha Tp and Bravo Tp swept across the plain, alternating control. Wet weather and an excess of mud added to the hilarity as each 'set-up' was followed by an almost instant 'tear down.' Special mention must go to Sig Percy 'Diesel Kid' Thrower who took the time to show us that generators cannot run on any other type of fuel but Benz. The remainder of the Exercise ran relatively smoothly with a return to Barracks via the Tidworth wash-down.

Almost immediately on the return from Exercise, the Squadron was across to Maida Gym to support its boxers in the Army Minor Units Boxing Semi-Final, where Alpha Tp's LCpl Loddy 'Killer' Jones and Sig Brett 'Bruiser' Appleyard made their boxing debuts.

Christmas followed with a welcome break from work, returning in early January and a potentially quiet period enabling members of the troop to get away on courses. 2Lt 'Doris' Day got the opportunity to relive his favourite moments from the film 'Backdraft,' when he attended an action packed week of fire fighting and a just a little revision on fire regulations in order to fulfil his role as Unit Fire Officer! Cpl 'Ted' Page retreated to the confines of 77AEC for his EFP, Cpl Eddie 'GAS, GAS, GAS' Cochran completed his NBC Defence Instructors course and congratulations go to LCpl Scotty 'G.I.' Finn and Cpl Adam 'Dog' Barker on finishing their Jumps course as they join the airborne brotherhood. Whilst the Troop deployed to the familiar contours of the local training area for an exercise plug-up, SSgt Kev 'Kebabs' Read and Cpl 'Ted' Page avoided getting muddy by slipping away for a two day Stick Commanders Course. Finally congratulations to Sigs Dave 'Skinny' Reid and Andy 'Crabby' Crabb on their promotion to LCpl just before Christmas. Preparations are afoot in Alpha Tp as the Exercise silly season takes hold, starting with Ex Cold Avenger in mid February, followed soon after by Battlecamp.

BRAVO TROOP XMAS MISSION: DEBRIEF

Tp Comd	Lt M. J. Wong
Tp SSgt	SSgt S. Gorton

As Christmas approached, the opportunity arose for a group of us to leave the haunts of South Cerney and an Exercise to meet up with the rest of the Troop for a one-night mission. To that end Sig 'Blackstuff' Blackmore, LCpl 'Digger' Barnes, Sig 'Jay' Dine, Sig 'Bumface' Standing and LCpl Dave Blaney along with the IC of the patrol Lt 'Chopper' Wong, RV'd with the rest of the Troop patrol in a bar in Bournemouth.

With the sole mission of the patrol centred around seeing 'Tom Jones' in concert, it was deemed that the dress should be 'Websters' with the majority of the Troop complying much to the amusement of the general public. We were joined by Cpl 'Spud' Fawcett and his specialist 5ft fibreglass guitar, and numerous attachments of ex-Squadron personnel on courses at Blandford including Cpl Gaz 'Mrs.Doubtfire' Christie. It was soon time for the patrol to finish their drinks and cross the start line into the BIC for the concert. After the initial break-in through the main doors, past the die-hard fans, we were joined by two local partisan security staff who pledged to give us their undivided attention during the course of the operation.

The first half the concert was quite uneventful (no skirmishing) except for the seats behind us being vacated due to a blockage of Tom Jones by a sea of afros. The first part of the concert was aimed more at the avid fans with the patrol unable to recognise any of the soulful ballads (Sgt Jones not included). The second half of the concert took on a whole new lease of life as the crowd heard all the familiar favourites including 'Delilah,' 'Kiss,' and other love anthems. 'You can leave your hat on' was undoubtedly the most memorable song of the evening. The opportunity arose at one point for the patrol to spill out into the aisle, semi-clothed and in extended line, to perform a Troop jig. It was around this time that Cpl 'Skids' Dawson (An undercover Alpha Tp agent) decided to follow the womens' example who were offering their undergarments to Tom Jones. He removed his paisley briefs and casually walked up to the stage and handed them to Tom who tactfully accepted the kind gesture. After the concert we headed across town in search of further amusement, in retrospect it was not suprising that a Troop of blokes in 70s gear were refused access to any night-club they approached. Thanks go to Cpl 'Paddy' Howe for organising the evening and to Alpha Tp for transport.

Congratulations to SSgt Steve Gorton on his selection for promotion to WO2 and to Sigs Dan 'Geeky boy' Smith and Andy 'Bumface' Standing on their promotions to LCpl. Special mention to our two boxers, Cpl Al 'Gurrung' Joy for captaining the Sqn Boxing team and Sig Kelly-Rutherford for being awarded 'Best Bout of the Evening.' Finally, welcome back to reality for LCpl Rick 'It's nothing to do with me' Turner from his six month jolly in Canada.

ARMY MINOR UNITS BOXING SEMI-FINAL

by LCpl 'Loddy' Jones and Sig Brett Appleyard

Due to various operational commitments around the Army the Sqn secured an automatic place in the semi-finals of the Army Minor Units Boxing. At the start of September of last year, a squad of potential boxers began the long process of preparation which is necessary before they can enter the ring.

Initial fitness training was planned and conducted by unit PTIs, as individuals set out to establish a strong base of fitness. Once the training was well under way, a new element was introduced to the boxing training under the guise of WO2 Si Murray who immediately set about conditioning the boxers with more concentrated preparation. Brick runs, ton-ups, abdominal burn sessions, baselines and daily sparring increased the intensity and level of fatigue; The squad that had originally set out on the training was starting to whittle down due to injury, many of them caused by Sig Tony Mason or LCpl Andy Good's right fist. As time went on, weight became a problem with 10 mile runs wearing bin bags becoming a regular occurrence for certain members of the team, namely Sig Brett Appleyard and Sig Mason. Needless to say, it became apparent that some people had natural ability, Cpl 'Dancer Boy' Joy found very few punches landing on him in sparring. 'Hell Week' arrived before we knew it, with WO2 Si Murray now ably assisted by the expertise of SSgt Graham Smith. Each day began with a 10 mile run, which was quickly followed by a Gym session. In order that we didn't become too relaxed, pressure sparring and pad-work completed the daily routine with the result that everyone was in a continual state of exhaustion. A wind down week followed to allow individuals to regain some energy and start to focus, before the fight.

The Squadron Boxing Team had been paired off to fight against 518 Pioneer Coy RLC for a place in the final, and on the evening of Monday 14 December 1998 both units filled the seats surrounding the ring at Maida Gym to support their respective teams. Tension began to rise amongst many members of the team, as they weighed in on the day of the fight and the significance of the event that was about to take place sank in!

Flyweight Sig 'Taz' Kelly-Rutherford kicked off the evening as he entered the ring to face his pioneer opponent, his determination evident as he overpowered him for three rounds and secured a convincing win. Sig Brett 'Skinny' Appleyard fought hard despite being knocked down, eventually losing on points and Cpl 'Dancer Boy' Joy met his match, battling on for three rounds and losing by the slimmest of margins. Light middle-weight LCpl Loddie 'Killer' Jones dominated the majority of his three rounds resulting in a convincing win and LCpl 'Clubber' Good won his first 'stripe', knocking out his opponent in the second round. Sig 'Basher' Mason fought to the bitter end of three rounds and lost on points as supporters on both side screamed encouragement to their respective boxers. With both teams on equal points Welterweight Sig 'George' Cloney fought an extremely close three rounds. Despite returning to his feet after being knocked down in the third and final round, the fight was stopped and 518 Pioneer Coy RLC secured their place in the final.

The Squadron Boxing Team

Congratulations go to Sig 'Taz' Kelly Rutherford for winning 'Best Bout of the Evening' and to LCpl 'Clubber' Good on receiving his first stripe, both of which were awarded in the end of match presentation. Thanks go to WO2 Si Murray and to the others that assisted in not only training the team but who also ensured that the evening ran smoothly.

EXERCISE WINTER WARRIOR 1999

by Sig Chris Woodall

Ex Winter Warrior is an annual skiing exercise designed to instruct beginners and Novice skiers to Bronze and Silver level respectively, in both Nordic and Alpine skiing. The Exercise started with all the students assembling at Chelsea Barracks in London, travelling from a variety of different units around the UK. The coach journey to HochFilzon in Austria was long and tiring, made significantly worse by the two coach drivers who resembled the teletubbies and refused to stay off the microphones.

Needless to say, when we arrived we were all tired. We were greeted by the STS Staff and the ski instructors who quickly helped us to sort out rooms and luggage before ushering us downstairs for a welcome brief by the Chalet Staff. Dinner followed, which was not only welcome but of a considerably better standard to the cuisine back at camp!

The first phase of the Exercise was three days dedicated entirely to Langlauf skiing, and whilst the majority might not have found it as enjoyable as the Alpine skiing it was accepted that skills had been developed which enabled faster progression during the later Alpine phase. To complete the Langlaufing there was a Bronze award assessment where Cpl John 'Salt Shaker' Hilton achieved Silver, the only individual to do so, followed by a 5km Langlauf race which was won by LCpl Tim 'Lager' Donoghue.

The Alpine phase followed for the next nine days, with a day for each group to be introduced to ski-touring. The groups were issued with ski-passes and introduced to the T-bar lift which took me a whole morning and some of the afternoon to get to grips with, much to the amusement of the local Austrian brats who start skiing when they are still in nappies. The next few days saw a steady improvement in everyone's skiing ability. The social activities continued, with Sig Steve 'Grenade' Jones debating with other members of the course on the poignant aspects of being 'Airborne' with a little assistance from Sig Dave 'Dangerous' Armstrong. Sig Matt Grix got to grips with cow bell ringing, and Cpl Hilton demonstrated how salt is thrown over the shoulder to blind the devil, the variation in the theme with the throwing of the salt shaker, missing the devil and hitting an oblivious bystanders head.

The Alpine skiing phase concluded with a Bronze award assessment followed by a downhill slalom race, won by Sig 'Dangerous' Armstrong. The final evening saw an award presentation and farewell drinks before setting out for an enthralling drive back to the UK. The exercise was thoroughly enjoyed by all those who took part from the Sqn. Thanks go to the STS staff who looked after us and cleaned up the mess and to the BASI who was responsible for ensuring we could ski proficiently by the end of the exercise. A fantastic way to start 1999!

238 (LONDON) SIGNAL SQUADRON

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Sqn Comd	Maj Steve Hunt
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Ewan Hall

Congratulations to LCpl Mick Ambler on gaining promotion to local Cpl and after such a short time in the Sqn. 238 is clearly the place to be if you want to further your career. Congratulations also to Sgt 'Schoffs' Schofield and Lynn on the birth of baby Joshua and to Cpl Debs Walker and Pete on the birth of their baby son. Welcome to WO2 (SSM) Euan Hall and family, who are in the process of an extended take-over from WO2 (SSM) 'H' Wells. SSM Hall has arrived from 621 EOD and so hopefully will be able to explain some of the mysteries of the EOD world. Welcome also to two athletes attached to the Sqn. LCpl Sophie 'Sadist' Morris the new PTI, who is a less than welcome addition to early morning PT and to LCpl Carmen Michelska who brings some expertise to the stores. We hope that both of your sporting careers flourish in the Squadron.

The Squadron bade farewell to Lt Col (Ret'd) Brian Haw from Comms Branch London District after 42 years service. He has been an invaluable ally to the Squadron, particularly during ceremonial events when he will be remembered for some great phrases when things look like they may be in danger of going pear shaped, such as 'chin forward and step out'.

The New Year was launched with a Training and Development drive (otherwise known as Investors in People) to ensure that the Squadron is in place for assessment during 1999. The NVQ assessors have been around again and a number of people are tantalisingly close to completing their assessment, the charge being led by Mrs Laura Allan from Civil Admin Office.

MIKE TROOP

Tp Comd	Maj Richard Howes
Tp Sgt	Vacant

Welcome to LCpl Paul Smith who arrived from Blandford and has already distinguished himself by falling into every puddle in Battersea Park during PT. Mr Paul MacArthur is a welcome addition to the Public Address (PA) System Sect. Paul had previously served with the Squadron in uniform and has returned in the guise of an ME (T). It has been noted that his first job was to install a sound system in the gym, now that he no longer has to do PT himself.

Upgrading tests have been completed and congratulations on gaining their B2 TeleMech assessments to Sigs Stu Blevins, Piers Daw, Keith Ford, Ben McFaul, Chris McGuire and Ayesha Muhammed. Sig Keith 'the Beef' Ford had to squeeze his upgrading between cricket matches, and to celebrate his success, is representing the Corps on tour in Barbados - its a tough life but a Tele Mech has to do it.

The Troop keeps very busy. Radio Sect claims to have almost buckled under the strain of barrack radio maintenance site visits but it has been noted that they have rarely been seen in uniform, so we have to believe them when they say that they are off in civvys again. Systems Sect is knee deep in the work of the ACISG. They are all now past masters at repairing printers after their last course, acquiring PCs from destinations far and wide, planning and installing LANs for customers and visiting units to debug the many anomalies discovered across London District. They have been assisted by Mr Stuart Johnstone and Mr Martin Bryant who are heading up the Y2K testing programme. They have tested around a third or the district to date with about a 15% full compliancy - and they think they are going to get Christmas leave!

PA Section are preparing for their next task, which will be the presentation of New Colours to 1st Battalion Coldstream Guards at Windsor and we anticipate another photograph of the Section in the foreground and the secondary activity of a 'Royal' presenting Colours in the background.

OSCAR TROOP

Tp Comd	Maj Dave Gilchrist
Tp SSgt	SSgt Karen Ripley

The Troop welcomes Cpl Chris Vallance and his wife Helen, who arrived just before Christmas and wish you well for your tour with the Sqn. Sgt Debbie Gosnell has moved from the Help Desk to the ADA and so is now rarely seen in the light of day. SSgt Karen Ripley has returned to the Troop after knee surgery, much to the delight of the CO2, Mr Tony Davis who no longer looks so worried when someone shouts 'shift rosters'. Sgt Sandra Thompson is away on her Sgts Course, we await her return and Sgt Fergie Anderson is planning yet another trip to Nepal where he will provide much needed expertise to the Squadron expedition to Nepal in April. The Troop combined with SHQ in the Squadron Challenge Shield Cup and came out easy winners in the first event - Badminton.

RADIO TROOP

Tp Comd — Capt Kerry Levins
Tp Sgt — Sgt Scoffs Schofield

The Troop would like to extend a warm welcome to Sig Stu 'haven't a clue' Parker from Blandford who was last seen 'bracing up' even to the monitors when the Squadron was Compulsory Drugs Tested. It requires a great feat of ingenuity and skill to 'brace up', hold the bottle, and hold one's . . . After the hectic ceremonial season at the end of last year the Troop has been able to concentrate on a trade training exercise, with vehicles borrowed from the Honourable Artillery Company (HAC) and the completion of ATDs. The Troop form the core of the Sqn shooting team training for CORPSAAM and the London District Championships, and is permanently being raided to support Training Wing as the demands on them increase. Cpl Steve Hook is the latest 'victim' to be taken. LCpl Darren Pond has returned from his Combat Survival and Resistance to Interrogation course, looking much paler and thinner than when he set out. However, it appears that he did learn something, when debriefed by the SAS instructor at the end of the course, he is believed to have said that it was 'need to know' why a member of the London Ceremonial Troop should be loaded onto the course.

IMPERIAL SERVICE MEDAL - MRS ANN BLAKEMORE

Mrs Ann Blakemore started her Civil Service career on 2 April 1973. She was initially employed by 264 (SAS) Signal Squadron, working as a telephonist in the telephone exchange in Bradbury Lines. This small exchange in 1973 consisted of two operators. Over the years the Camp was re-named Stirling Lines and the exchange went to 24-hour working. On the 15 July 1985, Mrs Blakemore was promoted to Exchange Supervisor and later regraded Support Manager Grade 3. After 25 years exemplary career with the Civil Service Mrs Ann Blakemore is awarded the Imperial Service Medal and is seen in the photograph being presented with her medal by Maj Dave Wright, OC 241 Sig Sqn.

SQUADRON VISIT TO HMS INVINCIBLE

A party of twelve personnel from various departments in the Squadron visited HMS Invincible when it was recently in Liverpool Docks. The visit was arranged by our own ex-matelot (12 years ago), Mr Allan Whiteside, who is the CO2 in COMMCEN Preston. The prime purpose of the visit was to see the Navy's Main Communications Office and on board communications. This was a real eye opener for us in 241 Sig Sqn seeing torn tape still in use! Part of the tour of HMS Invincible included the flight deck and the Admiral's office. CO1 Vic King decided that if he hadn't joined the RAF he could have been an Admiral? He was later spotted testing out the Admiral's chair. The lady telephonists from Shrewsbury OAC seemed particularly interested in the sailors' very confined living quarters, or was it the sailors themselves? Well you know what they say 'All the nice Tels love a sailor' nice one Vic.

At the end of the visit we seemed to be on an obstacle course: climbing ladders, squeezing down narrow corridors, taking detours around the on board aircraft, not to mention getting lost. We eventually disembarked. Us going, we later learnt, was a relief to the ship's company as one of them was over heard to say, 'If Vic King mentioned once more that his son flies helicopters off this ship we were going to throw him over board,' so were the staff of 241Sig Sqn.

FOCUS ON COMMCEN KINETON

by Mr Alan Carter

This month's focus is on Mr Alan Carter the Communications Officer Grade 4 working in COMMCEN Kineton. Mr Carter joined the Civil Service on the 16 January 1961. He was just 16 years old and the job had been held open for him whilst he finished his school years. Mr Carter was the first civilian to be employed in COMMCEN Kineton. The post was only made civilian mid 1960. The COMMCEN in CAD Kineton as it was in 1961 was based in a Nissan hut at the top end of the barracks. Alan worked in the Nissan hut for 15 years when it was decided to build a longer lasting camp for the old Nissan huts had seen better days and the COMMCEN had a temporary move.

The COMMCEN and Alan along with it, moved to what is now the pay office in BAD Kineton. This short-term move lasted six years until the 2 April 1982. Then the new custom built COMMCEN was ready for Alan to move into. Those historians amongst you will realise that this is just days before the Falklands war and for the first and only time in the history of COMMCEN Kineton 24 hour working was started.

Mr Carter is still working in COMMCEN Kineton and the last time he took a day off other than stand downs or annual leave was in 1973 when he had an eye infection, not a bad record. Pictured below is Mr Alan Carter in COMMCEN Kineton.

HEBRIDES SIGNAL TROOP SIGNALS BID FAREWELL TO THE HEBRIDES

Tp Comd — WO1 (FofS) Dave Alexander
Tp SSgt — SSgt 'Smudge' Smith

For those that are unaware the Outer Hebrides or Western Isles of Scotland lie some 50 miles Northwest of the mainland of Britain. They are a chain of islands stretching from the Butt of Lewis in the north to Barra Head in the south, a distance of some 125 miles.

The Royal Artillery Range on the Hebrides was established in 1957. It was to accommodate the firing of a new generation of missiles, utilising the little used sea area extending 100 miles westward of North Uist, Benbecula and South Uist. The presence of the Royal Signals on the Hebrides stretches back to those early days of the Range. At its peak 632 Signal Troop (Hebrides), as it was called back then, consisted of some 40 Royal Signals personnel, of varying trades, some of which don't even exist now! This 40-strong Troop also included a five man detachment of Royal Signals personnel based on the island archipelago of St Kilda, the most isolated group of islands in the British Isles, lying on the edge of the continental shelf a further 42 miles out into the Atlantic Ocean. The purpose of this Detachment was to provide communications support, in the form of a small COMMCEN, for the team of Royal Artillery personnel maintaining the surveillance and tracking radar's.

St Kilda itself is now a World Heritage site and boasts not only the highest sea cliffs in Britain at 1300 feet and the highest stac at 627 feet, but is also an ornithologist's dream! It has been uninhabited since 1930, when the small island population was evacuated. This was at their own request due to the harsh conditions. The regular storms on St. Kilda are of a ferocity unequalled elsewhere in the United Kingdom! However, a visit there is awe-inspiring.

Since the hand-over of the Range from the Royal Artillery to the Defence Evaluation Research Agency in April 1998 the permanent presence of the last remaining Royal Signals technician on St Kilda has been removed, being replaced by a fortnightly maintenance visit by helicopter or LCL. Hebrides Signal Troop is now reduced to an 11 strong team. This consists of military and civilian technicians and telecommunications mechanics headed by the Troop Commander, WO1 (FofS) Dave 'Lord Lucan' Alexander.

The Troop will cease to exist on or about 31 March 1999. So by the time this goes to press it is highly likely that the military members of the Signal Troop will have moved further afield. The Royal Signals colours will have been lowered from the Hebrides skyline for the last time and all that remains is for those who have served here, both past and present, to reminisce and bid those who are staying behind good luck for the future.

Rear (R-L): Cpl 'Billy' Stennett, Mr Mick Collins, Sgt 'Swahili' Munro, Mt Nick Phillips
Front (L-R): Sgt Steve McRostie, SSgt 'Smudge' Smith, WO1 (FofS) 'Lord Lucan' Alexander, Mrs Sharon Wicks, Sgt Joe McGinness
Absent on duty: Sgt 'Schools-out' Linnear, LCpl 'Mouse' Lane

HQ LAND - GENERAL'S CUP 1998

The General's Cup 98 consisted of Branch teams competing in 11 sports, run concurrently throughout the year. Superstars, the final event, was won be SSgt Taff Burdge and Sgt Jim Robertson after a gruelling 50 Press-ups, 3km Run, 20 Chin-ups, 5km Cycle, 20 Dips and 1200mtr Row in the fastest time possible. The winning of the Superstars event ensured that the General's Cup overall competition was won by the Signals and attached branches. The COS LAND - Maj Gen Trousdell made the presentation of the General's Cup to SSgt Taff Burdge.

243 SIGNAL SQUADRON

A ROUND-UP OF SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Things have been relatively quiet here in the ivory tower, speculation remains, regarding the possible move of the HQ to Wilton and will no doubt continue for some time yet. The Sqn Comd, Maj Andy Walker has been busy finding his way around the unit, since his arrival in September, the reorganisation of the Divisional boundaries have kept him busy behind his PC, putting together a cunning plan, in reaction to the changes. The 2IC, Capt (Retd) Bob Wright, remains as ever the calming influence around the HQ and continues to guard the Squadron coffers with vigour. WO2 (SSM) 'Paddy' Morrow busies himself trying to raise moneys for the local branch of MENCAP as well as extending his lunch breaks to incorporate some serious training leading up to the Army Cross Country Finals which he will be recovering from as you read these notes. Pauline our resident Chief Clerk who is often the first point of contact with the unit, still manages the occasional smile as she goes about her duties. We welcome Charlotte Oliver to the Civil Admin Office, Charlotte joins Lynn who has been contemplating suicide (only joking) due to her heavy work load. Chris and Pete continue to beaver away in the SQMS department. Anne our typist continues to decipher our scribbles and in the SSMs case put things into plain English without complaint. The Squadron as a whole has submitted entries for both the Corps SAAM and the Lanyard Trophy again this year and the training for both these events has commenced.

T TROOP

by Sgt Jim Robertson

Well done to Cpl 'Greggs' Gregory on finishing the 'Big Apple' New York marathon in a time of 3hrs 22mins and raising £400+ for charity. Congratulations go to Cpl Stu Powney on his recent promotion. Welcome to LCpl Go Golightly who joined the unit direct from Trg Blandford. Farewell to Cpl Jim Harding and his wife Paula who leave us for civvy street.

ONE YEAR ON - CISCC, HQ LAND COMD

Of the 20 or so people who now meet the needs of PC users globally, fight battles with generals over policy and get frustrated by users locking themselves out, only five are military. The team currently comprises, Maj John Floyd OC, WO2 Paul Gee NT Admin, Sgt Dave Almond NT Admin, Sgt Elly Pomeroy NT Admin and LCpl Cath Young Helpdesk. During the past 12 months there have been a great many changes within our establishment. Not only has the organisational structure of the detachment changed, but we have been subsumed into the workings of 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Corsham. This we are told will improve the cohesive assistance to users, by providing a more effective maintenance support structure.

This time last February, what was a small and neatly packaged group, slowly began to grow as demand for support increased. As the system designed by HQ Land Command, the Integrated Staff Information System (ISIS) spreads further afield, sites around the UK and as far away as Split, Banja Luka and Germany are more frequently calling for assistance. For many users of the humble PC, CISCC Help Desk is an ever increasing end point for assistance. Presently the help desk receives on average some 4 to 450 calls weekly, many of which are answered at that time, but for a few, greater assistance is required, which is when the smaller teams such as NT Admin, UNIX and Taskings are passed the task. NT Admin is presently a team of eight with five civilian grades, 4 EO's and 1 HEO (The Boss Lady) with three military positions should there be a need to deploy equipment. We have had to endure various training packages to enable our support for over 1000 on site users, not least of which have been NT Workstation, Server and Enterprise, MS Exchange, MS SMS and MS SQL. Any would-be contenders for the two posts becoming vacant in the next 12 months should contact Maj John Floyd at Wilton on 733-3512.

In support of an ever decreasing area of use, is our UNIX team. This little backwater group are a specialist team of three, supporting many project such as Capital, ADMIS QP24, ROSS, BMS and MAPPER. Taskings is yet another small support team within our organisation. The team of three, provide all the new hardware deployment support within the site and ensure sufficient stocks are held in our stores.

CHANGEOVER OF OFFICER COMMANDING

On 16 December 1998 the Squadron bid farewell to Maj Peter Holliday as he finished his tour as OC. Due to it being the Christmas period he actually managed a total of three leaving functions during his final week. The first was with the Sergeants to the Officers' Mess, closely followed by a superbly organised Squadron Dinner Night and culminating with in the Squadron Christmas function. Maj Holliday was not able to enjoy the Christmas function as much as he would have liked, due to an eye injury gained in that afternoon's Officers & Seniors v Soldiers rugby match (which the Officers & Seniors won). We wish him all the best at his new post, instructing on AJD at Camberley. On 17 December 1998 the Squadron welcomed the new OC, Maj Jim Foulkes, who had made the extremely long trip back across the road from the post of Adjt 3 (UK) Div HQ and Sig Regt, returning to the Squadron after an absence of two years.

EXERCISE DRYSHOD

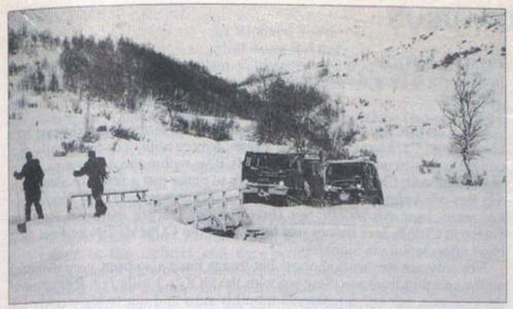
by Sig Gaingee and Sig Smith

On the 4 December the main body of the Squadron departed from the familiar confines of its compound to Okehampton Camp, Dartmoor, for Ex Dryshod. The Exercise is designed to give the newer members of the Squadron an insight into life in a cold weather environment prior to deploying to Norway.

The week was split into two parts. The first three days were spent in the classroom, absorbing the endless but important stream of survival techniques (along with the occasional horror story) needed for the Squadron's annual cold weather deployment. The skills taught included how to dress in a cold weather environment, how to treat cold casualties, numerous lessons on pocket contents and, most importantly, not to touch your ski pole with your tongue because it will not come off again (somebody manages it every year!).

The second phase was spent out on the rough, unforgiving hills and tors of Dartmoor. This began with a night navigation exercise during which the terrain proved treacherous to inexperienced hill walkers, such as Sig 'I can drive' Bailey and Sig Gallager, both of whom would frequently disappear up to their waists in mud. Sig 'Don Juan' Beat accompanying us from 21 Sig Regt (AS), managed to launch himself over a wall and dropped head first into a pool of stagnant water. This was a source of obvious entertainment for the rest of the team and thereby caused a great increase in morale. The next morning, after spending a comfortable night in our four man tents and hearing tales of Norway that all began with 'in Norway....', we set off on another navigation exercise. This time it was somewhat less hazardous, as the bogs were easier to negotiate in daylight. We were split into five teams, each carrying 70lbs plus comms equipment, and covered over 20kms during the day. Most teams did arrive by the time night drew in, cold and wet but with high morale, ready for the final day.

The final day began with simulated casualty evacuations. We were tasked, with the aid of 'helper sledges', with carrying several of the larger members of the Squadron such as Sgt 'Small Piece' Ashman, Cpl 'Haystacks' Hurst, and LCpl 'Blobby Bob' Abbott to an evacuation point via a swamp, a stream, a fence and a hill! But the grassy hills of Dartmoor proved a little more difficult to manoeuvre the sledges over, than the snowy slopes of Norway. Casualties were dragged through, rather than carried over the water, thrown over the fence and bumped up to the evac' point! After this we returned to camp where many a tired, cold and numbed brain attempted the closing written examination, in which LCpl 'Tech Burly' Longworth achieved top marks. In all it was an informative and thoroughly enjoyable week, one I would not hesitate to repeat, especially if the weather was a little more forgiving.



249 Signal Squadron in Norway

EXERCISE SNOWHOLE 1999 – NORWAY

Ex Snowhole 1999 was a training exercise conducted by the UK's AMF(L) contingent in Norway, in order to train personnel in the skills required to operate in a cold weather environment. The Exercise consisted of three separate, but concurrently running parts. The Cold Weather Warfare Instructors course (CWWI) and BV 206 Instructors Course (BVI) were run from Brandset Camp, while the Novice Ski and Survival Course (NSSC) was run from Bomoen Camp, Voss. In addition to being excellent individual training, the purpose of all three courses was to ensure that the UK contingent retains its collective ability to operate in a cold weather environment. Next year there will be a longer, full squadron deployment to Norway, which will culminate with an AMF(L) FTX in Poland.

The first NSSC started like many others in previous years - late. Due to problems with the RAF aircraft the course finally arrived at Bomoen Camp 12 hours later than scheduled. The course started the following day with various mandatory lectures and lessons in basic skiing techniques. The course is physically demanding and requires a high degree of personal skills. Its main aim is to teach soldiers how to survive in a cold weather environment and, of course, to stay upright and move on skis. As with any such course there are many highlights, most of which are at the expense of others. Two are worthy of mention; firstly Sig Russ 'Son of Kev/fingers' Wellburn who managed to sustain a cold weather injury (frostnip) after only 30mins on skis. Secondly WO2 (YofS) Tac 'Robin Cousins' Bartlett, who managed to injure himself on the Saturday night Car park ice skating gala, needless to say he was the only contestant!

The finale of the course was the Cold Weather Warfare Training where, apart from digging in company harbour areas, the main source of entertainment was the OC, Maj Jim Foulkes, who whilst playing 'enemy on skis' with the instructor's course, was viciously attacked by a four man tent pit resulting in him sustaining a nasty nick to the forehead. The course finished in the same way it had started - late. This time the aircraft managed to be 30 hours late, however, any animosity that might have been felt was quickly assuaged by the sight of the next course arriving at the airport.

SWISS TECHNICAL AVALANCHE COURSE, ANDERMATT

by Lt Preston

Whilst working hard with the Staff Officers of Hiedelberg and their Norway training, I was offered the opportunity to attend the Avalanche Course in Switzerland. This course is run by the Swiss Army for any NATO countries and lasts two weeks. There had been no British Army attendees thus far and I joined Capt Crossman RLC, as the first two British Officers on the course.

Andermatt is two hours train ride from Zurich and is 1445m above sea level. The population is 1450 people and depends on tourism and the military for income. The Course centres around the Mountain Combat Training Center and the Barracks which have existed since 1967. Three local mountains dominate the valley. The largest is the Gemsstock which stands a lofty 2963m high and provides excellent downhill opportunities. Smaller but with the ski lift just outside the back door of the school is the Gutsch (2344m). This was the location for much of the training. The course being multi-national uses four languages. German, French and Italian are the three national languages of Switzerland, whilst most people speak good English as well. The opening address given by Lt Col Gnos was in each of the four languages, an impressive skill. Once into the course the different groups were split up into language groups as hearing the same information four times rapidly became tiresome.

The opening days covered avalanche principles the Swiss way. We examined many factors in great detail, including the size of individual snowflakes, snow temperature, humidity and stability of each layer - this becomes in depth science very quickly. The medical side of training was taught by the local doctor, resident in the main hospital of the area and experienced in treating cold weather injuries. The emphasis was on sharing the experience of the mountain rescue team members on the course. The big areas of debate were 'after-drop' and 'CPR'. The after-drop is the effect of moving a casualty after they have suffered the initial affects of hypothermia. The body pulls the warm blood into the core of the body leaving the extremities cold. The important areas stay warm as long as the blood does not move around too much. Excessive movement will reintroduce the cold blood to the heart area and will kill the patient. CPR is often given at the scene of an avalanche accident. However, if you start CPR then you must be able to continue treatment all the way into the hospital. This may slow down the evacuation and the patient may benefit from remaining in deep freeze until they reach the hospital where the Swiss now practice open heart massage and a gradual warming of the blood.

Another aspect of the course which scared both of the British officers attending was the explosives section. Plastic explosive is used to stop the build up of snow on steep slopes, initiating the fall of snow before it can hurt anyone. The Swiss having more relaxed regulations than the British would happily prepare explosive charges in the classroom. I am no expert on the British regulations, but my ATO colleague assured me that detonators are not usually allowed inside without extra precautions. Even more worrying was the method of carrying the detonator and fuse cord around the neck to avoid dropping it! Once on the range the excitement continued. The charge was prepared by adding an initiator or small percussion cap device to the end of the fuse wire. This needs both hands and so the student crouches forward to keep the charge dry with 100gm of plastic explosive between his knees. Once the charge is attached to a retaining cord it is thrown into the avalanche prone area, grenade style. The student then makes a hasty withdrawal and puts his fingers in his ears. Health and safety at work hasn't reached Andermatt yet! The course awarded each student with a diploma from the Mountain training centre and gifts a plenty. It is an excellent course which shows Norway trained personnel the alpine way of doing things and offers a wealth of new information.

EXERCISE WINTER LINK

The Squadron deployed to Norway this year in two halves. Whilst one half were cold weather training SSgt (YofS) Currie had the pleasure of running Ex Winter Link for the remainder back in Bulford. Ex Winter Link was designed to train the new operators to the Squadron and revise the 'old and bold' on some of the equipment, procedures and skills required to provide effective communications within this unit's unique role. The first phase of the Exercise was classroom based with instruction on a wide array of subjects, including Communications in an Arctic Environment, the data entry device 'Kipling', AMF(L) Voice Procedure, and the PRC 320 (which many operators claim never to have seen before) to name but a few. Once the theory was out of the way the 'students' were let loose on Salisbury Plain where they practised and were tested on what they should have learned in the classroom.

Over the next four days not only were their communications skills tested but the map reading and driving ability of the Squadron's finest were put to the test. Students were given the grids of stands which were strategically placed across the length and breadth of SPTA, where upon arrival they were given practical demonstrations on how the unit provides communications for a truly multi-national force. They were then practically tested on what they had been taught throughout the week by the Squadron's more experienced 'gurus'. The students were particularly impressed by the Kipling stand, where LCpl 'Johnny' Whitrow made them run around a field several times before testing them. Says LCpl Whitrow 'It's all part of a realistic scenario'. Really!!

The Exercise proved to be a huge success with not only the newer arrivals, but many of the more experienced operators learning some new and varied skills, skills that are particular to this unit with its unique role as the AMF(L) Radio Squadron.

HAIL AND FAREWELL

Hail to LCpl Jules Dolan from 16 Sig Regt. Farewell to newly promoted Sgt Brenda Cooper and congratulations on her transfer to the PT Corps and sadly to Cpl Tracey Hayes who goes to civvy street.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to Cpl Wendy Boardman and LCpl Nicki Dean on their respective promotions. Welcome to our 'new arrivals' and congratulations to WO2 (SSM) Jim McNaught and Alison on the birth of their son Robbie, Cpl Helen Sherean and Tony on their first child Rhys and Cpl Tracey Hayes and Ali on the birth of their son Dillon.

251 SIGNAL SQUADRON GIVE JEANEROUSLY

by SSgt Glynis Watton

The countrywide charity 'Jeans for Genes Day' is organised for our Squadron every year by one of our civilian staff, Mr Derek Keen (CO1 Comms Tp. He did an excellent job of recruiting most of his civilian staff to set up all sorts of stalls, including the infamous 'bacon butty' stall, run by Mrs Sue Halligan, on HQ 4 Div's front lawn. The Military element of the Squadron had to first complete their annual CFT before they could swap their combats and boots for jeans and a comfy pair of trainers to hobble along on blistered feet to relish the delights of succulent bacon and sausage butties. The day was a resounding success and Mr Derek Keen was delighted to present the 'Jeans for Genes' charity (medical research into blood disorders such as sickle cell), with a cheque for £869. A big thank you to everyone who supported this worthwhile charity. The day was made even more special for LCpl Wendy Boardman, who was informed on an impromptu parade, by the ASSM of the day SSgt Watton, of her promotion to Corporal, well done Wendy.

COMMS TROOP

by LCpl Nicki Dean & Sally Patrick

Tp Comd Capt Mick Purves
Tp SSgt SSgt Glynis Watton

The COMMCEN element of the Troop has had a very busy time of late combining Christmas and new year leave with covering all our commitments to our dependant COMMCENs within the 4 Div area, such as Marchwood, Chatham and Shorncliffe to name just a few. We also have Sgt Bev McAuley on detachment in Bosnia at present and look forward to her return later this month. Sgt Ray 'jammy' Carter is on Ex Trumpet Dance in Canada (see it does pay to work in the COMMCEN and get first hand information via Signals!).

Not only are we 'workaholics' but things have also been very eventful on the sporting front too. Starting with the GOC's 3 mile Fun Run around the Garrison, our OC Squadron's monthly runs and our twice weekly PT sessions - phew!! At least we are getting fitter. Staying on the running front congratulations go to LCpl Nicki Dean on winning the 4 Div Cross Country championships in December 1998 and LCpl Jules Dolan for getting selected in October 1998 for the Corps Basketball Team.

Looking ahead to future events, our Tp SSgt, SSgt Glynis Watton, has managed somehow to persuade quite a few of us into competing in the Fleet half marathon in March to support our local nursery, Queen Mary's, as they are celebrating their 100th birthday this year, coupled with the fact that her son Thomas and other members of the Squadron's children attend there!! With all this running, running, running, no wonder some members of the Troop get withdrawal symptoms and a little distressed if a day's training is missed (staff!). Good luck to everyone in March.

SQUADRON XMAS FUNCTION 5 DECEMBER 1998

by Sig Dave Hunter

The Squadron Christmas function was organised this year in plenty of time by the committee headed by Sgt Shaun 'Where has your hair gone?' Curry. He delegated tasks down to his committee - Cpl Wendy Boardman and Sig's Dave Hunter, Ruth Harkness and Bret Merrick who all did a brilliant job. ALAS has no one yet realised that Sgt Shaun Curry has the MIDAS touch to everything he comes into contact with!! Yep, you've guessed it, with two days to go before the function was due, lo and behold the NAAFI was put out of use!! Oh well never mind there's always next year we all thought, - Oh no, you've got two days to find another location was our ever optimistic SSM Jim McNaught's thoughts!

So the SSM's wish was our command and yes another venue suitable to our needs (it had a good bar) was found and hurriedly decorated. There are not many occasions when both the civilian and military element of the Squadron can get together socially and this proved to be an excellent evening with everyone having a fabulous time with the civilian staff winning all of the raffle prizes! One of the highlights of the evening was when Sig Bret Merrick was the only male to brave the dance floor to 'girls just want to have fun', thankfully all the hierarchy had by then left - enough said!!

280 (UNITED KINGDOM) SIGNAL SQUADRON (LANDCENT)

Sqn Comd Maj Simon Hutchinson
RSM WO1 (RSM) McKenna

The arrival of 1999 heralds a new direction for the Squadron. This year we are due to receive new equipment in the form of DCM, Deployable Communication Modules, to replace the old RMA system. Our lords and masters in NATO are reorganising and later this year HQ LANDCENT ceases to exist. Meanwhile a question mark remains over our future in Francisca Barracks - so it should be a remarkable year for the Squadron as well as a busy one. Our commitment to Bosnia and the Multi - National Signal Group (MSG) continues, Charlie Troop have now taken on the reins of Deployment Troop for the next four months and the lucky few deployed following a few weeks of instruction at Laina. Post Christmas has seen the Squadron involved with the annual 'Storming of the Gates' as well as a Charity Chocolate Trade fair - much to the joy of team leader Lt Emma Rae.

AWARD FOR BOSNIA

Cpl Tony 'Clark Kent' Caban, prior to Christmas received a certificate to mark his 'Outstanding Duty Performance during 1998' from Lt Gen Adams US Army, Deputy Comd LANDCENT. The award was presented to Cpl Caban and twenty two other Officers and soldiers from Headquarters LANDCENT to mark their contribution to the SFOR mission in Bosnia. Cpl Caban had only recently returned from an 18 month continuous tour in theatre working at HQ SFOR in Sarajevo.

Cpl Caban (centre) and other certificate recipients from the LANDCENT Signal Group

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Richard Todd
Tp SSgt SSgt Tony Barker

Boxing Team - After a hard Christmas of eating and drinking the boxing team has just started training in an effort to beat the 7 Sig Regt team in the up and coming boxing tournament. There are three people in the team from Alpha Tp Cpl Steve Slaughter, Sig Remi Osbourne and Sig Robert Smiejkowski. Currently they are on a top secret training programme back in the UK. Good Luck to them all in their future fights.

Troop Debrief - As Lt 'Queeny' Todd was departing on his Captains course he instructed the Troop to organise a Troop Debrief for his return. When he returned he didn't quite know what had happened. While he was away Cpl Dougie Icke and Sig Nige Foulkes had formed a cover band with guitarist LCpl Kurt Molden from Charlie Tp. They played to their first crowd at the Debrief and they went down a storm. After their outstanding debut they were asked to play the storming function.

Storming of the Gates - On the 29 January 1999, Alpha Tp started a weeklong fatigue party to work on setting up the annual Storming of the Gates function where the German population is invited to camp for an almighty party. They all arrive in carnival costumes and Sgt Greg Valentine had great fun trying to walk off with whichever parts of the costume were left lying around. One of the organisers, LCpl Dave Turnbull, was on the verge of pulling his hair out when the disco didn't arrive until two hours before the start. After the stress of setting it up everything went smoothly, well almost.

Hellos and Good-byes - The Troop would like to say hello to Sig Steve Lloyd, LCpl Guy Gladish and LCpl Neil Wright, and good-bye to Lt 'Queeny' Todd and LCpl Dave Turnbull. Hope that they have a great time in Blandford. Also farewell to Cpl Leon Teasdale who is not the leaving the Squadron but is the moving to the newly formed Comms Support Section.

CHARLIE TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Emma Rae
Tp SSgt SSgt Kev Smith/SSgt H. Baker

Troop 'Hellos' and 'Good-byes' - Firstly, welcome to the new members of our Troop just arrived in from Blandford: LCpl 'Cookie' Cook, LCpl 'Alcoholic' Rickard, Sig 'Greyman' Clarke and Sig 'Rock fan' White.

Sadly we have to say goodbye to an older member of our Troop, SSgt Kev 'Green is Mean' Smith is leaving us to join 2 Sig Regt in York on promotion as a WO2. Don't listen to what the Squadron says about you, Charlie Tp think you are really an Okay guy! The leaving was celebrated/mourned by a night at the local bowling alley: Techs versus Operators versus Lineys. The technicians won, mainly due to LCpl 'Strike' Rickard's skill, whereas the Operators had the hindrance of LCpl 'Strike Out' Simmonds, LCpl 'I really love you' Carle and Sig Jan White. The Lineys, however, had the aid of Sig 'I'm really a Op' Holland. Our 'new' Troop Staffey is SSgt 'H' Baker who is coming in from training - GOOD LUCK!

Deployment - On the whole for the past month the Troop has been kept busy, prominently with the build up for the Troop's deployment to Bosnia - Charlie Tp obviously selected to deploy first within the Squadron's 'Operational Readiness Cycle'! With the whole Tp finally passing through IRT and getting Admin matters 'squared away' our three finest deployed: Cpl 'F-H' Featherstonehaugh, Sig 'Interesting' Si Richens and Sig 'Greyman' Phil Clarke. They are now living life on the edge in good ol' Banja Luka, while the rest of us are on QRF 24hrs NTM to join them. We welcome back LCpl Theobald and Sig Lowe from the 'War Zone'.

Troop Stars - It seems that we have two budding young Bobsleighing champs in our Troop Sig 'Heed' MacDonald and Sig 'Wildebeest' Wildridge who during December represented Britain in the Bobsleigh Championships in Norway. Remember you still haven't brought your crates yet for getting your ugly mugs in the Sixth Sense!

Courses - Well done to Sgt Wayne 'How many courses?' Dunbar for passing his NMS course in Latina. LCpl 'Simmo' Simmonds on passing his Cronos Users course and Sigs 'Greyman' and 'Interesting' on passing their IDNX courses also in Latina.

We also have three future Raging Bulls in our Troop who will be representing the Squadron this month in the Boxing Championships against 7 Sig Regt: Cpl 'Rocky Marciano' Bailes; LCpl 'Sugar Ray Cookie' Cook and Sig 'Prince Nobby' Styles -let's hope they do a better job than they do on Friday and Saturday nights! All the above gossip supplied by LCpl 'I don't owe any crates, Boss' Molden. (Message from the Tp Ed: Now you do!)

THE STORMING OF THE GATES CEREMONY FRIDAY 29 JANUARY 1999

The 'Storming of the Gates' is an Annual Ceremony where the local German Stadt attempt to gain access to Francisca Barracks via the front gate and we have to try and stop them. The German town folk of St Tonis arrived just after six o'clock on a cold, crisp January evening with Drums beating fiercely and the Band playing too. This year our German friends succeeded once again despite the valiant efforts of Cpl 'Ginger Peewee Dougie' Icke and Sig 'Spotty Sharlie' Lister and CO. After the first shots were fired, the 280 (UK) Sig Sqn Green Terminators were knocked back, by the huge onslaught of the local population. This allows the German Carnival Prince and OC Sqn to have 'Welcome Drinks' adjacent to the Guardroom.

Once everybody was ready, the resident Piper, Sig 'Mac Swede' MacDonald, led the whole procession of families and local German friends down to the Gymnasium for the rest of the proceedings. The Bar was swiftly opened and everybody mingled and enjoyed the spectacular entertainment from the St Tonis All Girl Dancing Team. After the Dancers, a short but very sharp set of tunes were played by the Piper and once he was finished he then received a large Scottish Quaich of Whisky from the Carnival Prince (obviously thoroughly enjoyed!). There was also a popular, if unscheduled, appearance by LCpl 'I can drum better than the next' McPhie.

The next event was 'It's a Knockout' hosted by Sgt Trev McSween. The game consisted of two teams with the 'Brits' on one side and the 'St Tonians' on the other. Each team had to win a series of relay races whilst, perhaps, under the influence of one or two beverages! Unfortunately for us we need to go on Remedial Egg and Spoon Races as the St Tonians, however, won the contest. SSgt 'Julie' Strangeways and Sgt 'Vinnie' Vincent (RLC) and Crew provided the Catering. All the food was magnificent and a very big thank you goes to all the chefs for all the hard work before, during and after the Storming of The Gates.

Once everybody had had their fill, the very in-famous Rock 'n' Roll band the 'Happy Flowers' took control and played us into the wee small hours of Saturday morning. The Happy Flowers are Cpl 'Ginger Peewee Dougie' Icke on Rhythm Guitar and vocals, LCpl Kurt 'The German' Molden on Lead Guitar and vocals and Sig 'Niggsy Nige' Foulkes on Keyboard. The lads gave a splendid performance and did the United Kingdom, the Royal Corps of Signals and 280 (UK) Sig Sqn proud. I don't think it's the last we'll hear of them. Next stop Top of the Pops.

MOTOR TRANSPORT TROOP

MTO Capt Kevin Jones
MT SSgt SSgt Rick Nolan

The festive season is now over, and the Troop management would like to welcome back all the members of MT Tp, including them. We all know coming back from Christmas and New Year leave can give soldiers the blues. But alas the Troop didn't get the chance; we were straight into OC Squadron's Troop inspection within the week. Three Cpls, four LCpls and four Sigs under the guidance of the Troop seniors, managed to prepare the Troop up to and above the standards required. (Rumour has it, that we really only had to fine-tune a well oiled classic piece of machinery). We have no idea where these rumours started! It was a great effort by a small Troop, well done everybody.

We have two new arrivals to mention, Cpl Mark 'Sibby' Sibbald and family and Sigs Chris '?' Crowder, 'Sibby' BFG, Chris Gne Bay, good luck lads. We also say goodbye to Sgt Dave Honeyman and family now at Bassingbourn, Sig 'Jacko' Jackson to 216 (Para) Sig Sqn and Sig 'Scotty' Wilson to 33 (TA) Sig Regt, we wish them well for the future.

Last but not least we must congratulate Sig 'Grant' McDougall who is now a well deserved LCpl 'Well done'.

KOLN CHOCOLATE FAIR

On the 4 February 280 (UK) Sig Sqn and 220 Sig Sqn were tasked to go to Koln and collect as much chocolate as they possibly could from the annual, world famous, international confectionery fair. The chocolate collected was on behalf of the charity Scottish European Aid (SEA) and sent off to the people of Bosnia.

The 280 Sig Sqn team was under the leadership of Lt 'Scoffalot' Rae and SSgt 'Pass me some choc' Weavers and was comprised of a coach load of chocolate collectors hand picked out of Alpha, Bravo, Charlie, MT and LAD - in fact people volunteered from every nook and cranny. Everyone took part in the collecting (when they weren't eating) and seemed to be fully (excuse the pun) enjoying themselves. This was probably one of the most anticipated tasks of the year, as the soldiers were allowed to sample the delights as they searched - a good motivation technique!

The chocolate collection started around 1100hrs on the Thursday with a quick brief of the most important things, for example the location of the 'temporary stash points' and areas in which the collection was restricted, etc. The importance of these stash points was realised as there was so much chocolate which could be collected and needed to be watched/guarded from the German public. Also we were restricted to a certain part of the British area of the building and maps were issued to 3-4 man groups, as the hall was so big some may have strayed in other areas (especially the yank sections)! The collecting carried on until around 1400 hrs in a style that was last witnessed on 'Supermarket Sweep'; by which time people were starting to tire, (a full bag of Liquorice Allsorts weighs a lot as some Germans found when they tried to walk off with some of our bags). When the collecting finished, the hard part started. Loading all the chocolate onto the trucks, and trying to keep prying fingers away - this proved more difficult than expected. Apart from the hungry Soldiers, like Sig 'I will kill you all with my large lollipop' Hall there were many civilians just dying to get their hands on the chocolate we had nabbed. The day was 'livened up' with the help of Sig 'Heed' MacDonald, who turned up with his Bagpipes and soon had the Belgians screaming for more, much to the disgust of the rest of his unit. He was then spotted, strutting his stuff for the rest of day in the Belgian sector.

At the end of the day, everyone enjoyed themselves, mostly through the weight of their personal baggage. The chocolate should bring a few more toothless grins from all the kids in Bosnia and a few more patients for the dental services. Well done lads!

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt Craig
SSgt	SSgt Weavers

The Troop arrived back after Christmas leave raring to go…Honestly! With a few people in desperate need to get back into PT judging by the waistlines, mentioning no names! The Troop is now almost back to full strength with Cpl Tom Atkinson, Cpl 'Gilly' Gilbert, LCpl Jim Cunningham and LCpl 'Robbo' Roberts returning from Bosnia, but that could all change again with the people putting their names down for some daredevil courses. Sgt 'Baz' Glinton, Sig 'Emily' Watts, LCpl 'Death Wish' King and Sig 'Chipmunk' Lloyd all going paragliding for two weeks …Good Luck!

We would also like to welcome LCpl 'Cary' Grant into the Troop and sadly say Goodbye to SSgt Tom Davies who moves into the training wing and LCpl 'Cyclops' McGlinchey who moves into the Comms Support Troop. Good luck to the both of you.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

QM	Capt Steve Toms
RQMS	WO2 (RQMS) 'Brummie' Cox

The Department has suffered a severe decrease in manpower over the past months. February brought another loss with the departure of LCpl 'Percy' Percival, who was posted, to AFCENT on promotion. Sig Gavin Beatty received another selection for promotion, although no posting - could he be staying here? SSgt 'Rob' Melotte is currently at Hedley Court; friends and acquaintances will be pleased to hear that he is making great advances on the road to a full recovery. Keep up the good work Rob. Cpl 'Cozy' Powell is enjoying the dizzy height (swinging on the cross bar) as the Corps 1st choice goalie! As a long time supporter of Preston North End, his ambition of one day playing for the Lillywhites has come one kick closer or so be believes.

SSgt Dave 'hate the cold weather' Maw and family spent Christmas and New Year at the Mother-in-laws. Any regrets? No not at all, his Mother-in-law lives in Goa, India and at this time of the year the temperature is a cool 34°C! Jane 'Tailoress' Jones is welcomed back to the department after a long period of recovery from a RTA before Xmas.

COMMUNICATION SUPPORT SECTION

Towards the end of 1998 it was decreed that the Squadron would reorganise to prepare for the arrival of the new communication equipment, DCM. A part of the re-role involved the creation of a new section, rising from the ashes of the old TM Section. A selection of operators and technicians were posted across, to be guided by SSgt (FofS) Rick 'I was not snoozing' Griffiths and Sgt June Valentine.

The new improved section OC is the Tech Adjt, Capt Dave Stewart and it consists of Cpl (Mr) Tony Caban, Cpl Dave Walker, Cpl Damien Thorpe, Cpl Leon 'Rockie' Teasdale, Cpl Andy Shaw, LCpl Si Harris, LCpl 'Mac' McGlinchey, Sig Jo Ellison, Sig Martin Sherriff. They are responsible for coordinating the response for all computer and telephone matters, the training of technicians and personnel on the Squadron unique trunk communication equipment, the RMA system. This year we have also taken on the co-ordination of the year 2000 action.

SQUADRON ADVENTURE TRAINING IN BAVARIA
18-31 OCTOBER 1998
by LCpl King

Due to commitments in Bosnia there's not been a lot of time for the guys to let their hair down, so the Squadron arranged two weeks Adventure Training in Bavaria. The advance party left camp a few days early to check that everything was ready for the arrival of the first group (ie: get the beers and crisps stocked). Unfortunately their map reading skills were not up to scratch as Sgt Stebbing and Sgt 'SI' Dunford couldn't seem to meet up with Capt Craig anywhere. Eventually they found each other after a lot of phone calls back to camp, and started the serious business of checking out all the beer, I mean gear for the climbing and trekking. The first group set off on the morning of 18 October in two minibuses. A few people in the group were nursing hangovers, but they had plenty of time to sleep them off on the nine-hour journey down to Bavaria.

The accommodation was not quite five star, but none the less very comfortable complete with bar and TV room. The group was split down into two subgroups, one trekking with Capt Craig and Sgt Stebbing, the other rock climbing and abseiling with Sgt Bob Dunford. The RSM, WO1 McKenna, joined in with the walking group he wasted no time in donning his wellingtons and bobble hat and took his place at the back of the group. The group had placed its trust in the map reading skills of Sig 'Emily' Watts and Sig 'Ski' Smiejkowski, by the end of the day the whole group was coffeed out after stopping at every café on the mountain. (They were also only four miles away from the minibus and on the wrong side of the mountain!) After the RSM had dished out extras to the failed map-readers we caught a lift back to the hut for some well deserved scran. The Chefs, Pte Gary 'Bomber Jacket' Morrison and Cpl Matt Parkinson had been slaving all day to prepare a feast fit for a king - beans on toast.

On the Wednesday Capt Craig had arranged a day with a difference, rafting in Austria down the River Im. After a long frozen journey in the snow, we arrived at the wild water. We were all kitted out in the latest trendy wetsuits complete with designer rips. The rafts turned out to be inflatable canoes, but this did not affect our morale. The water temperature, however, was a different matter - it was freezing. Capt 'Scuba diver' Craig spent more time in the water than on top of it, whilst Sgt 'Deadly' Dunford made sure he wasn't the only one who felt the icy depths. After a couple of hour's fun on the water, everyone was happy to get out to thaw out. On Thursday night the local German shooting club invited us round for some drinks, shooting and a strange game involving two people lying on the floor and fighting with their legs in the air.

On the final day of the week before the journey back everybody had a choice for their R&R day. The more adventurous going skiing on the Stubai Glacier in Austria, the less courageous shopping in the PX in Garmich. On the Sunday it was a quick turn round of the hut and then back on the buses for the long journey back to camp, after a hard but enjoyable week.

MEDAL PARADE 6 NOVEMBER 1998

To mark the formal end of the Squadron mission in Bosnia the Squadron held it's final medal parade. Twenty-four members of the Squadron received their NATO medals representing the last members to deploy to the Former Republic of Yugoslavia. The remainder of the Unit was on parade to celebrate the end of two years of operational commitments. During this period 11 Officers, 77 Senior ranks and 147 other ranks have deployed in support of SFOR. The inspecting officer was Col Peter Innocent late Royal Signals DACOS CIS at headquarters LANDCENT. The Oberburgermeister of St Tonis, Herr Schwarz joined him, in presenting the medals with musical accompaniment provided by the Band of the Dragoon Guards. Following a week of intensive practice under the expert gaze of the RSM the parade was expertly executed - which was surprising considering the number of Port fines the Officers managed to build up during the practices (think yourself lucky it was only two bottles Lt Todd!)

RETIREMENT OF MAJOR COLIN STEPHENS

Maj Colin Stephens retired from his post as Camp Commandant in November after almost 46 years of service. Colin enlisted into the Corps as a boy soldier at Catterick in March 1953. After a varied career which saw service in Malaya, Northern Ireland, Cyprus and Germany he was commissioned in 1974. Having completed tours with 8 and 7 Sig Regt he was granted a Regular Quartermaster Commission in 1979 and posted to 31 (GL) Sig Regt (V). His final tour was with 7 Sig Regt as Quartermaster Technical where he was instrumental in the introduction of PTARMIGAN into 1 (BR) Corps. He took early retirement in 1986 aged 50 in order to pursue a Retired Officer career. He joined 28 (BR) Sig Regt (NORTHAG) as Quartermaster Admin and remained so until disbandment of the Regiment in December 1993. On the formation of 280 (UK) Sig Sqn he took up the post of Camp Commandant. The Squadron wishes Colin and Jutta all the very best for a well deserved retirement to Kent.

BATTLECAMP 13-20 NOVEMBER 1998
EXERCISE FRAN ARCHER

Sgt Chris Porter and his Section on Battlecamp

One of the more interesting facts that came to light following the end of our mission to Bosnia is that the Squadron had not been able to deploy into the field, in its entirety, since 1994. Ex Fran Archer was to remedy this fact with an eight-day battlecamp on Haltern Training Area. The Exercise was the brainchild of Capt Russell 'Fantasy-world' Edwards who spent many hours slumped over his PC thinking of nasty ways to keep us all occupied. The Exercise scenario was based on the imaginary country of Carthage, a country not too dissimilar in size to Germany, that had begun to fragment due to ethnic rivalries - not unlike Bosnia. The resultant ARRC peace support operation saw the Squadron deploy as a dismounted company to the 'Republic of Illyria'. The Squadron deployed as two platoons - who quickly established their own platoon patrol bases, from the bases they mounted patrols, snap VCPs and ambushes against the local warring factions. The 'enemy' was provided by 990 (German) Signal Regiment, one of our sister units within the LANDCENT Signal Group (LSG). Their promise to bring a few extra 'Gucci' pieces of kit to help the Exercise was well and truly kept when they brought enough ammo and pyrotechnics to start the next World War as well as some very 'sexy' Special Forces gear. This included Night Vision Goggles, which gave them a distinct advantage! Refugees and the attentions of aggressive TV crews (as provided by BFG Media Ops) combined to ensure there was never a dull moment. The highlight of the Exercise was the opportunity to train with WARRIOR armoured vehicles, as provided by the 1st Battalion The Royal Regiment of Wales. The RRW brought four WARRIORs from which the platoons were able to practice armoured infantry tactics as well as have the chance to 'cabby-about'. The Exercise culminated in a 3-day live-firing package - an excellent end to what was a busy and challenging Exercise.

It has been a fairly hectic last few months and much has happened. The Squadron was delighted to see the Commanding Officer and RSM down here away from the hustle and bustle of Banja Luka. We hope that they enjoyed their stay. The CO gave a presentation to the Officers and SNCOs about the Regiment's role in Bosnia and we certainly have the better option out here. The penguin racing in 'Sharkies' was a huge success thanks to the efforts of Power Section as was the Christmas party. Their efforts both in the bar and running it have been commendable. With four months down and only two to go most of UHQ have skived off on R&R by now with the exception of Lts Rob Francis and Karl Jeeves.

Lt Karl Jeeves and Lt Rob Francis and friends What's all that about?

They have delayed their trip to Ascension until early February in the hope that they will still have their tans on return to Herford. Everyone in the Squadron has worked extremely hard over these past months especially during the recent TOC Out and are to be congratulated for their efforts.

LATER ENTRY - 1 (UK) Armd Div HQ & Sig Regt are busy preparing to hand over to 2 Sig Regt after a fairly hectic tour and we wish them the best of luck. The squadron has had an excellent tour and a great deal has been achieved, we even managed to convince a couple of our RAF colleagues to come to PT! The JCUFI football team have been doing well, leaping from the bottom of the league to the final of the BFFI Cup, well done to all the team and many thanks to Pte 'Eddie' Edwards for his efforts as team manager. Our congratulations go to the SSM, WO2 Al Balsdon on his promotion to RSM – standby 15 Sigs, get your PT kit out! We also say goodbye and congratulations to our Sqn Clerk, A/Sgt Rob 'Chief' Clarke who is marrying his fiancée Linda whom he met early this tour - we wish them all the best!

SOUTH GEORGIA LSD SIGNALS DETACHMENT

LIFE IN THE FREEZER

by LCpl Craig Law

After three days enduring some of the worst sea conditions that nature could throw at us, we finally arrived. Our destination had been South Georgia, a small isolated island in the South Atlantic, 800 miles west of the Falklands. As we arrived at Grytviken Baynwe could not help but be awe struck by the natural beauty of the carved glacial landscape crowned by its snowy peaks.

HMS Edinburgh in South Georgia

After a quick and successful hand-over, littered with unwelcome comments such as, 'Glad we're not here for Christmas,' Sgt 'Jase' Barsley, Sgt Tony Tye, Sig Si Knight and myself, LCpl Craig Law, watched helplessly as HMS Edinburgh sailed over the horizon taking our morale with it. Luckily there was no time for depression to set in and we were soon thrust out into the mountains on a week-long survival course. The Marine in charge soon had us chucking ourselves off cliffs, living in snow-holes and hurtling down mountains with only an ice-pick and a prayer for brakes.

The island is supplied by a combined services operation. The Navy supplies the bulk by ship and the RAF throw the remainder out of the back of a Hercules into the sea before raising comms and telling us that they have arrived. This makes for an extremely desperate race to reach the packages before they sink just in case they might contain our mail. After many hard working days and entertaining nights, the det, under the influence of a mental hangover took a vow to stop smoking, cut down on drinking and sweat more in the gym. The aim was as 'Jase' put it 'to get massive'.

Fuelled with our new vision and improved morale we cruised through the next two months sober, enjoying greater lung capacity. The changeover of the Engineers Det produced minor problems with our training due to the introduction of the compulsory 'theme night'. Having the bar filled with palm trees for the Hawaiian Night and a strict no clothes policy for the Naturist Night has taken South Georgia's entertainment to new levels of depravity.

Sig 'Ade' Hoskins on board HMS Edinburgh en route to South Georgia

South Georgia has an abundance of wildlife ranging from Orcas, elephant seals, penguins and a couple of marines who wander around aimlessly quoting Alan Partridge and trying to convince people to be 'at one with the mountains'. With more than half the tour now behind us and countless projects completed, the countdown to HMS Morale's arrival and our departure has begun. The Tour has thus far been a complete success and thoroughly enjoyed by all. We all feel that we have been part of a once in a lifetime experience and I would recommend it to anyone.

EXERCISE SAUNDERS GOOSE

Ex Saunders Goose was an 'adventurous' training exercise on the north coast of West Falklands. So far three trips have been made to the island that is a veritable Paradise if such a thing could exist within the Falklands. Its white beaches and turquoise seas would have been more at home in the Carribean than the South Atlantic and the wildlife is prolific. Four species of penguins, albatrosses, elephant seals and much more. Perhaps we've just been down here too long! My plan to name the Exercise 'Saunders Swan' was vetoed by the Sqn OC who insisted that it wasn't a swan but Adventure Training so 'Saunders Goose' it became, like a swan only slightly tougher. 2Lt 'Olie' Dinnis, the Squadron's pet Young Officer led the first trip, taking with him an assortment of characters from RADCON. With the likes of LCpl 'Smiler' Breaks and that terrible twosome of Sigs Bond and Hogg it was never going to be a serious affair. A great deal of fun was had by all, hill-walking and penguin spotting being the main features. Trouble getting space on the chopper meant that for future trips the numbers had to be cut down to five. Lt Rob Francis led the next expedition with Sig 'Ade' Hoskins and a trio from the RAF (just to prove that we're a tri-service unit) in tow. Actually venturing more than a few hundred yards out of camp without a Land Rover reaped excellent rewards. We discovered a huge colony of Rock Hopper penguins and albatrosses, both of which allowed us within feet of them to take photos, as well as climbing Rookery Mount to get an awesome view of the island. The weather was excellent and thanks to one of the RAF girls who brought sun cream, we didn't get too burnt. Sgt Dave Cascarino wasn't so lucky with his trip and got pretty soaked but once again a cracking time was had by all. The aim is to repeat the Exercise over as many more weekends as possible in order to get people out and about to see some of the attractions that these islands have to offer.

ALPHA TROOP/RADCON

IC RADCON	Sgt 'Daz' Bailey

Well another few months have passed and the infamous RADCON JCUFI is still ticking away. Not a lot has happened over the last month or so but the 1 Div's best have been doing what it takes to keep busy and not become cabbages unlike the guys in SYSCON!

I think that it would only be fitting to begin by saying goodbye to the lads who have recently come back from South Georgia after a gruelling six months of smoking, drinking and generally getting fat and lazy. They all have fascinating tales from their tour of that idyllic island. Sgt 'Jase' Barsley, well what can be said about such a fine man, except congratulations, you have definitely won the golden blanket this time. Well done to Sgt Tony Tye on his promotion, no doubt we'll get even less work out of you now. LCpl Craig Law has had a fine tour, his dull Scottish drone has kept us all amused for hours at our end and will be sadly missed. Sig Si Knight, well was it just a holiday romance, will the tash last? He is now one step closer to his dream of becoming an adult film star after featuring in that brilliant programme 'Scene Here'. Every one has to start somewhere! Well thanks to the SG lads who helped make our job even easier.

Sgt 'Daz' Bailey is still doing a fine job of running RADCON, all the lads can say is 'Sgt B, enjoy it while it lasts, for soon you will be a Cpl again and then the fun begins!' A/Cpl Ian Wilson still does ten hours of nothing a day. Its obviously the way ahead as he is leaving us to go to 20 Bde as a Cpl with Sgt Bailey. We wish them the best of luck and they will be sadly missed on the tank park. What of Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dumb otherwise known as Cpl 'Fraz' Reid and Cpl Steve Read. Well 'Fraz' was devastated recently when he found out that Scotland had been knocked out of the World Cup. The fact that it happened over six months ago may, to the casual observer, seem strange. Then again, 'Fraz' is a little strange. Cpl Steve Read, not a lot to say except 'Land Rovers are not amphibious!' LCpl Si Kenny is currently trying to organise his next posting to 249 Sig Sqn where we are sure that he will be MED Ex'd from most of the major exercises, why break the habit of a life time. LCpl 'Chaz' Charnley is posted to 21 Sig Regt where he will probably get a call every time Si Kenny requires replacing. LCpl Charnley is extremely sad to leave his 436 so let's hope that 21 Sig Regt have one just for him. Sig 'Ringo' Wringe has had an eventful tour under the wing of LCpl 'Chaz' Charnley and will no doubt soon be joining the ranks of 22 ... 212 that is. The girls, LCpl Nicky Needham, Sigs Becky Hogg, Michelle 'Evel Knievel' Bond and Lucy 'Locket' Corlett have had a busy tour and have proven to be a valuable asset for the procurement of 'gimmies' (we're not sure how they do it, what is their secret?) Sig 'Fifties Throwback' Hendrick is currently in high spirits as the rumour is that the MoD is buying in a job lot of Viagra. Sig Andy Cunnington has kept himself busy doing lots of fiz and congratulations to him as he has done well, now all that you need to do is dye your hair! Sig Jim Hewitt is still keeping us amused with his attempt at being a PTI. Last as always, our very own cross between Shaft and Will Smith is LCpl 'Smiler' Breaks who has recently started doing shifts in the Radio Ops Room – all we can say is 'Smiler, don't give up your day job!'

CHARLIE TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt 'Jeevsey' Jeeves
SSgt	SSgt 'Taff' Jolly

Once again it has been a hectic time for C Tp as a number of major projects loom in the wings the Sections, ably led by the Sergeants, continue to work the men hard Fits Section - continues to battle to maintain kit that really wants to retire and move to a bungalow in the country. The Section is forever deploying to the remotest of sites at the shortest notice in an effort to keep everyone talking to one another, this is playing havoc with Cpl Duffy's social life. He has, however, managed to find himself a pen pal. Well the boss found him one.

LATER ENTRY –The New Year is upon us and the FITS Team has stepped up a gear. FITS is one of the busiest sections in JCUFI and we are now heavily involved in the Digi FITS upgrade with our random civvys from COGENT ably assisted by the two reinforcements drafted in for the project, SSgt Dave Gill from Blandford and LCpl Haley Moore a volunteer from our sister Regt, 3 Div (Boo! Hiss!)

Obviously, with our tour concluding in February, there has been some concern about the fact that the cut-over from FITS to DigiFITS takes place between 17 February and 2 March. Have no fear great overlords of JCUFI, to aid the smooth transition, the FITS team have volunteered to be amongst the last to leave the battlefield and won't depart until the 24th. That is except for LCpl Ali Jamieson our resident civvy from the TA, whose reply to the request to step forward, was to step back. Our FIADGE Mountain men have once again acquitted themselves with honour, doing their level best to win more awards and drink more beer than their RAF colleagues. All three of them will be leaving on 20 February with the main body after their very short hand-overs.

Sadly we will not see the fruit of our labours down here up and running, as we will be leaving the easy bit to 2 Sig Regt. In the mean time, ciao, and remember, 'its not the end of the world but you can see it from here!'

Fiten Section - still disappear off everywhere at curious times of the day, Sgt Treadwell dutifully followed round by his faithful vassals, Cpl Bartle and LCpl Gemmell. The latter two can now been seen furiously working on their fitness gently encouraged by the Troop OC. Syscon are all currently furiously revising for their T3-2 exams with varying success. The army lads continue to be called the Syscon Mafia, kept in check by the influence of LCpl Lee. Sig Crossley and LCpl Caffrey have now nicknamed themselves as 'The Faults Dream Team', after fixing three priority one faults in a day.

Charlie Tp HQ muddle by as best they can, being grumpy because the OC has given up alcohol. Lt Jeeves, SSgt Jolly would like to say thank you to all of Charlie Tp for all your hard work and dedication, well done!

Line Section – LATER ENTRY

Back row (L-R): Cpl Korba, Cpl Prout,
Sgt Cascarino I/C Line Section, Sgt Treadwell I/C Fiten, LCpl James, Sig Durrans, Sig Mark
Front row (L-R): Cpl Bartle, Sig Simm,Sig Smith, LCpl Gemmell.
Absent on duty: Cpl Richards, LCpl Ferguson, Sig Woodcock, Sig Fisher

Well the tourex draws near for the Divvies of line Section, the 'trickle posting' Tele Mechs will be sad to see them go. Having said that the majority of the Tele Mechs leave around about the same time. Without a doubt Line Section have been one of the busiest departments of JCUM, if not the whole of MPA, in the last five months. At the time of writing, the Telemechs of 81 Sig Sqn (V) have arrived in theatre to rewire the TOC frame - this being the last phase of the ongoing project. The author would like to take this opportunity to thank his Divisional Linemen for the total professionalism and dedication they have shown in making an extremely hard job look easy - you are a credit to your trade guys! I feel they must get their names in print - it will cost them a pint anyway!

Cpl Phil 'Oh sailor' Korba
Sig Dave 'Catalogue Boy' Durrans
Sig Paul 'Our aquatic friend' Fisher
Sig Dave 'Chunky Monkey' Mark
Sig Colin 'Colson' Simm
Sig Chris 'Gob' Woodcock.

On the sad side, I would just like to let every body know what it is we have been up to for the past five months! A total of 1064 faults have been cleared, 79 works orders have been installed, a new test point has been put on line, the standby operations centre has been completely rewired, three projects have been completed, including the MQ re-cabling, half of the corridor phones in the accommodation, all this and not a mention of the 27,000 fast balls that have come from either WO2 FofS Dave Jones or the Tech Adj, Capt Lee Wookey, on the subject of fastballs OC C Tp, Lt Karl 'Phsyco' Jeeves must get a mention as the No1 harbinger of bad news! Mentions must go to the Telemechs in the section;

Sgt Dave 'Fat boy - I don't RAAAH much' Cascarino
Cpl Andy 'I love Bev' Prout
LCpl Darren 'Pumpkin' James
Cpl Pete 'Wibble' Richards
LCpl Martin 'I hate you all' Ferguson
Sig Bev 'I Love John not Andy' Smith.

In addition to the Mechs and Linies up at ACC, our resident exchange techs have played a major part in our role here, especially on the morale side! We have all enjoyed laughing at Sgt Tim 'It's all pump' Treadwell, Cpl Nick 'Pedo' Bartle, and last but not least LCpl Archie 'spank me' Gemmell.

Power Section - are hard at work servicing and doing a good sideline at being bar managers and bar staff. Thank you to the whole Section for their hard work in preparing the bar for the Christmas Party, on 12 December. Apparently everybody had a great time! However, everyone will deny any involvement in an incident with a canoe. Well done to Sig Sherlock for retaining his Army Judo title (the trophy looks very nice sat in my office). Sig Fisher spent an enjoyable two weeks as driver for the CSE Show Dancers, one of whom he has now fallen in love with, little does he know!

LATER ENTRY - Routine is the game for Power Section as the end of 1 Div's tour draws ever nearer. The light is at the end of the tunnel, but the work load is still plentiful with all the cabins requiring cleaning and painting prior to the hand-over in mid-February to 2 Sig Regt. Everyone is working hard flying about the islands and in Sgt John McKillop's case getting pretty sunburnt in the process (loads of work done there then..). LCpl Steve Smith is clearing ready to go on his upgrading course at sunny old Blandford, leaving LCpl Chris Heap to carry the can while LCpl 'Don't call me Shorty!' Sherlock mans the heli-ops/MT desk. The Golden Bowl Award for pure gluttony has been awarded to Sig 'Dinger' Bell for demolishing two kilos of chips prior to a bag of sausages and a box of King Ribs for breakfast! The section would like to congratulate LCpl Sherlock on his promotion, there's hope for us all yet.

UQMS DEPARTMENT

With the army element now gearing up for the hand over to 2 Sig Regt in mid February, the UQMS Sgt 'Sholly' Martwich commiserating his 40th birthday and a Board of Officers and the usual MFO Box confusion, the first two weeks of January have been a harassed and hectic blur! LCpl 'Civvie' Milne and Sig 'Growbag' Grossmith have been holding the fort while Q reconstructs his ammunition account and looks for a new stores wagon.

223 SIGNAL SQUADRON
(JOINT SERVICES SIGNAL UNIT DIGBY)
RAF DIGBY

SITUATION GENERAL

As we at Digby finally sober up after what can only be described as a rather 'blurred' Christmas, it is time to look to another year. We are already in receipt of our new issue of 'OFFICER 99'. A warm welcome to Flt Lts Darren 'bouffant' Thorley, Rob 'schoolbag' Keir and Mick 'loose minute' Warren and a welcome return to Flt Lt Andy 'Don't I look hard in Combat '95?' Calder who has returned from overseas. The Squadron is still trying to decide if this make our issue of 'OFFICER 99' redundant or not? In other news the OC in an effort to be nearer to his beloved troops has moved out of the luxurious elegance of his Executive Suite office and is now slumming it with the rest of us. However, there has been a marked increase in the number of people using alternative exit routes since his arrival. I can't see any connection myself..

We have also noticed strange people lurking in the back of our cosy JSSU and wearing that outlandish camouflage kit. Heaven forbid they are actually doing regular PT and working outside even in bad weather. The guys from SSSU, now recognised as 4 Squadron have well and truly made their mark since arriving, especially in the 'social' arena. Rumours are that the QM and RQMS have issued them with extra large wallets and big hands, no wonder the young ladies are flocking around them.

A FLIGHT NEWS

by JT Sarah 'Tracey, get the brews in' Peapell

It's been a real quiet time on A Watch this month. I think after the parties over Christmas we are all nursing sore heads and very unhealthy bank balances! But wasn't it a pleasure to see the Boss behave himself for once at the Xmas bash. I'm sure it had nothing to do with his girlfriend being present. Hellos this month go to WO2 Dave Fuller supposedly back from Cyprus (we think he picked up his tan in the Gym), Sgt Simpson (back from Bosnia and is still, funnily enough, a silver tongued cavalier), JT Soley (welcome to Digby matey), JT Tremlin (back from FI, god damn your eyes), and Cpl Rose Groocock (who also hails from FI, and has a big love heart above her head after getting engaged recently. Congrats from all of us). This must be the month of lurve for A Watch (and no, nobody else is pregnant) but congrats go to JT Jacqui Goodson and Neil for their recent engagement. (Bless.)

Goodbyes go to WO2 Jim McGhee, (off to a cushy day job, you traitor you), Cpl Kerry Smith (also off to days and leaving vacancies in every secondary duty on the watch), Cpl Sarah Lee (off to Cyprus to get a tan. No bar snogging while you are over there either ya hussy), and JT Tony Bellis (off to 2 Sqn. You may be a deviant but we'll miss you – who else is guaranteed to lower the tone within two seconds of opening their mouth?). Hello and goodbye also to 'Dusty' Millar, returned from Bosnia and now off to Civvy street. Just practice this phrase... 'Would you like fries with that Sir? The only really worthwhile activity, not involving alcohol, that the flight has done recently is a piece of work for 'charidee mate'. One of the flight charities is St Francis School (a local school for children with disabilities or special needs). As part of their ongoing environmental development plan, the school decided to plant nearly 100 trees in their grounds. Step in A Flight. With a speed and horticultural ability that would have shamed even the great Alan Titchmarsh, we dug the required holes. The children themselves planted the trees and we were privileged enough to be asked to plant a redthorn tree on behalf of JSSU Digby.

Congratulations also go to LCpl Steve Fox and the Boss for joint first in the tight trousers competition. Must be all them chocolate chip cookies and 'jack' brews. You both looked very sexy (honest), but I think 'Foxy' just pipped the Boss due to his rather attractive ballet tights worn whilst on his Mountain Proficiency Course. Oh how we swooned. It hasn't been a good time for young 'Foxy' there is this dreadful rumour that he actually forgot his tent whilst on the course and other rumours have circulated that he behaved very badly whilst on Corps rugby duty. Any romantic gifts please address to Cpl Sara Peapell, A Flight. Not that I'm desperate or anything you understand.

4 SQUADRON

by WO2 (Supyr R) Mark Jordan

The purple fluffy lot in 1 Sqn have finally let us have our say about what we actually get up to. After all we have almost been here a year. Any way we arrived at Digby after the break up of Comms & Sy Gp (UK). Now falling under the label of 4 Sqn we are still carrying out our support of overseas deployment with technical and logistical supplies and expertise (well one out of two ain't bad). As a result we are drawn from a wide group of trades within the Corps. We also have our own supply of Int Corps and RAF personnel which ensures our contribution to the prevailing Services theme of 'Jointery'. Much of our time here in sunny Lincolnshire has been spent establishing ourselves and fitting into our office spaces, whilst still trying to support operations. The formation of the JSSU caused another small re-organisation, but we are now firmly settled and our good work continues. We have to support operations in various European locations. We also have outlying detachments within the UK, at VSSS and JSSU Oakley, so we are spread far and wide.

As far as the social aspects of life go, we have been 'having our usual knees-up when we can manage it'. We did have an excellent 'Murder Mystery' party. After all it was a good chance to stab the Boss in the back!

M FLIGHT NEWS

by LCpl Jim Patton

Well, here on M Flight we've got all the customary 'hellos and good-byes' so lets reel those off. We say goodbye to Capt Sam Harrild who leaves us for a six month stint in Bosnia, Sgt Tim Stevens departs for his Supervisor Radios course, CPO Matt Helm is off on a four week leadership course, Cpls Steve Dunsmuir, Neil Crispin and Mark Ozanne leave us for a stint in Northern Ireland as are LCpl's Tommy Scanlan, and Adam Routh. LCpl John O'Hara is off on a lovely break to the Falklands Islands. Meanwhile Cpl Debbie Alderton and LCpl Si Doherty are at Chicksands on courses, and finally, not going so far is JT 'Stick' Powell who leaves us to start work at 2 Squadron, nice work if you can get it 'Stick'!

Moving onto the hellos and welcomes - to our new OC, 2Lt Anna Janes, Cpl Norman Wiseman who joins M Flight as do JT's Des O'Donnell and Ingrid Brown. To top all that off, we must congratulate LCpl 'IT' Wright and her husband Ian on the birth of Morgan Kingsley who arrived weighing a healthy 71b 7oz on 5 January.

Let's move onto the sporting front now. but lets start with something gentle the Junior Ranks Pool Competition has been running recently, unfortunately all M Flight hopes were ended at the quarter-final stage with JT Baz Pilling and LCpl Jim Patton crashing out of the competition, better luck next time lads! We'll move onto something more straining now, and at the recent boxing evening where an RAF select took on a Notts/Lincs select team, the only M Flight involvement was Cpl Tina Whale and JT Fleure Angle volunteering to be hostesses! The RAF Skiing Championships held at Les Menuires (excuse spelling!) on the 9-23 January involved our own intrepid JT's Dan Langford and Fleure Angle competing, although they won't divulge to us how they did! Surely it couldn't have been that bad, all limbs are still intact and unbroken! Leading the way on a trip to the Peak District held on 20-22 January, Sgt 'Lofty' Fairhurst of the RAF decided to show all us Army people how to get lost in the wilderness for a couple of days and I have to say, he did rather well !!! Better leave the map reading to us in the future 'Lofty'!

Finally, before we say goodbye for this edition, we have to mention the Christmas function held in conjunction with B and D Flights, with our own LCpl Tommy Scanlan winning £50 worth of shopping vouchers, which his fiance Sarah will no doubt have spent for him by the time he goes to - Northern Ireland! A good night was had by all, from what we can remember!

NEWS FROM THE TROOPS

642 SIGNAL TROOP

The Troop successfully transformed their organisation in two key areas in 1998. The military contingent now control and manage Customer Services, giving them responsibility over the Main Distribution Frame and dealing with customer complaints, whilst the local employed civilian workforce look after the cable infrastructure under the guidance of the PTO, Mr Ernest Peralta.

Customer Services has been in operation for the whole of 1998 and in that time the department has catered for all of Gibraltar's needs. This has made their year an intense one especially in the areas of Data Communications and Fibre Optics and serves as a precursor to what will be asked of them in 1999. The lads have been heavily involved with the Secret and Non-Secret LAN installations thanks to the intervention of FofS 'Bagsy' Bain, thanks for that 'Bagsy', we telemechs never needed food and sleep anyway, we only did it to be social. 1999 is already shaping up to be an even busier year with Sgt 'Yorkie' Sowden submitting a number of large SWS projects to enhance CIS Gibraltar's role.

The highlight of 1998 must be the visit of the Signals Officer in Chief (Army), Brig John Griffin. The SOinC kindly accepted our invitation and visited between 10 - 12 November 1998. His visit presented the opportunity to award the LS&GC to WO2 FofS 'Bagsy' Bain, GSM to LCpl Gary Watson and the Accumulated Campaign medal to Cpl 'Gilly' Gilchriest. His programme gave a balanced mix between CIS and local history with visits to Kings Chapel, Garrison Library and the WWII tunnel tour. A delightful excursion around Gibraltar on HMS Ranger was arranged through the Gibraltar Squadron. Our thanks to Col John Sankey OBE and Lorraine for accommodating and hosting the SOinC at Air House. The visit proved to be a valuable PR Exercise for 642 Sig Tp.

The Troop also had the privilege to host Maj (Retd) Brian Campbell from MCM Div Glasgow who visited between 24 - 27 November 1998. A rare opportunity for the boys to receive the current road-show news on the new trade structuring followed by the all too important soldiers interviews. His presence paid dividends with the immediate promotion to Acting Corporal for LCpl Gary Watson. Well done Gary, don't forget the slabs.

The image of Royal Signals in Gibraltar continues to grow although the OC, Capt Paul Wilson, took it a little bit too far by getting mentioned on local television, radio, newspapers and internet over his disputes with the local workforce. Feelings of tyrannical rule with imperialist boot are phrases that spring to mind! He who oppresses the poor is like a driving rain that leaves no crops. The OC survived the onslaught and will stay on an extra year to see through his reforms. The new telephone exchange continues to elude us and it is with great credit to Sgts Dave Hunt and Mick Holloway who will keep on nursing the old monster for another year. We wait in expectation for a reprieve from this punishment when it is hoped that the new exchange will arrive by October 1999. The Troop has also been extremely busy in restoring customer confidence in the ageing Satellite Television cable network. Responsibility for maintenance will transfer to SSVC later this year when that too benefits from an injection of funding for redesign.

ARRIVALS AND FAREWELLS

In 1998 we said goodbye to Sgt Bob Maxted who left on promotion, Sig Jim 'Terminator' Stocks and Sgt Ian Travers. In their place we welcome Cpl 'Gilly' Gilchreist with his wife Emma and newborn daughter Niamh and Cpl Gary Watson.

SPORT

THE ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS ALPINE SKIING CAMP AND CHAMPIONSHIPS 1998/99 SEASON

ZELL AM SEE, AUSTRIA
21 NOVEMBER - 19 DECEMBER 1998

The start of the new ski season saw 75 members of the Royal Signals and 15 members of BLAST (British Ladies Army Ski Team), arrive in Zell am See, Austria, to embark on this season's training. Teams had travelled from all over BF (G) and the UK. A special mention must go to 15 Sig Regt from Northern Ireland, who owing to breakdowns, took over 50 hours to complete the journey. The following weeks saw complete novices learning to ski as well as more experienced skiers striving towards better technique, which would allow them to throw themselves down ever steeper slopes at ever increasing speeds. The snow conditions were excellent with a surprising amount of early season snow falling throughout the period, thus ensuring that as well as developing everyone's technique, the better skiers were able to 'play' in some deep powder.

The Camp was organised by 16 Sig Regt, SSgt Andy Brown's exhaustive planning and hard work ensured that the Camp ran smoothly. Under his expert guidance the assembled masses were split into groups of ability to be trained by other ex-army skiers. The progress made throughout the initial three weeks was obvious when put to the test in the first week's racing.

Sgt Carpenter (7 Sig Regt) - GS Run

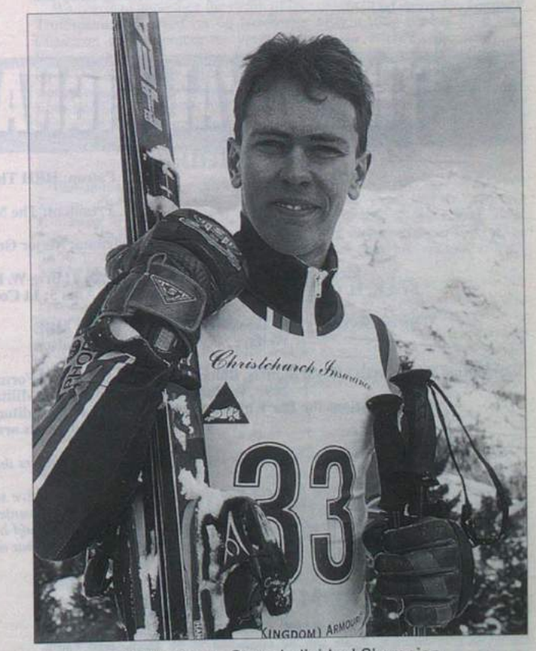
The final week, 'RACE WEEK', was to be an extremely close event. The programme included both a Team and Individual Slalom and Giant Slalom (GS). The final day was to be either a Super Giant Slalom or a fun Parallel Slalom event, however, poor weather conditions on the Monday resulted in no racing, so the programme was slipped by a day and only the Slalom and GS events were run. Several teams were tipped for the title of 'Team Combination winners'. Last years winners, 16 Sig Regt were not the expected Hot Favourites, 2 Sig Regt, 7 Sig Regt and 14 Sig Regt all had a good chance of winning. The individual competition was also extremely close, with a number of newcomers featuring in the proceedings alongside more established performers. Other titles that were to be decided included Women's Champion, Junior Champion, Veteran Champion, Novice Champion and most improved skier. In addition there were a number of funnies which included slowest time, best crash, longest serving gatekeeper and The Banana prize, this was awarded to the person who had made the most mistakes throughout the competition. It was won hands down by Cpl Andy Dawson from 14 Sig Regt. He was one of the hot favourites to win the individual prize, he was also his Regiment's, Number One skier. Mistakes ranged from missing the first gate, to missing the last and to breaking the start beam before he was ready to go, ie: starting the clock running.

Although these mistakes cost the Regiment the Team GS gold, excellent performances by his fellow teams members, Sig Taylor, LCpl Johnston and LCpl Sweeney, in both, the team GS and Slalom, allowed 14 Sig Regt to came away with the Team Combination title.

The team GS title was handed to 16 Sig Regt due to mistakes from other teams, along with Cpl Dawson's antics, 7 Sig Regt made a mistake with team selection which cost them dearly. The 16 Sig Regt team consisted of Capt Crawford, Cpl Turnball, LCpl Orange and Sig Cox. Sig Cox, who only skied for the first time in March on BWT, was to go on to win the Novice prize with a number of excellent performances. The team Slalom event was won by 7 Sig Regt, fortunately for them they got their team selection correct and managed to hold off a strong challenge from 14 Sig Regt who were narrowly beaten into their second runners up position, this was good enough for them to claim the team prize as 16 Sig Regt could only manage third place.

14 Signal Regiment - Corps Combined Champions
Sig Taylor, LCpl Sweeney, LCpl Johnston, SSgt Clark, 2Lt Stewart, Cpl Dawson

The Individual Events were dominated by some excellent skiing from Sig Taylor, of 14 Sig Regt, who surprised everybody with two excellent races, coming third in the Slalom and fifth in the GS. This performance was good enough to earn him a very respectable third position overall in what was his first season's racing. The Individual Slalom race, which was the decider, proved to be especially nail biting for all those concerned. The first run saw Sgt 'Cappo' Carpenter from 7 Sig Regt fall, he completed the course eventually, in a time which cost him the overall Individual combination winner, after an excellent second place in the GS he was understandably annoyed. This, along with top seed disqualification's of Capt 'Cindy' Crawford and Lt Kate Simmonds, the latter of whom lost the Royal Signals Female Championship on the first run, saw the prize board open up to all comers. An outstanding performance by LCpl Tony Orange saw him lift the Slalom Title, this win and his steady performance in the earlier GS ensured that he would claim the second place in the individual combination competition.



Sig Hartigan - Corps Individual Champion

Sig Hartigan, 7 Sig Regt, was to become the eventual overall Individual Combination winner, his first place in the Individual GS and his second place in the Slalom were more than enough to ensure that he was to become the 1998/99 Royal Signals Individual Combined Alpine Skiing Champion; a thoroughly deserved award for sustaining an excellent performance throughout the week.

LCpl Jo Neil (264 Sig Sqn) - Female Champion

As for the other prizes that were on offer, SSgt Rob 'OAP' Allen of 15 Sig Regt, proved that the 'Old Un's' could keep up with the younger members of the field, when he became the Veterans Champion. Sig Taylor, of 14 Sig Regt, became the Junior Champion as well as claiming third place overall. LCpl Jo Neal, of 264 Sig Sqn, was the women's combined champion with Capt 'Ouch my nose' Dallyn from HQNI, runner up. Sig Raw, from 1 (UK) Armd Div Sig Regt, was the most improved performer gaining 29 places on his initial seeding. The Minor Units title was lifted by 7 Bde Sig Sqn. The toughest decision to be made was, who had the most spectacular crash? After much deliberation it was decided that Cpl 'Super Richie' Turnball, from 16 Sig Regt, was the winner, for his 'flight' in the Individual GS. Cpl McChesney and Sgt Watkins claimed the Longest Time and Longest Serving Gate-Keeper awards, both are from 15 Sig Regt.

The entire month proved to be both extremely enjoyable and rewarding. Congratulations must go to each and every competitor for the spirit in which they all conducted themselves. Excellent displays of sportsmanship and camaraderie where abundant throughout the event. This coupled with the fact that it was the largest ever Championships the Royal Signals has seen can only bode well for the future of Alpine Skiing in the Corps. This year Alpine skiing within the Corps has been sponsored by Nortel Communications Ltd, the sponsorship deal over two years is being put to good use. It will help improve the equipment and facilities used by all the competitors at the Championships. Finally, a big thanks from all of the competitors to all of the training staff, led by SSgt Andy Brown. We all look forward to next year, when hopefully an equally rewarding Camp and Championship can be held.

ROYAL SIGNALS v RMAS 13 JANUARY 1999

The match was played at Sandhurst under very wet and windy conditions. The Corps side dominated the set scrum and struggled at the lineout. However, the Forwards still managed to produce good ball. The conditions did little to promote good running rugby and the game developed into a battle of rucks and mauls. The Corps led at halftime by twelve points but the determination of RMAS cut this lead down to seven and in the last minute of injury-time RMAS went over for a try in the corner and converted with the last kick of the game. The final score was 29 all.

ROYAL SIGNALS v RLC 27 JANUARY 1999

The match was played at Blandford under near ideal conditions. The Corps started off badly eight points down and only five minutes played. The Corps pack then began to dominate the set piece play but continually gave away penalties, 27 throughout the match.

The Corps led at half time and quickly settled into the second half with the pack again dominating play. However, three pushover tries were disallowed and a collapsed maul won a penalty that was converted. LCpl Dorking played his last game and scored the final try to give the Corps a deserved win at 23 – 12. The Royal Signals remain at the top of the Merit One Table as the only unbeaten team.

CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS

LCpl N. Dean from 251 Signal Squadron, won First Place in the Women's Army Cross Country Championships held at Longmoore Training Area on 3 February 1999.

HOCKEY

The Royal Signals Men's and Royal Signals Women's Hockey Teams played their respective Teams from the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst on 3 February 1999. The results were as follows:

Corps Women	v	RMAS (a mixed side)	2 –1	Win
Corps Men	v	RMAS	2 – 0	Win

NOTES FROM THE AO'S DESK

Branch News - John Pell has been elected as the new Hon Secretary of the Doncaster Branch. John can be contacted at 36 Homestead Garth, Hatfield, Doncaster DN7 6RN. Tel: 01302-843020. Gerry Hunt, after putting in so much effort to get the Branch up and running, is now Chairman. Tom Evans, Hon Secretary of the Torbay Branch, has a new tel number; 01626-204354. Due to her work and TA committments, Jayne Burn has decided to stand down as Hon Secretary of the Bristol Branch. Ray Rigg has been elected as the new secretary - his address is; 65 Kings Drive, Bishopston, Bristol BS7 8JQ, Tel: 0117-9241925. Work commitments have also caused Peter Bruce to reluctantly stand down as Secretary of the Loughborough Branch. Mrs Lesley Banyard has agreed to step into office, and her address is; 'Rose Villa', 42 Glebe Str, Loughborough LE11 1JR, Tel: 01509-557686. Lack of mobility has forced Cyril Foster to stand down after nine years as Hon Secretary of the Coventry Branch. Mick Lowndes has been elected to office and can be contacted at; 39 Aldrick Ave, Tile Hill, N Coventry CV4 9LS. A warm welcome is extended to those new to office and may I send my personal thanks to Gerry, Jayne, Peter and Cyril for their hard work and co-operation, which made my job that much easier. Ian Lorimer, Hon Secretary of the Preston & Blackburn Branch, has a new telephone number; 01254-663496. Could you spare a little of your time to serve on your Branch's Committee? I am sure that any offer of help would be much appreciated by the Branch.

Founder's Day at The Royal Hospital Chelsea - Founder's Day this year will be held on Thursday 10 June, when HRH The Prince of Wales will be the Reviewing Officer. I should soon have a limited supply of tickets, which are for those who served in the Army, rather than families and friends. We have been advised that the Public are now admitted to the Governor's Review, a full dress rehearsal for Founder's Day. This takes place on Tuesday 8 June. Tickets are not necessary. Admission is by the Chelsea Gate, but there are no parking or refreshment facilities. Spectators should be seated by 0930. For security reasons, the Hospital would welcome knowing if anyone intends to go so that, should the security situation deteriorate and they have to cancel the event, they can inform people.

1999 Reunion - As if any reminder is necessary, the Annual RSA 'Old Comrades' Reunion will be held at Blandford over the weekend 26/27 June. Individuals who have not yet received their copy of the Instruction should contact Association HQ. Branch members should contact their Hon Secretary for details. Don't forget that the Princess Royal Day Parade, by the serving soldiers of the camp, will start at 1030 hours on the Saturday. All members of The Association, their families and guests are welcome to attend.

Catterick Camp 1950 - Jim McNish has very kindly sent me his first edition copy of 'Catterick Camp and Barnard Castle Business Directory and Yearbook' from 1950. This absolutely fascinating book is being donated to the Museum - it lists all the units in Catterick at the time, plus the names of all the officers. Many thanks Jim, your book will be lovingly treasured by the Museum. As a result of this, Ken Bunstan was delighted to receive a few more names of those who served in No1 Independent Selection Trg Sqn and has already made contact with one of them.

New Life Members - A warm welcome is extended to the following recently enrolled Life Members of The Association. To those who recently left the Corps at the end of their time, we wish them good luck in their second career and hope that they will remain in contact with us.

ALDERSHOT BRANCH

In February we enjoyed our first social gathering of the year when a Curry Lunch was arranged for us in his Mess by Joe Fairbairn, who not only is a highly valued member of our committee, but no less a person than Garrison Sergeant Major. We were glad to see many of our members who live on the periphery of our area. Our thanks go to Joe and the members of his Mess for such a pleasant day. We look forward to our 50th Anniversary Dinner in April, a very special occasion for the Branch.

BRADFORD BRANCH

We are a very small Branch but we have loyal members who attend every meeting. Since we started holding our meetings at 1pm we find it is much better and we now meet at the Polish Ex-Servicemen's Club, where we are always welcome. In November members and their wives had their Christmas outing to Mother Hubbard's Fish Restaurant. Everyone enjoyed themselves. Our next get together was on 25 January when we celebrated the Golden Wedding of Alma and Jim Robson of Skipton. The ladies provided the buffet. After joining the army in Maidstone, Jim trained as a wireless operator at Catterick. He served with the Orkney and Shetland Defences for a short while and was then posted to India. Here he joined the 17 (Black Cat) Indian Division in Burma 1945. He returned to England in 1947, met Alma in the June of that year and they married 15 January 1949. We wish them well for the future years.

A number of us went to the annual Remembrance Service at Eden Camp, near Malton, North Yorkshire on Sunday 13 September. We shared a bus with the ATS Ladies and the Dunkirk Veterans Association. In spite of a chilly wind it was a very enjoyable day. I always find it amazing the number of veterans that are on parade. There were also about one hundred Standards. The numbers just seem to increase each year.

We regret to announce the death of one of our past Chairmen, Clifford Thompson, who died on 18 November after a long illness. Cliff was Chairman for a number of years and always attended the Catterick Reunions. He was a wireless operator in an armoured vehicle and landed on D-Day with 3 Div. Members of the Branch attended the funeral. We were pleased that a member of 3 Div Sigs Reunion Club and his wife came from Leeds to attend the funeral, as Cliff was a member of the Club. We have to thank Mr Templeton, the secretary, for arranging this.

BRIGHTON BRANCH

Our January meeting can often be a problem. Last year icy winds from Siberia cut attendance to six. This year we were luckier. Gordon Holloway asked everyone to bring Service photos, of times long gone. These photos caused much merriment. But some matters had to be mentioned in whispers. Some folks, now bald, once had masses of hair! Say no more!

Come February we had our AGM. We were delighted to have our President, Brig Colin Brown, with us to preside over our proceedings. No increase in subs meant a peaceful meeting! Dee Barber was re-elected as Madam Chairman, Joy Lovelock, of course, as our Treasurer and Philip West as Secretary. Gordon Holloway as Events Organiser, with the two Committee members being Audrey Chircher and Joe Morrison remaining on the Committee with the addition of two new members Ken Brown (Burma Star) and Steve White.

We had our bi-monthly coffee meeting recently and eighteen members came. Everyone had a great 'natter'. It was held at a very pleasant hotel just outside of town with ample parking. Your humble scribe was delighted to have been able to attend.

CHESTER BRANCH

The Branch celebrated their 53rd Annual Dinner and Social evening at the Royal British Legion, Upton.

The principal guest was the Commander 11 Sig Bde, Brig J. R. B. Cook, who, in his address, referred to 'The New Style British Army' organised to instantly react to any military crisis, anywhere in the world as self sustaining units of wide capability. Whilst the Armed Forces were generally being cut, the Royal Signals were being reinforced, in recognition of the vital role that flawless communication makes in the success of any military operation. It is not generally known, but wherever there is unrest, be it the Gulf, the Falklands, or anywhere, there is an attachment of Signals personnel on the scene relaying up to date information. The Brigadier went on to refer to the extremely high level of training that recruits achieve, such as that International Electronics Companies jockey to place ex-Signals people on their payroll. He observed that youngsters, looking to their future, could do no better than to apply to join the Royal Signals when the new recruiting campaign begins.

Alyn Jones and Keith McTigue

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of the greatly prized Fifty Years of Service to the Royal Signals award to Ken Hadfield, and also Honorary Lifetime Memberships to Associate Members, Alyn Jones and Keith McTigue for the decades of devoted service to the Chester Branch. Maj Jonathon Baldwin TD, Branch President, commented on the strength and enthusiasm of Members in the historic garrison city of Chester. The Toastmaster and Master of Ceremonies for dancing was Jim Indermaur.

EAST KENT BRANCH

Sunday 13 December - the Chairman, Trevor Allison, wished everyone present at a most enjoyable Xmas Lunch a very Happy Christmas and New Year to follow. There was plenty of good food and excellent company and the Raffle Table was in danger of collapse such was the weight of the generous presents given by so many members who came, then also bought tickets. The result was a profit of over £89. Also the three paintings of Officers of the Corps in their varied formal uniforms, kindly donated by Col John Gibson, were auctioned and fetched £40. John who is a great supporter of SSAFA will be pleased to know that that is where the money will go. Whilst on the Raffle, Eadie Thomas has sadly decided that the time has come for her to pass on the mantel of running it and Marion de Rose has very kindly offered to take it on ably assisted by Bernadette Cooper whenever she can.

Donations - the Committee has sent cheques for £150 to the Royal Signals Benevolent Fund, £100 to SSAFA (Kent Branch) and £50 to Kent Air Ambulance Trust a total of £300 being most of the money raised through the gencrosity of members during the course of the year, from Donations & Raffles.

AGM - at the AGM on 10 January the Chairman, Trevor Allison, on behalf of your Committee wished all members present a successful New Year. At this time of year with the vagaries of the weather (it snowed heavily in Canterbury and to the East that morning-but hardly elsewhere) and the dreaded flu it is always difficult to reconcile numbers who wish to come but are prevented. Despite the lower numbers (56!) it was deemed by many to have been one of the best. Sadly Brig Johnny Clinch the guest speaker was one of the flu victims, but Doug Dickason rose magnificently to the occasion and gave a most entertaining talk on his time at Harrogate and his progress in forming the Association of Harrogate Apprentices of which he is founder and Hon Sec. At one table of seven, there was an amazing coincidence-three members were born on the 10 November and three others were born on 5,6,7 May! Members warmly applauded the outgoing members of the Committee, namely our Chairman for the past two years, Trevor Allison, Keith Chambers who has been our Standard Bearer and of course the redoubtable Eadie Thomas.

News of Members - Change of address for Capt Vic & Josephine Kelly they have moved to Verwood and so are sadly out of range and therefore had to resign from our Branch. We wish them every happiness in their new house. We are also sad that Jack & Claudia Caplan have decided to resign, but we hope that his continuing campaign for compensation for Japanese POW will be successful. We welcome Gareth Hopkins, son of John Hopkins and now living with his parents.

Vale - It is with great sadness that we report the death of Mrs Doreen Mitchell. Doreen died suddenly on 17 December. Our condolences go to Bob and his daughter. Doreen was an accountant by profession but at the beginning of the War she had joined the SOE recruiting for the Secret Service. It was not commonly known that she devoted much of her life to helping the sick and particularly those Servicemen such as ex-Japanese POWs who were sick and in later years anyone who suffered disadvantages. Members of the Branch will miss her cheerfulness at so many functions.

GLASGOW BRANCH

In November 1998 there was an excellent turnout of 32 members to the Armistice Sunday Parade in George Square Glasgow. Alf Shevill laid the wreath on behalf of the Branch members, and Bill MacNamara paraded the standard. On returning to barracks the members were given the privilege of leading the Regiment into barracks. Lunch, which was served by WO2 John Wren and his chefs, comprised of a choice of curries and a cold buffet. On the Saturday Bill Taylor, the Branch Chairman, had placed a cross in the garden of remembrance in George Square. East Dunbartonshire council for the first time had councillors attending war memorials in their districts on the eleventh of November. The provost attended and laid a wreath at Bishopbriggs. Several veterans of different regiments, including this scribe who placed a cross, were among the crowd. The police stopped the traffic for the two minutes silence, as in days gone bye. The council will carry on the custom, and it is to be hoped others will follow in future.

Branch members with family and friends attended a social evening in the JRs' mess on 15 December. It was an enjoyable night, with a raffle for various donated prizes. Our thanks go to the ladies of the Branch who provided the buffet and our thanks also, to the JR members allowing us the use of their mess, and for opening and manning the bar.

The first Burns Supper was held by the Branch on 23 January 1999. Members and guests, numbering 42 in all, were welcomed by the Branch Chairman, Bill Taylor, who also said the Selkirk Grace. The Branch Piper, Brian Warren, piped in the haggis. The address to the haggis, was given with great gusto and gestures by Capt John Lynch, who waved a very large officer's dirk, that he had 'acquired' - (it was more like a miniature sword) and sitting next to him, I ducked before I was beheaded. The company then set about the scotch broth soup, the haggis, neeps and mashed potato, followed by bannocks and kebbuck, and coffee, with whisky, wine, and soft drinks available on the table.

If responding to any advertisements in The Wire please mention that you saw it in your Corps magazine

The immortal memory was in the capable hands of Jim Flockhart who then asked the company to raise their glasses in a toast to the immortal memory of Robbie Burns. Bill MacNamara following with a word or two. Jim Prentice rendered his version of the toast to the lassies. This seemed to satisfy the Scots as Jim is English, but a domiciled Scot for over 50 years. The reply was then in the hands of the Branch Secretary, Ivana, who did, with a humourous touch have the company laughing, with the ladies present, giving her lots of encouragement. See these lassies when they are let loose! Brian entertained with tunes on the pipes and Ann Warren sang some songs with professional skill. Bill MacNamara then performed, with the recitation of Tam O'Shanter, all in a broad Scottish accent, with gestures to match. He got a great ovation for his effort. Bill Taylor thanked all those who were present, those who performed and also Betty, Isobel, Ivana and Annice for providing the victuals, he also thanked the lassies of the Regiment, who all wore their uniform kilts, and had volunteered to act as waitresses for the meal. He said being an Englishman he had approached the idea of a Burns Supper with a great deal of trepidation, but after the nights' successful venture, he was sure that it will be repeated in the future. The company then sang auld lang syne before retiring to the WOs' and Sergeants' Mess to continue the convivial evening. To one and all in this New Year 'lang ma ye lum reek.'

We are sorry to say farewell to WO1 (RSM) Jim MacLachlan, as he leaves the army for civilian life. He was of great help to the Branch whilst with the Regiment, but we welcome him into the Branch as a new member and wish him every success for the future. He was invited to the Burns Supper but was being dined out on that night by the Regiment's Sergeants' Mess. The Regiment now has a new RSM, WOI (RSM) A. B. Hilborn. We welcome Angie, and wish her every success in her posting. Most of the members met her at the last meeting held in the WOs' and Sgts' Mess when she was introduced by the Branch Chairman, Bill Taylor, to the members.

HULL BRANCH

As another year rolled by 1998 started with the AGM in February being our first meeting of the year and the members enjoyed a lively meeting. Only silence fell at the election of Officers and refreshment time. As in the past three good and true members of the committee were once again voted in for another term of office. Thanks go to Roy Drewery (Chairman), Jim Brown (Hon-Secretary) and Ernie Glover (Treasurer) for serving another year.

April saw a party attend the 'Royal Armouries' at Leeds and a very interesting and enjoyable day was had by all. Any Branches thinking of a day out would find the trip worthwhile.

June arrived and we left these shores for a visit to the battlefields of Normandy. Even our Old Soldier, Bob '50 Year Badge' Stephenson ran out of stories to tell when we met an old soldier from the 'Durham Light 'Infantry' who had landed on 'D' Day.

In July we attended the Open Day at 30 Signal Regiment Bramcote. Thanks to Cyril Foster, Hon Secretary of the Coventry Branch for the information and sorry not to have met up. It was also a very enjoyable day out. Thanks also go to Margaret and Colin Dadson of the Middlesborough Branch for their invitation to attend and meet members from other Branches.

November saw a good turn out of members for the Hull Remembrance Day Parade. The Hon Secretary laid a wreath on behalf of the branch at the Cenotaph and lunch afterwards with our TA Colleagues at the Halifax Barracks. The Branch held their Annual Regimental Dinner in November and thirty members and guests had a very enjoyable evening. Thanks go to Maj David Sixsmith, OC 49 (WR) Signal Squadron (V) for attending as our guest of honour, also to Gerry Gribben and Bob Stephenson for the organisation and WO2 Alan James for his usual hard work and support of the Branch. Our thanks also go to Andy Anderson and Troop Members for manning the bar and waiting on. Finally to an ex member of' the Troop Debbie Openshaw who with less than 24 hours notice stepped in to cook the meal after Sgt Stuart Keys was rushed into hospital.

As another year draws to a close, thanks go to all members who have supported our ventures during 1998. We are now planning our journeys for 1999. If you live in or around the Hull Area and are retired or serving members of the Corps, we welcome you to come and join us at our meetings which are held on the first Thursday of each month at the Halifax Barracks, Hull at 2000hrs. For more information contact the Hon. Secretary Mr Jim Brown (01482 655963).

LEEDS & DISTRICT BRANCH

Due to the sterling work of the Branch Committee, and the loyal support of our membership, we continue to hold quite frequent social functions, mainly on Sunday lunch times, which help to keep Branch funds at a very satisfactory level. It is our intention to mark the forthcoming Millennium in a manner suitable to the event. It is probably not widely known, that running in parallel to our Branch, is a Branch of the Retired Sergeants' Association, which is also very active. Some people enjoy dual membership, with the quite obvious blessing of their respective spouse, it must be the art of perfect communication. It is worth noting that both organisations have subscribed to the proposed memorial to the Commonwealth Womens' Services, no doubt we will be sending a strong contingent to its unveiling ceremony in due course.

Last October we held the Annual Dinner, which was another rewarding occasion for our dedicated committee. The principal guest, as a small reward for his help to us, Lt Col Guy Hony MBE RGBW, CO of the LUOTC, the landlord unit.

After the success of the previous two mid-year church services in the barracks, the Branch President is negotiating, with Padre John Blackburn QHC for another visit. They are truly noteworthy events.

The recent Remembrance Day parade was somewhat down numerically, although some of us also attended the service at the Leeds War memorial on the fifth, and it was pleasing to note that almost all the public honour the 'Silence'.

Our recent AGM, held on a Sunday lunch time, was very well attended. During his annual address, the Branch President harangued the meeting about the very real need for new members; not an easy task; as a follow up to a letter in the same vein to all our active, and not so active members. We await the results with optimism. Our copy of the Corps 1939-45 Roll of Honour is now safely stored in the barracks armoury, having been removed from the former AAC at Harrogate. We are considering possible future locations, Leeds Parish Church springs to mind, but this is still in the initial stages of negotiation. Our penultimate Branch Dinner, prior to the year 2000 programme, is on Saturday 23 October, if you are in the Leeds area at the time you will be very welcome as (paying) guests! The Branch Secretary, Trevor Smith, has his address in a recent issue of 'The Wire'.

Finally, we are supporting, when the circumstances allow, some Inter-Branch visits in the North, but at present, due to being in a building up funds period, we are proceeding at a cautious pace.

LIVERPOOL BRANCH

On the 11 December last year the Branch had their annual festive season buffet evening. It was held at the Warrant Officers and Sergeants Mess, Deysbrook Barracks, Liverpool with the kind permission of the Mess President, WO1 Keith Hallett, and ably supported by the Mess Manager, Mrs Maureen Bennett and the catering staff.

Some fifty-eight members and their partners attended together with our invited guest, Maj Chris Heaton, Squadron Commander, 59 Signal Squadron (V). It was unfortunate that Chris's wife, Janet could not attend, the reason being that she is expecting an addition to their family very shortly. The evening was a complete success, enjoyed by all.

Branch Chairman presents Chris with a bouquet of flowers for Janet, with our Branch's best wishes to her

NORTHERN IRELAND BRANCH

It is with regret that I start this report by recording the death of our oldest Member - R. N. 'Bob' Mehrtens.

At our January meeting we had not one but two retirement presentations to make. It is not often that the CO and RSM of 40 (U) Signal Regiment (V) leave the Regiment at the same time, so it was an unusual occasion. Branch President, Maj (Retd) Bill Douglas, after thanking him for his valued help during his term as CO, presented Lt Col N.C. Beacon TD with a Tyrone crystal paper weight. The Branch President then presented WO1 (RSM) John Black with a Tyrone crystal pen and desk set and thanked him not only for his help and support over his term of office but also for his joining as a Branch Member and his regular attendance at meetings. Both suitably replied, John Black saying that as he intended to make Northern Ireland his home in retirement he hoped to continue to play an active part in Branch affairs. Branch Vice President, Maj (Retd) Noel Johnston then used his new digital camera for the first time. He said he had not yet had time to read all the instructions but if there is a photo printed with this report then you will know it has worked and he will not really need a course. The evening was completed with a very nice buffet supper arranged by Debbie Wolfe assisted by Kim Greer.

We are delighted that Norman (Sometimes known as Tommy) Atkins one of our long serving Members and a long time Member of The Royal Signals Amateur Radio Society is the recipient of two awards from the Society. First he received a plaque for his success in making 50 confirmed contacts on RTTY. Secondly he has been awarded a trophy (well he will get it after the Society AGM) for the Member who made the most progress in RTTY over the year. Well done Norman. As a Member of 3rd. AA. Brigade Signals, Supplementary Reserve, Norman was called up in May 1939. His wartime service included Dunkirk and the Normandy landings before being demobbed in May 1946. Rather unusually he then joined the Royal Naval Auxiliary Service, becoming Chief Communications Supervisor from 1964 - 89 for which he was awarded the BEM. By the way, Norman tells me there are 16 members of The RS Amateur Radio Society in Northern Ireland but only Norman is a Member of this Branch. Perhaps we should now try to enlist the others.

We have a vibrant Branch and are lucky to have good Branch Officers. I am sure 1999 will continue in this vein. It is time once again to start planning for the Blandford Reunion particularly with regards to that little stretch of water, which causes us so many problems. It is hoped the AGM will produce someone willing to take on the organisation of this once again. Our next function will be our annual Formal Dinner on 2 April, the details of which Ian Wolfe is in the process of putting in place. Finally, as usual, all readers of this Journal whether residing in or visiting the Province are invited to join us any third Wednesday of each Month.

PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

Members of the Peterborough and Norfolk Branches meet in Whitehall

A delightful group of members of the Royal Signals Association spent a most enjoyable day in the Capital City. Members of the Peterborough Branch and members of the Norfolk Branch meet up in Whitehall. They were all in London for the day to attend the rehearsal of Trooping the Colour. I apologise to the Norfolk Branch. They did give me their names on a piece of paper but somehow this got lost. The weather was most kind to us bright and sunny.

READING BRANCH

Yet again we filled a pub for our increasingly popular Branch meeting/pub lunch. Some of us thought that we were more than a little 'hard of hearing' when Chairman started talking of 'Sick parade' and 'small kit'. It turned out that he was reflecting that we would have had an even larger turnout if it weren't for those who had 'reported sick'. Some of us thought that we were getting a 'Rocket' for not supporting enough of the RSA/Military events that our Hon Sec advertises in our Newsletter. He went on to explain in detail about the Corps Carol Service that only two of our Branch members attended. Now we know - we'll try and attend. Yes in January our members were deciding on a car-share scheme for December 1999.

I promised some photos of the 'Watercress Line' Christmas dinner. I haven't got them in my hand at this moment so I'll steal little more space to comment on the overheard conversation of some of the 26 who travelled up and down twice from Alton to Arlesford in Hampshire while enjoying a Christmas meal. 'Old steam train chugged along .... A bit of class.... And all for twenty pound .....'. We learned that the Summer trip will be on 1 August, at 21 pounds (blinking inflation) for a 3-course lunch and of course the 'chugging up and down the line'. 110 passengers can be seated, and I'm told it is always fully booked. Just for the record, the train runs throughout the summer.

For more details about Reading Branch (and the Watercress Line) contact Alan Foot on 0118 926 1952 - Tel or Fax, and if you're into the 21st Century, by email at alanfoot@globalnet.co.uk

SOUTH LONDON BRANCH

Greetings for the New Year from the fledgling South London Branch. We are almost up to the anniversary of our inaugural meeting and AGM for this year. Time flies when you're enjoying yourself! The Branch is slowly growing and now has 30 plus members.

Our Chairman, Dougie Anderson, is a member of the Croydon Bowling Club and they allow us to meet on their premises for a very reasonable cost. We do our best to boost their Bar revenue in return. We meet monthly every second Thursday at 7.30pm. Our activities through the year have been; two evening Dinners, also at the Bowling Club and catered for by them. Both were well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. We are very lucky in this regard in finding a venue for our meetings and social functions. We held a Quiz Night that was also great fun and showed once again that the older you get the more daft answers you know to daft questions on unbelievably obscure subjects.

Roughly half the Branch went to the Imperial War Museum and the staff treated us royaly and provided an excellent guide from their people. We asked for Communications to be our special interest and indeed the tour was fascinating. We almost missed lunch. Our Guide, in slacks and a Museum T-shirt looked like an ordinary Lab Technician. He was in fact a degree man with a PhD, and his commentary was first class. He was happy to pick the brains of some of the older guys on topics they could help with and that the Museum staff was still researching. In many cases their only source of data is from our individual memories. We are going to the Tower of London, for the 'Ceremony of the Keys', in mid February 1999, when the Yeoman Warders Club will be our hosts. This should also be very interesting and we are to be supplied with light refreshments.

The Branch has been asked from time to time to provide 'family' to attend the funerals of old soldiers from the Royal Hospital Chelsea. I attended one of these with some apprehension but found the experience very moving. The old soldier had a very dignified and sincere send off from very caring people.

Our proposed trips for the coming year are a visit to HMS Belfast in the Pool of London, and a party is to go to the last ever Royal Tournament. Bletchley Park is under threat and so we hope to go there before it closes. One of our guys, Derek Wilson is a keen Radio Ham and ex-'Y' station bod and he is negotiating this visit for us. We would hope Bletchley, or some of it, survives for posterity.

SWINDON BRANCH

The Third Annual Dinner was held at the TA Centre in Swindon and was a great success. The President, Lt Col (Retd) D. W. Gent and his wife led the Thirty members and guests into Dinner. A candlelit room and an excellent meal produced a marvellous atmosphere. There was plenty of chatter in between the serious business of eating and drinking. After the meal a Quiz organised and conducted by John Smart caused much head scratching and discussion. Margaret Howells and Carol Davies ran the raffles very successfully and showed a profit for Branch Funds. The President thanked everyone for their attendance and for making it a very enjoyable evening. The Catering Staff received a well deserved Vote of Thanks for their work in contributing to the success of the evening.

12/15/18 AIR FORMATION SIGNAL REGIMENTS OCA

Our photograph shows (L-R) Dennis Egan (Hon Sec), Pam and Colin Morgan. On behalf of Gerald Evans, the Branch Chairman, Dennis presented Pam with her RSA Associate Life Membership certificate and badge. Colin is seen clutching his newly presented Life Membership card, after realising that for years he did not have one.

31 SIGNAL REGIMENT ASSOCIATION

A quiet period for the Association and the Committee, which suits our Chairman, Col Donald Crawford. It gives him the opportunity to polish his Sam Browne and catch up on his paper work. Although some members of the Committee thought that 'paperwork' meant air tickets? Maj John Robson off golfing in Portugal, Maj Bob Simpson holidaying in Hong Kong, Australia and Fiji, Chrissy Mills is holidaying in India, with Steve Bland in Cyprus, so it really made my day out at Legoland, in Windsor, look a little on the cheap side.

It appears on first rumours that 31st Signal Regiment, will survive the Territorial Reorganisation and will probably move a Squadron from the Duke of York's HQ to The White City. It's a sad period for a number of dedicated Territorials, with Regiments that are affected by the disbandments. Our thoughts are with them and we wish them well for the future.

Our trip to the Somme and the V2 Rocket sites on 28/29/30 May is progressing well. Further details may be obtained from Ron 'Dusty' Miller on 01784 250756. Our Annual Dinner on the 17 April is well in hand and by the time you read this you may just smell the sausages burning. Further details from our Secretary, Henry Holman: on 01882848 4597. Last but not least, our Membership Secretary, Chrissy Mills reminds everyone that she is only a phone call away 0181 578 2715

Since our last Wire notes we have said farewell to Capt Sidney Underwood, who died on 18 January. A correction to our last notes, Col Ted Scarlett was not our Guest of Honour, that honour went to Brig Ann Whitehead OBE. Ted was acting on behalf of our Chairman, George Key, who was attending the Memorial Unveiling Ceremony for 7th Armoured Division, in Thetford Forest.

The Band have now relocated to the TA Centre, Hayes Bridge, Southall, Middlesex. Only a stones' throw from the serving Squadron at Uxbridge. The Bandmaster, Michael Robinson (ex-RAF Central Band), is always on the lookout for good musicians and hopes that the new location may find some new talent. The Band QM and Admin Officer is Bob Lowe on 0181 904 6188.

A reminder that the AGM is on 4 May at Uxbridge TA Centre. Our next parade is on 9 May in Hyde Park, followed by lunch at the Duke of York's HQ. An occasion not to be missed, especially if you like Military Bands. Try to be there, further details can be obtained from the Secretary, Andrew Bridges, on 01276 33345.

REUNIONS

260 SIGNAL SQUADRON REUNION

AFTER 25 YEARS WE MEET AGAIN

Reported by Steve Freeman - Pannett

In June 97 at the Royal Signal Reunion in Blandford Camp three or four ex members of 260 Signal Squadron met for the first time in over two decades. After a lot of reminiscing the idea to try and see if the old Squadron Members would like to meet up and form an Association of their own was suggested. Roy Andrews took on the task and armed with several names went home to see if he could put some addresses to the names and advertise to rally some more support. The hotel was booked and names came rolling in as a result of the publicity and a list was drawn up of those who were interested to come for the meeting. I will admit that there were some very colourful greeting terms, some I had not heard for a decade or two. As more people arrived during the Saturday and settled into their rooms readying themselves for the evening meal when all would be sitting together after such a long time. A good attempt at trying to get everybody to stand in one place as one or two who had cameras tried to take photos, from a personal view, I got some good shots thanks all. After wining and dining, yes there was plenty of both, Roy asked the OC, Maj (Rtd) Bill Cunningham to say a few words and he thanked everybody who came for making it such a good day thus far. Roy then asked the gathered few if an Association should be formed and all agreed. To this end one or two people were asked to take on the job of committee members and of course were duly seconded into the job. With the formalities out of the way we all got down to the most important tasks of trying to talk ourselves hoarse remembering the things that we got up to. The wine and spirits flowed quite well into the small hours of Sunday morning.

I was quite surprised to see so many, all be it some with thick head, at breakfast the next morning. From about 9.30am folks were starting to depart and make their way home to the four corners of the land, very poetic don't you think. The one thing to emerge was the fact that most people would like to have the Reunion in the year 2000 in our old stomping ground in Dortmund, Germany. However, since then there has been a suggestion that we have the 2000 Reunion at or around Shoeburyness the place where 260 started its new life. This has been put forward as a more accessible and less expensive place to hold the event. Anyway the proformas that were sent out have had a shallow response up to now but if you have made the decision to go then please let Roy Andrews know where you would like to go. Also, please make sure that he will know what mode of transport you have chosen be it private car or a group in a bus. We, the members of the committee would like to see as many as possible in Dortmund or Shoeburyness. We have also said that the Reunion to be held in April 1999 would have to be the cut off date as it seems the Country has gone daft about doing things in the millennium year and we don't want to be out done. We will make provisions for any body who turns up out of the blue and is determined to be there, that's the type of guy we would all like to be, sorry gals I mean you too.

As you have all most probably been told that there will be some more faces here this year that's why the venue had to be moved as the hotel last year would have been too small. However, all of the world and his dog in our communicating world should know where Loughborough is. So for those of you who will be there at this years Reunion all the members of the committee would like to WELCOME you to Loughborough. If anyone would like to have further details please contact Roy Andrews, 7 The Heath, Tankerton, Whitstable, Kent. CT5 3HJ or telephone: 01227 264551 or of course myself at 7 Racecourse Road, Thorpe St Andrew, Norwich, NR7 9HX Tel: 01603 300027.

4 DIVISION HQ & SIGNAL REGIMENT REUNION

Calling anyone who served in 4 Div HQ & Sig Regt between 1962/65 as a JNCO.

During a casual conversation between myself and 'Geordie' Gainsford one night, reminiscing about the Junior NCO's mess in 4 Div Herford, the best grounding any junior NCO could have for his future career, and the amazing array of characters. During the time we were there - Jim Downie, 'Brummie' Mal Smart, Harry Creedy etc. Well, during the conversation it transpired that we were in contact with a few ex-JNCO's of 4 Div who served during the years 1962 -1965. In a flash of inspiration, we decide to arrange a mini reunion in Morecambe, Lancashire - which proved to be central for the people we knew. Various devious excuses were used to coerce individuals and their ladies to attend. So covert was the operation that no individual knew who else was attending apart of course from me and the inscrutable 'Geordie'. Therefore, it was on the evening of the 28 November that a small and select band of ex-'quadrants' descended on the Headway Hotel in Morecambe.

The look of surprise and pleasure on the faces of those attending - some of whom had not been in contact for over 33 years was a joy to behold. The evening was a resounding success with lamps swinging, excellent Christmas fare music and dancing - with many a glass emptied long into the early hours of the following morning. The civilians in the Hotel were treated to a full repertoire of military and rugby songs, sung with much gusto by all attending led of course by Director of Music 'Geordie' Gainsford. 'Haven't heard any of the songs before' one lady said, 'Well not with those words anyway!'

It is hoped to repeat the movement around the same time this year with a much larger contingent. Hence this letter. Here are the rules - You must have been a serving JNCO 1962/65 in 4 Div HQ and Sig Regt. If you were and want to relive the experience of the Cafe Shmit, the Halfway House, the George and Heidi Camp, then let's be hearing from you. The sooner we know the numbers the sooner we can arrange it. Please contact ex-Cpl Les Downie, 4 Winchester Close, Heaton With Oxcliffe, Morecambe, or telephone 01524 417758 or fax 01524 412859.

Attendees in 1998 - Cpl and Mrs 'Geordie' Gainsford, Cpl Mal Smart, Cpl Mick Landreau, Cpl and Mrs John Hobson, Cpl and Mrs Les Downie, Bdr and Mrs Don King. Absent but firm for 1999, Cpl and Mrs Tom Friend, Cpl and Mrs Barry Doughety.

BEVERLEY EX-BOYS ASSOCIATION

An article in the August 1998 issue of the Royal Signals Association News Letter called for former members of 6 (Boys) Training Regiment, to contact Mick Teague, with a view to forming a reunion club. From those ex-boys who replied to this initial request an organising committee was formed and we are pleased to report that the Beverley Ex-Boys Association is now up and running. The Association is affiliated to the Royal Signals Association to whom we are grateful for a grant and assistance given, also our thanks to Peter Cuckow whose help and advice was invaluable. Membership of the Association is open to all Ex-Beverley Boys and associate membership is open to former permanent staff and cadre. The Association will be setting out its stall at the next Old Comrades Reunion at Blandford 26/27 June 1999, you will find us in the reception area. We will have a table and possibly a room set aside in which the Beverley Ex-Boys Association can meet. To date we have 85 members.

The first Committee Meeting was held in November at the home of the Secretary, Tony Hull, in Bournemouth.

Tony was assisted by his wife, Beryl, who took the minutes whilst cooking a lunch for the participants plus two of their wives. The Reunion was discussed and it was decided to hold it as a lunch on Saturday, 25 September 1999 at the Victory Services Club in London where the Scarisbrooke Hall has been reserved. Details of the Association and future social functions can be obtained from the secretary of the Association Tony Hull, 8 Ferncroft Gardens, Northbourne, Bournemouth, DORSET BH10 6BZ. THE 5TH (LONDON) CORPS SIGNALS OLD COMRADES ASSOCIATION

51st REUNION MORCIANO

I stood in the cool of the evening
And gazed at the glowing sky
But t'was not the stars or moonlight
That lit the heavens high
T'was the flashes from multitudinous guns
On the hillside nearby
And the glow of bursting bomb and shell
The light from many a flare
That transformed this heaven into Hell
As I stood gazing there.

FOR THOSE WHO DIED

AVE ATQUE VALE - (Hail & Farewell)

In Lichfield's peaceful garden now stands our stately tree beside the splendid wooden seat placed there, in memory of all the fallen comrades of 5th (London) Royal Corps who gave their lives for others;
no man could ask for more.
We remember them with gratitude
And love that knows no ends . . .
'AVE ATQUE VALE'
We salute you . . . Absent Friends.

DEAR OLD ENGLAND

From Algiers to Tricesimo, we fought and won the war,
Yet those hard days seem long ago . . . Now all we're longing for
Is England . . . Dear Old England, True Land of the free
Where our Mums and Dads who understand are waiting patiently:
We've had our share of 'Rules and Regs' and 'Chinese Wedding Cake'
We'd much prefer Mum's ham and eggs . . . if just for old time's sake;
So bear us swiftly o'er the foam, now we've fulfilled our duty,
Take us to our English home . . . Our home of love and beauty;
Let us listen once again, to the song of England's birds,
Let us tread the grassy plain, where strays the lowing herds;
Let us see the chestnut trees that hide majestic towers'
Let us hear the busy bees . . . buzzing round spring flowers;
Show us once more the babbling stream, that trickles by at leisure,
The healthy ploughboy and his team, making work a pleasure;
The children running on the lawn, the sheep and lambs at play,
The splendour of an early dawn heralding forth the day;
Show us all this . . . our hearts cry out . . . NOT in a picture frame . . .
And we shall know beyond all doubt . . .
That we're HOME . . . from whence we came.

LOST COMMUNICATIONS

John Stockford would like to hear from anyone who served with him during the 1947-49 period, either at the School of Signals, Catterick, or with the 4th Independent Air Formation Signal Squadron at Ismailia, Egypt. John can be reached at Tel: USA 650-368-7537. E-Mail: Oxonianrwc@aol.com or through Association HQ.

Heather White (nee Clayton) is seeking to contact Helga Sanderson (nee Stiles). Heather was a bridesmaid at Helga's wedding when she married Keith Sanderson who was serving in the Royal Signals at the time. The wedding took place at the Bearwood Church, Sindlesham near Wokingham, Berkshire in August 1970. Keith was pictured wearing No.1 Dress during the service. Heather has now returned to live in her parents' house that was opposite Helga's home on the Reading Road, Wokingham and would dearly like to contact her old friend. If anyone has any information please contact Heather White on 01189 –183113.

CAN YOU HELP? Does anyone remember the name of the Signals unit based in a Camp near Chalfont Common in South Buckinghamshire? Mr A. J. Denham served in the unit based there in 1973/74 and is seeking not only this detail, but anyone who remembers him from that time. Anyone who can help is asked to contact Mr Denham at: 30 Yew Lane, Ashley, New Milton, HANTS BH25 5BA.

Mrs A. Roper is trying to trace Sgt Malcolm Robert Malcolms. He served in the Royal Signals in Cardiff 1969/71. He was stationed at the Park Street TA Unit, Mainly Barracks and at Blandford during this time. His son Kevin is trying to find him. We've not heard from him for 25 years. Sgt Malcolms left the army in 1971 and went to work for IBM. It was about then that we lost contact with him. Some years ago we heard that he had been looking for his son but by then we had moved to Suffolk and as I'd remarried I had changed my name. The friends we shared had all moved on.

If there is anyone who remembers him, or has a photograph of him that they could give to our son we would be grateful. Sgt Malcolms was known to his friends as 'Mal'. Please contact Mrs Roper or her son Kevin at 23 Corwen Crescent, Llandaff North, CARDIFF, CF4 2LQ.

Ray 'Scouse' McCarthy served, with the Royal Signals, in Korea in the early fifties. He was part of a football team picked from different Regiments to tour part of Japan (Kure). Their last game was at the British Military Hospital in Kure. Ray has often tried to get in touch with some of these lads, but has never been successful. The Officer who organised this trip was a Royal Signals Lieutenant, who was stationed at Pusan, unfortunately he has forgotten his name. However, should he or any of the others read this would they please contact Ray.

Arthur Holman (former Sgt) died in Australia in December 1998. His daughter, Mrs Else, would like to make contact with Arthur's old pals: Bob Quale, Douglas Harris, Dennis Lloyd and Bert Sanders. They all served together with 1 Army Signals during WW2. Mrs Else would also be pleased to hear from anyone who remembers her father from that era - she can be contacted on 01795-842601.

Mr E. H. 'Ted' Hughes is seeking his former pal Jim Wolf(e). Jim and Ted were on courses together in Catterick from October 1948 to July 1949. Both spent a lot of their service with the Royal Marine Signals. Anyone who can help is asked to contact Ted on: 01242 - 862437.

AIRBORNE SIGNALS OFFICERS ANNUAL DINNER
FRIDAY 27 AUGUST 1999

216 Parachute Signal Squadron are hosting the annual Royal Signals Airborne Officers Dinner in Aldershot on Friday 27 August 1999. The reason for this earlier date is that the Squadron will cease to exist in its present form in Aldershot on 1 September 1999.

If you are a serving or retired Royal Signals Officer who has served with Airborne Forces, not necessarily in Aldershot you are more than welcome to come along.

Invitations and details of dress and costs have already been sent out, should you not have received your invitation or would like further information, please contact:

Dear Sir,

Since May 1998 I have been trying to arrange the reunion of members of 18 Troop, 1 Independent Selection Squadron, who undertook basic training at Gallowgate Camp Richmond, commencing in February 1950. I have, through every means possible advertised the details both country and world-wide. To date the response has been small and only eight have been traced. Sadly one of these has died since making contact last October, and a number of others have passed away over the years before contact could be made. We have, however, also taken on board members of 17 Troop and 19 Troop plus one from 31 Troop of early 1955. Both 17 and 19 Troop shared our experiences and our instructors, who were renowned for their treatment of young regular recruits in those days. Looking back on those days and comparing them to modern times, I wonder what political correctness really is!!

I would like to thank the secretaries of all Branches who have responded to my request for assistance in tracing those being searched for and also to Peter Cuckow for his advice and assistance. Because of the small numbers traced, we have decided to form the Gallowgate Club. This will be for those lucky enough to have carried out their basic training at that wonderful hilltop holiday camp. There are no fees involved, all that is required is the ability to write the odd letter, and to keep in touch with your comrades of long ago.

I cannot emphasise too much the reality of keeping in touch with your old friends. It is, sadly, sometimes too late by the time you reach our age to try and regain contact with friends from long ago. My monthly advert in Service Pals on Teletext has also unearthed a few old friends with whom I served with in the past, long may this continue. My next major task is to write to every local newspaper around the country to widen the circle of the Gallowgate Club. Should any reader know of anyone who may fit the description of those being looked for, would you kindly contact me at the above number.

Yours Sincerely…

Dear Sir,

Thank you for printing my article on the Boy entrants to R. Signals in the Journal part of The Wire. Now that I see it in print I note that I have made an error in the date of the closing of the AAC Harrogate. It was not 1987, as I wrote. I now learn, from Pat Soward, that the AAC Harrogate closed on 2 August 1996, followed by the formation of 263 Sqn at Arbourfield in December 1996. No doubt you will receive many comments on this fact, or none at all depending on the number of persons who read the article.

I apologise for the error and accept full responsibility. It goes to show how one cannot be too careful when going into print.

Yours Sincerely…

Dear Sir,

Reference the February WIRE notes from 9 Signal Regiment (Radio) may I be permitted a wry smile?

The Regiment was not 'raised' in the period 1958/60 whilst under the command of Col D. T. W. Gibson MBE but was, along with all other Regiments and Squadrons in the Corps, renumbered and retitled.

As a very old hand from 4 Mile Point, and indeed from the original Operators' tented accommodation at 3 Mile Point (2 Camp), I served with countless other 'Spec Ops' in many 'Y' Units. These included 2 Wireless Regiment and 1 Wireless Regiment, which became 9 Signal Regiment and 13 Signal Regiment respectively during full Corps reorganisation at the time. The Regiment as such was actually raised on the present site in 1947 when the original unit came to Famagusta from Sarafand. Having seen the present Operational Block started and the first married quarters being built, I can assure you that we did exist long before 1958. It may seem pedantic but it does matter.

Yours Sincerely…

Dear Editor,

I refer to The Wire of February 1999, page 85, the Middlesex Yeomanry Association.

You may be interested to know that I attended the 7th Armoured Division Memorial unveiling ceremony an the 23 October, suitably dressed in Royal Signals blazer & beret. I was at the time representing the Normandy Veterans Association, Southport & West Lancashire Branch No. 25, for which I am the Secretary. The Branch had made a donation to the building of the Memorial. After the ceremonials I was a guest at the VIP reception at the West Tofts Camp. Needless to say I was sought out by Officers of the Yeomanry and we had interesting chats regarding the RSA and the 'old days'. This particular Memorial dedication also had many memories for me as my father was a 'tankie' in WW2 and was posted to Brandon for a time to help train the tank gunners. Thus, as you my imagine, for me it was emotional.

In conclusion, I would like to put on record my appreciation to the Yeomanry Officers for their comradeship and kindness on that day.

Yours sincerely,

(Editor's Note: Thank you for your letter Mr Stanforth*. The Middlesex Yeomanry Association and your letter indicate that we were in error in referring to the Memorial as the Middlesex Yeomanry, 7 Armoured Division Memorial. It is, of course, a memorial to all who served with 7 Armoured Division during World War 2 and not exclusively to the Middlesex Yeomanry. We are happy to put the record straight..)*

From: Brig Graeme Jackson

Dear Editor,

I believe that the last paragraph of Lt Col D. P. Herring's article on 'Boy Entrants to Royal Signals' in the February Edition deserves more space for the many thousands who joined the adult Corps other than through 'apprentice' channels.

As I remember in post 1950 there was still a GD Boys Squadron in Catterick which was moved to Beverley and became 6 Boys Training Regiment, then to Denbury near Newton Abbot in 1954 to be renamed The Junior Leaders Regiment Royal Signals. This existed at least until the late sixties. From this a cadre of Officers and SNCO's were detached in 1960 to near Towyn, West Wales, to help in the formation of the All Arms Junior Leaders Regiment of which there was a Signal Squadron. A Squadron was formed in 11 Signal Regiment in the late sixties which was moved to Ouston and I believe was extended to Regimental strength. There were also Junior Trades Regiments, one of which was located in Troon in Scotland. In total these must have provided a significant intake to the Corps.

Others may wish to fill in the gaps but a full and comprehensive history of this valuable source of intake to the Corps is well justified,

Yours sincerely,

Archibald - Sergeant Alan Archibald died peacefully at home on Thursday 4 February 1999 aged 57, his family were at his bedside. Alan served in the Corps for 22 years from 1963 to 1985. He was not a member of the Glasgow Branch of the RSA due to illness, but was a life member of the Royal Signals Association. He served in a number of units in the UK, BAOR and Denmark. During his service in Germany he received the GOC's commendation for his action during an outbreak of fire.

On leaving the Corps Alan held positions as Officers' Mess Manager at Craigiehall and Edinburgh Castle. Latterly before becoming ill he was a warden at Strathmore Court. The funeral service at Broomhill Church of Scotland was attended by the Chairman of Glasgow RSA and four members were also present along with Pipe Major Bill Clezy of 32 (Scottish) Sig Regt (V). The Service was conducted by the Rev William B. Ferguson BA Bd, who gave a very moving eulogy, knowing the family well and as a friend. He also held a service at the Dalnottar Crematorium, Clydebank. The coffin, draped with the Union flag was carried into the church to the tune of Amazing Grace and left the church to the tune of the Battle's O'er played on the pipes by the Pipe Major. Two hymns were sung, the 23rd psalm 'The Lord's My Shepherd' and Alan's favourite, 'The Old Rugged Cross', especially requested by the family. During the service his daughter Karen read out a very emotional poem entitled 'Coming home'. On the front of the hymn sheet was printed 'A Service of Thanksgiving for the Life of Alan Archibald 1941 – 1999'. The RSA, Glasgow Branch Members formed a guard of honour at the crematorium for the family and the coffin party, while the Pipe Major played, with the family's permission, a lament he had composed as a tribute to Dunkirk. There was a last word and prayer of farewell from the Rev William Ferguson. The Glasgow Branch RSA Chairman and members, offer their sincere condolences to Alan's wife Sheena, son Colin, and daughters Irene, Lorna, Karen, and Claire.

Barnes - Colonel Basil Hilary Purcell Barnes OBE died on 17 November 1998 at the age of 83. He was educated at Imperial Service College and RMA Woolwich, and was commissioned into Royal Signals in January 1935. He may be remembered best as a distinguished Commanding Officer of 1 Corps Signal Regiment in the period 1958 - 60. He took over this large Regiment, later split into 7th and 22nd Regiments, when circumstances had caused it to be at a low ebb. He saw its performance, morale and reputation all prosper during his time. He was awarded the OBE at the end of this tour.

Before the war and his 'Q' course, he spent two years with 3 Divisional Signals at Bulford, where they practised with a six-horse cable train. He was then posted to India where he remained until 1941. He had happy memories of his period in India particularly of his activities when riding in racing silks. He spent the next two years in the Middle East, mainly in Iraq, but including staff qualification at Haifa later converted to psc. He returned to UK in 1943 for a year in the Military Department of the India Office. It was at this time that he met and married his wife Naomi whose charm and concern for others have been appreciated by all who have known her.

He finished the War Years in India and Burma and returned to UK in 1947 to join the Degree Course at RMCS Shrivenham from which he graduated with a London University BSc in Natural Sciences. After Shrivenham he was posted to 1 Divisional Signals in Tripoli and then as GSO2 in Egypt, returning to UK in 1952 as the senior Royal Signals Officer at the School of Artillery, Larkhill. On promotion to Lieutenant Colonel in 1955 he served first as GSO1 at HQ BAOR followed by his period as OC 1 Corps Signal Regiment. Next he went as Colonel to the British Joint Military Staff Washington, then to Whitehall as Colonel GS Military Intelligence, and finally as Chief Signal Officer Western Command. He retired in 1966 to Hartley Wintney where he was born and spent many years as an RO with Aldershot District, administering married quarters and locally he became an effective Church Warden. Of his four children his eldest son Christopher was commissioned into Royal Signals from Sandhurst and served 1966-78.

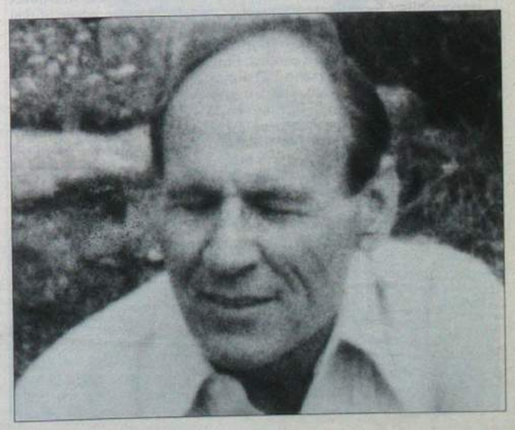
Basil Barnes had a very good brain, in 1949 he managed to win the prestigious Bertrand Stewart Essay Prize at the same time as taking the finals for his degree. He liked to get to the bottom of things, and his solutions to difficult problems were always practical and ingenious. His stories always had a special 'twist' at the end. He had time for everyone irrespective of rank, and will be much missed by his many friends.

Beddingfield - SSgt William John Beddingfield known throughout the Corps as Taff, died on 23 November 1998. Taff served for 22 years in the Corps, during which time he served in Vienna Signal Squadron as a Cypher NCO. In 1954 he moved to Nairobi where he served for two years. Then it was on to Fontainbleu where he served from 1957 – 1959. Many ex-apprentices will remember him as a drill pig (Corporal) in Harrogate, where he served from 1959 –1962. It was not long after that Taff got his well earned third stripe. Sgt Beddingfield went on to serve 14, 15 and 4 Signal Regiments and finally ended up in Blandford as a Staff Sergeant in 1967, where he served until the end of his military career in 1972. Taff continued his civilian career in Blandford serving many Quartermasters as IC the Clothing Store.

His funeral took place at the Poole Crematorium on 1 December 1998. The funeral was attended by many of his friends both from the Dorset Branch of the Royal Signals Association, where he was a regular attendee, and the members of the Poole Branch of the Association were represented by the Chairman, Maj Gen Alan Yeoman CBE.

Taff served the Corps well and was known throughout the Corps for his love of the Corps and his loyalty to those he served with. Taff lives on in the memory of his loving wife Rose, his son Tony, daughter Caroline, daughter in law Maria and his grandchildren. He was a loving Grandad and will be sadly missed by his family and his many friends.



Coltman - Sadly we have to report the death of John Coltman, since 1982 a Life Member of the Association and a valued member of our Branch. John enlisted in 1940 and served in 84 Teleop Section of 1st Special Wireless Group until his demobilization at the end of the war. He became a civil servant until his retirement. John was a Freemason, being initiated into the Middlesex Imperial Yeomanry Lodge. He was a founder member of the Royal Signals Certo Cito Lodge and attained London Grand Rank. John was active until the last, parading on our annual church parade at the Royal Hospital Chelsea in September and attending the Christmas party. The funeral was attended by many members of the West London Branch and the Standard was carried by Harry Ruff. We shall miss you John.

Cox - Brigadier A. C. Cox OBE, late Royal Signals. Brig 'George' Cox died at his home in Natal, South Africa, on 10 January 1999, shortly after his 85th Birthday. He will be remembered in the Corps as a distinguished, charismatic officer with an outstanding war record. A leader of strong and robust character who saw what needed to be done and always did it to good effect. 'George' Cox began his career in Royal Signals as a 'F Company' Boy Soldier in the early 30's, and with the outbreak of war, was to be found attached to a small group of Signallers sent to Poland to provide wireless communications to the United Kingdom for Gen Carton de Wiart VC, Head of the British Military Mission to the government in Poland. Unfortunately the 'fall' of Poland left the group the hazardous task of extricating themselves from Warsaw via Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece and Egypt!

In June 1940 'George' was commissioned into 2 Armd Div & Sig Regt and was drafted with that unit to the Middle East. By July 1941 he was Adjutant of 7 Armd Div & Sig Regt in the same theatre. He had an adventurous time in the fluid conditions prevailing in the Western Desert, Cyrenaica throughout 1940/41. When his Main Division HQ was over run near Mechili, he evaded capture and drove off in an 8cwt truck whipping-in a number of Division HQ and other vehicles and stragglers along the way and leading them to safety. This exercise earned him one of several 'Mention in Dispatches' throughout his career.

In January 1942 his armoured formation was posted to Singapore, equipped with Honey tanks, but en-route was diverted to Burma - where after unloading at Rangoon they were eventually forced to immobilise and abandon their tanks and fight their way on foot to the Chindwin River and across into India. During this Burma campaign 'George' was awarded an operational MBE. After his men recovered in various hospitals, they regrouped and returned to the Desert until 1943 when A/Lt Col Cox was sent first to a staff appointment in Cairo and then to the Staff College in Haifa, Palestine. Here he met Leading WRN Maureen Ryan, and after a whirlwind courtship they were married in November 1944 in Jerusalem Cathedral by special Bishop's Licence. He was then almost immediately posted back to the UK in January 1945 as GSO 1 HQ Royal Signals Catterick, where Maureen was finally allowed to join him six months later.

After the war, Maj Cox was posted to FARELF, Malaya, where in October 1948, whilst serving with the Malaya District Signal Regiment, he was told to 'get on with all speed' with the business of raising and training the first instalment of Gurkhas towards the formation of the Gurkha Division Signal Regiment. The first Signals Tradesmen completed training by 1 August 1950 and were formed into the Gurkha Independent Brigade Signal Squadron, the first ever formed unit of Gurkha Signals and progenitor of The Queen's Gurkha Signals of today. For this tour he was awarded the OBE.

From the Far East he went next to BAOR first as 2IC 7 Armd Div & Sig Regt in Verden, and then as a Lieutenant Colonel, he raised and commanded 14 Army Signal Regiment in Lemgo only, disappointingly, to have to disband the same Regiment two years later when Army 'cutbacks' set in!

By February 1958 he was back in the UK at the War Office with MI7 and for the next few years was away from the Corps as Col GS HQ NAG BAOR, and then as Col GS (Int) HQ MELF in Cyprus with direct responsibility for military intelligence operations in the whole of that sphere of the Middle and Near East including the delicate negotiations involved in the 'hand-over' of Cyprus to President Makarios, and the highly volatile Arab/Israeli conflict. From Cyprus he returned to the UK as a Brigadier to Command HQ Royal Signals Training Brigade in Catterick in August 1962. His last appointment in the Army was as Assistant Chief of Staff Intelligence to Gen Shan Hackett at HQ NORTHAG from which he retired in 1968, of this last posting the story he did not recount in any detail was that of the Russian FOXBAT which crashed into West Berlin and was the subject of much press interest at the time and with which he was closely involved.

After he retired from the Army, 'George' joined Tarmac Construction Company Ltd. He enjoyed ten successful and rewarding years with Tarmac where his well-honed skills as a communicator and negotiator were used to good effect helping raise the profile of this Birmingham-based company in London and the South East.

On retiring a second time in 1988, an extended holiday, visiting his son in South Africa, pre-empted a permanent move out there, and in October 1989 he and Maureen emigrated to Uvongo on the South Coast of Natal, about a one hour drive South of Durban, overlooking the Indian ocean. There they enjoyed two full and active years before an unfortunate fall on the golf course triggered off a whole series of health problems with his back and hip, and asthma, further complicated by a near-fatal shooting incident at their home in Uvongo in August 1993, which left him with two 9mm bullets in his leg from then until the day he died. It was a measure of the man (and Maureen!) that this incident in no way deflected him from the decision to remain in the African sunshine!

He is survived by his wife Maureen, son Patrick and daughter Joanna, and four grandchildren. The Corps has lost a rugged individualist whose career and exploits well matched the time in which he lived.

Honeybourne - Brigadier Travers Honeybourne who died in Spain on 12 January 1999 aged 85 was one of the most distinguished and able officers of his generation. His career with the Corps lasted over 35 years spanning the Second World War. He took part in campaigns on the North West Frontier of India, North Africa and Italy.

Cecil Travers Honeybourne was born on 18 April 1913. He was educated at Blundells School before entering the RMA Woolwich in 1931 where he represented the Academy at both Rugby and Athletics, was a Cadet Adjutant and won the French Prize. He was commissioned into Royal Signals in 1933. Following his Young Officer's Course he joined 4th Divisional Signals in Canterbury. During this period he played rugby for the Corps for three seasons.

In 1936 he joined the Indian Signal Corps and was posted to 3 Indian Divisional Signals in Meerat He first saw active service as Razmak Brigade Signal Officer during the Waziristan Operations of 1936-37. He went to Egypt in August 1939 with 4th Indian Divisional Signals and took part in the early operations in the Western Desert. In October 1940 he was recalled to Cairo to form a Middle East Signal Officers Cadet Training Unit which by the time he left was training some 50 Officers from Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Rhodesia and South Africa. After attending No 6 War Course at the Middle East Staff College in Haifa, he spent six months as GSO2 at the Middle East Training Centre at Gaza before joining 7th Armoured Divisional Signals (the Desert Rats). As a Squadron Commander and later 2IC he took part in the advance to Tunis and the invasion of Italy at Salerno where he landed with the 'Tac Div HQ' and had to form ad hoc communications arrangements as the main HQ failed to arrive. For this he was mentioned in Dispatches.

From October 1943 to the end of the war he was Commander Royal Signals of 5th Divisional Signals in the advance through Italy including the Anzio battle, for this he received the OBE for 'Gallant and Distinguished Service'.

In June 1944 he joined the Directorate of Tactical Investigation at the War Office from where he was sent on missions in Holland and Belgium to investigate the failure of communications during the Battle of Arnhem, to Burma to co-ordinate the return of units to the UK and worked with a team planning counter measures to the V2 rocket. In 1945 he returned to India to be the last British Commandant of the Army Signal School before Independence. He returned to the UK in early 1948 to take up an appointment as DAQMG Home Counties District followed by a tour as Chief Instructor at the School of Signals in Catterick. After graduating from the Joint Services Staff College he went to Washington to join the Standing Group NATO as GSO1 (Plans). During his time in the USA he worked on the Standards of Readiness for Allied Forces and the terms of reference for SACEUR. He drafted a brief for Winston Churchill for his visit to Washington in 1952. In 1954 he returned to his former Regiment, 7th Armoured Divisional Signal Regiment, as Commanding Officer in Verden.

On promotion to Colonel in 1957 he returned to NATO for his next two appointments as Chief of Training Branch LANDCENT, Fontainbleau and then as a member of the Directing Staff of the NATO Defence College in Paris. His final appointment with the Corps as a Brigadier was as Chief Signal Officer, Near East Land Forces where he remained until the command closed in February 1963. He was responsible for organising the presentation of the silver 'Ludigian Lions' to HQ Officer's Mess to commemorate Middle/Near East Command. He then returned to England to head the Recruiting and Liaison Staff, Northern Command in York where he and his team were able to increase recruits by 25%. In February 1965 he started his last posting, Director of Studies and Deputy Commander of the NATO Defence College. In 1967, when France left NATO and the Italian Commandant of the College was ordered out of the country by President de Gaulle, it fell to him, as the senior remaining military officer, to move the College out of France to Rome and set up the courses at a new site. Travers Honeybourne retired from the Army in June 1968 having held the appointment of ADC to the Queen since 1964.

In civilian life he worked for five years on the staff of the Printing and Publishing Training Board and was Managing Director of The Curwen Press for two years. Finally, he was for two years the Administrator of The European Commission project 'Europe + 30' which examined the long term future of the European Community. The final report of this project was a contributory factor in the setting of the 1992 goal of a 'barrier free' Community. He was an active churchman where his activities included Treasurer of St Peters Church, Hammersmith, Lay Chairman of the Hammersmith Deanery Synod, a member of The Bishop of London's Council and Lay Selector for candidates for the Ministry. He married in Cairo in 1940 and he and Elizabeth had four children.

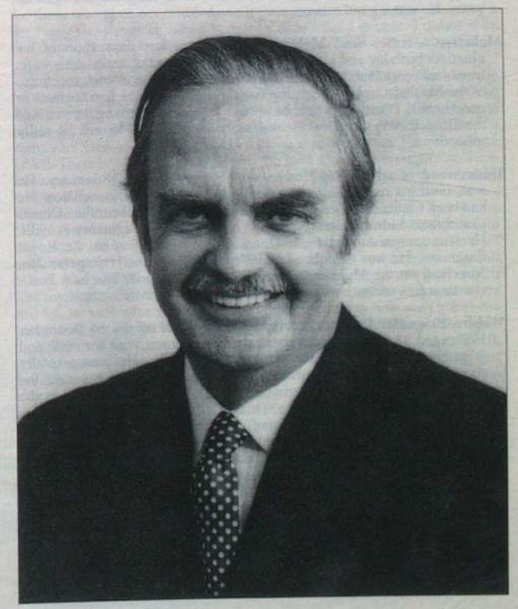
Johnson – Sgt M. S. Johnson. Died on 28 January 1999. Mal joined Boys Company, Royal Signals as an A/T in October 1942 where he won the coveted 'Blue Cap' on initial training. He served in Catterick, War Office Signals, Ceylon (Sri Lanka), Middle East and was recalled from the Reserves for the Suez Operation. Mal will be greatly missed by his wife Jeanne, his children, grandchildren and his many old friends in the '254 Old Boys Association'.

Jordan – Maj Ken Jordan died suddenly on 18 October 1998 after a short illness whilst on holiday in Southern Spain, a few weeks before his 85th birthday. He was truly an officer and a gentleman of the old school who served in the Corps for some 36 years. After a boyhood in Plymouth and Gibraltar, he joined the Corps with 'F' (Boys) Coy at the Signal Training Centre (STC) Catterick in 1928 before graduating to 'Man' service with 3rd Division at Bulford in 1932. Not only his soldierly skills but his abilities as a painter and artist were quickly appreciated and some of his cartoons depicting life at STC appeared in The Wire. He then started the first of many tours in India with 'B' Corps Signals. He was commissioned in 1939 and throughout the war he saw continued service in India with Northern Force Signals and 8th Indian Division and thence to Persia with 159 Fd Regt RA Signal Section. As a fine and natural raconteur he could happily tell real stories of the Khyber Pass and of his adventures with fellow boy soldier, Norman Harding! Throughout his career he was always a master of the communications systems that he employed. However, nothing could persuade him there was a better communications system than the one he used in India called 'Marjorie' - his horse - who gave him many years of valiant service. After the war, having met and married Jean en route, he spent some time in Catterick and then, with their daughter Deborah, went further into the Orient with 19 Air Formation Sig Regt to Singapore during which time Nicholas was born. He returned again to Catterick as a trainer with 4 Trg Regt and then had two years on the staff of CAFSO HQ 2TAF. He was renowned for his plain talking and did not shirk unpopular decisions which stood him in good stead professionally during the Eoka campaign in Cyprus although on a number of occasions did not do him any good personally. The remainder of his service was spent in his familiar Catterick as OC Instructional Wing in 11 Sig Regt under Col Stan Brackenbury. During this time many SNCOs on their 'Staffies course' remembered his stentorian tones, his ruthlessly efficient management of the Cary Theatre bar and his meticulous scrutiny of the Sgts Mess account. They may not have liked his decisions but he was certainly respected for making them. He retired from active soldiering in 1964 and he and Jean returned to their native Portsmouth. He continued his long and lasting friendship with the Corps and the Association when he became the PSO with the Portsmouth TA Squadron and developed a lasting friendship with David and Barbara Johnson. Subsequently various military reorganisations led to the demise of this appointment but he maintained his contact with his many friends whilst working with Plessey in Havant. He finally hung up his line stick and belt in 1970 but continued to live an active life. Initially in local politics but later as an avid collector around the antique showrooms, developing his love for painting and pursuing his children around the world for his annual inspection of their gardens. Ken became very active with the Royal British Legion and became Chairman of his local Branch in Portsmouth. He also pursued his love of travelling and at the age of 72 was still happily clambering around the wadis and deserts of Oman and enjoyed many forays into Italy, Malta and Spain. A parody of one of his favourite poems, Rudyard Kipling's Gunga Din, was written for his eightieth birthday. He was always chuckling over this as he felt it was an amusing reflection of him. It is repeated as it is perhaps a suitable epitaph to one of the Corps' characters as many in the Corps will remember him in that vein.



GUNGA KEN

You may talk of gin and beer
When you're sittin' quietly 'ere
An' livin-in an 'ouse in Pompey city,
But when it comes to laughter
You'll remember ever after
A celebrated sodjer called Gunga Ken.
Now in Inja's sunny clime
Where 'e used to spend his time
A servin' of 'is Majesty the King,
Of all the signallin' crew
The one they always knew
Was the regimental joker, Gunga Ken.
It was 'Ken! Ken! Ken!'
'You grinnin' lump of suet Gunga Ken.'
'Go forth an' make the tea
Water, milk and sugaree
You squidgy-nosed choc-biccy eater, Gunga Ken.'
The uniform 'e wore
Was jodpurs, puttees an' all,
An' a pagri neatly tied upon 'is 'ead.
'Is belt; light, dark blue and green,
Shorts: wide, khaki, starched and seamed.
'An with marchin' troops up front 'e always led.
But not always from there
Did 'e lay 'Is wires bare
But 'oft was seen in Catterick.
Of teachin' soldiers young
His fame was often sung
But 'e was still known to take the Mick.
It was Ken! Ken! Ken!'
'You serious lookin' awficer, Gunga Ken.'
But they all loved 'im dearly
As 'e dealt with 'em quite fairly.
'You're a smashin' kinda bloke, Gunga Ken.'
'E would dot an' dash as one
Till the longest day was done,
An didn't seem to tire like other men.
But if you 'ad a thirst
The man that spied you first
Was our good old beer drinkin' Gunga Ken.
'E 'as now 'ung up 'is spurs
To grow flowers, apples an' pears
An' plague the local church, shops and sales-men.
But long will we remember
'Is berfday in December,
Cos 'es a true and loyal friend is our Ken.
'So Ken, Ken of Blighty,
You wise old comrade and matey.
The time has come at last
To revel in your past,
Whilst we all raise our glass to you that's Eighty!'

Leighton – Capt D. F. Leighton served in the Royal Signals for twenty-two years. He died on 16 Febuary 1999, from lung cancer, aged 68 years. He was a good man.

Mehrtens - R.N. 'Bob' Mehrtens died just a few days short of his ninetieth birthday and sadly just three weeks after the death of his wife. In earlier years Bob had been a good attendee at the Branch meetings, of the Northern Ireland RSA, but for the last 23 years he had not been in good health. During this time he always appreciated the regular visits of the Branch. We were represented at both funerals. He will be sadly missed.

Underwood - Capt Sidney Underwood. Sidney died on 18 January. He was, until his recent illness, an active member of the Association. He had been Chairman, Vice Chairman and an active member of the Dinner Committee. Sidney joined Second WNE Middlesex Yeomanry in 1939. He was commissioned in 1941 and served mainly with the Royal Engineers. He was demobbed in 1946. At his funeral Trumpeter Jim Norris, from the Middlesex Yeomanry Band, played 'The Last Post'. Our thoughts are with his wife Anthea during this difficult time.

Webb - Brigadier Patrick Webb MBE, who died on the 14 December 1998 aged 73 after a relatively short illness borne with fortitude and great dignity, served in the Army for 34 years. He was a totally committed and proud member of his Corps. His hallmarks were the quiet charm, courteousness, modesty and unassuming manner in the way he went about his business. This he combined with determination, wit, humour and attention to detail, no matter what the challenge. He possessed the ability to get on well with people at all levels. He was a man of the utmost integrity who always stood steadfastly by his Christian principles, in which he rigorously believed. He was in every way a fine officer and a model for others to follow.

Patrick Henry Fane Webb was born in Louth, Lincolnshire on 12 February 1925. He was educated at Lincoln School and Lincoln Technical College before joining the Royal Signals in May 1945. He was commissioned at the Royal Signals OCTU, Mhow, Central India September 1946. He continued to serve in the Far East before joining the staff of the Army Apprentice School, Harrogate in 1949. Later that year he took over command of the Motor Cycle Display Team. He often recounted an error of judgement during this tour that resulted in his being unmistakably singed while attempting the 'fire jump'. Following a year as adjutant of 1st Training Regiment he was posted to Korea initially as Brigade Signal Officer, 28th Commonwealth Brigade and then as Adjutant of the 1st Commonwealth Divisional Signal Regiment where he was a great exponent of 'grinding in' young officers. He ended his time in Korea as Staff Captain AQ of the Divisional HQ. He was made MBE for his service in Korea.

On returning to the UK in late 1953 he spent two years as SO3 HQ Western Command before attending the Staff College, Camberley, from where he was posted first as DAAG(Plans) HQ BAOR and then as GSO2 (Signals) at the Joint Services Amphibious Warfare College. In 1961 he commenced what was to prove one of his most satisfying appointments, command of 249 Signal Squadron. In December 1962, following an insurrection, he took the majority of his Squadron to Brunei. He became the first Force Signal Officer to the Commander British Forces Borneo, General Sir Walter Walker. It was typical of Patrick that he could have returned to his family in Singapore for Christmas 1962 but it was his view that, as his soldiers where unable to do so he would remain with them. He wrote several articles on his Borneo experiences. His views on this stage of his career can not be better summarised than in his own words.. 'What are my lasting memories of Brunei? Firstly the wonderful experience of having trained 249 Signal Squadron in Singapore and Malaya for nearly two years and then having the opportunity of taking it to Brunei and working under operational conditions. Secondly the morale of the Squadron and throughout my thirty years with the Corps, I have never come across such a wonderful bunch of soldiers. They worked hard, played hard and gave me one hundred per cent loyalty. I could not have asked for a happier time.' He was Mentioned in Despatches for his service. In 1963 he attended the Joint Services Staff College before being posted as DAA&QMG Joint Allied Planning Staff Commanders in Chief (West). He commanded 3rd Division Headquarters and Signal Regiment in Bulford from January 1967 to March 1969 and then spent just over a year as a member of the Directing Staff of the Royal Naval Staff College. As a Colonel he held appointments in the SOinC's Directorate and as Assistant Director of Defence Policy (Army). In February 1975 he spent a year as BGS Signals, an appointment which he returned to following two years commanding 2 Signal Brigade. He was appointed ADC to Her Majesty the Queen in 1978. He retired from the Army in July 1979.

On retirement from the Corps he joined the Security Department of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. Outside his profession he had many interests. He was a keen sailor throughout his career in the Army and was Commodore of the Royal Signals Yacht Club from 1976 to 1979. On giving up this appointment he was made Honorary Rear Commodore for life. He was instrumental in obtaining finance for and commissioning of a new Corps yacht in 1976. On one occasion, at the start of one of the Royal Signals Yacht Club rallies he was inadvertently left behind on the jetty. It was not until the rest of the crew were well out of Portsmouth harbour that they discovered he was not on board. Even in these circumstances he was calm, standing on the pontoon waiting to be picked up - and what is more he saw the humorous side of it. He was a keen fisherman, fishing the local rivers around his home during his latter years at Ansty, near Shaftesbury. He ran his local Club and put many hours of hard and energetic work into maintaining the banks and improving the water flow. Patrick was married to Anthea in 1956, they had two children, Caroline and Nicholas. The whole Corps would like to extend the deepest sympathy on the loss of an outstanding husband and father.

Williamson – WO2 Dorothy 'Dot' Caroline Williamson died aged 84 years on 30 January 1999. I first met Dot in 1963 when I joined 46 Signal Regiment TA at the Kingsway TA Centre, Derby. She was an awe inspiring senior member of the WRAC element of 1 Sqn; I was the newest ex-National Service Subaltern. Over 35 years later and right up to the time of her death, Dot was still serving at the Kingsway TA Centre (and still awe inspiring) as the Chairwoman of the Derby Branch of the RSA.

Dot was a Derbyshire girl. Born in Sudbury, she lived most of her life in Allestree, where her funeral took place at Saint Edmund's church on 5 February. Before joining the TA she served in the Air Training Corps and when her TA service ended in 1965 she continued as a very active member of the Royal Signals Association and became a case-worker for SSAFA. In recent years she also ran the Sergeant's Mess bar at the Kingsway TA Centre.

Dot became Chairwoman of the Derby Branch in 1967 and was the driving force over the next 32 years. Her energy and dedication were amazing and the success of the Branch under her leadership is apparent in the size of its membership and the range of its activities. More important, however, was the conscientious approach she adopted and insisted upon in all cases of illness and hardship among local members and ex-members of the Corps. Dot's outstanding contribution was recognised by the award of Honour Membership of the Association in 1987. Even from her hospital bed in her last few days she kept her hand on the reins of Branch business, planning this year's Annual Dinner, which will take place, as she would have wished, on 27 March.

At Dot's funeral her husband, to whom in recent years of ill-health she had given such dedicated care, and her family were supported by large numbers of friends and colleagues. The Royal Signals Association was well represented, the Derby Branch Standard was paraded and the Corps Collect was read. She will be sorely missed.

Manning – Randal Bernard Manning served with the Corps first at 6BTR (Junior Leaders Regt) at Denbury from 1956/58. He then went to Munchen-Gladbach. Randal Manning passed away on 19 March 1998 in South Attleboro (Boston) USA.

Nimmo – The recent death of Mr Derek Nimmo, the comic actor, revived the memories of Lt Col (Rtd) H. M. A. Bonaker, of events that place in March 1973. Mr Nimmo did his National Service (1948/50) with the Corps in Cyprus, where he was promoted to Corporal. His obituary, in the 'Daily Telegraph stated, '. . . [there] he began to develop his interest in food and drink.' – clearly another success story for our Corps!

Lt Col (Rtd) Bonaker's meeting with Mr Nimmo took place during the time that the Corps had Public Duties in London, in 1973. Here he joined them on Buckingham Palace Forecourt for the Changing of the Guard. The following day, after dismounting, they spent the day together, and in the evening he joined them in the Soldiers' Mess. There he met most, if not all, of the Corps' contingent during two hours of intense relaxation! He made a great impression on all those who met him, and he had clearly enjoyed his brief time as a Signaller. Those who knew him and also his many friends in the Corps will be saddened by his passing.

LATE NEWS . . .

MEMORIES

Mr B. Spencer

There will have been many exciting stories both told and untold, by many army Operators involved in various battles over the years. Perhaps not pictorially in the same category as the Radio Ops sending out distress call signs from a sinking liner at sea. I was not a hero, like some, but I did see action a few times, doing my job under difficult circumstances. With this in mind, my experiences might give the newcomers an idea of what it was like 'in the olden days'!

Our group, 33 Brick (Beach) Sigs, was a part of the 8th Army and we boarded The Sobietski in 1942 and sailed along the Suez Canal to Port Said. From here, having joined a convoy, we set out for an unknown destination somewhere in the Mediterranean. We were allocated Mess Decks and the organisation was good up to that point, but out of the hundreds on that merchant ship, who do you suppose was without a hammock – myself. Protesting and suggesting various ways of overcoming this dilemma was to come to nothing. As there was rough seas for the next three nights and four days, I got very little proper sleep. The ship arrived at Sicily a short while before dawn, by which time I had fastened two navy life belts round my waist, a No. 18 Radio on my back along with my harness loaded with all my other gear. My mate and I clambered up onto the open deck, in the blackout to find the Polish cooks with a stall set up. A small light shone beneath a canopy showing some delicious smelling brown sausages – but nobody was helping themselves to them and they seemed a bit puzzled. With a bit of body language I pretended to eat one whilst at the same time making a sea motion with my hands and pretending to be violently sick – they soon understood.

There was a queue for the Landing Crafts, which were held by pulley ropes on davits, and the men climbed in. A voice called out, 'Room for two more', and our Lance Corporal pushed us forward and we got the last two bench seats in the stern, plus two cardboard containers to be sick in. There was a terrific bang as a wave hit us under the keel whilst the craft was being lowered. The two hooks were released and the freed craft tossed around like a cork, up and down, round and round. The engine started and joining the others we proceeded to go ashore. A glider's fuselage and some drowned airborne soldiers were passed on the way, then suddenly the craft scraped to a halt. The ramp flopped down and the men in front with rifles disappeared into 'the valley of death'. My feeling at this point in time was just to get my feet on solid ground and I didn't care what happened afterwards.

We helped each other up and stumbled to the ramp. We were just about to step off when a sailor's voice said, 'You'd better sit on the edge.' This we did and I realised at once that my legs were dangling in the water, when I was expecting to step onto a dry beach. The Sailor then wished us good luck and gave us both a gentle shove off the end. We both landed upright and my mate said that the water was up to his waist, he wasn't as tall as me. The Landing Craft's engines started up. It went into reverse and was soon gone. All we heard now was the crackling of rifles on the distant ashore and there was the sound and feel of the wind on our backs, so like two zombies supporting each other we stumbled forward. Every step we thought would bring us up higher out of the water but the reverse happened and the water was now up to our chests. I suggested that we undid the belt buckle on our harness and let everything slide off, however, the next few steps brought us up on the slope of the beach itself. It had become evident that we must have come over a sand hump or bar under the surface of the sea and running parallel to the shore.

The find sand wasn't solid earth, but Praise the Lord, it was good enough for me. There was a faint light in the sky and we could make out shapes around us and see the flashes of exploding ammunition. A big man came towards us, he seemed to be the size of a barn door. 'Who are you?' he said in a strong voice. 'Beach Signals,' we replied. 'Beach Signals!' he exploded, 'What the !!xxo? are you doing here, we haven't got all the !!xxo? infantry ashore yet! Dig yourselves a hole somewhere out of the way. Keep your head down! Can't you hear the !!xxo? bullets going past?' Funnily enough that was the first time I had heard a live bullet go past – for those who have never heard one it goes zzzzz . . .ip! Come to think of it the Navy Beachmaster, when he left us didn't bend double. I doubt if he could have, I think he must have had a suit of armour over chain mail on underneath his uniform.

With a load like ours it was difficult to bend low. However, like a couple of Notre Dame Hunchbacks we made our way across the foreshore to where a small path led inland. A soldier suddenly appeared. It was too late to get our revolvers out of their holsters. 'I wouldn't go down there if I were you. One of our men put his foot on a anti-personnel mine and got killed. There might be more of them,' he said. Daylight brought into view a coastal road with a bridge so we made for this. A good road ran from the beach to the village of Bassible, about ten miles from Syracuse and we were on the extreme end of the landings. As we got under the arch of the bridge, I noticed a parapet, about 4' 6" high, running down one side. I told my mate I was going to have a well deserved nap, took my equipment off climbed up, got my gear lifted up to me laid down and immediately fell asleep. The next thing I knew someone was shaking my arm vigorously. It was my Lance Corporal, who told me to get down, get my equipment on and follow him, which I did. I noticed that the sun was now well above the horizon as I followed the Corporal back to the beach. 'This is your spot, dig a hole and set your radio up for transmitting,' he told me and then left. As I prepared to do this the sound of a plane was heard coming fast towards us. I looked at the two men on the Bofors gun, not more than twenty yards away and they were trying to target on it. All of a sudden it came out of the sun and with its cannons blazing away it started down the beach. The Bofors gun opened up, I put my head behind the set and tilted my 'tin hat' towards the enemy fighter bomber; feeling at that particular moment as though I were the size of an elephant and that he couldn't possibly miss me. I prayed to God to make me the size of the ant I could see as I looked down at the sand. Everyone was dashing for cover, the noise was getting louder and then there was the terrible scream of a descending bomb going past me followed by a tremendous thud and a split second later the explosion. Silence ensued and very reluctantly I opened my eyes. To my astonishment it looked as though I was travelling very rapidly heavenwards. 'This is it,' I thought. 'This is the end and you are on your way.' My hands decided to feel around for any damage I might have sustained, but no. Then they extended out and I could feel fine sand coming down, that had been blown skyward, what a relief! A voice shouted, 'Help! My mates are underneath.' I quickly got up and went to the edge of the crater, a few yards away, looked down and saw a soldier pulling away at the fine sand with his hands. He looked like a dog looking for a bone. The gun was underneath as well. I'd gone half way down when an officer appeared and called out, 'Where's the operator for this set?' I said 'I'm here Sir,' and climbed back up again. 'You know you haven't to leave your post under any circumstances,' he rebuked me. 'Sorry Sir, it was done instinctively.'

By now my body and mind were forcing me to resist any more pressure of any kind and I just laid back on the sand and looked at him with a bemused expression. He used the RT on the set and asked for another operator to replace me. No sooner was the message sent than the Lance Corporal appeared with another replacement. I was told to follow the Corporal back along the beach to our Group. There they were on the side of a hillock and what's this? A chair placed amongst them! The Corporal said that that was for me. As I sat on it and looked down towards the beach my Sergeant and two officers were sat at a table. It then dawned on me that I was being Court Martialled! The 'Legal' Officer asked me my name and then read out a lot of jargon, too fast for my tired brain to comprehend. 'What have you got to say?' he asked at the end. Not knowing what the charge was, but guessing that it was for not being at my post but asleep I said that I'd no hammock for the sea-crossing and in consequence no sleep. He turned to the Sergeant and asked if he knew about this. The reply was, 'Yes.' Then the same question was put to the Officer, who concurred. 'Case dismissed,' said the Legal officer, picked up his papers and left.

One of the lads gave me a lit cigarette, which I was grateful for and the Sergeant came up and asked if I wanted anything to eat, I told him all that I wanted was a cup of tea and some sleep. With that we walked to the edge of a field where beneath the hedgerow were some neat slit trenches. I lowered myself into one with two blankets and a mug of tea. They put a gate over the top to prevent any artillery bits dropping onto me. As I sipped my tea, that tasted wonderful, I pondered, had there been another serviceman, anywhere, who had gone to have a sleep in the middle of a battle, had a Court Martial and got his case dismissed. I then slept continuously for the next 24 hours.

ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE OF SCIENCE SHRIVENHAM EXERCISE SHRIVENHAM GHUMNE '98 A TREKKING EXPEDITION TO NEPAL

By Lt Colin Kell R. Signals

On 7 August 1998 three personnel from the Royal Military College of Science (RMCS) Shrivenham; Lts Colin Kell Royal Signals (leader), Hawthorn Lockwood AGC (SPS) and Nick Stanford RLC departed for Nepal. During the second year summer vacation military undergraduates at RMCS are required to organise and participate in an overseas adventure training expedition. However, between them the members of the group had already taken full advantage of the many opportunities at RMCS and had participated in four other expeditions in the previous two years. So rather than break track we decided to bite our lips and spend some more of the unit's funds. The flight from Heathrow took us via Dohar (Qatar) and on to Kathmandu where we were met by LCpl Milan Rai Queens Ghurka Signals (2 Sig Regt) who took a break from his leave to explore the Annapurnas.

A few days were initially spent in Kathmandu carrying out pre-trek administration and acclimatising to the heat, high humidity and rain of the Monsoon season. This took a little longer than expected due to a number of festivals over the weekend of our arrival, which closed most of the government buildings. From Kathmandu we travelled by bus to the start point of the trek. Buses in Nepal fall into three categories: Tourist, Swiss and Local: Tourist buses are the most comfortable and therefore the most expensive; Swiss buses are really Indian buses and are 'middle of the road', and local buses are the cheapest and roughest. On tourist buses you are guaranteed a seat (only one person per seat!) and the bus will only stop for rest breaks and not to let on any of the locals. Local buses can be very uncomfortable and are always full of passengers with everything from goats to sacks of rice inside and as experienced in one case around thirty people on the roof.

Over the next 15 days of our trek took us on a very popular route known as the Annapurna Circuit, which is some 130 miles long and climbs from its start point at 823m up to 5416m and back down to 700m at the finish. The trail runs from the eastern side of the Annapurnas from Besisahar along the raging Marsyangdi River, over the Thorung La Pass (5416m) and back along the western side of the Annapurnas following the Koli Gandaki River to Baglung. We soon got into a routine, which began with reveille around 0700hrs and on the trail for 0800hrs. NAAFI break Nepalese style was around 1030hrs with vegetable noodle soup and lunch was between 1230-1400hrs. The day would end around 1600hrs with a cold shower and an attempt to dry out clothing for the next day. Lunch and evening meals were the standard trekking meal of Dal Bhaat Tarkari and meat (when available). On one occasion our evening meal of Dal Bhaat was enhanced with the luxury of freshly prepared goat meat - it was an interesting sight to see the "butcher" at work with his kukhuri. Evenings were usually spent playing cards or reading and listening to the torrential downpour of the monsoon rains.

The lodges or hotels along the Annapurna Circuit vary both in size and standard from very small wooden affairs to large stone buildings. They are all quite basic and carry the promise of '24 hour hot running shower'! Many lodges promise this facility but few provide it - at least not during the 'off season'. The main dangers encountered during the trek were from illness (Delhi Belly or Acute Mountain Sickness) swollen rivers and landslides. There was no room for mistakes with the latter as there was usually only one way down - straight into a very swollen river. Although not a danger leeches are certainly not pleasant and are in abundance during the monsoon season.

During the remainder of our time in Nepal we took in some general sightseeing, a jungle safari in the Chitwan National Park and also managed to fit in a weeklong trek in the Helambu Region (Langtang National Park). The latter offered some spectacular early morning views and a closer look at Nepali culture away from the beaten tourist track. During the expedition we experienced a great variety of scenery, wildlife and dangers, which made the trekking all the more challenging. Our only regret is that we had to make the expedition during the monsoon season when many of the spectacular Himalayan views were restricted by low cloud cover.

THE ARMY TAUGHT YOU NEVER TO GIVE UP, SO DON'T

So there you are in civvy street. Completely at a loose end. But...why?...The Army's what you're good at. What about joining the TA? It's part of the British Army so you'll still be a soldier.

There are two options open to you. First, you can join one of the Territorial Army Independent Units based in the TAVRA region in which you have decided to settle. An ideal route for those who wish to serve locally. Which Unit you join will depend on those available in the area you live in. Second, if you are leaving a Corps, you could retain your cap badge and become a member of either an Independent Unit as above, or a TA Specialist Unit. In either, you can maintain and develop the special skills that you have learned.

The minimum commitment as a member of the Independent TA is 6 weekends, a two-week Summer Camp and some weekday evenings. As a Specialist we ask only 2 weekends and a 15 day annual camp. In return, you will earn Army rates of pay and an annual tax-free bonus of up to £1000.

For an information brochure call 0845 603 32 32 quoting ref WI005, or send the coupon to: Freepost, The TA, CV37 9BR.

Orpington
KENT BR5 1RY
Tel: 01689 858990

Dear Sir,

I recently found three medals that belong to a member, past or present, of the Royal Corps of Signals. They were found in the bowels of my car which I bought from Sittingbourne in Kent some three or four years ago, and I would very much like to return them to their rightful owner. The full details are as follows:

Cpl G. K. Galyer - R. SIGNALS
1 x GSM – Northern Ireland
1 x UN
1 x Long Service

Should any of your readers know Cpl Galyer or his family please let them know that I have the medals and then they can be returned.

YEOMAN OF SIGNALS COURSE GAINS HND RECOGNITION

Lengthy background work and successful negotiation between the Royal School of Signals and Edexcel recently has led to the Yeoman of Signals course being accredited for the award of Higher National Diploma (HND) in Communications System Management. This is a significant development towards improving civilian qualifications gained by attendance on military career courses and helps raise the profile and quality of output from the Royal School of Signals. HNDs will be awarded to students from Yeoman of Signals Course No. 49 onwards.

THE SIGN OF THE DOUBLE 'T'

Sentinel Press

THE 50TH NORTHUMBRIAN DIVISION JULY 1943 TO DECEMBER 1944

Written by B. S. Barnes

To be published in August by Sentinel Press as an A5 Paperback – 31 contemporary photographs, twelve portraits, maps of the Sicily Campaign, The Battle of Primosole Bridge, the assault on Gold Beach 1944, the European Campaign, Rolls of Honour, Lists of Honours and Awards. Many Corps members are recorded in the Honours and Awards Appendix and the Lists of the Fallen.

Based on first hand accounts by the men at the sharp end and upon exhaustive research using a wide range of previously unseen sources. This story of the famous '50 Div' is of interest to a much wider audience than the men who fought in it and their families and friends. The men who served in it's ranks were drawn from the length and breadth of this country though, originally, it's base was firmly planted in the Tyne-Tees area, hence the double 'T'. This is a tale of death and sacrifice. Comradeship is a mirror image of all the Divisions who fought in the second European 'Great War' and stands as a grim reminder of the debt which we all owe that generation.

Projected retail price :
£11.99 direct from the publishers or appointed booksellers

NEWS FROM HEADQUARTERS

HEADQUARTERS 2ND (NATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS) SIGNAL BRIGADE & COTSWOLD GARRISON

'I have a wheelbarrow, the wheel it goes round' and gains an awful lot of momentum in the process. There has been rather a lot of planning activity by the Brigade staff for the millennium, and we're not talking about parties. Such is the importance, the promotion of the SOI, Lt Col Roger Davenport is likely to be delayed so that he will be here over the critical period - talk about accountability! The Y2K working group have got something rather substantial to busy themselves with over the coming months. No doubt, more detail will follow but you'll just have to wait for the next edition. Just what are we up to? Wait and see! It's a good job that the Exercise name to follow in the Sword, Shield and (next) Spear series was not prefixed by Asparagus. Not quite the right sort of image, however, nutritious. New into the team is Capt Anna Tait who 'marks' the rise in our female representation by 50%.

The officers' mess is being redecorated in a daring new colour. It's as if Lawrence from Changing Rooms has been involved, it's Purple. Well at least in spirit, as Corsham Station is to come under joint service management. This is all part of the assimilations by DCSA, also known as the Borg, (to watchers of Star Trek), that has brought about massive building programmes including the creation of Pockeridge Park from a number of Omar Homes to provide accommodation for the overstretched mess. Maj Mervyn Johnston, has been at the forefront of these matters.

After many years in the army (almost serving in a third decade), the awracnaphobie (fear of WRAC with hairy legs), Capt Ian Ellis has decided to call it a day and move off to pastures new, to cut out a life as a civilian. He was one once, although he never really had the chance to do it properly. Since then he has apparently dabbled with some of the aspects involved, to hone the skills necessary for his new life. He wants to travel the world, meet interesting people and work with children - something he almost achieved in the army. He wants to buy the slightly faster motorbike with his resettlement grant. Amongst other things he is looking forward to unpacking his kit. His replacement is Capt John Russell, who, like so many of this Brigade, is to join us under the Full-Time Reserve Service scheme. Could this be the future of the army? If not, it certainly seems to be part of the present. As the debonair Capt Dave Drinkall is off on his ski instructors course (own leave entitlement), it has fallen to the outgoing Capt Ian Ellis to organise his own dining out. Stand by for a bachanal evening.

In keeping with the quality nurturing of the Brigade, four members happened across the Army Golf Skills course. General reports were of aching muscles, early nights and weather beaten, but smiling faces. The Comd kept his talents under wraps until the last day to soundly beat the other members of his group in a situation reminiscent of The Sting. Best dressed golfer must go to the Comd's driver LCpl Mark Collins, who from a sartorial perspective, played off scratch. Another sliced more balls than Delia Smith has cakes, and the last hooked more balls than John Wilson has fish. They are to remain anonymous to preserve their honour, of which they had little (golfing pun).

ACISG NEWS

The ACISG management cell is expanding with the arrival of Capt Andy Fletcher, a former regular for the old timers, on, wait for it - FTRS from 37 Sig Regt (V). He was 21C HQ Sqn based in Redditch. He is to focus on performance monitoring and measurement as well as being involved in ACISG management planning in the broader sense. Planning for the transfer of OPCOM 81 Sig Sqn (V) from 21 Sig Regt (AS) to ACISG is underway with an effective date of 1 September 1999. Much work is still required to ensure a seamless transition. A steady flow of visitors to the Brigade has kept all staff foolish enough to disclose their prowess on powerpoint very busy. GOC 3 (UK) Div, Maj Gen F. R. Dannant CBE MC and ACOS G6 (CIS) HQ LAND, Brig J. M. Shaw MBE were amongst them. Meanwhile the athletic Capt Tim Bamber (FTRS) has been busy representing the Corps Officers rugby team against RMCS. No doubt his natural welsh rugby talent helped secure the victory.

BRIGADE WO'S DINNER 17 MARCH 1999

by the YofS (Yeoman of Brigade)

On Wednesday 17 March 1999, many of the Brigades finest (the Warrant Officers!) converged on Corsham. for a 'Mafioso' Dinner. Invited to the dinner were the 'godfathers of the Brigade, the Bde Comd (Brig Gordon Hughes), Controller ACISG (Lt Col Malcolm Sinton) and the COS (Maj Paul Kelly).

The dinner took place on St Patrick's Day which seemed to go down well with WO2 (Paddy) Morrow and the Bde Comd alike, the rest of us were just as happy as any excuse will do. The Bde Comd used this auspicious occasion to tell a few choice Irish jokes which were very well received and matched by WO1 (GSM) Charlie Dubique's favourite 'From Us Coloured Kids joke'. The Corps Band provided a quintet for the evening that was very pleasing to the ears in between the scoff and the speeches. The only dodgy part was when one of their number went slightly mad during a boisterous piece yelling 'Yee ha!' at the top of his voice, (amazing how all free beer and self brought 'tinneys' loosens the larynx!)

After extremely good food and drink, the boys (and 1 girl (WO1 RSM Angie Hillborn)) retired to the bar for a night cap (or 10). Much drinking, talking and laughing ensued into the wee small hours of the morning, however nothing untoward was to happen with all personnel being totally professional to the end. In fact, RSM 31 Sig Regt (V) WO1 (RSM) John Gibson was so keen that at 4 o'clock in the morning he decided it was time to carry out a CFT. This consisted of a zig zag walk to his accommodation which was only 5/6kms away in another part of Wiltshire complete with George boots and Mess kit! Good effort RSM!

The evening was deemed to be an outstanding success enjoyed by all that attended. It provided Warrant Officers from throughout the Brigade the opportunity to speak to their counterparts in other units and network ideas, thoughts and comments on all aspects of Brigade life. It has now set a precedent for future 'gatherings' which it is hoped will be able to take place at least once a year. Looking forward to the next one already!

HEADQUARTERS 11 SIGNAL BRIGADE

EXERCISE HERCULES FORUM – A REPORT FROM THE OPS ROOM or Flt Lt Farid 'Top Gun' Khan's Adventures in Gibraltar

'The HQ has nominated you to attend Ex Hercules Forum as an Exercise augmentee.' My reluctance to spend one week out of the HQ on Exercise in Gibraltar, was evident to everyone in the office. The five minutes it took me to pack, after the briefest of glances at my diary, was evidence enough it would seem.

The outward journey was via Gatwick where, in the departures lounge, I played that well known tourist game of 'spot the military person in civvies'. I gauged my success by those, who on arrival in Gibraltar, boarded the military bus to our accommodation. Continuing in tourist mode, on the morning of my first day, I was met by the sight that many have seen before, on one side, the Rock dominating all, while on the other, the sea front stretched out towards Algeiras in Spain. The aims of the Exercise were to test the communications links between the Joint Task Force Headquarters (JTFHQ) and the Permanent Joint Headquarters (PJHQ) and to test the Command and Control procedures of the Gibralter Joint Operations Cell (JOC). I quickly made the acquaintance of WO2 (YofS) Jim Knight and other members of 258 Sig Sqn (30 Sig Regt), and spent the day assisting with the unloading and testing of some of the communications and IS systems deployed by the Squadron. The next day saw the arrival of the Main Body, minus their equipment which, due to the RAF, had been delayed. Quickly realising that this temporary set back, along with a four hour Hercules flight, meant the RAF were not flavour of the month in the eyes of the Squadron, and that a change of beret and rank slides was insufficient camouflage, I decided to make a quick exit to see the Gibraltar JOC!

Once the equipment arrived, the Squadron quickly set into a routine. Extensive work was required to turn what had been a few derelict rooms into a comfortable and fully functioning HQ. Power, telephone and computer network cabling were laid to all cells within the JTFHQ. Telephone points were installed. The new IS system and the vast array of tails were run up and tested. At a separate site, ageing and temperamental HF equipment was set up to provide a strategic HF link. All such trips demand some R and R, I decided to go to Morocco. I crossed by ferry to Ceuta located on the tip of Africa. After an overnight stay in a B&B, I set off to explore the shopping delights of Morocco, only to find the majority of shops closed. I tried to query the situation with locals but was hampered somewhat by my lack of fluency in the Spanish language. The only words that I know, 'Vamoos Muchacho,' did not elicit the reasons why much of the town was closed. Fortunately, by conversing in French, I was able to discover that I was not in Morocco but was in fact still in Spain. Ceuta, being an enclave of Spain in Africa, had Friday off as a holiday! With some haste I went to a taxi stand to find transport to the border with Morocco. An international incident almost ensued, as taxi drivers argued over who should convey (and fleece!) this foreigner, to TaiToin, some 37km away. On arrival, I was quickly deluged by 'would be guides'. One individual, realising that I spoke English, thought that he would befriend me by speaking the lingo - in his best English, he greeted me with: 'Hello, you Eeenglish? Ah good, Luvely Jubly, me ole cocker. Good here innit. I support Newcastle Liverpool Albion Football Club!' Eight hours and much shopping later, I returned to Gibraltar. The next day I returned to the UK, eagerly looking forward to a week long course at Blandford. Overall it was an interesting and taxing Exercise that I would not need much encouragement to repeat.

(PS: There is only partial truth in the rumour that Flt Lt Khan left his hire car unlocked at Blandford all week only to have it removed by the hire company after he had loaded it for the return journey home.)

BUILD UP TO ANNUAL CAMP

The planning for this years FTX, Ex Able Condor (UK) continues at a pace. In March, Ex Spring Eagle saw the Brigade Staff, and an assorted contingent drawn from all Regiments in the Brigade, assemble at Donnington for the MEL writing weekend. This weekend was primarily a planning weekend for Ex Summer Eagle, which itself forms a staff proving Exercise for Ex Able Condor (UK) and allows the evaluation of Brigade Standing Instructions. The weekend was led by the COS Maj Paul Hudson ably assisted by Maj Steve Bellerby, the HICON and LOCON being driven respectively by our SO2 Ops/CIS Maj Graham Addley and DCOS Maj Mike Wise. This was an 'interesting' weekend and not one to be missed but even the more robust were feeling brain dead by the evening of the first day. However, in terms of Exercise event planning it was a great success. If anyone falls victim to any of the planned events during the forthcoming Exercise - they can be supplied with the name of the brain behind it .....at a price! The procedures behind the planning of the Exercise and its orchestration were impressive and, seriously, taking part in this Planning Exercise should be classed as compulsory training for any potential staff officer or trainer. Volunteers for next year will always be welcome.

ADVENTURE TRAINING

The week the 21-27 February saw the majority of the Headquarters away on adventure training. An Advance Party consisting of Flt Lt Farid Khan, WO2 (RQMS) Steve Sadler and Sgt Nigel Jones departed Donnington for Aviemore. Much to their relief they were greeted by a heavy fall of snow with more predicted for the weekend. Due to our hut accommodation not being available until the following day, and the anticipated excellent conditions, the only free accommodation in Aviemore was the Youth Hostel. It is as well that they all like children and believe in being in bed early! That night the Advance party met Sgt Jim Lyons, of the Corps and 24 Cdt Trg Team, who was to be one of our instructors. On Sunday morning, they took over the Feshiebridge Lodge (an RAF adventurous pursuits centre) and waited the late arrival of the Main Party. The first day of skiing started well with lots and lots of snow. Our joy was short lived, however, as we received the news that the slopes were closed due to high winds and poor visibility. Several hours later we set off for the slope, having spent the intervening time reminiscing about skiing in Austria, France and Switzerland where the snow was always deep, the sky blue and the slopes windless (not like Scotland!). The party was split into Advanced and Beginner Groups, the former under the instruction of Capt Mark Brookes, 34 Sig Regt, and the latter under Sgt Lyons.

Keep smiling lads and they might not notice our skis are locked together.
Beginners Class: WO1(YofS) Pardew, WO2 (RQMS) Saddler, Flt Lt Khan

Despite a generous helping of snow, strong winds made skiing difficult. At the end of the first day a bruised and battered party returned to the Lodge, and, having devoured a super dinner cooked by Sgt 'Egon Ronay' Jones, went in search of physiotherapy and medicine; a walk to the local pub. Our enjoyment of the week increased as the weather and the skiing conditions continued to improve. Early to rise and early to bed (honest) worked for most but those 'Three Amigos' Capts Mark Brookes, Nick Range (33 Sig Regt) and Jason Kennedy (35 Sig Regt) found their body clocks out of synchronisation with everyone else's. Where did they get to until that time of the morning and why were they the only ones who got breakfast in bed!

As the week progressed the effort took its toll. The Advanced Group had by Day 4 managed to break Maj Steve 'But I always have morning-tea in bed' Bellerby and Major Peter 'I had an Army Youth Team in this area and Adam was my Sergeant' Williams and they swapped ski boots for walking boots. The Beginner Group quickly mastered the 'backside plough', and the need for a Banzai yell as one careers down the slope totally out of control. Yeoman Pardew was the only one of the this group who managed to break anything - the T Bar. An unofficial grading system soon emerged within the Beginner Group for the ski runs; a Blue Four meant a graded blue run on which one could expect to take four tumbles before getting to the bottom! The Advanced Group continued to try and break people and all had been impressed with Capt Kennedy's stoicism until he too cracked, when, in the Landrover returning to the Lodge at night, he was heard to remark sleepily, 'They've got enormous rabbits in Scotland!' - (The rabbits were deer).

By the fifth day, and even better skiing conditions, the Beginner Group had advanced to longer runs, more falls, jumps, James Bond impressions and unintentional cartwheels. That evening saw the arrival of the Commander, Brig Jonathan Cook, and his driver Cpl Simon Emmett. Despite the fact that the Commander had had a long drive and an even longer day, he was quickly and easily prised from his bed for a quick half at the local Pub. The sense of competitiveness and the cheap price of the beer, encouraged the group to enter a quiz. Some hours and just a few pints later they came away winners. The comment of the day came as the COS, Maj Paul Hudson, pointed out to the Commander that the poster for the quiz was advertising 'promotions'. The Commander replied that any chance of promotion was like the quiz itself – pure trivia! On the last day of skiing the Commander, COS, and the three Amigos set off for the slopes where unfortunately, a sudden change in conditions had resulted in a major thaw.

The injured went for a hike in Glenmore Forest while Cpl Emmett and Sgt Jones, the latter who seems to like unusually shaped saddles, went mountain biking. On return from the various activities, the Commander attempted to encourage the Captains out for a run, in vain! Clearly not career soldiers. That night, the group dined at a local hotel. It soon became obvious that the waitress, a lady of sensual and statuesque proportions, had probably served time as an instructor in a Military Corrective Training Centre (with an apology to close friends). As she served the food, she rebuked members of the group for the time that they spent over their choice of food: the COS for complaining that his was smaller than everyone else's (portion of soup that is) and the Commander for using a fish knife for his fish course. Only after serving the meal in Fawlty Towers fashion did she reveal that she had previously served in the South African Defence Force before deciding that being a waitress was her true forte!

The final day saw the departure of half the group, including the Commander. It was noted that the enthusiasm shown by two members of the group for an early morning bike ride vanished as soon as the Commander had left! The remainder of the party departed to Inverness, via a Battlefield Tour of Culloden, (the English won that one) and Fort George (built to make sure they never lost again). The COS's Combat Estimate and Maj Bellerby's Logistic surmise of the battle were particularly well received. All agreed that although Fort George was very picturesque, the bitter weather and exposed location would place it very low in the 'posting preference' list. It stands to reason therefore that someone will get it as their next posting! After an early night and a farewell visit to the local pub, the remaining members of HQ 11 Sig Bde set off early Saturday morning on the journey home, eagerly looking forward to returning to work……NOT!

HAIL AND FAREWELL

The period has seen us say farewell to a few members of the Brigade Staff. Most notably, over Ex Spring Eagle, we said farewell to Lt Col Roger Buston whose time in the Brigade and regrettably the Corps has finished. Many TA officers throughout the Corps will remember him from his days as the SO1(V) at Blandford with responsibility for the success of the annual Lieutenant/Captain and Captain/Major promotion course/ examinations; and therefore the mark he has made on many TA officers of the Corps. He will be missed in the Brigade for both his contribution and his humour. We all wish him the very best for the future, hope that the time given by the new found freedom does not hang too heavily and look forward to seeing him at Corps functions in the future. We welcome his replacement Lt Col Steve Potter and wish him a challenging and enjoyable tour. (There are now two officers in the Headquarters who have been the near cause of my Courts Martials!) The Exercise also saw the last day in the Brigade of one of our logisticians Maj David Atkinson REME - we wish him all the best in his new role. We welcome his replacement Maj David Ward REME who has not yet convinced us that it is a REME tradition that Brigadiers are called Colonel!

The beginning of April saw the departure of Cpl Jackie Simpson who leaves the Headquarters after three years for Blandford and promotion. Although sad to see her departure it is a relief for some of the male geriatrics here as they will no longer be subject to harassment - watch out Blandford! Her replacement Cpl Nigel 'Yes really' Weir is welcomed and we hope he has an enjoyable and successful tour - yet another golfer.

In this Issue we launch a partnership with Just Wills plc, the largest independent Will writing company in the United Kingdom. The work done by The Royal Signals Benevolent Fund is helped enormously by the generosity of individual legacies left to the Fund. The arrangement with Just Wills allows members and ex-members of the Corps to benefit from a discount for using the service and at the same time the Fund also benefits by donations from Just Wills. It is always sensible advice to put your affairs in order and in doing so we ask you to remember the work of The Royal Signals Benevolent Fund.

WHY YOU SHOULD MAKE A WILL

MAKING A WILL is the only way to ensure that your wishes are carried out after your death. If you have not made a valid Will, your property will pass according to the laws of intestacy. This may not be what you would have wished and in any event is likely to take longer to finalise than if you had made a Will, during which time your beneficiaries may not be able to draw any money from your estate. It can mean arguments and distress for relatives. Making a Will lets your loved ones know that you cared enough to 'sort things out' in advance.

IF YOU ARE SINGLE you will want your estate divided among friends, relatives and charities of your choosing and in the proportions you want.

IF YOU ARE MARRIED do not assume 'my other half will get everything'. Children, siblings or parents may have a claim. If you are living as a couple but not legally married, you will be treated as a single person and a surviving partner may get nothing at all. One thing you can be certain of – there will be argument and dispute at a time when the family have to cope with the loss of a loved one.

IF YOU ARE A PARENT you should consider who will look after your children in the event of your death. This is particularly important in the case of 'one-parent' families or unmarried parents living together and a valid Will nominating Guardians is imperative – if no one knows what you would have wanted, the Court will decide on the future of your children and it may not be what you would have wished.

IF YOU ARE RETIRED maybe you made a Will a long time ago. It probably needs updating to include additional grandchildren or even deletion of persons to whom you no longer wish to leave anything to.

By deciding to write your Will through Just Wills plc you will save £5.88 per Will (special discount) and you will also be benefiting this worthwhile charity as Just Wills plc have agreed to donate £5.00 to the charity 'The Royal Signals Benevolent Fund'. (Reg. No: 284923)

☐ Please send me the Wills by Post pack to enable me to draft my Will. I understand that once I have read the booklet and completed the instructions I then forward the form to Just Wills plc who will draw up my legally valid Will and return it to me. I enclose my cheque made payable to Just Wills plc for £10.00 deposit for each Will. I understand that I will send the balance of £31.13 inc. VAT per Will with the completed instruction sheet.

I further understand that if I am not satisfied, I can return the pack within seven days and receive a full refund.

☐ Please let The Royal Signals Benevolent Fund know that I intend to include them in my Will.

TRAINING

The White Helmets

OC	Lt Col Jack Amberton
Tm Capt	Capt Gordon Newell
Tm Sgt	Sgt Don Brebner

TRAINING CAMP RAF SEALAND 1999
by LCpl 'Scotty' Eccott

The majority of March was spent at RAF Sealand on the White Helmets annual Training Camp, the first two weeks were spent teaching the new intake of riders the basic tricks, Cpl Strachan, LCpl Hildreth, Sig Fiddes, Sig Macdonald, Sig Hodgson, Sig O'Neill. First Aid skills are much needed during this time, although this year we have been very fortunate (touch wood) surviving with Cpl Bob Sizeland needing a bit of sewing on a nice knee injury and Sig Jenny Sarsfield getting quite familiar with the A&E Department at Chester hospital for various knocks and scrapes. Considering we usually have at least one broken bone during the training camp we did quite well. Being on the border of England and Wales, I think we got both countries weather extremes, ranging from sunny, cold, windy but mostly rain, knowing what clothes to wear became a fine art.

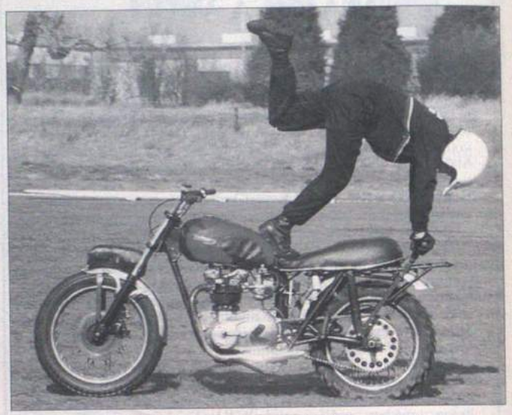
LCpl 'Mossy' Keatly controlling the 'Pillow Handstand'

Weeks three and four were spent putting together the show which happened quite naturally. This is always a good sign that we are going to have a good season. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank 'Benny's Mobile Eatery' and the landlords of Chester for their hospitality; I'm sure they could take early retirement after our four weeks visit !

The training was finished off with a show for RAF Sealand personnel, about 200 people turned out in the rain to watch us do our first show of 1999. The show was done as a way to thank the camp and personnel for going out of their way to make us feel welcome and supporting ourselves during our stay.

TEAM UPDATE
by Capt Gordon Newell

The Team completed training at RAF Sealand and began the season with a successful Opening Show. This took place at Blandford on 23 April in front of the SOinC (A), official military and civilian guests, team sponsors, team-members' families, friends and a few hundred other



Sig 'Fishy' Fish doing the Reverse Jimmy

A demonstration by Cpl 'Charlie' Chester and LCpl 'Fozzie' Forster of Precision Dressing at speed, on one wheel and jumping the human ramps onlookers. It was a spectacular performance well celebrated afterwards in a true White Helmets style! The team then took off to Leeds, Germany and Belgium before returning to the UK for the rest of a busy season.

At the end of last year the selection course brought forth a number of new riders who have all been well integrated into the set-up and all now wear their new white hats, gladly leaving their red helmets (hence the name 'pinkies') behind for good. All are looking forward to the Royal Tournament in July which sees the team chosen well ahead of other competition in performing at the last ever Tournament in history.

Two promotions took place within the team as Sigs 'Mossy' Keatley and 'Scotty' Eccott both picked up their LCpls - testament to prove the critics wrong again; in the last few months three riders have received promotion - people do get promoted in the White Helmets. We are all looking forward to the end of the year when the Team will take delivery of a new fleet of Triumphs to replace the well-worn workhorses we currently ride on. Further changes have included the Team now being sponsored by Outdoor Essentials rather than Cotswold for team dress - hence 'here come the men in black'. All the riders now have a comfortable and well-tailored set of riding blues - another welcome addition - so we expect to impress to excess this season.

As always, if Corps members are interested in taking two or three years out of routine barrack life in exchange for an exciting and unique role then a call to the Team in Blandford is always welcomed. At the end of the season a number of places will be available for new riders as we will lose people on posting and upgrading courses. 11 SIGNAL REGIMENT

It has been a very sporting start to 1999 for 11 Sig Regt. The Harrogate Cup has started with both the basketball and netball events being completed. Also the Regiment has been successful at Divisional level in just about every sport it competes in. At Army level, the Regimental Men's Hockey team were victorious over 16 Sig Regt to become Army Champions whilst the Ladies' Volleyball team outplayed the School of P & RTC also to become Army Champions. Reports of these events appear elsewhere in this edition.

BLANDFORD SUPPORT SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Mick Pawlak
SSM WO2 (SSM) Neil Fisher

Blandford Support Squadron, (HQ Sqn by another name) provides the infrastructure to support the Royal School of Signals and all the 'lodger' units that have, over a period of time, infiltrated, oozed and slithered (at times unnoticed) into Blandford Camp. All those aspiring sleepwalkers who arrive into the Squadron from BA(G) expecting to slumber through their tour find that, not only are they considerably poorer in UK, but they are also kept very busy! Apart from servicing the 5000 plus personnel and their families, the Squadron has been heavily involved in preparations for Public Private Partnership (PPP); a complex process to select a Private sector consortium to help take the RSS into the next century. As the year unfolds the Royal Signals Association weekend and the UK Morrison Cup competition approaches, we wonder if Kosovo, Bosnia, NI and FI commitments mean that we will be the only ones here to take part!

Other news from within the Squadron is centred on farewells and arrivals; firstly the out going SSM, WO2 Bob Snow who has left to start a new job with the Royal Signals Recruiting Team. Bob and his wife Ann were dined out by the Squadron Officers, WOs and SNCOs in February; the OC's words of farewell will long be remembered, especially those describing the SSM's appearance in the recent Officers v SNCOs rugby match,... 'an Easter egg on legs'..., cruel but fair. Best wishes to you both!

More recently SSgt 'Taff' Rideout has also made his way through the door to Civvy Street on completion of 22 years service; we wish him well in his new job with 'Mr Vodaphone' (not another one). The Squadron would like to welcome the following new arrivals, WO2 (SSM) Fisher and his wife Sabine who arrived from Germany in early January, and SSgt Dougie Piper who replaces SSgt Rideout as Depot Tp SSgt, welcome!

The rationalisation of service support to the Garrison has led to an amalgamation of the General and Technical departments. The function now under one Quartermaster, is developing fast and the early indications are that it will work well. The new office build has brought all accounting staff into a central area, which is already proving a success.

OPERATION PALENTINE

The de-kit of Op Palentine took place shortly after the Christmas break, and was just what was needed to get us all back into the swing of things after the festive season. With the primary objective being to get all the TA soldiers de-kitted, medical and documentation checked and onto waiting transport as soon as possible, we consider that a complete turnaround of 6 hours more than achieved the aim.

Congratulations go to SSgt Terry Parle MBE on his inclusion in the New Years Honours List and to WO2 John 'Fradders' Fradley on being selected for promotion and his appointment as RSM of 16 Sig Regt.

It is with sadness that the department said farewell recently to the Quartermaster, Maj Dave Longhurst. His presence will be missed by everyone both in the department and the Garrison where he made a considerable contribution to the project management team during the heady days of implementation, and more recently as the Quartermaster who amalgamated two departments. He moves into retirement with a definite plan for the future - to do nothing!! Good luck and happy sailing. The department welcomes Lt Col Mick Ledwards and his wife Sue and hope that you both enjoy your tour of Blandford.

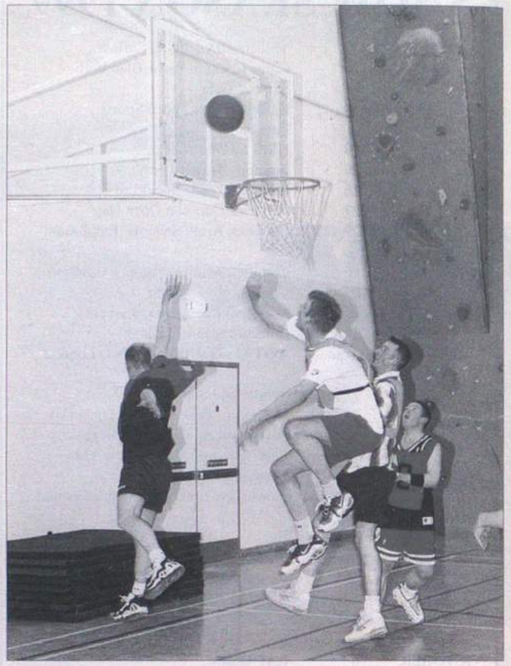
This year's Inter-Troop Basketball Competition was held in February over three separate dates 11, 18 and 25th. It had already been decided that the first competition in the Harrogate Cup would be organised by Rhino Troop. After a brief liaison between Capt Bryan 2IC 1 Sqn and WO1 Pete Griffiths (event supervisor), the rules were set in concrete and the battle commenced.

The 11 February 1999 was to see the first round contested between two leagues of three teams with the winners and runners up in each league competing in the semi-finals to be held on the 18 February 1999. After some very competitive, skilful and sometimes not so skilful basketball the semi-finals were set with Rhino Tp (1 Sqn) verses Beaufighter Tp (2 Sqn) and Lightning Tp (3 Sqn) verses Ulster Tp also (3 Sqn). Both semi-finals were well contested with Beaufighter Tp and Lightning Tp running out winners for a place in the final.



Lightning Strikes

The final was held on Thursday 25 February 1999 and both teams had brought their supporters with them which made for some colourful and interesting comments from the sidelines, most of which was not humanely possible with a basketball, as far as I am aware. Beaufighter Tp got off to the better start taking a thirteen-point lead. By the end of the second quarter, however, after a stern pep talk from their team manager Cpl 'Dusty' Miller, Lightning Tp produced some inspiring team work and quickly overtook Beaufighter Tp, whom gallantly and sportingly battled on but unfortunately ran out the losers. This was an outstanding and fitting final for what had been an excellent competition and our thanks go to all who took part including Cpl Piper for organising the officials and to the 2IC Regt, Maj Phil Brown for presenting the trophy.

The first quarter of 1999 has been a busy time for Whitespear Tp with all three departments working hard to provide and confirm military and adventure training for the ever increasing amount of Phase 2 trainees in Blandford Garrison.

The Royal Signals Training Objective 1G Team, under the supervision of SSgt Bill Butler has been working hard to deal with the increasing number of soldiers awaiting Common Military Syllabus confirmation as well as forming a formidable volleyball partnership with Cpl 'Shiny head' Compton. The Military training team of SSgt Dave Giles and Cpl Matt Thomas have been side-tracked from their normal activities of FIBUA training, APWT and bayonet fighting to provide guard force training to soldiers that are assisting units that have personnel deploying on operations to Kosovo. The adventure training team under Sgt Chris Gleadow has remained busy by providing two caving expeditions to the Yorkshire Dales. Finally the Hello's and Goodbyes. The Troop welcomes to the fold Cpl Laurie Askins and Sgt 'Twiggy' Twigg to Military training and RSTO 1G respectively and says farewell to Cpl Matt Thomas who departs to the Army Apprentice College Arborfield.

EXERCISE DARK IRON – LAKE DISTRICT

by Signaller Candler

There was mixed feelings in the air about the week that lay ahead. Hopes of conquering fears of claustrophobia, defying nerves of being so far underground and just generally being scared of the dark. On the Sunday that we arrived at Ambleside we saw the scene which portrayed what we had let ourselves in for. All around us, hills, grass, fresh air and the odd houses dotted about. We discovered the shack, which was to be called 'home' for the next week and made ourselves familiar with the local area.

The nightmares all started when we made struggling attempts to get into our 'Teletubbie' suits. Eventually after painful battles with the suits we ventured out to the first cave. Arriving at what we were told was the cave we saw what seemed like a rabbit hole. Now the fears were rising. Some members of the group weren't too happy about entering a hole of such small proportions, but we were assured that the cave was much larger inside. We'd only been with the instructors for one day. Could we trust them at this stage? Only the brave entered the first cave. The untrusting members of the group soon joined in on the next cave, which had a larger opening. Fears were building up as they entered the cave but they were soon forgotten. After spending what seemed like hours in the freezing running water of the cave we were all starting to get a bit frustrated, especially Sig 'Chappy' Chapman and Sig Keith 'BFG' Candler who found the journey rather slow due to the slow people in front which had nothing to do with their size, eh Cpl Dave Allen.

This day was rather typical for the Lake District. Cold, wet and windy, getting us in the mood for more caves. After completing our first two caves under the careful instruction by Cpl Matt Thomas and Cpl Dave Allen we were left to explore the last cave. There was only one way out of this cave. Our aim was to find the exit un-aided. A lot of hope lingered in the air. The roof lowered and the water seemed to get deeper, which caused us to get very wet and cold. Great news for seals.

After a good nights sleep, we set off again to the famous Cheese Press. Some people were not looking forward to it at all. This was due to the height of the passage, which measured only 21cm at its lowest point. Too small if you ask me. It didn't seem natural to crawl through small gaps like this for fun. Everyone attempted it but not all succeeded. Space and build didn't help.

The final cave was just around the corner, which was rather strangely nicknamed 'The Washing Machine'. Why 'The Washing Machine'? We were soon to find out. No one knew what to expect from this cave, but we were all going to find out. We arrived at the much-awaited cave, which met our dreaded expectations. Just a hole in the ground. That's what it seemed like when we entered it. There was only one way out of this cave after we started and that was down. After abseiling about 25 metres the instructors pointed out a small hole which we were about to venture through. Sig 'Spots' Spotswood and Sig 'Geordie' Rutter were quite reluctant to go down the narrow hole but after a lot of persuasion they followed. They were happy that this fear had been conquered. Their happiness was not long lived, as they weren't aware of the large waterfall, which they would have to face. They had to abseil down it with freezing gushing water hitting them from every direction. The sooner it was over the better. Why do people do this for fun? I think that was the general thought of the day. All the members of the group had a great sense of achievement from the weeks caving. A special thanks to Cpl Thomas, Cpl Allen and all the team.

2 Sqn would like to say farewell to WO1 Dave Clark who leaves the squadron and the Army to start a new career in the Norfolk/Suffolk area. We wish him and his family all the best for the future. Cpl 'Elvis' Hemstead has been posted to 220 Sig Sqn to be reunited with his wife. The Squadron misses the daily 'Elvis' v Cpl 'Trigger' Smith banter and teamwork. We welcome, in their place WO1 Mark Elliott who takes over the reins of Beaufighter Tp and Cpl Myerscough who has arrived to assist the industrious Cpl Riley in Iron Tp.

HARROGATE CUP – NETBALL COMPETITION

The Netball competition was the second event of the Harrogate Cup competition, which was held over a three-day period. The early stages were run on a mini league basis with the winners and runners up of the two leagues going into the Semi-finals. In the first Semi-final Iron Tp played Ulster Tp. This was an extremely tense and exciting match which was level at full time, 11 goals each. In sudden death extra time Iron Tp managed to score the vital goal to earn a place in the final. The other semi-final was an all 1 Sqn affair between Kohima and Rhino Tp. This was a less close affair with Kohima Tp romping to victory 31 goals to 3. This was due to some excellent shooting by Sig Lawton and Sig Jackson. The biggest cheer of the night was for Rhino Tp's first goal; the fact that they showed great character and kept trying right up to the final whistle is a credit to the whole team.

The final between Iron Tp and Kohima Tp was held in front of a large and noisy crowd of supporters. The match started at great pace and Iron Tp rocked Kohima Tp by scoring three early goals. Iron Tp managed to maintain this advantage thanks to some excellent defence by Sig Creith, Sig Yardley and Sig Lawton, Kohima Tp, having had a bad day in front of goal. Iron Tp eventual winners 20 goals to 11. The Regimental 2IC Maj Phil Brown and his daughter Jessica presented the prizes and a big thank you to the officials: SSgt Lindsey Manktelow, Cpl Jane Simmons, Sig Sam Yardley and Sig Liza Parsons.

On Wednesday 31 March 1999, 3 Sqn held their last smoker of the millennium, combining it well with the first. It was organised by the Squadron 2IC, Capt 'Ten Bellies' Kenyon. Thinking he was a fashion conscious king in his pink shirt strutting about the stage, he soon got proceedings underway.

This was now the soldiers' chance to legally get away with a good Mickey take of Squadron and Regimental personalities. First to come under fire was OC 3 Squadron himself, Maj 'Pretty Boring' Duncan with his hands glued to his armpits. A very close second was SSM 'Ginga' Udell receiving stick like all SSMs do just for being the Sergeant Major and having ginger hair. Then it was time for the up-graders to do their stuff and they did not disappoint. They soon lowered the tone with their winging and gripes, (just like being at work really).

Later in the evening it was noted by WO1 'Not Impressed' Bob Banner how sensible the soldiers were being with their consumption of alcohol, so much so that he closed the bar. Finally our thanks must go to the judges the Regimental 2IC Maj Brown and RSM, WO1 Stonier for their time and endurance in judging the event. By the way, who did win?

1 TRAINING SQUADRON
ROYAL SIGNALS ARMY TRAINING REGIMENT
BASSINGBOURN

OC Maj J. M. Norris
SSM WO2 (SSM) S. Slaney

Now that Easter has passed, the continuation of Phase One training of recruits at ATR Bassingbourn goes on. Life for both the recruits and the permanent staff is very hectic, but as always very enjoyable and rewarding. All members of the permanent staff have been making full use of the sporting facilities available to them both within the Corps and at the ATR.

First and foremost, Lt Kate 'Lord Lucan' Simmonds achieved great results during the winter sports season with her skiing prowess. Although we didn't see her for approximately six months of the year, she achieved a win with the Army Ski Team and skied at the Inter-Services. As her reward, she has just organised a climbing expedition to Spain. 'More bleeding time off' say's Sgt Roy Carter, her Troop Sergeant. We also await the return of Cpl Percival from what is believed to be an outstanding Diving Expedition in Belize.

Good luck goes to both Capt Mick Boyle and Sgt Carter who will be running the London Marathon in aid of The Leukaemia Research Fund. We are all witness to the vast amount of training which they have both been doing, Capt Boyle taking part in Iron Man, Orienteering, Du-athlon and Tri-athlon competitions, and Sgt Carter ...?

The Regimental Inter Company/Squadron competitions have been in full flow recently, with Rugby, Football and Squash to name but a few. We fielded a very admirable team for the Rugby 7's, although much bickering occurred as to who was allowed to play by being 'posted into, or out of, the Squadron'. However, after a very successful and enjoyable day we left with only one trophy. Player of the tournament went to Lt Jamie 'What an outstanding run' Balfour, but alas no Oscar award for his Gwyneth Paltrow injury! The first place prize for the Football competition was narrowly lost to HQ Sqn. It must be emphasised for the record, however, it was only on points because we did beat them! A huge well done to the Squash team, whose valiant efforts recorded an outstanding dark horse second place due to the strong leadership of the Team Captain, Lt Ivan 'What? Please tell me more ...' Bates. He has also recently represented the Army versus the HAC and was again victorious, so congratulations and well done.

There is always time during the busy training package for career courses, whether you are an Officer or an NCO. Most of the staff have enjoyed the week long jollies in Wales on the Mountain Leader Training course, or adversely, the six weeks duration of the Other Arms Skill At Arms course. However, Sgt Roy 'No job too tough' Turner has just returned after successfully completing his Sergeants' Course at Blandford, finishing in a commendable eighth place. Also well done to Lt Charlie 'Monday morning off' Roberts who has finally passed his JOTES 1 exam.

Welcomes into the Squadron and Regiment are ever increasing, Thank You MCM Div, and are as follows:

Maj Licence arrives to command Wray Company.
Lt Liz Allen and Pepsi, along with Cpl Knowler and Cpl 'Tessa' Blakeley arrive into Charlie Troop.
Cpl Al Nuttall, Cpl Ambury and Cpl Dawson (briefly), are welcomed into Alpha Troop.
Cpl Mason comes to Echo Troop.

Congratulations to both Cpl Frew and his wife for their new baby, and also Lt Ivan Bates and Jayne on their recent marriage, notably a wonderful feat of administration. Get Well Soon SSgt (SQMS) Andy 'No Honestly' Harriett, who is currently recovering from his new sport of Tarmac Surfing after a motorbike accident. Return to work ASAP to sort out this backlog of 1033's!

ALPHA TROOP

Once again the 'Mighty Alpha' triumph with another 11 weeks of CMS(R) training with course 550 (04/01/99 – 26/04/99). The recruits successfully endured all aspects of military training during quite an inclement time of year. The training team consisted of Lt Jamie 'Jail them all' Balfour, Sgt Roy 'Young Man' Turner, Cpl Al 'Bottom Drawer' Nuttall, Cpl Barney 'Get orf the maaaa'tress' Revell, Cpl Geordie 'Gripper' McBean, Cpl Smudge 'Dave Tucker' Smith and our PTI Cpl Jase 'more Bryl-Cream please' Holt. Not forgetting the 45 recruits too numerous to mention but they know who they are.

During the arduous adventure training week the troop raised over £1362 for the Army Benevolent Fund and presented the cheque to Capt (Retd) A. C. Armstrong, of the Cambridge branch, during the recruits parents evening. This vast sum was about a quarter of the total sum raised annually by the local charity office. Part way through the course the troop volunteered its services to Bassingbourn primary school and assisted in building a quiet play area for the children who are aged between 5 to 11 years. This consisted of many hours of the recruits' own time, digging, levelling, sweating and all round enjoying themselves. The digging involved moving 2.5 tonnes of earth out and 2.5 tonnes of hardcore back in all by means of shovel and wheelbarrow. There was also the replanting of the shrubbery, which meant more digging. This was strong credit to the recruits after just returning from the mid course exercise where they gained much experience digging in and back filling.

The training team would like to extend a fond filled farewell to all recruits moving onto Phase Two in Blandford. 'For All Those That Have Done Well, ... Well Done!'

By the time this edition of The Wire is published, our Apprentice Tradesmen (ATs) from Intake 98C will already be in Blandford engrossed in their respective trade courses. The Spring Term finishes on 16 April, with the Passing Out Parade for 98C being held on 15 April. This term we say goodbye and congratulations to Cpl Rob McCorkell, who leaves us on promotion to 3 Inf Bde. We shall also bid farewell to Cpls Paul Lowe KINGS and Lawrie Askin, who are off to 1 KINGS and 11 Sig Regt respectively. In their places, we heartily welcome Cpl Andy Staff from 14 Sig Regt, Cpl Smith from 1 GH in Osnabruck and Cpl Thomas from 11 Sig Regt, to all of whom we wish a most successful tour here in sunny Arborfield, and by the time this article is read, we will have said goodbye to Capt Kyra McAnulty too, who is also posted to 11 Sig Regt in Blandford. Our sincere best wishes go to all of them and their families.

This edition of The Wire features the activities of Scott Tp, one of the two Senior Term Troops, commanded by Capt Tom Jeffries, with Sgt 'Waggy' Wagstaff as Tp Sgt and Cpls Paul Millington and Colin Brotherston as Tp Cpls.

SCOTT TROOP LIFE!

by AT Starkie and AT LCpls Thornton and Chivers

We remember the first day, although looking back it seems years ago, but it's only been six months. Everyone was worried about what we were letting ourselves in for. After the first couple of weeks we think we all realised that Scott Tp was not made up just of people, it was now our family, and would be until the end of our time in the College. We've learnt a lot and had both hard and good times along the way. When things get hard in Scott Tp, we work through it and try not to let the bad points overrule the good ones.

From a Troop of untidy, out of step would-be soldiers, we have been worked and trained into a Troop and a team that we are all proud of. Overall, life in Scott Tp has been great, and we have learnt to work as a team even at the worst of times. Our greatest achievement has to be the College-wide Inter Troop March and Shoot Competition in which we proved our team work and came out overall winners. We wear our Troop sweatshirts with pride. It will be a shame when we all split up for Phase 2 training, and we wish everyone the best of luck for the future!

All our thanks go out to all our staff who have made us what we are today. Thank you and well done Scott Troop!

EXTERNAL LEADERSHIP 2

by AT LCpl Elkin

Scott Tp were happy to board the coach for the drive up to Sennybridge in Wales. It was two weeks out of the monotony of education training for some excellent Adventurous and Leadership training. Everyone's morale was high as we looked forward to the time ahead.

The first week was Adventurous training. The first activity we did was mountaineering. As the snow came down we were going up and over the famous Pen-y-Fan. After a night out in the tents we made our way back each taking turns to lead the group with the maps. We all watched with amazement as we saw soldiers on SAS selection tabbing past with their huge bergens and SA80s, thinking, maybe it will be us one day! The next few days were spent on rock climbing both indoors and outdoors. We were joined by our Sqn OC, Maj France and SSM, WO2 Senior who gave us plenty of encouragement.

The second week was Leadership training. At first we worked on a project called KAPE (Keeping the Army in the Public Eye). The first day was spent clearing a quarry full of rubbish with our OC Troop, Capt Jeffries getting amongst us whilst we were doing our part for the community. The second day was restoring a public park damaged by floods. To end the week we all had the chance to prove ourselves with command tasks. To finish off the Leadership package we executed a river crossing. With Cpl Millington yelling at us, we jumped into a freezing, fast flowing river to be caught safely downstream by Sgt Wagstaff. Great Stuff!

READING HALF MARATHON 14 MARCH 1999

by ATs Henshaw and Braund

Scott Tp's chosen charity event to raise money for the Cancer Relief Macmillan Fund was the Reading Half Marathon. The whole Troop raised sponsorship money for the chosen 'nutters' who were running as a squad in boots and combats on what turned out to be a blistering hot Sunday. As we set off to Reading on the bus everybody was unsure of what to expect; but Cpl Millington, Cpl Murray (from Penney Tp) and Capt Jeffries gave us the confidence boost that we needed to keep us going.

We had been training solid for at least a month including on External Leadership and had also been given a strict training programme by Cpl Millington to carry out in our own time on leave. As we entered Reading town centre we could see what a big event this actually was from the number of people who were there to run and spectate. As soon as we started walking to the start, the response that we got from the crowd was incredible. This raised our morale even higher and boosted our confidence within the squad of ten men.

As we were running the full 13 miles in boots, by the 10 mile point, people's morale started to drop a bit because of the unseasonal heat of about 20 - 22 degrees Celsius. All the spectators, however, cheered us on as they knew we had put 100% into the run because of the determination on our faces. After a lot of hard work and sheer effort within the squad we finally crossed the finish line in 2hrs 1min and 45secs. This was such a great sense of pride for us ourselves and also for our Royal Corps. Our staff, Cpl Millington, Cpl Murray and Capt Jeffries were also pleased and proud of us. What a great day! The final amount which we raised for the Cancer Relief Macmillan Fund was £617.14.

EXERCISE JANNER'S JOY 25 - 28 MARCH 1999

by AT French

We deployed on Thursday 25 March at approximately 18.30. We were briefed the evening before regarding the tactical scenario and our roles and appointments. After arriving at the Drop Off Point (DOP) we 'tabbed' with full Complete Equipment Marching Order (CEMO) into a hasty harbour, where we stayed overnight. The next morning we set out on a 24km circuit consisting of four stands, NBC, first aid, section attack and observation. ATs were put in charge of sections for each stand. The emphasis was on leadership and the ability to work under battle pressure conditions. The night was again spent in a hasty harbour. The following morning we moved into an already dug-in harbour area close to the one we had just left. On the final day we practised our section attacks during numerous patrols to prepare for the dawn attack which we launched in the early hours of the following morning. All in all, it was a tiring but nevertheless satisfying experience.

Well, having made more journeys over the last weeks than Virgin Atlantic, Trunk Node 011 has settled into a permanent location. We are also honoured by the presence of OSC 137. Things went smoothly on arrival, with the only notable story of LCpl 'Hoppy' Hopkinson falling down a large hole and spending the next couple of days walking like Herr Flick from the Gestapo. Sig 'Taff' Phillips has started his reptile collection with three lizards and a snake now on show. LCpl 'Can't cook , won't cook , but I'll give it a try' Fisher is considering serving them up as part of a stir fry. Easter was celebrated with a Communion Service at our location with it's glorious view over much of Northern Macedonia. There was also an issue of Creme Eggs to add to numerous parcels coming through the post. To everyone out there keep writing. The last few days have seen elements of the location travel to refugee sites to set up tents, serve food and dig some holes. LCpl 'Battlesmock' Chapman removed his T- shirt for the hard days work ahead of him and was promptly put into tent 42 and served with hot soup and a potato to speed his recovery. All those that went came away with a real sense of achievement and a wish that we could do more to help.

DELTA TROOP - by LCpl Gauchi
Tp Comd Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Stef' Newton

Firstly, welcome to Sigs Anderson and Barker who arrived in the Troop just as we deployed. We will get you out soon. A grateful goodbye goes to Sgt Brian Clark who left to go to ATR Bassingbourn just prior to the deployment after five years dedicated service to Delta Tp. Best Wishes to you and Lynn from all the Troop.

'So to the mobilisation. It was 0230hrs on Sunday 7 March that Delta Tp's Italian SAN had finally had enough of war dodging and decided to deploy on Op Agricola to Skopje, Macedonia. The rest of the Troop are with the French SAN, Tac Tp, 229 or in Camp waiting to deploy or in Sig Kirkbright's case giving birth. The journey ended at the 'Hotel Babylon' otherwise known as the Shoe Factory. The next few days were occupied with testing our kit and thanks to LCpl 'Flat Stan' Rose and LCpl 'Doh!' Gauchi all our equipment works, now.

At 'Hotel Babylon' there were a few incidents of note. The author had to have two stitches in his head after a bump into a generator. LCpl McFarland lost his wedding ring down a drain and hours of fishing could not retrieve it. The main culprit of our comedy was Lt 'Has anyone seen my beret?' Farrimond, who after nearly being eaten by wild savage dogs while running, also rendered himself unable to continue in a game of football. He was put through on goal, but unfortunately he didn't see the manhole playing sweeper in the opposing defence. Thankfully he is okay now.

Soon it was time to provide comms for the Italian Bde HQ. This was meant to be a permanent deployment but in fact became 24 hours due to a more important task arising. This task came in as we were on parade being welcomed by the Italians. We cried 'we'll be back' as we drove out of camp.

Our new task was to provide comms for a CSSG TAC HQ for Ex Arrcade Guardian 2. This was at a site which is now a Refugee Handling Centre. The Exercise went well until the last night. It was getting late and the CP, feeling a bit peckish decided to make themselves some egg banjos. They dug out some 1950's cookers and attempted to light them, little realising more fuel had poured out than necessary. The ball of flames was ably controlled by SSgt 'Waste is Waste' Newton and Sig 'Xmas' Carroll using his fire extinguisher which meant a disaster was avoided. At the time of writing we are back with the Italians and all is going well. We are happy here in our mountain-side Chalet. We are just waiting to get into Kosovo so we can complete our tour and get back to our loved one's, especially mine, 'Archies Bar'. Don't worry wives, girlfriends and Cpl Clegg we'll be home before you know it.

STOP PRESS! The SAN has suffered its first casualty. During the Man Utd v Juventus game, shown in the bar on Italian Sky TV, SSgt Newton injured his hand. During a rather exciting part of the match he jumped up and punched the air forgetting the low ceiling and the rotating fan. OUCH! No serious injury to report but the fan doesn't work anymore.

PAPA TROOP - NOW FRENCH BRIGADE SAN
Tp Comd 2Lt Noakes
Tp SSgt SSgt Ironside

Hello from the newly formed French Bde SAN. Born of various Troops, personnel and vehicles. As OC Papa Tp there are even elements of my own Troop in the form of my trailer. We have swapped SSgts with Hotel Tp. Welcome to SSgt Ironside. Hence, Papa Tp ceases to exist until the end of this tour. The Troop has solved its identity crisis through an epidemic of bad haircuts. SSgt 'Butch' Ironside has even succumbed to the clippers.

After a brief stay in the Shoe Factory an invitation came one by one to move 30km up the road to Kumanovo as the space became available. The fact that all the female soldiers had a proper bed and a roof over their heads first had nothing to do with the fact that the OC is female. The final arrival of Sig Evans brought forth such an intense smile it was clear that things were worsening at the cramped Shoe Factory. The most challenging task to date has been convincing the French that Ptarmigan is not just a heavy, green box occupying too much space on their desks. The biggest liaison problem was persuading the French to understand the Lance Corporals really do know what they are doing and that it's probably not wise to expect the officer to be the most competent in the Troop at installing a Ptarmigan subset.

There has been considerable energy expended in the name of Entente Cordiale. Regular football friendlies against fellow French transmetteurs to the OC beasting the Brigadier. Initiation of Anglo-French relations has not been one sided. Gone are the days when we could remember how many times French soldiers have asked where LCpl Cooper and Sig Barrett are. The French are definitely not used to female soldiers. 2Lt 'S'il vous plait' Noakes still wonders what COMARRC must have thought when the call came over the radio that the French had secured objective 'Tanya'. The England v France rugby match is of course a sore point. The next few months should see plenty more stories so watch this space.

TAC TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Lowther
Tp SSgt SSgt Angove

It all started on a Sunday 21 February when Tac Troop and various attachments paraded in the Troop lines. There followed an intense period of air prep checks, doc checks followed by air prep and docs checks. Finally all was ready and Packet 1 rolled out of the gates on its way to Bruggen. It was when Cpl Mark Gibbs had to stop to ask the way to the airhead that it dawned on us that it was indeed going to be a long tour.

...And so the tour began

Three days later Tac had finally arrived at the now infamous Shoe Factory (with the exception of course of Sig Kerry Johnston and LCpl Jo Cooper who had their first flight aborted in mid flight, the second diverted to Thesaloniki and a six hour cabby in order to join us). After great amounts of de-gunging, shoe box moving, machinery shifting and general grafting our first of many homes was created. Congratulations were then due to Cpl Mark Gibbs who managed to get home to register the birth of his daughter. The rest of us were left to enjoy the hastily prepared quiz night hosted by WO2 (SSM) Rick Hughes and SSgt Patrick Hurge-Mogg. Sgt 'Happy' Easter has also been busy with his singularly sarcastic literary publication 'The Kosovo Times'.

After several more moves, we were then invited to join the Italian Brigade in Katlanovo. Now life with the Italians has its drawbacks, the food for instance. Pasta with everything. The spirit of international co-operation has been greatly aided by the musical talents of Sgt Rob Atherton and Cpl Dave Burke who joined in the Italians evening jam sessions with great vigour!

FYROM UPDATE AS AT 10 APRIL 1999

In following the political and military situation with regard to the Former Republic of Yugoslavia (FRY), Kosovo, and the Former Yugoslavian Republic of Macedonia (FYROM), we can certainly all be forgiven for being confused by the rather mixed messages that are coming across in the media. The position as far we are able to see it from here is not actually that much clearer, although in Skopje and on the hills around the capital area we are following matters as closely as we can. The enormous swing of recent events - from the intitial NATO bombing, through the mass expulsion of refugees from Kosovo by President Milosevic, to the aid campaign that has swung into action to support those same refugees in FYROM and in Albania - inevitably prevents a better picture of the way ahead coming through as yet.

The accompanying diary gives an idea of what has been happening on the wider stage over the last week, and where possible the work of the men and women of 16 Signal Regiment has been noted within each day's activity. As you will read, the dominant event has been the humanitarian aid mission undertaken by KFOR within the camps in FYROM. Without the immediate assistance of the NATO units here, there really would have been the possibility of disaster: with it, and this was based on the unstinting efforts a large number of volunteers from all units, that disaster has been averted and the UNHCR will shortly be able to take over. We are now able to return to focus again on our sole reason for being here, ie: as part of a force that will make it possible to achieve a settlement in Kosovo once a peace agreement has been signed. Whilst the political processes that will lead up to such an agreement perhaps seem to be as far from reaching a successful conclusion as ever, we are genuinely trying to keep our minds on the job in hand and to prepare for what is to come. Until the situation clears and plans are reviewed and confirmed, we are therefore steadily improving on what we are currently providing in FYROM, and are preparing ourselves and our vehicles and installations for future operations.

On a lighter note, we are also now far enough into the tour to begin the R&R plot for all ranks. The R&R flights begin next week and will follow an agreed schedule of leave over the next three months. Most, if not all personnel seem reasonably happy with their allocated dates and will each receive 15 days including travelling time. Further details on individual R&R dates are available from RHQ or from the Families Office.

SKOPJE DIARY: 3 APRIL - 10 APRIL 1999

Saturday 3 April: The surge of refugees into the border areas of Kosovo is now on a far greater scale than had ever been anticipated. Yugoslavian Army and police action against the ethnic Albanian peoples of Kosovo is causing a humanitarian crisis which the bordering countries are simply unable to cope with. At this stage, it seems clear that if NATO troops on the ground in Skopje and the surrounding areas do not immediately cut through the 'red tape' that slows down so much of the work with local Government agencies here, the emergency situation will lead to catastrophe for many of the ethnic Albanian refugees, especially those with young families. All NATO troops in FYROM are now placed under the Force HQ for the coordination of humanitarian relief. The FYROM Government needs all the assistance it can receive, and it will clearly take some time for any international relief affort to swing into action. All units are asked to provide working parties to set up emergency refugee camps near the border. 16 Signal Regiment is able to help with drivers to move tentage and basic essentials forward out of NATO stocks in theatre; men and women (who worked 24 hours a day at this stage) to erect tents and shelters, dig toilet pits, and dish out food and water; and with additional communications cover for the camps themselves. Everyone caught up in this work will agree that it was not only an eye opener for those who had not seen such large numbers of destitute people before, but it brought home the essential nature of why we are here in FYROM as part of a peace effort for Kosovo itself. The experience made for an over-riding sombre mood among all ranks involved. We were mainly involved at the Brazda Camp, which by the end of the week was sheltering over 30,000 people, though in pretty basic conditions.

Sunday 4 April: It is assessed that there are already about 100,000 'displaced persons' on the move and who need assistance. Some nations, especially in Europe and in the USA are looking at flying a number out as refugees. The niceties of whether you are a 'displaced person' or a 'refugee' are of course quite lost on the people affected, who are just trying to get out of Kosovo and over the FRY/FYROM border or into Albania. It is at this time that the FYROM Government decides it cannot cope and closes its border with the FRY: world reaction is one of shock and disbelief. The FYROM Government also faces the problem that it is itself none too secure politically or economically, and with a large percentage of its population being of Serbian origin we must remember that popular feeling within FYROM is not totally in favour of NATO. The population of FYROM is not large, and an inflow of over 100,000 refugees approximates to about the same as having over seven million surge into the UK over a period of less than a week. At the same time, NATO air strikes continue against FRY forces in Kosovo and in the FRY itself. Movement within the Skopje capital area is made more difficult by a more obvious anti-NATO showing by some of the locals. Spitting on soldiers and their vehicles is common, and pelting with stones, rotting fruit and so on (one inventive soul managed to pelt Cpl Biddle's landrover with a considerable amount of cow dung as she escorted the Brigadier on one of his sorties around the outlying detachments!) The stoning can be particularly violent, however, with blocks of concrete and bricks being dropped off bridges onto oncoming vehicles: no-one from 16 Signal Regiment has been hurt so far, but being 'bricked' by groups of youths is commonplace and we have to be careful. All our vehicles are only allowed out in pairs at this stage, and there is no movement after dark.

Monday 5 April: The main effort continues to be the coordination of, and support to, the humanitarian effort. Border restrictions are at last lifted by the FYROM Government, and the trickle of refugees turns to a flood. We are giving regular assistance to the refugee camps, as are all UK units. The weather is very warm, and temperatures are climbing daily. This makes the camps less than pleasant at times, but the general mood of the refugees is one of grateful thanks: they are happy to be safe, and their main concern is now to contact the rest of their families.

Tuesday 6 April: The FYROM Government is under more severe pressure from within and tries to make additional security deals with NATO. It also wants promises of economic aid from the West. The NATO Secretary General refuses to make any compromise on the mission of the NATO troops in FYROM, and again states that they (ie: we) are only present to enable any future peace agreement for Kosovo. Plans are being made to move refugees out of the assembly areas at up to 4,000 a day: the UK is expecting to take 6,000 or so. Families will only be moved, however, once everyone has been identified, as there is already confusion with individuals being separated from one another. President Milosevic declares a 'unilateral cease-fire' at 2000hrs, and this is equally unilaterally rejected by NATO. Serbian forces appear to be scaling down their operations in Kosovo considerably. If one wanted to sum up President Milosevic's position one might analyse it as being:

> 'Military and demographic aims complete, with the ethnic Albanian military and political organisations in Kosovo smashed, and the make-up of the population in the province changed to eliminate or drive out all non-Serbian communities.'

One might be justified in thinking that now would be the time for the FRY to try cynically to come back to the negotiating table and try to make a deal with NATO.

Here in FYROM, some adjustment is being made to the Force mission with regard to supporting the humanitarian assistance to refugees being given by the UNHCR and by FYROM itself. This last point is important: NATO is simply not here to carry out the aid mission but it clearly must help as far as it is within its means and capabilities so to do. The Force Commander's main priority, however, remains self-protection of the Force and all its elements.

Back at the Brazda Camp, 27,000 people are now under canvas; mainly women and children and the old. Sanitation and refuse disposal is a real problem. Although some of the refugees have serious health problems we are assured by our medics that there is no danger to our people working in their midst. We could be forgiven, however, for being grateful for all the jabs we had before coming out here! Work parties from the Regiment continue to volunteer to work in the camps, and for most this means going there when not on shift or tasked to something else: for many this equals work all day on their communications vehicle etc and then work in the refugee camp for half the night. The make-up of the families is wide-ranging, with lots of blue collar and white collar (middle class to you and me) workers among them. These are not simply eastern European peasants thrown out of their farms and villages, but relatively prosperous people whose world has been shattered and whose men-folk, in the main, have disappeared. They quite rightly fear the worst.

Wednesday 7 April: The only addition to the Milosevic peace proposal is that now he says he will withdraw his troops if NATO pull out of FYROM. This is rejected by NATO. The UK and the US reiterate that they will not commit ground troops into Kosovo until invited to do so under the provisions of an internationally agreed peace plan. Political pressure is maintained on the FRY to withdraw all troops from Kosovo and allow the refugees to return peacefully to their homes. NATO is still firm on requiring a peace settlement. Although another NATO force (the AMF(L)) is to be put into Albania to assist with the relief effort, NATO is keen to cut away from this work in FYROM and allow the Force to concentrate again on its original mission with regard to Kosovo. As far as the outside world is concerned, the media are in general increasingly sceptical about the political and military aims of the NATO Governments, with the notable exception of articles about the NATO troops already here (too much good work already done). With the Orthodox Church celebration of Easter imminent the alert state in FYROM remains high, however, and incidents against NATO troops here are expected to increase over the holiday period. The refugee camps are full to overflowing, with Brazda remaining the biggest in FYROM at over 30,000. There is some confusion as to how many refugees remain trapped at the border crossing point but the UNHCR reports that it is mainly clear and that the flow is reducing. The priorities remain food and medicine, with the good weather making the need for additional covered areas perhaps less critical. The Royal Engineers who have led the way throughout in building Brazda Camp are 'clearly exhausted by their efforts. They and every other soldier who came to help them deserve tremendous recognition for doing so much with so little in such a short space of time.

Friday 9 April: The Kosovo crisis is discussed at a summit in Washington, and a number of possible solutions are being voiced in the media. These include some form of UN protectorate, perhaps using the currently deployed NATO troops. Russia is increasingly vocal in siding against NATO in reaching a settlement in the region. There is now no significant movement of refugees into FYROM from Kosovo. Bombing continues, though bad weather seems to be making completion of missions difficult.

Saturday 10 April: Media coverage of the continued air bombing campaign is extensive, and many more targets in both Kosovo and the FRY are being attacked. Belgrade has now stopped all domestic comment on the crisis and has banned BBC/CNN coverage and reporting of events. It is anticipated that Milosevic will try to push out some new form of peace deal over the weekend. The Head of the UNHCR asks for the air lift of refugees out of FYROM and Albania to stop. The UNHCR aim is to return all Kosovars to the province to rebuild their lives there and not abroad. After a week of intense activity, the total number of refugees moved through FYROM is 124,000: 60,000 have been housed with families in FYROM, 10,000 have moved on to Albania, 5,000 to Greece, 2,000 to Turkey, 2,000 into Europe and 44,000 remain in the border camps. It is expected that the UNHCR will take over the camps from NATO over the next week, and though KFOR will inevitably retain some sort of residual liability for providing emergency assistance, our part in this phase seems to be largely over.

4 ARMOURED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (204)

A SHORT NOTE FROM MACEDONIA - by LCpl Lee Slater

The beginning of 1999 saw the first opportunity of a JRRF deployment to Kosovo following widespread media coverage and growing tension in the area. With just six days notice to move the Squadron went into overdrive to prepare for the possible deployment to the Balkans and then completed a two day training package. The ranges were particularly realistic as it was freezing and snowed all day and we could not see the 300m point for the APWT.

Once confirmation was received, the R Group left the following day with ten vehicles and crews and Bde Staff. They flew into theatre to set up a forward headquarters that was co-located with the National Support Element and the KORBR in the Panorama Hotel, Skopje. The locals seemed quite friendly with the odd few trying either to clean your vehicle windows or trying to sell you something as you stopped at the traffic lights. From the Panorama we were off South to the Macedonia Hotel just South of Veles. It proved to be a much better location with the exception of the accommodation.

The Squadron rebros (augmented by 3 DSR) have spread to the four winds and in some cases remote locations. Initially, when the weather was good this was not a problem, but then it snowed…SSgt Norm Finnegan was the first of a long list of people to get bogged in, leaving Sig 'Taff' Roberts to spend the night with a ferocious dog – or was it a wolf….2Lt Dave Hill followed suit and after seven hours of fun was recovered by Cpl Sammy Parker and LCpl 'Snoopy' Swift from the LAD. 2Lt Hill's second stab at the mud/wolf equation was more fruitful with only two hours of digging and self recovery. The OC and Sig 'Mal' Pattinson out did everyone with a low level Survival and Recovery Exercise overnight – they never actually found the Rebro.

With more of the Squadron flowing into theatre we were almost at full strength by mid-March, but the workload did not ease up at all. With much of the planning complete it was time to practice some of the scenarios we could face on crossing the border. A five day exercise on the Krivolak Training Area gave us that opportunity, with various configurations of the Headquarters and we did it twice for good measure! From Veles it was back North on the low-loaders (which were really reliable) to Petrovac, where we set up in a field location with cam nets, cookhouses and shellscrapes – next to the French who prefer to be a little more casual with BBQ every night!!

There have been a number of new arrivals to bolster and replace members of the Squadron. New to the Squadron to mention just a few, Capt Paul Buck and Cpl Robertson join us straight from Bosnia, 2Lt Paul McTurk still hung over from his Troop Commanders' Course and SSgt Johnson from 3 Bn REME. Straight from the factory Sig McIntyre, Sig Sheppard and Sig Cowan (see you out here). We welcome assistance from 3 DSR, but can you stop sending Sig Catney so much post as there is no room for anything else on the resup runs!!

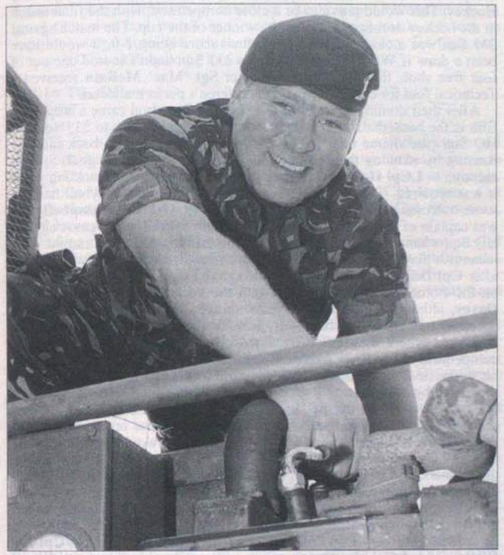
ABERDEEN SOLDIER COMMUNICATES ALONG THE KOSOVAN BORDER

Cpl Kenny Macpherson (27) from Aberdeen is helping NATO troops to communicate with each other in Macedonia, as the Kosovan crisis continues to hold the world's attention. Kenny is a member of 16 Sig Regt, normally based near Mönchengladbach in Germany, but currently providing the secure communications for HQ Allied Rapid Reaction Corps around Skopje. Kenny and his small team of soldiers deploy in their mobile communications vehicles to hill top sites where they stay for four or five weeks at a time. 'Although we are re-supplied with food and fuel every one or two days, we can only allow each soldier to be away from the vehicles for one day a week,' said Kenny. 'On that day, we can get away for a good shower, a decent meal and a chance to phone home.'



Kenny's crew is working even harder than usual at the moment because one of the Signallers is helping to put up extra tents in Brazda refugee camp. Kenny will be out in Macedonia for another six months but he is eagerly looking forward to his mid-tour leave in May.

Since he joined the Army after leaving Hazelhead Academy in 1988, Kenny has served in Bosnia, Germany and Cyprus as well as his UK tours. His parents, Bill and Margaret still live in Aberdeen but his wife, Lisa, is at their home in Germany.

MULTINATIONAL STAFF OF HEADQUARTERS ALLIED COMMAND EUROPE (ACE) RAPID REACTION CORPS (ARRC) TRAIN FOR DEPLOYMENT TO MACEDONIA

by Nigel Sargeant

When HQ ARRC deployed to the 'FYROM' (Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia) several weeks ago, under the command of Lt Gen Sir Mike Jackson, months of detailed staff planning was rapidly put into practice as HQ staff moved out to 'theatre'. Some 1,000 members of HQ ARRC and its supporting elements are currently deployed to the Balkans. However, with the situation in the area highly volatile and unpredictable, the planners' own military skills need to be just as efficient as their staff work, and military refresher training has therefore been high on the agenda for HQ personnel preparing to join their colleagues in the Balkans.

To facilitate this, Arsbeck Ranges, nestling in peaceful countryside near the HQ at Rheindahlen, has been a hive of activity as staff officers of various nationalities put pens to one side to update themselves rapidly on the kind of situations they might encounter. People taking part include British, Germans, Americans, Italians and Dutch. The one day package is purpose-designed for the Balkans, as US Maj John Phelan, Training Co-ordinator for HQ ARRC, explained,

'As we prepare for a possible peacekeeping mission in Kosovo, it's vital we know what to expect. This 'theatre-specific' training takes in key areas of knowledge, including first aid, mine awareness, weapon handling, battle tactics and armoured fighting vehicle recognition. While each of the 17 nations with ARRC-assigned units carries out its own training, I'm responsible for training the HQ staff themselves. The beauty of this training is its commonality - for example, with all countries using standard NATO 5.56 mm ammunition, people can train with their own weapons if required.'

The training is run by Support Battalion HQ ARRC with help from instructors of other nationalities, under the watchful eye of Chief Instructor WO2 Kevin Bloodworth. Each course starts with a short familiarisation session on military vehicle recognition, run by Sgt Paul Williams. Paul said, 'People are likely to see a whole range of East European military vehicles, so it's important they can correctly identify them.' Mine awareness is also vital knowledge, and Sgt Mike Tarbox, a US Army Engineer, was on hand to show staff the kind of mines likely to be around and the all important Standard Operational Procedures if they are encountered.

Equally important is Battlefield First Aid and a mock explosion resulting in some impressively made-up 'casualties', with all manner of injuries, put people's skills to the test. The 'victims' - first aid experts Cpl Darryl Cook and Sapper Richard Barber, both of Support Battalion HQ ARRC - made amazing recoveries between each Exercise! 'The various nationalities have very similar first aid techniques so we expect our treatment to be fairly consistent, and indeed it is,' said Darryl. 'Everyone speaks good English, so there's no problem on the instructional side.'

Lt Col Dieter Jaksik of the Bundeswehr, HQ ARRC Fire Co-ordination Branch Plans Officer, expressed himself well satisfied with the day's training: I've only just been posted to HQ ARRC but could go out to the Balkans at any time. This has been a superb chance to get to know my international colleagues - far quicker than in an office!'

Keeping Services' families in touch

SWIFTCALL, Britain's leading low cost international telephone calls company, has linked up with NAAFI to help cut phone bills for Services' families.

Swiftcall Cards, which can save up to 40 or 50% of the cost of an overseas call, are on sale at 180 NAAFI stores around the UK.

Andrew Fray, Director of the London-based telecommunications company, says: "These cards bring enormous savings to families who want to keep in touch with overseas Services' personnel."

SWIFTCALL sells more than 1.5 million cards each year in the UK since its phone card launch operation in 1993. Available at over 7,000 newsagents around the country they can now be purchased at NAAFI stores in denominations of £5, £10 and £20.

Says Mr Fray: "We keep people in touch on a global scale. With rates as low as 10p per minute from the UK to the United States you can have a three-minute chat for around the price of a stamp. Our cards can save money on phone bills - money that could be used to make even more phone calls. I think Swiftcall provides an important social service. We help people afford international calls, and to talk for longer to people they want, or need, to talk to. In addition to cards we also offer residential accounts for those based in the UK or Ireland and Global Cards for those calling back to the UK."

SWIFTCALL is simplicity itself. Each card contains a secret pin number entered before dialling the international phone number - a simple process that can mean dramatic savings.

To open residential accounts or to find out about Global Cards call 0800 769 0800 (UK) or +44 800 769 0800 from overseas.

CO'S CUP - 10 MARCH 1999

On Wednesday 10 March 1999, the Squadron competed against HQ Sqn and 233 Sqn in the CO's Cup Potted Sports, with Basketball, Football, Volleyball and Tug of War being contested. It turned out to be a one-sided affair with the Squadron running out easy winners with HQ Sqn second and 233 Sqn in third place.

233 Sqn pushed 225 Sqn all the way in the football, with the result of the final game between 233 Sqn and HQ Sqn deciding overall winners. 233 Sqn had to beat HQ Sqn 10-0, in order to win on goal difference. The game was a bit of a thriller for 233 Sqn and the watching 225 Sqn team, as the score reached 9-0 with only seconds to go. Luckily for 225 Sqn a shot at the death was saved by the HQ Sqn goalkeeper and the first points of the day went to 225 Sqn. The basketball was hard fought, though with the height of Capt Yardley and the agility of SSgt (FofS) Mick Swift, 225 Sqn came out victorious once again. The volleyball team was very strong and although seeming to start slowly in every match, sharked their way to convincing wins in all four matches. The tug of war was scheduled to last all afternoon, but with a Regimental rugby match having to be played that afternoon, and a glaring Adjutant applying some subtle pressure, the event was decided in double quick time. Each Squadron won a match and the event was declared a draw between all three Squadrons. The CO had planned his day to make visits to each sport at some time during the day. Unfortunately for Sgt Jimmy Fox who organised the tug of war, the CO turned up not knowing the event had been completed. Jimmy is still in hiding!!!! Everyone retired to the Peake Inn for the presentation of the cup by the CO, Lt Col Rafferty to SSgt (FofS) Swift on behalf of the Squadron.

MERCURY CUP POTTED SPORTS - 18 MARCH 1999

The following Thursday, 18 March 1999, the Squadron turned out to compete for the Mercury Cup in Basketball, Football, Volleyball and Hockey. This would prove to be a close competition, with the final match in the hockey deciding who was the winner of the cup. The match against 233 Sqn was a close affair with the final score being 1-0. It would have been a draw if WO2 (SSM) Day from 233 Sqn hadn't scored one out of four free shots they were awarded after Sgt 'Mac' McBain received a Technical foul for commenting on the referee's performance.

After their dominance in the CO's Cup the Squadron came a surprising fifth in the basketball, after losing both their league games to 233 Sqn and HQ Sqn (the shame of it!). The football team brought us back into the running by winning their competition without conceding a goal. Special mention to LCpl Helen Waites for putting in some quality tackling when it was required. The afternoon events of hockey and volleyball had the same outcome as the mornings' positions. Sgt Graeme Campbell who was captain of the hockey team felt they were robbed in the game against HQ Sqn when scoring a goal that was then disallowed by the umpire. This meant we played against 8 Bde for fifth and sixth place which we won 1-0 after Cpl Dean Lenton sacrificed his skin by sliding along the astro-turf on his stomach to knock the ball into the back of the goal. SSgt Paul Davey, although getting on in years showed he's not lost his blinding speed to make some telling runs, over five yards. The volleyball team continued where they left off the week before, winning the volleyball competition easily. They made the Sqn Comd, Maj Whimpenny, sweat a bit in the final match though, by leaving it to the last few seconds to win the match by one point.

The Squadron had finished its participation in the Competition and had accrued 16pts. The final scoreboard indicated that the result of the final match in the hockey between HQ Sqn and 39 Bde would decide who the Mercury Cup winners would be. If HQ Sqn won the match they would be the winners, and if 39 Bde won then 225 Sqn would win. Needless to say half the Squadron made their way up to the astro-turf to cheer on 39 Bde. In a close match which could have gone either way it wasn't until the final minute or two that 39 Bde scored the goal that would mean 225 Sqn would be crowned Mercury Cup Potted Sports Champions for 1998/99. Cpl Jay Waites and LCpl Jo Quinn were presented with the football and volleyball cups respectively. LCpl Jo Quinn, on behalf of 225 Sqn was presented the Mercury Cup Potted Sports trophy by Comd Comms Northern Ireland, Lt Col Rafferty.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS 233 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd — Maj R. P. Giles
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Day

The pace of Squadron life has not slowed down during this current cease-fire. The role out of new equipment, the Y2K problem, and the endless round of reports and interviews for the Investing in People have made the last few months long ones. Another rain forest has been destroyed in the Squadron's preparation for Environmental Health Inspections and IIP inspections all which have gone, too many to mention, but the OC wishes to thank all those that have moved on for all their hard work, welcomes all those new arrivals and hopes that the challenges of life in the Province are all that they expected.

BT SWIMATHON 1999 - 20 MARCH

The Squadron put forward five teams in this year's BT Swimathon, held at Palace Barracks Holywood, to raise money for the Charities NSPCC and The Royal Scottish Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Each team swam 5,000 metres and raised approximately £600 for both these worthwhile charities. The swim was held in a cold pool at varying times beginning at 0800hrs. The task was made all the more difficult as the Warrant Officer's and SNCO's of HQNI and 15 Sig Regt had dined out the RSM the previous night. Thanks goes to all those willing volunteers who took time out to raise money for those not as well off as others.

ROMEO TROOP - by Cpl Richardson

Life has been as hectic as ever for the most overworked Troop in Province since our return from Christmas/New Year leave, which has seen several arrivals and departures within the Troop. Firstly we would like to welcome Cpl Dean Rudd from Sunny Bulford, Cpl Craig Richardson all the way from over the road from arch enemies 39 Bde, LCpl John Connolly and LCpl Russell Hamilton who both arrived into the Troop straight from the factory. On the farewell side it is with best wishes and a few tears that we say goodbye and good luck to Cpl Ian Galloway off to Kosovo with 604 Sig Tp where he will no doubt give the Chief of Staff handy tips on how to win the battle. We would also like to wish Sgt 'Mac' McKenna and Cpl Andy Webb all the very best to them and to their families on their return to civvy street and wish them every success in their new chosen careers. The Surv Section are still cleaning up the evidence from their leaving bash as this goes to press.

EXERCISE GALLOWAY CREAM 1999 - by Sgt Sorley

Ex Galloway Cream is the GOC's annual Scientific Research Exercise which is used to gather scientific data under realistic operational conditions. The Exercise took place over a ten day period in Kirkcudbright Training Area. Two members of the Ops Sect specially nominated by the YofS for their expertise, experience and adaptability to overcome the most difficult of situations deployed to take the role of ECM observers monitoring movement of the troops on the ground.

Among many scientists from DERA/SCIAD Sgt Sorley and Cpl Sutherland excelled in both the working and social aspects of the Exercise. Deploying as honorary civilians, both members of the Troop, played the role of monitoring/advising the troops on the ground and mothering the civilians, ensuring that they were able to survive the overnight stay in the adverse weather conditions which was intended to be a tactical phase. However, it ended up like Blackpool illuminations. A good time was had by all and many a friend was made, as was an extremely large hotel bill which was paid for by Excon. Ex Galloway Cream 2000 is already being looked forward to.

Tp SSgt — SSgt Marlowe

India Tp would like to let all readers of The Wire know that we do still exist, but, due to being extremely busy (as always!) we've been unable to submit any articles for a while. There have been quite a few new arrivals, the Troop would like to welcome; SSgt Marlowe, Cpl Briggs, Cpl Cumberland, Cpl Johnston, Cpl Martin-Woodgate, Cpl Stoneman, LCpl Evans, LCpl Meeds and Sig Waring.

Now to the new arrivals of a different kind. Congratulations to Cpl Paddy Briggs and his family on the birth of their son Philip, also congratulations to LCpl Evans and his family on the birth of their daughter Megan and last but not least congratulations to Sig Whitehead and his family on the birth of their daughter Jenny.

The Troop would like to thank SSgt (FofS) Paton, SSgt Marlowe, Sgt Strugnell, Cpl Gaber and Cpl Martin-Woodgate for taking part in the BT Swimming Challenge on Saturday 20 March 1999 and helping to raise money for the RSPCC. The Troop also helped to raise money for Comic Relief. Personnel paid £2 in order to wear civilian clothes to work.

The Troop sends fond farewell to Cpl Bryan, Cpl Fisher and Cpl Anderson. Good luck in your new units. Also, to SSgt Corrigan not only leaving the unit but leaving the Army, all the best in Civ-Div Frank.

THE DYING TRADE

Well it is time for The Wire notes once again from COMMCEN Northern Ireland. Apologies to those of you waiting for the concluding part of the Contact, Mouse Wait out! story but not sure of how much passed the censors, so once I have this information I will continue with this gripping tale. Not a lot has happened in the COMMCEN, except to say we are losing more and more Handbags to Class 3 Tele Op (TG)s now there is an improvement I hear some of you cry! This on one hand is a God send and on the other a nightmare, as some of our Supervisors have never worked so hard in getting it wrong. Most of the time has been spent teaching the new soldiers how things are done in a working unit. Big slap on the backs all round for the hard work put in by everyone. COMMCEN, with a little help from SHQ, won the Games Night organised by TM Troop. Some outstanding work done by Sigs Nigel Green, Martin Hannam and Andy Pennock, saw them see off the rest of the Squadron with ease. An excellent start to a new unit. All their confidentials have now gone from Grade E to a low D. Good work lads. So lets say hello to our new members, all from School:

Sig Joe Gorman	Sig Nigel Green
Sig Pippa Henderson	Sig Jenny Read
Sig Rodders Rodwell	Sig Lynda Shield
Sig S and M Staples-Miles	Sig Tracey Walker

We have to say a sad farewell to a few who no doubt have spent many a night crying on leaving such a friendly Troop; Cpl Caroline McMahon, Sig Nat Gooch and Sig Jo Leyland have moved on to the AGC and we wish them all the best. LCpl Martin Campion has been let loose in the world of 30 Sig Regt, this may come back to haunt APC Glasgow one day. Sadly we have to say goodbye to LCpl 'Thommo' Thomson to civvy street where we hope he will make his mark. On that note it is goodbye from the busiest COMMCEN in the Province (bet that gets a few letters to the Ed).

TRANSPORT MAINTENANCE TROOP
Tp Comd — SSgt (FofS) 'Taff' Maul
Tp SSgt — SSgt Shaun Cook

A busy period for the Troop and it has seen a fair amount of changes. Firstly we would like to congratulate several personnel on promotion; well done to SSgt (FofS) 'Taff' Maul on promotion to WO2. Also congratulations go to Dave Hansen and Ian Selkirk both on promotion to Sgt and finally to Glynn Clarke, Omar Walshe and Ian Nichols on passing their Class 2 examinations and promotion to Corporal. Well done to all. On the new arrivals front we welcome to our fold Cpl's 'Spike' Milligan, Sunnaie Hardy, Steve Whipp, Ash Wood, Joe Smith and also to LCpl's Kesher Bryan, Paul Harris, Ade Field and Dave Knox. Welcome to one and all. Obviously with manning almost at 100% this has to be countered by posting personnel out so that we don't become too used to working with a full complement of manpower!! To that end we are saying farewell to Sgt's Paul Hughes off to RSIT (boo hiss) and Lee Robinson off to civvy street also Cpl's Frank Henderson off on his class 1 and Steve Cator off to civvy street.

Coming to the end of the Training year has seen the Troop SSgt and the Squadron busy getting personnel through their annual ATD's culminating in several A Scale parades (yep that's right parades in NI) for BFT's and CFT's. It was quite refreshing for the Troop to actually take part in physical training with other individuals prised from India, Romeo and COMMCEN Troop - obviously it took several hours for these Troops' eyes to become accustomed to daylight but once they did a fine sight was beheld of the Squadron in full combats bashing out the miles around camp.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON
Sqn Comd — Maj John Mullender
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Steve Russell

The Squadron bids a fond farewell to the outgoing 2IC/MTO/Fams Offr/OIC PRI, Capt Jeff Williams off to be a 'woolly hat' (his words) at 30 CTT in deepest darkest Wales, thanks for all your hard work. A warm welcome to Capt John Howell-Walmsley newly arrived to take on the post of many hats, we hope you have an enjoyable tour.

MERCURY CUP - POTTED SPORTS

For a Squadron of the size of ours, the task of putting so many sportsmen and women on the various pitches for this event, whilst continuing to provide those elements of Comd Support required by Comd Comms, is not an easy one. It is to the credit of the various team skippers (Cpl Andy Howe - football, Cpl (now Sgt) Kelly Tickner - volleyball, LCpl Lee Forrest - basketball and Sig 'Mac' McFarlane - hockey) that the Squadron performed so well. Particular mention should go to the basketball team in winning their competition outright. After a tense hockey semi-final win on penalty flicks against 8 Bde, a win in the final against 39 Bde would have resulted in the Squadron winning the competition outright. A close, hard fought match ending in a 1 - 0 defeat meant a final position of third, a commendable effort.

REGIMENTAL MOTOR TRANSPORT – by Cpl Ash Ingham

Early January saw a very busy period for the MT with a re-location to our new home whilst still dealing with the never ending transport requests from both the Regiment and Lisburn Stn. Thanks go out to all the MT lads for the extra effort required during an already busy period. Congratulations to Sig Huggett on successfully completing his Royal Signals Leadership Course and who now feels he should be commanding his own Regiment. Not just yet eh? Farewell to the outgoing MTO, Capt Jeff Williams who leaves us for the less stressful life to OC 30 CTT (or maybe not....). Welcome to the new MTO (amongst other things) Capt John Howell-Walmsley. Good Luck to both.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

It has been a busy period within the QM's Dept with the Regt undergoing it's Logistic Support Inspection whilst continuing to provide support to both the HQ and the Regiment in fulfilling their Operational roles. However, all work and no play makes for a sad and boring life. The 'Stacker', the dept bowling team is meeting with varying degrees of success in the Garrison bowling league. Sig 'Kingpin' McFarlane showed the way, unfortunately it was in the direction of the gutter, keep trying 'Kingpin'!!! It is one of the strongest teams in the league (because it is holding all the other teams up). On the sporting front congratulations go to Cpl Danny Steele, who, after failing the eyesight test on his pulheems review decided to become a football referee. After dedicating his service fully this season he has been selected as Army referee of the year, a very prestigious award.

RSM — WO1 (RSM) C. G. McGinley

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

Welcome to the new CO, Lt Col Roberts and his wife Angela, and Capt Al Hoensch who has just taken over as QM. Farewell to Lt Col Nigel Beacom and Isobel, good luck in the future and we all hope to see them again soon. Also goodbye to Capt Dave Chrystal and Suzi, and good luck to Maj Ron Chisholm and Marion as he leaves the Army after 39 years (and three tours at 40 Sig Regt). We have also said farewell to Capt Neil Turnbull as he heads off to 14 Sig Regt (EW), good luck in the future.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to WO1 (FofS) Phil Cooper who was selected for commissioning in March and will leave us in May this year.

EXERCISE SCOTTIE FINN 24 JANUARY – 7 FEBRUARY 1999

Once again the Squadron took to the hills in the Scottish Highlands for what has become an annual event on the Squadron calendar. We were based at the Stopover Hostel in Grantown on Spey, some eight miles NE of Aviemore.

Day One saw the QM(V) Capt Maurice Stanley, WO2 (SSM) George Cook, SSgt (SQMS) Ed Hedley set off as the advance party to set up camp and recce the slopes for the arrival of the main body in the early hours of Thursday morning.

L-R: Sigs Whiteside R, Robb, Dougan J, Dougan LA, Whiteside M.

Day Two saw the first tentative steps made by some of our beginners on the ski slopes around the Cairngorm. Our instructor was baffled by the sheer enthusiasm, particularly as most had only had four hours sleep. The senior instructor, WO2 Mark Henderson, who is the Master Chef in Ballykelly was tested to the limits of his instructional ability by the Dougan girls, Lesley Anne and Janine, who were more worried about the way they looked than whether or not they would get down the mountain in one piece!

However, his patience was rewarded when Lesley Anne was awarded the best student by all instructors, well done. It must be said that Sgt Pete Youll tried hard to hold onto his title, but unlucky.

Day Three saw yet another snow storm bringing even better conditions, even Cpl 'Windy' Millar was beginning to get the hang of things. He has even promised to put his name down for next years trip. With the ski tests out of the way it was back to the Hostel for the 'Squadron Dinner Night' and the presentation of the certificates. It was rumoured that the TA RQMS, WO2 Steve Delaney even managed to stay awake long enough to receive his award and the OC, Maj Victor Beggs, is hoping to attend an instructor's course in the near future.

A special mention must also go to our admin team of Sgt Bobby Balance and 'Spud' Murphy for a job well done.

SSM — WO2 (SSM) Irvine

RSIT

1999 began for 66 Sqn with the usual preparation for the annual RSIT inspection which took place this year during 6-8 February. After a lot of hard work and after a satisfactory inspection was achieved we were looking forward to going on our annual ski trip to Aviemore. Rumour has it that there is good and bad news for next year's RSIT. The bad news is that RSIT is cancelled (just kidding), the good news is that we could be skiing in the Balkans!

EXERCISE FOURTH FALL FINN

Ex Fourth Fall Finn saw the Squadron go off on their annual skiing exercise to ski the Cairngorms near Aviemore, and found for the first time in four years of trying an abundance of snow covering the mountains (hurrah!). Organised by WO2 (SSM) Derek 'Scarface' Irvine who for the second year in a row was injured by SSgt Mark 'GBH' Barrass. Thanks Mark. The Squadron benefited from the excellent instruction that was provided by WO2 Mick Kemp, the master driver from 39 Inf Bde and WO2 Mark Henderson, who is the master chef at Ballykelly. Some advice given out was that Cpl Chris 'Kamikazi' Collins should go slower, Sig Robert 'Slowcoach' Whiteside should go faster, Sgt Janet 'poser' Coates should practice her ups and downs, SSgt (SQMS) Geoff 'Bambi on ice' McClean should stick to canoeing, and Sig Ian 'ribs' McKeown should put on some weight. SSgt Tommy 'McLate' Johnston managed to get his finger out for once and achieved the most improved student award. Although it must be said that the instructors themselves managed to benefit from the Exercise as they were given a few lessons in the art of partying. As usual good PR was achieved once the language barrier was overcome by mixing with the locals, something that may come in handy on our future travels. Fingers crossed we'll be back soon.

PROMOTIONS

Congratulations to LCpl Stephen Hanna, Cpl Anne Collins, Cpl Suzanne Small and Sgt Tommy McCardle on their recent promotions.

CORPSAAM 1999

The Regiment was represented by 66 Sqn sending a team to Bisley for the Corp SAAM competition which took place over 9-11 April. The team continued the success of recent years in this competition by coming third overall out of a field of 17. Sig Ian McKeown won the top young soldiers award. Taking part were Cpl Colin Gordon, Cpl Alec Jones, LCpl Johnny Booth, LCpl Stephen Whiteside, and Sig Ian McKown with SSgt 'BJ' Finister and LCpl Holterman firing as individuals. The competition is getting harder each year as more teams are entering, so well done everyone. Thanks must go to SSgt 'BJ' Finister for organising the administration for the team.

69 (NORTH IRISH HORSE) SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd — Maj W. B. Houston
SSM — WO2 (SSM) McKnight

Over January to March the Squadron has sent six recruits on their recruits courses, five R Signals and one REME. All passed. 13 March was TA National Open Door Day, a PR event to let locals know that we are still alive and kicking after SDR. The TA Centre was open and we also laid on two stands in local towns. Pipe Maj John Taylor took six members of the Regimental Pipes and Drums to Benbecula to join the rest of the Royal Signals Pipes and Drums taking part in the closing down ceremony of the Royal Signals detachment on the island.

EXERCISE SPRING EAGLE

At the end of March the Regiment played an active part in the 11 Sig Bde Ex Spring Eagle. 69 Sqn provided the HF RATT links to the mainland, working to 94 (Barking Yeomanry) Sig Sqn in Windsor. Five FFRs deployed with the Regiment providing a command net in and around the Belfast area.

CONGRATULATIONS

Go to Cpl Ian and LCpl Joanne Palmer on the birth of their baby son and to LCpl Louise Kitson on the birth of her baby.

FAREWELLS

In February we said farewell to LCpl Anne Marie Cleminson who has gone off to join the RAF, and at the end of March we also said farewell to Capt Neil Turnbull, the Squadron 2IC who has been posted to 14 Sig Regt (EW). (We hope the running will be as good there!)

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

The Admin Office in Armagh continues to be as busy as ever, with quite a few comings and goings within the office. A warm welcome goes out to LCpl Caroline Johnstone and Pte Jenny 'Have I told you about my Citroen Saxo' Tipper, both posted in from the Brigade HQ. Gone, but not forgotten, we say goodbye to Cpl Scott Maynard to 1 QLR and LCpl 'Bushy' Bushell to the 'Y List'. Thanks very much for all your help. LCpl Johnstone has just departed for a month on her Class 1 course, and going the other way, Pte Jenny Tipper has just returned from her Class 1 course having obtained second place in the class - well done you.

The Admin Office is still working against a constant mountain of paperwork with the Chief Clerk, SSgt Rob 'Because my mum told me so' Evans being continually pursued by Capt Paul 'Would you like fries with that' Connors wanting to know why there is sugar in his coffee. I am sure that we'll get it right one day sir! Pte Mandy Clerk is continually wrestling with her never ending medal and posting lists and Cpl Andy Sneddon is busily preparing himself for civilian life with various courses and briefings. With all that, plus house and job hunting, he hardly has time to work!

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd — 2Lt F. D. Guthrie
Tp SSgt — SSgt R. Wallace

Comms Section: 'The Senders'

The operators of Comms Tp have thankfully been quiet for the last few months. We welcome to the Troop LCpl Kerry 'Sporty Spice' Davis from sunny Bulford, LCpl Andy Taylor from 30 Sig Regt and Sig Dicko 'Silver Fox' Dickenson from 7 Sig Regt, Germany. Unfortunately Sig Krissy Strain has left us for pastures new at 7 Bde - all the best. LCpl Karen 'Ginkstef' Glenister and Sig Emma 'all Emmas are evil' Jones are soon to begin their conversion courses for the AGC as military clerks and will leave us in May. Once again, Comms Tp was well represented in the Northern Ireland Mercury Cup Potted Sports Competition. Special mention has to go out to Cpl Charlie Henson who, clad in brand new sports kit, was overlooked in every event. SSgt Bob Wallace should not be forgotten, he managed three minutes on the football pitch and failed to gain a touch. Better luck next time chaps!

Technical Maintenance Section: 'The Menders'

TM Sect have recently been the proud recipients of a special award from the Advanced School of Motoring. Congratulations go out to Cpl Gary 'Gaz' Hobson, Cpl Cecilia 'Cec' Mason, Cpl Dean 'Deano' Morgan and LCpl Craig 'Jiz' Stainer for their continued efforts. We welcome Sig Jim Wright who joins us from 220 Sig Sqn and goodbye to our chief air-ground surveillance engineer, Cpl Tony Raby who has left us for 19 Mech Bde. Finally our congratulations go out to Cpl Paul 'Sally' Webster on being re-selected for the Army Karate Team.

SUPPORT TROOP

QM — Capt F. S. Payet
RQMS — WO2 (RQMS) A. Strudwick

Four months ago, Support Tp saw everyone looking forward to a well-deserved Christmas break. There was a couple of small matters to take care of first, i.e. Christmas functions. The Troop function was first on the list and it took the form of an American Night with most of the Troop members arriving in fancy dress. A special mention must go to Cpl Pat Paterson who turned up as Captain America, the only thing he did not bother with was the chest. Another vital component missing from the evening was a plethora of girls. However, this was not going to perturb Cpl Craig Turner and Pte Taff James from 'smooching' on the smoked filled dance floor. The next couple of days were spent recovering so that everyone would be in a fit state for the next function. SSgt Frank Crowhurst helped organise the Squadron party which everybody enjoyed thoroughly. The only thing which did not go to plan was the raffle - none of us winning anything and all the prizes seemingly going to Comms Tp.

Cpl Turner briefs the Deputy Comd and Sqn OC on his future Brigade Policy

With Christmas and New Year well and truly passed, things are back to normal: the drivers driving, the cooks cooking and the stores storing. Most of the Troop has been away on one course or another, ranging from Team Medics to Driving Instructors courses. Cpl Paul Gaddas has surprised us all by the way he managed to squeeze them in around his busy leave schedule.

There have been a few hellos and goodbyes in the last couple of months. We said goodbye and then hello again to Sig 'Alberto' Finney after his three month detachment on 'special ops'! Pte Paul Lawler has been posted to 8 Inf Bde HQ and Sig Sqn and LCpl 'Taff' Rees went to Support Battalion, HQ ARRC. LCpl 'Coops' Cooper and Sig Mark Raynes have now been officially 'taken on strength' at 'Civ Div' and finally, not goodbye but au revoir to LCpl Ian Pearce after he defected to Comms Troop. We would like to welcome the following to the Troop: LCpl Ashton, LCpl Deano Kirk, Sig Andy Hall and Pte Mac Mcoll. Congratulations go out to Rfn Mick Cambridge and his wife Martine on the birth of their daughter Emily.

MERCURY CUP COMPETITION

On 18 March the Squadron Potted Sports team headed off to Lisburn for the first event in the Mercury Cup competition. The event consisted of basketball, football, hockey and volleyball.

BASKETBALL - by Cpl Mark Benson

The Squadron's basketball team, who practice most Sundays, turned up with high hopes of winning. Our first game was against 39 Bde. They proved too strong for us so, unfortunately, we headed off to our next game with slightly dampened spirits. We played a much better game in our second match against 3 Bde. Our third game was against HQ Sqn, 15 Sig Regt we managed to give them a run for their money, but eventually lost a hard fought contest. Fortunately we had played well enough to reach the play-off for third/fourth position. In this our final game, we managed to overcome 225 Sig Sqn to secure third place. We now return to remedial basketball training and hopes of greater success next year. The following people made up the team: Capt Dave Seymour, SSgt Jim Coupland, Sgt Kev Cooney, Sgt Lee Johns, Cpl Mark Benson (Team Captain), Cpl Al McDonald and Pte Charlie Hayes.

FOOTBALL - by Sig King

Football Team
Back Row (L-R): LCpl Page, Cpl Moore, Cpl Rabbage, Sig Harrison, Sgt Snowdin

Our first game was against 39 Bde and we got off to a very promising start with two early goals. This allowed us to sit back in the second half and we ended up 2-0 winners. In contrast our second game against 3 Bde was a complete nightmare, we finished 0-3 losers and we did not even manage a decent shot on target. Due to our earlier success we managed to scrape into the semi-finals where we played HQ Sqn, 15 Sig Regt. It was a very closely fought game but we were eventually edged out by a late goal.

Our final game was the third/fourth place play-off against 225 Sig Sqn. This was an excellent game and at the end of normal time it was tied at 2-all which meant that we had to play extra-time to decide a winner. In extra-time we scored two goals to win 4-2 and take a well deserved third place.

HOCKEY - by LCpl James Bond

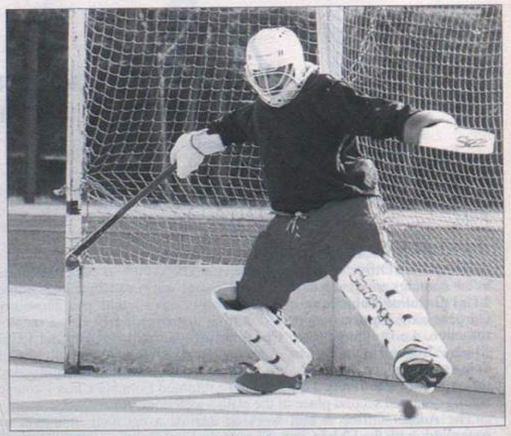
It took several stressful days to get a full thirteen player squad and at our first training session we were informed that only nine were required! So due to the late change the less willing members of the squad withdrew and we were left with a stalwart squad of nine. A starting line-up was picked for our first game against 39 Bde, however, the game seemed to be heading for a 0-0 draw due to some outstanding goal keeping from LCpl 'The Cat' Ratray. But then disaster struck and we conceded a goal and lost 1-0.



LCpl Ratray

Our second game was vital as we needed a win to make the semi-finals. This game against 3 Bde went a bit more to plan with some good play in the middle from Cpl Ian 'I've played this before' Taylor resulting in a free hit from the outside the 'D'. A good ball was drilled in and with the slightest touch from LCpl James 'TJ' Bond we scored the long awaited goal to go through.

In the semi-final we played against 233 Sig Sqn in a very gruelling match. The scored stayed at 0-0 until late in the second half when we once again conceded a goal. However we refused to give up and battled back to score a very late equaliser. This took us onto a penalty flick competition which we unfortunately lost and thus finished fourth. Watch out for next year as astroturf is coming to 8 Bde. The following people made up the team: SSgt Jim Coupland, Sgt Kev Cooney, Sgt Lee Johns, Cpl Mark Benson, Cpl Ian Taylor (Team Captain), LCpl James Bond, LCpl Holly Glen, LCpl Kev Ratray and Sig Rob Passey.

Hockey Team
Front Row (L-R): Sgt Cooney, Cpl Bond, Cpl Taylor
Back Row (L-R): LCpl Ratray, Cpl Benson, Sgt Johns, Sig Passey, Cpl Glen, SSgt Coupland

VOLLEYBALL - by Cpl 'Gaz' Moore

After several minutes of training, those who were not picked for any other sport made the volleyball team. While our opponents were shouting words like 'set' and 'service' we were rolling around either with laughter or because we had just fallen over (again). We were saved from total humiliation by a rare win in the fifth/sixth place play-off. It was all good fun and with a bit more practice we might actually be able to return the ball over the net and possibly our better players might even manage one of those overhand serves! The following people made up the team: Sgt Andy Snowdin, Cpl Dave Rabbage, Cpl Gaz Moore (Team Captain), Cpl Al Macdonald, LCpl Andy Green, Pte Steve Collins and Pte Charlie Hayes.

ENGINEERING SECTION - by Cpl Paul Hounsell

Like the first greyhound out of the trap, Lt Jo Stewart guides her merry clan of Eng Sect men to all corners of the province we proudly call home. Slightly behind the boss in the race is SSgt 'EM' Evans who likes to lead with speed. Evidence of this was shown one sunny morning when the Squadron was being issued their daily morale boosting PT. The PTI said, 'OK when I say go, everybody sprint. One, two, three GO!' SSgt 'EM' Evans shot of like a gazelle on red bull, but after five paces he collapsed with a bad leg (nobody laughed). Congratulations on your promotion to WO2.

In the last couple of months the technicians and riggers in Eng Sect have been busier than ever. This is due to an extremely productive site manager's and Technician Sergeants' office. Hence, with a standing ovation we give you Sgt Dave 'show us you care' Blair, Sgt Timothy 'Mouse' Lever and Sgt Dan 'the man with no holiday tan' Coles who are the nerve centre of taskings and jobs. Congratulations from us all to Sgt Pete 'Olly' Mills who has just picked up his Staff Sergeant, it is good to see a Liney break through the net. Congratulations also to LCpl Nick 'NooNoo' Mier who has just been accepted into university. He is off later this year to study for a degree in pot plants and green house maintenance alias Spanish and education.

OPERATOR SECTION - by Sig Gibson

I never thought that it would ever happen but it did, I was posted! When I arrived the lads greeted me with grinning faces and showed me to my palace, the Bronx end of Carter Block. I was then introduced to my new family but because we all work shift systems unfortunately I was unable to meet everyone. The weeks have flown past and I now know most people and the on the job training is now paying off. Our yearly ITD package Ex Richmond Challenge has crept upon us again, however the normal sick chits are not appearing. Is it anything to do with a shorter CFT? Now on to the hellos and goodbyes. Welcome to SSgt Tony Taylor, Cpl Gaz Moore, LCpl Mark Milne and Sig 'Sid' Sidorowicz. Fare ye well to: LCpl Lee Benson, LCpl Tracy Pearson, Sig Matt Law and Sig Greg Wood. All will be missed.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

The Troop would like to welcome Pte Pete Lawler who has made the colossal journey over the Sperrins from Portadown to Londonderry and Sig Buckingham who has come straight from the School of Signals, his head is literally in the clouds (6ft 5ins)

Farewell to LCpl Rob Cruickshank, Pte Mark 'Moff' Moffat and Pte Paul 'Eddie' Wareham who are all off to civ div, the best of luck to you all. Good luck to Pte Dale 'Pompey' Pearson who has been posted to Cyprus for a couple of years in the sun. Nothing much else has happened apart from Cpl Mark Guest has been away for what seems like a life time on his Drops Instructors course and then leave. Hasn't it been quiet.

FROM THE BEGINNING - by Sig Craig Buckingham

It was extremely daunting coming to an operational unit in Northern Ireland as a first tour. I was in Blandford for eleven months and I heard some fantastic tales of what I could expect on my arrival. Rumours included, initiation ceremonies, others said that you do not pay income tax in the Province, some even said that there was no work for tele-mechs (my trade) here so I would be doing Infantry work instead. All of this speculation came from lads like myself who had never been to a working unit before. Thankfully I chose not to listen and as luck would have it, I was posted here with two others from training. Well see you soon Ma and I was off, with all those stories niggling away at the back of my mind causing me to suspect everyone of being an active terrorist!

We were intercepted at arrivals by the MT boys and driven across the Province whilst being briefed on life in NI. It sounded spot on, extra cash, extra leave, extra warrants and loads of sport and training. For the next six months I will be working for the best MT in Province, a highly experienced and professional body of RLC and Royal Signals personnel. After that I will move to Comms Tp and become a rigger.

I have been here for seven weeks now and I am trying to get involved in as much as possible. I think the hardest thing about joining a unit is getting to know everyone and having them get to know me. Having said that I do tend to get noticed at six foot five! This is Sig Craig Buckingham reporting from MT Tp, 8 Inf Bde HQ & Sig Sqn.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

During this period we again have had comings and goings in the SHQ. We say farewell to WO1(RSM) Higgins and family who depart for the sunny climes of 30 Sig Regt in Bramcote. Your departure has been a relief to our movements clerk who you have kept busy with your weekly Corps/Army/Service football flight bookings. We welcome WO1 (RSM) Fleming and his family to Londonderry and hope they have a successful tour with us. Congratulations go to WO2 (YofS) Donohue on his selection for promotion to WO1 and posting to the BOWMAN team in Blandford. Congratulations also go to LCpl Karen Page after her recent promotion from Pte and a move up the ladder into the UAO. We expect an 'A' Grade pass on your upcoming Class One clerks course. Well done also to LCpl Banyard on successful completion of his RAO finance course. He is now fully integrated into the world of finance and we can only hope he doesn't follow the recent trend on completion of the course and get posted out.

NEWS FROM THE REGIMENTS

1 (UNITED KINGDOM) ARMOURED DIVISION HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Rear Maj J. A. Harris
RSM WO2 (SSM) Kemp

By the 27 April 1999, 1 (UK) Armd Div HQ and Sig Regt will be back together and in Herford. 208 Sig Sqn will be back from their tour in the Falklands Islands and personnel who took part in the Op Palatine tour will be back from Bosnia having had their well deserved post-tour leave. By the end of March 208 Sig Sqn goes into suspended animation and the manpower will be transferred to 201 Sig Sqn to bring the Squadron up to full strength with four Trunk Nodes.

OSC CORSHAM HUB
OC Capt M. Purves
FofS SSgt (FofS) J. Ross

The month of December proved to be a hectic one for members of the UK Satellite Hub, with changes in the equipment and its maintenance to keep the night shifts occupied. When C Shift departed for two weeks hard earned R&R, A and B shift had to cope with a 24hr on, 24hr off shift cycle. By the time B Shift had suffered four weeks in a row, Cpl Greg 'in the war....' Cropper had started to issue straight jackets.

Light Relief for those working at the Corsham Satellite Hub

Welcome relief was provided in the form of the Christmas function, which was a seventies fancy dress gig at a local restaurant. Somehow we doubt we'll be invited back; it must have been Sgt Tim 'Crash Bandicoot' Mayners remarks on how 'tasty' the food was. Many thanks to Sig Mark 'Markey Mark' Hayden and LCpl Dave 'Ripped' Sinclair for arranging the night. For those on shift on Christmas Day the occasion was brightened by the visit of Maj Gen Tony Raper CBE, Chief Executive of the DCSA. We express our thanks to him in what we realise was a day full of commitments.

The New Year was seen in with several bangs, in the form of a visit to a firepower demo at Warminster, kindly arranged for the Hub by the OC, Capt Mark Purves. The display started in awesome fashion with Harriers and Tornadoes engaging targets with rockets and 30mm Aden gunfire. The rest of the display demonstrated the arms and the capabilities of the British Army as a fighting force, including the Challenger 2 and the 155mm AS 90, right down to the 51mm mortar, Milan and the humble Rifle 5.56. A good day was had by all and everyone left with a feeling that the British Army had the world's premier kit (as well as the soldiers) with which to enter any potential conflict.

A fond farewell must go to Sgt Kev 'Shiny boots' Young, Cpl Matt 'Soap' Evans and Sgt Tim 'Crash bandicoot' Mayner - the latter has defected to RSIT. In their place we say a big hello to Cpl Sean 'Can I borrow some beer?' Tunca (again), Sgt Kev 'I'm off fishing' East and Sgt Charlie Rigg. Best wishes go to SSgt (FofS) Jim 'Neil Diamond' Ross and fiancée Jacqueline for their mid January wedding (have a great day!) and also to LCpl Dave 'Ripped' Sinclair for getting a banana at last. Congratulations also to Sigs Jackson and Hayden for obtaining their Class 2, LCpl 'Oggy' Ogg on passing his two to one crammer, and Sig Nicky 'Bilboa' Park (for getting a mention this month).

HAREWOOD GROUP
OC Capt Jo Evans
SSM WO2 (SSM) Hughes

Harewood Group will only exist for another month before the Regiment re-constitute on 3 May and 211 Sig Sqn and 212 Sig Sqn come back into being. The Rear Party Armoured Squadron is now rather large at over 100 strong with more people back from post Falklands leave. Several key personalities are about to change including Capt Evans who is moving to become 2IC of the mammoth 201 Sig Sqn and WO2 (SSM) Hughes to the Families Centre. Welcome to Maj Bunce who will be 'Boss HOG' for a month before taking over 211 Sig Sqn and WO2 (SSM) Kemp who doesn't seem to be able to keep away from the Armoured Squadrons.

LCP 212 TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Louise Burlinson
Tp SSgt SSgt Breheney

The past month has seen an increase in work rate for the glorious 212 LCP with the imminent return of our deployed comrades. However, we've still had time to hone in on the more important soldiering skills, with range days aplenty. A mention should be made here of Sig 'Sniper' Evans, who managed 15 on his first APWT, but after some expert coaching managed to almost treble his score with a respectable 40+. It also became apparent that some people had hidden talents with several Marksman Scores. I feel it also necessary to mention our last Troop outing. Again, by popular request, a Chinese was asked for. A good time was had by all (especially our Troop OC!!!) this could be due to the promotion drinks bought by Cpl Fowler which was a cross between diesel and cod liver oil. Promotions were also celebrated later on in the month with LCpl Gunn and Cpl Fowler (again!!!!) providing a reason, however, some of the newer members of the Troop also took it upon themselves to provide some liquid refreshment which meant that the evening had to be continued at Sgt ' My wife won't mind you all coming round' Balmforth's house. The local pizza parlour didn't know what had hit it, neither did Mrs Balmforth. Again the Troop OC seemed to have a good night!!

Finally, good luck to LCpl Royston, Sig Robinson and Sig Brydon who have deployed to Bosnia and welcome to Sig Turpie and Sig Ashcroft fresh from Blandford. One last mention is to the advanced drivers of LCP 212 who managed only three slight mishaps this month.

BA (G) WOMEN'S INTER-UNIT SEVEN-A-SIDE HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIPS 1999

Having called upon the girls of the Regiment we managed to enter a team into the Championships, as well as supplementing the 20 Armd Bde HQ & Sig Sqn team with a couple of our players. After a slight sightseeing tour of Bochum we arrived at JHQ at the same time as the rain! Due to the change of date there were only three teams entered so after the four hour journey it was a bit of an anticlimax to only get two matches.

The first match against 20 Armd Bde saw people who hadn't played hockey since school get a few surprises and it didn't take long before the strains of the fast 7-a-side match were beginning to show. Loud sighs of relief were heard as the whistle for time was blown. 1 (UK) ADSR - 1, 20 Armd Bde - 0 and an injury to our star player! LCpl Doe's thumb had seen better days and she was dispatched to the Med Centre. At one point we did consider sending Sig Holyland as well and seeing if they could section her, however she was a good goalkeeper even if she was barking mad.

The next match was between 20 Armd Bde and the RASU team. We watched in horror as the skilled and well-practised RASU team scored goal after goal. 20 Armd Bde put up a noble defence but to no avail, time could not come soon enough for a defeated 20 Armd Bde. We were on again and not looking forward to it! The team defended well and the ball was down their end of the pitch more than was expected. Sig Stables and Sig Thwaite demonstrated their aggressive nature and scared some of our own players! The final score was predictable but it was a good match and we were the runners-up so everyone got a medal. It also meant that we had qualified for the Championships back in Aldershot. Time to get practising! It was now mid-afternoon and there was still no sign of LCpl Doe. She had been sent to the local hospital and we were assured it wasn't far away- if you didn't get lost. We found a forlorn looking LCpl Doe at the entrance of the hospital, she thought we'd forgotten her! We began planning practices on the way home. Since then Sgt Holden has been spending Wednesday and Friday afternoons trying to teach us some skills. Unfortunately we can't have him on our team although he'd look lovely in a sports kilt!

201 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj Lawrence
SSM WO2 (SSM) Simmons

The last few months have been a fairly quiet period for the Squadron with the remainder of the Regiment being deployed to Bosnia and the Falklands. However, that is all about to change as the Regiment is now back in Herford albeit on post tour leave. The Squadron is about to add to its numbers when on April 1st 208 Sig Sqn and 201 Sig Sqn merge to be collectively known as 201 Sig Sqn with the new Squadron being fully manned by 3 May. We say farewell to Cheetah and Panther Troops and welcome to Eagle, Hawk, Falcon and Kestrel Troops and to 2Lt Foote and 2Lt Aylward who have arrived this week from their Troop Commanders' Course to command two of them. Farewell is also said to WO2 (SSM) Kemp who is posted to 212 Sig Sqn in the Regiment until August when he will be descending upon London UOTC as the Royal Signals PSI - Harry you'll love it !! In his place we welcome WO2 (SSM) Simmons.

EXERCISE WINTER TRAINING (EWT)

A number of the Squadron have been involved in the various Winter Training exercises in Bavaria over the last couple of months, amongst them Sig Brixey and Pte Russell (who incidentally has recently become a father - CONGRATULATIONS). Similar Exercises in the past have been perceived to be a bit of jolly but Pte Russell would have you think otherwise. He certainly didn't relish the prospect of sleeping in a snow hole overnight in freezing temperatures. But relish it or not he did it.

EXERCISE HORN

Ex Horn was a short Squadron Level Trunk Exercise that saw the two Trunk Nodes deploy to the local areas of Lemgo, Herford, Werther and Augusdorf. Fortunately the emphasis was not on comms which were rarely achieved throughout the two-day Exercise, but more of a Procedural Exercise. For some it was the first deployment since being in the squadron but they can rest assured that it won't be the last once the Exercise season begins later this year.

208 SQUADRON
Tp Comd Lt Harden
Tp SSgt SSgt German

This will be the final entry from 208 Sqn for some time as the Squadron is being disbanded and all personnel are moving to the now massive 201 Squadron. Many thanks go to all the members of 208 Rear Troop for all their hard work over the last six months. Welcome back to all of those who have been penguin spotting for the last six months at JCUF1 and to those who have been away on Op Palatine. Congratulations to Cpl 'Nige' Howard and his wife Michelle on the birth of their daughter Abigail and also to LCpl Lomas and his wife Jane on the birth of their daughter Neeve. Finally congratulations and goodbye to SSM Balsdon who is being posted to 15 Sig Regt as RSM. Goodbyes also to Sgt Symonds (posted to 2 Sig Regt), LCpl Nessling (posted to 30 Sig Regt) and Cpl McKillop who is off to 16 Sig Regt.

EXERCISE BENGAL DIAMOND
208 SQUADRON ADVENTUROUS TRAINING
by Sig Brown and Sig Skene

With most of the Regiment on operations in Bosnia and the Falklands, 208 rear troop left the normal day to day duties and travelled to the Harz Mountains, For the entire week we were under the almost excellent coaching of SSgt 'I never crash' Bruce, SSgt 'No, I'm not the oldest man here' Clarke and several members of the ski team which included Sig 'The eagle' Bird, 'Haka, Haka' Raw, and Sig 'Chef' Sullivan, who were also on hand to demonstrate some of their abilities .....?

LCpl 'Where've my skis gone' Nessling

Special thanks is to be given to Sgt 'Menu ski' Holden, and LCpl 'Stevie Wonder' Lewis of 20 Armd Bde Paderborn who were dragged kicking and screaming (not) from their normal duties to help with the coaching, and last but not least, Lt 'I'm on the ski team so don't argue' Hanlon for organising the event. With no shortage of snow the week went very well, LCpl Lewis' 'Powder Dogs' took full advantage of the fresh snow that fell each day to do a bit of skiing through the woods. I think most of them will agree they are now masters in the art of tree hugging so no bypasses look set to be built in that area. Sig 'Cave man' Dickinson spent most of his time inventing the new sport of tree slalom which unfortunately will not be seen at the next winter Olympics, as he soon found out, you can't knock over a 40ft Christmas tree with your ski pole, fist or any other part of your body.

The week finished without a 'skiing' casualty in sight, however, it can prove to be more dangerous getting out of bed in the garrison lodge in Sonnenburg than on the slopes, as Sig 'I ain't no pussy Pete' Abbot discovered after one of his 'Quiet nights out'. The highlight of the week was the slalom competition won by Sig 'I blow-dry my hair' Skene, with LCpl 'Sleepy' Doe and Sgt Simms taking second and third places. Prizes were also awarded to the top students of each of the groups Sig 'I'm not a fish egg' Brown won the best beginner award with Sig Burnip and LCpl Doe picking up the awards for the intermediate and advanced groups. The award for donkey of the course went to Sig 'The tree will move first' Marsh whose valiant efforts to ski failed miserably almost every time his feet hit the snow. Still a good time was had by all and hopefully Ex Bengal Diamond will become a permanent feature on the training programme.

MSc by DISTANCE LEARNING
Data Communication Systems

Department of Electrical Engineering & Electronics

An MSc in Data Communication Systems will open up a world of opportunity in this rapidly expanding field. Now you can study for this MSc at your own pace and in your own space! The course is based on—and is equivalent to—our full time course of the same name and has 2 start dates per year.
Topics covered include:

- Digital Communication Systems
- Networks and Protocols
- Data Security and Compression
- IT Project Management
- Satellite, Optical and Mobile Communications
- Software Engineering

VIKING TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Peter Hale
Tp SSgt — SSgt Terry Shiels

The past few months have been a strained time for Viking Tp. As we all avidly watched the international press, the Balkans once again descended into conflict. Still on 72hr Notice To Move, the Troop held its breath for the call that was always only a few days away. February and then March drifted past in a series of anti climaxes as the Squadron was given orders to move, which were duly cancelled. With all our preparations complete and bags packed the waiting has been a difficult time for all concerned, especially the families.

The Troop has, however, used this extra time to good advantage for both military and adventurous training. As the Troop concentrated on the requirements for our future deployment, basic skills were honed and live firing polished with days out on the ranges. On the adventurous training side of life the Troop has been walking and climbing in the Lakes and the North Yorkshire Moors, with LCpl Martin Hinchliffe nearly becoming an extra in Emmerdale. All were impressed with SSgt 'Faldo' Shiels who showed his true forte in organising a very successful Golfing day, it was just a shame about the jumper. Sgt Andy Lloyd used all his experience as a Recce Sergeant and 'Race the Sun' organiser to take half the Troop fell running, which also included the added bonus of a 'get you home' command task at the end.

Due to the impending deployment the Troop strength swelled as members normally attached from other Squadrons were formally placed under Troop command. We would also like to welcome Cpl Hodgkinson who has joined the Troop from Catterick. On the good-byes, as part of the deployment re-organisation we have had to say farewell to LCpl McNally and Sig Bailey who have moved to HQ Sqn and also Sig Fowkes who has left the Army for a job in civilian life, we all wish him luck. As a last note to Sig McLiesh and Sig Telford who are currently working at the Corsham Hub, we have not forgotten about you and keep up the good work.

At the time of writing with events in Kosovo unfolding in an unforeseen and dramatic way Viking Tp is still ready to move, if and when the call comes.

TORNADO TROOP
Tp Comd — 2Lt Graham Wills
Tp SSgt — SSgt Neil Cooper

This has been a very busy and frustrating time for the Troop. We have been on standby with the rest of the Squadron to deploy on Op Agricola. The rush for extra equipment and admin checks was met with great expectation and excitement. This was soon stifled as the political situation dictated that we were to stay in York for a while longer. The vehicles are ready and packed and everybody is raring to go but the when and where is still to be decided.

The Troop has lost a few of its long term lodgers and our best wishes go to; LCpl Graham Rennie who is off to 16 Sig Regt, Sig Kenny Waring who is off to 15 Sig Regt and Sig 'Alvin' Carlyon who is off to make his millions.

The only new arrival to the Troop is LCpl Lee Rickard who has joined us from 200 Sig Sqn. Finally we wish Sig Donna Holmes a speedy recovery after her horrendous accident.

EXERCISE CHIMERA CHARGE

Ex Chimera Charge was a one day hill-walking package that took twelve people to the Lake District with the intention of climbing up 'Striding Edge' on route to Hellvelyn. The three supposed grown ups were Capt Colin Russell, 2Lt Graham Wills and YofS John Wright. It was a clear cool day and snow had fallen on the high ground making the scenery spectacular. Striding edge can be viewed from a distance and as it came into view there was some concern in the group. This concern was not only genuine but understandable as the snow made the route quite treacherous. Once finally at the summit the group stopped for lunch and then proceeded on the race down to the nearest pub.

ROMAN TROOP
Tp Comd — Lt Adam Honor
Tp SSgt — SSgt David Morrison

As with the rest of the Corps the Troop was warned off for a deployment to Kosovo on Op Agricola but as of yet no notice to move time has materialised. The Troop worked furiously to meet the deadline to be ready for the deployment and as a result the vehicles were ready to rock on time. Since that date the Troop has been on the boat off the boat as with the rest of the Squadron (excuse the pun!). The time has been filled in with Golf competitions, Inter-Troop Football competitions (in which Roman Tp destroyed all competition), vigorous outdoor pursuits and many a good social. The time has also been filled with invaluable training for the fourth coming deployment to Kosovo, concentrating on mine clearance, shooting skills and also first aid.

The Troop has swelled in numbers with the pending deployment, this includes Sgt Walsh, Cpl Leggot, LCpl Nixon, Cpl Foster, LCpl Dunnachie, Cpl Parr, Cpl Galletly and many more who have been warmly welcomed. Postings into the Troop have been Sig Munnings and Sig Davis, both straight from the sausage factory and also LCpl 'Flash' Hanson. Congratulations go to LCpl 'Hammy' Hampson whose wife gave birth to the first born, a little girl called Charlie. The Troop now eagerly awaits the 'green for go' for deployment and relishes the idea of performing an invaluable and worthwhile role within theatre.

PRICE WATERHOUSE COOPERS TRAINING DAY

Sgt Foulds assisted by LCpl Scott and LCpl Kosh ran and organised a NBC stand as part of the Price Waterhouse Coopers training day held on 23 February 1999. The stand involved a walk through and talk through of the NBC equipment used by the British Army, Sgt Faulds then gave a short history lesson on NBC warfare. This was followed by a striptease by the seductive and shapely LCpl Scott to wake them all up again.

Price Waterhouse Coopers Training Day
LCpl Scott doing the striptease

They were then shown how to correctly dress themselves in NBC suits. At this point Sgt Faulds didn't waste his opportunity to beast a few civvies, he quickly made them don respirators and gave them a bit of degradation training to give them a taste of what it's like to work in full IPE. They were then shown drinking drills since they were all in need of some water. LCpl Kosh then demonstrated suit changing drills in an NBC environment, by the end of the day he was an expert at this as there were six different groups to be shown that day. However, Sgt Faulds can not have beasted the civvies enough as they all seemed to enjoy it, and learned a few things about military NBC training.

3 (UNITED KINGDOM) DIVISION
HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS
CO — Lt Col N. D. Couch
RSM — WO1 (RSM) G. J. Stoker MBE

Life in the 3rd Division continues apace with expeditions recently back from climbing and walking in New Zealand and diving in the Red Sea - full reports in the next issue. The Ladies' Team were victorious in the Army Cup Hockey competition and the Men's Team were beaten in the semi-finals. In the Army Cup Football Competition the Team had a heartbreaking repeat of last year, again being knocked out in the semi-finals after drawing at extra time and being forced into a penalty shoot out. Now the build up starts for next year's Army Cup Football and Hockey Competitions so if you are a skilled player and want the opportunity to play at the highest level this is the Regiment to come to, ring the Regimental 2IC and get your postings preferences in now. Op Agricola has occupied the minds of the Ops Team, 63 personnel have already deployed and the remainder are in Bulford poised for deployment.

202 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd — Maj R. J. Quinlan
SSM — WO2 (SSM) S. G. Jackson

As the training season for the Divisional Headquarters hits its peak, the Armoured Headquarters of 202 Sig Sqn is probably at its busiest time of the year. Ex Lion Sword is the culmination of several deployments for the Squadron, the last being the Div Ex Spring Foray which saw a Regimental deployment based on the headquarters of Overloon Tp to the now familiar surroundings of Old Carter Barracks on Salisbury Plain. The members of Waterloo Tp continue to form the Squadron's commitment to Operations in the Balkans under Lt Jackson and SSgt Wringe, and further members of the Squadron remain with 206 Sig Sqn ready to deploy when required. From Squadron Headquarters, congratulations are sent to YofS Anderson, FofS Ramsdale, SSgt Crawford and Sgt Cheesman on the recent award of their Long Service and Good Conduct Medals and to SSgt Davies on the award of his Accumulated Service Medal. Well done to the 'Old and Bold'!

OVERLOON TROOP
Tp Comd — Capt L. Hendricks
Tp SSgt — SSgt A. Crawford

The Troop sends its best wishes to Cpls 'Guido' Giddens and 'Jackanory' Adams, LCpls 'Phil Collins' Joyce and 'Bomber' Lancaster who have recently deployed to the Balkans with Waterloo Troop. Hello to Sigs Allen, Greenhalgh and Thompson who are all new arrivals and welcome back from their Class One course to LCpl 'Professor' Higgins and a new look LCpl 'A-K' Akkulugadu who seems to be out to prove that blondes really do have more fun! Ex Spring Foray was particularly notable for being cold, windy, and thoroughly exhausting. In a break from the normal Exercise routine though we went for a night navigation exercise across Salisbury Plain. The odds were in favour of Bdr 'Commando' Fayers to be first back, but against all expectation he managed to get himself and his Squad lost within five minutes of starting! Goodbye to LCpl 'Gwar' Wright who will be much missed. Cpl 'Alfie' Alford and Sigs 'Rocky Dennis' Galliford, 'Curly' Watts and 'Ginge' Watt were also much missed, but only because they have been away serving Queen and Country on the Football field. Finally welcome back to Sig 'STD' Brakewell after his short stay at a rather exclusive hotel in Colchester.

BUSSACO TROOP
Tp Comd — 2Lt P. Simpson
Tp SSgt — SSgt A. Dick

The past months have been busy for Bussaco Tp who have been deployed in support of all the Exercises. We have lost several members to support Waterloo Tp and this has only increased the workload for those that remain. The end of February saw us on Ex Spring Foray with every spare body being used to erect tents and assist the SQMS. After a quick turnaround and Easter leave we are now straight into the preparations for the next Exercise. Welcome to our new OC, 2Lt Simpson and to Sig Gill, Sig Thompson and LCpl Lyon who all join us from the Factory. A tearful goodbye to SSgt Dick who is leaving for the easy life at Liverpool UOTC and LCpl Hogan who is leaving for the even easier life at 11 Sig Regt.

CinC congratulates WO2 (SSM) Archer on keeping
Maj Paul 'reformed subaltern' Glibbery out of trouble but the CO knows it can't be for long

The past few months have been a busy and turbulent time for the Squadron with a number of departures either on posting or on Operations to Bosnia and more recently Macedonia on Op Agricola. Farewell to Lt Liz Allen who was OC Cambrai Tp and is posted to ATR Bassingborn. Also farewell to LCpl Kev Reeves who is posted to Blandford and thanks for his larger than life contribution to the Squadron over the years. He will be missed by everyone except the Chefs on Exercise. New arrivals include 2Lt Ollie Gardner from the Tp Comds Course and Cpl Adam Izzard from 259 Sig Sqn. Recent developments in the Balkans have resulted in over 30 Squadron personnel deploying to the Macedonian border and many more being put on 72hrs NTM. The occasional 'bluey' from theatre suggests that morale is high and the Squadron is putting up a good show while having to integrate with 7 Sig Regt and 4 Armd Bde Sig Sqn. We are all waiting out for more news. The sudden depletion of man power has resulted in a scaling down of the exercise season after what was a busy build up period. However, Ex Lion Sword is about to descend upon us and there is Ex Lion Sun for a lucky few and a Summer Camp to look forward to.

MASIRAH TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt E. J. Fawcett
SSgt	SSgt M. W. Emmerson

The Troop has had a busy time as they engulf yet more changes, adapting the Troop ready for deployment on Op Agricola. The Troop's new role brought with it new faces whom were welcomed with true Masirah Tp style. Sgt 'did we really go to the Kiwi?' Howes was in usual memorable form. Congratulations go out to Cpl 'silverback' Hawkins for finally taking the plunge and tying the knot. Also, a well done to Sig 'fish - but I can't drink like one' Salmon for achieving Regimental Sportsman of the Year for his Hockey prowess. We say a fond farewell to Sig 'Eh Lah' Walters as she joins another Troop and wish her all the best. The Troop finally reached a well earned Easter Leave with no casualties. With a busy, yet unpredictable, time ahead the 'Premier Troop' are eager to make use of all their preparations and finally find them a job to do. We couldn't end these notes without a mention of Sgt 'small but incredibly noisy' Emmerson, we would like to congratulate him on his recent selection for promotion to SSgt.

OMAN TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Hemy
Tp SSgt	SSgt Baker

Just when we thought we knew what was what - Op Coca-Cola! The associated hellos and goodbyes were head spinning as the Troop swelled to record size, then trimmed down to its current slim-line numbers. Less is more, although if you were Cpl 'Sign for the whole lot' Hoggart, then you probably thought otherwise. Important to note that despite all reorganisations, a small cadre of personnel never left, joined or rejoined Oman Tp (and we do mean small!) - these included Lt 'another ATFA' Hemy (having too much fun here), SSgt 'Bru' Baker (having to play too much hockey here) and Cpl '1033' Hoggart (having too much to sign for here). LCpl 'possible' Swailes remains here after all, and despite a spirited attempt by Sig 'Geordie' Lewis and Sig 'Ironman' Jackson to escape, they are now in possession of their fair share of Oman Tp's notable and extensive new assets. Thank you Aden Tp. Various farewells to those who have moved across to be deafened in Masirah Tp or to terminal exercise with Sharjah Tp, or even foreign parts! (including the Bosnia contingent - enjoying that Winter?) Welcome to the latest Oman Tp members from all respective sources, and it looks like you're here for the duration. Thanks to all those who are were in the Troop (including the SATs) at any time for all the work that you put in throughout a very hectic time, and staying cheerful.

SHARJAH TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt A. S. Johnson
Tp SSgt	SSgt R. Lang

The initial return to work was uneventful and the Troop got stuck straight into preparing for the forthcoming busy exercise season which was upon us almost immediately. Everything was to change. With the explosion of the Kosovo crisis the Squadron was warned off to deploy two Trunk Nodes with an SHQ and put on 30 days NTM. This effectively doubled the size of Sharjah Tp overnight. The Troop hierarchy were promptly buried in a mountain of paperwork and a great deal of hard work was done by all members of the Troop (apart from Cpl 'War Weary' Ward who was stateside playing hockey for the Corps). Within a very short space of time the Troop was ready to go and be the cutting edge of the sword of peace. Well done to everyone for all the time, effort and focus applied. A week on leave and it was all change again. Sharjah Stood down (Milosovic breathed a sigh of relief) and Sharjah shrunk back to a relatively normal size. A look forward to Ex Lion Sword for the remainder of April where we will provide a reduced Ptarmigan capability to support the Div.

There are too many farewells to mention this time although they haven't gone far yet. Finally a warm Welcome to Sgt Pickering, Paula and family fresh from 35 Sig Regt (V) we hope you enjoy your stay here in sunny Bulford. Welcome to all gained from other Troops during this time of change.

14 SIGNAL REGIMENT (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)

226 SIGNAL SQUADRON (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)
ROMEO TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt H. J. Scott
OPSWO	SSgt (Supvr R) Jacklin

The Troop has had a rather hectic time, due to the number of people deployed away on detachments, courses and other commitments. Unfortunately, we are losing more people than we are gaining due to the recent batch of postings. Firstly, goodbye to Sgt Paul Rowlands who is off to Bosnia, Cpl Paul Browne, Sigs Crutchley and Greg Hardman who are off to Kosovo. Sgt 'Funky' Gibbins and LCpl Drummond are on detachment and posted to NI respectively. Welcomed new arrivals to the Troop are SSgt Mark Wilson, from the AWC Waddington and Sig 'Jonah' Jones, from training. Lt Scott and Sgt Paul Rowlands have just returned from an expedition to Ascension Island during which they qualified as BSAC Club Instructors. Upon their return the remnants of the Troop deployed to Sennybridge for the Squadrons' Annual Battle Camp. Finally, congratulations to LCpl Drummond on passing his first BFT for some time, just prior to being posted.

640 TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Ben White
Tp SSgt	SSgt Frank Flaherty

Welcome to Sig 'Carpet' Matzke and Sig 'Nath' Higgins who arrived in the Troop in February. Goodbyes go to Capt 'Gin' Brown, Cpl 'Greg' Mulley, LCpl 'Chuck' Norris and a final farewell and good luck to LCpl 'Jez' Holdridge who is leaving us for Civvy Street. Also congratulations to Cpl 'Simmo' Simpson and Jane for the birth of twins Aden and Keyliegh, Sig 'Drew' Connor and Becky for the birth of their son Rhys, and yet more congratulations to LCpl 'Al' Ryall for his marriage to Vicky on 6 February.

Yet again the Troop have been industrious with their time over the past few months with a 24hr BFT that raised over £400 for the 'Y' Services Memorial Fund organised by Cpl 'Chas' Caley. An arduous task in itself made harder by the infamous biting winds of Brawdy taking its toll on the runners. However, heads raised, brimming smiles they successfully completed all they were asked to do.

The Troop developed its 'Airmobile' capabilities further by undergoing intensive helicopter under-slinging training, qualifying many members of the Troop as Landing Point Commanders and/or Rigger Marshals in preparation for our attachment to 16 Air Assault. Many thanks for the training conducted by our resident Para Guru Sgt 'JX' Walker, and 18 Sqn for providing a 20 tonne piece of flying metal for us to play with over two days.

Yet more physical demands were made of the Troop when the Colonel's Cup came around on 1 March. The Troop impressively fielding the majority of the 'volunteers' for the Squadron teams with SSgt 'Many Hats' Flaherty taking charge and providing a challenging and sometimes damaging fitness programme, so bad that the 'C' team was formed only hours before the start. However the Rag Tag team of old men and women consisting of two of the more mature members of the Troop Cpl 'Bus Pass' Beaton and Cpl 'Rear Marker' Caley pushed, pulled and verbally encouraged the rest of the Squadron team to the rostrum position of first for their course. Our Squadron 'A' and 'B' teams again consisting of a majority of 640 Troop contingency also did very well. The 'A' team coming in third, led by our own Lt 'Ben' White and a notable performance by the old school boys SSgt 'Franko' Flaherty and Sgt 'JJ' Walker in the 'B' team. Cpl 'Denny' Denton was left holding the fort while the rest of the Troop enjoyed a two-week Battle Camp on Sennybridge. The first week was spent doing ITUs and revising on tactics, ending with a jaunt around a back breaking, tear inducing assault course. We deployed 'Full Tac' on Monday afternoon praying for dry weather, which was granted in the form of a heat wave, only fading once we had completed the insertion tab. A good scenario was set by Lt 'Stingray' White, SSgt 'Sergeant Major' Flaherty, and Sgt 'The General' Walker. Many notable events happened and new 'Actions on' added to our SOP's by Cpl 'Richie' Bretherick who has signed back on 'For this'. The Troop looks forward to a few out of area exercises including the Ascension Island and Belize, though with our limited fleet at the moment we'll probably end up walking.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt Fi Stewart
Tp SSgt	SSgt Geoff Murray

Firstly a big hello from the Troop to Sig 'Barry' McGeachy, and a sad farewell to Sgt 'Titus' Reene who has moved to the dizzy heights of SQMS. Also goodbye to Sig 'Jonah' Jones, the longest serving member of the Troop, and to Sig 'Gibbo' Gibson - best of luck in the future.

It has been a busy month for Comms Tp with a Troop Exercise in Eastbourne. As predicted there were several hiccups, unfortunately for LCpl Eddie Edwards they started before the Comms Step up had even been set up! Having recovered the rover, which he skilfully had bogged in, they managed to get down to some serious comms problem solving. Meanwhile in Comms Main all was quiet and running smoothly until 56 Sig Sqn (V) decided they were bored of their drill night, and would come and amuse themselves at Pippingford Park (cheers Staff). With much determination, and plenty of firepower from Cpl 'Frankie' Vaughan, LCpl 'Stu' Kelly, Sig 'Chris' John and Sig 'Jonah' Jones, they managed to keep 2Lt 'Monty' Stewart out of harms way. After an eventful week, the Troop enjoyed a 'quiet' pint in the local pubs and clubs of Eastbourne.

March lifted off in style, with the Colonel's Cup and several members of the Troop involved in one of the three teams. 2Lt 'Monty' Stewart led the C Team to victory, whilst SSgt 'giraffe legs' Murray - stormed to the finish in the 'A' Team.

Squadron Battle Camp, at the beginning of March, proved as entertaining as predicted. The ITDs passed uneventfully but the dreaded APWT proved once again that a few individuals couldn't hit a barn door at fifty paces. Those who passed went on to greater things with Sgt 'The General' Walker, and his big bag of toys. The TACEX phase proved more demanding, as LCpl 'Stevo' Stevenson discovered when he couldn't get into a building on the first attack. After the battle was over the rest of the fine warriors took turns in showing him how to operate a door latch. The ambush which followed went smoothly, fronted up by 2Lt 'guys please stop snoring' Stewart. The final attack was a success, once it got going. Cpl 'Frankie' Vaughan had a quick dip in the river on the way to the FUP, and Cpl 'Cal' Black's section did a near perfect assault on an empty building. However, once on the main position, and certainly in the fog of war (Cpl 'I thought you said throw 6 smoke grenades' Brown) the enemy and FofS 'Deano' Briers were finally defeated.

245 SIGNAL SQUADRON (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)

Sqn Comd	Maj Owen
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Fisher

245 Sig Sqn has been through a major upheaval recently. The Squadron has reorganised from three Troops down to two, with Y Troop joining X Troop as a 'paper-tiger', and J Troop merging with Z Troop. The Squadron hierarchy has also changed. Maj Guy Owen assumes command vice Maj Mark Davis (via a spell under Capt Andy Lucas). Capt Lucas has departed for XSC, and Lt 'Rich' Bailey has moved into the 2IC slot. Lt Al Crapper is off to holiday in the Balkans for a while. Congratulations to SSM Fisher on his selection for promotion to WO. Young Officers beware! SSgt (FofS) Groves is posted to SHAPE, leaving on promotion. SSgt (SQMS) Bousefield also leaves, posted to RSS.

Additionally 245 Sig Sqn (EW), despite it's heavy commitment managed to win the Inter-Squadron Russ Cup. Well done to all who worked so hard to achieve this over the year. Special mention must be made to the winning team in the COs Cup Competition. Capt Lucas and Sgt Rob Tubbs moulded together an exceptionally good team that pulled out all the stops on the day and did the 13-mile route, including obstacles and stands, in under three hours!

WHISKEY TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Crapper
Tp SSgt	SSgt (Supvr R) Wallace

The month of March has seen the Squadron go through quite a significant change, and as this change was taking place the Squadron also took control of the long awaited Odette equipment. This was then immediately tested during Ex Moufflon Spring, when the Squadron was deployed and set out to test this new equipment's capabilities. The kit was thoroughly tested over a four-day period, producing mixed results. The Squadron has also deployed on Op Agricola where a chosen few from a cast of thousands have moved out to Macedonia ready to help their fellow countrymen and women during the Kosovo conflict. Closer to home 245 Sig Sqn have been busy winning the majority of major competitions in the Regiment. The CO's Cup saw the Squadron 'A' Team victorious in their quest to 'tab' the quickest from Haverfordwest back to the Regiment, with the 'C' Team managing a close second coming in the opposite direction from Saint Davids. A very impressed Mayor of Saint David's witnessed the closing stages.

HELLOS, GOODBYES AND CONGRATULATIONS

Greetings to Sgt 'Pete' Farrell and Sgt 'Mick' Beckett newly arrived from Chicksands, Cpl 'Heath' Stringer and Cpl 'Jez' Callander from 15 Sig Regt. LCpl 'Stu' McGowan from 7 Sig Regt and Sig 'Emma' Watson fresh from Blandford. A sad farewell to SSgt 'JJ' McNally who's off to America, Sgt 'Daz' Middleton, Cpl 'Taff Carter and Cpl 'Rob' Forward who are all off swanning to university for 12 months, Cpl 'Heike' Claxton goes to 15 Sig Regt and a special farewell to Cpl 'Ryanne' Bennett who's taken the jump to civvy street and now holds the highest rank of Miss.

Congratulations to SSgt Mike Davies who has just reached the Army Squash Championship Finals but will have to compete from his next unit as he's off to Digby. Finally, congratulations go to SSgt 'Wally' Wallace who after many years as a singly has decided to settle down and get married. All the best to Wally and Sade for the future. Our best wishes go to them all.

HOTEL TROOP – by Sig Woodrow

We have seen quite a lot of people go from the Troop, which is a shame. LCpl 'Gaz' Leadbitter, LCpl 'Icky' Hickenbothem and of course the infamous Cpl 'Minger' Bell. We all hope that they will do well and get on all right in their new jobs and their new places of work. Soon also to be leaving us will be Cpl 'Potzy' Potton who is going on to better things in Ireland. A few arrivals back into the Troop including Sgt 'Andy' Ball and LCpl 'Webby' Webster.

We unfortunately received the news that the Troop will disband some time at the end of April which we were all quite disappointed about. However, it was something that we all expected. Quite a lot of things have been happening within the Troop including LCpl 'Naomi' Wilson away swimming for the Corps at Arborfield. Congratulations to Cpl John Pankhurst and his wife Joyce on the arrival of a healthy and eating well baby boy. Congratulations also go to Sgt 'Chris' Dunn for promotion to Sgt and Q Jones for also coming off his board.

As Kosovo sheds a dim light on the Regiment some of the Squadron personnel have had to go. Also recently the Squadron had the pleasure of the company of Sennybridge Training Area, to do our ITD battle-camp.

The last few days were spent on the tacex phase which mainly incorporated all we had been taught by Sgt 'JJ' Walker throughout the previous week plus some more skills that we were yet to learn. The Exercise consisted of activities such as: FIBUA and Close Target Recce most of these skills people had never done so this was interesting to learn and then put into practice. The Exercise was quite demanding, however, most people learnt something but of course we were all happy to come home.

ZULU TROOP

Tp Comd	SSgt 'No Brews' Donnelly
Tp SSgt	Sgt 'Brews' Turner

Zulu Tp has had a busy period over the last three months. The Troop has just returned from supporting the Squadron on Ex Mouflons Spring the first deployment of the year, deploying as far a field as sunny Templeton. The Squadron has had a big reorganisation and the Troop has enlarged considerably and we now seem have more vehicles and more tasking orders. However, no more man power to work with!

The Troop took Comic Relief Day very seriously indeed and 16 members of the Troop were tasked by SSgt 'Good Idea' Donnelly to row a total of 700km in 24hrs, this was a very ambitious task and after much hard work and effort we just missed our total by 1. 675km. Thanks to all who helped and supported us in our efforts to raise money for Charity.

Zulu Troop Rowing Team for Comic Relief 1999

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

As ever there are more departures than arrivals We say a sad farewell to Sig 'Monobrow' James and Sig 'Hot shot' Hanks who we wish all the best for the future and we would like to welcome Sig 'Won't sweat' Grimes and all the other Troop members that have joined us on the Troop amalgamation.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON
TRANSPORT MAINTENANCE TROOP

Tp Comd — Capt Steve Johnson
Tp SSgt — SSgt Huw Evans

A busy time, as usual, with the usual Bosnia detachments, Regimental Exercises and the deployment of Kosovo Tp. Yet we still managed to get people away on adventure training and sport. SSgt Huw Evans had a 'hard' two months in Kenya with 1 Cheshire, FofS 'Ski' Sharp, Sgt Alfie Davidson, Sigs Rex Bell and Al Paisley managed to get on an expedition to Jordan and Sgt Steve Miles managed to get yet another 'holiday' in Banja Luka!

Arrivals - Sgt 'Taff' O'Connor and Sigs Rob Barn, Craig Johnstone and Daz 'Crash' Read.

Departures - SSgt 'Shuggy' Hughes to one of the field Squadrons, Cpl Mick Turner on his TI and LCpl Scott Chinnery to 'civvy street'.

HEADQUARTERS MOTOR TRANSPORT TROOP

MTWO — WO2 Shepherd
Tp SNCO — SSgt Rock

The Troop would like to welcome the following people: LCpl Wayne Musson, his wife Linda and family from 7 Sig Regt, Sigs 'Recall' Foster, 'Question time' Brennan, 'Tiger' Iles, 'Smudge' Smith, 'Gilps' Gilpin who have all arrived straight from the factory. The Troop would like to say farewell to Cpl Stan Knight and Sig Kate Knight on their posting to 7 Sig Regt (Kosovo/Bosnia), Sig 'Geordie' Hall to Northern Ireland and Sig 'Scouse' Caddick who has gone on detachment to HQ Land.

It's been a busy period since Christmas, the Troop has finally sobered up after the Christmas function organised by Cpl 'Taff' Jones with the singlies performing as usual. Congratulations to Cpl Ian Phillips and his new wife Joanne on their recent wedding. The Troop wishes them all the best for the future. Welcome back to Cpl 'Skilly' Hunt on his return from Bosnia, the women of Haverfordwest have locked themselves away even though he can't make it past eleven o'clock on a lads night out. Also back from a few months away is Cpl 'Who is he?' Dawson who has been Alpine Skiing and congratulations for coming 48th in the Army Championships. Since SSgt 'my clubs are too short' Rock has arrived in the Troop the golf afternoons have increased with valuable tips passed on by Cpl Billy Blackmore (not that he's any good either!) There has been a few valuable Tp training days, and well done to those who passed their Class 2 upgrading and have finally been presented their line belts by Cpl Andy Dawson watched by Sgt 'They're not real linies anyway' Rogers. Good luck to Sig 'Ernie' Wise who has left us to become a 'gym queen' after running the sports store for six months. Finally has anyone seen Sgt 'I'm on leave' McNabb anywhere??

VOLUNTEERS WANTED FOR A 10 DAY HOLIDAY IN CYPRUS

When the QM (T), Maj Dean asked for five volunteers to accompany him on a free ten-day 'holiday' in Cyprus, how could one refuse? In time honoured fashion five individuals were volunteered and signed up on the dotted line for this not to be missed 'holiday' in the sun. It was only then that the QM (T) pointed out the following three minor points in the small print at the bottom of the contract:

Firstly, in order to qualify for the free 'holiday' a three man team from the Regiment must finish inside the first five teams taking part in the UK Military Trial, '.....but don't worry lads it's only a short gentle stroll through the Shropshire countryside'.

Secondly, whilst on 'holiday' the Three-Man Team is cordially invited to take part in the Cyprus Walkabout Competition. Again, 'don't worry lads, it's only a two day flat scenic walk across the Cypriot countryside and you'll get a good sun tan whilst you're out training every day for it'.

Thirdly, always read the small print first before volunteering for anything!

Thus in early September, with spirits only slightly dampened by the pouring rain, two teams from 14 Sig Regt (EW) could be found in the middle of the night sitting in the cookhouse at Nesscliffe Training Camp waiting for the transport to the start of the UK Military Trail race. The UK Mil Trail is a 3-man team race over an undisclosed orienteering course of about 52km, in the Shropshire hillside and is the only method for an 'off-island' Army unit team to qualify for a place in the Cyprus Walkabout competition. Therefore, the competition was tough, with more than 30 teams from UK, NI and Germany competing for the first five 'holiday' tickets.

After a 1½ coach journey to the start location, the first team was off at 0630hrs, followed some nine teams later by the 14 Sig Regt's 'A' Team, consisting of SSgt (MS) 'Ski' Sharp (Team Captain), Capt Paul Newson and a last minute encouraged volunteer, Cpl Ryan Lang. On reaching the first checkpoint after covering approx. 16km, the 'A' team found that their cunning navigation had paid off, overtaking eight other teams, to be only the 2nd team through the checkpoint, a position they were to hold onto for the rest of the race. After enduring monsoon rain storms, horizontally driving sleet and bright sunshine the 'A' Team staggered across the finish line in a time of approx. 7½hrs, securing them a position in the sun. An even more impressive accomplishment at the end of the long hard race was to leave Cpl Ryan Lang without a word to say (unheard off !) This was due to the fact that he was completely exhausted and unable to walk or talk by the end of the race. The 'B' Team led by the QM (T) was slightly slower but still managed to finish a very creditable tenth.

Selecting the team which met some three weeks later, again at an unearthly hour, in Brize Nortons very own Holiday Inn, armed with the latest high tech equipment was not without its fair share of grief with Cpl Lang being saved from a fate almost worse than death by his Sergeants Course, Sgt Paul Haughton from the 'B' Team was volunteered for the third member of 14 Sig Regt's Cyprus Walkabout Team (how unlucky can you get). With a little bit of last minute PR SSgt (FofS) 'Ski' Sharp managed to equip the Team with some excellent Dry-Flo T-shirts and Camelback drinking systems, from Cotswold Outdoors Ltd, in order to cope with the +30˚C temperature in Cyprus. For those who haven't heard of the Cyprus Walkabout Competition it's a two-day cross-country orienteering race for teams of three over a route of approximately 90km. The route on the first day is from Episkopi Garrison to Mt Troodos, where the teams are accommodated overnight before returning to Episkopi by a different route on Day Two. During each day teams have to pass through five checkpoints over a course of at least 40km and if that's not difficult enough the map used for the race is 30 years out of date.

Within 12 hours of arriving in Cyprus for our so called holiday and with only one week to acclimatise before the competition, the Team Captain, SSgt (FofS) 'Ski' Sharp soon got the new team and equipment tested, with a 22km training run in the heat of the day. However, it soon became evident that the only way to recce the 40km between Episkopi, which is just above sea level, and Mt Troodos, which is at an altitude of approx. 6000ft was by a combination vehicle and foot. Hence, much to the relief of the other two team members, the team found themselves trundling around the Cypriot bondu in a 16 seat transit van, a slight overkill but it was the cheapest vehicle to hire. The rest of the week was then spent in trying to re-map all the new tracks and roads that didn't appear on the out of date map including a major motorway that has to be crossed on both race days.

With the training going well disaster struck, Capt Paul Newson's ankle decided that it had enough of being pounded around the bondu and in protest swelled to the size of a small balloon. Things were not looking good with no third team member two days before the race. At the eleventh hour the team was saved by a replacement from the Regiment in the guise of LCpl 'Spick' Lane, who arrived in Episkopi with less than 12 hours to go before the start of the race.

Finally the big day arrived and yet again in the middle of the night, three individuals from 14 Sig Regt, 'Ski' Sharp, Paul Haughton and 'Spick' Lane stood on the start line ready for the off. With over 40 teams drawn in random order, starting at one-minute intervals we had not long to wait before crossing the start line and collecting the control description sheet. It is only at this point that the teams discover where the checkpoints are and thus leads to some rapid route planning. It was decided that the optimum route to the first checkpoint was a 14km road run, 4km longer than going direct but safer navigation and quicker underfoot which paid off by overtaking some sixteen other teams who opted to go across country.

For those who haven't been to Cyprus there's two things you should know about the Cypriot countryside, firstly that it's very hilly with most of the valleys lined with impassable cliffs (which are not shown on the map). Secondly, unless you are wearing full kevlar body armour every piece of vegetation either bites, stings or just scratches the living daylights out of you. Bearing the above two points in mind the team made good progress through the checkpoints, not being the quickest moving team due to un-acclimatised 'Spick' Lane suffering in the heat but employing plenty of cunning route choices to move up through the field. Between checkpoints 4 and 5, as the team started to climb into the cooler slopes of the Troodos mountains 'Spick' Lane started to make a recovery and it was then the turn for Paul Haughton to start feeling rough, with a 3000ft climb before crossing the finish line. As the team crossed day's one finish line in Troodos Camp it became evident that all the hard work had paid off, being the second team to finish in a time of 7hrs and 20mins.

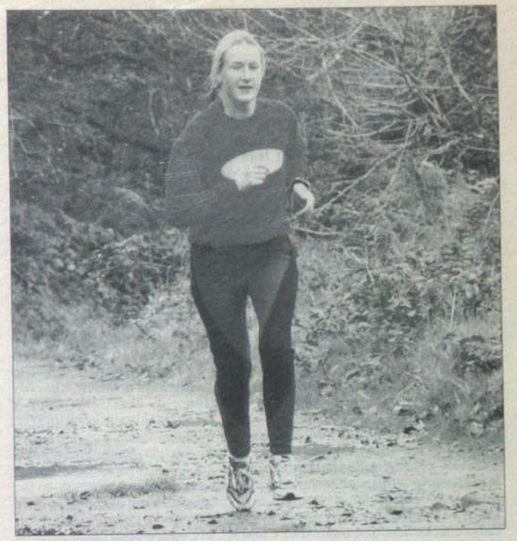
Later that evening after a well deserved mountain of food, the team found out that they were lying overall in third position, just 13 minutes behind 3 Armoured Field Ambulance in second position. With the fastest team starting last on Day Two, we started just two minutes in front of the winning team (QMG) and only 1 minute in front of 3 AFA, who knew that their 13 minute time difference was not a safe margin. Over the duration of a long race 13 minutes can be easily lost or gained though a single route choice. The team started well with a good route choice that took them quickly off the mountain and by checkpoint 2 they were leading the race, but this was to be short lived. The leg between checkpoints 2 and 3 consisted of a gruelling 9km road/dirt track run in the searing heat which took its toll on 'Spick' Lane and by the third checkpoint the team had slipped into tenth place. Shortly after leaving checkpoint 3 'Spick' started to feel weak and the team stopped in the shade for a twenty minute rest to try and cool him down, however, it soon became evident that 'Spick' was exhausted and suffering badly in the heat. For safety reasons the team decided to head towards the nearest main road in order to get 'Spick' to one of the safety vehicles that constantly patrolled the general route. With 'Spick' safely retired the last two checkpoints were quickly passed, with the now two-man non-competitive team being the seventh team to cross the finish line in Episkopi Garrison after regaining several positions. All that was left to do after finishing the Cyprus Walkabout in a time of approximately 14hrs was to quickly get washed, feed and down to the departures lounge at RAF Akrotiri in order to catch the first flight back home for a well earned rest. In summary, after yet another gruelling challenge, only 21 teams finished the race with QMG holding on to their overnight lead to finish in a superb overall time of 11hrs and 52mins.

Finally it just leaves the team to thank all those that helped to make the 'holiday' possible, to LCpl 'Spick' Lane for his outstanding effort, without whom the team would never have got over the start line on day one, QM (T) Maj Dean for doing all the initial organisation and getting the Regt involved in the Cyprus Walkabout Competition, Cotswold Outdoors Ltd who supplied the team with some superb equipment and finally to 14 Sig Regt (EW) itself for all its support and financial assistance. On that note all applications for a free 10-day 'holiday' in the sun next year, should contact SSgt (FofS) 'Ski' Sharp ASAP, as places are limited.

COMMANDING OFFICER'S CROSS COUNTRY EVENT

It was in wet and windy conditions that the Regimental Cross Country event took place on Thursday 12 November 1998 at Llysfran Country Park. The course was approximately 5.5 miles long (honest!!) and far from flat. The route itself wound its way around the Reservoir at the Park giving some spectacular views although the runners may not agree. At one point Capt Brown from 226 Sig Sqn was found contemplating whether it would be quicker to run around part of the lake or swim across it! The running won! Maybe it was the lovely Welsh cold wind we get here that persuaded him! There was approximately 200 people from the Regiment taking part in the event.

Sgt Bradley, who came in in First Place



Cpl Brown, who was the first lady in

The winning male was Sgt Bradley from Regimental Ops with an outstanding time or 31mins 46secs and he still didn't even look out of breath.

The winning female was Cpl Brown from 245 Sig Sqn with a time of 46mins 19secs closely followed by LCpl Dolan from TM Troop. WO2 Jenkins from 226 Sig Sqn collected two medals, one for the first male over 35 catergory and the other for coming sixth in the overall competition with a time of 36mins 12secs. The Veteran event was won by Maj Dean from QM(T) in a time of 43mins 23secs. The event was also a competition between the four Squadrons with points going to Russ Cup which is a competition made up of various sports which take place over the year. This year's winners was 237 Sig Sqn. The day finished off with a medal presentation by the Commanding Officer. Overall the day was a huge success, thanks to all those concerned for all the hard work put into the organising and setting up of the day. Finally well done to all those who braved the weather and took part even though it was compulsory!

16 SIGNAL REGIMENT

RAISING OF THE REGIMENTAL FLAG IN NEW LOCATION

Throughout 16 Sig Regt's occupation of Bradbury Barracks, Krefeld, the Regimental wall and a large willow tree became synonymous with the Regiment and were adopted as unofficial symbols, indeed, the Regimental Club is named 'The Wall and Willow'. When 16 Sig Regt moved to Rheindahlen Military Complex, in 1994, a replica wall was built outside Regimental Headquarters. In August last year, the Regimental Headquarters had to move yet again, within the RMC. This move brought the Regiment closer together, geographically, and helped to develop a unit focus with a 'camp within a camp' ambience. A new wall together with a flagpole was built at the entrance to 16 Sig Regt's new lines in order to keep its heritage alive. The 'Wall' forms an impressive centrepiece at the gates to the Regiment. To mark the completion of the move of the Regiment, the Regimental flag was raised up the newly located flagpole, behind the 'Wall'. The flag was raised by Sig Edwards, the youngest soldier in the Regiment.

NEWS FROM OPERATION AGRICOLA
255 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd — Maj A. Ross
SSM — WO2 (SSM) A. Aimer

HQ KFOR

The Squadron originally deployed to provide HQ KFOR REAR, but due to some minor problems over the border to the north we ended up doing the whole shebang. The planned move forward of 7 Sig Regt still has not occurred so the ARRC Staff are still in the Shoe Factory site, intended for less than half of the number it now houses. There was a temporary crisis recently with the refugees flooding down from the north and several members of the unit spent time establishing the camps. What started with tent erection carried on into digging latrines and litter picking, it was after this point that it was decided enough had been done. Now routine has nearly been established so here are some thoughts from the unlucky few to be around when writing was required.

On a lighter note the Salon of Cpl Tony Seville is proving a popular vending place. If it's not for hair cuts, it's for the likes of SSM Aimer and his attaches (Sgt Fensom, Cpl Windsor) to have their coffee breaks. Congratulations on your selection for promotion Sgt Fensom, soon to be SSgt Fensom. Sgt Parr has also been practising his civilian role - making a toilet from solder! He did this so well the appearance of a portaloo at the back of his wagon has been put down to him as well, nice one. Well, it's time for me to close now and Au Revoir. See you all in September.

THE SYSCON BIT – Name withheld

Syscon is now being expertly manned by a variety of people, particularly YofS 'Weeble' Warburton, SSgt 'Catalogue Man' Roberts and a whole gaggle of YofSs and FofSs! The RSSST(G) team are now in theatre as a whole and continue to 'mend' (or so they claim) our switches - funny how none of the switches have worked since their arrival. FofS Steven continues to do his dare-devil trips down town just to keep us supplied with Coffee and Tea - thanks FofS! We also have a new arrival namely WO1 (YofS) Fowler who came to us kicking and screaming from 7 Sig Regt, we'll look after him - honest! 16 Sig Regt is now on the 'Net' and the RSM seems rather obsessed with a lady by the name of 'Lola' - he is soon to be sent back as the Internet bill grows staggeringly high through his constant contact with the above named cyberchick! Syscon has settled in nicely and we look forward to another five months (or so they tell us) of 'finger on the pulse' comms.

Last point - what do you call a collection of YofSs - answers on a postcard please!

LIFE IN THE VEHICLE PARK – by Cpl Angus

Well, after eight weeks of being here in sunny Skopje, I was nominated to write a few notes on our adventures. Car Park Coy has calmed down a little now and daily routine has almost begun, but there is still the odd occasion when Syscon or the OSC change something.

We would like to say Hello to our new OC, 2Lt Dinnis who has just arrived from a tour at Blandford; also Cpl Findlay from 7 Sig Regt, who will be looking after our Gene's. Since the arrival of the Royal Signals Systems Support Team (WO2 Edge, SSgt Holloway and Sgt Lloyd) no switch has been the same! Switches beware..... RSSST(G) are out there! The local trade merchants appear every day with their stocks of 'Nikee' or 'Addeedas' gear for sale. Our local 'Del Boy' or 'Marvin the Haggler' aka FofS Geere has snapped up several bargains so the traders are wary of him now.

LCpl Cowie is keeping on top of the switch crews with his moaning and groaning, doing a good job of training up the sprogs, such a pity he's a 230 man. Sig 'Studley' Parker has been receiving plenty of mail from women all over the country and is refusing to share. Sig 'Penfold' Williams and Sig 'Old Git' Barret have now settled in after the initial shock of going on operations during their six month engagement from the TA. LCpl 'Fergie' Ferguson has not been the same after the accident - the accident of Sig 'Blonde' Evis that is! Poor lad, it almost got him down after getting his promotion. I could never forgive myself if I forgot to mention possibly the best Radio Tech from 16 Sig Regt in theatre (the only one!). That's a crate then Cpl 'Scotty' Johnson.

THE COMMCEN BIT – by Sig K Simms

During the time we have been in the Gazela Shoe Factory the COMMCEN/Radio Room/Hairdressing Salon has moved to two separate locations. Now that we are settled we decided to move our antennas on the roof - six times in ten days to be exact! Luckily none of the TGs have fallen yet, unlike Sig Evis of the Sys Ops. The Radio side is quiet, a few radio checks here and there. The COMMCEN on the other hand is really busy during the day and night. Sig 'Huggy' Huggett on permanent days and Cpl 'Robbo' Roberts on permanent nights. After eight weeks with little sun 'Robbo' is looking even more like a vampire. It has definitely been an experience for all of us, being out here, adapting and overcoming a LOT of problems! We all look forward to the R&R!!

SAN 872 - THE GERMAN SAN – by Lt Bruce

Having deployed to Tetvo at the foot of the highest mountains in the area the SAN established itself with some of the best supplied troops in the region, the German Brigade. The food was fine as long as you didn't mind bread, ham, or cheese - all the time. The German speakers among us have come to the fore, and the 'pointing and shouting' fraternity are also beginning to learn the language. We are being treated really well by our German hosts and are enjoying the experience.

ROYAL VISIT – HRH THE DUKE OF KENT

Friday 9 April 1999: Ring, ring.....ring, ring.... 'Hello. Could we host a royal visit within the Regiment? Yes, I think so, when will it be? What do you mean, this Monday!!???'

That is roughly how one half of the telephone conversation went, prior to the Duke's visit. The visit itself was fairly low key, the Duke primarily wanted to meet the families of those deployed on Operation Agricola. He was met by Maj Jonathan Turner, Capt Andy Percival and WO2 (SSM) Al Churchward. Following a short operational brief by Maj Turner, the Duke was escorted to the Ptarmigan garages, where various members of 230 Sig Sqn were presented to him. Among those presented were: Capt Glynn 'Oh no! Not another crate' Buxton, SSgt Neil Perham, Sig Mark Cunliffe, Sig Angela Graham, LCpl 'Welshie' Welsh and Sig 'Day and' Knight.

The Duke then presented Royal Warrants to WO2 (SSM) Al Churchward and WO2 (RQMS) Jim Alger, before leaving to meet the families of those members of 1 Signal Brigade deployed in FYROM.

21 SIGNAL REGIMENT (AIR SUPPORT)

CO Lt Col John Terrington
RSM WO1 (RSM) John Williams

This year sees the 40th Anniversary of the formation of the Regiment and this will be celebrated during our annual Regimental Open Day on 10 July 1999. The Open Day will take place at Azimghur Barracks, Colerne, near Chippenham and is open to families, serving and ex-members of the Regiment and also to the general public. This year, we have expanded the programme and the Open Day will feature a display by The White Helmets, as well as from the military display, recruiting and youth teams from:

Royal Armoured Corps,
Royal Artillery, Royal Signals, Light Infantry
Prince of Wales' Division
Royal Gloucester, Berkshire and Wiltshire Regiment,
Royal Logistic Corps,
Adjutant Generals Corps
Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers

WARRIOR, DROPS and other military equipment will be on show, alongside Paintball, Quad Bikes and, subject to operational commitments, Chinook or Puma aircraft from the RAF Support Helicopter Force. The Regiment would welcome a visit from any member of the Corps, past and present, and especially previous members of the Unit. Details may be obtained from WO2 (RCWO) Mead-Male on Colerne Mil 5116 or 01225 745116.

Hectic as ever, HQ Sqn continues to provide sterling service to all of its customers. An excellent deployment and turn-out during Ex Red Beaufighter 1 allowed comprehensive assessment of the recent changes to SOPs. Most changes were well founded and were a positive step forward, whilst, inevitably, some proved the adage '.... Try, try and try again!'

HQ SQN (V) (Trowbridge)
PSAO Capt Billy Miles

The excellent news just in, is that the 'powers that be' in the TA restructuring process have finally agreed that HQ Sqn (V) should not relocate to Colerne, but directly into the 6 LI TAC Bath. The move will take place at the end of July this year, after the L1 draws down and moves out.

MTO Capt Guy Richards
Tp SSgt SSgt Mark Sala

Yet another busy month was upon us and to start with everyone's favourite team had caught up with us, yes it was yours truly the Pre Inspection Team. Preparations the previous month had been very hectic and very busy. Cpl Doyle had the pleasant job of sorting out the AB88 Register and was asked the question was all up to date and okay. His immediate reply was, to everyone's surprise, was what is a AB88? After receiving a vast amount of assistance from the TIFFY everything began to smell of roses and was running quite smoothly for a short time. Cpl Eskdale had cause to worry when the team came to inspect lets say the Steptoe vehicle (SQMS) has seen better days. New blood arrived in the Troop just as PRE was going on Sig Chilvers was given a warm welcome into the Troop and was presented with a paint brush to start work straight away. Sgt 'Mac' MacDonald, whilst all this was going on, was up to his neck in drill, PT and yomping on his Sgt's course congratulations on successful completion of the course 'Mac'.

After completion of the annual Pre-inspection it was time to spring-clean the MT hangar, but Cpl Howie was not paying much attention as he was too busy concentrating on his new posting to sunny-Catterick. We are all sure it will not be as sunny as it was in Florida, where he has just spent his honeymoon with his new bride Lisa. The MT boss has returned from an EFP 2 course which he found quite mind numbing but it could have not been all that bad as he has started to read the Times newspaper, A well done goes to all MT personnel for their hard efforts in the past two months.

PP6E.004

The Squadron is now celebrating the decision not to relocate to Bath this year, but to delay in Bridgwater until the Regiment decadreises. This momentous decision, taken by Ministers after a great deal of staff work and a rear guard action which Field Marshal Slim would have been proud of, was finally taken in early April. The Squadron can now forge ahead and start to train the ex-Light Infanteers who intend to re-trade as signallers when the Squadron finally joins the HQ Sqn (V) element, in Bath, in the new Millennium. Next edition will include photos and tales from the recent Initiative Training weekend

81 SIGNAL SQUADRON (V) (COLERNE AND NATIONWIDE)
Sqn Comd Maj Craig Tillotson
PSAO Capt John Harris

Farewell and Bon Voyage to outgoing OC, Maj Bob Manifold who has now handed the reins of command to Maj Craig Tillotson - welcome to the hot seat! Bob will be sorely missed as OC, both from the professional and the social perspectives, and he led the Squadron extremely effectively during a significant period in the Squadron's history.

The Squadron continues to support the Regular Army, world-wide, on a variety of static communications projects, with deployments to the Falklands, Ascension and Germany, as well as in UK. 857 Signal Troop deployed on Ex Falkland Sound during January and February, in support of JCUM. The Exercise was part of an ongoing task to improve and replace the ageing communications infrastructure at the Mount Pleasant airfield. Led by Capt Tim Jones, a total of 45 men and women from the Squadron deployed to install and upgrade the Main Distribution Frame in the Tactical Operations Centre. Other tasks were also achieved, including the obligatory 'meet the penguins' and battlefield tour.

Planning for the transfer of command from 21 Sig Regt (AS) to 2 (NC) Sig Bde as part of the Army C18 Group is moving apace. Currently scheduled for 1 Sep 99, SHQ will move to Corsham and, it is intended, will retain a degree of autonomy within ACISG allowing the Squadron to continue to provide an excellent and very cost effective service to its customers, world-wide.

220 SIGNAL SQUADRON (AS)
Sqn Comd Maj A. S. Williams
SSM WO2 (SSM) G. D. Robinson

220 Sig Sqn is as busy as ever despite the impending closure of RAF Laarbruch and the move of SHQ back to Colerne later in the year. Our operational commitments have increased significantly with the current activities in the Balkans, and as word spreads about the Telemechs' skillset job offers continue to fly in thick and fast to ACPO. Additionally we are about to embark on a major exchange and cabling project in Ascension Island which will take another large bite out of the Squadrons manpower over the next three months.

In February this year a team of soldiers from 220 Sig Sqn joined forces with 280 Sig Sqn to collect sweets and chocolate from the Cologne International Sweets and Confectionery fair. This was destined for distribution among hospitals and orphanages in Bosnia under the supervision of the charity Scottish European Aid. An excellent day out was had by all and the Squadron remains awash with chocolate that wouldn't fit on SEAs lorries. Many thanks are extended to Nigel Sergeant at the BFG Press and Information Office and the British Trade Minister, Brian Wilson, (not formerly of the Beach Boys!) for supporting this very worthwhile event.

Sgt Darron Twigg (220 Sig Sqn) Hon. Simon Scott (SEA), Brian Wilson MP, Lt Emma Rae (280 Sig Sqn)
and WO2 (SSM) Ged Robinson (220 Sig Sqn)

On the sporting front the Squadron has continued to do well in the Rhine Army Football league under the fanatical direction of WO2 (SSM) Ged Robinson, and we also won the UKSC (G) Minor Units Cross Country championships, much to the surprise of the Foreman and 2IC who were both recovering from a dining in for most of the course!

In March, following a highly successful battle-camp at Haltern Ranges, the Squadron bids it's fond farewells to the OC, Maj Andy Williams who goes to HQ AMFL as SO2 PINFO. Not content with one leaving 'do', Maj Williams celebrated his departure with three, leaving in a slightly more dishevelled state than when he arrived at the Squadron. Sorry about that Heidelberg, we're confident he'll recover in a couple of weeks though! Maj Williams has been replaced by Capt (TOT) 'Noddy' Baugh MBE, who has leapt enthusiastically into the chair from ACPO, for what will undoubtedly be a busy few months. The Squadron has also said a fond farewell to Lt Toby Heath who is off to pursue a career in Civvy Street and to Sgt Darren Twigg, posted to the School in Blandford. For the meantime the remainder of SHQ wait with baited breath to see if the incumbent 2IC, Lt Jim Lambeth will manage to finish building his car before he's posted back to the UK.

H TROOP

The current operational sorties frorn Bruggen have added an edge to the work being undertaken by H Tp. Upgrade to the ASM involves work on 14 Squadron sites and the Flight Line Bunker, with deployment of 81 Sig Sqn (V) assets in support planned for later in the year. Other work continues on LDCN (Phase 1 and 2) and RAF Squadron site LANs.

L TROOP

Whilst the RAF continue to disperse from the airfield at Laarbruch, L Troop have a clear focus in their work towards the draw-down and eventual hand-over of the site to, erm, well, whoever! Much work is underway to clear the sites of cabling and installations as the RAF move out. From the management perspective, detailed inspection of the RAF's closedown plans has been essential to avoid the closure of facilities which the Troop, and SHQ, will continue to need until their transfer to Bruggen in August and September.

ACPO – JHQ RHEINDAHLEN

Lt Col J. A. Terrington, Commanding Officer of 21 Sig Regt (AS) recently presented Mrs Lyn Fadzilah with her twelve year certificate of service at a ceremony in JHQ. Lyn, the Airfield Communications Planning Office (ACPO) Office Manager previously worked for British Forces (Germany) at Griffon School, RAF Wildrenrath but relocated to their ACPO position on the withdrawal of 21 Sig Regt from that site in 1992.

Project work and planning continues apace in Macedonia and elsewhere in Fry, and teams have already deployed on a number of additional tasks over and above the standard roulement. World-wide tasking also continues, with comprehensive projects being undertaken on Ascension and in the Falklands. These will provide a unique opportunity to develop the trade skills of the significant number of young Signallers in the Squadron, as well as providing a rare break from FRY and routine airfield tasks.

ARMY BOBSLEIGH CHAMPIONSHIPS

by LCpl Dave Heath, H Tp RAF Bruggen

Last year I managed to get myself into a two man bobsleigh team. Here I found myself hurtling towards the bottom of a narrow icy track at speeds of around seventy miles an hour - really quite frightening on the first go, but nevertheless one hell of an adrenaline rush.

At the Army Novice Championships in Igls, Austria, my brakeman and I managed to fit in three laufs a day for a week to get used to the track and to perfect our timing. A race can be won or lost in the pushstart, the idea being that you both 'hit' the bobsleigh at the same time in order to get the fastest possible acceleration. Easy? ... No not really, in fact it takes a lot of practice. Once you're moving you jump in and the brakeman gets a lift to the bottom, where as you would expect, he stops the sled. The drivers' job on the other hand is only just beginning once you're both in the bob. He has the unnerving task of getting 390kg worth of sled and passengers to the bottom as quickly yet safely as possible. This is much more difficult than it might sound, however my brakeman, LCpl Adam Grant, and I managed to do it well enough to earn ourselves a Bronze medal and a bottle of champagne!

Our next stop was Lillehammer for the main Army Championships. We were competing against Olympic Class athletes in the form of the GB number one pair, so an outright win was never really on the cards. Also competing was one of our coaches with his brakeman Cpl 'Barney' Barnet from 280 Sig Sqn. The competition was tough and the racing very fast, but it was a great experience for us relative newcomers to compete alongside such high class athletes. I learnt a great deal from them, however, come competition day we proved no match for the pros, despite turning in our best ever time. We did manage to beat our main rivals from the army novices, Sigs Steve 'Wilderbeast' Wildridge and Steve 'Lloydy' Lloyd. Cheers lads, nearly but not quite!

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have helped and supported me in pursuing this most unusual sport, particularly the Corps Games Committee and the PED Staff at RAF Bruggen who have very generously helped me out with sponsorship. Sean Olsson this year, Dave Heath the next.... well, maybe!

L TROOP RAF LAARBRUCH – by Cpl Dave Cascarino

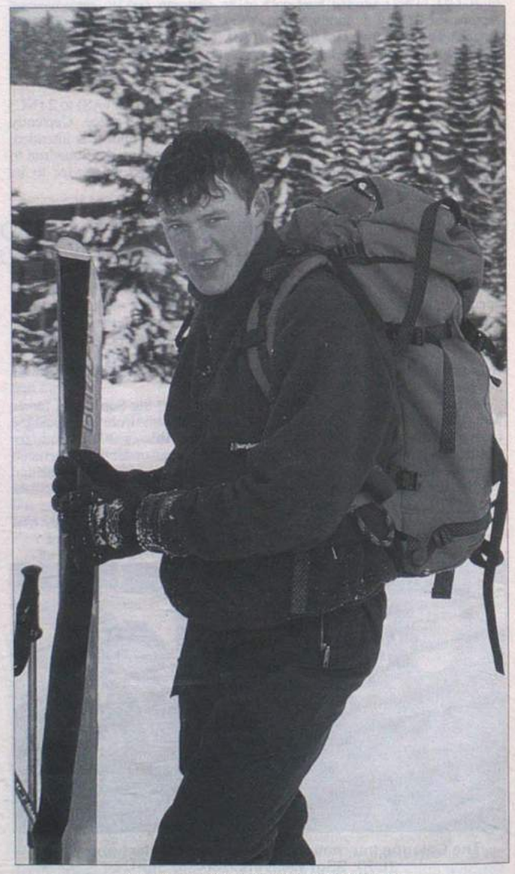
Life continues at its usual frantic pace here at sunny RAF Laarbruch, apart from the usual dets to Split, Banja Luka, the Falklands Ascension Island, we've also got people in Macedonia (Cpl Steve 'Stag On' Mesmer) and sent a large contingent to Margate over the Easter grant. The Troop is still managing to maintain presence here at the sharp end in Germany.

There have been a lot of comings and goings in the past two months or so, notably Sigs Chris 'Reesty' Evans to Civ Div, Sgt Jason 'Harry' Harris to H Tp along with LCpl Donny Stewart and LCpl Matt 'Party Animal' White. Cpl Dave Cascarino has returned, from the big FI looking all the better for another tour, Sgt Alvin 'Billy' Lilburn has been making flying visits back and forth to Macedonia, (he and LCpl Chris Bain even managed to get a lift on the Royal Flight for one such trip, it's hell on Ops!) more often than not leaving a few bods behind along the way.

We welcome Sig Love and LCpl Emmison fresh from the factory, have a good tour, and will soon welcome back into the fold LCpl Daz Dales who is at the Blandford Centre of Excellence undergoing re-moulding from Telemech to CIT - not in for much stick when he gets back... TECHY! We have recently welcomed our resident Airfield Techs into the Troop, SSgt Chris 'BA' Holmes and Sgt Lee 'The boy Wonder' Coffill, on an Inter-Troop posting from the now defunct Support Troop. LCpls Bamforth and Welsh recently represented the Squadron at the station closure ceremony, looking extremely smart and military in their 'twos' in what would otherwise have been a complete sea of blue.



Sig Ronnie 'Admin Vortex' Warwick is somewhat confused by all this white cold stuff on EWT

If responding to any advertisements in The Wire please mention that you saw it in your Corps magazine

The Troop continues to pursue its interest in all things non military - most of us have attended EMT and Sigs Mitchell and Richardson have managed to scrounge a couple of cargo parachutes so they can go para-gliding for a couple of weeks in Bavaria - it's a hard life being a Telemech!

244 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd	Maj Ian Walton
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Steve Dickson

The last few months since the New Year have seen a dramatic increase in the level of tasking on the Squadron and there are few people left who are not on Ops, warned for Ops or literally just returned from Ops (and some of them fall into the first two categories too!) In amongst all the hectic jumping on and off the operational bus, normal life has continued in a fashion. The A Tp Holiday Club has recently returned from an arduous winter deployment to sunny Italy (and were warned for Ops in Albania on return). The rest of the Squadron got Otterburn on Ex Gryphons Flight instead. The Squadron is also witnessing a major turnover in Squadron personalities. The SSM has been picked up for promotion and leaves us soon for 35 Sig Regt - good luck to WO2 (SSM) Steve Dickson, Shirley and the kids. Other promotions are SSgt 'Geordie' Walton and SSgt (FofS) 'Side Burns' Moore, both going back to their SF roots as WO2s. Well done to you both. On top of this we have also received two new Tp Comds to replace the two deployed on ops in Croatia and Macedonia, Capt Bill Holbrook and 2Lt Sara Richards join us from the delights of the TCs course.

CHARLIE TROOP

The Troop has deployed dets on both Exercises and operations in support of the Support Helicopter Force. The increase in tempo in the Balkans region has committed the Squadron, operationally, like never before. At present each member of the Troop is on, just come off or about to depart on operations and so leading a normal life in Colerne is at present very difficult! To that end when we had the rare chance to get ourselves away for a Troop Day-Out we all jumped at it. Alton Towers didn't know what hit it.

We deployed from Colerne at 0800hrs in what promised to be good weather but, as always, the other side of Birmingham was cold and wet. On arrival at the park everybody split down into groups and set off for a day of wet fun. Our group headed straight to the log flume and rapids first while Cpl 'Denzel' James and company, not able to 'weather' the rides headed for the nearest dry place (the Alton Towers Tavern). The only downside to the day was LCpl 'Mail' Donaghy's and Sig Steff Gibbs' point blank refusal to go on anything more scary than the tea-cups. We got the chance to get warm when the cable car stopped mid-air for an hour, although there were rumours it wasn't an accident and done by the park management to give the civvies a chance on the ride. Everyone had a good day but missed having our colleagues who were on operations there - yeah right.

Recent departures from the Troop were Sig 'Dickie' Dyer and Sig 'Sandra' Evans. Sig Dyer has left the Army after six years to work for a haulage company, and Sig Evans has been posted to JCUNI. Good luck to them both. Arrivals include the new Troop Comd, Capt Bill Holbrook from 20 Armd Bde via Blandford, Cpl 'Chuck' Berry from 16 Sig Regt and Cpl 'Rab' Grice from 14 Sig Regt, LCpl 'Ollie' Olver and LCpl 'Jack' Horner from 7 Sig Regt. (The Corps Waterpolo Team has landed!) Also newly arrived Sig Young, Sig 'Sad Sac' Sutherland, Sig 'Buster' Gentles, Sig 'EVIL' Darwood, Sig 'PI' Barton and Sig Emma Preece all fresh from the Royal School of Signals.

The Troop would like to say hello to all the guys at present on Ops, keep your head down and see you soon. In the next month along with operational commitments we have an ATD camp in Plymouth, a JNCO Cadre course in Sennybridge and an Exercise in Germany to keep us ticking over, so while the future's bright its not orange!

DELTA TROOP

Delta Tp has been recently reduced in size because of overseas commitments but there has also been lots to do back at the camp. The Troop even found time to visit the Quasar in Bath and much fun was had by all especially the new boss 2Lt 'wet behind the ears' Richards who seemed to think she was on a FIBUA day with live rounds! A large majority of the Troop found a mixture of Quasar and a night out before too much to handle - mentioning no names! On a different note the Troop welcomes Cpl 'Rob' Lewis who is already enjoying the high pace of the MAOT desk 2Lt Sara Richards as the new D Tp boss, and Cpl 'Jasper' Marrit who must love it here on his second tour. Forthcoming farewells to Sig 'Andy' Trueman after nine and a half years service - well done that man, LCpl 'Edgey' Edge - good luck in your Civilian employment and LCpl 'Lindsay' Payton - posted to 30 Sig Regt in Bramcote.

To the lads and lasses out in Split from the Troop keep up the good work in the glorious sunshine not that we are jealous - Colerne's glorious! Already Sig 'Tony' Burton is savouring the delights of the less than cheap Ale! It must be a little sunspot out there when comments like Sig Emma 'Ma'am, I've packed my Bikini and that's it' McDonald, come about.

VISIT BY THE MASTER OF SIGNALS

We were delighted to host a visit by the Master of Signals, Maj Gen I. O. J. Sprackling OBE, his first to the Regiment. As recompense for missing the England - France Four Nations match during the visit, the Master was treated to tea and biscuits during the briefing by the CO, Lt Col John Terrington, 21C Maj Bruce Avison and Ops Officer, Capt Bob Nixon. Following this, the Master was briefed on the newly arrived PRC 346 Tactical Ground to Air radio (TacGA) by members of 244 Sig Sqn. During the evening, the Officers hosted the Master and Mrs Annie Sprackling at a Regimental Ladies Night, a treat for all!

COLERNE DIVERS SUB AQUA CLUB

Chairman	Capt Jeff Ashwell
Diving Officer	Sgt Paul Morse
Secretary	SSgt Julie Eldridge RLC

Under the direction of Capt Jeff Ashwell, the Colerne diving club has now been founded (well we have got our own swimming pool) and has been up and running for the past four months. It is quite surprising that the Club has had no casualties yet, as Paul Morse insists on trying to drown certain members of the club by loading them with extra weight. The club at present has 25 members and is growing steadily. The Club has applied to both Army Sub Aqua Diving Association (ASADA) and BSAC (British Sub Aqua Club) for membership to permit expeditions to recognised diving sites around the world to be organised.

Colerne Divers have already held a weekend expedition to Fort Bovis and in Plymouth and members of the team were Cpl Bobby Sands, Sig Claire 'instructor potential' Blades, Sig Tammy 'I can float upside down in my dry suit' Yates and Sig Wendy Torode. In June this year the Club is holding a two week expedition at Fort Bovis in preparation for foreign climes next year. Typical, SSgt Julie Eldridge only volunteered to be secretary as Capt Jeff Ashwell dangled the Ascension Island carrot; knowing her luck she'll be posted next year and miss out again. The Club wishes to take this opportunity to thank the PRI for its donation - without it the Club would not have got off the ground.

EXERCISE CAPITAL CITY 1999

The Army Welfare Service (AWS) organised a trip to London for children from the communities of Colerne, Hullavington and Warminster. 21 Sig Regt (AS) provided one adult assistant, Sgt Pete Jordan AGC (SPS) and four children Kirsty Jordan, Terry Flaberty, Den Rouston and Lee Dickson to participate in this Exercise. We went to places like the London Dungeons, London Zoo, Trafalgar Square, Buckingham Palace, Horse Guards and the pictures. Everyone that went had a very enjoyable four days in our Capital City.

EXERCISE GRAND PRIX II – FEBRUARY - MARCH 1999
by LCpl Carl Kidner

After recently being posted in from 3 Div, Bulford and with only three weeks in the Regiment I was chosen from a cast of thousands to go to Kenya. Also from the MT were Sigs Davis, Spencer and Worthington, we were all attached to 1st Battalion the Prince of Wales Regiment to form the 'Staffords' Battle Group. This was quite an honour, as they had not been formed as the 'Staffords' Battle Group for some 20 years. We soon found ourselves on a week's training package brushing up on our military and communications skills. At the end of the training came the 'Jabs' in preparation for deployment. Some of the tablets we were instructed to take (Larium) caused problems such as nausea, vomiting and sleep disturbance which was 'to be expected' we were told. The flight from Brize Norton was on a VC10 and took eight hours. On landing we were welcomed with a 24-hour 'rat pack', some bottled water and a further six hour journey by coach to Nanyuki camp. The job we were doing was mainly driving. We were doing between 8-10 hours driving a day on dusty, bumpy C & D class roads with fully laden vehicles. The food during these details was 'rat packs' and bottled water but the food in camp was quite good. Our driving details consisted of picking up and dropping off troops at various locations and camps in Kenya and taking part in various training programmes on different terrain.

The normal 'Admin' details were also completed by the 30 Sig Regt drivers such as collecting rations, ammo and spare vehicle parts which all had to be collected at 'BATLSK'. Our LAD guys certainly had their work cut out as the majority of the fleet of vehicles were VOR awaiting spares when we arrived. Before we left all the vehicles were road worthy and ready for handing over having been inspected, serviced and repaired in every detail. R&R came around and we all took part in the 'Kenya Experience' consisting of riding horses and camels, visiting Zulu Warriors and seeing how they lived and climbing Mount Kenya which took three days. This mountain is 10,000ft high. The temperature rose to an unbelievable 120 degrees in the shade, I think that's what made me so tired all the time. The six weeks seemed longer and was very tiring but all in all it was a well worth trip if only to see the lions, elephants, rhinos, buffalo, hippos, giraffes, zebras, impala, baboons and chimps first hand in their natural habitat.

Sqn Comd — Maj Richard Wilson
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Chandra

The year started well with the Squadron retaining first place in the yearly CO's challenge. The year will see the formation of a second Gurkha squadron up in York. The new squadron OC, Maj Richard Wilson, arrived and has set about shaping the Squadron to meet growing and rapidly changing commitments. The first Squadron competition of the year, the cross country, was won by 250 in convincing style, the OC coming third out of the Squadron. Long may it continue.

VICTOR TROOP

V Tp's year started in the usual busy way. While Cpls Kaji and Tej were sunning themselves in the freezing Lake District, the rest of the Troop prepared for the New Year. The year will bring a plethora of different Exercises and commitments in all parts of the world. The first of these is the month long Cobb Ring Exercise in Florida, an Exercise which for some reason requires 90% of the Regiment's techs. Who says they're stupid? However, to ensure that proceedings do not go too smoothly a Squadron re-org was thrown in while the Tp Comd, 2Lt Davis, was away on his language course. After the re-org we admitted DE/DLs, and even a tech, into the Troop for the first time. We said a fond farewell to those who are leaving the Troop to move next door.

WHISKEY TROOP – by Sig Akash Sunuwar

Whiskey is not a drink; it is the well-known name of a Troop in 250 Gurkha Sig Sqn. The commander of the Troop is Lt Krishna Bahadur Gurung and the 2IC is SSgt Lawrence. The arrival of the new OC has led to significant changes in the QG SIGNALS and within the Squadron. Within this Squadron the MT Tp (X-ray) has become a comms Troop like Victor and Whiskey. All the DE and DL's have been divided between the three Troops. Most of the soldiers from MT Tp are also aiming to re-trade in the near future.

Gurkhas are historically known as brave and fierce fighters, but nowadays they are proving they are also adept with modern technology. All the soldiers are very busy at the moment because of Exercises and operations. Whiskey Tp is organising an Exercise in Catterick from the 1-5 February. The name of the Exercise is 'Khukuri Chaos'. The aim of the Exercise is to teach different trade skills to the soldiers. In the Exercise the soldiers will teach each other about their trades and discuss different communication equipment. Whiskey Tp presently holds the following comms equipment; VSC501, Radio Relay, Radio Relay, Euromux and CNR. Soldiers learn how to maintain them for long life through the Troop seniors and Exercises. Co-operation and brotherhood within the Troop are the main principles, which help to keep the Troop performance up to the required standards.

X-RAY TROOP – by Sig Rudra Limbu

1999 appeared like a sunrise, leaving behind the memories of 1998 and the long awaited Christmas leave. The members of X-ray Tp welcomed the new OC, Maj Wilson, along with the New Year. He came up with the idea of reorganising the Troops. The Troop reorganisation took place 18 – 22 January 1999. Prior to the reorganisation, 250 GSS was made up of two comms Troops, Victor and Whiskey, and a support Troop, X-ray. The comms Troops held all the comms assets, and X-ray provided power, line and transportation. Now X-ray is also a comms Troop and all the driver linemen and electricians are equally distributed among the Troops, as is the comms equipment. Now all the Troops have Euromux, Radio Relay, CNR, VSC501, line and power dets. Finally the OC inspected all the Troops, encouraged all the Troop personnel to work hard and thanked them for their efforts.

EXERCISE HIGHLAND FLIGHT – 16-27 DECEMBER 1998
by Sig's Ishwor and Ashok

During the Christmas stand-down 250 Gurkha Sig Sqn organised a winter adventure training exercise in the Lake District. The Exercise was co-ordinated and led by Lt (QGO) Khrishna Gurung. A total of 52 personnel took part including 25 new trainees who had recently joined Queens Gurkha Signals.

Exercise Highland Flight 1998'

Based at Halton Training Camp, Lancaster, we participated in various activities including hill walking, mountain biking, orienteering and our newest experience, water skiing. The weather was cold, sometimes dropping down to 1-Degree Celsius but that did not deter us. Most remarkable of all was the interview with the Guardian newspaper and even with BBC TV for their evening news coverage. For the first time we were in the Newspaper and on TV as well Finally we are grateful to Lt (QGO) Krishna who put the time in to organise the expedition.

EXERCISE COBB RING 1999 – by LCpl Bharat Rai

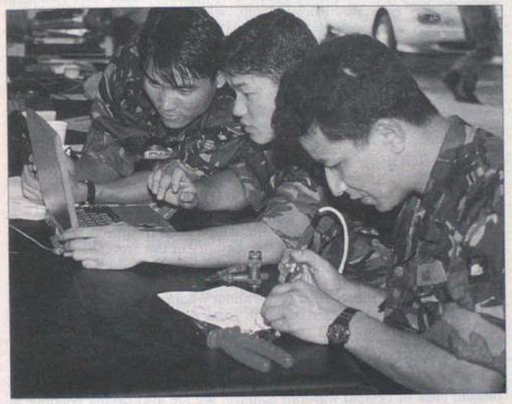
Ex Cobb Ring is an annual joint interoperability trial involving 30 Sig Regt and the US JCSE (Joint Communications Support Element). JCSE is a rapidly deployable, joint, tactical comms unit, which is controlled by the joint staff. The Unit deploys world-wide supporting all unified commands, government agencies, all four services and selected foreign governments on contingency operations and war. It provides communications to link deployed commanders to their component HQ, and to the national command authority. The aim of the Exercise is to test the interoperability of UK/US Satcom equipment, to practice the movement of 30 Sig Regt personnel and equipment by air, and last but not least to establish and maintain the liaison and personnel contacts between JCSE and our Regiment.

250 Gurkha Sig Sqn was the lead Squadron for the Exercise this year. One VSC501 and one TRC522 was deployed to MacDill Airforce Base, Tampa, Florida, where the exercise was to take place. A contingent of JCSE personnel were also deployed to Bramcote. A plug up Exercise was conducted 25-29 January, after which equipment was packed and manifested. Capt Hill (2IC 250 GSS) led a total of 35 personnel from the Regiment to RAF Lyneham on 5 February 1999. As usual on Hercules aircraft, we enjoyed the nice packed lunch and the quiet engines! After a long and tiring seven hour flight we landed in the Azores to spend the night. The following morning we took off again and had a short stopover in Bermuda to refuel the aircraft. We finally arrived at MacDill at around 6pm local. After unloading the kit we made our way to the Holiday Inn Express Hotel in downtown Tampa, where our accommodation was booked for the first seven days. On 7 of February we set up the Det and got ready for the Operation. The 501 was beaconed up using the US satellite and frequencies, and we didn't encounter any problems.



Gurkha Techs 'hard at it' in Florida

Despite the busy series of scheduled trials and testing programmes, Lt Krishna, the Admin Officer, managed to get hold of information about places that we could visit. The shift roster was worked out so that we all had the chance to visit Universal Studios, Disneyland, MGM, Kennedy Space Centre and Busch Gardens. Some sport competitions were also organised by JCSE, including a 9-mile march and shoot, football, and combined PT. No-one will forget the football, which we won 12-2.

On 24 February, Lt Col Lithgow MBE visited the Exercise, and briefed us all about the current situation back at the Regiment. On the same night JCSE organised a dinner night, which was very enjoyable. Sigs Durga, Jas and Chau presented a short Gurkha khukuri dance, and Capt Hill did his bit for US/UK relations by drinking the American 'Grog'. The Exercise was highly successful. We will never forget the help of the JCSE personnel who were very supportive at all times. Lastly we should not forget to mention the hard work of the 522 Det who provided the rear link for the Exercise.

Jai QG Signals!!

256 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd — Maj Jules Swindells
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Steve Lockwood

HELLO AND GOODBYE

The Squadron would like to say farewell, good luck and thanks to the following people: Cpl 'Jase' Bridges, Cpl 'Nick' Blake, LCpl 'Muss' Murray, LCpl 'Claire' Allsop, Sig 'Dikky' Dickinson all of whom have moved to civ div. LCpl 'Sonic' Harding, Sig 'Kelly' Tweedy and Sig 'Naith' Eldridge all have moved over the water to NI, we wish you all the best of luck. Cpl Dave 'I'm losing a tenner a day!' Knowler has moved to Bassingbourn, and finally LCpl 'Just' Markey posted to 264. To fill the gap left by those above we have had the following posted in: Cpl 'Windy' Parry from NI, he goes straight on his class one, good luck there! LCpl 'Lidds' Liddle completes the NI exchange programme. LCpl 'Dranny' Dramsfield comes in from Krefeld. Also almost a whole Troop from Blandford including Sigs Marsh, Rigby, Lower, Bowyer, Riley and Shaw.

REAR PARTY ACTIVITIES

Over the last few weeks almost the whole Squadron has deployed on Op Agricola. Those of us still here have the full quota of guards, car boot sales and litter to keep morale up. The highlight of the last few weeks was the arrival of 2Lt 'It's good, but I can make it Better' Dagless from his Tp Comd's Cse at Blandford. It was a first day to remember. We saw our new Troop Commander practising his skills in counselling a distressed Cpl and Sgt, signing for non-existent vehicles and finally being measured for his coffin. After a few beers in the Mess 2Lt Dagless joined the rest of the Rear Party Command Group on an action packed evening in the Crystal Maze at Coventry. Later in the evening he was quoted as saying, 'I thought it was a wind up all day!' but we saw his face and know different!

TROOPIES PITFALLS – by 2Lt John Dagless

In true fashion and style it is customary to welcome the 'subbie' with a prank or two in order to break the ice. It also helps to show them that their real education starts here and now, as those young officers that recently left Blandford were soon to find out.

Though I was wary of the custom, a phone call on the Friday before my arrival distracted me from this. Capt Mike 'Larry' Grierson stated that on my arrival I would be deploying on Operations sooner than I thought. With this in mind, my first day was to be packed with action and drama. On my arrival I was whisked away by the all too helpful Cpl Lex Barker. The first stop was to the Medical Centre for a 'pre-deployment medical'. This highlighted the fact that I had a 'serious stomach problem'. One hour and many 'tests' later I left carrying a number of twenty-four hour urine sample containers. Straight after this I was then asked to face the disgruntled OC LAD, Capt Ian 'The Kitten' Cooper. As I was the only Squadron Officer in work that day, and with a careful bit of weaving, dodging, and gentle persuasion by the OC LAD, I signed for four Landrovers and three trailers that did not even exist. This was then followed by a BFT in boots and lightweights. To avoid running behind schedule on my first day, and giving the lads a bad impression, I decided I wouldn't change so did the BFT in what I was wearing at the time, working dress.

Following lunch I found myself giving marriage guidance counselling to a pregnant Corporal and Sergeant who was married to someone else. These persons shall remain nameless, though I think I will call their love child Rupert. As if this was not enough, I was quite literally hit by the QM (A), Maj Jim Coffey. I was told to parade in the Mess for a full 'pre-deployment 1157 check'. Having had half my kit ceremonially removed in the most convincing manner my mood started to worsen. To end it all I was then told to lie on the table and be measured for a coffin! Only then when I was asked to collect something from the Bar was I confronted with the truth and the Regimental Officers who are still in Bramcote. I must admit that I was taken in by the days events, it was done in a military manner and not too polished I will however admit that I was let off lightly, my welcome did not involve a donkey, a rabbit, or a chicken outfit, unlike previous new officers.

258 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd — Maj G. H. A. Odling
SSM — WO2 (SSM) M. A. Webb

The Squadron took on the new role of providing life support and communications for the Joint Task Force Headquarters (JTFHQ) as of 1 April 1999. There have been many changes and many late nights over the last few months preparing for the big day.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Many thanks and good wishes go to the hard working Cpl Carmel 'mean Rugby machine' Dunkley who has moved out of the Squadron to spend her last few months in the Army in RHQ. A big welcome goes out to LCpl Jason 'leggy' Harrington the Squadron's new clerk.

EXERCISE CYGNET GOLD

Ex Cygnet Gold was a six-week Exercise out to beautiful Kenya between 7 January - 15 February 1999. As a 258 Sig Sqn lead, Delta Tp, Lt Teri 'marmalade' Downes, SSgt Paul 'Mr conscientious driver' Boughey and Sgt Kenny 'last swan' Barker took upon the task of organising and leading the Exercise. We travelled out to Kenya in civilian style - 'Corsair', only to arrive during a rain storm which displeased Sig 'Dan the man' Cooksey. Luckily, the rain died away to reveal a burning hot sun which brought a smile to everyone's face after enduring a miserable British winter. Our task was to support 32 Engr Sqn who were on Ex Oakapple, which we did by setting up a basic COMMCEN at their luxurious tented HQ (situated in the middle of a Conservancy park with elephants frequently visiting the camp!). The Engr's always provide the best! The COMMCEN was lovingly run by Cpl Mick 'kebab maker' Gregoire, Cpl Ian 'ginger tusker' Waterworth with 2IC LCpl MJ 'If there is a disease I'll catch it' Holt and Det Tech Cpl Mark 'professor logic' Jones.

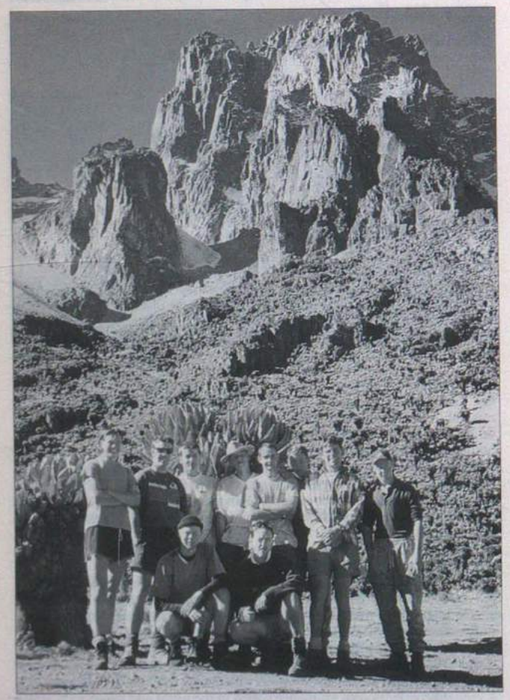
From the COMMCEN we extended HF comms out to the Engr's deployed locations as follows:

1. Percival's Bridge half way up the forested slopes of Mt Kenya operated by Sig John 'old man' Burke, Sig James 'the happy hippo' Haywood and Sig Faye 'look at my lingerie' Wood;
2. Back at BATLSK in Nairobi operated by LCpl Paul 'lovesick' Howard, Sig Tony 'I'm happy' Moore, Sig Fred 'the winge' West;
3. Sig Dave 'I've done it twice' Kyle, Sig Andy 'Army Fridge' Armitage the lucky souls travelled way up into the dodgy north where dangerous animals roamed in the night and make-shift water pipes made good showers.

We also carried out a JOCCOMEX with HMS Brave during which Sig Jamie 'real comms are sexy' Roderick managed to practice his rusty morse skills... except he had to slow down as the young lad on the ship had even rustier skills. All comms for the duration of the exercise were good and all operators benefited from the chance to learn new skills and enhance old ones. Every one had a chance to take part in some challenging Adventurous Training whilst out in Kenya. The package included trekking at high altitude in Mt Kenya National Park and white water rafting along Tana River. In addition, game safari drives were organised allowing everyone to see the wonders that Kenya can offer: big game included elephant, rhino, giraffe, buffalo, zebra, all sorts of deer and monkeys... oh and lots and lots of warthog 'Pumba's'.

LCpl Nichol making new friends

The highlight of the Adventurous Training package was the trek in Mt Kenya National Park followed by a white water rafting trip. Lt Teri Downes and Sgt Kenny 'navigator' Barker took two trips up into the park, each time taking a party of eight or nine. The first group had the unfortunate experience of additional altitude training on the very first day of the trek when Sgt Kenny Barker's frail mind temporarily failed to remember where the first hut was - just around the corner! Only a few teddies were thrown by the tired bunnies! LCpl Mick 'badger boy' Nichol found he was totally out of control of his legs and did a distinctive 'Bambi' impression all the way to the hut. Needless to say, the second group did not have to endure this traumatic experience.



Group two at Shiptons Camp at the base of Mt Kenya

The second day was long and drawn out, Sig Stu 'I've put weigh on over Xmas' Gould began to struggle a little but pushed on with determination. The 'its just around the corner' catchphrase was often heard, but top marks to Sgt Kenny Barker for his inspirational words: 'just imagine you're doing a BFT and your passing the LAD and you have another mile to go'. The evenings' entertainment in the mountain huts usually revolved around hearing all the stories from the Harrogate 94-96 'veterans' - very interesting! Or just sleeping. On the penultimate day Sig 'wait a mo' Gould was literally 500m away from the last hut when he could no longer wait 'to go'. Having waved his friends on and done 'the business', he attempted to put his rucksack back on and managed to dislocate his shoulder. After screaming, he tried to do as they do in the films and knock it back into place with a large rock. But real life isn't quite like the movies and after more screaming he was heli-lifted off the mountain - very dramatic! The white water rafting took place on the raging (not at that time of year) Tana River. Sig Tony 'sick' Moore kindly showed us his last meal during the Safety brief, then onto - and into - the water we went. Some people certainly experienced hair raising moments when either jumping into eddies as Sig Kate 'I don't need food' Deal demonstrated, falling out of surfing rafts backwards, jumping off a 40ft water fall or even rafting under a waterfall and being beaten harshly by the power of the water. Adrenaline rush for sure.

EXERCISE HERCULES FORUM

Ex Hercules Forum was the first JTFHQ Sig Sqn Exercise and took place in Gibraltar between 15 - 29 March. The Exercise was led by Lt Teri 'Gazelle' Downes, Yeoman Jim 'we did see him running on five consecutive days!' Knight and Sgt Gaz 'windscreen' Middleton with operators from Echo Tp, three pioneers from 23 Pioneer Regt, three chefs from the cookhouse and most of Delta Tp (again). There were two main sites on the Exercise: Rooke camp, which housed the JTFHQ and COMMCEN along with Staff Officers in the second week, and Buffadero, which sited the HF detachments for intra- and inter-theatre links.

The Exercise went well and good impressions were made all round. It was certainly a different experience for 30 Sig Regt personnel who had to provide a service to Staff Officers rather than working all on their own. Many of the Exercise personnel managed to experience the delights of down-town Gibraltar, with and without the Navy present!

DELTA TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Teri Downes
Tp Sgts	Sgt Jill MacKay
	Sgt Gaz Middleton

Delta Tp has been jet setting again, with a good handful deploying out to Kenya on Ex Cygnet Gold and the majority of the Troop deploying for the first time as ambassadors for the new JTFHQ Sig Sqn to sunny Gibraltar. It is with much sadness that we have to say our goodbyes to the one and only Sgt 'Kenny' Barker, without whom none of the Regiment's Adventurous Training would be worth going on. He has spent many years stationed with 30 Sig Regt and has perfected the reaction to 'fast balls' with his 'back of the fag packet' technique. The Troop, Squadron and Regiment will sorely miss his worldly experience and we all wish him every success in his second career, no doubt earning a mint in some distant, back of beyond war-torn country. We are also saying goodbye to Sgt Mick 'you'll never catch me' Murphy, who seems almost like a part timer as he has hardly been sighted between his many courses. He did a sterling job of managing the Troop and his work was much appreciated by all. We wish him every success on his Yeoman's course - good luck.

Due to a Regimental change around we are now losing our two Cpl Technicians, Cpl Mark 'VTC' Jones and Cpl Martin 'Scuba' Parkinson, both of whom are disappearing into the void of TM Tp. Cheers for all the hard work. Cpl Mark 'blue-eyed boy' Wyllie has just departed for a four month tour out in Bosnia after finally getting to grips with being the brew boy for the Yeoman in Sqn Ops. Look after yourself. Cpl Tek and Sig Cole have also deployed out to Bosnia on their first tours - good luck to both. LCpl ' whirl wind' Kemp is on 1 Sig Sqn probation, LCpl Bob 'don't mess with me' Scott on 22 SAS Selection and Sig Maxwell has been posted to 264 Sig Sqn - well done, all of you. Goodbyes also to Sig 'Butthead' Bevis who is off to civvy pastures new, Sig Justin 'Canadian' Fortner, who is posted to Blandford along with Sig H 'Lardy' Haywood.

ECHO TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt George Alexander
Tp SSgt	SSgt Doc Halliday

In March, we said goodbye to Sgt Mark 'Scouse' Reeves who leaves us for a greater calling in life - the outside! Also goodbye to LCpl Andy Taylor who is posted to 3 Inf Bde and Sig 'please don't put me in the SQMS' Simmons who has moved to the Sqn stores - lucky chap!

FOXTROT TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt Katy Taylor
Tp SSgt	SSgt Paul Boughey

A big hello is extended to Sgt Stu Fidler, his wife Sarah and his three beautiful children Alex, Jack and Molly, who have joined us from Blandford. Sorrowful, tear-stained goodbyes go to Cpl Sammy 'croffy' Samuel and his wife Lisa who leave us for 280 Sig Sqn. Goodbye also to Cpl Sarah 'guard bird' Faulconbridge, who is slinging her hook to 15 Sig Regt, but not before running for 30 Sig Regt once again in the Lanyard Trophy. Sig 'padoing' Padam is already packing for 1 RGR and Sig 'merciless, golden maggot man' Min who is off to sweaty, sunny Brunei. The best of luck from everyone in the Troop.

EXERCISE SPARTAN HIKE 1999
2 TO 21 JANUARY REGIMENTAL SKI TEAMS
From the Alpine side of life:

The programme for the first week consisted of getting our skiing legs back with one or two falls here and their but after the second day we were all ready to go. After the first few days we started training for the Army Divisional Ski Championships, this was the first time that most of us had ever been near a set of Gates. After a few days we were all really getting into it like ducks to water. Two teams were entered consisting of 1 male team Capt Harvey Woods, Cpl Stu Foster, Sig Gra Fields (PTI) and Sig Mark Vinten. The second team entered was the female team: 2Lt Katy Taylor, LCpl Lou Gregory, Sig Sarah Thorn and Pte Sarah Toms.

The beginning of the second week, start of racing, came round fast and everybody was keen to go. For the next nine days we took part in five different events consisting of the Slalom, Giant Slalom, Super G, Downhill and the parallel Slalom. Each event was an individual and a team race, although the team and individual events where raced separately. 30 Sig Regt managed to come away with the First Female Alpine Team, Sig Vinten came away with Junior Alpine Combination Winner and the team was awarded Best Gate Judges. Well done to the teams and special congratulations to Capt Woods and Cpl Foster who managed to qualify for the Army Ski Championships.

The Nordic perspective: On 2 January we set off for Serre Chevalier in the French Alpes. The Nordic team comprised of Lt George Alexander (Team Captain), LCpl Phil Constantinou, LCpl Caz Burrows, Sig Wayne Carr, Sig Andy Cole and Sig Tom Lowe myself. Four of us were complete newcomers to the sport and we had one week to grasp the basics before the races began. The first was the 10km classic style race and due to choosing the wrong wax some of the team ran around the course rather than skied. Over the next week the team competed in the 4 by 10km relay, 15km classic style race, 10km biathlon and 4 by 7.5 biathlon relay. Considering the lack of experience individuals performed well and in the relays LCpl Phil Constantinou gained valuable places.

The championships culminated in the patrol race in which a team of four skied 20km with 40kg two ranges and two tasks awaiting the team at unknown points along the route. The tasks and ranges did not prove too difficult and we eventually finished in a time of four hours. The Exercise was a great success and everyone enjoyed themselves over the two weeks. Thanks must go to Lt George Alexander for all of the organisation and congratulations to LCpl Phil Constantinou for qualifying for the Army Championships.

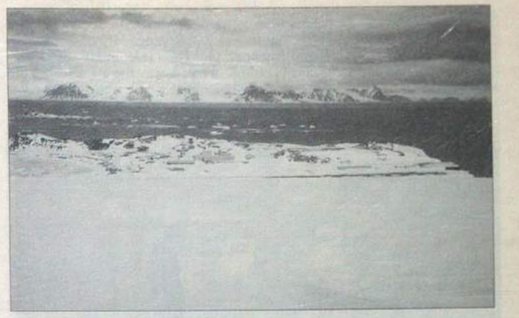
BRITISH ANTARCTIC SURVEY
CPL MCMULLEN'S ATTACHMENT

Brize Norton to Rothera - Cpl McMullen, whilst deployed in Kenya, volunteered for a six month detachment with the British Antarctic Survey to be employed as a communications specialist. On his return from Kenya he was whisked away for a selection interview and less than a week later he found himself on a flight bound for the Falkland Islands. His story follows.....

My journey started from Brize Norton, from where I flew to the Falkland Islands on a VC10 via Ascension Island landing at MPA. On arrival I proceeded down to Port Stanley staying the night and sampling the local hostelries i.e. the Globe and the Queen Vic. The next morning I was once again airborne flying to Rothera research station Antarctica a Dash 7 aircraft.

The Dash 7 bound for Rothera

The journey was quite remarkable, it took six hours and an excellent view of the Antarctic Peninsula. After a shady landing on the Rothera point runway, which is only about 200m long, I arrived at the station, my home for the next seven days.



Rothera Base

Rothera research station - Rothera research station is on a island just off Graham Land in the north west peninsula. It consisted of one large base building and several small buildings including a aircraft hangar for the Dash 7 and the four Twin Otters, and a runway.

My stay there only lasted seven days as I was still on route to Halley research station where I was to spend the next four months. My stay at Rothera was quite enjoyable as I had to do field training before my departure. My field training consisted of basic field craft, which showed me how to survive in the cold climate, and also abseiling down ice cliffs, and crevasse rescue and other rope and climbing techniques. I also got the opportunity to go out in one of the diving boats and experience the Antarctic waters around the point.

The next part of my journey was to take me to Halley research station by twin otter that should have taken us six hours to get there. Unfortunately for myself the weather deteriorated at Halley and we were forced to land on the Filchner Ice Shelf. The Filchner Ice Shelf used to be inhabited by the German Antarctic programme but the Shelf broke away and was currently moving off into the Weddel Sea. We decided to go and stay overnight at the abandoned German base which was on a 30km iceberg which we had to land on. The base looked like a ghost ship in which everything had been abandoned in position.

Cpl McMullen at the Filchner Base

The British Antarctic survey had been granted permission to land there to keep an eye on the base and report on how the berg was holding up as the Germans were due to send a salvage party in to dismantle the base, eventually. I was one of the few to visit there in its present condition. The next morning the weather conditions had improved slightly so we decided to have a go at landing at Halley which was two hours away.

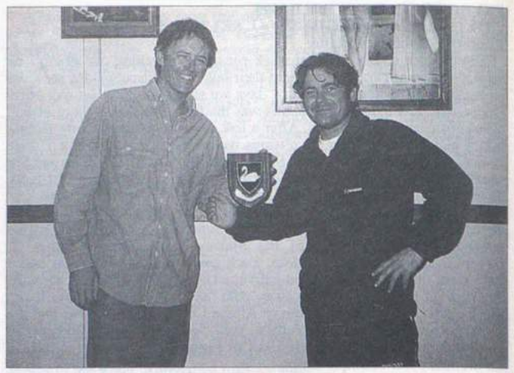
Halley research station - Halley research station is located on the Brunt ice shelf that is 76 degrees south so about 700km from the South Pole.

Halley Research Station

My job there was, as part of a team of three, to look after the communications for the base that included long range HF, Immarsat and maintenance of the masts and antennas. Our main role on HF was safety aircraft comms and field party comms. While I was there I also got the opportunity to visit the emperor penguin colony which was a spectacular sight.

Emperor penguin colony

One of the main jobs during the summer season is to lift everything on base as it gets buried by the snow in winter so the legs on the base have to be extended and the whole base jacked up. The ship RRS Bransfield has to bring in all the stores and equipment for the following winter and the current summer season.



Farewell – Swapping a Regimental Plaque for a haircut!

After all the work was complete it was time to travel back to the Falkland Islands on the RRS Bransfield. The journey lasted 3 weeks due to the formation of sea ice, during the journey to the Falklands we visited Signy base, St Olgas point, South Georgia where we saw the old whaling station and the seal colony.

It was a long journey to end a thoroughly enjoyable and unique detachment. The whole experience was enjoyable and a unique experience to visit one of the most uninhabited and harsh continents in the world I would recommend the opportunity to anyone.

31 (CITY OF LONDON) SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS – SOUTHFIELDS

CO	Lt Col Linda Harrison TD
RSM	WO1 (RSM) John Gibson

HELLOS AND GOODBYES

A number of new faces are now seen wandering around RHQ in Southfields, most notably Maj William Brown the new Regimental 2IC who took over from Maj Bob Davis on 01 Apr 99. Maj Brown has arrived from HQ 11 Sig Bde and we welcome him and his wife to the Regt. We all hope that they enjoy their time here. Good luck to Maj Davis in his new appointment in Blandford. The second new arrival is WO1 (RSM) John Gibson, fresh from 19 Mech Bde HQ and Sig Sqn in Catterick who took over on 1 March 1999. Welcome to you, your wife Kay and children Luke and Hannah. Once again, we hope that you both enjoy your tour with the Regt. Good luck to RSM 'I'm a civvy now' Duncan Hall in your exploits on civvy street - we all hope that it is a painless transition.

NEWS FROM THE OPERATIONS TEAM

Trg Maj Alfie Brand and COS Maj Paul Kelly 'on business' in the States

It has been another busy period for the Regt with a wide range of activities taking place. The Training Major, Maj Alfie Brand, the Foreman, WO2 (FofS) Bob Wymer, and the Yeoman, WO2 (YofS) Si Tyler, somehow managed to orchestrate a 'swan' to the US to visit our sister Regiment in Washington. They were kept in line (or was that led astray?) by the COS from 2 (NC) Sig Bde Maj Paul Kelly. They all claim that it was a highly productive and informative trip, however rumour control has it that it was more holiday than business trip!

On a more business like note the Regiment has taken delivery of its new 'all singing all dancing' comms equipment - Project Lanward has finally turned into a reality! As with every new bit of kit, the procurement process never quite seems to run to schedule, Project Lanward was no different. Fortunately, seconds before the Foreman, WO2 (FofS) Bob Wymer, was going to pull out his last remaining strand of hair, the new equipment turned up. The TOT, Capt Henry Taylor and the Foreman gathered their small yet beautifully formed band of techs to get it all sorted out. With the Yeoman on side it is now full speed ahead to carry out all the conversion training that is required for the Regimental operators. The deadline is Annual Camp in July and thus far at least this project appears to be running to schedule!

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON – SOUTHFIELDS TAC

Sqn Comd	Maj Julian Carmichael
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Chrissie Stanton

HELLOS, GOODBYES AND CONGRATULATIONS

HQ Sqn has also got a number of new faces in its line up. Firstly welcome to Maj Julian Carmichael who has transferred across from the Royal Yeomanry as OC Sqn. Good luck to the ex-OC, Maj Chris Mahony, who after 31 years TA service (the last 10 years being commissioned service) will be retiring shortly and enjoying a well earned rest! Welcome also to WO2 Chrissie Stanton, a familiar face in the Regt, who returns as SSM HQ Sqn after a time out with the London District Specialist Training Team. Good luck in your new appointment. Farewell to WO2 (SSM) Pete Lovett who retires after 33 years TA service. HQ Sqn would like to extend a big thank you to the OC and SSM for all of their hard work over the years. Finally congratulations to newly promoted Sgt Tanya Campbell, a very well earned promotion and undoubtedly Delta Tp will continue to flourish under your guidance.

FLEET ARMY HALF MARATHON CHAMPIONSHIPS SUNDAY 21 MARCH 1999

What better activity could you be doing on a Sunday morning than running 13.1 miles! Somehow the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner, managed to coerce a willing band of volunteers into joining her on the Fleet Half Marathon. It didn't seem such a bright idea as the heavens opened on the way down the M3 en route to Fleet - but in keeping with the old adage that the sun always shines on the righteous - conditions were clear as everyone lined up on the start line. Well done to Capt Mel Rayner (Adjt), SSgt Craig Bruce BEM (PSI HQ Sqn), Sgt Matt Cahill, LCpl Mark Bell and LCpl Ian Byrne (all 83 Sig Sqn) for completing the race in quite creditable times.

EXERCISE COCKNEY CATERER – Capt Fred Southey QM(V)

The day was dawning when 31 Sig Regt (V) was committed to producing the three chef team, which would compete in Ex Cockney Caterer the London District TA Cookery Competition on Sat 20 Mar 99. After a lot of umm-ing and ahh-ing and debating the make-up of the team, it was decided we should go ahead and enter. However as with all TA activities, nothing is ever certain and the team selected began to waiver, with one unable to come, and then another, and then the whole team! However, in good TA tradition and with much resolve, Team Manager, Capt Fred Southey, having been warned that his reputation was on the line pulled a team together. So, with good luck, much co-operation, and a lot of support from NRPS, SSgt John Mackins, the team of Sgt Nick Tuck, 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn (but I'm a tech not a chef!), Cpl Lesley Wade, 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn and LCpl Barbara Cameron (HQ Sqn) were on their way. Arriving at Chelsea Bks on a lovely, sunny morning, the team, full of apprehension, settled down to the initial briefing. The team had to prepare a menu from a given list of ingredients, including a starter, main course, and dessert. The judging was on! Now came the difficult part - erecting the 12 x 12 tent! Thanks to Sgt Nick Tuck, this went smoothly - sigh of relief! The tables were in position and the cookset switched on. The rations were then issued to the teams, with each team having a different menu and timings for starting and producing the main meal. Much scurrying was observed within the tents, as dishes were produced, sampled by Cpl Lesley Wade and immediately put in the bin. The pressure mounted as the food tasters, all in white coats, began their rounds - this was further intensified by the arrival of the CO and self appointed unofficial chief taster (!), Lt Col Linda Harrison. The tasters were busily tasting the dishes as presented and then withdrawing into a huddle to debate what they had sampled. Without a word they would then move on. This enabled us spectators to follow in the footsteps of the tasters and have a nibble ourselves. Being completely unbiased, I thought that the 31 Sig Regt (V) food was undoubtedly the best, but this was a personal opinion. One hour later, and the prize giving was about to take place. The judges were seen to be in deep conversation around a table. Speculation was rife that we had come last! The other teams were in much the same nervous state. Then, the results were given, in reverse order. To our amazement, we had achieved 2nd place, being beaten by only 4 points! The moral of the story is that more spices should have been added. The odds were stacked in our favour to some extent because both Cpl Wade and LCpl Cameron are mothers of young children who are probably far more critical of their Mum's culinary creations than any senior official taster!

To show off their achievements, their medals were re-presented to them in Southfields TAC by Col TA Independent Units, Col Storie-Pugh during his visit on Tuesday 23 March 1999. Very well done to all three chefs for an excellent performance.

REGIMENTAL CADRE COURSE 19-21 & 26-28 FEBRUARY 1999

The Regiment has recently ran the first Cadre Course of the year. The Squadrons nominated eleven students to attend, joining instructions were issued and the troops began to read up on all the various subjects that they would cover on the course. Most of the subjects would be very familiar, however the words 'Cadre Course' tend to panic most troops into some form of action! The course was run by SSgt 'I've now become a marathon runner' Craig Bruce BEM and SSgt 'Yim Yam Yom' Des Eldridge. They greatly appreciated assistance from WO2 (SSM) 'Silver Fox' McMahon, Sgt 'I don't want to be a marathon runner but my PSI has other plans' Campbell, Sgt Sandra Burns, LCpls Si Roberts, John Ford, Laurel Allott and Mark Bell. They all did a sterling job, well done.

The students turned up at Southfields TAC somewhat quiet and apprehensive, wondering what was going to be thrown their way. They were put through their paces on the initial fitness assessment by the HQ PTI's, Sgt 'Taz' Campbell and LCpl 'Si' Roberts, all students performed very well with special mentions to LCpl 'Mad Crazy Woman' Reader (56 Sig Sqn) and Sigs Leyland (83 Sig Sqn), Sethna (41 Sig Sqn) and Hanlon (HQ Sqn). The field phases on both weekends were excellently executed by the troops. They quickly dealt with any command task or job that was thrown their way with minimum of fuss. Morale was kept high as a kite by the likes of Sigs 'I should be on the stage' Hornibrook (41 Sig Sqn) and 'Clint' Eastwood (83 Sig Sqn). Sig Eastwood will smile and giggle in any situation and also told of a certain 'skinny dipping' story whilst working in the States a number of years ago much to the dismay of her fiancee who happened to be on the DS Staff, nice one Clint!!?

The course finale was the much loved 'Tab' on the Sunday morning. The event was obviously widely publicised due to the fact even the CO's driver, LCpl Mick Taylor turned out to voice words of encouragement to the students (or was it the PSI's ?). All course personnel gave the 'tab' their best shot. Sig 'My Dad used to be a Regular Officer in the Corps' Cox (HQ Sqn) deserves a special mention for his effort and was heard to have shouted 'Come on you lot, I'm a 'large, rounded type person' (or words to that effect) and I'm doing this so come on my friends! A good time was had by DS and students alike. A massive well done to all those who attended and an extra pat on the back to Sig Chris Cox (HQ Sqn) for being awarded Top Student. The course personnel were :

HQ Sqn	41 (PLK) Sig Sqn	56 Sig Sqn	83 Sig Sqn
Sig Cox	Sig O'Driscoll	LCpl Child	Sig Eastwood
Sig Hanlon	Sig Sethna	LCpl Reader	Sig Donor

DINING OUT OF WO1 (RSM) D. HALL – SATURDAY 13 FEBRUARY 1999

It was with great regret that the WOs' and Sgts' Mess dined out the RSM, WO1 (RSM) Duncan Hall after 22 years colour service in our Corps. The venue for this prestigious event was the Victory Services Club situated at Marble Arch. RSM Hall, to this day, was the youngest Warrant Officer to become a 'Tara' and was the fount of all knowledge. He had and still has more contacts around the world than President Clinton and any scenario that came up the RSM had done it or knew someone who would either do it or could supply the kit. It was also felt by the PSI's that he may have spent some time in the AAC due to the amount of chopper flights he had at his disposal in and around the London area. The evening went very well and a big thank you goes to WO2 (RQMS) 'George' Coffin for all his hard work in organising the dinner. RSM Hall will be missed by all members of the Regiment, especially by the PSI's in whom he always took a special interest - thanks Sir for all your words of wisdom and guidance. All ranks would like to wish the RSM, his wonderful wife Brigitte and their daughter Stacey all the very best for the future and say 'Civvy street hold on to your hat the Tara is incoming'.

41 (PLK) SIGNAL SQUADRON – COULSDON

Sqn Comd — Maj Steve Baker
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Watson

NEWS FROM THE SQUADRON

These past couple of months have been very busy for the Squadron. Training has been the order of the day, with soldiers attending trade training weekends, Courage Trophy training and of course on-going recruits training. Congratulations to Sig 'Soldier of the Year' O'Driscoll, Sig 'Karate Kid' Sethna and Sig 'New Boy' Hornbrook who have all successfully passed their Cadre Course, and to SSgt 'Cup o' tea cocker?' Clarke, who has been accepted on to the RQMS course.

TROOP COMMANDERS COURSE

Four members of the Regiment attended the first new look TA Troop Commanders Course at the Royal Schools of Signals, Blandford in February. The new version course was attended by 19 young officers from across the TA. The 31 Sig Regt (V) contingent included Lt Beth Pollard and 2Lt Debbie Speakman from 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn, 2Lt Paul Ukpai from HQ Sqn and 2Lt Keiron Francis from 56 Sig Sqn. Under the guidance of Lt Col Geoff Hornsby and with the aid of Maj Peter (Mr Photocopier) Bowles, Capt Barry Spiers and Capt Dave Worsted, they undertook a very enjoyable but intense course. The course comprised six days of general officer training, including the role of the Corps and its various regiments and squadrons as well as the different equipment and kit that they use. Many aspects of military life and the responsibilities of a Troop Commander were covered, including Military Law, TA regulations and the role of the TA post SDR. The week ended with a TEWT on the Saturday and a visit by Brig TA, Brig Verey. The course ended on a high note with a particularly enjoyable dinner night. That, along with the course 'Toga' photograph taken in the Corps museum, were two of the most memorable aspects of the course. To ensure that we couldn't forget the point of the week we had a mountain of handouts to take home with us.

In March three more officers from the Regt embarked upon the trek to Blandford. Lt Jill Montgomery, who has just transferred in after two years away from the Corps in Kenya, Lt Paul Owen, a recent transfer from 5LI and Lt Susie Sidwell, currently serving in Bosnia, all successfully completed the course. As with the first course, it ended with a formal dinner night. Only this one appeared to be a little more eventful than the first. Well certainly for Lt Paul Owen, as he arrived home with a shiner of a black eye. He claims it was a result of a particularly vicious game of Mess Rugby - that's his story and he's sticking to it! The course itself has been well received by the Troop Commanders who all feel that they have gained a tremendous benefit from it.

TERRITORIAL ARMY NATIONAL OPEN DAY - 13 MARCH 1999

The Squadron enjoyed a very successful Open Day on Saturday 13 March 1999. All the hard work in preparing for it was worthwhile as we were visited by the Under Secretary of State for Defence, John Spellar. Accompanied by the Mayor of Croydon and the Deputy Lieutenant, he was introduced to many of the soldiers and inspected our new Lanward communications equipment. The visitors were also shown live comms links to the other Squadrons and met soldiers carrying out everyday det maintenance. A number of the local population came in to see what we were all about. Therefore, the aim of the day, which was to publicise the TA and the Squadron, was well and truly achieved.

SSgt (FofS) Byrne meets The Mayor of Croydon

VISIT OF COMMANDER 2 (NC) SIG BDE BRIG S. G. HUGHES CBE

The Tuesday immediately after the Open Day we were visited by Brig Hughes, the Commander of 2 (NC) Signal Brigade. The OC Sqn Maj Steve Baker gave the Brigadier a presentation on the Sqn and all its main issues. 2Lt Debbie Speakman then delivered a very comprehensive recruiting brief before the Brigadier went on to meet soldiers who were engineering a comms link with Dundee and firing on the range. By all accounts he left very impressed by the 'smart, able and committed' soldiers of the Squadron. Well done to all at 41!

PLK AND AER ASSOCIATION DINNER - 26 FEBRUARY 1999

The Annual Princess Louise's Kensington Regiment (PLK) and Army Emergency Reserve (AER) Officers' Dinner was held at the Mercury House, the Duke of York's Headquarters on Fri 26 Feb 99. The dinner was extremely well supported by both serving and retired officers from both Regiments. The President of the PLK, Col Keith Bruce-Smith (an ex CO of 31 Sig Regt (V)), presided with the Honorary Colonel, Maj Gen W J P Robins CB OBE as the principal guest. The CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison TD, gave a 'State of the Regt' speech that was well received. The OC of the only remaining part of the PLK (namely 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn) Maj Steve Baker attended along with 2Lt Debbie Speakman. The Adjt also came along to help carry the bags! It was a very well organised evening and thoroughly enjoyed by all. It was also very encouraging to see that the Associations are still flourishing and so well supported.

OUT AND ABOUT

Hats off to Sig 'Pedal Power' West, who has just returned from a cycle ride in India in aid of Mencap.

HELLOS AND GOODBYE

The Squadron welcomes a new 2IC, Capt Alan Pepper, and his better half Lt Jill Montgomery, who have been in Kenya for the last two years. They were both previously serving with 32 Sig Regt (V) in Edinburgh prior to their sabbatical. We wish them well for their forthcoming marriage in May. Welcome also to Lt Paul Owen who has transferred from 5LI and is the new 2IC of J Tp. We have also said goodbye to Lt Scott 'Dancing Queen' MacSween, who due to the location of his new job, has transferred to 83 Sig Sqn. We hope he will remain a frequent visitor to the Squadron.

56 SIGNAL SQUADRON – EASTBOURNE

Sqn Comd — Maj Brian Howe
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Kevin Godden

Down here on the South Coast, Spring has most definitely arrived with a hectic round of PR events and visits in addition to our normal training programme. It goes without saying that these have been tackled with customary enthusiasm and that unique Eastbourne sense of humour.

MRS ANNE HEMSLEY

Unfortunately, this buzz of activity has been tinged with sadness following the death of our Civilian Admin Officer, Anne Hemsley. Anne joined the Squadron in 1976 and gave 23 years of sterling service. She had not enjoyed the best of health for some time but did not allow this to prevent her continuing her work at Eastbourne TAC. Throughout, she remained a focal point in the TA career of many a Squadron member, a genuine fount of knowledge. If you wanted to know anything at all about which form, how to fill it in, who to contact about this or where to look for that particular bit of information, your first port of call was sure to be Anne. Her long and dedicated service to the TA and particularly 56 Sig Sqn (V) will always be tremendously appreciated. She will be sadly missed but fondly remembered.

POST-SDR PRESENTATION – 9 FEBRUARY 1999

The Squadron is one of those in the fortunate position of having survived SDR relatively unscathed and of being able to recruit from other local units that are, sadly, being closed. To this end, we took the opportunity of inviting members of units in Hastings and Brighton to an open evening in early February and were pleasantly surprised by the large turnout. (Though, given the temptation of sun, sea and a super-sexy role - or so they keep telling us! - it's not difficult to see why we're quickly filling up the books!) A presentation was given by 2IC, Capt Jackie 'I forgot to save the changes' Blake, and post-SDR liaison officer, Capt Tony 'I can't believe she did that' Potter, now surely world experts in the use of the dreaded Powerpoint, having tested the system to its limits with every error message imaginable! (Rumour has it that Capt Blake managed to lose three hours of hard slog at the click of a mouse button, prompting Capt Potter to retire outside to preserve his sanity by taking up smoking again- oops!). The talk was followed by a tour round the TAC, and a warming curry supper, served up with his usual panache by chef, Cpl Steve Howell.

VISIT OF MP FOR EASTBOURNE

We were very pleased to welcome the MP for Eastbourne, Nigel Waterson, on his first official visit to the TAC on Saturday 27 February 1999 during a Regimental training weekend. Though a guest at several Squadron social events in the past, Mr Waterson had not previously had the chance to view us in action and seemed suitably impressed by what he saw. A briefing by Sqn OC, Maj Brian Howe, was followed by a tour of the centre, including a visit to the Basic Signalling Skills course. Mr Waterson rounded off a very successful visit by chatting informally with course members in the Squadron club where he seemed particularly interested to hear LCpl Mark Grieve's tales of Bosnia.

NATIONAL TERRITORIAL ARMY OPEN DAY

The Squadron threw itself whole-heartedly into the task of organising an open day on Saturday 13 March 1999, as part of the national awareness campaign of the role and presence of the TA. Thanks to hours of hard work, the Drill Hall was well and truly transformed with displays of radio equipment in its dismounted role, kit issue, and sports activities. The Indoor Range became a First Aid, NBC & Map Reading stand for the day. Outside, Sgt Bob Shevels manned the field kitchen, doing a roaring trade in hamburgers and hotdogs. The day was a huge success with over 300 people venturing through the gates. Just as successful was our evening event. Our CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison, and the RSM, WO1 (RSM) Gibson, joined us as we entertained local dignitaries, councillors and line managers at a private presentation. This was followed by a tour of the stands and a sit-down dinner, courtesy of Master Chef, WO2 Fred Bramble, and his team. Among the guests were Chief Executive of Eastbourne Council, Mrs Sari Conway, and long time friend of the Squadron, former Mayor, Cllr Maurice Skilton. All seemed extremely impressed and enthusiastic about what they saw and, most importantly, voiced strong support for the TA and what we do.

AND FINALLY…

No Wire Notes would be complete without a few pats on the back, so here are ours. Congratulations to LCpl Jason Light on his recent promotion, and to WO2 Jim Paine who put his leave from Bosnia to good use by marrying Viv. Best wishes to you both for a long and happy life together.

OFFICERS' DINING CLUB INAUGURAL DINNER 12 MARCH 1999

Evening wear was shaken out of moth balls, pressed and aired, and tried on for fit, in time for the first Annual Dinner of the newly founded 'Officers Dining Club'. Many old acquaintances were re-newed as both past and present members of the Regiment ate, drank and made merry. The primary guest of the evening was Mr A. Lorkin, Master of the Worshipful Company of Innholders, who kindly permitted the use of Innholders Hall, an absolutely magnificent building, for this prestigious occasion. Our Hon Col, Maj Gen W. J. P. Robins CB OBE, rounded off the evening with a few choice words and a rather red nose! (Not so much to do with the wine, but a little more with Red Nose Day - so I'm told!). The evening was a great success and everyone is greatly looking forward to the Club's second meeting.

COURAGE TROPHY SHIELD COMPETITION – LONGMOOR 28-29 MARCH 1999

The Courage Trophy and Shield Competitions are London District Military Skills Competitions run over 2 days at Longmoor. 83 Sig Sqn entered a mixed team into this years Courage Shield Competition. The Team was ably led by Lt Linda Davis, who is on attachment from the Royal Australian Signals.

The Team got off to a strong start, earning high marks in the First Aid, NBC and on the Assault Course. Some of the highlights of the competition were Sig Dave McKenzie's ongoing battle to subdue his shock victim during the First Aid Stand, although he did redeem himself with an excellent drive over a very challenging Cross Country Course. LCpl Laurel Allott and Sig Tia Snell put in very strong performances on the March and Shoot and Assault Course, where they seemed to cope with the tunnels and mousholes a lot better than the rest of the team - could it be due to their slightly more portable size! Sig Tia Snell also had a good run on the Night Navigation along with Team 2IC, Sgt Dave Alleyne. Sig Brian Jardine helped the team to a very slick time on the Comms Stand. Sigs Richard Leyland and Farquharson-Roberts produced some consistently high standards of Shooting throughout the competition. Another strong performance in the final event, the Falling Plate Shooting Competition, despite being a man short, the Team narrowly missed going through to the third round of the competition. The Team were visited on Sunday by the CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison and the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner who were accompanied by the Mayor of Kensington and Chelsea, Cllr Dr Jonathan Mundy. Although they didn't win, the team should be proud of their efforts as everyone acquitted themselves extremely well. Many congratulations to all who took part.

TRADE TRAINING CAMP

The Regiment held its annual Trade Training Camp at Edinburgh Training Centre (ETC) in March which heralded a great success. A total of 92 students took part, many of which achieved their next level in trade qualifications. The numbers were swelled this year by 21 members from the Scottish Yeomanry, 1 Highlander, 1 Lowlander and 1 RE who are transferring to the Regiment post SDR. Other units from within 2 (NC) Sig Bde also provided 22 students and two instructors which helped to make this the most attended camp to date. The Tele Op (Data) Class 3 course attracted the most students giving SSgt Tim Abbott, the course co-ordinator, the headache of how to fit 41 students into a lecture room equipped with only 30 desks! Splitting the Course into two groups was the solution. However, this meant each lesson had to be taught twice giving the instructors Sgt Sean Betteridge, Cpl Alison Mckay and Cpl Clare Smith the worst case of 'Deja vue' we have seen in a long time.

The camp this year marked the end of an era for the SSM WO2 Donald Webster. This was his last ever TA Camp as he is retiring from the TA after 37 years service, Good Luck Donald. On the final Saturday we were visited by the GOC Scotland, Maj Gen M. J. Strudwick CBE and the SOinC, Brig J. H. Griffin. Both had the opportunity to walk around the training facilities and meet and chat to students and instructors alike.

PRESENTATION OF CHEQUE TO ERSKINE HOSPICE

Two regular soldiers from 32 Sig Regt (V) recently completed long distance runs to raise money for the 'Erskine 2000' appeal. Capt M. J. Chambers travelled to New York to complete the New York City marathon and LCpl Johnson completed the Glasgow City half marathon. Their combined effort raised just over £1012 for this worthy cause. Well done to both and perhaps now the Adjt will settle down in his office, if he can remember what it looks like!

EXERCISE SNOW LION 1999

Army Winter Ski Association Scottish Ski Meeting

The AWSA Scottish Ski meeting is held annually at Aviemore Ski Centre in the Cairngorms. The Regiment has been entering teams in this competition for the past 11 years and has over that time had its fair share of success. This year was no exception and we entered a team consisting of the following personnel:

Maj 'Cammy' Payn
WO2 (AQMS) Tom Davidson
Sgt Ray Macmillan
LCpl Suzanne Robertson.

Lt Dave McBride, OC LAD was also entered as an individual and performed well. The snow coverage was excellent and championships were completed without missing a day's racing, surprising in this area. The meeting culminates on the Saturday with the Territorial Army Giant Slalom and our successes of previous years continued. After some close racing Maj Payn emerged as the Royal Signals Individual Champion and the team became the Royal Signals Inter Unit Champions. In addition WO2 Davidson won the REME Individual Champions Trophy. A great team effort and we look forward to continued success in years to come.

51 HIGHLAND SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj M Strachan
SSM WO2 (SSM) D. Webster

Training goes on apace here in the far North - after the worst snow in the Squadrons memory - Sig Bogart and Sig Henderson had to go on Ex Snow Lion in Austria to find even more snow! - coals to Newcastle I think.

CONGRATULATIONS

There are a lot of well dones here at 51 Sqn. Firstly to Sgt (Tech PSI) John Gorman on successfully coming off his promotion board - he takes up his new posing - sorry posting in late April. Next in line is Sgt Nige 'Scouse' Allen on his passing his colloquial Doric - sorry SerboCroat course - as this is being written the ordure has hit the air conditioning out there. Also many congratulations go to LCpl Jackie Brook on passing her police training course and being awarded 'best endeavour' cadet. Also at this time we are delighted to congratulate Capt Linda Duncan and her team of Sig Scott 'Son of SSM' Webster and Sig 'Cabbie' Henderson on their superb showing at the TA Cross Country Championship at Fleet recently – well done to all. Capt Duncan has led from the front by winning the trophy for fastest TA female - something we have suspected for a while now!

ARRIVALS

Welcome back to our two freeze dried LCpls Ali Jamieson and Rorie Milne - recently returned from the Falkland Islands - when asked how it was, they described it like a wet Sunday on Mull - except not quite as stimulating. We are in the process of gaining a number of transferees to our ranks from the Highlanders and RE's as a result of SDR - Welcome to 51 Sqn.

52 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj R. Sutherland

Ex Lapsleys Leap 5-7 March 1999, the Squadron deployed to Barrybuddon. Sgt 'Dougie' McDonald was Det Comd, the weather was cold, wet and windy, so he sent LCpl 'Boab' Nursimiloo in the search for anything thermal!! She returned with three thermal gloves (all different sizes) and one pair of thermal knickers. (Boys kept the gloves for the necessary parts, and her the knickers). Welcome the Scottish Yeomanry to the March Trade Training Week at Edinburgh ETC. 52 Sqn had a excellent parade with a turnout of 75 persons every morning. SSM was delighted with the turnout. (Keep it up). The Sqn Adventure Training took place on the weekend of 19-21 March 1999 at Lochgilphead Cadet Camp. A group went cycling in the rain, whilst another group went walking in the scorching sun, and the remaining group went canoeing in the local swimming pool, (drills were different from the usual drills with Sig McKay, Pte Mundie and Rec Tochel trying their best at balancing, but failed miserably, but succeeded in capsizing drills better). The nightlife at Lochgilphead was a much better success where SSgt 'Rab 5ft 0ins' Nimmo met his match, a 6ft 6ins dolly bird at the disco. She insisted on getting him a pint and with Cpl (Davie) Dougans and Sig Robbie Lawson watching over he could not refuse. (Boy, were they jealous!)

DEPARTURES

Just in time for Spring season in the Balkans, YofS Jeff Jephcote booked a six month tour with HM Travel and had in mind a spot of sun bathing by the Adriatic, leaving his dear wife far behind in sunny Fife. Unfortunately Jeff did not reckon on things hotting up quite as much as they subsequently did and has now asked the SQMS if he can forward his Kevlar helmet, webbing and a copy of 'Basic Battle Skills'. The Squadron has also said farewell to LCpl 'Mastermind' Drugans who has gone on an FTRS posting. Given the pick of all the exotic locations the British Army has to offer in the nineties, LCpl Drugans picked....Edinburgh - travel broadens the mind!

TRAINING

The annual trade training jaboree took place once again, being held this year in Edinburgh Training Centre and there was.... lots of Trade Training. Students from throughout 2 (NC) Sig Bde took part with 160 students attending in all. The only Sqn Trg of note was another ambitious military training weekend from resident training whizz kids, Sgt Ian Stallard and Capt 'Mad Dog' Middleton. Some Squadron members had not quite grasped the concept of a weekend in the field and set off with bergen's busting with everything but the kitchen sink! Later Cpl Lynn Drummond's. teddy bear was found bayoneted in the corner of her Bivvie. Cpl Drummond's other half (some might say better half?) let slip that it was his 30th birthday and was presented with a large teletubbies cake by our resident teletubby, Cpl 'La La' Chisolm.

QUALIFICATIONS

Congratulations to our intellectuals, Cpl Lynn Drummond and Pte Sharon Woods who passed their Military Clerk class 3 courses. Pte Woods pushed Cpl Drummond into place getting five A's as opposed to Cpl Drummond's mere four A's and a B. The course was so bad for the nerves both ladies have given up smoking. Congratulations are also due to Sigs Carol Clarke and Maz Anderson on passing their driving tests. Sig Anderson who lists 'fighting' as a hobby will give an entirely new dimension to road rage on Edinburgh's streets.

SPORTING SUCCESS

Yes you did read that correctly. For the first time this century the Squadron was represented in a sporting triumph when Tech PSI Sgt Ian Stallard was selected to play for the Army Scotland Rugby Team (and he's such a devoted Scotland Rugby fan!). The Army romped home 23-0 against the RAF and 35-0 against the Navy. They now go on to play the Women's Royal Auxiliary Balloon Corps in the Final. Cpl Betty Robertson also took part in Ex Snow Lion at Cairngorm as a member of the Regimental Team which won the team prize for Royal Signals teams. Meanwhile far below on the nursery slopes Capt Lockhart was struggling to introduce the 2IC to the delights of skiing. The best part appears to be that after every bout of excruciating pain the 2IC is allowed back to the cafe for more gluhwein. Pte Sharon Woods has also caught the skiing bug, after two weeks in Austria she got her Bronze award for Skiing (and gold for drinking).

RECRUITING

Two more new recruits have completed recruits course at Blandford congratulations to Sigs Davanna and Moss. After a shaky start our efforts to coax the local Eng Sqn to re-join God's Corps appear to be bearing fruit as their final parade looms nearer. Perhaps the tactic of parking an NCRS trailer across their gate covered in Signals posters was a bit extreme but it seems to have worked and a steady flow of engineers have been making their way to the OC's office to discuss transfer paperwork.

SOCIAL

Finally thanks once again to Maj Brian Mayhem Murray for organising another very successful Champagne Supper. For those not familiar with the occasion the purpose is to allow former Sqn officers to have an annual reunion sip champagne cocktails and talk about old times. In practice of course the evening invariably degenerates into a really good party with ex-members serving officers both TA and Regular and their civilian guests all having a cracking night. Well done Maj Murray, we look forward to your last party before retirement in 2000.

33 SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

At the end of February, the Regiment said farewell to Brig Ian Shapter DL as Honorary Colonel, and welcomed the new incumbent, at a Regimental Dinner Night. The 'new blood' is Professor Peter Toyne DL Vice Chancellor of Sir John Moore's University. A warm welcome from the Regiment to you. Another goodbye to the Regiment was given by General Officer Commanding 5th Division, Maj Gen Searby, who visited RHQ at Huyton in mid-March. From 1 April 1999, the Regiment will be under command of HQ Scotland. Amongst the social occasions is the Regiment's fierce preparation for participation on Ex Lion Sword, DCinC's Exercise to develop the operational effectiveness of HQ 3 (UK) Division, occuring during April. It should be a learning experience for all!

42nd (CITY OF MANCHESTER) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

Sqn Comd Maj Ian Kelly TD KINGS
SSM WO2 (SSM) Graham Ward

For the first time under our new historical title of 42nd (City of Manchester) Signal Squadron we go to print with the latest batch of Wire notes from the Manchester outpost of 33 Signal Regiment (V). Formerly the Squadron was known as 42 Signal Squadron (V), a rather conventional title which many people felt was a step down from the original 42 (East Lancashire) Signal Squadron. Despite the best efforts of the Squadron Commander to reinstate the original title, the Corps has now given permission for the City of Manchester title to be used in its place. This is a popular and sensible decision as the Squadron is in fact located in the City of Manchester and the new title can only help to foster relations with the local community as well as putting the Squadron firmly on the map.

COMMANDING OFFICER'S INSPECTION

February kicked-off with the inaugural Commanding Officer's Inspection when almost every member of our Liverpool based RHQ descended on Rusholme TA Centre to put the Squadron through a complete check of all its administrative, operational and training procedures while the accommodation and equipment was inspected by the CO, Lt Col R. J. Steed MBE. To say the Colonel is thorough, is to understate the case considerably. The day commenced at 1000hrs with almost a bang, due to the bomb alert called by our intrepid Adjt, Capt John Harrington, and finished at 2300hrs when the Squadron Commander was briefed on the outcome of the day by the Commanding Officer. In between every nook and cranny in each department was systematically examined by the RHQ teams and all paperwork scrutinised. Happily the Squadron provided most of the right answers and at the end of this ordeal emerged with considerable credit much to the relief of the Squadron Commander.

BELLE VUE

It had to happen sooner or later with an Infanteer in charge, and it is true to say that 42 Sqn has finally gone to the dogs! To be precise it happened on 11 February. This was the day when Sgt Tim Mounfield took 25 members of the Squadron to view the greyhound racing at the Manchester dog track in Belle Vue. Expecting the 'flat caps and cinders' scenario all and sundry were pleasantly surprised to find a very up-market and modern stadium where you sat in an enclosed gallery protected from the elements enjoying a meal and a beer while the waiters placed your bets. Being a member of the Manchester City Police Force, Sgt Tim Mounfield had negotiated a special price of £10 a head which included entrance fee, two beers, a meal in a basket and a free bet. Needless to say the evening proved a great success and it was agreed to repeat the visit in the future so that the OC Squadron and PSAO could perfect their sophisticated betting system of backing dog six in each race.

EXERCISE MANCUNIAN DRAGON 1999

Thirty members of the Squadron travelled to Scotland on Ex Mancunian Dragon 99 to take part in Winter Adventurous Training in the Cairngorms during the period 18 - 21 February. The party was based at Rothiemurchus Lodge just outside Aviemore. This magnificent centre is set in a remote part of the Rothiemurchus Estate in the heart of the Cairngorms. It provides accommodation for Regular and Reserve soldiers as well as cadets from all three services and their families. Fortunately there was plenty of snow and good skiing was available for experts and novice alike. The Squadron was pleased to include the Commanding Officer and the Training Major, Maj Carl Storey, in the activities but unfortunately due to a lack of space at the ski lodge they were forced to rough it by staying in a four star hotel in Aviemore.

NATIONAL TERRITORIAL ARMY OPEN DAY

As part of the nation-wide, post Strategic Defence Review (SDR) TA relaunch, 42 Sig Sqn opened its gates to members of the public and local community groups on Saturday 13 March 1999. Media advertising had been arranged prior to the event with press releases being sent to all local newspapers, broadcasts over local radio and transmissions of Squadron personnel being interviewed by Man Live going out over cable TV. This publicity campaign paid off on the day with almost two hundred members of the public turning up. As well as the usual communications stands, assault course and miniature range, local community groups were invited to participate by providing their own stands to create more diversity and interest. Among those represented were the Red Cross, St John Ambulance, the Manchester Special Constabulary, 174 Air Training Corps, the Rusholme ACF, the Manchester Branch of the Royal Signals Association, the Manchester Amateur Photographic Society, the Manchester Fire Service and Local Scout and Guide Groups. Also, a number of dignitaries and businessmen were invited to lunch. Most notable amongst them were the Lord Mayor of Manchester, Cllr Gordon Conquest, the Rt Hon Gerald Kaufman MP (MP for Rusholme), the representative of the Lord Lieutenant, Maj John Abbot and the Lord Mayor designate, Cllr John Burns. An added pleasure was to welcome for the first time our new Colonel in Chief, Professor Peter Toyne, the Vice Chancellor of Liverpool John Moore's University, who was accompanied by the Commanding Officer and Regimental Sergeant Major, WO1 K. C. Hallett, and who arrived in time to sit down to lunch in the Officers' Mess with the rest of the VIPs.

ROYAL SIGNALS CRICKET TOUR OF BARBADOS

Our resident gladiator, PSI Chris Glover, who is an Army volleyball player and represents the Corps at cricket has recently returned from a tour of Barbados with the Royal Signals Cricket Club. Asked to provide notes for publication in The Wire, he handed in several sickly descriptive foolscap sheets of the good times had sunning himself and plunging into a crystal clear sea, illustrated with pictures of sweeping white sandy beaches. Needless to say, the Squadron Editor, typing these notes in a rainy windswept Manchester, threw most of them in the bin in disgust. Seriously though, Sgt Glover is a very popular member of the Squadron and we are all delighted at his sporting success and pleased to see that if you are good enough you can still be rewarded, even in this hectic post-SDR era, by trips to foreign parts.

Sqn Comd Maj Chris Heaton
SSM WO2 (SSM) Bob Paterson

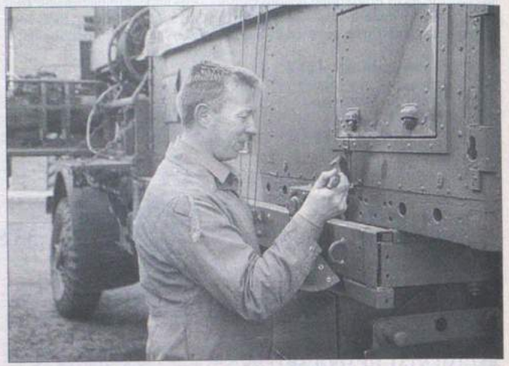
The Squadron have just come through a particularly busy time culminating in a weekend of inspection by RSIT combined with the national TA Open Day. Over the weekend 13/14 March the annual RSIT inspection took place. The TA soldiers put in a tremendous amount of work under the guidance of the Permanent Staff resulting in a very high percentage of battle-worthy installations.



SSgt George Sheppard heard saying quote, 'Too much grease here, not enough chalk here, paint all over etc, etc.'

SDR

The demise of 55 Sig Sqn (V) Aintree resulted in many of the TA soldiers transferring into the Squadron. Many will continue in the existing trades but some will have to retrain. All will remain in the Corps and hopefully enjoy the continuance of their TA career with 33 Sig Regt. The loss of Regular soldier posts prompted SSgt Jim Eddowes to comment, 'What's the problem, I do all the work anyway.'

80 (CHESHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)
POST-SDR

80 (Cheshire Yeomanry) Sig Sqn (V) have welcomed members of the disbanded 55 Sig Sqn (V) to their ranks. Amongst the new imports are the brothers Hogan. Six foot fourteen SSgt Hogan has already made an impression on the old hands with his imposing presence. We welcome all of the new members to the fold and wish them success with the Squadron.

PROMOTION

Cpl Brian 'Tank' Sherman is to be congratulated on his promotion to Sergeant.

LCpl Mick Thompson good humouredly 'pulling his finger out'!!

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

A very quiet time in RHQ! What with equipment and manning trawls at the rate of about 3-4 a day, deadlines of yesterday, new establishments and the YofS, WO2 Jim Thompson, joining Cable and Wireless, life has been fairly relaxed! The major event was definitely the departure of the Yeoman. Jim Thompson will be greatly missed by one and all. A big heart felt thanks for his efforts over the years and good luck for the future. Rumour has it that Cable and Wireless has an abundance of Technicians.

NATIONAL TERRITORIAL ARMY OPEN DOOR DAY

This event, as the name suggests, was a nation-wide attempt to inform, interest and recruit the general populace into the TA. The event was successfully carried out at Leeds with 113 people coming through the front gate. A special report, produced by a 1st year Public Relations Student, Miss Kelly Thornton, can be seen at the end of this article.

LETS ALL GO TO CORSHAM

It seems that all roads lead to Corsham for our regular staff. Cpl Al Henderson and Cpl Kev Ward have already completed their stints and Sgt Barney Phillips has just begun his secondment. After much gnashing of teeth upon hearing the news, none of the above have been all that keen to come back early. Is this because they are having a cushy time down at the hub?

SIX EXCEL AT MEANWOOD

The Squadron has for the past couple of years taken part in the Six-a-side Corporate Astro Turf Football League. After a somewhat shaky start this season the Team has begun to gel and are mid table at present. The League Cup seems to be the best opportunity for a medal with the Carlton Gate Tigers currently heading their group. The team consists of:

2Lt Keith 'Work 'em' Williams
WO2 (FofS) Kev 'Hotshot' Sturman
SSgt (FofS) Steve 'It's my ball' Moore
Sgt 'Nobby 'Where's the goal?' Clark
Sgt Rob 'I haven't got any kit' Godfrey
Sgt Barney 'It's just like watching Brazil' Phillips
Cpl Al 'I'm just finishing my tab' Henderson
Cpl 'Olly 'You must be .... blind ref' Oliver
Sig Ben 'What's ball control' Martindale.

PROMOTIONS

Congratulations go to the following on their well earned promotion to LCpl:
LCpl Wreathall - from Access Troop at Hull
LCpl Booth - who is on his way to Corsham on FTRS

Congratulations to Lt Ruth Middleton-Powell and Lt Jo Howard for passing their JOTES Examinations.

NATIONAL TERITORIAL ARMY OPEN DOOR DAY
49 (WR) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

The future of the Territorial Army could have been described as 'hazy' until someone, somewhere suggested a National Open Door Day. Let the public in and show them that the SDR (Strategic Defence Review) has not deterred the soldiers of the TA, but has made them more adaptable, more efficient and better trained than ever! Having spent Friday night dressed in 70's gear - covered in glitter and wearing a pink wig (don't ask - Comic Relief!), you can imagine my surprise when my alarm clock went off at 8am on Saturday. Feeling dazed and confused I proceeded to get myself together for what hoped to be a turning point in the future of the TA. (I have been on placement at 49 Sig Sqn, Carlton Barracks, Leeds since February, helping with PR and anything else Capt Dave Hallas throws my way. After what felt like hours of scrubbing the glitter from my face, I was on my way. I reached the barracks a little later than I had hoped, but luckily everything was under control? (Phew!!). The displays looked great, and thanks to the glorious sunshine, everyone was in good spirits. Even Capt Hallas who had been running the barracks practically single handed, as his colleagues had conveniently disappeared on a Regimental Recruit Weekend - RMC, oh and something called APWT for their bounty. (I'm still confused - where are your friends when you need them?) Despite the lack of manpower, everything was ready on time (ever heard of organised chaos!).

Final touches were made and at 10am the gates were opened as planned, the queues weren't exactly like those outside Harrods on the first day of the sales, and for reasons beyond me, people actually started to come in. Admittedly, as with most military exercises it was women and children first! Most popular by far was the climbing wall. Thanks must go to CSgt Crossley at Leeds University Officer Training Corps, for his time and patience. The NBC Suit, referred to as a 'Noddy Suit' came a close second. SSgt Holdstock set up his own ACIO (Army Careers Information Office) in the drill hall and proved that it isn't the Queens Shilling that is needed, but good old fashioned 'Gift of the Gab'. Throughout the day SSgt (FofS) Steve Moore could be spotted with a clip board looking official? (or just doing the Sun crossword!!) Not only did we have to deal with the hoards of people streaming through the gates! The soldiers were having a '2nd Line Inspection' too, which I must add didn't look too thrilling, job well done guys!!! (There are some things in life I don't need to understand.) By 1pm tummies were rumbling and people headed for the kitchen to sample the delights of SSgt Gordon 'Master Chef' Hardaker's culinary skills, pie and beans for the main course and for afters - apple pie (I must admit I didn't know apple pie could taste so nice from a tin). As the day drew to a close, security were having to turn people away, (word must have got around about the rations, no genetically modified food here!)

Overall the day was a great success, I suppose it's safe to say that it went better than we expected, we saw a total of 113 visitors through the gates, of which eight signed to join. WELL DONE EVERYONE! For some the day didn't end there (yes, you know who you are!) inspecting the quality of the beer in Leeds !!! (Hic).

ARRIVALS/DEPARTURES

Since the last submission we have bade a fond farewell to Sgt Bob Lawson who has decided to hang up his boots after a long distinguished career with the Squadron - our loss is Sunderland FC's gain. A number of our Regular members of the Squadron have been commuting between Darlington and Corsham for their sins. Sgt Scott Margison won the Squadron Xmas Draw and was detached to the Balkans for six months. Our Squadron Commander not too far behind him.

PROMOTIONS

Our congratulations go out to the following people who made the step up to the next grade. SSgt Martin Clark from Debdon Gardens and Capt Steve Wayman from Trunk Node Tp. The Squadron waits with bated breath for the next round of promotions that are due to be announced in April!

SPORT AND SOCIAL

On the social side, the Squadron has been involved in a number of functions. The Joint Messes (Officers/Sergeants) held a mess night in March, WO2 (SSM) Steve Tinkler again the main man in charge. On a sporting front a number of members of the Squadron are deep into training for The Lanyard Trophy/Nijmegen marches. The selection weekend at RAF Benson in April the first major hurdle to cross. 2Lt Jez Bailey has been blazing the trail in the forests again, a second place in the M21 class at the recent 15 (NE) Bde Orienteering Championships and a good showing in the ongoing 2 Div Orienteering league, proof that you don't need a Degree to be a good Orienteer!

REGIMENTAL XMAS WEEKEND

1998s Xmas Weekend was held at Deverill Barracks, Ripon at the beginning of December. Sig Emma Higgins reports, 'A weekend to end all weekends, full of fun and activities. If we were not involved with Welly Wanging or the Crystal Maze, we were fishing for points with the REME Lads. Cpl Sean 'The Stunt Man' Sweeney decided to try his hand at being a stunt man during the weekend. A trolley on a piece of string bashing into a wall does not warrant the title 'Stunt Man' though! Cpl John 'Man with the golden gun' Whiteman proved the James Bond stand was too easy for the eagle eyed 50 Sqn. As with the rest of the stands they were all brilliant. Apparently there was a party on the night, just ask Capt Steve Wayman how he got the lipstick on his toga!!

As you can see another memorable Xmas weekend. Many thanks to Capt 'Taff' Watts and Capt Graham Jennings for all their hard work, especially Capt Graham Jennings who managed to attend the whole weekend although he was thousands of miles away in Australia with the Barmy Army, courtesy of the Squadron cardboard cut out! The weekend was rounded off with an Orienteering event on the Sunday, the only stipulation from the CO was that the Regiment got wet! This the organisers 2Lt Jez Bailey and Capt Steve Wayman duly obliged. The weekend was rounded off with a Regimental parade, with a number of promotions and medal presentations and a drill display by a certain member of the Debdon Gardens Troop, who shall remain nameless, but we all know who you are. The RSM was heard to mutter, 'If only they spent more time on the square and not so much time in the garages, my job would be a lot easier'.

RECRUIT COURSE No 107

The Squadron had a number of members take part in the Regimental Recruit Training during January and February. 2Lt Jez Bailey was detached to take on the responsibilities of OC Recruit Training for this period, along with Sgt Al Gregory who continues to do an excellent job in his recruiting responsibilities within the Squadron. A report on the above course is due to be submitted in the next offering of notes from Darlington - courtesy of Sig's Alan Rayner and Mathew Graham, who are, as we speak drafting this literary masterpiece!

HALTON TRAINING WEEKEND

After the usual slow start to the new year, the Squadron embarked on a training weekend to Halton, Lancaster at the end of February. An excellent timetable of events was devised by the Sqn 2IC for the troops. Saturday entailed, a round up of the usual First Aid, NBC, BFTs etc, followed by a night out in Lancaster. The Senior Corporals and Sergeants were involved in a Planning Exercise over the weekend which was deemed a great success. The weekend was completed with a Junior Ranks Squadron Orienteering competition at Beacon Fell, between Preston and Lancaster, which was notable for the initiative displayed by the assembled masses. The enthusiasm for the Sunday morning can be seen by the enclosed photograph, taken after the competitors completed the course.

TERRITORIAL ARMY NATIONAL OPEN DAY

To coincide with the National TA Open Day in March, the Squadron decided to put on a Cadet Competition to boost the attendees through the gates. Three local teams, from Darlington and Appleby, ACF and ATCs took part and the event was deemed a great success by all Cadets and members of the TA who helped. A number of potential Recruits were signed up on the day and we also entertained several senior members of TAVRA. The enclosed photograph sees Cpl Ross Blair and Sig Emma Higgins, explaining to potential recruits 'On Tuesday nights we practice folding our arms like this, it's great fun!'

SUNDOME'S CLIVE ON THE MOVE

After 18 years with Shrewsbury Territorial Army unit 95 Signal Squadron, the Squadron Sergeant Major, Clive Winstanley, has been given a new job which means a transfer to Canley, Coventry. He is to join the headquarters of 35 Signal Regiment (V) as the Regimental Quartermaster Sergeant in the Spring, travelling from his Meole Brace, Shrewsbury home. The distance will not be a problem for Clive who is, in civilian life, a staff car driver with the Army in Shrewsbury. To mark his departure from 95 Signal Squadron's Sundome base, Maj Joanne Fathers presented Clive with a picture of the 200th year of the Yeomanry, watched by his son LCpl Martin Winstanley, also a member of the Squadron.

REGIMENTAL SPORTS PART DEUX

In the last edition of The Wire an update on Regimental sports activities was provided. Happily (for some at least) most of the competitions have now been concluded and final positions determined. In a highly competitive and often emotional but spirited Regimental Competition, 89 Sqn pipped an extremely disappointed and frustrated HQ Sqn at the post and secured the Regimental Sports Trophy following a Basketball competition that can only be described as electrifying.

The competition, which was held at Bramcote on Tuesday 26 March, was always going to be a two horse race between the two Squadron's and, after eliminating the opposition, the final glory hung on the last game. Both teams I am convinced sweated buckets of blood but a killer basket, thanks to a cool and deliberate performance by Sgt Steve Crooks, in the final minutes of this exhausting, tough and very physical game secured a win for 89 Sqn. Despite a magnificent performance and a brave but short lived comeback, led by LCpl Brian Reed and Maj Jim Taylor - HQ Sqn never fully recovered from this knockout blow and subsequently 89 Sqn were declared the overall winners of the Regimental Competition. At a special ceremony following the final stage of the competition, Cpl Nick Harvey the Squadron AIPT proudly accepted the Regimental Trophy on behalf of the Squadron from the CO, Lt Col Miles Stockdale.

The triumphant Team from 89 Squadron

ORIENTEERING LEADS THE WAY

The Regimental Orienteering teams appear to be going from strength to strength under the astute management and leadership of SSgt Dave Arnot.

During the past two months SSgt Dave Arnot has successfully entered and led the Regimental teams through two major competitions. On Sunday 21 February teams were entered into the 5 Div Championships held at Trentham Gardens near Stoke on Trent. All teams and individuals put in a tremendous performance which resulted in Lt Anna Cliff becoming the Divisional TA ladies champion. Her performance on the 'C' Course, which included male runners, was particularly satisfying as she beat most of the male opposition by gaining fourth place. Meanwhile LCpl Sue Joyce achieved Runner up on the 'D' Course after seeing off most of the female opposition. The collective performance of our female team, which included LCpl Lorraine Cantrell, resulted in the team becoming the TA Ladies Champions. Elsewhere the Regimental Permanent Staff after a magnificent performance in beating off the only other team (who were disqualified) are now pleased to be Divisional Minor Units champions. Unusually, 89 Sqn had a disappointing weekend and could only manage fifth place in the TA male competition - this was partly due to the squad being short of key members!

Following our highly successful participation in the Divisional Championships our sights were firmly set on achieving similar success in the Army and TA Championships held at Barry Budden over the weekend 10/11 April. After an exhausting eight hour journey in an uncomfortable mini bus, team spirits and morale were at a low ebb. However, after a spot of socialising with our North of the Border cousins and a good nights sleep team spirits and determination was quickly restored and we were ready to meet any challenge. Unfortunately our ability didn't match our enthusiasm and we faltered against very strong opposition with our only notable success being in the TA Ladies Championship where we gained a commendable third place. Congratulations are extended to the female team which consisted of Cpl Tracy Haggan, LCpl Sue Joyce and LCpl Liz Judge. Commiserations are of course extended to our intrepid Permanent Staff and 89 Sqn male teams who came eighth and forth in their respective competitions.

A CHANGE OF SCENE

Further changes have taken place during the last two months and the Regiment has made a particular sad farewell to Maj Mick O'Hare. Mick, a former regular soldier and RSM off 35 Sig Regt was commissioned into the TA in 1990 after completing 25 years service as a regular soldier. Mick was appointed a Troop Comd with 48 Sig Sqn on commission and quickly moved to the Trg Wing as OIC Recruit Training on promotion to Captain, during this appointment he can take credit for processing and moulding scores of recruits.

The sad farewell to Maj Mick O'Hare

In this appointment he also gained the admiration and respect of all members of the Regiment for his tenacity, skills, tolerance and understanding. His performance as OIC Recruit Training gained due recognition when he was promoted to Major and appointed OIC Training Wing. Following his successful tour with the Training Wing he joined 58 Sqn as Sqn Comd. His final appointment within the Regiment was with HQ Sqn as Sqn Comd a position he held until his retirement from the TA (after a combined total of more than 33 years service) in April this year. Mick has been a Regimental stalwart and although he remains an honorary member his skills, personality, sense of humour and organisation of the 'Burns Night' celebration will be sadly missed by all ranks. HQ Sqn have now welcomed his successor in the shape of Capt Ricky Logan who has just handed over the reins of the Training Wing to newly commissioned, Lt Tony Walley.

Elsewhere in the Regiment three important promotions and appointments have taken place, WO2 Billy Henderson has been promoted WO1 and appointed SVWO, SSgt Kevin Robinson has been promoted to WO2 and appointed SSM of HQ Sqn and finally SSgt Pete Mouland has also been promoted to WO2 and appointed SSM of 95 Sqn. Our congratulations and good wishes are extended to them all!

STILL IN BUSINESS!

Judging by the National Advertising Campaign which commenced in February following an announcement by the Secretary of State for Defence, expectations for the National TA Open Day may, at first glance at least, have appeared unreasonable. This was definitely going to be a high profile event that would let members of the public know we still existed and should, if managed in the right way, have a major impact on recruiting. It therefore needed a great deal of planning and preparation and critically an imaginative open day programme. Our first reaction was lets find out what happened the last time and improve on it. Unfortunately the files didn't go back to 1989 when the last Open Day took place and the realisation that no positive guidelines existed descended like a dark cloud of misery and despair. It was back to the drawing board, but at least we had the cushion of a generous grant from TAVRA to help the Regiment launch its own local campaign. The grant unfortunately didn't appear too generous when we discovered the cost of buying both airtime on the radios and the production of suitable adverts in the local rags - the term exorbitant springs to mind! Funds therefore were actually limited and thoughts turned to locally produced leaflets and posters and other means of advertising (such as radio interviews and large adverts on the sides of vehicles) to supplement the media campaign. That was our strategy which was implemented fully during the run up to the Open Day - thousands of leaflets were circulated promising an exciting day full of activities and fun events, hundreds of posters placed in prominent positions along main routes leading to town centres and TA Centres, vehicles deployed emblazoned with huge posters almost advertising the Open Day as the second coming and Banners spread alongside the gates of TAC's. One Squadron even resorted to using a political voting ploy by deploying a PA system mounted on a Landrover to advertise the Day.

Scene from the National TA Open Day

Now you are beginning to wonder after all that effort did it succeed? Well, how do you judge the success of such an important and unique event, should it be the numbers that came through the gate, the high profile and good will generated for the future or the number of recruits enlisted as a result. A good political answer would be a combination of all three and that is where I rest my case. Attendance figures varied throughout the Regiment from 15 in one location to 250 in another. All those who attended left with a clear message that the TA, in all of our locations, was alive and well and still recruiting - a vital message that would undoubtedly begin to circulate around local communities. Press coverage before and after the event repeated the same message and we are confident that the fifty potential recruits attracted by the Open Day will also carry the same message to their friends. Successful - of course it was and we met the Minister's expectations! Finally a special thank you is extended to all members of the Regiment who gave their valued support during the day.

PS: There is no truth in the rumour that these notes have been produced on a Laptop acquired through a dubious source from 33 Sig Regt!

WELCOME TO THE TERRITORIAL ARMY FAMILY

Two pass off parades have taken place recently, the first of which took place at Cateswell House on Sunday 21 February when twenty recruits completed their Phase 1 training and were presented their cap badges by the Honorary Colonel, Brig Ian Sim who also presented the award of Best Recruit to Sig Phillip Wills of 95 Sqn.

Following the parade the Honorary Colonel issued the traditional thanks and acknowledgements to Recruits, their parents, spouses, relatives and friends and to the Recruit Training Team; a dedicated group of unsung heroes who continue to give of their very best. A further fifteen recruits also paraded on Sunday 11 April and a repeat of the earlier pass off parade took place. Deputising for the CO, the Training Major, Maj Tudor Hill acted as inspecting officer. He presented recruits their cap badges and presented the award of Best Recruit to Sig Munden Griffiths of 58 Sqn and freely chatted to all present after the parade. To all of our new recruits who have successfully completed their Phase 1 very well done and once again welcome to the Regiment and a gentle reminder to contact their SPSI about the availability of Phase 2 courses at Blandford!!

OLD SOLDIERS NEVER .....

On Friday 26 February the Regiment was delighted to welcome a very special guest centenarian in the formidable shape of 105 years of age, Lt Col (Retd) Norman Edwards. Lt Col Edwards was mobilised in 1916 and served with the Glorious Gloucesters at the Battle of the Somme where he was wounded and subsequently casevaced to Birmingham. Following a lengthy period of medical treatment, convalesence and retraining he then joined the Machine Gun Corps, so in effect Norman became one of the founder members of the Royal Tank Corps. Norman accompanied by his Nurse Marie McQuirk and guardian, Maj (Retd) Alan Mountford, was treated to a special lunch in his honour that was hosted by the CO, Lt Col Miles Stockdale and other Regimental Officers. Norman, although fragile, left an indelible impression on all those who attended the lunch, not least by his alertness and remarkable lucidity, but in particular his sharp recollection of many events that took place during the Great War. His memory on this unforgettable day served him well and his constant amusing and often thought provoking anecdotes and poem recitals captured the imagination and enthralled everyone. Thank you Norman for such a wonderful and memorable day!

VISIT TO DRIU - HMS EXCELLENT

One morning in the Mess, during RSM's coffee, SSgt Anita Smith, who is the PSI HQ Sqn, announced that she had jacked up a trip to the DRIU. What's a DRIU? I hear you ask, well we wanted to know that as well because WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton had just volunteered all the permanent staff to go on the visit! After some technical expressions trying to explain that it was the damage repair incident unit, SSgt Paul Haggett said, 'Have you seen the film Titanic? Well its the same as that except you don't get off!' (Note: Many a true word said in jest!) So there we were, a convoy of vehicles driving down the A3, led by SSgt Si Hill, (who has not attended the convoy commanders course) heading for Portsmouth.

We all arrived safely to be met and briefed by some big burly naval ratings. Focused faces and nervous laughs told the story and you had to be there to appreciate them. What had we let ourselves in for? Next we were shown around the DRIU, which looked like a huge ISO container on stilts. On the inside was like being inside a ship, loads of grey paint and thick doors to step through every couple of paces. A curious amount of wet floors and walls were noticed as everything was explained to us, in naval terms of course! Next we had to don orange waterproof boiler suits that were twice as large as WO2 Gary Stevens AGC, Yes, that big! With bibs and helmets issued we went onto the balcony for the duty photo before making our way to the start point. Individual team briefings and final reminders took place, the bibs indicated the teams: Blue team were the Pumps, Green team were the Diesel Generators and Yellow were the Mess Deck.

'The Motley Crew'

Suddenly, the sirens sounded and messages spewed from the tannoy about an imminent attack and Brace! Brace! Brace! We had been hit, water started to fill our relevant sections through holes in the walls and the unit began to list. Everyone immediately started to plug the holes as previously taught. Although the water was approaching our knees, things were going well when.....BANG! we were hit again and more water started to come from all angles, the unit began to list back and forth, the water following the list making it very difficult to steady yourself, the lights went out and the water was now up to our chests but still we kept on plugging the holes. The pumps were lowered down through the hatches but the water still kept on rising and the vertically challenged people such as Capt Scott Youngson, Sgt Craig Sinclair REME and Sig Angie Burridge were starting to float or sink, depending on the quantity of water inside their suits.

'Sig Chris Manion acts as safety man while Sgt Nig Back plugs the hole in the floor!'

Just when you thought it couldn't get any worse, smoke started to enter the compartments to simulate that a fire had started and a hatch was left open! Any ray of light had now disappeared and it was definitely not for the faint hearted. Capt Carla Lankester and LCpl Scott Witts checked the caps and found the offending article, the smoke stopped but didn't clear for what seemed like an age. Maj Gary Mason and Sig Matt Joyce were soon to be heard giving a large sigh of relief followed by war stories that would make your hair curl, as soon as the 'All Clear' and 'Endex' was given. Everyone couldn't believe how 40 minutes could pass so quickly as we made for the hot showers. Maj Paul Willmott was accused of trying to steal some water as a souvenir, judging by the amount he had in his boiler suit! Some of us stayed a little drier but I will remain nameless. A quick debrief on how good we were and off to town for a quick sight seeing trip.....but that's another story!

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd — Maj Dave Watson
SSM — WO2 (SSM) Mick Grimshaw

One Saturday morning, the Officers and Warrant Officers turned up at Ilford to carry out the six monthly audit of the Regiment. Under the guidance of Maj John Nixon and SSgt Gordon Cameron, the rules were explained and red pens issued. At the same time the CO, Lt Col Jackie Allan, decided it would be a good idea to interview all of the R Signals TA WO2s to discuss the next 'cabinet reshuffle'. The biggest smile came from WO2 (SSM) Mick Grimshaw who is to become WO1 (SVWO), closely followed by WO2 (SSM) Eddie Kikas who is to become the RQMS (V) and posted to HQ Sqn. Which leaves the question: 'Who will replace them?'.....watch this space.....Just In.....SSgt (SQMS) Tony Wells has just been told he is to be promoted to WO2 (SSM) for HQ Sqn, well done Tony.

755 TROOP – NORWICH

Tp Comd — Lt Simon Jenner
Tp SSgt — SSgt Martin Wright

On Saturday 13 March 1999, 755 Sig Tp at Norwich threw open its doors to great success, as part of the National TA Open Day, to promote the TA in the public eye. Over 300 civilians visited the centre to view the stands, displays and talk to the TA soldiers from the unit, some of whom have shown an interest in joining. The Troop has recently enhanced its role with the addition of two Radio Relay vehicles, which it is keen to have fully manned soon. 18 members of the Troop turned out to show off their military knowledge and detachments, including one stand which involved a dismounted Trend linked to a vehicle mounted Trend, which the younger members of the public could send messages to friends who found this extremely entertaining! LCpl Bob Brennand found this a little bewildering due to the lack of proper procedure and was heard to comment 'who authorised this one?' The Troop were visited by the Lord Mayor of Norwich and his lady wife, who seemed very impressed and the Commander 49 Bde who was on a flying visit, as part of his tour of his command.

BEST TROOP TROPHY

The 'Best Troop' Trophy was awarded to 755 Sig Tp for all their effort and determination in achieving consistently high standards throughout 1998, well done!

REGIMENTAL GOLF

The Adjt, Capt Scott Youngson, is meant to write The WIRE notes for golf. He hasn't done this, so, WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton is still the best golfer in the Regiment and that's official! The Adjt has assured me that he will write some notes for the next edition and states it's got nothing to do with Comd 11 Sig Bde, Brig J. R. B. Cook and Col R. Signals/INT CORPS MCM Div HQ APC, Col D. McDowall MBE, who are due to visit the Regiment on the golf course soon! (Note: I wonder how many Gin 'n Tonics and career laughs on the patio will be spotted that day?)

EXERCISE BOTHIE DRAGON

Ex Bothie Dragon was a Regimental Alpine Ski Camp which aimed to teach TA soldiers the rudiments of skiing during two separate three-day courses in Aviemore. The Exercise was initiated with an idea from the CO which the Adjutant and RSM were duly tasked to organise. The Adjutant, Capt Sara Copley, provided all the administrative legwork and headed up the deployment. The instructors included WO1 (RSM) Cox and SSgt Pete Harris both from the Regiment and SSgt Gary Greaves of 216 Para Sig Sqn. The Admin Staff included WO2 (RQMS) Andy Turner and Sgt Keith Harris the Super Chef. Rothiemurchus Lodge in Aviemore was booked to accommodate the Exercise. Set well back off the beaten track it is highly recommended as an Adventure Training base.

The first group arrived whilst the Instructors were absent recceing the pistes. Unfortunately this day made national news as 5000 people descended on Aviemore for the Snow, Sun and school holidays. (Honestly this was Scotland!) Most of the Recce was conducted from a queue. The first group were kitted up and raring to go only to find that the top lifts were not working due to high winds and the good teaching areas unobtainable. The beginners found themselves facing a trek on foot up the slope to a patch of snow deemed suitable by the chief instructor. The more competent skiers trying not to hide their delight were able to jump on a button lift for a ski off with SSgt Greaves higher up the Cairngorm. The ski off was necessary to allow students to regain their ski legs and identify those who had not been entirely truthful regarding their skiing standard. 'Advance Skier' might actually mean, 'I can slide along unaided for a while!' Whilst 'I have skied on holiday' actually means 'I have skied on holiday when I was seven years old!' It wasn't long before we found our first student in this category and he duly returned to the beginners group, his name is withheld!

The first day for beginners, in both groups, involved the normal falling over problems which comes as a shock to a lot of well adjusted adults who all think that they are quite good at standing up unaided. However, progress was made through hard work and patience. Special mention must be made of Sig 'Lardy Bird' Atherton of 93 Sig Sqn who will never forget her experience on a button bar – hooked for life! Sig Bonita McDermott will have memories of men in red after a dramatic rescue from the slopes after twisting her knee. Entertainment in the evening for the first group was provided by Cpl Eddie Goff who took star turns at the local Kareoke. The second group were unable to brave the delights of Aviemore as they did not fancy pushing the bus the two miles back up to the lodge on their return on the compacted ice. With the snowfall increasing steadily throughout a superb week was had by all. Next year hopes to see a repeat Exercise and plans to enter a team into the Army Championships.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON – REDDITCH

Sqn Comd Maj John Riley
SSM WO2 (SSM) Jo Krikorian

The past months have witnessed a number of personality changeovers. The QM, Maj Ian Dudding left for 32 Sig Regt and was replaced by Maj Don Holmes. The Adjutant, Capt Sara Copley was posted to the delights of DCSA in April. The new Adjt, Capt Lyn Burrell, is very welcome from the horrors of AJD. Sgt Hawkins and his wife Kerry are welcomed into the technician family of the Regiment.

5 DIVISION CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIP

This year's 5 Div Cross Country Championship was held at Hopwas Wood and represented a novel challenge for some members of the Squadron. The team finished ninth out of 15 team entries but had to make do without their Sqn PTIs, who were attending a Lycra colour co-ordination meeting and were unable to run. Sig Mackay achieved an excellent result coming in in 35th postion.

67 (QUEEN OWN WARWICKSHIRE & WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS) STRATFORD

February ended with the Squadron having a very wet day at the ranges. With all the rain that we had during the month, the stream that runs alongside the range at Besford had just about burst its banks and by Saturday afternoon we had a number of small lakes between each of the firing points. We even thought that the butt party might be spending the night there as the water continued to rise, but we all came safely home in the end, having passed our APWT's.

The early part of March was taken up with the TA open day 'Ex Open Door'. Members of the Squadron did leaflet drops in and around the areas where they lived during the preceding week, on the day we had our own fog-horn in the shape of the PSAO Capt. Garry Pitman travelling around the centre of Stratford inviting people to come up to the TA centre. We had a number of stands showing a full range of activities undertaken within the Squadron. The variety of communications equipment available interested many people and a keen interest was also shown in the PT stand (or it may have been the young men demonstrating the equipment!). The day itself was very successful with over 400 people coming through the doors of the TA centres at Stratford and Stourbridge; to date eight new members have joined at Stourbridge and two at Stratford. The end of March was taken up with a NCO cadre 'Ex Shape Up' at Swynnerton. Though only a small group attended, a full range of military training was achieved from an assault course to a Night Navigation Exercise. When it came to the First Aid stand 'Resusci Annie' needed CPR. LCpl Smith got stuck in giving mouth to mouth, but LCpl Clark insisted on doing the chest compression's (we did wonder if Anne would have any ribs left at the end of the Exercise).

While the NCO's were training at Swynnerton we sent three of our newer members of the Squadron along to Coventry to attended a potential officers course; it is hoped that they all passed and that we will soon have three officer cadets within the Squadron.

93 SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS) - BLACKBURN

Sqn Comd Maj A. Unwin
SSM WO2 (SSM) Reid

The New Year sees new starts for the Officers and soldiers of 93 Sig Sqn (V) based in Blackburn. Sqn Comd, Maj Ross Parsell, handed over the reins to newly appointed Maj Alan Unwin, now in his thirtieth year of service having attained every rank in the Squadron. A new Sergeant Major rose from the ranks in the new year promotions list. WO2 Neil Reid started out in the local Army Cadet Force and is every inch the determined, successful signaller, which the Squadron is renowned for producing. He works for British Telecom in his civilian job. SSgt Heather Kenny, (a podiatrist) takes on the first female Troop Commanders role at the Manchester Troop, with Sergeants Geoff Small (an expert welder) and Paul Walsh (an ex regular soldier who owns a white goods company) moving onto pastures new as Troop Seconds in Command at the Barracks.

ROYAL SIGNALS ADVANCE ON IT

The IT bug struck the soldiers of 93 Sig Sqn (V) recently as the Troops took on the latest advances in Information technology. Senior Squadron members, Sgt Fitzpatrick, SSgt Graveson and Cpls Macgregor and Cornthwaite taught Introduction to Computer Programming, Networks, PC Building and a beginners guide to the Internet. The guest speaker on Military Computer Security was SSgt Phillips from 42 Bde Headquarters in Preston. Information Technology plays an integral part of the Squadrons' role alongside Radio and Data Communications. Many of the Troops use IT in their civilian employment and the training proved very useful.

HATS OFF TO RAMBLING '93

The start was early O'clock, the O standing for Oh my goodness it's early Sunday morning and it's still dark. After some extensive de-icing and gritting, walkers and safety crews from 93 Sig Sqn (V) left their frozen Barracks at Canterbury Street in Blackburn to wind their way across the Moors to Tottington near Bury. As part of Ex Two Towers, an HF Comms and Navigation Exercise, the Squadron provided Land Rovers and safety crews for the Long Distance Walkers Association of Lancashire. Every January nearly 200 members sprint, jog, walk and sometimes crawl along the infamous and gruelling 25 mile boggy route which encompasses some barren, although tranquil scenery of Holcombe Moor and Tottington Reservoirs. Two teams of Signallers fought the elements and displayed great determination as they held their own, trudging through snow and peat, alongside the regular ramblers.

The route was marshy, up to the knees in places and the weather held fine until crossing Bull Hill at Holcombe Moor Training Area. There it rained, rain turned into sleet, and sleet into snow, followed by a downpour of hail and a blast of icy cold wind. The teams were soaked, cold, aching and downright exhausted by the twenty fifth mile. The Squadrons Mobile Dets were in position at each of the seven checkpoints where they provided the walkers with a well earned cup of 'Squaddie' tea. Secretly sniggering at the walkers, they were not the least enviable. The walkers finally returned to Tottington to earn a certificate, a badge and two slices of Pizza. Next stop, the Pub!

No doubt those who manned the Mobile Dets will be swapping with the walkers for the fun and games next year ..... Then again .....

A recent highlight in the Sqn Calendar was the visit of Commander 2 (NC) Signal Brigade. Following a briefing by the Squadron Commander, Maj Richard 'Badger' Bowden, Brig Hughes CBE was given a guided tour of Westfield House where he managed to have a few words with everyone who wasn't actively hiding. After last parade, anyone who had so far escaped was collared by Brig Hughes over a pint and a Chicken Maryland prepared by our resident chef Sgt Gary Wildsmith.

COSY IN COMMAND

Staff at a Nottingham fireplace firm were glowing warmly when their medal winning Territorial won his dream job. Sig David Tomlinson has just taken charge at the city base he began his soldiering at 17 years ago. His military career has taken him from the ranks to command. He has served at bases around the region and has even done a six-month stint in Bosnia. But his dream has always been to lead the 70-strong 87 Signal Squadron, based in Triumph Road, Lenton. So he was delighted when his promotion to the post turned into a double celebration. For along with his new command he has received a medal for outstanding service as an officer in the Territorial Army (TA). Maj Tomlinson said, 'I've always had fantastic support at work. That's been so important in helping me get this far in my army career. In return I've tried to use the skills the TA has taught me to the company's advantage. I've always tried to give 110 per cent back.'

Grate Team
Maj David Tomlinson with Roy Parsons, Managing Director of Roystone Fireplaces

Maj Tomlinson said that when he received an urgent call to serve in Bosnia his managing director at Roystone Fireplaces, Canal Street, did not hesitate and Mr Roy Parsons gave him immediate leave. Within 24 hours he was on duty putting together a team of TA Signallers to manage communications in the war-torn Balkans.

Maj Tomlinson's first task in his new command will be to recruit more young men and women. Under the Government's Strategic Defence Review his unit has become a key part of Britain's new and more usable TA. The Squadron must now increase its strength by at least 20 more soldiers to meet its commitments.

EXERCISE SILVERSLIDE EBOR

On a bright but breezy evening on 22 January three minibuses, one laden with ski equipment, left Manor Top TAC bound for Dover and on to France for the unit's ski expedition. The journey was uneventful apart from SSgt Mel Widdows attempt to seduce two gendarmes by carrying out an emergency stop in the middle of the French motorway, you tend to get noticed using this method. Her feeble explanation about missing the fuel stop was met with suspicion and she was escorted to the fuel station and her passport was examined in detail. Her comment was 'They must have liked me they all wanted to look at my photo,' sad! Our arrival in Meribel made a great impression with the locals as we completely blocked the road whilst unloading. After unloading the ski equipment and baggage an impromptu briefing by the OC, Maj Steve May was held in the local pub.

The next day brought excellent weather and all groups put in a day's warm up skiing refining the group sizes into ability ranges. Capt Lawrence 'Mac' McCourt our chief instructor took on the beginners and kept them out until way past bed time! Our two other instructors Maj Clive Milnor and Capt Neil Smeaton on loan from 22 Regt RA REME Wksps, made sure the intermediates worked hard. Lunch? what lunch?!

LCpl 'Pretty' Jackie Spong and Cpl 'Banzai Bob' Barrington

The next few days sunshine and blue skies prevailed and all members of the party worked hard to improve their skills to take on the aim of the exercise. Skiing styles varied LCpl 'Pretty' Jackie Spong had style, Cpl 'Banzi Bob' Barrington had guts, SSgt 'Speedy' Ned Needham was quick, Capts Thelma and Bob Ward were sedate, and Capt Fred 'The Turn' Nillson could give us all plenty of rest!

Another turn from Capt Fred Nillson

We had enough talent to achieve the rather ambitious aim which was to ski the three valleys of Courcheval, Meribel and Val Thorens from highest to lowest point in one day. The Team carried out recce's of the quickest routes and quickest lifts, in each of the valleys. Each day the snow was wearing thinner and by Wednesday the rocks and grass were showing through at the lower levels and we were praying for some snow. On Wednesday night it snowed extremely heavily and the lifts did not open until 10am on Thursday, no routes out of the Meribel Valley were open as avalanche danger was high. The lower slopes were covered in powder and great fun. The snow continued to fall all day Thursday and by Friday morning we had to dig out the minibus which had almost a metre of snow on it. Again we could not get out of the valley but the powder was knee deep and everyone had great fun skiing in some great snow. There was no chance of achieving our aim but 10 soldiers learnt to ski and all enjoyed some superb skiing. The excellent weather of the first few days, in hindsight could have given us the opportunity to achieve the aim and 'If only' was used on more than one occasion. There's always next year.

39 (SKINNERS) SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

CO	Lt Col J. Crackett TD
RSM	WO1 (RSM) P. Anderson

The Annual Regimental Dinner held at Skinners Hall in London took place on Saturday 6 March 1999. The Guest Speaker was Mr D. J. Boyd QC. Also attending the function were the Honorary Colonel, Lt Gen Sir John Foley KCB OBE MC, the SOinC(A), Brig J. Griffin and Brig J. Shaw MBE. Prior to the event, the Honorary Colonel presented Padre David Sutch with the bar for his Territorial Decoration. The presentation was somewhat marred, however, when later in the evening the Padre's exemplary service was ruined by his vandalising a piece of Regimental silver - namely the Adjutant's pigeon!! Finally, the Regiment wishes to thank all those who attended for their generous letters of thanks and are delighted that you felt the evening was such a success.

FLEET (PRE LONDON) HALF MARATHON

by LCpl Thurlow

The runners for the day were Sgt Clark, LCpl Thurlow and Sig Smith ably driven to the event by Sgt Marsh. The journey to Fleet was full of talk on how we were going to tackle the event which lay ahead. Sgt Clark

Lt Gen Sir John Foley, Mrs Sutch, Padre Sutch, Lt Col Crackett
after the medal presentation

The Padre tries to raise the dead pigeon as Captain Bobby 'Pet-Slayer' Davis tries to look contrite was the only one who could really give any advice since he was the only runner who had actually completed a half marathon before! In all cases, preparation for the event had been somewhat limited. Sgt Clark had run a 10km race the week before, Sig Smith had been out that week and I had done nothing at all!

The race itself was a particularly hilly course but the weather had decided to be kind to us. Sgt Clark (recovering from an injury) disappeared off the start line leaving Sig Smith and myself to run together. By mile five I had a blister, at miles seven through to eight my left knee started giving up and thus, myself and Smith WALKED the last three miles! However, there was still a sense of jubilation when I eventually crossed the finishing line in 2hrs 30mins (Sig Smith was given the same time) and receiving my medal. Sgt Clark completed the course in a respectable 1hr 47mins. The whole event left me utterly exhausted and a physical wreck but with a great sense of achievement for having actually completed the course. All that remains is to try and improve my time when I run the next one!

Finally, congratulations to LCpl Hawkins who ran the Bath Half Marathon in a time of 1hr 38mins.

47 (MIDDLESEX YEOMANRY) SQUADRON

Sqn Comd	Maj M. H. Lansdown
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Prance

Since our last notes it has been a very busy time for the Squadron. Exercises, trade training and training for specific events have all been high on the agenda for almost every member of the Squadron. The annual round of mandatory inspections have also placed a strain on an ever dwindling permanent staff. Many of those in the Squadron who took part in Ex Executive Stretch in 1998 would have found it a difficult Exercise to follow for pure enjoyment. However, thanks to 36 Sig Regt asking for the Squadron to act as enemy for them at Thetford in November, 20 lucky individuals led by the 2IC took part in a brilliant weekend of pure fun soldiering.

The now traditional range weekend in early December at Pirbright enabled nearly everyone to fire their APWT, carry out a night shoot, indulge in some serious house-clearing drills and overall fire about 450 rounds each during the weekend. An excellent Squadron Christmas dinner and social organised by the SQMS topped off an excellent weekend. Ex Bronze Lynx, which took the Squadron to Abingdon airfield, at the end of January saw the Squadron acting in a NMC role in the field. this was also an Exercise that allowed most dets to sort out their procedures in a non tactical exercise scenario. In February the Squadron went to Thetford for a Squadron FTX. For the first time the Squadron operated in Troops and took part in a variety of scenarios that were testing and imaginative. The weather was bitterly cold but each Troop managed to make itself reasonably comfortable in its base. Yankee Troop pioneered a new ambush tactic called the 'laid back'. This involves jumping into a Land Rover at the last possible minute, driving to the area of the ambush, getting out to do the ambush then legging it back to the rover for a leisurely drive back to base. This drill will be incorporated into the TA field tactics manual at the earliest opportunity.

Promotions have been many and well deserved and our congratulations go to the following: Sgt Dave Lambert to SSgt, Cpl Dave Strevens to Sgt, LCpls Justine Jones, Lois Lane, Luke Holdom and Ben Newby to Cpl. Sigs Serrena Wheeler and Mark Joiner to LCpl. Capt Mike Atkinson has left us for the watch-keepers pool and Capt Carla Lankester and Lt Rod (Not short for Rodney) Hook have both transferred (some say poached) to 36 Sig Regt. We wish them well in their new appointments.

EXERCISE MARS MARATHON

The opportunity for soldiers from the Squadron to act as enemy for a 36 Sig Regt Exercise was offered by the present 2IC of 36 Sig Regt. The fact that he had recently been the Squadron Commander may have had something to do with it. Recruitment of sufficient soldiers proved no difficulty, there being a deluge of people clamouring to get in on the act. The Exercise was to take place at STANTA in Norfolk at the end of October, and the Squadron was required to provide sufficient enemy to test the readiness state and defensive measures of the Radio sites set up by 36 Sig Regt. With this in mind, 18 soldiers from the Squadron, including the PSI Ops, SSgt Tocker and the PSAO, all commanded by the Squadron 2IC Capt Carla Lankester left Uxbridge on the Friday evening and set forth for Norfolk.

An advance party under Cpl '10 Bellies' Cheshire had already set up in Buckingham stables, so it was a simple matter to brief everyone regarding the nights activities immediately upon arrival. First task was to put two individuals equipped with CWS at each location being manned by the Regiment. Their task was to act as an OP to report on strength, vehicles and activity. Under no circumstances were they to risk capture! It turned out to be a long and cold night. Due to a larger than normal traffic flow on the roads, 36 Sig Regt were badly delayed in their deployment so the enemy waited and waited for signs that 36 were going to come out and play. This eventually happened at about 0400hrs on the Saturday morning and although the Ops did not get as much information as hoped, the aim was achieved.

For the rest of Saturday the enemy was tasked to carry out overt recces of each manned site, these recces usually acting as a decoy for other more direct military action. The type and variety of the overt recces have now gone down in Squadron legend. LCpl 'Hairbear' Gross and LCpl Harkett posing as orienteers who where so convincing that they were invited into the site for a cup of coffee, LCpl 'Ginger' Thornton and LCpl 'Cuddles' Vallance acting as hapless female navigators, receiving assistance from the sentry to get to a fictitious place in Norfolk on the sixth time that they drove past him. SSgt Tocker and Cpl 'Baldrick' Howe posing as mobile toilet repair men, and by all accounts doing a good job of actually repairing some!

This was a very enjoyable and worthwhile exercise. All the junior NCOs in the Squadron had the opportunity to plan and lead a small patrol. This did much for their confidence whilst in a position of command. All the soldiers were enthusiastic and threw themselves into the role playing and subsequent patrol actions with vigor and determination. It gave all of us an opportunity to see how other units of the same corps operated and, although roles were different, the problems faced invariably were the same. Thank you 36 Signal Regiment for giving us the opportunity to partake in the year's best and most enjoyable exercise.

EXERCISE YPRES TOUR

On the 12, 13 and 14 March, Yankee Tp of the Middlesex Yeomanry travelled to Belgium to tour the First World War battlefields of the Ypres Salient. The Troop met at 1000hrs on the Friday under the direction of SSgt Lee Giles. After packing the camping stores and the Troop's now customary wait for Lt Matt 'where's my passport?' Watts to arrive, we were off to Dover. SSgt Giles had prepared a file for each Troop member, giving maps of the area 'then and now' and some of the more interesting personal accounts and historical records of the fierce fighting around the Salient. After a swift and calm ferry crossing we were soon driving through France and into Belgium with LCpl Abbey 'Big William' Crown at the wheel. Having taken an unplanned, but scenic route around most of the local area we were relieved to arrive at the small rural town of Kemmel and get set up at the civilian campsite.

The first item on the agenda was a short trip into the historic town of Ypres itself. We parked in the shadow of the Cloth Hall, an impressive building that has been restored to its former glory after being virtually flattened along with the rest of the town during the war. From here we strolled to the Menin Gate. The Menin Gate is an enormous arched gate standing on the road out of the town towards Menin (hence the name). It was erected after the war on the site of an older gate to commemorate those soldiers of Great Britain and the Commonwealth killed in the Salient who have no known grave and bears nearly 54,000 of their names. Every evening at 2000hrs volunteers from the local fire brigade play the last post and there is a two minute silence. Despite the efforts of a couple of hundred school children the silence was observed, and after the crowds had dispersed we were able to spend some time studying the names and the monument in more detail. We returned to Kemmel to await the arrival of Cpl Luke 'the Padre' Holdom who was making his own way to Belgium on Eurostar. The rest of the evening was devoted to acclimatisation in the campsite bar, under the guidance of our cultural attaché Cpl Kevin 'Gerbil' Huxtable. We were pleased to discover that we were sharing the campsite with a group of Belgian teenagers claiming to be from the 'International Brotherhood of Youth', who seemed very keen to foster a spirit of European togetherness.

After a slightly later than usual reveille, and a hearty breakfast prepared by Sgt Dave 'Newboy' Strevens we piled onto the bus to commence our tour. The Ypres Salient was a small bulge in the western front around the town of Ypres, which jutted out into German held Belgium. It was the scene of almost constant fighting throughout the First World War, and is particularly infamous for the Third Battle of Ypres, fought in a sea of mud and known to most as Passchendaele. The first stop was Larchwood Military cemetery. This is a comparatively small cemetery, set in open fields alongside a railway. This was the area of the well-known 'Lovers Lane' communication trench and the site where tunnels were started to place mines under Hill 60 in some of the earliest operations of this kind.

We then made the short hop up to Hill 60 itself. Hill 60 was a small rise in the ground created from the spoil of a railway cutting. However, in this flat terrain it commanded an excellent view over Ypres and was therefore prized by both sides as an artillery observation post. It was fought over several times, and almost destroyed by mines. The hill itself is now regarded as a war grave and left to nature. Although the mud has gone, it is still pockmarked by craters of all sizes and has the remains of several field fortifications. At each of the sites we visited we were able to draw on a library of books from SSgt Giles' collection and read to each other from personal accounts and regimental histories. This brought the battlefields to life (or should that be death?) and helped us begin to imagine what it must have been like for the young soldiers who fought and died there. At Hill 60 we read about Lt G. Harold Wooley who won the Territorial Army's first VC there before going on after the war to become chaplain of Harrow School. We then drove to Hooge, and visited the museum there and the Hooge Crater military cemetery. From here we went to a small Cafe nearby for refreshments. The Cafe owner has made it his hobby to locate, excavate and dig out mines from the war and showed us his remarkable personal collection of photographs from these time capsules. The final stop of the day was Polygon Wood.

After a picking up essential supplies at the local supermarket we went back to the campsite and LCpl Heather Thornton prepared a tasty Spaghetti Bolognaise. Once again we decided to venture into Ypres to sample the local hospitality, and in LCpl Thornton's case, cocktails. The next morning after breakfast, and breaking camp, we visited the German cemetery in Langemarck. This had a very different atmosphere to the Commonwealth War Grave Commission cemeteries we had visited previously. It was much bleaker, with black marble in place of our white and a total absence of flowering plants. It was time to make our way back, and after finally convincing French customs that we had no shells, grenades or mortar bombs in our possession we were allowed to head for Calais. Driving back all agreed that it had been an interesting and enjoyable (though at times very moving) weekend. Next stop, the Somme!

VISIT BY 11TH DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH – 9 MARCH 1999

His Grace the 11th Duke of Marlborough made a visit to the Squadron on the Drill Night Tuesday 9 March 1999 to renew the Churchill family connection with the QOOH. Other prominent guests included Brig Nigel Mogg, Chairman TAVRA for Oxfordshire, Brig John Powell, Secretary EW TAVRA, Col Rob Lucas, Assistant Secretary EW TAVRA, Col Tim May, Chairman Oxfordshire Yeomanry Trust (OYT), Lt Col Chris Laurence and Maj Ron Barnes Trustees OYT and Mr Nick Nicholls, Secretary Old Comrades Association.

The programme for the evening started with a detailed briefing given by the Squadron Commander, Maj Robert Stone. The Duke and other guests were then show around the TAC visiting Comms Trg, Recruit Training and Equipment Husbandry/Preparation for the forthcoming National TA Open Day. After the guided tour The Duke and guests were invited to the Squadron Social Club where Col Tim May presented the Duke with an original picture of the Queen's Own Oxfordshire Hussars parading in 1911 at Blenheim Palace. Cpl Steve Brady then asked his Grace to officially name the club as the 'The Churchill Club'. Cheers were heard from all especially Staff Sergeant Ray Phillips as the PSAO Capt Bob Sheldon presented him with a bottle of Champagne for choosing the name of the club. The bill for the champagne is being sent to the previous Squadron Commander, Maj Paul Wenlock!

NATIONAL TERRITORIAL ARMY OPEN DAY SATURDAY 13 MARCH 1999

The Banbury TAC ready with NCRS Dets, FFR Det, Field Kitchen, SA 80 conversion on the .22 Range, Ongoing Recruit Training, Equipment Display, Churchill Club Bar & Refreshment and QOOH Exhibition opened at 1030hrs. Visitors were encouraged into the centre to sample army food, fire the SA80 and meet the members of the Squadron. The Banbury Guardian Reporter and Photographer sampled the excellent spread of food ably prepared by the Master Chef, SSgt Les Kavanagh and assisted by Cpl Steve Brady, Tele Tech!! The day was slow with visitors trickling through, but it was deemed a success with 14 names being taken to attend the 'Look at Life' selection weekend at the end of March.

MY FIRST SKIING TRIP
EXERCISE KNEES BEND 1999 (27 FEBRUARY - 6 MARCH)

by Pte E. J. Matthews AGC

It all started back in January, one Tuesday evening the Master Chef SSgt Les Kavanagh, who works at BAD Kineton, was talking about going skiing and was looking for someone to take the vacant place available for an RLC Skiing Exercise in Scotland. Like an idiot that I am, I jumped at the chance and said YES! (Oh Help!) and within a week I was booked to go. At first I thought, I'm really looking forward to this, then my next few thoughts over the following weeks, were 'I don't want to go now, I don't want to!!'

Saturday the 27th arrived, having packed a huge suitcase for what seemed like I was going for a month, let alone a week I was collected and we made our way up to Grantham for the first leg of our journey North. On Sunday we made the rest of the way up to Scotland by bus with 20 other people. A few stops later we arrived at Nethy Bridge House. Once everyone was off loaded, booked in, fed and watered, we had our hello briefings and were fitted out, I might add at this stage I was the smallest person in the group, so there were a few difficulties with sorting me out, for instance the boots they gave me were the smallest pair they had, so they had to send out for some more from the hire shop. The shop sent three pairs of which the last were the best ones to fit (JUST). The skis were all right they only had one pair small enough for me.

Pte Lizzy Matthews - 'Size doesn't always matter'

Monday dawned none too soon and it finally hit me I WAS GOING SKIING, ARGH!! We all loaded on the bus and made our way to the Lecht for my very first skiing lesson on the nursery slopes (see photo just a few of us first timers). Once we arrived and were instructed on how to put the skis on and move with them with, our instructor Karl with his wisdom said, 'Well I'm glad to see everyone has got the hang of this already'. Yes you guessed it I fell over and laughed because I could not get back up, so the more I laughed the more I fell over and vice versa until the afternoon when we had a chance to free ski down the nursery slopes by ourselves.

Tuesday saw us going to the Cairngorms for the rest of the week. When we got there we were paired off to go up the slopes on the T-bar. I was paired off with someone twice my own height (6ft this guy was, what a laugh that was) I fell twice when paired up with him, so Karl sent him up on his own and got me to go up with him, and we made all the way up without me falling off this time. And what of all the others, I hear you ask, did they fall off? Yep as soon as they got to a little hill, off they came so they had to go all the way down to the bottom and start again. We had to cut the day short because the weather got really bad (Wet and Slushy) so we all had a choice to stay in the BAR or go into Aviemore for a swim and jacuzzi. You would all be wrong in thinking I went to the bar.

Wednesday saw us all back at Cairngorm for a fabulous day of skiing and this time we all went to the top for a couple of hours skiing and practices before going back down to the half way point to ski in pairs on our own. This we did on Thursday as well, but with one slight difference, I DIDN'T FALL, when we skied right down from the top to the bottom on what I think was called the 'chicken run'.

Friday saw us all on the middle slopes warming up for the race which started mid morning at the top. Slalom time (I want my mummy!) we made our way up to the start and sorted ourselves into run order. I was fourth and was not looking forward to this one little bit, but eventually my turn came and down I went turning this way and that way going faster and faster every time. As I got to the bottom all I could hear was Karl and the slope personnel shouting go left, go left, so I went left, if you haven't guessed already, instead of going left through the time gate to stop my time, I went through the blue poles put up to say this is the finish I felt such an idiot, but who cares next year I'll do it properly, yep I'm going back, so if anyone is thinking of going skiing this time next year, WATCH OUT FOR ME!

Life in Bristol and Cheltenham continues to be as busy as ever. The Defence Review axe has unfortunately fallen on our detachment location in Cheltenham, however, all is not lost and the troops concerned will be moving to a new location in Gloucester. Plans are well underway for a final dinner at the Cheltenham TAC. Congratulations to the following on their promotion to the WO's and Sgt's Mess, Sgt Addison-Scott, Sgt Filomena Zamparelli and Sgt Dave Gresswell. Congratulations are also passed to SSgt Jane Burn and Mr Chick Cheetham, many will recognise him from his Regular Army and NRPS service, he is now a part time driver for the Squadron, golfer and tennis official. Both have recently been awarded a well deserved Lord Lieutenant's Certificate.

EXERCISE WINDSOR CASTLE – by LCpl Stevens

This momentous event was the Squadron's attempt to lose its JNCOs and Signallers over much of Gloucestershire. The idea was to work on our navigation skills and improve our voice procedure on a fun 'Treasure Hunt' type exercise! Unusually the TAC at Cheltenham was used as an Exercise base, this enabled the Officers and SNCOs to practice their SCP skills and for the PSAO to watch the international rugby on television in the bar. The winning formula was provided by a sparkling combination of good map reading, masterly driving, teamwork, excellent leadership and a good helping of lateral thinking. This combination resulted in the highest number of correct answers to a series of questions found at each checkpoint. The winning team consisted of LCpl Joanna Stevens, LCpl Steven Holley and Sig Normile.

REGIMENTAL NEWS
REGIMENTAL SKIING TEAM – by LCpl Charlotte Foakes

Ex Snow Lion 1999, the Army Novice Ski Championships, took place in Aviemore over five days in March. The newly formed Regimental Skiing Team, comprising Sgt Martin Feather (Team Dad), Cpl Al Hyland (Team Captain), LCpl Charlotte Foakes (Team Secretary) and Sig Ross Nugent (Team Member) departed Chelmsford TA Centre one Sunday in March for the 12 hour journey to the last Army Novice Championships of the Millennium. As Team Secretary I organised a route plan that was a little round the houses, as we somehow lost 200 miles and gained three hours. We eventually arrived at Cameron Barracks, Inverness at 2230hrs that night. We were tired, irritable, but raring to get on the slopes and find our ski-legs again under the expert tuition of our Team Captain, Cpl Hyland. After a much needed lie-in on Monday morning we eventually reached the resort, sorted out our kit and hit the slopes. To the amusement of the rest of the team, I decided after one run that my ski boots were chafing a little, so I went back and eventually persuaded them to give me a pair of boots that matched my ski outfit (all the gear, no idea).

The races started on Tuesday with a seeding race, and as none of us had raced with the Army before we had quite a wait until our turn. Our race numbers soon dropped as the week went on, with some respectable times, considering the less than ideal weather conditions. The last race of the Championships was the slalom on the Saturday with more than 300 skiers taking part. We all left the slopes sad to be heading back to the reality of work but happy that we had given the week our best effort.

By losing the minibus keys earlier in the week (don't worry MTWO, we found them again), Sig Nugent kindly volunteered to drive us all to the prize-giving at the Osprey Suite in Aviemore that night where, to our great surprise, I won the title of TA Women's Individual Junior Novice Champion. Altogether it was an excellent week's skiing and we brought home a cup for the Regimental silver cabinet to boot. Roll on March 2000!

REGIMENTAL SHOOTING TEAM

The members of the Regimental Shooting Team, under the leadership of their Team Captain, Maj Barrie Corfield, are congratulated on their outstanding performance at the recent TA Skill at Arms Meeting. Once again, they were extremely successful, winning a large amount of the silver trophies on offer. The 'A' Team won the Pistol Match, the Rifle Match and were runners up in the Combat Snap, while the 'B' Team won the Falling Plate and came third in the Rifle Match. At the end of the competition, the 'A' Team were declared 'Champion Royal Signals Unit', with the 'B' Team being declared runners up. The following individuals are congratulated on their superb performances: 2Lt Downing, who was the Champion Pistol Shot, 2Lt Woodhams who was the Champion LSW Shot and Cpl Charter who was the Champion Rifle Shot. Well Done!

The Squadron has been very busy over the last few months. Recent high spots include the Driver Training Exercise held at Bovington in February. We turned up on a freezing cold evening to the Regiment's shooting lodge at Bisley where we were split up into teams. Early on Saturday morning, the teams were scattered far and wide within the south and south west of England. The tank training track at Bovington was where SSgt Chorlton and Sgt Wallbridge were instructing cross country driving in both Landrovers and 4-tonne trucks. A different kind of turning circle was discovered by Sig Gross with the CO on board, but fortunately, the most serious damage was done to Sig Gross's pride. He is lucky the RSM did not catch up with him! Sgt Lapidge found out that Sgt Gosling could put a Land Rover anywhere – yes anywhere at all, and he kept appearing out of every hill and hole possible. Cpl Smoker looked very fetching in her 'Cas Sim' outfit, complete with glass protruding from her head. After a long and challenging day, we were grateful for the roaring fires in the evening to warm us up.

CONGRATULATIONS

The Squadron congratulates the following: The Sqn Comd, Maj Simon Palmer on the award of his Territorial Decoration. He was presented with his medal by Maj Gen J. D. Stokoe, Inspector General of the Territorial Army. LCpl Charlotte Foakes, on winning the TA Women's Individual Junior Novice Ski Championship. The Courage Trophy Team, who were led by Capt Michael Wood. They came first in the March and Shoot competition and sixth overall. SSgt Liz Murphy on the birth of a potential recruit, Jamie, who weighed in at 8lb 3oz.

TERRITORIAL ARMY OPEN DAY

In common with all TA centres throughout the UK, the Squadron opened its TA Centres at Chelmsford and Harlow to the public. The weather was excellent for the day and the hard work by all the permanent staff and the TA was in evidence for all to see. At Chelmsford, the Squadron was visited by the Mayor and Mayoress of Chelmsford, Brigadier TA, local MPs, employers and heads of colleges, plus a good turnout from the general public. At Harlow there were less VIP visitors, but the event was nevertheless well attended by the public. All in all, the day was worthwhile, and achieved its aim of publicising the TA Centres and assisting in recruiting.

The Squadron are rightly proud of their Courage Trophy Team who participated in the London District Military Skills Competition held at Longmoor Training Area. The competition tested physical fitness, skill at arms and all the ITDs. The team comprised Capt Wood, Sgt Swain, Cpl Bennett, LCpl Laskey, Sig Marsh, Sig Gowlett, Sig Nugent and Sig Stabler. They came sixth out of 24 teams, which is a superb result. Well Done.

CHANGES

The Squadron has undergone a few major changes since last reporting. The SSM, WO2 Keith 'Snoozy' Wrate has stepped down as OC 890 Tp to allow Lt Richie 'Bald Eagle' Woodhams to take the reins.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to the following personnel who have recently been promoted: LCpl Steve Turner, Cpl Sean Tanner, Sgt Dave Pryke, Sgt Emmet Vincent, Sgt Stuart Ridgewell. In addition, Cpl Sean Tanner has announced his engagement to LCpl Merissa Ferris, who recently celebrated her 21st birthday. We wish you every happiness.

HEADQUARTERS TROOP

WO2 (SSM) Keith Wrate organised an extremely successful adventurous training weekend to Weymouth. The Troop departed on Friday evening, making good speed to the coast, where it rapidly ensconced itself in a comfortable hostelry. As ever, the OC, Maj Hugh Robertson, remained resolute and could not be tempted with the 'Devil's Brew'. Saturday morning arrived with an early morning dip in Portland harbour, to the enjoyment of all concerned. Once breakfast was over, it was time for the real fun to commence with a round robin of windsurfing, mountain biking and canoeing. Windsurfing produced a huge amount of laughter. The award for the biggest splash of the day went to Cpl Davy Jones, which had absolutely nothing to do with his love of burgers. Mountain Biking, on the other hand, rendered an unprecedented amount of blood, leaving most of the participants looking like extras from a 'Rambo' film. The canoeing stand involved circumnavigating Portland Harbour, which is no mean feat, even for the most accomplished canoeists. The weekend was thoroughly enjoyed by all concerned.

Sgt Dave Whitehouse finds windsurfing a doddle!

FAREWELL TO THE OC – 26 MARCH 1999

So it was a very dreary day on Friday 26 March 1999 when the OC, Maj Jim Richardson MBE left on promotion. When I say dreary, not just the weather but the hangovers from the night before. This was an Officers and Seniors Regimental Dine Out which was held at a local restaurant. An excellent meal was arranged by the RSM, WO2 Forbes and SSgt McCrae which included all the trimmings and a couple of surprise sketches at the end. Notably the imitation Squadron Conference arranged by the Foreman was so close to the mark. Finally on Friday, the OC was bidden farewell in true style, on the front of a Foden truck! He was led off in style by the whole Squadron to his new job in Upavon. Our thanks and best wishes go to Lt Col Richardson MBE, Paula and family.

RSIT – by LCpl Alexander

Another year; Another RSIT – everyone's favourite time of year! (what else is there to look forward to after Christmas?) For the two new Techs who arrived in mid January, this meant being dropped right in at the deep end – character building apparently. Everything went well though, and everyone in the troops carried out masses of work preparing the Panzers and Rovers. Even the Techs had work to do! (Honest!) Then the big day arrived, and things continued to go well as the vehicles passed their inspections. With only a few minor faults to deal with here and there, by Thursday it was all over for another year and we could all take a sigh of relief. As for a reward for our efforts (and a good RSIT report), the Squadron was stood down for a well-earned long weekend. Well done everyone who was involved.

EXERCISE MAILED MAESTRO

Now we all know what fun it is to go on Exercise, don't we? There was a little bit of restlessness on the first day because we didn't deploy until 2330hrs, but everyone knuckled down and got on with the job. There were a number of us wondering how many of the Panzers would make it out of the gates, but the majority held together. This was a new experience for a number of the newer members of the Squadron and there was a great deal of work to do. The weather held out too – after weeks of rain and cold, the sun shone for us throughout, although it was still very cold at night. Time passed quickly and we all made it to Gutersloh on Thursday (THE FINAL DAY!!) On the whole it was a successful Exercise and everyone learnt many new things (especially how to do pan bash!) But it was good to get back to Barracks again for a nice hot shower !

EWT 4 (FEBRUARY 22-MARCH 5)

by LCpl Ormiston

Ex Winter Training is run every year by the Army at the British Alpine Centre, Bavaria. It was aimed at both the novice and the more advanced skier. Having never skiied before I thought I was in for an easy two weeks – How wrong can you be? The course was split into three sections – four days Alpine, four days Nordic plus two days Ski Touring. Everyone enjoyed the 6am rises, and vowed to return next year if given the chance again. The instruction was excellent and I'd recommend everyone gives it a try – even if you think that it's not for you. YOU'LL BE SURPRISED!

LEADERSHIP COURSE
HALTERN TRAINING CAMP 5-12 MARCH 1999

by LCpl Trott

The Leadership course was run by the RSM and was designed to assess the Leadership qualities of senior Signallers and new technicians. We were split up into two sections, which we remained in for the duration of the whole course. The days started early with PT which was all about team work. It involved carrying logs, stretchers and large ammo boxes. Four nights were spent out in the field where we had a chance to practice our night navigation skills. Also we all carried out section attacks which was very informative if not extremely knackering. Each person was given a chance to become section commander and they were assessed on their ability. When we were not in the field we were in the classroom learning about Battle First Aid, writing appreciation's and problem solving. Each person was required to give a lesson to the group about any subject they wished, some found this very daunting. At the end of the course we had a Regimental dinner which was attended by all JNCO's from the Squadron. It was an excellent night and was enjoyed by everybody.

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt R. Jones
Tp SSgt SSgt M. Payne

The post Christmas period for Alpha Tp has been characteristically busy, but unusually successful. RSIT arrived and picked up only minor points, being generally impressed by what they saw. We then had an excellent leadership course, where Alpha Tp picked up Gold, Silver and Bronze, the three being Sig Matt Coverley, Sig Gaz Collins, and Sig Matt Dorling, the fourth member gave a spirited performance, but was clearly concentrating more on his upcoming Army bowling championship. Next on the agenda was Ex Mailed Maestro, the preparation went well, and the vehicles were in a battle worthy state. The least said about the poor garage preparation by the troops the better. The rest of the Exercise was a success, everyone worked hard, the tempo was spot on, and the Troop even managed to earth the generators, this made the Foreman a very happy man. The Troop has come to a point where it is to say farewell to four resounding pillars. Cpl Ray MacCleod is off to 2 Sig Regt, at least for the weekend, before flying to Kosovo. LCpl Rowland is off to 1(UK) Div HQ & Sig Regt, Sig Foyle is off to gods country and 14 Sig Regt, and Sig Morrison is off to JCUNI. To those who are going, good luck and farewell. There are no new arrivals to date but the Troop is assured that replacements will arrive before the end of May.

BRAVO TROOP

The past few months have been quite busy for Bravo Tp in the Premier Signal Squadron. With preparing for RSIT, RSIT itself and then putting in some quality time with the loves of our lives, the 436's. With all this going on we still had time to do some ITD's and supply manpower and vehicles for HQ 20 Armd Bde JOTES package. The young Subbalterns from the Squadron managed to attend and congratulations to the OC 'A' and the OC 'B' for just about scraping through, Well-done Sirs! Before Easter leave, the Troop managed to deploy all its assets on Ex Mailed Maestro 1. WATCH THIS SPACE....

HELLO'S AND GOODBYES

Bravo Tp would like to say hello and welcome to the following people, Cpl Dunbar from 1 (UK) Div Sig Regt, Sig Flannagan from Sunny 259 and Sig Lawrence from Civ Div. We also like to say a sad and tearful farewell to the following people, Cpl Gaz Dixon off to 1 Div Sig Regt, Cpl Wood off to 2 Sig Regt, LCpl Gray and LCpl Marsh who are both off to 249 Sig Sqn (AMF L), get some snow under your boots lads.

MAINTENANCE TROOP

The tech workshops would like to welcome LCpl Alexander, LCpl Harrocks and LCpl Trott to the unit. Also we would all like to say good bye to Cpl Milligan who's just passed his Det Comds Course and is off to N. Ireland and Cpl Jay who's left us to go to 1 Sig Sqn

LEADERSHIP COURSE - THE D.S. PERSPECTIVE

The 'A' Team consisting of WO1 (RSM) Crane - ('Slightly Silver!') 'Fox' Crane, WO2 (RQMS) 'Hawk' Drew, WO2 (FofS) 'Brains' Forbes, Sgt 'Cookie' Mason, Sgt 'Action Man' Peters, Cpl 'Fixit' Dixon, Cpl 'Les Battersby' Shuttleworth, Cpl 'Mr Motivator' Wood and LCpl 'Bog Eyes' Morrison arrived a day early to take over Haltern Camp for the next ten days. The following day the course arrived and were immediately introduced to the DS standing side by side (looking more like a police line up!) we were introduced one by one by 'Fox' reading out each individual's specialities. Afterwards the 'A' Team disappeared to be seen again (occasionally).

Day One, of course, began with good old PT at 0600hrs, conducted by 'Mr Motivator' and subsequently every morning thereafter! Afterwards the course deployed on Ex First Try incorporating all manner of military skills and occasionally visiting stands conducted by the DS such as deciphering codes, meeting agents, and dealing with casualties. On return to camp there was no respite. It was straight into debates and discussions on a whole manner of subjects to the amusement of all involved. At the end of each night the DS would have a debrief/brief of what had been covered during the day's activities, and what would come the following day. At each briefing the course's files would be filled out covering a large amount of headings.

The following day consisted of a casualty simulation conducted by Sgt 'Action Man' Peters and Cpl 'Les Battersby' Shuttleworth. The course firstly being taught CASSIM; then conducting it themselves to a high standard. Then came command tasks conducted by 'Fixit' and 'Bog Eyes'. Five command tasks were completed in around three hours by both teams culminating in a trailer race. Then it was back to camp for food then more debates (again highly amusing). Afterwards came teaching practices, which were pre-prepared on a preferred subject by the student, again completed to a high standard for the level of experience. Later that evening the course received orders from 'Fixit' for Ex Final Try. In their orders they were told to be on 15 minutes to move. As the course received orders the DS plotted their dastardly plan of attack as enemy, headed by 'Brains'.

The following morning was an early rise for the DS as we were going to 'Kidnap' the course and dump them on the area. They were not happy, or a pretty sight, at 0500hrs in the morning when the DS came in and gave them a rude awakening shouting and bawling in dodgey Spanish accents, with woolly hats, balaclavas, shamags and the like on, we could not have been a pretty sight either come to think of it! So now the course were on Ex Final Try and the DS could come into their own! Periodically the DS would pop up during the courses patrolling and open up with GPMGs and rifles, either dying gloriously for our leader, or getting away before the cold, wet and tired people catch us! Even at night there was no rest as pyrotechnics lit the sky and blanks filled their ears, just to keep them alert (and awake!) Afterwards the DS would return to their sheltered, temporary accommodation for hot coffee, stickies and the radio (someone's gotta do it!)

On the final morning the great general Ragamuffin, aka - 'Brains' - aka - WO2 (FofS) Forbes was planning a visit to see his loyal troops, however, the leadership course had gathered information of this fact from dead men's hands and lay in wait. At 1100hrs precisely the General arrived to give a stirring speech on our impending great victory over the enemy. As his speech reached it's peak, shots were heard and the great battle had begun. The DS put up a superb fight but were eventually wiped out with all dying glorious deaths (especially Cpl 'Holly' Wood). The fight was over, the course had won. So it was back to camp on the transport for tea and medals (or was it?) in true army fashion it was on the bus, off the bus two minutes later for a run back to camp of around four kilometres carrying various heavy objects, with the DS running alongside. (The DS always win in the end).

The final evening was a Regimental dinner night, with superb food, supplied, of course, by 'Cookie' and his boys. The usual speeches and toasts followed then of course, alcohol consumption and off to bed. Rising early next morning to tidy up camp and hand it over and return to camp for a well earned weekend's rest.

Sqn Comd Maj Andy Bristow
RSM WO1 (RSM) Colin Milne

After another busy period of Exercises, the low level training is now complete and the Squadron goes on a well deserved leave ready for the challenges ahead and the building-up of our skills and drills as the training year continues.

The Squadron OC swaps the 436 for a Challenger 2

ALPHA TROOP

Tp OC 2Lt Andy Hill
Tp SSgt SSgt James Runchman

After a series of beat-up Exercises, the Squadron was given a well deserved long weekend which saw the Troop disappearing to the four corners of the world with some returning to the UK and a number going to Budapest. After this, the Troop was straight back into it with the culmination of its training on the Squadron Test Ex. The weather was typically Hohne but the Troop performance was good nonetheless. Thirty hour shifts were the norm to meet the standards required by SSgt James Runchman and Lt Helen Murphy. The Troop performed particularly well considering we were breaking in a new Complex Corporal - LCpl 'Ginty' McTurk, whose voice was a constant source of encouragement to LCpl Clifton. At the end of it all, we retired to the bar to what we do best!

After a week of prepping the wagons for first lines, the Squadron deployed for a week of ATD's and Military training. Being Signals and perhaps not the best of infantry soldiers, there were a few mistakes. The most notable being the outbreak of joviality when the Troop OC left the Platoon Sergeant behind at the FRV by mistake. Another light hearted moment came as the Troop OC (again) got dunked in a puddle and then Cpl Dave Langridge, thinking it looked like fun, decided to join her. A special mention ought to go to LCpl Chris Alston and Sigs 'Spanky' Harris and Rob Ross who pan bashed for the week. After a hectic three and a half months, the Troop is looking forward to its well deserved Easter leave.

A lull in the battle for SSgt James Runchman and WO2 (YofS) Keith Parsons

Finally we must say a few welcomes and goodbyes. Firstly to the outgoing OC, Lt Helen Murphy who is off to New Zealand for four and a half months, and secondly to LCpl Chris Alston who is off to 21 Sigs. A big welcome to 2Lt Andy Hill, our new OC, who had to leave rather early in the day and to Sig Tom O'Hanlon who joins us from 14 Sigs - we hope you both enjoy your time here.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp OC Lt Adam Corkery
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Sloane

As always, it has been another busy period for the Squadron with a lot of new faces and a lot of people leaving. From all of Bravo Tp, we would like to say goodbye to LCpl Chris 'Gump' Moore who leaves us for 21 Sig Regt. Also to Sigs Nick 'Tiny' Graham (19 Mech), Gaz Whetlor (11 Sigs) and Dave Edwards and Andy Workman who both leave us for Civ Div. Thanks for everything you have done for the Troop and the best of luck to you all for the future. We would also like to welcome LCpl Tony Marsh and Sigs Chrissie Strain and Chris Brogan - we hope you enjoy your tour.

February finished with a Squadron Test-Ex to put what we'd been practising all year so far to the test. Sig Ian Tranter was particularly disappointed to have missed the Exercise due to skiing commitments in Bavaria (or was he?). The Exercise was a total success with the Brigade Headquarters being set up and torn down in lightning quick time and achieving excellent comms.

ITD CAMP '99

After a weeks break it was exercise again for ITD's and battlecamp at sunny Haltern Training Area where the sun never shone once. After three days of ITD's it was time for a three day battle camp to brush up on our infantry skills. During the first day's tabbing most of 3 Section couldn't walk for falling about laughing after attempting to cross a large stream. Sig Michelle Cowley went in up to her waist and Cpl 'Ritchie' Richmond up to his knees. LCpl 'Barny' Beevers doubted they were crossing at the narrowest point and after convincing himself that he had found somewhere more suitable, took a run up that Linford Christie would have been proud of. We watched in anticipation but he unfortunately jumped right into the middle of the water and was soaked after just an hour in the field! By the end of the Exercise, even though everybody's feet and shoulder blades were sore, everyone agreed it had been a good Exercise, but nonetheless couldn't wait to get to the bar.

OPS/ES TROOP

Tp OC	Capt Jason Gray
YofS	WO2 (YofS) Keith Parsons
FofS	SSgt (FofS) 'Mac' McCallum

The last couple of months have been exceedingly busy. Along with many other departments within the Squadron we have been concentrating on the new ITD's. The whole Troop thus had to depart to Haltern Training Area, where we completed two days of ITD training followed by a three day battle camp (Jimmy's Sword). For a few Troop members this was a good educational experience, but for others it was just another 'day out'. These include Cpl Brown and Cpl Marlow who must now have been on their second or third Jimmy's Sword. Thoughts also go out to Cpl Cation (REME) who has probably done more time as a Corporal than most of the other Troop JNCO's have done in the Army! Everyone however learns from a 'Back to Basics' exercise although there are some that could have benefited more than others. Special mention ought to go to SSgt (FofS) 'I just want to make it clear in my own mind' McCallum who told us that he had given up being green at the 11 year point! Well, that's Foremen for you.

Finally congratulations to Sig now LCpl Livesey who is duly fined for his promotion and mention in The Wire - Livesey, Livesey, Livesey & Livesey (Editor – an extra one for luck!! It makes him sound like a firm of solicitors.) - that should keep us happy for a few more months.

SUPPORT TROOP

QM	Capt (QM) Dave Wilson
RQMS	WO2 (RQMS) Rod Cowan

Line and Power - Just a few congratulations and farewells this issue. Congratulations to LCpl 'Taff' Elston on passing his B1 and to Cpl 'watch out for that cam net' Pearson on passing his EFP. Congratulations also to Cpl '8 Slabs' Nordon who is now wearing his Cpl's stripes and to Sig Nikki Stead and her husband Lee on the birth of their first child. Farewells now as the reorganisation of the Squadron occurs and many from the Troop depart to the comms Troops. We would like to say farewell to Sig 'Head' Barclay, Sig 'Cow Eyes' Nixon, Sig Gaz Davies and Sig 'Lolly Pop Head' Milne who move to Bravo Tp and to Sig Soppitt, Sig Danny 'Monkey Hanger' Richardson and Sig Phil 'Vortex' Brown on moving to Alpha Tp.

24 AIRMOBILE BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (210)

Sqn Comd	Maj I. Hooper
RSM	WO1 (RSM) G. Hodgson

SQUADRON OVERVIEW

Life at 210 Sig Sqn is as busy as ever as the unit continues with an intensive training programme combined with implementing changes in line with adapting to the new future role as the Air Assault Brigade. On returning from Ex Lion Sun, the Squadron will form two new Troops including Charlie Troop who will join the unit from 216 Parachute Signal Squadron. The unit has a lot to look forward to. Following Ex Lion Sun the Squadron will embark on Summer Camp which is to be held in Cornwall. Ex Artful Issue is being held and hosted in the UK this year and gives the Squadron the chance to work with its fellow Brigades which form MND(C). Attention throughout however is firmly fixed on the new role and we look forward to the challenge that this brings.

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd	Lt Dan Ashton
Tp SSgt	SSgt Chris McKenna

There have been a number of changes in the Alpha Tp ORBAT. Hello's go out to Cpl Jo Ruth from 3(UK) Div and to Sig Jase Williams and Sig Paul Bowes both from 11 Sigs. Welcome back to Cpl Drew Mechen who has just completed a six month attachment in the Antarctic! Sadly we say cheerio to Cpl Dan Hill who is posted to Radex Troop at 11 Sigs and to LCpl Dan Slaughter who is off to JCUNI. Finally, congratulations to Cpl Neil Tarry and Sig Karen Abbott who got married on 10 April 1999.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd	2Lt Rob Hamilton
Tp SSgt	SSgt Tony May

It has been a busy time for Bravo Tp with a number of Exercises. The Troop deployed on Ex Gryphons Flight and is now preparing for Ex Lion Sun. However, the entire Troop are in fighting spirit after Easter leave and are looking forward to the forthcoming Exercises. New arrivals include 2Lt Rob Hamilton who is now in the chair as OC 'B'. Cpl 'Smudge' Smith has very kindly agreed to show up again at the Troop after six months of hiding in Bosnia. Cpl Wilson arrived in April from 16 Sigs along with LCpl Chris Scadden from 3 (UK) Div. Finally Sig 'Chocolate' Hack has been posted in from Blandford. Farewells go to Lt Guy Bowdler who goes to 11 Sigs; good luck! Best wishes go to Sgt Tweddle and his wife Sal who is posted to 7 Sigs – congratulations on the promotion. Finally, cheerio to Cpl Jase Curley who goes to 30 Sigs and to LCpl Si Dyble who joins Civ Div and goes global trekking for the next year!

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt Steve Clarke
Tp SSgt	SSgt Phil Latimer

A plethora of personalities are off to pastures new. The QM, Maj Ben Britton, leaves to join ARRC Headquarters at Rheindahlen, 2IC Capt Andy Coulston is off to tackle the joys of Junior Staff College and Yeoman Tomlinson goes to 16 Sigs . Farewells also go out to Sgt 'Taff' Hill, Cpls Andy Hall, Daz Perry, Ian 'Tommo' Thomson, Bob 'The future's Orange' White and LCpl Cummery. The Troop would like to welcome our new QM, Capt Steve Clarke, 2IC Capt Paul Merry, WO2 (YofS) Proud, Cpls Murray and Shepley, and Sigs Egerton and Gorvey.

EXERCISE GRYPHON'S FLIGHT

by Cpl 'Taff' Reed, LCpl Si Childs and Sig Hack

The scenario was along the lines of numerous other Exercises we have been on in our Army careers – a country with a completely unpronounceable name (one of those troublesome states within the UK which has an excellent economy and a wealth of mineral resources, much to the disgruntlement of its neighbour) had been overrun in which a number of the locals had been too slow to escape the evading forces. In a bid to save these hapless souls, 24 Airmobile Brigade deployed to a country that looked very similar to Scotland in its geographical composure (but whose name would have been worth ten times as much on a Scrabble board) in order to save them from certain doom. Consequently 210 Sig Sqn deployed northwards and began the task of providing communications the staff users required in order for the operation to be a success.

Alpha Tp were the first tasked to provide the Brigade Headquarters and set up on the Catterick Training Area. As is always guaranteed, the only timing that was fixed was the arrival of the rain, which quickly turned the area into a quagmire of mud. Thankfully the Ops Officer Capt Rachel Harvey was only too keen for us to lay some gravel down, which barely stopped the Staff Officers drowning in the horrors of the Catterick geological soup. Worthy of note were the antics of Sig 'OJ' Olejnik whose previous profession as Spiderman ensured that the antennas were mounted in some of the most inaccessible sites known to man, yet providing excellent communications to the users!

Support Tp deployed to Catterick along with Alpha Tp. Sandbags were brought in to give some sort of protection from the weather, which of course could only be filled by one trade group – the techs. Little happened as most people were acting as the civilian population, apart from Sig Egerton and LCpl Comery who decided that the best place for the POL point would be on the top of the Brigadier's car!

Bravo Tp were having just as much fun as Alpha. They deployed to Catterick, recce'd a good area and began to set up the Brigade Headquarters. Unbeknownst to all present, the chosen area actually represented quicksand mire covered with grass which quickly devoured the lead Landrover. A change of location was decided as the best option and the rest of the convoy headed off to a new hide. It was slightly disturbing to find that the site was only twenty metres away from the British Motor Cross Championships circuit, but by now time was pressing and the Troop needed to get the links in! Worthy of mention were LCpl Si Childs and Sgt Watts who were detached from Bravo Tp to provide a HF Rear Link for the Lead Aviation Battlegroup. Having boarded the helicopter in glorious sunshine they were devastated to land in the pouring rain in Otterburn. Sgt 'Whinging' Watts became firmly attached to his poncho and refused to move for anyone… apart from when the helicopters came in to collect certain elements of the battle-group and forgot the Signals Detachment! The rain refused to stop, yet a rather soggy Squadron continued to provide all the required links. After frantically rounding up the remaining refugees we headed for home…

…..or so we thought. The move back towards Colchester was to be on a Royal Fleet Auxiliary ship. After loading the vehicles at Newcastle onto one ship and boarding another we set sail at a blistering thirteen knots towards Harwich, ruing the day that boats were never fitted with a fifth gear.

Without doubt the Exercise proved to be very challenging and tested every single individual, particularly in providing communications in unfamiliar environments. With hindsight, we all learnt a great deal and, it must be said, had an enjoyable time. Just a little less rain next time please!

238 (LONDON) SIGNAL SQUADRON

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Sqn Comd	Maj Steve Hunt
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Ewan Hall

The reorganising of SHQ has come of age over the last few months with WO2 (SSM) Ewan Hall finally cutting his ties, in February, with 11 EOD Regt (RLC). Rumour has it, the SSM is still searching the local car boot sales for a pair of 'best boots' prior to the ceremonial season starting in May. Meanwhile, LCpls Sophie Morris and Carmen Michalska continue to go from strength to strength in the running world, with LCpl Morris finishing second in the recent Woman's Inter Corps Cross-Country and first in the Inter Services Cross Country at Plymouth. LCpl Michalska continues with her ambitions for the GB National Squad with a 'gruelling' three weeks training programme in the USA. Trailing in their path, but not far behind, Maj Steve Hunt, continues in his pursuit of excellence. The recent Fleet Half Marathon is keeping him firmly on track for the big event of the year - the London Marathon.

VISIT OF BRIGADIER S. G. HUGHES CBE TO THE SQUADRON

Brig Hughes, 2nd (National Communications) Signal Brigade Commander, made an impromptu short notice visit to the Squadron on Wednesday 7 April 1999. The visit gave Sgt Simon Schofield the ideal opportunity to present his Mark 2 version of the unit's Investors in People database to the Brigadier. Despite the short visit, Brig Hughes did find time to sponsor Maj Steve Hunt in his forthcoming attempt at the London Marathon.

The Sqn OC (right) making sure he has a firm grip on the sponsorship money from Brig Hughes, a mere 12 days before the London Marathon - witnessed by Maj (TOT) Howes!

GAMES NIGHT

During the long nights of January, the OC threw down the gauntlet to the ULOTC, 31 Sig Regt, 36 Sig Regt and 71 (Yeomanery) Sig Regt for a long awaited games night. From a cast of many, Sgt 'Chalky' White and LCpl Lee Lester, a veteran of many games nights, put together a variety of games ranging from adult Nintendo to Lee Lester's crazy golf and 'get your hands off me' Twister! Such was the competition, Lee Lester had to resort to a DIY loud hailer to get his final round of questions over the highly participative audience. Regrettably two of the Regiments were unable to send teams due to other commitments. However, the evening proved to be very competitive with the youthful ULOTC pushing hard against the experience of 31 Sig Regt. Wedged neatly between the ULOTC and 31 Sig Regt were the 238 Sig Sqn 'B' Team whose Team Captain, Cpl Paul Bone, had extreme difficulty communicating with his own team, probably due to the fact that he was speaking in another language. The evening, however, was a great success with many thanks going to 'Chalky' White and Lee Lester for organising a great night. 31 Sig Regt walked away the proud winners vowing, to a rematch on their own home turf. We await the challenge!

TRAINING WING

Trg Offr	SSgt Si Hadley
Trg NCO	Cpl Steve Hook

LIFE IN THE TRAINING WING - by SSgt Si 'I am a God' Hadley

Much has changed in the Training Wing over the last six months, the OC, Maj Steve 'Trained and Developed' Hunt wanted to create a training wing of excellence, and so the 'Wing' (as its fondly known) was formed with myself, Cpl Paul 'Grenade' Crabb and Sig Greg 'Green' Burgess. Unfortunately, Cpl Paul Crabb was up for parole in April and was successful in his application for Dog Handler in Northern Ireland. We wish him well on his posting and good luck for the future. All the girls from Kings Cross send their love, enjoy the air miles!

In came Cpl Steve 'I'm off on another course' Hook, stolen yet again from the clutches of Radio Tp to become the new Trg NCO. Gone are the days of kit inspections and bulled boots, time for some real work! That now makes all members of the 'Wing' Martini Club, sorry 'Crabby' but with no front teeth, no chance.

The 'Wing' has had a paint job, unfortunately, the cries ' Why can't I paint it DPM' from Sig Greg 'Green' Burgess were denied. And now we are back in the business of Training. Future events include CORPSAAM, with assistance from Cpl Bart 'ready, aim, fire' Story the Team Captain, Battle Camp, Summer Camp, Offshore Sailing and the famous Exercise Bruno Endeavour the five, one week ITD (A) training weeks. Not forgetting our second role the ceremonial duties, approaching fast. 'Oh' to be in the sleepy hollow of Radio Tp again! Teething problems are reducing. Sig Greg 'Green' Burgess has now seen his first PC and even understands 'Save As'.

Training and development is progressing well, thanks to the new Training Wing database, designed and built by Sgt Si ' I'd get loads of money in civvy street for this' Schofield, at least we haven't crashed the system too many times. Well its time to go, ' What's that Burgess another jiff 'oh no' tasking for the 'Wing'. Just one more thing, the 238 tradition is to get the beers in if your name is mentioned. Well don't get mad get even. Capt Kerry Levins, Capt Levins Capt Levins and finally Capt Levins. Oh don't forget there is Capt Levins and not forgetting SSgt Si Hadley, SSgt Si Hadley, SSgt Si Hadley and SSgt Si Hadley.

OSCAR TROOP

Tp Comd	Maj Dave Gilchrist
Tp SSgt	SSgt Karen Ripley

This has been a fairly quiet period for the Troop, we must have been suffering from an elongated festive hangover! A big congratulations to Sgt Sandra Thompson, who conquered all before her on her Sgt's course, welcome back from your fellow crypto ops. Sgt Debbie Gosnell has been thrust into the limelight and now fills the ADA post, combining this with the Help Desk 'at times', no you can't take home two lots of pay is the cry from the (Tfc). Cpl Chris Vallance has successfully attended his crypto course, welcome back Chris, but more importantly welcome to 'HMS Nightshift' the fun starts here.

On the sporting front, we are pleased to announce that Maj Dave Gilchrist was voted sports personality/person of the year by the fellow sportsmen/sportswomen of the Squadron. This was down to his phenomenal performances throughout the last calendar year at windsurfing. Well done. The Troop recently put in a decent performance in the Squadron Challenge Cup Volleyball Competition. Watch out Mike Tp, you're in our sights, the trophy is coming our way this year. We all eagerly await the orienteering and squash/rowing in the next few weeks.

Again a fairly quiet period for people coming and going from the Troop. MCM Div decided for a number of reasons to cancel the few posting's in that we had. So it's hello to Cpl Sarah Dyer and only just arrived LCpl Mark Leak. Bon Voyage to Sig Lee Pearce, who departed for the shores of sunny Bosnia in January. Just a quick one Lee, next time you are posted/detached remember to take your BONEDOME. We all await the beers upon your safe return.

MIKE TROOP

Tp Comd	Maj Howes
Tp SSgt	Vacant

The Troop welcomes Cpl Twizell and his wife Janet to London and we hope that they enjoy their stay. Although having just got here after completing his T-1 in Blandford, Cpl Twizell is to return to Blandford in April to attempt the new Royal Signals Junior Commanders Course, we wish him well. Mr Paul MacArthur is also welcomed into P.A. Section. There have been no tearful farewells to make, although April will see the departure of Maj (TOT) Richard Howes as he leaves the military for civvy street. Congratulations to Sigs Ben McFaul and Ayesha Muhammed and also to LCpl Smith who have all just completed a five week intensive course on computer maintenance. Mike Troop wishes Cpl Paul Bone well on his Climbing Aptitude and Safe to Climb (CASC) Course at RAF Digby as he proves that he really is safe to climb. On returning from Digby, Cpl Bone and Sgt Corey Pennicott depart for the Squadron trekking and rafting expedition in Nepal. Good Luck to you both.

The whole Troop is still grafting under an unrelenting workload. Systems Section continues to deal manfully with the ACISG whilst Radio Section has almost buckled (again!) under the strain of the barrack maintenance site visits (and avoiding wearing uniform at all times.) The whole Troop is busy preparing itself for the summer season.

Finally, after last year's victory in the Squadron's Challenge Shield, a somewhat disappointing start has been made to this year's campaign. After three events the Troop is currently in a magnificent third place (out of the three competing Troops), although with seven events remaining, the Troop still has high hopes of repeating last years winning ways and has decided that now is the time to start winning..... possibly.

RADIO TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt Kerry Levins
Tp Sgt	Sgt Simon Schofield

At the moment Radio Tp is in the eye of the storm with the last couple of months being relatively quiet before the 'silly' season starts in earnest. Being quiet, the Troop have been busily bulling boots and sorting out No 1 Dress Uniforms, with the odd kit inspection thrown in by the newly promoted Tp Cpl, Cpl Gibbo 'two tapes' Gibson. Who said promotion can go to your head?

ULOTC PASS OFF PARADE – 21 MARCH 1999

Every year the Troop supports ULOTC with its Pass Off Parade by providing two stick men in Ceremonial Dress and two of our Police Spec Pan Europeans motorcycles. This year LCpl 'Buster' Keeton and LCpl Lee 'Conehead' Lester were put into the breech as stick men, with Cpl 'Gibbo wheely' Gibson and Mr 'Milkfloat' Stevens riding the Pan Europeans. The day was met with rain and hail storms which is particularly good for best boots and blues just in time for another kit inspection.

On the sports front, the Troop have been battling away with the Squadron Challenge Cup by winning two of the three events so far, namely the Orienteering and Volleyball and a close second in the Badminton. Watch out Mike Troop, Radio Troop is back! The Troop send their best wishes to A/Cpl Mick 'its my bar' Breydin and A/Cpl Daz 'Billy Whiz' Pond who have been sent to Bosnia with 1 Mech Bde for six months and are now up a mountain somewhere missing all the fun here in London. Finally welcome to LCpl 'Buster' Keeton his wife Zee and their two children, we hope you enjoy your stay with us.

THE X-ZONE CHALLENGE (BRITAIN'S FITTEST MAN 99)
by Sgt Jim Robertson

The X Zone Challenge is a National competition (not military) incorporating all the health and fitness clubs in the UK to find 'Britain's Fittest Man or Woman'. It all began back in November 1998 when the General's Cup Superstars Inter-Branch competition took place at HQ LAND. The results from this competition were passed onto XL Leisure who selected the people with the quickest times to go forward to this national event. A team of four were selected from HQ LAND, of which two were R. Signals, and were SSgt 'Taff' Burdge and Sgt 'Jim' Robertson, part of the conditions for being selected was to raise money for 'Childline' of which £1000 is hoped to be raised. The Team Captain for 'Childline' was 'Rebel' from Gladiators.

The weekend started at 6am leaving sunny Salisbury for the NEC, on arrival in Birmingham all the competitors familiarised themselves with the equipment they were to use, this involved the following:- 1.5km recumbent cycle, 40 'marine' press-ups, 3km running machine (at a gradient), 20 over-grasp pull-ups, 1.5km rowing machine, 6mtr rope, 40 floors stair-master machine finishing with a 3km on the upright cycle with the clock running between events.

The day finally started at 3pm with the heats. The standard of the competition was extremely high and included four previous winners of 'Mr Ultrafit' and 'Iron-Man' competitions. Day 1 ended with all four of us qualifying for Day 2, this meant we were among the Top 65. After the learning experience of Day 1 the lads paced themselves to produce even better times towards the end of Day 2. Our results were as follows:

	UK Grading	UK Age Grading
SSgt Taff Burdge	52	12
Sgt Jim Robertson	61	16

We would both recommend this competition to any soldier liking a challenge, hopefully this competition will gain more publicity within the forces next year. The competition is to be screened on 'Sky Sports 2' from 19 - 24 April 1999 and will be presented by Kelly Holmes. So we will see you next year, if you've got the bottle!!

EXERCISE SPARTAN HIKE
by LCpl N. Vincenzi

Towards the end of last year it was decided the HQ LAND would enter both a male and female team into Ex Spartan Hike, HQ LAND, HQNI and TA Army Ski championships held in Serre Chevalier, France between 4-20 January 1999. After trawling the unit for volunteers, eight willing members were finally found (four male and four female) all of different Cap Badges. We all varied in levels of experience, from novice to veteran.

In the early hours of Monday 4 January 1999 we packed up the minibus and set off on our 17hrs trip. We arrived at our apartment, provided by Skiworld, unpacked the minibus and set off on a recce of the local après-ski.

The next day was the start of a four day training package called Ex Rossie Iron Lion. This was used to get us used to skiing poles and improve our technique. There were very few slopes open due to a lack of snow so it took up to 3hrs travelling to and from other resorts. By the end of the third day we were skiing (falling) down Red and Black slopes.

On 10 January 1999 saw the start of the Competition and the early morning sunrise (0530). The first race was the seeding GS, used to prioritise competitors for the forthcoming races. This was the first time many of our female team had ever raced, and the nerves were setting in. The closer we got to the starting gate the worse the nerves got. However, once we got to the bottom, still in one piece, the nerves turned to relief.

Over the next ten days we took part in various races including Slalom, Giant Slalom and Super G. The downhill race was cancelled (unfortunately) due to the lack of snow. Day by day the confidence in our team grew (as did the number of bruises). Although none of us will make the next Olympics we had a really good time trying and is was definitely an experience to remember.

ALLIED OFFICERS WINTER WARFARE COURSE
ELVERUM, NORWAY
SKYTE- OG VINTERSKOLEN FOR INFANTERIET (SCHOOL OF INFANTRY, NORWAY)
by Capt Alistair Fawcett

This six week course based in Elverum, Norway is designed to teach Officers and SNCOs, from across NATO, the basics in military skiing techniques, minor tactics in cold weather conditions and survival. The course is primarily aimed at the infantry and had students from sixteen different nations taking part. With fifty on the course the British had the largest contingent taking part. Of the fourteen from Britain six were Marines, four were from 22 SAS, one from the Special OPs RA, two from CSS Bn AMF(L) and myself. The other students came from as far a field as USA and Estonia, which did present a number of language problems during orders sessions as well as on the social front. The majority of them were from their own countries Special Forces, for example; my section consisted of a Greek, a Spaniard, two Danes, a German, some Americans, and a few British.

The course started with the usual rounds of briefings and kit issue, which were necessary prior to the start of the training itself. In order that every student had equal 'benefit' from his equipment the only kit we could use was that issued by the Norwegian Army. This meant no Gore-tex, no thermal lined Alico Ski-march boots, no bivi bags, no expensive tents and wooden skis. The Norwegians are quite open about the standard of their kit, but with their experience in the Arctic climate they know what is necessary and what is sufficient. Their equipment is mainly made from natural materials such as cotton and wool, simple but functional. We don't know how lucky we are!

The skiing was the first important skill to crack and this had to be done in a couple of days prior to the start of the first Exercise. Many of the students had no experience with military skiing and therefore it paid to have a sense of humour. Having never skiied before I was concerned over my ability to assimilate the required skills before the start of the Exercise. After a week of skiing we deployed into the local training area complete with bergens, webbing, an AE-3 issued rifle, pulks (sledges for carrying equipment), carrying radios and on skis. The average pace of a proficient section on skis should be approximately 4km per hour. We didn't quite manage this but everyone was impressed with our progress. It is not easy patrolling tactically on skis and yes there were a lot of falls. The learning curve was immense and by the end of the first Exercise we were skiing at night, while navigating, pulling pulks and in wooded locations.

As the weeks progressed and individuals became better at skiing the distance of moves became further (up to 35km at a time) and the Exercises became more tactically based. The temperature rarely went above –5 and on occasions dropped as low as –38. This proved difficult when in the mountains and while on sentry duty at night. The entire way you operate is dictated by the weather conditions but you soon learn what you can and can't do. Many students were from Scandinavian countries and were excellent at operating in this climate. They could generally ski very well but by the end of the course the majority of the other students could keep up with them. The final Exercise had possibly the hardest start with a long 24hr infiltration ski, followed by setting up Ops on various targets. This is very time consuming, as it is very important to leave no sign of your presence. The final task was a platoon ambush on a BV mounted Coy HQ while on the move followed by a rather long and quick exit ski march.

The course itself was excellent. The Norwegians have a totally different attitude to working in Arctic conditions and try to use it in their favour rather than let it dictate to them. The course was well structured with weekends being free, a number of Mess functions and a lot of good laughs, but ultimately it was testing both mentally and physically. An interesting aspect of the course was working with the other nations. After each Exercise, lecture, ambush or attack, for example, there would be the opportunity to discuss how each nation would have carried that particular aspect of the training. Generally there were similar methods but some details were wildly different. I would certainly recommend the course to any willing volunteer, but as we are the only Squadron who can load officers' and SNCOs on to the course you had best get your posting preferences sorted.

THE COLD WEATHER WARFARE INSTRUCTORS COURSE
by Cpl Foster

It was a cold Saturday night when we touched down at Bergen, Norway. Ahead lay the Cold Weather Warfare Instructors Course, six arduous weeks of skiing and ski-touring. We were to be based in Brandseth Camp, approximately 20 minutes from the town of Voss. The initial three weeks consisted of giving lessons to and providing demonstration for the Arctic Ski and Survival Courses (ASSC). For the first two weeks we assisted the course run for the Staff from HQ AMF(L) in Heidelberg. Many of whom were from differing NATO countries. It was during this phase that my accent came in to its own when I managed to confuse not only the students but most of the instructors as well. The culmination of this course was the survival phase. In which many chickens met the big chicken in the sky by way of the cooking pot.

On the third week we had to give a penetration demonstration to the members of the first Arctic Ski and Survival Course from UK. Included in this was the concurrent activities of section attacks and Skijoring. Skijoring, my lesson, consisted of a lot of laughs as personnel were towed behind a BV at speeds of up to 25km. Needless to say balance was frequently lost and many spent their time digging themselves out of snowdrifts. The Section attacks were hard and Sgt Phil Render quickly realised that attacks in deep snow with snowshoes are pretty difficult. The final night of the course was attack by our course against those on the ASSC. The ensuing battle looked very much like the opening scenes from 'Saving Private Ryan', nevertheless it was both enjoyable and a fitting end to the week.

In week four the course began the serious ski touring in the mountains of Voss. The going was good until the course ran into difficult weather. Visibility was virtually zero and we had to find shelter in a mountain hut. This weather did not clear and four days later we had to come down from the hills. It later emerged that many had been blown off their feet while attempting to get down. This was all part of the build-up to the final week, a mammoth ski-tour of 137km, during which temperatures dropped as low as -37. Fittingly the ski-tour ended at entertainment establishments of the town of Geilo. At the end of the course Sgts Phil Render and Chris Trowbridge gained their Cold Weather Warfare Instructors qualification.

EXERCISE ADVENTURE EXCHANGE 1999

The Squadron saw a quick turn around post Norway ready for the AMF(L) annual cold weather deployment. This years Exercise was based in north-east Italy in the regions of the Carnil Alps and Friuli Venezia Giulia. The Exercise itself was part FTX and part CPX and involved five battalions including NATO's newest members, the Hungarians, Polish and Czechs. The deployment, based on an Article v Scenario, lasted approximately two weeks and saw the progression from deterrent operations to combat operations.

The Squadron deployed ready for adverse weather conditions with the BV 206 over-snow mounted RRBs carrying ski equipment, white cam nets and sufficient rations should the weather have closed in. Each individual carried cold weather equipment including cam whites and the SOP kit list for any cold weather deployment. Upon landing at the APOE we soon realised the initial weather reports had been woefully wrong and only the highest peaks were snow capped. The temperature was well above zero and at times reached into the twenties. Only the detachments on the highest features were in the snow line, but most still required 'careful' siting by the more experienced det comds.

RRB C and D carefully sited

Geographically the region is very mountainous with a number of valleys crossing both west to east and north to south. This presented a number of 'problems' for communications but the Command Net, and Squadrons main effort, remained consistent throughout. Both headquarters were in place with the alternate HQ providing the real-estate for the GOC, Maj Gen Reith, to trial a prototype battlefield integrated CIS system. The prototype is a complex command and control facility designed to fuse information from the various staff cell databases and present it on a virtual screen. Still in its early development stage it did have a number of teething problems, but it has highlighted the way forward in many respects. The Staff had to work double time updating both the physical bird table and the virtual bird table, but Rome was not built in a day. This trialing did, unfortunately, mean the Exercise was relatively static with the change of control between HQs occurring only twice.

Deploying with the Squadron were a number of personnel on their first Exercise. Sig Johnston, a case in point, arrived from Blandford on the Monday and was in Italy on the Thursday. A sudden realisation that he was no longer in Radio Group at 11 Sig Regt but providing communications for the Force Helicopter Unit (FHU). At FHU LCpl Daz Walker had the unique opportunity of providing communications from the air, in the back of a command-variant Blackhawk, whilst flying with the GOC. In addition we had four augmentees from 35 Sig Regt, who managed to cope with the arduous 'arctic' conditions experienced and provided much needed operator support.

LCpl Daz Walker - Comms from the air

As with any major deployment the Squadron role of honour is long and distinguished and a few individuals deserve a mention. Capt 'The strawberry blonde' Stokoe after dealing with one DAMCON incident managed to play a number of games of football and reach level 10 on 'Quake' (oh how hard 2ICs work). WO2 (YofS) 'The Gun Slinger' Bartlett managed to shock all in G6 with his sudden posting, but promised everyone the Squadron would be getting a full-sized grown-up Yeoman as his replacement. SSgt 'Saddam' Marsh proved again that he wears the trousers in his Troop (right under his pinny) by producing a fine display of Indian cuisine throughout the Exercise. Cpl 'Mountain Goat' Upcraft will again never deploy without sufficient cigarettes as he almost had a heart attack carrying out a personal resup. LCpl '…I'll just remain in bed until Brig Radcliffe arrives' Douglas for demonstrating the professional nature of the Squadron's JNCO's by remaining true to the motto 'a good soldier sleeps when he can' despite Comd AMF(L) UK Element's visit being imminent. Last, but by no means least, Cfn 'Starksy' Hardy for demonstrating his defensive driving skill at the SPOD. A big well done to them all.

HAIL AND FAREWELL

This has been a very busy time of year for the Squadron with a welcome abundance of new arrivals and an equally sad abundance of departures! Welcome to WO2 (YofS) Billy Cardwell from 280 (UK) Sig Sqn, Sgt Daph Clash from JCUNI, Sgt Moore from 1 UK Armd Div, Sgt Bev McAuley returned from Bosnia, Sgt Fran Poulsen from 9 Sig Regt (R), Cpl Roy Hanbidge from 15 Sig Regt, Cpl Andy McNally from 7 Sig Regt and finally Cpl Helen Shearan on her return from maternity leave.

Farewell to WO2 (YofS) Bren Kelly who is leaving the army after 22 years service, Sgt Bev McAuley posted to 21 Sig Regt, Cpl 'Pomps' Wardell, LCpl Nicky Cooney, LCpl Mandy McHugh all leaving for civvy street and last but not least Sig Brett 'girls just wanna have fun' Merrick currently on detachment in Bosnia with 1 Mech Bde HQ Sig Sqn.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to LCpl Nikki Dean, who after winning the Army Cross Country Championships, coming second in the Interservices, surpassed herself by winning the Inter Corps Championships, the last major event of the season held at Blandford! Royal Signals proved too strong on the day just edging out the APTC to also win the team event. To round off her busy racing schedule LCpl Dean participated in the Woking 10km breaking the hour barrier in a time of 59.40! Unfortunately this resulted in a hamstring injury which needed lots of massages from the physio staff in the Aldershot rehab centre (3 massages a day!!??)

EXERCISE TRUMPET DANCE – by Sgt Ray Carter

Having completed an RMQ 1-3 course in March 1996, I had almost resigned myself to the fact that doing RCO on the annual squadron APWT would be about as adventurous as I could get with my qualification! However, an opportunity arose in mid December 1998, when the Squadron received a request asking for Range Qualified personnel to assist a Guard Battalion on Ex Trumpet Dance. The Exercise was a 1st Battalion Grenadier Guards battle Group Exercise taking place at Fort Lewis and Yakima Training Centre Washington State, USA. Within two days of volunteering I had been accepted as Safety Staff on the Permanent Range Team (PRT). With words of encouragement such as, 'You're on a swan' ringing in my ears I travelled to Pirbright on 4 January 1999. On arrival I soon realised that everyone else was from various Infantry units including nine members from the RAF Regiment.

We arrived in the USA on 5 January 1999, to warm sunny weather which quickly changed to rain as soon as the range package began and continued for the next two and a half weeks! The second phase took place at Yakima where the weather was totally different, snow and temperatures of minus 25 - 30 degrees C. One of the highlights was the Multi Purpose Range Complex (MPRC), which was four and a half km long and two and a half km wide. This was situated in the middle of a range which extended 40km by 50km. The MPRC enabled troops to practice section, platoon and company live firing attacks and company in defence and withdrawal.

The range package was an experience not to be missed, although having only three days off in four and a half weeks and working 12-15 hour days did have me thinking maybe I had jumped in too quickly! After completion of the range package the PRT had eight days R&R to do some sightseeing. This included places such as Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma and hiking in Mt Rainier National Park. All in all it was a worthwhile experience and an insight into how the infantry do things, (or don't)!

FLEET HALF MARATHON – by LCpl Jules Dolan

It's that time of the year again, where hundreds of keen (or mad) runners turn up to take part in the 'Annual Fleet Half Marathon'. The course consists of 13 miles of lovely southern scenery (not forgetting the picturesque scenic pubs, that were very tempting along the way). A small contingency of 251 Sig Sqn 'warriors', decided to take the challenge on. The team consisted of Maj John Oakes, Sgt Dave 'Mr. Bean' Green, Sgt Jim 'Viagra' Kelly, LCpl Nikki 'Whippet' Dean, LCpl 'Crown Jules' Dolan and not forgetting our civvy counterpart Sara Chivers.

The run was sponsored by different National Charities. However, in addition the Squadron decided to raise cash for our local 'Queen Mary's Nursery' here in sunny Aldershot. The money raised would go towards buying new play equipment for the rowdy youngsters. SSgt Glynis Watton raised a substantial amount of money, but sadly in the end was unable to take part due to illness – all that training gone to waste.

The race began with the OC and LCpl Nikki 'whippet' Dean sprinting off into the March sunshine, while the rest of us decided to take a nice steady bimble around the course. The first couple of miles weren't too bad, but pressure on the calf muscles got a bit too much for some of us which slowed the pace down. The team ran their socks off and all completed the run to receive a souvenir medal and huge round of applause. The Physio dept will be very busy dealing with all the aches and pains that we have sustained, it's all in a worthy cause!!

259 SIGNAL SQUADRON

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Sqn Comd Maj S. Turnbull
SSM WO2 (SSM) D. Ewing

To dispel any rumour that Cyprus is a sunshine tour, 259 Sig Sqn has had an exceptionally busy start to the year, though we have still had time to enjoy ourselves. The Squadron Development course, which was organised by Lt Sarah Pedder, saw Sig Hicklin from Episkopi Tp receive the prize for best student. The course consisted of a gruelling week of mental, physical and academic tests, culminating in a final Exercise that would have stretched the most stalwart of commanders. Well done to all the Squadron Seniors who helped in the planning and organisation of such a worthwhile course. With the arrival of the good weather, the Squadron has hosted many welcome visitors to Cyprus. The Master of Signals, being one, spent a day with the Squadron, during which he presented three well-earned LS & GC Medals to SSgt Whitty and Sgt Crowton both of Dhekelia Tp and SSgt Jarnell in J6 HQ BFC. All three having successfully kept their noses clean and their secrets well hidden for 15 years!!

Finally SHQ have to say a few farewells, hellos and congratulations. A Farewell and Good Luck to Capt Paul Merry who has finally left the Squadron to become the 2IC of 210 Sig Sqn, Colchester and to SSgt (YofS) Thomas who is posted to 1 (UK) Armd Div HQ & Sig Regt in June. Hello to Capt Katy Caie, the new Sqn 2IC, who having taken over, has done nothing but write and re-write visit programmes, and last but not least, congratulations to WO2 (FofS) Rutherford, who has successfully been selected for promotion to WO1.

EPISKOPI TROOP

Tp Comd Lt S. Pedder
Tp SSgt SSgt Tierney

The final event of The Hodgeson Shield (the Inter-Troop sporting event) took place on a hot afternoon when the teams lined up for a spectacular one-man cross-country race. Sgt Steve Lynch of HQ Tp clinched victory, with a few of his colleagues close behind, followed by the remainder of the Squadron. It was a well-supported event with military, civilian and family members taking part. This only left Lt Pedder to present the Hodgeson Shield for this year to his own department. Ironically most of the SHQ wins had taken place while Lt Pedder was on leave! On the social front we continue to use the adaptability of LCpl Steve 'Stelios' Cooper in the building of the new Jimmy Club. It has now taken shape and I am sure will become the new landmark for Signals on the Island. We welcome new arrivals LCpl's Reade and Quinn and Sig Atkinson, the experience is more than welcome. We also say sad farewell to Cpl Izzard returning to sunny UK, Sigs Rodda, Flannagan, Shepherd and Davies the latter hanging up his fighting uniform and picking up his de-mob suit.

AIRFIELD TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Gareth Kemp
Tp SSgt SSgt R. Stenhouse

The Troop is currently over-stretched and undermanned with major projects and many other 'Shhhh!!!' jobs. There are numerous fibre and structured cabling jobs and much good work has been done, so much work, so little time! The first week of March saw the upgrade of the 3 ISDX Telephone exchanges on RAF Akrotiri. This was the first stage in the TRANCHE2 upgrade for the Cyprus Fixed Telecommunications System. Prior to this, there was a requirement for Sgt 'Dolly' Parton to undergo arduous and rigorous radio training (NOT) in Milan, Italy. Always taking the rough with the smooth, Cpl 'Not another course' Kev Waring, got the short end of the stick and ended up on an ISDX course in Beeston. Sgt Parton learnt how to live on a budget when he discovered that Italian banks don't like Cypriot Pounds!!

The Troop has had a few social visits to the localities of the Island. There was a Troop function at the civilian Troop Storekeeper's son's restaurant at Lofou. Were there any back-handers there? SSgt Bob Stenhouse, SSgt (FofS) Eric O'Halloran, civilian Telemechs Terry Hibbs and Keith Lowe sampled the delights of a fish Meze and copious amounts of local wine and beer at Zygi, proving that fish can be tasty!

Posing on Ex Winter Warrior far left - Sig Bate, 1st from left - Sig Kervil, far right - 2Lt Kemp

Three members of the Troop, 2Lt Gareth Kemp, LCpl Sharon McCreaddie and Sig Adam Holley took time out of a hectic work schedule to take part in Ex Winter Warrior. The two weeks, skiing proved to be a challenging introduction to Nordic, Alpine and ski touring. All members of the group improved immensely although no one brought the silverware home in the races. Sig Adam Holley, however, should have a good future career as a stuntman after his practice at falling over with style!

DHEKELIA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt N. Morris
Tp SSgt SSgt J. Whitty

Dhekelia Tp welcolme Sig Stewart, straight from RSS Blandford, Sgt Witty from AFCENT who joins her husband, SSgt J. Whitty. The Troop is cracking on with various projects but has supported the Troodos Horseshoe Hike and 12 SU walkabout, a rare busy moment for Radio Ops and Radio Techs. The weather continues to warm up and the Troop look forward to many BBQ's at the newly refurbished Bitsa Bar and BBQ patio. Cpl Bob Kirby has worked wonders with discreetly acquired breeze blocks and cement!

280 (UNITED KINGDOM) SIGNAL SQUADRON (LANDCENT)

Sqn Comd Maj Simon Hutchinson
RSM WO1 (RSM) McKenna

The changes to the Squadron future establishment and ORBAT slowly continue. We are now in the gradual process of reducing our manpower in preparation for the introduction of RDCM, our new piece of NATO communications equipment to replace the RMA system. However, whilst the majority of BFG has been focused on operations in Macedonia and Kosovo we have also been quietly continuing our task with the Multi-National Signal Group in Bosnia, a commitment we have had since September 1996. Inevitably the experience that the Squadron has acquired in Bosnia is now being utilised in Macedonia, with Cpl Chris Read being deployed to HQ KVCC as the resident CRONOS/IDNX expert.

The Multinational Commanders of the LANDCENT Signal Group (L-R): OC 280 (UK) Sig Sqn, OC 414 (US) Sig Coy Maj Frarley, CO 990 (GE) Sig Regt Lt Col Williche, Deputy Commander LSG Lt Col Rodriguez

EXERCISE CENTRIFUGAL FORCE 10 – 19 MARCH 1999
by WO2 (FofS) Flather

The Squadron recently participated in Ex Centrifugal Force, the final ever LANDCENT Signal Group (LSG) Exercise. This is due to Headquarters LANDCENT and LSG being disbanded later this year as part of the changes to the NATO command structure. The Exercise was, as ever, truly multi-national, comprising of our sister LSG units; 990 (GE) Sig Regt and 414 (US) Sig Coy. It was the first time that all three LSG units have had an opportunity to Exercise since 1994 as we have all been fully committed to operations as part of SFOR until the end of last year. The Exercise, which was held around the Heidelberg area, was also the last chance to use the present RMA system due to be replaced by RDCM in the immediate future. The Exercise also received a number of high-powered visitors such as Commander LANDCENT Gen Dr Klaus Rheinhardt and Maj Gen Milne, the senior British Officer and Director of Support at HQ LANDCENT.

DAVID BEATS GOLIATH
KREFELD STATION BOXING TOURNAMENT

The inaugural Station Boxing Tournament between 280 (UK) Sig Sqn and 7 Sig Regt was recently held at Bradbury Barracks, home to 7 Sig Regt. There is a friendly rivalry between the two units and the competition was viewed as a 'David versus Goliath' confrontation, with a Squadron taking on a Regiment. The result was a highly contested competition between two sets of very determined and skilled boxers. The individual standard of boxing was very high with all boxers demonstrating a natural flair for the sport. Despite their amateur status, and the fact that many had never fought prior to the competition, all the boxers put on a tremendous display with a standard of boxing that would have not shamed the professionals. The competition consisted of seven bouts, from light-heavy weight to lightweight, and had a nail-biting finale with the score at 3-3 after six bouts; The final deciding bout of the competition being between the light heavy weights. After a tough three rounds the winner was decided on points with our own Cpl Bailes having the edge and being declared the winner, hence the overall competition went 4-3 in the favour of 280 Sig Sqn.

The victorious Squadron Boxing Squad celebrates their victory over 7 Sig Regt in the station boxing tournament

SSgt Barker attempts to give boxing advice to a bemused and confident looking Sig Darkes

The victorious Squadron Boxing Team consisted of Cpl Danny Bailes, LCpl Simon Cook, LCpl Robbie Turner, Sig Tony Darkes, Sig Dave Machin, Sig Brian Parrington and Sig Remi Osbourne. Credit must also go to the individuals who were not selected to fight but completed the training and carried out an excellent job in the preparation and encouragement of the team, they were Cpl Steve Slaughter, Cpl Leon Teasdale, Sig Nobby Styles, Sig Smiejekowski, Sig Bernard Brennan, Sig Ginge Mortimer and finally to the team coaches Sgt Bob Dunford APTC and SSgt Tony Barker.

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Higgs
Tp SSgt SSgt Barker

The Troop would like to say a hearty farewell and good luck to newly promoted Capt Richard Todd. He is off to Blandford to become OC Leadership Troop. A traditional send-off was required, so Cpl 'Look at my body' Wells and Cpl 'RMA' Icke organised an orienteering competition and fun march with different prizes (stolen from Capt Todd's room) at each station. This was followed by sombre farewells in Club 280 and by the end of the night Lt 'Toddy' was in his usual state, with full support from everyone. Farewell too to LCpl Dave Turnbull, who is leaving after four and a half years with the Squadron. Rather than the norm of sitting down with a few crates the Troop secretly set up Club 280 for a formal Regimental dinner complete with our own Mr Vice, Sig Gary Thompson. It was a good night and we wish Dave all the best. The Troop also recently deployed on Ex Centrifugal Force. After a two-day plug-up in camp we deployed to a local training area where we linked-up with our fellow US and German LSG units. We then deployed south to Heidelberg but before moving, and in the interest of public relations, we played football against a German side from 990 (GE) Sig Regt. The spirit of 1966 lives on and we won 4-1 (thankfully no penalties), the only person not caring for the celebration was Sgt 'What's wrong with that tackle' Valentine – who is Scottish. Finally a welcome to 2Lt Higgs, the new boss.

Maj Gen Milne, senior British officer at HQ LANDCENT, meets the troops on Ex Centrifugal Force
(L-R):Sig Ellison, Cpl Walker, Sig Thompson, Cpl Venables

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Craig
Tp SSgt SSgt Weavers

The Troop would like to give the a hearty welcome to the new arrivals, LCpl Jacko Jackson, LCpl Andy Trestle and Sig Craig Harrison from 11 Sig Regt on completion of their T3 courses. On a sadder note we say farewell to Cpl Nick McAnulty (to 11 Sig Regt and his T1) and Sig Richie Calladine (to 19 Mech Bde) who are leaving us for greener pastures, or so they think. We wish them both luck. Congratulations to Sig Jenny Sarsfield on passing White Helmets selection and continuing to brave it out despite dislocating her shoulder – that will teach her for falling off the pyramid. On a lighter note the Troop was rewarded for all its hard work over the last two months by being taken on a day long 'R n R' trip to Duinrel in Holland. It would have been a much shorter day out but for the fact that Sig Si Hall doesn't know the difference between north and south, which would explain why we came back to St Tonis via Amsterdam…

CHARLIE TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Rae
Tp SSgt SSgt Baker

There has been a lot of movement within the Troop over the last couple of weeks. We would like to say goodbye to Cpl Matt 'Civpop' Lennie who leaves to join the big wide world. Goodbye also to Sgt 'Turkish Delight' Jones and Cpl Danny 'I think I have dress sense' Bailes who both leave for courses/education (?) at Blandford; Yeoman of Signals and class one respectively. Congratulations go to Sig Glenn 'Planetoid' McDonald who on a recent visit by Commander LANDCENT found himself looking up to the General in a whole new way after falling over while attempting to come to attention.

MOTOR TRANSPORT TROOP

The Troop would like to say farewell to Sgt Mick McDonell and family to 17 Cdt Trg Team, Sig Tony Darkes to 2 Sig Regt and LCpl Wilson to 33 Sig Regt (v). Big hellos to Sig 'Double to the Gate' Crowder and Sig 'Lightening' Walker. The highlight of recent months has been the boxing tournament – the EDs won their bouts, sorry linemen.

QUARTERMASTER'S TROOP

With the football season coming to an end it's time for the golfers to start having all the sports afternoons off. SSgt Dave Maw knows the score on everything about golfing but we could have a new Nick Faldo; Sgt Scottie Scott has just taken up the sport. Congratulations on LCpl Beatty on eventually getting to wear his stripe. The whole Department has just had a paint job, we would have all settled for a nice shade of blue or red but after much debate we settled for the Army's favourite colour, magnolia. All our best goes out to SSgt Rob Melotte on his progress, 'Well done Rob.'

THE BOBSLEIGH SEASON
by Cpl Barnie Barnett, Combined Services Bobsleigh team

Cpl Barnett, Army and Combined services bobsleigh team, in action and in preparation for the 2002 Olympics

One fine summer's morning I asked the assembled MT if anyone wanted to go Bobsleighing, low and behold I got one volunteer who wanted to try this fast and exciting sport – Sig Steve Wildridge. The pair of us then departed for 'Ice Camp' in Lillehammer, Norway where Sig Wildridge, as a complete novice, was shown what a bobsleigh actually was, how to steer it and then shown the track that he would be hurtling down. The first four days of training were fine as the novices were pushed off the ladies start but on the final day Sig Wildridge finally went off the top of the track and managed to get to the bottom on all four runners. In January we went to Igls, Austria to compete in the Army Novice and Junior championships. Sig Wildridge also took along a couple of crash test dummies from the Squadron with him, in the form of two brakemen, Sig 'Lloydy' Lloyd and Sig Mac McDonald. The result of the pairing of Sig Wildridge and Sig Lloyd was a well-deserved Second place in the novice championship and qualification for the Army championships.

In the Army championship I came Third pushing WO2 Pete Gunn AAC who has been my driver at both Army and International level. We then went on to represent the Army in the Inter-Service championship which the Army successfully won for the sixth year in a row.

EXERCISE FRAN - EAGLE 22 FEBRUARY - 5 MARCH 1999

On the 22nd of February 1999 twelve members of 280 (UK) Sig Sqn set off on Ex Fran-Eagle, a basic Para-Gliding course held at the British Alpine Hang-Gliding and Para-Gliding centre in Bavaria. The group consisted of Lt Emma Rae, WO1 (RSM) Mick McKenna, Sgt Baz Eglinton, Sgt Mick McDonnell, Cpl John Pollock, Cpl 'Cosy' Powell, LCpl 'Junior' Sears, LCpl Andy King, Sig Charlie Lister, Sig Jeanette Lloyd, Sig Scouse Brennan and Sig Emily Watts.

The journey down to Bavaria was reasonably uneventful until the last hour when the driving of the mini bus was taken over by LCpl Andy King whose winter driving abilities left a lot to be desired. On arrival at the centre LCpl King managed to get the bus snowed in, in a no-parking area while the remainder of us started up what seemed to be the North face of the Eiger to the Lodge. When the intrepid 'mountaineers' finally got to the top of what seemed to be a never ending vertical climb, we all settled into our rooms before retiring to the bar for an initial briefing and beer with the staff and instructors.

The first day proper was spent with the issue of all the equipment we needed to fly and more! SNOW-SHOES. Due to the deep snow on the training slope the instructors decided that we would be the first course to wear what appeared to be shoes borrowed from Scott of the Antarctic and his team. Most of the group managed to fit, wear and walk in their snow-shoes with no problems. Not everyone was totally happy though especially Sgt Baz Eglinton who spent the next fifteen minutes walking, or trying to walk, with one shoe fitting correctly and the other wrapped around his shin. This is not the most comfortable of positions to be in particularly when trying to walk on approximately six feet of soft snow. At least this brought a smile to everyone's face if not his. Eventually when everybody had mastered the snow-shoes, or so they thought, it was time to learn how to pack and unpack our canopies and have the first of our flight theory lessons.

Day Two and we were ready for the training slopes. After a short drive we arrived and parked up the transport, put our packs on our backs, snow-shoes on our feet and started the trek off to the slope. We all arrived at the training slope (eventually due to snow-shoe problems and Sgt Baz Eglinton looking for his teddy that he had thrown) full of expectation and anticipation only to be told that the winds were too strong so it was back to the lodge for a theory lesson and then a bit of sledging down the largest mountain in the area, the Grunten. WO1 (RSM) Mick McKenna and Cpl 'Cosy' Powell caused a bit of concern when their sledges both went into free-flight down the mountain. Cpl John Pollock saved the RSM a long walk by diving in the path of his run away sledge. Unfortunately 'Cosy' Powell had to trek down to the bottom of the mountain and collect his now battered vehicle.

Day Three and we finally got onto the training slopes. After a demonstration on how to inflate the canopies we started to try it for ourselves on the flat. At this moment in time it appeared that nobody had any major problems so the party, now split into two groups, progressed to the lower levels of the training slope. By the time we reached the lower levels many of us were wondering if it was para-gliding or mountaineering we were here for but at least now we were ready for our first flight. You know the saying that some things look a lot easier than they really are, well, this also includes para-gliding in the snow with snow-shoes on as we all found out. At first there was not much flying but a lot of rolling down the hill getting wrapped up in para-cord and trudging back up the hill. Eventually all attempts at launching and flying stopped due to a loud scream followed by a girlie squeal swept through the air. To our amazement Sig Jeanette Lloyd was in the air, gaining height and actually flying. The landing left a lot to be desired but she was the first one of the course to fly. She was rapidly followed by Sig Emily Watts and Sgt Baz Eglinton and the feeling going around was that flying was not just for the birds (feathered kind). After what we all felt had been a good day in general we retired to the lodge bar for a well deserved beer.

Day Four and with what the instructors described as a perfect day for the training slope we all set off again in high spirits. The high spirits were just starting to fade after the long slog through the snow with the infamous snow-shoes but we all arrived at the training slope and the confidence was high even though we had moved half way up the slope by now. This day proved to be very successful for all those involved with the exception of Sgt Baz Eglinton who did not manage to get off the ground once. There were one or two close shaves on this day worth a mention. Cpl 'Cosy' Powell decided to have a very close look at the trees on the edge of the slope much to the alarm of the instructors but he managed somehow to pull off a very sharp right turn avoiding the branches at the last minute. Cpl John Pollock was having probably his best flight of the day so he decided to try and go a little bit slower. So slow in fact that he was on the verge of stalling before he took the brakes off and managed to carry on flying. One or two of the team were compared to the birds but not because of their flying ability. Sgt Mick McDonnell for some reason could not stop flapping his arms like an albatross and wondered why he could not get off the ground and then there was Baz 'the Penguin' Eglinton - he had the wings but just could not fly. All in all though it was the most encouraging day so far of the course, so by the end of it we all felt that we deserved a well earned rest.

Day Five and due to the weather not being on our side once again a trip to the PX in Garmish was planned. Thanks to our illustrious leader WO1 (RSM) 'Mick the Pathfinder' McKenna it proved to be quite an eventful journey. The Boss who said he knew the quickest way to Garmish did not explain that his route meant our mini busses would have to use roads closed in Austria due to avalanches but give him his due, we did eventually get there before the shops closed. That evening announced the arrival of the OC Sqn, Maj Simon Hutchinson and Chief Clerk SSgt Pat Farrell. Officially they were there to see the para-gliders and how they were progressing but suspicion was aroused when they asked where the nearest ski hire shop was.

Day Six started with everyone determined to show the OC and Chief how good we all were at flying now. Unfortunately this did not prove to be the case as once again the wind proved to be too strong. Rather than waste time back at the lodge all of the students attended an impromptu lesson in the art of Ski-Doo driving. All with the exception of our visitors, the OC and Chief Clerk accompanied by WO1 (RSM) Mick McKenna who somehow managed to find the local ski hire shop. A special mention should be made of our intrepid three skiers who managed to lift the entire group when they visited us during the Ski-Doo lesson. First on the scene was WO1 (RSM) McKenna looking very professional on his ski's until he tried to stop closely followed by the OC, Maj Simon Hutchinson, who still insists that when we saw him it was the first time he had fallen over. Eventually the Chief, Pat Farrel came into view. He is the only man who, when he manages to stay on his feet, can go faster than Franz Klammer even whilst attempting the snow plough. That evening was spent with the whole group along with our visitors and instructors having an enjoyable meal in a local restaurant.

Day Seven and once again the weather had prevented us from actually flying but all was not lost. The morning was spent on the flat ground by the training slope practising reverse launching. Some proved to be more adept than others at the reverse launching but it was a worthwhile morning. The afternoon was spent with more theory with everyone hoping that the weather would ease off. We all wanted to do more flying and put all the theory into practice.

Day Eight did not prove to be much of a success again due to the weather with all bar Sig Charlie Lister managing to get just one flight from the training slope before the winds again got too strong.

Day Nine started with the winds yet again proving to be too strong so the morning consisted of finishing the remaining theory lesson. By now we could all talk a good flight but could we actually put it into practice? The afternoon showed that we could. The winds had eased to give perfect flying conditions so we rapidly left for the training slope. Everyone felt very confident as now we all were equipped with our mountain flying harnesses and canopies and a very successful afternoon it was. It seemed like all the practice had come together and everyone was getting into the air with no major problems. The fact that the snow had cleared meant the snow-shoes had been gotten rid of may of contributed to this fact. Even Sgt Baz Eglinton managed to get off the ground with no real problems. The fact that his canopy resembled a Zeppelin may have helped matters. The afternoon was not without incident though. Lt Emma Rae proving that co-ordination is still not taught at Sandhurst after she put on a sharp left turn for no apparent reason and nearly left her mark permanently on a nearby tree line. Not to forget the RSM Mick McKenna who had one of his best flights of the course only to land in the most swamp like area of the field below. Everyone now felt that we were ready for the mountains, even the instructors, so we prayed for good weather for the final day.

Day Ten started with the final written exam which everyone passed some by the narrowest of margins not to mention any names 'Scouse' Brennan but on completion of the exam we were all qualified Elementary Para-Gliding Pilots. Now it was off to one of the local mountains, the Mittag, which was over 1500m high. Launching off this would mean over 15 minutes in the air and travelling around 7km but yet again the wind proved to be our enemy. It was blowing far too strong at the top of the mountain so we had to complete our course with all of us having not done the one thing we all wanted and that was a mountain flight. All is not lost though, it seems that everyone thought it a well worth while course and are planning to return to gain their Club Pilots licence in the near future.

NO WINGE FROM 'GINGE'

Ever had one of those days where everything went right? No?! Well obviously being ginger, beloved by God, I've had a few. However, nothing prepared me for my hat-trick, at the Regimental Lottery! The hero of the tale Sgt 'Ginge' Hall (that's me) found out he was soon to become SSgt Hall, and then to cap it all he won the First and Second Lottery prizes. A whopping total of £550!!!!!! Feeling magnanimous our hero bundled a total of £300 behind the bar! Needless to say everyone on camp was a winner that day. Even the wife was duly impressed when I eventually staggered in, 'Yow, what a day Rachel, not only did I get my Staffy, but we've won £250 pounds!!!' Still what she doesn't know won't hurt her.

CLOSING OF THE COMMCEN 9 SIGNAL REGIMENT (RADIO)

by Sgt Paul Dedman

There has been a COMMCEN at Ayios Nikolaos for over 52 years ever since 9 Signal Regiment (known as 2nd Special Wireless Regiment then) moved to Ayios Nikolaos from Baghdad. Over the decades titles have changed from 2nd Wireless Company to the 2nd Special Wireless Regiment to 9 Signal Regiment (Radio) and now on 1 April it became the Joint Service Signals Unit, Ayios Nikolaos. On 22 March 1999 the COMMCEN was formally closed by Lt Col Whitby, CO 9 Signal Regiment. The honour of unveiling the commemorative plaque fell to Sgt Dedman who, when he leaves, will be the last member of Comms Troop. With IT at the forefront of communications the need for COMMCENs has been drastically reduced, now that most formal messaging is done by e-mail, with this we also see the demise of the COMMCEN Operator, Data Telegraphist or Tele Op Data (depending how old you are) who, like COMMCENs, have been riding off into the sunset quicker and quicker as the years go by.

JOINT COMMUNICATIONS UNIT FALKLAND ISLANDS

Since our arrival in the Falklands all the members of 2 Sig Regt have been extremely busy on all fronts. The work load, especially for the technicians, Linies and EDs has been extremely heavy. The expression 'Work Hard, Play Hard' is probably the best one to describe life in JCUFI. On the sporting front we are taking part in any competitions going. Our best results came in the Gurkha Challenge a 100km cross island team race. We entered four teams. Three teams ran in the 'Fun' race which started at 1200hrs, the fastest finishers in this event were Cpls Claire Rutter and Jodie Wood who finished in approximately 14hrs, some 2hrs in front of the next team in. The fastest team in the main competition also came from JCUFI. Unfortunately due to the fact they lost LCpl Steve Hayward at the 50km point, (due to the blistering pace the team had set in the early stages of the race) Cpl Steve Cadywould, LCpl Lee Wilkinson and Sig Ian Bailey had to settle for a special prize for the fastest time 11hr 13mins. They could not take the first prize as they had to finish with a full team of four. The next team came in 45mins later.

Many of the other runners in this gruelling race dropped out at the 75 Km point as many of them were suffering from exhaustion (not surprisingly). The other members of the regiment that took part were 2Lt Kerry Cochran, Sgt 'Baloo' Humphries, LCpl Kev Hesketh, LCpl Yam, Sig Page, Sig Greenhill, Sig 'Sammy' Samson and Sig Hick. Unfortunately we have not been as successful on the football pitch as we were knocked out of the BFFI Cup in the first round and then beaten in the semi finals of the Plate competition. The rugby players are looking forward to their first match which will be on 17 April in a 'Friendly!' against Eng Sqn.

Lt Alex Clixby, the USM WO2 Mark Neighbour and SSgt 'Chalky' Meek have been running on 'high' adrenalin after a bout of Tailgate surfing at 250ft courtesy of 1312 Flt and Albert the Hercules. Lt Clixby and the USM also managed to get their hand on the controls at 3500ft an experience we are hoping to arrange for a few more members of the unit. The Falklands has just been visited by HRH The Prince of Wales. After a 3hr wait a cross section of the unit had a brief but very enjoyable chat with HRH. The JCUFI 'stand' was introduced by 2Lt Cochran with WO2 (USM) Neighbour keeping a watchful eye on the proceedings.

Tp Comd Lt Alex Clixby
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Chalky' Meek

Since arriving in the Falkland Islands, all of the JCUFI personnel have settled into the social ways of MPA very well. Apart from working and drinking, we have indulged in some physical activity, in order to justify the alcohol consumption. The JCUFI hierarchy partook in their own endurance event concurrently with Trailwalker. Maj Dave 'Slide Show' Gaul, Flt Lt Jim 'Smells like a Rose' Lawn and WO2 (USM) Mark 'Run Forrest' Neighbour had to endure 6 hours in a Land-Rover with Lt Alex 'Not a rose' Clixby and SSgt Chalky 'Sewage Plant' Meek. Not for the faint hearted. Our most recent sporting event was Formula One 'Go Karting', which was won by Sgt Ed 'Team Imprezza' Ramus, who left WO2 (USM) Mark 'Zimmer' Neighbour in his wake. We saw a disappointing performance by Lt Alex 'Black Flag' Clixby, who was disqualified for purposely blocking Cpl Conrad 'Wise Monkey' Williams. A good day was had by all. Hopefully the next few months will pass as quickly as the first. Hopefully the laughter will continue too! Only 40 'Timmys' to go!

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd Flt Lt J. Lawn

Alpha Tp is headed up by an RAF Flt Lt and a Royal Navy CPO. It is responsible for the HF Transmitter and Receiver Sites; organised by a mixture of RN/RAF personnel, and RADCON, which is purely Army manned; responsible for the South Georgia Det, Campito Hill and Mount Adam RRB sites.

RADCON

The main party of 219 Sig Sqn arrived on the 22 Feb 99 and was immediately thrown into a hurried handover from 1 Armd Div personnel. During this first six weeks RADCON personnel have made the most of the decent weather holding a number of BBQs and generally getting to know the camp and its personalities. Cpl John 'Pingu' Love has already moved from IC FFRs to take over as Det Comd at the Campito Hill RRB site, it is not true to say that this is because of his non-stop moaning.

Quality is a big issue in the Falklands and RADCON have become aware of it in a big way, especially after OC A deployed in his LandRover with half of RADCONs tools on the bonnet (what does FOD stand for again). A two-vehicle party set off for a land resup of Campito one day with 5 people. Due to the top vehicles in theatre one vehicle and 3 persons eventually arrived. SSgt (YofS) 'Bill' Barnes, Cpl John Love and Sgt Andy Feathers (RAF) from Receivers eventually faced the hike up the hill after leaving 2IC JCUFI and OC A Tp at Goose Green with their broken vehicle. Sorry Boss. Cpl 'Naked Charley' Farley and LCpl 'BC' Brand Cotti have impressed all and sundry with their party tricks. Sig Iain Bailey is to be congratulated on his fine effort on the 100km Gurkha Challenge with the unofficial best time with his team.

CAMPITO HILL RRB SITE

by LCpl Steve Pountney

Det Comd Cpl Dave Maxwell

Having been up here for over a month now, the crew has settled in very well. Such skills as cooking and throwing darts are improving daily (sometimes we can hit the treble twenty). Apart from that, the watching of low quality videos is one of our favourite pastimes. Shortly after arrival, I ventured down to the farm at the foot of our hill; after speaking to the farmers' wife (who obviously hadn't spoken to anyone for months) I vowed never to return again. Cpl Dave Maxwell and Sig Mark Brooks are into that fitness thing and the det gym is certainly getting a right battering from those two. Morale is high, boots fit and the mail is getting through. All said and done, things in general are running pretty smoothly although the phrase 'Groundhog Day' springs to mind.

SIGNALS DETACHMENT SOUTH GEORGIA

Det Comd SSgt Andy Allan

The South Georgia detachment deployed from York on New Years Day and deployed to the Island via MPA arriving on 8 January. The highlight of the trip was the roller-coaster trip on HMS Sutherland and being greeted by banners and flares from the outgoing crew. Numerous admin problems have been encountered by the Detachment but after three months things are starting to take shape. The crew have all completed the Mountain Movement Survival Course (MMSC), five days with two days in the mountains carrying more kit than can humanly be carried without several Sherpas. In all, South Georgia is an experience. It may not be the end of the world, but you can certainly see it from here. To all potential S. Georgia crews, whoever you are, not yet nominated; read this and (weep) plan ahead!

THE TERRITORIAL ARMY ON TOUR

by LCpl Terri Collict

On January of this year, I embarked on an S Type engagement with 2 Sig Regt on loan from 34 Sig Regt (V) in Leeds. Prior to deployment 219 Sig Sqn carried out training in York to bring everyone's skills up to speed. This proved to be a bit of an eye opener for me; with differences between the Regular and Territorial Army's way of doing things making me wonder if I had done the right thing.

After the 18-hour trip from Brize Norton to Mount Pleasant, the Advance Party greeted us on a warm sunny day. What followed was a whirl wind 24 hours being herded around the Garrison like lost sheep, the day ending with a night in Sharkeys, JCUFIs bar. After a slow recovery from the night before I began to find my feet and was detailed a dilapidated FFR which was supposed to be a Flying RRB, well it might be. I am hoping the rest of the tour goes smoothly without any problems and before I know it I will soon be home again.

1 (ROYAL BUCKINGHAMSHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (SPECIAL COMMUNICATIONS)

Sqn Comd Maj David Raleigh

SSM WO2 (SSM) Dave Scott

As usual this has been a very busy couple of months for the Squadron. No sooner were the hardened winter warriors back from arctic training in Norway than it was time to dig out the Ray Bans and issue Factor 15 for Florida. At the same time there was the small matter of running an Assessment Course for the Regular recruits, and then starting the four month Special Communications course which will lead some of them to be the highest paid operators in the Corps. Throw in a couple of weekend TA based Exercises and a TA Centre Open Day, and it has been basically business as normal.

We have said farewell to Sgts Gillie Gilbert and John Denison, and also to Cpl Ian Kennedy. The Squadron owes a great deal to these three and we wish them well for the future. Cpl Leslie Jay has been posted in from 20 Armd Bde. Having passed the Assessment Course she appeared in the Squadron only after attending a RACE maintenance course and spending two weeks on exercise in Bermuda, but who needs embarkation leave anyway?

Cpl Al Parker in the canal whilst on the Assessment Course

EXERCISE GLOBAL LYNX 3

Ex Global Lynx 3 was the last big Exercise to have a major input from WO2 (YofS) Paul 'Ginge' Willimont who has been in the hot seat for nearly five years. After seemingly endless phone calls to HQ Land, clearance was finally obtained and 30 odd Special Communicators (TA and Regular) crammed into a C-130 with all the radios and headed off to MacDill Air Force Base in Florida. As this was a bit far, the RAF provided an overnight in the Azores, sleepiest place in the middle of the Atlantic, and a quick re-fuel at Bermuda. LCpl Paul 'it's going to be an easy exercise' Hadfield was especially pleased to get back on the Hercules, to fly to Florida and then straight back to Bermuda to deploy his det. Other dets went to Fort Gordon (with LCpl Hodge 'I haven't used this kit for years' Hodgson) and Belize (the TA det, with Cpl Mark 'Junior Yeoman' Gott in charge).

In MacDill the Squadron was superbly hosted by the US Joint Communications Support Element (JCSE), and especially CW3 Frank Pizzi. JCSE also provided a Satcom det for Bermuda and Belize. The one and only Sgt Lumsden 'LL Cool G' Gordon masterminded setting up the Base, whilst the Yeoman and Foreman struggled to put up a RACE antenna which might work. A few days of bedding in were followed by the arrival in all locations of the staff officers with their piles of messages to send. The exercise proved a thorough test for the Squadron, with a chance to prove that the hard work of the last four years has been worthwhile, and boy was it hard work this time! LCpl Sue 'you can park it in my room Sir' Jordan is the most experienced base operator in the Squadron but even she was running out of energy for Ybor City after a manic day shift on set. LCpl Scouse 'I'm not on anyone's shift so I never get to go out' Hardy didn't have that problem in Comms Ops so he set about cultivating his Elvis sideburns once again. The Airborne SC crew of Cpls Mick Peace, Jase Trimmer and Jase Broome spent a week on standby but did eventually jump with JCSE and were awarded their US Para Wings. The Americans, from JCSE and veterans of 'Airborne School', flatly disbelieved the stories about log races on P Company.

Cpl Jase Broome, LSgt Jase Trimmer and Cpl Mick Peace who qualified for their US Para Wings

Communications to Belize proved bit problematic at first. Cpl 'It was hard work but we proved we can do the job' Gott had a steep learning curve and the BATSUB CO wasn't sure whether he enjoyed being called 'Boss' instead of the 'Sir' he was used to. Half of the comms problems seemed to stem from the Belize troops playing golf though the antenna field every afternoon, and the other half from LCpl Pete Litchfield's 'Spiderman' approach to putting up the antennas. By the end of the first week, though, their staff officer was thoroughly confident in their blossoming abilities. The messages which he and the detachment sent out about Bill and Monica and free cigars all contributed to the Anglo-American special relationship! How to stop LCpl Jim 'Colonel Mad Dog' Holgate plotting a coup in Brownland was another matter entirely.

THE FORT GORDON DETACHMENT

by LCpl Gaz 'I have some funny religious beliefs' Woolley

On the 1 March 1999, the Fort Gordon det, consisting of LCpl Simon 'Hodge' Hodgson, Cpl Carlton Holmes-Smith, Sig Stu Adams and I arrived at Augusta Airport. We were met by our hosts from Battle Command Lab (Gordon), Maj Robin Clapp and Mr David Milburn.

Fort Gordon is a camp the size of Milton Keynes, but we managed to locate our primary comms site and the erection of what was to be the Fort Gordon detachment commenced and Cpl Holmes-Smith proved to be a competent mast erector.

As the Exercise progressed our staff officer started to throw traffic our way. He threw and threw and threw, but it seemed all that we were catching and handling very well. This phase of the Exercise was very busy with all operators tested and Cpl Holmes-Smith's driving ability improved, which is really the only way it could go. The det did manage to get out for a few hours and visit the local bowling alley, where everyone seemed friendly and in one instance a little too friendly. A young American women decided to join our jolly group and an in depth conversation on her home town, her job, her friends, her family, and generally her ensued, during which time our now slurring new friend was stacking the Buds. We could only stop for a few hours and as we left we said our good byes, she didn't seem to want to let LCpl Hodgson go. We finally escaped as she disappeared off into the distance.

As the week progressed several tasks were set. These included a recce for an alternative comms site - a vast array of hotels were inspected for their suitability, and due to the bearings of the different stations a south facing room was necessary. Looking back I can still picture the scene, stood in a hotel reception trying to bluff the receptionist I needed a south facing room for a friend, who was of such a religion that he required to pray to south every morning and evening. Most of them fell for it and offered us a room. Eventually a hotel was agreed and LCpls Hodgson and Woolley moved into the hotel with Sig Adams holding the fort back at the Fort, and Cpl H-S driving to and fro distributing traffic.

During this time it was extremely busy and sleep was rare, although all det members enjoyed this phase. After a day or so the det were once again re-united at Fort Gordon and the staff officer set us to work on a hasty plan of extraction. The det continued to communicate 15mins before departure to the airport, which involved a great deal of work. At the airport there was no hanging around, and within 15mins of the plane landing, all kit was stowed and the C130 airborne again, destination AFB Macdill. Once the kit had been turned around a few days of relaxation were afforded and R&R commenced. LCpls Hodgson, Hardy and Miller, plus Sig Adams and I decided to make our way down to Miami in what can only be described as the 'A' Team van. With stops off in Orlando for a night and Fort Lauderdale for two nights, it was decided that diving into the shallow end of a pool was not good for the chin - Hodge. The five eventually found themselves at South Beach Miami - an experience that will never be forgotten.

All that remains for me to say is a big thank you on behalf of the Fort Gordon det to Mr Milburn and Maj Clapp for their tremendous efforts in support of the Exercise.

THE BERMUDA DETACHMENT - by LCpl Paul Hadfield

On the detachment were three operators, myself and two TA operators, and two techs who were there to provide support to our hosts, the Bermuda Regt. Also three Americans from the Air National Guard joined us to provide a Satcom link. After the first morning establishing comms to the other detachments Sgt Jeff 'I'm not just a cook' Hope-Jefferson and Sig Al 'Easy Rider' Shrewsbury set off to the local hire shop and returned later that day with big smiles and our two new toys - two scooters. The next couple of days were spent improving all our comms links and cross training with their American friends. By day four the scooter display team were well into their training, with Cpl Leslie 'What's this button do?' Jay demonstrating crash techniques whenever possible. Eventually it was time to start earning all that extra pay, and for the next seven days everyone worked their little socks off to get all the traffic passed and to complete any other tasks we were given.

Before everyone gets too jealous of all this time in sunny Bermuda I will let you into a little secret. It started to rain one hour after they landed and did not stop until about 15mins before we boarded the Hercules to fly back to Florida. At one point LCpl Paul 'Just call me Romeo' Evans had the pleasure of changing antennas in a hail storm and by the end of the comms phase everyone on the detachment was ready for a spot of R&R in Orlando.

Tell us about the rain in Bermuda again, Jeff!

THE NATIONAL FIRE SAFETY YOUTH QUIZ BRIGADE FINAL UCKFIELD FIRE STATION – EAST SUSSEX – 25 FEBRUARY

Five members of Eastbourne Cadet Troop, Sussex ACF, attended the above final. East Sussex Fire Brigade had put on a first class evening for the four teams taking part, they all had great fun and learned a great deal about fire safety, which hopefully will be of use to them for many years to come. The Cadet Team Instructor, Leading Fire Fighter Bob Newton from Green Watch, Eastbourne Fire Station (Lt Col Bob Newton MBE, Deputy Commandant East Sussex ACF, in another life!) The scores of all four teams were very close, the Cadet troop Team taking third place. During the evening the Team picked up a few winning pointers for next year's event, so they will be going for gold!

WILKINSON SWORD OF PR EXCELLENCE WINNERS 1998

Sussex ACF have won the Wilkinson Sword of PR Excellence for 1998. The magnificent trophy was presented by the General Manager, Malcolm Ordever in London on 17 March at the Wilkinson Sword Factory 19/21 Brunei Road, London W3 7UR

Sussex have beaten 61 other Counties from all over the UK to win. Lt Col Bob Newton MBE, the County PRO, received the trophy on behalf of Sussex and said that it was a great honour to receive such a magnificent trophy. Sussex are the first winners of this new award from Wilkinson Sword presented for PR work for the Army Cadet Force. Lt Col Newton said that Sussex had a great deal of fun running a very busy campaign throughout 1998, this included over 150 articles in local papers and magazines, appearances on TV and the Local Radio plus many recruiting posters. All this hard work has raised the profile of Sussex ACF in the County and recruiting figures have been the highest for many years. We are working hard, once again, to win the 1999 award. Sussex Army Cadet Force have been very grateful to Caffyns PLC for their help, advice and support with PR during the 1998 campaign.

JOINT OPERATIONS IN SPACE

Capt T. M. P. Mountford

This article is intended to introduce readers to the United Kingdom Military Satcomms System (UKMSCS) and to give substance to the process of Satellite control and Satcomm traffic processing which may appear transparent to Army users. It is hoped to develop this theme over the coming months with updates on developments in Satellite and Satcomm technology.

In the light of increased joint operations, and the growth of Army satcomm, an SO3 (W) post has been established at 1001 Signals Unit Royal Air Force. This will allow the designated officer to become familiar with the engineering technicalities of space operations at an early stage in his or her career. This should prove an asset to the Army, an environment where satcomm and the use of space is rapidly expanding whilst knowledge is still limited to specific areas. Capt T. M. P. Mountford R Signals was selected to be the first Army officer to fill the post and after seven months of training is now a spacecraft operations officer and an integral member of 1001 SU.

Royal Air Force Oakhanger is located in rural Northeast Hampshire close to the towns of Alton and Farnham. The station is home to 1001 Signals Unit Royal Air Force. 1001 SU provides satellite communications for all three services and also to various government departments. Together with 9 SU, 1001 SU has recently become part of a Lead Service Business Unit under the control of the newly created Defence Communications Services Agency which is headed by Maj Gen A. J. Raper, late Royal Signals. 1001 SU also controls three Skynet 4 and two NATO IV spacecraft in orbit and operates a telemetry and command site (TCS) on behalf of the USAF.

ORGANISATION AND ROLES

No 1001 SU was conceived and built as the UK anchor unit for UKMSCS in the late 1960s and the inexorable growth in SATCOM traffic has resulted in continuous expansion of the facilities ever since. The vulnerability of a single satellite ground station has led to a diversification programme, which has grown into the architecture of today's UKMSCS. This is shown pictorially later. Work to expand and update the communications system is continuing and with the huge demand for military satellite communications will require newer and more advanced technology to meet the demands for the next century. The components that support the UKMSCS at present are:

a. Enhanced Satellite Operations Facility. The ESOF is co-located with the Satellite Network Control Centre (SNCC) and Satellite Ground Station (SGS) at Oakhanger and is housed in an Electro-Magnetic Pulse Protected (EMPP) splinter proof operations building. The ESOF is fully operational and provides command and control for the current constellation of five satellites.

b. SNCC Oakhanger. The SNCC is housed in the operations building at Oakhanger and is the control and management centre for satellite accesses and technical inter-site links.

c. SNCC Rudloe Manor. The second SNCC is located in a semi-hardened NBC protected, EMPP building, adjacent to the Controller Defence Communications Network (CDCN) compound at RAF Rudloe Manor. The facility duplicates those available at SNCC Oakhanger.

d. SGS Colerne. This semi-hardened, NBC protected, EMPP SGS is equipped with four Satellite Ground Terminals (SGTs).

e. SGS Defford. SGS Defford is located on a DERA site and is equipped with 3 SGTs.

f. SGS Oakhanger. SGS Oakhanger has four SGTs.

g. TCS Oakhanger. No 1001 SU is responsible for the operation of satellite tracking facilities at TCS as directed by 750th Space Group, USAF Space Command. Under a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) we have the use of one of the SGTs at TCS when necessary. TCS is also the site for the Skynet Dedicated Antenna (SDA) which can be used to monitor telemetry from the three UK military satellites.

h. Space Segment. The UKMSCS Space Segment currently comprises of the three UK military communications satellites: Skynet 4A, 4C and 4D.

1001 SU is commanded by a Wing Commander Engineer and is organised into four Squadrons as follows:

a. Space Operations Squadron.
b. Communications Operations Squadron.
c. Telemetry and Command Squadron
d. Administration Squadron.

The role of Space Ops Sqn is primarily to maintain the health and safety of the Skynet 4 and NATO IV constellation of communications satellites and for the operation of the ESOF at RAF Oakhanger. This makes the Squadron unique within the UK military, in that its personnel have direct responsibility for the flight of operational UK national spacecraft. In purely monetary terms the Squadron flies five spacecraft at a cost of £150 million a piece, giving each a similar purchase price to a squadron of Tornadoes or a Regiment's worth of Ptarmigan.

The ESOF provides the means necessary to control and monitor the spacecraft. Telemetry, from each individual spacecraft, is continuously monitored on the spacecraft's command console within the ESOF. Telemetry is monitored for any Out-Of-Limit (OOL), which may be expected, dependent upon the operation being performed, or unexpected, indicating a problem with the spacecraft, which must be acted upon. 5 Space Operations Sqn (5SOPS) at Onizuka Air Force Base, Sunnyvale, California provides operational support.

The Squadron is broken down into two main elements. Firstly, Day support Staff who will be Category 1 Spacecraft Operations Officers (SOOs). SNCOs and civilian contractors, they are responsible for the day to day planning and scheduling of space operations and control of the ground segment as well as in house training.

Secondly, there are the duty watches. Space Ops Sqn has four watches each led by a Category 1 or 2 SOO, who will be a Flight Lieutenant, with a staff of five Spacecraft Operations Assistants (SOA), all Sergeants. In addition a Category 1 qualified SOO from the Squadron Day Support Staff will provide advice and support to the duty watch in the event of a spacecraft anomaly, ground segment problem or other incidents affecting the health and safety of the spacecraft. Whilst on watch our role falls into two areas:

a. Routine Ops. Routine Ops are tasked by contracted spacecraft analysts and input to the daily command schedule by the SOAs on watch. At pre-determined times, dependent upon the Op, the commands are transmitted to the spacecraft and the returning telemetry is monitored for confirmation that the command has been executed.

b. Unscheduled Ops. Following the diagnosis of any anomalous spacecraft behaviour, or unexpected OOL, the first consideration of all spacecraft operators is to maintain the health and safety of the spacecraft. SOOs and SOAs are authorised to carry out actions that they deem necessary to ensure the health and safety of the spacecraft, based on their own engineering judgement. Our primary concern is to ensure that, should the spacecraft fail, it does so into a safe and recoverable state.

TRAINING

Spacecraft Operations Officers join the squadron following training from Satcom Squadron, No 1 Radio School. After four months of classroom based technical training on all aspects of the spacecraft sub-systems and some practical commanding using simulators the SOO designate sits a practical board and, if successful graduates, as a Cat 4 SOO. The level of detail in this training in this segment should not be underestimated. Officers are expected to have a thorough technical understanding, down to component level, of both the spacecraft and the Ground segment.

Once the SOO has achieved Cat 4, he will have the opportunity to visit 5 SOPS and the Lockheed Martin Facility at Onizuka Air Force Base, California. This is to undergo further formal training in Orbital Dynamics and to get to grips with the USA's own Air Force Satellite Control Network. The proximity of San Francisco and the delights of northern California are of course an excellent enhancement to the visit.

On returning he will then spend some time on watch experience, achieving Cat 3 status within one or two shift cycles. This for the first time allows the SOO to carry out commanding of a live spacecraft. There follows approximately six weeks attached to a watch during which time he will carry out a number of assessed commanding exercises and familiarise himself with ESOF procedures. Finally the SOO will spend a further three weeks in the classroom to consolidate the seven months training before the Cat 2 Board.

On graduation the SOO is assigned a shift and commences normal operations. He now has the authority to command the fleet of spacecraft and is directly responsible for their health and safety. A watch lasts for 12 hours and the normal cycle is two day watches followed by two night watches rounded off by three days time for personal administration or any secondary duties.

A Cat 2 SOO will normally spend up to 12 months with a duty watch, during which time he will carry out three further months of formal training with the objective of achieving Cat 1 status. Category 1 SOOs have considerably more freedom of action than Cat 2 SOOs and thus are given a greater share of the responsibility for Space Ops.

Once qualified a Cat 1 SOO will normally move from their watch to fulfil a day support role within the Squadron. Cat 1 SOOs are expected to have a deep understanding of each spacecraft and their associated idiosyncrasies, they will be required to draw upon their knowledge and experience to provide innovative solutions to unexpected anomalies. Additionally the Cat 1 is likely to be involved with outside agencies, both military and civilian. He will be required to provide expert advice to OC Space Ops Sqn when dealing with these agencies.

JOINT SPACE OPERATIONS

There has for some years been a Royal Naval Officer on exchange to Space Ops Sqn filling one of the SOO posts (The Royal Navy remains the largest user of, and contributor to, UK military Satcomm) . In line with SOinC (A)'s Strategy for Royal Signals of December 1997 and to reflect the sharp increase in Army satcomm usage since the Gulf Conflict it has been decided to establish a similar Army post, SO3(W) Spacecraft Operations Liaison Officer (SOLO), with the officer being drawn from Royal Signals.

SOLOs terms of reference specify that he is to provide the interface between the Army as a satcomm user and 1001 SU as a satcomm provider. He is to be the Army's exchange officer within 1001 SU, being an integrated member of the unit, undertaking the duties of a SOO and further technical duties as directed by the CO 1001 SU. In simple terms SOLO is the green presence within 1001 SU thus increasing Army visibility within a sister service to reflect the joint nature of the modern operations. It is initially daunting to make the shift from our traditionally tactical to a strategic view of communications, but it is all a matter of scale and capacity, of course tactical experience does serve to benefit the relationship.

In professional terms the post offers variety and a chance to serve with another service, providing an early baptism into joint operations, whilst at the same time reaching the first rung of the Sq(W) ladder. SOLOs link to the Corps is via DCIS (A) at MOD and his reporting chain reflects this. The high strategic importance attached to Space Ops coupled with the singular nature of the post provide ample opportunity to shine at reporting time. Thin lipped careerists take note!

On a personal level 1001 SU offers relative stability for those who have experienced a turbulent last few years. The area is attractive and just over 30 miles from the centre of London with easy access to Airports and ports making it ideal for the single officer desperately seeking a social life or the married officer unable to remember the faces of his family.

This role requires an officer who is technically confident, with a science or engineering degree, and a good understanding of information systems. At the same time the officer needs to be capable of operating outside the Corps within an RAF unit that has different operational perspective to that of a Royal Signals regiment deployed, for example, to Bosnia.

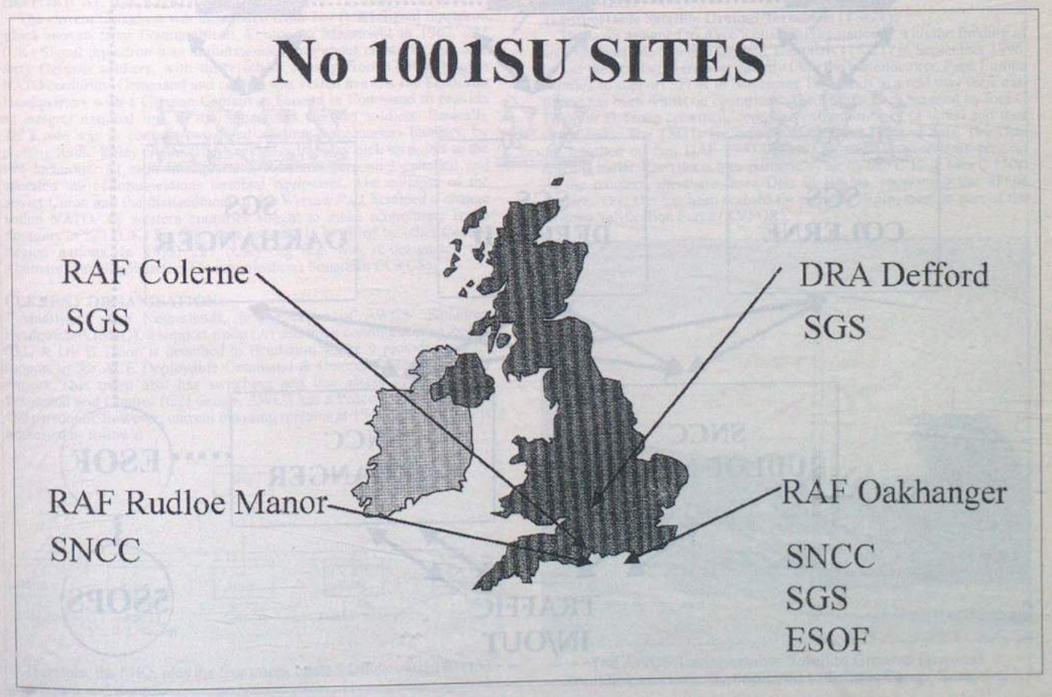
FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS

Recognition of the intrinsic benefits of military satellite communications has spurred the development of the UKMSCS into the sophisticated resource it is today. However, continuity of service has become an essential requirement, which must be addressed within the limited lifetime of our current in-orbit satellites and infrastructure.

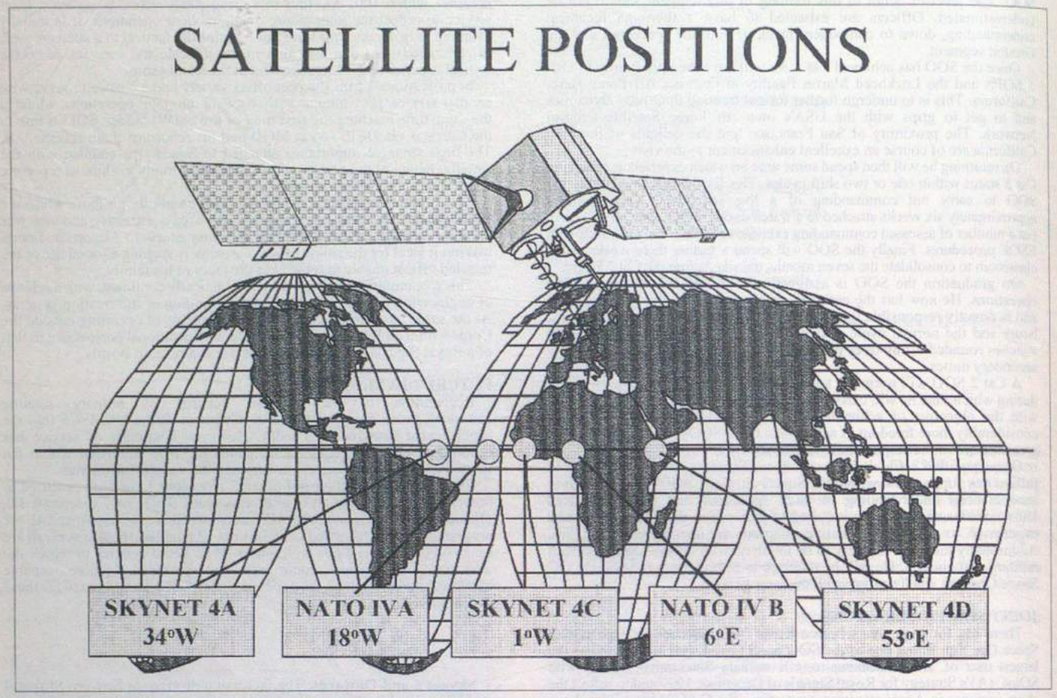
Skynet 4 Stage 2. Skynet 4 Stage 2 spacecraft have been procured to provide a low risk solution to near term needs. Three new spacecraft 4D, 4E and 4F have been procured. 4D was launched in January, 4E and 4F are programmed to be launched over the next 18 months. These spacecraft are based on the Skynet 4 bus with improved on board systems to reduce the workload on mission controllers and provide a more capable communications payload for our future needs. The launch dates for these spacecraft are:

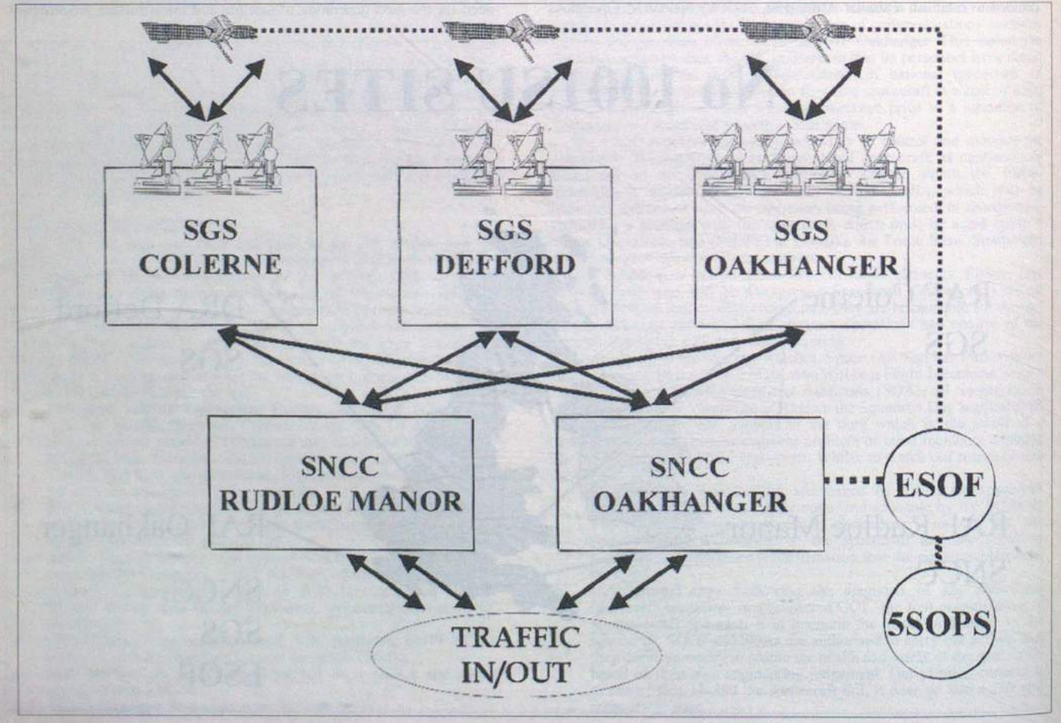
a. 4E - Feb 3rd 1999.
b. 4F - late 1999.

Skynet 5 and Onwards. The increasing divergence between Skynet 4 capabilities and evolving operational requirements underpins the essential need for the next generation of satellite and infrastructure procurement.



The MOD has undertaken a number of feasibility studies into the next generation of satellite systems to meet the growing needs of the UK military. Essentially, due to the extremely high costs involved, there is no guarantee that any new system will be solely a military system procurement. The next generation of military spacecraft may well be procured by Public Private Partnership with the private partner taking an unspecified role in operations. Until recently, a likely way forward was the proposed joint UK/German/French venture called TRIMILSAT. However, newspaper reports of 13 August 1998 state that TRIMILSAT has now fallen by the wayside. Watch this space – no pun intended.





THE ALTERNATE WAR HEADQUARTERS COMMUNICATIONS SQUADRON

by Maj P. M. Kelly R. Signals Officer Commanding

A CORPS SECRET . . . . .

Since 1967, the Alternate War Headquarters Communications Squadron (AWCS) has proudly provided real communications support to the Commander In Chief, Allied Forces Central Europe. Throughout the period known as the 'Cold War', AWCS played its part in ensuring an effective visible deterrence was maintained. Since that time, AWCS has participated in Exercises with our former East European rivals, now our partners and has since 1996 taken an active role in the NATO forces deployed to the Former Yugoslav Republic. Since 1990, we have seen changes that were thought to be impossible a mere decade ago. National downsizing and lack of funding have placed strains hitherto unknown to AWCS. The Squadron has taken these developments in its stride, and has undergone an important cultural change to reflect the fact that it must now deploy on a moments notice to support SFOR, deploy a MF HQ or send a SATCOM anywhere in the Central Region.

The challenges of the past and those of the immediate future provide the milestones that displays to all the professionalism that makes the Alternate War Headquarters Communications Squadron the finest in NATO.

INTRODUCTION

The Alternate War Headquarters Communications Squadron (AWCS), is an independent, multinational communications squadron based in Maastricht, the Netherlands. The Squadron provides field CIS for the Commander in Chief Allied Forces Central Region (CINCENT), through the Staff of the Central Region Signal Group (CRSG) in Brunssum. In the future, the Squadron will expand into the ACE Contingency CIS Assets Pool (ACCAP) Bn; which will become essentially SACEUR's Article 5 and out of area CIS, Battalion. At the moment, MCS performs both the old and new with current operations in Bosnia and elsewhere being much in the ACCAP role. The aim of this article is to familiarise the reader with a background to the Squadron while concentrating on AWCS' current missions and tasks at home and in support of NATO's Stabilisation Force (SFOR).

ROLES

AWCS has six roles. They are:

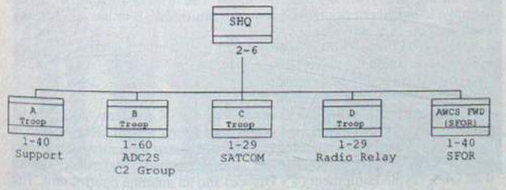
a. CIS support to CINCENT's Interim War Headquarters.
b. CIS support to the CJTF HQ trial.
c. Participation in the NATO/French series of Exercises, CONNECTION FLARE.
d. Conversion to the ACCAP Bn role.
e. ADC2S Project Support.
f. CIS Support to SFOR and elsewhere.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The current Squadron was descended from 227 (UK) Signal Squadron which moved from Fountainbleau, France, to Maastricht in 1967. 227 (UK) Signal Squadron was multinational, with about eighty British, and forty German soldiers, with thirty others coming from Central Region NATO countries. Command and control was vested in a UK run Squadron Headquarters with a German Captain as Second in Command to provide an integral national link to the Squadron's German soldiers. Basically 227's role was to connect two fixed wartime headquarters bunkers, by running Radio Relay chains from various radio relay pick up points to the two locations. At each headquarters, squadron personnel installed and operated the communications terminal equipment. The collapse of the Soviet Union and the disbandment of the Warsaw Pact heralded a change within NATO. As western countries sought to make economies, Troop strengths in 227 (UK) Sig Sqn were reduced to be filled by other Central Region nations. In 1991, 227 (UK) Sig Sqn was re-designated the Alternate War Headquarters Communications Squadron (AWCS).

CURRENT ORGANISATION

Maastricht, The Netherlands, is the home of AWCS' Squadron Headquarters (SHQ), a support troop (A) and three communicating troops (B,C & D). B Troop is detached to Brunssum where it provides project support to the ACE Deployable Command & Control System (ADC2S) project. This troop also has switching and line assets as part of the Command and Control (C2) Group. AWCS has a Peace Establishment of 180 personnel, however, current manning remains at 154. The Squadron is organised as follows:



Therefore, the SHQ, plus the five troops totals 7 Officers and 180 (153 actual) men and women.

PERSONNEL

AWCS is very much a multinational squadron as demonstrated by this group photograph taken in SFOR

Personnel are drawn from five nations. Men and women come from the Army or Airforce, depending on their specialisation, and work in the English language. Shown below is the personnel breakdown by nationality:

AWCS NATIONAL REPRESENTATION (Actual)

NATION	No. of Persons
Belgium	58
Germany	8
Netherlands	25
United Kingdom	34
United States	28
Total (Actual Strength)	153

EQUIPMENT

Transportable Satellite Ground Terminals (TSGT):

The tasks assigned to AWCS changed dramatically with the fielding of six Transportable Satellite Ground Terminals (TSGT) in September 1996. In fact the first two were sent directly from the manufacturer, Page Europa (Rome), to support SFOR in November 1996; thus in a real way their trial period has been whilst on operations. The TSGTs, each manned by four C Troop or D Troop crewmen, comprise two multi-links (4 links) and four single links. The TSGTs are capable of carrying 2Mbt of data. The Dets are installed on two DAF 2300 trucks with 60KVA generators plus an antenna trailer. Each det is transportable by air by one C 17 or four C 130s. At the moment, there are three Dets in Bosnia, supporting the SFOR mission. One Det has been warned for possible deployment as part of the Kosovo Verification Force (KVFOR).

ACE Deployable Command and Control System (ADC2S):

ADC2S is a project currently under development by Siemens and HQ AFCENT. Military manpower is provided by AWCS' B Tp, based in Brunssum, NL. Their job is to provide technicians and operators to operate and maintain the system on exercise and in garrison. ADC2S is a command and control system providing internal and external voice/data communications interconnected via a fibre optic ring. ADC2S facilities can be extended to other shelters by using Network Extension Modules as developed by NC3A in The Hague. After successes during Exercises Cooperative Guard 7 (a PFP exercise) and Allied Effort (NATO's CJTF HQ validation exercise), it is possible the system will be fielded in 1999.

'85 Buy Line of Sight Radio Relay (RR)

A survivor from the Squadron's former incarnation, the '85 Buy RR has been adapted to ever changing tasks. The nine Dets, each manned by a crew of four from D Tp, provide an SHF, 2Mbt link carrying voice/data. The range possible between Dets is 50km. This Troop achieved great success during Ex Allied Effort by engineering into the Bundeswehr AFMIS BW system and linking HQ AFCENT to the Exercise area via HQ 1 GE Armd Div in Hannover. Additionally the RR Troop has deployed to Sarajevo for test shots and deployed two detachments to Tuzla, supporting Multinational Division North.

Ancillaries

B Troop are the guardians of the Siemens HICOM 372 and 353 switches. In theatre B Troop personnel operate the COMSFOR's HQ Ericsson switches. B Troop provides the Squadron's operators for its VTC capability as well as all line and cable work. An Indication of the immensity of their tasks was that B Troop laid over 70km of line for Ex Allied Effort held in the Trauen training area.

MAASTRICHT HOME STATION TASKS (1997 - 1998)

Other than the routine round of garrison training, maintenance and inspection challenges, AWCS has undergone a full exercise timetable during 1997. Sqn members participated in five Squadron level comms Exercises, Cobalt Flash in Germany and The Netherlands. We have an ongoing commitment to continue with interoperability exercises with the French Signals in the Connection Flare series of Exercises. In support of NATO's Combined Joint Task Force Headquarters (CJTF HQ) trial, the Squadron deployed to the field in northern Germany (Trauen, Fassberg and Munsterlager) for 96 days in 1997.

Already in 1998, AWCS participated in eleven Exercises of various sizes. Ex Strong Resolve in Spain in March, Hungary on Ex Co-operative Lantern in May and a Troop deployed to SFOR as part of Ex Dynamic Response/Strike '98 in April/May. The average AWCS soldier/airman will spent 133 days away from his or her family - this total does not include any deployments to Bosnia in support of SFOR (primarily concentrating on SATCOM and Radio Relay personnel).

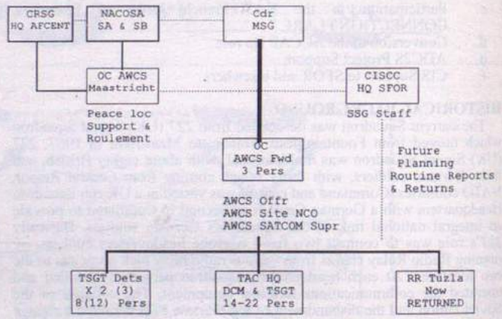
SUPPORT TO SFOR MISSION

General

Since Nov 1996, AWCS has deployed personnel and equipment in support of the SFOR mission. In that time, personnel strength in theatre has fluctuated from a low of ten on initial deployment to a total 56 with four TSGTs, a Mobile Communications Module (MCM) and the Radio Relay Troop deployed. In order to ease the ambiguity, and to respond from a requirement to lead our soldiers in the field, SHQ AWCS has from Jan 1997 kept and officer an SNCO in theatre as AWCS Fwd, to act as a liaison with the Staff on matters of planning, operations and to see to the needs of deployed personnel with regards to leadership, management, discipline, transport, supply and administration.

AWCS FWD COMMAND AND CONTROL RELATIONSHIPS

The following is the AWCS Fwd C2 relationship whilst deployed to SFOR:



* MSG denotes Multinational Signal Group

SATCOM

The Transportable Satellite Ground Terminal (TSGT) mission is to provide data circuits, VTC and telephone switch connections between HQ SFOR and the major commands, as well as to the Deployable Communications Module (or CIS Gateway Shelter (CGS)) of COMSFOR's TAC HQ.

MCS has three TSGTs in theatre. One multi link (OL5X) is based HQ SFOR, Ilidza and the Squadron has deployed a multi link (OLM to Butmir. In addition there is a third single link TSGT (OL1X) whose mission is to support COMSFOR's TAC HQ. A TSGT can be operational within one hour after arrival in a deployment location as witnessed at Glamoc Ranges BiH, during Ex Dynamic Response/Strike. The TSGTs are similar, but do not have identical configurations (two are multi link, four are single link). They do, however, provide:

a. G703/G704 2Mbt channels per link.
b. 2-W analogue voice circuits.
c. Synchronous data circuits.
d. Asynchronous data circuits.

Additionally, the multi link features four QPSK modems, four SSMA modems, five up converters, six down converters, a dual HPA system, a Low Noise Amplifier, a monitor control and alarm system which allows for remoting outside the shelter, an atomic frequency reference system with GPS, crypto equipment (4 x Disbee) and an antenna control unit. The single link features only two QPSK modems, two SSMA modems, three up converters, four down converters and crypto equipment (2 x Disbee). Otherwise the Dets have similar equipment.

DEPLOYABLE COMMUNICATIONS MODULE OF THE TAC HEADQUARTERS

Out of the concept of fielding a TAC HQ for COM establishes the following TAC HQ (and by association MCM) missions:

a. Provide C2 during an incident.
b. Exercise theatre command in special circumstances.
c. Facilitate liaison in resolving a crisis.
d. Assistance to the Strategic Reserve.
e. Show of Force.

The configuration of the TAC HQ will change according to the mission it is to accomplish and will be tailored to satisfy various requirements. The TAC HQ is based on five, 5metre staff shelters provided by the HQ SFOR Tpt Coy. The TAC HQ comms element, the AWCS MCM (CGS), provided and manned by AWCS (14 to 22 personnel depending on mission/task), comprises the necessary communications to field secure CRONOS and IPN facilities (a successful MSE trial was conducted in Nov 97). Computers and STU IIBs will be provided by the staff user.

The AWCS MCM provides the following facilities:

a. SATCOM via an AWCS TSGT to an HQ SFOR based AWCS TSGT.
b. TSGT connection to the CGS#1 shelter via a fibre optic cable.
c. CRONOS Data connected to an IDNX to the Router and LAN Plexor using a fibre optic cable to a Hub then out along fibre optic cables to the CRONOS workstations in the TAC HQ.
d. IPN Voice connectivity is achieved by connecting the IDNX to an Ericsson MD 110 Voice Switch to the entry panel in CGS1#1 using 26 pair tactical cable to distribution boxes via 2 pair cables to RJ 11 C blocks to subscribers in the TAC HQ.
e. MSE/TRITAC interface.
f. VTC capability.

The AWCS MCM (CGS) provides the user with the following facilities:

a. 30 IPN telephones.
b. 3 STU IIBs.
c. 1 Secure Facsimile machine.
d. 2 INMARSAT terminals.
e. 1 UHF TACSAT, LST-5E.
f. 4 Hubs.
g. 15 Work Stations.
h. 2 Black and White printers.

'85 BUY RADIO RELAY DETACHMENT - TUZLA; MISSION ACCOMPLISHED!

AWCS deployed a crew of four men and two '85 Buy RR Dets to Tuzla in order to establish a 2Mbt link from an IDNX through a remote RR det located at Tuzla Main to an IDNX connected to a manned RR Det, located at Camp Commanche. This allowed administrative traffic to pass between the Commander MND North and the Commander 4 Avn Bde, 1 (US) Armd Div. This mission ended in mid 1998.

CURRENT IN THEATRE MANNING

At the time of writing (October 1998), AWCS had one Officer and 24 soldiers in theatre; providing HQ AWCS Fwd including a SATCOM supervisor, three manned TSGT Dets and an MCM crew. This represents approximately a third of AWCS' communicator strength and also includes personnel on their third, and sometimes fourth, tour in Bosnia. AWCS is also preparing an MCM for possible deployment to the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia (FRYOM) as part of the KVFOR.

CONCLUSION

AWCS will continue shoulder the burdens of having to effect a conversion to the ACCAP Bn over the coming year, combined with continued operations in Bosnia and elsewhere plus a full exercise timetable at home.

A selection of Sarajevo based AWCS personnel

Although for many, 1997/1998 was a very busy period, I believe that 1999 will be just as busy and that AWCS will continue to rise to the challenge at hand without flinching. As a Squadron we are proud of the work we perform at home, and abroad. A posting with AWCS allows the soldier and his family to get to know the Benelux countries, receive training on state of the art equipment plus a guarantee of an operational deployment. With all that's going for it, MCS should not remain 'a Corps Secret' for much longer!

MALAYSIA/SINGAPORE REVISITED NOVEMBER 1998

By Maj Gen (Retd) H. Hild

My wife and I have recently completed a 'Round the World trip' which included Malaysia and Singapore. Quite an adventurous training expedition in its way - for a couple of old geriatrics!

LABUAN - 33 years on!

Heard of Borneo - Confrontation - JCUB/266 Sig Sqn?

It was striking to visit Labuan after a gap of 33 years - and with my wife this time. So much development, tarmac roads, even traffic lights at the main crossings.

Outside Army Headquarters Labuan
Lt Kol Tom Kim Swee (2nd from right) and RHQ Staff, 1st Royal Malaysian Signal Regiment

Headquarters - The hutted HQ (in wooden 'Bashas' with corrugated iron roofs) still stands, occupied by 1 Royal Malaysian Signal Regiment. The Tape Relay Centre has been gutted and replaced by a small message centre (piled high with paper tape) until the introduction of a PC-based messaging system currently on trial. The System Control is now a bedding store. The GOC's office is used by the CO, and the Ops Corridor next door has been converted to an Officers' and Senior Ranks' Coffee Room. The RAF Complex has become a quiet room set aside for prayer, and the CRSIGNALS offices have been turned into a lecture room. My old office, which conjured up images of so many old friends is derelict and boarded up! What of SSM Gibbs, Sig Bardsley and many others?

Fairyland - The transmitter site, with its name 'Fairyland' much in evidence, continues to exist – taken over by the Royal Malaysian Navy. Brick/concrete buildings replace the wooden huts which, in our day, replaced the original transmitter vehicles and canvas! True to naval style, a permanent barracks has been built to house the staff. Indeed, Labuan has become a permanent Naval Base for East Malaysia.

Fairyland Transmitter Station

Membedai and Airport - The airport terminal is still easily recognisable despite some extensions and refurbishing. A new, exotic 'International Terminal' is being built and may even be open by now! The old Membedai Lines and RAF LABUAN seem to have been swallowed up by development - at least we did not see them. A new permanent Air HQ, with large air defence radars, has been built for RMAF on the North of the island, near the Victorian Mine chimney (now a tourist attraction).

Surrender Point – The site of so many barbecues and a centre of social life for the Squadron, has been developed into a 'Peace Park', financed by the Japanese. This has been tastefully done, preserving the stone monument commemorating the Japanese Surrender to the Australian 9th Division in 1945.

Surrender Point Peace Park
The Stone commemorating the Japanese surrender 1945

Tenuous Circuits - Nearby is the PTT 'Tele Port', with enormous satellite dishes, which replaces the VHF LOS system to Mount Kinabalu relay station and on to Jesselton (now Kota Kinabalu) of the 1960s. This scale of communications is needed to meet the ambitions of Labuan as an offshore commercial and financial centre. Oh, that we could have had even simple satellite communications! One of our circuits from Labuan to Kuching went via Mount Kinabalu to Jesseiton, then by SEACOM cable to Singapore, on radio relay to the Johore transmitter station and eventually to Kuching by HF! Little wonder Christopher Last and Tony Boyle had nightmares!

Officers Mess - Only two of the four accommodation blocks are in use. The unused blocks (including my room) stand empty and deteriorating rapidly! Now my wife understands why I warned my neighbours (among them John Ridge) before dictating tapes to our children. The mess dining and kitchen etc facilities have been moved and re-erected to avoid erosion into the sea! What unknown dangers we survived!

SINGAPORE - 28 years on!

Many people will have visited Singapore since we left it in 1971 on the withdrawal of the British military presence. Apart from doing touristy things, we wanted to see what has become of our old haunts around Dover Road?

Dover Road - We walked the whole length of Dover Road for the first time! It is now becoming a dual carriageway, with development either side. Meiktila Barracks has been (is being) redeveloped with high rise blocks and Rochester Park will follow within the next couple of years. On the opposite side of the road are various schools, foremost among them is the Atlantic College (formerly St Johns School).

Princess Mary Barracks (18th Signal Regiment) including its playing fields, stadium and Dover Road Pool, have been redeveloped as the Campus for the Singapore Polytechnic. Three buildings remain: the Moberly Block, the Sergeants' Mess and the Officers' Mess.

The Moberly Block
The Barrack Block turned into a Practical Telecoms Laboratory

These are used as practical laboratories, a child care centre, and a junior school respectively. There are in addition the Moberly Close and Princess Mary Walk.

Officers' Mess turned into a Junior School

Sports Complex - The Doyer Road pool has been enlarged to Olympic standard with nine lanes. The sports stadium next door remains and has had a spectator stand added. All around are sports halls, multi-purpose indoor and outdoor facilities; squash, basket ball and tennis courts. In the middle of the complex is a large 'Telecoms Tower' - quite appropriate I suppose!

Dover Road Pool - now Olympic Standard with nine lanes
Note the Telecom Tower!

The Warren Golf Club has gone from strength to strength since we handed it over to Singaporean membership and management. Permanent buildings have replaced the old club house and a country club, with swimming pool, tennis and squash courts, has been added. Sadly, the Golf Club land is required for expansion by the Singapore University (on Kent Ridge) and the Warren will move later this year to a redeveloped site at Kranji, with an 18 hole course and country club facilities. Readers may be interested to know that the entrance fee is now S$80,000 (close to £30,000!

Rochester Park - Our great delight was to find our old quarter (No 23). Apart from modernising the kitchen and building a swimming pool in the garden, the house remains the same. We were asked in by the current occupants - a German lady and gentleman from Mauritius, with two small children. The estate is run by the Singapore Government and let commercially. The houses will be pulled down and the site redeveloped in two years time. The main new feature is the MRT (Mass Rail Transport (?) - on monorail) which runs past the estate less than 100 yards away!

Singapore, in general, is very impressive - green, clean and efficient. Well worth a visit though you might need a guide to find old haunts! However, taxis are cheap, as are the MRT and buses. Almost everything is air-conditioned!

Zainab bte Ali widow of Capt Jimmy Yahya formerly of 18 Sig Regt. Many members of the former 18 Sig Regt, will remember Jimmy Yahya, who was successively Malay RSM and Malay Captain. He died quite suddenly of a heart attack in 1991, while working for a Palm Oil exporting company in Butterworth. Part of our trip was to visit Zainab. She is, of course, much older and a little more frail but is well looked after by her eldest daughter, Zainon. Shortly after our visit, they moved to Sandakan, on the East coast of Sabah, to live with her second daughter (who is a doctor) and family. Sadly, they have had to leave her youngest daughter, Zarina, behind in West Malaysia for higher education. Zainab did great work for the Malay families in Singapore, and those who remember her will be pleased to know that she is in good hands.

And Finally - our thanks to the following who made our trip to Malaysia and Singapore such a pleasure and success:

Lt Kol (R) Idris bin Md Jadi, Sec Gen Ex-Services Association of Malaysia, Lt Kol Tan Kim Swee, CO 1 Royal Malaysian Signal Regiment, Haji Abdul Majid bin Abu Bakar, Chairman, Penang Region. Ex-Services Association of Malaysia, The Staff of the Singapore Polytechnic and the Warren Golf Club.

30 SIGNAL REGIMENT ADVENTURE TRAINING EXERCISE NATAL DRAGON 5 - 24 NOVEMBER 1998

by WO2 (YofS) Jim Knight and Sgt Ken Barker

INTRODUCTION

As I write these Wire notes I am very conscious of the fact that there has been a recent article in the The Wire (October 1998) on the very subject of Adventurous Training in South Africa. South Africa has recently been given Table III status in the Adventurous Training Compendium, meaning that units can legitimately visit the country for the purpose of training. It therefore seems logical that the popularity of a new country should grant such interest from military units. From conception to inception it has taken nine months to plan a 19-day trekking package around the battlefields of Kwa Zulu Natal, the foot hills and the high peaks of the Drakensburg Mountain Range. Despite a number of very senior individuals volunteering to attend, the concept was to involve some of the younger Signallers in the Regiment. The final team consisted of

DEPLOYMENT

The ten members of the expedition paraded at Bramcote guardroom on the 5 November at 1500hrs. A last minute check of essential documentation was made prior to setting off. We arrived safely at Heathrow after a uneventful trip including a traffic-jammed M25. We all checked in at 1800hrs to find half of us overweight (and that's the baggage I'm referring to) some as much as 12kg. This could be due to the fact that Sig 'Si' Mooney had all his water bottles full. After sweet-talking the BA desk we were let through without any extra payment. Whilst we were waiting for the flight, I was informed by all the lads that they had watched the video of Zulu, the previous week, for research. The plane was delayed by one hour, which had no impact on an uneventful 12hr flight that included a refuelling stop at Jo'burg, during which we remained on the plane.

ARRIVAL IN SOUTH AFRICA

Hello South Africa - yes they drive on the left. We picked up the hire car from the Durban Airport and an alleged ten-seater minibus with only eight seats. When this was pointed out to Budget Rent A Car, they said that although it only had eight seats we could cram ten in - after all this is Africa! This was as good as we were going to get and so we paid our £300 extra deposit excess in case of accident - would we get it back? We then drove the 31/2hrs to Dundee via Pietesmaritzburg and Ladysmith in a fair amount of rain - isn't Africa supposed to be hot? We checked into two Rondavels (circular huts with bunk beds) at the Municipal Camp Site, which had all the normal campsite facilities. A local Wimpy bar was found for ten famished people and then after a shower, shave, shampoo, we hit the town for a few quiet sociables. The local townsfolk seemed friendly enough and made us most welcome. WO2 Jim Knight met a Sergeant Major from the local SA Army Kommandos Unit who promised us a trip out the next day to visit the battlefields.

THE BATTLE OF TALANA – LOW LEVEL TREKS

The next day we were ready by 0830hrs for this trip that never materialised. The alleged Sergeant Major did turn up, but couldn't make the trip because he was off on patrol. The morning was spent food shopping and meeting Pat Rundgren who was to be our guide for the following day's visit to Rorke's Drift. In the afternoon we drove to just outside Dundee to Talana Hill museum. This was the site of the first battle of the second Boer War (20 October 1899). The museum was very interesting and afterwards we walked the Talana battlefield route with Sgt Ken Barker acting as narrator. 'The route followed the advance of the 4500 British troops stationed in Dundee under Lt Gen Sir William Penn Symons towards Gen Lueas Meyer of Vryheid who had occupied Talana and Lennox Hills with 3500 Boer riflemen and artillery. The engagement involved the Royal Irish Fusiliers (This was the first battle in which British troops were completely kitted in khaki uniforms) assaulting the forward slope of Talana hill. It took the British troops six hours to take the hill for the loss of 41 men killed and 185 wounded'. It was quite impressive to walk the route, which near the summit turned into a scramble. After a visit to the Talana cemetery and memorials it was back to the Rondavels for a Barbecue. Sig Oscar Phillips then informed us that he'd spent the whole day walking with a Silva compass in his boot and didn't realise it - just as well it wasn't a prismatic.

ISANDHLWANA AND RORKES DRIFT

Reveille 0800hrs (well it is Sunday) drove with tour guide Pat to following places: Louis Napoleon's death site, 'The only son of Napoleon 111, had joined Lord Chelmsford staff as his aide-de-camp. The ill-fated Prince set out on a reconnaissance on the 1 June 1879. Zulu warriors attacked his scouting party. The 17 stab marks in his uniform bear testament to his courageous stand, thus ended the Napoleon dynasty'. At Isandhlwana we walked the battlefield from the Nqutu plain where the Zulu's were first discovered to Col Durnford's last stand and the site of Col Pope's demise. 'Isandhlwana was the biggest defeat of British troops throughout the Zulu wars of 1879. Lt Col Pulleine had been left in command of the encampment of 1500 troops, he had sent scouts out when they discovered 25,000 Zulu's waiting in a ravine some five miles away. They covered the ground quickly and amassed themselves in front of the British position, a sea of Zulu warriors over a mile and half long advanced to the encampment. In the space of several hours the British had been wiped out, with 1300 men killed. The bodies of the dead lay on the battle field for five months'. The remains of those fallen soldiers were piled up and covered with white cairns, those cairns remain on the battlefield today. We then moved onto Fugitive's Drift. 'Some of the survivors of Isandhlwana tried to escape, making their way towards the Buffalo River. In particular Lts Coghill and Melvill tried to save the Queen's Colours. They made it all the way to the river where they were killed, having thrown the Colours into the river. Thus effectively saved the Colours were eventually recovered some weeks later. Lts Coghill and Melvill were both awarded the VC and their graves remain where they fell'. The last stop of the day was Rorke's Drift. 'Of the 25,000 Zulu's involved at Isandhlwana, 4000 of them advanced to the mission station at Rorkes Drift some 30km away. During the 12hr engagement, 100 British troops defended the station and in the process won 11 VCs'. Pat our tour guide was excellent and kept the interest of the party all day, if only history lessons at school had been this interesting.

A lot of miles were covered in the day and on the way back in the minibus, a stone flew up and smashed the front light - oh no two days in and we may already be losing the excess deposit. A very long day but worth it. That evening was spent in the local watering hole watching pirate videos of 'Antz' and the 'X Files'. Everybody was exhausted and retired early to bed.

FUGITIVES DRIFT

In the morning it was back to Isandhlwana to walk the route that Lts Coghill and Melvill followed to Buffalo River, know as Fugitives Trail which turned out to be an 18km walk in sweltering heat over arduous country. I certainly wouldn't like to do it with 4000 Zulu chasing me! The countryside was liberally covered with thorn bushes, which tore into the legs of those who were wearing shorts. Lots of water was drunk, but gladly no sunburn casualties. Sig 'H' Harrison and Oscar Phillips led the route on a very difficult to follow path with the help of a makeshift map. We stopped off for lunch in an isolated settlement which only had one person living in it and he seemed determined to escort us all the way back to Isandhlwana. He obviously thought there would be some money in it for him.

COMBINED OPERATIONS

The evening was spent at the South African Army mess belonging to the Dundee and Glencoe Kommando Unit which at first we thought were real commandos but it turned out that they were the local version of the TA and the Sgt Major turned out to be a wide boy Private. Anyway Yeoman Jim Knight presented their CO with our Regimental plaque and we got some deaths heads (their insignia) in return. We were extremely well hosted; their QM got some rations and a rifle out for us to play with. We eventually managed to extract ourselves at about 2300hrs.

THE KOP

Up early and away to the Boer War battlefields with our trusted guide Pat. All of us (except for Sig Graham Wootton, who had a problem with his bowels and underwear) walked the Spioenkop Ridge (of special interest to Sig Dave Stedman from Liverpool as The Kop is named after this battle); 'The battle took place on 23 - 24 January 1900. It was the scene of the most futile and bloodiest of the battles to relieve the town of Ladysmith. The British took the hill, occupied it and gave it up all in 24 hours'. We then moved on to Colenso, Tugela Heights (we actually won that one). 'The battle occurred shortly after Spioenkop on 21-26 February 1900 and saw a series of skirmishes which resulted in Gen Buller re-occupying Ladysmith, it also resulted in the artillery losing ten of their twelve guns to the Boers during the fight for Colenso, hence the reason that they wear the white lanyard'. In the evening we were guests of the MOTHs (Military Order of the Tin Helmets or their version of the Royal British Legion) for a few sherbets and war stories before going out for a meal and bed. During our stay in Dundee we seemed to have generated quite a lot of interest by the local town folk. This was topped off by a reporter from the Northern Natal Courier coming to interview us for an article in the regional paper - I suppose it is all valuable Public Relations.

THE MOVE TO THE DRAKENSBURG – HIGH LEVEL TREKS

Prior to saying our goodbyes to our newly found friends from Dundee, Pat turned up with a new headlight for the minibus, costing only £15 - would we still get the deposit back. We then moved off and made our way towards Ladysmith and the site of Telegraph Ridge. This high feature that looks over Ladysmith was used as a heliograph position, prior to and after the Boer siege of the town. The purpose of our visit to Telegraph Ridge was to hold a minute's silence for remembrance at 11am.

We then had a six hour drive to Himeville, which nestles in the shadow of the Drakensburg. Here we had a restaurant meal (our last for a while). Most opted for steak and chips but some went for a Roast Pork and vegetables and one risked a chicken curry. We did a final bit of shopping in Himeville and then made the final 45 minute drive to the guesthouse in the Mkhomazana valley. The drive was interesting to say the least as the weight in the hire car gave it almost no ground clearance and the bottom was scraped a few times (more worries about the deposit). The road was full of potholes and stones. At the site the local residents seemed dubiously spaced out of their minds - we kept to ourselves. The rooms were luxurious including double beds and bedding. There was a local hotel nearby (the Sam Pass hotel) which was a bit too posh for us and definitely out of our price range. We sorted our kit out at the house for the expedition phase over the Drakensberg Mountains and had a reasonably early night.

THE EXPEDITION

The Expedition phase – 0640 hrs reveille for most of us. Sig Dave Steadman made bacon and eggs for the five occupants of his house but poor WO2 Jim Knight got nothing because his group hadn't the foresight to buy the fry up ingredients the day before. The 2km to the start of trail was accomplished and we were ready to start the Giant's Cup Trail at 9am.

The Drakensburg Mountains – Giants Cup Trail'

The walking was reasonably easy along a platform formation, the path then climbs for about 600m, contours round for another 2km before descending to the Gxalingenwa River and the Nigenwa Rock Pool. The weather was scorching hot and water had to be taken frequently. The Rock Pool (1750m) proved the ideal place for seven of the party to strip off for a freezing cold swim. The older members of the group decided that it was just too cold, after removing all the tick's that we had picked up we moved on. The rest of the day's walk was across dry, arid, rocky countryside dispersed with Protea trees, we made good time and crossed over the suspension bridge arriving at Pholela hut (1650m) in the mid afternoon. Here at the parks reception was a shop and ice cold pop we quaffed was most welcome. The receptionist made us cough up £8 for park entry fees, which we thought we'd already paid but he could not be swayed. The hut was basic and had wood fires, which provided hot water for showers, but no electricity. A few of the lads were sore from the sun despite liberal use of sunscreen all day. At the hut were a lot more ticks, which embedded themselves in to our legs, we used Vaseline to suffocate them, this seemed to work and they fell off. If you try and pull them out though, the tick's head breaks off inside you and can go septic. When we went to start cooking it was found that the Peak stoves did not run on metholated spirits and only the two Trangia cookers worked - so much for the Peaks, a bit of prior P and P would have saved a lot of trouble lads. After food we built a fire outside and had a couple of beers from the shop and told jokes until about 2100hrs, all that is except for WO2 Jim Knight who didn't seem to know any.

Up at 0700 hrs but WO2 Jim Knight was up at 0530 hrs and ready for 0630hrs. We are due to leave at 0845hrs, I did manage to get a cup of tea in bed. Breakfast went quite smoothly despite only having two cookers and we were ready in plenty of time. Only 9km to walk today though our rucksacks did not seem any lighter, despite having eaten one days rations. The walk started with a steep climb and then eased off to pass Tortoise Rocks where we saw a group of baboons and lots of deer. An elongated NAAFI break at Bathplug Cave (1750m), which was in some welcome shade. The weather was very hot and the sun very strong, only half of group wore shorts today. We arrived at the hut at 1215hrs after a long descent down past Siphongweni Cave where some Neolithic rock art hasrecently been discovered. The hut was basic with absolutely freezing showers. Sgt Ken Barker took Sig Oscar 'Para' Phillips on 3½hr afternoon trip to the Pimple (1978m), and to Mount Titty (2112m), due to time the nipple was not achieved but the cleavage was walked (all real names I assure you). The total was a round 12km trip. On return Sig Phillips was tired out and flaked instantly, some potential airborne soldier he is proving to be. The rest of the party went to a nearby rock pool for a swim and then back for a siesta. After the evening meal it was an early night but some lads stayed up to tell ghost stories and Sig 'H' Harrison woke up in the night shouting after having a nightmare.

The next day we were all ready for 0800 hrs, what these boys do without their mums to look after them - admin vortexes or what. The weather was very hot by 0700 hrs. After crossing the suspension bridge below the hut it was a steep climb up to Little Bamboo Mountain, named after the indigenous grass, which grows here.

Stunning scenery but we were all finding it hard going due to heat. Good water economy was the order of the day as most of the marked streams had dried up, including Crane Tarn at the saddle (1850m). Crane Tarn is so named because blue cranes frequent it. There is also a forest in the vicinity of the saddle. A long walk down followed this, paralleling Killicranki Stream with its irresistible rock pools. The path continued down to a road (are they sure it was only 5km) where we lunched in the shade of some gum trees. Here WO2 Jim Knight let those who wanted to make a welcome phone call home on his mobile (restricted to 1min unless your name is Sig Dave Steadman whose girlfriend was still in bed). We then walked another 2km to a bridge where we saw people driving past with ice creams. Sgt Ken Barker, Sigs Oscar Phillips and Graham Wootton were duly despatched to find the shop whilst the others went swimming to cool down - they left the river soon after the fresh water crabs started snapping at their feet. After 2½km a clubhouse was found in an exclusive holiday resort. We were stinking and filthy but were allowed in to purchase some ice-cold lemonade. As these were poured, I was reminded of a scene from 'Ice cold in Alex'. The barman then said that we were all welcome to watch the Wales v S Africa rugby test that afternoon and that the campsite that we would be staying in was only 1km. further north. We returned to the bridge with a rucksack full of cold drinks and got to the campsite just before the heavens opened in what turned out to be a normal afternoon deluge. At the site there were more Rondavels which were basic but comfy and had the coldest showers this side of the Antarctic. All bar WO2 Jim Knight went to the clubhouse to watch the rugby he drew the short straw to look after the equipment. Afterwards the holidaymakers who insisted on buying us beverages and smuggling food out of the restaurant invited us to the patio outside. We all told jokes and made some good friends who gave us some useful advice on staying in Durban and where to go. It was a long muddy walk back to the Rondavel in the dark.

Another scorching hot day. The first 5km were very steep and had us all puffing hard; there was grassland in all directions only broken by the occasional Protea tree. We saw more baboons, a snake and some Bok. Once we were up Black Eagle Pass and onto the slopes of the Garden Castle, the going got a bit easier. The sweeping views of the escarpment on either side of Rhino Peak were breathtaking. Below us stretched the valleys of Mzimkhulu and Mlambonja rivers to the right and the Mzlmude Rivers meandering curves and oxbow lakes on the left. Not the best days walking, but the views and occasional sightings of black eagles made the day. We arrived at the hut for about 1300 hrs and this is very good - this hut has hot water and electricity. As usual Sgt Ken Barker, Sigs Oscar Phillips and Graham Wootton despatched the extra 1km to sign in on the trail and get the cold drinks. In the afternoon the heavens opened again with lots of thunder and lightning. Many phoned home from the reception phone booth using phone cards purchased from the small shop there. The evening was spent around a fire in the hut gassing about nothing as usual.

Up at 0600hrs (WO2 Jim Knight up 0520 hrs - but I did get another cup of tea in bed). Away by 0730hrs for the final day of trekking of this phase, despite the usual scorcher, there was a steady climb to Bucquay Nek and down to the Mzimude River and pool. After crossing a suspension bridge, the path rises in terraces, and these last two sections lead uphill - and uphill it was, reaching Langalibalele Cave (2010m). The group arrived at Bushman's Nek at 1115 hrs after one of the longest kilometres anywhere in the world. Surprise, surprise, the vehicles were there (having been driven there on the Friday as part of the tour package). After a soft drinks and ice cream stop drove the 33km along a dusty track to the main road and then to Himeville. Here ten plates of steak and chips were wolfed down with the utmost alacrity, a lot better than flavoured noodles. Then we all did some more shopping before the return drive to the guesthouse to sort our kit out prior to moving on the next day. WO2 Jim Knight and Sgt Ken Barker drove back to Himeville to see Beryl our friendly tour guide to book a Safari park and hostel in Durban for R and R. All back to Himeville for a meal and a couple of beers in the evening before retiring back at the guesthouse.

ANOTHER STAMP IN THE PASSPORT

Reveille 0730hrs but all up for 0700hrs (except WO2 Jim Knight up at 0520hrs) for really good fry up all round. We were then driven up the Sani Pass half in a SA Army 4 tonner (complete with puncture, bullet holes and German tourists), the rest in a comfy 4 by 4 landrover. Over the border into Lesotho (another passport stamp) and up the pass with some absolutely stunning scenery. The 4 tonner group ended up on the German tour and went to an authentic Lesothan mud hut to see their way of life complete with bread cooked in cow dung. After the obligatory whip round we were driven back to the Sani Top hostel which was very reminiscent of some Rebro sites I have served on. We met up with the others who had arrived by Landrover; they were relaxing drinking hot chocolate. The weather was good but then closed in but we were in the highest hostelry in Africa so we weren't too bothered. The evening meal in the Sani Top hostel was excellent - soup, bread, steak, rice, vegetables and apple crumble, all eaten by candle light as the hostel generator had failed. After booking a guide for 0530hrs, and making a packed lunch we were all in bed by 2000hrs ready for the assault on Thabana Ntlyanlana the following morning.

THE HIGHEST PEAK IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

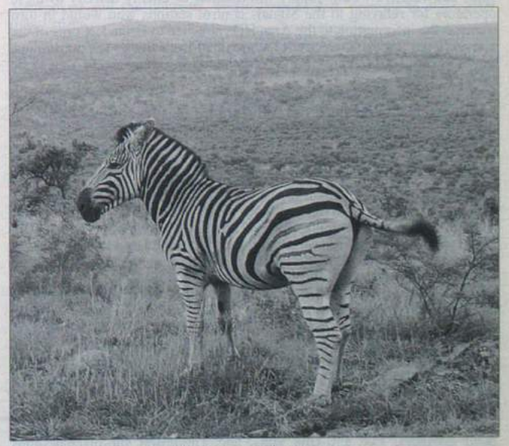
The weather in the morning was chucking it down and no guide. We waited till 0610hrs for the guide, but still no show - perhaps he knew something we didn't. Off we set and despite wearing waterproofs we were all soaked within half an hour. The walking was reasonable and uphill, with not much of a discernible path. This was like a day in the Peak District especially as the rain never once let up all day. After several hours walking we found a disused mud hut which was commandeered as an impromptu rest stop. The climb continued up and we all disappeared into the mist. The summit was attained by 1000hrs after some very steep ascents up grassy and rocky slopes. The summit of Thabana Ntlanyana (11145ft) is very difficult to appreciate as the surrounding hills all look to be of the same height or perhaps even higher. It was not until the 1960's that it was identified with the aide of satellites as the highest peak in Southern Africa. On the summit the flags were duly produced and pictures taken in cold and driving rain of the soaking wet adventurers. The walk down was long and laborious but due to the weather not many rest stops were taken and we were back at the hostel by 1300hrs. All were soaked and tired but after several welcome cups of hot chocolate were soon in high spirits again. The afternoon was spent trying to dry our kit out and snoozing. Another gorgeous meal that evening, again we retired at about 2000hrs.

MOVE TO DURBAN

Ranging around in the morning for transport (well this is Africa and you must work on African time which is at least an hour slower than anywhere else in the world). It did show, however, and we were driven down to our vehicles at the guesthouse in the Mkhornazana valley by lunchtime. After a quick kit repack we drove to Durban to the Traveller's Rest Backpacker Lodge. This was a very good hostel and suited our needs amply. We were in a ten man room with bunk beds and soon the place looked like a bomb had hit it with kit all over the place. A local washer woman eyes opened wide with delight when she was told she would get 300Rand (about £33) to do our washing but they soon closed again when she saw how much of it there was. The hostel was guarded by a supreme example of an Alsatian dog called Shaka, which put our minds at rest. In the evening we went for a meal in a fine local restaurant where smoked salmon, roast duck and other gourmet meals were had along with beer and port and we were astonished when the bill came to under 800Rand. The local night-spot was then sampled for some well-earned refreshment.

UMFOLOZI SAFARI PARK

Up early for the drive to Umfolozi Safari Park, about 3 hrs north of Durban. The weather was hot again and the huts were of a high standard although no food was provided, so 3 of the team, under the guidance of Sig Maca MacCarthy were despatched to buy food for the evening meal and breakfast. They returned late after negotiating access to the roads past a rather large elephant and rhino. Later on we drove around the park in the minibus and saw even more animals, including zebras.



Umfolozi Safari Park

During this trip Sig Sean Martin decided to break the door lever on the back door of the minibus and it was noticed that the aerial wouldn't retract (we definitely will not get our deposit back now). In the evening after dinner six of the group went on a night safari which was excellent if not overlong. In total four of the 'Big 5' were seen only the leopard avoiding our cameras. Lights out was at 2200hrs and so to bed.

R and R

WO2 Jim Knight made breakfast (does he ever take a lie in) and then we all drove around to the hippo pool and crocodile hides where no hippo or crocodiles were seen. It was then on to Richard's Bay for bank, lunch and shopping. The prices in South Africa are very reasonable and many souvenirs were bought. Now the central locking has gone on the minibus! The afternoon was spent driving back to the hostel in Durban where we had another gourmet meal and sampled the local nightlife.

The next day the vehicles were taken by a couple of the lads for cleaning at a very reasonable price. All then went down to the beach but typically because this was R and R the weather was overcast and raining. We therefore visited a snake park, which was very interesting and saw snakes at feeding time, a few of the lads got involved in feeding the snakes a mixture of live and dead bait. The others had their photos taken holding boa constrictors - not for me. The afternoon was spent looking around a local flea market and then it was back to the hostel for a barbecue. The evening was spent packing ready for departure the next day.

THE LAST DAY AND RETURN

Up early to find that someone had smashed the window of the minibus obviously trying to steal it, glass everywhere but the assailant did leave a screwdriver behind (is there no end to the tale of woe for our minibus). WO2 Jim Knight then had the unenviable task of taking the minibus back to Budget Car Hire, to explain. Budget quite understood and said that there would be some money to pay but we may also still get a refund. We were given another minibus, which we had all of 12hrs to look after, but at least the ariel, back door and central locking worked. The morning was spent doing a shopping survey for HQ LAND for CILOR purposes and final shopping. A shop was also found to develop our films and seeing as there were 30 rolls of them to be developed we were afforded a 15% discount. The vehicles were returned at 1630hrs and because of the valetting they seemed more than happy (at least they didn't look under the car) and we got some of the excess back only being charged for the window of the minibus. We then checked in with only a couple being overweight but again sweet-talking saved any extra payment. The flight was on time after another short stop in Jo'burg (remaining on the aircraft again).

We arrived back at Heathrow that morning at 0730hrs. The Regimental driver was there to meet us and as we were loading our bags on, a rather diligent traffic warden presented him with a parking ticket- Oh its good to be back. We arrived at Bramcote for about 1130hrs; it looked just the same as we had left it cold, wet and miserable.

SUMMARY

In conclusion I have to concur with Lt Karl Jeeves and his article in the October 'Wire', South Africa and Lesotho are ideal for Adventurous Training, with such contrasting countryside and activities available. The expedition achieved all its aims with the vast majority saying they will return at some time in the future.

THE BRITISH RESISTANCE ORGANISATION

In 1938, with the increasing threat of Germany's militancy, the idea was conceived by a Major in the Foreign Office of organising some form of resistance by civilians in the event of invasion. Although no funds were made available he and another officer created several subsections in a secret department to enlarge the project, one section investigating the development of weapons suitable for use by guerrilla fighters. Early in 1939 the Department was transferred to the Military Intelligence Directorate and renamed Military Intelligence (Research) - MI(R).

By mid-1939 a Maj Gubbins, who had studied guerrilla warfare, began to select British civilians for training but was then posted to Poland and MI(R) continued with the expansion of a guerrilla force under the original officer. After the outbreak of war explosives and other stores were dumped around Britain but with no co-ordination, hopefully to be used by any persons willing to carry out sabotage behind the German occupation. When Gubbins, now a Colonel, returned after the withdrawal from Norway, he immediately began the formation of an underground army under the direct aegis of the Commander-in-Chief at GHQ Home Forces, Field-Marshal Ironside. Winston Churchill expressed great interest and the plan prompted his 'We will fight them on the beaches' speech.

Auxiliary Units, the cover name given to the organisation, comprised two parts. The first consisted of specially selected civilians with a good knowledge of their local area and physically capable of living rough and fighting and harassing enemy forces. The other part consisted of local wireless networks operated by Royal Corps of Signals personnel with outstations near the coast, each having a civilian operator. A system of spies and runners would supply information of enemy activity to these operators for relaying to the Signals control stations who would in turn transmit the information to the Area HQs attached to Brigade/Corps of the conventional forces. Each control station had from five to ten outstations, Southern England having a larger number as the more likely area to be invaded.

In June 1940 the selection and training of the patrol members began in earnest. Gubbins appointed Col Andrew Croft, his Intelligence Officer in the Norwegian campaign, as operational and training officer and by the following November Croft had trained 24 seven-man or eight-man groups in Essex and Suffolk. Croft then opted to return to Commando units. Brigadier Gubbins had by then made his HQ and training centre at Coleshill House, a Palladian mansion owned by the Pleydell-Bouveries, about ten miles from Swindon, with large parklands and woods very suitable for guerrilla training. Every Thursday evening large numbers of patrol members would arrive, accommodated in the large stable block, to spend the next two days receiving instruction in the use of modern explosives and weapons and unarmed combat during the day, while at night they were transported several miles into the surrounding countryside and required to find their way back in the dark (in the light summer evenings they wore dark eyeshields), marking tanks and planes hidden in the woods as destroyed, avoiding tripwires and patrolling sentries. Auxiliary Units received priority, even over the Commandos, with the issue of plastic explosive and delayed-action chemically-activated time pencils, ideal for silent booby-traps. They were the first troops to be issued with stick pencils, a simple mine stuck in the ground and known later by Eighth Army soldiers as 'castrators', tyre-bursting mines, phosphorous hand grenades, Piat anti-tank guns, and Thompson sub-machine-guns imported from the United States. Each member was issued with a Fairbairn Commando dagger, having received instruction in silent killing, where German sentries could be approached silently and stabbed before they had time to warn others. Pistols and rubber truncheons also formed part of their equipment and they wore thick rubber-soled boots, later used by the Commandos. In some units certain members were issued with a special .22 rifle fitted with a telescopic sight and silencer, capable of firing high-velocity bullets which could kill a man a mile away. It never became general issue, however, lacking the sturdiness of army rifles.

Returning to their local areas, the patrols continued their training several nights a week, often to the chagrin of regular forces. One patrol breached the security of an airfield, marking several Spitfires as destroyed. In a planned Exercise on a military HQ another patrol commandeered a baker's van, entered the main building, leaving evidence of the raid, the army commander describing the tactics as unfair, having expected an attack by conventional forces. This Exercise highlighted the probability of German parachute troops destroying command HQs and security was tightened accordingly. Although not in the official Home Guard, the patrols were formed into three special Home Guard battalions as a cover - 201 for Scotland, 202 for Northern England, and 203 for Southern England. In some cases it was noticed that these men were not taking part in normal Home Guard Exercises and, sworn to secrecy and unable to explain their absence at night, they came under suspicion of being engaged in nefarious or extra-marital activities! The patrols' areas of activity extended from the north of Scotland down the east coast and round to the south of Wales. About 3,500 men were trained at Coleshill and, with a number trained locally, a total of nearly 5,000 well-trained and armed men awaited a German invasion.

AUXILIARY UNITS SIGNALS

Operating in the same areas as the patrols but completely separate and unknown to the patrols were the wireless networks, designated the Special Duties Section. Early in 1941 the Royal Corps of Signals established an HQ at Bachelors Hall at Hundon in Suffolk under G2AW Capt (later Major) Hills and his aide Capt Ward, where radio 'hams' were recruited to design and manufacture a small radio telephony set. Simple to use, able to withstand damp conditions and operating on high frequency over a short distance of 10-20 miles. With G2QV Capt Shanks and G2RD Ron Dabbs appointed sergeant in charge, G8CK Bill Bartholornew designed the transceiver, G8J1 Tom Higgins and Ron Dabbs the receiver, G8CK Bill Bartholornew and GM8MQ Jack Miffle the transmitter, G8PP Les Parnell, GM2M Jimmy McNab, and John Mackie the power supply and metalwork, 2FWX Bill Air completing the team. G2K1 George Spencer joined Capt Hills at Hundon before of the other 'hams' but, as they proceeded with their project, he was allocated the task of choosing sites for the planned wireless control/zero stations which required concealment from the public (and a invasion, force) and nearby trees for the erection of aerials, providing good wireless reception. Units of Royal Engineers were then detailed to construct these underground dugouts but were unaware of their use. The dugouts consisted of an entrance chamber accessed by a hidden trap door and a straight-down ladder and appeared to be complete but a cleverly concealed door led to the operating chamber. At the far end was another door, well sealed against fumes, leading to the generator chamber where batteries were charged, the generator providing lighting and ventilation facilities. In the far wall was an escape tunnel which came out some distance from the dugout. The majority of zero stations were built to the same design.

The wireless set produced by the team was code-named TRD (transmitter/receiver and coincidentally using the initials of Ron Dabbs), was housed in a metal case about 15in long, 93/8in. wide, and 91/4in high, powered by a large conventional 6-volt 85 AH accumulator battery, the voltage being boosted by the, vibrator in the set to 240 volts with a power output of approximately 11/2watts. The frequency range was 48-65mcs, then rarely used but now commonly used by BBCI television. After extensive tests a sum of £2,000 was allocated for the purchase of parts which, generally, were obtained from commercial companies.

The metal case was constructed by the Metalbox Company of North London, the back and sides in one piece and access to the components was by removing the front panel with the attached component chassis. The transmitters were TVO/310s or RK34s, twin triodes and were used in a self-excited configuration, having a coil across the two grids, while the anodes were connected to a coil between them, the anodes being fed by a centre tap on the anode coil, and an RF choke and capacitor to the HT supply, which was supplied by the vibrator pack, using mainly a 4-pin vibrator and an OZ4 cold cathode rectifier, producing around 250 volts, DC.

Occasionally the vibrator was a self-syncronous 6-pin type which produced the DC without a rectifier. These were fed by a transformer, all contained in a Masteradio vibrator pack made by the Masteradio factory in Rickmansworth Road, Watford, Herts. The self-excited oscillators were anode modulated by a 6V6 fed by a metal valves of the octal variety, as were the OZ4s. The aerial terminals inside the front panel were inside via a piece of flat twin feeder, ending in a single-turn loop the same diameter as the coil and between the turns at the low impedance point at the centre tap at which point the HT was fed via a RF choke with a value of 23 milli-henries. Outside the front panel, the aerial terminals were connected to a 72 ohm flat twin feeder leading to the dipole antenna hidden in a tree. The microphone was an ordinary Post Office telephone. The receiver was a super-regenerative type and, although very sensitive, had to be isolated from, the radiation caused (and thereby giving away the position to the enemy) by the simple means of using an untuned buffer RF amplifier, which was an EF50, a popular valve at the time with tiny pins. The super-regenerative valve was a Mullard Red 'E' type EF39. The output was via a 6V6 tetrode and could be via either a loudspeaker or headphones.

In preparation for the use of these sets Intelligence Officers had been vetting civilians along the coast for their suitability as clandestine operators to send information to control stations farther inland, all to be capable of operating under enemy occupation. The civilians were chosen from all walks of life: doctors, vicars, farmers, shopkeepers, housewives and, at Ringwood in Hampshire, a barmaid. They had no uniform and would undoubtedly have been shot as spies if caught. The outstations were concealed in various ways. Some were in attics (Réné's secret wireless in Granny's bedroom in the TV farce 'Allo 'Allo was true in Britain!) sheds, dugouts, and other ingenious hides. One was at the top of the mausoleum 'folly' in Brocklesby Park in Lincolnshire another in a summerhouse on the roof of a mansion in Ottery St. Mary, Devon; and a chicken farmer near Axminster entered his bunker by lifting the complete wooden seat, together with bucket and contents, of his outside privy. The small radio compartment was revealed by swivelling a wooden beam. His 'runners' would swing aside a tree-stump to reveal a hole into which they dropped a split tennis ball containing any messages which would then run down into the bunker. A large number of 'spies' would have been engaged in gathering information of enemy activity for this purpose and 'letter boxes' were set up in birds' nests, chicken houses, hollows in trees, empty cans, drain pipes, etc, for collection by the runners. With 125 outstations and 78 sub-outstations, the number of civilians involved in this intelligence-gathering organisation amounted to at least 3,250.

The Royal Corps of Signals personnel eventually numbered 69 men, including the radio 'hams' engaged in construction and maintenance of sets, sergeants who were in charge of the area networks, and wireless operators and instrument mechanics to man the control stations. Seven officers each had control of several areas and had at their disposal several drivers, engineers, and carpenters from other units. Earlier, Major Hills had left Auxillary Units Signals and Major R. M. A. Jones (who had been with Pye Radio) took over command. At stand-down, Major Green was in charge, while Capt Shanks remained with Auxillary Units Signals from its inception. Beatrice Temple, niece of the then Archbishop of Canterbury, was appointed Senior Commander of ATS personnel and began recruiting young women, many officers in the ATS, as operators in the control stations. Unaware of the work involved, 93 women were invited to volunteer for a special and possibly dangerous assignment, Major Temple conducting the interviews in the public lounge of Harrods in Knightsbridge. A number were selected for voice tests at Hundon and eventually 43 were chosen for training in the use of the TRD sets, each given officer status. They were later allocated to three-woman units manning the Area HQ control/zero stations situated close to Brigade/Corps HQs, forming the final link between the civilian outstations, their control stations, and the conventional defence forces.

Each control station covered an area about the size of a county, serving five to ten outstations and manned by three Royal Corps of Signals personnel, using a but for everyday use. After invasion this would have been destroyed and the operators would have moved to an identical 'zero' station hidden a short distance away. It was equipped with stores for a month; cooking, sleeping, and toilet facilities. In the adjacent sealed chamber was a generator to provide lighting and ventilation and to charge batteries which was necessary as the sets were in constant use, unlike the outstations where the sets were used only for occasional messages. The zero stations were also cleverly hidden. One was built under the vegetable garden of a manor house at Winchester, sliding a cold-frame to one side to reveal the ladder down to the dugout. Another at Hume Castle was under the ruins, the aerials concealed in the ramparts, and at Buckland St Mary, near Taunton, the bunker was in the rim of an old Roman defence work at the end of the Blackdown Hills, part of a farm where the Signals were billeted with the farmer and his wife.

All the control/zero and outstations required copper-wire dipole aerials 7ft 9in wide (3ft 101/2in each side) with Belling Lee 80 ohm flat twin down-leads. Where possible these were strung in the highest trees, for good transmission and away from prying eyes. The down-leads were buried behind the bark, sometimes requiring imaginative camouflage. A broadcast distance of up to 30 miles was expected but this was extended in many areas when sited on high ground and sometimes with the addition of an 8ft reflector. A good example of this was at Abergavenny where the control/zero station was on the Blorenge Hills, now the site of a large TV mast and within a few yards of the memorial to the famous show-jumper 'Foxhunter'. The longest operational link was 64 miles.

Pre-invasion, the Signals operators had a dual role. With one operator manning the set, the other two were required to visit each outstation each week, replacing the batteries with fully-charged ones, checking the equipment, and climbing the trees if necessary to cheek that the aerials were secure. These maintenance visits required extreme caution in avoiding detection, taking place in daylight. Having parked the scout-car some distance from the outstation, two heavy accumulator batteries and other equipment had to be carried to the site and the entrance approached only when safely undetected. Any tree maintenance needed especial attention, sometimes taking several hours so as not to be seen. On completion, camouflage of the site was paramount, removing any signs of activity. Where sets were in private houses, security was again difficult and precautions taken to avoid apparent contact with the military.

In 1942, the Signals HQ was moved from Hundon to Coleshill where construction and improvements to the TRD sets continued including the TRM and TRF. At stand-down the number of sets in use numbered 250 TRD, 28 TRM, 36 TRF, and 200 No. 17 sets. At the same time the Special Duties Section established their HQ at Hannington Hall, owned by the Fry cocoa family, five miles from Coleshill. Here, Major Maurice Pethericik recruited additional intelligence officers to continue the expansion of the spy organisation supplying the information for the wireless networks and Beatrice Temple administered the ATS section. The ATS officers were accommodated in approved civilian billets, being ferried to their secret operational stations by Royal Signals personnel. Watches were programmed throughout the day, not only for their own network but also for any broadcasts by enemy agents, which were immediately notified to Intelligence. Early versions of the sets were sensitive to thunderstorms and sunspot activity and sometimes to tank radios. No instructions were given in writing except changes in the codes used. These were on special 'digestible' paper which had to be chewed and swallowed. As with all parts of the organisation, security was so tight that at no time was, an 'indication given of the numbers, stations, or activities of anyone else. These details were known only by the Intelligence Officer and his Royal Signals Sergeant in charge of each area.

The Royal Signals personnel also lived with civilian families, who were completely unaware of their work, and wartime discipline was well observed by not prying into details. (After the war many men maintained contact with their wartime 'mums' remembering how well they had been treated. During their daytime work Signals personnel obtained their meals locally, sometimes in British Restaurants, the meal-places set up by the government in many towns, and were left to fend for themselves, being responsible only to their Intelligence Officer who had two or three stations under his supervision. Each day's journey required a transport movement conventionally signed by a transport officer but in the Signals case it was signed by an NCO or Signalman. Auxiliary Units were directly answerable to GHQ Home Forces and avoided contact with conventional forces. This required a particularly resourceful and independently minded breed of soldier.

With the threat of invasion lifted through the successful establishment of the Normandy landings, Auxiliary units were disbanded in September 1944 and the patrols in the following November. The dugouts being destroyed after the contents had been removed, although there have been some instances where patrol bunkers, hastily established in 1940, being overlooked and the contents, badly deteriorated, coming to light after many years

Afterwards. The zero station at Winchester has been known to the property owner for many years but unaware of its purpose and the Shipley zero-station has also been excavated. Both are in good condition, with original construction features intact. Some younger patrol members, with their specialised training, enlisted in the SAS and other active units. Older members resumed their normal lifestyle, receiving no public recognition other than a letter from the Commander-in-Chief Home Forces, expressing the value to the country of their devotion to duty in facing the dangers of an invasion and the maintaining of secrecy was a matter of special pride. Some training officers were parachuted into France and both Capt Bond and Capt Ian Fenwick and a dozen of his men were killed there. Signals personnel returned to Catterick in Yorkshire for retraining and to other theatres of war; some were retained by the Operator Training Battalion as instructors because of the expansion in training required for the final effort against the Germans in Europe and the Japanese in the Far East.

The National Trust now administer Coleshill House Park at the Coleshill Estate Office. The house, built in 1662, caught fire during refurbishment in 1952 and was demolished. The main stable block still exists, as do the impressive main gates. Early in 1996, as part of a tree-planting scheme, it was decided that seven should be dedicated to the memory of the Auxiliary Units. Members of the Somerset group, the South-east Essex and East group, and Auxiliary Units Signals made donations for the planting and maintenance of a tree dedicated to their units, while another two trees were dedicated to individuals who joined the SAS and were killed behind enemy lines in 1944 and executed by the Germans, Henry James Pascoe, aged 28, and Alan George Ashley, aged 24. Another two trees are dedicated to Auxiliary Units members in all other areas.

Satellite technology, has obviated the need for trig pillars and, to avoid these falling into disrepair, the Ordinance Survey invited members of the public to adopt them. Four families of former Auxillary Units members have adopted pillars in Gwent, Sussex, and Devon, near former OBs, and these now bear plates recording their dedication. The Imperial War Museum in London has allocated a section to Auxiliary Units in its permanent SOE exhibition 'Secret War' and a British Resistance museum has been established at the WWII Memorial Museum to the 390th Bomb Group of the United States AAF at Parharn (Framlingham) in Suffolk where application has been made to re-erect an underground bunker for public viewing. The connection was formed when the trustees of the museum discovered that the airfield was built on farmland owned by brothers who had been patrol members. Unbeknown to the brothers, one of their relatives was a wireless operator on the Signals side. The story of Auxiliary Units has remained a well-kept secret for 50 years and the sacrifice that members, many now passed away, were prepared to make, unknown to their families, receiving no recognition, has now been recorded in many ways for the benefit of future history.

CROSS COUNTRY

RECENT EVENTS

Inter-Services Championships - The Inter Services Cross Country Championships were hosted by the Royal Navy at Plymouth on Friday 26 February 1999. This event comprises of four races: Senior Men, Senior Ladies, Veteran Men and Junior Men, and a total of 13 Royal Signals athletes were selected for the four squads.

On one of the most exciting days for many years the Army came out victors in three of the four events, losing only the veterans event, LCpl Sophie Morris of 238 Sig Sqn won the ladies race, narrowly beating the reigning Army Champion, LCpl Nicky Dean of 251 Sig Sqn. LCpl Paul Clancy (216 (Para) Sig Sqn) produced a fine run in the senior men's event, finishing 7th overall in a field which included some of the country's top runners. Disappointingly, three promising juniors, LCpl Jim Kemp and Sig 'Scouse' McArthur, both of 3 (UK) Div HQ and Sig Regt and Sig Ian Bailey from 2 Sig Regt, were all 'unavailable' and were therefore denied Inter-Services winners medals, and it is regrettable that units do not put more effort into ensuring that athletes are made available for these top honours.

Inter-Corps Championship - The Inter-Corps Championships were hosted by the APTC and took place at Blandford on Wednesday 3 March 1999. Despite gaps in the Corps teams due to operational commitments the Corps' overall results surpassed all expectations and during the final medal presentations Corps track suits were never far from the rostrum. Notable performances included LCpl Nicky Dean's aggressive run to reverse the Inter-Services result and leave the Silver medal to LCpl Sophie Morris on this occasion. Solid runs from the ladies' team captain, 2Lt Lindsey Calderhead, and LCpl Cas Burrows of 30 Sig Regt resulted in a win for the Corps edging the APTC into second place with the PLC following on. LCpl Paul Clancy again finished in third place in the men 's race, but Sgt 'Ginge' Davey of 15 Sig Regt, after a disappointing result in the Army Championships, produced a much better result to come fourth. Team Captain, Sgt Dave Kilgallon, also of 15 Sig Regt, led the remainder of the Corps' team home with a solid run in 14 place to give us second team place behind the strong RLC squad.

SHOOTING

ROYAL SCHOOL OF SIGNALS

BLANDFORD CAMP REGIMENTAL SHOOTING TEAM
EXERCISE FIRST SHOOT/CORPS SAAM
28 MARCH-16 APRIL 1999

The Regimental Shooting Team achieved great success in both training on Ex First Shoot and during Corps SAAM throughout the following periods: Ex First Shoot from 28 March-8 April 1999 and the Royal Corps of Signals Corps SAAM 99 held from 9-16 April 1999 at Ash/Pirbright range complexes.

All members were selected to fire as part of the Regimental Shooting Team consisting of x 2, 5 man fire teams and x 6 individual entry firers and despite the appalling weather produced some very creditable scores. All members exuded an air of professionalism throughout the training period and although scores varied during the competition a sense of achievement was shared by all.

All the experienced shootists within the team ably coached those with little or no shooting experience to a successful Corps SAAM. The presentation was shared by all Corps Teams, unfortunately, however, not the prizes. The presentation consisted of prizes being awarded to an equal dissemination between 30 Sig Regt and 11 Sig Regt, however, the Regimental Shooting Team confidently won the majority of team matches and a numerous amount of individual team medals and bars which all 16 members received, especially Sig Harris who required two medals to hold his successions of achievement. All scores were extremely good given the blustery wind conditions, heavy rain and hailstone showers and could not have been achieved without the enthusiasm, dedication and good humour of all those within the Regimental Shooting Team.

Other achievements were as follows: Top Royal Signals (all weapons) shot - Sgt D. Copley, Top Pistol Shot - Lt Col R. T. Hoole, Team and Inter Corps Winners Combat Snap, Runners-up Falling Plates Match, Winners Pistol Team and Pistol Tiles Match, Runners-Up LSW Team Match, Top Young Soldier - Sig D. T. Harris and Inter Corps Methuen Team Match unanimous winners - The Royal Corps of Signals.

If all team members can maintain the consistency and form shown throughout the above periods, things are looking bright for the Royal Signals team in the forthcoming 3 (UK) Div SAAM held from 4-8 May 1999, the prestigious Queen's Medal Competition and other central matches held at Bisley from 29 June-7 July 1999.

The following four members of the Regiment (Capt B. G. Navindra, SSgt J. P. Johnston, Sgt D. Copley and Sgt G. Nirmal) were also selected to represent the Corps in the Inter Corps Methuen Match held on Friday 16 April 1999 which was convincingly won, producing an outstanding performance and result.

On a final note, certain individual awards were presented with great pride to SSgt J. P. Johnston and Sgt D. Copley with international medals as team members for the British Army Combat Shooting Team (BACST) - Canada and South Africa 1998. Praise was also given to Capt B. G. Navindra and Sgt D. Copley for their selection to Australia with the BACST from 4-27 May 1999. Both SSgt J. O. Johnston and SSgt S. K. Rideout were also presented a thank you gift by the Secretary of Corps Shooting, Capt G. G. A. Reith, for their personal contribution and achievements to Corps Shooting.

In conclusion the CO and OIC Shooting congratulates all team members on behalf of their achievements and thank all OC Sqns/Tps/Depts for their support in releasing individuals and assisting the Regimental Shooting Team when required. Also to all team members for their participation in the success of the Regimental Shooting Team, this benefited not only the team members but also the Regimental Trophy Cabinet.

RUGBY

The rugby match between The Royal Signals and The Royal Artillary took place at Larkhill in damp and windy conditions, with the Corps taking advantage of the wind in the first half. The Corps side dominated the set scrum and held their own at the lineout. The forwards managed to produce good ball from the loose play but the conditions did little to promote good running rugby and the Corps back division was under-strength due to the unavailability of key players. The Corps led at half time by 21 points to 8 with three converted tries. However, the determination of the RA combined with having the wind to their advantage, enabled them to come back strongly in the second half.

1998/99 ARMY MERIT 1 TABLE RESULTS

CORPS	PLAYED	WON	DRAWN	LOST	POINTS
RA	5	2	1	2	5
RE	5	2	0	3	4
R. SIGS	5	4	1	0	9
RLC	5	1	0	4	2
Inf B	5	1	0	4	2
REME	5	4	0	1	8

Sheer determination and an excellent defence kept the score at 21 to 16. With three minutes left to play the RA, after a sequence of penalties, went over for a try. This time the wind did them no favours and the conversion missed. The final score was 21-21. The Royal Signals remain the only unbeaten squad in the competition. The final match, against the RE, took place at Chatham on 7 April 1999, and decided the Championship. The Royal Signals needed to win to remain unbeaten and become the Merit Table winners. The game was played under ideal conditions and the Corps' Squad rose to the occasion, playing their best rugby of the season. The final score of 39-10 was more than enough to secure the Merit Table 1 Championship

END OF SEASON SUMMARY

Since Match Reports have been submitted throughout the season, and as readers may well be thinking more about cricket and Summer rather than rugby, I shall keep this Summary short. I write with still a month to go in terms of matches to be played but with the knowledge that, not long ago, the Squad achieved its principle target for the season by winning Merit Table 1. The final league match against the Sappers being played at Chatham and the Royal Signals had not won there for the past seven years! A good all round display saw a good and well deserved victory by 39 points to 10 as is reported by the Secretary, Capt Tom Hall, in his separate report.

It has been a successful season for the Squad even taking into account the hard fought draw last month at Larkhill against the Gunners. An unbeaten run means that we can plan with confidence for next season. This year has not been without its challenges as operational demands upon units and the continuing overstretch has impacted on the availability of players. It is to the credit of the coach, Secretary and Squad members that we have done so well, often without the opportunity to prepare that we would have wished. Thanks are particularly due to all the units that have supplied players to the Squad. I know only too well the conflicts of interest that have to be taken into account, and also the additional tasks that are pressed upon already busy people to accommodate the need to release our players for the matches and the pre-match preparation. I hope that the success the Squad has been able to achieve this year will be a small token of thanks for all the support that the Corps has given, often in very difficult circumstances by all ranks in the units.

The photograph shows members of the Squad with Brig Gordon Hughes holding the Cup. In what has been a Squad effort it is invideous to mention names, but it would be wrong not to pick out Sgt Paul Jones, of 15 Signal Regiment, who was named as 'Player of the Year'. One result of availability problems was that we had to call on a number of 'Captains'. However, without exception they led from the front and were able to bring all the hard work of our Coach, Capt Trev Keats, to fruition.

NOTES FROM THE AO'S DESK

Branch News - At their recent AGM, the Newark Branch elected Mr John Knott as the new Hon Secretary. John's address is 34 Spring Lane, Balderton, Newark, Notts NG24 3NZ. Thanks go to Chairman Fred Dixon for standing in until the new secretary was found. 'Chippy' Wood, Hon Secretary of the Harrogate Branch has a new Tel number; 01423-505326.

Address changes - Too often we are asked by our members why they have not heard from us for some time. Upon checking we find that the address shown on their record card is well out of date and that we have not been informed of the change. To illustrate the point, the instruction for this year's Reunion was sent to those individual members who attended last year and within a week of despatch several were returned by the Royal Mail saying, 'No longer at this address'. Please inform us of any change to your address.

The RBL Cenotaph Parade - This year's Cenotaph Parade at Whitehall, London, will be held on Sunday 14 November. All who have served under command of British Forces and War Widows/Widowers are eligible. Assembly time is 1010 hours on Horse Guards Parade, marching off at 1015 to Whitehall. Members of our Corps will again be in column 'F', which will be second in order of march. All those on parade must have admission tickets, which can be obtained, without charge, from Association HQ. Dispersal will be at approximately 1220hrs. All those who wish to march with the Corps contingent are asked to fall in on Michael Aimable, who will be holding the 'R SIGS' board on Horse Guards Parade.

RSA AGM - 119 members attending the combined AGM/Branch Representatives Meeting held in London on 10 April 1999. 65 of our 88 Branches were represented, with nine Branches sending their apologies. Maj Gen A. Yeoman CB chaired a lively meeting, which included a briefing on the serving element of the Corps by the SOinC (A) and an update on the accommodation situation on Blandford Camp by Lt Col Terry Canham, CO 11 Sig Regt. Our thanks go to Cpl Paul McGarrity of 83 Sig Sqn (V) for his assistance with the arrangements in the Duke of Yorks HQ. Thanks also go to all those who took part in Dave Walker's raffle on the day, which raised the magnificent total of £171.98 for the Benevolent Fund. Well done Dave.

I don't care who you are Sir!
You can't attend the meeting without a current Membership Card!

SOE - Duncan Stuart, the SOE Advisor in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has informed me that details of service with the SOE are no longer regarded as classified and that he welcomes soldiers' accounts of their service. Please send your story/diary/item to RHQ and we will forward them on. The WIRE would also be interested to hear from you with a view to publication.

249 Sig Sqn – FARELF - Graham Jolly is in contact with several persons who served in 249 Sig Sqn (FARELF). Graham is on 01233-637792 and would be pleased to hear from anyone from that unit.

New Life Members - A warm welcome is extended to the following newly enrolled Life Members. To all those who have recently been released from the Corps, we wish they the best of luck in their second career and trust that they will remain in touch with the Association.

ALDERSHOT BRANCH

A dinner to commemorate the 50th Anniversary of the formation of the Aldershot Branch presented a glittering occasion. Pikemen at the door, reminiscent of past glories, were provided by 216 Para Signal Squadron and personnel from 215 Signal Squadron looked after our parking and security. Five members of the Corps Band, under the direction of Sgt Hancock presented a wonderful programme of music throughout the evening.

We were happy to welcome as our guests the Master of Signals, Maj Gen Ian Sprackling OBE and Annie, particularly so as the Master had to make an early start the following morning for the AGM in London. We were also delighted to have with us Barbara Torrie, daughter of Gen Fladgate, who along with 'Dodger' Green founded the Branch in 1949, and 'Dodger's daughter Jocelyn Boniface and her husband. 'Dodger' was Vice President until his death in 1996. The Band's rendering of 'Sweet Lass of Richmond Hill' was a tribute to the presence of the President of the Aldershot Branch of the WRAC Association, Lt Col Sue Westlake, Adj Gen Corps and three other members. The Toastmaster, Mr Lionel Pope, was a past member of our Corps.

Our able Chairman, Brig Noel Moss, Col Paddy Verdon OBE, Carole Thomas and other Members of the Committee did us proud, and Joe Fairbairn, Garrison Sergeant Major and the staff of his Mess presented a wonderful occasion for us, long to be remembered and worthy of the great traditions of the 'Home of the British Army'.

In March our President, Maj Gen Henry Hild MBE and a contingent from the Branch met in Aldershot to cheer the Corps on to victory in the Army Rugby final. Well done chaps. What would you have done with out us!

BRISTOL BRANCH

Greetings. Yes the Bristol Branch is still alive and kicking, with meetings held every month at the TA Centre Horfield, Bristol, and with an extra social event thrown in for good measure.

In December last, we had an excellent Christmas Dinner which was kindly attended by the Association Chairman, Maj Gen (Retd) Alan Yeoman and his good lady as our principal guests. I am assured by all who attended that they had a very enjoyable evening.

In January we held our AGM. Unfortunately our Hon. Secretary, Jayne Burn, has had to step down due to work commitments in her new job. Thank you Jayne for doing and excellent job during your term of office. Mr Ray Rigg kindly volunteered to take on the Secretary's job for the time being, hopefully we can persuade him to do it permanently. Both the Chairman, 'Chick' Cheetham, and Treasurer, George Fairfull were re-elected for a further term of office.

As part of our Social Programme, we have enjoyed two very good skittle nights (one versus the Bristol Branch of the Police Officers' Association) these events were organised by Jayne Burn and Ken Davies and were a great success.

As mentioned above, our new Hon. Sec. is Mr Ray Rigg who can be contacted at 65 Kings Drive, Bishopston, Bristol BS7 8JQ, telephone 0117 924 1925. Ray says that if any member of the Association is planning to visit Bristol, or failing that should any Branch of the Association like to arrange a day in Bristol, to let him know, and he would be happy to meet them and provide a guided tour of the highlights of the city.

COTSWOLDS BRANCH

The Annual General Meeting was held at our monthly meeting in March, when a good proportion of members gathered at the Victory Club, Cheltenham. Our long serving President, Col Freddie Worth OBE, was present and was duly re-elected for the 21st time. A truly remarkable achievement, considering that he is aged 93 and lives some ten miles from our meeting place. Maj Arthur Cropp was re-elected as Chairman and his wife, Marjorie, was re-elected as Treasurer & Secretary. The remainder of the Committee was re-elected en bloc.

We were informed that our long serving Standard Bearer (up to 1996), Len Flanagan, was not very well and just a few days later we were told of his death at the age of 84 years. He will be sadly missed by his many friends (see obituary). A large number of our members attended his funeral, where our standard was carried by Alan Wingate. The Standards of the Burma Star Association and the Royal Military Police Association together with members of their Associations were also present.

DARLINGTON BRANCH

Hello there, Branches everywhere. As far as this humble writer can ascertain, this is the first time that Darlington Branch has submitted anything for publication in our Corps magazine, so once again, 'Hello.'

I write to report a social event that we held on Sunday 28 March. A Northern 'get-together' if you like, of local Branches. Seven Branches in all were invited spanning the area from Newcastle to York, we being in the middle. The idea was received very enthusiastically and we welcomed, including our own members, a total of over 100 association members, wives and partners to a sumptuous lunch and an afternoon of socialising, down memory lane chit-chat, liquid refreshment also a grand raffle and a game or two of 'Housey'.

Who won what?
(L-R): Jack Dobson, Cyril Cooke, Guest, Terry Cushen

Terry Cushen, CO 34 (N) Sig Regt (V), Dai Rees, Mrs Birtwistle, Mrs Cushen, Maj Gen A. Birtwistle

Our chairman, Terry Cushen, greeted our official guests, Lt Col D. A. Hargreaves R.SIGNALS, CO 34 (N) Signal Regiment (V) and Maj J. A. Lambton R.SIGNALS, OC 50 (N) Signal Squadron (V). Although they attended in combat gear, having been on Exercise, I am reliably informed that they enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The lunch must have been better than 'Compo' and I don't mean him from 'Last of the Summer Wine. We also welcomed Bill Barnes and Members from Catterick, including Maj Gen Archie Birtwistle and Mrs Birtwistle, Chrissie Meikle and Members from Newcastle, Margaret Dadson and Members from Middlesborough, Norman Hyland and Members from Spennymoor along with their wives and partners. It was also good to see George Holden, a Branch Member, who has been seriously ill for a number of years, accompanied by Mrs Holden, enjoying themselves and meeting new friends.

Some of our guests

Some of our guests
(L-R); George Holden, Mrs Williamson,
SSgt Tommy Williamson, Maj J. A. Lambton

After a day that passed far too quickly, well just over half a day, the last of our guests left in the late afternoon and the first reports are that this gathering together was enjoyed by one and all. Our best wishes and heartfelt thanks to all our guests for attending and supporting this Sunday gathering and helping to make it the success it turned out to be. This humble SC (ex) certainly enjoyed it. The idea of trying this 'get-together' arose from us attending a similar event at Middlesbrough in September last year. Both that and this gathering proved to be very successful and hopefully they will be forerunners of similar events in the future. Bye.

DERBY BRANCH

The marriage of Sgt Snow of 46 (City of Derby) Signal Squadron (V) and Cpl Eley of 87 (City of Nottingham) Signal Squadron (V) took place on 31 October 1998 at Newstead Abbey Nottinghamshire.

(L-R): Cpl Dave Parnell, Mr Phillip Clarke,

Sgt Pete Beedle

EAST KENT BRANCH

Sunday 14 February thirty members with some guests and juniors assembled at the Ashford Bowl for our Annual Branch Ten Pin Bowling Competition. This was a new venue-rather more up market than the Whitstable Bowl. It was described by one lady member as 'sexy' since the overall lighting was dim but each lane was bordered by running red lights and the balls were iridescent in the Ultra Violet light. Whether that improved the skills is not certain but the fact remains that the Oaten and Andrews families dominated the results. The overall winner was Fred Oaten's daughter, Jane and the runner up was Roy Andrews' grandson, Barry whose young cousin had to be content with the wooden spoon. Roy had very generously added an additional shield for the Runner Up to the Branch Trophy and also the spoon. Afterwards, everyone repaired to the restaurant area for a meal and refreshments. A successful day.

Saturday 13 March sixty members met at Bluebirds in Dover, (slightly drier than as Donald saw it, see cartoon) and it was nice to see so many whom we had not seen for some while, for instance Ted & Joan Carn and Bert & Ann Stone to swell the number of regulars. We came to listen to a fascinating talk by the retired Coxswain of the Dover Lifeboat, Mr Tony Hawkins MBE who had been in the service from the age of 17 and had completed 34 years. As can be imagined, he was able to draw upon a plethora of experience, related with modesty, although we knew that he had risked his life on numerous occasions to save the lives of others. It was a reflection of the excellence of his talk and for all the members of his boat that the Raffle produced a record sum of £100, a cheque for which was handed to Tony by Marion de Rose who had organise the raffle. Afterwards we partook of an excellent Lunch organised by Alan Barker who himself was a crew member under Tony Hawkins. Members dispersed having collected or congratulated others on their raffle prizes.

All Branches Area four, don't forget our funday on Sunday 11 July 1999. If you don't want to take part in the games come along and support. To enable us to gauge numbers for catering please contact Hon Sec ASAP on 01227 470340.

NEW MEMBERS

We are delighted to welcome Mr Bert and Mrs June Buchanan of Ramsgate who have recently moved there from Reigate. Bert served as a National Serviceman from 1942-1947 in 15th Scottish Div, 10th Indian Div Signals in Egypt and 234 Bde Signals in Leros before going to the Army & RAF Legal Dept in London. By coincidence they had been neighbours of Marion and Vincent de Rose several years ago. We also extended a warm welcome to Roger Stone at the Ten Pin Bowling event, he lives in Canterbury, served as a regular from February 54-August 78 starting as an apprentice at Harrogate and then with 7 Armd, 5 Div, 1 Div Sig Regts and 210 Sig Sqn in Kenya and the Engineer Brigade before ending his service with the TA Sqn, 265 (KSY) at Bexley Heath.

NEWS OF MEMBERS

Robin Hood sends his best wishes to all members and it is good to know that both he and Irene are recuperating from their recent health problems. Likewise Donald and Kit Robathan send their best wishes, they have had some traumatic health problems over the New Year but are thankfully now on the mend. Roy and Pat Andrews' holiday in Tenerife did not turn out as planned, when Roy got a severe attack of bronchitis and spent five days in the local hospital, but they were on good form at the ten pin bowling. Our Chairman Donald Crisp has recently completed his SSAFA course and is now a fully fledged caseworker and was pitched in at the deep end with a most complicated case.

GLASGOW BRANCH

At the Branch meeting on 16 February 1999, ex-WO1 (RSM) Jim MacLachlan, who has just retired from active service as a regular, after 24 years with the Royal Signals, the last two as RSM of 32 Sig Regt, at Jardine Street Glasgow, was officially welcomed into the Branch as a new member. Bill Taylor, the Branch President presented Jim with an inscribed hip-flask and a bottle of whisky, with a personalised label specially printed with his name on it. This was from the Branch Members to Jim for his support of the Branch whilst he was the RSM of 32 Sigs. Jim thanked the members for their welcome and good wishes. He said that it had been a pleasure to have worked in harmony with the Branch and he was very pleased to be able to join the Branch. Knowing all the personnel in the Regimental HQ, he would help in any way he could to keep and foster the goodwill existing between the Branch and the Regiment.

The Chairman asked that all members who had expressed their desire to attend the RSA Reunion at Blandford this year, should confirm their intention by handing theit names and monies to the Secretary, Ivana, who is already in the process of arranging transport costs. It is a long journey but those who have been in previous years, consider it well worth the effort. Ten names are listed and there could be more if the accommodation was available, as there is a waiting list should a vacancy become available. The Social Convenor, Jim McMillan, said he was open to suggestions for activities the members may like to take part in but whatever is suggested it must be supported. He had looked into the cost of a coach trip to Inverness but required the support of at least 36 members to make it worthwhile.

GUERNSEY BRANCH

It was in the August 1998 edition of 'The Wire' that news of our Branch last appeared and it is time therefore to update readers on our activities. Before doing so the following additions to the Committee are reported-Members - Alvaro Salazar and Alf Laine, welcome and thank you for your efforts and enthusiasm Branch members who attended the Guernsey Bowls Stadium on the evening of Friday 4 September enjoyed a wonderful evening and were educated in the art of indoor bowling by Committee Member Alvaro Salazar and his wife Betty with helpers. A Chip Shop Style supper was served during the evening and full bar facilities were available. A round robin, knockout competition was held with small prizes for the winners and a booby prize for the abject failures! So popular was the occasion that all concerned immediately requested that the function be repeated in the not too distant future.

On Sunday 18 October we held a very successful Pub Lunch at La Favorita Hotel. The lunch was well supported and the meal and venue were ideal. Once again we had reason to thank our Social Secretary (and Treasurer) Dave Bichard and wife Kathy for a very pleasant and well organised function which was appreciated by all those who attended.

It was at a Branch meeting on 11 August that a proposal was made that the Committee, accompanied by their wives or lady friends (but not both) should dine together one evening. The proposal was well received and superbly executed on the evening of Friday 27 November at the Havelet Grill. What little organisation was needed was carried out, with his usual aplomb, by Dave Bichard. When I add that he was the proposer of the event you will know what a glutton (for punishment – not food) he is. The signs are that this is likely to become an annual event. Hurrah!

The Branch again chose the St Margaret's Lodge Hotel for their annual Christmas Dinner which was held on Wednesday 9 December 1998. Another excellent meal was enjoyed by members and their guests, the service and festive decor left nothing to be desired and in his after dinner speech the Chairman, Mike Brock thanked Dave and Kathy Bichard for all their hard work towards the success of the evening. Mike then called forward Tom Remfrey (late Intelligence Corps) and, after outlining Tom's long and loyal service to the Guernsey Branch, which included spells as Committee Member, Secretary and Vice Chairman, presented him with a special Association lapel badge and a certificate to mark the well deserved award of Associate Life Membership. The bemused recipient had to wait for the applause to die down before he was able to thank the Chairman and the Royal Signals Association, for the honour conferred on him. Congratulations Tom. So ended yet another happy Christmas Dinner and our final function of the year.

Finally the Chairman, Committee and all Members of the Guernsey Branch wish you all a very happy, healthy and hopefully peaceful final year of his millennium.

Tom Remfrey reads the letter granting him Associate Life Membership while Chairman Mike Brock waits to present the framed Certificate and the Lapel Badge

HUDDERSFIELD BRANCH

The Signals personnel who attended our Christmas dinner, are:

Back Row (L-R): Mr A. Dunn, Mr J. Hirst, Mr D. Crawshaw, Rev J. N. Dearden, Mr R. Mitchel, Mr L. Rosendale and Mr D. Pollard.
Front Row (L-R): P. Ling, Mr D. Tippen, Mrs B. Mellor and Mr G. Scott

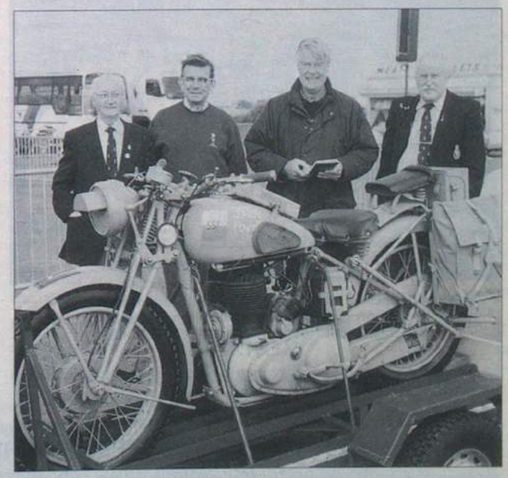
The Dinner was attended by 27 people including wives and guests, and everyone had a good day.

SHROPSHIRE BRANCH

Well it is twelve months more or less to the day since we last 'penned' our Branch notes. A lot has happened so I will highlight two events that deserve mention.

A Gift to the Corps Museum - One of our stalwart members, Emyr Edwards who hails from Oswestry. He served in the Corps during the last war and saw service in the Orkneys and the Middle East with some time spent in Palestine. He was a Don R. Regrettably, whilst still in Palestine, he suffered a serious accident whilst aboard his steed. He was sent home after undergoing operations and finally settled in Civvy Street. In the latter years Emyr acquired a military spec. motor cycle in very poor condition. To cut a long story short he completely renovated the machine and restored it to A1 condition. It carried the livery of Palestine Command at the time he was stationed there. Also he obtained a tailors dummy' and dressed that in the uniform which he wore during his service. Over the years he displayed the motor cycle and Dummy' at the majority of Military, Vintage Shows and Rallies.

The injuries that Emyr sustained all those years ago have taken their toll on his health. No longer feeling the reason to 'rally', he decided to donate his gallant steed to the Royal Corps of Signals Museum at Blandford. So on a wet and windy 13 September last year, he, accompanied by our Branch Secretary Brian Podmore, complete with towing trailer, set off for the pastures of Blandford. A formal presentation was made and Maj Gen C. N. Last CB, OBE, Chairman of the Museum Trustees accepted the motor cycle and 'dummy' on behalf of the Museum.



The formal handover
(L-R): Emyr Edwards, Roger Pickard - Curator, Maj Gen Last,
and Brian Podmore

Our Annual Ladies Dinner Night took place on Friday 19 February 1999 at the Abbey Meads Hotel, Shrewsbury. Our President, Lt Col John Hudson and Mrs Barbara Hudson were our Guests of Honour. 27 members were present and the accompanying photograph depicts a few of the membership and their ladies enjoying themselves.

(L-R): Gill Hine, Malcolm Hine, Sheila Resoun,
Phil Johnson (Treas) Colin MacMillan, Thea Johnson,
SSgt Brian Resoun and Janet MacMillan

Well that's all for now goodbye from the beautiful county of Shropshire (and Northwest Staffordshire)

TORBAY BRANCH

Mr Benny Goodman represented this Branch at the dedication memorial parade held at Torcross, South Devon on Sunday 25 April 1999. Mr Benny Goodman, the Branch Standard Bearer, was a National Service Soldier who completed his service as a Dispatch Rider in the Middle East, following his training at Catterick and Ripon.

On the night of 27/28 April 1944, six weeks prior to 'D' Day, Operation Tiger took place on Slapton Sands, from where 3,000 civilian residents had been evacuated to facilitate training for the American Forces and secrecy in preparation for the Normandy Landings.

Seven German 'E' Boats from Cherbourg penetrated the Royal Navy defence, and attacked the embarking Americans taking part in the Exercise. This major action was deliberately concealed. There was a cover up. Mystery shrouded the final resting place of the 700 Americans who perished off the Devon coast, and a further 300 men who were wounded. This represented a great loss of life. More than that sustained by the invasion forces during the assault on Utah Beach on 'D' Day.

Half way along the two mile stretch from Torcross to Strete Gate, there now stands a memorial in memory of the 700 Americans who lost their lives. More recently a Sherman tank was recovered from the water by a local hotelier, restored and is now on display at Torcross.

NORTHERN IRELAND BRANCH

Unfortunately I have to start once again on a sad note. I regret to say that our long standing Member and Branch stalwart Gerry McCullough has passed away. Gerry was for many years a very active Member and was for some time Branch Representative, attending RSA meetings in London regularly. It was while attending one of these that Gerry had a fall in his Hotel. This, added to his existing health problems and later the death of his wife, caused him eventually to become house bound. During this period Branch Members visited him regularly, It was fitting that at his funeral the Royal Signals flag draped the coffin while the Branch Standard hung in the Church. A good representation of Branch Members led by Chairman, John Loveday attended the funeral.

The Branch AGM was held in February. The main changes in Branch Officers were - Chairman John Loveday, Vice-Chair John Brown, Treasurer Jack Donaldson and Blandford Reunion Member Edgar McCall. Once again Ian & Debbie Wolfe accepted re-election as Joint Secretaries as indeed did most of the other Branch Officers, the list being too long to publish all of them in this article. We are grateful to all who take Office as without them the Branch could not work efficiently. We would like also to record our thanks to Tom Maguire who served us so well as Chairman for several years and we are glad that the benefit of his experience will still be available; on the Branch Committee,

On Friday 2 April we held our Formal Dinner Dance in Clonaver TAVR Centre with an attendance of eighty, probably the best attended yet. We were suitably entertained during dinner by the Ravenhill Temperance Flute Band. Their choice of music and standard of playing showed why they have been prize winners for many years. After opening remarks by Chairman John Loveday, Lt Col G. J. T. Rafferty, Commander Royal Signals NI & CO 15 Sig Regt. and Lt Col A. P. R. Roberts, CO 40 Sig Regt (V) each spoke. Branch President, Maj Bill Douglas closed the proceedings and also made a presentation on behalf of the Branch to Sgt Andy Leishman, who will be leaving the Regiment soon, for his valuable assistance in helping to organise these functions for several years. The 'Formal' was a great success and our thanks once again go to Ian & Debbie Wolfe, Andy Leishman, Jim Hagan and all those willing helpers before, during and after the event.

For the first time for several years Branch Secretary Ian Wolfe was unable to attend the RSA/AGM in London but Chairman John Loveday ably stood in for him on this occasion. It is understood that our nomination of Lt Col (Rtd) Terry Lightfoot as Northern Ireland Representative to the Central Committee was accepted.

Once again my usual reminder to those serving and ex-Signallers (Regular & TAVR) come and join us in Clonaver TAVR Centre, Belfast any the third Wednesday of each Month.

3RD DIVISIONAL SIGNALS REUNION CLUB

Those who read the Daily Telegraph will have seen that we held our 47th AGM and Reunion Luncheon on Saturday 27 March 1999 at the Victory Services Club in London. Our Guest of Honour was the Signal Officer in Chief, Brig J. H. Griffin ADC, who was accompanied by his wife, Marion. Our President, Brig Ronnie Stonham presided and among our other guests were Lt Col Neil Couch, CO of 3rd (UK) HQ and Sig Regt, Capt Dave Stachini, the Club Liasion Officer, with his wife Marie and the new RSM, WO1 Gary Stoker, with his wife Joni. We also had with us Cpl. McLean Royal Logistic Corps, winner of last year's Ernie Bayley Award, who was accompanied by Mrs McLean.

After the Loyal Toasts the President welcomed our guests, congratulated Kathleen Percival on her award of Associate Life Membership of the RSA, introduced Cpl McLean to the gathering and invited Brig Griffin to tell us how the Corps was doing. The SOinC in an interesting address brought us up to date with developments in manning, technical advances, the opportunities offered to the Corps by the growth of IT and how the young men and women of the Corps were taking it in their stride and still managing to enjoy interludes of sport and adventurous training. We can still be proud of the people who wear the Jimmy. After thanking Brig Griffin Brig Ronnie then invited the CO, Lt Col Neil Couch, to make the 'shareholders report' on the Regiment.

Col Neil started by remarking that it was becoming SOP for the COs of 3 (UK) Div HQ and Signal Regiment to do their handovers/takeovers in the middle of an Operational Tour, it made for interesting accounting. The Regiment had acquitted, and was acquitting, itself well in all the tasks presented to it, be it in the Balkans the Falklands or wherever, the soldiers just got on with the job and produced the results asked for. No one could ask for more. But it was not all work and no play. They still managed to play the odd game of Soccer, Hockey and Rugby and in fact were pretty good at all those activities. He was very proud of the Regiment and was sure that we would be too when we took up his invitation to visit the Regiment in Bulford for the Regimental Weekend in June of this year. The president thanked Col Neil and proposed the toast to the Regiment.

The Chairman, Maj Derek Roberts, then said a few words mainly to say that this was one of the few occasions nowadays that he got the chance to do anything, not that he was complaining. He introduced our 'first footers' Mr Norman Hands and Mr Alex Mair after which he proposed the toast to The Ladies. The Secretary, prior to proposing the toast to Absent Friends, mentioned the names of a few stalwarts, who for various very good reasons were not present, among them Joy Stonham and Pam Roberts, Col Peter Hoskins, Bill Barnard and Bob Piper. Bob, you will recall, has given some good examples of treen-work for our raffle, rather facetiously I asked if this year's item was to be an armchair. Well that is just what he produced, admittedly not a full sized chair but the kind that you sit a doll or teddy bear on. We thought it too good for our little raffle so we are taking it to Bulford in June where we hope it will make lots of money for the Regiment and us. Bob makes a lot of these items which he and his wife donate to various local charities. The raffle, even though we had a much reduced attendance, made the handsome sum of £100-00, our thanks to the donators of prizes and the ticket sellers.

John Templeton then invited Maj Ken Smartt and Mr Ernest Packham to fall in front and centre and asked the President to present both with the 50 Year Badges recently awarded to them by the Central Committee of the RSA. Ken is a founder member of the Club and has served on the Committee, continuously, for over 40 years as Treasurer, Chairman and now as Vice President. Ernest, despite various health problems, has been on the Committee for some years and is at present our most hard working Treasurer. Our hearty congratulations to both.

'F' BOYS COMPANY ROYAL SIGNALS 1920-41 REUNION

The eighth reunion of 'F' Company members will be held at theUnion Jack Club, Sandell Street, London, situated just behind Waterloo Station on 29 September 1999.

Dear Sir,

Being the curator of The Allied Landing Museum I intend to collect photos of veterans of the Anzio-Nettuno Beachead, for future publication. These photos need to be in two's. One needs to have been taken during the subject's period in the Army - preferrably as near to 1944 (the time of the landing) as possible and the other photo to have been taken in the present. From this I will be able to produce a 'Then and Now' record book. The photos will be accompanied by a potted history of the subject.

Dear Editor,

Signalman R. Marks, 22031264, Royal Corps of Signals died in Berlin Airlift-related operations 3 June 1949. He lies buried in the Post-War-Plot, Ohlsdorfer Friedhof, HAMBURG, Germany. His gravestone reflects an age of 19 years. I wish to know more about Signalman Marks.

An American Airlift veteran, I am doing biographical profiles on the 32 Americans who died in Airlift-related operations. I am also concerned to identify the 77 names which appear on the Airlift memorials at both Berlin and Frankfurt (Rhein-Main Air Base). Mission accomplished on 76 names. Marks is the 77th and no one seems to know who this man was! Nor, how his name came to appear on the memorials! I'm working on that one too.

Either way, I've written to the Royal Signals Association who couldn't help and now I write to you in the hope that one or more of your readers may be able to help.

I thank you kindly.....

(Editor – We have contacted the Army Records Centre and forwarded a copy of your letter to them. If they have any record of Sig Marks they will forward a copy of your letter to his next of kin, that and publishing your letter is the best we can do. We have also checked with the Royal Signals Museum.)

Sir,

Whilst serving with the Corps in 1952 in the Hong Kong and Kowloon Garrison, I was a member of the Internal Security Troop stationed in Whitfield Barracks, Nathan Road, Kowloon. During the middle of that year there was a Physical and Battle Training Competition being held involving all units who were in the colony at that time.

The Royal Signals Regiment, stationed in Victoria Barracks, Victoria Hong Kong Island, had a Preliminary competition, with the intention to select the most suitable team to represent the Regiment in the Competition proper. The outcome of this was that our Troop Team was selected to be the representative for the Corps. After some very tough training sessions in all aspects that were being tested the event took place at the Sek Kong area of the New Territories. A few of the units involved were KSLI Middlesex, KOYLI, Gurkhas, RA and many more.

The competition was very well organised and involved a good amount of team work. Our Troop had one of the best physical training qualification and then went on to win the overall battle course event. This was achieved mainly by our Tp Sgt, Sgt McMahon who was an experienced army running competitor. He was first to the wall scaling area and assisted all other team members to climb the obstacle.

The Troop was presented with a Shield for the competition and I am enclosing a copy of the photograph taken of the team. I have never met any of the team members since my service days nor have I any idea whether this event was carried on in future years. The photograph shows the Troop OC, Capt Walker behind the shield, on his left is Sgt McMahon and I am second from the left, front row.

If this article is published in a future edition of The Wire maybe some of the other team members may be around at the 1999 Reunion Weekend. It would be very nice to recall that event and the other good times out in Hong Kong.

Yours Sincerely.....

Dear Sir,

Having just read my April edition of The Wire, and following the news from the Signal Regiments, I read the account of the Christmas Party and entertainment that 14 Signal Regiment gave to the children from Portfield School for Handicapped Children. Not an easy task at any time. Whilst waiting at the Withybush Hospital to see the Specialist in Ophthalmology on 8 March. I was sitting next to a young lady with her severely handicapped son in a wheelchair. On the side of the wheel chair was a Signals Sticker from 14 Signal Regiment. I asked her why it was there, and she told me of the wonderful time her son had received at the Cawder Barracks and that the Commanding Officer and his men were always supporting the children of the school, adding that never before had they been shown such sympathy and kindness. This is not all that 14 Signal Regiment does in this area, supporting the community and charities whenever they can, despite the many NATO Commitments. In this day of falling standards it is good to know that the present members of the Royal Signals are of as high a quality as ever. We were always known as the Gentlemen of the Army, (or do I say Gentle Persons). To all the members of 14 Signal Regiment at Cawder Barracks, Brawdy since you moved here three years ago you have established yourselves as an asset to the County of Pembrokeshire, keep up the good work.

Yours Sincerely.....

From: Steve Bresloff MSM (Ex- Breslofsky)

Dear Editor,

Brig G. Jackson was correct. I moved back from Harrogate, as the GD Boy Sergeant, to start the new Royal Signals Boys in 'Hulse Block' Richmond Barracks Catterick in late 1949. They then moved on to Beverly sometime in 1950/51. The OC was, I think, Maj 'Doc' Holliday, who was killed whilst riding a motor-cycle sometime in 1950. The Boy Staff Sergeant was Bob Morris (Where are you now?).

So many wonderful people over the years. It is said that old men are all made of their memories.

Yours Sincerely.....

Dear Editor,

Reference the April edition of The WIRE, correspondent Maj Burns is, of course, quite right. 2 Wireless Regiment – 9 Signal Regiment was 'raised' originally as No.2 Wireless Company in the Middle East, and moved to Sarafand in 1930, as explained in General Nalder's history. As he says, it has one of the longest continuous histories of any regular units of the Corps and, for that matter, from before the Corps separated from the Sappers.

The writer of the friendly account of my visit, with my wife, to Cyprus after 39 years, may have misused the word from my description of the changeover party we arranged in 1959, whilst I was CO.

A large '2' and an equally large '9' were made of wood, and put on the end of long poles, fixed at right angles. A big bonfire was built on open-ground, inside the barbed wire perimeter, refreshments were available and the '2' stayed proudly aloft by the bonfire. We felt sad at the passing of history. Then to our delight and surprise, from the darkness outside the wire, just before midnight, the pipes of that very fine Regiment, the Royal Ulster Rifles, sang out and we cheered, opened a gap in the wire and welcomed in the RUR party. As midnight arrived the '2' was lowered into the flames and the '9' was raised to take it's place. It was an emotional moment, and a great party was had by all who had been able to be spared from duty that night and their families.

The Royal Ulster Regiment was then based in Famagusta and, as our neighbours, we had close links. We all enjoyed and appreciated their joining in. It was a rough and ready occasion that fitted the circumstances, EOKA was still operating. The present CO of 9 Signal Regiment (Radio) and the CO of 33 Signals Unit very kindly invited me and my wife to the merger ceremony of the two units on 1 April 1999. However, we were unable to be there. It was a great privilege to command such an interesting Unit with such a long history. Although the environment in which the new unit operates is different from the one that I knew, the challenges are similar and just as severe and important. I wish all who serve in it the very best of good fortune.

Yours Sincerely.....

Dear Editor,

Thank you for publishing in the April edition of The WIRE my obituary for WO2 Dorothy 'Dot' Williamson. I was disappointed, however, that you chose to edit my draft by changing 'Chairman' to 'Chairwoman'. Dot had strong views and her own version of equal opportunity was that she would be called 'Chairman', regardless of her sex. At one stroke of the ubiquitous PC pen, you deprived her of this right. She would have been livid!

Yours Faithfully.....

Dear Editor,

Many thanks for putting my war experience – Memories – in the April edition of The Wire. There was just one small mistake, the name of the village should be 'Cassibile'.

I enjoyed the poems you printed and thought you might like this. It is my first attempt, a couple of months ago.

THE VETERAN

They ask us why we do it,
Why we still parade,
Now that we are older
And just a little staid.

It's not for the sake of glory
Or the medals on our chest,
It's simply we are comrades
Who survived through every test.

The civilian women and uniformed too,
Made us proud of what they had to do.
Both at home and abroad, steadfastly relying,
On those at the Front to keep the flag flying.

On the sixth of June, that fateful day,
A day no one should forget.
Many laid down their lives, like Jesus,
To pay for man's inhuman debt.

And when God asks the question
'Who are you my man?'
I will proudly answer
'Lord – your servant and a loyal veteran'.

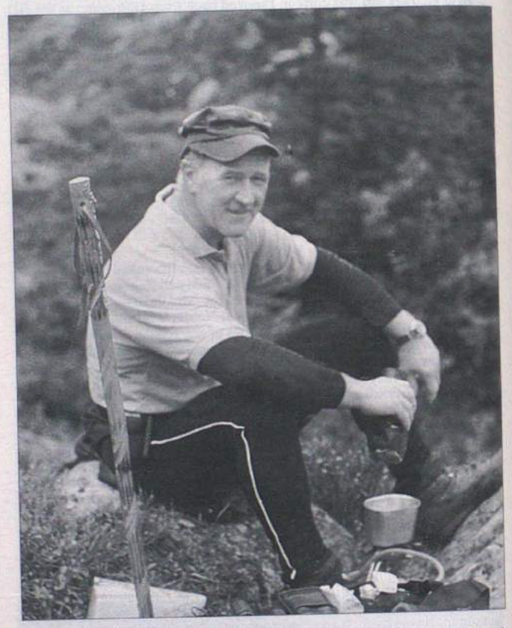
Raby - Cpl Ian Michael Raby. It is with deep regret that the death of Ian Raby is announced. Ian had many friends within the Corps having served in Germany, Denmark, The Gulf, Former Republic of Yugoslavia and UK. Ian will be greatly missed by all, especially within 90 (NR) Sig Sqn where he was serving as a Permanent Staff Instructor for Royal Signals Volunteers at the time of his death.

Flanagan – WO2 Leonard Flanagan died on 19 March 1999 at the age of 84. Len enlisted in the East Lancashire Regiment in 1934 and very quickly qualified as a Regimental Signaller. This led to attachments for duty with the Royal Corps of Signals, in Egypt before the Second World War, in Burma during the war and in due course his permanent transfer to the Corps after the war. Attachment to the Corps in Burma lasted from 1943 till the end of hostilities during which time he served with 36 Divisional Signals. Before posting with his Battalion to Burma he had been with the British Expeditionary Forces in France and was a veteran of Dunkirk. Post-war, in the 1950s, he served with 1 Corps Signal Regiment in Germany, 2 Wireless Signal Regiment in Cyprus and 14 Signal Regiment (COMCAN) in the UK. Completing his Regular Army Service in 1960 he then joined the Territorial Army for a further five years serving in 57 Signal Regiment TA from 1962 to 1967. As a civilian he took up employment with the Ministry of Defence working at the Boddington Tape Relay Centre until 1979, when at 65 he reached retirement age. Len was a devoted member of the Corps family and a life member of the Association. Having first joined a Branch formed in 1 Corps Signal Regiment in the early 1950s he had, by the time of his death, effectively been a member for over 43 years. As Standard Bearer for the Cheltenham and District Branch, renamed the Cotswolds Branch in 1979, Len proudly and regularly paraded the Branch standard at numerous events, including the Catterick and Blandford Reunions, Remembrance Day services, Royal British Legion Dedication Services, Commemoration Parades and Services at Dunkirk, Battle of Britain Parades, funerals of former comrades and on every other appropriate occasion. He was a member of not only the Royal Signals Association but also of the Dunkirk Veterans Association., the Burma Star Association and the Council of Cheltenham Old Comrades Associations (CCOCA) on which he served for many years, until failing health caused his resignation, as the Cotswolds Branch Representative. He was twice winner of the CCOCA Cup awarded for the best Standard Bearer, judged over a year's performance. He later joined the panel of judges. In 1992 he was awarded the Association's 50 Year Badge. He twice had the honour of being presented to our Colonel in Chief, Her Royal Highness Princess Anne, the Princess Royal, at Catterick in 1983 and on the occasion of the Corps' 75th Anniversary celebrations at Blandford in 1995. Len was a truly dedicated Old Comrade who will be greatly missed by all who knew him. He will be remembered with affection. We offer our condolences to his sons Neil and Keith and their families.

Wright – Terry Wright. Terry was one of the original four who set up and established the Langeleben Reunion Branch, of the Royal Signals Association, in April 1993, and was the first person to be it's Secretary. He continued in this position until I, Frank Mitchell, took over the position in 1995. Terry then became Assistant Secretary. Terry was called up for National Service in January 1960 and was posted to Langeleben in January of 1961, where he remained until his demob in 1962. Terry had his service extended by six months due to the building of the Berlin Wall. Terry will be sadly missed by all members of the Langeleben Branch, as he had put so much into it's growth in membership. He leaves a wife, Brenda, a daughter Lorraine and a son David. Rest in peace Terry, my good friend.

Maddison - 'Harry' Maddison. It is with particular sadness that I record the sudden and untimely death on 1 February 1999 of 'Harry' Maddison. When we were both serving in 216 Para Sig Sqn, the year was 1966 and it was the start of a lifelong friendship. To cover the many and varied aspects of Harry's life would take many pages as he had done so much over the years, he was a unique character, a soldier's soldier and a man's man. He possessed a wonderful sense of humour and always gave one hundred and ten percent to everything he put his mind to. Harry enlisted on 18 April 1961 joining the Junior Leaders Regiment Royal Signals in Newton Abbot. Always looking for a challenge. On leaving Denbury he volunteered for the Parachute Signal Squadron and on successfully passing P Company he served with the Parachute Brigade from 1969 His next big challenge was SAS selection and in 1971 he passed selection and joined 22 SAS Regiment, in his own words 'this was the proudest moment of my career'. In Hereford he met many old friends from his days in Aldershot. Harry spent the next 10 years with 22 SAS serving all over the world on operations. His last three years were spent in BAOR at 14 Sig Regt (EW) and his final six months at Thorney Island with 63 (SAS) Signal Squadron (V). Harry was discharged on 23 September 1984 as a WO2. He dabbled in security for a time and then became an Instructor at West Buckland School in Barnstable, Devon. He was a postman for a short while but eventually he came 'home' and started work as a civilian in the Diving Cell 22 SAS where he was once again amongst old friends and comrades. Our sympathies go to his wife Deanna, his daughter Laura and son-in-law Peter and their children Chloe and Peter. Harry's funeral service was held in Belmont Abbey, Hereford on Monday 8 February 1999. The Abbey was packed with standing room only for the several hundred friends and comrades who had come to say their final farewell. Below is a photograph of 'Harry' as I best remember him, with a smile on his face making a brew.



Gaddas – Cpl David Gaddas enlisted 30 May 1958 for nine years. David was married to Hazel in 1959 and remained happily married for the next forty years. He did his square bashing at Catterick before going to Germany where he served six years as a Driver with 614 Signal Troop Park Brahct. He was the CO's Driver for a time and a Mechanic. David then got posted to Bulford Camp in 1963 where he was a Driving Instructor. From here he was sent to Cyprus for six months in 1964. Whilst in Cyprus he was made Acting/Sergeant, which rank he kept when he was posted to 15 Sig Regt in Aden for his last nine months of service, then it was back to Catterick. When David was in Cyprus, so he always said, 'He was one of the first soldiers to wear the UN beret, cravat and badge. David joined the Army Fire Brigade on demob, serving at Middle Wallop, Tidworth, Netheravon and Bovington where he was Station Officer, also of Lulworth and West Moors. David and his wife returned to Yorkshire in 1977, where he took up employment as Fire/Security Officer at Magnet, (which was then called Magnet-Southern), in January 1978. David was popular and enjoyed his life in the Service. He was an NCO who received respect from ranks both Junior and Senior to himself.

Barnes - Colonel Basil Hilary Purcell Barnes OBE died on 17 November 1998 at the age of 83. He was educated at Imperial Service College and RMA Woolwich, and was commissioned into Royal Signals in January 1935. He may be remembered best as a distinguished Commanding Officer of 1 Corps Signal Regiment in the period 1958 - 60. He took over this large Regiment, later split into 7th and 22nd Regiments, when circumstances had caused it to be at a low ebb. He saw its performance, morale and reputation all prosper during his time. He was awarded the OBE at the end of this tour.

After the 'Q' course, he spent two years with 3 Divisional Signals at Bulford, where they practised with a six-horse cable train. He was then posted to India where he remained until 1941. He had happy memories of his period in India particularly of his activities when riding in racing silks. He spent the next two years in the Middle East, mainly in Iraq, but including staff qualification at Haifa later converted to psc. He returned to UK in 1943 for a year in the Military Department of the India Office. It was at this time that he met and married his wife Naomi whose charm and concern for others have been appreciated by all who have known her.

He finished the War Years in India and Burma and returned to UK in 1947 to join the Degree Course at RMCS Shrivenham from which he graduated with a London University BSc in Natural Sciences. After Shrivenham he was posted to 1 Divisional Signals in Tripoli and then as GSO2 in Egypt, returning to UK in 1952 as the senior Royal Signals Officer at the School of Artillery, Larkhill. On promotion to Lieutenant Colonel in 1955 he served first as GSO1 at HQ BAOR followed by his period as OC 1 Corps Signal Regiment. Next he went as Colonel to the British Joint Military Staff Washington, then to Whitehall as Colonel GS Military Intelligence, and finally as Chief Signal Officer Western Command. He retired in 1966 to Hartley Wintney where he was born and spent many years as an RO with Aldershot District, administering married quarters and locally he became an effective Church Warden. Of his four children his eldest son Christopher was commissioned into Royal Signals from Sandhurst and served 1966-78.

Basil Barnes had a very good brain, in 1949 he managed to win the prestigious Bertrand Stewart Essay Prize at the same time as taking the finals for his degree. He liked to get to the bottom of things, and his solutions to difficult problems were always practical and ingenious. His stories always had a special 'twist' at the end. He had time for everyone irrespective of rank, and will be much missed by his many friends.

Operational & Engineering Opportunities Newbury, Berkshire

There are many reasons why you should feel at ease working for Vodafone. You'll enjoy the chance to add your own individual touch. The experience will stretch you mentally; the range of work will keep you sharp and motivated; and the emphasis on teamwork will be just what you need. If you're also one of those people who see possibilities where others see barriers, you'll feel right at home here.

We need individuals who share our enthusiasm for mobile communications. In an industry which has grown beyond all recognition, we have attracted over 5.7 million customers and are now the world's leading mobile telecommunications company, carrying more words between more people in more places.

This year, we are planning to roll out double the number of radio base stations compared to last year and cover twice the number of traffic channels. So we are looking for a wide range of people with skills in telecoms, radio signalling or software engineering. In particular, we need Engineers and Technicians across the following areas:

• RF Planning/Engineering • Testing • Build Control • Network Management • Switch Support • Field Operations

Whatever your background, training will bring you up-to-speed with our network very quickly indeed. And whatever your expertise, you'll be suited to an environment which invites new ideas, remains free of bureaucracy and creates opportunities at a surprising rate.

The salary and benefits package should prove how serious we are about recruiting and developing people like you. This includes 28 days' holiday, share schemes and pension with free life assurance. Please send or email your CV and current salary details, quoting ref: WI, to Jill Mace, Human Resources Department, Vodafone Limited, Newbury, Berkshire RG14 1JX. FROM THE SIGNAL OFFICER IN CHIEF

It is an enormous privilege to be appointed as the serving head of the Corps and to follow in the footsteps of such an outstanding predecessor. I am sure that all members of the Corps will want to join me in wishing Brigadier John Griffin and Marion the very best in their new life. In his short time as Signal Officer in Chief, Brigadier Griffin set out a very clear path for the future development of the Corps, reinforcing its place at the heart of the Army's operational capability. Winning the information battle for the Commander is our main effort and, with over 70% of the Corps involved in operations, there has never been a time when our role has been more immediate or so sharply focused.

Whilst the information battle will be won by the skills and dedication of those deployed with our Regiments and Squadrons, their ability to sustain the operation depends upon the maintenance of the infrastructure of the Corps, not least upon our families and those who administer the rear parties. Theirs is a vital but often uncertain and thankless role and I wish to pay tribute to their commitment and support. The Corps has a very bright future. We continue to prove our mettle on operations. Whilst we do not enjoy the formal designation 'Ubique', the Corps is and will continue to be everywhere. We are at the heart of the information revolution in Defence and our soldiers are some of the best trained and motivated people in the Services. Undoubtedly the future holds some significant challenges for us all, but I am convinced that there is nothing that we cannot overcome together.

I look forward to meeting as many of you and your families as possible during my tour of duty and working with you to take the Corps forward to even greater successes in the new Millennium.

MUSICAL NOTES

THE CORPS BAND

Director of Music Maj. D. F. Wall LTCL BBSM psm CA Mus
Bandmaster WO1 A. Booth BA(Music) LRSM CA Mus

Now that we are well into 1999, and a new chapter in band history, our new Bandmaster WO1 'Bill' Booth has been true to his word and involved us with public relations and recruiting work within the community. Although Downlands School, here on camp was the first and very close to home, we have been into Blandford and all the way to Puddletown to entertain school children. We can only hope that Royal Signals might benefit one day from our visits.

We have just returned from one of our annual trips to Northern Ireland. Not only do service personnel have the pleasure of listening to our music, but yet again schools, the elderly and infirm get to see us. The sight of musicians acting out "Old MacDonald" will be remembered for a long time, we didn't realize that he had a gorilla though! The Band managed to cover over 500 miles during the week without incident, apart from a slight accident when our kit truck managed to demolish a flagpole at one of the schools whilst reversing. Many thanks to 3 Bde. for quickly filling the breach with the offer of a new one!

By far the biggest venture for many years is to involve youth in a concert performance. Members of the Dorset Youth Wind Orchestra participated with us on Friday 14 May in the Poole Arts Centre. With the theme of 'Youth' being very much a part of the Millennium, we thought that the Museum and the Joseph Weld Hospice would benefit from a concert where youth are involved. Over 100 musicians took part in a concert that was thoroughly enjoyed by audience and participants. The concert also featured elements of the Corps Pipes and Drums including Scottish Dancing by OCdt Katie Provan. Our Assistant Bandmaster, WO2 Matthew Brown, composed a Fanfare especially for the occasion entitled " Youth in Mind".

We welcome Musician David Byrne to the band on Trombone after completion of his phase two training at Kneller Hall.

The remainder of the year looks busy, especially with preparations for the millennium. The high point will be a six-week tour of Canada in July and August, watch this space for a report on what promises to be a busy and fulfilling summer.

THE PIPES AND DRUMS

32nd (Scottish) Sig Regt (V) have always had a Pipes and Drums Band. During recent years the popularity of the Band and requests for pipers to play at dinner nights has grown at a dramatic rate. Pipers now exist within the Regular Corps, spread throughout our Regiments and Squadrons. The Pipes and Drums were renamed the Royal Corps of Signals Pipes and Drums Band and are currently a Corps asset, administered and managed by 32 Sig Regt (V) from RHQ in Glasgow.

HR HOGG ROBINSON Corporate & Employee Services

Training: The Pipers and Drummers are a dedicated bunch, training during weekends takes place in the north of England, in Catterick (half way between Aberdeen and Blandford!). Both TA and Regular soldiers attend the training, which is run by CSgt Stout and WO2 D. Y. Smith. CSgt Stout is a regular soldier based in Blandford who oversees newcomers and piping training within 11 Sig Regt. WO2 D. Y. Smith is the volunteer Pipe Major, and the lynch pin in holding the band together.

Performances: The Pipes and Drums are a popular Corps asset and requests for performances come in thick and fast. The Band recently piped 242 Sig Sqn out of Benbecula in front of a large crowd and the Colonel Commandant. Pipers will be accompanying the Corps Band on the Canada tour this year and have already been requested to play at Earls Court in the new millennium. Upcoming performances include the RSA weekend followed by a tour of Germany. Over the last twelve months pipers have been requested to play in Cyprus, South Africa, Sweden and Bosnia! Pipers, Drummers, a Mini Band or the full band can be booked by ringing or faxing the Adjt of 32 Sig Regt on Glasgow Mil (9) 4566 5024 (fax 5041). A piper makes an excellent accompaniment to a Mess Dinner night or a junior ranks function. As the Band is unfunded a small donation to the Band Fund is requested.
