THE ARMY TAUGHT YOU NEVER TO GIVE UP, SO DON'T

So there you are in civvy street doing the same old thing day in, day out. But...why?...If it's the Army you're missing, then how about joining the TA? It's a vital part of the British Army.

There are two options open to you. First, you can join one of the Territorial Army Independent Units based in the TAVRA region in which you have decided to settle. An ideal route for those who wish to serve locally. Which Unit you join will depend on those available in the area you live in. Second, if you are leaving a Corps, you could retain your cap badge and become a member of either an Independent Unit as above, or a TA Specialist Unit. In either, you can maintain and develop the special skills that you have learned.

The minimum commitment as a member of the Independent TA is 6 weekends, a two-week Summer Camp and some weekday evenings. As a Specialist we ask only 2 weekends and a 15 day annual camp. In return, you will earn Army rates of pay and an annual tax-free bonus of up to £1050.

For an information brochure call 0845 603 32 32 quoting ref WI009, or send the coupon to: Freepost, The TA, CV37 9BR.

THE MAN FROM MANNING AND RECORDS

(Maj S. J. Turnbull R SIGNALS)
(with apologies to all my hard working comrades in the R SIGNALS and INT Corps MCM Div)

Greetings, a Happy New Year and indeed a Happy New Millennium from the staff of the Royal Signals and Intelligence Corps MCM Division.

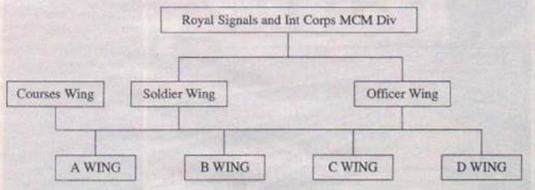
For the New Year it is out with the old (sorry Brigadier) and in with the new, as the top structure of the MCM Division gets a good spring clean to welcome in the 21st Century. Out goes Colonel, now Brigadier, David McDowall to Command of 1 Signal Brigade, enjoy all that LOA Sir! The new man at the helm of the MCM Division is Colonel Mike Dyer. He has stepped up from the SO1Officers job that is, in turn, filled by Major, to be Lt Col, Steve Wallis. Congratulations, Sirs, on your promotions.

All this excitement leaves the post of SO2 Officers vacant and so yours truly is to step smartly to the right and fill the vacancy.

This sadly leaves the SO2 Man Pol job vacant again, but as with the rest of the Corps, we at the MCM Div have to take our share of the Corps manpower shortages.

MCM DIVISION STRUCTURE

As promised in the first article from the Division, month by month we will take you on a trip to focus in on the parts of the Division to meet the personalities and find out what it is they do. However, before we start this I need to lay down the basic structure within which the parts are held.



As you can see from the diagram, The Division has two main Wings Soldier and Officer Wings. Soldier Wing is then further subdivided with three Manning Wings catering for the Royal Signals, One wing looking after the Intelligence Corps and a Courses Wing, providing the focus for all career and qualification courses in the Royal Signals.

Our tour of the MCM Div will begin with a focus on A Wing.

FOCUS ON A WING

A Wing provides for the whole life career management of Royal Signal Soldiers in the Yeoman of Signals, Tele Op (Data), Tel Op (Sys), Tel Op (RR) and ADP Spec rosters.

A Wing Personalities:

OIC A Wing: Maj (Retd) Bill Cochrane, The Boss of the Wing he keeps an eye on everyone and everyone on their toes. A retired Traffic Officer Bill has a wealth of experience of the Royal Signals and the soldiers who serve in the Corps.

AO1: David Greer - looking after YofS, ADP Spec and Tele Op (Data). Sadly David has been away from work for some time and his duties have been spread between the others, with the main effort being taken up by Maj Cochrane.

AO2: David Stevenson – looking after Tel Op (RR). David supports Aberdeen, which is not a very happy pastime this year! He is due to leave the MCM Div early in January and is being replaced by Katrina Butcher.

AO3: Aileen Gordon – looking after Tel Op (SyS). Aileen used to be the Promotions Desk Officer for the INT Corps, but then she got better (after the arrival of her first child) and joined the Royal Signals team.

AO4: Stuart Brydson – As Promotion Desk Officer, he prepares all the promotion boards and works with the other desk officers to co-ordinate the timings of promotions. Stuart has a number of interesting pastimes including abseiling down the outside of the Hilton Hotel.

AA: Tracy Gagahan – provides clerical support throughout the Wing helping as required. Tracy is the experienced member of the Wing having served with the TA in 32 Sig Regt (V)!!

MCM DIV STAFF VISIT TO 16 SIGNAL REGIMENT

On a cold winters morning a group of the staff of the Royal Signals MCM Division, with the head of the Royal Signals Record of Service Wing, set off from Glasgow for a week long visit to 16 Signal Regiment in Germany. After a bit of a false start, when one member of the team forgot his passport! 'Do you need a passport to go to Germany?' The remainder found their way to Rhiendahlen and for many their first exposure to the Royal Signals since they began working at the Division in Glasgow.

An action packed week had been organised by the Adjutant 16 Signal Regiment, Capt Andy Percival including: driving off road under the careful tuition of Cpl Thompson, camouflaging the regiment vehicles, meeting and discussing the complexities of the Royal Signals trades with the tradesmen themselves and of course the occasional social event and one of two beers.

The party returned to the wind and snow of Glasgow exhausted but exhilarated, having had a great time. They brought back a vast collection of unprintable photographs and the one useable one, which is included with this article.

PROMOTION BOARDS

One of the great mysteries of life in the Royal Corps of Signals, is the methodology used to select soldiers of all ranks for promotion, otherwise known as the Promotion Board. Now these boards are explained by the MCM Div roadshow that finds its way around to much of the Corps each year, but who is listening, when what you really want to know is, 'Where am I being posted next!'

The Promotion Board is a complex business, but if you bear with me over the next four editions of The Wire, I will seek to explain how we do, what we do. I will break the process down into four parts:

1. Preparation. 2. Grading. 3. Selection. 4. Aftermath.

Part 1 Preparation: The preparation for a board begins well before the advertised date for the board in the coming year. There are two principle agencies involved: The MCM Division, where the Promotion Desk Officer has a great deal of administrative work to complete, and the unit. The unit's main responsibility is to ensure that Annual Confidential Reports are completed and sent, to arrive at the MCM Div, by the appointed time. Otherwise, preparation for the board may be delayed, or in the worst case an individual may not be presented to the board at all.

The administrative work that has to be completed in the MCM Div begins in the Manning Control branch. Here the strength of the Corps is monitored on a month by month basis. This includes planned output of trained soldiers from the RSS, discharges and planned Notice to Terminate (NTT). This work identifies the Corps requirements for promotion in each rank and CEQ for the year ahead.

In the Manning Wings the Promotion Desk Officer has to screen all the personnel in each CEQ to determine if they meet the criteria to be presented for consideration at the board. To go forward to the board a soldier must satisfy the criteria laid down in SOinC(A)'s Policy Directive Number 6 (PD No.6). Now these criteria differ to a greater or lesser extent dependent upon which rank and CEQ is under consideration. Details are available in the PD, but in generic terms the following are the key criteria:

1. Has the soldier the required minimum length of pensionable service to be considered?

2. Has the soldier completed at least one full year in his current substantive rank?

3. Does the soldier meet the minimum medical fitness category required for promotion in his rank and CEQ?

3. Does the soldier have a current recommendation for promotion in his latest Confidential Report?

4. Has the soldier completed or passed the necessary qualification course for promotion to the next rank? (ie. EFP1 and 2, RSJCC, RSSC, RSWOC etc.)

If all these requirements are satisfied, then the soldiers are added to the role, to be considered for promotion by the promotion Board. Just when you think all is going well. The promotion desk Officer has completed the role of 250 for the board, called all the files forward from the storage centre and numbered all the files in accordance with the role. Then the Adjt of the Blankshire Signal Regiment faxes through the CR recommendation for Sig Smith who has to be inserted at number 75 requiring the whole role and the files to be renumbered! – happy Promotions Desk Officer! – by the way, where did you want that posting?

NEXT ISSUE – FOCUS ON B WING AND GRADING ON THE PROMOTION BOARD

ROYAL SIGNALS MUSEUM VOLUNTEERS

On Friday, 19 November, twenty-three of the volunteers who man the museum at weekends during the summer opening season were joined by eight members of the museum staff in the Oak Room of the Crown Hotel, for their annual meeting and end-of-season dinner. Pat Soward, the volunteer co-ordinator, in his opening words was particularly pleased to welcome Roger and Danny Pickard. Roger, who has been very ill for the past year, was back to his usual ebullient form and was celebrating his last day as Curator.

Gen Jimmy Hellier, reporting on the deliberations of the Trustees, noted that Col Cliff Walters had recently assumed the duties of Museum Director and that a new Curator should be engaged at the beginning of the next Financial Year. In the meantime Mike Butler would continue as temporary curator. He mentioned plans to construct a presentation room above the shop as part of the educational package to attract school visits and, on behalf of the Trustees, he thanked the volunteers for their efforts in 1999.

Adam Forty, the Business Manager, also thanked the volunteers for their efforts. He listed the various events to be organised by the museum staff in 2000, the Motor Cycle Expo, Air Show at Compton Abbas, Band Concert, Golf Tournament etc. The special displays, Enigma in 1998 and SOE in 1999 will be followed by an SAS display in 2000. It is planned to have that in place in mid-February and publicity will target parents and children in the area over the half-term holiday. Consequently volunteers have been asked to man the museum on weekends from Saturday, 19 February, to Sunday, 29 October, next year.

In addition to manning the shop and talking about displays to visitors, volunteers also engage in research work in the archives. Scope for this work will increase as the museum now has, thanks to the generosity of the family of Sig Harold Greenwood, a computer on which details of the museum's artifacts and documents can be entered. Volunteers are also needed to tape aural history records and a drive to recruit new volunteers is underway in the Blandford area. Anyone living in the area who would like more details should phone Pat Soward on 01258 860647.

LCPL BARTRIP AWARDED WCIT APPRENTICE MEDAL

The Worshipful Company of Information Technologists' (WCIT) Apprentice Medal was awarded, in October 1999, to LCpl Marcus Bartrip. The medal was presented at an Installation Dinner held at the Tallow Chandlers Hall in London. LCpl Bartrip joined the Corps on 9 February 1998 and after completing recruit training at ATR Bassingbourn commenced trade training at The Royal School of Signals in May 1998. During the initial theoretical part of the course Sig Bartrip achieved outstanding results in all subjects, impressing his instructors by his maturity, intelligence, enthusiasm, determination and hard work. In the practical phase of his training he continued to grasp concepts and practices quicker than most, achieving distinctions in most tests, and was consistently top of his course by a wide margin. In recognition of his achievements he was awarded the 'Lightning Trophy'. In May 1999 he was promoted to Lance Corporal and posted to 8 Inf Bde HQ & Sig Sqn. As part of the Award he undertakes a 4-year apprenticeship with the WCIT, at the end of which he becomes a Journeyman of the Company.

JOIN A LEGION OF RUNNERS IN THE LONDON MARATHON

The Royal British Legion is offering 85 would-be Liz McColgans and Ron Hills a chance to go the distance at the Millennium Flora London Marathon Sunday, 16 April 2000. There will be thousands of athletes pounding the streets of London, but if you've missed out on a place through the ballot, you don't have to be left cheering others on from the sidelines.

All you have to do is raise a minimum of £1,000 for the Legion. Your sponsorship money will help the Legion to support ex-Service people and their families, and you will be helped to target your sponsors. Once you've crossed the Finishing Line, in you complimentary Legion running vest and shorts, you and your family and friends can relax at a celebratory Pasta Party at the Legion Headquarters in Pall Mall.

Contact Clare Lennon on 020 7973 7309 or at E-mail: clennon@britishlegion.org.uk for information on how you can secure a guaranteed Marathon place through the Legion.

We Want You!

As a specialist computer recruitment consultancy, we have a wealth of opportunities for computing, networking and communications personnel. We have positions based throughout the U.K. for a wide and diverse range of clients.

Should you be leaving the services soon we are able to assist you in finding your new position in civvy street.

GOVERNMENT COMMUNICATIONS HEADQUARTERS

EXERCISE ROAD RUNNER 1

by Cpl (now Mr) Mark Hawker, Assistant Unit Bard

In the sleepy hollow of Gloucestershire lies the little known unit of JSSU Oakley. In order to raise the profile of this unit, along with morale and money for charity, it was decided to organise some kind of event. The best man was tasked with the job, but in his absence LCpl (Now Cpl) Dai Coomber took up the challenge. Dai decided that in order to prove that we are not just chair-borne, we should do a run along the Welsh Border. A suitable route and distance for the run was decided on, and a training plan was also put into place. This training plan was talked about at length before being largely ignored.

Day One started with the five runners: WO2 Steve Prowse, Sgt Steve Trump, Cpl (Now Mr) Mark Hawker, Cpl Steve Bottomley and LCpl Dai Coomber preparing for the arduous 180 mile relay from Chepstow to Chester, along the Welsh border. Vehicle support and driving was provided by Sgt Dave 'I'd love to help you but I've got a sports injury' Longmuir. Background entertainment was provided by a Rubick's Cube and Steve Prowse's anecdotes of life at a mobile unit. The runners coped well with the distance although most agreed, with hindsight, that some hill training would have helped condition the muscles which were now suffering as a result of the Welsh terrain. Steve Bottomley put in the fastest leg over the three days, although he was chased for some distance by what he described as a huge snake. On closer inspection the huge snake turned out to be an averagely proportioned slow-worm, which had been dead for several days. Dai Coomber surprised us all by leaping into the back of the minibus, looking like a man who had been attacked by a Rotweiller. We soon realised that Dai had been spooked by a cute Spaniel with a loud bark and he was promptly thrown out of the minibus to continue his leg of the run. Thanks must go out to Steve Trump who drew the short straw and ended up running most of the uphill legs. The only stop he made was to rub some circulation back into his toes on a particularly steep section. Mark Hawker attempted to show a local blonde what he was made of by taking his shirt off. He jogged along with stomach in and chest out but his bravado turned to horror as the young blonde turned out to be a man! His shirt remained firmly in place for the remainder of the run.

After three long days the run came to an end and the lads celebrated with a curry. Aching legs and feet stopped the night short, despite Steve Trump's attempts to get everyone into a disco. We're all looking forward to the next event which will be the same route but done as a van push, with only Dai taking part. As a result of the run we raised £200 for Imperial Cancer Research and The National Meningitis Trust.

Following on from the success of Ex Iron Lizard in September of 1998 and the £1500.00 we raised for the Joseph Weld Hospice. I got permission from the powers that be in HQ R SIGNALS to run another sponsored walk, Ex Iron Lizard II. Planned date for this sequel would be May 1999, and would again raise money for the Hospice, which is located near Dorchester. It relies totally on donations from the public and organisations such as ours to raise sufficient funds to maintain and keep open the beds in the Hospice. Planning was made easier this year as I intended to use one of the campsites that I had previously used in 1998. Yet again Tesco's in Blandford and Hall and Woodhouse Brewery provided chocolate, crisps and soft drinks for the walkers. Also at the last minute, Ginsters provided pasties and buffet bars for packed meals at lunch. This gift would be much appreciated by the walkers. Certainly Matt Parker did who made it his mission in life to eat as many buffet bars as he could. We also managed to once again use Safeway Supermarket in Penzance for breakfast at a reduced rate, which made sure everybody got a good start to the day. Even the vegetarians among us.

Thursday 13 May 1999: The advance party consisting of myself, WO2 Neil Taylor, Sgt Nicky Thomas, Bdr Blackaller and Matt Parker deployed to Cornwall early on the Thursday morning. After a pretty uneventful drive with a stop at Exeter, we arrived at the campsite Higher Chellew, Nancledra, before lunch. The owners Pam and Eric Bleasedale had yet again given their facilities for free. The rest of the afternoon was spent putting up tents in a strong wind. I'm not sure the main party would have been keen on putting up their own tents in the dark, so not being 'jack' we put theirs up as well. Early evening was spent on checking the start and finish points on the route and grabbing a Big Mac in Penzance while waiting for the main party to arrive, which they eventually did later on. On meeting up a short exercise brief was conducted using a local pub as a reference point and somewhere to lay the map out. After the strict rationing of one beer per person it was back to the site for an important H&S brief and then lights out. If you had one to put out that is!

Friday 14 May 1999: Friday did not get off to a good start when we arrived at Safeway's in Penzance to find that they had never heard of Ex Iron Lizard II, and therefore were not expecting us. This was despite checking with them the day before. A quiet word in the manager's ear out of view seemed to do the trick and the breakfasts commenced as promised. The vegetarians tucked into bread and water and the rest of us made do with bacon and eggs. After a read of the papers, take on extra water and sweets it was off to St Ives for the start of Leg 1. This leg would comprise quite a rocky part, which was described in the manual as hard going to strenuous. 15 miles was the target but I changed the plan slightly and we did a comfortable 12 just to get the legs going. There would be plenty of time to make the mileage up and kill morale later! About half way around the path Maj 'Jonesie' Jones picked up an admirer in the form of a bearded chap who resembled a Druid. He would continue to follow her for the remainder of the walk. Apart from him the walk did take in some impressive scenery and even the rain held off to allow us to get to Botallack for the finish of Leg 1. Early evening saw a makeshift surgery at the campsite conducted by our able medic Sarah Jordan. The patient being Maj Alisdair Rodgers, who would be a regular attendee at these sessions. After sorting out kit, issuing 20 pence pieces for the showers, we departed the site for Penzance to be wined and dined at Branwell's Meadery. Vast quantities of food were consumed at reasonable prices ready for the following day. Our friendly Druid even managed to gatecrash dinner! An early night followed the meal, as Saturday would be a long day so lots of sleep would be required.

Saturday 15 May 1999: After breakfast at Safeway and finally tracking down the pasties and buffet bars, which had disappeared on the Friday, we departed for Cape Cornwall and the start of Leg 2. This part of the walk would take us around Lands End and take us just short of Mousehole. We had a stop at Lands End for a picture call, water stop and then it was back to the path. I should point out that the Druid was still with us and insisted he took part in the photo opportunity as well. You can't miss him; he's the one stood next to Maj Rodgers and Maj Jones at the back. Further on from Lands End, morale took a nosedive as rain clouds were starting to loom and the outlook did not look good. As ever in Cornwall you can never rely on the weather and in good Cornish style the sky's opened and the rain fell. After about ten minutes of continuous rain and with my boots sodden, I spotted on the horizon the minibuses pulling up to a car park just ahead of us. What joy, Bdr 'Stig' Blackaller, bless his cotton socks, had seen the darkening clouds and using his initiative and his trusty NASA GPS had tracked us down. Morale lifted and the smiles came out and he was due a well earned pint from us for saving the day. We decided on an early lunch and sort some dry kit ready for the afternoon stint whilst we sheltered from the rain. The weather did improve in the afternoon and without further rain stops we pushed on to Mousehole. After another surgery early evening we had to sadly let Alisdair Rodgers drop out. He was suffering from a rather nasty blood blister under his toenail, which would eventually require MEDAVAC and treatment back at Blandford. Sarah Jordan did volunteer to do the job there with active encouragement from us but being a spoilsport he said 'No'! SSgt Terri Lake was also given a 'sick chit' for Sunday after tripping up over a small stone and falling into the heather. Cries from her that she was pushed over by Matt Parker fell on deaf ears. That night also saw Lt Col Roger Batho joining us. He would be taking part in Leg 3 and was, (his words), looking forward to a long walk. He didn't leave disappointed. Dinner that evening was once again in the Meadery with the management supplying copious amounts of Mead to help us with our aching joints. I'm not convinced it worked but it was worth trying just to make sure.

Sunday 15 May 1999: After a late breakfast we departed for St Michael's Mount which would be the start of Leg 3. This route would take us from St Michael's Mount to Mullion Cove. I was for most of the walk engaged in conversation with Lt Col Batho, WO2 Neil Taylor and the Druid, when Lt Col Brian Gilfether, our TA representative, decided to overtake and up the pace. Not wanting to be beaten to the finish by the TA, Sgt Nicky Thomas and myself then took off in hot pursuit to catch him up and race him to Mullion Cove. Final result of the race was AGC 1 - R SIGNALS TA 0. When Lt Col Batho did eventually turn up assisting WO2 Neil Taylor, he was heard to have remarked, 'I was under the impression that it was a gentle stroll and not a CFT.' After collecting ourselves together we said goodbye to Maj Rodgers and Lt Col Batho who, using his car as an ambulance, ferried Maj Rodgers and his toe back to Blandford for major surgery on Monday morning. We did say goodbye to the Druid who took a shine to Bronwen Jones, but I was sure we would see him again on Monday. That evening an 'O' group was held in a pub near the campsite before finally making it into Penzance for our last evening meal in Cornwall.

Monday 16 May 1999: Using my abacus on the minibus I had to give the bad news to the team that we were still a few miles short of the 75 miles required for the walk. This would mean that instead of stopping at Lizard Point, we would continue around and finish four miles further on. So after breakfast we made the long trek from Penzance to Mullion Cove to start the last and final leg of the walk. No one minded continuing as Monday turned out to be the best day yet. It was blue sky, gentle winds and a calm sea. Once again the scenery was superb and the going was good. Yes, the Druid had turned up again and Terri Lake had rejoined us after her R&R on Sunday. We all stopped at Lizard Point to partake in a cream tea and lunch for those who wanted it. Four miles further on, at the Finish, the backup crew was already there ready to ferry us back to Blandford and bring an end to Ex Iron Lizard II. Maj Jones also came clean and did mention that the Druid we had in tow all weekend was in fact her husband!

Thursday 7 October 1999: After many months of trying to get money in, and people on leave etc. I finally managed to get a majority of the team together for a photograph of us handing a cheque over for £2000.00 to Mrs Caroline Nickinson, the fund raising manager for the Joseph Weld Hospice in Dorchester. The Druid was no where to be seen. With the money raised on Ex Iron Lizard in September 1998, the total amount raised by HQ R SIGNALS was £3500.00. A big thank you to all those who sponsored the team and thanks also to the following organisations and people for helping: Tesco's-Blandford and Dorchester, Hall and Woodhouse Brewery-Blandford, Higher Chellew Camping and Carvavan site-Nancledra, Safeway Supermarket-Penzance, Branwells Meadery-Penzance and Ginsters.

NEWS FROM TRAINING

FORWARD

The Regiment welcomes the incoming Commanding Officer, Lt Col R. G. Nicholson and his wife Ann and two boys. He arrived on promotion from HQ 8 Bde in Northern Ireland. The CO may be forgiven for thinking that 11 Sig Regt is just a hive of inter Squadron activity and Regimental sport. In his first two months he has seen the three trainee squadrons compete for the military skills challenge, The Gordons Cup, won by 1 Sqn; the Harrogate Cup Competition, won by 3 Sqn after a long year of hard fought competitions; the Drill Competition won by 3 Sqn, and the Inter – Sqn boxing night won by 2 Sqn. On the sporting side, the Regiment's Junior Mens cross country team won the Army relay championships and the Senior Mens Modern Biathlon team came third in the British Championships. If that was not enough, the Regiment's Senior Mens, Senior Womens and Junior Mens cross-country teams stormed the 5th Division Championships by winning every category entered. On the Netball front, after coming third in the Inter-Units competition all of the players were selected to represent the Corps team, which came 4th in the Inter Corps competition, only losing to the two finalist teams. Maybe things will slow down in the New Year.

NATIONAL BIATHLON CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Regimental Biathlon Team were in action at the National Championships held at Bath University on 27-28 November 1999. Understandably the competition at this level is extremely high but the Regiment acquitted themselves with honour coming third in the Senior Mens (20 – 34 years) and sixth in the Masters Men (over 34 years) categories. The teams were as follows: The youngsters; SSgt Mick Openshaw, Sig Paul Angelidi and Sig Pete Simon; The Oldies; Maj Phil Brown, Capt Pete Griffiths and SSgt Jon Heaton. SSgt (FofS) Rob Young also competed as an individual. Also in the Masters Men class Mr Mick Flaherty, the team coach, achieved tenth place overall, including the second quickest swim for 100 metres on the day. The sport requires the competitors to complete two staged events, a run of up to 3000 metres and a swim up to 200 metres depending on the age group. Times are converted into points as in Modern Pentathlon

1 SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Jeff Drummond, Royal Canadian Signals
SSM WO2 (SSM) Andy Harriot

Well, life is finally getting on top of the SHQ element of 1 Sqn. The OC has had to go and recuperate in the majestic mountains of Nepal for a few weeks and the Sergeant Major has booked in to Headley Court Health Spa and Country Club until the stress of the Millenium is over. The 2IC will shortly be off to over-winter in yet another top-class ski resort somewhere in Europe, all in the name of Army sport you understand. So that leaves the Squadron in the capable hands of our new arrivals. Big 'Welcomes' to Capt John Williams, who comes on promotion from 21 (AS) Signal Regt, changing his pace stick for a leki pole and taking over the adventurous training side of things. Also to SSgt Dave Bousfield, the luckiest man in the world as Troop staffy to several hundred soldiers, and to LCpl Rigg, in Whitespear Tp. With 'Hellos' also come 'Goodbyes' and these go to SSgt Aidie Chapman, and SSgt Lindsey Manktelow who have both gone to seek life elsewhere. We wish them luck in their new postings.

RHINO TROOP

Tp Comd WO1 Andy Terry
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Smith

Welcome in to SSgt Dave Smith and his good lady Jane who join us on promotion from 1 Mech Bde. With a new Troop Comd, new things were to be tried. As we have soldiers awaiting further stages of their trade training, it was decided to put them to the test with an initiative and leadership Exercise and so Ex Rhino Initiative was created. Five teams, each consisting of four people were given 12 tasks. All tasks were to be carried out totally using their own initiative. Points were awarded for imagination for such tasks as acting as a shop mannequin, eating lunch for free 20 miles from camp, and swimming in the sea (not an enviable task in October). Special mention goes to Sig Gavin Phoenix who not only swam in the sea but produced the photograph of himself doing the front crawl unlike one of the other teams effort of trying to pass a holiday snap in Ibiza off as Bournemouth beach, good try!! Also congratulations to Sig Alan Moffat who when tasked to pull a pint tackled it by pulling a pint of milk along the floor? All the teams showed excellent team spirit and initiative. As for the free lunches I don't think a certain burger bar or pizza restaurant will be so obliging next time!! Scores were totted up and after a close fought contest the winning team was The Randy Rhino's with the Dunwells a close second.

HARROGATE CUP HOCKEY – A PLAYERS PERSPECTIVE
Sig Ward – Lightning Tp

After being asked (!) to organise the team for our Troop, I asked for volunteers, stressing that previous experience was not necessary but that enthusiasm and a sense of humour were. Our first game, against Beaufighter Tp, was hard, but thanks to our supporters singing and cheering we went one goal up, scored by Sig Firth. A second goal by Sig Fulton ensured our first win. On the same night we played Kohima Tp. The opposition tactics involved packing their defence so we were unable to score but we still qualified for the semi-final as group winners. Rhino Tp were our opposition and this proved to be our closest game yet. Rhino Tp looked certain to get a shot on goal but gallant defending prevented that. We managed to qualify by the number of penalty corners we had been awarded. The final loomed and the team prepared to meet our sister troop, Ulster, in what promised to be an entertaining match. We picked up their star player and marked him out of the game, only allowing him room to swing his stick (just). The game was played in the best of spirit, with Ulster Tp scoring in the first half. We kept our heads up and, with Corps player Sig John Edge dictating play, piled up the pressure, landing shot after shot. All our efforts were stopped by a combination of good defending, and some lucky, or brilliant, saves by Ulster Tps' keeper Cpl Karl Hannah. Ulster Tp ran out winners of what had been an enjoyable and well fought competition.

ORIENTEERING COMPETITION

On Wednesday 24 November the penultimate competition of the Harrogate Cup competition took place. With 3 Sqn leading the competition and hoping to win the boxing (being the last event of the Harrogate Cup) there was not too much pressure on the individuals representing the Squadron team, or so we thought!! That was until the new OC Ulster Tp, WO1 Skimming got involved. It then became a matter of national importance with practice upon practice and training upon training. Once the competition was underway, the outcome seemed a foregone conclusion, as both of the Squadron teams knew the whole Dorset area inch by inch! (thanks Sir!). The teams of four comprised of three males and one female with the Ulster Tp team winning the competition and the Lightning Tp team coming Third which obviously meant that 3 Sqn won the competition overall. Congratulations go to both teams who were:

Ulster Troop	Lightning Troop
Cpl Simmons	Sig Hubble
Cpl Campbell	Sig Austin
Sig Lucas	Sig Korzenewski
Sig Bassett	Sig Abbott

Thanks must also go to Cpl Simmons and Cpl Francis who, with a little, but necessary, unwanted help from various people, organised the event.

ANNUAL DRILL COMPETITION – by Sig Siddal 3 Sqn

It all started one cold autumn evening with all the potential drill pigs stood with rifles on the windy Blandford square. With the help of SSM Tasker, SSgt Crowder and LCpl Reynolds we began to practice the pre-determined format with a few extra turns added in for good measure. You would think to add panache but in reality it was to remind us of the basics!! We had tick-tocking and chocolate flip-flops all a round. As we persevered the team began to emerge, and Sig Fox was honoured with the unenviable task of right marker. Sig Thomas held the middle together whilst Sig Siddall (I want to be your drill instructor) commanded the squad. As the last days approached by natural depletion our star 24 were ready. The SSM, the switched on man that he is had secured us all Combat 95 kit straight from the shelves, not a Phase 1 scuff or tear in sight. It had to be said that 1 Sqn were a real threat with the amount of time and preparation they had been putting in. On the day we were first on to the square with the rest of the Regiment watching on in support. We really had pulled out all the stops. All the turns were executed beautifully and the parade was almost faultless. As we watched the other two Squadrons after us we stayed in hope that our performance had been enough to retain the drill trophy. We all waited with baited breath as the CO announced that 3 Sqn were the winners, as we had suspected 2 Sqn had come a close second. The sense of pride and achievement had been worth those cold and unpleasant evenings in the long run.

EXERCISE LIGHTNING FOLLY 2 – 08/10 OCTOBER 1999

On Friday 8 October 1999 the second of the 3 (Harrogate) Sqn exercises took place on Salisbury plain training area. The weekend was conducted as per previous exercises giving the 80 (volunteer!) Phase 2 trainees a taste of 'outdoor soldiering' of which they had been deprived since basic training. Everyone deployed straight after work on Friday, this meant the bashers were put up after dusk, which proved rather amusing when inspected on Saturday morning. It came and everyone was soaked, cold and despondent after a whole night of persistent heavy rain. It had been so bad that even the exercise OC, WO1 Sartorius was contemplating cancelling until someone reminded him that all the participants were potential technicians!!

After breakfast had been consumed and the strong winds had dried everyone off, the eight sections of ten personnel set off to their first stand. The eight stands comprised mainly of interest subjects of a military bearing such as: traps with Cpl 'SAS boy 1' Rogan - 9mm pistol training with SSgt 'Chippy' Chapman (or Forest Gump to his friends); Battlefield unarmed combat with Cpl 'Snowboarder' Cattle and LCpl 'Lenny' Reynolds and not forgetting a little input from SSM 'Ninja' Tasker; fire building by Cpl Mechan and rabbit skinning by Cpl 'SAS boy 2' Whittaker. On Saturday evening the night navigation took place. Surprisingly, everyone returned by the midnight cut-off, obviously SSgt Crowders lesson from earlier on in the day had been taken in, nothing to do with them pacing fields and hills!

After further analysis,
the Signaller found WO2 Tasker's joke most amusing

On Sunday morning the coaches miraculously arrived early and everyone was shipped to the ranges where the Phase 2 trainees had their first opportunity to fire the 9mm pistol since joining the Army. As always, this was well received by the trainees even though some failed to understand the concept of aiming the weapon at the target and not the runners warming up for the Blandford Tower Run! Never mind eh! With that another successful exercise came to a close. The permanent staff eagerly await the next one in March!

GORDONS CUP MILITARY SKILLS COMPETITION 1999
Report by SSgt Butler, Whitespear Troop

The Gordons Cup Military Skills Competition took place in Blandford on 30 October 1999. Old sweats will remember that the competition used to consist of a weighted assault course and log run of a very strenuous nature. This format has now changed to a military skills competition which still keeps the traditions of the Gordons Cup alive. Each Squadron entered two 8-man teams to produce a winning section and an overall winning Squadron. The following events were selected for the competition:

Shooting skills	Weapon Handling
Leadership Skills	Small Arms Trainer
Military Knowledge	Equipment Husbandry
Log Run	Map Reading

The competition proved to be physically and mentally tough, but very enjoyable. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the Military Training Instructors in Whitespear Troop for assisting and umpiring the competition. The results of the Gordons Cup Military Skills competition are as follows:

Winners	1 Squadron
Runners-up	3 Squadron
Third	2 Squadron

REPORT
by Sig Burke-Smith and Sig Corbett, 2 Squadron.

It was 0645hrs on 30 October 1999 and while the rest of the camp slept off the night before the two teams from 2 Sqn lined up to collect their weapons to begin the Military Skills Competition, The Gordons Cup. The competition consisted of various stands to test the military skills of the Squadrons entered. It started with a kit inspection before each individual team moved on to the round robin of stands. We were only given the kit list about a week prior to the inspection, however nobody looked at this until the night before and by then LCpl Rayden of Rhino Tp had managed to buy all the whistles available on camp. This was where Sig Hussan used his initiative and saved us from embarrassment on the parade square, by turning up with a musical whistle sweetie! This would have worked smoothly had Sig Granger not felt a little peckish prior to the inspection. Although 2 Sqn had the highest morale in the competition it was not enough with Sig Fitton and Sig Granger scoring one and five respectively on their APWT at the Small Arms Trainer, but at least they were still smiling when they left the stand. The competition rounded off with a log run which proved to be the best event in everyone's opinion. It was one lap around Craddock sports field climbing over two flat bed trucks and under two camouflage nets and finishing with a road race ending outside RHQ, 11 Sig Regt. All things combined, the aggression, shouting and the competitiveness of the three Squadrons made this the best event of the day. Congratulations to 1 Sqn who were the overall competition winners.

ARMY CROSS COUNTRY RELAYS 3 NOVEMBER 1999

The Regiment bagged another Army level trophy when the Mens Junior Team stormed the Cross Country Relays at Tweseldown Racecourse in November. Although the field was depleted by a few teams not turning up, 43 Major Units, 17 Female and 4 Junior male teams took part in the two races. 11 Sig Regt entered two teams in the main race plus a female and Junior team in the other race. The Junior race started well for our teams with Sig Pete Tucker handing over to Sig 'Shep' Sheppard with a 30 seconds lead. A lead which they would build on when Pte Tom Grady took over on the last leg it was up to five minute lead. Pte Tom Grady then ran the fastest leg of the day (15.08) to beat 7 RHA by 6mins 35secs. This time puts them firmly into sixth position in the senior men's race. The ladies race which was ran at the same time as the juniors was a much closer affair. LCpl Sophie Morris led off setting the fastest female time of the day (no surprises there!!) Sig Becky Greenhalgh ran a fabulous race holding on to the lead for at least a mile until the eventual winners (HQ 4 Div) took the lead. Sig Helen 'Any sport I'll excel' Caplin and Sig Lisa Wiles (I'm just not talented enough!!) both ran strong races but could not hold onto second place, which was snatched from them in the closing stages. It was a fine and valiant race resulting with a third. All the runners besides LCpl Morris are juniors. In the senior race the two under strength teams ran well to come 8th and 18th respectively, a special mention must go to Sgt Stu Maughan who got the 20th fastest time of the day.

ARMY TRAINING REGIMENT BASSINGBOURN

1 SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj J. M. Norris
SSM WO2 (SSM) Slaney

Maj John Norris is collecting a variety of hats, amongst them CO, Regt 2IC and lately Visits Liaison Officer for the visit of the Colonel in Chief in October. He is not busy at all, much. The 2IC, Capt Mick Boyle is still finding time to compete in fitness freak competitions such as an Iron Man in Germany which he completed in ten hours. The Squadron welcomes the arrival of the new SQMS, 'Andy' Crawford as he wades into the depths of mass issues every two weeks. A fond farewell to SSgt 'Andy' Harriott who leaves on promotion to take on the SSM job at 1 Squadron, 11 Sig Regt, Good Luck.

ALPHA TROOP
Tp Comd Capt A. K. Crapper
Tp Sgt Sgt B. Clark

The Troop is just about to wave goodbye to the third course of the year and inherit the fourth just two days later! The next intake will be an interesting one as we see what fun we can all have with a two-week millennium break in the middle. Since the last issue of The WIRE the Troop has raised well over £2200 for two worthy causes. Firstly in June, the Troop raised over £1600 for The Princes' Trust, by climbing the equivalent height of Snowdon on the Regiment's climbing wall. More recently, the recruits raised £600 (and counting) on 'The Tregantle Challenge', a strenuous Tab across Dartmoor. All this as well as producing the Corps' finest! On a serious note, the Troop says a fond farewell to Lt Jamie Balfour (15 Sig Regt) and Sgt 'Geordie' McBean (249 Sig Sqn). At the same time, welcome to the new Troop Commander, Capt Alun Crapper who joins us fresh from Kosovo.

BRAVO TROOP
Tp Comd Capt C. Thompson-Smith
Tp Sgt Sgt P. Matheson

The Troop welcomes Capt Craig Thompson-Smith and sincerely hopes that his admin is slightly better than the recently departed Capt Charlie Roberts who moves on to an easy life with the RAF. Other new faces in the Troop include Cpl Langridge and Cpl 'Happy' Ramson.

CHARLIE TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Allan
Tp Sgt Sgt D. Honeyman

Charlie Troop has been very busy organising and raising money for the Leukaemia Research Fund. After the initial idea from Sgt 'Dave' Honeyman to do the Three Peaks during the Adventure Training week, we finally managed to complete Ben Nevis and Mt. Snowdon, as well as a little canoeing, rock climbing and drinking.

Prior to Adventure Training, sponsor money had to be raised for the event by all 47 recruits. Due to the large amount of money being raised no mountain was too high. Leaving Bassingbourn in the early hours of Sunday 18 July, making that long journey to Jockland. We awoke early Monday morning with faces like welders benches due to the 'teeth with wings', i.e. midges. It was like a frantic 'bug-out' to the coach as it was a midge free zone (so much for a lie in), as we departed for Ben Nevis with the recruits pointing out of the windows at any hill asking, 'Cpl is that Ben Nevis?'

On arrival we couldn't see the top due to the sheer height of it being above cloud level. We departed, slowest groups first heading up the path, which was more like the M6, which we thought we had left in Carlisle. The going got tough and the tough got going, some three hours later and shedding a twin in sweat we at last reached the top. Some lucky recruit had to carry the Leukaemia sponsor banner for the top, which was big enough to be seen from bottom, if it had been towed by a plane. When the photograph was taken it wasn't only the flash from the camera that dazzled the Troop Commander, Capt Liz Allan, but the flash we made for the café in our relevant groups taking a mere 1hr 45mins to replenish our liquid intake with lager. We then departed this conquered mountain heading for the midgy capital of Scotland (tent site) to see if our rear party had been eaten.

Now we had conquered the pinnacle known as the Nevis we were off to conquer his little brother Snowdon, in Wales. However, due to some careless driving by a 19 year old Glaswegian student we were delayed by five hours and due to the Training Team's positive attitude and medical experience were able to aid the medical services. Stabilise the casualty ready for air lifting, about one and a bit hours later he was cut from the wreckage he was airlifted to the nearest hospital and finally we were back on the road for the other half of our adventure training.

We arrived at Capel Curig late that night and on Wednesday morning we arrived at the bottom of Snowdon in the Honeyman tour coach. Thinking the train would be cheap we were shocked to discover it would cost £11.20 each one way, so we then decided to walk as the army budget was tight. Meanwhile the other half of the Troop were rock climbing and canoeing with Cpl Taylor, DG IR Horton and Cpl Brace-Girdle the resident GTI'S. Thursday we then swapped around and on Friday Sgt Honeyman's mystery tours set off on the last lap of the journey. Home to ATR Bassingbourn to prep for deployment on our Final Exercise. The Troop raised over £2,000 for Leukaemia Research. Well done Charlie Troop. Finally, a sad farewell to Capt Liz Allan who leaves us for Foxtrot Troop, good luck. Also congratulations first to Cpl 'Tez' Blakely who has picked up his promotion to Sergeant and secondly to Cpl Dave Knowler on his recent marriage to Emma, we wish you all the best for the future.

DELTA TROOP
Tp Comd Capt I. Bates
Tp Sgt Sgt S. Parke

Another day, another recruit. The joys of ATR Bassingbourn continue with each day throwing up its own unique problem. On average there are around 40 of them every 12 weeks, both male and female. The last intake which passed out on the 17 September (now Blandford problem) was Cpl Berrey's eighth and last full intake. He is due to escape, fully unscathed and still with two stripes to 21 Sig Regt. Hot on his heels is Cpl 'Daz' Lythe recently arrived from 14 Sig Regt (EW) who was promptly dispatched to Litchfield on his ATRA instructors course. Congratulations to Capt Ivan Bates on his recent promotion. Now 16 Sig Regt eagerly await the arrival of 'Lord Lucan' or not as the case may be. Both Capt Bates and Cpl Singleton managed to get away from the rigours of CMS(R) for a week of sailing on the Solent. However, on their return the pair of them convinced the rest of the training team that it is possible to still be seasick after being back on land for 12 hours. Cpl Bob Perry has his thoughts fully focused on his forthcoming trip to the education centre for his EFP 1. Cpl 'Daz' West continues in his efforts to provide 'many an interesting' night in the Cpl's Mess as PEC. That's of course if there isn't a problem or forty. Sgt Sam Parke hasn't mentioned Pirbright yet, but we're sure six weeks drill would be eagerly anticipated by anyone.

ECHO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt A. Flay (PWRR)
Tp Sgt Sgt R. Turner

The Troop continues to improve its approach and methods of training, and have been involved in a number of activities including the forward projection of a local community project by six months as a result of one day's hard work by the Troop members. Having just completed another CMS(R) and sent 39 recruits to 11 Sig Regt, we are now starting all over again. This next twelve week push will take them through to 23 December 1999 without pause for breath. All staff continue to strongly represent the Regiment and Corps in a diversity of sports such as football, rugby, and orienteering, with some success. Finally, we would like to wish Cpl Fadzilah all the best with his EOD detachment.

FOXTROT TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Allan
Tp Sgt Sgt Purdue

Foxtrot Troop are in the middle of a big turn around with the departure of Lt Coshott to RMC Shrivenham, and the arrival of Capt Allan from C Tp. The Troop also welcomes Sgt Craig Purdue who at the moment is recovering from a heart attack after receiving the bill for his Mess Kit. A sad farewell to Cpl Stoker who is posted to Ireland, good luck.

263 (HARROGATE) SIGNAL SQUADRON ARMY APPRENTICES COLLEGE, ARBORFIELD

OC Maj Steven France
SSM WO2 (SSM) Mick Senior

The Autumn term commenced on 6 September after a three week Summer recess. Unlike the start of previous terms however, this time the 'running around like headless chickens' syndrome was less apparent. This was largely due to the fact that the new intake, Intake 99C, had been programmed to arrive aweek later, giving the staff time to prepare for their induction into the College.

Before the beginning of this term, most of us attended the wedding of Cpl 'Muz' Murray and Sharon Proctor on 14 August which was held in Arborfield with much merriment. We wish them both the happiest of married lives together. And then this term we say farewell to Sgt Mark Wigmore and his family who are off to Blandford - we wish them all the best as well and thanks to Sgt Wigmore for his hard work and contribution to the Squadron. In his place we are pleased to be able to retain Sgt Mick Yendell for another term and our heartiest congratulations to him and his family on his recent promotion.

NEWS FROM SCOTT TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Tom Jeffries
Tp Sgt Sgt 'Waggy' Wagstaff

After a very busy end of term fraught with seemingly concurrent activities like Adventure Training, March & Shoot competition, Basic Leadership package and support to the Passing Out Parade, the new term kicked off at a thankfully more agreeable pace. The Troop Staff have changed over to instruct the new junior intake and congratulations once again to Cpl (now Sergeant) Paul Millington posted to 1 (UK) ADSR on promotion. LSgt Matt James, having joined us from 1 WG, is still mastering the intricacies of the Recruit Junior Instructor's Development Course at the ITG Instructor School, which all Phase 1 Instructors have to attend (ideally before joining the training unit). In the meantime Sgt Wagstaff has held the fort whilst Capt Jeffries has been claiming sick leave through a shoulder operation and impersonating Napoleon!

BASIC LEADERSHIP - by AT Martin

At 0330hrs the Troop was woken up and told that we had five minutes to get into our coveralls with our NBC smocks back to front. That was the last time we saw daylight, or anything, to come to that, until later on in the morning, because we were blindfolded. In this condition, we were led around in all different directions to ensure our complete disorientation. At about 0730hrs, when our NBC smock hoods and blindfolds were removed, we found ourselves in alien surroundings (Bramley Training Area). We were then split into groups and briefed by our instructors. Having been given a map and compass, we were told to be at a given location by a certain time. Once at the destination, we were taught basic survival techniques like fire making, shelter building, water purification and many more.

Later that day, we 'tabbed' to the High Wire Confidence facility where we had a go on all the contraptions in order to develop our personal selfconfidence. After the high wire activity, we were given a demonstration on how to humanely slaughter a chicken and prepare it for eating. We then had the opportunity to slaughter some chickens ourselves. As a first time experience, it was like something out of a horror film seeing all the blood and guts of the chickens we were preparing for our next meal! That night we went on night navigation and were told that our performance would determine how much breakfast we would be allowed in the morning, so we all put in 150% effort!

The next day saw us doing command tasks in the morning and a memory retention competition (MENSA challenge) in the afternoon. The latter was to see how well we worked when we were tired and hungry. The competition consisted of moving between checkpoints and remembering information acquired at each checkpoint to formulate a complete message without being allowed to write anything down. This had to be done as fast as possible as it was a timed competition. Then the finale of the exercise was an inter-section log race which involved carrying a railway sleeper around a two and a half mile circuit. We returned to camp absolutely exhausted but with a glowing feeling of satisfaction.

EXERCISE SARAH SANDS 30 SEPTEMBER - 2 OCTOBER 1999
by AT Le May

We departed from camp at 1930 hrs, dressed for war with all our exercise kit. Most people got their heads down, so we weren't that tired when we arrived at Longmoor Training Area. The coach pulled into the drop-off point at 2030hrs, after which we unloaded our webbing and bergans from the coach onto our backs. The three sections proceeded to the harbour area, well, at least two sections did - AT Brownsword's poor eyesight leading to map reading problems meant that the Troop were finally all in the harbour area by midnight.

The first night went smoothly with a professional but relaxed atmosphere and included 'stagging on and off' sentry duty. First light was at 0630hrs at which time we stood to for 15 minutes. The rest of the day was then spent digging shell scrapes, being on sentry duty or out in the heather revising our RTR skills (Return fire, Take cover, Return appropriate fire). We then had to take our RTR test during which we were able to fire blank ammunition for the first time in our training. Saturday night was one to be dreaded. Most of the night was spent on patrolling and conducting standing patrols, observing suspected enemy positions. Just before first light, the NBC threat level was upgraded and at 0600hrs we were subjected to an NBC attack. To top it all, it rained and this added to the confusion and chaos. After carrying out decontamination drills and filling in our shell scrapes, with our NBC dress category still at 3 Romeo, we completed a 2km 'tab' to our next harbour location. There we removed our NBC gear and proceeded to get a brew on.

Our next activity was performing section attacks against live enemy. 1 Section were the first to encounter the enemy and showed by their return fire that they didn't want to waste any rounds. 2 Section then proceeded to be point section and demonstrated that they were second to none by overcoming and disarming the enemy, showing no fear and claiming victory. 3 Section then had their turn at trying to be as professional as 2 Section but failing to do so in the end. When the excitement had subsided and all the Section Commanders had individually debriefed their sections, we were collectively debriefed by our Troop Sergeant, Sgt Wagstaff, who congratulated us on our efforts on the exercise. We then headed for the extraction area. The exercise came to an end with a sermon in the field by our Padre, after which it was back to camp for some well-earned food and rest.

MULTI-NATIONAL BRIGADE (CENTRE) HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL SQUADRON OPERATION AGRICOLA 2

OC Maj P. D. Peel
RSM WO1 (RSM) S. P. M. Mitchell

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

I think it was T. S. Elliot who said, 'The first condition of understanding a country is to smell it.' With sewers flooding us out and thick dank smog engulfing us, you can imagine what sort of 'understanding' we have reached over Kosovo. Whilst noses may be clamped shut, heads are up as '209' head into the second half of our tour in Multi-National Brigade (Centre). Firstly a fond farewell to Capt Colin Vaudin who left us in October and headed off with a new pencil case and a 'Lion King' lunch box to start staff training at AJD. Remember Colin, 'If it isn't hurting.....'

Capt Colin Vaudin pretends to be hard at work in G6
He claims that he's not a computer geek!

Secondly a warm welcome to his replacement Capt Peter Young who joined us from Cyprus. He is recovering well after the initial shock, and the doctors say he should be back on solids within a couple of weeks. Also a quick hello to Capt Wendy Kirby who joins us on attachment.

HEADQUARTERS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt J. G. Griffiths
Tp SSgt SSgt J. Smithurst

The summer sun is fading as the year grows old, and darker days are drawing near. Meanwhile, the members of HQ Tp continue to provide the absolute finest in Command Support the British Army can offer, to the staff of HQ MNB(C). Surprisingly, nothing radically exciting has occurred since the Troop's last ode to The Wire. The first real rain of the tour saw many of the Troop awoken at 0430hrs as the drains and sewers overflowed into the basement sleeping accommodation. Whilst the Tech Sgts rolled over and went back to sleep, everyone else set about trying to stem the tide of stinking water creeping into the basement. However, salvation soon arrived in the form of the Defence Fire Service. Or so we thought. After taking a quick look at the rapidly rising levels, they professed to be able to do nothing, and promptly left. (They did actually return that afternoon to sort things out). Meanwhile, various methods were adopted to try and halt the tides and prevent them from taking control of the basement. Needless to say, none of this worked and most people ended up bailing out for new accommodation.

The Troop, under the guidance of Sgt Neil 'Media Mogul' Hunt, has been very busy working in the local community, distributing aid and assisting in local schools and day care centres. At a nearby school, a great deal of effort has been expended running basketball lessons, aerobics classes, distributing penny whistles, giving away pencil cases and a host of other activities. An incredibly hectic 36 hours were spent when lorry loads of equipment arrived with members of the Charity 'Aid Reaching Children'. Sgt Hunt and his gang of willing volunteer's mission was to give away the £40,000 of hospital equipment and clothing to deserving locations, in time to let the charity volunteers still catch their return ferry out of Greece. Sigs 'Blackbeard' Garbutt, 'Chalky' White, Mainka and Jackson, and LCpl 'Blind Date' Needham were among the team who delivered vast quantities of kit to hospitals, medical centres, refugee camps and the homeless. Not wishing to feel left out, LCpl 'Mad Druid' Langley also got in on the action delivering buggies to local parents along with the Adjt and the rest of the crew. Well done guys!

Ably supported by the OC and Troop commander, an excellent performance was produced by the members of the Troop who resoundingly beat a Norwegian Army 5-3 in a closely contested exhibition game of football. LCpl Strasse 'Rear Party' Street gave a particularly good show of running around like a dervish, proving that just because your Regimental number starts with a 1, it doesn't mean that you can't mix it with the best of them. Finally, a welcome must go out to SSgt Jase Smithurst, as no one can remember if it was included last time, and he'll sulk in the corner if he gets missed out.

ROVER TROOP

Tp Comd Lt J. E. Toze
Tp SSgt SSgt M O'Brien

The tour continues merrily along as we head into the season of cheer (allegedly) and look forward ever longingly to the hand-over to 7 Brigade in February. Meanwhile the stress of Balkan life continues to take its toll on the minions of Rover troop. Leading the way into ward 6 at DKMH comes SSgt Mick 'Eddie Stobbart' O'Brien for whom the bell of dementia has begun to toll. Having left his trailer in a different camp, his daysac at the POL point and the mail and satphone at the wrong locations, he has now taken to wandering the corridors in his tartan slippers heading for a smoke without his tobacco. Well it comes to us all.

The Troop has also taken receipt of Sgt Ian 'Geordie' Pearson, who promises to maintain the tradition of madness amongst the Troop hierachy whilst he plays junior yeoman at main. Up on the hills the rebros are battening down anything which stands still for long enough, after witnessing the 14 Sigs aerial tentage display team in action. In addition the Suvi Bunar crew have wired themselves into a 150 Kilowatt generator, and are eagerly looking forward to more exploding tv action. Sig 'Rudolf Nuryev' Jones continues to struggle starting the panzer, although it helps to engage the drive and take it out of gear. At Swebat Cpl 'Hairy palms' Vickers and the dirty mac detachment continue to prosper, although the self-sacrifice they have made in vetting all restricted material has yet to be fully recognised. Commiserations must go to Sig Cheryl Boon and Sig Debbie Myers on their failed attempt to run over the troop commander in their panzer, better luck next time. Congratulations to all those who came off the Lance Corporal board, the shock is still visible on Sig Nick Graham's face. Welcome to Sgt Sally 'Cockney' Howson who joins the Troop from the terriers.

Finally the Troop takes its hat off to a few carefully selected individuals whose actions continue to broaden the smile, firstly the BALO stunt driving team of Sig Linsey 'No keys' Rakocevic and Sig 'Rollbar tester' Edwards. Secondly the nameless 14 Sigs soldier who was blown over inside a portaloo on Goles, and thirdly RQMS S. Conway for calling the brigadier a 'Greedy tt' at the squadron dinner night (I nearly fell off my chair).

KFOR OPERATIONS

The Squadron is now firmly established in its role of supporting HQ LANDCENT as HQ KFOR. Time seems to have flown by since the deployment began in September and the eyes of those deployed are now very firmly set on the end of tour date of April. The deployment itself can be considered to be a case of 'history repeating'. In late 1996 the Squadron deployed to Bosnia in support of HQ LANDCENT which had taken command of the IFOR/SFOR mission from HQ ARRC. The Squadron commitment to Bosnia formally ended in November 1998, although we still have a small detachment remaining in Banja Luka. For the Kosovo deployment we have once again deployed in support of HQ LANDCENT who have again replaced HQ ARRC in command of the KFOR mission. The Squadron mission is similar to that which we performed in Bosnia with IFOR/SFOR in that we are overseeing the commercialisation of the strategic and operational communications infrastructure of the region whilst being deployed into seven different locations. The locations are as diverse as Pristina, Pec, Mitrovica, Urosevac and Prizren in Kosovo (at HQ KFOR and at each of the multi-national Brigade HQs), Skopje in Macedonia and Thessaloniki in Greece. Our Squadron mission is truly multi-national, working as part of a NATO Signals Group with the latest, state of the art communications equipment.

A TALE OF FIVE NATIONS

The Squadron deployed to Kosovo as augmentees to LANDCENT, which was the HQ chosen to replace the ARRC. We were to man commercial equipment for the new HQ and take over the communications links from our Krefeld neighbours, 7 Sig Regt, after their long tour. Much of the Squadron manpower went into forming the ad hoc Troop that deployed detachments to the MNBs to operate and maintain the NATO equipment in each location. This article concentrates on the life of those at the Brigade HQs, the larger crews at MAIN and REAR will be visited in future articles. Each detachment consists of three soldiers, some of whom are accompanied by civilian technicians from Spacelink, the satellite contractors, others have German AUTOKO radio relays providing the bearer system. With only three men at each location it was important that the detachments set about integrating themselves with their host nations and their respective G6 staffs. Between them they are now experiencing a variety of living conditions and levels of support, and have the opportunity to get a flavour for how the difference nations work and, in many cases, play.

MNB(C) PRISTINA CITY

After deploying to Kosovo on 26 September 1999 it became apparent that the O&M teams were not going to be responsible for all the comms assets that at first were through and so the MNB(C) team was reduced to a team of 3, including Sgt 'Val 'No hair left to pull out' Valentine, Cpl Stu 'Oops, the sitrep' Wilkinson and LCpl 'Nobby 'golden blanket' Styles. The move into 19 Mech Bde was relatively uneventful with a smooth transition between the ARRC CRONOS and NATO CRONOS. LCpl Styles' leaving for R&R meant that we were blessed with the company of Sig 'What planet am I on' Smiejkowski. This has brought the impossible to the Pristina det, an up turn in morale! The number of instances of Sig Smiejkowski having the det in agony with laughter are too many times to mention but, needless to say, whoever has the pleasure of the 'Smie' after his next move will love him, until they kill him.

MNB(E) UROSEVAC

The US Detachment personalities are Sgt Mick 'F disk it' Kenning, Cpl Andy 'Bouffant' Wilkinson and LCpl 'Jackhammer' Cook. On arrival at Camp Bondsteel our initial reactions were that of amazement as to the size of the camp. After about 45 minutes we had discovered the PX and the Burger King, although the queue for the Burger King was almost as big as the camp, which currently has a perimeter of approximately 6 miles. LCpl 'Jackhammer' Cook was bitterly disappointed that Burger King didn't have a 'soft play area' and consequently hours of grumbling were endured while he put his boots back on! Our home for the first two weeks was a tent and, in typical American style, it was the biggest tent we had ever seen. Due to the sheer size of the tent, and the fact that it was only to be our temporary accommodation, we tolerated a number of visitors in the form of small rodents. However, the sound of trumpets blaring, followed by Kenny Rogers singing about how proud he is to be American, before 0600hrs every morning was an entirely different matter and something our predecessors forgot to mention.

Shortly after we had successfully set up comms we moved to our '4 star air-conditioned' living accommodation. Unfortunately our visitors followed us. One night both Sgt Kenning and LCpl 'Jackhammer' Cook were awakened from their slumber by what sounded like a hysterical screaming banshee. This was in fact Cpl Andy 'Bouffant' Wilkinson's reaction to finding a very tiny mouse on his pillow. After a gruesome battle, and with the help of the base of the fire extinguisher, Cpl 'Bouffant' Wilkinson reduced the mouse to a bloody pulp. However, the mouse saga continued the next day when we all sat hungrily and eagerly awaiting the ceremonial unwrapping of the seemingly untouched birthday cake only to find upon opening that the mice had got there first! No stone was left unturned in our quest to find the culprit and our living accommodation now resembles Fort Knox. The MNB(E) boys had the opportunity to meet President Clinton when he visited the Camp on 23 November.

MNB(W) PEC

When the MNB(W) det departed Pristina for Pec we had no idea what was in store for us. The det, consisting of Sgt 'Ross' Menzies, LCpl 'Gaz' Thompson and LCpl 'Kez' Brown arrived in Pec to find that the camp, which was to be our home for the next six months, was in fact in the middle of the city. We were eager to have a look around and see what facilities and accommodation we would have. The accommodation appeared to be very spacious, but unfortunately, due to local power being rather unreliable and a lack of back up generators, power was to be a luxury that we would hope for and rarely get. There was no gym, no running out of camp (the camp is only about 300m x 200m, so boredom sets in by about the tenth lap), and water of the hot variety is like gold dust. However, the food in the cookhouse is of very good quality and if you like pasta, fruit and fresh bread, then you're very well catered for. The installation of the CRONOS LAN in order to replace the IARRCIS was a tough job, but after some extensive hard work we were successful although, due to Ptarmigan being the bearer system, it was a little slow. However, once the commercial VSAT was installed this problem was solved. Due to there being a lack of gym facilities, 110 steps are frequently incorporated into our PT sessions along with circuits in our improvised circuit training room on the top floor of the building. PT takes place for the MNB(W) boys five out of seven days of the week and any more than two days off a week and you're on remedial! Overall we are doing really well here and morale is normally at the highest level possible. There is one thing, however, which is puzzling the det and that is 'aren't the Italian shower cubicles in Corimecs designed for one person and not two?'

MNB(N) MITROVICA

After a two week wait in the glorious halls of heaven, otherwise known as Film City, Pristina, the O&M team for MNB(N) departed the city for the sleepy hollow town of Mitrovica, the HQ for MNB(N). Upon driving into the camp we looked forward to the prospect of living in barracks as opposed to the tented accommodation we had become accustomed to in Pristina. At first it was somewhat strange walking around the camp and being greeted with numerous 'bonjours', although we soon learnt to reply 'en Francais'. Then we were introduced to our Ptarmigan predecessors from 7 Sig Regt who were initially rather taken aback by the fact that our 3-man team was to replace their 20 to 30 personnel. It was soon apparent that the capability of the commercial kit, together with our technical expertise, was sufficient to do the job! The it was our turn to same the 'fantastic French cuisine (not)!' Well our first meal was the famous exquisite dish consisting of kidney beans and mushy brussel sprouts. It was soon realised that bread and cheese was the safer option and two months later this had become the stable diet for the O&M Team at MNB(N). It was comforting to find, only hours after our arrival, that there was gunfire and some explosions down in the city, and upon looking outside from the vantage point, we were pleasantly greeted with the French riot police's CS gas. We soon learnt, however, that this was to be a regular occurrence and it put a different light on the town of Mitrovica. After overcoming a few initial teething problems we have had our comms equipment running now for about two months. Now we have the task of installing the KFOR SECRET Wan followed by some R&R.

GREEK SP BDE KOSOVO POLJE

We had heard a few nasty rumours about Kosovo Polje, the Greek Sp Bde HQ, so when we arrived there we were pleasantly surprised by the 'garage', the place that was to be our home for the next 6 months. However, at 1400 hrs it was time to sit down to a Greek Army style meal which consisted of cold cabbage and runner beans in an oil sauce. The next morning Cpl 'has anyone seen my stomach lining' Roberts was on his way to the Med Centre at KFOR MAIN HQ with dysentery. Pot noodles were soon to become our stable diet until, thankfully, we were presented with a stove from the Greek Sp Bde and fresh rations from KFOR MAIN HQ. On the communications side work was going well, our det being the first to remove IARRCIS and install the civilian computers. We discovered that the Greek soldiers were generally fairly easy going with strange working hours that included an afternoon siesta between 1400 and 1500hrs every day. In fact they appeared so laid back that Sgt 'Dougie' Icke was beginning to worry about the security of the camp, the main problems being that the sentry located on the roof brought himself off duty whenever there was any bad weather. This, together with the fact that only 40% of the camp was fenced and that during a 7 Sigs versus Gr Sp Bde football match a couple of local Serbs managed to stroll in through the gates, was a matter of some concern for us. In addition to trying to increase camp security, we were faced with the task of winterising our living accommodation. First we set to work on building a moat around the garage to prevent us from being flooded out which had nearly occurred on several rainy mornings. We then realised that we would have a distinct lack of furniture as soon as 7 Sigs would leave so Cpl 'Blue Peter' Roberts set to work on the construction of items ranging from shelves and pen holders to a kitchen sink! Not to be outdone by, but not possessing any carpentry skills, Sgt 'Dougie' Icke, along with Ginge paid a visit to the det in MNB(W) only to return with a vehicle full of goodies. These were incorporated into our dining-room, which was soon to look more like an Officers' mess. It was no wonder we became known as the 'wombles' and that it became a punishable offence for a det member to leave camp and return empty handed. Now with a TV, video and gym from the welfare services, we are very happy with our home and all agree that we have made a great start to the tour.

SFOR OPERATIONS

BANJA LUKA DETACHMENT, BOSNIA

280 Signal Squadron in Bosnia, surely not, is this just a rumour? With Kosovo in the headlines and Bosnia now out of the public eye, five men still work behind the scenes to make comms in Bosnia work for all. They are 'The Lost Boys' of Banja Luka! They have been here for so long now that they are not sure where they originally came from. If it were not for the occasional e-mail from the Squadron Ops Room jolting them back into life, and making them recall the days when we were actually at home with our parent unit we would surely be lost forever! The Lost Boys are Sgt Tom 'The Buddha' Atkinson, Cpl Matt 'Cat Badger' Baber, LCpl 'Stressed' Harrison, Sig Nick 'Kennard' Abbott and Sig Steve 'Stunty' Lloyd. After watching countless hours of the Discovery Channel, Cpl Baber is going to leave the main stream military to become a wildlife researcher in the South American jungle, his speciality being Badgers and Chimps!? Sig Abbott is trying to stay in the country long enough to qualify for a medal, we don't think he'll make it! Sgt Atkinson and LCpl Harrison are on the second part of a back to back tour which we think may have mentally affected them both. Sgt Atkinson has become a very mellow, nothing is too complicated to solve, no problem too small kind of guy, we just need to find him, however, he seems to appear as if by magic when needed, very strange! Congratulations to the newly promoted LCpl Harrison when we get back the beers are on him! All's quiet in the Banja Luka Det; the most entertaining thing that's been happening here was the opening of the new bar; The Foundry. All attended the eventful evening, which was opened by the GOC MNC(SW), Maj Gen Viggers with a free drink for everyone. The opening has improved the social life on camp by far. The entertainment, which is run by the XL group, has something on very night including bingo, discos, film nights and, just recently, a FETISH party…hum, enough said on that. We are not sure all the people who turned up had to make their costumes if you know what we mean! The imagination of the participants was greatly expressed, with a few weird and wonderful costumes, which raised quite a few eyebrows but the night was enjoyed by all. The det attended but, because of working hard as they always do, did not dress up for the occasion!

DAVID BEATS GOLIATH (AGAIN)
by Sgt (SI) Bob Dunford APTC

On Sunday 28 November 1999, 7 Sig Regt and 280 (UK) Sig Sqn competed in the Krefeld Station Clay Target Shooting Competition held at Brüggen Clay Range. The two team captains, WO2 Karl Weaver (7 Sig Regt) and Sgt Bob Dunford (280 (UK) Sig Sqn) rounded up a team of five representing each unit. 7 Sig Regt went for a very high ranking team, including three Skill at Arms Instructors. 280 (UK) Sig Sqn opted for the younger team with a very wide range of trades. The 280 (UK) Sig Sqn team was Sgt (SI) Bob Dunford APTC (Capt), LCpl Steve Bennie REME, LCpl Bones Reeves REME, LCpl Robbo Robinshaw RLC and LCpl Pete Evatt RLC – spot the Signaller! The day consisted of a sporting layout of 40 birds in the first round and 20 birds in the second. The teams were mixed so no one knew who was winning until the end of the day. The Squadron team had some big troubles on the practice round, however, they settled in with the first round. LCpl 'Bones' Reeves was having a bad day, just like Karl I suppose, whilst LCpl Steve Bennie has found something he is good at apart from drinking. LCpl Pete Evatt ended up breaking more clays by shouting at them and LCpl 'Robbo' Robinshaw pulled one out of the bag after a bad start in the practice round. The team captain, Sgt (SI) Bob Dunford, started well and got better as the day went on, probably because losing is not in his vocabulary! The final score; victory to 280 (UK) Signal Squadron by a total of 147 points to 117. Remember somewhere someone is practicing and when you meet him in face to face competition he will win. (again, unlucky 7 Sig Regt).

COMPOSITE TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Stewart
Tp SSgt SSgt R. Nolan

With the deployment of the unit to Kosovo, the Troops left behind on rear details were formed together into one Composite Troop commanded by Capt Stewart. The work for rear details is always a hard one, made no less so for the Squadron finding itself in the middle of a re-organisation programme, the aim of which is to have all the equipment ready for the return of troops from Operations in preparation for IDCM next year . On the arrivals front, we welcome to the Squadron Cpl Andy Pursglove, LCpls Mallett and Pearce together with Sigs Henley and Kimberley and also welcome back from Bosnia LCpls Cunningham, Jackson and Hillson. Farewells go to the following: Cpl Kev Butler, Sigs (soon to be LCpls) Jo Ellison and Foulkes and, not least Sig Leeworthy. Good luck and best wishes to you all. Congratulations go to LCpls Dave Pendleton and Junior Sears on their selection for promotion to Corporal and for Sig Bernard Brennan for his promotion to Lance Corporal. We would also like to take the opportunity to congratulate Cpl Bernie Barnett for his selection onto the British Bob Ski First Team. Good luck to him and the team in the forthcoming championships.

A proud LCpl MacDonald of 280 (UK) Signal Squadron accompanied 7 Signal Regiment to Rhineberg Military Cemetery on 11 November 1999 and, at the designated hour, while the Regiment stood in remembrance he played a lament on Bag Pipes

MULTI NATIONAL DIVISION (SOUTH WEST) HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT BANJA LUKA

CO Lt Col David Hargreaves
RSM WO1 (RSM) 'Brummie' Lawes

The past two months have seen a complete change over at the top of the Regiment with Lt Col Ian Griffiths handing over to Lt Col David Hargreaves and WO1 (RSM) Terry Crane leaving 20 Armd Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (200) making way for WO1 (RSM) 'Brummie' Lawes. Aside from leaving dinners the Regiment has been gripped by charity fever with PTI LCpl 'Dougie' Douglas devising his own 24hr sponsored hellathon and Capt Chris 'Spritely' Crowther spurning the RAF's Trooping flights and leading a sponsored run from BLMF to Paderborn.

BLMF 24 HOUR SPONSORED EVENT – LCpl 'Dougie' Douglas

As a young soldier who had recently lost his mother to lung cancer, and who found himself working in the BLMF gym, I felt I should take it upon myself to devise a charity event that could involve individuals of all physical abilities to aid in raising funds for the people who aid cancer sufferers in their own personal struggle. The team of 36 was split into three groups with each individual exercising for two hours. The challenges were to row the distance across the English channel (21 miles), step up Mount Everest (29029ft) and cycle round the M25 (120 miles) as many times as possible in 24hours. With the amount of people based in BLMF the names soon came flooding in, only two hours had passed from the notices going up to having all 36 names! The next task was to brief the individuals and set a roster for who was doing what and when. There were surprisingly few moans when the names for 0200-0800 were read out. Sponsorship money was collected from far and wide.

When Sig 'Jaffa' Jefferson went on his adventure-training week no one was safe from his ruthless sponsor requests. When the event came around all gathered to see the first team start their 6hr stint. A great sense of team spirit was formed in a short period of time. All participants put in a superb effort but a special mention should go to Sig Bernie Ellis who completed the furthest distance in his 2-hr period. He managed to cover 80.4kms while the furthest in a 30min stint was Flt Lt Mardon (NZAF) covering a massive 21.3kms. Some outstanding efforts were made on the rower too; Capt Al Fawcett covered just under 30kms in his two hour period. On the stepper however the distance war was fought hard between the graveyard shift boys. Cpl Llody Jones, LCpl Dougie Douglas and LCpl Matt Coverley promised they would not race each other. However, with two of them being PTI's and the other Para trained all thoughts of non-competitiveness went out the window. However it was LCpl Douglas who came through, also being the only individual to complete the height of Everest. An equally fierce battle was fought between the officers. Lts Rhidian Jones and Paul Randell took great pleasure in pushing Capt Stokoe all the way with their efforts on the stepper, with Lt Jones coming out on top. The total distances covered in 24hrs were:

The rowing team crossed the channel 10.4 times
The stepping team climbed Everest 10.2 times
The cycling team went round the M25 4.3 times

The money is now flowing in thick and fast and we hope to have raised DM6500. This money will then be taken to London and presented to the Imperial Cancer Research Fund by those members of 249 Sig Sqn who took part in the event, on behalf of all those who helped raise every penny.

A RESERVIST'S PERSPECTIVE - LCpl Griffin 38 Sig Regt (V)

I arrived in Bosnia in early July and was posted up to Banja Luka Metal Factory to work in Mobile Troop with 1 Mech for about six weeks until they ended their tour and 20 Armd Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (200) and 249 Sig Sqn AMF (L) arrived. Working alongside regular members of Mobile Troop I have learnt lots from the lads, who have all worked hard to show and teach me things I wouldn't have normally learnt in my TA role. While I've been here I've been quite busy and I have been out and about in the local area on many details. Amongst these the most interesting was being tasked to work with 14 Sigs for a few weeks in which we seemed to cover most of Bosnia. I also spent time as the CO's driver for several weeks and on a hill top rebro site at Radalici as a Det Commander. Again the lads had to show me round some of the kit I hadn't touched in the TA, but it was not long before I was settled in at the site. Overall I've had a very good tour while serving with the Regiment and I would recommend it to any TA soldier.

MOBILE TROOP – by Cpl 'Sammy' Samuel
Tp Comd Lt Paul Randell
Tp SSgt SSgt Steve Griffiths

The tour has only been four months(with cries of 'thank god' from many) and it's been a varied four months. On arrival in theatre most people reached for the sun cream and shades, but by the time that the redeployment flights were due the winter clothing and thermals were getting well used. Within Mobile Troop we have managed to fulfil our role and any tasking sent our way, with the most notable event work wise being the successful 'Light Forward HQ' set up which has given the green light for all armoured signals vehicles to be pulled out of theatre. No more 43's in Bos from now on!! There has been a lot of in theatre training with Staff Steve 'Don't mention his height' Griffiths pushing the troop to come up with many varied ideas to keep everyone on their toe's. Cpl Matt Witham deserves a line or two for his 'Super Tom' event. This was a close run event and was finally won by Sig Matt Coverley, although he was nearly beaten by Sig 'Yoda' Scott who came a close second. Sig 'Jaffa' Jefferson won the best instructor award. Other memories of the tour we shall all take with us include LCpl 'Oz' Ozmond's sponsored Three Circles team run, Sig 'Crusty 12 crashes' Wellers award of 'Driver of the Month' presented to him by the GOC and Cpl 'Robbo' Robertson and LCpl Kev Rutherford deciding which of the 300 plus letters to reply to after putting an advert in the Mirror for pen pals.

TROOP RANGE DAY – by Sig 'Crusty' Weller

The day began with an early start and after a long drive we arrived at the range, a typical Bosnian affair littered with lots of debris consisting of about six cars and numerous empty paint and fuel cans. The activities started with an introduction to Dutch firearms including the Glock pistol forcing many of the troop to adopt their hard as nails pose especially Cpl Sammy 'I never take my ops vest off' Samuel and Sig Elvis 'I saw this in Bad Boys' Jones. The safest place during firing was probably behind the target! As well as the Glock we also fired the Dutch version of the Colt Commando 5.56 which compared to the SA 80 was a much easier weapon to control. We then went on to do a local weapons introduction, prompting more 'do I look hard with this?' photos. After a bit of trip flare/mine training and some lunch provided by the ever resourceful BLMF cookhouse and a GMPG refresher we were ready to fire and get some serious rounds down with Cpl Matt 'I love this gun' Witham and Cpl Robbo 'Get some' Robertson leading the way. The day finished with a fire team falling plate competition at 100m. This was followed with many arguments of 'I knocked down more plates than you' and 'I got at least 20' by many of the Troop who were involved. Finally it was time to tidy up and start on the long drive back to Banja Luka.

The Troop says a fond farewell to Sgt Jase Raybould and Sig Russ Welburn who war dodge to go on skiing holidays in Norway, LCpl 'Ben' Whitley and Sig Jim 'The Names Bond' Gallagher who sadly leaves us for a pre-xmas break at Colchester. Never mind Jim, you almost had the Brig fooled! Also congratulations from the troop to Cpl John Reardon and his wife Sarah on the birth of their baby girl whilst we were out on tour and to Sigs Tina Ainge, 'Scouse' Bennett, Mat Coverley, Bernie Ellis, 'Harry' Ramsden and Kev Rutherford on their selection for promotion to Lance Corporal. Are there any siggys left out there in the Corps??.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP - by Sig Olly Mason
Tp Comd Lt Rhidian Jones
Tp SSgt SSgt Jim Crabb

Driving up the hill towards Radaljica presented Cpl John Walsh and myself with our first view of the hilltop site that for the next four months we would call home. The sparse Hesco walls that surrounded the site, along with the wooden lookout towers were reminiscent of a fort. Once inside however it was a completely different matter, the site was constructed of corrimecs joined together by a long, covered corridor, containing all mod cons, showers, sky television, and a well equipped Gym to name but a few. Our job on the site was to provide a RRB link on two VHF Nets as well as a Euromux phone Relay facility. As both of us were Radio operators we were not familiar with the relay kit and consequently expected that the third member of our crew would be. When Sig Mark Harris turned up a few days later, and was asked by Cpl John Walsh to show us how to work the relay equipment he told us that he had no idea either as he was a radio op as well!! This aside we quickly became familiar with our detachment, and soon worked out how to use the Relay kit. The first month was spent sorting out the detachment and getting used to the place, and therefore passed quickly. Likewise the second month was equally hectic with people going on R&R, and during the third month, with the onset of cold weather we winterised our equipment. However as the sun turned to rain, and then snow, time started to drag and we all began to look forward to going home. For the vast majority of the time our senses of humour prevailed and we remained in good spirits. With comic interludes, such as the time I was instructed by the site commander and Cpl Walsh to bake flapjack. After five minutes I was evicted from the kitchen as the two Det Commanders enthusiastically set about the task. Or the time in which Sig Mark Harris patiently waited on the roof with a huge pile of snowballs for twenty minutes until I went outside for a cigarette, needless to say his dedication paid off and I barely escaped with my life. The great trick when spending a long period of time on a isolated hilltop site seems to be in keeping oneself occupied, and thanks to the gym, television and welfare books this is not such a hard task. Once the novelty of being in a new place has worn off and R&R has come and gone the final slog is always the hard part, however with good humour and a forward looking mind it's really not all that bad.

7 SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Lt Col D. A. H. Jones
RSM WO1 (RSM) S. Smoothy

BIG BREW DAY
AND THE PADRE'S PEDALLING PILGRIMAGE

SSAFA's Big Brew Day was celebrated at all locations in Kosovo as well as back in Krefeld. Staff Officers were coerced into buying tea thanks to most of the soldiers in the Regiment who assisted at the various stalls. The chefs had done us proud by making hundreds of doughnuts to sell which then subsequently travelled great distances across Kosovo. Some survived the journey better than others. The Italian SAN were selling them as rock cakes. Their greatest achievement was to sell a cup of tea for 20DM. The German SAN meanwhile had to give a list to the German General of all those Officers who did not buy a cup of tea. That's the spirit. At KFOR Main there was hardly time for the kettle to boil.

Having recovered from this day it was the Padre Lee Gandiya's turn to prepare for his return home. He has spent most of the tour on the road visiting soldiers or telling everyone how much fitness training he does when nobody is around. To prove the latter he finally came up with a plan. The idea was to cycle around Kosovo visiting all locations of 7 Sig Regt personnel and conduct a field service before saying goodbye. Most people thought he was joking until the bikes appeared, were serviced and marked KFOR by Sig Ransom and the go ahead was obtained by Maj Stuart Hodges from KFOR G3 Ops who must have raised some eyebrows.

En route
The Padre-Revd Lee Gandiya, the RSM-WO1 Steve Smoothy, the CO-Lt Col David Jones and Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond

The Padre and Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond, his accomplice, began their journey at 5.50am at the Goles on a Tuesday morning at the beginning of a hot summer's day. When they arrived at Pec at 6.30 that evening the CO's search party was just about to leave. It had been 147km in second for LCpl Todd and Sig Brampton in the support vehicle but it had provided much entertainment because the Padre was collapsing at every opportunity. Day Two was all about coping with being saddle sore. They made it to the German SAN in Prizren in good time to spend an hour in the showers before spending a quiet evening dreading the thought of the big hill on the way to Urosevac tomorrow. Day Three was the home stretch but there was one hurdle that was still in the way. After over an hour cycling uphill, the downhill at last arrived and the race to the US SAN began for a Burger King lunch. With much licking of lips the duo headed back to Pristina for an interview with BFBS. Next was a heroes welcome courtesy of 231 Sqn at KFOR Main, where they had lined the route before rolling slowly back to Ech to be welcomed by HQ Squadron, having cycled 351km. There had been no intention to raise any money but the interest generated brought offers of sponsorship as well as a few sweepstakes. Lt James kindly had gone collecting and put up a map of Kosovo in KFOR Main which plotted the location of the cyclists. These two events together raised over 2000DM for SSAFA and left the Padre unable to sit down.

Sqn Comd Maj Paul Bosher
SSM WO2 (SSM) Chris Ward

For a couple of months it looked like we would never deploy. All we heard were the war stories from the heroes of 232 Sig Sqn while they were sitting in Macedonia waiting for the big push across the border. Then as we got into June we got the nod and our advance party of Maj Paul 'Tact and diplomacy' Bosher, WO2 (SSM) Chris 'Gadget man' Ward, WO2 FofS 'Elvis' Ruxton and Sgt '232 Reject' Drewitt deployed at short notice as part of the high powered recce team looking for sites for HQ KFOR Main. Meanwhile, the Regt Recce officer, Capt Jim 'Every Opportunity' Boyle stayed back with the rest of the Squadron until a site had been found!! That's how it works isn't it? Welcome to SSgt (YofS) Jase Budding who arrived at 0800hrs in Lt Wts and was on a coach to RAF Bruggen by 1000hrs dressed in Combat 95 - straight out of the packet. Farewells go to his brother SSgt Carl Budding who left on promotion to 21 Sig Regt, WO1 FofS Alex Scott who left on promotion to 1 (UK) Div and finally to WO2 Hodge 'Death from Above' Arthurs who went to Aldershot on promotion. Just as we get rid of a couple of social hand grenades, we get a new Foreman and Yeoman!

KFOR MAIN MAN SITE
OC Lt 'Mrs Merton' James

Sig 'Blondie' Walker, Sig 'Buzz Lightyear' McKay, Sig 'Spin' Baines and Sig Reddy 'Aim, Fire', managed to get the chance to go on a one week patrol around the Serbian village of Slivovo with 4 Armd Bde. This was a great experience and a chance to break the routine of shift working with some real soldiering. Our main tasks being VCP's, house searches, and general 'hearts and minds' patrolling. The village and surrounding countryside were very picturesque with dogs, pigs and cows roaming free. Although the villagers were very friendly towards us, they were less friendly to the animals. The dogs were beaten, the pigs slaughtered and the less said about the cows the better! Unfortunately, after five days, the attachment ended and reluctantly we had to return to KFOR MAIN to carry on with the more routine task of stagging on a radio set, but we will leave with some excellent memories and a great experience from our first tour since leaving Blandford.

Meanwhile in the Message Centre under the watchful eye of Sgt Tony Downing, the faxes keep on coming. After months of waiting in Macedonia, the original crew of LCpls John McGee, Ritchie Applegarth, Sigs Matt Childs, Rory Grant, Ronnie Barker, Louise Allen and Emily Constable, eventually got the green light to cross into Kosovo. We opened for business in Film City, Pristina on 19 June 1999 and spent the first few days adjusting to our new surroundings, cursing the Lineys and Techs and generally getting things ship shape, in readiness for the arrival of the staff. We also had to assist with getting the MAN site up and running, under the direction of SSgt Archie Gemmell and Sgt Andy Mapstone, with Lt Ben Howarth looking on. Sigs Rory Grant and Matt Childs both gave themselves hernias moving Cossors and Trends from the wagon into the building while LCpl John McGee supervised, and Sigs Louise Allen and.Emily Constable....well, they watched.

We gained a few new operators during the following few weeks, by way of Sig Andy Reddy, Sig Matt Ruddy and Sig 'Smudge' Smith. Members of the crew were also involved in the Squadron project, repairing and cleaning up a local junior school, under the direction of the SSM, WO2 Chris 'Where's my MBE?' Ward. Towards the end of the project, Sig 'Piccasso' Childs was once again called into action, and came up with a Mickey Mouse design for the entrance to the school. We all like to think that we have made a difference in some way, and that the kids who use the school can now get back to normal, doing the sort of stuff all our sons and daughters take for granted.

R & R has now come and gone and the end of tour is fast approaching. Apart from a little DIY surgery by Sig Matt 'The Blade' Ruddy, things have been relatively quiet. I'm sure that Matt's scar will turn into some kind of war wound once he starts talking to the ladies back home! It's been a good tour and the crew has gelled nicely together. Some people have learned a lot about themselves and have come out the other end better for it. We are now looking forward to getting back to the real world, and some well earned leave. Who knows what next year will bring? (Falklands - Hot off the press)

SRG AND RADIO
OC Lt Steve Jones

Welcome to Sgt Dean Wilson and congratulations on his recent promotion. It didn't take long before the staff realised that there was a fleet of Taxis with secure mobile comms available for day trips! Once they did, the demanding role of the SRG Troop meant that everyone got the chance to visit most places in Kosovo and beyond. The KLA livened things up for us, with their impromptu parties which meant that gunfire was a common sound as the alcohol took effect and they carried out 'Beirut unloads'. It also meant that the COMKFOR wanted a proper TAC HQ stood by ready to go at short notice. With SSgt (YofS) Jase Budding on R & R, Sgt Tony 'Many Hats' Downing had to get a comms plan together while Sgt Dean Wilson and LCpl Mick Devlin waved a magic wand and pulled the manpower, vehicles and equipment out of a hat. After some hard graft and more long hours, the TAC HQ was ready for unveiling to the endless stream of Staff Officers and Brigadiers. They all left very impressed, knowing that at last they had seen a proper TAC HQ.

SAN 678 AT THE GREEK SUPPORT BRIGADE
OC Lt Ben Howarth

The arrival in theatre of the Greek Support Brigade in mid August saw the creation of the Greek SAN and the personnel to man it was pooled from all four of the deployed Regiments. However, on the initial recce of the site in Kosovo Polje, a British Environmental Health Team deemed the site to be uninhabitable due to the fact the site was used as a slaughter house prior to the Greek occupation. A bit of a clue might have been the strong smell of dead animals and the numerous bones left lying around the place! After ten days or so the EHT satisfied themselves that the Greeks had done enough to clean the place up and it was finally given a clean bill of health. It was then a mad rush to get the SAN in and working. One of the main problems encountered, was with the erratic power supply in the building. After some minor equipment deaths, LCpl 'Laughing boy' Ross had the situation under control. The SAS/MC crew of LCpl Steve Ritchie, Sig 'Maintenance' Wood and Sig Jimmy Murray had to endure the loudest generator in the world. However, Sgt Pete Asplen came up with a cunning plan and by using an old car exhaust solved the problem and we all got good nights sleep. The SAN CP is now established and manned by Sig Thomas and Sig Turpie who have quickly gained a knowledge of TACSAT, a bit of LAN software and how many sugars SSgt Andy Saunders takes. The RR crew of Cpl Dave Pope, LCpl Andy Ackers and Sig Matt Parvin have found that they not only have to provide the links, but also the mains power for the rest of the site. A recent edition to our ranks has been Sig Walter Keown our DE, who is now back from R & R, who made an immediate impact on his first day back when he sent our Land Rover works ticket on a tour of Kosovo. Fortunately, the Canadian who found it 10kms away, gave it back to us.

SAN 870 AT THE FRENCH BRIGADE
OC 2Lt Mayne

As the end if the tour here draws near, SAN 870 continues its endless quest to provide comms for the French Brigade based in Mitrovica. The end of July saw a change of OC for the SAN as Lt Noakes departed for a well earned rest, and the start of an arduous adventurous training expedition. Despite being relieved to go she left many good acquaintances, and many of the French have missed the bunches in her hair which were a famous site around camp. 2Lt Mayne fresh from his Troop Commanders course came to take over, and rapidly had to start revising all his language skills that hadn't been in practice for over eight years. There have been many people coming and going from the SAN but the main players have remained throughout, including SSgt George Farrar, LCpl Al Ryall, and LCpl 'Monica' Cooper, who now has an all female SAS/MC crew consisting of Sig Constable and Sig Clarke. Our LAN manager Sig Brown continues to be busy as the French Staff seem to change on a weekly basis, so he continues to be called out at all times of the day to answer highly technical questions such as, 'How do I put paper in the printer!' Fortunately he has managed to keep himself sane by acquainting himself with as many of the female G6 counterparts who we work with as possible. However, he has now been replaced by LCpl Dainty as the powers that be have decided to send him back to Germany before the French drive him totally around the bend.

Relations with the French continue to go well spearheaded by LCpl Beacher and Sig Collins at the Relay site, and by LCpl Gauchi and Sig Maskell in the Bar. As well as smaller events such as the odd game of soccer, Mitrovica was host to a Royal Signals 'v' the French rugby match. This was attended by the SOinC Brig Burton, and unsurprisingly the Signals were victorious with a 10-0 victory, which I am reliably informed was all thanks to SAN 870's star player Sig Howard. The welfare situation has improved dramatically with a steady flow of videos now coming up to Mitrovica, and we now have a fully functional gym. But most important of all is the weekly BBQ we have, with food provided from the cookhouse in Pristina, which gives everyone an extremely welcome break from the cuisine that is served up by the French. The highlight of September's entertainment was the first (and probably the last) SAN 870 annual conker competition with a 5DM entry fee and the top prize of a slab of Fosters. In total, 170DM was raised by the evenings events which was donated to ADRA, which is one of the charities working locally to re-house people within Mitrovica. The money was put to good use with the purchase of a Bread Oven for one family, and a Gas Heater for another. As the promised return from theatre date looms closer all of the SAN's personnel are looking forward to returning home, but above that everyone wants to be able to get away from the French cookhouse and back to good old British food.

SAN 874 AT THE US BRIGADE - By LCpl Brewington
OC 2Lt Noble

As a Class 3 Tech fresh from Blandford, being told I was posted to a SAN in Kosovo came as quite a surprise. However I did not get much of a chance to think about it. We had previously driven the vehicles to Southampton and after a couple of days leave, we assembled in York ready to fly from Leeds-Bradford to Thessaloniki. The first thing that hit me when the doors were opened and I stepped off the plane was the heat, it was the middle of the night and the temperature was that of a good summers day in the UK. The next big thing to happen was the issue of ammunition, body armour and morphine. It was at this point, just before the Kosovo border, that reality kicked in and feelings of apprehension replaced those of excitement. Looking at the faces around me, I wasn't the only one to feel this way. We finally ended up at 7 Sig Regt Ech in Pristina. Sgt Sam 'Snakehips' Faulds smiled as he told us our first task was with 5 Airborne Brigade in Lipljan. When we got back to Ech we heard a rumor that the US Bde would require a SAN in a couple of weeks when, they finally decided to join the operation and leave their ship. When this was confirmed it was decided that a three hour recce would be a good idea. Sgt Faulds, LCpl Rickard and Cpl Billy 'Happy-go-lucky' Morris returned THREE DAYS later. They brought with them tales that would make even the bravest of men fall asleep, and of course some camp cots and some MRE's. When we eventually got to the US Brigade there was a lot of hard work to be done to make it habitable but it was well worth it. Conveniently most of this hard work was done when LCpl Tim Ralley was on R&R. Thankfully he was at home when his daughter Haley was born and was given a much deserved extra week off. Needless to say we all had our 'two' cans when he returned with the good news. The only real problems now are the fact that the generators don't like generating but LCpl Chris 'it's the fuel pump' Weston somehow manages to keep power to the TV, video and fridge etc... oh yeah and the vehicles. Recently our old SAN OC, Lt Jackson, was replaced by 2Lt Noble whom we welcomed with a few donuts. I don't think this gesture was fully appreciated, until a few days later when he felt better.

SAN 876 at the ITALIAN BRIGADE
OC 2Lt Lawson

Welcome to 2Lt 'Alison' Lawson, SSgt 'Big D' Robertson, LCpls Dave Hallway, 'Manic' Mundy, Ricki Currren, Sigs J.P. Phillips, Kate Leaning, Matt Burkin, Ian Walker, and Dave Harmison. Goodbyes though to Lt 'Pierre' Farrimond, SSgt Stef Newton, LCpl 'Where's the beach?' Rhodes, Sig 'Jo' Guest, Sig 'Dick' Turpie, and newly promoted

Cpl Rose. As you can see SAN 876 has had quiet a turn-around in manning, this seemed to brighten things up a little.

With the Italians on the move again this time with their Brigade Ops room going to the other side of the river, needless to say, there was only on thing on Cpl 'Shark' Wilson's mind - watch my fibre! We soon found out that the present Garibaldi Bde which we had supported since the start was going home to make way for the new Ariete Bde. The General's leaving party was very memorable with the SAN crew (entertaining as ever) leaving the party with almighty applause from the General downwards. We left on our knees, singing the HiHo song from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. The SAN has also been involved in some G5 work. A number of Aid agencies had requested our help, so we set about various tasks. These included cleaning up a park and a war torn school (where Sigs Andy Porter and Adam Gallard using their very own special methods to remove windows). We also errected five massive tents in local villages so that they could be used as schools.

It's not all work and no play here, generally we have a BBQ every weekend with food supplied by 7 Sig Regt Ech thanks to Sgt Tam Buskie - a big thank you from everyone here for that. Themes have been introduced to these nights ranging from a 'Rolf Harris' night to a Spanish night. While in Pec the Italian Bde have started up their very own radio station, MNB West FM, and asked us Brits to have an hour show daily. This slot was hosted by Cpl 'Biff' Smith, LCpl Chris Rhodes and SAC Bevers. Sig Matt Burton has taken over the role now LCpl Rhodes has gone home. In the last few weeks, a Sunday show has been released, starring, SSgt 'Big D' Robertson and the Ginger Princes - LCpl Dave Hallway and Sig Stu Cragg. The smoothest DJ's in Kosovo with their silky tunes and razor sharp humour.

OC Lt Emma Fawcett

There have been many changes since our arrival, as we have moved four times while the Engineers, who have worked extremely hard, have established a more permanent camp. The Russian contingent are also based here which has been very interesting, with their political acts of defiance every so often, by way of blocking access to the site - just because they can! A recent departure from the SAN was LCpl 'Scouse' Fearns who just managed to disappear before the OC came back from R&R - suspicious! He was replaced by Cpl 'Silverback' Hawkins who brought with him his wry humour much to Sig 'Text Message' Robbs delight. Feeling outnumbered by the boys in blue, we made our allegiances with the only other Army unit on the camp, 53 Fd Sqn RE. It is there custom that at the end of an evenings entertainment in the bar they sing. It was on such an occasion that we found a hidden talent when Sig 'HEEED' Harley surprised everyone by singing the loudest and longest rendition of Miss American Pie that we had heard for a long time. LCpl 'GI Jane' Moses is a late arrival to the SAN replacing LCpl 'Bandi Asif' Smith who leaves us to complete his Class 1 course. We said goodbye to him in true SAN 884 style, with help from personnel from the other dets in Pristina. Don't worry LCpl Smith, the photos are safe with me! The SAN has thrown itself into helping G5 projects, one is called Oscar (1 x puppy) saved after its mother was killed. Particularly keen fathers are Sig 'Loverman' Vasey and LCpl 'Rat Boy' Limbert. The second project is an Albanian school local to the APOD. Most of the SAN were involved and Sig Vasey in particular acquired a young friend who talked him into parting with his beret and cam cream. What do they say about working with animals and children? The SAN did all they could to avoid it, but finally the dreaded 'which end will it come out of next' lurgy arrived. Sig 'M C Hammer' Stephen was the worst hit, resulting in being a stone lighter as he emerged from the medical centre isolation ward! On the whole, the SAN has enjoyed its time at the APOD. Working with the RAF has definitely been an experience. The OC has even managed to catch Sgt Howes out by acting more insane than he does.

3 DSR RADCON
IC Sgt Jim Watt

Since we last put pen to paper, RADCON has been downsized with vehicles and personnel repatriated back to the UK. Amongst those that we have sent on their way are LCpls ' I do all the work' Lyon and 'Wrath of the Lord' Danter. For those of us who remain, work and life goes on. LCpl Kenny Irwin and his RRB, were saved from the indignity of serving their entire tour in Macedonia when they were extracted from their hill to Pristina, under a cunning plan devised by Cpl Guido Giddens. We now have only one RRB to resup, which has cut down on our workload and has allowed us to send Sig Stu Ions patrolling with the KRH, who survived this clash of cultures. We continue to hold our own against our 7 Sigs hosts in the quiz and sporting stakes, which is the highlight of our social week. The end is now in sight and by the time this is published we shall be back in Bulford, no doubt saying 'I wish I was back in Kosovo!'.

TORNADO TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Graham Wills
Tp SSgt SSgt Neil Cooper

Since the Troop last added their edition to The Wire, there have been some changes to the Troop. However, we still remain in Kosovo acting as the key Ptarmigan Comms troop operating just West of the capital Pristina. We have received some new faces and characters recently, most importantly being that of Sgts Carter and Hulse who have the arduous task of filling Sgts Uttley and Cassidy's shoes. Sgt Carter has joined us fresh from ATR Bassingbourn and has picked up the trait of shouting at everything that moves out of step or doesn't have razor sharp creases. Finally Sgt Hulse has joined us from 16 Sig Regt and has already enforced his own high cleanliness standards on to the Troop with many a raised eyebrow. LCpl Shilton has joined us straight from training to become the Troops Tech and has already broken everything he has touched... no change there.

We are still playing an important part in the Kosovo mission and remain in Pristina. Over the last month we were given the order to move from our home in the clouds at hill '1097' and move down to an abandoned Serbian Barracks on the outskirts of the City. A lot of planning and late nights were had before the move but thanks to everyone including Cpls Keiron Slack and Bob Green the move went relatively well except for one major reason, our Switch rolled on to its side. Whether it was Sig Chris Brown trying to achieve what Evil Kanevil failed to do, or maybe just a ramp shaped piece of rock, I don't think we will ever find out. Nevertheless the Switch was beached on to its side, with two rather shaken signallers in the front who were luckily unhurt.

The rest of the move went very well and we are now situated on a large area of hard standing surrounded by Canadian infantry, Royal Engineers and most importantly BFBS. The weeks are passing quickly and towards the beginning of November we aim to be back in sunny York for some well earned rest and relaxation with our loved ones. The tour has been a great learning process for all. By the time you read this we will be in cool garages rather than hot trucks. Finally congratulations must be given to LCpl Richard Scott who has recently come off the board to get promoted to Corporal, and will fit in easily with the rest of the elite troop Corporals.

ROMAN TROOP – MITROVICA
Tp Comd Lt Adam Honor
Tp SSgt SSgt Chris Symonds

Roman Tp arrived at the barren bomb damaged wasteland that is known as the Goles feature in early August. Immediately work commenced creating a flurry of activity in order to get the location as homely as possible, sooner rather than later. The first of our shower 'productions' was soon proven to have greater airborne aerodynamics than showering practicalities as during one of our first 'light breezes' the construction took to the air like a well designed kite! The Goles accommodation came in various shapes and styles. Starting with the popular more traditional 9x9 through to the Wigwam design preferred by Cpl Findlay and ending finally with the dark and damp conditions provided by the several underground bunkers. All accommodation however, whether large or small, came with a varied selection of mice and rats. The latter provided amusement for the troops when Cpl Mandy Foster ran semi-naked around the Node Home due to a rather large specimen which was running riot amongst the contents of her tent.

Our exceptionally 'picturesque' location has become something of a tourist attraction. During our stay we have seen a constant flow of visitors from various countries, numerous Corps and every rank under the sun who have come to wish us well and view the spectacular bomb damage of our luxurious site.

Whilst on operations the Troop said a fond farewell to LCpl Eyre who will be moving onto educate the up and coming soldiers of 11 Sig Regt in Sys Ex. We would like to wish him all the best for the future. The Troop would also like to welcome Sgt Jim Davidson who joins the Troop from 259 Sig Sqn in Cyprus. The Troop are now planning and looking forward to it's return to the UK with staggered dates of mid October and early November. Finally we would like to congratulate LCpl Nealey on his recent miraculous promotion.

11 SIGNAL BRIGADE PROJECT TEAM COMMERCIALISING KOSOVO

A report from Theatre by Capt (TOT) Jim Hiorns

In September, Commander 11 Sig Bde was tasked with delivering PJHQs CIS strategy for the Balkans. Ultimately these changes will result in reduced troop deployment and fewer tours in the Balkans. The need to meet this task has led to the formation of a small project team consisting of the SO2 Ops - Maj Jim Foulkes, the SO3 Ops - Flt Lt Farid Khan, and the SO3 CEC - Capt John Hiorns. Following a hectic hand-over of current work to an already overworked and underpaid Capt Jim Sykes, (his words - he loves it really) and a trip to UNTAT, the team deployed to Kosovo on 22 September 1999. Not long after this we were joined by a CPDLO from Germany, WO2 (FofS) Colin Mackay, and converted him to CPDLO Balkans.

Since then life has been a series of short periods out here with HQ MNB(C), currently 19 Mech Bde Sig Sqn, and vital trips back to UK (or in one case Paris!) for meetings with contractors or DPA. Whilst there has been every concern for our welfare and wellbeing, we do have the impression that actually there should be more thought given over to the spouses left behind; in the first two weeks of our deployment they have managed between them to write-off two cars and damage a third!

In November Flt Lt Farid Khan left for the UK thinking he had managed 30 concurrent days in theatre to qualify for his first medal (without actually serving with the RAF yet). It was with relish that someone informed him that the days of arrival and departure don't count! Fortunately the Pristina Bar football championships finished with a win for our man from the RAF and a first medal for the good Flight Lieutenant (a skill he honed in his student days - he tells us). Amazingly, a second medal has been awarded to our man in blue in recognition of his dogged persistence and commitment to his camp cot to win the 'staying in bed the longest and claiming he had been to do some PT before work' championships. On the subject of medals, he has a long way to go to catch up with Maj Simon 'Seven Medals' Meadowcroft from 2 Sig Regt who took over as the SO2 J6 with the NSE. There is no truth in the rumour that he immediately ran up a telephone bill of DM 1.5 million phoning back to York to convince the remainder of the Regt Ops team that he really had deployed himself this time.

Finally we had better give mention to WO2 (FofS) Ian Outterson who will be taking over as the SCIDA once he has been briefed fully by the CPDLO and accreditation guru WO2 (FofS) Colin Mackay. He also has the thankless task of sorting out mobile and PTT telephone bills so for those that know him, he is even more 'follically' challenged now. At present his main concern is trying to persuade the SO2 J6 to reduce the number of trips he is having to make to the OSCE building with Maj Simon Meadowcroft following his discovery of lots of young secretaries in that building. Seemingly he now insists in personally clearing all frequencies with the OSCE since they assumed the role from KFOR! More news will follow in the next edition with an update of the ongoing Projects both here and in Bosnia.

COURT AND SOCIAL
The Headquarters Christmas Party

It is well known fact that 11 Sig Bde always lead the way – well that's the reason we give for having our Christmas party on the 3 December. This year it was organised by our Chief Clerk WO2 Shaun 'What me write an article for another Corps' Magazine?' Flannery AGC. The venue chosen was the local Golf and Country Club. The day started well enough with the farewell visit of the GOC 5 Div, Maj Gen R. V. Searby, who during his flying visit found time, amongst other things, to join us for a sherry and mince pies. Following the visit and a bottle of sherry later we made our way to the Shropshire where on arrival we were met by WO2 Flannery who offered everyone a free drink. One does not like to shatter illusions but the free drink was inclusive and not from his pocket.

As the 24 Regular TA and civilian members of the Headquarters sat down the first thing to do was open a present which had been left on their respective chair. The presents were to the value of £5 and had been bought by someone else in the Headquarters, as a variation on the bran tub. Once opened the delight in some was evident! The gifts ranged from edible under garments for the Bde YofS, WO1 (YofS) Graham Pardew to a box of apples and potatoes for Maj Peter Williams. It is left to ones knowledge of the individual to guess who's first words were 'Oh my God.' or 'The numpty who bought this should have realised it was £5 in value not 5lb in weight,' (before seeing the rather nice bottle of wine hidden behind a large potato). It would be attention grabbing to say the extra drinks were served by a Bunny Girl and that one of our clerical support team, Vicky 'When do I get mentioned in The Wire' Sutherland did a table dance wearing her present of pink bunny girl ears and tail. But we cannot, as it would be lying! It was an excellent party, as was the food, with many choices of dish with each course. However, one raw red meat eating young man, who shall remain nameless, ordered the stew in error, not realising it was the vegetarian dish! Being a man of strong character and principle he refused to change no matter how many times we offered. All in all and excellent but noisy occasion - letters of apology have been sent.

HAIL AND FAREWELL

The Bde Comd, Brig Jonathan Cook found time, between trips to Kosovo, Bosnia, Egypt, Germany and NI and winning his class in the 5 Div orienteering Championship, to attend the Christmas Party. While there, he took the opportunity to say farewell to those who were leaving. Maj Jean Payne leaves us after six years to join the TA All Arms Watch-Keeping pool. The Commander took time to highlight her achievements, her Adventure Training exploits, her three operational tours and her banditry on the golf course. We wish her and Andy all the best for the future. Capt Jim Sykes was also bid farewell and the Commander remarked on the number of career moves he has made over the last years; such as wandering around hotels in his underclothes and having a son who practices karate, on the Commander! We will all miss his cheerfulness, helpfulness youthfulness and generosity. We hope he is not to disappointed by not being posted as Trg Maj to one of our TA units and wish him and Vicky all the best in their next posting. We look forward to meeting his replacement Capt Richard Gamble who Jim tells us has a penchant for fast horses, slow women and wearing the tightest jeans he can get into.

NEWS FROM NORTHERN IRELAND

XV HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN IRELAND & 15 SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Lt Col J. G. T. Rafferty
RSM WO1 (RSM) A. Balsdon

EXERCISE LEWAIGUE FINN DATED 05-19 SEPTEMBER 1999
by Sgt Chris Hood

Two weeks adventure training was organised for HQ Sqn, 15 Sig Regt on the Isle of Man in September 1999. Cries a plenty from those attending of rain and snow storms soon fell on deaf ears as the organisers were doing a sun dance. A total of twenty-two personnel attended this gruelling two-week training camp which on their arrival brief they would enjoy. The two weeks consisted of ten volunteers of all ranks, from the RSM Al 'Tight Shorts' Balsdon to Sig 'Foxy' Shields. They would soon familiarise themselves with sea-kayaking, canoeing, mountain biking, climbing and abseiling around the Isle of Man. The first great challenge came when the RSM had to convince SSgt 'Tractor' McCulloch that cycling thirty miles across hill and vale was not very far, needless to say 'Tractor' did not agree with him the next day as he was doing his John Wayne impression. Next to overcome his fear of adventure training was LCpl 'Sealegs' Lafferty who after kicking and screaming was placed in a kayak by the instructors and told to paddle, and keep the kayak straight. Sgt Hood duly arrived at Port Erin to collect the kayakers only to ponder the question to the instructors 'Who can't you get out of the water?' LCpl Lafferty had grown fins and scales, one-nil to adventure training instructors. The climbers meanwhile had moved down to Dhoon Bay under the able instruction of Capt 'Spiderman' Howell-Walmsley, after walking two miles to the climb site Capt H-W was greeted by ooohhs and ahhs when he explained the climbs which would be followed by a quick thrash in the Irish Sea! Cpl 'Don't look down' Redford stalled on his ascent but, after lots of not looking down successfully, reached the summit only to be told he had to look down to abseil to the bottom.

Cpl Angie Richardson - Great PR picture

Cpl Redford duly reached the bottom only to be faced with icy cold Irish Sea, two-nil to the adventure-training instructors. The final task was for the teams to compete in the team building competition at the Adventure Centre.

After the teams had been set challenges of both a physical and mental nature they were soon off in pursuit of the coveted Adventure Centre Trophy which turned into the Battle of the Millennium. Pte 'Cook for five thousand' Cranny started with an exhibition of sharp shooting never before seen on the island to elevate his team towards the title. The opposing team duly replied with a scintillating performance on the obstacle course to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat. The CO, Lt Col Rafferty, visited the adventure-training site and was surprised and impressed with the professionalism of the adventure training. To summarise, the two-week camp achieved the aim of relieving the stress of Province commitments and also spurred on some future adventure-training instructors.

The Officers & Seniors challenged the Juniors of the Squadron to a 'Friendly' game of rugby, which had all the pre-match banter of an England v Scotland footy game, scores of 40 plus being forecast by both teams and bets of fantastic figures being placed. The game kicked off at an incredible rate of knots. The Seniors, ably captained by WO2 'Freddie Mercury' Downie, dominated the tight play and using a well worked forward move drove Capt Hargreaves over for the first try. The Juniors replied with a try by Cpl Jay Waites and some very nifty footwork by LCpl 'Foxy' Fox. At the interval the score was 5-5 and both teams had suffered casualties, LCpl Byron Marshall had a hand that was DEFINITELY the wrong size and shape having broken his wrist and Capt 'Chippy' Carpenter visited the medics for stitches to the head. The second half erupted with the seniors using their forward bulk, in the shape of Capt Chris Lamb and SSgt Paul Dunn, to drive the juniors to within a metre of their own line and Sgt Loz Hill going over after a quick penalty move. From here on in the Juniors passed the ball wide as LCpl Babs Woodhouse combined with 'Foxy' and Cpl 'Fred West' Deas to send Cpl Jay Waites under the posts for another blistering try. In the dying moments of the game the junior forwards combined well with the backs to send Cpl Ash 'I've never played before' Ashley over for the final score. The Juniors deservedly won 19-10 in a game that produced more blood than a Mike Tyson title fight.

Ex Skye Finn 1999 was a 225 Sig Sqn hill walking expedition which took place on the Isle of Skye, Scotland over the period 9-17 October 1999. The aim of the exercise was to cover the island, loosely based on a north to south route. However, this was all weather dependent, as it involved a lot of ascent and traversing along the Trotternish ridge.

Day One: The first day saw the team arrive at the Squadron around 7.30am with eager anticipation of the nine-hour minibus drive that lay ahead, the team consisting of the coach, LCpl Andy Liddle, Capt Robin Carpenter, 2Lt Elizabeth McClellan, Sgt Sue Jackson, Cpl Dave Hill and LCpl Helen Waites. We departed at 7.45am with Dave at the wheel, who prided himself on the fact that he never broke the speed limit. Needless to say, we only just made the ferry. On arrival in Skye we headed for the campsite in Portree, which was shrouded in dark, ominous clouds, that filled the group with loads of confidence. We set about the tasks of 'making camp' with haste only to find that one of the two man tents came equipped with a one man flysheet. However, Capt Carpenter is not one to be outdone by the elements, so he made do with his semi-tent for night one. Needless to say, the rest of the group weren't wringing out their sleeping bags the next morning!

Capt Carpenter (Intelligence Corps!)
Prior planning and what was it...?

Day Two: Sunday was a day for early risers, nobody had slept much the night before and we were all up early to find a 'fresh' gale force Easterly blowing with some rain to match. We had a hearty breakfast and decided today was no day for the mountains. We made a trip across the bridge to pick up our interpreter and last member of the team Sgt Jimmy Fox. On return to Skye we found that the weather conditions hadn't improved and the prospect of another night near the arctic wasn't appealing. It was at this point that we decided to review our options and came up with a couple of mobile homes for the same price as the campsites. The campsite was stripped and we were on the road within five minutes. The lovely Mrs Campbell welcomed us with open arms and a gas fire, so we made our new camp at Uig.

Day Three: The third day saw a break in the weather, although still very windy, the rain had cleared. We all dusted off our walking boots and set about getting ready. We were dropped off at a car park near Maoladh More at the start of the Trotternish Ridge and set off to the summit of Meall na Suiramach (543m). With the summit photo taken we quickly descended into the bowl of Coire Mhic Eachainh and contoured around the shoulder of Srou Vourlinn to an area called the Quiraing, an interesting area of rock formations. After some dinner and a skimming competition on Loch Harsco we headed for the pick up at a village called Brogaig, the minibus was a welcome sight.

Exercise Skye Finn

Day Four: The group was smaller for today's walk with some people suffering from blisters; we set off from Glen Conon Farm and headed up a soggy path for about two and a half miles to the edge of the Trotternish Ridge on the shoulder of Beinn Edra. The path was only soggy for the people who didn't have any gaiters; (the 'coach' did, but forgot to get any for the group from the stores, and it was never forgotten). After another 2km of false summits we reached the top (611m). As the weather closed in we had one last glimpse of the fantastic scenery before we were 'hood up and head down' into the rain. The highlight of the day was still to come with Sgt Jimmy Fox making a stinger of a chilli; he exceeded the recommended dose of two chillies and put in a gut wrenching TEN! A contender for 'Can't Cook Won't Cook' if ever I saw one.

Day Five: Low cloud hampered any ascent today so we headed for Broadford and a low-level walk around Loch Eishort. The walk started on the Broadford to Torrin road and was immediately contoured around Ben Suardal and followed a boggy path down to the coast where we found the ruins of a village at Boreraig. The rest of the walk was spent along the coastline with some spectacular views of the mountains. As we neared the pick up we were met by the sight of the Mountain Rescue helicopter reminding us that today was not a day for the hills.

Day Six: With the sun out, today was a day for tackling the 'Storr'. We were dropped off at Keistle and followed a long winding river for about 4kms until we came to a waterfall which signalled a distinct change in the steepness of the climb. We stopped for a view before starting the final 300m ascent to the summit (719m). Once on the top the views were amazing; no cloud and barely enough wind to ruffle your hair. We did lunch on the top and made our way down through some crags to the 'Old Man of Storr'. The walk off was steady, weaving through a forest to the pick up. We decided to dine out in style at the Flodigarry Hotel before wearily heading back.

Day Seven: Today's route had all the potential to be a lung burster and did not disappoint. We were dropped off at the Sligachan Hotel and headed across moors to the base of Sgurr Mhair, an amazing mountain that rises 775m out of the ground in just over 2km. After tea and doughnuts provided by the 'coach', we set off in single file to the summit. It was definitely every man for himself and was so steep there was hardly anywhere to take a break. The steepness of the hill accompanied with the scree made it one of the most difficult ascents we had ever done. At the summit we were rewarded with fantastic views of the infamous 'Black Cuillons' and the rest of the Red Hills. After going along the ridge to An Coileach, we descended off the hill to the north down a dried up watercourse. Sgt Jimmy Fox even claiming to save the coach's life at one point, he had no witness though! After reaching the Sconser Lodge Hotel we found we were 6kms from the pick up, but in true marine style Capt Carpenter set out to bring the minibus to us by running all the way to it then directing it back to the weary walkers.

Day Eight: The final day was the 'grand finale'. We were dropped off near Torrin and the whole group set off up a windy path and a lot of steep scree slopes to the summit of Bla Bheinn, a monster of a mountain standing at 928m. The climb was longer than the previous day but slightly easier and once again we were rewarded with fine views of the summit. After a great week walking we celebrated with an outstanding Indian Meal in Portree washed down with some Champagne and a few beers.

233 SIGNAL SQUADRON 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

In mid-July 1999 it was decided that 233 Sig Sqn should hold a function in order to celebrate the 40th Anniversary of the formation of the Unit. In order to organise the event, a 'small' committee of volunteers was formed, and the initial preparation started. From the initial concept by OC, 233 Sig Sqn, it had been decided that this function would need to be a little bit special, given that as well as being an anniversary celebration, it was also to be a combined Summer and Christmas function - in short, a spectacular! The first problem faced was the choice of venue; given the large numbers in the Squadron the anticipated attendance was somewhere in the region of 200, so the choice of location was a major factor. There proved to be nowhere large enough to stage the event within Thiepval Barracks so it was decided to go 'outside the wire'. Moving to a outside venue in Northern Ireland had obvious security and logistical implications, but the ideal spot was soon discovered in Belfast and the organisation for the event shifted up a gear!

The date was set as 1 October 1999 and as the event drew nearer, numbers of those attending fluctuated almost daily. By late September, all the organisation and final details were set in place, and all that remained to be done was to enjoy the evenings celebrations - that is until on the morning of the event, when one of the four 52 seater coaches that had been booked was declared not to be roadworthy. Not a major problem you might think, but given the distance from Lisburn to Belfast and the tight evening schedule, a shuttle service was not practical. For the next couple of hours, conversation within India Tp was heavily loaded with expletives (apologises to the 2IC if she heard them!) but by 1300hrs and after calling in numerous favours, a replacement coach was found and the event was back on the road, - literally! By 2000hrs all those attending, including the CO, had arrived, and after the initial welcome speeches, the celebrations started. As well as being well fed and watered, the guests were entertained by a live 4-piece band (anonymous but brilliant!) a stand-up comedian (anonymous, fat and brilliant!) and the SSM's dancing during the disco (NOT anonymous - WO2 Rob Dunseith - not QUITE as fat - and definitely NOT as brilliant!). By the way Sir, it is OK for men to dance with each other.... Isn't it? Sadly, due to licensing restrictions at the venue, the evening drew to a premature close and the guests departed for Lisburn.

The feedback from the Officers, Soldiers and civilians within 233 Sig Sqn with regard to the evening was that everyone had thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and the 40th Anniversary of 233 Sig Sqn had been celebrated in fine style. Thanks should be extended to the committee members; SSgt Flo Jarvis, Sgt Mick Stoneman and Sgt Billy Fagan for ensuring that both the organisation and the evening itself ran smoothly.

233 SIGNAL SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

As 2IC for the largest non-independent Squadron in the Corps, I feel in quite a good position to assure the reader that the last six weeks have been busy to say the least. The silly season normally begins in December, not for our Squadron. The first 'hot potato' to juggle was the formation of the Network Control Centre (NCC). The original date for this was 1 June 2000, which sounded a long way off so not as to get flustered about it - but no - the message came down that the NCC was to be up and running by 01 Dec 99 - was that a problem? Capt Guy Benson new OC NCC Tp quickly sprang into action and with literal round the clock work from all the Troops and in particular some very diligent Tele Mechs and Techs and long weekends, the NCC is now on green. The sea of screens and digitisation is an impressive sight and I am sure with one Captain, three WO1s and one WO2 leading the way, that it will run with extreme efficiency. During the same period the Squadron was preparing for their IIP Accreditation, with 220 soldiers and civilians, this was not an easy task. Although much was already in place more emphasis was placed on evaluation and formal interviews. All of this produced endless paperwork and very extended working hours with the introduction of individual IIP files and a Personal Development Record - but all was not in vain as the Regiment gained their well-deserved IIP Accreditation on 11 November 1999.

But there was more - the Forward Repair Teams under the command of TM Tp were to be moved under the permanent control of the Brigades - again another major increase in the workload to ensure that this move went smoothly and no soldier lost out. As if this was not enough, it was decided that the Squadron was now getting too large to manage with the increased manpower and responsibilities, hence the COMMCEN and the Operator Assistance Cells would be moved across to HQ Sqn. Again every effort was made to complete this move with the minimum amount of fuss and the maximum amount of assistance to HQ Sqn. Just to add a little more to the boiling pot, the SQMS was running around cajoling and coercing in preparation for the PRE, a major data system went live and to top it all the SSM was preparing for his civilian H&S exams. Not bad for a mere six weeks - as I am about to start on a two and a half year Sabbatical in Brunei. I can only say Good Luck to Capt Bels Taylor who takes over in February 2000 - easy life with only 160 in the Squadron and no Tp Comd jobs to juggle as well - and thank you to Capt Gareth Oliver who oh so willingly agreed to stand the gap - here's to a quiet December!

This year's Mercury Cup March and Shoot Competition reinforced what a high standard of fitness and determination there is at present throughout all the Brigade areas in the Province. Organised by 8 Bde this annual event took place up at Magilligan, home of 5 Royal Irish. The day took the shape of a 5-mile March followed by a timed 100m sprint and falling plate shoot. HQ Sqn set the early pace coming in at a respectable 57mins and with the shoot only taking 33.3secs from start to finish they were the team to beat. Up stepped 233 Sig Sqn who came in at a blistering 55mins, a time which remained unbeaten, but with a time of 33.7secs for the Shoot, HQ Sqn were in 1st place and 233 Sqn in 3rd. But 55 mins in the march for 233 proved untouchable and they took 1st leaving HQ in 3rd. So with HQ Sqn 3rd in the March and leading the shoot and 233 1st in the March and 3rd in the Shoot both teams came head to head for a shoot off to decide who would take this year's Cup. HQ were the first to the firing point but a collection of calm nerves and sharp shooting ensured 233 Sig Sqn took the victory hitting the last plate a heart stopping half a second before HQ Sqn. The winning team consisted of Capt Colin Kell, Capt Jules McColl, SSgt Rob Allen, SSgt Icky Grattrick, Sgt 'Hutch' Hutchinson, Sgt 'Taff' Davies, Cpl Richardson, LCpl Burrows and of the eight winning team members, six were recruited from Romeo Tp.

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE TROOP

Once again I must start with the usual hellos and good-byes to certain members of our Troop. First of all welcome to our newest sprogs in town who are hanging up their line belts after a long arduous course to become real men at work, LCpl Mick Partridge and Cpl Mick 'Ricki' Lake. Our recent escapees include Sgt Dave Kilgallon who is disappearing into the dark side of life (225). We are sure that those long legs of his will help him to survive dark realm. FRTS, well what more can I say except good-luck in the Brigade life. Off to civvy street goes ex-LCpl 'Nessy' Nessling and we wish him and his family all the best for the future. Congratulations also goes out to Sgt 'Pain Gain' Watts for surviving through the most horrific course known to man. The Troop as a whole has been heavily involved in a major undertaking to move The Network Control Centre from India troop and Comms Ops from HQ Squadron to combine the two to form 233's newest Troop. The Training wing was selected as the Bone shell ready for the installation of Red and Black comms. The NCC was to be operational by the 1 December 1999 and it was now the 8 November 1999, three weeks from the deadline, thus, some hard work ahead of us. The location still a bone shell within two weeks of the finishing date meant a lot of overtime and weekends and a pile of Province jobs outstanding, but TM Troop being TM Troop, this was not a problem. Cpl Al 'GOD MECH' Walsh was the guiding light for all the junior members of the Troop even though he was not the guiding light in his wife's eyes due to the work commitments. To end on a good note, about the major move, it was completed and up and running on the 28 November 1999.

ROMEO TROOP

Romeo Tp has at least started to see some postings in and out, although it seems like the ins are a bit slower than the outs. Over the past weeks and months we have said farewell to Sgt 'Polly' Perkins to 14 Sigs (one wet windy location to another). Another farewell was said to Cpl 'Dobbo' Dobson who received a short notice posting to Blandford, unfortunately 'Dobbo' spent that long on sick leave that nobody noticed that he had gone apart from the RSM, who always notices people with sideburns of 'Dobbo's' proportions. As we write this we also say farewell to Sgt Barney 'I finished my can' Barnfield and family. He will be greatly missed both in and out of work and we wish them all the very best in York. On the arrivals side we welcome Cpl 'Faz' Farrington and another Cpl 'Loggy' Wright to the Troop, both seeming to be settling in extremely well. The Troop remains busy both at work and at play, none more so than Cpl Wright (Old Breed) who so far this month has become a married man, an expectant father and has written off his prized car, not necessarily in that order. We all hope that December will be a little less busy for you Wrighty.

On the social front it fell to Romeo Tp to organise the latest Sqn function in the form of a quiz night, the coffers could not stretch to 'Who wants to be a Millionaire?' however, 'Who wants to win a crate of beer?' seemed to be the next best option. The quiz night hosted by 'Dobbo' complete with blonde wig but minus sideburns proved to be a great success, thanks largely to the efforts of Sgt 'Hutch' Hutchinson, Sgt Trefor Davies and all those who helped. On the work front we continue to prepare plans for all eventualities of the peace process interspersed with preparations for the big Millennium event, all techs have been cordially invited to the big bash at work (don't bother to bring a bottle!).

COMMCEN TROOP - by Sig Tracey Walker

Firstly, welcome to the new members of the Troop, SSgt 'Icky' Gratrick, Sgt 'I'm the boss' Newman and LCpl 'Nicky' Bird who all recently joined us from the wonderful 30 Sigs. Also Hi! to LCpl Nathan 'I'll teach the young lads how, or should I say what, to drink' Hadley who joined us from the 'Elite' Aldershot. Sadly, we shall have to say Goodbye to a few older members of the Troop who are all back off to school to re-trade. Goodbye, to Sgt 'I should be a model' Anderson, LCpl 'Matty' Matthews, LCpl 'Tanya' Webb and Cpl Scouse 'I am a God' Lloyd. Goodbyes also go out to Sig Jenny 'Gym Queen' Read, Sig Matthew 'Do my biceps look big in this vest' Simpson and Sig 'Matt' Green who will be leaving the Troop for their new units sometime soon. Also goodbye to Claire Lydon who has recently left for Civ Div to have a baby. Whilst on the topic of babies, congratulations to Sig 'Matt' Green

Congratulations on all the promotions in the Troop: Cpl 'AJ' Peters, Cpl 'Richie' Evans and Cpl 'Glo' Fagan who were all recently promoted. Congratulations to Sig's 'Matt' Green, 'Matty' Matthews, Tanya Webb and Tracey Walker on receiving their first stripe. Sadly the time has come for COMMCEN Troop to depart for 233 Sig Sqn, making way for Capt Guy Benson's 'new' NCC Troop, but not all is lost, as we now have a new start in HQ Sqn where I'm sure COMMCEN Tp will work and 'play' just as hard.

EXERCISE GERBHOYS FINN IV

Ex Gerbhoys Finn IV was the Squadron's summer adventurous training which took place in the north of the province in and around Colraine. The activities on offer included canoeing, orienteering, horse riding and the odd mystery event which ensured that a good time was had by all. Thanks must go to SSgt 'Chicken Legs' McClean who not only organised the weekend but provided some excellent canoe instruction as well.

EXERCISE DRIVE ALIVE

As ever 66 Sig Sqn (V) took part in Ex Drive Alive which is the annual Northern Ireland Road Safety and Skilled Driving Competition which this year was held at RAF Aldergrove. Competition was once again fierce and out of the original 34 teams only 11 of which we were one went forward to the final round of events. The final six stands included a theory test, a road safety survey and a ROSPA assessment aimed at improving drivers attitude and proficiency. The team came away with a silver award and Cpl 'Flash' Gordon, LCpl 'Smiler' Colwell and Sig 'Ribs' McKeown are all congratulated on their superb effort.

Finally, congratulations to the OC and his wife Susan on the arrival of their latest family member. Sir, we hope to see you in a few months!

EXERCISE COSSACK EXPRESS 1999

Ex Cossack Express took place in the Ukraine during October 1999 and was The Royal Irish Rangers annual camp. The exercise was one of many that take place as part of the Government's Defence Diplomacy Programme. The Rangers asked 40 Sig Regt (V) to provide six HF operators to enhance their Signal Platoon. The Regiment provided a total of seven volunteers with six coming from 69 Sig Sqn (V) and one from 66 Sig Sqn (V). Those taking part in the exercise completed some pre-deployment training in late August with the Battalion and departed Beifast for Lvivi in Northwest Ukraine on 18 September 1999. After a typical Ukrainian coach journey from the airport to our camp near the Polish border we spent the first couple of days undertaking some familiarisation training. This was followed by the mixed Signal Platoon providing communications for a variety of ranges and a three day FTX. The exercise was a complete success and this was aptly displayed in the final three day exercise where everyone pulled together to create an effective and coherent battlegroup.

Its all change at the top as they say. A very big Bangor welcome to Maj Mike Fraser-Brenchley who has recently taken over as OC and is splitting his time between us and QUOTC. A warm welcome is also extended to WO2 Hedley who takes over as SSM. The Squadron bid a fond and tearful farewell to Maj Cathy Sutherland and WO2 (SSM) Brotherston. Maj Sutherland leaves us to take up an FTRS post at Worthy Down which apparently she took to like a duck to water! Meanwhile the old SSM leaves us on promotion to WO1 and takes over as SVWO. Thank you both for all your efforts.

VISIT OF SOinC (A)

As part of his visit to the Province in October 1999 the SOinC kindly agreed to re-open Bangor TA Centre which the Sqn had recently moved into as a result of SDR. The evening was a complete success with the Squadron hosting the SOinC in true N Ireland style much to the disapproval of the Adjt who eventually managed to persuade the SOinC to leave some 90 minutes late!

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS - by Pte Carrie Cumming

For once it has been a relatively quiet period for SHQ. The Chief Clerk SSgt 'Karaoke King' Hughes, has been away for over a month on leave and his EFP 2, which has left Sgt Andy 'I'm God' Snowdin to play Chief Clerk. Another of our admin heroes, LCpl Roy 'Been there, done that' Banyard has also been away on leave and courses. He is now attempting his JQC which we are, he is, positive he will pass. Before leaving for Worthy Down we found out that LCpl Banyard has been secretly writing to a nurse via Soldier Magazine. LCpl Banyard and his new found love have never met, but whilst he is at Worthy Down, he will be rendezvousing with her in Portsmouth. All we can say is good luck!!

A very sad farewell to the Squadron 2IC, Capt Dave Seymour, and his wife Ely who are abandoning us for a new life in civilian street. Thank you from the whole Squadron for all your hard work I'm sure the Ops Plans team will miss you. A big welcome to the new 2IC, Capt Gareth Lamb, who has arrived from 3 (UK) Div HQ and Sig Regt. Also new in SHQ is Cpl Tom 'Penfold' Stewart who is a welcome arrival in the Training Wing. Congratulations to the OC, Maj Jake Thackray for being selected for promotion, rumour has it that he actually bought a round in the bar! Finally all military staff of SHQ would like to thank the Movements Clerk, Susan Cuthbert (thanks for changing my flight tickets again and again and again) and typist Lesley 'Cor he's a babe' Lyttle for their dedication and hard work throughout the year.

REGIMENTAL QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT
by LCpl Michael May
RQMS WO2 (RQMS) Kev Tunstall

The department would like to say a sad farewell to CSgt Ned Kelly whose dedication and hard work for the past five years will be sadly missed. His talents will be especially missed by LCpl 'Shilly 'I'm not stressed' Shillito. We would like to say farewell and good luck to LCpl Dave 'Smiley' Wardle who is posted to the sunshine holiday camp of Cyprus. WO2 (RQMS) Kev Tunstall has put the A-team to shame, with his quick thinking and his deft use of a team of merry workers to organise the Combined Services Entertainment show at short notice (eat your heart out A-team). Not forgetting Sig Fowler who has now got the best bulled boots in the Brigade. I wonder why? Sgt 'Billy Joel' Porter has been busy singing to himself all around the golf course (watch out Tiger Woods!) On a further note, congratulations to Sgt 'Noah' Duncan and his sidekick Pte 'Snake Charmer' Morris for finally collecting more exotic animals than the Ark, lets hope it does not rain. A big thank you to Cpl 'Lily Savage' North for his hard work and leadership skills on the Mercury Cup competition. Welcome back to LCpl May after his short stint at Headley 'its a doddle' Court. He is a lot fitter and wiser thanks to all the staff that work there. Also congratulations to him as he has just come off the board. LCpl 'X' Rattray has finally escaped from Alcatraz, sorry the PRI Shop, and has been replaced by Pte 'Lord Lucan' Wilson. Good luck, you will need it!

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Jo Stewart
Tp SSgt SSgt Tony Taylor

The last few months have been busy for both Operator and Engineering sections; there have been a few new arrivals, a couple of departures and a lot of planning. Welcome to LCpl 'Insert funny name' Hodgson who arrived from 3 Div, Sig Peter Creith straight from training and LCpl Craig 'I have a Jimmy tattoo on my left arm' Law from 1 Div. Welcome also to Sig Chris Howell and LCpl Steve Binks. A special welcome to the four members of 15 Sig Regt FRT, Sgt Martin Bowkett, Cpl Steph Sabuda, Cpl 'Omagh' Walshe and LCpl Mike Garry who are joining the Squadron and transforming into SRTs. Unfortunately the Syscon have just lost one of its longer serving members, LCpl Ronnie 'But' Cuthbert, who is deserting us to join 604 Sig Tp. Apparently they will be installing a few COUGAR talk-throughs in his new depot just to make him feel at home. Earlier we mentioned the immense amount of planning being undertaken by the Squadron; planning which is not for the forthcoming Lundy Parade, but is for the numerous Squadron and Troop Christmas functions. However, life in the Syscon is still full of mystery as ever thanks to the excellent planning by Cpl Colin McGregor when he does the Syscon shift rotas. Congratulations to Sig Danni Critchlow, Sig Dave 'Trigger' Bateman, Sig 'Geordie' Fearon, Sig Kelly McCulloch, Sig Carl Stephenson, Sig Phil Parish on getting their promotion to Lance Corporal and a double well done to Sig Andy Gibson who not only came off the board but has just had a wee nipper.

MY ATTACHMENT - by 2Lt 'Blaykie' Morris

I was told during my last few weeks of Sandhurst that I would be going to Northern Ireland for my pre Troop Commanders attachment. It was a week later that I found out that I was lucky enough, or so I was reliably informed by my CSgt, to be spending my time in Londonderry. After a massive 24hrs leave I arrived in Northern Ireland still recovering from the Commissioning Ball. I arrived in the barracks at about nine o'clock at night and was surprised how quiet it was. However, it did not take me long to find Lt Jo Stewart, who had organised my attachment.

The first week was filled with trying to find my way around barracks and find exactly where I had to be, when and with whom. Luckily my first weekend in Province coincided with the Apprentice Boys' parades in Londonderry. It was fascinating to see operations in Northern Ireland first hand and especially the Squadron at work. I then went to do my Northern Ireland Reinforcement Course (NIRTT). This was split into two different parts. Firstly phase one, which is basically three and a half days in a classroom watching power point presentations on security matters and the history of the troubles. Phase two is primarily for the infantry, to prepare them for patrolling. As I would be joining the R IRISH for a few days I also attended phase two. This was more practical and gave us the opportunity to get out of the classroom and on to the training area. After NIRTT it was time to get down to the real bones of my attachment. It soon became apparent that Lt Jo Stewart had planned things so that I would be kept busy the entire time. So much for relaxing after Sandhurst. After covering all the set training objectives I spent two days with the resident ATO. Here I was under the careful supervision of Capt Chris Driver-Williams and his able team. I was given the chance to try on and use some of the equipment which is a lot heavier than it looks and to go on the ground for a short period. We then practised some boat drills on the River Foyle which was a very bruising experience and then a quick fly over the AOR in a Puma helicopter courtesy of the RAF. I was lucky enough to see many other parts of the Province, whether it was to Omagh on a JOTES education course, out and about with teams or while I was on attachment to 3 Brigade Signal Squadron. It was during my visit to Portadown that I went on my first patrol. My 'guardians' for this experience were 3 R IRISH. My time with them was split between foot and mobile patrols in the Lurgan area. We were also meant to do some VCPs by helicopter, however, the RAF proved less reliable than they had been up to this point and after a three hour wait word finally came through that it was cancelled.

It was not all work, work, work. I was fortunate enough to spend a week adventure training in Scotland. This was a fantastic few days hiking, climbing, cycling and white-water rafting. I seemed to spend the majority of my time during the rafting under water and ended up running a few kilometres of the cycling. It was organised very professionally by the RQMS and his instructors. They were also able to successfully organise getting me very merry! Although I enjoyed all that I did on my attachment the part that I enjoyed most was deploying with the various repair teams. Some of the teams may think I was an unlucky charm as on almost all of the tasks I went on, the easy small jobs we started on ended up being mammoth tasks that took hours. My record was 15 hours!! Despite the long hours I thoroughly enjoyed myself during these adventures and have the utmost respect for the technicians and riggers that deploy at all times of the day and night. I attempted to give my advice such as 'look those lights are flashing again' or 'should that really be doing that?' much to the amusement of the technicians. I also attempted to help the riggers. However, having a bad head for heights, the amount of help you can actually give at six feet off the ground when they are at 50ft is very limited. I have gained a great deal of experience during my time in Province and I am grateful to all those who have kept a watchful eye over me. A big thank you to those who let me tag along and to those who took time to organise things for me. The only thing that remains for me to ask is when do I get to come back? And can I have some leave now please?

EXERCISE HIGHLAND DRIVE 4-20 NOVEMBER 1999
by LCpl Nathan Reed and LCpl Andy Green

Exercise Highland Drive is an exercise that is organised twice a year in order to get members of the Brigade away to sit and pass different driving categories. It is an excellent opportunity for personnel to obtain new driving skills in a relaxed atmosphere outside of Northern Ireland. The exercise is spilt into two phases with different students attending each week. The advance party left on 4 November and headed to HMS Gannet in Scotland. The next day they drove to Newcastle to collect the coach but after the four hour journey they were told the coach was unavailable! The instructors for the exercise were Cpl Lee Taylor instructing Cat A, LCpl Andy Green instructing Cat B, Cpl Dave Rabbage instructing Cat C and LCpl Amanda Rowland instructing Cat D.

The following students attended Week 1: Pte Mark Fryer, Pte Mo Morris and Sig Kelly McCulloch for Cat B, Sgt Andy Winnett and Sig Carl Stephenson for Cat C, Sgt Scott Pringle, Sgt 'Stan' Stanley, Pte 'Larry' Loughton and Sig Lee Fearon for Cat D and LCpl Nathan Reed, LCpl 'Woody' Woods, LCpl 'Sticky' Bunn and Spr 'Mac' McKrindle for Cat A. Group 1 students departed for HMS Gannet a day after the advance party and arrived just as the 'busless' instructors returned from Newcastle. We settled into the local community well by finding all the watering holes mixing with the locals. On Sunday the instructors carried out familiarisation with the vehicles except for LCpl Amanda Rowland because she still had no bus.

The week's training went well, but only after a second trip to Newcastle, this time getting a bus. The first two days were confidence riding or driving and learning the manoeuvres for examples U-turns and emergency stops. Towards the end of the week the training became more intensive and we covered what would be expected of us in the various tests. The instructors seemed more than happy with most of our performances. On Thursday 11 November the examiners arrived and luckily nearly all the students were successful. Due to the success rate on test day everyone went out on the town and had some celebratory drinks. On Friday 12 November Week 1 students departed and Week 2 students arrived WO2 'Geordie' Potts, LCpl Mark Toogood and Pte 'Larry' Loughton for Cat A, LCpl Holly Glen and LCpl Scott Taylor for Cat B, Sgt Dave Forrest, Sgt 'Aide' Duplock, Pte 'Gaz' Thomas and Sig Dave Bateman for Cat C and LCpl 'Mac' McCall, Pte Jason Philcock and Sig 'Smudge' Smith for Cat D.

There were a few minor disasters in the second week. Firstly Pte 'Larry' Loughton came off the only bike we had damaging it but luckily not himself. Secondly LCpl 'Mac' McCall tried to wipe out every mirror he could in Prestwick and Ayr. However, after these initial problems it was a very successful second week with all students passing. Friday 19 November was the last day and the bus was returned to Newcastle and we all headed back to Northern Ireland. The Exercise was both enjoyable and successful and the pass rate only gets better thanks to the professional instructors. A special thanks to the Exercise IC, Cpl Dave Rabbage for all his hard work and effort and also to the three DDE's WO2 (Master Driver) 'Si' Bean, WO2 (MTWO) Tom Hair and Sgt Stanley who came over to carry out the testing of the students on both weeks.

QUARTERMASTERS DEPARTMENT
QM Maj Dave Rennie AAC
RQMS WO2 Martin Walsh

The Department has recently witnessed a significant change around these last two months, with the arrival of the new QM, a new RQMS and a new SQMS though thankfully not all on the same day. Life therefore has been somewhat hectic, though the dept has managed to continue carrying out all its usual Q type tasks and many more besides under the watchful eye of WO2 (RQMS) Craig Kearney. Incidentally, with the early arrival of the new RQ, WO2 Kearney is keen to point out that the RQ's slot is in fact now a fully established Para trained post. As a result of the recent influx of new personnel, the Department would like to welcome the following people. Firstly the Quartermaster, Maj Dave Rennie AAC and wife Sarah, WO2 (RQMS) 'Scouse' Walsh and wife Linda just in from the Mediterranean and last but not least SSgt Andy Jones and wife Heike, all the way from across the road from the Regt Trg Wing. Farewells then to the old QM, Maj Bill Hewett and family, SSgt Jimmy Burns who leaves to become an estate warden and a fond farewell (though not for a while...Sssh!) to WO2 (RQMS) Craig Kearney and wife Maria who is leaving us on promotion to WO1 and a post slightly nearer to that ferry terminal.

SQUADRON ADVENTURE TRAINING
By WO2 (SSM) Mick Flemming

The Squadron recently conducted a period of adventure training based at the REME lodge in Gunzesried Sage, Sonthofen in Bavaria. The programme included a three-day introductory period of Trekking, canoeing and climbing culminating in a two-day period of extreme pursuits, which comprised of canyoning and tubing. The weather throughout the period changed from sun and factor 10 to snow and minus 10. For the uninitiated canyoning is basically navigating a river gorge and its obstacles by abseiling down waterfalls, sliding down rapids and the odd death slide or two. The eye opener of the whole process involved a simple leap of approximately 10metres into the water. Simple other than for the fact that the leap was the equivalent of jumping out of your top floor window into a Hoover twin tub on spin, it's October in Bavaria and the water was rising because of the melting snow on the mountains.

Your job can't be all that bad!

The results were the topic of conversation for some time, in particular the near perfect demonstration by SSgt 'Spike' Haynes of how to do it. His chest leading entry caused all watching to first exhale and then cheer in unison as he floated to the surface. His thumbs up sign to the next man convinced no one, particularly as next man happened to be me. Throughout the other activities a number of stars (quite literally) also emerged. Cpl 'Pils' Lamont defying logic by completing the capsize drill without getting his hair wet and refusing to believe that he could not regain the standing position having fallen on water skis. LCpl Emms of the LAD decided to leave his mountain bike on one side of the barbed wire fence whilst he went though it; His helmet saving the day. Sgt Al Holcroft's theatrical performance of 'Billy don't be a hero' in the flying Scotsman would be impossible to forget even with counselling. The period concluded for the lucky few with a trip to Austria for a spot of downhill skiing. Fully equipped by the REME lodge we headed south. The sight of a group all dressed in matching REME coloured ski kit raised a few eyebrows but we quickly blagged our way into the Albanian ski team training session. An act which was more convincing whilst seated at the bar during the après ski than whilst on the piste. Overall the two weeks went extremely well with too many accounts to recall. We are all looking forward to next year.

EAGLE TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Michelle Hanlon
Tp SSgt SSgt Gaz Davies

After a relaxed summer, came the gradual onset of dark nights and cold mornings. This as all soldiers know brings leaves, thousands of them! So it was out with the brushes and Signallers to clear them up. Falling equally fast upon us were the exercises. The first of these was Ex Ulan Eagle a three week static exercise situated in the picturesque holiday resort of Drawsko Pomorskie. Afterwards there was time for a quick cup of tea before we deployed on Ex Rhino Charge in sunny Sennelager. The only highlight of this exercise was the sight of Sgt Gerry McGachy sobbing into his thermos mug, as Scotland's 'finest' were given the hammering they truly deserve. The exercise season draws to a close with Ex Musket Diamond, situated yet again at the well known training area Sennelager. It covers a period of two weeks, which enables the squadron to practise their shooting skills.

Congratulations go out to Sigs Burnip, Doran, Hulbert, Legg and Smith 240 for coming off the Sig - LCpl promotion board. We shouldn't be short of a beer or two! We welcome into the troop SSgt Davies and his wife Beverly and their daughters Jodie and Catherine who join us from 7 Sig Regt. The Troop bids farewell to Sig Matt Hulbert who will gain his Lance Corporal on arrival at 16 Sig Regt.

On a final note, Sig Marc Ridgwell has just discovered it is not a good idea to hit a wall, mount the kerb and dig up the grass outside the RSM's office. Did they teach you that at Blandford?

KESTREL TROOP IN POLAND
Tp Comd 2Lt Allen Foote
Tp SSgt SSgt 'China' Cooper

This year's Ex Ulan Eagle saw Kestrel Tp providing most of the Squadron's manpower which meant that we were kept very busy trying to get all the dets ready and sort out all the crewing and manning. After a hectic time it was done. Once we completed the long tiring drive to Poland we set about setting up the comms and getting SSgt 'China' Cooper's defence perimeter of barbed wire set up which saw a few cuts and raised voices in the process. LCpl 'Under the thumb' Plumb deployed out with 7 Armd Bde and while we were static for the whole exercise, he managed to move location more times than a Kosovan refugee. Our resident lineman Cpl 'Just popping out for 1 or 2' Whitehead used all of his remaining brain cells to good use in entertaining us by attempting to dry his softy jacket on a kero heater, with it promptly going up in a nice smoking mess, leaving him that little bit colder on those warm nights! With Cpl Steve 'What's green kit' Pengelly posted to 11 Sigs, and Cpl 'Blacky' Blacklock to the armoured puffs, it was decided to have the Troop Christmas party a bit earlier, and what a party it was. DM 50 for all you could eat and drink and we did our very best to drink the place dry, from all the beer down to the spirits. This proved a problem for a few though, in the form of Sig 'Slug' Gallagher who had rather a few too many and retired to the toilet early on and appeared several hours later to be taken home by his new wife. As well as our new relay Sig 'Geordie (GBH)' Bowes who fell asleep at the table and was promptly turned into a human art piece with people drawing all over him leaving him covered. The highlight of the night was when the Tp PTI Sig '2 can Van-Damme' Harrison tried to teach everyone karate and promptly got put down himself. Also a big well done to the following who have come off the promotion board, Sig Sean 'poser' Exile, Sig Rob 'straight bloke' Vickers Sig 'Taff' Lewis and LCpls 'Smudge' Smith and Andy Plumb for the Corporal's Board. Farewell to Cpl 'Resettlement' Mallows of to civ div and welcome back to LCpl 'Dirty Dave' Harkness so get the beers in!

HAWK TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Angie Aylward
Tp SSgt SSgt Neil Pollitt

This month the Troop undertook Ex Rhino Charge, in support of 7 Bde at Sennelager. Although the exercise was static and straightforward, the Troop still managed its fair share of mishaps. Lt Angie Aylward was of course the first, following in the long tradition of officers getting lost; she actually managed it in Sennelager! The soon departing LCpl 'Paddy' Lynn came up with the mother of all excuses for a mast falling over, ' could you believe it staff, a horse chewed through my guy rope'. No 'Paddy' we don't believe you! This month the Troop says goodbye to LCpl Lynn who got his wish and posting to 3 Div and the always hard working Sig Daz Hodgson who is moving to 16 Sigs. Hawk Troop also welcomes Sgt Steve Davies, who arrived with a somewhat conspicuous sporting injury, at least that's what he told the RSM.

DSG TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Stuart Gunson
Tp Sgt Sgt Aide Sims

The Troop has had a couple of busy weeks on the exercise front, with the squadron build up exercise and Ex Rhino Charge. The Squadron exercise was a slow build up to Rhino Charge as it was the first time that most of the Troop had been out on exercise in this type of scenario. The first couple of days were spent ironing out most of the problems with the complex and letting those who hadn't seen the BFOT experience the joy of putting it up! The last part of the exercise was spent as a bomburst 36 hours with the panzers bombing around Sennelager training area moving into hides and eventually being attacked. It was a good chance for all to see where there strengths and weaknesses lay!

Rhino Charge started with all the panzers tracking down to Sennelager again and setting up in Sennelager, with only one wagon breaking down (the demolition derby team Cpl 'Mac' McCallum and Sig Michele Bond). After one new heat exchanger and a new pack they arrived in the complex two days late! The exercise for us was quiet after arriving, as we were static. The 'war' was due to finish on the Wednesday but eventually finished on the Tuesday morning (rumours of the staff wanting to get back for a dinner party are totally untrue!). We set off from Sennelager on Wednesday morning for Herford. Again all arrived home safely apart from the demolition derby team who decided they didn't like Ford cars and decided to drive straight over the top of three of them! On a final note congratulations go to 13 of the Troop who came off the Sig-LCpl Board, Sigs 'Baz' Harvey, Dave Vakalala, Nat Roberts, Sharon Johns, Graham Curtis, 'Fudge' Rudge, Graham Opie, Lee Armitage, Andy Cunnington, 'Ringo' Wringe, Si Knight, 'Buffy' Bufton and last but definitely note least 'Paddy' Hayes. Well done to all of you and the best for the future.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt David Spencer
Tp Sgt Sgt Mick Poyning

Comms Tp has been very busy lately, what with exercises and people arriving and leaving. Firstly, three weeks in Poland on Ex Ulan Eagle. The Exercise was a great success for the Troop and gave the newer members a good learning experience, as it was the first exercise the Troop had deployed on for a while. We had a few days back in camp before deploying to Sennelager for two weeks on Ex Rhino Charge. Although it was a bit quieter than Ulan Eagle it gave more valuable time for the younger members of the Troop to learn more about their jobs. We'd like to say hello to three members of the troop currently serving in Bosnia, Sigs Sharon Osgood, John 'The head' Garrod and 'Scotty' Wilson. Welcome to the Troop to Cpl Rob Jones, Sig Eric Moran and 2Lt David Spencer. A sad farewell also to Lt 'Mikey' Morton, SSgt John Leach and Sgt 'Wilki' Wilkinson.

RADIO REBROADCAST TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Adam D. Shakespeare
Tp SSgt SSgt Deano Cox

Rebro Tp's deployment on Ex Ulan Eagle started pretty much the same as everybody else's. On arrival the Troop was required to blanket the area with CNR for the 3-week period that 7 Bde would be exercising. As the three weeks passed so did every other unit on the area. Static communications, easy life! One thing that did not pass was SSgt Deano 'Are you going to eat that?' Cox's stomach. No stationary object was safe from his appetite. During the exercise the shower runs were prompt along with the abundance of fresh rations. Our sympathies obviously went to all the lads at the hotel who were required to provide six people for guard at any one time. A burden that could have only have been made easier to swallow by the bar! There was a near death experience for Sig 'Johnny the mule' Carroll who nearly took a bite out of the commander's hatch of one of the armoured RRBs; The hatch wouldn't have stood much of a chance against those gnashers!

for his GOC's commendation presentation

Congratulations to Cpl Trev 'My mobile doesn't work' Allan on his well earned GOC's commendation for services in Bosnia and for somehow perfecting the Jedi mind trick. A fond farewell to Mr Dave Kirby, good luck in civvy street. Also the best of luck to Cpl 'Dangerous Dave' Wallace who is posted to Blandford. Standby Blandford! The Troop would like to welcome and congratulate Sig Kat 'That's cute' Price on her arrival and promotion to Rebro Tp and to welcome Sig 'how many nicknames' Hardy and Sig Em Opie. Congratulations must go to Sig Ford, Sig Kingshott, Sig Opie on coming off the board and finally if anyone has found Sig Al Booker could they please return him to BFPO 15?

226 SIGNAL SQUADRON (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)
Sqn Comd Maj Rob Meinertzhagen
SSM WO2 (SSM) Dave Watson

The Squadron has recently been readjusting itself with the return of the Kosovo warriors led by Maj MZ. The Squadron gave a final farewell to WO1 (SSM) Al Jenkins who leaves to take up his new post as RSM 21 Sig Regt. The Squadron wish you and your family all the very best and continued success in your new post. We are certain that the QM's Dept at 21 Sigs will process your demands for CCSOD without delay! The Squadron would like to welcome the new SSM, WO2 Dave Watson and Lindsey to the DISI fold, fresh from a punishing 13 months with the TA in Northern Ireland. The Squadron wish you both a happy and successful tour at Brawdy, (make sure you never leave the house without the Goretex!) The Squadron is now re-shaping itself in readiness for the arrival of LEWT in December and additional taskings and EW support to 16 Air Assault Bde in the New Year.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS TROOP
Tp Comd WO2 (FofS) Hew Phillips
Tp SSgt Sgt (New!) Daz Welch

Yet another entertaining month in 'the busy' Troop. Firstly we would like to say good luck to Cpl Roach and LCpl 'Brum' Brummfield who are off to Kosovo for some R+R from Brawdy! Also welcome back to LCpl Hardman who returns from Kosovo. The Squadron went adventure training in Betws-y-Coed, 'so we still didn't manage to escape from Wales (Cheers!)' The SQMS, Sgt 'Titus' Reene organised the week and we would all like to thank him for a truly marvellous experience. The usual activities where on offer such as canoeing and mountain biking. During a break in the canoeing the guy's decided to do a bit of cliff-jumping, they found the biggest cliff possible but when the chips were down they bottled out, apart from Sig 'Lemming' Lloyd who happily volunteered to throw himself off the cliff. I guess that just proves ED's are brave, or was it stupid? I never could work it out. Two of our Troop members represented the Squadron in the Regimental Boxing competition. LCpl 'Nick' Piff put up a gallant fight but unluckily lost on points, on the other hand LCpl 'Greg' Hardman put in an amazing performance when he KO'd his opponent in the impressive time of just 52 seconds (I guess that just proves ED's are born to fight).

640 SIGNAL TROOP - by LCpl 'Tinny' Foyle
Tp Comd Lt Ben White
Tp SSgt SSgt Frank Flaherty

Only one new arrival into the Troop, A warm welcome to Sig Steve Langhorne who arrived straight from training in Blandford, and who I am assured is looking forward to his tour with 14 Sig Regt(EW). Goodbyes go to Cpl 'Mac' MacDonald who has been posted back to his homeland of bonny Scotland to Edinburgh Det of 11 EOD, and also so long and good luck to LCpl Daz Wright who is also off back to his homeland, but this time it's Canada, and the posting is Civ Div and the hope of lots of cash as a Microsoft Professional, (Not bad for an ex ED) both will be missed within the Troop. We are also due to say so long to SSgt Ted Whichelo who is being moved to the Training Wing to help with the DISI trade training. The Troop is still awaiting the re-fitting of its non-comms EW assets from the clapped out Series 3 (yes I did say Series 3) Land Rovers into spanking new Wolves and Pinzgauers, although the Series 3's are still waiting to go to Vosper Mantech to actually start the transfer (the dates remain open ……..very open!) This leaves the Troop somewhat in limbo as far as the EW assets are concerned, and means that we could soon be saying goodbye to our DISI trained personnel who are set to move to Romeo troop, with the exception of Cpl 'Lance' Beaton who is looking forward to going to Kosovo in January, and Cpl Simon 'Airborne Warrior' Green who will be staying with the Troop with eyes on a transfer to LEWT when they finally move upstairs next year.

The lack of equipment within the Troop at present also leaves the diary open for other worthwhile activities such as Exercise Eagles Dawn, a Troop comms exercise ably organised and run by Cpl Andy Nichols who managed to overcome the many obstacles placed in his way, including having locations taken away from him at the last minute, having half his vehicles VOR'd on the morning of day one due to tyres being unroadworthy, losing manpower halfway through the exercise to inter squadron football, and various other equipment problems, but still managing to get both the Comms and DISI trained personnel out to practice skills such as Ratt and Kipling that we have not done for a long period of time. Also on the agenda has been a Troop Range Day, organised by Cpl Russ Ryan, who couldn't be there on the day, but nonetheless, Lt Ben White and SSgt Frank Flaherty did sterling work getting the majority of the Troop (and a few invaders from Comms Tp) through their APWT without too much hassle, and without rain (which makes a change for Wales). The Troop also managed to support the Squadron in the Russ Cup inter Squadron boxing competition, with four members of the Troop putting in many weeks of training (and in the case of LCpl Glenn Roberts, dieting) to fight in their respective weights. Unfortunately LCpl Roberts could not make his weight and didn't fight, but Sigs Mark Watson, 'MicMac' McDonald and Nathan 'Whirling Dervish' Higgins did with a well fought victory for Sig Higgins and valiant defeats for Sigs Watson and McDonald.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
Tp SSgt Sgt Steve Brown

Comms Tp have a few welcomes to the world of 14 Sigs to make, firstly to Sigs Graham Venn and Chris Treweeks straight from the sausage factory, and also to LCpl Karl Francis wife Alex and Tomos his little puppy who arrived a while ago and who will now hopefully not grumble about getting a welcome now that he has finally had one. The Troop would also like to congratulate Sig Ian Clark on selection for promotion to Lance Corporal and we would also like to congratulate his wife Jackie on the birth of their little baby girl Heather, and the final congratulation goes to LCpl Steve 'Oh no not The WIRE notes again' Stevenson on his marriage to Sig Mel 'Losos' Salmon. The Troop which has been light on manpower lately has also had its ranks swelled by the return of the 'Comms Tp Kosovo warriors'. LCpl Davey 'Wan' Kerr, LCpl Lynne Gray (congrats on your promotion out there Lynne), and also Sigs Craig 'Thumper Hooton' Johnson and Mike 'Monotone' McGhee welcome back boys and girls, just in time to sort out what's left of those REBROS you had out there and last but not least the Troop would like to wish LCpl Naomie Wilson all the best and hope she is successful in her course to become an elite member of the Snot Hat Corp. Also Comms Troop would like to say goodbye to Comms Troop as we're disbanding.

ROMEO TROOP
Tp Comd WO2 Nige 'Dwarf' Watton
Tp SSgt SSgt Neil Sorley

A fairly quiet period in which the Troop resembled the Marie Celeste with the majority on detachment or on post Det leave. We did manage a Troop day out at a local attraction to say goodbye to Sgt Chris Dunn and Cpl John Pankhurst. Heatherton proved to be a big hit, unlike John Pankhurst who missed with every single ball on the basketball machine, not too good as he is the main strike force for the Squadron basketball team. Some interesting impressions were made on the day with WO2 'Driving Miss Daisy' Watton coming in last and Cpl 'Michael Barrymore' Pankhurst being disqualified for mounting Sgt Chris Dunn, (Oh he was in a car though). As for work in the bays, a new look was needed for the Troop stores. So armed with brushes and paint we got to work with a spot of painting and decorating just the job as it now looks like a gallery - Admission £2 (towards coffee fund). Welcome back to the Troop from Northern Ireland goes to Sgt Chris Gibbins, Cpl H. Clarke and LCpl 'Icky' Hickenbotham. Also from Kosovo SSgt Mark Wilson, Cpl Paul Brown, Sig Tony and Sig Dai Jones. Goodbye and goodluck goes to Lt Hervey Scott who's soon off to Kosovo for a six month tour, Sgt Chris Dunn who's off to train to be a fly boy with the AAC. Lastly but not least Cpl John Pankhurst who's just gone to sunny Scotland attached to the EOD, hope you all have a blast lads!!

237 SIGNAL SQUADRON (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)
Sqn Comd Maj Dakin
SSM WO2 (SSM) Richardson

The Squadron continues to support several Out of Theatre Operations, prepares to accept the Odette equipment and plans for the deployment to Kenya on Ex Devil's Horizon. Welcome to the new Squadron 2IC, Capt Al 'Star Wars' Hawes, there is plenty for you to do also to the new SQMS, SSgt Glen Kitchen, there's even more for you to do. Congratulations to SSgt 'Shuggie' Hughes who as mentioned in previous WIRES is to wed and this he now has.

VICTOR TROOP
Tp Comd WO2 Matthews Royal Australian Signals
Tp SSgt SSgt (Supvr R) Watters

The Troop has had a hectic couple of months culminating in the return of Barracuda detachments from around the Balkans. This was compounded with the arrival of some Odette detachments straight from Racal with all their teething problems. Cpl Haltam and Sig Nex have been told to go on a diet so at least they will be able to fit in the back of the detachment. The Troop is gradually returning to full strength although as one returns another deploys. Congratulations to SSgt Tony Watters and Theresa on the birth of their second daughter, time to get rid of the Audi Coupe now……

Farewells are in order for, and many long nights have been spent in 'Charlies' bar in recognition of, particularly sad to see WO2 Bob Matthews, Royal Australian Signals and his wife Sandra back off to Australia and East Timor after two years with the Troop. Sig Jim Bartlett is off to 7 Sig Regt on promotion and LCpl Al 'Weiner' Sharp has departed to Northern Ireland. New arrivals have seen SSgt Steve 'Beaky' Newton-Roberts and Sue in from Chicksands and Sgt Steve 'Chopper' Christopher in from Cyprus. Sig Tel Flook eventually turned up from Germany and Sig 'Rich' Steele arrived out from training. Sgt Stanley Buxton returned to the Troop after a stint counting blankets as the SQMS. Also returned to the fray after helping out the LEWT in Egypt are Cpl Dave Janvier and Cpl Mark Wright. Finally our Op Palatine contingent have returned to Brawdy although are off on long leave until the New Year, Sgt Rob Jones, Sgt 'Taff' Willumsen, Cpl Tommy Tucker, LCpl Jinna Garner, LCpl Paddy Neill, LCpl Dave Orme, LCpl Dave Salter and Sig Pete Nex.

TANGO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Waddell
Tp Sgt Sgt Woods

Tango Tp is presently under-going some hierarchical changes. Lt Waddell was forced to deploy with the Regt Nordic skiing team to Scandinavia so we won't see him until the New Year. SSgt Glen Kitchen, just back from Kosovo moves from Tp SSgt across to the SQMS post. In the reshuffle sees SSgt Oli 'Has anyone seen my washkit' Campbell move from LEWT who are also coincidentally in the process of retreating upstairs to 226 (Rear) Sig Sqn. Sgt Chris Mulligan and family have arrived from 209 Sig Sqn but Sgt Paul 'Mainstay' Woods remains to guide the Troop through these upheavals. Supplementing the shop floor are newly arrived operators from the sausage factory, Sig 'Biggsy' Hancock, Sig 'Ingy' Ingham. and Sig Sid James. Welcome to the Squadron and the garages. Farewell and congratulations to Cpl Sven Gronn who moves on to Northern Ireland with promotion. Also recently selected off the Sigs to LCpl's board are Sigs Dave Terron, Jamie Cox-Davies, Chris Daniel, and Phil Lee. Welcome also back from Bosnia our Op Palatine lot. See you in the New Year.

LEWT
Tp SSgt SSgt Campbell

The past couple of months have been a busy time for the LEWT. The impending move to 226 Sig Sqn (EW) has caused several administrative headaches, but finally there is light at the end of the tunnel. October saw the deployment of twelve members of the LEWT to Egypt, to participate in Ex Bright Star '99. Several people guested of this exercise including Sgt Andy 'Blue Job' Goodwin, LCpl Stu 'Fat Tech' Gray and Cpl Sven Gronn. Ex Bright Star '99 was the major coalition exercise for the year involving sixteen nations. The first two weeks involved intensive desert training such as night navigation, OP drills and equipment familiarisation. Terrain was a constant hazard which highlighted the need for good route selection, a technique not demonstrated by Sgt Matt 'Always have a spare 352 in your Bergen' England. During this phase the LEWT was the only unit to successfully carry out an underslung helicopter move and was also tasked with CRTs for the Light Dragoons. There followed a short break in the military city (avoiding Friday Charger at all costs). The main exercise was an unmitigated success which enabled the LEWT to showcase their ability to provide battle winning intelligence for the battle group, to task the Phoenix and provide MRCSs fire missions onto the advancing enemy rec. elements. SSgt Ollie 'Off to Tango Tp' Campbell controlled the two patrol teams from the Troop CP along with WO2 Jim Spiers. Comms were difficult throughout the exercise, much to the annoyance of Sgt 'Egyptian God of Comms' Mount. All in all, a successful exercise and a busy period for the LEWT. The months ahead hold innumerable possibilities for the troop, including even more attempts at P Coy for the LEWT Harrys.

The busy season has just finished in time for the silly season. We've gone from Ex Ulan Eagle; Rhino Charge and Mouflon's Shot to Squadron Christmas parties, Mess events, Troop sessions and, of course, the Wives' Club .... (Poor Santa is still traumatised). Congratulations to Cpl Winwood and wife Angie on the birth of baby Oliver. Also congratulations to SSM Kennedy Int Corps on Commissioning and, for info, bye bye to Capt Rich Bailey Int Corps on leaving the Army. (I say for info but his leaving present from the Squadron may well be a years subscription to The WIRE!)

EXERCISE MOUFLON'S SHOT - by LCpl Lisa Paul

Castle Martin Ranges……Hmmmm…the last castle was five miles back, Martin is one of the instructors and ranges are as usual a barren windswept stretch of coastline in darkest Pembrokeshire. In addition to Cpl Martin Hunt the main players were SSgt 'Si' Donnely, SSgt Frank Flaherty, Sgt 'Taff' Williams, Cpl 'Sammy' Samuelson and Cpl Mark McMullen. After a steady day with the APWT and a gentle introduction to the range package we all embarked on our mandatory eight hours sleep. Well, we would have only for the 'Guars' in the room and their snoring competition. If LCpl '30mm' Gunn and Sig 'Foghorn' Fox had been able to replicate such a racket on the firing point of the ETR they probably would have knocked more targets down.

After the set shoots and this new fire team assessment (a couple of mile TAB to the range in webbing, helmet and body armour) we did some variety shoots. Pairs fire and manoeuvre dismounted was one thing but live pintle mounted GPMG from pairs of AFV436's was something else! The best was still yet to come .... bayonet charging. If we ever go to war against a hardened battalion of old NBC suits stuffed with hay ... then they don't stand a chance against me. Once I got started I just couldn't stop myself! The next shoot was the much needed rehearsal for the new James Bond film. The 9mm pistol experts in the Squadron were living out their fantasies as stars of 'Pembrokeshire is not enough.' Our final day consisted of 94mm LAW shoots and a live night ambush where a pretty tricky barn wall managed to leopard crawl through unscathed. PXR points: JT Danni Russell: you don't have to remove your muzzle dust cap before you fire unless you want to ever see it again. LCpl 'Karaoke' Burns: don't give up your day job!

SSgt 'Si' Donnely and SSgt 'Frank' Flaherty give the confirmatory brief before the pairs Fire and Manoeuvre

LCpl 'Wally' Waldron
There's fig 11s and there's smart fig 11s .... Get some!

After some name calling, spitting and hair pulling
Sig 'Guar' Shipley finally gets the better of the bayonet target

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS
CO Lt Col John Terrington
RSM WO1 Al Jenkins

POST-SDR REORGANISATION - UPDATE

Three significant chapters in the history of the Regiment have recently been enacted. The oldest surviving Air Formation signals unit, 81 Sig Sqn (V), formally transferred to the operational command of 2 (NC) Sig Bde on 1 September 1999; the closing parade of 220 Sig Sqn in Germany, the last dedicated Airfield Support Signal Squadron, took place on 14 September 1999; finally, (at least for the time being!), the Regiment formally transferred to the operational command of the new Joint Helicopter Command at Wilton, on 1 October 1999.

81 SIGNAL SQUADRON (V) – A FOND FAREWELL

The history of 81 Sig Sqn (V) can be traced back to Leeds with the formation of the 1st Kite Balloon Signal Section, as part of the Supplementary Reserve, in 1924. By 1935, the Section had expanded and was converted into Royal Air Force Signals, consisting of a Headquarters and four companies. The Unit was renamed in 1936 as Air Contingent Signals and, in 1938, as Air Formation Signals. At the end of August 1939, 1st and 2nd Air Formation Signals were mobilised and deployed to France in September 1939. By 1942, these two units were serving in North Africa on Operation TORCH and subsequently served throughout the Italian campaign until the end of the war. In 1950, 50th Air Formation Signal Regiment was formed from a core of the now disbanded 1st and 2nd Air Formation Signals. This Regiment was re-designated 81st Signal Regiment in 1960, with call-up roles in Germany and the Far East. Small detachments even deployed to Aden, on two occasions, to assist the Regular Army in providing permanent communications. 81 Sig Sqn (V) has antecedents which have served with distinction for some 75 years, with direct Air Formation predecessors starting some 60 years ago. All Ranks of 21 Sig Regt (AS) extend the Squadron, and all personnel, their very best wishes for a long and equally proud future in 2 (NC) Sig Bde.

220 SIGNAL SQUADRON – A NEW ROLE

Capt Noddy Baugh leads the march past, with Brig James Shaw taking the salute

The farewell parade for 220 Sig Sqn in Germany was held in Laarbruch, on 14 September 1999, in front of a distinguished audience, including the wives and families of the Squadron. Brig James Shaw, ACOS G6 HQ LAND, kindly agreed to review the parade and took the salute. The parade signified the closure of the Squadron in Germany, the return of the Squadron title to the UK and the transfer of the manpower to other units, principally to the new Deployable Telemech Troops in 16 Sig Regt and 30 Sig Regt. The closure is part of the post-SDR Royal Signals restructuring, which will see a revision of the core Telemech structure into one which more closely meets the deployability and sustainability requirements of current and future operations. 220 Sig Sqn has served in Germany for 40 years, as part of the original Regimental support provided to the RAFs five Main Operating Bases there. Latterly, just two MOBs survived, at Laarbruch and Bruggen. Laarbruch will finally close in November this year, and the focus will shift solely to Bruggen before it, too, closes early in the next decade. Commenting on the reputation earned by Squadron personnel during recent deployments, and the future for the Deployable Telemech Troops, Brig Shaw said, 'Your skills have been recognised at the highest levels ... you will continue to be in great demand in the expeditionary nature of operations that we are seeing now.'

The Squadron title is to be retained within 21 Sig Regt (AS), as the second of three Air Support squadrons in the post-SDR Regimental ORBAT, providing communications to the RAF Support Helicopter Force. Following the parade and march past, therefore, the squadron pennant was formally handed over by the outgoing OC, Capt Noddy Baugh, to the CO, Lt Col John Terrington, and thence to Maj Jim Forrest, the new OC for the reformed Squadron in Colerne. LS&GC medals were also presented, by Brig Shaw, to WO2 (FofS) Guy Lewendon and Cpl John Phillips, and a GOCs Commendation to Cpl Bob Walker.

Lt Col John Terrington hands the 220 Sig Sqn pennant to Maj Jim Forrest, whilst Capt Noddy Baugh quickly starts to slip away to begin planning for the next ACPO project

OPCOM JHC

With remarkably little ceremony, the Regiment fell under the Operational Command of the newly formed Joint Helicopter Command at the beginning of October. Whilst still directly supporting the RAF Support Helicopter Force, this move places the Regiment at the core of an extremely potent organisation which embraces the helicopter capability of all three services. The role of the JHC is to:

'... Deliver and sustain effective Battlefield Helicopter and Air Assault assets, operationally capable under all environmental conditions, to support UK's defence missions and tasks.'

EXERCISE WARRIOR BEAUFIGHTER

The Regiment took part in Ex Warrior Beaufighter during the period 6 - 19 September 1999, based at the Hythe and Lydd ranges in Southern England. It was the first time the Regiment had used these ranges and provided an ideal opportunity for the troops to engage in some very exciting and challenging range practices.

LCpl Gooderham at the Skills House

These included the Individual and Team Battle Shooting Ranges, Rural and Urban Close Quarter Battle, specialist Sangar, high-rise flats and defence ranges and also section attack, Quick Reaction Force and night shoots. The use of the Urban CQB ranges was especially challenging, with full mock-ups of street scenes including pop-up targets and life size, moving and talking dummies. Sixpence/half a crown was translated for some of the younger members of the Camp and the text-book definition of adrenaline was fully tested during some of the sequences. Notwithstanding this, and especially for the TA element of the Regiment (TA units are not permitted access for live firing on certain Lydd and Hythe CQB ranges), this was a tremendous opportunity and there was some excellent shooting, throughout the Camp. Tied into the ranges was a comprehensive dry training exercise, providing a build up of skills from individual Battle Preparation, Fire Team and Section drills. We also trained on the urban skills house, watermanship area, obstacle course and NBC testing chamber, with some devilish twists thrown in (literally) by Sgt 'James' Joyce. The Battle Camp finished with a final exercise comprising a patrol competition. WO2 (SSM) Paul Williams was taken prisoner on the first night by one of the platoons (not funny), but had his revenge during the final march and shoot competition. Game Set and Match was finally established during the Regimental Smoker on the last night, however, although the Oscar goes to WO2 Dick Malt for his re-enactment of the antics of Sig 'Meerkat' Osborne during the Urban CQB ... 'tup, three! For other units considering the Lydd and Hythe package, a word of caution. The dry training areas are very limited and visiting units, as ever it seems, are vulnerable to gazumping by local units. The final exercise, especially, was markedly affected, by the continual reallocation of areas by the Range HQ to other, higher priority', units, sometimes with only 24 hours notice. This made a nonsense of the planning undertaken prior to the exercise, which had already been substantially hampered by the Agricola deployment, and did affect the troops undergoing training. That Battle Camp had gone ahead at all, however, with the deployment of so many on Op Agricola, was significant. The sense of achievement and the skills learned on the ranges, and even during dry training, was notable. Around 2000 rounds per soldier were fired, and a significant number hit the targets, with some commendable shooting. Capts Andy Arthurton and Dave Whitaker (Welfare not Warfare), WO2s Dick Malt (Training Sergeant Major) and Nige Roberts (RQMS), and Sgts 'Mac' Macdonald and Charlie Farley are to be commended for their sterling work in setting up and running an excellent camp, against substantial odds. Well done, too, to all the Regimental soldiers who undertook the training; there was a lot of effort and some very fine skills displayed throughout the Camp.

Prizes were awarded at the end of Battle Camp, as follows:

Best Soldier	- Cpl 'Ollie' Oliver
Best Shot	- Cpl Lee Gough
Best Section	- 3 Section, Bravo Pl (led by Cpl Rob Lewis)
March and Shoot Winners	- 2 Section, Bravo Pl (Cpl Setchfield)
Assault Course Winners	- 2 Section, Bravo Pl (Cpl Setchfield)

BATTLECAMP - A SOLDIER'S VIEW

The Battle Camp commenced with zeroing our weapons on the tarmac of the range, very hard on vulnerable elbows, followed by shooting an APWT. Having passed, we were to spend every other day firing in different conditions with differing scenarios on various ranges. Being down by the Channel we had to endure a surface of shale/pebbles and gathered an assortment of bruises, especially on the knees. The thigh muscles also suffered and the various PT sessions early in the mornings were designed to help stretch them a little. The days of 'dry' training were very good for revision of infantry skills and ambush tactics. The river crossing was an experience for me. Using our kit as a buoyancy aid we swam across using a rope and balancing our weapons on top of our kit.

Everything led towards the final exercise. We marched into our harbour area only to leave shortly after on patrol to collect our rations. However, the harbour was not where it should have been and it took a little while to work out exactly where we were. Being further from our objective, we also had further to return. We arrived back in harbour just in time for a change of socks, five minutes for breakfast and then straight on with the day's hike. We were to carry our bergens with us and proceed to various stands during the day. However, someone forgot that we had not received any water since the evening before ..... Planners!!

HQ Squadron is, once again, returned to normality, as the 244 Sabre Troops rejoined the returning Kosovo warriors, after an all too brief sojourn into a real working Squadron. The return from operations for the bulk of the Agricola deployment has allowed the Squadron to move at full speed into the post-SDR re-organisation phase. Despite the heavy workload, the Squadron has enjoyed a fruitful summer period and have combined adventure training and Battle Camp with the routine daily duties.

HELLO AND GOODBYE

Cpl Holmes-Smith arrived in the Regiment in August, on FTRS, just in time for the Battle Camp, where his skills as a medic were well tested, albeit just for practice! Farewell to SSgt Mark Sala, Cpl O'Neill and LCpl Lee who have been posted to the newly formed 220 Sig Sqn. Battle Camp took place at Napier Barracks in Folkestone, Kent. The advance party left Colerne on 3 September at 0300hrs, consisting of SSgt Sala, Sgt MacDonald, Cpl Holmes-Smith and LCpl Lee. With the arrival of the rest of the troops on 6 September, MT switched to overdrive. Sgt MacDonald went into a frenzy trying to locate his vehicles as the troops had waltzed off taking them on different activities. SSgt Sala saved himself a few pounds on a haircut with his experience as a Platoon Sergeant (what again!), and LCpl Lee alerted everyone to the ambulance location as he discovered all the mod-cons and gadgets. He put his full creativity into the first aid casualty simulation and scenarios that the troops had to deal with. Getting himself right into his role, his (tor)mentor, Cpl Holmes-Smith, thought there was not enough work for LCpl Lee and decided to play the infantry role, managing to catch a (blank) case in the head. Congratulations go to SSgt Sala on a successful handover takeover of the Regimental Football team, and to gain a win in the process against 4 Field Armoured Brigade from Aldershot, and also to Cpl Eskdale on completion of his EFP-1 course at Warminster. A good pass, too, goes to Cpl 'Popeye' Doyle on completing his MT Accounts course.

DEPARTURES AND WELCOMES

Farewell to Maj (QM) Mike Bailes, off to command HQ Sqn in York. You have achieved a great deal during your tour, at great advantage to individuals and to the Regiment as a whole. Your efforts will be missed, but we are sure that your successor, Maj (QM) Ken Clark, will soon get a handle on things. We have said goodbye already this year to WO2 (RQMS) Iain Wylie who, after serving 22 years in the Corps, went off to Canada on long service. His replacement, WO2 Keith Merrie is finding out that Colerne is not the sleepy little hollow he thought it would be. Good luck to both old and the new. We also say welcome to Sig's Gibbs, Fayers and LCpl Blythe.

TRANSPORT MAINTENANCE TROOP
Tp Comd WO1 (FofS) Ady Knight

A quiet period.....until all returned from leave. Battle camp on the ranges at Hythe and Lydd, along with the ongoing Board of Officers, have made for an interesting break from routine. The Tp welcomes SSgt Dave 'Conkers' Wilson, complete with tan from Cyprus, LCpls Si Lee, Matt Jennings and Arron Evans from Blandford, Cpl Dave Heath 'posted' from 220 (Germany) to 220 (Colerne) and Sig Nicky Ryan from her stag on duty. Congratulations to Ed Chweiseni, Dave 'Boots' Bentham and Johnny Nicol on their recent promotions to Corporal. Well done to LCpl 'GB' Lee for being selected recently into the Army U21 Rugby squad. Congratulations to Sgt Mick 'Stores' Heasman for successfully passing his Unit Ammo Accountancy course (NVQ??) and for not losing any bullets on the recent Regimental Range/Battle Camp.

On the sporting front, the Tp personnel have been improving their skills in a wide variety of sports; Darts, Badminton, 5-aside Football to name but a few and will soon be ready to play competitively. Good luck to Cpl Dave 'Don't forget your trainers' Bentham and LCpl Matt 'Inky' Jennings with the Manchester Marathon. A thank you to Cpl Bobby 'I didn't get lost' Sands from the Burger man at Lydd. He made a fortune due to evening meal not being delivered to the Regiment on time!

B3 RADIO OPERATOR TRAINING 4 - 19 SEPTEMBER 1999

The NFQ's and re-traders of 43 Sqn, HQ (V), FAC Troop and 6LI joined together for their Radio Operator B3 trade training at Colerne. The course consisted of two main phases: the first week was a programme of theory and practical lessons on each of the parts making up the B3 Radio operator qualification. Some parts were harder than others, a favourite being Antennae Theory and Propagation, particularly for those of us who never mastered long division at school. The first week culminated with a test day consisting of a written exam and a series of practical tests under the pressure of time. The test area for 12m mast erection was detectable by the grunts and screams, which seemed necessary for some individuals to perform the task in hand.The second week consisted of a Navex and further lessons and briefings moving towards deployment on Ex First Flight. This provided a very steep learning curve for all involved but in amongst the frustration of 'stolen' key settings, missing 12m mast base plates and monster cam netting everyone enjoyed themselves. Some individuals got too carried away as it was discovered that ending a transmission with 'Rog the Dodge' did not amuse the YofS who reaped his revenge as all the detachments were sucked in at the last moment by some sneaky deception. All those on the course look forward to joining again on the coming exercises to carry out what they have learnt. Congratulations to the best detachment - Sig Miller, Cpl Sutton and Sig Harper and congratulations to Cpl Sutton who was awarded most improved student on the course.

MILITARY SKILLS WEEKEND

On the weekend of 7/8 August, 43 Wessex Sig Sqn and HQ (V) Sqn, the TA elements of 21st Sig Regt (AS), deployed to Sennybridge Training Area (SENTA) for a pre-battle camp military skills weekend to practice all aspects of weapon handling and patrolling skills so as to ready ourselves for this year's camp which is being run with the whole Regiment. The main party of troops arrived at SENTA late on the Friday night to be welcomed by a very heavy rain storm that lasted through until dawn but sense of humours held as we were occupying one of the better farms with a good sized and dry barn. The first instruction on the Saturday was a refresher of TOETS to get peoples brains engaged and thinking. Dry and then blank ammunition was used so there was no hiding any mistakes! The troops were then split down into three sections and spent the rest of the morning practicing section movement during night and day and the theory/planning of section attacks. In the afternoon the hot August sunshine broke through the clouds lifting the mist from the hills giving perfect conditions for a Fire Control Orders and distance estimation lesson which was useful for the potential and current JNCO's.

Fire Control and Range Estimation

The use of radio controlled pop up figure 11 targets spread along the valley really brought home the difficulties of a section commander when trying to control their section, assess the situation and maintain ammunition levels. To complete the afternoon a good 'Close Quarter Battle' route has been set up in a very narrow valley in which either on their own or in pairs troops tried to patrol quickly through. Maintaining as much cover as possible and then spotting and returning fire to an almost invisible enemy, again proved to be good training to the less experienced members of the sections and certainly raised adrenaline levels! Much of the evening was left to section admin and briefings for the night exercise which was to take the form of each section being tasked to carry out Ops on various other farms to gather intelligence of enemy strengths and occupation to allow the support helicopter force to plan and select future flying sites. Early on a damp misty Sunday morning the three sections moved out to march on to the target farm and to carry out an assault of the buildings, No 2 Section providing covering fire while Sections 1 and 3 attacked and moved through the buildings, securing them and taking up 'all round defence' positions. A good well-controlled attack was carried out with plenty of ammunition and pyrotechnics to give an authentic battle and also giving the section commanders practice in what they had learnt the previous day.

Without doubt one of the busiest periods in our history, 244 Sig Sqn is beginning to emerge, confidently, from very turbulent times. With many personnel spread to the four winds on operations and Regimental restructuring post SDR, we now enter a period of consolidation (or picking up the pieces, and sifting through the debris!!). With the reconstitution of 220 Sig Sqn in UK (born of 244 personnel and equipment and a number of office and hangar changes), we now look forward to our new role in support of the Joint Helicopter Command.

ALPHA TROOP (AMF(L)) - NO CHANGE!

The Troop would like to extend a warm welcome to LCpl Fraser Ferguson who joins us from 7 Sig Regt and also congratulate LCpl 'Scouse' Alston and LCpl Daz Daniels on their recent selection for promotion. September saw Sigs Steve Beal, Kev Batey and Emma Gommersall deploy on Op Palatine. The Troop is now well split between Op Palatine and Op Agricola while the rear details are kept busy back at Colerne. This month the Troop deployed on battle camp with the rest of the Regiment or attended various courses.

Congratulations to Sig's Liesa Howson and Rachel Riley for achieving outstanding results on the Royal Signals Leadership Course at Blandford and also well done to Sig Lee Southernwood for passing the Amateur Boxing Association assistant coaches course.

30 SIGNAL REGIMENT ON OPERATIONS – OPERATION BOLTON

Op Bolton is the RAF contribution to the US-led, Op Southern Watch, which polices the Iraqi Southern no-fly zone. The RAF have deployed 12 x GR1s to Ali Al Salem (Kuwait), 6 x F3s to Al Kharj (Saudi Arabia), a VC-10 tanker to Bahrain and HQ British Forces Bolton (HQBFB) to Riyadh (Saudi Arabia). HQ Strike Command and PJHQ has devolved responsibility for all communications for these locations to Tactical Communications Wing Brize Norton. Although 30 Sig Regt once had several assets in theatre, the remaining assets and manpower consist of Euromux which extends data and voice circuits to HQBFB Riyadh with two Gurkhas (currently Cpl Anjan and LCpl Man). More recently, in an attempt to exchange ideas and methods, RAF officers from TCW have deployed on Op Agricola. Meanwhile, Capt Rich Carter deployed on Op Bolton as the Force CIS Officer Al Kharj, commanding TCW Al Kharj and HQBFB Riyadh whilst Capt Teri Downes has recently deployed as Force CIS Officer Ali Al Salem with responsibility also for Bahrain. All locations have some of the usual SATCOM and terminal equipment that is the 'bread and butter' of 30 Sigs Regt personnel. The main differences are two fold:

a. RAF Transportable Telecommunications System (RTTS) which provides a secure inter-nodal network around an air base giving access up to 2Mbps.
b. The average RAF officer/airman.

The latter is the most 'interesting' to army communicators. In a quick calculation on the back of a fag packet (an RAF officer would write an e-mail to his boss to ask permission before submitting his findings in a well written brief! 'After all, the task was not part of his job spec and it was after 5 o'clock!'), Capt Rich Carter found that the average age of his det in Al Kharj was 34. His Flight Sergeant (WO2 equivalent) was a mighty 51 years old and a Flight Lieutenant colleague (Captain equivalent) who was to be posted to RAF Cranwell to instruct Officer Training was. None could quite remember ever firing their personal weapon (which was not issued), PT stood for Part Time, and promotion went out with Options for Change.

With the exception of TCW, RAF personnel are not generally used to operational tours. Tour lengths are always four months with one week's R and R in an all expenses paid in-theatre 5-star hotel (unless they take a C-130 to Cyprus where they have to 'slum it' in RAF accommodation). Due to their overloaded commitment, TCW personnel (including attached 30 Sig Regt Officers) do 2-month tours without any R and R (typical!). However, the TCW airman expects soon after departing theatre to return to any number of operational locations. This may not be so bad if the 'rates' are good (one in particular had done eight tours in Riyadh where the rates were particularly good!).

Although not a daily news item, Op Southern Watch air-power is daily destroying targets in Iraq alongside Op Northern Watch (British Op Jural) based in Incirlik, Turkey. Here, Sig Surya, like Cpl Anjan and LCpl Man in Riyadh, maintains Euromux ensuring the continued presence of 'The Swan' on operations in the Middle East.

REGIMENTAL OPERATIONS TEAM
Ops Offr Maj Garry Hearn
Regt YofS WO1 (FofS) Andy Campbell
Regt FofS WO1 (YofS) Bill Mccreath

A very rare opportunity to produce a set of Wire notes from this Department – the phones must have stopped ringing for two minutes!! The Ops Cell has seen a major upheaval in the last six months; not just with the quantity of operations the Regiment is supporting but this period has also seen the departure of Maj David Sullivan on promotion to Lieutenant Colonel at QMG Andover. WO1 (YofS) Norman Bain on Commissioning to HQ R Signals Blandford. WO1 (FofS) Mark Edwards posted to JCUNI and subsequently selected for commission and Capt James Langley on promotion to Major at Blandford. Encumbents in order of arrival are WO1 (YofS) Andy Campbell from RMA Sandhurst. Maj Garry Hearn from STRIKE Command. WO1 (FofS) Bill McCreath from TM Tp. Capt Jason Hazelwood from 20 Armd Bde Sig Sqn and most recently WO2 (ISM) Mark Potter from Trg Wing. Holding the whole team together over this turbulent period is Mr Continuity, Maj Pete Barron who justifiably achieved his majority in September. In September, after a weeks delay, the Ops Cell moved from the dingy depths of downstairs RHQ, to the spacious, bright 'room with a view' upstairs. Therefore we can now see any visitors coming through the front gate and be somewhere else by the time they climb the stairs. The Regiment has continued to support eleven Operations over this period most recently being Kosovo, Albania, East Timor and Indonesia, not forgetting the military support to Y2K which involved many Regimental personnel. The main effort over the next period will be to identify the whereabouts of the Corps dock leaf to protect us whilst grasping the IT nettle.

EXERCISE CYGNET GLOBE 1999
by WO1 (YofS) Andy Campbell

Ex Cygnet Globe is a world-wide multinational HF Voice/CW/RATT comms exercise, co-ordinated and directed by 30 Sig Regt. This involves the establishment of a number of detachments in Bramcote working to participating nations world-wide. The Exercise has been in place for over 16 years and took place in September this year. Countries that traditionally take part each year include USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Cyprus, Gibraltar and Germany together with UK based Signal Regiments. In addition this year saw 7 and 16 Sig Regts operating from Kosovo. The participants are divided into geographical groups each with a nominated control station. The Exercise is planned and co-ordinated by the Regimental Yeoman of Signals WO1 Andy Campbell and then usually handed over to a Squadron Yeoman to carry out.

Enter stage left – straight from his Yeomans course in Blandford, SSgt (YofS) Rob Barnes to take on the appointment of training wing Yeoman. Having served together in 3 Armd Div Sig Regt in Soest ten years previously it was nice to see him arrive and equally as nice to present him with this Exercise – daunting is an expression much used that week for the former systems operator! One of the pleasing aspects of the Exercise is arranging exchange visits for this Regiment and hosting personnel from other countries. This year saw two JNCOs from 1 Canadian Div Sig Regt in Bramcote whilst Cpl Dean Buckley and LCpl Dave Kyle deployed to Ottowa and Kingston in exchange. Other deployments were Cpl John Thompson and LCpl Adrian Giddins to 110 Sig Sqn, near Perth in Australia. LCpl Carl Ashton and Sig 'Rosie' Rose to 12 SU in Episkopi in Cyprus and LCpl Dom Burns with Sig 'Scotty' Chamberlin to COMMCEN Gibraltar. The timing of the Exercise coincided with the onset of operations in East Timor which saw 22 members of the Regt deploy and equally saw a great deal of Australian units having to curtail their involvement.

This was also an extremely busy period for the Regiment with 258 Sig Sqn deploying on Ex Bright Star in Egypt. Therefore the availability of personnel for this Exercise became slimmer by the minute but it did provide the opportunity for the less experienced operators to get hands on, with LCpl Bob Scott one of the senior detachment commanders and HF guru. The best comms all round, however, was achieved by the 250 Sqn det with Cpl Vinod in charge. Sgt Billy Kidd, Sgt Dave Bennett, Sgt Mark Ebdon and Sgt Ramkaji ran Exercise control to ensure that the daily schedules for the world-wide links were maintained.

EXERCISE NORTHERN APPROACHES – JOCOMMEX
by LCpl Gav Vanden and Sig Lee Yoxall

LCpl 'Gav' Vanden and Sig 'Lee' Yoxall deployed on Ex Northern Approaches as a Joint Comms Ex (Jocommex) exchange visit and spent three weeks cruising around the sunny Med on HMS Fearless. We started our journey from Bramcote on 7 September 1999, flying at early o'clock from Heathrow to Zurich prior to the connecting flight for Ismir. With a couple of hours to kill LCpl Gav Vanden decided he needed a tax-free watch. Almost £1000 out of pocket he admired his new acquisition throughout the next flight! On arrival in Ismir we were collected and taken onboard HMS Fearless, our home for the next three weeks. The accommodation was not quite as luxurious as we expected as we were to live in a room no bigger than our Troop office and we would be sharing with 20 seamen!! The first Jocommex we took part in was actually to our own beloved Squadron (256) in Bramcote. This did not go particularly well, however, it was easy to blame the 'other end' with Sig Richie Hewitt and Sig Stu Welton on set. The second Jocommex was to a Royal Marine detachment and went very much the same as the first, although we proved our equipment and linked to Bampton Castle which upset the boot-necks a little. The rest of the trip was spent conducting mini tours of the ship with copious amounts of sunbathing on the flight deck. The exercise involved a great deal of action stations on the ship whilst simulating enemy attacks, fire practices and NBC alerts. The comms equipment and procedures used by the navy are very similar to ours although they do sometimes resort to flags and flashing lights between ships. We ended the trip with three nights R&R in Marseilles, much of which was spent savouring the local football bar and fostering Army – Navy relationships in the time honoured tradition - abusive banter.

The Squadron's Kosovo tour that took up the first half of the year has now well and truly faded into memory and the emphasis has shifted towards mandatory training, millennium contingency planning and preparation for taking on the demanding task of the Joint Task Force HQ Signal Squadron. Needless to say, this has been a busy year for all members of the Squadron and the New Year promises to offer many more challenges with major exercises planned across the world, starting with Ex Cobb Ring in Florida in March.

EXERCISE ROVING RAM

By LCpl Gav Vanden

In preparation for Operation Surety over the millennium period the Squadron recently conducted Ex Roving Ram. This was a Squadron level HF RATT exercise which took place 8 - 12 November 1999. The aim of the exercise was threefold. First to revise and develop operating skills on HF RATT detachments in readiness to deploy over the millennium period. Second to assess class three tradesmen due their class two upgrade and finally to cross train Data and Systems operators in the 'black art' of HF comms. The Exercise comprised of three outstations and one detachment located at Bramcote Camp which acted as Excon. The outstations deployed to Castlemartin, Catterick and Stanford training areas. After being delayed for 24 hours, the exercise finally kicked off bright and early on the morning 9 November 1999. All dets arrived at their respective locations safe and sound but only just for the Castlemartin det, who unfortunately for them had Sig 'Scan Fat Boy' Martin at the controls for the latter half of the journey. He not only drove erratically, to say the least, but also managed to run out of diesel in the middle of the journey. Once in location the dets very quickly established comms much to the surprise of Sgt Dave Bennett and proceeded to transmit the test traffic supplied to them by Excon. This was to be the trend (no pun intended) for the rest of the Exercise which allowed all involved to brush up on their RATT skills and gain confidence in the kit that they will be using on Operation Surety. All in all, the Exercise was a great success for everyone including LCpl Dom Burns who after being escorted back and forth to the trailer in the dark all week was finally convinced that the Bogeyman does not exist.

EXERCISE ROVING RAM

By Sig Tom Beerling

After a heart rending plug up on the night of 8 November, we deployed to Gandale Bivouac area, about 5mins from Catterick Garrison on the morning of 9 November. The det comprised Cpl Stu Foster, LCpl Karl Ashton, and Sigs Si Mooney, Tom Beerling, Stu Welton and Kate Marsh.

Sig Tom Beerling – Trying to look hard

The intention of the exercise was to ensure all participating personnel were sorted with SECURE HF RATT, antenna selection and erection, etc. We established comms with control from the word go and kept the link until ENDEX. The other dets did get the hump with us due to the fact that we had hard accommodation that was dry and heated. The boys at Brawdy loved that one. Everything ran nice and smooth, and the RATT was booming through. On the second day myself and Si Mooney were chatting and he says 'It makes a nice change to be doing proper comms instead of girly COMMCEN stuff', and I agreed, saying how nigh on all we do is 'girly' COMMCEN stuff. Stu Welton sat in the corner and disagreed with us. 'Shut up fellas, we're not birds!' Looking over we observed Sig Welton filing his nails with a Leatherman tool. Oh dear!! On the Thursday we had the two minutes silence, which was right and proper, and after a day of operator chat, closed down just after dark. Arriving back at camp, Cpl Foster was informed that all dets were to be turned around and ready for inspection by OC Exercise at 1030hrs next morning. We believe the reason for the rush was that the OC, Capt Owen 'Fingers' Finnie, had to do 'green' PT, there was no way we were going to swerve it!

OPERATION LANGAR - DELTA TROOP DOWN UNDER

On Thursday 10 September, Delta Tp got the call to deploy on the following Saturday to Australia in order to move forward to East Timor. With 48 hours notice, we plugged up 501(E) Maroon and set about testing as many circuits as possible. With just over one hour left before the flight, we knocked off to rush around like lunatics packing our kit before we left camp. After the traditional six hour delay at Lyneham (all that rushing around for nothing then!), everybody boarded the faithful Hercules that was to take us on our four day trip to Oz. The first stop was Cyprus where we celebrated Sgt 'Davrog' Rogers' birthday with seven of us sleeping in each 2-man room! The second stop-over was a great improvement – Oman. We all stayed in a five star hotel and dined a la carte in our combats! We then flew on to Sri Lanka for refuelling and then the Coca Islands. Sadly the only hotel on the island was full, so the locals reopened the quarantine centre for us to stay in – how kind! The last stop was Darwin and it was straight off the plane and back to work setting up the detachment.

Five days later and after many sleepless nights, we had a period of 'on the Herc, off the Herc' as we tried to get to East Timor. Eventually, half of the personnel and all the equipment got loaded and we set off for Dili. Arrival in Dili was very much like a scene from M*A*S*H! Upon arrival in our location, 6kms from the airport, we were greeted by the TNI (allegedly) letting off rounds and setting fire to the building across the road from us. Cpl Gina 'Ginelli' Atkinson had the added bonus of it being her birthday! So far that day, she had seen gunfire, burning buildings and somehow she had set her combats alight! Once we began our set-up, no end of problems occurred, not least of which was Capt Alex 'Wear a helmet from now on' Fennell smacking his head on a roof while everyone watched and then having a satellite dish dropped on his head shortly after! The aforementioned Cpl Atkinson's recognition skills have kept the morale up however with such lines as, 'Ooh, look at that funny dog!' 'No, that's a pig Gina.' – she is obviously not a local!

Meanwhile, back in Darwin, those who flew back to collect the last of the equipment got to have their photos taken under a 'nice' sign (due to censor restrictions we can't show this). When all the 'important' people were where they belonged (in Dili) and the insignificant underlings were left to rot by the poolside with fresh food in Darwin, the hurry up and wait syndrome began – 'Quick, get this link in first. No, now this one, etc.'. It was all great fun! At the end of the day, is it too much to ask for running water and a cold can of Coke? This and many other questions will be answered in the next instalment from Delta Troop in the Far East!

EXERCISE BRIGHT STAR 1999 - by LCpl Tony Gallagher

Ex Bright Star is a coalition, tri-service exercise held in the Egyptian desert once every two years. Our role was to provide the comms close support to the National Command Centre (NCC). The Advance Party deployed on 10 September 1999, deploying without minimal equip. Inevitably, all they could do was settle themselves into the Aida Beach Hotel and enjoy the sun! When the Main Body arrived, the Advance Party tried to complain about the hardships that they had had to endure. After all, MacDonalds had only been open for a few days and they had had to move from the coastal hotel to 'luxury' accommodation at the top of a five-story block, with port-a-loos a five-minute sprint away. We thought the stairs would get easier as the weeks went on and the weather cooled, but no! In fact, to aid acclimatisation Squadron PT started soon after arrival at 0545hrs; yes there is a morning variety as I was soon to discover! Every dawn we all walked down the five flights in a trance to be greeted by the smiling faces of our two resident PTIs, Cpl 'Paddy' Bevan and LCpl 'Caz' Burrows. Anyone thinking the Exercise was going to be all sunbathing and sangria was very much mistaken – unless of course you were a Telemech. As the Exercise progressed and a solid routine was established, everybody brushed up on their skills. For example, I managed to work on my 'People skills' in the ICC – not that they needed improving (honest).

A good earthing was required for desert communications!!

But luckily it wasn't all work and no play. Three of the Troop managed to get away for a cheeky game of rugby against the Expats. Also R&R began shortly after the match with almost all of the Squadron getting a few days off in Hurghada, down on the Red Sea. I would love to tell of the tales and adventures that occurred during R&R, but 'what goes on tour must stay on tour'. So, unfortunately, I am not permitted to disclose Cpl 'Jase' Curley's disagreement with one of the lovely local boys! Anyway back at the NCC, the exercise proved to be a good test for everybody in the Squadron and all demonstrated they could handle the responsibilities of JFHQ – both the equipment and the staff! However, by the end, we were ready to swap shades and sunscreen in Egypt for jumpers and scarves back in Blighty!

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS NEWS

The Squadron headquarters has at last settled, with just one departure, that of Capt Rich Carter; all the best for Staff College! Geographically speaking however, we've been spread between continents. With the Kosovo recce still to be done before Christmas, there will still be plenty of movement right through to the end of the silly season.

DELTA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Teri Downes
Tp SSgt Sgt Gaz Middleton

Delta Tp, would like to say a warm welcome to Cpl Dambar 'Dimebar' Gurung coming across from 250 GSS and to Sigs John 'Winston' Ellson, Steph 'Trunks' Hawkins and Paul 'Catalogue Pose' Howells - all coming straight from the factory. A fond farewell goes to Sgt Dave Rogers and family and Sig Jacqui 'Brunei' Bridger who are both posted to the Royal School of Signals down in Blandford. Also fond farewells to LCpl Lee 'You ain't seen me, Right!' Kemp to 1 (RBY) Sig Sqn, LCpl Paul 'Unlike the Murphy's' Hines to 7 Bde and Sig Mark 'Mr Logic' Palmer to Northern Ireland. We must also say goodbye and good luck to Cpl Andy 'Jurassic' Smart, Sig Oscar 'Weight gain 4000' Phillips and Sig Baz 'Beefcake' Still who have all seen the light and are leaving the Army for civvy street. Congratulations go to Sgt Gaz 'Barry Sheene' Middleton and wife Angela on the birth of baby Edward, as well as to Sgt Dave Rogers and wife Christine on the arrival of baby Lauren Jade. For several months now members of the Troop have been deployed on Operation Langar and we would just like to say hello to all deployed (we hope to see you all before Christmas). The Signalman – Lance Corporal board did the Troop proud and although there are too many names to mention, congratulations to all! A big welcome back should certainly go to Cpl Dean Rawlings and Sig Ruth 'Rounders Queen' Phillips – who by all accounts were left and forgotten in Egypt on Ex Bright Star. Finally, we are all very pleased to see the return of Lt 'Not very brown' Downes from Kuwait – some people get all the jollies!!

ECHO TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Emma Rae
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Doc' Halliday

Some hellos and goodbyes from the almighty Troop that is Echo: Hello to Capt Emma 'I do know my Corps History' Rae, Cpl Pete 'taxi' Watson and Cpl Brendon 'bit of a ladies man' Plant. Also welcome to Sig's Bruin, Hannam and Howland from that lovely Blandford factory. Farewell and good luck to Sig Jim Brown, Sam and Shannon posted to Ireland. And of course we will miss Sig Dave Sims who is off to 1 Div to continue work on his belly (Lucky you!). Also congratulations go to the multitudes that have recently received news of promotion. Cpl Plant, LCpl Bevan, LCpl Carter, LCpl Howson, Sig Brown, Sig Donnelly, Sig Engelby, Sig McKay, Sig Stedman and Sig Walker. Your name in The Wire means you owe us yet more beers - Thanks!

FOXTROT TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Morag Southern
Tp SSgt SSgt Paul Boughey

A warm welcome is extended to numerous new faces: Cpls Lucy Mason and Garath McKee, posted in from ATR Arborfield and JCUNI respectively, and Siggies Gareth 'Doris' Day and Andrew Jordan-White fresh from the Royal School of Signals, Blandford. We also welcome Sig Thwaites and Sig Armitage back into the fold after some beasting with the PT Corps in order to pass their assistant PTI instructor course; well done! The past months have naturally focused on the Squadron JTFHQ deployment on Ex Bright Star, Egypt, an Exercise that has certainly topped up any fading summer tans. In preparation for the Exercise programme next year, the Troop OC and Staff Sergeant also managed to tear themselves away from the rigorous routine of the Regiment and recce Diego Garcia for an OTX.

THE WORK OF THE GURKHA WELFARE SCHEME

As the Second-in Command of 250 Gurkha Signal Squadron, I was recently fortunate enough to attend the Nepali long language course in Nepal, followed by a three week duty trek on behalf of the Gurkha Welfare Scheme (GWS). Despite being heavily involved in the organisation of the Regiment's Trailwalker event earlier this year, which raises funds for the GWS, I had very little idea of how this help actually reaches those in need. Contrary to what much of the British Press would have you believe, Gurkha Ex-Servicemen are not forgotten by the British public and British Government once they retire and return to one of the poorest countries in the world. The GWS is the field arm of the Gurkha Welfare Trust, a Registered Charity based in London. The aim of the GWS is:

'The alleviation of hardship and distress amongst Gurkha Ex-Servicemen of the British Crown and their dependants by rendering aid to individuals and their communities in Nepal.'

Individual Aid is the core activity of the GWS, and working through 25 Welfare Centres, basic welfare pensions and medical care are provided for over 11,500 Gurkha veterans and widows. Individual Aid also comes in the form of hardship and educational grants, and accounted for approximately half of the £3.5 million spent by the GWS last year. Community Aid concentrates on building schools, bridges and water projects, with funds mainly provided by the Department for International Development (DFID), Kadoorie Agricultural Aid Association (KAAA) and Exercise Trailwalker. The help of the British Government is essential in covering all GWS support costs in Nepal, with the result that the total amount of any donation actually reaches those in need.

During my trek I was tasked to visit seven schools which had received major grants for rebuilding, as well as interviewing two ex-servicemen and one widow. Even after a short time in the hills, I soon understood just how vital the support of the GWS is. At the first AWC I visited, a pensioner arrived with a gangrenous foot. He had been carried for two days by his sons in order to reach the AWC, and was in a great deal of pain. The AWC's Medical Assistant called the doctor immediately, and the pensioner was sent to hospital within an hour. As a Welfare Pensioner he will be refunded 100% of his expenses for medical treatment – Nepal has no free National Health Service. I also visited an elderly couple who relied heavily on the help of their nearest AWC. The Ex-Serviceman was 84 years old and had been held as a Japanese POW for three years during World War 2, and his wife was suffering from the advanced stages of cancer. The wife had already been treated in hospital in Kathmandu, and the couple's welfare pension was their only source of income. Examples of such extreme hardship are commonplace in Nepal.

Three of the WW2 Veterans whom the GWS support

Over 3,500 of the 11,500 welfare pensions paid by the GWS each month are now sponsored by individuals who covenant £10 a month, allowing the GWS to use the money saved to extend its' medical care and other benefits. However, it still means that £80,000 has to be found each month every month to meet the promise of paying a welfare pension to those who are not yet sponsored. Could you help? To find out more details about sponsoring a destitute Ex-Serviceman or widow please contact the GWT (address below). Another way to help these proud people to whom we owe a great debt of honour is to participate in the annual Trailwalker fund raising event. Next year's event takes place on 24/25 June 2000, and after raising £60,000 with 800 competitors this year, Trailwalker 2000 aims to raise £100,000 and to attract 1000 participants. To receive an information pack, contact the Trailwalker office on 01455 222576 or visit our website: http://www.trailwalker.uk.clara.net The Gurkha Welfare Trust can be contacted at: 3rd Floor, 88 Baker St, London, W1M 2AX. EXERCISE FLYING KHUKURI 3 1999

by LCpl Sundar Rai

Exercise Flying Khukuri took place in Beckingham training area during the period of 15-19 November 1999 and was organised by our Squadron Second in Command, Capt A. R. Aitken. The main aim of the exercise was to make sure that all the Operation Scarab/Appolyon assets and personnel in it could work efficiently in case of a callout. The secondary aim of the exercise was to brush up our military skills in the field environment. The exercise was conducted in two distinct stages. The first stage consisted of practicing Op Scarab/Appolyon for two days. Operations Scrab/Appolyon are Military Aid to Civilian Powers (MACP) Operations initiated at a high governmental level. If they call us out, we are there in the field within six hours providing secure voice lines, faxes or anything they want regarding communication. The second stage was purely a military training exercise, which consisted of map reading, NBC, patrolling, section attack and attack in pairs. The last but very interesting lesson was 'Conduct after Capture'. We had been fortunate enough to be imparted such a valuable lesson, where we learned what to do, and more importantly, how to survive and live graciously afterwards should we become a Prisoner of War. Finally, we came back to Bramcote Camp on the morning of 19 November 1999 after a very useful yet an enjoyable exercise.

Once again the plaintive cry comes up the line from RHQ at Liverpool, 'Where are your WIRE notes?' It seems that the last lot have only just been dispatched, but after checking the file, I realise that the Adjutant is not joking and indeed two months have flashed past so quickly that Christmas is almost upon us. Knowing that it's hopeless to contact my fellow officers in the faint hope that they might just have jotted down the odd thought or happening (fat chance!), the usual (no prizes for guessing who) Squadron scribbler once more takes up his well chewed pen.

VISIT OF THE HONORARY COLONEL PROFESSOR P. TOYNE DL

Kicking off with (which seems an appropriate metaphor to use when the TA Centre is a stones throw from Main Road) the visit to the Squadron of our Honorary Colonel, Professor Toyne the Vice Chancellor of Liverpool John Moors University, on the 19 October 1999.

It was a pleasure, as ever to receive a visit from Professor Toyne which occurred during a Tuesday evening drill night when he was met at the gates to Norman Road TA Centre by the Sqn Comd and the SSM. A variety of training was being carried out and the Honorary Colonel was able to talk to a large cross section of the Squadron and infect them with his unique brand of enthusiasm and energy. A highlight of the evening, was a presentation to Mr Norman Hathaway, our civilian vehicle mechanic, on the occasion of his retirement after 14 years service with the Squadron. Norman will be sadly missed and it is an indication of the great affection and respect in which he was held that we were able to ask Professor Toyne to present him with a beautiful engraved rose bowl from all ranks of the Squadron.

CO's COMPETITION – 30/31 OCTOBER 1999

The Winners and Runners Up in the CO's Competition at Strensall Training Camp
Middle Row: LCpl Sue Heaps, Sgt Tim Mounfield, Cpl Karl Bartlett, Sgt Dave Kerr, Sig Alex Thoms, OCdt Danny Fenwick
Back Row: Sig BJ Smith, LCpl Andy Connell, OCdt Charles Vincent, LCpl, Harold Griffiths and Cpl Mick Hanna

This year the Commanding Officers competition was held at Strensall Training Centre near York and consisted of a physically and mentally demanding series of military skills stands which were designed to test ITD skills amongst other things over a two day period. The 42 Sqn teams were led by Capt Dave Titheridge and Lt Paul Edwards respectively. The hot money was on Dave Titheridge leading his team to yet another victory, having won the competition in 1997 and 1998. However, our pint sized OC Trunk Node Troop, Paul Edwards, had other ideas and pipped them to the post by leading his team to a well deserved victory. A not too surprising occurrence when one considers that Paul was the RSM of 37 Sig Regt (V) before being appointed to a TA commission with the Squadron. Having completed a comprehensive clean sweep of first and second places in the Regimental Competition the Sqn Comd could perhaps be forgiven for having looked like the proverbial smiling Cheshire cat ever since.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY

The Squadron took part in the Remembrance Sunday Parade through the centre of Manchester on the 14 November 1999. This was a big day for our SQMS(V), SSgt Maurice Aarons, as he was acting Sergeant Major, having just completed the two week drill course with the Brigade of Guards on the hotplate at Pirbright (the SSM was on his honeymoon in Thailand. Read on for an explanation). SSgt Aarons has now had a new dance named after him called the Salford Shuffle for reasons which escape me for the moment. Suffice to say that when his course report arrives from Pirbright I shall study it with great interest! Once the parade was over all and sundry repaired to the TA Centre at Norman Road for the usual curry lunch. Our guest of honour this year was Maj Sam Arditti MBE DL MA, who is a Deputy Lord Lieutenant of Greater Manchester.

BROUGHTON HOUSE HOME FOR DISABLED EX-SERVICEMEN

As a result of a conversation between the PSAO, Capt Gerry Whelan, and the Deputy Lord Lieutenant, Maj Sam Arditti, during the Remembrance Day lunch, the Squadron now has an affiliation, with Broughton House disabled Servicemen's Home. Broughton House, whose patron is HRH The Duke of York, was founded in 1916 to care for disabled Sailors and Soldiers returning from the Great War. Through its doors over 4,500 ex-Servicemen have entered, many from the 1939-45 War. It is a registered charity and is situated in a quiet residential area of Kersal, Salford and has facilities to care for 57 disabled Servicemen at a time. It was decided that the proceeds of a Squadron social event, which had been organised to raise money for charity, should be donated to the House. Cpl Carl Jefferson was the mover and shaker behind this event which took the form of a 'Horse Racing Night' held in the JRC. The sum of £200.00 was raised and our picture shows Cpl Carl Jefferson presenting a cheque to Col D. E. Gibbs CBE TD JP DL, the Chief Executive. It is hoped to run further events to improve on this modest but most welcome sum.

As a footnote, WIRE readers will be interested to know that three former members of the Corps are at present patients in the home. Pictured with Col Gibbs and Cpl Jefferson is Norman Harris, formerly 2325998 Sig Harris. Norman served in Aden and then throughout the War with the Eighth Army in North Africa, Italy, France, Belgium and Germany. The other two ex-Corps men were both National Servicemen, postwar. Hugh McKay from Glasgow, formerly 22181314 Sig McKay, who served in Catterick from 1949-51 and Bill Grundy, formerly 21057293 Sig Grundy, who also served at Catterick from 1947-5 1. Norman Harris and Bill Grundy are both local men from the Salford area.

MARRIAGE
WO2 (SSM) GRAHAM WARD AND SGT LESLEY DEAKIN

A special mention must be made of our popular Sergeant Major, Graham Ward. Graham finally plucked up the courage and popped the question to our even more popular (she feeds us) AGC Chef, Lesley Ward, nee Deakin. They were married at the end of October and went off on a dream honeymoon to Thailand. Preparation and planning being every good Sergeant Major's watch word, he had already arranged drill courses for his two senior SSgts, Maurice Aarons and 'Rooster' Coburn six months before, realising that he would be away over the Remembrance Sunday Parade (coincidence or what!). On his return he held a highly successful wedding reception in the Drill Hall at Norman Road to which he invited all members of the Squadron. To mark this happy occasion the SSM and his charming bride were presented with an engraved ships decanter on behalf of all members of 42 Sig Sqn (V). Of course it goes without saying, that we wish them both a long and happy married life together.

55TH (MERSEYSIDE) HEADQUARTERS SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Micah Cummings
SSM WO2 (SSM) Paul Williams

A warm welcome from 55 Sig Sqn to the new PSAO, Capt Tom Ponton who has retired as Quartermaster of the Regiment. Capt Derek Deegan now assumes the appointment of Quartermaster. A big thank you to Capt Phil Atkinson who has been standing in for three months. You can now get back to your job as OC LAD.

In November of this year 33 Sig Regt were invited to take part in an end of year shooting competition in Stadtallendorf in Germany. The Regiment entered two teams of four, a team of old and bold, Maj Stan Quayle the RAO, WO2 (RQMS) McFarlane, WO2 (SSM) Paul Williams and SSgt (FofS) Paul Corrie and a team of youngsters, Cpl Matty Riley, Cpl Sean Tran, Sig Marty Elliot and Sig John Clothier. We also took two reserves/Admin who were Sgt Tim Mounfield and LCpl Anton Kenny. The shooting competition is run and organised by the Reservistenkameradschaft Giesel and sponsored by the 39th Finance Battalion US Army who are stationed in Geissen. The competition is an international event with teams from all over Europe, however this year we were the only British team to enter. Reservists from the Army, Navy and Air Force as well as the German Police and German Border Police took part in the competition. The competition involved shooting the Colt M16A2 rifle, the M249AR machine gun or Minimi and the new Heckler & Koch SL8. Minimal instruction on the weapons was given with no time for any zeroing. The standard set was very high and a large number of the competitors failed to qualify. This was mainly due to the lack of experience with the weapon. WO2 (SSM) Paul Williams got the highest score of the two teams earning him a sharpshooter's qualification and SSgt (FofS) Paul Corrie came a close second earning him a Marksman qualification. The overall result for the teams was Fifth place for the old and bold who are all 42 (NW) Bde B Class Champions and 33rd place for the youngsters. This was out of a total of 129 teams. Our prize was a 105mm shell case engraved with the 39th Finance Battalion's crest. We are looking forward to next year's competition where we aim to come back as winners. Any other units who wish to enter shooting competitions abroad contact your unit rep for the Reserve Forces Association, or the Reserve Forces Association Duke of York's Headquarters, Chelsea, London, SW3 4SG or call on 0171 730 6122 and ask for a serial list of the events for the year 2000.

Sqn Comd Maj Chris Heaton
SSM WO2 (SSM) Bob Paterson

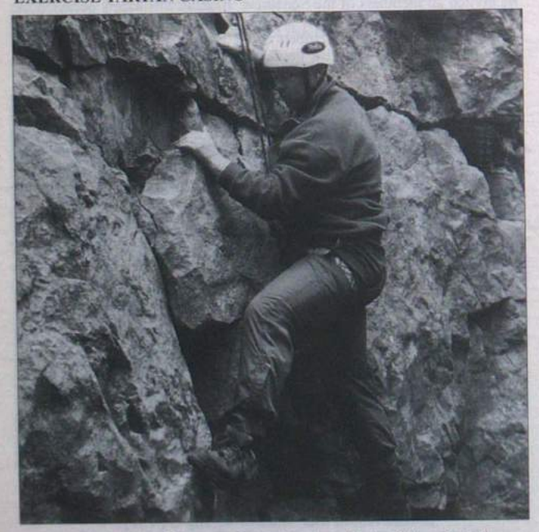
The Squadron has had a busy time this last three months, having recently completed the vehicle PRE. We are now busy working towards RSIT early next year.

BARBECUE

The annual barbecue went very well, the weather was good and spirits were high. The theme this year was a potted sports event between the Officers and Seniors versus the Other Ranks:

EXERCISE TARTAN CASINO



SSgt George Sheppard showing how it should be done!!

The annual adventure training weekend at Halton Camp went extremely well with over sixty members of the Squadron taking part in various outdoor pursuits including canoeing, mountain biking, rock climbing and abseiling:

CO'S COMPETITION

The annual CO's Competition has just taken place where teams of eight carry out various military activities that they would not normally take part in.

Sgt Brian Gillbanks, Cpl Bobby Hunter, Sig Chris Donaghy and LCpl Mick Philburn showing how much they enjoyed the pistol shoot Sgt Gillbanks was heard to say, 'That's unusual, we've all run out at the same time'

The Squadron 'Q' Staff,
SSgt Denise Halewood and Cpl Karen Woodford show how to smile (They've just been told by the QM we're on fresh rations!!)

Overall the weekend proved to be a success although the scoring was weighted against us again.

SSM WO2 (SSM) Frank Hale

Since the last edition 80 (Cheshire Yeomanry) Signal Squadron has been extremely busy with exercises, training and recruiting. The last regimental exercise of 1999 was conducted in an urban environment with 80 Squadron being located in a school in Liverpool. One of the pupils had recently subjected the school to a CS gas attack so there was a real NBC threat! The Regiment proved that it could operate in a city environment as well as the more familiar countryside role. The Squadron has lost Sigs Darran Carr and Michael Wagstaff to the Regular Army whilst Capt Bill Dixon, 2Lt Ross McLeod, Sgt Chris Murphy and CSO5, John Fidler (MGS) have deployed to Bosnia in support of the Regular Army. We wish them all the best of luck. SSM Bob Taylor has retired from the Territorial Army after 28 years service and SSM Frank Hale has taken the helm as SSM of 80 Squadron.

The Squadron wishes Bob and his family all the best for the future and thanks him for all his hard work and dedication throughout his long and distinguished service. Cpl Paul Bermingham has just completed a twelve month tour of the Falkland Islands and is now serving in Blandford on FTRS. LCpl Rory Haddock is currently completing a twelve month tour of duty in Bosnia. We hope to see both of them back in the Squadron soon to get on with some real soldiering!

MUDDLE MANSION

A groan of disappointment was heard in Glasgow at the same time as a shout of pain was heard in Middlesbrough when the Adjt, Dave Wilson, had to tell records he was not resigning. The CO was happier! A warm welcome to the mansion for WO2 (RQMS) Richie Bell, WO2 (YofS) John Walesby and WO2 (FofS) Steve Young. May we welcome you to the delightful surroundings of Brambles Farm! The major note of the period is the announcement that the CO is off to Bosnia for six months. What will we do without him!!! After a hectic few months it was great to get the invite to accompany the boss to pastures new but alas it was not to be for anyone else in the mansion. With a slight accent on words 'Why would the mansion want to go to the muddle!'

34(N) SIGNAL REGIMENT (V) ENTER A TEAM FOR THE NIJMEGEN MARCHES
LCPL WILKINSON'S DIARY OF EVENTS (SHORT VERSION)

16 July: Departed for our journey into the unknown.

17 July: Boarded the ferry at Dover for Calais. The team has a few drinks on board. Nearly lost two members, better luck next time. Arrive at Heumensboord Camp approx 1330hrs. Shown to our accommodation (unfortunately all rooms with balcony and sea view had previously been booked). Had a briefing, first meal on camp and then for a night out in Nijmegen.

18 July: Spent an excellent day/night in Amsterdam.

19 July: Alcohol free day (Sig Barret and Sig Parkes obviously misunderstood the briefing and thought the alcohol was free, at least they drank like it was). Opening ceremony in Nijmegen, British contingency about to march on with flags flying high and the heavens opened up and put an end to that; umbrellas up and everyone home. LCpl Wilkinson's 15 minutes of fame is put on hold.

20 July: Tuesday morning (only just) 0245hrs, shower, dressed and b/fast at 0315hrs. Food hall is buzzing. Made sandwiches for lunch and we're on parade for 0400hrs. 0430hrs eyes right and we're off! The streets are lined with civilians cheering us on. The first day seems to run smoothly and we made quite good time; back in the beer tent for 1345hrs. The atmosphere is electrifying. Finished the first day with all eleven, though Sig Crayton had a tough time with headaches.

22 July: Thursday (renamed Hells Day). I think everyone dreaded this day. Sore blistered, feet swollen, ankles and knees and seven hills to climb. We climbed the first two without knowing; the next few weren't so small but they take your mind off your feet (concrete slabs). 'It's a long, long road, with many a winding turn', then we spot the Shell garage, just another few miles now, heads down we're going for it! Time for another song, 'All the leaves are brown and the sky is gray; I went for a walk, a walk! a walk! oh yes, just a stroll in the park. We're getting closer to the beer tent, heads up shoulders back, feel proud; 'Oh when the Brits, oh when the Brits, oh when the Brits come marching in, 'They'll want zehn biers bitte!' and then some more. Well one more day to do and we've done it! Slabs of concrete and legs in serious pain now. (Lt Howard laughs in the face of pain). A few of the team visit the medics tent then preparation of kit for the march past, tea, shower and lights out.

23 July: Day Four up at 0230hrs, dressed, b/fast, prepare lunch, fill water bottles, parade, photo taking session, 34(N) Sig Regt eyes right and away we go for the last time. Who said the last day was the easiest! Funny how we all hobble down the road in step. Seeing familiar faces in the crowds old and young from all around the world. (Sig Bibby chats to a few hundred as we pass by). God where's the finish line? Ten determined (knackered) soldiers marching in two files. Someone spots MacDonalds (finish point) and emotions they run high.

Now that's the end, it's over, but was it all worthwhile? perhaps you should ask: Lt Williams (Team Leader), SSgt More (2IC), Lt Howard, LCpl Callaghan, LCpl Wilkinson, LCpl Williamson, Sig Barret, Sig Bibby, Sig Crayton, Sig Parkes, Sig Rayner. See you all next year!!

EXERCISE GREEN OSPREY – 5/6 JUNE

Ex Green Osprey is a management training weekend at The Royal School of Signals, Blandford. The intention of the Exercise is to train Ops/Plans personnel and Node Commanders in the command and control of the Ptarmigan System. The Exercise takes the form of computer based training followed by an Exercise scenario. The scenario starts off quite slowly and then in true army fashion finishes at a delirious pace. Many beers were owed on the strength of Ops/Plans personnel answering the subset as OSCs. It became obvious that the pace of the exercise was too fast when SSgt Dawn 'I'm sure that I told you that before, didn't I?' Malloy phoned the other Ops/Plans for an update. Imagine her surprise when the subset was answered by the OC, who happened to be stood next to her.

ANNUAL CAMP 19 JUNE/3 JULY

This year's Annual Camp was divided into three phases. The first week consisted of a Ptarmigan Comms Exercise, the second was a military training week and the end of the camp was in the form of the Regiment exercising its right to a Freedom March through the streets of Middlesbrough. At Squadron level the comms Exercise went well, although it was with much regret that we had to hand over our blank ammo to 90 Sqn so that they could be attacked. A special mention must go to Sgt Stu Key, RLC, who at one stage seemed to be providing food for the five thousand. The military training week culminated in the Birtwistle Trophy. This year each squadron had to provide five 5-man teams, the combined scores of the top two teams from each squadron to count. The competition consisted of military stands such as command tasks, vehicle recognition, assault courses and ranges. The top two teams finished first and fifth respectively, the Squadron claiming the trophy for the third consecutive year. They also won the sports competition, the two volleyball teams contested the final (SSgt Keith 'Dig it' Holdstock to the fore), the football team was runner up (thanks to 'I can't miss, sure shot' Williams), the tuggers were third in the tug of war and the Squadron easily won the chain of command race. Each year the Squadron awards a trophy to the best or most improved Signaller, male and female, on the camp and this year the two deserving winners were Sig Kev Downs and Sig Sarah Stedman. Well done. The culmination of the camp was the Freedom of Middlesbrough Parade. The TA are not issued No 2 Dress and it was only through some hard work by the QMs dept and some last ditch stitching by the tailoress that saved the day. It was a fine summer's day and everyone in the Squadron seemed to enjoy the parade and then it was back to Leeds for a well earned cup of tea.

EVERYONE LOVES A SAILOR

Sgt Joff Bailey was recently dined out by the Squadron, but not before we can claim some reflected glory for his recent success in the Services RS Championships. Sgt Bailey along with his crew Adrian Lynham, won the RS400s competition, winning four out of the six races. Well done Joff and good luck with the infamous Bowman Trials.

GENERAL

Congratulations go to the following on successful completion of their Phase II Recruit Training at The Royal School of Signals: Sigs Clarkson, Lodge, Nelson, Ramzan, Reveley, Stead, Stedman and Torley. A warm welcome back from the Falkland Islands to LCpl Terri Collict, who is already searching for her next adventure. Bosnia perhaps?

WINDSURFING

A very well done to SSgt Baz 'I've still got it' Raine, the SPSI at the Hull Detachment, who won the Royal Signals Heavyweight Windsurfing Championship and came second overall.

A PERFECTLY GOOD AEROPLANE

Sgt Tony Maples was medically discharged from the TA last year and members of the Squadron decided that they would like to raise money to help with a trip to the USA for Tony and his family. After much thought and heated discussion it was decided that the team would take part in a parachute jump. The team consisted of seven intrepid idiots, that was Sgt Dave 'Oh I've broken a finger nail' Carr pulled out at the last minute, and The Merlin Centre at Topcliffe was to be the location for their hairbrained scheme. The team was made up of the following: SSgt Dawn 'Wings' Malloy, Sgt Frank 'I have to be in black' Mason, LCpl Aron 'What happens if I pull this' Wimpenny, Sig Becky 'How does the count go again' Lodge, Sig Ben 'Where do we land' Martindale and Sig Sahera 'Do my goggles suit me' Ramzan. The training all went according to plan and then they were airborne, it was at this stage that hearts began to pound, sweat began to drip and doubts began to appear. Sig Lodge needed some coaxing out of the aircraft and she must have been counting mentally as all that could be heard were her screams. Sig Martindale's exit went well, but then he decided that he needed some physical training and landed about two miles from the DZ. Apparently it was a pleasant walk back. All enjoyed the adventure and about £800 was raised for the good cause.

The faces of fear!

EXERCISE POLAR PEAK EBOR – 11/12 SEPTEMBER 1999

This was an Adventure Training Weekend in the Peak District organised by Lt Jo Howard and Cpl Andy Meadley. The Exercise was to take the form of mountain biking, hillwalking and rockclimbing. The walkers started off at the Torside Reservoir and finished at Edale, via Kinder Scout, a total distance of about 23km. SSgt Dawn 'Never Happy' Malloy was not too impressed with the lack of water on the Kinder Waterfall and there was some discussion as to how far two kilometres on the map is as compared to on the ground. Sgt 'Nobby' Clarke was that enthusiastic to join the rest of the Squadron that he managed to collect three bonus points from the constabulary in Sheffield. The mountain biking was a little too steep for some tastes with some of the bikers spending a lot of the time with their bikes slung over their shoulders.

ARRIVALS/FAREWELLS

A fond farewell to the Squadron Commander, Maj John Lambton, who has deployed to the Balkans for a six month Detachment. The new OC, Maj Graham Jennings is at this moment wading through the last three previous OC's paperwork, (the majority having been already filed in the infamous File 13). A warm welcome to Sig Sam McDermott who joined the Squadron just in time to attend Summer Camp and be volunteered to take over the running of the Squadron Football Team.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go out to 2Lt Paul Denning, who has just successfully completed and TA Commissioning Course at RMA Sandhurst. For his sins, Paul takes over the responsibilities of 2IC Trunk Node Troop. Congratulations to Cpl Paul Standing and LCpl Vicky Standing the proud parents of the Squadron's newest and youngest recruit, Thomas Neil Standing.

PROMOTIONS

Congratulations to Sgt Ross Blair and Sgt Mickey Jemmett who have made the short trip up the stairs to the Sergeants Mess. Well done. Also SSgt Carole Ann Phillips, who now outranks husband Sgt Mark Phillips – who wears the trousers in their house?

NEWS HOT OFF THE PRESS

Apparently to break the monotony of the leaving speeches at the Training Majors leaving do, the CO took it upon himself to promote SSgt Colin Ridley – Well done SQMS.

PRE CAMP DINNER

Once again the Squadron held a very successful Pre Camp Dinner. The standard of service from the Officers and SNCOs was a great improvement from last year, especially the wine waiters. The Chief Guest was the Commanding Officer, Lt Col David Hargreaves, whose party piece was to promote the head wine waiter, to Squadron Commander, Maj Graham Jennings is still paying for ringing the bell.

ANNUAL CAMP

This year's Annual Camp was a two part affair. Week one, Ex Able Condor, a Communications Exercise, saw the Squadron initially deploy to Granthan, then various locations in the North of England, the last one being seven miles from our own TAC! The Squadron lived up to their reputation as being the best communicators in the Regiment (or should that be the Brigade) and again did themselves proud. Various VIPs were entertained, notably the Master of Signals, Maj Gen Sprackling, who visited the Trunk Node at Ilidebrand Barracks, Harrogate. The Squadron SPSI, SSgt 'Mac' Makinnon, managing to drag himself out of his sleeping bag, to share a cup of tea and a packet of chocolate biscuits and reminiscing over old times with said Master of Signals! The second week of camp saw the Regiment deploy to Swynnerton Training Camp, on Ex Bold Tiger. The week comprised of Military Training and Drill, Drill and more Drill! The climax of the week was the Birtwistle Trophy and Regimental Smoker. Sig Tony Standing proving there is no truth in the rumours that he is about to be promoted, by playing the Acting SSM to perfection. Camp finished with the Squadron taking part in the Regimental Freedom Parade of Middlesbrough. All the RSM's shouting and hard work paying off.

ABC AID TO POLAND

WO2 (SSM) Steve Tinkler has been flying the flag for the Squadron by assisting the Teesdale Lions and ABC Aid to Poland in organising a weekend for Polish refugees in the Lake District. The children were visiting England from three different orphanages in Poland – Mragowo, Jawar and Warsaw. A great weekend was had by all and the children will take fond memories back to Poland of their time in the safe hands of the SSM.

A CHANCE ENCOUNTER

Whilst on a recent visit to Holland Maj Chris Jones, Ops Officer 34(N) Signal Regiment (V) and Maj Graham Jennings, Officer Commanding 50(N) Sig Sqn (V) had a chance meeting with ex-Sgt Terry Beeching MM now a sprightly 82 year old. During a lull on a tour of the Airborne museum Hartenstein at Oosterbeek, they got together for a chat about Terry's experiences during the airborne landings and the Rhine crossing. Terry was with 30 Corps Sigs and was the line control Officer of 139 TE Section Line Mechs at Comms Sigs office. Terry's unit was in position with 30 Corps on the Dutch/Belgium border and as Op Market Garden began they advanced with the aim of relieving Arnhem. As the advance came to a halt Terry had to mark time in the Nijmegan area, 30 Corps were then involved in the Rhine crossing. It was during this phase that Terry happened to mention to his OC that 'he was bored and could he find him something to do'. Well he did and Terry was given the responsibility of laying the Submarine cables across the Rhine …… at night and also under enemy fire. Terry successfully completed this task and as a result was awarded The Military Medal.

IT'S A BUGS LIFE

Lazing in front of my computer I was desperately searching for some inspiration to write some notes for the next edition of The WIRE when I came across the Regimental year 2000 Defensive Plan to deal with the Millennium Bug. I was convinced it was just another health and safety scare and couldn't possibly relate to my magnificent home PC that needed a small room to accommodate it - but big is powerful I say and anyway it complements my stacked hi-fi system with its 200 Watt speakers. That is until I started reading the bit about computers ceasing to work on 1 January due to some compliance problem with its internal clock. Happily the document reassured me that my toilet flush and drainage would continue to work except for some local failures - but hey what's new over Christmas and at least I can still use the telephone, which would also remain unaffected, to call out a plumber. But that won't resolve my immediate computer problem which will cease to function at the end of the year. Will this be the end of my useful life as a main contributor to The WIRE magazine and would I have to resort to using the typewriter?
In desperation I sought the help and guidance of our IT expert in the shape of FofS Andy Gilpin. He was quick to grasp my problem and wisely advised me that big isn't necessarily better and that I needed to invest in a more modern PC, with at least Windows 95, MS Office, an appropriate Anti Virus programme and loads of RAM. Now for someone who was brought up on an Olivetti typewriter, and currently using a ten year old Amstrad, this push towards modernisation as well as spending money worried me. Up until that point I thought Random Access Memory was something my Storeman, Charlie, experienced when he suffered a convenient memory loss, that Windows 95 was a national Double Glazing Company and that a Hard Drive was the daily experience I endured travelling into work! As for anti virus I assumed that was a course of antibiotics I was currently receiving for viral flu - which has now deteriorated! Happily my transformation in embracing modern technology is almost complete and having received some useful technical advice and training I am now semi computer literate. In the meantime until I can upgrade my PC the FofS gave me a floppy disc that would rectify my date problem so I can continue producing Wire Notes at home on my colossal but antiquated machine, but as I type my printer has just packed in - now where is my Christmas present list!

CHRISTMAS CRACKERS

Continuing on a light note the following humorous incidents took place during the past couple of months. While the afflicted would naturally prefer to remain anonymous, it is felt that in the current climate of openness and unfair play, it is in their best interests for their names to be revealed! Cpl Carl Rossal an experienced Tech serving with Mike Tp has reportedly gone into hiding when it was discovered he tried to jump start a 7Kva generator from the vehicle batteries but alas he ended up connecting the vehicle batteries to the installation batteries - a simple case of a power ranger getting his wires crossed but at least he wasn't charged! SSgt Andy Egan meanwhile now wishes he was a little more switched on when he asked SSgt Charlie Walker what day it was just before he paraded in Birmingham on Thursday 11 November at the Festival of Remembrance! No prizes for guessing the response Capt Dave Brough received when he asked the Sqn Fire NCO what some new fire extinguishers were for!

EXERCISE SPIDERS WEBB

Ex Spiders Webb was a shared HQ, 48 and 89 Sig Sqn Adventure & Leadership Training weekend held at Kimnel Park near Rhyl over the weekend 16/17 October . The weekend , which was designed to incorporate both fun and serious training activities was the brainchild of SSgt Andy Egan. He ensured a broad range of subjects were covered from Map Reading to specialised Command Tasks, which are necessary to assess the leadership potential of those who attended. The weekend was a considerable success, enjoyed by all who attended, full of unforgettable incidents and its format will be repeated in future training events. Memorable moments included SSgt Jim Stephen's unique demonstration on how to scale an eight foot wall unaided. His lesson fell into disarray however, when he attempted to show off his gladiatorial talents and physical prowess and impress his enthusiastic and engrossed audience. Instead, much to his dismay, he acted out a scene from the film 'Ghost' when having misjudged his take-off he run straight into the wall and, while escaping unscathed, suffered a major loss of dignity. Having regained his composure he executed a magnificent run and jump and launched himself over the wall to the sound of great applause! Not to be outdone during the Orienteering exercise later in the day Cpl Tracey Haggan and LCpl Adrian Proffitt two of our most experienced Orienteers' missed their marker and for the next hour at least attempted to act out 35 Sig Regt's dramatic interpretation of the Blair Witch Project. A wide eyed Tracey later confessed that the experience did prove to be a bit of a map reading nightmare. To cap the first day Sgt Dave Taylor received his introduction to the popular drink 'Metz' (you know the advert) that on the morning after left him in a delicate and contorted state. He naturally blamed everyone but himself. On the final day during the Map Reading lesson Sgt Steve Crooks (aka Julia Andrews) stayed with the film theme and unwittingly acted out a scene from the 'Sound of Music' when he led an intrepid group over a hill overlooking Rhyl only to have them impersonate the Von Trapp family. Much to his surprise they burst into a rendition of the 'Hills are alive with the Sound of Music'. Sgt Crooks remained unusually quiet during this impromptu rendition.

5 DIVISION CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS

It seems for far too long our Regimental Orienteering Team have dominated the headlines and captured all the glory with their successful exploits in many orienteering competitions. Now it was the turn of the Regimental Cross Country team who have always aspired to reach the same level of success and acclaim. On a bitterly cold and windy day at Larkhill in early December the team achieved their aim of not only competing but also thrashing the opposition and winning. The team led by SSgt (FofS) Neil Trengove by sheer guts and determination managed to secure six team places in the top ten which was enough to ensure that the Regiment gained an excellent piece of silver to add to and adorn the trophy cabinet. Congratulations are extended to all of the runners who included Sig Simon Brown, Cpl Nobby Styles, Sgt Surge, Cpl Shyam and Cpl Sudeep and the RSM, WO1 Geordie Marshall, who despite a severe cold, persevered to the end and put up a great performance.

EXERCISE NODAL FORT

Ex Nodal Fort was a 48 Sig Sqn exercise that took place at Nescliffe training area and was designed to carry out some ITD tests and train members of the Squadron in the Defence of a Communications site. The exercise was planned and controlled by Lt Andy Sturt and started with a tactical deployment into field locations. The initial phase of the exercise was purely instructional with all involved undertaking ITD tests in first aid and NBC while receiving instruction and practice in patrolling and defence. Although heaven knows what SSgt Andy Lloyd (the new Sqn SPSI) thought when he discovered to his horror (almost half a mile later) that the patrol he thought he was leading had deserted him. It transpired that they had lost sight of their leader and thought the sensible option was to return to the Main Gate of the training area - well it was dark and he should have allowed them a torch or two! The exercise also represented a first encounter with mine awareness training with a typical scenario of recovering a casualty from a minefield. This not only provided useful training but it also made everyone aware of the fact that despite a world wide ban on mines, millions of them still exist all over the world presenting a daily hazard to many communities and our own troops. Up until Saturday afternoon the weather remained relatively mild but typical of Nescliffe within two hours it turned from mild to poor to appalling and the Bivi area turned into a quagmire with sleeping systems floating everywhere. Despite the increasingly poor weather the simulated Trunk Node responded well to the repetitive and determined enemy assaults and gained some valuable experience.

By Sunday morning though the weather took its toll and rumours abounded that the coastguard was being called in to recover those who had been swept away during the night! Amazingly the wind and rain dissipated just in time for the arrival of the helicopter (no not the coast-guard) that was to be used for training in aerial reconnaissance for future comms sites, unfortunately no one managed to hitch a ride. The exercise concluded with a further attack on the Trunk Node which resulted in the capture of several enemy wounded. This provided an exciting climax to the exercise that allowed all involved to return to our home TA Centre just in time for tea. Special thanks are extended to SSgt Andy Lloyd, Sgt Mick McDonald and Sgt Keith Nevitt for providing excellent DS support and a very special thanks to Cpl Wendy Geddis who took a break from her normal trade to provide essential catering support - thanks for the grub Wendy! There was also a large number of recruits on this exercise having their first taste of field conditions subsequently their personal skills and drills improved significantly. That is with the exception of one unnamed recruit who learned a very valuable lesson in personal admin the hard way, when drawing his kit a month later, he realised that it had been packed wet and consequently was not only a little fragrant but most of it required replacing!

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

One of the joys of Christmas within the Regiment is the annual celebrations and functions that take place in all locations when the TA family in all its guises get together and enjoy themselves and hopefully look back with fond memories. It goes without saying that we have just gone through an eventful year tinged with sadness and tragedy but happily we are now going through a period of consolidation, stability and calm and are now beginning to look ahead with renewed confidence, optimism and vigour. Getting together especially during the Christmas Season strengthens the bonds that tie us all and allow us to enjoy ourselves and relax amongst the good company of family friends, companions and colleagues. The first two events involved the Officers and Sergeants Messes which both took place on Saturday 4 December.

The Sergeants Mess Christmas Draw took place at 58 Sqn's TA Centre based in Newcastle under Lyme and proved to be a most enjoyable and fun packed occasion with almost everyone winning a prize of one description or another. The acknowledged premier event however has to be the Officers Mess Guest Night held at the City of Birmingham's magnificent and sumptuous Council House and is fondly and traditionally known as the Council House Dinner. Guests of Honour included The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Birmingham, Cllr and Mrs Ian McArdle, Comd 143 Bde, Brig John King and Comd 11 Sig Bde Brig Jonathan Cook. All of our guests were welcomed by the CO, Lt Col Steven Potter and the Honorary Colonel, Col Brian Foxon.

Following the traditional speeches the CO presented the award of best junior officer to a delighted Capt Dominic Hope of 58 Sig Sqn and also promulgated Lt Andy Sturts promotion. Both Dominic and Andy celebrated their achievements in traditional style. Present at this very special dinner were many old friends of the Regiment included Maj Gen Paul Alexander a former Honorary Colonel . Also present was perhaps the Regiments oldest and most distinguished friend in Lt Col Geoffrey Davis who it would be fair to describe as the Regiments founder member.

He joined 48 Sig Regt as a signaller in 1939 and served his war years in a host of other Royal Signal units including 61 Sig Regt, 45 Sig Regt finishing with 7 Armd Bde Sig Sqn and was commissioned in June 1943. After the war he rejoined 48 Sig Regt which for a while was retitled 1/20 Army Signal Regiment and later joined 59 Sig Regt based in Liverpool in 1960. Three years later he joined 58 Sig Regt as Sqn Comd and later was appointed 2IC and finally assumed command in 1967 just prior to the merger of 58 & 48 Sig Regt which then formed 35 Signal Regiment Ever since then the good Colonel has given 35 Signal Regiment his complete and total support and can be seen at every Council House Dinner. In this our Millennium year all members of the Regiment are both proud and delighted to know him and fervently hope that this unique friendship and relationship carries on for many more years to come.

RING THEM BELLS

It is appropriate to close our current contribution to The Wire with a message of congratulations to the Bell brothers serving with 89 Sig Sqn. First to Cpl Steve Bell, an ex Regular Radio Relay Operator now serving with the AGC , for achieving an A grade on his SPS Finance upgrading courses and to his brother Mick (ex Regular RMP) who has just returned from his Det Comds course having received the Top Student award. Very well done to you both! A further congratulation is extended to all those aspiring SNCO's who were selected for promotion to Sergeant during the recent Regimental promotion board. Finally a Happy New Year to all of our readers.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

The past two months has been a relatively quiet time for the unit. The principal thrust of training was aimed at Op Surety (The Millennium Exercise) which unfortunately has now been cancelled. This was a major disappointment for the unit and all that had volunteered to take part in the exercise. During the weekend, 2-3 October, Regimental Officers attended a Battlefield Tour of the Somme - it would appear that wine tasting and the replenishment of wine cellars featured high on the priority list. More details of the tour are contained in 93 Sqn's notes. The Regimental Officers held a dinner night to bid farewell to the outgoing CO, Lt Col Whittle and his wife Pamela. Unfortunately, however, the lasting memory of the night to all will be Maj John Duggan, the Regiment's 2IC, giving his speech whilst his fly was clearly ajar!

EXERCISE GOLDEN LION

Ex Golden Lion is an annual adventure training event and this year it took place over the weekend of 17 to 19 September. The location in North Wales was excellent and the facilities at the Naval Adventure Training lodge, although cramped, were ideal for a small group. A total of 24 Squadron personnel attended. The Saturday morning started with an unplanned fire practice, at 0615hrs the alarms went off and everyone ran towards the exits, but were stopped by the red faces of the Chef, Cpl Powel and SSgt (SQMS) Wood who had burnt the sausages. We knew it was not a practice as the PSAO was also seen running with just his underpants on. The girls had to cover their eyes!!!

After breakfast, which didn't take long to eat, the Squadron was placed into three groups. This was not an easy task as no one wanted to go with the PSAO, but the youngest and fittest couldn't hide and they were dragged out from nooks and crannies. The groups then departed to start their activity which comprised of TR&A and map navigation. The weather was dry but the wind was gale force and appearing without warning in gusts, which proved difficult at times to even walk let alone hold a map. One particular gust caught SSgt 'Andy Cap' Skelton unawares, which resulted in him fleeing down the mountain to retrieve his hat whilst the rest of the group almost went para gliding without the need of any wings.

SSgt 'Andy Cap' Skelton

On the Sunday morning the weather was appalling, the wind had reduced but a continuous downpour now replaced it. Orienteering had been arranged in a local forest but as everyone was so keen and had been looking forward to this event (I lie a lot) it was decided to proceed. WO2 Eddie O'Connor was paired with Cpl Mickey Muckle but it took them some hours to return. It seems they lost their way in the undergrowth and when they finally emerged without their map they wandered around taking in the view until being given directions out of the forest by another group. Sgt Phil Hall and LCpl Eddie Dale won the orienteering event. They were each presented with a much sought after Squadron T-shirt. Both were extra large!!! Although the weather over the weekend was appalling the aim of the exercise was achieved and valuable lessons were learnt. New members of the Squadron were introduced to top roping and abseiling and other members gained experience on route selection and map scale appreciation.

The Squadron, having completed Annual Camp at Fremington has embarked on a very busy period. Ex Winged Lion saw all our assets deployed to Copthorne Barracks, Shrewsbury. This was quickly followed by Ex Autumn Belle both of which were in preparation of Op Surety. Sgt Mick Clarke also deployed with his team as part of the work up for Op Jekyl. On 19 September 1999 we also took part in Civic Sunday at Stratford on Avon which saw members of the squadron on ceremonial duties including Sword Bearer. SSgt Eric Head our PSI has at long last returned from Blandford where he has been learning the intricacies of IT for five weeks - we now look forward to much improved communications. On the social front our Annual Post Camp Squadron Dinner took place at Barford - Sgt 'Ros' Thwaites organised this event and both current and ex members from far and wide attended - it was a great success. We say farewell to Sgts Pete Deakin and Rob Cameron both of whom are unable to continue with their TA duties due to other commitments and welcome Paul Jones joining the Commissioned Ranks and hope his stay will be long, pleasant and memorable. Finally, our congratulations go to Capt Andy Fletcher on his recent marriage - although not currently serving with the squadron is still a valued member of the hierarchy and held in high esteem - especially as he currently controls the Brigade IT Budget - best wishes to him and Paula for the future.

Sqn Comd Maj A. Unwin
SSM WO2 (SSM) Reid

Over the weekend of 1-3 October 1999, Officers of 93 Sig Sqn (V) took part in a Regimental study taking in the battlefield of the Somme and visiting the World War I cemeteries in the area. The study was led by the CO, Lt Col Alan Whittle who also acted as guide and commentator. The Regimental group set off from RHQ at Redditch at 2000hrs and arrived at Maidstone at 2340hrs.

Early next morning saw the group boarding the ferry at Dover and despite delays due to 50mph winds in the Channel, arrived in France at 1000hrs. The first visited was Serre which was of particular interest to the squadron officers as on 1 July 1916, the Accrington Pals went over the top. The Squadron has in its title 'East Lancashire' and as the Pals were the 11th Service Battery, East Lancashire Regiment, to be able to see the site where so many fellow Lancastrians had died was very poignant. The graves are kept in pristine condition, a credit to the War Graves Commission and surely of great comfort to those relatives of the fallen who make the pilgrimage. The party then moved on to Mematz Wood where the 38th Welsh Division fought. The memorial to the fallen is spectacular and is in the form of a bright red dragon with strands of barbed wire in its claws. En route the huge mine crater of Lochnagar was viewed. Next we visited a German cemetery to see the site where 17,500 German soldiers lie, many in mass graves. Of particular interest were head stones of German Jews, especially considering the persecution of Jews by the Nazis during the Second World War. The day ended with visits to Delville Wood where thousands of South Africans perished and the Theipval Memorial, a huge monument, which carries thousands of names, none of whom have a final resting-place.

We stayed overnight in the town of Arras and in the morning set off for Vimy Ridge. This strategic ridge was fought for by the Canadian Division against an enemy well established and with the advantage of the high ground. The area has not been landscaped and still bears the craters caused by the intense bombardment. Much of the land is still fenced off due to unexploded munitions. The huge memorial was created from stone quarried in the former Yugoslavia and like Theipval, bears the names of soldiers with no known grave. This was the final site visited before making our way home. The weather throughout the weekend had not been good with violent showers of heavy rain. However this only added to the atmosphere of these silent places where, collectively, millions who had fought and died and were now remembered. Whereas we could climb back into the coach to dry off, those who were there and survived had to endure four long years of appalling conditions. The saying 'Lest we Forget' now means much more to those of us who attended that weekend.

EXERCISE HIMALAYA DRAGON

During September and October 1999 three members of 93 Sig Sqn (V), Sgt Jim Holmes, Sgt George MacGregor and LCpl Jonathan Greaves participated in Ex Himalaya Dragon. This ambitious Joint Services adventurous training exercise involved over 180 members of the regular and reserve forces, in an expedition to climb 18 peaks in the Nepalese Himalayas. Since completing the selection weekend in March 1998, an extensive training programme took place over the following 18 months, allowing all participants to develop their skills, qualifications, and gain further experience before the expedition. This included winter mountaineering in Scotland (in what was possibly the worst weather of the year), rock, snow and ice climbing, and an alpine mountaineering course to gain experience on glacial terrain.

On arrival in Kathmandu, the capital city of Nepal, the 18 teams then went their separate ways to their climbing areas, which were themselves a challenge even to get to as the road system in Nepal does not venture very far into the mountainous regions. LCpl Jonathan Greaves was a member of the team to climb Mardi Himal (5,588 metres). This involved an interesting bus journey to Pokhara, followed by an approach from the South following a river up the Seti valley.

After the climb, the route out was by following the Mardi Khola South. Sgt George MacGregor's team was given the task of climbing Pisang peak (6,091 metres). The approach was via the popular trekking route 'the Annapurna Circuit' as far as Pisang village, where the team left the crowds of trekkers to establish a base camp at 4,200 metres, and a high camp at 5,400 metres from which to approach the peak. The route out again followed the course of the Annapurna Circuit over the Thorong La pass (5,416 metres), before flying out from a remote mountain airstrip at Jomsom. Sgt Jim Holmes was a member of the Rolwaling team, whose approach route to climb the peaks Ramdung (5,930 metres) and Parchamo (6,273 metres) followed an un-mapped route through uninhabited country for several days before setting up base camp at just over 5,000 metres. The picturesque Rolwaling valley is to the West of the Everest area, and is relatively unspoilt by tourism as the Nepalese government restrict access to this area.

All the teams experienced the effects of this year's late monsoon season, which unfortunately reduced the opportunities for photography for the first few days of the trip, and tested the waterproof properties of the tents to the limit. Gladly the weather changed for the better at the end of September, and the mists cleared to reveal the Himalayan scenery in all it's majesty. With the climbing phase of the expedition complete, a few days sightseeing in the amazing city of Kathmandu was squeezed in before the long trip home. All agreed that the expedition was challenging, but one definitely not to be missed, and was well worth all the hard work and training over the time leading up to it. A lot of experience was obtained from both the training and the expedition, and also qualifications were gained by all which should prove to be of benefit to the Regiment.

Following a successful contribution to 2 (National Communication) Signal Brigade's Exercise Autumn Belle, the Squadron was busy in preparation for what proved a busy November and December. With trade training weekends, Remembrance Sunday and a maintenance weekend the Squadron has certainly not been bored. The Squadron was extremely well represented at this year's Remembrance Parade in Coventry. An excellent and fitting effort by the members of 96 Sqn produced a very smart turnout with the Squadron resplendent in its No.2 Dress and presenting the City of Coventry with a very smart Royal Signals Squadron. The dropping of hundreds of poppies from the air by aeroplane provided a touching end to the service and it was extremely rewarding to hear the appreciation of the local public for their local Royal Signals unit. This was added to by a letter of thanks and appreciation from the Lord Mayor of Coventry, Cllr Mrs Joan Wright.

96 Squadron on parade

A month earlier the Squadron had organised the 37 Sig Regt (V) study weekend, which this year saw a visit to the Somme battlefield of north eastern France. This proved to be an extremely educational and moving weekend and we would like to express our appreciation to those members of the Regimental officers and warrant officers who attended this weekend and made it such a success. Our thanks go also to Lt Col Alan Whittle - CO 37 Sig Regt (V) - who provided the historical commentary although Maj Dickie Hall (OC 67 Sig Sqn) provided some commentary as he was there the first time in 1916!!! Certainly none who attended could fail to be moved by the immense sacrifice and suffering whilst I am certain everyone went home wiser than when they left.

With two new officers in Capt Jonathan Farmer (ex RE) and Lt Miles Schofield (ex 6 Bn RRF) and various other new members the Squadron is certainly looking healthy. This is probably just as well. With the annual Ex Cold Comfort fast approaching (and with it the usual Christmas celebratory alcoholic indulgence) the Squadron will need as much health as it can muster. Having provided the local Casualty department with plenty of business last year, this year's festivities will hopefully be a little less inclined to provide such a drain on the resources of the NHS... We can but hope for an enjoyable, memorable and pleasantly safe Saturday night free from brussel sprouts and Christmas pudding eating competitions which usually contribute to the evenings pleasantries.

And finally... our congratulations go to Sgt Julie Brookes and LCpl Steve Tuck on their engagement to be married next year. We are not yet sure what you get if you cross a potential Yeoman and a technician but we wish them every happiness and success for the future.

38 SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

Nottingham's military Signallers are straining their ears for a sound of their weatherman on the other side of the world. Territorials at 87 Sig Sqn were thrilled for Dion Brittain when he set off on the adventure of a life time. The 24-year-old Corporal is currently on a six-month tour of duty as the army's weatherman for the South Atlantic. From his island outpost on the edge of Antarctica he is keeping tabs on the turbulence tumbling off the ice cap and across the endless miles of ocean. Meanwhile back in Britain his friends are knitting woollies for their man on South Georgia. Capt Ken Scott said,

'We're very proud of Dion. Our soldiers have gone on some strange duties around the world but this one takes the biscuit. Before he went out he was given special meteorological training by the Royal Air Force. He is now second-in-command of Britain's 12-strong garrison on the island.'

Cpl Brittain's headquarters are in Shackleton. The bleak and tiny settlement is not far from the whaling centre the Argentinean's took over in the run up to the Falklands War. Facilities and entertainment are few and far between. Communications with the outside world are difficult too with the soldiers' supply ship only calling once every three weeks. But the biggest problem Dion, from Beeston, has to cope with are the gale force winds whipping up off the Atlantic which seem set to rip his roof off. He is expected to finish his tour of duty in three months time, when he will return to command a five-strong detachment at his base, in Triumph Road. His foray to the southern seas is his third stint abroad. Earlier trips have taken him to Canada and Ascension Island.

EXERCISE HIGHLAND LYNX

How It Was, According To The Yeoman!

Towards the end of 1998 the CO, Lt Col John Crackett TD decreed that the next Regimental Annual Camp, his last with the Regiment, would be something special. Little did we realise at that time exactly what he had in mind and indeed how special the camp he envisaged would be. It was to be 'A two week camp split between Squadron collective training and a Regimental field exercise, in Scotland, based upon a Peace Support Operation; following the principles of Mission Command'. So Ex Highland Lynx was born. Under the direction of Capts John Cullen, Dave Gibson, Bob Sheldon (and in an advisory role Tom Pengelley) we set about constructing an exercise that was to be challenging, rewarding and memorable to those who would participate. Based upon a scenario not too dissimilar to that of the Balkans, the three hastily formed composite Squadrons of the Regiment were each tasked with completing a series of activities, primarily based on: Internal Security, the establishing of a tactical harbour and domination of ground through patrolling and an arduous march with full CEMO, which culminated in an assault crossing of Lock Lubnaig. With only twelve hours of preliminary training and a skeleton set of orders, the Sqn Comds set about issuing their orders and preparing their Squadrons for the unknown. After three damp and full days, the troops returned to Cultybraggan Camp to participate in the exercise finale, a Regimental assault course and falling plate competition. After more than 72 hours of damp and often extremely unpleasant conditions, having faced mountains, lochs, abseiling (the Tam Ewart way), serious cross-country driving and plenty of walking, it was uplifting to see so many happy and smiling faces. The troops had prevailed (in some cases survived) what was to be noted as one of the best, if not, the best Annual Camp that these TA officers and soldiers had ever deployed on.

EXERCISE HIGHLAND LYNX - ACTIVITY 2
THE SEARCH FOR RODNEY REDFERN RILEY

The Scenario for Activity 2 of Ex Highland Lynx was to provide aid and support to the civil government of Escosia where troops of 39th (Skinners) Signal Regiment (Volunteers) were tasked with the search and rescue of the United Anglian States Consul Mr Rodney Redfern Riley and various other MACC taskings. 'Drip Camp' by name and by nature was the setting for Ex Highland Lynx, Activity 2.

Regiment on patrol during Ex Highland Lynx

The DS Plan was for each squadron to set up a Forward Base Camp under canvas on a field inside Drip Camp and then carry out detailed tasks as given by the DS. 47th (Middlesex Yeomanry) Signal Squadron was first to take on the search and rescue. An incredible and consistent downpour of rain hindered the start of the phase setting up camp. It was either the tenacity of 47 Sqn or the civilian staff members of Drip Camp feeling sorry for them having to live under canvas, that they ended up obtaining shelter inside one of the Nissan buildings. The search areas were given and they involved 'Off Road Driving Skills', 'Recovery Training', 'Abseiling' and 'Map Reading'. In addition the troops had to cope with local unrest whilst carrying out these tasks. The news of the acquired building travelled fast. Each Squadron arrived at Drip and they all acquired hutted accommodation.

The main phase was to find the UAS Consul, Rodney Redfern Riley who was trapped in a disused quarry, and provide him with food, water and his satellite communications equipment and secure documents briefcase that had been dropped by parachute. Well done to 47 Sqn for finding the UAS Consul, feeding him, insisting he travelled with them over the 'Off Road Driving' to locate the communications equipment etc. Very well done to 57 Sqn for finding the UAS Consul, undressing him and dressing him in waterproofs, keeping him in sweeties and taking him on a trek and a half through the hills and woods surrounding the quarry and completing all this with an invite to a birthday party back at SHQ. Exceptionally well done to 5 Sqn for not putting him through any of this, they didn't find him. It was their PSAO playing the part!!

During the silent, or not so silent hours, a number of the DS brought out their Thespian Skills and became Mad Marine Sergeant Spotty Boyle, alias Sgt 'Scotty' Doyle URS REME, Gypsy Dennise Mennise alias WO2 Dennis Griffiths MTWO, and Art Thriller, alias SSgt Phil Sweetland Art Veh REME. Sgts Rick Norman and Chris Stuart played the Press and disgruntled locals. The 'Oscar' goes to 'Spotter Boyle' who crawled and swam to get into the ex area and then climbed onto the top of an ISO container just outside the SHQ and proceeded to create one hell of a din with a length of chain. Those who attempted to put a stop to his antics will surely remember the incident.

Annual Camp for HQ Sqn was split into two distinct phases. Week One was Squadron Training in Halton, and Week Two was the Regimental Concentration at Cultybraggen Camp in Scotland.

Week 1: This commenced on the Saturday morning with the deployment from Horfield to Halton Training Camp in Lancaster. It was a long drive up the M5/M6 which took the bulk of the day. Indeed the last packet (LAD Recovery) arrived just in time for the evening meal. That evening consisted of several briefings, the most notable being the Padres Courage Discipline and Loyalty brief. Delivered as always with his serious demeanour. This was followed by the combination of WO2s Martin and Lee and Exercise Question Mark 4, as always keenly contested. After splitting the Squadron into three teams WO2 Martin's sense of humour was seriously tested. Sunday morning started as always with the Church Service, noted for the extremely bad but spirited singing. The rest of the morning was a round robin of Ranges, NBC and First Aid, the afternoon was the Assault Course competition, hotly completed by the various syndicates. The victorious team led by Cpl 'TC' Cole. This was the first introduction of our comrades from the US (Delaware) National Guard to our competitive spirit. Sgts Barry St John and Will Winchester, at first they found our sense of humour a bit hard to understand. In fact at the end of week two they were still a bit unsure. The rest of the week was spent working at a great pace, combining a wide variety of activities. The high point being Ex Wild Rover 2, the Batco/Navigation exercise in the Lake District. The scenery was magnificent, although travel sickness spoiled it for a few team members. That evening the best kept secret of the week was revealed - Morecombe Ways. We all had guesses at what it was, a few guessed right that it was Ten Pin Bowling. At the end of the week we travelled over night up to cold and rainy Scotland.

Week 2: Cultybraggan Camp - this was a shock to a lot of us. A former POW camp for German Officers, it didn't appear to have been improved that much since then. The Saturday was R&R day, and a lot of us travelled to Edinburgh for the day. On the cultural front we visited the Castle enjoyed by all especially the good natured banter with the guide. Then it was back to the main business of the R&R - Pub-crawling. Later it was time to try out our favourite food, and a trip to a Curry House was duly arranged. This was where Sgt 'Stuntman' Clarke amused everybody with his trick diving headfirst down the cellar steps. That is everybody except Barry our friend from Stateside, luckily there was no damage except to the cellar door. So we ate our overpriced and not so good curry and cracked on. For the bulk of the second week the Squadron was split to the Four Corners. Notable performances were WO2 Dickie Lee as a casualty at the bomb explosion, Sig Sam Worthington as a dead body at the Riot. From the other side was Cpl Paul Isaac and his impersonation of Frostie the Snowman at the Riot as well - top shot with a flour bomb from Regimental Quartermaster, Sgt Ginty. The Thursday rounded off the week with at the Annual Sports Competition, it was pity we were unable to defend it for the third year on the trot. That night was the all ranks bash, the newly badged recruits were welcomed in the customary style - can of beer and a chair (Stacks of Squadron Bonding). The following morning was the beginning of the long trek back home to Bristol. This was punctuated by staging the Regiment back through Halton Camp, during this overnight stop most of the Squadron managed to completely miss out on sleep. Saturday we recovered back to Horfield, and after a period of stowing all the stores away it was the end of Annual Camp 1999.

EXERCISE HIGHLAND LYNX - IS PHASE
by SSgt 'Scouse' Simcock PSI Ops

'Who have we got first then?' boomed the voice of Capt 'When I' Gibson, leader of men (and also known as the PSAO 47 Sqn). RSM Paul 'I'm the Chief Inspector not an RSM!' Anderson too happily came back with the reply 'God help us. It's 5 Sqn!' 'I want to go home!' I thought quietly to myself and started looking for places to hide in for the next 24 hours.

To explain slightly, what we were all on was Day One of the Internal Security phase of Ex Highland Lynx - 39th (Skinners) Sig Regt (V) Annual Camp. The point of the IS Phase was to learn and practice IS within a Balkans type Scenario. Each Squadron would have 24 hours to undergo various scenarios that would become more and more physically and mentally tiring as the day went on.

In charge of the 20 peacekeepers from 5 Sqn was OC 5 Sqn, Maj 'Roberto' Stone - including two attached personnel from the American National Guard Force (who as the day went on never really knew what hit them and I am sure went back with a few stories of their own). As the day progressed events happened quick and fast - having to react to IED's, drunken armed civilians, mortar bombs and of course the Escosian Police Force who not only consisted of the RSM and myself but also a strange little character known as SSgt 'Tock' Tocker. The culminating event was the civilian riot at night. With only a small force of personnel guarding the IS Base Camp, they suddenly faced a 70 strong mob chanting and yelling armed with various bric-a-brac ready to use at a moment's notice. The mob was gamely led by Capt Tom Pengelley who, as accounts go, role played excellently as the obnoxious local MP. On appearing at the gates of the IS Base the mob seemed to have the advantage on the small band of peacekeepers – ie: there was 70 of them and only 20 to guard the camp! The obvious decision of Maj Stone was to head off with a small band of peacekeepers to try and calm the situation. The obvious decision from the brave peacekeepers of 5 Sqn was to stay in the camp and hide as much as possible. Eventually OC 5 Sqn managed to bribe them out of the security of the camp gates.

Sgt Paul 'Runaway' Milner was heard to say 'Sod that, I'm not going out there! and there was general mentioning of handing kit in and saying enough is enough. However, with bravado from all concerned, the Squadron managed to calm everyone down (after initially running away!) and it was left with the OC Sqn and a few brave men to descend into the Sgts' Mess (which was covertly hiding an armed member of the mob). After Maj 'Errol Flynn' Stone thrusted himself onto all concerned they managed to apprehend those concerned and everyone went back to the base for tea and scones. All members of the Squadron thoroughly enjoyed the 24 hour IS Phase and although the weather was atrocious (typical Scottish weather of rain, rain and then after a while more rain) it didn't dampen anyone's spirit. As for myself, I was just glad that they didn't tie, gag and torture me!

SF BASE ANTICS EX HIGHLAND LYNX
by SSgt 'Tock' Tocker PSI Ops

'Comms, What are they then?'

Security forces in the town of Braggen were called to an incident in the hills surrounding the SF Base 'a possible suspect mass grave'. Having cajoled and persuaded Sgt Mick Jervis (HQ Sqn) acting as the distraught farmer, to accompany the patrol to the scene, Cpl Justine 'Xeena Warrior Princess' Jones gallantly led her brick to the grave area and having left distraught farmer Mick unaccompanied with the vehicle, proceeded to carry out an outstanding route clearance up to the grave site. A mathematical genius, she calculated there were at least three bodies in the grave as she could see five hands sticking up through the disturbed earth (what happened to all the one armed shepherds). Having secured the area and received bemused glances from the DS, sat down lit a fag and decided to write up her patrol report ready to send back to the SF base. Low and behold no radio. No worries thinks Justine, I left it back at the truck (wrong). The farmer's gone and so has our radio and if it had not been for the ditch so would the truck. The moral of the story Justine is do not shake (count) hands with every farmer you meet, they could be a crook (shepherds) and if the flack jacket is too tight use the issued radio harness!! Black Bag the faithful border bin liner.

Sgt Gary 'Lightning only strikes twice' Cheshire diligently patrolling the town of Braggen on a mild but windy day reports to the SF base a suspect device. This is then passed up the chain and finally filters to DS HQ. At last, they have found the culvert bomb and we can start serial 2 (the bomb had only been planted in the town for two hours and was not exactly unmissable, three beer barrels with a makeshift timer attached, virtually out in the open). Inspector Mc Anderson, alias the RSM, dispatches his two faithful police Sgts PSI Ops 5 and 47 to take charge of the situation and obviously DS the patrol on their performance. PSI Ops 5 and 47 on arrival are somewhat perplexed as to why the patrol is cordoning off an area 250 metres away from the location of the culvert bomb. Sgt Gary 'I know what I am doing that's why I'm wearing this patrol vest' Cheshire arrives and proceeds to brief on what he thinks is a suspect device, 'On our first sweep through' (brags Gary) 'there was nothing and now there's this bin liner'. The PSIs exchange glances and follow the portly patrol commander to the scene and low and behold there's this black bag. Gary with a serious expression on his face states he requires police support and wants bomb disposal calling out. PSI Ops 5 asks him if he is sure and just as Gary is about speak, Black Bag the faithful border bin liner begins to stir. PSI Ops 47 drops to the ground in the nick of time as the irate bin liner makes a lunge for his throat, PSI Ops 5 Sqn then lunges at Black Bag in an attempt to arrest the unruly Bin Liner, but to no avail, Black Bag is off over the sports fields and away.

Gary, the moral is 'He who fights and runs away lives to fight another day!'

WEEK ONE ANNUAL CAMP - Anon

Annual Camp for 47 Sqn started well with an excellent field firing package and exercise at Barry Budden camp near Dundee. The downside of the package was the 12 hour drive which, despite the loss of a vehicle, - duly recovered by the splendid AA on LCpl Devine's card - went without too many problems. Everyone was looking forward to the training which had been arranged by Capt Gibson and SSgt Tocker, our PSAO and PSI. Rumours abounded regarding the quantities of ammunition available. In the end the rumours had understated the amounts considerably! With glorious weather conditions the range package started. There were lots of constructive and realistic shoots and also excellent background activities including the 51mm Mortar and hand grenades. The pistol CQB was much enjoyed despite the cumbersome body armour restricting free movement to a degree. The first two days concentrated on maintaining interest and this was certainly achieved by an excellent long range shoot using a combination of LSQ, GPMG and the L96 Sniper Rifle.

Each Troop had to carry out a defensive shoot using as much ammunition as they could carry. Full war loads of ammunition on all shooting exercises gave everyone an idea of the amounts involved. With fixed bayonets each troop went over the top on to the range. There they found a GPMG with piles of ammunition with which to supplement the defensive firepower. Never have people fired for such a consistently long time. In one instance nearly 40 minutes. At the end of the shoot the smoking weapons and piles of cartridge cases reminded everyone of a scene from Saving Private Ryan. An IBSR shoot was run on similar lines. Everyone was made fully aware of the need for slick weapon handling drills as an almost reflex action. The exercise phase found the Squadron split into two troops. Anticipation was heavy as most squadron members know how devious the thinking of the PSAO and PSI can be when it comes to such events. Having received orders, we deployed into a limited war scenario to a troop night harbour. From there, we were tasked immediately to carry out a live night ambush. The rest of the exercise was a mix of live firing and platoon and company blank attacks. Never knowing what was coming next tends to concentrate the mind and you were always aware as a commander of the need to stay switched on at all times. The value of being able to navigate in all weathers was also made painfully obvious.

The Platoon went into the final assault on a high. They had been given a large area to clear as part of the initial company attack. We crossed the line of departure and closed with the extensive enemy position in depth. Very soon we were brought under a mass of fire from numerous enemy positions and the fight was on. Section commanders found themselves acting independently at times as the fighting became confused. Finally, after over an hour of almost continuous fighting, the Squadron reorganised prior to the final assault on the enemy who had withdrawn into some buildings. A final attack involving FIBUA skills and drills, saw the enemy defeated. Before we had time to draw breath we were told to move at best speed with all weapons and equipment, to a heli LZ for extraction by helicopter. The physiological impart of this news was staggering. Was there no end to the torture? The answer of course was yes as after reaching the camp gates, Endex was called and we had Squadron and Troop photographs taken in full battle kit and dirty, tired but smiling faces. The week had been brilliant with each person firing more ammunition than they would have believed possible. The training was testing, realistic, hard work but above all thoroughly enjoyable. That's the way it should be.

ANNUAL CAMP WEEK 1 - SURVIVAL

After three days of very little food, bad weather, uncomfortable beds and inadequate heating, we were beginning to wonder if we were on another RTW at Longmoor. It was only the arousing aroma of sheep, which told us otherwise. This was the Squadron training phase of Annual Camp organised by the very receding Sgt Thomas Ewart. We deployed to a run down ramshackle camp, which we felt quite at home in, as it bore a remarkable resemblance to our own TAC in Bristol. Sgt 'Ginge' Farah and Sgt Euan Laird were on hand to give us some excellent instruction on shelter building, fire lighting and trapping (something Thomas is very good at). After being given some basic materials and having our sleeping bags taken away, we were then given ten minutes to go and scavenge around the camp for anything else that could be useful.

We were dragged kicking and screaming into the woods where we would set up home for the night. Spirits were high until the point where we received our evening's supply of food, half a cabbage, a few onions and half a dozen potatoes. It was not the food which caused my spirits to drop, but the fact that my small dented metal mug was our only cooking vessel. After an uncomfortable, sleepless, hungry night, we crawled out of our shelters to find that Cpl Tim 'Wingnut' Ewing had managed to shrink-wrap his boots with a bin liner. Our faithful fresh looking DS were there to give us further instruction; 'Ginge' on mutilation of Flossy and Larry the lambs, Euan's downed pilot presentation and Thomas on extracting after-shave from tree sap (well he did smell very nice for someone who had spent a night in the open). After a short vehicle journey to another location we set camp again and awaited our feast of Flossy and Larry, and wait we did. 'Ginge's' small puppy 'Eric' was beginning to look like a double cheeseburger. After scoffing down our sandbag and orange flavoured fleecy friends, we retired to bed to dream of really sleeping. Another cold night then we broke camp and made our way down to the edge of the loch to await extraction. In the distance we heard a hum of motors and then out of the mist roared two Rigid raiders from Commachio Group. After a bracing ten minute ride we were back in the comfort of a nice warm LDV, heading back to camp, to warm showers and overcrowding. Many thanks again to the instructors for an excellent package

by Lt S. L. Hunter, OC Tango Troop

So at 0530hrs on day two of Highland Lynx, 57 Sqn arrived in Braggan SF Base for luckily (for the locals) the shortest roulement tour on record. Handover of the Base from 5 Sqn took place without any of us being much the wiser as to what was about to follow. Patrolling started and the incidents began.....

It was an experience we won't forget quickly. We all learnt that guarding prisoners is more effective if they are watched all of the time and then you don't have the problem of turning back round to see their feet disappearing out of the window. This is especially important when the local police constable SSgt 'Well then, what have you lot got 'ere - nothing actually' Tocker is already on his way to collect said prisoner. Having stopped and searched a suspicious vehicle, only to discover a number of weapons, we learnt that if they are not either watched or removed they have a nasty habit of disappearing when left on their own. In these circumstances it is best never to trust the dulcet tones of LCpl 'I've never seen them before in my life – honest' Stevens. It is also helpful not to shoot unarmed civilians. However, if this does happen a surprised soldier is likely to find herself on a murder charge in a court of law. Not that she has anything to fear when being defended by the famous Maj (QC) Tuhey. However, it may have helped the defence if said soldier had confidently stated that she did have a copy of the rules of engagement and indeed that she had read them. Perhaps most importantly we learnt that snatching armed terrorists from the local pub is not actually a form of FIBUA and the exercising of restraint is sometimes more productive than bodily throwing all the drinkers one by one into a corner (apologies to the Sgts' Mess members but wasn't it fun Cpl Sharp?)

But despite the above, a riot was quelled very ably under the leadership of WO2 (SSM) 'Butch' Packer and SSgt 'Sundance' Williams, the mass grave was accurately located and Aide Katie (of CNN) was brought on side by the open but yet direct manner of OC (hop along) REME. What to do when the RMO, complete with half empty whisky bottle and bomb in back of car, turned up at the gate and refused to leave we are still working on. We did take it all seriously (honest). So at the end of 24 hours of pretty non-stop activity, the civilians of Braggan, not to mention Chief Inspector 'You may like to consider doing it this way Ma'am' Anderson bid us a reluctant farewell and hello to the relief in the guise of 47 Sqn.

EXERCISE ULAN EAGLE 1999

After the long road/train journey to get to Poland we were given just a few hours to get things sorted before moving into the first location. After several tracks were thrown and several teddies likewise, things started to calm down a bit. The first night move was interesting especially for the 'B' fleet led by LCpl Si 'The Pathfinder' Periera; it took them 13hrs to reach the location - everyone but the Admin Daf having been bogged in – twice! Another funny incident was on another move to a new location with Cpl Andy Allen driving a panzer with SSgt James Runchman commanding. 'It's only a small puddle,' said James, not realising it was more like a lake which inevitably soaked Andy and the Tp SSgt (not much laughter - honest!) All in all, however, a good exercise. With a week in camp to turnaround the wagons we're off to Sennelager for Ex Rhino Charge. A static comms exercise - enough said! Last but not least congratulations to Sigs Dave 'Spanky' Harris, Andrew 'Savs' Savage and Rob 'Rossi' Ross for selection for promotion to Lance Corporal.

BRAVO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Adam Corkery
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Sloane

After a safe return from Poland and a well-deserved long weekend, it was straight back into the life with the premiere brigade. Half of the Troop deployed to Sennelager for Ex Rhino Charge and the remainder to deploy the armoured HQ on various demonstrations under the watchful eye of Sgt 'Sparticus' Dixon. On one particular road move we discovered that Sig Chris 'Killer' Brogan might need his eyes re-testing. Having failed to see LCpl 'Sticky' Allardyce frantically waving his hand to stop him, Sig Brogan was under the impression he was driving a 16 ton guided missile! Disaster was narrowly averted as he brought the 436 to a halt a good six inches from the parked rover!

With Kosovo looming in the not too distant future, we embarked on a training day at Sennelager. The day's stands included 9mm ranges, CasSim training and skid car training (better known as MT Sgt scaring). On the same day the Sig to LCpl's board results were published with some notable troop successes. Congratulations to LCpl 'Swampy' Dick, LCpl 'Eclipse' Thompson and Sig 'When am I getting mine' Davies and also to Cpl Sam Moger on picking up her second and who now leaves the land of rover queens to join the complex. Further congratulations to LCpl's Greg Dick, Nikki Thompson and Sig's Matt Epton, Mark Jessop and Steve 'Beaten by a girl' Homer for collectively winning six gold medals at the BAG canoeing Championships.

HELLO'S AND GOODBYES

Firstly goodbye to Cpl Adam Harvey off to 615 Tac P and LCpl Pete Ashcroft off to Civ Div. All the best for the future to both of you.

Secondly a warm welcome to LCpl Paul Hines from 30 Sigs, Sig Daz Jardine who has re-joined the army from Civ Div, Sig Andy Loose on loan from 1 Div and straight from the factory Sig's Pam Dunkerley and Adam 'Lurch' Wilson.

CHEERIBYES AND AY UPS

The Troop has to say ta ta to Cpl Nick Ulley who emerged from the Crypto cell on posting to the School's Training Wing and promotion to Sergeant. Also going to the School on his Class I course is Cpl Richie Brown, who's finally had enough of the Red Rat. Leaving the tech workshop as well is Sgt Owen 'Fat Lad' Gudge with his own five-a-side team, off to 16 Sigs. The LAD is sad to see the back of Cpl Paul 'Under the thumb' Cation, and Cpl 'Mel' Melrose both of whom are going to the Sappers. Good luck in the future to you all and your families. A big hearty welcome goes out to Cpl Baz Park, who at first glance seems ready to take over from Sgt Gudge in the workshop, and just in time for going to Kosovo with the LAD, LCpl Mark Perris and Cpl 'Arthur' Dent.

ALL THE NEWS THAT'S NEW AND APPROVED

The Brigade deployed to Poland on Ex Ulan Eagle 1999 as the final part of their training year and therefore required propping up by the Troop! Cpl Richie 'Where the hell does this go' Brown deserves a special mention for coping with the Commander's Warrior. Cheers Sgt Jules 'It'll be no problem' Thorne! Many vehicles needed recovery in muddy conditions, but as least the trees provided support for the Foden and Cpl 'Yoda Three wheels are better than six' Holloway. Unfortunately the exercise proved too much for some of the Troop, Cpl Baz 'What gun pit?' Park, who decided that six days were enough for his first exercise in four years before getting Casevaced. On seeing this Cpl Paul 'Anything you can do, I can do better' Cation, decided a spell in a Polish hospital was in order before going back to Hohne. The ERV under the control of Cpl Brown had no problems throughout the exercise. Within thirty minutes of Endex being called the ERV was bogged in by SSgt Dave 'Time for a sharp exit' Baddeley, on his first time behind the wheel, before beating a hasty retreat to go on a RMQ course.

On the Troop's return to camp many more faces disappeared on courses ready for Kosovo, leaving the rest to cope with the mountains of post exercise work. Chief amongst these were FofS 'Mac' McCallum, Tiffy Tim 'See you when everything's ready for Kos' Parker, and last and by no means least Cpl Adi 'Cyber pest' Worsdall, who has spent more time in the UK than Germany. Two faces that will look out of place in Kosovo, are Cfns Pete 'Goat Boy' Butler and Gav 'Guido' Lehrle who are spending Christmas in Belize on exercise with the TA. Nice work if you can get it!

Congratulations go out to LCpl Steve Livesey on passing his Class I entrance, and LCpl Rog 'Innit' Mortimer on obtaining his Class II, without any help from Sgt Jules 'Just do this' Thorne. Thanks go to the Ops Officer Capt Jase 'Can I use my Jew jar to pay' Gray for getting the beers in.

A TROOP
Tp Comd Capt J. Lambeth

Like the rest of the Squadron, A Tp has been busy as usual including their participation in the Brigade's inaugural deployment of the Air Assault assets during Ex Gryphons Eye. The Exercise began with a road deployment to the Air Movements Centre (AMC) in South Cerney, followed by a very short flight onto the Salisbury Plain Training Area. Alpha Tp's main effort throughout was changing control from a heavily beefed up Tac HQ to the all new singing, dancing and heavy Brigade HQ. Of particular amusement was Sig Stu(pid) 'The Fall Guy' Downard who decide to test the rollcage on his Wolf Defender by rolling it - twice.

No set of Wire notes would be complete without the obligatory Hellos and Goodbyes. We say fond farewell to LCpls 'Chappy' Chapman, Mark Williams and Stu(pid) Downard who are off out to Civ Div, and to 2Lt Beeky 'Naughty KW' Knightly Brown and Cpl Russ 'Snakey' Heynes who are off to further their careers at Blandford. We say hello to recently promoted Cpl 'Treacle' Bettle from B Tp and welcome back Cpl Scott Dernie, LCpl Scott 'Robbo' Robinson and Sigs 'Flash' Gordon, 'Smudge' Smith and 'Ruby' Currie from that goddam' war in Kosovo. We also send our best wishes to SSgt 'Jeffrey' McKenna who is currently recovering from a knee operation and to our old Troopie Lt Dan Ashton and hope he has a speedy recovery.

EXERCISE ALPHA AMBLE - by Cpl Shaun Smith

On 22 November 1999 the Troop departed to 14 Sig Regt for a week's adventure training in Pembrokeshire. 12 hours later the Troop finally reached their destination and under the expert guidance of Cpl 'Little Smudge' Smith wasted no time in finding what evening delights Haverfordwest had to offer. The first day was spent on a coastal path walk, an easy stroll in the summer but quite a challenge in a driving November wind. Luckily the Troop was well prepared for all eventualities with its very own emergency beacon, Sig 'Gargoyle' Kershaw who was sporting a particularly fluorescent yellow jacket which he flatly refused to remove during daylight hours. By Wednesday the weather had closed in with a lot of the activities becoming suicide missions. It was an ideal opportunity to slope off to the local driving range where the Troop's budding Tiger Woods-alikes could flaunt their stuff. After a rather uneventful day, the Troop headed off to town where a good time was had by all .... and in particular by Cpl 'Little Smudge' Smith and Sig 'Gwar' Bowes who got so carried away with keeping the army in the public eye that they only just made it back to camp for breakfast. The final day's training saw the Troop coastal steering at St. Davids which proved to be an excellent day out. We did become a little concerned when our illustrious leader, Capt 'Look at me, I'm a wave' Lambeth looked like he was about to be swept out to sea, but managed to scramble around and carry out an impression of a knackered beached whale. In all the Troop had an outstanding week thanks to the time and effort put in by Sgt McGuiness and also the training wing at 14 Sig Regt. Roll on Christmas and the New Year!

Bravo Tp have continued to lead where others fear to tread. All our intrepid heroes are back from Kosovo and our boss keeps babbling on about the Empire being safe from evil tyranny now that the realm has been defended. EXERCISE BRAVO BRAVE - by LCpl Marshall

Prior to the Troop's adventure training package, it was decided to have a weekend of heavy manoeuvres in Blackpool to say farewell to LCpl Richardson. The escapade started well when what should have been a four hour journey turned into a nine hour one thanks to the Troop's very own Magellan system demonstrating his navigational prowess - Sig Shields was later tried for cruelty to a compass and was found guilty. On arrival the Troop wasted no time in deploying to various haunts and convincing the local populus that although they looked like soldiers, they were actually part of a parachute stunt canoe team who had been forced to cancel a demo due to inclement weather. After a number of pubs and clubs of varying reputes, the Troop spent a small fortune on the amusements before heading off to 14 Sig Regt: for the adventure training phase. There was no time given for recovery as Cpl Marty 'Now, has everybody got a nature book of some sort with them?' Barringer had time-tabled a lot of activity in to the week. After a leisurely day on the coastal path, the Troop borrowed a number of bikes including SSgt May's which was stolen from the Hovis bread advert and went on a 30 mile pedalathon. Other events included the coastal steering and a day trip to Tenby where Cpl '7ruffle Shuffle' Kirk maintained everybody's morale with his joviality and high spirits. The entire package was thoroughly enjoyed by all and the Troop returned to Colchester exhausted and penniless, the telltale signs of a good expedition.

Charlie Tp has now been established as part of the new 216 Sig Sqn and includes 25 people from Aldershot who are Para trained. It wasn't long before the Troop took part in the first Air Assault Exercise. Five days were spent at South Cerney, carrying out rehearsals and allowing the heavy drop team time to rig their Medium Stress Platform. The Airborne Battle Group jump went well with Cpl Page and Capt 'Jump dodger' Merry giving a fine example of how to conduct an air steal, the result being Cpl Page being knocked unconscious. The comms role did not prove too demanding, giving the Troop a chance to brush up its infantry skills.

In November the Troop used the opportunity to go to Sennybridge for a field firing package run by SSO 'Kebab' Read. It consisted of individual to section fire and manoeuvre and culminated in a live platoon attack. The weather was kind but the temperature never rose above ice-cream preservation conditions. It didn't help either when the Training Staff convinced the E&E phase was going to be initiated on the Thursday night. Cpl 'Spud' Fawcett and Sig Blackie were ready to jump from the upstairs window, whilst LCpl Barnes instructed his section to paracord the door shut. Fortunately nothing happened much to the disgust of Sgt 'Large Swede' Combe.

Finally congratulations must go to a number of the Troop. Cpl Page was promoted to Sgt and has picked up a posting to RMA Sandhurst. LCpls Shaw and Barnes picked up their second, and Sigs Hillyard, 'Scouse' Richardson, Pete Thorpe, 'Boss' Hogg, Steve Jones and Steve Crutchley all picked up their first tape.

Tp SSgt	SSgt D. Elesmore

MT Tp has now been formed with the combination of the MT and the LAD, which consequently has left Support Tp with no real workers. The formation of the new Brigade has brought in a few new arrivals. Hello goes to Cpl Eckett who has filled the position of details clerk but has unfortunately had a phone stuck in his ear since arriving in Colchester. Sig 'PMT' Metcalfe is settling in well and Sig Burgoyne is teaching us everything we need to know about FEPDS. Sgt Mark 'Chuffin' Hell' Makings has moved in from the Goojerat guardroom and is joined by SSgt Goldsworthy who has just arrived from 16 Sigs. The Troop would like to congratulate LCpl 'Bob' Hoskins and his wife Leigh on the arrival of their new child Ellie. Worthy of note is the reappearance of Capt 'Lord Lucan' Schofield who has just returned from his MTO course, thereby ending a great saga as to whether he existed or not. SSgt 'Der' Elesmore is currently on the biff for the first time in twelve years, yet was luckily in good enough shape to complete 35 free-fall jumps in California in November. Mmmmm.

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt S. A. Clarke
Tp SSgt	SSgt P. Latimer

Life has been hectic with the rerole of 24 Airmobile and 5 Airborne Brigades, a Board of Officers, and various other tasks. In addition there are a number of other units whose equipment now comes on the ledger including the Pathfinders who have brought with them an armoury that looks like a scene from 'The Matrix'. The turmoil has seen the arrival and departure of a number of personnel. A sad farewell go to Sgt 'Nah you tinker' Palmer who is now on his Foreman's Course. 'Sthaff Thargeant' Hamlet who has escaped to sunnier climes at 259 Sig Sqn, and Sig 'I don't mean to cry' Tarry to 11 Sig Regt. We wish them all well. Welcome to the party for Sgt Rayson, Cpl 'Get the brews on' Knibbs and Sig 'George' Cloney from the Aldershot direction and LCpl 'Dingle' Vernon and LCpl 'Boy Racer' Browning from Blandford.

THE GREAT NORTH RUN 1999 - by Mrs Cheryl Brown

Sunday 10 October dawned bright and clear, a nice day for a gentle jog, though not for myself Cheryl Brown, Sgt Gaz Corrigan and WO2 (YofS) Wilf Wedge and another 41,000 people. We had decided to take part in the Great North Run, which is 13 miles 192 yds. After stretching our muscles and plastering Vaseline in parts other lotions cannot reach a 2-minute silence was held for those in the Paddington Train Disaster. The gun was fired and we were off, running, then some walking (for me anyway) listening to the Bands playing on the round-abouts one song being 'Keep on Running' crowds cheering and shouting you on all the time, a fantastic atmosphere. 1hr 56mins later Wilf crossed the line coming 10,051. 2hrs 50mins later Gaz came in 24,592 and finally I crossed the line in 2hrs 56mins coming 26,170. For this great effort we managed to raise in total £388.00. £143.00 going to SPARKS and £245.00 going to the Helen Rollason Cancer Care Centre Appeal.

October saw a change in Squadron Commanders. Maj Dave Wright, has now left the service to take up lucrative employment with EDS. It really was a 'Here today. Gone tomorrow.' scenario, with some nail biting telephone calls to MCM Div to ensure that Dave could be released in time to take up his new contract. We thank Dave and Susie for all their hard work and support to the Squadron and wish them all the very best in the future. The new Sqn Comd, Maj Mal Heaney joined us via a roundabout route from NI, and officially took command on 11 October. To illustrate the steepness of his learning curve, he went into his office saw two PCs on his desk and said 'Why have I got two televisions in here?' Things are improving though, he now knows that a server is not an Officers' Mess waiter! We welcome Mal, and hope that he has a happy productive tour with us. The OC's first official duty as Sqn Comd was to host CO ACISG, Lt Col Geoff Cary, when he visited the Unit to present the Imperial Service Medal to Mrs Pauline Taylor. Pauline has been in the civil service some 25 years, the last nine of which she spent with the Squadron. The presentation and buffet lunch was well attended by Squadron military and civilian staff both past and present and reflected the high esteem in which she was held.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd	Mr Vic King
Tp SNCO	Sgt Blyth

The Troop ran a team building exercise, hill walking in Church Stretton. Although everyone bonded during the day, at the last RV the leadership appeared to go to pieces with questions like, 'Whose round is it?' going unanswered. A lot of new names were learnt that day like Kev 'The Ferret' Anderson. Welcome to the new members of the Troop, LCpl Mick Leet who came from NI (trying to get a straight answer from him is hard), Mrs Val Hargraves (COMMCEN Donnington - CO4), Mr Ken Resoun (CO4) who is not content with being stressed with a new job, but is also getting married on the 28 November 1999. Best of luck to you both from all the Squadron. Congratulations go to LCpl Mandy Robinson for being selected for promotion to Corporal. After her (18-30 holiday) nine-month tour in the Balkans she has obviously done something right. (Although she allegedly found the '2 can rule' hard going - ITD90).

TECHNICAL TROOP

Tp Comd	Mr Kennedy
Tp SNCO	Sgt Corrigan

Like the rest of 2 (NC) Sig Bde the Tech Workshops have been very busy with various HQ demands (i.e. builds.Y2K/ISIS system). Whilst the rest of the Troop were busy grafting, Sgt Gaz Corrigan learnt years ago that when the going gets tough – the Tech goes on a course ('Safety boat handler is very relevant to the cutting edge of Information Technology). Gaz has mentioned to SSgt Dave Halkett that he starts his resettlement soon and will be on a few courses then. (in a year, he has only been on eight courses!) Welcome to Cpl Michelle Sheppard who has arrived from Cyprus and just recently been promoted. (Michelle was recently locked out of her house by her cat, whilst climbing through the window to get back in, got stuck and able to reach the phone, telephoned friends, who in turn telephoned the Fire Brigade - who had to take the window out). Just thought we'd mention it!! Congratulations to Mr John Saxon who transferred to the Squadron, who couldn't wait to get stuck into work, changed his mind and proceeded to go straight to Turkey on holiday.

FINALLY RELEASED .....

John and Sandy Blyth would like to thank everyone who gave their support whilst their son Thomas was in hospital. Thomas was born prematurely at 2lbs 12ozs. After 22 months, four hospitals (of which 456 days were in an Intensive Care Unit) including numerous operations has was finally allowed home in August. He is a bright, happy little boy who in time will grow out of his chronic lung disease.

242 SIGNAL SQUADRON

A LEVEL PLAYING FIELD?

When working in a small static squadron such as 242 you get to know your colleagues very well, and with the workload and commitments undertaken by the Squadron in the past year it's important to gel together as a team. It's always disrupting to that team when members change and move on, but when that team is comparable to a football squad in size and five of its members all leave at once that would spell relegation to any premiership side. Sgt Clive Quantick, the crowd's favourite and who made the No 1 jersey his own in Tech Troop for his incredible 5-year spell with the club. He's leaving the game after a commendable 22 years to follow a career as radio/telecomm technician over the water (Rosyth). Clive's hard and sturdy work in all aspects of the game will be sorely missed, especially his skill at diving (in the sea not the box). Likewise after 22 years in the game LCpl Jimmy Patton is stepping down from the first team, but remains with the club to take up a backroom role with ADA. This marks the start of his third spell with the club. SSgt (FofS) Jim O'Donnell leaves in a closed season deal with 15 Sig Regt, for an undisclosed sum. Shadows of doubt were cast over the move due to a foot injury, but he passed the medical and the deal went through. The club will miss his technical ability, but his ball control and shooting left something to be desired, so congratulations on the birth of your son Ross. The club and supporters wish you continued success. Cpl Mac McWha wasn't with the club really long enough to make his mark, but the games he played showed potential. After a nine-year career he too is leaving the game for pastures green. The fifth and final member to leave not only brought her individual skills to the club but proved to be a great team player, winning the player's player of the year award for the commitment and enthusiasm she showed during her second 2-year spell at the club. Newly promoted SSgt Hev's McNair moves south of the border to 30 Sig Regt to take up a new role as Troop SSgt. Her after match celebrations a speciality, never failing to get the crowd singing, you'll be truly missed. But all is not doom and despondency at the club, the manager Maj Neil Stevens has worked hard to find replacements. Bringing in the experience of Sgt Dai Rennison from 251 Sig Sqn and Cpl Jim Wainwright from 259 Sig Sqn, coupled with the youth and enthusiasm of LCpl Daz Ormiston and Sig 'Hoss' Cartwright. Though an initial setback as rising star SSgt (FofS) Jamie Chambers jumps ship with a stunt comparable to Paola Di Canio, moving to 240 Sig Sqn York and severing all communications with the club. The club Captain, (TOT) Lee Brown has the last say on the matter (as usual), 'Early signs at the club look very promising with the team having four exceptional performances against formidable opposition, The Edinburgh Military Tattoo, The Opening of the Scottish Parliament, The Tall Ships Race and Berwick Tattoo. As well as working hard to keep clean sheets in all their domestic fixtures, all at the club feel confident premiership status will be maintained for the foreseeable future'.

A LOOK AHEAD

As Scotland is to take over the 2 Div area of responsibility we look forward to the challenges that this will bring. There will be much to-ing and fro-ing until the new 2 Div settles down here in Craigiehall and our new responsibilities evolve. This coupled with the re-shaping of the ACISG, responsibilities between the fixed Signal Squadrons will keep us occupied for the foreseeable future.

VISIT OF COMD 2 (NC) SIGNAL BRIGADE

On 2 December we hosted Brig S. G. Hughes CBE. He presented the LS & GC medal to Sgt Mark Robinson (now stationed at Balado Bridge) and then toured the unit lines. In the evening a dinner was held in a local hotel.

259 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj N. Grifiths
SSM WO2 (SSM) D. Ewing

The past few months have flown past, summer in Cyprus is over and the cooler weather is setting in just in time for Battle Camp in November. The main event, which has taken place this month, was the Cyprus Walk About. A gruelling two-day run covering 95km from Episkopi to Mount Troodos and back. Two teams from the Squadron took part in the competition, a Ladies' Team consisting of Capt Katy Caie, 2Lt Sarah Covey-Crump and Sig Emma Flynn and a Lads' Team of Sgt Dave Street, Sig Gav Darke and Sig Dan Reade. In total there were 33 teams competing to get the fastest time possible over the two days. The Ladies' Team set off first on Day One as they were the only all girls team taking part. The Lads, who started 20mins later, were determined to over take them. However, the last time they saw the girls team was at the start, the Ladies' Team stayed one hour ahead of the lads throughout the whole of first day. With the first day over for the Ladies, they set off to the bar in Troodos to quench their thirst and soothe their feet while waiting for the Lads' Team to finish. As a result of being navigationally embarrassed the lads were picked up by the 1KOSB between the last check-point and the Finish some four hours late. Never mind lads – better luck next year! Day Two saw the Ladies' Team set off in a less painful state than was expected, the lads unfortunately called it a day due to some very bad blisters. The Ladies' Team continued on in a slow but steady pace and got to between Checkpoints 3 and 4 on Day Two before they too made the decision to call it a day. By the time the girls got back to the finish (in transport) the winning teams had been finished for hours. Well done to all of 259 Sig Sqn for being brave enough to take part and to the 14 Sig Regt Team who got the fastest time over all.

EPISKOPI TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Sarah Covey-Crump
Tp SSgt SSgt Duncan

Welcome to SSgt Duncan and his wife Linda from 15 Sig Regt. We all look forward to the JD PT. Hello to Sgt 'Ant Villa' Tranter posted to become the new line god. Radio section welcomes Cpl Quilter and his family and to Sig Olive Taylor from 19 Mech Bde. Tech Section also welcomes LCpl Lyndsay Stewart and also Cpl Gordon and Nicole from 11 Sig Regt Blandford. We hope you all have an enjoyable tour whilst in Cyprus. Fond farewells and Good luck to SSgt Kev 'Jinjaninja' Tierney in his new post as BTLO at 15 Sig Regt. Farewell to Sergeant 'Fudge' MacPhee posted to Cable Systems Group Blandford and also Cpl Lance 'Starbuck' Swarbrick posted to the big house in JHQ.

CRICKET - ARMY CYPRUS v RAF CYPRUS

Yet again, another fine performance saw the Army beat the RAF in Cyprus, although it went right down to the wire. The only Signallers to be chosen for the Army, were Sgt 'A-Z' Szeremeta and Sig 'Robbie' Williams 259 Sig Sqn and SSgt 'Roger' Thompson JSSU (AN). All made major contributions to the match. Sgt Szeremeta with his fine pace bowling and Sig Williams with his superb medium pace bowling kept the RAF score down to a minimum. Although SSgt Thompson bowled very loosely, he more than made up with his batting as he scored an unbeaten 84, guiding the Army home and gaining the Man of the Match award.

AIRFIELD TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Gareth Kemp
Tp SSgt SSgt Stenhouse

Firstly the traditional round of hellos and goodbyes to those who have or will serve with 'Fighting' Airfield Troop. We bid a fond farewell to LCpl 'Mac' McCreaddie heading off to be a rozzer in Germany. Hello to Sgt Henry and his wife Karen recently arrived from the bitter cold of Gibraltar and to LCpl Bilby the new tech tea-boy.

The last two months have been quite quiet with only one major sporting event taking place, the football round of the Hodgeson Shield. A competition we felt confident about winning but due to the un-sportsman like behaviour of all the other Troops (i.e. having twice as many players including some never seen before in the Squadron) we once again came fourth or to put it another way last. Several events are looming which the Troop look forward to in great anticipation, firstly the wedding or should we say the Stag Night of Sig 'Hoof' Milevsky (enjoy your last few days of freedom), and secondly Squadron Battlecamp. It is not hard to work out which everybody is looking forward to most. Finally to round off we would all like to say a big hello to Sig 'Gaz' Fuins who always complains that his name never appears in The Wire.

JNCO CADRE COURSE 11 - by LCpl Bilby

The 259 Sig Sqn JNCO cadre Course, set up by the 2IC Capt Caie was used to give JNCO's and potential JNCO's some preparation for the skills that they would need for the Corporal's Course. The course was held at Episkopi Garrison and proved to be an excellent challenge to the six intrepid candidates LCpls Bilby, Barnett, Bagshaw, Tomblin, Taylor and Sig Reade.

The first two days were taken up with revision lessons on orders, map reading, weapon handling and NBC. Followed by ten minute lecturettes ranging from Sig Reade's 'The Joys of Course Fishing' to LCpl Bilby's 'Cricket is just an excuse to drink beer' and not forgetting LCpl Barnett's 'I Want my Wings, The Dagger and X-Rifles to add to my X-Swords'. The cadre culminated in an Exercise, which involved a combat estimate and delivery of orders. The task was to navigate round 12 checkpoints in the fastest possible time and complete any given tasks on route. It all seemed so simple – what could go wrong? Well the inevitable miscalculations were made regarding time appreciation, and map reading, which resulted in the Team's idea, of being back in 16 hours for breakfast, having to be thrown out of the window. Despite these mishaps the Team's determination to finish the task in hand came to the fore, and with great team spirit we all mucked in and finished the course only 11 hours late. The most improved JNCO was awarded to LCpl Taylor and the best JNCO overall was awarded to LCpl Tomlin.

JOINT COMMUNICATIONS UNIT (FALKLAND ISLANDS)

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH ATLANTIC
UNIT HEADQUARTERS

OC Maj C. J. McIntosh
USM WO2 D. Rook

'Goodbye Maj Adams – Hello Maj McIntosh'

The picture shows the outgoing OC, Maj M. W. G. Adams (now late of 212 Sig Sqn 1(UK) Armd Div Sig Regt) handing over command of JCUFI, having baby sat until the new OC, Maj C. J. McIntosh could be released from his last tour.

The new Army Element, comprised predominantly of 212 Signal Squadron of the mighty 1(UK) – Charging Rhino – Armd Div HQ and Sig Regt has now settled into the 'routine' of life down in the Falklands. After an initial slow start period (of about three days…) the pace increased to high tempo…..maintained until the end of the first week of November when, collectively, as a unit, we had a chance to settle down (albeit temporarily!). So, a busy time is being had by all. We have received a new OC Squadron in the guise of Maj C. J. McIntosh. Within a month of arriving, we were launched onto Falklands major offensive exercise, Ex Purple Strike, which occurs every four months. An excellent exercise with regard to provision of service of comms to the Staff, with a stirling movement programme out to the exercise area. Unfortunately the same cannot be said for the recovery programme which resulted in manpower and assets being stranded on West Falklands for a long time after everyone else had departed to the comforts, hot water and sanitation offered by Mount Pleasant (such as they are!).

On the exercise front, since then, the Unit has tested and proven Y2K for theatre – yes, apparently there is a contingency plan, revolving around…..Clansman. We have re-enacted the feeding of the five thousand with loaves of bread and fish during Ex Cape Petrel, our theatre defensive exercise (yes, we really only do have four FFRs…..sometimes….). Somebody had the smart idea of doing regular 'fun walks' out into 'camp', starting with an easy one up to Mt Usborne, just to get a feel for the terrain. I don't think we'll be getting many volunteers for Ex Wandering Atom again!!

On the visits front….Oh My God!! It seems this theatre is a regularly sought, but little publicised number one destination on the good holiday guide 1999. Summer is here (apparently, but no-one thought to tell God…) and every man and his dog want to pop down to say hi. We have had our fair share of VIP visits with the likes of CJO, CBF, CBF (Des), Master of Signals, and Air Marshall Jenner! It keeps UHQ on its toes though…As for the rest of the visits – 'There's no room left at the Inn I'm afraid'. The Tristars ain't big enough to allow all the people down who want to visit JCUFI!

'A poignant moment'

Master of Signals, Maj Gen I. O. J. Sprackling OBE, WO2 USM Rook and WO2 (FofS) Hubble on Pleasant Peak, visiting the 1982 Gazelle crash site which caused the death of two members of the Royal Corps of Signals. These were Maj Mike Forge and SSgt (YofS) Joe Baker of 205 Sig Sqn.

JCUFI 'MOBILE PHONE CHALLENGE' CHILDREN IN NEED APPEAL 1999

On Friday 5 November 1999, 22 volunteers from the unit carried a replica telephone box in a relay style stretcher race over the 32 miles from Goose Green to Mount Pleasant Complex. Many hours of painting, drilling, sticking and other abstract work was completed by SSgt (UQMS) 'Chalky' White and Sgt 'Blue Q' Vern Turner to produce the finished article. A cloudy day with little wind proved perfect conditions for a team photograph followed by the official start by the Master of Signals. Teams were made up from all Departments within JCUFI and 'jointery' was truly achieved. Four teams carried the replica telephone boxes a distance of 1km each in rotation. The unfortunate RADCON and C Troop teams had most of the uphill stretches of the route. COMMCEN and UHQ teams luckily took over for most of the downhill stretches!

With 4km to go, our position was sent back to BFBS who broadcast our ETA. All available personnel were waiting to cheer the arrival of the teams. After 5 hours and 42 minutes the boxes were finally permitted to touch the floor. A charity barbecue was held in 'Sharkies' with all profits donated from the bar to the Appeal plus an impromptu beard shave by CY Moore raised another £107. Our thanks go to all those personnel within JCUFI who were coerced into assisting in the event either as team members or as support staff. For the unit that is here in November 2000, the challenge is set to beat the £2420.08 raised. The amount is the most ever raised by any unit for the Children in Need Appeal here in the South Atlantic. The Challenge is there to be beaten – if you think you can!

– would this affect the second round scores? It was inevitable that the course eventually took its toll on some of the players with the usually calm Sgt Ken Mason losing his head completely and throwing clubs where he should have been throwing teddies! With the number of golfing expletives increasing with the strength of the wind, one figure was an air of calm and coolness that was our very own 'Gary Player' - Capt Dave Ball. Where the famous South African is normally dressed in black, Capt Ball adorned from head to toe in blinding white kept his cool to win the nearest the pin competition. Using the increasing wind he majestically stroked a ball 30

by SSgt (UQMS) Chalkie White & Sgt (Blue Q) Vern Turner

Forget the tension of Valderama and the severity of Augusta, the events that took place at Murphy's Belfry on Friday 19 November 1999 will go down in the annals of golfing history. Against the searing heat and rough terrain of the Falkland Islands, sixteen brave service members of the Joint Communications Unit took on and beat the old course at Mount Pleasant in a grueling Open Championship in fine style. This unique event was a pair's competition over 18 holes with the draw for teams taking place only minutes before the first tee-off. This provided added excitement for the crowds filling the galleries and threw up some interesting partnerships. There was a lot of initial betting interest on the CDA team of Capt Keith Emmerson and FS Bob Walbyoff and some serious money on the right and left hand combination of Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener and Sig 'Spike' Milligan.

The first nine holes provided a steady display from all the pairs and at the half-way point all teams were still in contention but the high temperatures and poor fairways were beginning to take their toll. A solid round from the pairing of Maj McIntosh (OC JCUFI) and Sgt 'Blue Q' Turner gave them a slender lead from the pursuing pack. Another consequence of the high temperatures was that the players had to increase their intake of fluids in the clubhouse during the break, posing the question yards off course destined for the rough only to see it gracefully veer back to land pin high, the first time an anti-cyclone has been used in a major competition.

As the final scores were being checked it soon became apparent the leaders had done enough to maintain their lead and finally won the competition by 14 strokes. Although there was a little consternation in the clubhouse about the fact that the OC and one of the organisers made up the winning pair, nobody could take away the fact that they played two superb rounds of golf and were worthy victors. Thanks must go out to the main organisers SSgt 'Chalkie' White and Sgt Vern Turner, the MPA PGA for hosting the event and of course all competitors . It was a display of 'jointery' at its best and golf that Peter Alliss would have been proud of - with the game of golf being the true winner.

CBFFI CROSS-COUNTRY RUN
by Sig 'Raggers' Ragni

In the closing stages of the CBFFI competition JCUFI closed the gap on the overall leaders FILU by gaining Second place points from this run. The course was 3.8 miles, the first part of which was uphill with the wind in your face. Despite this handicap Sig Martin 'Speed Demon' Potter finished with a convincing win over the rest of the runners (including the Ghurkas!), unfortunately the others in our team didn't perform as well as him. SSgt Mal Pavier came 5th followed by Flt Sgt Ian Wiseman in 12th place and myself in 16th. LCpl Lenaghan and LCpl Wayne Topping ran but only the first four runners counted for the competition results. Coming second in this race means that JCUFI can still win the CBFFI Cup, if we perform well in the remaining sports. Stand by for further updates!!!

THE 'DEWPOND RUN' FOR THE ANTHONY NOLAN BONE MARROW TRUST
by Sig Martin 'Mean Machine' Potter

Every year, on Ascension Island, a run takes place, but not an ordinary run. This is 7 miles long and all uphill - in fact up a mountain. Green Mountain is 3000ft high with a jungle environment. On top of the mountain is a man made 'Dewpond', which was to be the finishing point of our run. Eight of us flew out to Asi, seven runners and a PTI for admin. From JCUFI, the runners were Sig Martin Potter, Sig 'Raggers' Ragni and WEW Fagan. It was a sponsored run and the monies raised are to be donated to the Anthony Nolan Bone Marrow Trust.

We flew out on the Wednesday and ran on the Sunday, three days of acclimatisation and ensuring our bodies were getting enough fluids daily….drinking (I mean preparing). The Thursday was spent on recce – time well spent. The start of the run was from 'George Town' on the beach. The course then moved up a long incline to another town called 'Two boats', named after the two boats that form its landmark. This was to be the base of the mountain. The terrain near the top of the mountain was very treacherous, lots of mud underfoot and a very dense jungle foliage. The incline was that bad that there was actually a rope along side to help you climb. The following two days were spent relaxing and consolidating our tans on the beach.

The start of the run was to be early (0730) in order to catch the coolest part of day. The weather was overcast and cooler than the previous three days. Tradition says that you are supposed to start with your hand in the sea and finish with your hand in the Dewpond. The sea was too rough to start with your hand in the water so we touched the water and opted for the start line. There was a fairly big crowd, (big for Asi!), and around 40 mutants (entries), though not all those started eventually finished. The start was fast but I managed to stick with the leader who happened to be the local that always wins. I was still with him at Two Boats as we started the ascent. The Gurkha was only 300m behind all the way. We were 800m up the mountain when the local started walking I thought my luck was in and pushed on up the hill. After another 100m I was forced to walking. The local slowly caught me back up and casually introduced him self as 'Al' – very friendly! As we marched up the hill together the Gurkha ran past and looked very comfortable. The local followed after him but I settled for (as my lungs allowed) third.

LCpl Gurung of the RIC in MPA finished in first position with a time of 1 hour 4 mins, upsetting 'Al'! I finished third with a time of 1 hour 7 mins. Sig Ragni finished sixth with a time of 1 hour 21 mins. A good party was had by all afterwards and over one thousand pounds was raised for The Anthony Nolan Bone Marrow trust.

A TROOP - THE STRATEGIC COMMUNICATORS
by Cpl 'Austin International Tech of Mystery' Dawson
Tp Comd Flt Lt A. Cooksley RAF
2IC SSgt S. Déwar R. SIGNALS

On my arrival at RADCON, I realised what a rag tag outfit we had. Royal Signals operators and All Arms Signallers manned RADCON, and the outlying dets for the first time. The experiment (so far), seems to have been a success! Welcome from RADCON to 'LCpl 'Mini Me' Hutchinson and Sig 'I'm not from St Helena' Brydon, you have already brightened up our lives. To help with a bit of department spirit, a few members of RADCON spent a quiet evening in the thriving metropolis of Stanley. The trip was a huge success with one down side. Everyone on the trip developed flu like symptoms the next morning…….Apart from seeing the local sites, RADCON have been dominating the JCUFI squash ladder. With SSgt 'My bums cuter than yours' Dewar leading by example, we have four players in the top five. Tpr 'Nelly' Porter QRH keeps eating 'Slimfast' claiming it is 'Musclemax' weight gain powder, and Sig 'Buzz' Burrell is adding a sizeable increase to 'Sarah Lee Cakes' profit margin! Sig Roche is no-where to be seen apart from at mealtimes where he regularly helps himself to seconds, and sometimes thirds! Meanwhile, it hasn't been all fun and games; LCpl Chris 'Luckiest man alive' Cowley and Gnr Scott Boyle spent three weeks living in a tent on Poke Point Hill on West Falklands as part of the four day long Ex Purple Strike! Well, with R&R, adventure training and the millennium to come, we look forward to February and the end of our tour!

BRAVO TROOP – LIFE AS A SHIFTY
by Cpl Cath 'Spider Legs' McDonald

25 strong Bravo Troop, of all three Services, has only five Royal Signals personnel. One Corporal and four Signallers who, for their sins, work alongside the Navy and RAF – vastly outnumbering us, however we try and cope with the mad people that surround us, and bring a little sanity to the asylum.

Life down in the sunny Falklands is not proving to be as bad as we had imagined. There are plenty of sheep (250,000 of them!) for Sig 'Taff' Evans to chase after, so he is happy, and lots of bars for Sig Alison Moore to be brawling in, which she is ecstatic about; now the rest of MPC are scared to go out! We have been quite busy with all the charity runs. Well done Sig Martin 'Run like the wind but not with a bergen' Potter for his charity climb of over 3000ft in a hot humid atmosphere, and difficult terrain of Ascension Island – like our hearts really go out to him for having to spend a week in Ascension running 7.5 miles – but credit does go to him anyway. Also well done to Sig Moore and Sig Red Stables for their contribution to the Children in Need charity run organised by the Squadron where they ran from Goose Green to Mount Pleasant, in the process raising over £2000.

The COMMCEN got tired of Red Stables antics and loaded her on board ship to go to Montevideo, Uruguay, for ten days on HMS Dumbarton Castle. This left poor Taff to fend on his own for a bit on a shift full of scary Navy girls. Unfortunately, the ship didn't complete its part of the deal, and they brought her back too!

Sig Red Stables now picks up the line on her 'eventful' trip……

MONTEVIDEO WITH THE ROYAL NAVY
by Sig 'Red' Stables

The trip came about whilst working one day in the COMMCEN, I was asked by my DSO if I wanted a jolly to Uruguay on the HMS Dumbarton Castle, so naturally I said yes, (who wouldn't). So a week later on Sunday 3rd October I set sail, along with another 13 other guests. My four days in transit were spent working in the MCO on board (RN term for Commcen). Everything was manual (painful), but it was good to see how one of the other services worked while away from shore. My overriding impression was of lots of equipment humming electrically, and lots of nice sounding radios bleeping all day. Oh, how I miss and dream about the psyops-like sound of bleep-bleep-bleeep-bleeeep!!!

Sig Stables posing with the 'dishy' Navy bloke

The food was good although not many of the guest's managed to keep theirs down, because it was quite funny – intensely funny to watch others, until the wild rocking of the boat gets to you too!! On the way there the weather was brilliant, the sea was quite calm the sun was shining and the sea was a peaceful blue colour. The way back was a different story; I can still see the three Gurkha faces – as they looked a funny shade of green. On the Wednesday night before we docked we decided it would be nice if we cooked a barbecue for the ship's company, which was also fun.

The day we docked in Montevideo, all the guests couldn't wait to get off and go alongside - especially the three Gurkhas! At 1 o'clock we were allowed a run ashore – finally. The five days we were to stay in dock were spent sampling the variety of local ales (good as they sell bottles of beer by the litre – for me, paradise!). Of course, no social scene is complete without some form of eats, so we went in a few of the bar's, where the management were extremely hospitable, all night long they would bring us food out and then join us later for a drink. The food was excellent and the steaks were huge (and cheap – actually, everything was cheap!). I got to do the girlie thing and went shopping for a day - the good part though was walking round and seeing the cultural side of the city. Monuments seem to be a big feature, and in the more affluent areas, the buildings were out of this world – though there were constant reminders that not everyone was so well off. The weather was lovely, the people pleasant and easy going and the beaches beautiful. If anyone else ever gets the chance, then grab it with both hands! The experience in working as one with Navy contemporaries, combined with the culture and the stay in Montevideo will be memories I will always remember.

We had been told that the weather was changeable down here, but we didn't expect to have three of the four seasons before we reached the MPA terminal. The missing one was of course Summer! After a slow start the team knuckled down to some hard loafing and within a matter of days we had all perfected it, especially Sgt Kitchener who developed a tendency to only go out on jobs if somebody important was visiting! Such is the privilege of power! Nobody was quite sure what to do with the three additional fixtures, did we have to sign for them or should we just ignore them and pretend we had no knowledge of them being anything to do with us? Of course I refer to two cats (Fits and Lister) and the resident Digifits God, John Nichol! In the end it was decided to ignore the cats and to sign for John. After a short interval in the never ending fun that is MPA (work) Cpl Louis 'Its not my problem' Cleary received word of his impending T1 entrance course, and this brought forward another excuse for him to do nothing every afternoon. We soon discovered his idea of revision is on the Internet in the WRVS. Good luck to him when the time comes though. When we do have to go and do some work, it really only involves driving to one of two sites and pressing one button, so as you can imagine, it's a really demanding job! Seriously some of the mountain sites can be quite exhilarating, especially when the Brintel drops you off with 60kgs of kit….at the bottom! This wouldn't be too bad if it meant you would be picked up from the same place, but usually, wherever you end up DRAGGING your kit for the pick up, you are guaranteed the chopper will land at the other site! Plans have begun in earnest for the Millennium, and any other weekend that happens to get in the way! Generally this all revolves around eating, drinking and being merry…..or more likely, troughing, getting lashed and finding pizza in your shoes the next morning…

LINE SECTION (AKA THE T MECHS) - by LCpl Farrow

All of us, from the elite section within the Falkland Islands say, 'Hello' but would like to inform everyone that we are, in fact, Tele-Mechs not Liney's!!! With the exception of recently promoted Cpl 'Pathetic shark' King, who is actually no longer a Mech, but a Hom Tech. Never mind Jase its legal now.

We have recently had an influx of new mechs from Germany, the new arrival's to this wonderful & warm island were Sigs 'Dreamboy' Lake, 'Tim nice but dim' Duggan, 'Where's the mail' Peart, 'Gobby' Love, 'John Merrick' Wride and 'Scouse 'Ive just found it, honest!!!' Ennion. As you can imagine the island has been running smoothly, since their arrival. With three new Faults Installation teams about, work has been down to a minimum. Not! Also indulging into the wonders of the island are Sgt 'Dr Evil' MacDonald, Cpl 'Why's the wagon sinking' Stowell, LCpl 'Here's some flowers love, Im off to the bar' Welsh and Sig 'Honest, I didnt do it Guv' Taylor. To keep the Liney's presence at line section we have adopted LCpl 'Raaaaaaa' Montgomery, from the resident 1(UK) ADSR. Monty has certainly needed his Armoured title.

During his tour, Sig Peart has organised, a five 'A' side football tournament for all JCUFI personnel. With us at Line section, being the elite, it is only correct that we are top by 4 points. With us, it's the winning, not the taking part that's important, so obviously the celebrations in the bar after each winning game can get a bit rowdy (apparently…).Recently the section has said goodbye to Cpl '? days to the womb' Lees, who on his way back to RAF Bruggen had a flying visit to good old Blandford. Also yet another farewell from the Falklands goes out to Cpl 'I've just finished painting the ceiling' Wilson, we'll see you again next year!!!

We would finally like to put out a message to all Mechs everywhere. That on their next tour, they will be able to view the new rest room. Due to a flying visit from the changing rooms team, made up from LCpl 'I got married in the Fallies, but am now divorced' Farrow and Sig Lake. We would also like to wish everyone a Merry Xmas and a happy Millennium.

POWER SECTION – We Live On……..

Since arriving in the Falkland Islands, Power section has been involved in the refurbishment programme of the FITS generators. So far we have managed to replace two of the five gene cabins and are presently in the process of refurbishing the third. We are also in charge of the Squadron bar, which goes by the name of 'Sharkies'. So far we have had 2 Band Nights and a Karaoke Night which went really well, but the rest of the time, it sort of dies a death. But trying his hardest to get the place going again is Cpl Dave 'Where's my b*y keys' Turton who also gives the Squadron their duty haircuts (nice haircut Maj Adams). Sig Sully 'Gym Princess' Sullivan is still trying to get everyone to turn up to his PT lessons with little success. We also have our duty oil rag Sig Chris 'The Galloot' Beazley who when unable to find any rags decided to use his field jacket to mop up an oil spillage inside one of the cabins, while he was still wearing it. Our resident whippet Sig 'Where's My CR' Ragni who is the self professed Fastest man in the Squadron NOT. Another one of our characters is Sig Oz 'I'm not going out over night' Phillips who decided that a night in front of the TV is much better than a night on top of a hill doing his job. Our illustrious leader is Sgt 'Well 'Ard' Leader who is the duty JCUFI Heli-cabs dispatcher and MT monster. Not forgetting our Hello's and Farewells. Hello goes to Sig 'Smurf' Murphy who has recently arrived at 1(UK) ADSR and came out here to escape the rat race in Herford. We say Bye to LCpl 'Slim' Humphries who escaped back to the UK on his Class 1.

SYSCON ROLL OF HONOUR

Blue Team:	Green Team:
Sgt Dave Place	Sgt Paul Haigh
Cpl Dan Archer	Cpl Jim Healy
J/T Allie Hunter	Cpl 'Egg' Hatch
J/T Chris Gill	LCpl 'Chartlie' NG
J/T Helen Hammond	LCpl Wayne Topping
Cpl Andy Blay	LCpl Dan Mountford
J/T Daz Penny	LCpl Nate Dorrian

Our indoctrination into the Falklands scene occurred when, following all the briefings on the day we arrived, to be told to be back by 17:30hrs at the bar where we would meet our RAF co-workers. There is a tradition where the FNG wears an FNG suit, (a stupid looking outfit made from bubble wrap, electronic flashing lights and an annoying musical melody.) This privilege was bestowed upon Sgt Paul Haigh and soon slipped into the 'Blue Syscon Way' of swilling liberal amounts of beer and uttering words like 'come on' as each tin was drained.

Day One and the RAF, bless em, were suffering but managed to maintain an air of professionalism at the workplace (they must have done this before) We were introduced to our responsibilities for the next six months, which seemed more in depth than we were use to back home. The shifts were sorted and we were informed that there would be a RAF person on each shift, they were to be treated like a supervisor, as they 'allegedly' knew the score. This soon transpired into knowing who to blame for each fault reported when it went wrong, not to mention their large capacity for hot beverages only matching their intake of alcohol. The work itself proved very good due to a wide diversity of circuits we were to look after. Much liaising with outside agencies (trying to get them to do as we wanted them to do and not them doing their own thing and making things worse) all this improved our telephone techniques no-end.

The USM organised PT four times a week to which the RAF & Navy elements were invited to attend but not many of them took up the challenge. The gym facilities are superb with more machines than you can shake a stick at, organised circuit training, Boxercise and a large indoor swimming pool. One of the successful Tri-Service ventures have been a 5-a-side league started by the Line Section. Syscon were showing that the RAF influence was rubbing off on them until the arrival of the new Foreman WO2 (FofS) Paul Hubble. Seeing as he fancies himself as a bit of a David Beckham, he moulded the team into something better (more of a netball team than football).

Worthwhile things to mention are the long overdue promotion to Full Cpl Matthew 'Egg' Hatch, the sitting and passing of the EFP1 exam by Cpl Jim Healy. LCpl Wayne Topping followed this by passing his 3-2 exam. Just to prove he can do it in style, Cpl Healy and Cpl Lewis Cleary (friend to the Syscon crowd) then sat their 2-1 exam and are anxiously awaiting the results. Does this mean more promotions in the pipeline? The RAF element hope so, makes them more bitter with their promotional track record but it is an excuse for another party.

This covers the tour for us serving in Syscon who are patiently awaiting the 'Timmy' to come and take us away, resting assured that Crab Air will fail to turn up on time. Well maybe we will be lucky and the plane will land on time for the first time in written history (well this one anyway).

EXERCISE WANDERING ATOM

The Wandering Atom roll of honour
SSgt 'Chalky' White, Capt 'Jase' Nichols, Sig 'Murf' Murphy, Sgt 'Sean' Arundel, Sig Matt Rees, Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener, LCpl Nate Dorrian, Sig 'Potts' Potter, SSgt 'Mal' Pavier

Day 1: It was a chilly bright Saturday morning when Sgt Chris Leader dropped us off at the Quarry on Pleasant Peak (PPQ) with bergans that weighed far too much for a two-day walk. We would like to thank Chris for hitting as many pot-holes as he could, really starting the day off nicely. Sig Matt Rees was given the first leg to lead from PPQ to Mt Mustard, which to start off with looked all right, but it got worse. We dropped down from the Peak and headed straight across the valley for Mustard. By now Mt Mustard was huge and every one was thinking what the hell are we doing here. We trekked long and hard across the valley floor to what seemed to be the top. Ah-ha! It was a false summit and there was still a long-long way to go. We pushed on up to the top to shelter behind a large outcrop of rocks for a well earned rest, and a great sense of relief as the high ground had been conquered! After a half-hour LCpl Nate Dorrian led the next section, which was across the ridge, which wasn't too bad at all. We contoured around most of the peaks until we got to 'Unknown Peak'. Blue Mountain could be seen in the distance and it was huge! By now the bergans were like lead and tired legs had set in, but we cracked on to Blue Mt and another well deserved rest and dinner. From here our goal, Mt Usbourne could be seen and it looked so far, far away.

After food Sig 'Potts' Potter took the next leg, as we were contouring a large rocky area that wasn't on the map I decided to take a dive in true premier dive style. One minute I was walking along minding my own business the next I was forward rolling down the mountain, bizarre! It was here that we started to have to negotiate the 'rock rivers' that feature so widely on the Islands. Not easy with a lead lined bergen I can tell you. There were a few thrills and spills but no injuries. However, time and fatigue was pressing. It was decided that Mt Usbourne was an unfeasible option so camp was struck in some hollows next to Table Rock some six Kms from the objective. SSgt Mal Pavier and Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener really wanted to bag the peak so a fast and loose attempt was to be made. Capt Jase Nichols, SSgt 'Chalky' White and Sgt Sean Arundel stayed at base camp while the rest of us struck out for the peak. I remember the words 'Don't worry we'll just go at the pace we were going at with the bergans' yeah right! SSgt Mal Pavier and Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener set off at about 5kms a minute. We were running to keep up with the wild gazelles. The pace slowed a little bit but not much, we reached the base of the mountain and had a re-org. Time had run out and we were in no condition to strike for the summit, so within 2kms a disgruntled motley crew trudged back to base camp and FOOD!

The throwbacks had set up camp nicely and had seen us coming up the valley and put on the boily's for us. Then we stood around the 'virtual fire' and Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener regaled us with his marvelous tall stories. We all were in bed early for a well-earned rest!

Day 2: We awoke at 07:00hrs to the sound of Sgt Sean Arundel stomping around very noisily outside. Everyone then got up to a frosty clear morning, cooking and sorting out their admin. After camp was struck at around 08:30hrs and it was my turn to lead a leg. So after establishing our position I picked our route back, once more over those rock rivers we had negotiated yesterday. We had thought it would be an easy stroll, as there had been a Heli pick-up organised. However, it did not appear, so the reality of a long, long walk lay before us, gutted! The route back was to drop down on the south side of the ridge then strike out towards PPQ, contouring around the ridge and dropping onto the 'flat ' ground.

However, the ground started getting very boggy and more 'babies heads' started to appear. Also all our feet, knees, shoulders & hips, at this point were very tender. When we got to see PPQ it was miles away! – MPA seemed to be the other end of the Island. Subsequently the stops got more often and the legs shorter, and somebody kept pushing MPA further and further away the more we walked! After a rest close to PPQ it was decided to push on to MPA, as there was still the option that Brintel would pick us up, nice thought that. A thought it remained as our hopes were dashed when we saw the Sikorsky take off, totally ignore our calls on the radio and disappear over Mt Wickham towards Onion range. The ground now was very undulating and marshy, and MPA always dropping in and out of sight as we crossed this barren windswept landscape. The weather, which had been so good to us started to cloud over and threatened rain if we didn't get a move on. But eventually we made the ring road by the runway lights, shower and food were only 2kms away. We could now see the end of what had been a very tough two days hike in the hills. It felt good to be back and proud that we had walked about 60kms in the two days over some very rough terrain. One final photo stop and then the short walk back to the accommodation and our sorely missed pits.

MPA LEADERSHIP – THE GRUELLING TESTS (AKA THE INQUISITION) - by LCpl Topping

1-2 November, the Education Centre here at MPA held a course on behalf of JCUFI in which eight personnel were to be tested in the art of leadership. The course was run in much the same vein as RCB is for potential officers. The first day mainly consisted of theory work, where the general theme seemed to revolve around who could have the biggest headache!

This started with a psychometric test, in which you had to say which shape followed the previous four. This went ok for the first ten minutes, after which you started to see double and just had to guess which meaningless bunch of lines came next. This bundle of fun was followed by a number of general knowledge and current affairs tests. The high percentage achieved on the current affairs test was due to the regular daily papers we get to read (NOT…)! The afternoon that followed was even more fun. We were to have an at the board interrogation, which involved receiving a scenario and from there creating a plan which suited best. You were to present this idea and then get a good grilling from the Captain in command. Basically, whatever you said was wrong and wasn't feasible. What came next seemed easy in principle but wasn't. You were given a topic to speak on, for five minutes, but with only fifteen minutes to prepare! What became par for the course, was that everyone spoke really well for the first two minutes and then started to fade fast for the remaining three. With that, thankfully it was time to go and reflect on how hard our brains were hurting.

The second day was to be a lot more fun, and a day everyone enjoyed. For most of the day we were to practice our leadership capabilities at the dreaded command tasks. These involve the usual 'Get over this stretch of land using only this barrel and this useless bit of string'. Everyone learned a lot about how to command a set of people in the right way and keep everyone's morale soaring – even when you are still at the start point after using twelve minutes out of the allotted fifteen! What was to follow, nobody expected, we were to do an individual obstacle course for four hellish minutes each. To say everyone was tired would be an understatement! This was finally the last part of the training.

On reflection, the course was superbly run, in particular, by Capt Rowlands. Everyone involved gained a great deal of experience. If some of the course do try to go and attempt RCB this course would stand them in excellent stead.

1 (ROYAL BUCKINGHAMSHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (SPECIAL COMMUNICATIONS)

OC Maj David Raleigh
SSM WO2 (SSM) Dave Scott

The last two months have seen a phenomenal amount of activity for this small unit. There have been two highly successful overseas exercise deployments, in addition to the usual round of weekend exercises. The Squadron recruiting team has been busy, visiting most UK-based units in the last few weeks.

A warm welcome goes to WO2 (YofS) Dave Hughes, fresh from 261 Sig Sqn and Kosovo, who rapidly found himself in the hot seat. As this is published we will have said farewell to Cpl Jase Timmer – with many thanks for all his hard work over the years. Congratulations go to Sigs Karen Clarke, Clare Maslin, Trevor Spinks and Karen Bramley on passing their TA Recruits Course and LCpls Wayne Miller, Don Shore, Stu Penmen, 'Scouse' Hardy and Simon Hodgson on being selected for promotion. Also well done's to Sgt Steve Milne and Cpls Vinnie Hill and 'Doobs' Rodgers on being selected for Yeoman of Signals training.

EXERCISE GLOBAL LYNX 2 1999 – CYPRUS

Not content with two weeks in June, elements of the Squadron deployed to Dhekelia for two weeks in September for another round of comms training and testing. This took a very similar format to the previous exercise, only at a slower pace as there was no SC Course to put through their paces. Consequently there was time for classroom teaching, with LCpl Sam MacGillivry doing her best to make modems sound straightforward and LCpl 'Rosy' Roseveare doing something similar with 16/24 kVA generators. A little learning is a dangerous thing, so Sgt Ian Lumsden-Gordon ('L-G') made sure that it was all washed down with copious quantities of Brandy Sours. After a lifetime in SC he knew most of the bars in the area, although most also seemed to be run by the Russian Mafia. Surely some concidence? Back at the ranch in Bletchley, Lt Angus Evers ran a very successful training weekend to tie in with the Cyprus comms deployment. It tied in even better when Cpl Mark Gott remembered how Zulu time worked.

EXERCISE RUNNEL STONE 1999 – DENMARK

Mid-October saw the Squadron deploying to central Jutland for the annual patrolling and comms exercise, operating against the Danish Home Guard. The Home Guard always take their defence of designated Key Points very seriously, making sure all the local civilians are warned off, and this year was no exception. Patrols from 2, 63 and 264 Sig Sqns and 30 Sig Regt joined two patrols from 1 (RBY) Sig Sqn (SC) for the weekend's operations, coordinated by the rather stressed Ops Officer, Capt Richard Newhouse. Patrols were inserted into their areas late on Friday evening by a combination of parachuting, tactical landing of a C-130 and by helicopter, to carry out recces of their respective targets. Reports were filed, and subsequently further observation carried out by air recce and helicopter-inserted Ops. Saturday night saw the targets attacked, and in most cases destroyed. WO2 Dave Scott's patrol caught the Danes by surprise at a key airfield, by jumping out of a helicopter right in the middle of their defensive cordon – the footage captured by a tame TV crew made it all look a little like Somalia, only better organised! Lt Angus Evers found the outer reaches of his radio mast target undefended, but then got carried away and his patrol was scattered by the 3rd Danish Shock Army, which had been hiding in the bushes in 4WDs with searchlights. Many thanks once again to the Danish Military for their assistance and overwhelming hospitality. No thanks however, to the Camp Commandant and his mate Sig Dave Carrington, for the lashings of Gamel Dansk and whisky on Sunday night, which made everyone so ill on Monday morning (especially the Ops Offr).

by 2Lt Cropper

Sqn Comd Maj Miles
SSM WO2 (SSM) Ward

A new Royal Signals Squadron has recently been established in Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire. As a result of SDR the Infantry has been scaled down in the Thames Valley and the Signals presence increased. Consequently in July 1999, with equipment and instructors from 55 Sig Sqn (V) (Liverpool) and former soldiers from 5 RGJ (V), 60 Signal Squadron came into being. Recent months have been a busy time for everyone in the Squadron including its PSIs, FofS 'Where's me screwdriver?' Fletcher and Sgt 'Preston forever' Brown, and finding stores for radio kit and land-rovers is a continual headache for RQMS, WO2 'The answer's no' Pennel.

EXERCISE AINTREE DOWNS
WEYMOUTH 20-22 AUGUST 1999

It's not all been donkey work, the Squadron has conducted training which has integrated the new squadron. In August the Squadron operated its first communications exercise on Portland Bill, Dorset. This orienteering NAVEX took troops around most of the Isle on a fine day, although some including the SSM saw more of certain areas than others! Thanks go to Capt Mather and his team for allowing everyone to drink their winnings. The weekend was completed with an interesting visit to the Tank Museum, Bovington.

REBADGING CEREMONY, AYLESBURY
4 SEPTEMBER 1999

On 4 September members of 5 RGJ (V) who chose to re-role received their beret and cap badge at an official ceremony in Aylesbury. Several important guests joined family and friends of the parade, including the Mayor of Aylesbury and the Inspecting Officer Col McLay, Deputy Commander of 11 Sig Bde. The ceremony marked the beginning of a long relationship between the Royal Signals and Aylesbury, and also the integration of former RGJ members into the Corps, including the change from Light Division drill! The remainder of September focused on recruiting with good results from open days and advertising in the local press and the town centre. As a result eleven people have embarked on training, ably led by the newly formed Military Training Team. The Squadron wishes them all the best for RSS Blandford early next year.

EXERCISE TOPHAM HATT–SWANAGE 1-3 OCTOBER 1999

Organised by Alpha Troop 2IC, 2Lt Cropper, an element of the Squadron took part in Ex Topham Hatt on the Swanage Railway, Dorset. Over the weekend troops were involved in track-side clearance and telecom work in support of Project Herston, an ongoing Corps project. Although faced with a demanding task everyone was surprised with the excellent work achieved over two days, especially Cpl 'Lucky' Guest. The weekend was thoroughly enjoyed and allowed members to begin working as a team, including the new Troop Commander, Lt 'Where's me skis?' Williams. Thanks go to SSM 'right-o' Roberts and troops from 222 Sig Sqn, Bulford for their support over the weekend. All are looking forward to Topham Hatts in the future.

Looking forward, the winter months will see continued hard work in establishing the Squadron with planned refurbishment of the TAC, along with trade training at Blandford and continual recruiting. The formation of 60 Sig Sqn marks a new beginning for the Corps in the south and for the TA in Aylesbury. If you know anyone who is about to leave, or has recently left the Corps and is looking for a TA unit to pass on their experience and knowledge, 60 Sig Sqn would like to hear from them.

3 COMMANDO BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON ROYAL MARINES

3 Cdo Bde HQ & Sig Sqn RM deployed to Egypt from 3 October as part of the ARG on Ex Argonaunt. For the lucky few, which included WO1 FofS Steve Bason and all the Brigade Staff, it was a case of sailing from Plymouth on 16 August aboard HMS Fearless for a few weeks cruising around the Mediterranean. With a busy programme involving lots of Navy type things, the weeks of bobbing around the sea were broken up with plenty of runs ashore. The rock race in Gibraltar was not for the faint hearted and the 10km race up Mt Vesuvious in Naples is nothing short of a nightmare. The exercise continued with beach landings in Turkey finishing back in Marseilles for R & R.

By this time the Foreman was winging his way back to the UK having escaped in Naples only to re-deploy on Ex Bright Star to Egypt. As far as the Royal Signals ranks were concerned Sgts 'Taff' Morgan and Mick Lee with the 501 dets and crew left on 3 October with Steve Bason deciding to join a day later (and rightly so). Due to the sudden climate change Sgt Mick 'I can drink ten pints' Lee, thought it would be in his best interests to drink the entire stock of the transit accommodations water supply, however, to his detriment he found this was not going to be the case, as his stomach decided to revolt and eject his new found reservoir. This led to Mick spending the night in the local air-conditioned nursing home with a needle in his bum. Both dets were initially co-located with Commando Log Regt, with 501 Wine taking all their traffic and 501 Violet preparing to take the Brigade's traffic.

The first two weeks were a steep learning curve for both 501 crews as all did not go as planned. Some of the problems we had to overcome, included not being allowed to wash and shave (not that the techs needed to) due to water shortages and then some recce type person, probably an Officer decided to set-up the Commando Logistics Camp 100 yards from a Second World War minefield. So having spent 24 hours setting up camp, everyone had to pack up again and move 500 yards down the road. After a few hiccups and minor adjustments the kit was up and running and we then had to contend with a few visitors such as the odd scorpion, spider and hungry gerbil. On a few occasions we were able to visit MMC (Mubaraq Military City) and admire the hotels and hard living of our 30 Sig Regt (MacDonalds R us) counterparts.

501 Violet then split and went to the HQ & Sigs location to take on the Brigade traffic and this is where Sgt Rob McAdam and Cpl Jim Baxter (anytime you like lads) joined the exercise. The day to day running of the det went quite smoothly and the odd hotel visit started to happen. R & R was in the form of a trip to Cairo and the Pyramids although the 501 crews were unable to go with the main party, which wasn't a bad thing in the end, as there was a bad case of salmonella amongst some of the Royal Marines. Sgt Rob 'Pathfinder' McAdam took advantage of the fine weather to do some training. A bit of local sight seeing/running from Cdo Logs location to the Brigade HQ (a mere 10km away over flat land and visible after 15 minutes) geographically challenged Rob, in that he was within 1km of the Brigade HQ and still could not see it. The end result being him having to return to Cdo logs in map reading failure completing a round trip of some 20km in blistering heat. (Sensible guy) The Brigade Cypher cell was co-located with 501 Violet where a close working/recreational relationship with the techs and operators developed. The operators doing all the work as always and the techs going off every day to the beach and local hotel. The main hobby of the deployment became golf, but unfortunately Sgt Gibbins only came out with a 7 iron, and a sand wedge was in great need. However, everyone adapted to bunker shots and Cpl Sean McIlroy became the Egypt Open Champion. The Brigade FofS even took up the challenge but lost in the second round to Tom Gibbins. The remainder of the exercise went quite smoothly with little bits of phys and lots of sunbathing by the techs while the Foreman continued to beaver away. The Brigade completely recovered back to the UK on 4 November and it's back to normal work.

As for normal life back in the UK, while we were hard at it, Sgt Lou Walker was off swanning around Plymouth C of E playing student on resettlement. We welcome Cpl 'I actually play basketball for a living' Jonah Jones. We bid farewell to 'Tall' Morgan as he leaves us for 14 Sig Regt and good luck to Cpl 'Jacko' Jackson as he leaves the Army to do some real work. Tom Gibbins will be leaving us early next year (at last) for Germany and 20 Armd Bde, which will be nice for him and we wish him well and I hope you like Armour Tom. Finally we would like to say a belated farewell to Maj Pete 'No photo no WIRE notes' Drew who allegedly did some work at HQRM in Portsmouth and is now somewhere doing lots of exams. We miss you lots and lots Peter so stay in touch. Can you send your belt to 'you know who' please.

NEWS FROM THE TROOPS

BRUNEI SIGNAL TROOP

ADVENTURE TRAINING IN KOTA KINABALU II
15 AUGUST 1999 – by Cpl Winder

After nine and a half years of managing to dodge it I've finally been collared to write an article for the Wire (what on earth did I do before spell check was invented?). First of all, let me fill you in about Brunei Signal Troop. There are currently two Royal Signal personnel attached to the Queens Gurkha Signals and we are employed in the Crypto office but also oversee the running of the COMMCEN, which is manned by the QG Signal guys. There is also a R. Signals Captain who is double hatted as the Crypto Custodian and the AO/QM for Training Team Brunei (how much stress sir?). Life with QG Signals is like being part of one big family, which is appreciated in a small close knit community, as it is in Brunei. It also means that as well as having our respective mess do's and Garrison do's, we also have functions in the Gurkha Community Centre. Another year here and we might master the art of Nepalese dancing, however, try as we may mastering the Nepalese language is a lot tougher.

Life is not one big party though and the smooth running of the Troop goes down to Capt Santa Pun and SSgt Raju, involving not only the official business of running a Troop but also the personal welfare of everyone. To this effect Capt Santa Pun decided that the Troop needed some light stress relief (see we do work hard!!) and this was in the form of Adventure Training. Names were put in a hat and eventually three family groups and five singlies set off in two Land Cruisers on a hot sunny day full of excitement, mainly because we were escaping Brunei to a country that actually had pubs down town!! Ten hours later (and how many stamps in our passports) we arrived tired, hot, dusty and extremely stiff in the town of Kota Kinabalu, Malaysia. A quick shower and it was off to the local Chinese where SSgt Raju asserted his leadership skills and we were soon fed. After our batteries were recharged it was time for us singlies to hit the local nightlife (where the cost of beer seemed to double on our arrival!).

Brunei Signal Troop

Next morning and with a few sore heads it was back in the Land Cruisers off to the base of Mt. Kinabalu to climb the mountain (which by the way is the highest mountain in South East Asia), easy I had thought to myself, especially after doing Adventure Training in Scotland. I soon found out the difference, four hours later and in the dark we finally reached the halfway point which was a very welcoming chalet where we could get food and a bed to sleep before we set off on the next leg of our journey. After a hot cup of tea and some not so hot food it was off to our dorm to try to snatch a few hours sleep. Before we knew it, the guide was knocking us up at the unsociable hour of 0230 (the idea apparently is to reach the Summit to see the Sunrise UMMM!!). The families waved us off and wished us good luck from under the warmth of their blankets and the rest of us still wiping the sleep out of our eyes went on our merry (or not) way. The second half was much more difficult as it involved pulling ourselves up the rock with the aid of ropes, it was slow progress as we only had two torches between the group. LCpl 'Mountain Goat' Suresh was IC of one of the torches and therefore ran up every 100m or so before turning round to shine the torch down for the rest of us. Where he got his energy from none of us knew but we could have done with a 'Pint of what he'd been drinking'. Unfortunately due to injury and/or altitude sickness a couple of us didn't quite reach the Summit which was disappointing until the others who had made it returned (shattered) with the news they never actually saw the sunrise due to bad weather (ha), bit of an anticlimax!

Brunei Signal Troop and Families

The walk back down the mountain was a lot quicker than the one going up and to see the locals making their way up with heavy loads of supplies for the chalet soon wiped any thought of aching bones clean away! Finally at the bottom, very tired but very pleased, we collected our certificates of achievement saying how far up the mountain each of us reached and for those who reached the Summit (4095.2M), it was a 'FIRST CLASS' certificate. That night it was back to Kota Kinabalu, where some of us spent the whole night in the hotel, (not through choice I might add!), all to be said on that is, it must have been the Malay food!!

The last two days we were able to spend at leisure on the Island of Labuan, just off the coast of Malaysia. Everyone had recovered (just) to spend most of it shopping, which is a novelty when you have been in Brunei for a while. We all returned to Brunei with extremely sore muscles and tired but very happy, (especially when we were told PT had been cancelled for the next day!). JAI QUEENS GURKHA SIGNALS

ROYAL SIGNALS GIRL TRIES HER HAND AT LUGE

Sgt Daphne Clash from Aldershot has just spent a week hurtling down the Olympic Bobsleigh track at Lillehammer in Norway. When she first arrived at the Army's 'Ice Training Camp', Daphne and the other members of her group had never even seen a Skeleton Bob before but, after only one day of off-track tuition, they were allowed to set off from the Junior Start.

'I'd read an article in the 'Soldier' magazine and I knew someone who was already doing well in Skeleton Bob events,' said Daphne. 'I felt utter horror the first time I set off - I realised how fast and how close to the track it would be!'

At the Ice Camp the students, who are all volunteers, can choose to try their hand at Bobsleigh, Luge (sliding down the track feet-first on a sled) or Skeleton Bob, (where they travel head-first on something that resembles a tea-tray!)

'My first run was awe-inspiring and nerve-wracking - full of adrenaline and fear,' added Daphne, whose husband Russell is an Army PT Instructor in Aldershot. Although the course is run by the Army, there are students from the Royal Navy and RAF, as well as some civilians. The Camp also offers excellent training facilities for Great Britain's international teams so novices like Daphne benefit from training alongside international athletes such as Sean Olson, who won a Bronze medal in the last Olympics, and their coaches. Daphne's thoughts on Skeleton Bob after several days of training? 'This sport is absolutely tub-thumping! It's absolutely fantastic!' When she returns to her job with the Royal Signals in Aldershot, Daphne will be able to look back on a week in Lillehammer full of thrills and just a few spills.

SHOOTING

THE BRITISH ARMY COMBAT SHOOTING TEAM (B.A.C.S.T) - EXERCISE UNCLE SAM - U.S.A 1999

Some notes from a wandering correspondent,
Licensed to shoot and happy to travel.

The BACST was selected from the best 20 firers in both disciplines of the British Army from achievements of the Army 100 (QMC) held at Bisley ranges in July 1999 and the Army Services Pistol Championships held also at Bisley in June 1999. Regimental Units and Battalions that can shoot at the high standards required and achieving consistent level of marksmanship attend both competitions.

Both disciplines were split into a rifle team of ten firers and a pistol team of nine firers with a team coach appointed to the Rifle Team to ensure continuity of shooting standards within the team and to ensure no officials/ opposition show any bias. Lt Col R. T. Hoole, the COS within the Royal School of Signals and (SI) Sgt D. Copley, a Military Training Instructor with Whitespear Troop, 1 Sqn, both serving members within Blandford Garrison were selected for the BACST as members of the International Team competing in the United States of America. All team members were deployed to the USA (Little Rock) via Atlanta, departing from Gatwick Airport on 6 October 1999. The USA National Guard Bureau and the National Guard Marksmanship Training Centre (NGMTU) hosted AFSAM at Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Little Rock, Arkansas.

All matches for both the Rifle and Pistol Firers were fired on Gallery ranges from 10m to 50m for pistol and 50m to 300m for the rifle. Throughout the competition match formats differed immensely from UK style matches especially firing from prone left and right handed 50m (John Wayne style), there were also a 'Little notice conditions' 4-man team match, with every member firing pistol, M203 Grenade Launcher, Combat Shotgun, M 16 Rifle and M240B LMG, against a series of pop-up and paper targets.

All international teams were accommodated in the Professional Education Centre Senior Ranks Accommodation, in a 318 bed hotel with individual rooms with en-suite facilities, TVs, air conditioning, steam iron and ironing board, washing machines, tumble dryers, ice making machines and a microwave. Despite all difficulties encountered by team members the exercise was finalised with four days Cultural and Exchange visits, where Sgt D. Copley was indulging with great anticipation in a 3-day package on a golfers paradise tour. This covered ten Masters courses throughout the USA and finally a trip to Graceland, Memphis, Tennessee to visit the homeland of Elvis Aaron Presley ('I'm all shook up').

MARATHON

SHAPE WIN THE ARMY MARATHON CHAMPIONSHIPS

On Sunday 10 October four members of Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE) Belgium, travelled to Manchester to compete and complete the Manchester Marathon, which incorporates the Army Marathon Championships. The Team of three Army runners and one navy runner, were successful in not only winning the Minor Unit competition, but in fact beat all 15 units to be the outright champions. The times for the first three runners was not as good as the team had expected, with WO1 (SSM) Mark Elliott and Cpl Paul Nesbitt having run the Berlin Marathon the week before to raise money for British Charities and this was the first marathon for LWTR Matt Hayes. The finishing times were:

Cpl Paul Nesbit	(Royal Signals)	2hrs 47mins
WO1 (SSM) Mark Elliott	(AGC(SPS))	2hrs 55mins
SSgt Stu Taylor	(Royal Signals	3hrs 00mins
LWTR Matt Hayes	(Royal Navy)	3hrs 29mins

The team very much hope to repeat its success next year with a great deal faster times.

NOTES FROM THE AO'S DESK

Branch News: With the demise of 216 Para Sig Sqn, the Hon Secretary of the Airborne Signals Assn, is now Capt Steve Clarke, QM, 16 Air Assault Bde Sig Sqn (216), Goojerat Bks, Colchester CO2 7NZ. Tel: 01206 782784. Those maintaining the list of Association Branches should delete the affiliated branch 'AFCENT'. May I correct the telephone number of Wilf Scurr (West London Branch) as published in the December 'WIRE'; it is 01932 711455. The 112th meeting of the Central Committee granted approval for the new branch in Rotherham and the contact for details is the Hon Secretary, Mr Mick Hickey, 53 St Mary's View, Munsborough, Rotherham S61 4NH. Tel: 01709 324971. I was extremely sorry to be informed of the death of Tony Whiles, Hon Secretary of the South Staffordshire Branch. Until a successor is elected, contact is through the Chairman, John Mobbs at: 6 Hillcrest Close, Tamworth, Staffs B79 8PA. Tel: 01827 57315. My thanks go to Brian Overland for holding the Peterborough Branch reins whilst Bob Rowland was off the road. Good to have you back on board Bob.

The Royal Star & Garter Home: The Corps has several former members residing at the home in Richmond. Each year the Regimental Secretary and others visit them to say hello. Maj (Retd) Donald Clark (served 1944-67) was admitted to the Home in October and we wish him well.

RSA Millennium Badge: This extremely smart metal lapel badge is still available from your local branch or Association HQ. 3/4 inch diameter, in Corps colours, with '1920-2000' annotated, they cost £1.00 each, which includes P & P. Cheque (payable to 'Royal Signals Benevolent Fund') or coin please.

Freedom of Richmond: A further reminder to all, that the Freedom of Richmond is being celebrated over the weekend 16/17 September and not 9/10 September as previously published. Further details are awaited, but it is understood that there will be a parade and social function on the Saturday, with a church service on the Sunday.

RSA AGM: A final reminder that all members are eligible and very welcome to attend the RSA AGM, which will be held in Chelsea Barracks, London starting at 1030 hours on Saturday 8 April 2000. To assist with the administration, please let Assn HQ know if you plan to attend, plus any vehicle details. Chelsea Barracks is a five minute walk from Sloane Square underground station, on the District/Circle Line. This is the chance to have your say in Association matters, but any points for the agenda must be with Assn HQ by 1 March. Calling all Branch Secretaries: If you have not yet forwarded your return for the AGM/Branch Reps Meeting, please do so as soon as possible.

Reunion 24/25 June: If you are expecting to receive full details of the forthcoming Annual Reunion at Blandford and do NOT receive them by the end of March, it is most likely that your name is not on the mailing list. Call Assn HQ to put your name on the list. Assn HQ has the list of local accommodation, but don't leave it to the last minute.

Corps Luncheon at Blandford: The Corps Lunch has been moved from the Saturday of the RSA Weekend to the Sunday. An 'All Ranks Luncheon' in the Regimental Restaurant is planned for the Saturday. This should allow everyone plenty of time to get to the Arena Display, which should start at 1500 hours on the Saturday.

Member detail change: Andy 'Wiz' Wiseman, who served 1986-96, would like his former pals to know that he has changed his name to 'Harban-Ridler'. Andy can be contacted through Assn HQ.

The Corps Collect: I have been asked by Kenneth Taylor, a member of our Tayside & Fife Branch, for the history or origin of the Corps Collect. I have to pass on this, as do the Museum Archives. Can anyone help??

New Life Members: A warm welcome is extended to the under mentioned recently enrolled Life Members. We wish the best of luck in their second career to all those who have just left the Corps and hope that they might make contact with their local branch. We also hope that they will stay in touch with Association HQ by informing us of any change to their address.

BATH & DISTRICT BRANCH

The Branch has had two functions since we last reported. In August we had our Annual Barbecue in the lovely grounds of Pockeridge House, 2 (NC) Signal Bde, Corsham, Wilts.

The President of the Branch Maj J. F. Everett MBE TD and member, Greta Keeling with guests

In October we celebrated in grand style our 50th Anniversary at our Annual Luncheon held in the WOs & Sgts Mess, 21 Sig Regt at Colerne. Our 50 Year Pennant for the Standard was presented by Brig P. J. Evans CBE (Vice-Chairman RSA) and we had the pleasure of the company of Brig G. S. Hughes CBE (Comd 2 (NC) Sig Bde), Maj B. P. Avison (21C 21 Sig Regt) and both RSMs (one going-one coming) of 21 Sig Regt, WO1 D. J. Williams and WO1 A. Jenkins. Both Maj John F. Everett MBE TD (the President of the Branch) and Capt (Retd) Denis Gilmer who were present, were Founding Fathers of the Branch. Sig Antrobus (once of the Royal Signals Pipe Band) piped the Standard round the tables before and after the presentation of the Pennant.

Lt Col Geoff Oakley-Chairman of the Branch, Mr Roy Platten Committee member and Standard Bearer, Brig P. J. Evans CBE-Vice Chairman RSA, Sig Antrobus (ex-Royal Signals Pipe Band) Brig G. S. Hughes CBE-Comd 2 (NC) Sig Bde

After our struggles to get a young, healthy Standard Bearer, Capt W. Myles (PSAO of 21 Sig Regt) has come to our aid and produced LCpl Mark Mitchell of 21 Sig Regt (AS) HQ Troop (V) who paraded our Standard with dignity not only at the Combe Down Parade on the eleventh of the eleventh, but also at the Static Parade at the Bath War Memorial for the laying of the wreaths on 14 November, and also paraded it through the City to Bath Abbey on 14 November. Committee member Roy Platten, although feeling he can no longer do the full honours of Parading the Standard, did so at the Dedication of the Field of Remembrance outside Bath Abbey on November 7, and also at our 50th Anniversary Luncheon.

We have received into the Branch the following new members this year. Sgt Neil Stewart, Maj (Retd) P. J. Benyon, Maj (Retd) G. K. Parsons MC, Lt Col R. G. Vale, Maj (Retd) D. A. Dunbar.

BRIGHTON BRANCH

During August, Brighton Branch takes a siesta as the different members go on overseas trips. Those poor folk like your humble scribe have to make do with a cup of coffee under the Royal Pavilion palm trees. However, come September all is activity. First of all we had an Italian Evening, courtesy of Brian and Carol Nardy. Even those recently returned from the Neapolitan beaches had to admit that it was good. Many thanks go to Carol and Brian. In October we went to Bletchley Park to see the Colossus, amongst other items. It was organised by our new committee member Steve White and was a great success. Some 30 members went on the outing. Your humble scribe transferred from the RS Army Pigeon Service to Codes and Ciphers in the last two years of the war, so I was delighted to discover that one of the guide/lecturers had also been in Codes and Ciphers.

The breaking of the Enigma was a massive triumph. The girl who broke Matalan was only 19. When the Admiral came personally to thank her she was more interested to see him get covered in whitewash! The fate of those at Bletchley varied a lot, from one man becoming a Peer of the realm and Chancellor of a University to one poor devil who was driven to suicide. Life deals some funny cards.

We had our November meeting on Guy Fawkes Night but fortunately nobody tried to blow us up! What did we do? – We had a fish and chip supper, which was super but dare we say that some people cannot add up to thirty. Honestly they can't.

What of our Annual Dinner – it just seems to go from strength to strength. 118 people sat down to dinner. We decided to enforce stricter controls on dress and that was appreciated by everyone. Our Guest of Honour was Lt Col C. Turner. He gave a splendid address dealing with his present command and the need for graduates in the future. The next item was to present a giant-sized cheque to Maj Neville Hogan to help the Retired Gurkhas. £120 will keep a Gurkha family for a year. More anon on this subject. There is one more item to mention, we were delighted to welcome our Branch President, Brig Colin Brown and his wife Heather. They were really missed last year.

December has been really hectic – for our evening meeting we decided to have a fancy dress evening as well as the children's party. We also decided to sing carols. The fancy dress costumes varied from a Victorian aristocrat to an impoverished Victorian Cabinet Maker. It was all good fun. We still had the coffee morning and were asked if we could have a lunch. We met at the Preston Manor Ashley hotel and by good luck they had a Christmas Lunch every day so we booked in and 28 members came along. We were delighted that Colin and Heather could manage all three events. In all a good year.

Your humble scribe……

Joy and John Lovelock who are Treasurer and Welfare Officer respectively

DONCASTER BRANCH

The Doncaster Branch are pleased to announce the recent holding of their inaugural AGM. Many ideas and suggestions where forthcoming from those present on encouraging other members to attend the evening meeting and future social events. All the signs are that the Branch will go from strength to strength. Our first social evening will be a buffet evening for members and partners at our December meeting. Anyone wishing to find out more about Doncaster Branch should contact John Pell at 36 Homestead Garth, Hatfield, Doncaster, DN7 6RN or telephone evening on 01302 843020.

EAST KENT BRANCH

The October Sunday lunch at the Shant Hotel in East Sutton attracted about forty members including Jean Saunders who has not been with us for some time. There would have been over fifty but a number had to call off which was a shame because it was a most enjoyable occasion by all accounts. Peter Warr who makes a hobby of glass engraving and collecting brought a collection of his work and other's and gave a most interesting talk. This was followed by a delicious lunch and the inevitable raffle organised by Marion de Rose which netted a profit of over £50-our members become more generous by the day. Life on the Committee seems to go along on well defined lines and those sitting round the table seem to have been there for a long time so it is sad when there is a change and October has brought about two in quick succession. David and Sheila Geary have for some time, had ambitions of moving away to the North of London from Ramsgate but the months have passed on and David, as members are well aware, has been a leading light as Social Secretary in finding new and interesting events for the Branch to hold (the trip up the Thames, the Cricket Match and last month the Photograph Competition are examples) so it was a shock when he told us that the meeting in October would be his last, the very next morning they were off to a new home in Suffolk. We shall miss them both and hope they will visit us whenever they can. And if that was not enough, the Chairman, Donald Crisp announced that they were moving house forthwith but at least not out of Kent, they move to Biddenden. We wish both parties a very happy life in their new homes.

It is amazing how quickly anniversaries seem to come round. Many of those who had volunteered to march on the Remembrance Day Parade will recall only too well Donald Crisp's cartoon of last years event which was conducted in driving rain and will have watched for this years Sunday forecast with trepidation. Fortunately the rain held off and Brian Calladine on his first major parade flanked by Charles Skingle and Roger Stone as escorts and about eighteen other members strode out after the PWRR Band towards the Cathedral. The OC of our detachment, Donald Crisp, carried the Branch wreath and broke off at the Buttermarket War Memorial to hand it to Bert Sawyer, our first Chairman who, in his turn amongst the dignitaries gathered around, laid it on the Memorial. It so happened that there were no Gunners or Sappers on Parade so the Corps detachment led the parade into the Cathedral Gate to be confronted by the dignitaries including the Lord Lieutenant of Kent who were heading in the opposite direction for the War Memorial. After the usual moving service which included an excellent address by Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Julian Oswald, the marching party reformed in the Burgate and set off to march past the Reviewing Officer, The Lord Lieutenant of Kent. Meanwhile the wives applauded from the pavement which was taken up by the public around them. The parade having been dismissed by the RSM, 26 members enjoyed an excellent lunch at the County Hotel.

Four years ago, Charles Skingle composed a March which he dedicated to the Branch. Being an organist, the score had to be transcribed for a military band and this was done by the Corps Director of Music. It was played by the Corps Band at last year's RSA reunion at Blandford. Charles then approached the Bandmaster of the local PWRR TA Band and, as it is based on the Corps March, Begone Dull Care, we hope that members present recognised it as it was played in the Buttermarket. Unbeknown to us, we had been watched and supported by a party of veterans and their wives from 329 Sig Sqn (TA) from the Bromley area who for some years had held their own Remembrance Day reunion based at the home of Frank and Olive Castle. Frank had been their SSM. Olive has sadly not been well recently and it is probable that they will all join the Branch. If so we shall welcome them at next years Parade if not before.

News of Members: Chas and Rita Hughes would have been at the Shant lunch had it not clashed with the birthday of their twin daughters. We hope they all had a lovely day. Donald and Kit Robathan were also coming but it was a question of the mind being willing but in the end the flesh being weaker than expected for he is very lame. However, they are to be congratulated for achieving their Diamond Wedding on 2 September last. Which meant that they were married at that fateful time of 2 September 1939. Rejoining the Branch after three years in the wilderness are James and Shrilly Hehir, still at the same address in Folkestone, James said they missed the comradeship of their fellow Signallers. We look forward to seeing them again soon.

It is with the greatest sadness that we have to report the death of Edith Thomas on 28 October after three heart operations which she faced with conspicuous courage in almost as many days. There is hardly a person in the Branch who did not know her for she attended every event that she could and the success of the Branch Raffle over the years was entirely due to her leadership and enthusiasm. Her children, Pat, Linda and Bryan together with many of their children gathered, as they had done at Tommy's funeral in June, to say farewell at the same church on 8 November. Everyone will be delighted to know that Pat wishes to be an Associate member of the Branch-she came to the Remembrance Day Parade and we hope that we shall see a lot more of her. Meantime our sympathy goes out to her, Linda, Bryan and all their chi1dren.

GLASGOW BRANCH

The Local Authority held a short service at the War Memorial in Bishopbriggs on 11 November with a 2-Minute Silence. After the Provost had laid his wreath, this scribe also laid a poppy wreath with the 'Jimmy' as a centrepiece. This year a number of local school children were invited to attend the ceremony, to inform them why the annual ceremony has been revived. Thirty members were on parade at the War Memorial in George Square Glasgow on Remembrance Sunday. Jim Prentice laid the wreath on behalf of the Branch members, Bill MacNamara paraded the Branch Standard. After taking the coach back to 32 (Scottish) Sig Regt (V) HQ the members marched into barracks to the skirl of the Pipes of the Regiment. A choice of various curried meals or cold buffet was provided by Chef, WO2 John Wren and his chefs, which was up to his very high standard, and very welcome by the members after standing in the cold during the ceremony.

The annual St. Andrew's Dinner Dance was held on Saturday 27 November in the main hall at Jardine Street, courtesy of 32 Sig Regt CO, Lt Col J. K. McKee MBE. It was attended by 88 members, family and friends, presided over by the Branch Hon President, Maj Gen A. A. G. Anderson CB, who was joined at the top table by Mr Bill Taylor the Branch Chairman and his wife Betty, Mr Eric McWaters Branch Treasurer and his wife Annice. The guests were Lt Col J. K. McKee, his wife Rachael and WO1 (RSM) A. B. Hilborn. The Band was provided by the Tommy Sweeney Trio, catering for all ages. The Branch members their families and friends were greeted with a sherry, before being ushered into dinner, where they awaited the arrival of the top table members, who were piped in to dinner by Pipe Major D. Moire, of the Royal Corps of Signals Pipes and Drums, who played several tunes, before being rewarded by the Hon President with a dram or two in the quaich. The grace was said by the Hon President, who then welcomed the company, thanked the Regiment for the assistance they give to the Branch, saying the members are very fortunate to have the use of the premises, and the help in many ways, other branches do not have extended to them. The President also complimented the members for the support they give to the branch committee, and the committee members, for their efforts in arranging a variety of activities throughout the year in conjunction with the Regiment.

Once again the members were impressed by the excellent choice of menu provided by WO2 John Wren and his staff. The attendant waiters and waitresses, volunteers from the Regiment kept the food and wine flowing. The Loyal Toast was proposed by Jim McLachlan, Mary McGregor proposed the toast to the Colonel in Chief and WO1 (RSM) Angie Hilborn proposed the toast to the RSA Glasgow.

The Hon President asked the CO to say a few words, and Lt Col McKee informed the company of various changes in the life of a soldier and the commitment required in the various trouble spots in the world, as peacemakers between the various factions, where communications are a vital element in solving the problems. At the end of the dinner, and before the company retired to the lounge downstairs for coffee and mints, the Hon President had Chef John Wren, his staff and the waiters, assembled in the hall to thank them for their efforts and excellent service, with a thoroughly deserved round of applause from the company. The proceeds of the raffle on the night for items donated to the Branch, were to be given to the newly formed Royal Corps of Signals Pipes and Drums, to help towards the cost of sets of bagpipes. The request to give generously was printed on the reverse of the menu, and a magnificent sum of £200 raised on the night, has been handed over to WO2 Band Sergeant Major Douglas Smith, of 32 (Scottish) Sig Regt (V), as a contribution from the Glasgow Branch.

The next event will be the social night on 14 December 1999, where there will be a Christmas draw. This will take place in Jardine Street and, as many members as possible were asked to attend this final function of this century. The Chairman and members of the Glasgow Branch send the Compliments of the Season to fellow members of the RSA for the year 2000.

MANCHESTER BRANCH

This is the first article to The WIRE for some time, from this Branch, but we hope to be more active in the future. The Branch continues to flourish under the leadership of it's Chairman, Ron Taylor. We had a good turnout on Remembrance Sunday and marched to the Manchester War Memorial, led by our President, Chris Reynolds-Jones. I can also report that our recent Christmas Dinner, held at the Trafford Park Hotel was a great success, thanks in the main to the hard work put in by Ian Ashworth-Davis. We were very fortunate this year to have as our Guest of Honour Maj Gen Alan Yeoman CB, in his capacity of Chairman of the Royal Signals Association, together with his charming wife, Barbara. The General made a very good and humourous speech which was the highlight of the dinner. He then surprised us by promoting LCpl Vincent, his Driver for the evening, who was on loan from 42 Sig Sqn (V) by kind permission of the Sqn Comd, Maj Ian Kelly, to Officer Cadet. This added a nice touch to the proceedings and was enjoyed by all present and not the least by LCpl Vincent himself.

It should be added that this Branch has been blessed on the three occasions of the last three Christmas Dinners by having a hat-trick of distinguished Royal Signals luminaries as our Guests of Honour. Namely, Gen Archie Birtwistle in 1997, Gen Ian Sprackling in 1998 and, of course, in 1999 Gen Alan Yeoman. This has given our Secretary, Harry Ferguson, a major headache for the Millennium Year. How does he follow that?

MIDDLESBROUGH BRANCH

Time marches on and I am pleased to add that as it does, so does our membership increase and with it our activities. We now have 74 Full members and 31 Associate Members.

We had a change of venue for our Annual Dinner and on this occasion, it was held at The Bluebell Hotel on 27 March and was attended by some 40 Members. The Raffle provided an opportunity to raise a small contribution towards the 'Bagpipe Fund'.

Our AGM, held on 29 April, resulted in the re-election of our Chairman – Colin, Secretary – Margaret, Vice-Chairman - Dick Grainger and Assistant Secretary – Audrey. These husband and wife partnerships certainly provide an ideal administration base. This has been affected on occasions, now that Dick is employed outside the area, and on such occasions —- Howard is available to stand-in.

Sunday 13 June, we had a day on the Rochdale Canal, travelling by horse-drawn barge through some of the more scenic stretches and 'legged' through the tunnels. Due to a previously arranged appointment, we missed the annual Remembrance Service and Parade at Eden Camp last year, but made up for it this year with a bus-load of 54 members and friends. This event goes from strength to strength. Some 3,000 ex-servicemen attended and more than 1,000 marched in the parade behind 128 Standards and the Band of the Yorkshire Volunteers. The salute was taken by Gen Sir Murray Naylor, who was accompanied by a polish General, who has attended this Service of Thanksgiving since it began seven years ago. For the first time, members of the former Land Army joined the parade and were given a hearty welcome.

John, has reluctantly stood down as Standard Bearer after giving the Branch some four years excellent service. Nevertheless he agreed to officiate at Eden Camp and also attended the Remembrance Parade this year on 14 November.

NORTHERN IRELAND BRANCH

As part of our continuing programme of talks at our monthly meetings, we were given a talk by Mr Gordon Lucy of the Ulster Association on 'The Americans in Ireland'. This was a most interesting historical talk on the American Forces arrival in Northern Ireland in the early stages of the Second World War and their posting to various unusual parts of the Province backed up by an interesting photographic display. We hope to continue with various speakers in the future.

In the sporting world our congratulations must go to our 'Representative to the Central Committee' Lt Col (Retd) Terry Lightfoot on his winning the Widdicom Seniors Trophy at the 'Royal Signals Autumn Golf Meeting'. It is good to have this cup come across the Irish sea for the first time. Our Hon Sec, Ian Wolfe has just returned from TAVR duties in foreign parts. He seems to be none the worse for it, I am sure Debbie will be glad to have him back to help with the three young Wolfes (no, not Wolves) again.

November of course is a time for remembering and is usually a busy period for the Branch, as I am sure it is for most others. Some of the activities involved were as follows. At the Royal British Legion Pageant in the new Waterfront Hall, Belfast, Billy Dixon paraded the Branch Standard. Others in attendance were Heather Loveday, Harry Stanley, Ernie and Mrs Mansell. Jim Reilly once again represented the Branch at the ceremony of Remembrance and wreath laying at the City Hall, Belfast. On Sunday 14 November, at the invitation of the CO and RSM, 40 Sigs Regt (V), the Branch led by Chairman, John Loveday paraded to a Service of Remembrance. The Branch Standard was carried by Billy Dixon. Branch President, Maj (Retd) Bill Douglas TD, attended the service where Jim Reilly laid a wreath on behalf of the Branch. On return refreshments were provided. Our thanks to Jim Vance for his efforts with the charity-box. After the Sunday parade Members gathered in the TAVR Centre, for a short ceremony of dedication of a rowan tree and memorial stone to our late Chairman and friend Tom Maguire. The eulogy was given by Chairman, John Loveday and the dedication was carried out by Rev Ian R. Gamble, RAChD, With this prominent memorial Tom's good work and service to the Branch will never be forgotten. Tom's widow Joyce and son Nicholas were present. Our thanks go to Lt Col A. P. R. Roberts for granting permission to establish the memorial and to WO1

(RSM) Chris McGinley for his assistance. The Members were pleased that Bill Ogden came across the channel to pay his respects to Tom.

Lt Col (Retd) Terry Lightfoot represented the Branch at Palace Barracks, Holywood when a wreath in memory of Royal Signals personnel who laid down their lives. We were delighted to learn that Branch Member, Lt Col Nigel Beacom, was one of the first in the UK to be awarded the new Queens Volunteer Reserves Medal and we offer our congratulations to him.

READING BRANCH

Talk about 'In His Masters Steps He Trod...' We had our Christmas Carol and Social evening early this year. It had to be the coldest day of the year, didn't it? As the guests entered the hall they were rubbing their hands together - and complaining of the cold. It didn't take long to warm the cockles of their hearts. We had probably the best evening so far. More than expected turned up so we had to do a bit of table shuffling to get them all sat down in time for the horse-racing. As usual we had a tight programme, but our Master of Ceremonies did a grand job of keeping it all together - and mostly on time. It really made your mouth water just to see the spread, the buffet supper all laid out ready for the 'GO'. Sorry, for the second 'GO', the first being for our Horse Racing Game. Alan's Quiz was won by Alan's own daughter and partner. Could it be nepotism? After the quiz and during the races there was lots of shouting for horse number 2 to win. Oddly it did. Could it be that the thrower (of the dice) heard the general and managed to squeeze the dice to make it fall with a 2 facing upwards? During the Grand Draw many heads were turned to our grand old man Graham Robinson who usually walks away with several prizes even after cries of 'Put it back in' from him. Something went wrong this year - he only got a nappy and a tie - and a laugh. The evening was rounded off with a rousing chorus of time honoured carols.

SOUTHAMPTON BRANCH

Two of our youngest Branch Members, Wayne and Laura Broadhurst were married on 4 September 1999 at St Johns Church, Rownhams. Wayne was serving with the Royal Signals when he met Laura in 1992. He served eight years as a regular soldier and was attached to 3 UK ADSR and 1 ADSR as a Systems Operator. He also served in the Gulf from December 1990 to March 1991. Leaving the army in 1996 he is still in the field of communications. Since joining the Branch, Wayne has helped out in various Branch social activities.

The end of 1999 saw three of our stalwart members celebrating their 80th birthdays. Major John Daw B.E.M. - 2 November. John joined the Corp in 1938 and retired in 1974. He served in Poland in 1939 prior to war breaking out. He then saw action in France 1940, the desert in 1941 and in Italy in 1943. He was de-mobbed in 1946 but re-enlisted as a Signalman in 1951. He rose rapidly through the ranks passing the Foreman of Signals Courses Pt I and II and acquired expert knowledge in Radio Relay. He served in Trials units and Comcen in Singapore. The last ten years of his service was with the School of Signals, first in Catterick and then at Blandford. The first eight years as an instructor and the last two as a Squadron Commander. John is also the President of the West London Branch of the RSA.

Mr E. Budd - 6 November. Ernie joined the Corps in 1936 starting his service in 43rd Wessex Infantry Divisional Signals. In January 1939 he was transferred to 5 AA Div Signals serving in the Control Room at RAF Tangmere until the July when he was demobbed. Recalled to the Colours the next month, August, he was posted back to 5AA Div where, in his trade as a LCpl Teleprinter Operator, he alternated between Tangmere , the Gun Operations Room at Fareham and at Halton Heath. He was badly injured in a traffic accident which resulted in his being invalided out of the Corps in February 1940. He continued to serve his country through the war as an active member of the Home Guard and working on the railways and at Southampton docks.

Mr G. W. Packer - 31 December. George enlisted in the Territorial Army in August 1939 and was embodied into the Corps on 1 September 1939. He then served throughout the war as a Despatch Rider with the 43rd Wessex Infantry Divisional Signals and saw action through France, Belgium, Holland and Germany ending in the Cuxhaven Peninsular. He was Mentioned in Despatches. He ended his service in Celle, Germany and was discharged in May 1946. In civilian life he served 28 years in the NFS and Local Authority Fire Service in Birmingham, Hampshire, Bournemouth and Dorset, retiring as a Station Commander. George has served on the Committee of the RSA Southampton and District Branch since 1976 and has been Chairman for the last two years.

Ten members of the Branch attended the Remembrance Day Parade and Service at Romsey on Sunday 14 November. The Standard was carried by one of our newest members, Brian Littlecott who volunteered, as our regular Standard Bearer, Tony Dear, was unable due to medical reasons. Brian also carried the Standard at the Festival of Remembrance at the Guildhall, Southampton on the 15 November. Brian joined the Royal Signals in 1954 as a National Serviceman. He joined the Association in 1956 and the Southampton Branch in July 1999.

MALTA/LIBYA COMMAND OLD COMRADES ASSOCIATION

By Roy Andrews

There were no crossed wires when members of the Malta/Libya Command OCA met at the Friendly Hotel, Loughborough for their annual re-union. This year we were pleased to welcome three new members who were stationed with 245 Squadron in Benghazi in the 1960's. Paul Lewer, Brian Watford, John Hyde and his wife Sheila. It was also a pleasure to meet 84 years young Maj Bill Lavers and his wife Jennie. Bill first joined up in the Royal Tank Regiment in 1937 and was transferred to Royal Signals in 1942. He retired from the army in 1970 so you can imagine he had lots of tales to tell. He wishes to be remembered to anyone who knew him during that time especially 234 Squadron Malta. Dennis Croot, ex 235 Malta, and his wife Rita were the only representatives this year. Come on ex-235 members give them your support in September 2000.

21 members sat down to dinner on the Saturday and except for a slight hiccup on the timing and a little noise from a reception nearby, it went off very well. The hiccup was caused through a slight communication problem for which Chairman, Roy Andrews, takes the blame. Next year we will hopefully have a private room for the Saturday night. We received over 20 apologies this year. It would have been quite a party if they had all turned up. So please make a big effort next year. Don't forget partners are particularly welcome.

Dennis Croot has managed to get us on the Internet. Thanks Dennis. Details can be obtained from either Dennis or the Chairman, Roy Andrews. Members are asked to publicise the Malta/Libya Command OCA. If you are in touch with anyone please encourage them to come along. We do all enjoy our weekend.

Note for your diary: The next re-union will be the last weekend in September 2000, at Loughborough. Details will be forwarded at a later date. Anyone interested in joining us! Please contact Secretary, Pat Andrews on 01227 264551.

It is with regret that I have to tell you that one of our founder members, Gordon Philips passed away earlier this year. Our sincere sympathy goes to his wife Ann and his family. We will all miss him.

5TH (LONDON) CORPS SIGNALS OLD COMRADES ASSOCIATION

The 5th (London) Corps Signals Old Comrades Association held its 54th Reunion meeting on 23 October 1999 in the Duke of Yorks Headquarters Club in Chelsea. Despite the Association's inevitably declining membership over 70 members and guests were present to enjoy each others company, reminiscences and lunch, the latter presented by the new Club Catering Manager and his staff. The level of conversation on these occasions is the indication of success and the Association Committee was well pleased with the 'buzz' rising from the tables. Sadly the Association's oldest member could not be present so a card signed by all present was sent to him for his coming 96th birthday. The oldest member present at this Reunion was heading for 90 in the early months of the Millennium year. After lunch the 1999 Annual General Meeting was rather longer and more serious than usual. It was decided that the 55th Reunion in year 2000 should be a special occasion and that the Association would try to continue to hold Reunions annually beyond year 2000 so long as sufficient members with their guests were able to attend.

The theme for the 54th Reunion was 'Return to Civvy Street' and Secretary, Sid Prior had mounted a display of 'Before and After' photographs and information about members and their families. Supporting the display Ernest Lampard had again produced a poem on theme and this was printed on the menu. Poem and display revived many memories of 'demob' and after.

All a long time ago! It is the efforts and enthusiasm of Sid Prior the past and present members of the Committee, coupled with the support of all members, which have kept our Association active since 1945. At the AGM Bob Roberts, our long serving Chairman, was glad to acknowledge and praise the contributions they had made which would ensure the Association's continuance into the next Millennium. Once again the Old Comrades are grateful to John Akhed and his colleagues of 238 (London) Signal Squadron for their contribution to a happy occasion by providing amplification for background and for the Annual General Meeting.

31 SIGNAL REGIMENT ASSOCIATION

At last we have settled the venue for our Annual Dinner. It will be on 15 April 2000 at the Central Mess, Duke of York's HQ. Further details can be obtained from out Secretary, Henry Holman on, (wait for it)..... Phone: (020) 8581 1733, or mobile: 0468 075657, or E-mail: henry@prestolite.freeserve.co.uk (Henry is a WIRE note all on his own). Our trip to Europe this year is still on: Plan A – on 26/28 May 2000 staying in Brussels and visiting La Capoule and the German V2 Rocket sites, not forgetting the beer and wine warehouses tour, to some the most important part of the weekend. Once again it has all been organised by our Social Secretary, 'Dusty' Miller.

Yeah man, retire ASAP

Our picture shows two former Commanding Officers, Col Donald Crawford and Col John Eversfield, taken somewhere in the world, they know not where, because they had been sniffing something, they know not what and by that stage they did not care! So if you should see them selling 'The Big Issue', don't give them any money.

Several other outings and events are being organised including the Royal Military Tattoo 2000 on 15 July at Horseguards. Details will be sent to all members, 'Dusty' can be reached on 01784 250756. The Committee wish all ex-31 where ever they have dispersed to, all the very best for the year 2000 and the new 21st Century.

RETURN TO 'CIVVY STREET'

Conquering heroes everyone,
We'd had our share of strife,
Now we could put our feet up
And enjoy the easy life;
The Channel crossing on the day
Was smooth, the weather bright,
And the White Cliffs in their glory,
Filled our hearts with pure delight;
When we disembarked at Dover,
One wise guy raised a cheer,
As he said , 'We must be home lads,
They're all speaking English here!'
What.....civvies .....speaking English?
Ye Gods.....that sounded strange,
But 'twas music to my ears
And a very welcome change,
From 'Buon giorno Johnny'.... 'Guten Tag,'
Or..... 'Comment allez vous?'
Which never sounded quite the same
As.... 'Good day, sir.....how'd you do?'
But home again in 'Civvy Street',
A new life had begun,
With tearful hugs from Mother
And Dad's, 'Welcome home my son,'
Big kisses from my sisters,
Grown up and looking sweet,
Yes.....that's how I'll remember.....
My return to 'Civvy Street.'

THE MIDDLESEX YEOMANRY ASSOCIATION

The Annual Dinner went with a swing thanks to our hard working Dinner Committee of Len Smith and 'Dusty' Miller. Eighty Five members, wives and partners sat down to a very good meal. The Guest of Honour was Lt Col John Crackett TD, Commanding Officer of 39 (Skinners) Signal Regiment. The Squadron Commander, Maj Mike Lansdowne, updated everyone on the progress of the Squadron, who are in fine fettle. This was reflected by their very fine turnout on Lafone Day and Remembrance Sunday, the example being set by SSM Brent Copsey. The Lafone Day parade was led by the Association's Military Band. The memorial tribute at St Paul's cathedral was given by our Chairman, George Key. Afterwards fifteen members of the Association led by Col Ted Scarlett marched with the parade to St Martin's for the service.

By the time you read this the Band will have moved to Uxbridge, after many years at various locations around West London. The Band was originally formed in Uxbridge in 1834 by twelve members of the Uxbridge Brass Band, so it is a long overdue homecoming. The Associations next big outing will be in Hyde Park on 14 May 2000 for the Cavalry Memorial parade. It is hoped that the Queen Mother will take the salute for the march past. Please make every effort to be there, wearing your Middlesex Yeomanry tie. Tickets for the enclosure for wives and partners to be seated, may be obtained from our Secretary, Andrew Bridges nearer the time.

It is with regret that we learn of the death, after a long fight with cancer, of Evelyn Lewis on 13 November. She was a former member of the Squadron and a long time partner of LCpl Alan Holland. Our thoughts are with Alan and Evelyn's family.

Finally a date for your diary 20 October 2000, our Annual Dinner, not to be missed. See you all in the year 2000, the start of a new centuary!!

IMPORTANT!!

56 DIVISION (CITY OF LONDONSIGNALS) OCA BRANCH

On 3 September the Branch President, Roy Hughes, was joined by six members, (including two Vice-Presidents, one Chairman, one Vice-Chairman and the Secretary) and Eastbourne member Harry Cooper at All Saints in Eastbourne to present Ken Biggleston with his 50 Year Badge. Ken has been a staunch supporter of the Branch since he finished active service in 1961 due to multiple sclerosis.

Sam Elliott and Harry Cooper look on as Roy Hughes and Ken read Ken's congratulatory letter

The Branch held it's Annual Dinner at the Union Jack Club, Waterloo, on 15 October at which the Guest of Honour was Brig Cedric Burton, SOinC (A). As well as entertaining members with amusing stories and an update of the Corps, the Brigadier took the opportunity to present Branch President, Roy Hughes, with his 50 Year Badge.

REUNIONS

DID YOU ONCE SERVE WITH 228 SIGNAL SQUADRON AT SHAPE?

Maurice Parsons is trying to set up a Branch in the UK for all those who served in 228 Sig Sqn at SHAPE. If you are interested, please contact Maurice at: 45 Steven Crescent, Chapletown, SHEFFIELD, S35 1XL

254 OBA CLUB REUNION

Our Tenth Reunion took place from Friday to Sunday 29 to 31 October 1999 at the Tillington Hall Hotel, Stafford. This year the event coincided with the time change and we were able to enjoy that extra hour in bed on the Sunday morning after the exertions of the previous evening. A total of 88 ex 254s, 58 wives and three widows attended the full weekend with a further pair of 254s attending only the Saturday dinner.

Friday, the arrival day, saw everyone filtering in from all over the globe. Terry Beare all the way from Australia again (he must have a goldmine in the back yard). Tony and Eva Taylor from Germany, John and Anna Dove from Spain. Not forgetting the Scottish contingent Bill Cecil from Buckie Aberdeenshire and Colin 'Jim' and Nan Stear from the Kingdom of Fife. Don 'Taffy' Finighan who came all the way from his adopted country New Zealand and navigated all the way by using a 1932 AA Road Book. The weather was kinder this year, NO FLOODS as in 1998 and there were a lot fewer motorway hold-ups.

Don Herring has produced with a lot of help from Brenda an excellent booklet called 'JIMMY's APPRENTICES' which hopefully will soon be on sale in the Museum Shop. He did a roaring trade both on Friday and Saturday evenings. He is to be congratulated on all the work that has been undertaken to achieve such an excellent document.

Saturday dawned bright and clear and we were free until the entertainment began after lunch. Most people took the opportunity to visit Stafford or one or two places further afield. The entertainment turned out to be an excellent Barber Shop Quartet who performed two half hour programmes with a half hour interval, most enjoyable. Next on the programme was the semi-formal dinner so everyone made the most of the time to get well spruced up for the occasion. George Severs in the chair, began by welcoming our three widows Val Forster, Jean Johnson and Norma Timpson and all the first time attendees to our function. He then called upon the Reverend Jim Ireland to say grace and get the proceedings underway. After the meal George made his customary speech covering a few points bringing members up to date. He thanked Alan Alfred, Noel Clark, Ernie Izod and Bob Jarrett for organising Dick Burt's cremation and funeral. Dick had no family to do the job so the local 254's rallied round. The ladies from the local Camp Centre Cafe where Dick had lots of his meals laid on and donated the reception for funeral attendees.

Derek Cropper our Cadre member and his wife Joan joined us again. They are getting to be regular visitors. Pat and Maureen Soward were thanked for their efforts in producing and selling the 254 Sweatshirts to members. A big thank you to Pat and Ann Fox-Roberts for once again organising the whole weekend including the raffle - truly a labour of love, very well done. Numbers are increasing with 270 now on the roll and George promised a new nominal roll for the Millennium which will include an up to date Roll of Honour of departed comrades. George then called on Peter McNaughton to propose the toast to our departed comrades. A total of nine names were remembered Dick Burt, Eric Goodings, Mal Johnson, Paddy Stringer. Gordon Howie, George Mercer, Henry 'Dusty' Miller (in Australia), Jim Ivison, John Emery. This brings the total on the Roll of Honour to Ninety Three. It was then time for the Band to strike up and get the evenings entertainment under way. George remarked that the ladies looked exceptionally well groomed and lovely and couldn't imagine what they thought to the changes in their husbands from the dashing young boys in the photos in JIMMY's APPRENTICES to the elderly, balding and somewhat portly chaps that they now were. This did not stop them jiving and twisting the night away and for most bed time came too soon.

Sunday arrived all too soon and after a hearty breakfast, everyone went their separate ways until, God willing the last weekend in October 2000 when its hoped they will return again for re-union number eleven. In addition to those mentioned in the text the following also attended:

David Abercrombie	Jack Allison	Wally Brown
Dai Rees	Reg Brewin	Dave Bussell
Gerry Brewer	Eddie Brewer	Mike Bayliss
Jim Blake	Dennis Burge	Bill Bailey

'F' BOYS COMPANY ROYAL SIGNALS 1920-1942 8TH REUNION

The 8th Reunion took place on 29 September 1999 at the Union Jack Club, Waterloo, London and 30 members out of 97 attended. Not a bad turnout as we are all well over 70 and a significant proportion of our members live overseas. From Canada we warmly welcomed Tom Edgerton (39/42) who was found through excellent detective work initiated by Stan Smith (37/40) of Vancouver, and also to Ken Selmes (39/42). Our president Bruce Beattie, addressed the assembly and especially mentioned the two new members and Maj Gen Peter Baldwin CBE, who is still working hard but found time to leave his office to be with us. Bruce also mentioned our pleasure in welcoming Victor Martin MC, who travelled from New Zealand for the reunion. He mentioned apologies for absence, obituaries, and the matter of an F Coy tie which was abandoned owing to the high cost. He then thanked the committee for their contribution to the success of the reunion. Bruce then introduced our guest speaker, a personal friend of his, Maj Gen Rae Cornock CB OBE, a pre war member of the London Scottish TA who served in the Indian Army, the Indian Navy, the Gordon Highlanders and the RAOC. Gen Cornock gave us a most interesting talk on his progression from TA soldier through his time with the Indian Army, and his exploits in Burma with the Indian Navy, ending up with his service with the RAOC which latter Corps must have given him a much quieter life than his time in Burma. I think most of us who had been 'up the sharp end', during the war in Europe, appreciate the awful conditions which he and his colleagues found in Burma. They fought not only the fanatical Japanese but the terrible climate and jungle terrain in the Burma theatre of war. His audience very much appreciated his kindness in attending and giving us such an interesting talk.

The following members attended:- P. Baldwin (Hon member), S. Band (PRO), B. Beattie (Presdt), R. Brown, Bill Callegari, P. Clowson, H. Cooper, J. Dadswell (Chmn), V. Dugdale (Sec), A. C. Earl, T. Edgerton, D. Fairweather, E. J. Ford, H. Galloway, M. Ham, L. Knight, R. Knight, V. Martin MC, T. O'Connor, W. Offord, F. Pavey MBE, S. Pavey, A. Ridgeon, K. Selmes, D. Smith, P. Smith, R. Todd, W. Weatherly MM, R. Webb, L. Weeks. Guest, P. Craig (ex staff). Apologies for absence were received from F. Worth, Bob. Warren, Robin Laing, who has severe bronchitis, 'Bunny' Lord (who stayed with Vic Dugdale on the 10 September and whom we hope will attend next year), Don Chetwynd our Treasurer, who was on a cruise having misjudged the dates, and last but not least, Edgar Harrison OBE MC BEM (29/33), whose wife rang to inform us that he was too ill to attend. We all send our best wishes to him and to Robin Laing and hope they will get well soon.

Finally, the following members have sadly passed away this year. Brig George Cox (late 201s), who died on 10 January 1999, Edward 'Ike' Attrill (28/31), David Maxwell formerly Dennis Wilkes (39/42), G. Sheldrake (39/42), and Bert 'Dodger' Green (35/39) aged 78, who died on 4 August whilst swimming off Guernsey where he lived.

FORMER APPRENTICES and STAFF ARMY APPRENTICE COLLEGE HARROGATE !ATTENTION!

All former Apprentices and Staff from the Army Apprentice College Harrogate, circa 1969-1973, who were members of the newly formed College Free-Fall Parachute Club, and who attended the Sport Parachute Centre, Grindale near Bridlington as part of their hobby, may be interested to know that the Grindale Centre is to hold a Grand 30th Anniversary Reunion in early 2000, and that the presence of anybody who attended from the college is eagerly sought. The Centre, which many of us helped to build and decorate, has undergone many changes, and any memorabilia from those days will be welcomed by the new Centre. For further details contact:

Thompson – Col Peter Thompson OBE TD DL. Peter was born in Esher in 1936. He was educated at Epsom College where he was a member of the Combined Cadet Force. It was here that his association with the Army began in 1956. He was commissioned in the East Surrey Regiment. On leaving the Regular Army he was commissioned into the Territorial Army and rose to the rank of Colonel and to command of the 31st Regiment, Royal Signals. In 1983 he was awarded the OBE and at the end of his command, he was awarded a Territorial Decoration with two bars for long service. Peter worked for Barclays Bank for 38 years and was a Regional Director in Windsor and in Newcastle. He rose to be Chairman of the Subsidiary Company and over-saw the re-building of Barclays Head Office. Peter was a man of wide interests, he was National Treasurer of Relate (Marriage Guidance) Organisation, Vice Chairman of Marshalls Charity which exists for the benefit of Churches and Vicarages in the old Archdeaconry of Surrey, including the present Archdeaconry of Surrey and parts of Southampton and Winchester Diocese. Peter was Vice-Chairman of the London Territorial Army Voluntary Reserve Association (TAVRA). Peter was also a non-Executive Director of the Royal Surrey County hospital from 1996-1998. The family connection with the medical profession made it particularly appropriate that he should serve in this capacity. He was also a member of the Glazier's Livery Company from the late 80's and was Master's Steward this year. In common with many other military people, Peter was a Deputy Lieutenant of London, he was also a member of the Parochial Church Council. At home Peter enjoyed his garden, staying at his cottage in Norfolk and the company of Jock, his West Highland Terrier. In 1966 Peter married Joan, and it is to her, to their children, Damion and Catherine, to Peter's mother and to his brother Richard that we extend our deepest sympathy. Peter was a man of faith and in the Royal Surrey County Hospital he received his communion and was anointed. He was buried at Shalford (Surrey) cemetery on 29 October. Many members and ex-members of 31 Signal Regiment were in attendance.

Biggleston - Capt Kenneth 'Ken' Biggleston died in Eastbourne on 27 October. Ken joined the Royal Signals OCTU in January 1945 and in December was commissioned Second Lieutenant. From January 1946 to December 1947 he served in Egypt with the Signals section of 33 Field Regiment RA. He was de-mobbed in January 1948 and in February 1948 Joined 56 (London) Armd Div Signal Regiment TA. In 1961 he left the TA due to multiple sclerosis and joined the OCA. He leaves a wife, Jean, his two sons, Nicholas and Martin, his daughter Katherine and three grandchildren, to whom the Branch sends its sincerest condolences.

Krikorian– Warren Alfred Bulkely Fielding Krikorian passed away on 6 November 1999, after a short illness. Warren served in the Royal Signals during World War 2 as a Signalman from 1940 to 1946. He became a prisoner of war in North Africa in 1941 whilst serving with the 1st Armoured Division. We extend our condolences to his son.

Stokes - WO2 Raymond John Colin Stokes was born in Marylebone, London on 19 June 1938 and enlisted into the Corps at Acton on 22 February 1957. On completion of his training in Catterick he was posted to the Far East in March 1958. In Febuary 1961 he returned home until April 1961 when he was sent to 'BAOR' RAF Laarbruch from April 1961 to September 1964. He returned home until February 1965 and was then sent on a tour of Aden until 1967. He had now reached the rank of Corporal and been awarded the GSM with clasp (Malaya) and GSM 1962 with clasp (South Arabia). Between 1967 and 1973 he had tours in 'BAOR' and 'Home' and gained the rank of Sergeant and passed his city and guilds in Elementary Telecommunications and Line Plant Practice. Posted to Cyprus in January 1973 and returned home in 1975. His last posting was Blandford Camp and he had now reached. the rank of WO2 and received his Long Service and Good Conduct medal. WO2 R. J. C. Stokes. was discharged on 16 March 1979 after completing 22 years 23 days service. Raymond Stokes died after a short illness on 19 September 1999 (aged 61). He leaves a widow, two children and six grandchildren, to whom we extend our sympathy.

Green – RQMS B. A. Green. The death of 'Dodger' Green saw the passing of another stalwart of 'F' Coy. He was born at Lahore in 1921 and at the age of five joined his four brothers at the Lawrence Military College in Sahawar, which with sister collleges at Ghora Gali, Mount Abu and Lovedale, regularly provided first class soldiers for the army in geneal and the Corps in particular. He enlisted as an Apprentice Tradesman and sailed to join 'F' Coy in 1935 together with Fred Pavey. They both stood 4ft 11ins in their stocking feet and weighed, soaking wet, under 100lbs. A first class sportsman and athlete, particularly at hockey and boxing, he trained as an OWL. During the war he spent two periods in the desert and one in India. This latter posting saw him involved in the construction and equipping of a brand new Signal Centre at Lahore.

Unsure of a positive career in the post-war army he took his discharge at the end of his engagement and eventually settled in Guernsey as an Inspector of Fisheries, and a very active member of the British Legion. It was his custom to start the day with a swim in the ocean and it was at the start of this that he collapsed and died. His widow, Doreen, expresses her happiness that it was whilst doing something he loved that he should have died. To her and her daughter Ann and his grandson and two great grandchildren we offer our sincere condolences.

Petheram - Lt Col Michael Archer Petheram – an appreciation by his brother Sqn Ldr (Retd) Christopher Petheram. Lt Col Michael Archer Petheram died peacefully on 10 November 1999 after a valiant battle against cancer. Michael was born on 13 April 1926 in Mickleover, Derbyshire and was educated at Wellington College, and later at the Mons Officer Training School at Aldershot. He was commissioned into the Corps and spent many of his early years with the British Army of the Rhine in Germany. Having reached the rank of Captain, he was specially selected to become Aide de Camp to the Governor of Bermuda, a job he did very well and which he thoroughly enjoyed. Tours of duty in Germany were interspersed by duty as Adjutant to the Territorial Regiment in Middlesborough in the 1950s and as Adjutant to the School of Signals at Blandford in the late 1960s. In the mid 1970s he served at SHAPE in Belgium, a tour which gave him every opportunity to indulge an interest in First World War history, Mons, Ypres and the Somme battlefields being almost on his doorstep.

He returned to UK in 1976 and was involved in Defence Sales and then after he retired in 1983. He had a RO's job for ten years, in communications, based at Shawbury in Shropshire, where he bought the family home at Bridge Farm near Wenn. Music was always important to him He took part in competitions for solo voice while at Wellington and later in Germany played leading roles in amateur performances of Gilbert and Sullivan operas. It was here that he met his wife Ann, who was then teaching with BFES. While at SHAPE he ran the Church choir. He had a remarkable degree of determination in every thing he did, whether it was at work or leisure. He had a great sense of fun and had a lot of time for youngsters, with whom he would converse and play, as if he were still in his own childhood.

Mike was a man of complete loyalty and integrity, and was one of those people whom you would hope to have standing at your back in a difficult situation. Mike will be sadly missed by his wife Ann, his twin sons, Mark and Stephen with their wives and his three grandchildren, his son Nicholas, his family and all his many friends.

Hobday – Sgt Bernard Hobday retired on 15 November 1978 after 22 years in the Royal Signals. He leaves his wife Marjory and three children, Carol, John and Kim. He died on 24 November 1999.

Williams - Lt Col S. J. Williams MBE, TD who died in 1999 was an extremely long serving Territorial Army officer and one of the few to be awarded five clasps to his Territorial Decoration. His service began in 1929 as an Officer Cadet in the University of London OTC in which he served until he was commissioned into the Royal Corps of Signals in May 1933. He was posted to 44th Divisional Signals TA and he recalled with great pride how his horse drawn cable section had beaten its Regular Army equivalent in a competition held at Aldershot. Embodied in 1939, he served with his unit until 1940 when he became a company commander in 1st Artillery Signals TNTB. His next few years were spent in West Africa and in India and at the time of partition he was the Officer Commanding the Depot Company of the STCB at Mhow. He remained in India during those troubled times and was awarded the MBE for his services. In 1948 he returned to England as OC 4 Squadron of 3 Training Regiment at Catterick.

In 1949 he joined the reconstituted 44th (Home Counties) Divisional Signal Regiment but later transferred to 16th Airborne Divisional Signal Regiment (Middlesex Yeomanry) at the Duke of York's HQ at Chelsea. Although considerably older than most members of his new unit he fast became a most enthusiastic parachutist, seeking every opportunity to engage in this new found pursuit. For several years he organised, trained and led the unit team which took part in the Nimegan marches in Holland. In 1956 the Squadron which he commanded moved to Uxbridge where the Middlesex Yeomanry had been raised in 1797. Shortly afterwards however, National Servicemen on the strength of the Squadron were relieved of their obligation to serve with the TA and the Squadron strength decreased accordingly. Bill Williams quickly realised the importance of making good any deficiency in numbers and by his efforts and those of the Squadron, he increased his strength to a hundred by 1960. The Squadron tended to reflect the enthusiasm of its Officer Commanding and developed a cohesion of its own which served it well. At the time of the move of the Squadron to Uxbridge it was decided to re-raise the regimental band and to base it there, where in a few years it too increased its strength and under the eye of Maj Williams it began to advance its reputation.

In 1961 Bill Williams became Second in Command of the regiment which three years later he commanded until his retirement in 1966. However, still willing to serve, he was appointed to the command of the County of Middlesex ACF Training Centre. Meanwhile, on the formation of the TAVR in 1967 the band passed to 31 Signal Regiment but in the following year TA Bands were limited in number and the services of the Middlesex Yeomanry band were no longer required. Dismayed at the fate of a band originally raised in 1843, Col Williams obtained permission from the Ministry of Defence for the band to continue to wear its uniform and to become the band of the Middlesex Yeomanry Association. Nor did its strength decrease and at one time it paraded eighty uniformed members and completed up to fifty engagements a year including the annual Cavalry Memorial parade in Hyde Park and the Belgian Ex-servicemen's Association on the Horse Guard's Parade. Col Williams would be glad to know that the band is to continue its existence under Maj R. L. Miller, its present Band President.

Bill Williams had an immense devotion to the volunteer army and for everything for which it stood. His long experience had taught him to pursue the 'aim' at all times and if in doing so he achieved any unpopularity in his circumvention of the red tape side of military life, it was to him so much the better for everyone concerned provided that the troops got on the road and did something useful. Those who knew him will miss him greatly.

Lloyd – Sgt Mick Lloyd, who died on 6 November 1999, aged 54, served with the Royal Corps of Signals from 22 March 1965 – 21 March 1980. During his 15 years of Regular Army service Mick served in Great Britain, Germany (BAOR), Norway, USA and on active service in Northern Ireland (NI). After training as a Radio Operator at Catterick he was posted to 225 Signal Squadron (Radio) Shafoldendorf, in the Hartz mountains and participated in the re-location of the unit to Langeleben on the East/West German border. Back home to 30 Sig Regt Blandford in September 1970, followed by a further BAOR tour of duty in January 1973 to 587 Rear Link Det (Queen's Own Highlanders (QOH)). During this period Mick deployed with the Battalion to Norway to conduct winter warfare training and went on active service to NI as an Infantry Sergeant on foot patrol on the streets of Belfast. After returning with the Battalion to BAOR, Mick was posted in October 1974 to 12 Mech Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (later retitled 5 Fd Force HQ & Sig Sqn). In January 1977 after processing through 2 Sig Sqn 11 Sig Regt, he was posted to 233 Sig Sqn NI. Mick was posted back to Blandford in December 1978 to the School of Signals. It was during this period (Spring 1979) that Mick was deployed to Fort Hood, Texas, USA and played a significant part in the initial Clansman/US Army radio inter-operability trials. This ultimately contributed to the communications successes on subsequent NATO deployments around the world and was a forerunner to the current operation JWID. Those who remember Mick will not be surprised to read that his strong sense of humour and personality added to the success of the US deployment and bonded a relationship between the two Armies that remains as strong today. He married in September 1966, Susan Leggett, whom he met in Dover. They have two children Michelle and Rachel. We extend our deepest sympathy to his family and friends.

Clarkson – Brig Frank Leonard Clarkson who died on 1 November 1999, aged 78 years, served the Corps and the Army for over 36 years.He was a courageous, dedicated and professional officer, who was highly respected by all who knew him.

Frank was born in Dublin on 20 April, 1921. He was educated at Haileybury before entering the Royal Academy, Woolwich in early 1939. He was commissioned into Royal Signals in May 1940. He was first posted to 55 Motor Divisional Signals and then to the Guards Armoured Divisional Signals. Both units were engaged in the defence of this country from the then very real invasion scares. In February 1942 he joined 201 Guards Motor Brigade which was part of the 8th Army in Egypt. For over two years he took part in some of the fiercest battles of the desert war from Egypt to Tunisia leading on to the campaign in Italy. In 1944 he attended the Staff college in Haifa, Palestine. On graduation he joined 10th Indian Divisional Signals where he remained until late 1946 ending up as Regimental Second-in-Command.

He returned to the UK at the end of 1946 to take up a staff appointment in the War Office. After a tour as the Adjutant of the Officer Training Wing of the School of Signals in Catterick, he returned to the Far East as DAAG in the Singapore Base accompanied by his wife, Shelagh, whom he had recently married. He was awarded the MBE for his work during this tour. A spell as DAAG (A) at AG11 followed before taking command of a Squadron of 6th Armoured Divisional Signal Regiment in BAOR. In 1958 he joined the Joint Intelligence Staff in the Cabinet Office. He took over command of 7 Signal Regiment in 1961. He returned to the UK to join the staff of the Directorate of Military Operations. In 1968 he was promoted to Brigadier to command the Training Brigade, Royal Signals in Catterick. From 1970 to 1973 he was a Defence Attaché at the British Embassy in Bonn. He retired in 1976 from his last appointment, Chief Signal Officer United Kingdom Land Forces and, ex-officio, Chairman of the Inter-Service Joint Signal Committee (Overseas). Sadly just before he retired he lost his wife, Shelagh, after a long illness.

In his retirement his loyalty to the Corps was maintained by his eleven year period as President of the Plymouth Branch of the Royal Signals Association. During this period he married Dorothy, the widow of a long-time friend, Maj Gardiner, whom he had first met in Singapore in the late fifties.

PICTURES TAKEN BY DIGITAL CAMERA

Most digital cameras take pictures at a resolution of 72 dpi (dots per inch).
We scan ordinary photographs into our computer at a resolution of 800 dpi.
That is a BIG difference.

you would be unable to send it to us as an ordinary floppy disk would not have enough memory to store it.

Therefore, as a general rule of thumb:

IF YOU CAN STORE YOUR PICTURE ON A DISK,
THEN THE QUALITY OF THE PICTURE,
NO MATTER HOW IT MAY LOOK TO YOU,
IS NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR US TO USE.

Colonel Dennis Mills

I found it both interesting and refreshing to read 'Fings Ain't Wot They Used To Be' by Maj Jake Thackray in the October 1999 edition of 'The Wire.' We all have our equivalent 'photocopier' stories to tell. I look back with fond memories at seeing the GOC thoroughly enjoying commanding his Division on exercise from an enhanced 'TAC HQ' which we had to use in place of 'Alternate' due to undermanning problems. The Brigade staffs also felt that they were better served from this Headquarters in comparison to when 'Main' was up and running. This begs the question of the extra value the remaining 150 staff at 'Main' brought to the party, with the commensurate implications for Royal Signals in providing information services and the flexibility of movement of the Headquarters? All of this had an impact on tempo - and this will not change in the future.

I would, however, add one qualifier to Jake's comment about not developing an 'anorak' type image for the Corps. I fully support the aspiration to avoid being blinded by technology, but would make a plea for this not to be connected to our drive to seek greater clarity about the Corps' roles and responsibilities in the wider Army. Like it or not, we need a doctrinally coherent position to inform our requirements and confirm our contribution in a Defence context. There are many outside the Corps who see themselves as increasingly well qualified to comment on issues which have a direct impact on our ability to meet commanders' needs in the future. Life is complicated enough without allowing the current fragmented approach to force modernisation pass by without comment. This is not something which should preoccupy most people in the Corps, but it is the reality of staffing for the Force Development staff. We have a long way to go to establish a common agreed line on many key issues, unlike some other Arms who spring to mind!

In this current edition of The Wire, Maj Nick Keen, my SO2 Force Development, has briefly outlined the major tasks being undertaken by my team in Blandford and I hope these are a bit more focused on issues which impact on the Field Army. You will see that one of our major projects is the planning for a major review of the Corps to match emerging requirements out beyond 2005. I am in no doubt that in order to do so successfully we need to draw on the good and bad lessons from how we do business today. We also need some radical thinking on the future beyond 2005 to stimulate debate throughout the Corps, if not the whole of Defence, and you are the only people who can identify the breadth and depth of the issues we should look at if we are to do this task well. In addition to Jake's welcome contribution, it was also good to see other articles which also raised some very good points which have been noted for the study. Please keep these valuable contributions flowing in!

NOTES FROM THE FUTURE

(Force Development - alive and well and living in Blandford)

by Maj N. Keen

As a fledgling SO3, very many more years ago than I now like to admit, I was told that I would have succeeded as a Staff Officer only when my name appeared in that august publication the MOD Telephone Directory. Some years on, after a year as SO2 Force Development in Headquarters Royal Signals, I thought my moment had come. I was therefore as perplexed as the more observant among you must have been to find that Royal Signals Force Development, hiding behind the title of Signals 2, had been 'promoted' into the entry for the Duke of York's Royal Military School! I thought it might be useful if I produced a short article outlining who we are, what we do and what our current major tasks are, so that you would appreciate that we hadn't 'fallen off the radar screen',

To begin with, where did we come from? Signals 2 formed in Blandford a little over four years ago, when SOinC(A)'s Directorate was ejected from Main Building. A little under one year ago, a further division saw the newly named Army CIS Services Group (formerly CIS Engineering Group) move under the wing of DCIS(A). This left SOinC(A) with just 7 Staff Officers in Signals 2, headed by a Colonel, currently Col Dennis Mills, plus the Royal Signals System Support Team (RSSST), of whom more later. Half of us sit sandwiched between PMH and the Museum, and can be thought of as 'the General Staff team' and the remainder are at the 'top end of camp' (near Engineers' Corner).

The Joint Warfare Publication defines Force Development as:

'The monitoring and analysis of a broad range of trends in order to determine and articulate future army concepts, capabilities and structures to support national political objectives, and provide guidance on their implementation'.

which translates into making it our business to ensure that the Corps takes due account of the influence of developing doctrine and initiatives but, more importantly, that Royal Signals uses its wealth of expertise in the delivery of command and control support to commanders to influence that doctrine in its early stages. The current 'growth industry' is Digitization and this initiative provides a useful illustration of how the Corps can assist Army-wide. Digitisation is not just an umbrella title for a huge force modernisation process, which will affect every Arm and Service - it is about seizing the opportunity presented by the information revolution to do things differently and thereby more effectively.

What is becoming clear is that the degree of understanding of the practical implications of Digitisation varies wildly. Equally varied is people's ability, and perhaps their willingness, to come to terms with the inevitable and indeed essential cultural change. However, in its early days the impact of Digitization Stage 1, will be comparatively limited as ATacCs and ACSAS start the process of information automation. Digitisation Stage 2 and beyond will be a completely different story as BOWMAN, Battle Management Systems and other equipment programmes come to fruition. Perhaps the piece which is least appreciated is how forces will be commanded and controlled during the transition period when current, automated and fully digitized elements will coexist. Increasingly, other Arms and Services are looking for assistance from those who understand the impact of systems - Royal Signals.

Within Force Development we also deal with near-term future equipment issues, such as scalings, concepts of use and support, aimed at ensuring that we understand how we are going to use the equipment which will be entering service in the immediate future. As a discrete area, we also deal with EW, and aspects of Information Operations.

Based at Engineers' Corner are the Concepts Staff, headed by Lt Col David Palmer. Their role is to work in close co-operation with Army CIS Services Group and other, including Industry, with a view to harnessing the military worth of technological developments. Under the recent MOD reorganisation which has resulted in the creation of the Central Customer Organisation, this will become an area of increasing importance and influence as we begin to play a full part in the Capability Working Groups which advise the Integrated Project Teams (IPTs). The Concepts Staff are closely involved in the production of user requirements and in developing Concepts of Use. Alongside them sits the Royal Signals System Support Team. This is the real engine-room of system support, in more ways than one. As well as providing invaluable support for in-service systems, Digitization Stage 1 and the all-important links to future development, they carry out trials of the wide variety of equipment destined to come into service in the future.

As you will have realised, the close relationship between the parts of Signals 2 and the resulting linkage between future equipment, doctrine, trials and system support provides enormous synergy, aimed at enabling this small team to exert influence, Army-wide where appropriate, in developing the position of the Corps. Let me just give you a flavour of the major pieces of work being undertaken at the moment to illustrate how we hope to achieve this.

It is now over 17 years since we sent the first signallers to the Falkland Islands and more than 6 since we first started operations in Bosnia. In the current climate of undermanning, the Corps cannot continue to support these commitments in the same way. In order to relieve overstretch and reduce tour intervals the Concepts Staff are working up a paper defining how commercialisation might relieve the burden once the initial deployment on an expeditionary operation has taken place and the environment can be considered benign. As far as force preparation is concerned, we need to evaluate the best way of supporting the Formation Readiness Cycle and understand the impact of initiatives such as Whole Fleet Management. We also need to take stock of our current systems and see how they can be made to provide support to operations for which they were never actually designed. The Strategic Defence Review redefined the capability requirements for the Army but without producing a single piece of new equipment for Royal Signals below the theatre level. We are therefore building a matrix that will allow us to show how the Corps' current capability maps onto the requirements of SDR. This will enable us to do two things: firstly, to identify the capability gaps and the most effective way of plugging them and, secondly, to prove conclusively the point beyond which the Corps can do no more.

However, the most far reaching piece of work in which your Force Development team, indeed all the Staff in HQ R SIGNALS, is engaged is a study recently initiated by SOinC(A) entitled the 'Corps After Next', known as 'CAN'. The aim of this study is to undertake a fundamental review of the structures which provide information services to commanders, set against a doctrinally coherent view of the capability requirements demanded by the nature of future conflict. The purpose of this work will be to ensure the Corps is well placed to meet the anticipated rapid changes in technology, the operational environment, and therefore commanders' information requirements. This is going to be a 'root and branch' review with no limitations on radical thinking. Although it is unlikely that we will be allowed to exceed current manpower ceilings, CAN presents an ideal opportunity to fill known capability gaps by 'respending' manpower where it is needed. The initial work of scoping the paper is now underway and SOinC(A) has recently approved the approach. The next step will be to engage the wider Corps in the work. This is for two reasons: firstly because the small number of staff in HQ R SIGNALS simply cannot give the study the detailed attention it deserves without support. Secondly, the experience of planning for SDR proved the importance of 'owning' the plan right across the Corps.

Consequently, any time now you can expect to begin to see a variety of the papers that will combine to make up the final CAN report. In addition, it is our aim to brief each command course passing through the Royal School of Signals on this work as a means of spreading the message. In the same vein, if you are holding a study day that you think will be of use to us for CAN - or would like us to give a presentation at one, please let us know. The alternate methods of keeping the Corps in touch with and contributing to CAN will include: Corps publications; Bi-annual FD Conferences and SOinC(A)'s Conference; Young Officer essays and Regimental sponsorship of 'specialist capability areas' . We are also exploring the possibility of a web page on Army Intranet and a briefing video. The aim is to produce an over-arching paper by Feb 00, with the main study being carried out by the various consultation groups, to which you will be invited to contribute, next summer in order to be able to report by Apr 01.

We recognise that there are a huge number of very searching questions which need examining - some of which may startle the occasional horse or two - no matter, unless we do so, we will not be in a position in the era of the Unified Communications System and the information systems applications which it will support, to provide the information services which our commanders require and which our soldiers aspire to deliver. Your input to this, individual or collective will be gratefully received in whatever form and our contact numbers are below. If all else fails, offer to come to Blandford and tell us where we've been going wrong all these years and should one of the horses I've managed to startle happen to be your own hobby-horse, please find the time to contribute your thoughts. As the saying goes, 'better a volunteer than a pressed man ' and if you don't bring your piece to the party willingly, we will just have to make our questions the subjects for the compulsory new 'All Ranks Prize Essay Competition' for the next decade.

In summary, we have undergone considerable organisational change over the last year, no doubt as many of you have done. With a new SOinC(A) who is keen to make an Army-wide contribution, life has very few chill moments! As FD Staff, we are conscious that we need to raise our profile within the Corps in addition to our external work, and be seen as the 'change agents' on behalf of those who will inherit the future. We seek to make this a collaborative approach and ask you to do your bit to contribute. Please invest in your future by getting involved in CAN.

ARMY TRAINING REGIMENT BASSINGBOURN

WELCOMES AND FAREWELLS

The never-ending turnaround of Staff continues with numerous welcomes and farewells. Welcome to Cpl Wayne Bramwell and Suzie, Sgt Craig 'After Shock' Purdon, as well as Capt Karl Jeeves and Lt Alex Clixby, from 1 Div and 2 Sigs respectively. Farewells go to Capt Ivan 'Nimda' Bates, Lt Andy 'The Flayster' Flay (who having failed Signals selection is returning to his native Infantry! – Thanks anyway Andy!) and Cpl Adrian 'Fadz' Fadzillah. Au Revoir to the numerous Staff who are posted internally to the Engineers and Infantry, see you in six months! In addition, congratulations must go to Cpls Scott McKenzie, Gaz 'HAPPY' Stoker and Gaz 'PIES' West on their selection for promotion to Sergeant and imminent/recent postings. With these happy additions and another in the pipeline the Squadron has achieved a phenomenal nine promotions from Corporal to Sergeant in the year 1999/2000, out of 29 Corporals.

THE VISIT OF HER ROYAL HIGHNESS, THE PRINCESS ROYAL - 29 OCTOBER 1999

On 29 October 1999, Bassingbourn was extremely proud to welcome Her Royal Highness, The Princess Royal. Although it was a visit to the entire Regiment, it was in Her Royal Highness' capacity as Colonel-in-Chief of the Corps, which made the event particularly poignant for the Permanent Staff of 1 Squadron. A busy programme was constructed with a view to giving Her Royal Highness a full overview of life at the ATR, emphasising the success of this all-arms environment.

HRH The Princess Royal is greeted by the Parade Commander Maj Rick Licence and Parade Sgt Maj Taff Jolly at the Passing Off Parade, ATR Bassingbourn 29 October 1999

LATE NEWS.....LATE NEWS.....LATE NEWS

After months of planning, the only thing that could go wrong did! The visit had to be delayed for an hour due to the Royal Helicopter Flight being grounded by bad weather. After numerous adjustments to the plan, Her Royal Highness arrived by helicopter to be greeted by the Master of Signals - Maj Gen I. O. J. Sprackling OBE, the Commanding Officer - Lt Col I. A. J. Condie and Aide De Camp - Capt Alun Crapper at the Officers' Mess. Despite the late arrival, Her Royal Highness carried on without missing a beat and the visit was eventually completely back on track. This did cause the proverbial fag packet to be torn up a few times, but due to the efforts of all involved things progressed smoothly. After a short Regimental brief from Maj Duncan Gregory R. ANGLIAN, Her Royal Highness proceeded to the most public part of her visit, the Passing Off Parade. The parade consisted of the three Troops and Platoons who had completed their recruit training with the Minden Band giving formal accompaniment. The parade was commanded by Maj Rick Licence, who has done this sort of thing before apparently, and WO2 SSM 'Taff' Jolly, both Corps members. Pride of place went to Bravo Troop, as the only Signallers on parade! The whole thing was watched by 700 friends family and permanent staff, giving that particular parade a special atmosphere. Under the watchful gaze of Capt Craig 'Bottle of Port' Thomson-Smith and Sgt Paula 'At least I got it right' Matheson, the Parade went perfectly for Bravo Troop, as did the Inspection.

Plenty of swagger and no fainting later, the prize winners were presented and the parade marched off to the proud applause of many an adoring parent. Congratulations to Sig Fox, for earning the coveted 'Best Recruit' award.

HRH the Princess Royal presents the prize for Best Recruit to Signaller Fox, Bravo Troop, 1 Training Squadron Royal Signals on her visit to ATR Bassingbourn 29 October 1999

Sig Ellis for 'Best at PT', Sig Maxwell for 'Best Shot' and last but by no means least Sig Pavitt for 'Best Endeavour'. All four looked suitably terrified as the RSM's eyes bore into them warning them not to get their personal drill wrong in front of Her Royal Highness. Congratulations also to Cpl Jim 'Skeletor' Berry on the presentation of his hard earned Long Service and Good Conduct Medal.

HRH The Princess Royal presents the LS&GC medal to Cpl Jim Berry, 1 Training Squadron Royal Signals on her visit to ATR Bassingbourn 29 October 1999

Following the parade Her Royal Highness moved to the Sergeant's Mess and was invited to a buffet lunch where a number of the Permanent Staff and their families were presented. A good cross section of the Regiment was there and despite the hectic timetable it was clear that all had thoroughly enjoyed meeting Her Royal Highness. The lunch had been preceded by a photograph with the members of the Mess and after lunch the visit changed pace and Her Royal Highness was conducted on a tour of training.

First on the agenda was a visit to the Small Arms Trainer. The initial brief was given by Capt 'Jock and Tanned' Boyle and this was followed by a demonstration of the usefulness of the SAT for recruit Skill At Arms training. The Troop on display was led by Capt Liz 'Jock and Not Tanned' Allan, ably assisted by Sgt Dave 'Er .... Jock and Not Tanned' Honeyman and the sharpshooters of Charlie Tp. The presentation covered various aspects of the SAT, including the numerous features that make the SAT especially good for Phase 1 training. Despite all of Capt Mick Boyle's efforts Her Royal Highness seemed interested throughout and clearly enjoyed meeting the recruits. The visit continued with Her Royal Highness visiting the Gymnasium to see displays by 28 Squadron Royal Engineers and C (Queens' Division) Company. 28 Squadron ran a PT display and highlighted the work of the Remedial staff in keeping wastage rates to a minimum. C (QD) Coy regularly run an open day for parents to come and see what recruits get up to at ATR Bassingbourn. Part of this is a light-hearted 'Clothes Show' style catwalk, where recruits display the uniform and equipment they get issued. The 'Clothes Show' was used as the basis for the C Company stand and Her Royal Highness actually WAS amused. Again, the Colonel in Chief met a mixture of permanent staff. Before leaving, Her Royal Highness visited the Regimental Church and spoke to representatives from the WRVS, Hive and of course the Padres! OC HQ Coy, Maj Graham Strettle MBE headed up the stand, pulling together the diverse range of welfare and support elements available to assist training. Her Royal Highness was extremely enthusiastic about recruit training and all it's key elements. All that met The Princess Royal were impressed by her broad knowledge and searching questions. This was the first Royal visit to Bassingbourn in 20 years and ran smoothly, in the main (!), thanks to the huge efforts of the organisers, Maj John Norris and WO2 (SSM) Tony 'Camera Shy' Slaney. A long, yet very successful day was excellently rounded off by a huge All Ranks party, organised by Maj Rick 'It's my party etc' Licence and WO2 SSM 'Taff' Jolly, who apparently did not have enough to do with heading up the parade! The entertainment was varied, with a Disco, live band and food for a thousand, but the star turn seemed to end up being provided by Capt Ivan 'Ivana' Bates and Maj John 'Joan' Norris.

1 SQUADRON ACHIEVEMENTS

Hockey - Despite the rigours of Phase 1 training, members of the Permanent Staff have had the opportunity to spread their wings even further, particularly in the field of sport. Capt Craig Thomson Smith and WO2 (SSM) Tony Slaney were amongst the Regimental team for the Divisional Hockey Championships. Only 30 minutes after thrashing 101 Regt RA by twelve goals to two in the Semi-Final, they beat AAC Harrogate 8-1 to retain the Divisional Cup. Well Done as well to Cpl Anne-Marie Ambury for her continued selection for the Corps Team.

Triathlon - Members of the Squadron took part in the Saffron Walden Triathlon, one of the last of the season. Amongst the notable achievements were Lt Kate 'Oh Well, Nothing Else To Do' Simmonds – First in her age group, as were Sgt Paula Matheson and Mrs Dawn Kidd. Capt Craig Thomson Smith was Third Male overall in the Sprint event, despite being a novice and Capt Mick Boyle was Third in the OAP age group!

Orienteering - In the early autumn, the Squadron entered the Regimental Orienteering Competition as reigning champions. With Capt Mick 'IronFist' Boyle, SSM Tony 'Just Follow Mick' Slaney, Capt Craig Thomspoon Sythe and Capt Alun 'Just Great' Crapper coming First, Second, Third and Fourth respectively, success in the team event was something of an inevitability. Capt Alun Crapper, Capt Mick Boyle and Lt Andy Flay came a credible fourth in the Army Night Orienteering competition, held at Bramley, near Reading. A team 'Harris Relay' event turned a simple event into a complex organisational exercise. All this on top of the whitewash in the Regimental Competition suggests great things for the future.

Charity Fundraising - Bravo Troop recently completed a gruelling Wheelchair Basketball competition raising over £1100 for The Great Britain Wheelchair Basketball Association. The money will be used to buy a specialist wheelchair for one of various teams supported by the charity.

EXERCISE ROADMASTER 1999

Ex Roadmaster 1999 is the Army's annual driving championship run by BAMA (British Army Motoring Association). This year it was held at Dalton Barracks in Abingdon Oxfordshire on 5-7 of November and attracted 89 crews. 70 (EY) Sig Sqn (V) entered two crews, Sgt Terry Hackett (navigator) with LCpl Tim Marsh (driver) and Sgt Daz Lane (navigator) with LCpl Jo Smith (driver). Both crews did very well over the five phases of the competition with little or no preparation and after a full day at work. The crews just managed to arrive and enter as the final briefings were taking place – this put them at a disadvantage as none had done anything like this before. The first nights' navigation was literally in the dark with one aim – and that was to finish the whole event. The main setback suffered by both crews was navigational, but that comes with practice. Main incidents that are worthy of note are the slight disagreement that Tim had between his landrover and a tree-this meant a few minor modifications to the headlight and the wing before they could continue on the second night navigation! – and Daz's knack for not quite knowing where they were when it mattered most! Meanwhile, Terry ensured his team was flat out, shining his torch on Tim's foot – was it truly 'pedal to the metal'? Jo had a refusal at the last when she got stuck sideways on a slope that took a bit of coaxing to get out of. The whole weekend was very well organised and loads of fun. Hopefully we'll be at it again in the near future and we will have a difference target to aim for, beating our results of 30th by Terry and Tim and 58th by Daz and Jo.

FIRE WALKING

Mrs Jennifer Lane Walking on Fire for Charity

'Is our mum mad? Asked posters around the village. Here I am, Jennifer Lane married to a soldier Sgt Daz Lane PSI/T (yes! I must be mad!!), mother to Alexander, 8 and Kathryn 6, about to walk over 20ft of red hot embers for charity. The idea was to raise money for a local Hospice for the shortest sponsored walk in memory. Who could refuse to sponsor me? Certainly not the members of 70 (EY) Sig Sqn the members of RHQ and any other Army personnel my husband came into contact with. With my efforts for backing around the village where we live and the generous TA, I raised £600 for the most breathtaking few moments of my life. Yes, I walked-quite slowly really-over 20 foot of red hot charcoal embers one dark evening in October without any hesitation or prodding with a big stick. I just would like to say thank you for all their support. Maybe I can convince someone from the TA to join me when I walk over 2000 broken bottles next year!!

EXERCISE PHOENIX COCKNEY II
23 AUGUST TO 3 SEPTEMBER 1999
OTHERWISE KNOWN AS THE COAST TO COAST WITH ALTITUDE
by Sgt Mike Weeks

My first taste of what was to come was when the QM, Maj Aspinall volunteered me to take photographs on the walk, and to do this I would have to walk the whole route, not my favoured way of getting the job done.

Day One was fairly flat, the weather was good and we made swift progress with no real idea of what was to come.

Day Two saw us walking up Red Pike, we could see the sea behind us, although we had already covered about 25 miles.

The Walkers Sunning Themselves

Day Three saw a dramatic change in the weather, it became cold, very wet and visibility was very limited. According to rumour we made the top of Hellvellyn and then descended down Striding Edge. Luckily the fog was down and we could not see where we were going. The usefulness of GPS was becoming apparent. At the end of the day we realised that the QM had slightly modified the route to take in any extra features and high points that he could find.

Day Four was like Day Three, wet cold and high places to walk to, and at this point the expression 'Ground Hog Day' was starting to be heard. We walked up to and then along 'High Street', GPS and maps were not the most accurate and the path down was difficult to find. When we came down we had a long walk along side Haweswater reservoir. Thank you for the interesting route John, still the beer tasted good at the end.

Day Five was a lot gentler on the feet and we managed to follow a disused railway track for most of the day.

Day Six was different again, the ground was soft and when we descended from the Nine Standards it became like a marsh, and this was the diversionary route because of erosion!. The second half of the day we passed many old mining sites, ending the day in Reeth, our longest day of walking.

Day Seven a Rest day, Hurrah!!

Day Eight the route passed through Richmond and finished at Catterick Bridge, well known ground for most of us.

Day Nine we meet two Septuagenarians who are not doing this for the first time. One of the things about this walk is the amount of people doing it. Some do it over two years, a week at a time, but most try to do it in two weeks.

Day Ten we join up with the Cleveland way and it feels like we are on The 4 Peaks challenge, where did all those big hills come from ? The day ends nicely in the grounds of the Red Lion Inn, our camping site.

Day Eleven we take another of our deviations to walk into Goathland, the village where Heartbeat is set, adding a bit of distance. We then took the train to Grosmont for the next morning start, bringing us back onto the route.

Day Twelve the final day, Robin Hoods Bay here we come. We sighted the sea at 14.11 hrs, but it was another 90 minutes before we could dip our feet in. A real sense of achievement was felt by all as the end.

The walkers, Lt Col Turner, Maj Aspinall, WO2 (RQMS) John Paterson, SSgt John Sadler, SSgt Jase Barsley, SSgt Tommy Burns. Sgt Phil Green, Sgt Mike Weeks and Cpl Al Hyland are all grateful for the support that was given from the members of 212 Field Ambulance, SSgt Neil Fawcett, Kaz Houghton, Roz Tinker and our own Chef, Barnsey, without whose help the walk would have been much more difficult.

Time has flown past since the presentation of our new Colours by the SOinC. Much staff work has been done by SHQ, along with the odd presentation or two by the Ops team, Capt Roddy 'To be sure, to be sure' Wilson, WO2 FofS 'Crow' Marshall and WO2 (YofS) 'What have I done for all this abuse?' Arthurs. Congratulations to the FofS, YofS and to Cpl 'Richie' Syme (AGC) who have displayed marvellous E&E skills over 15 or more years, having never been caught. For this display Brig Shaw awarded them their LS & GCs after the Squadrons' Kosovo medal parade. Meanwhile the 2IC, Capt 'Dr Evil' Hendricks has been locked in discussion (battle) with the understanding and helpful G6 Land, who are ably assisting the formation of the new unit by providing an inexhaustible supply of manpower and kit. The AO, Capt 'Where's my crippled fat dog?' Richards, as OC rear party is also the manager of the Wives Home Info Pack (WHIP), 228 day care centre, Xmas party arranger and in between breaths is also in meeting with contractors who are to build new garages, etc (maybe by the next millennium perhaps? Wait out…).

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt 'I like leather catsuits' Day
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Dicky Dirk Diggler' Dyer

The last few months have been a busy and turbulent time for the Troop, with the lads working hard converting from Airborne Role to the somewhat different role of Mechanised warfare, plus the added bonus of an operational tour of Bosnia in December! The aforementioned hierarchy with the assistance of Sgts Sid 'I built sangers and dug' James and 'Cuddly Craig' Dudley, have adapted well to the changes and are leading the Troop into the next millennium.

New arrivals to the Troop include, fresh from the factory Sigs Ricky 'Living La Vida Loca' Martin, Phil 'NPT' Williams and Chris 'McGobb' McGeorge. Also welcome to Cpl 'Gaseous Clay' Austin from Radex Tp in Blandford, and a couple of infiltrators moving across from Bongo Tp, namely LCpl Rick Turner and Sig Chris Kelly – Rutherford, both of whom have much to teach us. Sadly the Troop have lost a few good men in the form of LCpls Simon 'Tapeworm' Archibald, Dan 'OZ' Pearson and the surrealist Sig Ken 'You'll never take me alive' Dodd, all of whom are now pursuing new lives in Civvy Street.

Even with the workload within the Troop, we have still managed to put out an outstanding performance into the Super Tom competition, securing five out of the top six positions within the Squadron. The top position going to Sig Brett 'Heed' Appleyard. Surprise promotions followed the prizegiving by the new Brigade Commander, Brigadier Cooper. Those lucky winners who received their first tape were Sigs Andy 'Gurung' Allen, Brett 'Heed' Appleyard, 'Dangerous' Armstrong and last but not least Keith 'Apples and Pears' Williams. The Troop now looks forward to the impending tour of Bosnia and the opportunity to excel on operations again. Albeit under the guise of 228 Sig Sqn.

BRAVO TROOP

Tp Comd Capt 'I'm off jumping' Wong
Tp SSgt Sgt 'Do you like my bike' Wilcox

Still recovering after the turbulence induced by several factors, namely the re-roling, the fire, the decorating, and the up and coming tour (not forgetting pre-tour leave) Bravo Tp is preparing to be split to the four winds, for several months anyway! Into the fray we welcome Cpl 'Jo' Biddle from 16 Sigs, Cpl 'Griff' Griffiths from 35 Sigs and Sig 'Geordie' Wharton from 7 Sigs. We say farewell to Sig (now LCpl) 'Jay Dine Bar' Dine who has gone back to 'skool' to re-trade to technician. He seems to think that techs earn more by looking at boxes (most do just that – so the FofS says).

It has been a whirlwind of UNTAT trg combined with numerous courses for members of the Troop that are required for the upcoming deployment. Some people have not been seen for months, missing persons have been informed.

The hotly contested Super Tom competition somehow went to an A Tp bod, with the second place going to Sig Mick 'I shall smite ye down!' Allan. Third place went to a former B Tp member Sig 'Wee Jock' Kelly-Rutherford (who had been coaching the winner Sig Appleyard). A big 'At Last' to Sig Matt 'Righto' Girx who finally picked up his first tape after the Super Tom, and congrats to LCpl 'Taff' Davies for promotion to Corporal and a double whammy to LCpl John Attwell for promotion to Corporal and on the birth of his son Josh. The Troop wishes Nicola and Josh well.

It is evident that the Christmas and the millennium celebrations are a big draw to stay at home, on the eve of deployment, Cpl 'It's Mine' Langan snapped two fingers playing football in the gym and has opted for an operation in hospital to pin them instead of Op Palatine, Sig Yates awaits the verdict on his twisted ankle and OpsO recently proposed, we can't understand why she said Yes, with the hope that the sympathy vote would allow him to stay behind.

YofS WO2 (YofS) Neil Stewart

It often seems like there is no peace for the wicked! After a successful Summer Camp in early September at Penhale, Cornwall the Squadron deployed down to St Martins Plain Camp near Lydd and Hythe ranges to conduct the 2 (NC) Sig Bde Regional Signal Squadron Field Firing Battle Camp. Despite the torrential rain for the first two days, things did brighten up with all personnel completing live firing at stages 1 - 5. October and November are traditionally busy months for the whole unit and this year was no exception. On the 19 October most of the Squadron deployed for the State Visit of the President of the People's Republic of China. The visit was followed by the State Opening of Parliament and the Remembrance Day Cenotaph Parade in central London. Of course, the Squadron isn't all work and no play.

The WOs' and Sgts' Mess in Chelsea closed down over three years ago and currently the SNCOs in the Squadron are affiliated to 36 Sig Regt (V) at Ilford, East London. Commitments aside, most SNCOs hadn't been to Ilford for some time, however, that was about to end. A Regimental Dinner was held at Ilford on 6 November with WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton being an excellent host (as usual). A good and memorable night was had by all from Chelsea and we look forward to returning in February for the dining out of the RSM. Sgt 'Chalky' White should be mentioned and remembered for rounding off his first mess dinner with a souvenir - namely the RSM's spurs. Despite the good intent by 'Chalky' Xmas duties have been slightly easier to fill - thanks 'Chalky'.

A special mention goes out to LCpl Greg Burgess (formally Sig Burgess) on his recent and well earned promotion. A sad, but temporary farewell, is extended to Mr Andy Smith the Squadron's Stores Officer, who has had his call up to the Reserves in Bosnia. Andy, who is not often seen to move at light speed, deployed in October with the UET - so rumour has it.

Finally, the Squadron's sporting year was rounded off at the end of November with the annual Sports Lunch. Held in our own Squadron function room, the Bruno Bar, the event proved very successful. The winners of the various awards were:

Sports Personality of the Year - LCpl Brian Stewart
Best Team Performance - Sqn football team
Best Sporting Individual - Sig Ford
Most Improved Person - Mr Terry 'I am thin' Marsh
Annual Challenge Shield Winner - Radio Tp

A special thanks to the organisers, Cpl Paul Bone and LCpl Brian Stewart for pulling together a great function.

RADIO TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Andy Carroll
Tp Sgt Sgt Simon Schofield

With the imminent departure of the Tp Comd, Sgt Si Schofield will be taking up the reins and that could see a few field promotions, well at least until the new Tp Comd arrives in February. With all the members of the Troop moving up one place Sig 'I know everything' McGregor thinks he is a Lance Corporal. Sorry 'Mac' think again. The Troop would like to congratulate LCpl 'Billy Whiz' Pond and his wife Sarah on the birth of their son Jason. Apparently Sig Jason is already dug in at a depth position and will only drink compo milk. We also need to say hello to Sig Toby 'Wait for it' Green who arrived straight from the factory poor chap and goodbye and farewell to Sig now Mrs Helen 'Sid' Keaton, who after coming off the promotion board, would not sign back on again. Not to forget Capt 'Can't make my own leaving do Buckaroo' Carroll who are both leaving us for Civ Div. Good luck both of you. So let's see what we have been up to:

BATTLE CAMP

Yes, it was that time of year again! From 27 September until the 8 October 238 (London) Sig Sqn organised the 2 (NC) Bde Battle Camp Ex Bruno Warrior 99 at Lydd and Hythe Range complex Folkestone. No1 Dress uniform and bulled ammo boots were swapped for Combat 95 or in some cases combat 1895 and boots combat high. The Battle Camp was divided in two identical one week packages to allow the shift workers to get some fresh air and for once be soldiers. Under the watchful eye of Sgt Si 'There can be only one' Schofield and SSgt Si 'My Train set and I'm the driver' Hadley much shouting and stabbing dummies occurred. Although the blood bags were a nice touch it was a pain spending the rest of the week in red combats. A special thanks to LCpl Bri 'Love me love my PTI vest' Stewart who was in charge of remedial aggression training, he managed to get the sections down to a more manageable size.

SSgt Si Hadley impersonation of an officer, or is it Capt 'Cowboy' Andy Carroll impersonating an officer

The week then progressed onto all stages of Training the Battle Shot, we learnt that the rifle was a useful tool not just a club. After everyone passed their APWT we moved on to more interesting COIN Ranges where special mention must go to LCpl Nick 'Almost scared that target' McGregor and Sig Toby 'What's a target then?' Green, who on the pistol Ambush Range (after all the people who had been through and left the car untouched) managed to hit the rear windscreen and the sunroof. Watch out Bodie and Doyle! Capt Andy 'McStab' Carroll who managed to fire more 9mm rounds than any one else, even though he was Range Staff and after having an interesting career doing everything the Army does, reckons that they don't make smulies like they used to. Also for some reason on the night shoot not one of the trip flares he had set went off. Finally, LCpl Bri 'Around my bronzed body once' Stewart who even wore his blue PTI tracksuit top instead of a combat jacket whilst acting as Range Safety staff just in case anyone forgot which course he had just been on. At the end of the week we were treated to a barbecue in the rain and a Platoon Smoker where we were able to get our own back on the Instructors.

CEREMONIALS

The Winter Ceremonial season was with us once again with a State Visit of the President of the Peoples Republic of China, Remembrance Sunday and the State Opening of Parliament. We also carried out Car Calling for the State Visit and Diplomatic Reception. Special mention this season goes to the following: LCpl Greg ' Quick Brew Orders' Burgess who thought the coach with the Crown Jewels in was the Queen and then reported that fact on the 'net'. This caused a small flap with the senior Officers as it meant HM was ten minutes early. He then failed to report when the Queen did finally pass through, not just the State Opening but the State Visit as well. A visit to the opticians is recommended. Also Sig Toby 'Don't like' Green who does not think he needs to salute anyone while standing on the Mall as he is too important, a mistake which cost him dearly in the bar. Final mention to Cpl Barry 'Calling all cars' Gibson who managed to tear himself away from his Pan European motorcycle long enough to work the Diplomatic Reception. We were amazed he still had Blues!

MIKE TROOP
Tp Comd Capt (TOT) Bob Nicol
Tp SSgt SSgt Andy Cannadine

There have been no new arrivals to Mike Tp but we do say farewell to Cpl 'Geordie' McNeillie who is posted to Cyprus - an honest day's work awaits! The Troop wishes a speedy recovery to Sgt Chris Jacobs after his recent operation. Radio Sect has been kept reasonably gainfully employed covering events such as the State Visit of the President of China etc. PA Sect has been similarly employed covering the annual HCMR Summer Camp at Bodney, the Royal Artillery Remembrance Parade and also the Sandhurst Passing Out Parade. ACISG Sect - The following personnel are due congratulations for their successful completion of the PC Maintenance course at the Royal British Legion College in Tidworth - Sgt Twizell, Sig Ford and Sigs Daw and McGuire. The course has been undertaken as part of the ongoing process of cross-training Mike Tp personnel. ACISG remains extremely busy with the current Y2K Project. Congratulations to Sig Ford for coming off the promotion board and also to LCpl 'Smudge' Smith on successfully passing his T2.

On a sporting front, congratulations are due to Sig Ford on his selection for the Combined Services Cricket Team, currently on their Winter Tour of Australia and the Tp football Team who had a convincing 'Derby' victory over Radio Tp during the recent Inter Troop 5-a-Side Competition. Battle Camp - Throughout the two week period of Ex Bruno Warrior almost all of the Troop attended in some capacity or other. An enjoyable week of interesting and varied range work was capped off by some excellent APWT scores.

EXERCISE SIDLAW COCKNEY 25-29 OCTOBER 1999
by Sig Pearce

Ex Sidlaw Cockney was a trekking/mountaineering expedition held in the areas of Glen Coe, and the West Highlands of Loch Arkaig in sunny Scotland. The aim of the exercise was to place young soldiers in a challenging environment and to help develop self reliance and team spirit in the group. The expedition was organised and led by WO2 (SSM) Ewan Hall and the 2IC of the party Cpl 'Geordie' McNeillie. A total of eight members from the Squadron took part and included LCpl Brian Stewart, LCpl Smudge Smith, Sig Stu Parker, Sig 'I'm the Daddy' McFaul and Sig 'Mac' McGregor.

We started off early on Monday morning with the gruelling 12 hour drive to Scotland where we were to set up camp in a small village called Invercoe, a few miles from Glen Coe. We finally made it, after having the number plate fall off the Fiesta, and then Cpl 'Speedy Gonzalez' McNeillie getting a puncture en route. We set up the four tents where we would stay for the first couple of days before heading to Loch Arkaig. We all woke the next morning eager to start the ridge walk along Aonach Eagach Ridge, but that morning, some of the breakfast we were going to cook had somehow mysteriously vanished, or had been eaten by the haggis monster! The monster didn't bother us and we were eager to get up onto the ridge which was approximately 3000 ft high. When we got to the top or what we thought was the top, the ridge started becoming progressively harder to climb and very slippery too. At one point of the climb Sig 'Mac' McGregor, a part time climber himself, started hooking up ropes to support us on really difficult parts or the ridge. The rope didn't give LCpl 'Smudge' Smith much confidence as his cries of, 'This is ..... well dangerous,' could be heard throughout the Scottish Highlands. However, we all managed to make it across to the other side of the mountain and down to a safe level where we found the mini bus to take us back to the campsite.

Up early again the next morning, we drove to our next location for the exercise which was by Loch Arkaig some 17km NW of Fort William. We set about preparing our kit for a 48hr trek and night navigation exercise. Unfortunately the group would be hit by a number of small injuries which resulted in the trek being curtailed. Sadly, we lost one of the group, Sig 'Stu' Parker who picked up a back injury. It was decided by WO2 'Ewan' Hall that Sig Parker should go back to the location of the mini bus and camp it out until we arrived back two days later. Not wanting to stay alone, Sig 'I'm the Daddy' McFaul offered his services and volunteered to stay behind with Sig Parker, so the rest of us could carry on with the trek. The delay in returning Sig Parker to the mini bus put the group behind schedule and with darkness and mist falling across the Glen, the way ahead looked very ominous. How far was the bothy and could the group cross the now swollen streams? Then the rain came belting down and it became even harder to see where we were. Eventually we hit the bothy bang on target, however, LCpl 'Bri' Stewart had injured his ankle going down a rabbit hole. Things seemed to be going from bad to worse but it was a great relief to be under shelter.

Well, the next day we had planned to trek along the North side of Loch Arkaig with each of the group taking turn in group control and navigation. Soon after we left the bothy we were faced with an arduous climb which placed 'Bri' Stewart in even more pain. At this point the decision had to be made whether to carry on or bring an end to the exercise. After WO2 'Ewan' Hall's sobering comments about risk and safety the decision was made to get back to lower ground and to re-join Sigs 'Ben' McFaul and 'Stu' Parker. That night we went back to the campsite in Glen Coe before the 12hr drive back down to London. Even though the expedition ended before it should have, everyone achieved something and found out a lot about themselves. The ridge was hard and quite challenging whilst the trek, in appalling weather, proved how important it was to work as a team.

OSCAR TROOP
Tp Comd Maj (TFC) Dave Gilchrist
Tp SSgt SSgt Karen Ripley

This has been a fairly quiet period for the workaholics of Oscar Tp. It has to be said the lads and ladies of the Troop have just got over Troop and Squadron Summer camps respectively as well as the mandatory two week jolly that is called BATTLE CAMP! It has to be agreed that Oscar Tp as well as not only having the best operators within the Squadron, also have the best soldiers. Congratulations go out to Sgt 'Chalky' White, from the Troop, for having the best section for the second successive year on Battle Camp. The old cliché leading from the front springs to mind, however 'Chalky' being 'Chalky', just threatened his section with lots of fictitious, unnecessary and mindless violence if they did not comply with his wishes.

Only a couple of new arrivals to mention, welcome aboard Sgt 'Lindy' Lawrence from SHAPE, welcome to the real world, also to LCpl 'Kara' Hayhurst from 15 Sig Regt. There has been a few internal moves on the CO4 front with Inga Thompson moving to the dizzy heights of DPRC, replacing Liz Clarke, who has moved to the very secretive world of the ADA.

The Troop came a very creditable second in the Inter Troop sports competition. It should be noted that the rather hastily arranged football tournament went a long way to deciding the outcome of the trophy, bearing in mind Oscar Tp could not field a team on the day of the competition.

CITY OF SHEFFIELD REMEMBRANCE PARADE

With a distinct lack of young officers in HQ Sqn the responsibility of leading the parade was handed over to Capt Simon 'Girly Trousers' Kirkham of 64 Sqn. With a day's training by the RSM and considerable guidance by WO1 Kev Gater, he remembered enough of his drill to start and stop in the right places and soon found himself being followed through the streets of Sheffield (with confidence or curiosity?) by a combination of HQ Sqn, 64 Sqn and numerous Veterans Associations and local Military Units. Whilst the Parade passed without incident, Sgt Sally 'I've always got my eye on the old men' Burton received special commendation from the CO for the prompt and thoroughly professional life-saving first-aid she administered to a Burma Star Association member, who suffered a heart attack during the lunch at Manor Top. Thanks to her actions the guest is now recovering - well done. Amid all this excitement the RAF Association's 'subtle' fly-past (in two Sierras and a Morris Minor) almost went unnoticed. However, their argument that this warranted a free lunch did not. Needless to say plans are already afoot to install Barrage Balloons and Akk Akk guns in time for their appearance next year.

SIGNALLER GOES ALL OUT FOR CHARITY IN NEW YORK

Sig Stuart George went all out to be up there with the fastest when he competed in the New York Marathon recently. He gave a very creditable performance and raised £3000 for charity. He has a number of charitable events planned for the year 2000 including getting the officers to run a half marathon for charity!! Keep up the good work Georgie Boy! The Squadron organised a surprise birthday party for WO2 (SSM) Jim Batchelor on 4 December. No expense was spared in producing a wonderful celebratory bash which left the OLD boy speechless. He was presented with a number of gifts including Grecian 2000 and Philosan tablets (which fortify the over forties). We've also said a sad farewell to the outgoing OC, Maj Kevin Flanagan who left the Squadron in January to join Sheffield UOTC, 'I've really enjoyed my time at 46, although some of the jokes that have been played have almost sent me grey.' Keep in touch, Sir.

REGIMENTAL SAAM 99 - WARCOP

It's been 16 years since 46 Sig Sqn last won the Regimental SAAM trophy, so to honour the end of the millennium the Squadron team went flat out - and succeeded, a great tribute goes to the time and effort given by all those involved. Overall the team had a mixed bag of results, but some fine performances were put in by Sig James Wheatley who won the Young Soldier trophy and Lt Chris Kinvig (congratulations on the promotion!) who won the best individual shot on the CQBR range. It is also worth mentioning Sgt Karen Kavanagh who unofficially won the best female shot.

Sqn Comd Maj Andrew Smith
SSM WO2 (SSM) Mick Rooney

Since Camp 99, the Squadron have been settling into some form of normality after the large influx of new faces over the summer months. Or as Capt Les 'Speak for yourself' Jordan put it, '...a small element of the Squadron has struggled to grasp the concept of training'. As well as taking the 'Best Section in Defence' Prize in the Regimental Field Firing weekend at Warcop (does a 21 year old subaltern count as a 'young soldier'?), we've been away on Squadron training and putting up the Christmas decorations at the Sheffield station with frantic enthusiasm.

Congratulations to Lt Andy 'Thumper' Middleton-Powell on his promotion - the best things come to those who wait! It is with mixed feelings that we say farewell to 2Lt Richard 'Glutton for punishment' Grieve, who leaves us at Christmas to head off to RMA Sandhurst to pursue a regular career. We wish him all the best and anticipate his return as our Adjt before we know it. We also say a temporary farewell to 2Lt Tom 'waxy smooth legs' Howes who is leaving us for nine months to teach in rural Uganda. With £3000 to raise to get there we'll be glad to seen the back of his sponsorship forms, but thank him in advance for his amusing sponsored leg-wax. Unfortunately this cunning plan to (temporarily) avoid his mess bill, has been spotted.

87 (CITY OF NOTTINGHAM) SIGNAL SQUADRON (V)
Sqn Comd Maj David Tomlinson
SSM WO2 (SSM) Nigel Caldicott

Since the return from Annual Camp in Cornwall the Squadron has been kept busy. On Friday 15 October we deployed on Ex Autumn Belle 1, sending detachments to York and Bicester. The exercise went extremely well, fully achieving its aims. Since then the Squadron has participated in the Regimental field firing exercise at Warcop. (SEE BELOW!!!) and has continued to train towards Bounty. Two members of the Squadron were successful on the recent TCB held at Chilwell. Congratulations to OCdt Adrian Matthews, who has recently returned from Namibia, and OCdt Simon Young. Unfortunately Simon Young immediately fell foul of SSgt Stan ' Go Away I'm the SQMS' Ross, but we are sure that they will both soon get over it. Finally, very many congratulations to SSgt Roy Broughton on his recent marriage to Carmel. We wish them all the very best.

REGIMENTAL FIELD FIRING WEEKEND - WARCOP

With so many of our gladiators involved in running ranges, the Squadron started the Regimental Field Firing Weekend in need of inspiration, or indeed hidden talent. The OC, Maj David Tomlinson, was therefore press ganged into firing, which will teach him to do the rifle APWT 'for a bit of fun' (We all know he can't hit anything with his pistol!). It was also a chance for the new Squadron members, who recently transferred from 3 WFR to strut their (infantry) stuff. The bar the previous evening rang with cries of, 'But I was the Int Sgt!', 'More in the Sigs platoon, really,' and 'Did I tell you I was in the Battalion clothing stores?'

True to type, LCpl 'Twinkle-Toes' Hammett managed to complete the entire CQB range twice, avoiding both the stream, the mud and all the puddles. When challenged for his low score, he patiently explained that whilst he shoots rifles for a living (he tests weapons at Royal Ordnance, Nottingham as his day job), they are usually clamped in a vice! As befits the OC, he made a more stately procession up the range, as he discovered that if you hit the target on its first exposure, there was no need for 'dicking around in the undergrowth'. Mild mannered tech LCpl Pete Magas surprised everyone with his Warface, and aggressive bayonet play! Unfortunately, most of the lithe, fit, enthusiastic young soldiers still had a bit of work to do on their marksmanship principles. Only one of the newest members of the Squadron got through. Sig 'FNG' Tester, fresh from his recruits course, with a creditable score too, well done! One or two were not quite so young or fleet of foot. First amongst equals was SSgt (SQMS) Stan 'I'm too old for all this' Ross. This meant we needed a little assistance in the admin department, and WO2 (RQMS) Gary Cundy kindly delivered our lunch. Thanks RQ! So, the most overpaid infantry section of all time donned Combat Body Armour (When did we start using this then?) and Kevlar helmets (not steel anymore?). Sgt H 'It's MY fire team' Hallam was nominated as 2IC, and we commenced the 300m crawl through the obligatory water filled ditch, just as it came on to rain. The live attack was exhilarating, and quite a relief when it started. Afterwards, it was decided that in a close match, the fig 11s lost 2-1 on aggregate.

The now incredibly wet, and decidedly brown coloured section then arrived at the IBSP, very tight for time. In gathering rain and failing light LCpl Pete Magas put up an excellent score, which not only won him the prize for best IBSR shot, but helped the Squadron to win the event. Later that evening, we caught up with the remainder of the Squadron, which thanks to the patience of the conducting officer, Maj Rod Lingard, everyone passed, including our resident New Zealander, LCpl George 'Not the same as the Steyr' Stephenson It also confirmed that the Squadron 'most in need of practice' shot was Cpl Heather 'Six Goes' Blair. This immediately allowed the retirement of the older and non the wiser, who retired to soak their arthritic limbs, and make sure that there were sufficient zimmer frames for the journey back from the bar. The now rejuvenated section battled on through the Small Arms; Trainer, Night shoot and Section in Defence shoots, under the watchful eye of newly appointed team manager, Capt Ken 'geographically embarrassed' Rustidge. The nomination for the 'most gopping rifle' contest was close, but the 'Jammiest Begger' went to the OC, who gallantly offered to lend his rifle to Sgt Helen 'I've got to clean this!' Mountney for the falling plate. Thanks to the hard work of all the range staff, it was an exciting and rewarding weekend. Whilst top honours went elsewhere (congratulations 46, watch out next year), we proved by taking one event that we are capable of winning, and have a good base to build on for the future.

RALEIGH INTERNATIONAL EXPEDITION TO NAMIBIA
28 JUNE 1999 - 9 SEPTEMBER 1999
OCdt Adrian Matthews 38 (City of Sheffield) Signal Regiment (V)

In the spring of 1998 I was selected to take part in a Raleigh International Expedition (formerly Operation Raleigh) to Namibia. My next step was to confront the challenge of fund raising the £3000 needed to secure my place and start to plan my vaccinations and purchase my kit (thanks to the help of 87 Sig Sqn this was made much easier). Little did I know what was in store for me as I prepared to embark on my first journey to the African continent. It was to be the greatest experience of my life. I was going to Namibia; a country six times the size of England and populated by the same number of people as we have students (1.6 million). Its climate is very hot throughout the day, but can fall dramatically to minus temperatures in the evening. I was brimming with excitement, for I was not only going to visit a new country, but work within its culture; alongside fellow venturers from all backgrounds in Britain, and Namibians that live on the bread line day in day out.

At 10am on 20 June, our South African Airways Boeing 747 touched down in Cape Town. The opening of the plane door signified two things; my first footsteps in the Southern Hemisphere, and a sudden realisation that Africa is not always blisteringly hot. Within seconds I was drenched to the bone, as we were pounded by a torrential rainstorm. I then ascended the stairs to the bus where I was confronted by a crisp air-conditioned wind. The result was a shivering first memory of Africa not much different to that of a British winter. The bus journey took us up the West Coast of South Africa, to its border with Namibia where the bus stopped and we climbed off. At this point I wasn't entirely sure what I should have been doing, as I did not know any of the staff who were there to guide us. I arrived at the entry point to Namibia with the other eighty or so venturers in the same uncertain position. I followed the queue and had my passport stamped as previous. At the end of the counter there was a man who looked British, but I hadn't seen before. I stopped and he asked me to hand over my passport. I promptly kicked up a fuss and demanded to see some ID. At that point, after attracting the attention of passport control and the others in the queue, I realised I had been arguing with the expedition leader, the man who was in ultimate control of my life for the next eleven weeks. I apologised and handed over my passport.

I arrived at field base just after witnessing an African sunrise over the surrounding mountains. it was a simple place with a large storeroom, large main hall, an office, basic shower and toilet facilities. The toilets were considerably different to the Royal Doulton we all know and love from back home. They consisted of a 3m deep pit with a concrete slab placed over the top; this slab had a little circular hole to allow the passage of waste material. It became an acquired art to use the 'long drop' toilets, and on a regular basis we would see people exiting with very red and sweaty faces, having adopted a far too strenuous position. Throughout the first day, the method for using the toilet was subject to a lot of thought and discussion, the conclusion being the squat; which gave a good sense of security and balance.

After adjusting our domestic skills, we were given a full briefing on the project sites available during the expedition. Progressively, everyone found out their allocation. I was delighted when my name was called out and I had been given the 'Mpungo school project'. There were a total of eight venturers, a project manager, a medic, two Namibian builders and a driver. Who would travel half the length of Namibia to make a start on a brick built school in a secluded village just south of the Angolan border. We were all eager, but before we could get on our way, we were to spend four days at field base training for the African bush. The eight of us were then shown to the tent, that would be our home for the four training days and the 21-day phase. The training consisted of basic first aid, basic signalling, camp craft, navigation, cultural awareness and drills to avoid being bitten by snakes or scorpions. The latter of which came in very handy on my second phase. The four days culminated in a practise trek over night, through the local hills. This gave me the opportunity to truly appreciate the beauty of the Southern Cross and surrounding stars. The moon was full and the stars bright, making visibility comparable to a crisp winter day in Britain. The other comparison being the temperature, which fell dramatically to cause a glistening frost on the surrounding hillside. After warming up and savouring the burnt porridge breakfast, we returned to field base, to make our final preparations before leaving.

At 5 o'clock the next morning we were up, loading the truck that would carry our supplies and us for the next day and a half. I sat on the truck for hours staring into the wilderness and contemplating what lay ahead, for at this point I had only experienced westernised Namibia; Namibia South of the vet line. At dusk that evening, after seeing endless straight roads that appeared to carry on forever, the vehicle stopped. We had arrived at the vet line. A fence that stretches for hundreds of miles from east to west, put in place during the South African occupation, and designed to keep diseased cattle of the North, away from healthy cattle in the South. The line also signifies a change from brick white washed homes with electricity and sanitation, to traditional African homes, that consist of straw huts with no power supply and near non-existent sanitation. We passed through the military checkpoint with no problems and immediately I saw 'the real Africa'. The contrast was amazing, we had seen housing with satellite dishes and telephones on one side, and within 100yds there were families cooking on open fires and walking around bare foot. The sun went down and we arrived at a campsite that would be our home for the night. The next day I was to arrive at the school site where I would make my first contact with people of the Ruquangali tribe.

A week before arrival the foundations had been marked out, which gave us confidence to start straight away. We had been digging for around fifteen minutes when a large crowd of locals came over to the site, initially there was a very strange feeling as they stood around us, but soon we realised why they were there. After taking possession of our tools, they proceeded to dig frantically in rotation with us, for the next four and a half hours, after which we completed the foundations of the school. This was the furthest ahead any school project had been after the first day, and it was mainly thanks to the community spirit of the locals. The group of us continued the building until the fifth course of bricks had been laid; it was then left for the other phases to finish off over the eleven-week period. Over all the school had progressed in leaps and bounds with us succeeding our three-week goals by far. By completing the phase ahead of schedule, we were able to mix with the community more, this came in the form of going to a local church, teaching the children who would benefit from the school and having a discussion with the village head people. The school was finally completed and opened by the British High Commissioner, after three phases and several cases of malaria, none of which occurred on my phase.

I returned to the change over point, once again on the back of the truck. Unfortunately the journey was marred by a break down that left the truck stranded for 24 hours, it also meant that we were late, and would have to leave after being back for only four hours. Before I knew it I was with a new group of people, on a new phase. I was travelling this time in Land Rovers up to the far North Western border of Namibia, to trek through the Baynes Mountains that run parallel with the Kunene river and the Angolan border. For seventeen days we would be self-sufficient in the secluded Himba region of Namibia. The initial Land Rover journey took us to a town called Epuwo, which was to be the last major stop off point before arrival in the Baynes. Our first job was to allocate food and team kit; this came as a surprise to many of the group as they had never carried substantial weight before. The complaints prompted an assessment of all personal kit, with the aim of ensuring no extra weight was to be carried. At this point my one luxury for the phase was discovered, a bottle of Aqua Di Gio, the rest of the group were shocked, but saw the error of their ways on realising the benefits of smelling fine. It became a popular ritual for the bottle to be passed around after washing. Once all the kit was allocated and packed ready, we set off for the final 6-hour leg, this involved three hours of tarmac road and then three hours of harsh terrain that even the Land Rovers struggled with. We arrived at the drop off point, unloaded our kit and watched the Land Rover return to Epuwo. At this point I felt the sudden realisation that we were in the middle of nowhere and on our own, or so I thought. I looked around and saw two Himba women standing behind me, this was my first encounter and came as quite a shock. The Women in the Himba tribe wear very little and paint their bodies with a blend of red ochre and animal fat, which gives them quite a striking appearance. The two ladies sat about 50 metres away watching us with deep inquisition as we ate our lunch. We were later informed that they were confused by the amount of kit we had, because when they walk across the hills they carry a small bundle of possessions and nothing else. We had three main goals over the trekking period. The first was to visit the hidden gorge, the second to spend an evening on top of a mountain and finally to reach Epupa falls in our allotted time.

After trekking for five days we reached the gorge, From the outside it appeared to be a relatively insignificant tall crack in the rock, but on further investigation we found a deep gorge approximately 4m wide and increasing to about 80m high. We spent a whole day exploring the rock pools within, initially being very weary of creepy crawlies but finally losing our fears and swimming straight through. We were running out of time and my friend Rhys and I, ran on ahead to see how far we could get, we came to a clearing where the sun broke down on hundreds of loose boulders under foot. I ran forwards and must have rocked a boulder with a snake underneath, because soon after I heard Rhys' cry tell me to stop. I was at the end of the clearing with no where to go and a snake weaving its way towards me, the only thing to do was walk calmly past the snake on the opposite side of the clearing. After having the fright of my life I sprinted back to where the others were, where with the help of a snake recognition book, pinpointed the 'Zebra snake' to be my enemy. We left the gorge and started our journey back along the banks of the Kunene, heading for Epupa. The trek took several days and tested the teams stamina and navigational skills, as we fell victim to maps, which seemed to portray a different set of hills to those we were walking on. Despite this we managed to fit in a night on a mountain and reach Epupa falls with time to spare. Epupa falls are Namibia's equivalent to Victoria Falls in Zimbabwe, and are created at point along the Kunene where hundreds of minor tributaries superimpose and create spectacular lush scenery, with picturesque waterfalls. We spent two days at the falls recovering from our exploits and stocking up on a much needed tan.

Inevitably the time came when we had to leave our veritable paradise and make for the next change-over. It was to be a much more relaxed affair this time with only a 12-hour delay due to the truck breaking down. Despite this I arrived at change over, amazed at how the time had flown by and how there was only three and a half weeks left to the end of expedition. There was no delay in finding out our new project groups; I was to be working with the Cheetah Conservation Fund (CCF). CCF is a programme set up as a non-profit, non-governmental organisation, which aims to ensure the long-term survival of the Cheetah and its ecosystem. CCF had kindly lent Raleigh the buildings used at changeover; thus the journey to our new site took only fifteen minutes. For the first week we would be involved in the completion and building of game hides started in the previous phases. The first week proved very successful, and for our hard work CCF inviting us to watch Chewbaaka, the ambassador Cheetah run, take part in a night game drive, feed the captive cheetahs and leopard and take part in their annual 24 hour game count. Part of the CCF programme is related to the biology of the Cheetah population and involves the capture of animals, which are tagged and a sample of their genes taken for further research. Our role in this involved the setting of traps and positioning of bait, unfortunately during our time there they were unsuccessful and I didn't get to experience any truly wild Cheetahs. The final week meant a move to the 'Wilderness Camp', CC17's education centre where school children are sent to learn about the Cheetah. To try and abolish a culture of indiscriminate killing of animals on farmlands, which has been a major influencing factor in the decline of their species. The Camp was situated at the base of the Waterberg plateaux, a natural game reserve containing a huge diversity of animals, from Guinea Fowl to Rhinos. Our task was to design and build a long term toilet, and to make it blend with the surrounding environment. The construction of the toilet itself was fairly easy, but the difficulties began when we started to camouflage. We were cementing large boulders to the outside of the walls; this gave a natural feel to the project, but also increased the manual labour. As a result we were unable to complete the project on time, luckily CCF is working with Raleigh on the next expedition and intend to complete it then. On the morning we were due to leave the group and I trekked to the top of the Waterberg plateau, where for the next four hours we went Rhino trekking and played baseball with Rhino poo. Unfortunately we did not see any Rhino, but did culminate the expedition with a fantastic view across the plateaux and CCF game reserve.

MY experiences with Raleigh have been second to none, if you are between 17 and 25 you too could take part as a venturer (over 25's can take pail as staff members) simply ring Raleigh International on 0171 371 8585 or e-mail: info@raleigh.org.uk. for more information.

PAPA TROOP - by Sigs Fraiser Anderson and Glyn Hayes
Tp Comd 2Lt Dave Hill
Tp SSgt SSgt Paul Davis

On return from Kosovo the Troop has enjoyed (maybe too much!) four weeks leave. When we eventually got back to the garages it was clear there was a lot of work to do. As ever there are a lot of comings and goings. Firstly, we offer a warm welcome to SSgt Paul Davis, his wife Tracy and family, Cpl Charlie Henson, Sig Andy Yates and Sig Lucy Corlette we hope you enjoy your time in Papa Tp. Unfortunately there are some goodbyes too. Farewells to SSgt Norm Finnegan, his wife Heike and son Jason, Cpl Vinnie Walsh and Cpl 'Woz' Wright congratulations to you and your wife Denise on the birth of your daughter Megan. Best of luck to you all at your new units. The Troop has had a few promotions too, six altogether you know who you are lads a big well done. A BIG congratulations to Cpl Henson and his new wife Debbie and to LCpl Scott Rose and his new wife Kelly.

SUPPORT TROOP - by Cpl Taylor
Tp Comd Capt (QM) Smith
Tp SSgt SSgt Paul Buckley

Since the Squadron return from Op Agricola we have been on slow turnaround, followed by a very quick, nectic and rushed re-fit, first lines and PRE programme, and have second line and RSIT to look forward to after Christmas!! There have been a number of changes to the Troop since the last publication. The Tech workshops have welcomed Cpl Daz Offord, Sig 'Haggis' Armstrong and Sig 'Morph the Dwarf' Murphy. The QM's Dept welcome Sig Burdon who has wasted no time becoming a valued member of Club 31s and Sig McStravock. New to the MT are LCpl 'I'm a 'Womanising dude' Molden, Sig 'Butch' Slingsby, Sig 'Maddog' Murdoch, Sig 'Billy' Conley and LCpl Col Twells. Leaving the Troop are Sigs Frank and Stein, the workshops very own combat goldfish who remained in Kosovo courtesy of 1 R IRISH. We also say farewell to Sgt Dave 'Courses' Covey who will be missed not so much for his technical skill, but for his broad knowledge of rugby songs after a few quiet beverages. He's off to Naples where he still won't have to work, but at least he won't have to fake it! Also leaving are Sig 'Dickie' Dyer, no-one will miss his PT sessions, but we still wish him all the best with his Spanish lessons in Civ Div. All in all it's been a thankfully quiet few months in Osnabruck by Corps standards, only in the last few weeks have we got back to our usual state of overwork. So much for having it easy when you return from an operational tour - maybe there'll be time for a rest when we go to Bosnia in June!!

43 BERNER DISTANZMARCH–4 DECEMBER 1999
by Sig Fraiser Anderson

After last years success in the Berner March the Squadron decided to send another team of 12, with a lucky six members on a 're-show' from last year. It was clear from our arrival in Lyss that there was a lot more British interest than last year, with teams sent from 16 different units. Because of the late start to the competition the team decided to attempt a 41km route. 16 Sig Regt were competing at this distance too and proved to be tough opposition, but it was clear from the start that we were the team setting the pace. A mix of wet and windy weather, large hills and crazy Swiss drivers slowed the team a little but we still managed to finish in a respectable 5h 25min. It could have been even longer if it weren't for Sgt 'Spike' Hughes' accurate map reading, route planning and encouragement. Watch out on the Lanyard Trophy!!

1 (ROYAL BUCKINGHAMSHIRE YEOMANRY) SIGNAL SQUADRON (SPECIAL COMMUNICATIONS)

Sqn Comd Maj David Raleigh
SSM WO2 (SSM) Dave Scott

Cpl (now Sgt) Trevor Jakeman and his temperamental transmitter truck in Cyprus

The last months of the millennium were relatively settled ones for Bletchley's Special Communicators. We have bid farewell to Cpl Jason Trimmer, recently returned from an 18-month tour as 'Our man in Cyprus'. The Squadron also dined out Maj Hugh Bardell. His tour as SO2 Special Comms has seen great advances for the Squadron, and we wish him all the best for his next tour in Kathmandu, and we all look forward to visiting you, Hugh! Promotions have again been rife, with LCpls 'Scouse' Hardy, Don Shore, Stu Penman, Simon Hodgson and Wayne Miller all getting a second stripe. For the TA, congratulations go to newly promoted Sgt Trevor Jakeman, Cpls Al Shrewsbury and Pete Litchfield, and LCpls Paul Chambers, Gite Madoodaloodal and Stu Adams.

The Squadron's publicity machine was in overdrive in November, with Anglia TV running a mini-series of new slots about Ex Runnel Stone. Starring WO2 (SSM) Dave Scott, as Milton Keynes' 'Painter and Decorator with a Difference', it should help the TA recruiting effort and allow the Regular operators to spice up the recruiting video when they get a spare minute.

LCpls Lee Kemp and 'Smudge' Smith returned from Ex Saffron Sands, in Jordan, not looking very brown it has to be said. They have both since deployed on brief operational tours. Not taking life so seriously, Capt Richard Newhouse (OpsO), and SSgt 'Deano' Poole (Deputy Acting Asst OpsO) conducted an arduous recce of Maldives, Thailand and Singapore, for the next large overseas deployment in March. Apparently it rained a lot, but they at least returned with sun-tans!

GLOBAL LYNX 2 (SEPTEMBER 1999) - by Sgt Candy Brunyee

September saw the second camp of the year for the squadron. Global Lynx 2 was based out of Cyprus and was used to test the readiness of the Squadron to fulfil its obligations. The mobile transmit and receive cabins were already in situ and it made a pleasant change to fly on a 'proper Flight' as opposed to the transport flight we have learnt to know and love. When we arrived the weather was still extremely hot, particularly as we were having a cold spell in the UK and we all started downing gallons of water as we had all been warmed of the perils of heat exhaustion. Morale improved after the alcohol free flight; in an attempt to keep the seniors cool one of the hire cars was dispatched to the airport, only the OpsO locked the keys into the boot.

The Exercise started the next day and we spent all day out in the heat – which we were not used to as we were all suffering from dehydration - setting up antenna fields, putting masts up and down and resting for long periods in the shade and of course drinking gallons. Comms started the next day and schedules were run in conjunction with training as some of us had limited experience on some of the kit and lessons were given on a variety of interesting and unassociated subjects. Sig Nick Vernon is responsible for the snapping of the cable on the islands Foden and great fun was had from trying to drive a truck with more gears than the five we use at home. During the week some of the more daring had the opportunity to do a tandem skydive – it takes all sorts. All reported how fantastic it was and how they would love to do it again – perhaps they landed on their heads!! At the end of the week a barbecue was hosted by 259 Sig Sqn. The food was great and the party went on for hours.

R&R was spent at Waterworld and Nisi beach. SSgt (FofS) Ted Heath is a Diving Instructor and a try dive was arranged for those who were interested. Nick Vernon, a non-swimmer (OK so he can do at least five strokes) thought this was a fantastic opportunity so in he went and after a few false starts he realised you can breathe under water and he was away. A great time was had by all and the Squadron are looking forward to New Years Eve when they could be putting into practice everything learnt on Global Lynx 1 and 2; alternatively they could be due for a winter sun holiday.

BASKETBALL

ROYAL SIGNALS BASKETBALL
(24 OCTOBER – 5 NOVEMBER 1999)
INTERCORPS CHAMPIONSHIPS 1– 5 NOVEMBER 1999

Each year the Corps enters two male teams and one female team in the Inter-Corps Basketball Championships, which take place in Grantham during the first week in November. This is the Army's festival of Basketball where over 200 players from across the Army make the most of the opportunity to let off steam. As co-founders, the Royal Signals have a particularly proud association with this event. In the 70's the Royal Signals and REME took part in an annual challenge match, mainly because the bulk of the army players at that time came from these two Corps. In 1986 H. Samuels the jewellers sponsored the now eagerly contested for, H. Samuels trophy, and the number of teams contesting in this annual challenge increased with the addition of PT Corps, Army Catering Corps and the Royal Corps of Transport. As the profile of the sport expanded within the army so did the tournament. A second division was introduced in 1997 to cater for the smaller Corps and to develop the Division One players of the future. In the inaugural year it was won by Royal Signals. The Ladies Division was introduced the following year and now over 20 teams compete for the annual bragging rights as Champions of their division.

In August this year 40 plus letters were distributed to all known players. From the lack of response it became evident very early that many of our experienced players would not be available, either due to work commitments or because of pressure from her/him indoors who should be obeyed (note the PC in this day and age). At the same time as distributing letters a venue for a weeks' training prior to the tournament was being sought. Why a training week prior to the tournament? Unlike other team sports basketball requires players to be familiar with each others strengths and weaknesses, before being capable of going on to court as a cohesive unit and compete. As our Corps unlike others, do not pool their basketball players, the weeks training is an essential requirement. Each year the Corps commitments increase worldwide and this is exacerbated by the manpower shortage within units. This is not an unknown fact, but what is unknown is the quality of players the Corps has! The Corps has undoubtedly the best individual players in the army, the problem we have is that these players have yet to come together at the same time. It would be interesting, if one year we could actually see what the Corps could achieve with all its talent on display at the Intercorps tournament, I know that we could seriously ruffle some of the other Corps feathers. 1999 presented a few extra planning headaches than normal. Not only was there going to be a lack of experience turning out, but there was also a delay in confirmation of a training venue. This was overcome by dividing the training into two periods. The first period of training was held, at RSA Larkhill, by kind permission of the Commanding Officer Royal School of Artillery. The second was held in London by kind permission of the Officer Commanding 238 Sig Sqn, Maj S. Hunt. On behalf of all players and coaching staff many thanks.

All available players gathered at Larkhill on Sunday 24 October to commence training. 11 ladies and 15 men turned up for the first day of training these numbers soon reduced with the loss of Sig 'Chloe' Cowan to a torn knee cartilage (get well and strong see you next year). Shortly after her injury, Cpl 'Jonah' Jones was sent to hospital with an infection (the team does not want to see that weeping feature again). At the same time as losing people to injury we also lost two of the male players to training requirements at short notice. Things were starting to become very frustrating. Training carried on and we were determined to enter two male teams and one female team even if it meant placing six players in each of the male teams. But as with all optimists, the coaching staff was confident that things would be all right on the day.

Enter our guardian angel.....The Corps OIC Col Hadfield, Commander Royal School of Signals, took time from his extremely busy schedule to pay us a visit at Larkhill, which was most appreciated by all those present. The question from the Colonel when he arrived was, 'Is there anything I can do to help?' Having discussed our player problem, a few phone calls were made by the Colonel, and players appeared, bolstering the dwindling numbers. With the training completed at Larkhill, all players travelled to Chelsea barracks in London for the final three days of training, before moving north to Grantham like migrating geese. Grantham greeted us with its normal icy chill, nevertheless Sgt Nick 'Don't you phone me again for help' Turner done us proud with our accommodation arrangements, 'Good on ya Nick.' After settling into our accommodation those players who arrived late were introduced to the other players. Those players included, the corps secretary and the Div 2 teams trump card for later in the week, Maj Grant, Sgt 'Taff I'm only here because my brother's not' Ceaser, and for the ladies, LCpl 'Vicki' Moran and Cpl Sheryl Richardson. Sunday evening saw everyone quite subdued and obviously contemplating the week's tournament ahead.

Monday saw losses for all the teams, which gave everyone a wake up call, and the sudden realisation that you have got to have heart at this level if you want to compete and be a contender. After an enjoyable evening Tuesday morning saw all teams full of confidence. This renewed confidence was seen by the results that were achieved that day. Wednesday saw mixed fortunes, the Div 1 team lost but the ladies and Div 2 teams won their games securing places in their respective semi-finals. Div 2 team semi-final was to be played later that day and the incentive to win was, a rest day. Our semi-finalists were the Corps old adversaries, the REME. This was a hard physical game in which the REME jumped to an early lead which they held onto for the first half. But to the delight of Cpl Steve Piper the coach of the Div 2 team, they managed to fight and claw there way back in the second half to win the game, with some last minute heroics by all players, by five points. They were through to the final. That evening the annual corps teams meal was held at the Chicago rock café, this is held to celebrate the achievements of the past two weeks however good or bad. All present agreed that the food was excellent and of outrageous proportion, this was highlighted by the fact that Sig Mick Hogarth was unable to finish his bucket of hot wings, however he did manage to finish LCpl Jules Dolan's pasta. The ladies had two games to play Thursday, both against the PT Corps. The first was to determine league position and to make a statement and the second was in the semi-final and scheduled for late afternoon. The ladies were expected to be tired after their game earlier that day but to the surprise of the PT Corps, they were wrong, our ladies came out strong and soon acquired a commanding lead which they never lost. The Corps second team to a final. Even though the Div 1 team did not make it through the league, it is worth commenting on the effort that all players showed, especially with the lack of numbers and injuries that were picked up early into the tournament itself.

Finals day arrived, the ladies and the Div 2 teams tipped off at the same time, which meant our Div 1 team was divided between the two courts supporting the Corps. The ladies coach WO1 (FofS) Nev Smikle was playing for the Div 2 team, therefore the coaching duties for the ladies fell to Mick Hogarth. The ladies fought hard but were unlucky and finished runners up to the RLC. The Div 2 teams opponents were the Royal Artillery who earlier that week had beaten our team by 30 points, but this was a new game with different stakes and at the final whistle the Div 2 team had beaten the RA by two points. This tournament gave our Corps mixed results, which covered all the emotional aspects of competition, from not reaching the final, to playing in the final and becoming runners up, to winning a final and being division champions. All these highs and lows were experienced by all players regardless of which division they were competing in and this Esprit de Corps, displayed by all players was the envy of all that looked on. As coach I would like to thank all players for their effort and support over the training and tournament weeks and for the team spirit that was displayed on all occasions. Keep fit over this next year and pencil in the following provisional dates, 22 October – 3 November 2000.

3 (UNITED KINGDOM) DIVISIONAL HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS
CO Lt Col N. D. Couch
RSM WO1 (RSM) G. J. Stoker MBE

RHQ heaves a huge sigh of relief on the posting on promotion of the Regimental Second in Command, Maj Adam Ewell - good luck at Corsham, Tanglefoot the terrier will be sorely missed. Also off on posting is the Ops Officer, Capt Jason Gunning, who is going to HQ LAND Command to play even more rugby and the RAO Maj Ray Wells AGC who is off to Innesworth.

202 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj R. J. Quinlan
SSM WO2 (SSM) J. McNaught

Once again the time has come to reflect upon another busy year in the Squadron. There is much that can be mentioned what with busy Divisional Exercises and a whole host of overseas operational, and training, commitments. The biggest feature of the year, however, has been the safe return of a sizeable proportion of the Squadron from Operations in Bosnia and Kosovo, this has helped the Squadron gel for next year's busy Exercise season and has allowed for a raise in morale as soldiers rejoin their families for Christmas.

SHQ has seen many comings and goings this year, recently we welcome LCpl Wendy Nicholls as the new Sqn Clerk and Sgt Max 'Bros Boy' Challis who joins us in the technical workshops. We hope you both enjoy your time with the Squadron. The Squadron would also like to extend its best wishes to Sig Lee Custance on his forthcoming wedding in early January, we hope you and Claire both have a wonderful day. On a side note we would also request that Capt Eric 'Bad Taste' Warren refrain from wearing any pink items of clothing to future Squadron social events!

OVERLOON TROOP
Tp Comd 2LT K. J. Grice
Tp SSgt SSgt D . W. Oliver

The account of Overloon Tp begins with the emphasis on the word flexibility. Without such a state of mind, little can be achieved, as has been noted over the past months. The Troop has seen much change, the largest of which involved Waterloo personnel moving back to that Troop, giving 202 Sqn three Troops once again. As the Divisional Armoured Main Troop, we enjoyed much attention around a Staff College Demo on Salisbury Plain, and were also fortunate to be given relative freedom on a Troop level Exercise after that. Towards the latter part of the year, a period of consolidation has been the theme for preparation for next year's busy Exercise phase.

Moving to more of a G1 theme, the Troop has seen many arrive, leave and change marital status. We welcome SSgt Oliver and his wife Annette from 14 Sig Regt. Staff Oliver's two large dogs, Dylan and Dan met the Troop first and their ferocious barking ensured that the Troops met the new Troop Staff Sergeant in good working order! Other welcomes include Cpl Fazackerley and LCpl Evans who was not here long before being selected for Corporal. Welcome to LCpl Irwin who deserves congratulations for being selected for promotion to Corporal. LCpl Olejnik also deserves welcome and congratulations upon getting married to Louise very recently. We welcome back from Kosovo Sig Bryant , but bid farewell to LCpl Watts who moves to 16 Air Assault Brigade and Sig Jackson who leaves the Army. Sig Hills also moves on promotion and is looking forward to life in York at 2 Sig Regt. Sig Thompson moves to Cyprus after back to back tours in the Balkans. Further congratulations are due to LCpl Akkulugadu who deservedly picked up his second tape, and to Sigs Hartell and Taylor who pick up their first tape. Well Done.

Finally, to mention two further marriages that have taken place recently. Sig Knowles nee Greenhalgh and her new husband LCpl Carl Knowles of 222 Sig Sqn managed to juggle a wedding date around numerous other commitments, as did LCpl 'Sid' Marsh and his new wife Sig 'Sal' Marsh nee Griffiths. Longevity and prosperity to all concerned.

BUSSACO TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt P Simpson
Tp SSgt SSgt P Howson

Greetings to Sig Stevenson, the Troop's first lady liney and LCpl 'Rocky' Tait, who was plucked out for the novice boxing team the second he came through the gates. Also, fresh from the factory are LCpl Sellings and Sig Cottrell – so new they don't even have nicknames yet. We have just acquired LCpl 'Don't call me Fruity' Fielding who comes to us from 30 Sigs, and is desperate to lose his epithet. No luck there then. Replacing Sgt 'Nice Shirt' Cheesman, the Tech Workshop takes on Sgt 'Magellan' Challis, whose extended 'ramblings' on the Bulford prairies have taken the heat off the squadron subalterns for a while. Rumours that he is applying for a job with Ordnance Survey are entirely groundless and untrue. Congratulations go to Cpls 'Bing' Crosby, Clark and Browne, and LCpl Marchant on their recent promotions.

WATERLOO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt D. Jackson
Tp SSgt SSgt A. Wringe

We start with our comings and goings which has seen quite a change to the Troop. Goodbye to Sgt Jim Watt who goes off to be a Yeoman of Signals without ever training to be one, and LCpl 'Bomber' Lancaster who goes off to do P Company. Good luck from the Troop, the ladies from Sticky Carpets will miss you both. Hello to Sgt 'Nav' Elliot who is welcomed into the armour garages, he won't have to argue his way past any bouncers to get in here! With an average turnout of ten soldiers a day we have come a long way from last month and we only need to 'borrow' a few more pieces of equipment to get back on the road. We have just finished a four day Exercise which introduced the new members of the Troop to a 'Staff Officer'. We are sure the Titanic did not have as many luxuries, lets hope the Div HQ does not suffer the same fate!

206 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj W. E. H. Adsett
SSM WO2 (SSM) S. T. Archer

MONS TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Olly Gardner
Tp SSgt SSgt Sean Fairfield

After a leave period that seemed all too short, we arrived back and prepared for the next period of work. SSgt Sean Fairfield, started to plan functions for the Sgts' Mess, as he'd just been officially told he was to be the PEC, (SSgt Steve Bartleet, mentioned how he'd never managed to do the job and how he'd got away with it). So it was a great shock to SSgt Fairfield, when he was informed that he was selected to go to Egypt on Ex Bright Star as the 1 Recce Bde Yeoman of Signals. However, it was a far greater shock for SSgt Steve Bartleet to find out that he was to be the new PEC. It then seemed that all around people were picking up the pieces for absent personnel, none more so than both Sgt John Batts and Sgt Mandy Korchel. Sgt John Batts, took a group on Ex Topham hat, organised the Communications for the Kiwi Half Marathon and had the staff college demo and the Troop rebuild on the return from Kosovo to contend with. Sgt Mandy Korchel had the job of ensuring all returned safe as the leader of the Troop deployed to Kosovo. So it was with some relief when all returned to normality.

Festive wishes go to all members of the troop still deployed in Kosovo (Sigs Draper, Harley, Hart and Pollard). Fond Farewells go to Cpl Preece on his posting to 29 Comdo Bde on promotion to Sergeant: Sig McLuckie on posting to HQ NI: Sig Kelly Maclean on her posting to 30 Sig Regt (because she needs to do more tours). Special farewells go to Sig 'PC PLOD' Price on leaving the service to serve with the Cardiff police force and to Sig Witchell on his move to 'Civvy street'. Goodbye to the ship jumpers that have run over to Inkerman Tp Sigs Kerridge and Wardley. Welcomes to all those from Cambrai Tp Cpl Davies-Morris, LCpls Ackers, Evans, Whenman, Sigs Buddle, Hodge, Kerrigan, Wood. Welcome back to Sig Tammy Thompson. Welcomes to the fresh from the factory crowd Sigs Evans, Cadman, Blackman and Blake.

INKERMAN TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Irwin
Tp SSgt SSgt Bartleet

The last couple of months has been a busy period for the Troop with a Troop shake out exercise, turning vehicles around returning form Kosovo, providing two-thirds of the Squadron boxing team and second lines. Early October saw the Troop deploy out onto Salisbury Plain for three days training to iron out det drills and moulding new RRB crews together. Gone are the days of RRBs sitting still for the duration of the exercise, under the watchful eyes of Lt 'Gunny' Irwin, SSgt 'Lets move them again' Bartleet, Sgt 'Bullet' Elliott and Cpl Phil Oulton, the Troop was tested in navigation, setting up dets , comms drills and basic military skills in the field.

The Troop is poised to set up its own body guard department following the success of the Troop members in the recent inter Squadron boxing. Well done to Lt Gary Irwin, LCpl Jim Kemp and Sig Dave Durward who all won in their weights in the finals. Those that did not make the finals or lost on the night well done for trying and better luck next time. A special mention to Sig Laura Best and Sig Sam Hunt who gave it their best in the female bouts.

Congratulations to Sig Steph Catney, Sig Julie Cornfield, Sig Dave Marshall, Sig Stuart Stephen and Sig Sam Hall on their recent selection to Lance Corporal . Farewell to Sig Clint Brady and Sig Steve Keogh who go off to pastures new in Civvy street. The Troop would also like to say Farewell to the SQMS, SSgt Chris Lloyd (formerly Inkerman Tp) on promotion to Warrant Officer class 2 with a posting to Bosnia for good measure. Finally, hellos to LCpl Linzi Fielding, LCpl Tony Richardson and Sig Mick Davies who all arrive on posting. Also all those that have joined the Troop (too many to mention) from other Troops within the Squadron following a reshuffle and the demise of Cambrai Tp as an Operators' Troop.

COAST TO COAST WALK 05-13 OCTOBER 1999

There was a sea mist rolling over the camp the morning that seven intrepid walkers from 206 Sig Sqn, 3 UK Div set off on the 192 mile 'Classic' coast to coast walk from St Bees head in Cumbria to Robin Hood's Bay in Yorkshire. The team consisted of SSM Archer otherwise known as Uncle Archy, Cpl Woodrow (Woodland), Cpl Rawlyk (Raw), Sig Green (Bluey), Sig Sutton (Big fella), Sig Evans (Stick) and then Sig Molyneux (Why) as in 'Why did we do it?'

The walk took us from the Irish Sea through Cumbria into the Yorkshire dales and then the Yorkshire Moors ending with the North Sea. It usually takes people 12-13 days to complete but we were averaging about 21 miles a day and completed it in nine days. Just one of the beautiful scenes seen on our walk was Ennerdale Water on the second day. We had a brief stop here because there is a famous rock in the shape of a chair. Other well known sites seen on the walk were Helvellyn, the abbey near Kirby Stephen, Nine Standards Rigg, Richmond Castle, the hermitage (A large hollowed out rock which is centuries old) and then Robin Hood's Bay. There are many public houses along the route and many of them have visitor books for coast to coasters. During the season walkers provide the majority of the business along the route, so pubs, cafes and campsites are all pleased to see you. Two pubs I would recommend are the White Swan in Danby Wiske and the Lion Inn just after Farndale Moor. The hardest section of the walk for me was day seven, from Catterick Bridge to Ingleby Cross. The terrain that day was not that bad, but after seven continuous days of hiking carrying our full packs the pain eventually catches up to you. Injuries were becoming harder to withstand and morale was getting low. We knew that there was less than 50 miles to go when we eventually camped that night and everyone began to cheer up. I think that from this moment onwards the team wanted more than anything to complete the rest of the walk, as fast as we could. We soon hit the coast on the ninth day and the sight of Robin Hood's Bay was breathtaking. I then remembered all those days ago when seven of us started at St Bee's Head and the sea mist covered us. Well there was certainly no mist on the last day, it was blue skies all around and the bay looked very inviting indeed. Unfortunately only five of us finished the walk and these are their names: Stu Archer, Lee Woodrow, Phil Rawlyk, Mic Sutton, and Ed Green.

At last we all had that well deserved pint in the pub in Robin Hood's Bay. We talked and laughed over the stories of the past nine days and congratulated each other on the achievement. Well done and Thankyou to all that took part in the 206 Signal Squadron Coast to Coast walk 1999.

EXERCISE GHENGIS IRON - MONGOLIA

Ex Ghengis Iron was a trekking expedition to Mongolia. The original idea was Capt Alex Fennel's who is now at 30 Sig Regt. Thus, it was passed onto Capt Rich Odling to continue the planning and lead the expedition.

There were clear and obvious problems with travel to what is still one of the most remote countries in the world. Flights being the most obvious, Air China not necessarily being the airline of choice. Operational deployments took their toll on the Regiment and thus it was only very close to departure that the expedition nominal roll was confirmed. This in itself produced further problems in obtaining last minute visas. However, the expedition left Bulford 3 October and after a 10-hour flight to Beijing we then had a 12-hr stopover which provided an opportunity to take in Tianamen Square. It was then a quick 2-hr flight to Ulaan Bataar. After a day spent sorting out the rest of our travel plans. We left in our minibus to the Terelj National Park about 60km North of Ulaan Bataar for a 2-day acclimatisation expedition. This went well and a few teething problems with equipment were soon ironed out and we returned to Ulaan Bataar.

Poor weather in the West of the country meant the original plans had to be changed and we headed North towards the Lake Hovsgol National Park. Difficulties with Internal flights meant that we had a 3-day drive to get to our location. Fortunately our minibus came with a driver, Miga who for our entire trip remained confident that the minibus would start whatever the temperature and that we would find a petrol station in time despite our frequent misgivings. The drive was generally across wide open desert-like plains, Wild camels and horses were frequently along the route. The roads consisted of dirt tracks and towns came along approximately every 24 hours. Once in the town of Hovsgol we spent the night in a traditional German Camp and were fed by the German owners, several members of the team decided that it was better to eat what was left of their stocks from home. Early the following morning we set off for our base camp further up the lake.

Our trekking consisted of five day walks from the base camp into the surrounding mountains. The scenery was absolutely fantastic in all directions and it was possible to see Siberia only a few miles to the North. The weather was generally extremely cold, rarely getting above freezing particularly at night. We were lucky in that the snow never got as low as the base camp or Ulaan Bataar whilst we were there however, we encountered plenty as we went higher. In general the skies were completely clear allowing us to make the most of the incredible views available. At the end of our stay in Hovsgol we were all glad of the relative luxury of a night in the German Camp, which although generally colder was more comfortable than our tents. Following the drive back we had one further night in Ulaan Bataar before our flight to Beijing and 36hrs R and R, during which most of us visited the Great Wall of China.

OMAN TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Imogen Mulholland
Tp SSgt Sgt Andy Hayler

Summer Block Leave now seems a very long time ago, particularly after troop level exercises, a squadron exercise and a Battlecamp (not that the Tp OC would know as most of her time was spent in Egypt!). However, the Troop has gone from strength to strength as Squadron personnel return from the four winds, eager to get back to Bulford. On the 'pat on the back' front, welcome to Sgt 'Blandford' Ogg - everyone just out of training thought they had got away from you! Congratulations to you and Jen on the birth of your daughter, and many sleepless nights! Other recent Troop Dads include Sigs Barry, Carter and Mortiboys. What is going on? This appears to be the most fertile Troop in the Corps. Back from Bosnia, Cpl 'Poker Face' Knapman, Sig 'Dagger' Brady and Sig 'Skiing' Webster. Back from Kosovo, LCpl 'Courses' Milton, Sig 'Morphy Richards' Ions and Sig 'Drill Demon' Wall. New to the Troop, Sigs 'Justin' Amis, 'back again' Evans and 'really new' Greener. Plus more inter-squadron postings too!

The Troop has fared well recently on promotions too - LCpl to Cpl, Cpls 'Gladiator' Burgess, 'Shadow' Wilson-Cochrane, LCpl 'Could have' Cooper and LCpl 'on posting' Johnson selected; Sigs to LCpl, Sigs 'Suits me' Brady, 'Dangerous' Jackson, 'Thanks' Wilson and 'Guardsman' Wall. Congratulations to you all.

After the rigours of Battlecamp, the Troop needed to recover. In order to do so, it found itself spending an afternoon appreciating the fundamental of the brewing process at Alton Brewery - a particularly high-brow affair, the blame for which falls squarely at the feet of LCpl 'Coops' Cooper. As it transpired this was time well spent in preparation for further sampling at the local hostelry in Edington the following Sunday. For the second year running, 222 Sig Sqn personnel have paraded at the Edington Parish Church alongside the Old Boys of Edington British Legion on Remembrance Sunday. Formerly an Aden task, Oman had the pleasure this year, organised by Sgt Andy 'Loud' Hayler. It is an honour to be the Modern Army focus at what is a patriotic and traditional event. New and old soldiers alike benefit from the event. This year the personnel laid a wreath to the Fallen on behalf of 3 (UK) Div HQ and Sig Regt, and also presented a Squadron plaque to the Legion.

Finally, farewells. Sgt Mick Eades left us some time ago, Cpl 'Firestarter' White, LCpl 'Selected' Cooper and Sig 'also selected' Wilson due to leave in the imminent future. One the other side of Christmas, LCpl 'Johnno' Johnson is posted (on promotion), while Sig 'would you like to buy a copy of a video' Lewis and Sig 'no disembarkation leave for you' Jackson go to the White Helmets!. Good Luck to all of you - the troop will lose a lot of its characters, who will no doubt be replaced by new ones equally bad! (and good luck to the White Helmets too - can't wait to see your new performers 'in action').

On return from Battle Camp in Sennybridge, South Wales, Sharjah Tp was looking forward to going back to work in the warm and dry garages, but the following week was going to be another busy one. The week was to consist of preparing for the following weeks Comms Ex Arabian Reprise as well as Thursdays Remembrance Day Parade and Medal Presentation for our returning Kosovo personnel. The exercise itself went well with enough moves to keep Pickfords busy for a year! On the Thursday the CO and RSM visited Sharjah Tp in the field, minus the expected civilian visitor who had a runny nose. The visit was brief, which I'm sure was a relief to all at the Node. On returning from Exercise it was a quick turn around for all vehicles in preparation for the following Tuesdays CO's day. CO's day came and went with the obvious parades and inspections from the CO and all the other heads of departments, the rest of the week was fairly quiet. The final few days of November were then spent with Arabian Nights maintenance exercise. All in all a busy November in Sharjah Tp which seemed to fly by.

The new reformed Aden Tp has been together since 13 September 1999 and already in its short life it has seen a Battle Camp and a couple of Exercises. The whole Troop has been rewritten from the Troop OC down to the new boys from Blandford. A lot of the experience in the Troop have just got back from a tour in Kosovo and are enjoying a long but well deserved rest on leave. There has already been a lot of promotions this year and to name just a few we have Sig Tony 'Rocky' Dawson, Sig Jim 'Short Fuse' Chamberlain, Sig Grant 'The Blower' Robertson and also not to forget Sig Paul 'The Plod' Westerman, congratulations on your promotion to Lance Corporal. Oh, I nearly forgot the new arrival from 230 Sig Sqn, congratulations SSgt Shaun 'THE CORP' Littlefield on your recent promotion (we told you that you had to buy a slab).

TEAM OVERVIEW - Capt G. P. Newell

The Team now finds itself in the flurry of activity typical of the winter months. The selection of new Team members, the arrival of 30 new Triumph Tigers and the beginning of the annual training camp at RAF Sealand keep us all busy. Having been Team Captain for over a year now I have experienced all the ups and downs of a typical season. Without doubt, the highlight of a long, hard, yet rewarding show-season was the Team's outstanding performance at the 1999 Royal Tournament. To be involved in the Tournament is a privilege; to be chosen as one of the acts of the last ever Tournament is something quite special. Certainly it is something members of the Corps can be proud of – arguably we proved to be the most popular act. Beyond that, county shows, international tattoos, recruiting exhibitions, military shows, truck festivals, steam fairs and charity work dominated our time from April to October – the Team worked hard – and it is fair to say the period's successes were interspersed with some minor accidents, bad weather and the odd badly-organised show. But in reflection the White Helmets successfully completed it's mission – it put the Corps firmly in the publics face (this included a number of TV and radio appearances) as well as recruiting over 1000 teenagers into the fold.

All this has been completed with some fairly hefty constraints. One of the most disappointing aspects of being a Team-member is the knowledge that very few members of the Corps have a realistic understanding and up to date view of the Team - there is a lot of confusion. On countless occasions Team-members and myself have been faced with almost blissful ignorance and listened to torrents of misconceptions when touring around units of the Corps. At the highest level of the Corps the decision to maintain the oldest and certainly the best military motorcycle display team – not just in the UK – but in the world has been made. This cannot take place if the greater mass of the Corps chooses to knowing or unknowingly abuse what is in reality one of its greatest assets. Our Team has all the pomp and ceremony, the tradition and pedigree of the likes of the Kings Troop, Royal Horse Artillery or the Household Cavalry – but it additionally has the breathtaking flare and stunning excitement that those other organisations lack. People remember the Royal Signals White Helmets. People are amazed and want to know more. People ask questions, become interested and they are recruited into the Corps. This is an important task that we do well. Put this into perspective: following operational work recruiting is one of the Army's major commitments. The Corps has one of the primary assets in leading the way – this is The White Helmets.

MODERN MISCONCEPTIONS OF THE TEAM

When the Team try to encourage serving soldiers to join it is all too evident that there is a major problem – potential riders are put off by members of their units who simply have no idea about the Team. To that end I have detailed below the common misconceptions and the reality behind them.

The Team Background - The Team is supported by the Corps in manpower and wages alone. Beyond this the White Helmets Team must generate enough capital on an annual basis to exist. This is done through the extensive show season, normally over 100 appearances, and the generous support from sponsors, such as Rover, Dunlop and Champion. In short the Team can be likened to a commercial business.

Promotion – Rumours are rife that Team-members do not get promoted. This is rubbish and couldn't be further from the truth. In the last 12 months, 11 of the 24 Team-members were selected for promotion – that's almost 50%! Soldiers are promoted on the strength of their achievement and commitment to work, as always reflected in their CR. The CR is presented to MCMDiv and they alone nominate soldiers for promotion. It seems very obvious that members of the White Helmets are treated like any other members of the Corps - the evidence is the reality.

When to join - You can join as soon as you achieve Class 2 or when it is imminent. You should apply to the Team in Blandford for information on the annual induction courses. The courses have changed since the 1980s and the emphasis is now on being constructive and exciting.

Motorcycle skills – Most soldiers arrive in the Team with no licence or motorcyling experience. This has been the case for many years and is not a problem. Team instructors are very experienced at bringing non-riders on.

Trades in the Team - Any trade from the Corps can serve in the Team, most currently do.

Gurkha and Female Corps Members – We select new Team members twice a year and are very keen to see the Team reflect the make-up of the Corps as a whole. We already do this with trades but want to see Gurkhas and female Corps members selected soon.

Team-members Trade Pay – The Team is like any other unit in the Corps, in that no soldier serving with the Team loses pay. Soldiers serve as 'display riders' and are all tasked with supervisory commitments which maintain the integrity of the individual's workload reflected in their annual CR.

Annual CRs – Soldiers are reported on in the same way as any other member of the Corps.

Trade and Career courses – All soldiers attend all their relevant courses and trade conversions while in the Team. This is normally done over the period Oct – Apr but can also take place when unavoidable mid-season. Currently Cpl Andy Butterfield (Tele Tech Sys) and Cpl Daz Hankin (Tele Op Spec) are both on their Class 1 upgrade courses while LCpl Scouse O'Leary attends his PTIs course.

Length of Tour – It is a three year posting.

In conclusion I hope that this underlines not only the importance of the Team, but also its reliance on the Corps to which it belongs. Soldiers wishing to escape from the norm of a Regimental environment, who wish to complete a challenging and exciting tour should be given the opportunity to come to the Team and not be put off. The Royal Signals White Helmets Motorcycle Display Team aid the Corps with retention, contribute to the Corps recruiting and provide the individual soldier with a positive life-long experience. If these are not valid reasons for maintaining and promoting the worlds oldest Motorcycle Display Team what are?

NEW APPOINTMENT IN REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

The Corps Committee seeks to focus and invigorate the work of the Royal Signals Institution (RSI) by the appointment of a part-time officer to act as the Professional Secretary of the RSI. Applicants must be retired ex-members of Royal Signals and must be full members of the RSI. That is:

a. Retired Royal Signals Officers who pay the retired rate of subscription to Corps Funds.
b. Retired Soldiers who pay the full annual subscription to The Wire and Journal.

Applicants should contact Col A. F. Carter, the Regimental Secretary at RHQ Royal Signals, Blandford Camp, Dorset DT11 8RH - 01258 482081 by 1 March 2000. A selection board will be convened in March with the aim of the incumbent taking post on 1 May 2000.

Job Specification For Professional Secretary Royal Signals Institution:
The Royal Signals Institution (RSI) has the Charter to foster the technical and professional interests of the Royal Corps of Signals. The RSI requires a senior permanent staff member, to be known as the Professional Secretary, to administer the growing number of high profile activities carried out by the Institution. The appointment will be based at Blandford Camp, Dorset in RHQ Royal Signals. The incumbent will report day to day to the Regimental Secretary Royal Signals and will be directed by the Council of the RSI.

Type of Person Required:
Essential: The Technical Secretary will be a high-grade, intelligent and energetic retired officer of the Royal Signals with experience of and great interest in professional matters of importance to the Corps. He will have a profound understanding of Communications and Information Services and of how they improve military capability. He should be naturally curious, keen to develop his own knowledge and by doing so, improve that of the Corps. He will be IT literate. He will be a 'hands on' person who does not expect or require a large support staff. He will be tactful and politically aware.

Desirable: He should have knowledge and experience of the Defence and Information industry. He should be familiar with the Joint and Defence arena and be able to establish productive relationships with senior officers in other Arms and Services. He should be familiar with higher education and learning, able to establish productive relationships with such institutions when required.

Duties:
To manage all technical RSI affairs, the principal tasks are:

Provide and manage all professional interactions for which the RSI is responsible. This will include:
Editing the RSI Journal content and improving its quality.
Liaising with other professional bodies to share experience and Journal material (including IEE, BCS, AFCEA, WCITS, RMCS).
Maintaining liaison with other professional agencies as directed Running the RSI website and Internet news-group.
Organising and managing seminars as required, with administrative support from RSS.
Organising and managing RSI London Lecture and Dinner evening.
Organising and managing RSI/BCS Lecture when RSI host it.
Acting as Secretary to the Executive Committee for the Promotion of the Corps.
Acting as assistant on RSI matters to the Regimental Secretary who is the General Secretary of the RSI.

Remuneration:
The appointment will normally require three days work per week. The salary will be negotiable but unpensionable.

Support:
The appointment will be supported by:

A part time secretary.
Full IT facilities including connection to the Blandford network and the Internet.
Use of the HQ Royal Signals website.
The Editor of the Wire/Journal, who will enable access to desktop publishing facilities.
A shared office.

ANSTY MILLENNIUM CELEBRATION RAISES MONEY FOR GURKHA WELFARE

As part of their celebrations a group of old friends got together for a party at the Commanderie of Ansty Manor to bring in the new century. Because of the general shortage of helpers for such functions at this busy time, the organisers turned to the army at Blandford for help and were rewarded handsomely by the presence, at the event, of a group of volunteer Gurkha soldiers from the Queen's Gurkha Signals. In return the partygoers organised a raffle and an auction to raise money for the Gurkha Welfare Trust and raised the surprisingly large sum of £1.077.47.

Our picture shows Brig Keith Olds handing over the cheque to Capt Krishnabahadur Gurung at a short ceremony held at the Royal Signals Museum at Blandford Camp.

The Gurkha Welfare Trust assists former Gurkha soldiers, their dependants and their widows who have fallen on hard times in their native Nepal. Such events as landslide disasters, disease, crop failure and other calamities are a regular feature of life in that rugged Himalayan kingdom.

CAREER CHOICES
A TOUR AT THE ROYAL SCHOOL OF SIGNALS

Maj M. L. F. Davison

- What are you doing about your next tour?
- How about a job at The Royal School of Signals?
- What kind of jobs are there on offer?
- What are the conditions at Blandford?
- Is a tour at Blandford in your best career interests?

Once the relatively quiet location for Royal Signals command training, Blandford Camp has been transformed over recent years by a multi-million pound rebuild to create the Army's CIS Centre of Excellence. All Special-to-Arm Phase 2 and 3 communications training for the Corps is now undertaken at Blandford and with around 1400 students under training at any one time, quality teaching staff are essential. This becomes even more crucial as the School prepares to receive greater numbers of students when BOWMAN and Digitisation training starts in earnest in the near future.

Did You Know? In a three year period more than half of the serving Corps undertakes some form of training at The Royal School of Signals. You will almost certainly have been to Blandford yourself – but could you make a difference if you were on the training staff? Your own training and experience is your greatest asset. Combine this with your personality and strength of character and you have a unique combination of skills that are needed at the School to mould the best soldiers in the Army. You could make that difference. The best soldiers and tradesmen in the Army demand the best trainers – we need trade and military instructors and Regimental Duties staff.

Is it in your career interests? You already know that quality tours are fundamental to achieving your career goals. The statistics for soldiers and officers completing tours at Blandford speak for themselves; across the entire rank spectrum, quality individuals are getting promoted as a direct consequence of serving at the School. Be in no doubt: a tour at The Royal School of Signals is a quality tour. Just to make you think; promotions or selections for promotion took place in 1999 as follows:

- Officers:
  - Capt - Maj 3
  - Lt - Capt 3
  - Commissioned from WO1 1
- Soldiers:
  - Sig - LCpl 24
  - LCpl - Cpl 13
  - Cpl - Sgt 32
  - Sgt - SSgt 8
  - SSgt - WO2 9
  - WO2 - WO1 8

Selections for Late Entry Commissions 4
Selections for YofS training 4 (20% of the vacancies)

NB: All of these people were on the staff of The Royal School of Signals/11 Signal Regiment. The figures specifically exclude students.

What else is in it for you? Enhancing your career by refining your instructional and leadership skills is one thing, but quality of life has to be high on your list of priorities. Could you cope with a couple of years' stability in a great part of the country? Could you also cope with some of the most up to date facilities anywhere in the Army? An opportunity lies before you that is almost too good to miss; fitness, sports and recreation, a wealth of family facilities, bars and restaurants, a bowling alley, indoor and outdoor climbing walls, an all-weather floodlit sports pitch, an 18-hole golf course nearby, the list goes on. The camp also has a full-size cinema showing the very latest releases six nights a week.

If you are interested in this unique challenge, get your next tour sorted now by talking to your Adjutant if you are an officer or your Squadron OC if you are a soldier.

A QUALITY TOUR IN A QUALITY CAREER FOR QUALITY SOLDIERS

E1 ROYAL SIGNALS LONG SERVICE LIST

Last year, HQ AG gave formal approval for the establishment of a discreet R. SIGNALS element of the Long Service List (LSL). This element will be handled as an E1 (Corps tied) liability by APC Glasgow and the individuals involved will retain entitlement to the substantive rank and pay profile in effect immediately prior to transfer. LSL engagements will be authorised by DM(A), initially for five years, but extendable by up to five one-year increments, to the maximum age of 55 years.

In driving this initiative forward, HQ R. SIGNALS' aim has been to make it more attractive for suitable soldiers to extend their career beyond the 22-year point without frustrating the promotion chances of others as can occur with Career Continuance. The intention is to use the R. SIGNALS E1 LSL to fill designated, trade specific and essentially static SNCO and WO posts which will benefit from a high degree of continuity. By filling such posts from the LSL we will release younger individuals to fill other posts within the deployable Army, thereby reducing overall undermanning. The list of posts suitable for annotation as E1 LSL is growing and up to 30 such appointments should be identified in the fullness of time. At the time of going to press, the following E1 LSL posts are available at Blandford:

1 x WO1 FofS
3 x WO2 YofS
1 x WO2 RD
2 x SSgt FofS
1 x SSgt Tele Tech (Sys)/Sys Eng Tech
1 x Sgt ADP Spec/Info Sys Op
1 x Sgt Tele Tech (Sys)/Sys Eng Tech
1 x Sgt Tele Op (Tg)Radio Sys Op.

If you are interested in any of these, or the scheme in general, further information can be obtained from R. SIGNALS MCM Div.

MRS MARY BEAVER PRESENTS A WAR DIARY TO THE ROYAL SIGNALS MUSEUM

Many young Royal Signals officers who passed through the School of Signals in Catterick in the early 1960s will remember Capt Malcolm Beaver fondly, he resigned in 1963. As a lecturer he was deadly accurate with chalk and any lack of attention by a student would always draw fire!!

On 26 January Mrs Mary Beaver, Malcolm's widow, presented one of his cherished possessions to the Royal Signals Museum. It was a 'Diary' that his father, Maj Eric Beaver Royal Signals, had maintained together with RSM Feltham, whilst they were Japanese prisoners of war. It is a complete record of all the Royal Signals personnel who were captured in Singapore and elsewhere, and who served on the Burma Railway. It records the details of over 500 Signallers who perished between February 1942 and August 1945 onwards, including the Regimental Number, rank, unit, date of death, place of burial and cause of death. The latter includes cholera, dysentry, diphtheria, cardiac failure and malaria. The burial places include Kanu, Chungkai, Takenon, Hindato, 211km Camp (all Thailand), Tambaip, Kanda, Songkwai (Burma) and Changi in Singapore.

The Japanese were aware that the 'Diary' existed and became increasingly anxious to capture it because they believed that it was a record of war-crimes. Towards the end of the war its security became difficult and searches for it were more frequent. To save the 'Diary' a mock funeral was arranged and it was buried under the name of Private Records in a temporary grave with full military honours complete with a Japanese Guard of Honour. The 'Diary' was exhumed at a later date when hostilities were over.

SNOWBOARDING WITHIN THE ROYAL SIGNALS

Snowboarding within the Royal Signals has come a long way over the past year. Introduced into the Signals Alpine Calendar for the first time last year, snowboarding has proved extremely popular with young enthusiastic individuals who find the sport exciting and technically challenging. Currently the sport is growing in popularity with the public, and many European resorts are recognising this by supplying more facilities to attract snowboarders. That is unless you have visited the dreaded 2km T-bar at Stubai (not so snowboard friendly). Due to the popularity of the sport, it is now being recognised by the Winter Olympic committee with competitors taking part in both Slalom and Half Pipe events.

Snowboarding was introduced into the Army one year ago at the Resort of Stubai, Austria. These championships attracted 30 competitors from all over the Army who had previous experience at the sport. The main interest came from the Royal Engineers who had been running snowboard clubs in Germany for two years before this competition. Not to be out done the Royal Signals held their own Snowboard Championships in Zell am See in December 1999. The Royal Signals Championships attracted 25 competitors with nearly 16 novices experiencing snowboarding for the first time. All individuals thought the training was excellent and the competition well run, all have expressed a wish to attend this year's championships (depending on whether or not their bosses release them from work). For the sport to grow and be recognised by the AWSA, more soldiers are required to compete at both intermediate and novice level. This will enable any future plans for funding easier, and show the development of the sport within the Corps. Currently snowboarding is only funded by the Army Sports Lottery and unit PRIs who generously fund their own soldiers to enable them to compete at competitions. The aim of Capt Boyne (Corps Snowboarding Secretary) and Sgt Graham (Team Captain) over the next few seasons is to promote the sport to a level that it receives adequate funding from the Corps.

Novices are encouraged to attend future camps, as they are the key to any future Corps success. A novice is someone who has had little or no previous snowboarding experience. Tuition at resort is always first class and novices normally pick up the basics in around four days. This figure is only a benchmark and normally depends on whether the individual has co-ordination and balance. A quick aerobics session down the gymnasium normally sorts out anyone who has two left feet. Competitions throughout the year encourage both individuals and more importantly teams to enter, with teams consisting of four or more competitors. Any future Army Snowboard Championships will be orientated around Inter Corps and unit level competitions, thus it is important for Royal Signals units to enter teams at this year's Corps Snowboard Championships to enable them to qualify for the Army Championships next season. The current Royal Signals Snowboard Team champions are 3 (UK) Armd Div HQ & Sig Sqn. Many of their team members were novices before they competed at last year's Snowboard Championships, all have made the progression by competing at the Army Championships this season. Disciplines at this year's Army Championships were Slalom, Giant Slalom and Boarder X. For many competitors the Boarder X is a hard introduction to competitive racing with many inexperienced people finding courses very challenging. Boarder X is the only winter event that enables four people to race head to head over a course. Helmets are mandatory and if possible individuals are encouraged to wear body protection.

Next season is going to be an exciting time for Royal Signals snowboarding with the Corps Team trying to improve on their position in the Inter Corps event. This year the Team managed an outstanding result after only one year, by finishing second behind the Royal Engineers Team. If more units and individuals are interested there is no reason why the Royal Signals cannot be the leader in snowboarding within the Army. If anyone would like more information on snowboarding and future Corps snowboarding events, they should contact Sgt 'Dom' Graham on Blandford mil 2585.

REMEMBER LE HAVRE 1944 BATTLEFIELD MEMORIAL - LE HAVRE

ASSOCIATION LOI 1901

It is proposed to obtain the remains of two Churchill tanks from the Saumer AFV Museum and to make up from them one tank as the centre-piece of the memorial to be placed on the roadside opposite Strongpoint No. 5 on the battlefield. The plaques produced by units involved in the battle, during September 1944, have been in storage ever since the first pilgrimage was made in 1989, as the War Graves Commission would not allow them to be placed in the St Marie Cemetery, Le Havre. It is proposed that they be mounted on either side of, or next to, the tank possibly with a brief description of the assault on Fortress Le Havre.

The President of the Conseil Generale, Monsieur Rever, has agreed to the proposal; he is a relative of the farmer whose farm is at Strongpoint No. 5. The Mayor of Montivilliers, in whose district the Memorial would be situated, is also agreeable to this project as are the other French authorities involved.

In due course a design plan will be produced showing the whole projected area. As to cost, Saumer quotes 100,000 francs (approx £10,000) for providing the prepared tank and for transporting to the site; the French are quite willing to contribute towards this sum. It will cost about 1,000 francs a year, for five years, to keep the tank/site in condition (the French say that they will meet this annual cost). Thereafter the cost will be renewed annually. Obviously we will need to raise our contribution to this project, hence we are trying to contact all the units involved in the assault and the battle, the Royal British Legion, the Normandy Veterans Association, the RAF Association and the Ministry of Defence. It is sad that so much time has passed since our first pilgrimage in 1989, But since then the French have tried very hard to find a suitable tank. Fontaine-a-la-malet, Octeville, Montivilliers and other villages are very supportive of our efforts. Due to its importance and special nature, the set-piece attack has featured several times in War Studies and Battlefield visits by serving personnel.

The anniversary of the the assault on Fortress Le Havre falls on Sunday 10 September 2000 and we hope to dedicate the memorial on that day. On behalf of REMEMBER LE HAVRE 1944, we are asking for your support of this project to commemorate those of our comrades who lost their lives during this action almost 56 years ago. Survivors are now secumbing to age and infirmity; we need to take advantage of this opportunity before it is too late. Please make cheques/postal orders, etc payable to REMEMBER LE HAVRE 1944 girobank a/c No. 29539406 and forward contributions to: Capt I. C. Hammerton, 65 Norfield Road, Dartford, KENT, DA2 7NY. Thank you for any help you can give.

NEW PHONE NETWORK FOR KOSOVO AND BOSNIA

A new communications system ordered for Kosovo and Bosnia will relieve hard-pressed UK Signallers, Armed Forces Minister, John Spellar, announced today. The £20 million contract to provide a new communications network will free 260 Royal Signals soldiers from their Balkan Commitments by the end of the year. Around 150 will return from Bosnia and Kosovo and others, who were preparing for deployment later this year, will not go. The new network will provide modern voice, data and facsimile links within the UK-led Multi National Divisions and back to the UK. The Signallers, many of whom are highly qualified and skilled technicians, are in high demand throughout the army, Mr Spellar said,

'Good communications are vital. We are living in an age when fast, reliable communications are more important then ever. This new communications network will use off-the-shelf technology to enhance the ways that British Forces in the Balkans can speak to each other, and call the UK. The move also reduces the pressure on our hard working Signals personnel, who will take post-deployment leave upon their return to the UK.'

The contract has been placed with BAE Systems based at Christchurch in Dorset. The equipment is expected to be in place by the autumn. The new system will maintain the UKs contribution to the NATO Stabilisation Force (SFOR) in Bosnia, and Kosovo Force (KFOR) in providing vital communications for peace-keeping forces. The system will be used by British troops and UK-led troops from other NATO countries. The contract is an example of MOD and industry working together under the SMART procurement strategy.

SOME NOTES FROM THE EDITOR ON ARTICLES FOR THE WIRE

DESK TOP PUBLISHING: We are now into Desk Top Publishing (DTP) in The WIRE office which enables us to keep costs down and maintain a closer check on The WIRE proofs during the development of each issue. However - we start building the magazine from the cut off dates for submission, and late entries cause us a lot of heartache - hence the appearance of Late News at the back of the magazine- something that we do not like having to resort to! But if, say, a late entry appears from a HQ or an early numerical Regiment, inserting it in the appropriate position causes a complete restructuring of all subsequent articles that have already been positioned in the proof - doubling the work for the editorial team -later entries cause further restructuring and puts substantial pressure on the capacity of our computer - we have lost the last three (including this one) issues through overload during the restructuring process and had to start again from scratch! We are waiting for a replacement computer with a much more substantial capacity but in the meantime - do try to get the articles to us on time!

A FEW REMINDERS: Major Units - THREE pages of The WIRE including up to NINE pictures (with faces identifiable). This approximates to FIVE sheets of single line spaced A4. Minor Units - ONE and a HALF pages including FIVE pictures. Articles to be sent on disc with hard copy and saved in Rich Text or Word. Do NOT send photos on disk, digital photos are no good for printing as they are, on average only 73dpi. Colour Photo Copies are no good for printing, send original photos only. If you are likely to be late or, more importantly have possible front cover or colour spread material let us know soonest! Should you require the return of photos or disks please state this in the covering letter and we will do our best to oblige. If a photo is used for the Front or Back Cover it will not be returned as it is kept in our archives.

TEAM UPDATE - by Capt Newell

The Team has arrived back from a well earned break and as always things are busy. The new fleet of 30 Triumph Tiger bikes has been built and the exciting prospect of running them in around Blandford Camp is now in hand. The Team have the wonderful task of spending the next few weeks riding 300 miles around camp – that's about 100 circuits! At the same time we're running another induction course attended by ten members of the Corps who'd like to join the Team. All the course are enjoying the cross country trial bike riding at Bovington as once again we have 15 Honda 250s on loan to add to the excitement. In two weeks we leave for a 4-week period up at RAF Sealand where we put the final touches to the show. This will then be unveiled to the public on 14 April 2000 at the SOinC(A)'s Opening Show. A very busy year of recruiting, major shows, tattoos and PR then continue. Other matters that lie ahead include a proposed White Helmets Millennium Reunion and a promotion event for Mars chocolate.

This year we say goodbye and good luck to Cpl Andy Butterfield (Tele Tech (Sys)) away to do his T1, LCpl Paul Cooper (Tele Op (TG)) on promotion to RSS, Cpl Daz Hankin (Tele Op (Spec)) on promotion to EOD duties, LCpl Andy Keatley, LCpl Ricky Ross, and LCpl Gaz Ryder to 11 Sig Regt, Sig Marcus Fiddes to 21 Sig Regt and Sig Mark Owen on discharge. We also congratulate LCpl Andy Keatley and his wife Georgina who were recently married. Leading the new arrivals is SSgt Paul Boughey taking over the reins from Sgt Don Brebner who leaves for the recruiting world later this year. New Team members learning the ropes are Cpl Chris Hunt (Dvr Lmn) previously the SOinC (A')s driver, LCpl Lewis (Dvr Lmn) from 11 Sig Regt, LCpl Sutcliffe (Tele Op (TG)), and LCpls Jackson (Tele Op (RR)), Lewis (Tele Op (RR)), and Scott (Tele Op (RR)) from 3 Div and Sig Regt, and 'Wolly' Woolnough (Tele Op (RR)). The results of the current (February 2000) selection course are unclear at the time of print – more word on new Team members next time.

WHITE HELMETS SELECTION COURSE FEBRUARY 2000
This is LCpl Murray Sutcliffe's (2 Sig Sqn) TA) account of The White Helmets' Selection Course

It started when I happened across a photo of some mad man leaping through a ball of fire on a big shiney bike! It was in fact a flyer offering places on a White Helmets' Selection Course. So I put a bid in, got a place and within a week was on a train making my way down to Blandford Forum. I was apprehensive and knew I was in for a hard two weeks but little did I know that at the end of selection the mad man on the shiney bike would be me!

PHASE ONE (INTRODUCTION TO BIKES AND OFF-ROADING)

On arrival at Blandford we were all given an initial brief by the OC, Team Captain and Sergeant and we were introduced to the Team's instructors. We were also told what would be expected of us over the duration of the course. The main points that I extracted from this brief were as follows. We had to show that we had bags of aggression, the ability to operate effectively under pressure and most importantly ..... they wanted to see that you had a big pair of swingers.....? I tried to explain that the room was very cold and anyway I'd rather show them in private.....I got no reply!

The daily routine started at 0700hrs with PT followed by all day on the moors (Bovington Tank Training area) then back for a quick dinner followed by cleaning the bikes and of course there is nothing quite like bike maintenance into the wee small hours of the morning! The bikes we used were Honda 250 enduro bikes which were lent to the Selection Course by the Display Team 'The Honda Imps'. As the week progressed so did our riding skills and it would have been hard to believe that all but one of us were non-riders at the beginning of the week. Another thing that improved as the week went on was the quality of the crashes! Affectionately known as 'S*!carting'. If you didn't 'S*!cart' at least ten times a day you weren't trying hard enough! One of my more memorable 'S*!carts' took place as myself and Cpl Chris Hunt, (on the back of my bike) followed our instructor, Cpl 'Fish' Fisher and another lad in our group, LCpl 'Rooster' Lewis. As Chris and myself came flying (balls out) round the corner we were faced with 'Fish' and 'Rooster' who, (unfortunately) had decided to stop right in front of us, (fortunately) leaving a bike-sized space between their two bikes!! Unfortunately they had stopped right infront of a tank-wash!!!! For the few of you who don't know what a tank-wash is think big, deep, muddy, cold, get the jist? Well all I remember is Chris trying to jump off the back of the bike, 'Rooster' shouting something like, 'Oh fuuuuuuuuuh?!' 'Fish' rolling about in stitches and then us two and the bike launching ourselves through the gap between the bikes to land right in the middle of the wash!!!!! This was one of the many (more humorous) accidents - some, however, were not as fortunate. The problem being that metal frames, soft pink bodies, speed and crashing are four things that don't go well together! One of the exercises was the escape and evasion type scenario which took place near the end of the first week. We were split into two groups, given our 'o' group and given three hours to complete our objectives which were to recover a bike from one location and then find the tools to fix the bike! All this whilst trying to avoid the enemy's (bike mounted) patrols. Unfortunately we did not complete our final objective but managed to get back to the admin area within the time constraint. The fact that there was a brew kit back at the admin area had absolutely nothing to do the last point!

The end of the first stage was marked by Race day using all of the skills we had learnt over the last week. We all had the handicap of having to carry two raw eggs with us on the way round. Broken eggs at the finish meant time penalties! I had about five really good 'S*!carts' but still I managed to keep my eggs intact, much to the astonishment of the instructors. Well guys do you want to know how? Pine-Needles make for excellent padding!

MY SELECTION COURSE - by Cpl Chris Hunt

A year ago I drove the inspecting officer, the SOinC (A), Brig Griffin, on to the parade square at Blandford Camp for the Royal Signals White Helmets Opening Show. This made up my mind that it would be the year that I should go for it and try for Selection for the White Helmets Team. Already living in quarters here at Blandford made getting to the course much easier than most who came from units around the country.

The 2-week course began with settling into our glamorous accommodation in Anson Block before we went out to get to the bikes. Only three out of the 14 of us had ever ridden a bike before. Myself, all be it twelve years ago, LCpl 'Rooster' Lewis (11 Sig Regt) and LCpl 'Muz' Sutcliffe (2 Sig Sqn Dundee). The three of us were put in to a group and Sig Fisher was our instructor for the moors training element of the course. For the next five days we were based at Bovington. This was a very difficult place to ride a bike, deep sand, lots of mud and of course lots of water. LCpl 'Muz' Sutcliffe managed to find the biggest puddle on the first day! A tank dip! I was unfortunate enough to be riding pillion at the time and we both went for a swim! Unlucky for him LCpl 'Rooster' Lewis came off worst in the little mishap and ended up visiting the Bovington medical centre for a few stitches in his left knee.

For the next five days we travelled to Bovington each morning, following PT and a kit inspection, with the bikes in the back of Bedfords. Each day everybody's confidence grew and it wasn't long before we were jumping small ramps and jumping over knife edges on the bikes. At the end of each day on the moors it was back to Blandford being extra careful when loading the bikes as a long day on the moors was very tiring.

The Hanging Ladder- Sgt Don Brebner and LCpl Lewis

Once back in camp it was straight to the wash point with the bikes (mud everywhere!) and when the bikes were clean we had to maintain them. Task's done to each and every bike which included making sure any damage was repaired (there was quite a lot). Both wheels were taken off to check spokes and brake pads, cleaning air filters of sand and mud, a lot of work. The first week ended with Race Day. All the different circuits that we had been going around on the moors was combined for a race. This was won by Sig Keith Hodgson who had already been with the Team for the 1999 season.

On the Sunday morning after a little get together down the Georgian town of Blandford the night before we had a little lie in and no PT. It was then time to get the Triumphs out. These bikes were fifteen years old Triumph Tiger 750cc, big engines! We went to Bovington again but this time to the Tank Museum Area where there was a grassed area where we got used to the bikes. After learning how to unload the Triumphs from the back of the Team trailer properly and learning the procedure for starting the bikes, it was time to ride them for the first time. An instructor led and we all followed: sitting side saddle, standing on the seat and all kinds of things that you wouldn't normally do on a motorbike, especially considering that most hadn't ridden a bike until the week before! Throughout the rest of the week we were all taught different tricks leading up to a show for the OC RSMDT, Lt Col Amberton. Tricks including the Double Jimmy, the Tableau, the Angel, the Throne, the Swallow and we all did the Fire Jump.

I began by learning the Throne with excellent instruction from Cpl Adam Malin, I didn't fall off too many times. Next I was taught the Angel which I didn't manage to get right until the morning of the show. I found out the hard way just how easy the Team make these tricks look when you see them in the arena. They are not easy, they take lots of practice, strength, guts and the ability to work through pain. The highlight of the show was the Fire Jump! After lots of practising jumping without fire it was time to pour 20ltrs of petrol on to the straw and light it. We all successfully jumped throughout the flames with only a few faces and uniforms burnt.

Throughout the course we were interviewed by local TV and we were interviewed once in a studio. It will be interesting to have a look at these tapes in the future. In all I found the course physically demanding and managed to get lots of cuts and bruises. However, I would recommend everybody, whether they have any previous experience with bikes or not, to give selection for the White Helmets a go - you will not be disappointed!!

THE ROYAL SIGNALS BAND

It's time to ring the changes at the Corps Band as Maj David Wall, the Director of Music, handed over his conductor's baton to Capt Paul Murrell. Friday 14 January was the day that, after nearly 13 years with the Royal Signals Band, Maj Wall retired from Directing the Band. There cannot be many people in the Corps who would not recognise those silvery-grey locks. For the Band personnel it also seems strange not to see them looking out of the picture window that is our view of the Director of Music's office. However, time stands still for no man, and we now welcome Capt Paul Murrell, his wife Jan and son Peter, (who is at boarding school) to Blandford Camp. We wish them happy times here and await the changes that will occur, with great enthusiasm.

As a former Gunner, Capt Murrell enlisted in 1971 as a junior musician. He then joined the Royal Artillery Mounted Band as solo clarinetist. In 1984 he started a three-year Student Bandmasters course at the Royal Military School of Music (RMSM), Kneller Hall and upon completion, was posted to the Worcestershire and Sherwood Forester's Regiment as their Bandmaster. After six years with his band it was time to return to Kneller Hall and with the formation of the Corps of Army Music, he was part of the Training and Development Team, and then became the School Bandmaster. After commissioning, and yet more time at RMSM Kneller Hall, it was time to take charge of one of the new amalgamations, The Band of the Prince of Wales' Division (Lucknow), then after less than two years with them, he took charge of the Corps Band. His reputation goes before him and we are sure that we have an exciting time ahead.

Shortly after the arrival of Capt Murrell we welcomed our second lady into the Band. Musician Esther Freeborn has just completed Phase Two training at RMSM Kneller Hall, this after studying at Wolverhampton University for her music degree. We again have the luxury of two flautists.

There has been little activity outside of the Band Block during the last few months. The carol concert in the Corn Exchange on 16 December 1999 was a sell out as it was Maj Wall's final public appearance with the Band. A handful of dinner nights, a play-off for the cruise liners out of Southampton for P&O Cruises and a Parade for the Air Training Corps Anniversary through Blandford have given us a break from digging deep into our music library in preparation for the year ahead. The New Millennium is shaping up to be an unusually busy time for the Band. Everyone wants to employ the Band's services to add an extra dimension to their celebrations so it will appear that it will be late into 2000 before the Band will have time to stop and breathe!

THE ARMY TAUGHT YOU NEVER TO GIVE UP, SO DON'T

So there you are in civvy street doing the same old thing day in, day out. But...why?...If it's the Army you're missing, then how about joining the TA? It's a vital part of the British Army.

There are two options open to you. First, you can join one of the Territorial Army Independent Units based in the TAVRA region in which you have decided to settle. An ideal route for those who wish to serve locally. Which Unit you join will depend on those available in the area you live in. Second, if you are leaving a Corps, you could retain your cap badge and become a member of either an Independent Unit as above, or a TA Specialist Unit. In either, you can maintain and develop the special skills that you have learned.

The minimum commitment as a member of the Independent TA is 6 weekends, a two-week Summer Camp and some weekday evenings. As a Specialist we ask only 2 weekends and a 15 day annual camp. In return, you will earn Army rates of pay and an annual tax-free bonus of up to £1050.

For an information brochure call 0845 603 32 32 quoting ref WI010, or send the coupon to: Freepost, The TA, CV37 9BR.

NEWS FROM HEADQUARTERS

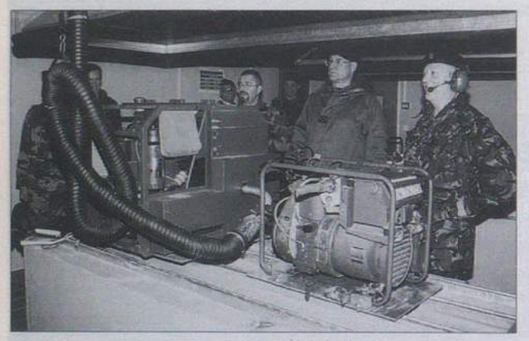
HEADQUARTERS ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS

THE VISIT BY THE SIGNAL OFFICER-IN-CHIEF, BRIG C. J. BURTON OBE ADC, TO THE FRENCH SIGNALS CORPS 9 - 12 JANUARY 2000

The Signal Officer-in-Chief, Brig Cedric Burton OBE ADC, recently visited the French Signal Corps accompanied by his COS, Col John Ewbank, and the French LO at Blandford, Lt Col Alain Malnuit. The party were met at the Eurostar station in Paris by Lt Col Stephen Croft, the British LO at the French School of Signals.

On the first day of the visit Brig Burton met his French opposite number, Lt Gen Patrick Henry, who acted as guide and host throughout a packed schedule over the following three days. After inspecting the guard of honour, the SOinC was given a brief on the French Signal Corps, which was founded in June 1942. The British party was impressed by how quickly such a relatively young Corps has adapted itself to be at the very forefront of communications change.

After lunch we were briefed on the French equivalent of the DCSA, set up by Gen de Gaulle to give the military exclusive use of its own fixed telecoms network. This network is the most sophisticated and extensive in Europe, but the French government is now considering privatising it. The rest of the afternoon was spent at Thomson CSF, seeing the RITA 2000 system and the new HQ CIS configuration. The SOinC remained impassive throughout to any 'hard sell' by this French communications contractor, which works hand-in-glove with the French Signal Corps. We were then wined and dined in a very smart Parisian restaurant, run by a world champion wine taster, and the British party nearly guessed one of the wines correctly (they said it was red and dry).



'.....sorry Mon Général
but I am getting no answer from this generator!'

In a cavalcade of official cars, with occasionally the blue lights flashing to move aside mere mortals, the visitors were swept off to Laval, two hours west of Paris, to see RITA 2000 at its testing and experimentation unit. The Brigadier was able to test the equipment and spoke to a surprised French Colonel on duty in Kosovo - this was after widespread panic caused by Lt Gen Henry asking the duty officer if he spoke English, to which he replied 'No, sir, I do not, but I know a man who can!'

After another magnificent lunch we arrived at the French School of Signals in Rennes, Brittany, where Brig Burton met the school commandant, Maj Gen Kuntz, and inspected the guard-of-honour. A presentation followed on the school, which trains all ranks on signals equipment, with the exception of the signaller, who carries out initial training in the regiment. The SOinC then toured the school and met both instructors and students. After dinner with Gen & Mrs Kuntz, the Brigadier was shown to his suite at the school, appropriately named 'The Blandford Suite', reserved for visiting generals from around the world.

SOinC (A) and Lt Gen Henry being briefed at the French Army Signal School at Rennes

The following morning the party flew to the French equivalent of HQ LAND, at Lille, where the SOinC met the GOC, Gen Forterre, and was then briefed on the French CIS management system. The briefing was followed by a tour of the shelters used by a divisional HQ in the field - the Brigadier was most impressed and asked if he could take one home! The evening was spent wining and dining Lt Gen Henry, who had accompanied the SOinC throughout his visit. The two Generals (for in France everyone from Brigadier upwards is addressed as 'Mon Général') had hit it off, further strengthening the growing ties between the two Corps. The return gastronomic match is awaited with much anticipation!

HEADQUARTERS 2ND (NATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS) SIGNAL BRIGADE & COTSWOLD GARRISON

Comd Brig S. G. Hughes CBE

THE COMMANDER VISITS HIS SCOTTISH 'ESTATE'

Brig Hughes has undertaken what will be his final 'Grand Tour' of his [NB: at this point, the author asks readers of this article to picture in their minds, shortbread box-lid scenes of Bens, Glens and Bagpipers] Scottish 'estate', visiting some of the most far-flung outposts within the 2 (NC) Sig Bde empire. In the space of a mere four days, The Comd visited 2 Sig Sqn (V) in Dundee, R Signals MCM Div and 32 Sig Regt (V) in Glasgow, 52 Sig Sqn (V) in East Kilbride, Comd 52 (L) Bde in Edinburgh and both 242 Sig Sqn and GOC Scotland in Craigiehall. He raised and resolved a great number of concerns and issues and was successful at further raising the already exceptionally high profile of the Brigade north of the border. He was delighted to meet a great number of both TA and Regular soldiers and officers of the Brigade, many of whom took the opportunity to fully express to him their own individual concerns and aspirations! Brig Hughes will soon be moving on to become Comd BMATT in Sierra Leone.

HQ STAFF CONQUER THE MALVERN HILLS

by SSgt Dek Painter

The idea started off as, 'Wouldn't it be nice to go for a ramble,' and ended up being a nine mile yomp across all the Malvern Hills! Both military and civilians had volunteered to go; now it was a case of damage limitation. WO2 (YofS) Jimmy James and SSgt Dek Painter decided that a recce should be done, as Malvern looks quite flat on the map. So of they toddled to run – no, walk – no, amble the chosen route, to find all the watering holes along the way and to ensure that there were enough places for a mini-bus to park should one of their 20 or so fellow ramblers become injured, exhausted or, er, develop altitude sickness on the day. Three options were identified: the first being up to the top then along the ridge (hard); the second being up to the top then following a line just below the ridge (easy); the third being 'stay in the bus and we'll see you at the end!' The map was put on the notice board with the easy route highlighted in luminous green and the hard route marked very faintly with an HB pencil.

We all met at 7 am - still dark and the middle of the night for some. The bus dropped us all off at the most northern car park, which was next to a sheer rock face. At this point, a jolly japester who shall remain nameless said, 'Right everyone, we need to get up that rock face - it should only take a couple of hours, then it'll be all down hill from there.' The replies were too abusive to publish here. Then we were off with the COS, Maj Paul 'I've jumped over bigger hills than this' Kelly, leading from the front – as we would have expected of course. It was lucky that he possessed the most yellowish yellow jacket in the entire world and was therefore not that hard to find in the mist. A few of our lady ramblers hadn't realised quite how steep the first bit would be, but they persevered admirably and were rewarded at the highest point (Worcestershire Beacon) with sleet, rain, snow and a Force 8 wind. The rest of the walk was a doddle - though some might say otherwise.

The happy ramblers of Corsham conquer
Worcestershire Beacon

We stopped for lunch at a hostelry for ale drinkers and by sheer coincidence the England v Fiji World Cup match was on! Once back on the bus most people simply crashed out, exhausted after a day of fresh air and exercise, a very successful day indeed.

FAREWELL THEN COLONEL TONY

The HQ bids a very sad farewell to Lt Col (Retd) Tony Hill, who retires – properly this time - after more than 11 years here as SO2 G1/G4/MS. We'll greatly miss his unique sense of humour. In fact, it could be said that Col Tony resembles East Ham Tube Station – in that he's one stop short of Barking! Seriously, however, it can also be said that Col Tony could have been the very model for which was written the following statement extracted from the Royal School of Signals Troop Commander's Guide:

'An officer's personal conduct must be beyond reproach. Integrity is essential to leadership, in that it implies honesty, sincerity, reliability, unselfishness, moral courage and consistency of approach..'

In his time here, Col Tony has provided successive Brigade Commanders, members of the Staff and the remainder of the Brigade and Cotswold Garrison with an abundance of honest, sincere advice. He'll be very sorely missed. His successor will be Lt Col Mike Stevenson, who is, of course, no stranger to the ways of MS himself. The HQ looks forward to his arrival in the New Year.

CONGRATULATIONS

Sincerest congratulations to Capt Andy Fletcher of the ACISG, who has married his resident-of-Paris-loved-one, Paula. She that must now be obeyed works for Mobil and lives in an exclusive quarter of the French capital - which must seem like a million miles away from dear old Corsham. The HQ wishes them every happiness for the future and hopes that the fact that they happen to live and work in different countries at the moment will not detract too much from the joys of married life!

HEADQUARTERS 11 SIGNAL BRIGADE

The rigors of Christmas and the New Year behind us, we entered a period of calm and consolidation – I think not. With half the Headquarters dispersed and using the airlines the way the rest of us use taxis, the Headquarters seems almost peaceful at times. However, the planning for the build up exercises towards Ex Arrcade Fusion and for the exercise itself continues enthusiastically – 'You had how many planning it last year?' seems the staple cry from the newer members of the Headquarters. The planning and implementation of the commercialisation of communications as part of the Commander's pan-Balkans CIS Strategy continues apace. The team Maj Jim Foulkes, Captain John Hiorns and Flt Lt Farid Khan seem to oscillate between Theatre, Abbey Wood, Christchurch and Donnington with monotonous regularity. They seem to have that air of men who have got withdrawal symptoms from the lack of golf, are suffering total bewilderment at the magnitude of the task in hand or are suffering horrendous jet lag! The Commander has continued to show that he really can be in two places at the same time; but we knew that already!

HAIL AND FAREWELL

It seems to be a habit of starting this section with the comment another period of heavy changes. Having just said farewell to Majs Jean Payne (V) (no relationship to Cynthia) and Jim Sykes over the Christmas period, we continue the motion in the New Year. However, as an aside, avid readers will remember it was reported in the last edition that Capt Jim Sykes was warned of a posting to Germany and was much disappointed at not being posted as Training Major to a TA unit. Well wheels do turn and his posting was changed to - Training Major of a TA unit. Well there goes one exceptionally contented soldier! Congratulations on the promotion Maj Sykes and we know you are delighted to be getting every Monday off?

On the 22 January, over a working week, we bid farewell to a number of stalwarts of the Headquarters. Over a fine lunch the Commander, Brig Jonathan Cook, let flow in prose his words of farewell, to the outgoing Deputy Commander, Col Douglas McLay, Flt Lt Farid Khan and SSgt Bas Roberts. Col McLay departs to be Colonel TA at HQ R. SIGNALS, while Flt Lt Khan, our RAF exchange officer moves to TCW with the intention of turning them into real soldiers. This will be his first posting to a RAF unit! To both we offer our thanks for their efforts and friendship during their tours and wish them the best in their future careers. SSgt Bas Roberts leaves not only us, but the Regular Corps and the Army to join the TA proper, as Staff Sergeant NRPS in 31 Sig Regt – fine Regiment (and Adam (of Eve) tells me it was even better when it was part of this Brigade!) We wish him and Brenda all the best in their new environment knowing that they will enjoy both London and the new unit. We just hope that having had the time to get his handicap down to single figures in Shropshire, that the cost of golf and the anticipated work load in London does not push it back up.

With all sadness there has to be some gladness (this is the Commander's prose getting to me!) and he continued in verse to welcome some new arrivals. Our new Deputy Commander, Col Roger Davenport arrived fresh and eager, from 2 (NC) Sig Bde, to join a real field Headquarters! Believe us he has already made his presence felt! To him and Elaine we offer a warm welcome and a successful tour. Our new SO3 Ops Capt Alan Garrett arrived willing and able, and now commutes to and from Kosovo with the ease of a Whitehall warrior between Main Building and the Keep. The last to be part of the Commander's bardic tribute was Maj Mark Smith who arrived from the rigors of Squadron Command in 36 Sig Regt to the delights of Shropshire and the Headquarters. We also have subsequently welcomed our new EO Finance to the Headquarters, Miss Davina Carter – new face and new post. We are sure that she will have a prosperous and enjoyable tour.

POST SCRIPT

It is apparent that some members of the Corps are still working from old Staff and Distribution lists. It might therefore be prudent to remind them that HQ 11 Sig Bde moved from Deysbrook Barracks, Liverpool to Venning Barracks Donnington, Shropshire in April 1996. For those who seldom travel north of the Black Pudding line, Shropshire is a rather large County between God's Country and the M6, some 30 miles North West of Birmingham.

NEWS OF TRAINING

THE ROYAL SCHOOL OF SIGNALS

EXERCISE SHARP INITIATIVE 18-21 JANUARY - by Cpl Barker

Unknown to the rest of the Troop, Cpl Ramsey and Cpl Barker had been putting together an Exercise that would test the iniative and resourcefulness of the Junior NCOs in the Soldier Training Section. We were under the impression that an Inter-Section Competition, Exercise Champ or Chomp, had been organised at HMS Dolphin in Gosport. During the initial briefing, our mobile phones and wallets were taken from us. Then SSgt Heaton, our Troop OC took great pleasure in telling us that Ex Champ or Chomp didn't exist but that Exercise Sharp Initiative did. Over the next few days our initiative would be tested to the extreme. We were to survive without any money and attempt to complete various tasks, ranging from selling women's underwear to appearing on a television programme. After being given only three minutes to pack a day sack, we were divided into pairs, loaded on to two minibuses and dropped off all over the south of England.

Most of the groups set off towards London where they hoped to visit the Dome, Planet Hollywood and get their names on the Euston destination board. Cpls Passfield and MacDonald were the first to score points by appearing at Chelsea football ground with George Weah. After travelling to London Cpls Shaw and Hitchmough decided that it was about time they pulled a pint. Cpl Ganga and LCpl Raine headed to Soho to try and get an interview with a stripper, but after being offered various illegal substances they decided to give it a miss. Now in Bournemouth Cpl Lockwood and myself, Cpl Barker, successfully arrangeed to stay in the Royal Bath, a five star hotel. Then we interviewed David Essex at the Pavillion Theatre. After selling women's underwear in London, Cpls Hewitt and Parkinson began their long search for accommodation. Winchester FM were happy to help Cpl Ginson and LCpl Gillett in completing the task of getting onto radio. I feel that at this point I must apologise to the patients in Southampton General where they dressed up as nurses and worked on the wards.

After, in some cases a good night's sleep, the NCOs of Radio Exercise Troop set off in search of breakfast and, as with most fit and healthy soldiers, Burger king was the choice. Completed tasks were being reported back to the stunned exercise controllers in Blandford at a more frequent rate. Cpls Passfield and MacDonald had managed to get into the Mirror and met Helen Chamberlin from Sky Sports. Cpl Lockwood and myself achieved the task of getting a free meal in Planet Hollywood and met Paddy Ashdown. Cpls Shaw and Hitchmough managed to drive a police car and get their fingerprints taken. Cpl Gibson and LCpl Gillett got into Southampton football ground. Cpl Ganga and LCpl Raine had their photo taken with Clive Anderson and after constantly being turned away from everywhere that they tried, Cpls Hewitt and Parkinson decided to write a poem about hospitality in our capital city. The Exercise finished with a presentation to the Chief Instructor, Lt Col Batho, who was very impressed with what his NCOs had achieved. When all the points had been totalled up, first place was awarded to Cpl Lockwood and myself.

RADEX TROOP - by Cpl Mark Cozens

Finally the Exercise period is over, time to relax (or so we thought). No more exercises until February. It had been an eventful couple of months with various vehicle inspections and day to day duties in Radex Tp. We had our fifth annual golf competition, another wet day, but all in all it turned out to be a good round, with the expert, Cpl Andy Lane, doing a lot of coaching. Congratulations to the winning team, who were Sgt Pete Emsen (surprise), Cpl Andy Lane (surprise), LCpl Jason Kent and Sig Stu Gould. We also had our Christmas party in Bournemouth, organised by Cpl Graham 'AFA (Abs from Aberdeen)' Gibson. Thanks for a brilliant night, which was enjoyed by all. Radex Tp has had quite a few promotions in the last few months. Who says it doesn't pay to be in a training unit.

Congratulations to Cpl Ted 'Tangent' Heath on promotion to Sergeant and for selection to go on his YofS. Also LCpls Mark Cozens and 'Parky' Parkinson on promotion to Corporal and Sigs Steff Brownless, Wayne Evans, Stuart Gould and Kev Johnson on being selected for Lance Corporal.

In December we had shock news of a marriage hidden from the troops, of Cpl 'Mac' MacDonald and Simmone Walls. Congratulations to the pair of you. Since our last entry in The WIRE we have had numerous people posted in. Welcome to Cpl Tim 'I'm not going to be here very long' Barker, LCpl Mick 'I can learn my trade now' Raine arriving from a long stint in the guardroom. Sigs Wayne Evans, Stu Gould, Kev Johnson, LCpl Rich Eveleigh and LCpl Cooper. We also now have a few budding sports personalities: Cpl Mark Cozens, Cpl Ed 'When I can be bothered' Lockwood and LCpl Martin 'Got all the gear' Gillett, who represent the Regiment and Blandford Hockey teams.

NCO LEADERSHIP WING - A personal view by Sgt 'Si' Wigmore

In case there is still any doubt within the Field Army over the location, name and range of courses provided for the Corps by NCO Leadership Wing, this article is mandatory reading. Under command of Capt Steve Morgan, the Wing is firmly established within Command Training Group, which in turn lies within the newly formed Training Operations Division at the Royal School of Signals. The following personal report by Sgt 'Si' Wigmore has been written after four months experience in NCO Leadership Wing.

I joined the Wing at a time of change, as the Royal Signals Detachment Commanders Course (RSDCC) became the Royal Signals Junior Commanders Course (RSJCC) and the Royal Signals Sergeants Course (RSSC) moves into a transitional phase in order to keep pace with the changes taking place within the Corps. Since moving from Colerne in 1998, it was apparent after I arrived that the ethos has not changed: all instructors dedicate themselves to getting the best out of students on every course run by NCO Leadership Wing. Like many in the Corps I had heard rumours that the courses were now attendance only. This I discovered to my relief is not the case. Whilst the content is changing to meet developing Corps requirements, the standards required for a favourable result have not. It has to be stressed that course reports still have a great influence on future progression through the ranks. As this article goes to press, the RSSC Royal Signals Training Objectives (RSTO) are being reviewed to keep up with changing needs within the Corps. The manning for the RSSC Team has changed from one Staff Sergeant (SSI) and four Sergeants (SI), to four Staff Sergeants (SSI), one of which will be Queen's Gurkha Signals. The Wing continues to be commanded by a LE Captain and there are three Warrant Officers, one of whom is the Infantry Adviser. At this point it is worth reminding readers that NCO Leadership Wing is always on the look out for high-calibre instructors as volunteers to come to Blandford. All applications must be clearly stated 'NCO Leadership Wing' to assist R Signals/Int Corps MCM Division staff.

The Royal Signals Sergeants' Course tackling the Assault Course at Blandford. Standards of fitness must be high on arrival

During my time in NCO Leadership Wing we have received many visitors from both the Regular and TA units. Commanding Officers, Squadron Commanders and even Training Wings from Regular and TA units have seen for themselves the work carried out by the Wing. There is an open door policy at NCO Leadership Wing that extends to all personnel, whether prior notice is given or not. The Group and Wing OC's both actively encourage units to visit. So what standards do you need to achieve before arriving at Blandford in order to pass a course, and pass it well? A sound knowledge and understanding of ITDs is essential. This must be balanced with a good level of physical fitness. If you struggle with the BCFT in week one on the RSSC, you are unlikely to find time to improve your fitness during the course! Reaching these standards is only the minimum standard required, as a positive attitude and an open mind will count for much during your training.

The courses offered by NCO Leadership Wing are listed below:

Regular
Royal Signals Sergeants Course (RSSC)
- 5 weeks duration, 5 per year
Royal Signals Junior Commanders Course (RSJCC)
- 4 weeks duration, 6 per year

TA
Royal Signals Staff Sergeants Course (RSSSC)
- 2 weeks duration, 2 per year
Royal Signals Corporals Course (RSCC)
- 2 weeks duration, 4 per year
Royal signals Recruit Course (RSRC)
- 2 weeks duration, 10 per year.

Like so many other areas of the Corps, NCO Leadership Wing is undergoing necessary change to meet the future requirements of the Corps. There should, however, be no doubt amongst personnel within the Corps that, although the emphasis on the courses and subject matter may change, the ethos and standards required to achieve good results have not. Prior preparation is the essential.

TROOP COMMANDERS COURSE 46
EXERCISE CRYSTAL DRAGON: 27–31 JANUARY 2000
by 2Lt E. McLellan

Whoever compiled the training directive for the Troop Commanders Course deemed it necessary to include a period of arduous adventure training as a compulsory element, (as if Radio Group, Area Systems Group and many other 'Groups' weren't enough) – thank you. 2Lt 'Pizza Wheel' Morris and 2Lt Hebblethwaite were delighted to be delegated the responsibility of organising the exercise and worked hard to formulate something demanding, challenging and original. Following in the footsteps of our predecessors was not an option, it was time to be different. Not surprisingly, a little arm twisting was required to convince the course that a ski trip to Austria would be 'more beneficial' than hill walking in Wales. Using the generous grants available costs were kept to a minimum. 2Lt Morris found the cheapest flights possible, or so he was led to believe, until additional members to the exercise managed to get tickets for the same flight at half the price. Consequently, after some gentle encouragement and the suggestion of a good will gesture the Course Instructor, Capt Ade Clewlow secured the use of the Lufthansa Business Class Lounge (i.e. unlimited supplies of free food and drink).

Thus, after much planning and preparation, it was time to put on our course tops, beautifully designed by 2Lt 'Slim' Hawkins and fly to Munich, (not forgetting to visit the Business Class Lounge along the way). We arrived in the small town of Hochfilzen, 1000m above sea level, in the early hours of a Friday morning with the promise of excellent skiing conditions. Beginners, intermediate and advanced groups were formed, with instructors being provided from the local Austrian ski school. Friday was the day for discovering and re-discovering our 'ski-feet'. Naturally the Advanced group quickly ascended to the higher slopes and descended even more quickly, full of style and professionalism. This was further enhanced by 2Lt 'Marmite King' Smith who had been modest enough to place himself with the intermediates. Meanwhile the Intermediate Group was not only revising basic ski skills, but putting translation skills into practice as Florian the instructor told us to, 'Look towards the Wally' (the Valley). At the bottom of Hochfilzens' slopes the Beginners were quickly mastering the snow plough and preparing to ascend a little higher. During the next few days, lots of progress and improvement was made by all as everyone maximised their time on the slopes, keeping après pistes visits to a minimum and making the most of the skiing opportunity. The Intermediates' spirits were slightly dampened on the Saturday when they were left minus instructor for a while, an action which got him sacked! In the end, snow holes and snow angels were artistically created instead. An early start on Sunday compensated for this and horrendous weather conditions kept the entire civilian populous away, leaving the slopes of Fieberbrunn clear for our almost exclusive use.

Cool not Cold

The aim of the exercise was for all Troop Commanders to achieve the Basic Ski Proficiency Bronze Award. The final morning was test day, with excellent weather conditions and plenty of snow. The amount achieved in just three and a half days was demonstrated by all members of TC 46 gaining their Bronze award and 2Lts Hawkins, 'Colonial' Lumley, and 'Big Bird' Pim achieving Silver (hope the instructors course goes as well). Then, painful as it was, we had to say goodbye to the slopes and return to the reality of Blandford and exercises of a different nature. However, Ex Crystal Dragon was without a doubt a great success, particularly given the time scales for preparation and execution and considering that it is the first of its kind for a Troop Commanders Course. A big thank you to those who contributed funds to the trip and to SSgt Fluck and his staff on Exercise Winter Warrior for their support. Finally, a point for all units, eighteen Troop Commanders are shortly to commence their first tours and will be more than happy to take Troops skiing.

REGIMENTAL CHRISTMAS CAROL SERVICE
by Sig Fitton 2 Sqn

The Regimental Carol Service was held in the gymnasium complete with cross, lectern and flags a-plenty. The padre gave a lovely homily on the life of Christ and the use of mobile phones, which gave us all a lot to think about over Christmas. The bible readings from the CO, Lt Col Nicholson, and Sig 'Fitz' Fitton were given in legendary style, but nothing could match the singing! The soldiers' competitive nature and noisy enthusiasm raised the rafters and set new standards in tuneless chaos. It was obviously going to be a great night as the carol service was followed by the soldiers Christmas dinner and a disco.

SINGLE SOLDIERS CHRISTMAS PARTY – by Sig Casson 2 Sqn

Following an 'angelic' Christmas Carol Service in the gym, 2 Sqn made a decisive move to march over to the cookhouse for our Christmas dinner. Expectations were circulated about the amount of free beer we were going to receive. I had personally been told at least four by our departing WO2 (SSM) 'Taff' Thomas. I and many others were therefore a little disappointed to find two cans of newts! Special brew on the table. Although it has to be said, it did improve as we drank. Seated, we waited with great expectation for the festive meal whilst pulling our expensive crackers. Cheers went up as the permanent staff served us, including celebratory guest Sgt 'Ned' Flanders from radio group. It's nice for the boot to be on the other foot for a change! Spirits rose as we hurriedly wolfed down the food, in an attempt to eat it before it was taken from beneath our noses. This did not prevent a certain extrovert personality from Iron Tp turning his sprouts into highly accurately ammunition, hitting WO2 (SSM) 'Taff' Thomas with what can only be described as a direct 'hit', square on the nose. His buddies, of course, grassed him up which earned him six show parades. A small amount of food may have been distributed between the tables in the finest airborne tactics, with the meal finished we retired to the bar for a few 'quiet drinks!' An excellent send off before a well needed Christmas break.

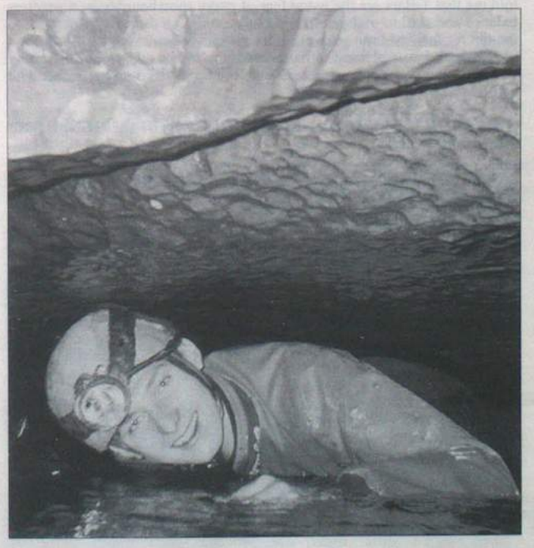
EXERCISE DARK DRAGON I 23-28 JANUARY 2000

Exercise Dark Dragon I was a level 3 Caving Expedition led by Cpl 'Tony' Brown to the North Yorkshire Dales. The group departed for Yorkshire mid-morning on the Sunday, the long drive north seeming endless. Upon arrival we all quickly settled into our accommodation and unpacked the van before the first of our evening lectures.

Monday morning bright and early off for our first day caving. Sig 'Matt' Judge was given the task of map reading to the cave 'Great Douk'. With the cave entrance found we finally put on our kit and entered the darkness. The entrance series start wide and high but slowly get lower and tighter, cries of 'its bloody tight' started to un-nerve Sgt 'Dave' Uttley. Eventually daylight and for those on their first caving experience, it was a welcome sight. But no rest for the wicked, there were four more caves before the day was over.

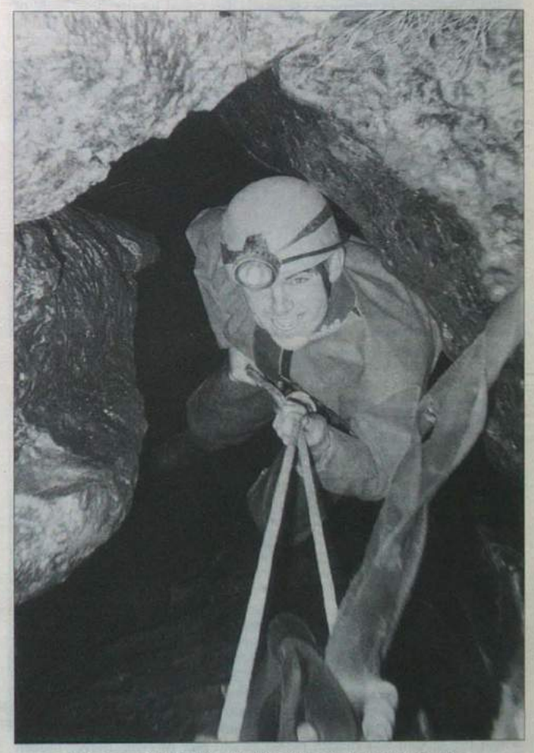


Great Douk Cave Sig Kev Beavis negotiates a low wet crawl

Tuesday's cave was 'Upper and Lower Long Churn', a cave which links into Alum Pot. The map reading was handed over to Sig 'Ben' Rollins, who navigated the group to the top entrance of 'Upper Long Churn'. The entrance was a 5m-water chute, which required roping up. Once the group were safely down we meandered our way down through the system to the notorious 'Cheese Press', a low bedding plane crawl. Comments of 'you're bloody joking' came from the group, but when Cpl 'Tony' Brown squeezed through (note; it is just after Xmas and we are all a little plumper), confidence grew and the whole team slowly but surely pushed and panted their way through.

Wednesday and we were off to Brow Gill and Calf Holes. The exit was rigged prior to entering, as this was to be a through trip. Sgt 'Dave' Uttley rigged the pitch for SRT exit for the instructors and left an electron ladder in situ for the group. The cave entrance 'Brow Gill' was the largest so far - a massive opening about 15 foot high and wide. As usual this was not to last. After about five minutes we were on our bellies until we arrived at an enormous waterfall. The group looked around for a way ahead, only to be told that the waterfall had to be climbed. Cpl 'Tony' Brown climbed first and placed a top rope system to safely bring the group up. Even when roped up Sig 'Ben' Rollins found the climb an ordeal. Once at the top the passage turned a corner and we were on our bellies again. The passage enlarged as daylight showed the way to the climb out at 'Calf Holes'. The exit was a 10m ladder climb which proved to be difficult for most of the group and one which Sig 'Stacey' Swithenbank entertained the group; with her original technique in ladder climbing.

Thursday arrived and the week was nearly over, Yordas Pot through to Yordas Cave and Heron through trip was the order of the day. As we approached Yordas Pot entrance (as seen on 'Don't do this at home'), the infamous fallen tree on which ropes are rigged off was looking worse for wear. It was decided that the group would abseil down with the ropes backed up on other anchors and only the leader would abseil directly off the tree to enable the pull through. The abseil was 33m to the bottom of Yordas Pot, one or two of the group had lost a bit of colour and gone pale, but took the challenge in their stride as one after the other they all descended. Once at the bottom it was all smiles and Sig 'Jim' Mooney was in his element declaring that he had definitely found a new sport. A low connecting crawl was negotiated before another abseil; this time down a waterfall; into Yordas Cave. Everyone down and we entered the massive cavern of Yordas main chamber, breathtaking in its size. There was to be no crawling here and after a short walk we exited through the remains of the old Victorian Show Cave Entrance. An excellent trip and the whole group were buzzing. Unfortunately due to water levels Heron Pot had to be given a miss.



'Yordas Pot' Sig Ben Rollins Abseils into Yordas Pot

Friday already and it was time to get on the Mini-bus for the long drive south back to Blandford. All in all it had been an excellent week with many of the group wishing to pursue caving as a sport.

SSM WO2 (SSM) Neil Fisher

The Squadron would like to say welcome back to SSgt Gaz Cole after a spell in hospital, apparently all the Phase 2 soldiers missed you! The Squadron would like to say hello to WO2 (SSM) Neil Fisher (no relation to WO1 Fisher MBE) who has joined us from along the corridor from Blandford Support Squadron and a farewell to WO2 'Taff' Thomas who moves across to School of Signals and joins the DIT team.

SQUADRON CHRISTMAS PARTY

On the 9 December the 2 Sqn Christmas function had an intergalactic taste to it as it took on the theme of outer space. Welcoming the soldiers and guests was the OC, Maj Louise Tomkins, whose costume of Queen Amadala was so realistic, that when Sig Allen was asked to introduce her to his wife, the reply was, 'Ok, but who are you?' The Sqn 2IC, Capt 'James T' Kenyan turned up in his futuristic working dress after a bumpy ride in his old trusty MG land speeder. Other eye-catching costumes were worn by SSgt 'Darth Maul' Graham (turned to the dark side). Cpl 'Trigger' Smith was a NASA rocket complete with ingenious human waste disposal system. Sig Lomas wore tin foil (good effort) and WO2 (SSM) 'Taff' Thomas came as a Roman (only a few centuries out sir!). We weren't expecting much from the bands that had been booked, however, they performed well and entertained us with great music that got everybody on the dance-floor. Gatecrashers were expected and took the form of unknown mystery silver alien; he proceeded to study us attached to his finger, (alien anatomy). With a well put together finger buffet making a welcome break from cookhouse curry, Iron Tp and Beaufighter Tp shared all the raffle prizes. With disco fever seeing the night out, thanks must go to SSgt 'Darth Maul' Graham who organised a great night which was enjoyed by all.

EXERCISE LIGHTNING CHALLENGE - by LCpl 'Vic' Vernon

Ex Lightning Challenge is a one day training exercise that took place on 16 January 2000, run by Lightning Troop. The aim of the exercise is to put the troops through a variety of military orientated stands, testing them both mentally and to a degree physically. It is also designed to enhance their knowledge and experience for future promotion prospects with the use of leadership skills. In all 60 soldiers took part, which were split into six ten-man teams.

Each team had to complete six stands that lasted for one hour each, of which three were verbal discussion stands. The Phase Two trainees had to be guided through subjects to do with current civilian and military affairs. Stand 3, the discussion stand, consisted of the trainees standing up and giving a quick talk about themselves and their experiences so far. Pte 'Ross' Hunters (who is currently re-badging from the 1 Bn Royal Scots) gave a particularly enlightening talk on his life as an Infanteer in Kenya (Namedropper). Stand 4 consisted of a presentation on Leadership skills by Capt Todd, from the Royal Signals Leadership Wing, Stands 5 and 6 were the Command Tasks. Each stand was run by two NCOs from Lightning Tp who are currently re-trading from other forms of life to Technician, they were Cpl Dave ' I'm a Liney' Atherton, LCpl Jay Dine, LCpl Vic ' Ho Ho Ho Solo' Vernon and LCpl Steve ' T.A. Mate' Mottram. Stand 6 was the stand of LCpls Dine and Vernon, which consisted of giving some much needed aid to Mr Floppy Dopelis or Mr F to his friends. Mr F is in real life three six-foot lengths of fire hose between two end blocks filled with sand. For the exercise Mr F is a Kosovan Albanian with Angina and the troops' task was to evacuate him via a quick run through the Forrest, across a minefield to his house to get his Angina Medicine. Nothing was allowed to touch the ground in the minefield and nothing was allowed to be touched in the house as it was contaminated with a rather nasty substance. Basically you could say that Mr F 's life is not exactly a bed of roses. His life didn't improve any when the first ten trainees arrived and proceeded to throw Mr F around with the bedside manner of a enraged gorilla in hangover mode.

To add a touch of realism, towards the end of the hour the area came under mortar fire, the first round was a smoker, strategically placed to completely obscure the teams' activity as they hurried to complete the task laid out for them. As the first round blinded the team the second (a Thunderflash) deafened them. With the noise and smoke the trainees found it somewhat difficult to concentrate on the task before them and the sight of trainees falling off of ropes and things shouting 'Incoming' whilst scrambling onto Rovers was a sight to behold. All in all the day went well and the trainees seemed to enjoy the tasks set for them and a good time was had by all.

D.S. LCpl Mottram and Cpl Atherton.Their aim for our command task was quite simple; retrieve the keys to start a car from a locked box situated within a minefield without you or your equipment touching the ground. The box containing the car keys was fastened by two padlocks, of which the keys were placed in two separate areas. The first was situated in a piece of plastic tubing stuck in the ground and was fastened to a cork, whilst the second was hidden inside an old pair of NBC gloves hidden inside one of the obstacles inside the minefield. The 'contenders' had to traverse over various obstacles collecting firstly a water canister; this then had to be filled up using a jug from a big water trough. This hopefully would be used to float the key out of the tube. Unfortunately several teams opted to use the jug only. But anticipating this we cut a large hole in the bottom, which several team members found out much to our amusement! Sig. 'Swampy' Kiff managed to collect most of the water in his combat trousers instead of the jug. Also Sig 'Mungo' Singh spent over ten minutes quietly staring down at the pipe before commenting ' 'ere as anyone seen that key that was at the start?' Only to remember a further five minutes later he in fact had it in his pocket. The key in the glove, caused the most problems to the teams. After some constructive prompting from Cpl 'I'm a liney' Atherton, who was now rolling around on the grass holding his sides, the teams managed to find the key, apart from Sig 'Cluster' Allen who wore the gloves for about 10 minutes without noticing a large padlock wrapped in paracord inside the little finger. Overall everyone who was not soaked enjoyed themselves, and the tasks were completed within 45 minutes, which left 15 minutes spare. Needless to say my car was pretty clean!

ROYAL SIGNALS SNOWBOARDING CHAMPIONSHIPS
ZELL AM SEE, AUSTRIA 3-11 DECEMBER 1999

OUR FIRST TIME SNOWBOARDING - By Sig Thomas

From an early age I always wanted to try snowboarding, I saw it on the telly and when given the opportunity by the Regiment to learn the sport at the Corps championships, I jumped at the chance. I went to Austria as a complete novice, not knowing what to expect. After my first lesson I was a little more at home and found things quite easy. My instructor helped me get over any nerves and he was constantly with us all when we first started out. Once I managed to stay on two feet I started to enjoy things more, and with this came the need for speed. By the second day I was much more confident getting faster all the time. This was a recipe for disaster because the quicker you end up going on a snowboard; the more it hurts when you crash. On a snowboard there are no quick release binding for your feet. By the race day I was managing to turn quickly and couldn't wait for the slalom race to push myself to the limit in race conditions. I found it hard at first to turn round slalom poles, as it required lots of technique. I enjoyed the competition aspect of snowboarding, but preferred the freestyle aspect with jumps better. Now I have had a taste of snowboarding I will definitely go again when the opportunity arises.

By Sig Lavin

I was pleased to be given the opportunity to learn this new and exciting sport. Funding came from the Regiment and Army Sports lottery to help keep the cost down to a minimum. We arrived in Austria to find the weather cold and icy, a lot different from Blandford weather, not!! Lessons started on the Saturday morning for the novice group. We were all nervous and were made to feel relaxed by the Instructors Sven and Michael. I was told that snowboarding is a massive amount of fun once you have mastered the basics. Who ever told me that must have been lying, as my body was physically exhausted, battered and bruised after the first days tuition. The group was introduced to the Glacier at Kaprun on the Monday where we all had our first introduction to the long world famous T-Bar. All the skiers on the slope seemed to come and watch, as we all tried in vain to make it to the top. This beast just seemed to go on forever, by halfway your legs had given up the ghost, your arms had added about two inches hanging on for grim death and as you fell off to the delight of all the skiers your pride was hurt. This didn't put us off and by the middle of the day, my entire group managed to get to the top without any problems. People have told me that T-Bars are the worst fear of every snowboarder, as it requires balance and skill to make it up without becoming a casualty. Making it to the top for the first time gave me a great sense of achievement. By the end of the week I was pleased to have learnt the basics and would definitely like to go again given the chance. Next time I will be going to a resort with a good chair lift!

5 DIVISION INTER UNIT LADIES HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIPS
by Sig Parrott 2 Sqn

Ladies Hockey Team

13 December 1999 the Ladies Inter Unit Hockey Championship was held at Blandford Camp. The first game of the day got underway, it was slightly one - sided as 11 Sig Regt beat UK land 8-0. The next game was UK land v HQ 3 (UK) Div. Land put up a good fight but unfortunately went down to 6-0. After a buffet lunch came the final, it was a hard fought game between 11 Sig Regt and 3(UK) Div, both teams worked well to try and break the deadlock. It ended 1-0 with the honours going to 3 (UK) Div, due to a fine individual goal scored by LCpl Tracey Prowse. Lt Col Proctor kindly carried out the presentation of the trophies. Thanks were given to the umpires, WO2 (SSM) Neil Fisher and SSgt (SQMS) 'Monty' Moore and the teams were congratulated on their high standard of play. A special thanks was also given to Sgt Lee Swann for organising the tournament. 3 (UK) Div HQ & Sig Regt and 11 Sig Regt will now compete in the Army Cup in March 2000.

REGIMENTAL NETBALL

The standard of players and the standard of games have never been so high as we enter a new millennium. In November 1999 a committed team comprising of mainly young bloods with a few exceptions set off to the 5th Division Inter Unit Netball Competition, winning a strong victory against many very experienced and well established teams, and earning a place in the Army Inter-Unit Finals in Aldershot.

Winning came as somewhat of a surprise for the team. We had initially struggled to train together due to trade training constraints, but with one competition win under our belts and a little bit of street cred on court the team began to gel well on court as well as off. We upped training to two nights a week, which meant that Sig 'I can't train enough' Caplin was in the gym more often than in class! The 'twins' Sig 'Dizzy' McMann and Sig 'Dizzier' Greenhalgh kept morale up, whilst Sig 'Rocky' Pardoe threatened the Army boxing team. The training weekends had somewhat of a social air to them with Sgt 'Sport Billy' Hawtree thinking she was Tiny Tim in Tescoes rather late at night, and after an exhausting days netball the good old curry came into play.

The Regiment's Netball Squad was outstanding in the Inter Units final gaining a very respectable third place, and exhausted from their efforts went on to represent the Royal Corps of Signals team the following day in the Inter Corps Championships. The Regimental girls showed true endurance and commitment to the sport and played each Corps game as though it was their last. They certainly dominated the Corps side with all but one player coming from Blandford Garrison; a mixture of Cadre and phase two trainees was no match for many of the teams. In the end the final was won yet again by the jolly green giants the RLC. Capt 'Mac' McAnulty and Sig 'Kerry' Hopkinson were made to feel like dwarfs against the RLC team, and they were our tallest players! The team finished Fourth overall on goal difference. Sgt 'Vicki' Hawtree and Sig 'Frog'Lawton impressed the Army coach and have since been selected for the Army Squad.

RUGBY

The season started off well for the rugby team with a trial against Blandford Rugby Club, which finished with a well deserved win. This gave WO1 Sartorius and SSgt Meek a good basis on which to build and establish a decent team for the forthcoming season. With the high turnover of soldiers passing through 11 Sig Regt it has been quite difficult to establish a settled team, however several young players have lived up to their potential and have been selected to represent the Corps, Army Under 21s and the Army A Side.

Sig Beart	Corps and Army Under 21's
Sig McGregor	Corps and Army Under 21's
Sig Podesta	Army Under 21,s
Sig Carlaw	Corps and Army A

Having to rely on the youth of 11 Sig Regt it has become pretty traumatic and trying to get soldiers out of lessons has been a difficult exercise, so yet again the team has been dominated by permanent staff and up-graders. Playing in the first round of the Army Cup proved what dangerous sport rugby can be when Sig Cockerill sustained a neck injury and had to be rushed to Salisbury hospital by air ambulance. Luckily only ligament damage was diagnosed and the young soldier is now back to full fitness. 11 Sig Regt finally played the rescheduled match in early January but were unfortunately narrowly beaten. Although this was a blow to morale it meant that the team was now into the first round of the Army Shield Competition and had to play against RMC Shrivenham. After an excellent 80 minutes the score was 10 – 10, extra time ensued with 11 Sig Regt finally running out as well deserved winners. The team now goes on to play 1 RSME in the second round. Having the Corps side based at Blandford has also given the chance for several of the older generation to be selected to play for the Corps side including:

WO2 (SSM) Manktelow	Sgt Meek
Cpl Lang	LCpl Latham

REGIMENTAL CROSS COUNTRY

The Regimental cross-country squads are enjoying their most successful season yet. Following success at the Army Relay Championships, reported in the last edition of The Wire, the squads have gone on to win at the Corps and Army Championships in early February. The main driving force behind the teams' success is the team coach, WO2 (SSM) 'Taff' Thomas, formerly of 2 Sqn, who has been able to capitalise on the athletic squad's success and persuade the juniors to train in the evenings and run in the league during the week.

In one afternoon on a gruelling course at Deepcut, the Regiment won the Mens Junior Team and Womens Team Army Cross-Country Championships. If that was not enough, LCpl Sophie Morris became the Womens Champion, Pte (now Sig) Tom Grady became the Junior Mens Champion and Sig Lisa Wiles became the Womens Junior Champion with Sig Helen Caplin as the runner up in that category. The winning womens team was complemented with gritty performances from Sgt Whiting, Sig Greenhalgh and Sig Lawton. 'Well done ladies'. The following week the Corps Championships were staged at Bulford. The Mens Senior Team, now reinforced by some of the Juniors, were narrowly beaten into second place by just 2 points by the home team, 3 (UK) Division HQ & Sig Regt, who had themselves been runners up in the Army finals the week before. This very creditable performance was bolstered by fine performances from the Corps Veteran Champion, WO1 (YofS) Stuart Little, the Corps Junior Mens Champion, Sig (yes now a Sig) Grady, not to mention Cpl Whittacker, Sig Torode, Sgt Maughan, Sig Easterby Jackson, Sgt Clark and WO2 Thomas. The 2IC Regt, Maj Phil Brown, also ran with his usual promise to award ROPs to anyone in the Regimental squad that failed to beat him, fortunately all were safe that day despite him coming 43rd overall.

The Womens' team continued on their success trail by storming through with three of the team that had won the Army Championships the previous week, these were Sig Wiles, Sig Caplin and Sgt Whiting and the team this time complemented by newcomer Sig Scott. Sig Wiles (another Junior Champion) won the race closely followed by Sig Caplin. Will it ever end?

As the Autumn term drew to a close with the Passing Out Parade for Intake 99B on 16 December 1999, in which the Squadron was the lead sub-unit with the OC commanding the parade. We said farewell to not only the Apprentices passing-out but also to a few of our permanent staff. Cpls Matt Thomas and 'Tina' Turner leave the squadron on posting to 16 Sig Regt and 14 Sig Regt (EW) respectively. Cpl Sy Cullen is off to Blandford to join Whitespear Tp whilst Cpl 'Muz' Murray goes to attend his Sergeants Course at Blandford followed by the Yeoman of Signals Course in the year 2000. Cpl Collin Brotherston, meanwhile, leaves us to join 2 Sig Regt in York as a Sergeant, so congratulations also go to him on his well deserved promotion. Sgt 'Archie' Archer CHESHIRE is also leaving us having been Troop Sergeant of Penney Troop for the last two years, he goes to rejoin his Battalion, whilst Capt Kelly Holloway leaves us to rejoin the Military Studies Department (MSD). Fanally the Sqn 2IC, Capt Krishna Gurung, is off for some well earned Nepal leave before reporting to 31 Sig Regt (V) in February 2000 We wish them the best of luck in their new posts. With such a big turnover, the Squadron will no doubt experience some turbulence at the start of the next term, but fortunately there are enough 'old hands' remaining to ensure that this is kept to a minimum. Replacing our leavers we warmly welcome Cpl Trafford from 16 Sig Regt, Cpl White from 264 (SAS) Sig Sqn, Cpl Carter from 3 (UK) Div HQ & Sig Regt, Sgt Gardiner from 1 RGBW, Lt Simon Collyer AGC(ETS) from MSD and Capt Evans from 1 (UK) Armd Div HQ & Sig Regt.

NEWS FROM SCOTT TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Tom Jefferies
Tp Sgt Sgt 'Waggy' Wagstaff

By the time this is published Scott Tp, intake 99B, will have passed-out of the Army Apprentice College, Arborfield, and will be keenly awaiting their relevant trade training courses at Blandford - all, that is, except AT Loynes who 'jumped ship' and joined REME at the last opportunity. They have been an excellent Troop and the staff pass on their best wishes to them all for the future. Here are just a few of their escapades which took place in the last weeks of training.

CONSERVATION PROJECT
15 OCTOBER 1999 AND 13 NOVEMBER 1999

Scott Tp were tasked with clearing a section of the derelict Wey and Arun Canal, that had been abandoned for more than 100 years. Under the guidance and supervision of the local trust volunteers the ATs worked tirelessly cutting down and clearing trees, bushes and weeds in the base and up the sides of the canal. The ATs were only 'armed' with hand tools - bowsaws, pruning loppers, rakes and ropes. However, their resulting efforts were impressive and although briefed not to tackle some of the larger trees the temptation proved too great for many and soon there was the resounding cry of, 'TIMBER!' all along the canal. The cleared debris was then piled high and burnt on some spectacular sized bonfires. During their two days of work the ATs cleared over 650mtrs of the canal. With the line of the canal now cleared the Wey & Arun Canal trust can now re-water this section to provide a linear water habitat and preserve the canal with a view in the longer term of dredging and complete restoration.

EXTERNAL LEADERSHIP (EL) 2-17 AND 21 OCTOBER 1999

by ATs Donnelly, Latusek and Loynes

On 17 October 1999 Scott Tp set off for Senneybridge Camp in Wales for their secon EL. There were cries all round as we realised that we had to travel on military buses, no radio for this journey! We arrived at Senneybridge and went through the usual administration. We fought over who got the cleaner pillows so that we wouldn't catch the usual spread of impetigo!On the main sports field sat half a dozen Lynx helicopters much to the satisfaction of 'spotters' Crowley and Frost.

The second day we were split into groups for two days hill-walking. Luckily there was an instructor with each group or they would still be trying to round us up! We gathered our issued kit and set off for the hills, admiring the views, hasseling a few sheep and arriving at the campsite with sore feet. Day Two of the trek saw us navigating ourselves with varying degrees of skill but we all made it home eventually. The next activity was canoeing, it proved to be very cold out of the water and freezing in and under it! Lessons were given on correct paddling techniques, turning and rolling. Travelling down the river we found out just how cold and shallow the water was, particularly when we encountered some rapids. A few people capsized but they survived the experience and carried on. In the end we all finished, though some of us were colder and wetter than when we started. However, we all enjoyed the experience. The final day was devoted to rock-climbing. When we reached the parking area for abseiling all we could see was the huge abyss down which we were to abseil later. The instructors picked four routes to improve our present skills and learn some new ones. We all managed to successfully climb the four runs with only a touch of the disco-leg syndrome. Later we tried abseiling back down and we all eventually completed the huge drop off with a few people even daring to jump/bounce down.

EXERCISE MERCURY STAG - 19 TO 21 NOVEMBER 1999

by AT Brooksbank

This was a battlefield tour to Arnhem and for the ATs to learn about Operation Market Garden, 17-26 September 1944. However, with the journey times involved it was necessary to make this a weekend trip travelling through France and Belgium, staying at RAF Bruggen in Germany and visiting Arnhem in Holland on the Saturday. AT Brooksbank continues.....we set off for Arnhem at 1300hrs on Friday, catching the Dover/Calais ferry and then through Europe to RAF Bruggen. The accommodation there is about ten times better than ours - single rooms and showers that worked! Breakfast on Saturday morning was yet another eye-opener - carpet and sofas in the corner, food that was tasty and and excellent selection of cereals. We then travelled up to Arnhem for the battlefield tour. First stop was the Airborne Museum at Oosterbeek where we were briefed by a guide and shown round. Then it was a drive round the key locations, drop zones, withdrawal position over the Rhine, Oosterbeek church, St Elizabeth's Hospital and finally to the cemetery. At each point we had a brief walk round, were told what happened there and who was involved. In the cemetery there are nearly 2000 graves, many of which were unknown soldiers, and a number of Royal Signals graves mostly from the 1st Airborne Divisional Signal Regiment. As a mark of respect we conducted a ceremony of Remembrance at the Memorial and laid a wreath from all the personnel at the Army Apprentice College. The last stop of the day was in Arnhem at the Bridge itself, the key, the objective of the battle. Although most of the buildings had now changed we were able to get a feel of what had happened. The area that the Royal Signals soldiers from Brigade Signal Squadron had defended, once their radios had stopped working, was also pointed out. Following this visit we went to Arnhem town centre to have a look around and find our evening meal before returning to RAF Bruggen. Sunday was spent travelling back to the college where we arrived at 1930hrs after a long drive home.

EXERCISE JANNERS JOY - 25 TO 28 NOVEMBER 1999

by AT LCpl Frost and ATs Crowley and Johnston

After a day of stands testing our skills in NBC, First Aid, Observation, Section Attacks and Map reading we arrived back at the harbour area and carried on with our routine. At 1830hrs a warning order came round for an O Group for the following morning. The warning order said that we would be taking part in a company + attack on an enemy position we had previously recce'd. At 0330hrs the people on stag went around waking their Sections and all the kit was packed by 0400hrs. Once all the kit was packed we patrolled a short distance to some open ground and carried out rehearsals. When 0500hrs came all the Sections were sat in patrol order just in front of the model which showed the ground that we would be attacking. Capt Jefferies then proceeded to give us a full set orders explaining exactly what we would be doing during the attack. 1 Section would be Point Section and their Section Commander was AT LCpl 'Soldier 95' Frost. 2 Section would be the second Section in the attack and their commander was AT 'Moley' Crowley. 3 Section was the Reserve Section and their Section Commander was AT Johnston (233). At approximately 0530hrs the Troop headed off to the FUP (Forming Up Position) and the order of march was 1, 2 and then 3 Section. The route out was hard going because of the excessive amount of mud on the tracks and the utter coldness of Salisbury Plain at 0530hrs in the morning. We arrived at the FUP at approximately 0600hrs but were not due to cross the start line until 0630hrs. The attack was to be a silent start with no artillery fire support neutralising the enemy. Waiting at the FUP was stressful due to the coldness and the adrenaline, which was building up whilst we waited for the attack to start. At 0630hrs everybody stood up and started to advance on their axis. Capt Jefferies then handed command over to the Section Commanders. About 500mtrs from the enemy position parachute flares started lighting up the surrounding area. At about 400mtrs from the main enemy position AT LCpl Frost's Section came under attack from the right. He then began to manoeuvre his Section towards the enemy position. 2 Section came under fire from the left and proceeded to fight through to the enemy position under the control of AT Crowley. 3 Section under the control of AT Johnston came under attack 200mtrs from the enemy. After each of the enemy positions had been secured and other pockets of the enemy had been neutralised we headed back to our harbour for tea and medals!

NEWS FROM THE BALKANS

MULTI NATIONAL DIVISION (SOUTH WEST) HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL REGIMENT OPERATION PALATINE

CO Lt Col David Hargreaves
RSM WO1 (RSM) Steve Jackson

Two months on and virtually all traces of 20 Armoured Brigade have been removed to be replaced by an amalgam of 12 Mechanized Brigade and Signal Squadron (228), 2 Signal Regiment and 34 Signal Regiment. The new members of Multi National Division (South West) Headquarters and Signal Regiment were all in place by 10 December 1999, just in time to spend Christmas and the Millennium in the Balkans. Christmas spirits aside, the Regiment now looks forward to providing communications and life support to the Headquarters in a country renowned for its poor weather and difficult terrain. The snow and the lack of a decent road network have made re-supply to the Hill Top Sites very difficult indeed. Some sites regularly go for several weeks without visitors due to the severe weather. Yet, far from being daunted by the prospect of spending weeks on end in splendid isolation, the detachments on Hill Top Sites relish the prospect of running their own show.

CGS visits the troops during his Millennium Tour, WO1 (RSM) Jackson looks on Aside from the usual role of 'boots and haircuts', WO1 (RSM) Steve Jackson has been busy trying to improve the lot of the soldiers in Banja Luka Metal Factory. As well as trying to improve the facilities in the gymnasium, starting several sporting competitions that will last for the duration of the tour, he has also done a magnificent job of improving the five-a-side football pitch inside the Metal Factory. The new and improved football pitch was opened to the public by Maj Gen R. V. Brims on 9 February 2000. The RSM was aided in this gargantuan feat by a team of 'volunteers' who have earned the prestigious title of 'The Banja Luka Thirteen'. The Banja Luka Football League begins this month and promises to put the Premier League to shame.

SUPPORT SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj John Aspinall MBE
SSM WO2 (SSM) Kev German

Support Squadron consists mainly of 228 Sig Sqn personnel, ably assisted by enthusiastic volunteers from the TA and Reserve Forces. Since arriving at Banja Luka Metal Factory in early December 1999, we have been kept busy dealing with administrative problems and shoveling the copious amount of snow that currently covers Bosnia. Road traffic incidents have been kept to a minimum. The Foden has been called out to recover LCpl Mark 'Ned Flanders' Warrington from a hole behind the cookhouse. LCpl Richie 'GI' Southwell and Pte 'Princess Lulu' Leelah's near head on collision also proved an exception to the drive defensively rule (which is flawed when everyone on the road is out to get you, no matter what).

Christmas passed quietly with the Department deservedly enjoying their two cans and trying hard to make them last all day. New Year and the Millennium passed in much the same way with not a bleary eye in sight on the CO's Millennium photo. The department have been hard at it since New Year with the exception of SSgt Gaz 'Doris (Sig Steadman) make a brew' Greaves, Sgt Deano 'Pop Quiz' Whitworth and LCpl Kev 'Don't fall in the skip' Dade enjoying a week back in Blighty competing in the Army Cross Country Championship. In their absence the MT department was kept running by Sgts Paul 'Crazy' Tazey and Joss 'I'm not stressed (much)' Mason.

On a sad note, the MT football team was gracefully dispatched from the initial five-a-side football competition. At least the weather here is starting to show signs of improvement, which is more than can be said of LCpl 'Syph Lip' Jackson's football skills.

SUPPORT SQUADRON SWEETY TREAT

On the 7 January 2000, the Orthodox Christmas, WO2 (SSM) Kev German and crew collected together DM750 and bought the EFI out of sweets for local children. They set out at approximately 0900 hours returning empty and exhausted at 1600 hours. Many needy locations in Banja Luka were visited and many small glasses of sljivovica (slip in the ditch) were drank as the local populous came out to greet them. A very rewarding day was had by all.

SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Scott Workman
SSM WO2 Mark Neighbour

Special congratulations go out to LCpl 'Robbo' Robinson and his wife on the birth of their first child. With all the excitement of fatherhood, he chose to do the honourable thing and leave his wife holding the baby while he went off skiing for two weeks before returning to Bosnia. Last but by no means least, many congratulations to SSgt Paul Gardner on his well-deserved selection for promotion to WO2.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Tom 'Am I really looking fitter' Day
SSgt SSgt Dicky Dyer

The excitement of a Balkans Christmas and Millennium now but a distant memory, the Troop turns its thoughts to summer weather and mid tour R&R. After some nine weeks in theatre, the sixteen sites that make up the Troop have settled into a comfortable routine. Amidst varying weather conditions, re-supply of the sites continues from the small Tp HQ in Banja Luka with the help of a selection of decrepit Rovers, and the aviation cell. Lt 'Doris' Day, SSgt Dicky 'Dirk Diggler' Dyer, Sgt Craig Dudley continue their quest to provide an acceptable level of service to the whims of the out detachments; ably assisted by LCpl 'Godzilla' Subarna, and Sig Paul Denham. However Sgt 'Snowy' Snow and Sgt 'Shell-Suit' Murphy claim actual command and control of the ship in the absence of Lt 'Gym Queen' Day, running cross country in UK, and SSgt 'I'm off for my education' Dyer, swanning on his EFP in Split. Special mention to Slapper the resident cat for putting up with being coloured in with lumi-pen and being locked in the desk drawer.

Cpl John 'Let's destroy the bosses career' Hilton, LCpl 'Smudge' Smith and Sig Paul Lawrenson are busy staying warm on Sjenekosvic hill top, the least visited site since our arrival in theatre; Is this down to inaccessibility or can't we be bothered? Cpl 'Paddy' Briscoe, LCpl 'Greeny' Green and Sig Paul Kennedy at Lisina West continue to entertain both Radcon, Tp HQ and much of Banja Luka with their excessive re-supply requests; sorry but there's no chance of us getting a gunship for site protection, Paddy! LCpl Dave Reid, LCpl 'Jimmy' O'Mahony and Sig 'Mac' McGeorge, recently won the affections of the OC Sqn after entertaining him at lunch with lobster and swans eyelids in aspic, in a bid to win the best det scoff competition. LCpl 'Fordy' Ford, LCpl 'Scotty' Nichol and Sig 'Boff' Walker are buckling under Boffs crippling daily PT timetable, coupled with a diet of salad and lentils as they train the time away at Radaljica. LCpl 'Gurung' Allen, Sig 'Yes, m'lady' Parker, Sig Ian Hannant and Sig 'Freddy' O'Brien hold the fort at the village of the damned, struggling to cope with the demands of operating their single radio. Special mention to Sig Hannant for clearing a path through an imaginary minefield to inspect a Sherman Tank that children were playing on! Cpl 'Coxy' Coxon, LCpl 'Dangerous' Armstrong and LCpl Robert Edward Varley have been living like hermits on the Vitorog. The three tormented souls that have become extremely 'close' since their arrival at the site, were spotted recently by a passing helicopter and were reported to have shaven their heads and donned monastic robes.

LCpl 'Sharpy Sharpster' Sharp, LCpl Kelly Thompson and Sig Meecham occupy a chalet at the disused ski resort of Sisava. Despite the harsh conditions that they are being subjected to they are performing admirably and have established a good relationship with the Dutch. Cpl Adam 'Why do they call me Dog?' Barker, Sig 'Mac' McDowell and Sig 'Curtains' Adshead win the prize for the quietest COMMCEN in the Troop, as they go into their ninth week of Czech made soup and fish-heads at Ljubija COMMCEN. LCpl 'Trigger' Hunter, Sig Dan Fallows and Sig Williams suffer similar dietary problems at the hands of the French Canadians in Coralici. LCpl Ross 'the Avenger' Williams, Sig 'Cat weasel' Bailey and Sig Paul 'Smasher' Hick are close to their lifelong dream of being the undisputed Balkans WWF wrestling champions as the 'Bushwackers' of Kupres. In a bid to put the finishing touches to their death defying routine, they have shaved their heads apart from the neck area, and can be seen patrolling Kupres camp in army thermals and boots.

Cpl Nick 'Giant Haystacks' Ions, LCpl Rick 'Cold as Ice' Turner and Sig 'Smudge' Smith have begun training at Sipovo in an attempt to topple the 'Bushwackers.' LCpl 'Taff' Davies, Sig Edwards and Sig Mel Rudkin have become particularly friendly with the Air Corps at Gornji Vakuf, to the extent that they now dine with and are entertained by the RSM. LCpl 'Robbo' Robertson, Sig Kelly-Rutherford, Sig O'Callaghan and Sig 'I know my rights!' Zimmerman are busy demanding further manning for their already overcrowded COMMCEN at Mrkonjic Grad on the premise that they are the busiest det. With the imminent closure of Ivovik hill top, Cpl John 'Doctor' Love, LCpl 'Geordie' Wharton and Sig John Marshall prepare to join other hill top sites to bump up manning during the R&R season. With the closure of the COMMCEN at Tomislav Grad, Cpl 'Boring' Bob Littlewood goes to Ljubija to free up Dog who's destined for Banja Luka commcen along with Sig Tubb; Sig Mick 'Thou shalt be struck down' Allan joins the resup boys at Tp HQ.

Despite being miles from home, the majority of Comms Troop are thankful beyond all comprehension that they are operating from some inaccessible knoll in the middle of nowhere, and not foraging for some grip on reality in Banja Luka metal factory...

MOBILE TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Dave Haslewood
SSgt Sgt 'Where's my crown' Wilcox

With a tropical bird 'two can' Christmas and New Year over with, the Sisters of Mobile proved ready to take on the challenges of the first six months of a new Millennium in BLMF. When taking a break from setting the fastest lap times on Colin McRae rally, 2Lt 'most crated Rodney in SFOR' Haslewood has been working hard helping Sgt 'Toyah' Wilcox overcome his caffeine addiction. Time has also been spent curbing his appetite for blatant 'jollies,' (also known as adventurous ski and watersport instructor courses - apparently the voices are in the ocean man). Fortunately this proved to be just in time to activate the Divisional Alternate Operations room when a Bergen with a suspected IED was left in the Div Ops room. Thank God we have the Sappers to come and blow somebody's underpants up for us (it's a long story laced with sex and lies).

With the high standard of professionalism set it was time to deploy the GOC's Tactical Headquarters. It was also time for Cpl 'gassius cassius' Austin to watch in awe as Mobile Troop soon earned their Diploma in tent erection. However, this was proved to be of no use when the headquarters was remoted into an old Battlegroup Operations room in Gorni Vakuf on exercise 'Frantic Fury'. An extremely apt name for the exercise with Cpl 'middle yukka' Simmons keeping the Troop OC frantic and the rest of the guys suffering from furious laughter with his antics. Fortunately the Troop fund is substantially healthier after that weekend out of BLMF. (Nice one Simmo!). Upon return the turnaround commenced with making sure our beloved tentage was in tiptop shape for the next day of tent erection.

The BLMF 5-a-side football competition set emotions flying as 'The Mob' disappointingly failed to emerge triumphant even once. The Light Infantry proved too strong, but not strong enough for the big Fijian Sig 'Jonny' Kama who proceeded to bounce the grunts all around the pitch. Special performances by LCpl 'Charlie's Angel' Appleyard in goal, Cpl 'Top Scorer' Holroyd and Sig 'Big Gay Al' Alladice were all monitored by international talent scouts but even Sig 'Sozza, chest and tri's' Soraine with his fetish for tight shorts failed to get a call up. Sig 'Foxy' Fox's 21st Birthday proved to be eventful with a 'Vietnam' night in the bar. Unfortunately not even Sig 'Yes I am a Stab' Lavy with his unique cockney slang could persuade the Americans to see the funny side. As well as work there has been a chance for some adventurous training with Sig 'Lego head' Stone and Sig 'Village' Bogart managing to breakaway to Switzerland for a couple of weeks.

So as the middle of the tour closes in, R & R dates are there to be looked forward to. That's unless you already had it LCpl 'Mr Burns' Waters! Oh yes, Lanyard Trophy training has started for the airborne ex members of 216 Para Sig Sqn. Enough said!

HEADQUARTERS TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Ross 'Rambo' McLeod
Tp Sgt SSgt Howe

Well, the sun's come out and the temperature has finally gone above freezing, a pleasant change from the -28°C that we endured last week. With the improving weather, the FRT taskings are reducing. While the weather in BLMF is better, though, spare a thought for those on the hill top sites, many of whom are still snowed in, the Viterog being under 12ft of snow, which can be quite dangerous as 2Lt Ross 'Connor' McLeod found out over Christmas when he flew up to Sjenokovic and jumped off the Chinook only to 'discover' the razor wire perimeter fence buried under 4ft of snow. The welcome absence of snow down in Banja Luka, however, is particularly welcome for the FRT teams as the roads are now considerably less dangerous. The FRT team personalities are Cpl Matt 'Gripper' Evans, Cpl Rob 'Billy' Evans, LCpl Lee 'Archie' Gemmel, LCpl Dave 'Are there any Wolves up here?' Wesson, Cpl Jace 'Yes, there are' McBain, Cpl Dave 'Scrouch' Scurrah, and Cpl Pete 'were-sloth' Mulcahy. In the workshops we have Sgt Ian 'I'm so Airborne it hurts' Dickinson, Sgt Trev 'Where's the beach' McSween, Cpl Jodie 'Alpine' Wood, LCpl Nick 'Jif jobs' Constable. Last but not least, in R&I is LCpl Andy 'Speed Freak' Johnson. The task for this team is to maintain the secure comms around MND(SW) as well as the welfare systems on some camps, i.e. BFBS systems and Sky TV. We travel all over Bosnia avoiding the mad local drivers and RMP speed traps (well, most of the time), to provide area wide Euromux and VHF coverage. We are currently approaching the period when people are going on R&R and Lanyard Trophy, both back to the UK. The words 'rats' and 'sinking ship' spring to mind.

The Line Section is led by Cpl John '1000yd stare' Whitworth. Line section is the consistently overworked crew responsible for anything to do with wiring in the BLMF. Not renowned for their gleaming personal presentation skills, this motley crew includes Sig 'Butch' Richardson, whose major feat this tour was to go AWOL for almost a day, then turn up in 'sunshine city' only to escape the clutches of the system by going on R&R 12hrs later (much to his surprise, as he hadn't been told that his dates had changed. Sig Derek 'Chief' Burness demonstrated what a switched-on consumer he is by spending lots of DM on a 'BCB Gerber' in Mrkonjic Grad before watching it disintegrate after only 10 minutes out of the box. Sig 'Rag Order' Satchwell is sadly convinced that he is 'in' with the local ladies manning the CD stalls outside the camp gates, despite the fact that some of the aforementioned ladies could model for FHM. Sig Andy Middle has discovered a new party trick recently - turning around an FFR and trailer by 180° with only a little help from some black ice. Finally, HQ Troop says goodbye to Cpl Mark 'Two-stroke' Quinn, who was dined-out, or rather, drunk-out in Sarajevo and spent his last night in Line section adding character to one of the bars in Sarajevo, and hello to Cpl Martin 'Side Parting' Ferguson, who will hopefully be a more stabilising (and RSM-compatible) influence than Cpl Quinn.

Syscon, or 'Comms Help Desk' as we have euphemistically been re-titled is the ever-smiling face of the Signal Squadron for the myriad for staff officers who need help with comms issues. The line up is headed by SSgt Paul Gardener, who insisted that The WIRE notes mention how handsome he still is (and modest..) the 2IC is Cpl Claire 'Gym Queen' Rutter who manages to spend more time in the gym than in her own Corimec. When she is not in her Corimec she is allegedly whinging to Staff, who being the kind, sensitive SNCO and SSM to be that he is, is more than happy to listen. Congratulations to SSgt Gardner for successfully coming off the promotions board last week, and to Cpl Liam 'handsome' Froggett - even more handsome now he has been promoted to full Corporal and has celebrated with a proper regimental haircut. LCpl Chris 'Ned' Kelly and Sig Stacy 'Cynthia' Payne make a formidable shift partnership but quite often seem unusually tired by the end of their shift, according to unnamed sources. LCpl Rob 'West' Bromwich and LCpl Paul 'Justin' Heywood make up the last happy couple, although some have asked which of them is in the TA and which is the regular soldier? COMMCEN is home to a variety of personnel - A shift is headed-up by LCpl 'Joy' Edwards with the help of Sig 'Eric' Thomas and Sig 'Biff' Jameson. B Shift is headed by LCpl Kev Hesketh, or so he thinks... we know who the 'mummy is - Sig Rachel Allen. C[omedy] shift consists of LCpl 'Pingers' Parker and our only representative from the TA, LCpl 'Porn King; Burnside. Proving that escape from BLMF is not impossible, Cpl 'MiniMe' McMullen and LCpl 'Jankers' Brooks have managed to get back to the UK by means of a Skill At Arms course, and a 1 Sqn course, respectively. According to the Radcon crew 'Standby for groundhog day' was the cry from the last crew. With a new sheriff in town, Sgt Sid 'I'm a civvy soon' James tried to convince his new deputies and cowboys that life in Radcon wasn't actually that bad. However, he was soon to be reminded by LCpl 'Sammy' Samson who had just completed a eight month Radcon tour of South Georgia and the Falklands that six months in Radcon actually equated to 262,080 minutes of sheer frustration. Sig Steve Andrews continues to prove that when it comes to fitness, there is only one Airborne Warrior on Radcon and anyone who thinks they are remotely close to his standard is more than welcome to go for a session down the gym. LCpl 'Morale Hoover' Thrower and his new crewman Sig 'Ricky' Martin, are practicing hard for their entry into next year's Embassy World Darts Championships. Not to be forgotten are the two girls on the Det - LCpl 'What do you mean I only got 18 letters today' Hills, and her sidekick Sig 'Mollycoddled' Whyte who continue to impress the remainder of the crew with their ability to eat all of the night rations - a feat never before achieved in the history of the British Army. With only 17 weeks left before the end of tour, the race is on to find the pot of morale that is alleged to be lurking within Radcon. Rumour has it that the lucky winner will be struck off LCpl 'morale hoover' Thrower's hit list! We will wait and see.

280 (UNITED KINGDOM) SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj S. G. Hutchinson MBE
RSM WO1 (RSM) McKenna

KFOR OPERATIONS

The Squadron has been deployed in Kosovo as AFCENT augmentees to LANDCENT for the last four months. Now the end of the tour is in sight and it is confirmed that the EUROCORPS will be replacing us. There has been some rotation of Squadron personnel throughout the 3-man Operations and Maintenance Teams which are deployed at each of the Multinational Brigade (MNB) HQs. However, 280 (UK) Sig Sqn also has a number of people based at HQ KFOR Main and HQ KFOR Rear in Pristina and Skopje respectively. This article focuses on the work of the Squadron Personnel who are based at the Main and Rear HQs and at the Air Point of Disembarkation (APOD).

HEADQUARTERS KFOR MAIN

Life at HQ KFOR Main, otherwise known as 'Film City', has improved considerably since we arrived in the last millennium! Shortly before Xmas we saw the last of the ARRC tents and now we are all comfortably accommodated in heated co-ri-mecs, although one accommodation block did lose its entire roof recently! There hasn't been a water shortage or power outage for almost two weeks. This is largely due to the work of the HQ Support Group Staff, namely our very own Sgt Keith ' Gooner' Bets, who can generally be found in the muddiest places equipped with power cables, shouting something to the effect of, 'I hate this country!' Workshifts have now almost returned to normal after the main R&R period, although Sgt Ian ' Cable Guy' Wells has still managed to achieve a few recreational trips. The ADP Ops Office is currently missing Sgt Christopher 'Neatness' Porter and Sgt June 'Diplomatic' Valentine who are on R&R. SSgt Tom 'Serial Number' Davies continues to hunt around the HQ for missing CIS equipment in his new job as the HQ Memorandum Receipt Account Holder.

'Mines bigger than yours.....'
Lt Bernie Higgs and a German Colleague compare their weapons

Morale recently took a leap upwards with the help of an extremely well organised Medieval Gathering at Cpl 'Sire' Roberts' 3-man detatchment, located at MNB-SPT (Greek Bde). Many of 280 Sig Sqn's finest gathered to greet two new additions to the Squadron: LCpl Daz 'Mr Keen' Pierce and LCpl Timmy 'Party Trick' Mallet. During the evening we became acquainted with Lt Bernie 'Mad Monk' Higgs' dance routine, performed for the 'Sire's' entertainment and Lt Lindsey 'Squire' Calderheads' excellent waitressing skills. It was democratically decided that FofS Martin 'Fluff' Flather arrived with the best costume (it's amazing what can be achieved with some cardboard and a piece of rug)!He was closely followed by Sgt Andy 'Mad Beard' Hunter with his convincing Wizard's costume, it's a good job that he brought his duvet cover out to theatre. LCpl Phil 'Knives for a Pro' Clarke won the largest and deadliest sword prize and LCpl Claire 'Roots' Crothers and Sig Emily 'Random thought Generator' Watts excelled themselves by producing two medieval dresses out of US bedsheets. It was good to see how, with some hard work and organised preparation, such an original and fun evening could be had on an operational tour.

Sadly we must say goodbye to the MCM Det which includes; Sgt Les 'Brown roots' Ryall , Sig 'Oz' Osborne, LCpl Jez 'Loon II' Greenlee, Cpl Steve 'Interesting' Slaughter and Cpl Pete ' Junior' Sears who leave after a four month tour in Pristina.We wish them a safe journey home and look forward to seeing them back at camp when they are 'stagging on'.

AIRPORTS OF DEPARTURES

The APOD Det has seen several commanders since the Squadron was initially deployed. Firstly SSgt Tom Davies, then Sgt Keith Gilbert and finally Sgt Leon Teasdale assisted by LCpl Neil Wright. The Team is located at Pristina Airport with the RAF in the role of support using their CRONUS system, the TACSAT communications and other small projects. Life with the Detachment has been fairly quiet and has become known as 'Sleepy Hollow' here. Recently we have become rather busy with the relocation and rebuilding of the infrastructure of the Joint Operations Centre. We are currently accommodated in tented accommodation which has a tendency to be subject to frequent flooding! However, we are fortunate enough to have gym and bar facilities on camp for morale boosts.

KFOR REAR

HQ KFOR Rear, otherwise known as 'the Slipper Palace' has seen some new faces over the last two months. Firstly, we would like to welcome Sgt Steve Lynch who arrived at the Squadron and was promptly posted out to Kosovo. We have also acquired the talents of Sgt 'Ronnie the Wrestler' Radford who has been exchanged with Sgt 'Maggie' Hatcher, now acting as the Det Comd at MNB-S in Pizren. It is good to see that manpower is almost back to full strength now that the main R&R period has passed and people have returned refreshed and fit to attack the second half of the tour. Anyway, during the quieter days, we are fortunate enough to have the never ending wit and humour of WO2 (YofS) Carley and this, together with some antics from Sig 'wingnut' Machin, is sufficient to keep us entertaineed. we now have the added bonus of skiing trips on Sundays. When time allows, this is taken full advantage of by members of the Squadron. The Skopje resort has already been lucky enough to have visits from several Squadron characters of varied ability. It would have been a more rewarding package though, if any of them had figured out how to stay on the Macedonian ski-lift long enough to get to the top of the slope! Some much appreciated entertainment skills have been shown by LCpl ' Mac' McAlpine whose 'Quiz Nights' in the British 'Borrowers Bar' have been very successful, although possibly still not hard enough for the OC's team.

The Squadron advance party

LIFE AFTER DEPLOYMENT

On 18 October 1999 the Squadron personnel in the Gazela Shoe Factory were involved in the Macedonian flag raising ceremony with their multinational colleagues, which was organised by the RSM, WO1 (RSM) Mick McKenna, the Parade Commander was the OC, Maj Simon Hutchinson and the other British participants were Sgt John Pollock REME, LCpl Grant McDougall and Sig 'Ski' Smiejkowsi. Cpl Sarah Howell AGC was the flag bearer for the British element. The parade was attended by COMKFOR, Gen Dr Rheinhardt Ge and COMI(FOR Rear, Gen Ruth US along with various Macedonian dignitaries and invited guests. Needless to say, because the Brits were the main people involved, the parade was carried off with style and panache.

In early November the OC and RSM visited all the Multinational Brigades scattered throughout Kosovo. These dets, run by a Sergeant, consist of three personnel. The detachments are located with the French in MNB North, the Italians in MNB West, the Americans in MNB East, the Germans in MNB South, the Greek Sp Bde in Pristina, 19 Bde in MNB C and there is also a det with Comms Z South, in Thessaloniki, Greece. Each MNB has its own individual eccentricities ranging from appalling food in some cases to excellent accommodation in others, great MWR facilities, the list is endless. What is clear is that whatever the idiosyncrasies, the soldiers in these dets are improvising, foraging, scrounging and being extremely innovative in ensuring that life is as comfortable as possible with whatever they have around them. Life in theatre has been busy for most, Sgt Keith 'Wellies' Betts and Cpl Mark 'Tash' Sibbald at Main have been especially busy with a myriad of power problems presented by KFOR Main in Film City, working ridiculously long hours in atrocious weather conditions, unseen by most but their contribution to the quality of life at KFOR main cannot be underestimated. WO2 (FofS) Martin Flather and WO1 (YofS) Phil Jones from LANDCENT who work in J6 Plans commercial at Main have been flitting all over the country on the various projects for the mission, getting the air and road miles in.

For one author to mention all the good work done by the troops would be very difficult to do, so I apologise to anyone I have left out. If you want to get a mention - write some WIRE notes yourself.

During the month of November it was decided that the British element of KFOR Rear needed their own recreation area (bar). The task was given to Cpl Dave Pendleton and his crew of power-men, linemen and LCpl Trev Hurst REME. They toiled long and hard to produce an excellent facility for not just the British personnel but the other nationalities in Rear. The Borrowers Bar, as it is popularly known because everything in it was begged or borrowed, is extremely well used.

On 23 December the OC, RSM and LCpl 'Scouse' Brennan set out on the mammoth driving task of visiting all the MNBs to deliver their Xmas hampers. The hampers were lovingly put together by the QM Admin back in Krefeld, Maj Bob Lockwood MBE, and flown out to Skopje. Unfortunately the weather and road conditions were atrocious, with lots of snow on the ground. I'm sure there are plenty of people reading this who are well aware how difficult the Blace Border crossing is in good weather, never mind in winter. It took nearly seven hours to reach the first MNB, at Camp Bondsteel in Urasevac, our base for the next couple of days while we visited the troops. We were well looked after there by Cpl Andy Wilkinson and LCpl 'Jackhammer' Cook. With an early start on Xmas Eve we headed for MNB N in Mitrovica where we linked up with Lt Bernie Higgs. At MNB N was Sgt 'Jock' Samuel, LCpl Sarah Drummond and LCpl Kerry Greenham. MNB N is noted for its French cuisine, however, we declined the offer of lunch and left to head off for MNB W in Pec where we never declined the offer of lunch, even if it was Pasta. This det was manned at the time by Sgt Ross Menzies, LCpl 'Tommo' Thompson and, on leave at the time, LCpl Kez 'More pasta' Brown. From there it was off to MNB S to see Sgt 'Gilly' Gilbert and LCpl Robbie Turner who were celebrating Xmas the traditional German way on Xmas Eve. After another tortuous journey back to our accommodation at MNB E, and an MRE on the way, we eventually arrived. It was also on Xmas. Eve, in the unlikely setting of Camp Bondsteel, that the OC, Maj Simon Hutchinson, learned of his impending award of the MBE. That will be an Xmas Eve the OC will not forget.

SFOR OPERATIONS

Another set of WIRE Notes from the sunshine capital of Bosnia, Banja Luka for all those people who don't know what I'm talking about. Quick cast listing in order of appearance:

Sig Nick 'Scissors' Abbott
LCpl Craig 'Mole' Harrison
Sig Steve 'Del Boy' Lloyd
Cpl Matt 'Crazy' Baber
Sgt Tom 'Romanian Sugar Daddy' Atkinson.

THE LOST BOYS
(THE CONTINUING SAGA PART 2) - by The Boys in Banja Luka

Just a reminder as to where we left you, everyone was on a high due to the new bar opening (its amazing to see what a new watering hole can do) and the fact that R & R was due. Now the story continues .....

It has now become apparent that 'Scissors' Abbott is no longer the only member of the Lost Boys to be having strange tendencies. On return from R & R (spent in Austria skiing), accompanied by 'Del Boy' Lloyd, Cpl 'Crazy' Baber began to show signs of insanity. Ramblings about Keith Moon, Sweet Shops and a Bengal Tiger featured heavily, for what reason we do not know. The cause of this cannot be pinned down but we believe it may have something to do with spending two weeks on a mountain with 'Del Boy' Lloyd.

Health News - Sgt 'Sugar Daddy' Atkinson is on a health regime in preparation for his release to the outside world. It's now been going three weeks but as time goes on the pressure will increase especially with the arrival of Burger King. Although he has no plans set in concrete, the 'Sugar Daddy' is believed to be interested in moving to Romania, for what reason we are not sure, we can only presume this is to purchase a young wife. As Cpl Matt 'Crazy' Baber's condition worsens, we have now had to introduce a new duty for the other members of the Lost Boys, Matt Watch. This involves one of the other members of the det being tasked with the unenviable job of watching Cpl 'Crazy' Baber for 24hr shifts, in the hope that we will be able to nurse him back to health.

Another fear among the members of the Lost Boys is that LCpl Craig 'Mole' Harrison is ageing years in just a matter of weeks and after eight months it seems to have taken its toll. For now his corimec is like an OAP's retirement home, with the TV on full volume and the heater turned to May, although the heater is not entirely his own doing as it also doubles as Sgt 'Sugar Daddy' Atkinson's sauna as part of his weight loss programme.

As the end of tour is getting closer and no news of who is taking over from the Lost Boys has arrived, Sig Lloyd has gone into 'Del Boy' mode. Quick thinking that he is, realising that MND SW will become truly multinational soon and with a possible extension on the cards for himself, he has began to take action. He has already began making contacts with the multinational personnel and a few deals have been struck, a couple of which have come to light, one being his purchase of a Dutch Tank to allow ease of movement under heavy fire and the other being the purchase of a goat from the Moroccan contingent (the less said about that the better).

COMPOSITE TROOP - REAR PARTY

Tp Comd Capt Stewart
Tp SSgt SSgt R. Nolan

It has been a hectic time for Composite Tp sorting out stores, moving stores, and generally sprucing up the stores (is it just me or is there a lot of stores work going on around here). On the arrivals front we say a big hello to Sgt McLaughlin, LCpl Ben 'Champagne' Pearmain, LCpl Marcus 'Harry Hill' Leslie. From theatre we say welcome back to Cpl Steve Slaughter, Cpl Pete 'Junior' Sears, LCpl Jez 'Gumbar' Greenlee and Sigs Les 'Plug' Ryall, Remi 'Dirk Diggler' Osborne and Emily Watts. Welcome and grab yourselves a duties card. Farewells go out to SSgt Wayne 'Shovels Mk2' Dunbar off to .....LCpl (now Corporal) Chris 'Captain Cautious' Simmonds, saying goodbye to this NATO stuff and going back to the real world of Ptarmigan comms at 1 (UK) Div and Sig Mark 'You People' Viagas off to Civvy Street.

Certain Troop members have been in the public eye recently; LCpl Glen 'I was one all along' MacDonald piping in the haggis at JHQ NAAFI on Burns Night and SSgt Rick 'Virgin Soldier' Nolan not only being mentioned in The Wire but also in the national tabloids for his Army Rugby exploits. The remaining members of Composite Tp will now slog it out until the remainder of the Squadron return in April under the watchful eyes of Cpl Andy Pursglove, LCpls Brian 'Bottle Bully' Hillson, Gordon '259 days to go!' Carle and Jimmy 'Flash to Bang' Cunningham. Who can't wait for the Squadron's return so they get fewer duties. On a final note, to the acting RSM of the Rear Party, SSgt Heath 'Pob' Baker ... you've been mentioned in The WIRE get the beers in for the lads.

The RQMS, WO2 'Brummie' Cox, has been continuing to run the Garrison Karate Club and recently held a successful grading weekend where some 50 students both from Krefeld and RAF Bruggen attended. The photo shows the RQMS in full regalia with the new Squadron Baby Techs.

15 Signal Regiment Badminton Team upon winning the NI Championships

The team event was a hard-fought competition with extremely stiff opposition coming from both 4 and 5 R Irish. Due to the number of teams entering, the event was divided into two leagues. At the end of the league stage HQNI & 15 Sig Regt had finished as runners up in their league, defeating 1 Scots Guards 3-0, 2 RMP 2-1 and losing to 5 R Irish 1-2. In order to achieve a place in the Army finals. HQN1 & 15 Sig Regt needed to win their semi-final play off against 25 Engineer Regiment. This was achieved when both the First and Second Strings won their respective games. With a guaranteed Second place in the overall event, the only obstacle in the way of First place was from 4 R Irish. Once again the First and Second Strings led the way to a hard-won victory. As well as a successful day for HQN1 & 15 Sig Regt team members also entered the various individual events. There were six competitions on the day. They were Unit Championships, Men's Singles, Ladies Singles, Men's Doubles, Ladies Doubles and Mixed Doubles. There were some excellent performances as Sgt Andy Ball and OCdt Alison McLean won the Mixed Doubles, and SSgt Sam Slade and Sig Lister won the Men's Doubles Plate. It should be noted that Capt Duggan (the Team Captain) not knowing how successful the team would be had booked a flight out of the province less than one hour after the event was due to finish! He insisted that it was planned leave but it was strongly rumoured that he did not want to face the wrath of the CO just in case he did not bring back any silver!

225 SIGNAL SQUADRON POTENTIAL LEADERS WEEKEND
by LCpl Howard

Purple Section

Day One- It was a dark icy morning when the intrepid potential leaders from Echo Tp assembled with the rest of the Squadron for the Potential Leader Weekend. The old jokes came out about crying brass monkeys and hamstrings about to go but we all left Lisburn for Kinnegar in high spirits, in fact some still sweating out the previous nights intake. Most of the Troop members were inducted into the Purple Syndicate photos (some would say the last time we smiled over the whole weekend, but don't believe the hype).

The opening challenge was the essay assignment, situated in what can only be described as a slightly chilly garage. Armed with loose leaf A4 and a biro we engaged in battle with the subjects presented. Somehow LCpl 'Howie' Howard managed to blame the Americans (in particular Oprah Winfrey) for the falling moral standards in British Society and Cpl 'Reg' Gutteridge got lost in the toilets. Next on the agenda was the stretcher race, which as we know is obligatory in any exercise involving Tele Op Specs. The least said the better about this. However, no one got hurt! So there's a bonus. Phase 3 was the Leaderless Command Tasks. The REME directing staff were treated to an exercise in how not to cantilever, with Lt Jamie Balfour and WO2 (Supvr R) 'PFG' Gardner looking on in utter disbelief, E Tp perfected the art of running around like headless chickens. Mind you at least the shift workers kept dry and didn't fall in the septic tank, like the supposed real workers.. eh LCpl 'Luggs' Lafferty!

The afternoon was taken up with group discussions where LCpl 'Billie' Kirkwood tried to convince his whole syndicate that Sesame Street was sending out sinister messages to children. Cpl 'Steve' Price spent the afternoon looking very stern and thoughtful. Phase 4 of the day was Combat Analysis. We all managed to get the hang of this previously undiscovered joy, however Cpl 'Lisa' Shaw managed to kill her injured party (don't ask ...). After our debriefings and armed with topic titles for the next days lecturettes we 'happy band' boarded our transport back to Lisburn, where we regaled the non-combatants with stories of that days failings, fallings and breakage's.

Day Two - started with Lisburn Station experiencing the collective sighs of all our happy participants whose alarm clocks sounded at a time only previously hinted at on a Sunday morning. When we reached Kinnegar we once again split into our syndicates and began our lecturettes. Cpl 'Al' Sharpe filled us all in on his wife's pregnancy and Cpl 'Done it all before' Potton explained ... well something (it was a heavy Saturday night after all). The dreaded command tasks were up next, we all took a last gulp of hot tea and headed out into the blue yonder. To be honest our showing was ... well entertaining, especially the mountain goat Cpl 'Reg the Cat' Gutteridge who must be the only man alive never to have climbed a tree as a boy and Cpl 'Lisa' Shaw climbing poles in positions last seen in under the counter publications. Command tasks safely dispatched and Cpl 'Stem Boy' Price proving that steroids really do help you climb ropes, we headed to Palace Barracks for the weekend's final event, the Assault Course. Tension was high as the coach pulled in and the adrenaline was clearly flowing as all the troops braced themselves for the upcoming gun run. Alas it was not to be! With shouts and tears of joy ringing out, it was declared that the PTI hadn't turned up.

The lads quickly destroyed the fish and chip dinner that had been laid on before retiring to the Squadron bar for a 'slap up' curry and copious amounts of beer. All in all the weekend was a success as we all enjoyed it and learned a lot, taking away if nothing else the enduring image of Cpl Gutteridge falling off a pole again... and again... and again.

ATTACHMENT TO COMMCEN - by 2Lt Astley

On arrival at Lisburn I was delighted to see the COMMCEN in touch with its creative side, with almost nightly campaigns. Congratulations go to Sgts Anderson and Newman on their engagement (courtesy of the Emmett and Green graphic design consultancy). Before having a chance to add my name to the petition I was whisked off to the legendary NIRTT course, and to 5 Regt AAC for a flight over Province. Following this I received my tasking for the 6-week attachment, including teaching on ITDs, planning a navigation exercise in the Mourne Mountains, and being detached to 9 R Irish, the RN and RM, 3 Bde and 8 Bde. I was also briefed on the various departments of the Regiment, and its role and mission, in order to understand how a unit operates. Between these were social events including a happy-clappy style theatre trip to 'The Tribute to the Blues Brothers' at the Grand Opera House Belfast, and the memorable Mess Burns' Night (apologies to those whose feet I stood on during reeling). So far I've battled with the intricacies of Service writing, mostly late at night whilst chinchilla - sitting (think large squirrel/rabbit -type rodent) for absent officers... I've trotted around the perimeter fence numerous times (oh for a memory like a goldfish)... and failed to find the exit from Sqn HQ almost as frequently. I have been made to feel really welcome, if being dragged to circuits, swimming and basketball within ten seconds of arrival counts as such! On a serious note, thank you to everyone who's looked after me and so capably fielded my endless questions about absolutely everything! All the best to those serving in Northern Ireland over the next few months.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

The Squadron continues to be the hub of the Regiment. A high proportion of the Squadron where involved in that none event that was Y2K, a fine and uplifting way to spend the New Year. Congratulations go out to Capt Dave Duggan and Liz who were engaged in Dublin on New Years day.

MOTOR TRANSPORT TROOP - by Cpl Inghant

The MT has been as busy as ever over the past few months. As well as the ever-hectic way of life in NI, there have been management changes resulting in the amalgamation of the Quartermaster's Department with the MT - now known as Support Tp. A warm welcome to the QM's. In no particular order let's begin with the farewells. Good luck to the following: Cpl Andy Howe and LCpl Adam Huggett who as I write are probably freezing their bits off in Norway with 249 Sig Sqn. Enjoy fellows! Also to Sigs Ian Holmes and Keith Lovell and family who I'm sure are now enjoying Gyros, Pomme Frittes mitt Mayo at 7 Armd Bde and 7 Sig Regt respectively. Now for the new arrivals to the Troop. Welcomes go out to those fortunate (or not) enough to be posted here to 15 Sig Regt: Cpl Martin Hunt, LCpl Shawn Watson and Sig Steve Worthington in from various mainland units. Also to LCpl Charlie Lister, Sigs Danny Richardson and 'Jock' Fleming who have come over from Germany. Congratulations to Danny, Steve and Charlie on their recent promotions. Well Done! Final thought. Lads, keep up the excellent service that we provide as the MT

COMMCEN TROOP

COMMCEN ANTRIM-by LCpl Fox

It's a busy time of year for COMMCEN Antrim. There seem to be more people coming and going than messages at the moment. (Not hard!) Goodbye to LCpl 'Permanent Transmit' Vickers who has finally left to go to the Intelligence Corps, leaving a nice cushy slot for LCpl 'Where's the Hoover' Fox to move to. Sig 'Whispering' Huish has the pleasure of taking over from Sig 'Disco Queen' Green. Then last but not least, Sig 'Mine's a vodka' Gorman will step into Sig 'Rodders' Rodwell's place as he accepts the challenge of 1 RBY Special Comms selection course. Hopefully everything will settle down again soon, because I nearly missed Eastenders last Thursday.

COMMCEN PALACE - by Sig Henson

There have been recent changeovers in the COMMCEN. Let's start with the goodbyes. Sig 'Rodders' Rodwell has indeed been sent to COMMCEN Antrim soon to be joined by LCpl Sam Skyvington with the inspiring job of Stats, whilst Cpl 'Glo' Fagan is off to Civ Div where she can earn real money. Also not forgetting LCpl Webb who recently got given her tape and has re-traded to a Tech - well someone has to! So good luck and all the best. Hello to Sig 'Le Fox' Shields, Sig '$5' Henson, and not forgetting Sig 'He says it's legal' Gorman.

COMMCEN LISBURN

Since we moved to HQ Sqn on 1 December it's technically goodbye to 233 Sqn and Cpls Lloyd, Phillips and MacDonald in the CDA - although they're still nicking our food! Proper farewells to LCpl Allen and to Claire Lydon who've gone to civvy street. Congratulations Claire on your baby girl Laura (19 January) and to Sgts Newman and Anderson on their engagement - great news!! Also well done to Sgt Anderson, LCpl Webb, and Sigs Walker and Green on their recent promotions. Big hellos to Sgt Newman, LCpl Joyce, Sigs Entmett, Green and Fleming. Farewells to Sig 'I wanna be like Steve Anderson' Simpson, Sig 'Stapes' Staples-Miles, Sig Jenny Read, Sig 'Fanny' Hannam and Sig Matt Green - very best of luck to you all.

ECHO TROOP

Alpha Watch - A big hello to Sgt 'Loz' Hill and Jayne, who have just spent the last two years in sunny Italy. We hope you have bought with you your tax-free waterproofs because you'll need them over here. Welcome back to Cpl Tommy Scanlan and Sarah who return after his T1 course and by the way you're now on B Watch! Cpl Steve 'Courses' Burton has finally been accepted for one of the thousand courses he applied for this year. We hope it rains as much in Brecon as it does over here. The Station Theatre Club had yet another successful sell out 'pantomime' with Cpl Dave 'It's behind you' Hill demonstrating his diverse range of talents and skills who was not only the Producer and Front of House for 'Cinderella', he also managed a Chippendale - cameo part as well! Not wishing to take all the lime-light, he reluctantly passed the responsibilities of 'Barman and Doorman' to SSgt (Supvr R) Steve Jacklin and Cpl Shane Hodgson who even managed to make a profit for him! Cpl Al 'I can give up smoking' Sharpe is still trying to give up smoking since the start of the New Year, while Cpl 'Ash' Ashley is still trying to put weight on to stop him from getting blown over when he walks to work. Finally all the best to LCpl 'Babs' Woodhouse on your PTI course - we hope you break a leg.

Charlie Watch - Well it's that time again for all the welcomes, goodbye's and bone nicknames to be submitted. Welcome firstly to the RAF contingent JT David 'Davey' Hyndman from Digby, 'Keep your head down and your wits about you and you just might make it through'. We are also awaiting the imminent arrival of Cpl Paul 'Scouse' Kennedy and Cpl David 'Crusty' Hardy also from Digby, and last but not least, Cpl David 'Spanking' Salter from 14 Sig Regt. Charlie Watch management has also undergone a change with the arrival of Sgt 'Don't give me a daft nickname' Foster from rainy Cyprus. Now it is time for the not so tearful farewell, bye bye to Cpl Dean 'I'll go where I want to and you can't make me go anywhere else' Lenton who has purchased a new batch of tank tops and is on his way to Cheltenham. Also bye bye to Cpl 'Pepsi I'm off to wake myself up' Mattacola who has landed himself a posting to Chicksands. As for the remaining members of Charlie Watch, LCpl 'Baz its my weapon, signed out to me' Keen, has been seen volunteering for everything, if not participating! Probably getting ready for his impending skive to survive tour to 14 Sig Regt. LCpl Jamie 'Where's my posting' Howard has just attended the very successful Squadron Potential Leaders Weekend only to find out what we all knew anyway, take that how you will! LCpl Andy 'Where's my posting?' Liddle is still waiting to hear about a posting order, a big shout out to MCM Div for all your hard work. LCpl Lisa 'Dip and Dazzle' Shaw is under the surgeon's knife this month, managing to dodge the RSJCC that LCpl Kenny 'Why haven't I been made up yet?' Halliday has also managed to avoid. Not much else happening on C Watch, just a final word, SSgt John 'Leave and adventure training guru' Fielder again skiing for about a month which will probably run into some more leave. CONGRATULATIONS is also in order for the Charlie Watch 5-a-side football team, who convincingly beat both Alpha and Delta Watch. All that remains now is the formality of claiming the points against Bravo Watch and also those day shirkers within Goof Troop!

Delta Watch - After a few quiet months on Delta Watch, we say farewell to SSgt (Supvr R) Paul Dunn leaving us for the day working delights of the QFR and welcome to SSgt (Supvr R) Kev Fogg as our new shift supervisor after a brief spell at Digby. Goodbye and good luck also goes to Sgt Dave Marrs who is leaving us for a day job and who will soon be attempting the dreaded 'P' Company, sad blurk! Cheerio also goes out to Cpl Jay Waites, who cannot dodge his Junior Commanders course any longer, he's been dodging it since it was known as the Det Commanders' course, good luck Jay, GOTCHA! An increase in manpower requirements means that we shall shortly have the pleasure of Cpl Carolyn Thomson and LCpl 'Scouse' Rimmer's company, soon to be posted in from Digby.

Congratulations to Cpl Ian Potton and his wife Emma on the birth of their baby daughter Ffion, both are doing well. Budding skiers Cpl Jay Aldred. LCpl Gerard Drummond and LCpl J. C. Smith will be off for a few weeks as Part of Ex Crystal Finn in March and will hopefully return without too many broken bones. All in all a great deal of change in motion for Delta Watch as we start the new millennium, we hope it will go as smoothly as the last! Finally, Congratulations go to LCpl 'Skin and Bones' Wooton-Jones who went fishing on a recent leave and bagged a biggie weighing around 10 stone with blonde hair, wearing tight jeans and high heels. Word has it that his watch Staffy and Sergeant are trying to get a few tips on how he does it, as they are both keen anglers since childhood (did you have one Staffy) and only come back from trips either minging, smelling of fish or even worse, both).

GOLF TROOP

Not a great deal has happened within the Troop since the last set of notes but certainly enough to warrant a place in The WIRE. The Troop OC, Capt Hargreaves, is off playing soldiers at the moment with the 264 Selection Course, best of luck to him. Sgt Michelle Watkins and Cpl Matt Williams just recently represented the Regiment at Basketball, the girls coming a gallant Fourth place out of four and the lads coming Second, unfortunately they lost to the RMP's. They would both like to thank everybody for their unmatched support. Since our last entry we have a few people come and go from the Troop, Sgt Tony Cecil has left us for sunnier climbs at 9 Sig Regt and Sgt 'Ginge' Davey has gone to work with the TA in Darlington. Sgt Dave Kilgallon joined us from 233 Sig Sqn, Cpl Phil McLeish from 264, Cpl Stu Street from 9 Sig Regt and Cpl Ryan Laing fresh from his TI. Finally the news that made the whole of the Troop's year was the birth of Sgt Rich and Ruth Cleminson's baby boy William Edward, Congratulations from us all.

Members of NCC Troop

The last few months have been an extremely busy period for the Squadron, with the trial Network Control Centre (NCC) being established from a portion of each Troop within the Squadron. The Squadron played a major role in the preparation, control and testing of equipment and systems for Y2K, to ensure that we would not encounter any problem over the Y2K dates. With many of the Squadron working on the eve of the new millennium, we were all glad that our planning and preparation paid off and events went smoothly, allowing the majority of us to at least find a party in the small hours.

Squadron Headquarters would like to say farewell to the 2IC, Capt Jules McColl who is on a two year sabbatical to join her husband in Brunei and also the Sqn Clerk, Cpl Stu Brittan who is off to the less sunny climate of Tidworth. Their replacements will not have far to travel as Capt Bels Taylor is set to take over the mantle of 2IC in the near future and we welcome Cpl Steve Lucas, both if whom are already stationed within Thiepval Barracks.

ROMEO TROOP RANGE DAY

Once again the time had arrived for the Troop to conduct another range day, so the Troop headed off to the not too sunny Ballykinler. Arriving at the ranges slightly later than expected, due to the Northern Ireland Tractor Factor, the Troop soon started to check zero their weapons under the watchful eye of the Troop OC, Capt Colin Kell. For the first time since anyone can remember, a member of the Troop actually managed to complete their zeroing the first lime round, so well done to Cpl 'Rapid Fire' Richardson of the Op's Section. Once we had all completed our zeroing, it was time to move onto the more interesting part of the day - using our support weapons, which usually separates the men from the boys. Once again, the Op's section proved to be the sharp shots of the Troop, putting the rest of us to shame. After a number of hours, the air at Ballvkinler was filling with Cordite and everyone had shown some improvement. Whilst picking up the brass at the end of the day, the compulsory ridicule was issued out to the poorer shots, especially from the jubilant Op's Section who never tire from giving the Technicians a hard time whenever possible. The Troop would like to say farewell to SSgt Rob Allen as he moves on to work with the TA in Liverpool, and hello to new arrivals SSgt Steve Bartlett and his family, arriving from 3 (UK) Div and LCpl Nick 'Ladies man?' Jenkins from 249 Sig Sqn. On a final note, the Troop congratulates WO2 (YofS) 'Tac' Bartlett for his selection for promotion to WO1 - well done 'Tac'!

MCKELVIE CUP POTTED SPORTS COMPETITION

With Inter-Troop rivalry at a high after the Christmas and New Year break, it was time to hold the next event in the Inter-Troop competition, the McKelvie Cup. TM Troop were tasked to organise a potted sports competition which was to take place on 14 January 2000 and LCpls 'Mad Mike' Partridge and Dot Perkins were put on the case. The aim of the potted sports competition was to test each individuals sporting abilities to the limit, playing football, hockey, volleyball and hockey. The secondary aim was to build up a thirst for the games night to be held that evening. The first event to take place was the football, with young and old alike showing much enthusiasm, if not talent, although a few potential future stars were revealed. By the end of the first match, it was clear that TM Tp's semi-professional team were going to destroy all opposition. The hockey proved to be a much closer competition, with India Tp and TM Tp fighting for a hard pitched draw. NCC Tp, despite a courageous effort, could only manage third place. As the day was progressing, the support from the sidelines became more vocal and soon played a major part in motivating the competitors. TM Tp soon swept their way through the volleyball competition, despite fierce pressure from NCC Tp, leaving India Tp requiring a clean sweep in the final competition. After a sweeping victory over NCC Tp, the pressure was then returned to TM Tp. The TNI v NCC match was a high-pressure event, with tempers mostly being kept under control. Eventually, TM Tp were victorious making them the 233 Sig Sqn Potted Sports Champions.

SQMS	SSgt Garth Hood

We begin this month by saying farewell to CSgt Ned Kelly (the original Scottish Highwayman) who is off to Osnabruck, and LCpl Dave 'Mr Happy' Wardle and his family who are off to Cyprus (God help Cyprus). Finally 'Y I Man' to SSgt Garth Hood who is a fanatical Newcastle fan and has slipped into the roll of SQMS well by being on leave already. We said a sad farewell to LCpl Dave Wardle on a wet Friday night in January, well we would have done if he had turned up on time. By the time he had turned up the food had almost gone and his excuse was that his wife would not let him out to play. Sgt Karl 'Noah' Duncan and Pte Patrick Morris have spent their time pestering the RQ wanting to join LCpl Dave Wardle in sunny Cyprus. Sgt Eddie 'Billy Joel' Porter has just had a week off to do a CQMS course, where it was a case of pull up a sandbag and listen to the instructors' war stories. He passed with flying colours. Cpl 'Wash and Went' North has been invited by the OC to grow what little hair he has remaining and is now after a wig like Crusty the Clown's. Cpl Pete 'Ginger Ninja' May has reappeared in the Troop after being abducted by ginger aliens and experimented on at Headley Court. LCpl Kev 'I don't believe it' Rattray continues to circumnavigate the province acquiring whatever stores are required for the Aladdin's Cave RQMS Department.

NEWSFLASH

A final farewell to Sig Lee Fowler who has been downgraded to a driver at Arthur Dayley's MT. Also a farewell to Pte Steve 'I've got to have the last word' Wilson who yet again has returned to the Training Wing.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS - by Pte Carrie Cumming

Chief Clerk	SSgt John Hughes

Christmas had finally arrived at SHQ but whilst the rest of the Squadron were relaxing and partying we were as busy as ever. Cpl Lee 'UNICOM is great' Goldsmith attended and passed his Range Management course. What's more dangerous than a clerk with a pistol? A clerk with a Range Management Qualification (and they said we were pen pushers)! Whilst everyone was working hard in the office, I was chuffed about being given the easy duty of Squadron barmaid, ('This is the life,' I thought as I opened the bar that first night). By the time Santa had arrived I was like Scrooge, as everyone was yelling 'Merry Christmas' in their drunken slur, I was yelling back, 'Yeah right!

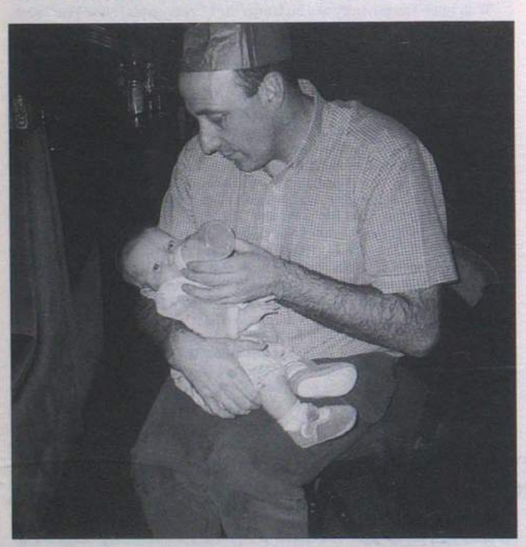
Cpl Gaz Moore, Cpl Stefan Sabuda, Cpl Glen Ruscoe having good clean fun on Christmas day!

After Christmas came the New Year and the New Millennium. We now have a clerk with a Range Management Qualification, so LCpl Karen 'Page 3' Page and myself thought we would give you Signallers a run for your money and climb a mast. So off we went and after a short flight in a Wessex we arrived at our site. Whilst LCpl Karen Page, a slightly greener one, was thanking God for arriving safely, I was thanking God for being back in my homeland. Cpl Paul 'Climbing God' Hounsell, after he had finished making sly comments about the need to adjust his perfect harness due to having the two bustiest girls in the Squadron, personally I don't think so, let us loose on the mast. We both sped up the giant mast which the so-called expert claims is about 26m, I still claim it was about 120m. I don't know what all the fuss is about with this climbing lark.



The RSM with the youngest member of the Squadron

Finally we would like to welcome back the Chief Clerk, SSgt John 'Karoke King' Hughes who has returned from his EFP 2 Course which he zoomed through. Also LCpl Roy 'I've got another pen-pal' Banyard who has returned from his JQC.

MT Tp has been very busy recently with details, people on courses, everyone leaving and Comms Tp crashing our vehicles. I would like to say 'goodbye' to Sig Craig Buckingham who's off to Comms Tp, LCpl Andy Green and Sig Ray Harrison who are off to 2 Sig Regt in York. I would equally like to say, 'Hello and welcome,' to Cpl Ian Jones who arrived from HQ ARRC Sp Bn, Pte 'Taff' Corbidge and Pte Ryan Creed form 27 Transport Regt, Sig Lee Fowler from the QM's for a few months placement and finally Sig Danny Smith from Comms Tp. All of the MT congratulate LCpl Andy Green, Pte Ross Milkins, Pte Ronnie Barker, Sig Ian Billings and Sig Ray Harrison on their recent promotions. Finally I would like to wish Cpl Dave Rabbage goodluck on his motorcycle instructors course, AGAIN!

Tp SSgt SSgt Tony Taylor

As usual Engineering Section has been very busy over the last couple of months. Firstly, welcome to Sig Carl Brown who has arrived from 14 Sig Regt and Sig Idris Davies from sunny Cyprus. Also the long awaited arrival of Sig Craig 'Lurch' Buckingham who has made the long trip from the MT. Sadly it was goodbye to Sgt Dan Coles who has left to teach at Blandford and LCpl Dave 'Donkey' Healey, who I'm sure will be appreciated by the girls in Cyprus. Congratulations to Cpl Eddie Stojanovic on passing P Company and LCpl Andy Richards on passing his Class 1. Congratulations also to Sig Lee 'Geordie' Fearon who after a well documented 601 grades and war in 'Macedonia like', finally received his first tape. Also a very well deserved first tape to Sig Carl Stephenson who along with Sig Rob Passey is on a short tour of Kosovo.

UNTAT TRAINING - by Sig Steve Baxter

'You lot have to go to Sennelager to do five days training and we've given you nine days to do it in.' This was the best news we had heard in a long time. Getting to Germany did, however, prove to he a little more tricky than first thought. Mainly due to the extra luggage we had no paperwork for, namely four rifles, DOH! That problem was overcome and we continued our journey. UNTAT training we were told was not unlike the NERTT course that we had all been through on arrival in the province. All that was required was plenty of coffee to see us through the endless presentations. Whoever said this had quite obviously been a compulsive liar as all the training was held outside. Anyone who has, been to STC will tell you that in January it isn't cold it's absolutely Baltic. The five days training consisted of a days theory (slides, coffee, nodding dog, nudging each other) and a general overview of the Kosovo situation. None of us have been to the Balkans before and therefore were privy to a world of untold tales, information and grizzly photos! The rest of the training covered many areas including; mine recognition, mass casualities, use of interpreters, basic Albanian, and basic Serbian to name a few. Our tour length is only 6 - 8 weeks and although short, it will give us a much needed chance to practice our trade, as here in province Tele Mechs are employed as Riggers. LCpl Carl Stephenson and Sig Rob Passey deployed on the 26 January while myself and Sig Craig Buckingham deploy in April. We look forward to our tour and you will no doubt hear about it in six months.

FRT HAND OVER FROM 15 SIGNAL REGIMENT TO 218 SIGNAL SQUADRON - by Cpl Stef Sabuda

Throughout 1999 there had been talk of the 15 Sig Regt FRT detachment in Londonderry being placed under total command of 218 Sig Sqn, as this would be beneficial for the soldiers and increase efficiency at work. A final decision was made in early Nov that our time with 15 Sig Regt was to come to an end and we would be formally handed over to 218 Sig Sqn on 1 December. From then on the wheels were set in motion for the actual hand over. This included transferring all records between units and establishing a new chain of command and admin network. Initially, the hand over seemed straight forward, then a few teething problems arose but with the perseverance of Sgt Marty 'I love the Spice Girls so much I saw them in concert - twice' Bowkett all problems were dealt with quickly. So on the 1 December, Sgt Marty Bowkett, Cpl Ontar 'Roxette' Walshe, Cpl Stef 'I'm now a dad' Sabuda and LCpl Mike 'I still haven't got my Class 2 yet' Garry came under the command of 218 Sig Sqn. The only exception being Cpl Spike 'Claude Greengrass' Milligan, who still under the command of 15 Sig Regt, has been put on loan to the Squadron till the end of April 2000. The first few weeks have gone nice and smoothly for the now renamed SRT, but who knows what's around the corner!

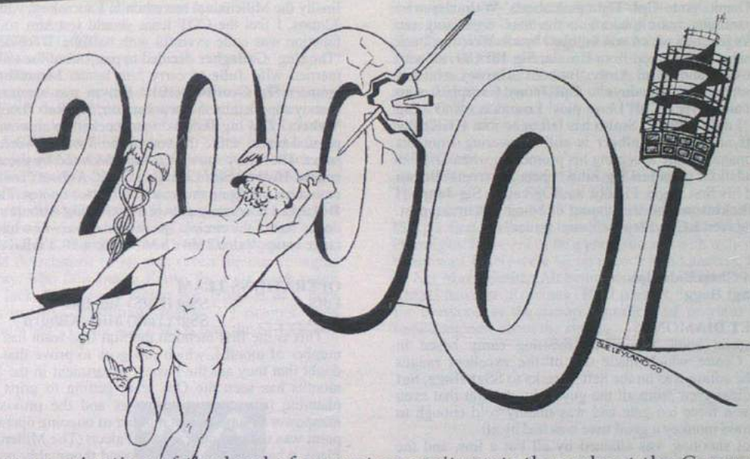
The Corps MILLENNIUM CELEBRATIONS at Blandford



Following a re-examination of the level of current commitments throughout the Corps, it has been decided to focus the Corps Millennium Celebrations on the Morrison Cup and the associated all ranks party. The effect of this will be to allow units to concentrate their efforts on maximising their involvement in the Morrison Cup Competition making it a memorable event and celebrating in style on 19 May.

The SOinC understands that the decision will disappoint many sportsmen and women across the Corps but feels that making changes to the programme at this stage is preferable to adding to the sustained heavy burden of commitments faced by units of the Corps. The programme for the week is therefore:

17/18 May – SOinC(A)'s Annual Conference. Letters of invitation to those eligible to attend will be distributed shortly.

18 May – An evening talk to the Royal Signals Institution by Maj Gen A. J. Raper CBE, Chief Executive DCSA.

18/19 May – The Morrison Cup. The annual major and minor unit athletics event for all R SIGNALS Units.

19 May – An evening all ranks party for those attending the Morrison Cup, all Blandford Garrison personnel and members of all other R SIGNALS units. The event will include free entrance to a funfair, live bands, discos, and a fireworks display.

Those sporting competitions to be held under the banner of the Millennium Celebrations but at times other than the week 15-18 May such as sailing, will continue as planned.

EAGLE TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Michelle Hanlon
Tp SSgt SSgt Davies

Following a well deserved Christmas and New Year break, the personnel are back and raring to go. The Troop would like to thank SSgt Hogg for organising the range camp and the cold wet weather to go with it. We would like to thank Kestrel Tp for the Squadron Christmas function and the troops very own LCpl 'Santa-Claus' Lomas for providing us with extra entertainment. Thanks go to Cpl 'Tight pink shorts' Walmsley who worked extra hard, straining his clipboard to the max organising the regimental junior ranks function which was enjoyed by all. Welcome back to Sig Dean Barber who has returned from Bosnia, Sig Jill Carrol, who has returned from Kosovo and LCpl Andy 'Bulbous' Harvey who has just joined us from Support Tp. Goodbye to Cpl Jenny Campbell who has moved Troop to Falcon Tp. LCpl 'I love pies' Lomas is off to 7 Sig Regt and Sig Kenny 'I didn't inhale' Smith has left us to join 1(UK) Civ Div. Finally Sig 'Off at physio' Hulbert is still recovering from his honeymoon at the moment, before accepting his promotion when he joins 16 Sig Regt. Congratulations go out to Sig John 'I hate Austrians' Doran who has just received his first stripe. Finally, an SOS call to Sig Jamie 'I may be some time' Dickinson who we suspect of being lost in the post. Oh yes and has anyone seen LCpl Steptoe's mini trailer?

EXERCISE MUSKET DIAMOND

This was a Squadron level, two week shooting camp based in Sennelager Training Centre which made use of the excellent ranges around the area and the admin was on the ball. Thanks to SSgt Hogg, Sgt McIntyre and the Adidas crew from all the guys who thought that even though it rained, blew a force ten gale and was mainly cold enough to freeze the nuts off a brass monkey a good time was had by all.

A good standard of shooting was attained by all but a few, and the majority passed the APWT first time. A couple even had marksman level passes including Sig Gav Wilson and Sig Geoff Briggs; now that's a feat in itself. Thanks again to the DS for some excellent coaching. Morale rose whilst we were out there, probably because it was an Exercise and the bar was open, who knows? It may also have been the Inter-Section Football Competition, which was won by One Section beating the DS Section by seven goals to one. This came as a surprise to our very own Ryan Giggs look-a-like Sgt Gerry McGachy who looked distraught after the first four flew into the back of the net. Most of evenings were filled by really interesting lessons such as LOAC and recognition, but this was just a time filler until the bar opened for most of us. An Inter-Section Shooting Competition was run by SSgt (SQMS) North where each of the Sections entered a team who ran 5km in CEFO then negotiated the Roupell Cup. The competition scores, unlike most of the weeks scores, were below average for a one legged blind man with no trigger finger. Competition shooting is not as easy as it sounds.

All in all a very well run camp, which all but a few found productive, useful and enjoyable. Oh and if anyone can produce photographic evidence of the Army's new troop carrying vehicle called a 'Dafford' please contact 2Lt Alan Foote Ext: 3574, as the guys are dying to know what he is talking about. A mention must go out to SSgt (YofS) Kilburn and SSgt (FofS) Ross. Sorry you were snowed under getting photos of yourselves on your mugs, was this really the reason you could not attend? The mighty 'Falcon' would like to welcome to the nest Sig 'New sprog' Adam Wood and on inter-troop posting Cpl Jenny Campbell. It won't be long before they learn to fight properly. We would also like to say a sad farewell to Sig Mickey 'She looked better last night' Keers who is REMFing it back in UK with the wondrous 2 Sig Regt and to Sig 'Shifty 'I won't be late honest' Barker who has gone to join the families centre where we are sure he will be a great asset. A big hello goes out to Sig 'Tel' Frank who is out in sunny Bosnia. Good luck to Cpl Linton 'The women will miss me' Breaks and Cpl 'Taff 'I hope there are sheep there" Thomas who are departing for that well known holiday destination Kosovo. We are preparing to start the year off with UWIs then into a busy few months of exercises.

KESTREL TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt Alan Foote
Tp SSgt SSgt 'China' Cooper

By the end of February Kestrel Tp will have lost quite a few of its more experienced members. Goodbye to LCpl Andy Plumb and Sig Andy Gallagher who will both be off to 2 Sig Regt and Sig Rob Vickers who will be joining 7 Sig Regt, best of luck with your new units. Also farewell to Cpl Glen Mallows who is not only leaving the Troop but the Army as well. Good luck to LCpl 'Taff' Lewis, LCpl Dave Harkness and Sig Danny Raw, all of who are off to Kosovo. With half the Troop gone or going, we welcome Cpl Marc Johnson from 3 (UK) ADSR. We hope you will enjoy Kestrel Tp as much as all those leaving.

The Troop as a whole have been raising money for charity in the form of sponsoring the Tp Comd to run a 5 Marathon Series. 2Lt Alan Foote has so far completed three. The first being in Berlin followed by Frankfurt and finally the Millennium marathon in Lancashire, with a personal best of 3hrs 32mins. I feel the CDT team should test him soon. Last month's Troop function was quite eventful with half the Troop falling asleep. Sig Andy 'The slug' Gallagher decided to pass out in the toilets, leaving his recently married wife Julie to carry him home. Meanwhile the Troop's resident bouncer Sig Geordie 'GBH' Bowes was sleeping after drinking half a shandy supplied by the new barman, Sig Rob 'Look at my porn collection' Vickers. The big 'GBH' was shocked to discover his whole body was painted black, while the rest of the Troop cowered from the wrath of his anger. The Troop, however, was saddened by the absence of, Sig 'Devil's spawn' Hearty. Sig 'Lightning quick' Abbott (Troop genius) lived up to his reputation yet again this month with two quotes. The first when Sgt 'Gash' Doe asked how many mils in a circle? Sig Abbott's answer was 'It depends on the size of the circle'. The second quote was while checking his kit list for range camp; 'I don't have a MOD form 90, I'll have to borrow one'.

OPERATIONS TEAM
FofS SSgt (FofS) Jim Ross
YofS SSgt (YofS) Mick Kilburn

This is the first mention the Sqn Ops team has had in The WIRE for a number of months, which just goes to prove that without a shadow of a doubt that they are the busiest department in the Squadron. The last few months has seen the Ops team getting to grips with such joys as the planning of numerous exercises and the provision of equipment and manpower in support of a number of ongoing operations. A particular high point was the planning for Op Falcon (The Millennium Bug Contingency Plan), which the whole team found thoroughly rewarding and beneficial, enough said!! On a lighter note the last few months has seen the opening of SSgt (FofS) Jim Ross's cellar Bar (The Pink Flamingo). This has been a popular after work venue, where it is not uncommon for SSgt (YofS) Mick Kilburn and WO2 (SSM) Kev Simmons to be suffering from the effects of malaria the following day. A special thank you must go out to Sgt 'Richy' Richardson for organising the SNCO's and Officers evening out in December. The evening involved a meal in a local restaurant, followed by drinks and various bar activities in the Sgt's Mess. The OC Sqn is apparently still undergoing treatment in the Medical Centre for his bruised ribs. At the time of writing 'Richy' is currently designing the new regimental tie, a task which he is tackling with determination and vigour. Hopefully in the next edition of The WIRE we will be able to publish a photograph of him modelling the finished design.

COMMAND TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Mike Morton
Tp SSgt SSgt Kev Innes

Now that everyone has a returned from having a great Christmas and New Year, it is back to some good old fashioned hard graft. However for some, it is a new experience, as Command Troop has recently seen quite a large turnover of its manpower, one of those being our Troop Commander. Our new arrivals are Lt Mike Morton (after promotion from Comms Tp to Comd Tp), Sgt Andy Minorczyk (also being promoted from Comms Tp to Comd Tp), Bdr 'Bedders' Bedford, LCpls Mark Neillings, Jess Limbert, Lee Gobie, Sigs Greville, Baz Maitland, Turpie, Shane Wakeling and finally Sig Ward. Welcome to you all. Farewells go to Capt Karl Jeeves (after promotion and good luck in Bassingbourn) LCpl Matt Whitfield and Sig 'Johnno' Johnston (also on promotion). Congratulations to Sig Shane Wakeling on being selected for promotion to LCpl and to Sigs Sharon and Dave McCormack on the birth of their twin boys. We wish all we know a Happy New Year, and look forward to the busy season that lies ahead.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt 'Spence' Spencer
Tp SSgt Sgt Mick Poyning

On returning from a very busy October and November, Comms Tp settled down to turning round the vehicles and getting all the ATD'S out of the way. Once this task was completed it was time to enjoy a well earned break from a very busy couple of months. The first function was to say goodbye to Cpl (now promoted Sergeant) 'Wilky' Wilkinson and wife Claire who are of to 16 Sig Regt. Next was a sad farewell to SSgt John Leach who is off to the TA (special thanks goes to LCpl Lee Gobie for a well organised function), good luck for the future to you all. By now the Christmas period had reached us and it was time to let our hair down. This came in the form of Squadron, and Regimental functions. Thanks goes out to Sgt Mick Poyning and his committee on an excellent Squadron function where everyone enjoyed them selves thoroughly. The lads and lasses had a good time at the Regimental Christmas dinner making the most out of being waited on hand and foot! Also during this time we would like to say welcome back to Sig 'Head' Garrod, Sig 'Am I big enough?' Wilson and Sig Sharon Osgood, all of who have recently completed their tours of Bosnia. Welcome back also to Sig Bob Toner who had a very successful stay with the British Parachute Centre in Sennelager. Welcome to the following, 2Lt Sue Alison on her detachment to the Troop and congratulations to Cpl Jones on his promotion and posting to the Troop. Well done to Cpls Ogg and Royston and LCpl Thompson on completion on their class 2-1 upgraders course. Finally good luck to the members of the Troop who are on Lanyard Trophy training, 'hang on in'. Thanks to all those who volunteered for Christmas and New Year rear details, enjoy your well deserved leave.

RADIO REBROADCAST TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Adam Shakespeare
Tp SSgt SSgt Deano Cox

A quiet period as the countdown for the millennium began. The Troop as a whole was hit with a bombardment of posting orders and detachments. The Troop would like to say farewell to LCpl Stevie 'Codackie AKA Barbie' Codack who has gone to 7 Bde in time for a sunshine tour. LCpl 'Dangerous' Dave Wallace who goes off to teach our future soldiers in RSS Blandford (God help us!). LCpl 'Taff' Williams is posted to 21Sig Regt where he looks forward to some cheap beer and cheap fuel (not). The Troop also has a few lucky people who are attached to 7 Bde and are soon to go on a six month holiday to Kosovo, LCpl 'Mac' McPherson, Sig 'Fordy' Ford and Sig 'Swad' McSharry, good luck guys. By far the hardest detachment of all was saved for our youngest soldier Cpl Tom Murray; who flew out to Kenya for a six week range supervisory job, tough luck Tom. Sport within the Troop is at a high standard as was shown in two competitions against 211 Seniors. First came the rugby 10-a-side when 211 Sig Sqn JNCOs beat the SNCOs and officers in what was called a controversial game 13 points to 10 to the juniors, then came the football match with a 10-2 slapping for the seniors, for some reason the kit inspections and block inspections have doubled I wonder why? RRB Tp look forward to three new editions to the Troop in the next couple of months, LCpl Dave Thompson who is even younger than Cpl Tom Murray, Cpl Vickers and finally LCpl Teague.

212 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Capt Mark Purves/Capt Jason Nichols
SSM SSgt 'I'm just nipping off to play football' Greenwood

Well it has been a busy old time for the bulk of the Squadron here in Herford over the last few months. A few personalities have come and gone from various operational tours and other jollies generally keeping the remaining personalities in SHQ fairly busy. Congratulations to WO2 (FofS) Solomons for coming off the WO1 Board. Just a pity that he missed his celebratory drinks but if he will disappear off skiing for two weeks! What was it that he said about people missing work for sport?

COMMAND TROOP - by Sig Bob Yuille
Tp Comd Lt Stuart Gunson
Tp Sgt Sgt Ade Sims

It was quite a busy period leading up to Christmas leave, with DSG Tp splitting to form Comd Tp and Comms Tp again. Consequently the Tp had to work very hard to finish the never ending CESs prior to the next millennium. We will probably still be using the same 43 series by the next millennium! The Troop organised a 'Millennium' shopping trip to Dortmund. After a few hours shopping for the loved ones it was time for some well deserved refreshment. A visit to a local bar soon proved fruitful as Rangers were playing Dortmund that night in the UEFA cup so a good night was had by all, apart from of course the only Celtic man, Cpl 'Mac' McCallum! Next up was the Squadron Christmas function. Everyone seemed to enjoy the karaoke and disco apart from Cpl Jas Carty who after two large shandys thought he'd take a nap for the night. Thanks to Sgt 'Tug' Wilson and Cpl Phil Korba for a top night. Finally, lucky for us after the Christmas leave it was straight into a regimental plug up, with shouts and screams of 'are we really back at work'? A final mention must go to Sig Brendan Wilkes who managed to get back to work, a week late!! Congratulations must go to Lt Stuart Gunson for finally getting that elusive second pip!

IS TROOP
Tp Comd SSgt (YofS) Al Roberts
Tp Sgt Sgt Jock Reid

Supported by the FSST based at Blandford, Exercise Rhino Charge was IS Tp's first attempt at installing a Divisional Wide Area Network over Ptarmigan. It proved to be a great success with only minor faults standing in our way. LANs were set up in each Headquarters, Main being managed by Sgt Mark Smith; Alt being managed by Sgt 'Porn Tash' Griffith and CMSC had Sgt 'Rifleman' Reid present. It was also a great opportunity for everyone in the Troop regardless of previous experience to learn something new about the system.

2 SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Lt Col C. Wakerley MBE
RSM WO1 (RSM) S. C. Keilty

By the time the next WIRE notes are issued we will have said a fond farewell to the Commanding Officer, Lt Col Wakerley MBE, who is posted to PJHQ. Best wishes to you, Jackie and your children in your new position. The new Commanding Officer, Lt Col Ian Cameron-Mowat took up Command of 2 Sig Regt in February 2000.

LONG SERVICE & GOOD CONDUCT PRESENTATION

The Commander 11 Sig Bde, Brig J. C. Cook MBE, presented the following their Long Service and Good Conduct medals in the Sergeants' Mess at Imphal Barracks on 2 December 1999. WO2 (SSM) Paul McGarry, SSgt Terry Shiels, SSgt (SQMS) 'Gaz' Tuff, Sgts Jim Cooke, Dave Kirk and Cpl Pete Preece. Following the formalities and photographs the Commander presented flowers to the ladies and thanked them for all their support to their partners through the years.

Sqn Comd Maj M. D. Bailes
SSM WO2 (SSM) P. V. McGarry

Welcome to the new OC, Maj Mike Bailes who has just joined us from 21 Sig Regt and congratulations to WCpl 'Mags' Harvey ACTC (SPS) HQ Sqn Clerk on her recent promotion. Twelve members of HQ Sqn and 214 Sqn boarded HMS York from 25 November - 3 December to embark on sea experience training and visit Santander in Northern Spain. The Regiment are affiliated to HMS York and this is the second time this year the Regiment have boarded the vessel.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY - 14 NOVEMBER 1999

lays a wreath at the foot of the Kohima Memorial

2 Sig Regt have held an annual Remembrance Service in the historic York Minster ever since the Regiment returned from Germany in 1983. This year's Remembrance Service was attended by members of the Regiment, their families, local dignitaries and members of the public. 214 Sig Sqn provided a contingent which marched through the streets of York to the War Memorial prior to attending the Minster service. Many comments from the public were overheard with regard to how smart everyone looked. An obvious observation on how many soldiers were in uniform and a good reflection on the Regiment's PT regime.

The York Minster Service opened with a hymn sung with great enthusiasm by all ranks. The CO, Lt Col Wakerley then read a lesson which gave people time to reflect on why we in the Army have such a service every year. Last Post and Reveille signalled the start and finish of the two minute silence and was played by a member of the Queen's Division Normandy Band. A collection was made and raised £100.

After the service, the CO laid a wreath at the foot of the Kohima Memorial in Kohima Gardens adjacent to the Minster. Members of the Regiment then returned to their respective messes to entertain their guests, have a curry lunch and have a few drinks to take away the winter chill.

TRANSPORT MAINTENANCE TROOP

It has been an extremely busy year which has seen most of the Troop on deployment in Kosovo, Bosnia (Op Palatine) or the Falklands. Sixteen personnel from TM Tp left for Op Palatine in the first week of December for six months. During this time we have said farewell to Sgt Paul 'Alan Shearer (from the Macdonalds advert)' Richards, who has left for an even easier time with 33 Sig Regt (V) in January 2000.

Welcome to Sgt Trev McSween from 280 (UK) Sig Sqn, 'Hello, and see you in six months,' as he departs for another tour of the Balkans. Also to LCpls John Beart, Mike Calam, Anthony Clark and Scott Wilson, who have arrived into the Regiment straight from the factory in Blandford. On Friday 26 November the Sergeants' Mess bade a fond farewell to WO2 (FofS) Yam Bahadur Rana who deserted to the other side on commissioning. He was forcibly ejected from the mess in time honoured fashion, through the window to surf over to the officer's mess atop an ERV. He leaves behind many friends, colleagues and a large stain on the carpet where he spilt most of his yard of ale! We all hope he enjoys his tour at Area Systems Group in Blandford as TOT and take this opportunity to congratulate him once again on becoming the FIRST Gurkha to become commissioned as TOT.

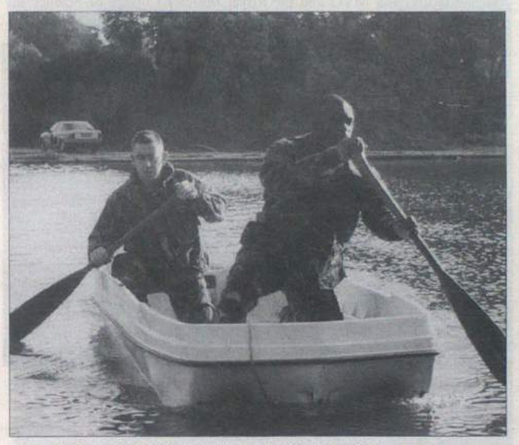
TEAM BUILDING COURSE

Over the weekend 15-17 October 1999 the Regimental Ist XI (no, not football, cricket or hockey, I'm talking about the Training Team) used the facilities of Welbeck College to lay on a Team Building Course for post-graduate students from York University who are studying Post-War Reconstruction and Development. They spend a year studying how to help regenerate the systems of government after a war. The Regiment had been asked to put together a short course to help to get the students working together as a team. SSgt Tucker and LCpl Pounting had spent much of the previous week 'getting into character' for their survival demonstration. The rest of the cadre turned up on the Friday to run through a rehearsal of the programme which had been produced by Capt 'Loads o' medals' Simon Meadowcroft before he disappeared on pre-Op Tour Leave. Whilst WO2 (RQMS) Kev Smith and his team got on with the business of preparing the living accommodation, the 2IC and RSM headed off with the rest of the DS to set up the Command Tasks.

The 17 students arrived on Friday evening and turned out to be a pretty mixed bunch. Their ages ranged from 25 to 53 and they had an abundance of very different experiences in post-war situations, from a British woman who had been working on an education programme in Mozambique to an Afghani man who had fled to Pakistan as a refugee. After the introductions we got down to some thought-provoking discussions about leadership before WO1 (YofS) 'The senior communications Warrant Officer in the Regiment' Simon Lock did his best to explain the estimate process to the students with varying degrees of success.

Day 2 started with WO2 QMSI Dave Clarke passing on tips on obstacle crossing that the students would find useful during the Command Task phase. He chose to do this by taking them round the confidence course, which allowed some of the students to find out something about themselves (like they didn't like heights). The rest of the day was taken up with the students, in two teams, entertaining the DS with their attempts at the Command Tasks. The afternoon and evening were taken up with 'survival training' at a very basic level. Top tip: based on experience from his survival kits presentation, never ask the RSM what he's got in his pockets unless you have about 15 minutes to spare! After the presentations it was time for the students to put theory into practice and a number of interesting designs for bashas were in evidence. It's a good job it didn't rain! After what should have been a fairly short night navigation exercise, when they thought they were about to come in for the night, the students were issued with their second estimate exercise. This was clearly all too difficult for most of the students so, in his disgust at the lack of effort, the 2IC cancelled the transport and the students camped out overnight.

Day 3 saw the climax of their team projects - the construction of a raft. Overall, this event was very disappointing. The rafts were of far too solid a construction and nobody got wet!



WO2 (RQMS) Kev Smith and WO2 (QMSI) Dave Clarke relive their boyhood fantasies by recreating scenes from the Last of the Mohicans as they paddled about in the water providing safety cover

By the time the students left to return to York they were certainly showing signs of working together better as a team. More importantly most of them went away with a very different view of the British Army.

214 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj D. W. Somerville
SSM WO2 (SSM) K. Smith

Some form of normality has now returned to the illustrious fighting 214 Sig Sqn on their repatriation from the sunnier climes of Kosovo. A good tour was had by all with the opportunity to test the soldiers, equipment and more importantly a new squadron operations team. The training that has been provided by this tour has benefited the Squadron immensely. Now that everyone has completed their full allocation of Post Operational Tour Leave (POTL) the Squadron is intent on channelling its efforts to the Regimental Forecast. The reconstitution of the Squadron, after a large influx of new soldiers from Blandford, and the forming of the first elements of 240 Gurkha Sig Sqn are the main effort for the forthcoming months. The forming of Celtic Tp has proved to be an exciting challenge for all with a need to familiarise and brief with the arrival of the Gurkhas and more importantly the chain of command of Lt Dhan, SSgt Bhuddi and Sgt Debendra. Once the Squadron had returned from Xmas leave in its entirety the reconstitution was in full swing. The first week comprised of an administration week and to familiarise and brief all on the new Troop nominal rolls (a large turn around!). This was then followed by an intensive week of vehicle maintenance. It was then the turn of the SSM to ensure all soldiers had updated themselves and completed the ITD training package. Preparation was then in place for the first Squadron deployment on a high intensity training exercise for over a year. The hostile environment of Otterburn and Catterick training areas proved even more demanding than the 'tranquil' slopes of Kosovo. A well organised squadron function on the 14 January was a welcome relief and gave the Squadron the opportunity to thank all those that deployed on operations, both attachments and those that had been posted during deployment. The Squadron now look forward to supporting 16 Air Asslt Bde on their first deployed exercise since formation.

We say a fond farewell to WO2 (SSM) Bob Forshaw on his posting to 33 Sig Regt (V) as the RQMS and SSgt (SQMS) Mark Bristow as he moves across to HQ Sqn as the Health and Safety Advisor for the QM. The Squadron offers a warm welcome to WO2 (SSM) Kev Smith from the QM department and SSgt (SQMS) Colin Dawson fresh from the deployed AMPANs in sleepy hollow Skopje, Macedonia.

ROMAN TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Stu Whittley
Tp SSgt SSgt Chris Symonds

Following a highly successful tour of Kosovo, an even more successful post-op leave and festive period, the Troop has arrived back in York with car loads of Xmas goodies, ready for what promises to be an extremely busy year. No sooner were we back than the Regimental rugby players were on full time training, blasting the Xmas binges out of their system. Unfortunately things didn't go according to plan against the Duke of Wellington's Regiment. LCpl Si 'Cripple' Hopkins still bears the impressive scar of a highly bruising encounter, while Cpl Ray 'Old git' MacLeod is still trying to recover! All the Troop rugby players would like to extend their thanks to the rest of their Troop for their support in the run--up to the match. The postponed Squadron Xmas function in the Merchant Adventurers Hall in York was a good night out, with the hard-core lot making the usual push onto that most exclusive of York hostelries, otherwise known as 'Toffs'.

There are several new arrivals and departures within the Troop. Firstly good-byes to the old (in more ways than one). The Troop OC, Lt Adam 'Wannabe Slim' Honor who is posted to Blandford on promotion to Captain. He has seen the Troop through some tough times including our recent tour of Kosovo. Although his navigation is still some what suspect... on that note has anyone issued him a route card for Blandford? Our second departure is our Troop Recce Sgt - Sgt Mark 'Teddy Bear' Wilford has been posted to 34 Sig Regt (V) on promotion to Staff Sergeant. We wish them both all the best with their future careers.

Our new arrival is Lt Stu 'Johnny Bravo' Whittley who has come to us from the unknown void of Special Comms at JSSU Digby. The Troop has already adopted the 'shields up' position as our new OC, whose Ptarmigan knowledge is about as useful as an inflatable dartboard, is soon to lead us out on the first exercise of the new Millennium.

VIKING TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Jamie Noble
Tp SSgt SSgt Terry Shiels

The Troop wish a fond farewell to Cpl Del Parkinson who leaves the Squadron after a long stint to work with the TA, Sig 'Tommo' Thompson is posted to 1 (UK) ADSR on promotion to Lance Corporal and Sig Gaz Mazzey who is now in civvy street, as well as all the lads who were on the wrong side of the inter-troop postings. We wish them all every success in what ever role they are now playing. Hellos go out to Sig 'Stretch' Heron, Sig 'Grease' Gun, Sig 'Jimmy Somerville' Rees, Sig 'Geordie' Cummings and Sig 'Ginge' Mitchell who have all arrived straight from Blandford. Also Cpl Graham Parkhill, Cpl Plumb and LCpl Andy Williams to bolster the ever decreasing relay experience within the Troop. Finally, some promotions and farewells from the Troop, firstly congratulations to LCpl Andie Ireland and Gav Bevan on selection for promotion to Corporal. Congratulations also to Sig 'Maz' Mazzey, Richie Glass, Dave McLiesh, Daz O'Connor, 'Pebbles' Pember, Matt Penny, John Shenvin, 'Stevo' Stevens and 'Theme' Thompson on their selection for promotion to Lance Corporal. Farewell's to Cpl 'Soon to be Sgt' Del Parkinson and family and Sig Andy Goss on his return to Civ Div, both will be missed.

On Monday 30 November, Viking Tp set out on Ex Viking Ebor II, an adventure training exercise to complete the three peaks, crossing over the peaks of Ingleborough, Penny Gent and Whernside. The Troop paraded at 0630hrs planning to leave at 0700hrs to make the most of the daylight, however, due to a slight hic-up by Cpl 'Hedge, my FTM600 in date, not!' Hodgkinson we finally left camp at 0830hrs arriving at our base camp in Ribbleshead at 1030hrs. The weather was excellent for the time of year and this put the group in the correct frame of mind for a good yomp over the hills.

The first leg was a stroll up Penny Gent led by Sig Sara Jane 'Pathfinder' Elliott whom had a cunning plan to save energy, instead of carrying a rucksack she thought she would wear all of her warm kit from the outset, nice one Sara-Jane. The climb was steady and took three hours to complete, this was allowing for a picnic and pies at the top, and Sig John 'I'm a potential Officer' Sherwin's map reading on the way down, we can all see why you're going Officer, John. Back at base camp SSgt Terry Shiels suggested a pub lunch only to discover that the pub was shut 'unlucky Staff'.

The next leg Ingleborough was led by Sig Ben Campbell, little did we know that Ben had missed all of his map reading lessons in basic training. This cheered up the expedition leader Cpl Neil Binks as each time Ben got lost he volunteered to buy Neil a drink. The walk started off at a brisk pace until we reached the foot of the climb, it then turned into a scramble up a never ending track. All thought of flora and fauna went out the window, ever the adventurers we finally reached the top where Sig Ben Campbell cheered us all up by announcing, 'There's an old fort here,' cheers Ben. All thoughts on the way down were of our much promised pub lunch, sorry pubs shut again, winter hours! There was only one thing left to do, that was to make a command decision and head off to settle for a few sociable drinks and a briefing on the following days activities.

The following morning we all woke to a good old-fashioned Yorkshire Dales welcome, the wind howling and the rain sheeting down. I knew our luck wouldn't last. With blisters taped we set off on our stroll up Whernside with Sig Matt Penny at the helm. The going was slow due to the weather conditions but the group remained in good spirits, this was an excellent effort, especially Sig Matt Penny who in bad conditions never lost the track.

EXERCISE HIMALAYAN EBOR 1 - 22 December 1999
by Sig Shedden

When it was confirmed that I was going to take part in Ex Himalayan Ebor, I was very excited as I have never been abroad before, let alone to Nepal! Having worked alongside Gurkha soldiers in this unit, I was interested in finding out more about their country and cultural background.

Members of the Team at Annapurna Sanctuary

There were nine team members and the Exercise started at the beginning of December with an extremely long flight halfway round the world. On arrival in their capital, Kathmandu, we realised that things were going to be very different. Slowly making our way through their traffic 'system', you could actually see the pollution and we were forced to endure a constant fanfare of vehicle horns-something you actually get used to! Our minibus had to compete with thousands of motorcycles, bikes, people and animals such as goats and even buffalo. However, things quickly changed when we started our eleven-day trek and the only 'vehicles' then were an endless stream of donkeys! Words can not describe the incredible mountain views and the cultural experiences we encountered along the Annapurna Trail. We saw several cultural dances and all joined in, met many interesting foreign trekkers along the way and learned a lot by talking to the locals who were mostly very friendly. whilst all this was going on Sig Shedden virtually managed to drink the whole of Nepal's Coca-Cola supply! Following the trek we went on to do two days white water rafting which at times was quite scary. The rapids were enormous and the current was very strong, every time we hit a rapid I was sure the dinghy was going to turn over. We then went on to the Chitwan National Park where we went on a safari and saw rhinos, wild deer and monkeys. We then went on a very pleasant elephant ride and a not so pleasant boat trip through crocodile infested waters - the sides of the raft we were in were no more than two inches out of the water!

For most of us this was a once in a lifetime opportunity and even the Gurkha soldiers with us were experiencing some of what their country had to offer for the first time. We all had an excellent time and I could fill many pages if I went on detail, both about Nepal and the people who took part in the exercise.

The Exercise itself proved to be a valuable experience for all of the team expedition members. Lots of experience was gained not only in planning and execution of the expedition but also surviving in a very challenging environment and high altitudes. It gave the group the opportunity not only to take part in arduous trekking in some of the most striking terrain in the world but also to experience and enjoy some of Nepal's many different cultures. The expedition was a great success and for many a once in a life time experience. On behalf of the team I would like to thank Capt Hitman Gurung for organising this expedition and also 2 Sig Regt, HQ Royal Corps of Signals, HQ 2 Division. Maj Govinde Gurung MVO and the Royal Military College of Science for their grants.

219 SIGNAL SQUADRON
by Cpl Lyon and Capt 'It's Pants!' Tyndale

Sqn Comd	Maj 'Oh hello' Jamie Compston
SSM	WO2 (SSM) Mark Neighbour

The Squadron has been undergoing a few changes recently as it prepares for its departure to that country of luxury, fun and games - Bosnia! At the moment the Squadron consists of only Eagle Tp which is now made up of all those lucky individuals who are not deploying to the Balkans in December. It now remains up to those highly efficient members left behind to prepare a large fleet of vehicles, generators and radio equipment for the annual PRE. Eagle Tp's previous Tp Comd, Lt Alex 'I am the Spider' Clixby has left us to join the team at ATR Bassingbourn and has been replaced by Lt Dhan, and also SSgt Roy 'Please don't send me to Bosnia, I've just come back from South Georgia' Messenger who now have the heavy task of managing what is left of 219 Sqn, a warm welcome to you and see you in six months! Also a welcome to (FofS) 'Tosh' Leyland who has arrived in time to depart to Bosnia where he will join his partner in crime (YofS) 'Quentin' Winstanley in the Ops Room in Banja Luka.

There have been a couple of events worthy of note, that have occurred in the short period of time that the Squadron has been together. One of those was a day spent walking in the Pennines, organised and run by SQMS 'Who else can I poach to join my SQMS empire?' Tuff. It was a very pleasant day; the scenery was beautiful and the rain stayed away. However, for those who were unfortunate enough to follow 2Lt Dave 'When are we getting our UN berets?' Haslewood their day was not so good as they ended up taking a very long and messy detour. Fortunately they were found and rescued by Land Rover and brought to the pub just in time for one drink!

Another day was spent hosting the Welbeck Cadets, who had taken time out from their half term holiday to visit the Regiment in order to learn more about the Corps. The cadets spent the day driving around the city using the 321 HF radio on a treasure hunt type exercise, setting up Radio Relay dets in the fastest possible time and completing various command tasks. The Cadets thoroughly enjoyed themselves and really appreciated the opportunity to spend time with the soldiers, so a big thank you to all those individuals who helped with the visit.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON
HANDOVER PARADE OF HEADQUARTERS ECHELON SITE 7 SIGNAL REGIMENT TO LANDCENT 2 NOVEMBER 1999

by SSgt (SQMS) Steve Behan

Sqn Comd Maj W. J. Drain
SSM WO2 (SSM) Steve Bovan

As our final departure date drew nearer, HQ Echelon became a hive of activity, especially for the QM's department, with the back-loading of loan and welfare stores, ammunition and Morphine. I, in my capacity as site SSM, continued doing preliminary work on defence and security notes for my hand-over to Senior Master Sgt Keith Szolga, USAF, who was taking over as the LANDCENT SSM for this site. After the initial arranged visits to the site, SMS Keith Szolga, then started to appear on site more frequently, the majority of the time unannounced. To this end, knowing the British Soldier's sense of humour, and his ability to take the Ps out of anything, this small, thickset American came to be affectionately known as 'Elmer Fudd'. The purpose of his visits were to walk around the site and make his own site plan, but we're not sure if he was not on the hunt for that 'Pesky Wabbit'.

SMS Szolga accepts the site from RSM LANDCENT

SMS Szolga approached me and asked if we could do some form of Flag Raising ceremony, for which I had a provisional plan in mind. However, knowing the American love of brass bands and pomp and circumstance, something more appropriate needed to be devised. After consultation with the site commander Capt Ray 'Dick Dastardly' Cory a formal parade was agreed.

Maj Hodges, CO 7 Signal Regiment hands-over the site to Maj Whilie, LANDCENT

I then had the task of formulating the parade, consisting of a march past and a makeshift 'Colour Party', but more importantly, because of the timing, which was extremely short, I had 2x40 minute periods, to practice rifle drill movements and to practice the format of the parade. Many of the soldiers had not touched rifle drill since basic, or Detachment Commanders Courses. So adopting a method of teaching that would make any Guards Drill Instructor's hair stand on end, we managed to present a parade, that was on the whole, quite impressive, until the first rehearsal with Officer's. SMS Szolga was very impressed with the efforts made to date, with this in mind, he thought it would be fitting to hire a local professional photographer for the day, from which both Regiments would receive memorabilia photo's of the parade. The rehearsals were now complete, all that was needed was some fine weather, and the arrival of the LANDCENT party. 'H' hour arrived, but there was something missing, LANDCENT flags. A small delay ensued. It was then discovered that the local photographer had also done a runner, so a quick run a round the site was required for anyone with a 'Squaddiematic' camera. Enter Sig 'Verge gadget man' Verrill. With this sorted, I handed over the parade to Maj 'Baileys' Hodges who made an impressive halt, but was out of time with me, (I'm the author so I'm right). The hand-over parade went very well, much to the applause of our audience which consisted of the two cleaning girls and a dozen LEC's from the cookhouse.

All officer's and soldiers that took part in the parade felt it was a fitting occasion which reflected the hard work that the Regiment had conducted during the Operation Agricola.

QUARTERMASTER'S (A) DEPARTMENT

After a well deserved Christmas leave, the department is now back and raring to go. Maj (QM) Doherty has been walking around smiling like a Cheshire cat thanks to his Kosovo Commendation, Well Done Sir! The RQMS has been sunning himself in Cyprus on a Ex Lion Sun Recce and Sgt 'Dusty' Millar has been hard at play with the Regimental Rugby Team. Sgt 'Sick note' Chivers recently found another birthday and found his way to work, get well soon! Sig 'Thelma' Marshall has been keeping goal for the Regimental Hockey Team and is looking forward to her fiancé coming to the Unit.

DEPARTMENT NEWS

On 4 November the Department finally arrived back in Krefeld on completion of the Regiment's deployment in Kosovo. There have been quite a few comings and goings in the past six months. RQMS Burdge has arrived from UK and within two weeks had completed UNTAT training and was despatched to 'Theatre' along with Sig 'Olive' MacLeod and Sig 'Mussy' Musgrave who had both arrived from the factory in Blandford. Also in November Sgt 'Scotty' Scott arrived from 280 Sig Sqn. Welcome. On the departures side of life we say farewell to WO2 Ged Keane who has taken over as SSM 229 Sig Sqn and Sgt 'Si' Booth who has departed for 1(UK) Div. The Department would like to thank them for all their hard work and wish them and their families all the best for the future.

The QM(T) Department

SPORTS AND SOCIAL

Due to the deployment there are only a few things to mention. Sgt 'Jock' Castle has been busy organising the Regimental Cross Country team, which has been extremely successful along with Sig Keri Johnston who has been representing the Women's team. SSgt Kev Scott is now turning out for the Regiment's 'Veteran' football team and the QM has been seen on Friday mornings in his 'Hobo Gear' explaining that these really are the clothes he uses for Orienteering. The RQ is champing at the bit for some rugby after being concussed in the first five minutes of the Officers/Seniors versus the Juniors Christmas game and not remembering much of the rest of the match. On the social side, if you can call this social, Sig 'Chalky' White entered the Department in the sponsored truck pull around the camp which turned into an inter-departmental competition. The Department acquitted itself well and in the process raised some money for charity. Well done 'Chalky'.

LATE NEWS

Congratulations to Des Lang on his selection and subsequent promotion to Corporal and to Sig Keri Johnston on her selection for promotion to Lance Corporal. The military element of the Department would like to thank our civilian colleagues Al Reed, Collette Devlin, Emma Kinsey and Carl James who kept the Department ticking over whilst we were away on Op Agricola. Carl has since left the Department to further his education at college in UK and the Department wish him well.

REGIMENTAL MOTORING TRANSPORT

MTO SSgt Phil Hay

To start with, the Troop would like to say farewell to the MTO Capt Phil Clifford who has left us for life in civvy street and the MT SNCO, SSgt Dave Mitchell who has gone to another Squadron within the Regiment. We also say good-bye to Cpl 'Scotty' Witts and Sig Glen

'Where's my baseball' Russell, they are off to get their hands dirty in the Regimental GRS.....good luck. We welcome to the Troop the new MT SNCO, SSgt Phil Hay who is playing MTO at the minute, and also Sig Wayne 'Wake up' Kay, Sig Lee Clarke and Sig Dean 'Still here' Mannion.

Congratulations are in order for LCpl Tyrone 'Nobody's ever shown me how to do that' Christian and Sig Emma Clayden on the birth of their little girl Chelsea, and good luck for the wedding at the end of February. We also say congratulations to Sig Lee 'Parker' Manton who took part in the 1 UK Div Nordic Ski Championship and finished in tenth place - Well Done. Perhaps he will be able to come back and do some work now.

Tp Comd WO1(FofS) Tommy Steele

Keeping it short and sweet this month, the troop has just returned from a lengthy and much deserved Christmas break, most of us looking and feeling a lot heavier. Looking forward to getting back to some decent work (honest !). We say hello to new arrivals LCpl Neil 'Yeah baby' Austin straight from the factory and Cpl Des Lang. Also we say goodbye to Sgt Gaz 'Baldy' Watkins, who is leaving us for the delights of 229 Sig Sqn. Sgt Spence Ord is also leaving us for the training wing, good luck to both. Recent events included the excellent Children in Need 'Pudsey Bear' challenge, organised by the Troop under the leadership of Sgt Ord. Nobody told us that it involved the lads pulling a Bedford around the camp in heavy costumes, but hey it's all for a good cause. Well done to LCpl 'Baulchy' Baulch for messing with SSgt Phil 'Don't touch my bike' Mackenzie's motor bike, lets just say it's a good job you're on the cross country team Baulchy. Good luck goes out to Sgts Matt 'Pretty Boy' Clish, Sgt Ian 'Sick-Note' Glover and Sgt Ian 'F-Pian' Middlemiss on their Foremans entrance.

Tp SSgt SSgt 'Jock' Reid

THE PUDSEY BEAR TRUCK PULL

It was a cold and dull day when 229 (Berlin) Sig Sqn decided to take part in the Regimental 'Fun' truck pull in aid of Children In Need. How can pulling a Bedford around Camp possibly be classed as fun??! Not only is it not fun, but you have to pay to do it!! Charlottenburg Tp, having done their research, learnt that there were prizes going for the fastest team and for the team with the best fancy dress costumes. Knowing there was a team of Regimental Winged Warriors competing, we decided to lend them some 'refreshing' encouragement in the form of water bombs, which we're sure they appreciated. The Troop threw heart and soul into their costumes, and provided a colourful spectacle for onlookers as a great deal of make-up had been applied .... reminiscent of a night out in Swindon and giving a chance for people to air those drag costumes again! Sig 'Ski' Sosinski could have done with a bit more costume, and Sig 'Taff' Phillips' jeans were extremely short .... the effort paid off in the end, as the Troop won first prize in the Fancy Dress Competition, with a particular commendation for the fact that the whole Troop turned out to support the team! Congratulations to all those in the Troop who have been promoted since returning from Kosovo: LCpl Paul Brown, Sig 'Scouse' Kelly, Sig 'Canada' Whitehurst, Sig 'Andy Mac' MacFarlane and Sig 'Ski' Sosinski - outstanding work lads, you've earned it.

WHISKEY TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Ally 'son' Lawson
Tp SSgt SSgt Paul Robson

Since the last encounter with Whiskey Tp, the Troop has enjoyed a huge and most welcome Christmas leave period. Prior to the Christmas break, the Whiskey Tp workers, including the office dwellers, engaged upon a festive spree including many a night of drinking at functions held at the Bradbury Barracks establishment, home of the fighting seventh.....

At the Squadron party the Troop enjoyed much success at the raffle with Cpl Overal walking away with a tumble dryer much to his despair, having just purchased a dryer two weeks before. Another lucky winner was Sgt Duncan Cupit who was rewarded with a holiday at Pontins for two weeks. On the other side of Troop events we had to come back to earth and take part in a Range Day at Haltern Training Area, the weather was foul but the Troop as a whole shot well with the exception of one member, Sig Trevor 'The Fool' Woodward who managed a score of just 7 out of 60 (with the aid of a SUSAT)! The Troop has now returned to normality and is looking forward to the Regimental Exercise which will soon be upon us.

The Troop would like to welcome Cpl Andy Morris and his wife Jackie, all the way from 3 Div, LCpl Steve Mallison (an unusually hard working Tech), and lastly Sig Keith Lovell and his wife Jinnette and the kids. Congratulations to LCpl John 'Stevo' Stephenson, and to LCpl Jim 'Lou Bager' Hewitt who are now both wearing their tapes. Congratulations to Sig Jim 'Laffo' Lafferty and to Sig George 'LaLa' Spence who have both come off of the board and will receive their tapes on posting. Finally we have to say farewell to Sgt Gaz 'PC Ventrus' Beardall and wife Micheala and children who are leaving the Army to join the British Transport Police, also farewell to Cpl 'Geordie' Smee his wife Jill and kids who are off to civvy street. We say goodbye to Cpl Lance Barr who departs for his T1 course, Sig Paul 'Johno' Johnson who leaves for 16 Sig Regt on promotion, and finally we say cheerio to Sig Nigel Rowbottom who leaves the Troop for civvy street, we wish them all the best for the future.

231 SIGNAL SQUADRON
SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Sqn Comd Maj Paul Bosher
SSM WO2 (SSM) Karl Weaver

Since returning from Kosovo in November, the Squadron has been spread to the four corners of the world on much deserved leave. However, the work still goes on and a big thank you must go to LCpl Jody Acty and Mrs L. J. Castle for beavering away in the background keeping the wolves from the door. A big farewell to WO2 (SSM) Chris Ward and his wife Geri who have been posted to 16 Sig Regt and many congratulations on his recent selection for promotion to WO1. Looks like you will be moving quarter again very soon Chris. A warm welcome goes out to the new SSM - WO2 Karl Weaver and his wife Sue. Karl takes up his appointment having done a year as the Training Warrant Officer.

231 SIGNAL SQUADRON
EXERCISE MONOPOLY BACKSTOP

With last years tour in Kosovo, and the Christmas block leave out of the way, the Sqn Comd, Maj Paul Bosher decided to reward the Squadron with the opportunity to go downhill skiing, the organisation of which was rapidly passed to Lt Jon Mayne. The Exercise was based at Haus Magnus Lodge in Wertach close to Sonthofen. The ten days were split into two five-day packages to allow maximum attendance from the Squadron. With three groups of different abilities, ranging from those who had never even seen skis before to those who reckoned they were the next Franz Klammer, the Exercise was guaranteed to have its fair share of wipe-outs, and more than one person was fined by their group for having the most spectacular fall of the day resulting in a costly night at the bar. This was especially true of WO2 (SSM) Karl Weaver, who was determined to get as much air time as possible and therefore launched himself off every available jump he could find, and afterwards told tall tales of the distances he had managed to achieve. As well as the traditional skis being used, many people also got to try out 'Carverinos' for a day. These skis are about a metre long and very easy to handle. Even the novice groups were able to do tricks and 360 degree turns on them. In total almost 50 people of all ranks and abilities attended the exercise, and everyone voted it a success, especially as it hadn't cost anyone a penny! The only person who really had anything to complain about was LCpl Michelle Gilmour who on the last day fell and broke her leg resulting in an operation and a week in Obersdorf Hospital. The whole Squadron wishes you a speedy recovery.

OSCAR TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Nicky James

Finally the Troop has reassembled back at the garages after far too much leave. There are a few formal welcomes to those who arrived whilst the bulk of the Troop were still deployed. LCpl Hopkins and Sigs Corr, Heath and Stevens have all become part of the mighty Oscar. There are also many belated congratulations to Cpls Applegarth, Beacher, McGee and Ritchie and LCpls Baynes, Childs, McKay and Walker on there promotion. Their Troop Commander is hopeful that this profusion of promotions will keep everyone keen and eager for the start of the exercise season!

RADIO TROOP
REPORT FROM OCTOBER 1999 - JANUARY 2000
Tp Comd Capt Ritchie Byfield
Tp SSgt SSgt George Farrar

Well, the Millennium day has come and gone and the end of the world somehow seems to have eluded us, so life must go on, and with Radio Tp it's not such a bad thing. As an outsider coming into Radio Troop, I assumed that the Troop consisted of only a few willing men posted in recently, until I discovered that the main group have spent almost as much time on leave as they have on tour. When in December they all came back, popular comments such as, 'Who are you?' and, 'My God I haven't seen you in years,' were floated about, as well as, 'I cant wait for Christmas leave'. At the beginning of December the troops swapped and shared manpower with Quebec Tp, with many new arrivals from the Rear Details Troop, and we all finally got a chance to meet and greet each other in the time honoured tradition of a few drinks. December also saw the usual Christmas events, including the Troop function at 'Mama's sans all you can gorge Chinese restaurant' which raised more than a smile among our fuller figured members of the Troop.

A fond farewell was said to LCpl Dave 'Jabba the Hutt' Hallway, who goes on to 2 Sig Regt. The Troop, indeed Krefeld, will be a quieter place without him. Also a farewell to LCpl Dave 'Who?' Naylor, who goes on to Butlin's holiday camp at Blandford. Before we let LCpl Dave 'Jabba' Hallway go, he practically begged us to give him one last PT session, so bowing down to his demands, we partook in the Regimental truck pull around camp, 'Jabba' goes away a slimmer man (not much slimmer though). Now you may think that a Santa hat is just for the obligatory Squadron function, well Radio Tp managed to incorporate it into many tasks leading up to Christmas, there is now a hat seller in town who is able to send his kids to Eton for their education.

Congratulations to LCpl 'Flossy' Fallows and LCpl 'Swiss Tony' Ainscough, not only on their recent promotions, but on their undying love for each other, by the arrival of their baby girl who is already on the nominal roll for Radio Troop (Manpower, get it while you can). Congratulations also go to the following Troop members who have been promoted recently: LCpls John 'Tabs' Marlborough, John 'Ken' Dodd, 'Thomo' Thomas, 'Twiz' Twissel, and not forgetting 'Scouse 'Watch your wallets' Dowell. One promotion to Corporal was Mick 'I've swallowed a cow, whole' Clark, who leaves us to join 7 Bde, because he's always wanted to see Belsen and go back to Kosovo. Continuing with Troop tradition, Radio Troop welcome another 'Matty' Matthew's who hopefully wont bore us with rugby. Last but not least, commiseration's to LCpl Andy Crabb, who discovered that, a bollard is to a car what Saddam is to compassion.

QUEBEC TROOP
Tp Comd SSgt Andy Saunders
Tp Sgt Sgt Dean Wilson

Quebec Tp has reformed after our recent tour of Kosovo now consisting of a SCRAT (T) rover group and Tech support. A warm welcome into the Troop to the following: LCpl Craig Irving and LCpl 'Air' Jordan straight from the factory. We would also like to congratulate the following members of the Troop on their promotion to LCpls 'Merc' Ainscough, Glen Moffat, Kerry Roberts, Jimmy Samuel, Mike Jennings, 'Robbo' Roberts, Mark Lane and Phil Brown.

Best wishes go out to LCpl 'Big Pos' Postlethwaite who has left us for life in civvy street, and to Cpl Bob Morton on his promotion and posting to 609 TCP RAF Leaming. We'd like to congratulate LCpls Niki Fallows and 'Merc' Ainscough on the birth of their daughter Bethany Lauren. Many a sleepless night to look forward to! Finally we would like to congratulate LCpl 'Robbo' Roberts for his outstanding performance on his PTI course. He certainly knows how to do well on a course by turning up for the course so badly prepared that the staff had no choice in awarding him the most improved student! Well done 'Robbo'!

PAPA TROOP

Firstly we would like to say a big Welcome back to the following - Sgt Andy Mapstone, LCpl Mark Ross, LCpl Manic Mundy, Sig Steff Rees, Sig Chris McLaughlin, Sig Louise Allen, Sig Si Cartmell and Sig Craig Sykes - on their recent return from Operations in Kosovo. Papa Tp have had a busy time recently beginning with their now annual responsibility towards the Regiments' St. Martin's Day celebrations. The whole day had been spent preparing for a few hours in the evening when hundreds of children were to descend on the camp to claim their bag of goodies. Each bag of sweets had been packed earlier in the day by Papa Tp and local German women, only part of this Anglo-German event. The children and their parents walked the streets of Krefeld with hundreds of glowing lanterns and a traditional Oompah band to escort them all the way. The bonfire was lit under supervision by Cpl 'Pyromaniac' Jackson and Cpl 'Eyebrows' Hepworth, who swore it would be the last time that he risked the flashback of bonfire duty on St. Martin's Day. The evening, like the bonfire was a roaring success. Nobody was trampled in the mad rush to get the sweeties, and those of Papa Tp who remained till the end were rewarded with some ginger bread from the local German organisers.

Papa Troop was also involved in a visit to Rheinburg Cemetery on Thursday 11 November. After the ceremony a poppy was placed at the foot of every headstone, to pay respect to all those who lost their lives. All in all it was a very emotional day. On Sunday 14 November we had a parade in the gymnasium for Remembrance Sunday. Everyone was smartly dressed in their number twos and hymns and prayers were joined in remembrance. The event went very smoothly and thanks go to all those who were involved in the setting up and taking part in the service. The final Service of the year, the Regimental Carol Service was rousingly led by example from Papa Tp who provided the three readers for the bible passage. This came in the form of a Geordie Prophet (Sig Laverick), a Scottish Angel (Sig Sykes) and a Yorkshire Narrator, (Sig McLaren). Finally congratulations are to go to a spate of promotions within the Troop. Firstly to Sig Carl Shackleton on his selection for Lance Corporal. Also to LCpl Duncan Johnson and LCpl Shane Hepworth on their promotion to full Corporal.

HOTEL TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Ben Howarth
Tp SSgt SSgt Al Ironside

The last month and a bit have been an adaptive time for Hotel Troop, with of course the usual movement of personnel. For example it's good-byes to LCpl 'Dutchy' Holland and LCpl 'Stan' Stanley, redeployed to practice their technical skills in other troops within 232 Sig Sqn. Hello's go to Sig Chris 'Albert' Hall, straight from the factory and Sig 'Harriet' Harmon over from RAF Bruggen. The Troop would like to wish LCpl 'LJ' Murray and his wife Best Wishes and Luck on his posting to Northern Ireland. We're sorry to lose our honorary Troop mascot, their little Baby son, Alistair.

Promotional Congratulations go to LCpl 'Lenny' Victor, LCpl Shaun 'PTI' Dinsdale and well done to Cpl 'Shazza' Dainty. The Troop started silly season with our own Xmas party. It was well organised and planned by our own LCpl 'Taz' Williams. After a short trip over the Dutch Border to Venlo, we started off the evening with a couple of games of Ten Pin Bowling. SSgt 'Kingpin' Ironside showed us all how to play. Then it was time for the tropical barbecue, superb food and heartily enjoyed by all. To top the night off we all kitted-up and prepared for war in the Lazer Zone. A few of us may have taken it a little too seriously and the fun was brought to a premature end due to its violent nature. A good night was had by all and provided a terrific prelude for the Squadron and Regimental Bashes.

It's safe to say the majority of the troops time, in the last couple of months, has been spent on Post Kosovo, Christmas and New Year Leave. Some may have enjoyed their time a little too much, mentioning no names but… Sig 'It's not my fault' Laverick spent Xmas day with his fiancé, at Her Majesty's Pleasure. Other more enjoyable places visited by Troop members, were South Africa and we are still eagerly awaiting the return of Cpl Matt 'Busker' Duddles from a months visit to New Zealand. An interesting and extremely busy year stretches out ahead of us.

EXERCISE LIZARD-ROCK BACKSTOP
ROCK-CLIMBING PROFICIENCY IN THE COSTA BLANCA
by Lt T. M. Noakes

In November of last year I was fortunate enough to lead a rock-climbing exercise to the Costa Blanca in Spain for three weeks. Exercise Lizard-Rock Backstop aimed at qualifying three successive groups of six soldiers in the rock-climbing proficiency award. The participating soldiers were all from 7 Sig Regt, most of whom had only recently returned from Operations in Kosovo. Some of the soldiers returned early from their post operational leave to take part in the Exercise. The previous rock climbing experience of the soldiers varied considerably from novice to indoor lead-climbers. All of them were to find the multi-pitch limestone crags of the Costa Blanca an eye opening, and challenging experience. The original idea was born from the knowledge that under the remodelled adventure training system a unit JSRCI is encouraged to supervise and instruct rock climbing proficiency courses for soldiers within their unit. Thus encouraging young soldiers to participate in AT activities early in their career and foster development towards becoming an instructor. This opportunity was like a red-rag to a bull. Having recently passed my JSRCI during my R&R from Kosovo in May upon my return from Operations in August I set the wheels in motion to enable Lizard-Rock Backstop to be born.

This was the first full scale Adventure Training Exercise that I have organised through the military system and in hindsight I hope it will not be the last. I have certainly learnt some lessons that will make such a task in future less draining. Like many other Exercise organisers there were moments when I swore 'never again', when my instructors pulled out days before kick-off and had to be replaced at the last minute. That said, the appreciation of the eighteen soldiers involved and the quality of the memories that I take away were more than worth the effort. The Exercise was organised so that the instructional team was based in Spain for the whole period whilst three groups of six soldiers flew out successively from Germany to participate in their one-week course. Each course ran Monday to Friday allowing the weekends free for instructor training! Our permanent base was a Villa called 'Casa Mabeni' in La Fustera on the outskirts of Calpe. The Villa not only provided a hard base from which to conduct evening teaching sessions and lectures, but the self catering aspect provided the flexibility required to make the most out of the time available. The instructional team consisted of WO2 Mike Holman MIC currently at Blandford Gym, Lt Tania Noakes JSRCI and Course Provider at 7 Sig Regt, 2Lt Richard Vowles JSRCI currently at RMAS, ably assisted by Cpl Ewen Whitney a JSRLT from Blandford with experience above many active JSRCIs. My thanks have already been extended to them all for stepping in at the last minute in the knowledge that without them this excellent opportunity may have been lost. I know that they all enjoyed the experience and hope that there will be many a reunion in future!

The Costa Blanca is renowned amongst British climbers for providing an excellent winter-sun climbing experience on both bolted and traditional routes. Three weeks are barely enough to scratch the surface of what is available. There is a wealth of venues of very different character all within one-hours' drive from Calpe. These varied from small, difficult but bolted sport crags, to single and multi-pitch roadside crags and sea cliffs. There are also plenty of long multi-pitch crags with straightforward access and very long Multi-Pitch Mountain Routes for the full-on Mountain Day experience. If you haven't climbed at Puig Campana whilst in the area where have you been? (See photo for a rock-climbing haven). The variety of climbing sites available allows most weather to be dealt with. If it is raining in the mountains it is usually dry on the coast and for those rare days when it is raining everywhere some specific routes stay dry. Out of twenty-one climbing days only two were rainy. On the first the corner route of Povlos Magicos on the Penon D'Ifach was found to be dry and on the second the rain had cleared sufficiently by midday to visit Toix Oeste and conduct Lead Climbing Instruction. The areas which we used during the course of the three weeks included, Toix Este and Oeste, Candelabra Del Sol, Mascarat and Aguja Inferior, Penon D'Ifach, Gandia, Sella Cul Del Rino, Sella The Divino and Puig Campana, (a pretty busy three weeks!). The area lends itself very well to teaching a group of reasonably strong novices. The courses that were run covered in depth the multi-pitch climbing system and introduced all the students to leading their own climbs by the end of the week. I would mark out two particular elements which were key to the success of running these rock-climbing proficiency courses in such a challenging environment. The first was an element of selection and training of the candidates before the Exercise proper. From the start it was emphasised that the exercise was aimed primarily at identifying potential future instructors and the level would be pitched as such. By far the most important element however was the fact that all four instructors are currently active rock climbers at a level above British HVS/E1 and all had a true commitment to their sport. This allowed the students the chance to draw on over forty years worth of climbing experience, and gave the instructors an opportunity to introduce newcomers to the sport on a very personalised basis. Although the number of easy climbs in the area is low, those that exist are of high quality and require placed protection throughout thus allowing the students to learn traditional climbing skills. The quality of the bolted protection on most climbs 6a or above was found to be excellent, however on routes of a lower grade a climbing rack was taken and invariably used. (Unless you get a perverse thrill out of some of the coat-hanger heads that we found instead of bolt hangers.) The level of climbing difficulty meant that the students were significantly challenged from day one and that the pace of the course was unrelenting. Their learning curve was necessarily steep and for the most part all the students coped very well. I cannot deny that the Costa Blanca is an area that forms a deep impression on inexperienced and experienced climber alike. (All of the instructors plan to return.)

of Dierdro UBSA (Grade S+) Penan D/Fach

Some of the longer routes subjected the soldiers to a level of exposure akin to nothing they had experienced before. Some found this a humbling experience and others found it liberating. The students were thoroughly challenged and in hindsight all participants enjoyed their course without exception. To add a further insight into the rewards of such a challenging introduction to the sport here is Sig Claire Davies, aged 19, who joined 7 Sig Regt in the Summer of 1999 in her own words.

'As a Novice climber I found this 5-day course in the Costa Blanca extremely inspiring. I learnt a lot in the five days, more than I imagined I would, from basic rope techniques, to ethics in the mountains. The multi-pitch climbs were amazing, even though the weather was not perfect on the first couple of days the views were spectacular. I didn't realise there was so much opportunity for novices like myself. A few of the pitches were very challenging and some of us coped better than others, but all of our climbing skills had improved by the end of the week and all of us had thoroughly enjoyed ourselves. I would be extremely pleased if I was to see more Adventure Training Exercises like this in future. I gained a lot from the five days training and would like to see others given this experience also.'

Sig Davies on the Spectacular pitch in Dierdro UBSA (Grade S+)

It was particularly encouraging that the feedback at the end of the course was so very positive. Of seventeen students who attained the award sixteen said that they would continue the sport in one form or another, with at least ten who were keen to do more multi-pitch climbing and learn to instruct others in the sport. For each course an instructor was allocated two students for the duration of the week, and some of these RCP partnerships have endured to continue rock-climbing in their own time. This is after all what we all hope will happen after attending an RCP course!

LCpl Steve Minto learning to abseil - Toix Este

I am with 7 Sig Regt at least until the Summer months of 2000 and plan to use the time to foster the continuation training of these budding rock-climbers. Some of them are ready to take their rock-leader training already and will be visiting one of the Joint Services Centres for the first time later this year. Although I am planning further Expeditions for the Regiment later this year I hope to run additional RCP courses for the soldiers who missed out on this opportunity over several weekends at my current local crag-Freyer!

HEADQUARTERS TROOP
Tp Cornd Capt Hawes
Tp SSgt SSgt Hughes

It has been a fairly busy period for the Troop since the Millennium, deploying on exercise 'Foxes Horizon' from the 10-14 January for a pre-Kenya shake down and true to the normal Welsh weather it never stopped raining for the whole exercise (good acclimatisation). This was swiftly followed by Ex Dragon's Test from the 17-19 January which saw most of the Regiment deploy at short notice to Sennybridge Training Area for the CO's Cup, a 55km walk in the park with a couple of stands to complete on the way round! (Apart from LCpl 'Otis' Reading who played his get out of gaol free card (literally).) The Troop was tasked to provide a Mine Clearance stand for the Exercise. With as much illumination as Blackpool Tower, the stand was set up in record time on one of the highest points on the training area, Flag 28. Congratulations to the Squadron 'B' Team on coming second in the competition, five places in front of the 'X Team'.

A warm welcome from the Troop goes to Sgt 'Mac' MacDonald, Cpl 'Mat' Turner, LCpl 'Stu' Grey and LCpl 'Otis' Reading who make up the Squadron Tech Workshops, that is if they can find a place to put them. They have only been here for a few months and are already on their fourth move back in with the MT. Where is that port-a-cabin that we have been promised? The MT would like to thank the Gymnasium for letting Sig Morris join them back in the Squadron to do some real work, only to find that he is off to Kenya on Devil's Horizon for six weeks. They would also like to say, 'No,' to Sig Bradford, you can't go on another 6-month tour (Skive) to Kosovo and Cpl Campbell how could you let the ED's down? The rear party would like to wish the members of the Troop a safe journey as they deploy on Exercise Devil's Horizon for a six week holiday in Kenya, while they support the Operational Trial for Odette in the Salisbury Plain area (a close second 1 don't think.) Don't forget to send us a postcard and remember to wear your sun screen.

VICTOR TROOP
Tp Comd Lt F. Reid
Tp SSgt SSgt (Supvr R) Watters

Since returning from Christmas leave the Troop has been involved in a number of events. The most important is the forthcoming deployment to Kenya on Ex Devil's Horizon. This has meant the boys being dragged away from the 'trailer of knowledge' to ensure the vehicles and equipment were ready. While all this was happening we managed to fit in a Squadron Exercise and a Troop level exercise, another weekend spent working. Many thanks to Cpl 'Swampy' Wilkins who sank an entire complex when a hard standing was less than ten feet away! The CO's Cup also provided much merriment when it was decided to complete a 58km tab around Sennybridge Training Area. Lt 'Taxi' Coleman misunderstanding the word tab much to SSgt Tony 'I haven't got the fare' Watters annoyance, but well done to both teams who took part. Especially Sig 'Biggsy' Hancock who still managed to find time to play darts with a winch peg using Cpl 'Tommy' Tucker's hands as a dart-board. Happily the vehicles are finally packed for Kenya and off our hands, with the lucky ones putting the finishing touches to their personal kit before jetting off for eight weeks in the sun. For those remaining behind, ODETTE courses are the priority in preparation for the arrival of the new EW system to take us forward in this Millennium! Finally the Troop bid a sad farewell to LCpl 'Flyover' Salter who left us on promotion (Finally) to 225 Sig Sqn.

TANGO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Waddell
Tp SSgt SSgt Ollie Camphell

Once again the Troop has been busy this month with exercise straight after Christmas leave and now the mad rush of packing for Kenya. The Squadron had a little surprise for them on returning from Exercise in the form of the CO's Cup at Sennybridge Training Area. The two teams from the Squadron spent two days tabbing their hearts out while the lucky ones left behind took a nice easy stroll along the coastal path from St Davids to Brawdy. Well done the 'B' Team on beating the 'X Team but it was unlucky for the 'X Team who had to put up with the new Troop Sergeant, Chris Mulligan who had been complaining all around the course with sore feet (and not enough pies).

The Troop likes to welcome back the holiday makers from Bosnia, Cpl Pete Dimmack, LCpl Nell Parsons, Sig Chris Martin, Sig Boy Thomson and Sig Phil Lee. Also we welcome back Lt Waddell who has been on a long extended holiday skiing in Austria for the last couple of months (lucky for some). We would like to say a sad farewell to LCpl 'Clubby' Club who's off to Arborfield to spread his joy with the recruits and team up with his old friend Andy. Also farewell to Sig 'Capt' Jones who's off to 2 Sig Regt (or is it the Royal Marines)? Congratulations to Sgt Chris Mulligan and Cpl Tom Wise on the latest additions to their families (well done the wives).

Firstly the new arrivals: Hello and Congratulations to the new Capt Jenni Simpson Int Corps who is double batting as an Int Officer and OC Z Troop. Hello to somebody called Lt Fiona Stewart a past from the BLAST Congratulations to the soon to be WO1 (YofS) 'Taff' Owens and also to the soon to be WO2 (FoS) 'Ski' Sharpe.

EXERCISE DRAGON'S TEST

A break from the norm was required. The forecast of events is too packed to allow the traditional format for the CO's Cup. As an example our Squadron is on the build up to the System Operational Field Trials for Odette and another, rumour has it, has a forthcoming exercise in Kenya. (Mentioned only nine times in their WIRE notes it's six weeks you know)!

from Sgt Turner on the 245 Sqn 'Vehicle Recovery'Stand

The Regiment deployed en masse to Sennybridge Training Area on the Monday. That night they began a long march around the area completing stands en-route. The distance varied from 55km to 155km depending on whom you talked to ... and who got navigationally embarrassed.

LCpl Cleary is defiant
'It's a trap .... there isn't a breath of wind nor a cloud in the sky ... it's January therefore this isn't Sennybridge' (it's a fair point!)

The teams returned to 'Brawdy Lanes' for excessive curry and beer action on Wednesday in time to watch the Squadron hierarchy, stand DS and any other 'Odds and Sods' compete for the CO's plate. This final part of the competition required teams to run in along the coastal path from St Davids Head to The Lanes. The finish line was populated with all the Sennybridge competitors, now with beer in hand, enjoying watching this final piece of torture inflicted onto the Squadron desk pilots.

HOCKEY SEASON 1999/2000

The 1999 hockey season for the Regiment looked good. We had new blood posted in, new equipment bought, but best of all a new astro-pitch completed during the summer. The initial results were as follows:

Against	30th Signal Regiment	Home	Win	7-1
	9 Regiment RLC	Home	Win	2-1

This put us through to the 5 Div final against either 3 Div Sig Regt or 11 Sig Regt, two recent champions. Those two teams ended up playing their semi-final on the morning of the Divisional Final, that could only be to our advantage. Then the final: (best read in the voice of Bill MacLaren)..... On a cold, wet and windy Blandford afternoon the Regiment took to the field against 3 (UK) Div HQ & Signal Regiment. A good start to 14 with early chances falling to Sgt Tompson, LCpl Jones and SSgt Davies, the latter being outside his usual role as an Army goalkeeper. Sig Harris on the opposing team. current army under 21Keeper, saved these with apparent ease. Then disaster for 14 as 3 Div's young Sig Salmon destroyed the not so young trio of Maj Richardson, WO1 Devine and WO2 Watton. A truly magical goal over the head of WO2 Spears shows the experience of the 14 Sig Regt team is no match for the speed of the youngsters from Bulford. Just to prove me wrong an almost instant reply, a long ball from SSgt White picked up by SSgt Davies and tapped across to Sgt Tompson who slots home the equaliser.

After half time the 14 Sig Regt team came out meaning business. The score went to 3-1 in our favour. 3 Div fought back with the score at 3-2 and only ten minutes to go. Some resolute defending allow 14 Sig Regt to hold on to their lead and get our first victory in the new enlarged Div competition.

EXERCISE SJUSJOEN BACKSTOP

Ex Sjusjoen Backstop 11, was the Regimental Annual Nordic Ski Camp to Norway over the period 14 November - 19 December 1999. Fifteen soldiers, by then highly trained athletes from the previous build up training, deployed in four Landrover Wolfs to Norway, transiting Denmark. The ferry journey passed without incident and we arrived in Skei, near Lillehammer in the late hours of the 15 November 1999. There was no snow! No problem - there's plenty of hill training to be had in the mountains! After a week and still no snow, Sig 'Robbie' Fowler and Lt Mark Crinnion headed off in search of snow. The temperature was 13 degrees Celsius inside the Arctic Circle and with no prospect of snow for the following seven days the decision was made to return to Germany. The party transited JHQ en route to Ruhpolding, Bavaria. At last, snow! Cpl Mark Blears and Sig 'Robbie' Fowler set to work teaching the group of novices how to ski whilst the more experienced Cpl Dale Armitage and Sig 'Pete' Beardsley concentrated on skate and race technique. It did not take long for all to pick up the basics of cross country skiing. Awards for endurance go to Lt Emma 'Donkey Kong' Bruce, Sig Kerry 'I hate this' Sims and LCpl Tracy 'I'm not moaning' Mills. During the three weeks in Bavaria, Cpl Blears put all of us through our paces during ski training and built on the biathlon training that we had received in Norway. Unfortunately, Cpl Kev Smith injured himself during training, but all came away from the exercise as competent skiers. One of the aims of the Exercise had been to select two teams for the Divisional Championships -Ex Pipedown in January. It was hoped that a female team could be formed but this was not to be. Cpl Blears, Cpl Armitage, Cpl 'Scotty' Davies, Sig Beardsley and Sig 'Gaz' Restall made the cut for the 'A' Team; Sig Fowler, LCpl Chris Ferguson, Sig Chris Stewart and Sig Nikki Harrison made up the 'B' Team.

During Exercise Pipedown both teams performed to expectations with some excellent performances from all the novices. The 'B' Team in particular did very well considering all were novices and had to compete in the maximum number of races. Cpl Davies and Sig Restall, both novices for the 'A' Team have had an excellent first season. Four of the ten have now been put forward for instructor courses and most wish to return again next season. There were a number of Royal Signals Units competing in Ex Pipedown and it is hoped that this nucleus will form a Corps Camp next season. Units are asked to give serious consideration to entering a team for the camp. Lt Crinnion can be contacted on JHQ MI 3556 for further information:

16 SIGNAL REGIMENT ALPINE SKIING SQUAD
THE CORPS TRAINING CAMP AND CHAMPIONSHIPS
KAPRUN, AUSTRIA NOVEMBER - DECEMBER 1999

Following a later than anticipated return from Kosovo it was something of a shock to Lt John 'Where did you say Admin was again?' Lyons that he was now responsible for taking the Regimental Alpine Skiing Team away to the Corps training camp and Championships. However, after linking up with several members of the team as well as Sgt Dean 'Who needs snow chains!' MacKenzie he was feeling happier. The squad moved off to meet up with the members of 230 Sig Sqn, who were already in Zell Am See as part of a Squadron Adventure Training Expedition. The weather for the trip was encouraging for skiing and led to some hair-raising moments for all concerned.

LCpl Ferguson skating in the 4xl 0km Relay

Following a safe arrival at the accommodation, the party was surprised to find that they were sharing the hostel with a party of Dutch schoolgirls. What a nightmare! Morale was soon stepped on, however, as we discovered several measures enforced by the friendly people at the Austrian Tourist Board. These included lights that automatically turn off after 15 seconds, and a whole building that was wired to shut down should you be unlucky enough to have your kettle on at the same time as anyone else on the floor. Needless to say we spent a lot of time being plunged into darkness, much to the annoyance of Cpl Bruce 'More garlic anyone?' Findlay.

The next day, up on the glacier, the Team got down to the serious business of race training. Everyone was keen to get on with it as, out of the sun, the temperature was known to fall to a 'fresh' minus 22C°! Not somewhere you would want to be stood still for too long. However, with the training team that had been assembled this was unlikely to happen as the Team, along with others from the Corps, embarked on three weeks of intensive training. At this point we should really thank the training team -SSgt Andy Brown, Sgt Dean MacKenzie, Cpl Chris Sweeney and Cpl Andy Dawson - for their efforts. As a result of these efforts the team as a whole made real progress as Cpl Tony Orange cemented his position as the leading competitor at the championships, closely followed by LCpl Graham 'Couldn't grow a beard if I tried' Rennie. Other members of the Team were making real progress as well with Cpl Bruce Findlay's technique improving all the time, and Cpl Ritchie 'The Rocket' Turnbull lived up to his nickname by leaving his sense of self-preservation at the bottom of the mountain each morning. Unfortunately the squad was weakened by two retirements from the training, LCpl Mark Ellis and Cpl Joanne 'Barking mad Billy' Beaumont.

The competition week went exceptionally well for the Regiment as we collected the first prize for every competition we were eligible for! Overall Cpl Tony Orange headed the seeding list with Lt John Lyons in Fourth, LCpl Graham Rennie finished a slightly disappointing Seventh, then came Cpl Ritchie Turnbull Eighth and Cpl Bruce Findlay despite injury finished a very creditable Fifteenth. With this fine performance from all concerned the squad moved on to the Divisional Championships with high hopes of qualifying for the Army Championships, more of which will follow later.

REGIMENTAL KAPE TOUR

In November of last year, seven members of 16 Sig Regt were tasked with giving a presentation on Kosovo to schools in Scotland, as part of a R SIGNALS recruiting drive. All team members had recently returned from Macedonia or Kosovo, and so our experiences were fresh in our minds. Lt Emma Bruce organised the team, and tasked Sig 'Pez' Perry and Sig Glen Armitage with making a three minute video from a video she had on the conflict in Kosovo. Two days, seven minutes of video (we got carried away!) and many broken copyright laws later, the masterpiece was complete and ready for it's premier showing - we can safely say there wasn't a dry eye in the room! The rest of the Team had concurrently been working on the script itself. The final breakdown of the presentation was as follows; an introduction by Lt Bruce on the geography and history of Kosovo, which challenged even the most dedicated student to stay awake! A 'tear-jerking' insight into the refugee crisis and an account of what NATO did to improve the situation by LCpl Tracy Milligan and Sig Kathy Williams. The video was next and was followed by a brief by Sig Perry and Sig Armitage on the communications used during and after the initial move into Kosovo, including a practical demonstration with radios. Cpl MacPherson provided a humorous talk on living in the field - the field toilet part of the speech was vetoed by RSS Blandford, however, much to Cpl MacPherson's dismay. Finally Sgt 'Where's the Bar' Green summarised the presentation. It also has to be said Sgt Green was our technical expert and managed to rig up a mobile sound system for the video that even the Manic Street Preachers would have been proud of. With the presentation complete, and the team sick of rehearsing, we departed for RSS Blandford to, hopefully, be given the rubber stamp of approval. We did not have to wait long with just a couple of points being picked up by the 'board of officers' before we were on our way to Sunny Scotland.

On 8 November 1999, the team set up in the first school, and were very well received. All reservations were wiped away by the end of the presentation, and everyone was left feeling a lot more confident.

Cpl McPherson with one of the pupils at Montieth High School

The KAPE Team with a class of pupils at Monteith High School

The Team averaged about two schools a day for a week which meant a lot of travelling, setting up and tearing down. The funniest point of the week was when a female pupil asked Lt Bruce whether girls could join the SAS. Lt Bruce was in the midst of trying to explain that, 'If they had passed the course', when she got her As and Is mixed up. I'll leave it up to your imagination as to what she said instead of passed! Needless to say it was an expensive night for her! The last school the Team visited was a special needs school which we were slightly apprehensive about. In the event everyone enjoyed this school immensely and felt it was the most rewarding of the whole week. Overall the KAPE Tour proved hard work during the preparation phase but this was more than compensated for during the Tour itself I think everyone enjoyed themselves and found the experience both challenging and rewarding. This coupled with the fact that Scotland had very long licensing hours ensured a good time was had by all!

LEICESTER TROPHY RUGBY

Once again we are in the middle of the cornerstone of Regimental Sport, the Leicester Trophy Competition season. As such, a cold winter's day saw the Regiment vying for the prestigious title of Rugby Champions. Ten teams were supposed to enter, nine turned up. It is at this point we must publicly acknowledge SAN Tp, 255 Sig Sqn unfortunately due to chronic under-manning, courses and a widespread allergy to physical exertion, had to drop out of the competition, supplying however MAN Tp with a number of their squad. Well boys, you know what they say, if at first you don't succeed .... CHEAT! The day's activities thankfully went well, with all games being played in an excellent spirit. I must thank both of the referees for the time and effort they put in to make the day a success. I must also mention the contribution made by the Regimental 2IC who not only played but refereed as well. All joking aside, MAN Tp were the tournament's eventual winners, beating the seemingly unstoppable 252 'B' Team in a closely contested final, with Kowloon Tp placing third, due to a better points difference than fourth placed TN 015. Thanks must also go to the CO, Lt Col Morphet, for presenting the prizes, and a huge thank you to WO2 (FofS) Bob Vowles for the help he provided in ensuring that the normally 'administratively challenged' Lt Simon Gladwin managed to put the day together in the first place!

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Bruce
Tp SSgt SSgt Roberts

It's time for Support Tp to say goodbye to a whole host of people. In fact, it is difficult to remember a time when so many people escaped - I mean left - the Squadron at once! We would like to say farewell to Cpl Dave Sawyers who has moved to Arborfield, Sig Steve Pearce who has left for sunny Bulford and Sig Ross Turner who has been posted to 30 Sig Regt. Sp Tp would also like to give their best wishes to Cpl Nick Tipping and Sig 'Coops' Cooper who have moved within the Regiment to HQ Sqn - enjoy the Sergeant Major's PT sessions! Furthermore, the Troop would like to welcome Cpl Parry who has arrived from 7 Sig Regt and Cpl Kev Smith who has moved within the Regiment from TM Tp. Our warmest and in some cases belated welcome also goes to LCpl Pinkney, LCpl Morgan, LCpl Jacklin, LCpl Gill, LCpl Birbeek, LCpl Richardson and LCpl O' Neil who have arrived from RSS Blandford. The Troop has also had the addition of a new officer. 2Lt James Mason is attached to the Regiment for eight months prior to attending university. Congratulations go out to LCpl 'Tax' Powell, LCpl 'Peck' Ramsden and LCpl 'Bash' Bashford on their recent promotions - an excellent effort by the line section. Lastly Sp Tp would like to congratulate Sig 'Knuckles' Whitworth for his CONWOR Commendation for his service during Op Agricola. I think few would disagree that he is an extremely committed and hard working individual and deserves this recognition for his efforts.

MAN TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Crinnion
Tp SSgt SSgt Fensom

The majority of MAN Tp have returned from Christmas and post deployment leave, and are now preparing for the forthcoming Regimental, Brigade and ARRC exercises. The Troop would like to welcome Cpl Kev Parkes from 252 Sig Sqn, LCpl Mark 'Geordie' Appleby posted in from 3 UK Div, and Sigs Donaghy, Jelfs, Johnson and Steele posted in from RSS Blandford. The Troop would also like to welcome 2Lt Neil Clements on attachment prior to attending the Troop Commanders' course at RSS Blandford. Congratulations to LCpl Pete McMahon, LCpl Jane Robinson, LCpl Louise Underwood and LCpl Glen Armitage who were all promoted in post and remain within the Troop. Sadly we say goodbye and congratulations to LCpl Nikki Kenvon, LCpl Sam Gontler and LCpl Al Cheetham who are all posted on promotion - good luck. The Troop also says goodbye to Sig Rob Brown who has been posted to 252 Sig Sqn. Congratulations again go to LCpl Kenyon for her CONWOR Commendation on return from Op Agricola.

OPERATIONS CELL - RANGE DAY 1 FEBRUARY 2000

In order to keep up the basic skills required the Regimental Operations Cell Staff (less those Tech Adjt's sporting pink shirts) spent a very windy afternoon on the range for the pistol APWT. The training was conducted by WO2 (SSM) Andy Young and the shoots were controlled by SSgt Craig Wrath and Sgt 'Deano' Cartledge. Unfortunately the wind was atrocious and 'moving targets' were the order of the day. The highlight of the afternoon was WO1 (FofS) 'Billy the Kid' McCreath charging down the range having been briefed to step forward and make ready – there are no bayonets with pistols Bill!! Overall it was a very pleasant change of scenery and the scores on the doors meant that WO1 (YofS) Andy Campbell and Maj (Tfc) Pete Barron achieved hps of 32 with Maj Garry 'Can you just run through that again?' Hearn trailing in at 25.

ROYAL SIGNALS WINDSURFING CHAMPIONSHIPS 1999

by LCpl Gaz Pope

This year's Royal Signals Windsurfing Championships were held in Weymouth from 15-17 September and they gave the newcomers and the more experienced windsurfers the chance to compete at a thoroughly challenging and exhilarating sport. The first day was the inter-unit competition, with major and minor units from within the Corps competing. With moderate winds the Regiment managed to retain the Major Unit title with a team of four, Sgt Dave Bennett, Cpl 'Taff' Richards, LCpl Carl Kidner and LCpl Gaz Pope. After the inter-unit competition it was time to see who the best individual windsurfers within the Corps were. The winds picked up and this made for some excellent sailing with Cpl Helen Nolan becoming this year's Royal Signals champion female novice. The competition proved to be a great success for the Regiment and for the competitors, who enjoyed excellent windsurfing and the thoroughly deserved social life in the evenings.

INTER SQUADRON SHOOTING COMPETITION
29 NOVEMBER 1999

It was what seemed to be an ordinary November morning, birds were singing, the sun was just coming over the horizon, and it was freezing. All this was going to change, each of the four Squadrons had a team of marksmen (and women) going to Kingsbury ranges to take part in an Inter Squadron Shooting Competition consisting of a pistol match, rifle match and LSW shoot. The Support Squadron team, led by Sgt 'Deano' Cartledge, were looking good and were very confident. We arrived at the ranges and proceeded to clean our weapons, then as if from nowhere a little voice piped up, 'Can someone show me how to use this??' We looked round to see where the voice had come from and there was Pte Mitchell looking puzzled at her rifle. After a little instruction on the rifle (what it was, how to use it, which end to point where) and a few arguments on who was going to have the lane next to her, we set off for the rifle match. The rifle match was an APWT style shoot, and even though we somehow managed to keep our respirators on through the whole of the last stage of the shoot (thanks Sgt Morgan) we were confident we had done well. We made our way to the 30m range, where a team of four 'veteran' shooters were to take part in the pistol shoot, another APWT style shoot. The four old men of the team (Sgt 'Deano' Cartledge, Sgt Lee Clark, Cpl Scott Phillips and Cpl Ian 'Cush' Cushing) stood in trepidation waiting to shoot. We were all happy with the scores, which were out of 32 and we had all scored between 29 and 32. It was looking good for a Support Squadron win. The big challenge of the day was for Sig Pratap 621 and Sgt Lee 'I Tab Everywhere' Clark who were chosen to take part in the gun shoot. This involved a sprint from the 600m point to each firing position and engaging the target. We had high hopes, but it was a hard event. Sig Pratap amazed us all with his marksmanship. Scoring over 50 points, the next best shot had just over half of that. We made our way back to the admin area to await the results, not knowing how the other Squadrons had performed. We had to wait until we went to the 501 Club to find out the results, and for some reason Cfn Adamson was really eager to get there, perhaps it was the mention of beer? When the results were announced we were all overjoyed to find that we had in fact won by a HUGE margin, and all the other Squadrons should be jolly disappointed with themselves. All in all a good day on the ranges.

BATTLEFIELD TOUR DECEMBER 1999

On 1 December 1999, C Tp went to Cambrai, in France on a battlefield tour. After a long and tiring journey, which included getting lost in the French road systems, we arrived late afternoon feeling a little lethargic. We then booked into the Hotel Ibis and prepared ourselves for a long night on the town. Waking the next morning with some members of the group not yet returned and most others not feeling one hundred percent, we prepared to go on the tour. On the roads we once again negotiated the confusing road system and from sheer luck arrived at the site of the Somme. Whilst touring the site all members of the group were moved by the scenes before them, and the descriptions portrayed on the information boards at each of the locations. Everyone concerned agreed that it was difficult to understand how such an event could have taken place by modern standards. After returning to the hotel we reluctantly decided that another night out would be the answer to finish off the day. This proved to be an eventful evening with the troops having their own methods of flagging down a taxi. One of the group, no names mentioned, decided that the best way to grab the drivers attention was to part with his clothing. Other methods included chatting up the local Kebab shop owner, which proved fruitless. The return journey was hampered by bad weather so unfortunately the group had to visit the booze shop and finally when we managed to board the ferry a few members were not feeling too great, funnily enough. Those present were:- SSgt Hurren, Cpl Hay, LCpls Fields, Fairbairn and Hellyer and Sigs Clarke, Earp, McGinn, Niven, Shaw, Smith and Wood.

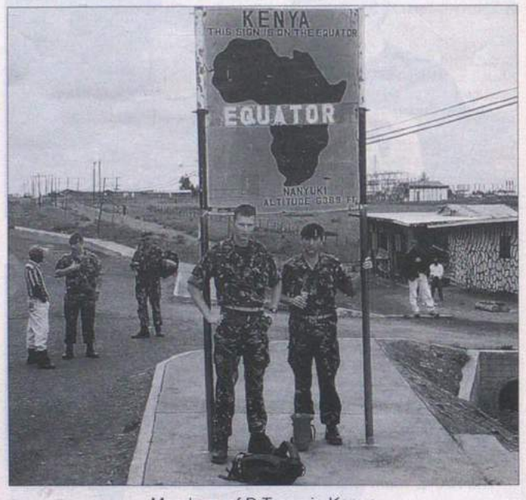
ALPHA TROOP

'A' Tp has had a busy period over the past two months in preparation for deployment on Op Surety. Each detachment has been on activation, and therefore extra training on the various equipment required for the Op was undertaken to ensure a trouble free deployment. The Brussels det had to work that little bit harder in the build up phase due to the introduction of MOST 4, which was to be deployed for the first time within the Regiment. Once all the testing was complete the troops departed for a short Christmas break and returned on Boxing Day to deploy.

One det located at 19 Mech Bde HQ, 'Pristina University', where they managed to confuse everyone as to what they were supposed to be doing. The Op was generally uneventful, however the crew had fun in the antenna field with knee-deep mud. Also, when temperatures dropped, so did the comms link as the 522 decided to develop a disliking to cold weather. In general though, comms were successful.

As soon as the det arrived in the province they had a security brief where they were told that everybody was gated. As a result, Capt Owen Finnie's golf clubs never saw the light of day (ha ha). The power man thought that it was going to be plain sailing. However, as soon as the det powered up, the PSU blew and use had to be made of the generator power. LCpl Lindsay certainly earned his £39 that day. Night shifts passed quickly with the help of the whiteboard facility on JOCS. For LCpl Chris Bradford and Sig Paul Taylor, however, it was a case of what night shifts? The newly promoted Sgt Frank Baker amused everyone with his rank slide changing antics. He was a Corporal at meal times and a Sergeant at other times in between servings. The ferry journey back was the highlight of the op, not only because everybody was going home but also Sig John Roberts entertained everybody with his bouts of seasickness. The Troop would like to say 'Thank you' to all computer programmers out there who conceived the Y2K bug and consequently ensured that our festive celebrations over the millennium holiday were sufficiently dampened ..... Cheers!!!!!

BRAVO TROOP - EXERCISE GRANDPRIX



Members of B Troop in Kenya

It has been a very busy year for the Squadron, what with Kosovo, Macedonia and Albania. So it was nice to have an exercise, the fact that it was in Kenya just added to the anticipation. The rear link detachment under the command of L/Sgt 'Scouse' Parry left a very cold and wet UK heading for an African dream. The Exercise wasn't all work, we managed to pass the time chasing lions on night safari and trying to chase off baboons on the Aberdare Country Club Golf Course. We also tried out white water rafting, which we were all a bit wary of, given the wildlife out there. LCpl Paul Taylor threatened to sign off if we made him go into the water so he finished his adventure training propping up the bar in the Sportsman's Arms. The rafting turned out to be the highlight of the exercise, attacking rapids and jumping off 40ft waterfalls. The bruises and sunburn were well worth it, even though Sgt Dean Leach did resemble a lobster for a week after. LCpl 'Grey' Wootton found time in our hectic work load to climb Mount Kenya while suffering from frostbite and hypothermia (his own words), while LCpl Scottie Cooper kept himself busy cleaning up the rest of the detachments mess! All in all a very enjoyable exercise which will not be forgotten in a hurry!

CHARLIE TROOP

Since December the Squadron has been involved in several trips over seas, some of which were work orientated and some not. The first was a jolly to France (as explained earlier) and the second, Op Surety where members of A Tp were sent to various places around the globe ie. Belgium, Kosovo, America and NI for the duration of the Millennium celebrations. Thanks to A Tp for taking the job on so C Tp could have a relaxing leave. Certain members of C Tp were involved in Race Relations and Ethnic Recruiting, what was actually involved was several demonstrations showing the different sides of Army life. The log demonstration was interesting and I am sure the on-looking audience appreciated it, but I am not too sure if synchronised log lifting was the most impressive advert for the Army of the future. Never mind we had fun doing it! The other demonstration was a Basketball match, which actually was shown on Sky Sports, obviously Rupert Murdoch knows how to get the viewing ratings up! Next onto the CO's Challenge, which the Squadron did brilliantly at, winning the competition convincingly.

The Christmas party season was a success with most people letting their hair down especially Sig Dan Vietch who thought he would step into a fight to do his referees bit but to his dismay found himself on the wrong end of a few flying fists. Hard luck Dan and good luck in civvy street whatever you decide to do. C Tp would like to welcome to the Troop Sgt 'Gaz' Shuck and Cpl 'Paul The Egg' Henderson, at least now Mr Dagless will have somebody to talk to. The Troop would like to say farewell to Cpl Pete Smedley who will find it difficult in SHAPE with all of the extra cash he will be earning. Well done to our newly promoted personnel there are too many to list them but we now need some more Siggies sent to us from the factory please!

OPERATION LANGAR – THE RETURN OF DELTA TROOP

Mid November and morale is at an all time low. Rumours of an early return to the UK are rife and life is quiet - the det has settled into a routine. LCpl 'Trotter' Trotman has got the generator that he has been asking for from the start of the tour so he, at least, is happy. Sgt 'Billy' Kidd has his admin squared away and is already planning the early move back to 'Blighty'. This requires frequent trips to Darwin to assist LCpl Kerrie Rawlings, Sig Trish Walker-Scott and Sig Ian Marsden with packing the NCC Rear and keeping their morale up by having a few beers in Darwin. Meanwhile Cpl 'Crypto' Wyllie with his crypto sorted, could make sure he had a tan for the entire det! Finally the word is given, and chaos descends on our peaceful life and the real start to make the move home is made. Kit is made ready and gathered from across East Timor and accounted for. This is the first time the kit has been together since Sgt 'Rancid' Rogers left his trail of mis-accounted for equipment in his usual admin vortex!

The first move is back to Brunei Garrison, the detachment is turned round and maintenance is carried out before time is found for a little R and R. Firstly the Brunei Garrison Christmas party gets the 30 Sig Regt touch and the party goes with a swing. The next day the det visits the Brunei theme park that has all the best rides in the world. Best of all it is free, courtesy of the Sultan of Brunei (for removing the joys of alcohol). After the delights of Brunei the crew goes their separate ways. The lucky few depart on a Hercules with the 501E for five days and the rest of the crew travel back on VC-10, the quicker two day option. The 501 crews next stop is the Maldives and what a stop it is - two nights in a 5 star hotel on its own island. First time for the 'Frank' moment for all of us. The next stop is Oman and another 5 star stop for a night and the last time for a bit of power tanning. The final stop is Crete where the RAF boys could only fit in a 3 star hotel! This is where we get our first taste of the weather to come and finally into Lyneham for the real shock of true English weather. Meanwhile, the crew on the VC-10 stop in Sri Lanka for a refuel and do not leave for another three days. This makes their two day trip a five day one and they arrive back a day after the Hercules. Needless to say though, they also had 5 star accommodation en route!

So that brings us to the end of this D Tp round the world voyage. Everyone is back home for a well-deserved rest and to take part in the Christmas festivities with their families. Not forgetting a healthy dose of flu and a cold thrown in for good measure after all that tropical heat.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS NEWS

The Squadron headquarters has worn out yet another Officer Commanding. Maj Joe Cooper has drawn the short straw and will no doubt find the demotion from working with the best, to working with the rest a hard task. Maj Jules Swindells has none of these problems of course, as he is promoted from OC 256 to OC 258. Clearly, it will be sad to lose a great OC and we will all miss him, but at the same time we welcome Jules and Liz to the 258 posse. The Boss is dead, long live the Boss! Whilst we are losing a great OC, much comfort has been forthcoming with our loss too of the Billy Smarts Circus of the JTFHQ Sig Sqn. As a result we are all looking forward to a nice relaxing year…

DELTA TROOP

Delta Tp, would like to say a warm welcome to Cpl Dambar 'Dimebar' Gurung coming across from 250 GSS and to Sigs John 'Winston' Ellson, Steph 'Trunks' Hawkins and Paul 'Catalogue Pose' Howells - all coming straight from the factory. A fond farewell goes to Sgt Dave Rogers and family and Sig Jacqui 'Brunei' Bridger who are both posted to the Royal School of Signals down in Blandford. Also fond farewells to LCpl Lee 'You ain't seen me, Right!' Kemp to 1 (RBY) Sig Sqn, LCpl Paul 'Unlike the Murphy's' Hines to 7 Bde and Sig Mark 'Mr Logic' Palmer to Northern Ireland. We must also say goodbye and good luck to Cpl Andy 'Jurassic' Smart, Sig Oscar 'Weight gain 4000' Phillips and Sig Baz 'Beefcake' Still who have all seen the light and are leaving the Army for civvy street. Congratulations go to Sgt Gaz 'Barry Sheene' Middleton and wife Angela on the birth of baby Edward, as well as to Sgt Dave Rogers and wife Christine on the arrival of baby Lauren Jade.

ECHO TROOP

Tp Comd	Capt 'Mumra' Rae
Tp SSgt	SSgt 'Doc' Halliday

It has been hectic here in E Tp for the past month and it is forecasted to continue right up until mid-Feb when the whole Troop deploy lock, stock and barrel (carrying thermals) to the Balkans for a six month tour of duty as the 'Balkans Satcom Tp'. In preparation members of the Troop have been sighted cramming in various trade courses, military courses and exercises prior to deployment. Hence, the lads have adopted the title of Colgate Tp - 'still working'. The photograph below shows members of the Troop training on the new Military Off–the–shelf Satellite Terminal 4 (alias the beloved MOST4).

Up and thrusting Sig Doherty – or is it up and coming .....?

Now for the usual 'hellos' and 'goodbyes': Firstly we welcome into the troop the latest batch from the factory: Sigs Dowling, Clutton, Lamb, Sellers and West. We also welcome Sig Mclean who has just arrived from 3 Div. The Troop has a number of farewells to say; so 'goodbye' and 'good luck' to Cpl Mick Gregoire, Cpl Aide Lowe, Sigs Rob Woollard, Fred West and Dave Gregg who are leaving for pastures new in Civ Div. We also say goodbye to Sig Dave Sims who has finally left and has been posted to 1 Div - early reports here are that the NAAFI bar's takings are down!

We would also like to say 'well done' to the newly promoted Lance Corporals in the Troop and they are as follows: LCpl Aaron Donnelly, Stu Engleby, Ray McKay, Dave Walker and Dave Steadman. Get the beers in! Finally, congratulations and best wishes to LCpl Lee Nicol who has finally decided to do the right thing and marry Yvonne on the 22 January 2000. The white stilettos and lycra leggings are on their way Yvonne. Also congratulations to Cpl 'Paddy' Bevan and Debbie McAllister; they are tying the knot on 5 February 2000.

EXERCISE CYRAEG BEAR - by Sig Lee Simmons

Ex Cyraeg Bear was a four-day 'Troop bonding' exercise with the purpose of instilling unity and teamwork into the Troop. Despite ideas that a good night in Magaluf would have had the desired effect it was decided that the exercise would be better suited to Sennybridge in Wales, where men are men. To kick off the Exercise was Ex Icebreaker, this is where everyone was given a chosen topic to talk about for three minutes. The phrase 'Errrrmmm' became popular and everyone suddenly became aware of their hands and what to do with them; LCpl Jeff 'Jeffers' Ford found himself picking his nose at one point!

A new day and a new challenge; this challenge was a race between all four sections over the unforgiving Sennybridge assault course. Four sections of white shivering things were paraded around the course, which consisted of obstacles such as mud, water and muddy water. The sections raced in pairs in super quick time (considering it was just after the Christmas break!). The winning section was Section 5. During the course LCpl Fred Hazard thought it best to cheer his section on from the sideline and whilst running beside them, took a nosedive into the freezing cold river. Points were awarded for his graceful entry and the ability to hold his breath whilst swearing. Best impression of 'Bambi' had to go to LCpl Lee Nicol on the rackety bridge. The next physical challenge for the sections to overcome was a combined day and night orienteering exercise. The daytime orienteering went without any major hitches however, night time was a different story all together! On the night navigation Section 2 found themselves about 5km off the orienteering map with the strong conviction that the maps must be wrong. The conversation went as follows:

Sig Adam 'Pathfinder' Toner: Do you know where we are?'
Sig Lee 'Scarface' Simmons:
'Yes. We're here on the map, but the map doesn't show these woods either side of us.'
LCpl Lee 'Magma' Nicol:
'These maps are officially 'gash'; they're ALL wrong. Let's carry on!'

Like 'Lemmings' Section 2 continued and finally returned some three hours later after they realised the errors of their ways! The Exercise wasn't all physical, as our mental ability and reasoning were also stimulated, especially through the use of appreciations. All the sections were tasked to get an injured man to medical attention by the fastest means possible. This involved taking into consideration such factor as terrain, equipment, daylight hours, weather, morale and comms. After minutes of thinking Sig Matt 'Gink' King appreciated that the problem was the injured man and concluded: 'shoot the bloke and put him down as an exercise loss.' Standby Sandhurst!

To end the exercise the sections all had to provide a 5min skit. This brought about some beauties such as the infamous 'International Arse-burning championships'. During this competition four contenders had to sit on a heater for as long as possible. The best section competition was won by Section 4 who were led by Cpl Brendon 'Ladies' Plant. On the whole the exercise was enjoyed by everyone and did complete its aim and it gave all the members of the Troop who are deploying to the Balkans a chance to get to know each other better. Next time though could we give the Magaluf idea a chance...?

BANJA LUKA DET – 501 PURPLE

The first elements of the Balkan Satcom Tp deployed on 3 January 2000 – at daft o'clock. Sig John 'Pathfinder' Lawrence, and Sgt Al 'Give me the map' Barker, decided they preferred to fly from Brize Norton. Consequently, a two hour journey to RAF Lyneham became a painstaking four hour fun ride! On arrival at Split, we were told to catch a flight to Banja Luka. Upon sighting the Czech aircraft we were about to travel in (complete with oil dripping from the fuselage and wings), Cpl Tony 'Whaaaaaaat' Gallagher, produced a photograph of his beloved children and embraced it. Eventually we reached our destination in one piece, however LCpl Michelle 'Chunderwomen' Black, was convinced she had lost her ability to hear when the airport appeared silent yet busy? We discreetly advised her to remove her earplugs! On completion of the arduous take-over from 249 Sig Sqn, we conducted a 501 activation to test the tails kit. During this period Cpl Tony 'I require an interpreter' Gallagher, was required to make numerous phone calls. Whilst speaking to the SQMS, he had attempted to quote our Euromux number, but became utterly confounded with the amount of fives and sixes it contained. Whilst pronouncing the number he would cut off mid-flow exclaiming 'Whaaaaaaat!' After composing himself he rambled on discussing problems concerning the enhancement of the 501 as well as the CES; we had no idea what he meant, presumably the SQMS had as we received the correct CES! However the SQMS also highlighted with 'Anymore problems, phone somebody else.'

In order to alleviate the tedium and lethargy long associated with cold winter evenings, the detachment has adopted a healthy regime of fitness. After one of the squaded sessions, Sig John 'Kebab' Lawrence, upon returning to base decided to unwittingly sign in under a false name. Three hours later he was summoned to the guardroom to explain himself to the Colour Sergeant who spoke fluent Geordienese. After a valiant attempt to explain himself, he was asked to 'Chill out!', Sig Lawrence in response promptly saluted the Colour Sergeant for reasons only known to himself?

On the second week we conducted a further 501 activation to inform 228 Sig Sqn, what services we could provide for them. Meanwhile, LCpl Jamie 'Sinner' Slade, and Cpl Gav 'Dod Gam Dood' Wallace, were liaising particularly well with other units in BLMF and were clearly willing to do whatever it took, to appropriate whatever was required by the detachment. The activation went splendidly with only one minor hiccup when Cpl 'Long arms' Gallagher got his Rover stuck in the snow! The initial elements of Echo Tp have deployed successfully, and are looking forward to the remainder of Echo Tp joining us.

FOXTROT TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Morag Southern
Tp Sgt Sgt Stu Fidler

It was a busy end to the Millennium for Foxtrot Tp. Our return from Ex Bright Star (which was held in Egypt from September to November) saw all available members of the Troop getting stuck into the job of removing tons of the Western Desert from the kit that we had deployed with. Following the turn-around, the Troop took part in the Remembrance Day Service at St Nicholas Church, Bramcote, before escaping for a well earned long weekend. The Troop welcomed a few new faces upon our return from Egypt. Sig Andy Jordon-White, Sig Gaz 'Doris' Day, Sig Jim 'SUSAT' King and Sig Dave Scott, all join the Troop from the Royal School of Signals and have been crated immediately as per Troop SOPs! Cpl Lucy Mason also rejoins us after her tour at Arborfield.

The Second week of December saw anyone who could be spared, taking part in a winter week of military training at Swynnerton Camp. Apparently the week went well, but the author of this article tore his ligaments on the assault course on the first day! On a happier note, congratulations are in order for the following: Sig Danny Cooksey and Sig Faye Wood, who will now be known as Lance Corporal's of the Royal Corps, Sig Danny 'Captain Co-ord' Thwaites and Sig Andy 'My body is a temple' Armitage who successfully completed the ACAI's course at Aldershot and are now doing sterling jobs as baby gym-queens and of course to Sig Frankie Langford, who has just come off the board. The Troop welcomes back LCpl Dickie Lane, LCpl Gav 'Leo' Sayers, LCpl Kerry Rawlings and Sig Kev Spinks, who returned in December, having been deployed on Op Langar's tour of the Pacific Rim, visiting Singapore, Brunei, Australia and of course Timor (where they spent most of their time dodging the tirade of Australian NDs!). Fortunately, despite the best efforts of the Aussies to 'bag a Brit', our steely eyed globe trotting warriors returned unscathed and immediately disappeared for a well earned four weeks leave. The rest of us embarked on Christmas leave on 18 December and as the Millennium bug didn't bring about the collapse of civilisation as we know it, returned with a collective hangover, eager to finish the preparations of the JTFHQ role to 256 Sig Sqn.

On a final note, as the Troop look forward to Exercise in Diego Garcia, we bid farewell to SSgt Paul Boughey, his wife Trudie and children Mollie and Jack. SSgt Boughey will be picking up his White Helmet once more, to resume his favourite pastime of jumping through flaming hoops and stuff. Also LCpl Faye Wood and LCpl Danny Cooksey move on to newer and greener pastures elsewhere. The Troop wish them all the very best of luck.

LIFE OF A SUCCESSFUL QUEENS GURKHA SIGNALS RECRUIT - by Sig Bikal Gurung

It was five o'clock in the evening of 8 November 1999. The evening was quite freezing for November. Everything seemed to be new to us about this camp; but we were happy because it was the day we set foot in the Regiment. On the first day, we had our initial tests on English and mathematics. Then we had a two weeks course on English and computing. Tutors from North Warwickshire and Hinckley College helped us in improving our written and spoken English. Computing was somewhat new to us but we got along with it quite well during the course. Now we are capable of doing packages like Databases, Word processing and Spreadsheets.

The following week, we had another two weeks course on mathematics and basic electronic principles. SSgt (FofS) Ratna and his team were with us during this part of the course. The tutors were mixtures of Gurkhas and British ranks. Initially it was quite confusing in understanding British instructors but we realise that this was done for our own benefit to get used to English people in their native tongue. In addition we had driving lessons (theory) every evening. One afternoon of the following week, it started snowing; the first hint of Christmas. I had forgotten all about it. Probably I had concentrated too much on my studies. Well, it wasn't over yet because on the Christmas break we were familiarised on different equipment used by the Regiment.

We were tested on every field to assess us for our suitability for the three trades in Queen's Gurkha Signals. The Trade Board sat on the Fifth and on the Sixth the result was announced. On that day, hope was rolling high in everybody's hearts. When we were finally told of the result, we were all relieved and the last two months waiting was over. Finally we felt as though we were worth something. From that day on we practised drill, took part in parades like other members of the Regiment. Our next big event was the Attestation parade. Brig S. M. A. Lee OBE, was the Inspecting Officer which took place on 12th January 2000. We took oath touching the flags of the Regiment and the Nation. The day was made joyous by the persons who received their LS&GC Medals and even merrier by the newly commissioned officers. For us it was the day we proudly became a Signalman of Queens Gurkha Signals.

MY VERY FIRST OPERATIONAL TOUR IN KOSOVO
by Signaller Deepak Rai

It has been little over four months that 250 Gurkha Signal Squadron has been to Kosovo on Op Agricola. 250 Gurkha Sig Sqn took over from 256 Sig Sqn during the month of July 1999. As for myself, I was always wondering what it would be like to be out on an operation because it would be my very first operational tour ever. We flew from UK on 19 July 1999 and landed a Petrovec in Macedonia, from where we were driven straight to Kosovo on the same day. As we were on the way I saw numerous people on streets who appeared to be homeless and a lot of children who seemed to be parentless. They were holding out their hands begging for money and food. As we crossed the border from Macedonia to Kosovo. I saw number of houses badly damaged and burnt. After three hours of driving we finally arrived at our final destination, Pristina, which is situated in the centre of Kosovo. Being one of the new soldiers who has recently joined the Regiment, I have always been curious and eager to learn about the Vehicular Satellite Communication 501 (VSC501) systems and the duties and procedures in a Communication Centre (COMMCEN). Both of these skills are very important to know as a Radio Telegraphist within the Royal Corps of Signals. Everything seems to be going great and I have managed to gather a huge amount of knowledge and information on Satellite Communications Systems, as I was learning bit by bit every day about the equipment. Moving into the COMMCEN side of life, as our COMMCEN at Pristina University is very busy I have to deal with lots of incoming and outgoing signal traffic. I have learnt a lot about the COMMCEN work and feel myself, proud to have become confident in my work. On the physical fitness side, I have always managed to maintain my standard by going for a run almost every day if I can, and also spending a bit of time in the gymnasium. In summary, I have been enjoying every moment here in Kosovo along with the rest of the Squadron personnel.

My first Operational Tour in Kosovo

TERRY FOX RUN AT GOLES HILL (KOSOVO)
by Sig Autar Shrestha

The Terry Fox Run is a charity run, which was organised by the Canadian Army on 25 September 1999 at Goles Hill, approximately 20km south-west of Pristina, Kosovo. The aim of the run was to raise money for the Terry Fox Cancer Research Fund. The running route itself was 5km long, all the way up to the Goles Hill with a significant gradient. The organiser had set up a good start point, well-marked running route with scenic finish point on the top of the hill.

Terry Fox, originally Terrance Stanley Fox, is the name of an amputee who had his right leg amputated because of cancer. Despite being disabled, he successfully ran between the East Coast and West Coast of Canada to raise money for cancer research. Even with only one leg, Terry proved that anything is possible if you are determined and, physical barriers pose no threat to your ambitions. His ultimate goal was to raise one dollar from every Canadian of the national population of 24.1 million for the Terry Fox Cancer Research Fund. As a direct result of Terry's dogged determination and sacrifice, he finally succeeded in raising more than 24.17 million dollars for the fund. Sadly, he died on 28 June 1981, just one month short of his 23 birthday.

The Canadians were very delighted to see us participate on the run. Although being on operation, a total of 70 runners from different NATO countries spared their time to take part in the event. Six members of the Balkan SATCOM Squadron including myself, volunteered to take part in the event. Even though the route was uphill all the way from start to finish, we all felt quite at home and, comfortably achieved creditable positions between Sixth and Thirteenth. The Canadians were very much impressed by our excellent performance on the run. After the event, the Canadians asked us a lot of interesting questions including the selection procedures for joining the legendary Gurkhas. Finally for our memory, we took a photograph with a Canadian flag before departing to our detachments. Yet another victory for the Regiment. Jai QG Signals!!!

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS - SOUTHFIELDS

CO Lt Col Linda Harrison TD
RSM WO1 (RSM) John Gibson

HELLOS AND GOODBYES AND THE NEWS

A number of new members to the permanent staff team have arrived in Southfields recently. So it's welcome to WO2 (RQMS) Neil Roome fresh from 7 Armd Bde HQ and Sig Sqn (207) in Hohne. We all hope that you settle quickly into the Regiment and your new post. Welcome also to Sgt 'Del' Trotter who has arrived from 15 Sig Regt to swell the technical ranks of the Regiment. Farewell to the QM, Maj Ken Clark, who is off to 21 Sig Regt. Good luck to both you and Edna, we all hope that you are happy in your new post. Finally farewell to the RAOWO, WO2 (SQMS) John Woolley, who is a casualty of SDR and therefore gets an early escape to Bicester. After the Summer break the new Training Major, Maj Tim Cooper and Yeoman, WO2 (YofS) Si Tyler were not going to allow the troops to rest on their suntans for too long so it was straight back into Trade Training and preparation for October's Brigade FTX. Meanwhile the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner, got on her bike and pedalled off to Paris for Charity – some doubted whether she would find her way there, let alone her way back!

More recently a big welcome to WO2 (SQMS) Dave Pope who has arrived from 256 Fd Hosp (V) to take up the new post of NRPS RAOWO. We all hope that you settle down quickly and enjoy working in RHQ – good luck with Betty and Thelma, our two 'mad civvies' in the Orderly Room. Farewell to WO2 Brenda Prater, who leaves the Regiment after over 20 years as a serving member of the TA and nearly as many as a civilian employee. Good luck in your new post as AA at the Baird Health Centre. We all thank you for your many years of dedicated service and hope you settle quickly into your new job.

PEDAL TO PARIS 1999 – by Capt M. J. Rayner

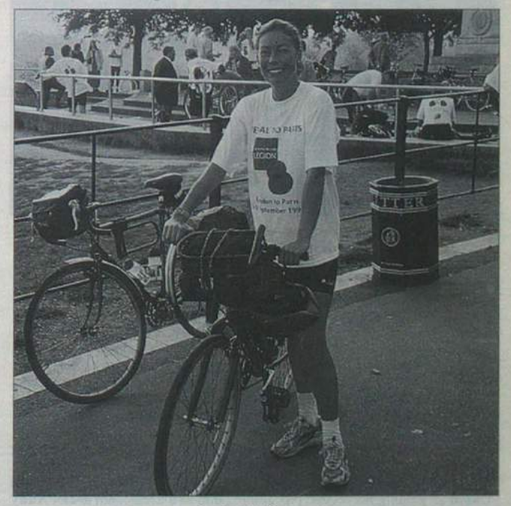
Pedal to Paris is an annual 450km charity cycle ride in aid of the Royal British Legion. The ride attracts people from all walks of life, all ages and all levels of fitness. The event starts at Greenwich Park in London and four days later finishes at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris. I was a willing volunteer and thus early on Thursday 2 September I found myself at Greenwich Park along with 170 other lunatics.



Capt Mel Rayner
at Greenwich Park with 450km on a bicycle yet to come!

By 1530 hrs that day, with the first 120km under my belt, I was in Dover. I can say with a degree of certainty that the hill between Folkstone and Dover is definitely not recommended for the faint hearted! The support from the Royal British Legion en route had been superb and we had been very well fed and watered to help us on our way down to the South Coast.

After a service at the Calais War Memorial the next morning, we faced a 120km ride to Abbeville. We were blessed with another day of glorious sunshine and tremendous support from the French people. After a great day cycling through lovely French countryside we enjoyed a pleasant evening in Abbeville nursing our tired limbs and numb bottoms! Day Three saw the ride to Beauvais. Once again, glorious sunshine, great support and great food (shhhhh don't tell them about all the red wine at lunchtime). The final leg on Sunday 5 September was 95km from Beauvais to Paris. Although we had been split into ability groups depending upon the speed you cycled for most of the route, as we approached central Paris everyone formed up into one massive group for the last few kilometres. All the traffic was stopped around the Arc de Triomphe to allow 170 cyclist to converge en masse at the great monument. It was a truly spectacular sight and very moving. The arrival was followed by a ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The band of the French Signals were playing, wreaths were laid and the Mayor of Paris and the Director of the Royal British Legion met many of the cyclists. We then did a spot of sightseeing on bicycle, as the next stop was the Hotel des Invalides. Getting there entailed a cycle along the Seine, past the Eiffel Tower and over Alexander III Bridge. Having loaded our bikes onto the lorries that would take them back to London, it was straight inside for medals and a delicious buffet (with a couple of glasses of Kir – well we had earned them!) After a night on the pop in Montmartre and a day of sightseeing I collapsed onto the Eurostar on Monday evening to return to London slightly more quickly than it had taken me to get to Paris.

The whole trip was a wonderful experience. The camaraderie between the cyclists had been truly amazing. The support from the British Legion and their French counterparts had been superb and even the weather had smiled on us. I would have no hesitation in recommending the trip to anyone (providing you invest in a pair of padded shorts – they were an absolute lifesaver!). It's good fun, good fitness and raises money for a good cause. I have raised £1350, so a big thank you to everyone who was pressurised into sponsoring me for the event. See you there next year!

WANDSWORTH CIVIC RECEPTION – MONDAY 29 NOVEMBER 1999

The CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison and the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner, donned their Mess Kit to fly the Regimental flag at this year's Civic Reception at Wandsworth Town Hall. The evening marks the presentation of Civic Awards to those members of the community who have made a major contribution to community life. The evening was a grand affair with the Mayor, Cllr Chief Mrs Lola Ayonride, presiding. Awards were presented to a vast cross section of the community including care workers, policemen, school cleaners, leaders of the local Sikh community and yet more. The Regiment has strong ties with its local borough and an evening such as this is an ideal opportunity to raise the profile and forge greater links.

PROMOTIONS

The whole Squadron would like to congratulate Pte 'Ebok' Okon, the Sqn recruiting clerk and Sig Chris Cox of Delta Tp on their well earned promotion to LCpl. Well done both of you and keep up the good work. LCpl Jo 'small one' Ogle, also of Delta Tp, has two reasons to celebrate, not only has she been promoted, but she has also got married to Cpl Steve Hook of 238 Sig Sqn – congratulations to the new Mrs Cpl Hook. To complete the Delta Tp hat-trick, congratulations to Tp OC, 2Lt Paul Ukpai on gaining his second pip. Joining him as a Lieutenant is 2Lt Andy Lowther, OC RRTT, who was promoted by the CO on Exercise at Pirbright at the beginning of October. SSgt Keith 'Tiffy' Finnemore was selected for promotion to WO2 and moves to 30 Sig Regt to take up the post of ASM. We held his leaving lunch on 19 November which started with him putting money behind the bar (a wonder in itself) in the Sergeants' Mess at Southfields. After presentations and speeches it was time to adjourn to Footlights Restaurant in Wimbledon for a meal and a few 'cheekies'. The permanent staff then proceeded to visit a number of other establishments to ensure that the other Public Houses in Wimbledon did not feel hard done by!! Much laughter ensued – thank you to the RSM and the RQ for providing the entertainment!! A great afternoon was had by all – it was not followed by quite such a great morning though!! We will all miss 'Tiffy' as he has done a great job within the Regiment. We wish him, Liz and the kids all the best at 30 Sig Regt in Bramcote.

WO1 (RSM) John Gibson presents WO2 (AQMS) Keith Finnemore with his leaving present from the Regiment

More recently there were promotions for Sgts Cox and Becks Strickland. Congratulations to LCpl 'Mac' MacKay on successfully completing the TA PTI's Course.

FAREWELLS

The Squadron and Regiment would like to bid a fond farewell to WO2 (RQMS) George Coffin. He will be sadly missed by the whole Squadron. We wish George, Andrea, George Jnr and Patrick all the very best at Warminster and hope you keep in touch.

ARRIVALS

Welcome to WO2 (RQMS) Neil Roome and his family from Hohne. No more tax free cars and drinks. However, we hope your tour is an enjoyable one. Also the Squadron is pleased to announce the arrival of Sgt James Alderson posted in from SHAPE in Mons, Belgium. Hope you have a good tour and enjoy your time in London. Welcome to the new 'Tiffy', SSgt (Art Veh) Wilson. We all hope that you settle in quickly and enjoy your tour.

PERMANENT STAFF ADVENTURE TRAINING

It was time for a well earned break for the permanent staff and to the joy of the workforce the RSM, WO1 (RSM) John Gibson organised a week of 'Adventure Trg' at Tregantle Fort near Plymouth in Cornwall. To aid the planning of the activities, one of HQ Sqn's TA soldiers, Sig 'Jethro' Rowles volunteered his services as local tour guide and driver. He totally impressed everyone with his local knowledge. The only problem was that 'Jethro' apparently passed his driving test in a tornado aircraft, either that or he thought he was driving one! However, he was a great asset all week and many thanks go to him. As well as the occasional trip to Plymouth and Newquay, to integrate with the indigenous population and their culture of course, various arduous activities did take place. Whilst the Adjt took to the hills on her mountain bike, the 'boys' headed for Looe on the coast for a golf competition. This gave the Quartermaster, Maj Ken Clark the chance to dish out a few lessons. One of the highlights was a fantastic day out Go-Karting, which was organised by the CO's driver, LCpl 'Disco' Dave Wynne.

Cpl Steve Taylor, WO1 (RSM) John Gibson and SSgt Keith 'Tiffy' Finnemore observe the dubious activities on the race track!

The RSM also gathered the troops for a spot of sea fishing. Most of the permanent staff mastered the sailing issue and caught some excellent fish. However, SSgts Craig Bruce and 'Dez' Eldridge (more commonly known as the 'Brothers Vom') had a little trouble on the ocean waves. The whole trip was a storming success and thoroughly enjoyed by all those who attended.

TRADE TRAINING WEEK

The Trade Course took place at Bramley Training Camp near Reading and lasted for ten days. 23 students were attempting to gain their Class 3 and Class 2 Tele Op (TG) trade status. The course was run by WO2 (YofS) Si Tyler and he was ably assisted by the following instructors PSIs, SSgts Craig Bruce, Alfie Kirkham, Wullie Loch and 'Dez' Eldridge: Sgt Cox HQ Sqn, Sgt Manns, 56 Sig Sqn, LCpl Butler 56 Sig Sqn, Sgt Dowds 56 Sig Sqn. All the students worked extremely hard and achieved their aim. The Class 2 Course were put through their paces as COMMCEN supervisors. Both courses had their minds blown away with Joint Message Handling (JMH) procedures. LCpl Chris Cox, HQ Sqn, grasped the COMMCEN side of life easily ..... NOT!!, but none the less passed the qualification with ease. A very worthy note of thanks to Sgt Steve Howells (recently promoted) for his culinary creations during the course, excellent and definitely appreciated.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON CHRISTMAS PARTY

The planning of this year's party was underway early in the year in the form of Cpl 'Small One' Hook (nee Ogle) writing around 100 letters to every company she could think of in and around the London area. This produced excellent results, with great prizes for the Squadron raffle. The choice was made to move the venue of the party out of the TAC and we ended up on a 'Thames River Cruise Ship' sailing from Lambeth Pier. Members of the Squadron arrived at the pier and to their surprise found that the ship was a very stylish affair. The buffet for the evening was expertly produced by our very own happy, smiling chef, LCpl 'Babs' Cameron. It was an excellent spread, thanks 'Babs.' The only, initial flaw in the plan was that the boat was 'positively baltic', as quoted by our ever truthful SSgt Craig Bruce BEM. This was soon rectified by Sgt Becs Strickland, as she led 'the masses' upstairs onto the dance floor, where LCpl Chris Cox was situated ready to give a quick 'TP' on how not to dance to attract the opposite sex. Overall the event was a great success and a big thank you goes out to all concerned, especially to Cpl Jo Hook who did us proud, well done and we look forward to next year's party.

The permanent staff relaxing over a sumptuous Christmas lunch

PERMANENT STAFF CHRISTMAS LUNCH

As well as all the other parties going on, it was time for our old friend Colin 'Sgt Maj' Wilson, the AO here at Southfields, to put his organisational skills to the test yet again and arrange the permanent staff Christmas lunch. With the venue arranged, the transport booked four weeks in advance and in triplicate with the ever 'user friendly' MT, all that was left was the extraction of both civilian and military personnel alike from the Sgts' Mess bar. Easier said than done!! As expected, Colin planned every detail to perfection. The only factor he overlooked was that he hadn't allowed for the fact that after three drinks Betty (the mad civvy from the orderly room) had an urge to kiss all male members of the permanent staff at least three times.....an hour, well done Betty! The lunch was very much enjoyed by the Commanding Officer and all of her permanent staff and all concerned would to thank Colin for his fantastic efforts.

REGIMENTAL RUGBY MATCH VS BRIGHTON UNIVERSITY SUNDAY 6 FEBRUARY 2000

On a typical British Sunday morning the Regimental rugby team led by Lt 'Of course I've sorted the admin' Keiron Francis, departed Southfields for the South-coast and a challenge match against Brighton University. The match had been arranged between Sig 'I'm a Hooker' Bishop and Sig 'I'm a Hooker as well' Hulin. They are both students at Brighton University and for this match were on opposing sides. The only thing marking this otherwise typical day apart from any other was the fact that it was after the Regimental 'Burns Night Supper'. Despite hard evidence, there is no truth in the rumour that the RQMS came directly from the Mess to the pitch (honest). The team (who by some strange coincidence were mostly called Gareth) would like to thank those guests of the Burns Night who allowed themselves to be pressed at short notice to play. If only the recruiting team could use the same tactics. The CO came down from London to watch the game along with our visitor from the 111th US Sig Bn. Apparently they stopped for an exotic fish and chip lunch on Brighton Pier on route to the match - we know how to show people a good time at 31!!

The match was played in less than ideal conditions. The Referee after turning up, promptly left again due to some misunderstanding caused by Eastbourne RUFC who denied all knowledge of a game being played on their pitch. The two teams agreed to Referee one half each. Both teams displayed adventurous play and willingness to run the ball. The Regiment playing down hill and at full strength finished the first half 12-0 up. The second half, however, was played uphill with the Regiment providing WO2 (YofS) 'I'm a coach' Tyler as referee (wasn't that because you were injured though YofS?). The downhill momentum soon brought Brighton level with the Regiment struggling to hold their own. An injury to Cpl 'Sid' Aluhwalia, removed the parity between teams and Brighton Uni ran in two more tries converting one to end the game 24 - 12 winners. Both teams retired to TAC Eastbourne tired and bruised for after game refreshments and tea provided by the able talents of Sgt Steve Howells RLC. The event was an outstanding success and the Regiment is looking forward to a return fixture in the not too distant future. Whether or not the Trg Maj, Maj 'Nice but' Cooper will play again is another question, displaying only one black eye on Sunday night, the permanent staff were surprised to see both eyes blacked by Tuesday morning. This leads us to ask whether he actually asked SO1 Domestic if she minded him playing in the first place!!

41 (PLK) SIGNAL SQUADRON – COULSDON TAC

Sqn Comd	Maj Baker
SSM	WO2 Watson

HELLOS, GOODBYES AND CONGRATULATIONS

We welcome back Capt Steven Ong, who has returned to the Squadron from his role as Ops Offr at RHQ. Capt Ong, a familiar face around 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn, has been appointed Sqn 2IC. Capt John Symonds has also returned to the Squadron, after a tour in Bosnia. He returns to take up the position of Troop Commander of J Troop. We also welcome Sig Harris, who is ex RLC and has now decided to rejoin the TA; Pte Houbé, who has transferred into the Squadron from the PWRR, and takes up a role as Squadron Medic; and Rfn Burbidge, an ex Royal Green Jacket, who is in the process of re-enlisting into the TA. We hope all will be very happy in the Squadron.

The Squadron welcomes a new OC, Maj Toby Lankester, who took over the running of the Squadron in January. He has already arranged our first adventure training weekend, so we think he's good news....Anybody who approves of skiing and kyaking has got to be good for Squadron retention! It was with sad faces that we dined out the old OC, Maj Steve Baker. His poor bar jokes and sense of humour will be sadly missed, but at least the Squadron consumption of diet cokes will go down. It was not until after he left that we discovered that he had got engaged to long-time girlfriend Cathrine, so we take this opportunity to offer them our congratulations. We also wish Lt Paul Owen good luck. He started a new job in Worcestershire this year. We hope to see him now and again on exercise, but wish him well back in his home territory.

PROMOTIONS AND CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to SSgt Len 'Nobby' Clark, who was awarded the QVRM in the New Year's Honours List. He went to the palace in March to collect his medal, and we are sure that it was a splendid day for both him and his wife. See the next edition of The WIRE for photos! SSgt Clark served for over 40 years in the TA. He began his military career with National Service and never looked back. He originally joined 41 Signal Regiment, before we became 41 (PLK) Signal Squadron (and part of 31 Signal Regiment) so he has seen quite a few changes in his time. Congratulations are also due to our PSI Tech, Sgt Mark 'Del Boy' Trotter, whose wife Louise is pregnant. We wish them all the best and look forward to calling him, 'Daddy.'

Well done to 2Lt Debbie Speakman, who is now the proud owner of a second pip! Congratulations to SSgt Bob Stanton and Sgt Ian Mackay who have both been promoted. I'm sure the Sergeants' Mess will be a more interesting place due to Sgt Mackay's additional presence.

Newly promoted SSgt Bob Stanton deep in thought as he plunges over the edge!!

Newly promoted Sgt Ian Mackay not looking nearly so apprehensive!!

Congratulations too to LCpl 'Shakespeare' Presley who has just had a poem published in a compilation book. Most of us are more familiar with LCpl Presley's cooking skills, rather than his poetic ones, but well done! Is this the beginning of a whole new career we ask ourselves? Congratulations are also due to Cpl May and LCpl Pearl Sethna who both successfully completed all modules for their Class 2 Trades Course. Well done to both of you.

SSGT CLARKE'S FAREWELL

The Squadron bade farewell to SSgt Clarke in the first weekend of September. He was dined out in the field by the Squadron whilst on exercise in Meredith Woods, Kent. We had spent the day testing our skills in vehicle recovery, anti-ambush drills and driver training, we then took part in a night navigation exercise before returning for a well deserved meal and celebration. SSgt Clarke began his military career as a cadet in Hammersmith, and from there joined 41 (PLK) Sig Regt (as we used to be). He served for over 30 years in the QM's department, during which time 41 (PLK) Sig Regt became 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn – and part of 31 Sig Regt. SSgt Clarke returned to 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn as pay clerk three years ago, and will be greatly missed by all in the Squadron. He was presented with a brandy decanter and set of goblets, a swanky Squadron sweatshirt, and a cut glass flower vase for Mrs Clarke. The Squadron then listened whilst he reminisced about life in the Squadron (albeit with a few interruptions from hecklers at the back). We all wish him the very best for the future.

OFFICERS' MESS DINNER

The other highlight of the social calendar for the month of September was an Officers' Mess Dinner at Mercury House, the Duke of York's Headquarters on Saturday 11 September, Comd 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Brig Hughes and the SOinC A), Brig Burton were the guests of honour. Prior to the Dinner, the SOinC (A) presented Maj Mike Jackson with his Territorial Decoration.

SOinC (A) presents Maj Jackson with his TD

After the dinner came the speeches and presentations. Maj Jackson presented the CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison and the Regiment with a Wilkinson Sword 'Millennium Sword of Peace'. He purchased the 83rd of a limited edition, in recognition of 83 Sig Sqn, and spoke fondly of his time in the Regiment.

Maj Mike Jackson presents the 83rd Millennium Sword

SQUADRON WEEKEND OCTOBER

The Regiment practised a deployment to a holding centre in the grounds of Stoney Castle. Troops were broken into to their CROST role manning, and exercised at Troop level. K Tp, under Lt Beth Pollard, established a Troop location in the Pirbright Training area and established a JOCCOMEX link with 2 Sig Sqn and HMS Anglesey. Meanwhile, J and N Tps deployed to Bramley, but couldn't quite get to grips with the concept of communications. They waited and waited, but didn't ever seem to quite get in touch with the rest of the Regiment. Better luck next time!

PLK REMEMBRANCE

The Squadron attended a PLK Remembrance Service at the Duke of York's Headquarters on Sunday 7 November. By tradition the Princess Louise's Kensington Association hold their Remembrance Service a week before the nation-wide ceremonies. This was the last time this Remembrance Service will be held at the Duke of York's, home to the PLK silver and memorials, which made the service a yet more moving occasion. Sig West read a poem and the lesson was read by the Regt 2IC, Maj William Brown. The Padre, Maj David Crawley, dedicated two Memorial Books, which have been compiled by members of the Princess Louise's Kensington Association. These books, known as Project 2000, are a record of every grave of the soldiers from the 'The Kensington's' who died in the Second World War - 137 of them in total. They show a picture of the individual grave, and a short dedication explaining how each soldier died. Also present at the Service were the Mayor of Kensington and Chelsea, Cllr Mrs Ian Fraser, the President of the PLK Association (also a former CO of the Regiment) Col Keith Bruce-Smith, and members of the PLK Association. All stayed for a curry lunch in the bar afterwards.

COULSDON REMEMBRANCE PARADE

The following Sunday the Squadron marched to the local church at Old Coulsdon for a Service, followed by a short Service of Remembrance and the two minutes silence at the War Memorial outside the church. Sqn 2IC, Capt Steven Ong, led the parade to the church and back. Afterwards members of the Squadron and their families enjoyed a curry lunch in the bar. Lt Debs Speakman represented the Squadron in Kensington and Chelsea on 14 November. She laid a wreath at the War Memorial on Kensington High Street on behalf of the Squadron and read the Affirmation, before meeting members of the borough later at Kensington Town Hall.

EXERCISE AUTUMN BELLE

Ex Autumn Belle was planned and coordinated by two members of the Squadron, Sgt Amy McAuliffe, and LCpl Maria Traynor. Soldiers from every Squadron of the Regiment deployed to HQ LAND at Wilton to take part in this HF Exercise, which by all accounts was a success, and a credit to the soldiers who ran it. Well done Sgt McAuliffe and LCpl Traynor!

HEADED FOR KOSOVO

We wish the best of luck to Sig Phil Davy, who left us for Chilwell, in preparation for his imminent departure to Kosovo. Sig Davy, a university student, who is taking time out from his studies to do this, admitted that of all his friends, his would be the most unusual place chosen to spend the Millennium. We wish him all the best, and look forward to his return to the Squadron next year.

CHRISTMAS BALL

The dynamic duo of Cpl Kerry McAuliffe and LCpl Maria Traynor excelled themselves once again by arranging yet another successful Christmas Ball, on Saturday 18 December. They organised a superb evening, but quite how they got it to snow as well, is a mystery! I think several people wondered what they had been drinking when they came out of the drill hall, to find inches of snow on the ground outside. Just how much alcohol was there in that Christmas pudding?

Sgt 'Trav' Travis, Cpl Ian Byrne, WO2 (RQMS) Dean Clark and Sgt Traynor enjoying the 41 Christmas Bash!

First prize in the Raffle appropriately went to Cpl Kerry McAuliffe (did she rig it?) who won a day's motor racing at Brands Hatch. Sgt Brian 'Cuddles' Traynor won a teddy bear almost as big as he is (could have been his twin brother!), whilst LCpl Alan 'Ladies man' Bryan won dinner for two in the raffle, and also won the unofficial prize for managing to bring along the most female guests. Other raffle prizes included a trip to the local beauty parlour, and National Lottery Scratch Cards (although if anyone did mange to win a million they've certainly kept it quiet). Cpl Simon 'Jim Davidson' May was our evening's compere, and the evening finished with a disco until the small hours.

NEW YEARS EVE IN COULSDON

Why did so many people pay so much money to go off and do exotic things (those who weren't working of course) when the liveliest party of the Millennium took place in the JRs bar in Coulsdon? This was the party that everyone was talking about! Where better to celebrate the new Millennium than the TAC at Coulsdon? Nobody can say we didn't see in the New Century in style!

SERGEANTS' MESS CHRISTMAS BALL

Saturday 4 December saw huge amounts of adrenaline flying around the Swallow Hotel in Bournemouth, where the Sergeants held their Sergeants' Mess Christmas Dinner, and what a night! The entertainment began with a string quartet playing on arrival. A magician impressed all with his tricks (I bet he couldn't teach Sgt 'Trav' Travis a trick or two!) A band played after the meal, a disco took over until dawn, and for those still standing, a Champagne breakfast was served the next morning. The guests of honour included the Hon Col, Maj Gen Bill Robins, and his wife Kathy, the CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison and her 'wife' Alisdair, and the Supervising Officer, Capt Paul Samways. Superb prizes were given away during the course of the evening, including a ride on the Millennium Wheel, with dinner at the Oxo Tower; a ride on the Orient Express won by Foreman Maurice Byrne; a helicopter ride along the Thames; a day's tank driving (won by Foreman Ray White - very useful for a Foreman in the Royal Signals) and a day at the Brands Hatch racing circuit, racing motor vehicles (pretty much the way most Sergeants drive anyway!). There could be some very interesting stories in the Sergeants' Mess bar over the next few months.

OFFICERS' AND SERGEANTS' MESS BURNS NIGHT SUPPER SATURDAY 5 FEBRUARY 2000

WO2 (FofS) Jamie Harper (proud owner of his new sparkley NATO Kosovo Medal) with his wife Jacqueline and his Mum Jenny at the Regimental Burns Night Supper - nice Tartan chaps!

Officers and Sergeants from the Regiment celebrated 'Burns Night' again this year with a dinner at RHQ. This event has become one of the social highlights of the Regimental Calendar, and the night certainly lived up to expectations. Before the dinner began, a couple of presentations were made by D Comd 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Col Lawrence. Firstly, WO2 (FofS) Jamie Harper was presented with his miniature NATO Medal Clasp Kosovo (yes FofS you will be getting your No 2's on to receive the main medal). The occasion was made more special for the FofS as his wife Jacqueline and Mother and Father were all present. Secondly Capt Sarah Street was awarded TA Honours for representing the TA at the inter services orienteering match. It was then on with the proceedings.

The CO and senior guests were piped into the dining room by SSgt Ian Harrison, the Regimental Pipe Major,who piped superbly. Mr Alisdair Harrison, the CO's 'wife', addressed the Haggis in flamboyant style. The meal, which was fantastic, was followed by a number of speeches. Mr Colin Wilson read the Immortal Memory in his typical eloquent style. It was then the turn of SSgt Mick Johnson. He recited a poem entitled 'Address to the Unco Guid or the Rigidly Righteous'. He performed all the versus in very creditable 'Jockinese' without reference to any notes - Staff we are not worthy, you were fantastic! SSgt Johnson is always whining about the fact that his fellow PSI, SSgt Craig Bruce, always gets his photo in The WIRE. Well Staff, I don't have a photo of you from the Burns Supper, but I do have one of you showing the world how not to dance with your wife Sue at another Mess function….

SSgt Mick 'Twinkle Toes' Johnson dancing the night away with his wife Sue - go for it Staff!!

Back to the Supper, WO2 (FofS) Jamie Harper proposed the Toast to the Lassies, to which Lt Beth Pollard ably replied. Well done to both of you. SSgt Craig Bruce (is there no getting away from this man!!) entertained us with Burn's Ode to a Soldier - sorry Staff no photos! The meal was followed by a Ceilidh and a disco, where various members of the Mess showed off their dancing prowess! Once all the dancing was over it was time to move up to the Sgts' Mess and carry on the motion. Rumour control has it that most of the PSIs didn't leave until about 0600hrs Sunday morning! Other guests for the evening included Maj Steve Davies, the Ops Offr of the 111th US Sig Bn, our sister Battalion in the States, Mr Tim Wood, the rep from our sponsoring Livery Company and Col Keith Bruce Smith. A fantastic evening, and one to put in the diaries for next year!

NEWS, HELLOS, GOODBYES AND PROMOTIONS

We have said 'Goodbye' to SSgt Hattemore, who after 26 years in the TA, has hung up his beret and now stands on the other side of the bar on a Tuesday night, selling the beer rather than consuming it. (Oh, I forgot, he is tetotal anyway!) Congratulations to 2Lt Keiron Francis on gaining his promotion to Lieutenant. We have also enjoyed the dining out of Capt Jackie Blake, WO1 Phil Waterhouse and SSgt Paul Hattemore in Eastbourne where, once again, a marvellous spread was provided by Corporal, now Sgt Steve Howell. Yes, congratulations to Sgt Howell and SSgts Martin Cooper and Chris Maginnis, who were all recently promoted by the Lord Lieutenant of Sussex. We have welcomed Lt Anthony 'Aussie' Lamb into the Squadron and enjoyed his impression of a waiter at the Dinner Evening. (He called it his Mess Dress!)

Christmas has been and gone and we have since welcomed in the New Millennium (according to some). Sadly our expertise was not required by HQ LAND over the New Year period so Op Surity was called off and those who had volunteered suddenly had to make plans for a party instead! We sadly had to say goodbye to Dino Constantino just before Christmas. Dino had been with the Squadron for many years, initially as the REME Corporal and more recently as the civilian driver. He was also a gourmet chef, specialising in some very hot curries! His enthusiasm, willingness to help, jovial nature and loud voice will be sorely missed by all. Good luck for the future Dino. Hopefully by the time this article is published Lt Antony Lamb, our friend from down under, should be formally transferred into the Squadron and hopefully promoted to Captain so it's a welcome for this issue and a fingers crossed for the next!

859/857 RADIO TROOP

Over the weekend of 20–22 August, members of 857 and 859 Radio Tps embarked on a weekend of adventurous training on the Isle of Wight. The superb Jersey Camp was to be our home for two days, whilst we cycled, walked and participated in various water sports. Capt Sarah Streete, OC 859 (Radio) Tp, led an advance party to set up camp early on the Friday morning. The rest of the troops followed later that evening under the auspices of 2Lt Keiron Francis, OC 857 (Radio) Tp, and WO2 (SSM) Kevin Godden. The first morning comprised of mountain biking over the hills surrounding Sandown. A beautiful sunny day made the cycling even more exhilarating, but plenty of regular water breaks and the superb view kept morale high, despite the mammoth hills we had to cycle (push the bikes) up. LCpl Jo Reader, managed to go airborne from her bike at one point and softened her fall by landing in stinging nettles! The afternoon comprised of water-sports with lessons from a local surfing school. Only LCpl Paul 'Surf Dude' Renaud managed to stand up properly on the boards. Kayaking, Canoe Surfing and Swimming finished the afternoon off, but not before Sgt Tim Odam showed us what he could do on his kayak! As we were sharing the camp with the Intelligence Corps, also on Adventurous Training, we challenged them to a game of softball to encourage and build 'esprit de corps' between us. Sgt Martin Cooper started well for the Royal Signals by scoring a direct hit with the softball on the Int Corps bowler's leg. More fun was had as they continued to bring in new players until the team numbers stood at 15 Royal Signals – 48 Int Corp. Needless to say, we were victorious! The next morning WO2 Jim Paine took us on a 10km educational 'yomp' around the North West Coast with the emphasis on visiting some of the many Napoleonic Forts along the way. A visit to The 'Needles Point Battery Museum' and a continual history lesson all the way made it a very enjoyable day, before the trek home to Eastbourne.

EXERCISE COCKNEY ADVENTURE 20-22 AUGUST 1999
858 SIGNAL TROOP

858 Sig Tp, fired up by their team building experiences of camp, deployed on a Troop Commander's weekend to Llangorse, near Brecon to carry out adventurous training. Llangorse Rope Centre was chosen as a base. This afforded easy access to indoor rock climbing, kayaking on the lake and the Black Mountains. Capt Tony Potter and his group were first to attempt the climbing package. Sgt Dick E. Bonner and Sig 'Rich' Baldwin, both decked out in designer climbing gear took to the face like Welsh mountain goats while others were not so sure. Kayaking provided an opportunity for character building and self development and these were clearly achieved. However, the ability to hold ones breath was a clear winner in this self development exercise.

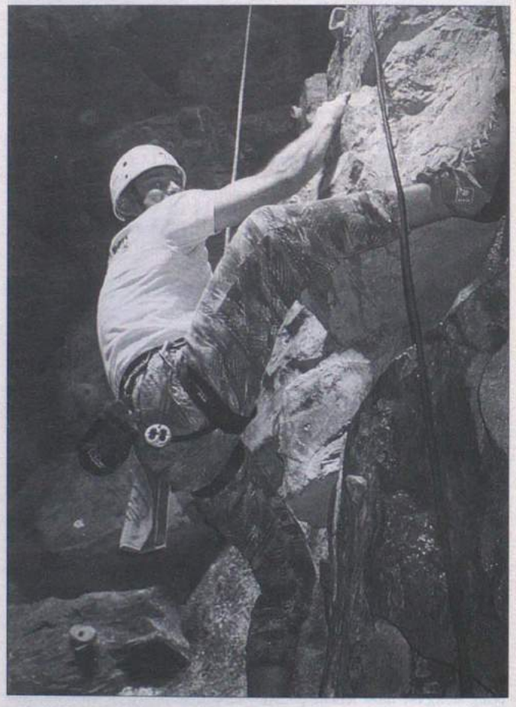
To be fair, WO2 (FofS) Ray White only really developed his suntan. A barbecue, ably prepared by LCpl Eric Gardyne and Sgt Steve Hall, provided the perfect opportunity for the Troop to say farewell to LCpl 858 Tp on tour with a strange green visitor from 83 Sig Sqn!

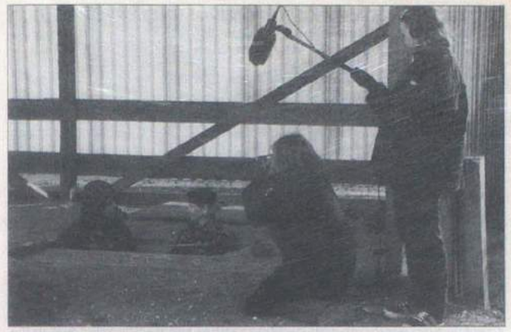
Mark Grieve who is now serving with 7 Sig Regt on FTRS for a couple of years - Good luck. The weekend concluded with a navex over the local terrain. Sgt Chris Maginnis's attempts at diplomacy with a native farmer's wife have been noted. Luckily the biggest and most vicious dog was blind!



Sgt Dick Bonner opens his legs and shows his style!

BOUNTY TRAINING DAY – 6 NOVEMBER 1999

'So what makes you want to get up so early on a cold, November morning and lie on your stomach with your hands freezing, shooting at targets?' was the question posed by presenter, Claire while filming for Lorraine Kelly's programme 'Up front with Lorraine' at the recent Bounty Training Day. A pregnant pause; can you really answer, 'The £1050'? 'Naturally, it is due to the comradeship, the sense of achievement and the skills that we learn!' Whilst this interview was going on and questions such as, 'Were you a toy boy when you were younger?' were being asked of Capt Sarah Streete, many other members of the Regiment were spending the day passing as many tests as possible. They shot on the range, blew into the dummy (no, not the RSM!), were gassed in the chamber and yomped the four miles across Pirbright Training Area with huge (well, they seemed like that) packs on their backs. Many also had their moment of glory when they were filmed shooting on the range or interviewed while simulating the TACFT at a snail's pace, so that the film crew could keep up! Despite the distractions, they all passed most of the tests and are one step nearer the reward in April!



Capt Sarah Steele, wearing the beret, mid interview!

LORD LIEUTENANT'S MERITORIOUS SERVICE AWARD

The Lord Lieutenant of East Sussex, Admiral Sir Lindsay Bryson KCB visited the Squadron on 23 November in order to present his Meritorious Service Awards, Cadet of the Year Awards, NATO Medals and TA Efficiency Medals. One of the amusing aspects of the evening was the sight of LCpl Paul Renaud precariously balancing each certificate on a red cushion belonging to the PSAO, Capt Ian Murray! Congratulations to the following who were all presented with an award:

WO2 Jim Payne	NATO Medal (former Yugoslavia)
WO2 (FofS) Ray White	TA Efficiency Medal
SSgt Paul Hattemore	TA Efficiency Medal (2nd Clasp)
Sgt Sandra Burns	Meritorious Service Certificate
Sgt Bob Cooper	Meritorious Service Certificate
Sgt Mike Dowds	Meritorious Service Certificate

Congratulations, also to Sgt Bob Shevels who was awarded the Major Gilyeat Award for the Soldier of the Year at 56 Signal Squadron (V). We were proud to host many families and friends, including our Mayor and Chief Executive during the evening and they were all then invited to join us for a buffet supper.

Paul Owen who managed to extend all their overs to 15 or so balls due to a large number of wides. Capt Paul Samways was conveniently placed on the boundary for his fielding because it was feared that his can of beer would be knocked over at mid wicket. Julian Carmichael, who was clearly playing after a gap of many, many years, did not find it easy to remain in his fielding position and even harder to stop the ball! Despite the Officers' skill and expertise, they still felt that it was right and proper that they should allow the Sergeants' Mess to once again lift the trophy and so when the last ball was bowled, they were still about 30 runs short of the target.

THE SERGEANTS' PERSPECTIVE! - by WO2 (SSM) Kevin Godden

The opening batting partnership of WO1 (RSM) John Gibson and SSgt Craig Bruce BEM was to provide a solid foundation for the team until they were both out in the first over – several times for the RSM who was still honing his skills! Some fine batting displays from WO2 (RQMS) George Coffin, WO2 (YofS) Simon Tyler and SSgt Des Eldridge soon provided those badly needed runs which meant we had a score that the Officers would have to really chase if they were to beat us. Indeed, our target of 161 runs proved to be too big for the Officers' Team, who, despite the enthusiasm of the Captain, Capt Sarah Streete, were no match for the competitive and skilful players of the WOs' and Sgts' Mess. Superb close fielding by SSgt Willie Loch and Sgt Graham Browning (he stopped the balls the wicket keeper missed), and quality bowling slowed the run rate down to provide the WOs' and Sgts' Mess with another fine and well deserved victory.

ARMY ORIENTEERING CHAMPIONSHIPS

On two very cold November evenings, the Regimental Orienteers (still awaiting their brain examinations) competed in the Inter Unit and Inter Corps Orienteering Championships. The Inter Unit was held on Bramley Training Area and the male team seemed to quite enjoy spending a lot of time running around it in the dark. SSgt Des Eldridge, in particular, preferred staying outside with the rabbits, deer and pheasants rather than keeping warm indoors. SSgt Neil Fisher was on his way in and decided to dive along the empty track, completely destroying his hands and his knees. The female team, meanwhile, finished second despite starting ten minutes late, due to a technical hitch (where is SSgt Fisher with our control cards?) and Capt Mel Rayner having an ankle blow out early on. She courageously completed the course, but ended up with damaged ligaments and a rather good limp for a few weeks!!

OFFICERS' MESS V SERGEANTS' MESS CRICKET MATCH
THE OFFICERS' PERSPECTIVE! – by Capt Sarah Streete

On a hot day at the beginning of September, the Officers' Mess turned out to take on the Sergeants' Mess at the Annual (ish) Cricket match at Kneller Hall. The Sergeants' Mess had been victorious at their last meeting and so the Officers were determined to correct this! The Officers started well by winning the toss and putting the Sergeants into bat. The rules, slightly altered for the occasion, meant that players batted for seven overs and lost runs each time they were out. Consequently, no one had the embarrassment of walking out to bat, only to be dispatched back to the pavilion after facing just one ball! Top scorer for the Sgts was SSgt Des Eldridge who hit most of the bowlers all round the ground. Top score for the Officers was the 'Extras' thanks to Capt Dave Parr and Lt

The Inter Services event consisted of a night and a day event across Ash Ranges. Due to the nature of the terrain, both were very much cross county courses, favouring the good runner (shame that is not all of us!) The Corps team of Maj Jean Payne, Capt Sarah Streete and Cpl Rebecca Strickland finished Fourth overall, whilst congratulations go to Lt Linda 'I am still young' Davis who finished as the winner on the U25 course.

TA v THE REGULARS

On an even colder morning, when the temperature failed to rise to 0°C (or so it seemed), Capt Sarah Streete and Lt Linda Davis represented the TA in the annual orienteering match against the Regulars. It was held on a bleak moor in Derbyshire and involved rock climbing, skiing in the mud, paddling in the streams and running around the sheep, as well as the anticipated orienteering. Everyone was very keen to get to the finish but before achieving this, there was a 320m climb up a muddy cliff face causing many competitors to go into crawl mode! Once again, the Regular team was the victor but, nevertheless, we enjoyed the event and would like to thank our captain, Maj Jean Payne for organising the team.

CHRISTMAS - 56 STYLE

The Squadron celebrated Christmas during a training weekend in the middle of December and it began with a Christmas Service of Carols and Readings in the bar, led by the Padre, Maj David Crawley. Having experimented with a different format the previous year, we returned to the popular 'bun fight' formal dinner with the Officers and Warrant Officers waiting on and everyone eating and drinking their full. As usual, the food was superb thanks to WO2 Fred Bramble, Sgt Steve Howell and Sgt Bob Shevels. The OC, Maj Brian Howe congratulated and thanked the Squadron for their efforts and achievements the previous year and wished everyone well over the holiday period. Sig George, the newest recruit, responded on behalf on the troops. This was followed with the ever popular 'joke telling' and a rendition of 'Sussex by the Sea'. It is just a great shame that no one knows the tune! Groans were heard all round at 7am the next morning when the OC and Capt Tony Potter woke the Squadron with the notorious gunfire, tea laced with brandy, which everyone had to taste!

TRAINING IN THE NEW YEAR

The New Year, Decade, Century, Millennium (whatever you call it!) kicked off with a Millennium weekend at Crowborough where 'fun' was defined by the Training Major, Maj Tim Cooper as 'wet, cold and muddy'. We had fun!! The weekend was enjoyed by all. The next bout of training was a Trade Training and Officer Training weekend. The Trade Training was held in sunny Eastbourne, although the soldiers worked so hard they had little time to stroll by the sea front or walk on the South Downs. The Officer Training took place at Southfields. The turnout was good and ranged from OCdt Rob Wood to a few crusty captains (AKA Tony Potter). They had all turned up to hear words of wisdom from the 2IC, Maj William Brown, the Adjutant, Capt Mel 'Sponsor me' Rayner (she is always off cycling/running in aid of something - what a good egg), Ops Offr, Capt Guy Bewsher, 2IC 41 Sqn, Capt Steve Ong and EO Offr, Capt Steve Jones. The subjects were diverse and interesting in the extreme - Army Doctrine, Service Writing, Health and Safety, Estimates and Orders. Everyone was duly impressed by the files and file dividers they were given, but not so impressed with their homework (distance learning). (Having seen some of the results, the Adjutant will be handing out detentions next week!! - only kidding guys, thanks for your efforts).

HELLOS, GOODBYES AND PROMOTIONS

The Squadron has a number of personnel to say a fond farewell to, beginning with Maj Mike Jackson who commanded the Squadron for two years but has now left for pastures new. His 2IC, Capt Guy Bewsher, has also jumped ship to take up the reins as Ops Officer at RHQ, Lt Andy Lowther who has only been with us a few months has also been poached by RHQ to fill the role of OC RRTT, WO2 (SSM) Jim McMahon is leaving London to 'start anew' in Harrogate. We wish them all good luck in their future TA careers. We also extend a sad farewell to SSgt 'Dinger' Bell who has been with the Squadron longer than most current recruits have been in long trousers. He has now retired from the TA. A warm welcome is extended to our new OC, Maj Julian Carmichael and 2IC, Capt Alan Pepper. We hope they enjoy their time with us. The Squadron would like to extend a warm welcome to SSgt Bob Stevenson who took over the reins as our A/SSM. Having transferred from the Armoured Corps, we are gently introducing him to radios and familiarising him to the ways of the world in a Signals unit.

Congratulations to all those promoted on this year's camp. They are as follows Capt Liz Fitzpatrick, Cpl Martin Bell, LCpl Bobby Donner, LCpl Robert Leyland and LCpl Tia Snell who was presented with her tape whilst on attachment in America. Congratulations also to WO2 (SSM) Bob Stephenson and Cpl Ian 'Baby' Byrne on their recent promotions.

DUCHESS OF GLOUCESTER'S CUP

83 Sig Sqn (V) excelled themselves once again by walking away from this years mil skills competition with the 'Best Section' and 'Best Squadron' Trophies. The competition was carried out over one day and involved a number of stands. The stands were judged on speed, fitness, initiative and marksmanship. A sense of humour was also essential as teams waded across a field in flippers and hung from a rope, which didn't quite reach the finish line. Sig Knight proved the most buoyant of the team as he and his kit sank like a stone during a simulated river crossing. The 'A' Team led by Capt Dave Thomas was a team of whippets, managing to get the fastest time on the forced march and the assault course. The 'B' Team led by Capt Liz Fitzpatrick came a close Second on the March (beaten by only 33 seconds!!) Well done to all those who took part and to those who supported the teams.

THE LORD MAYOR'S SHOW – 13 OCTOBER 1999

A contingent from 31 Sig Regt (V) and the University of London Officer Training Corps made up the Guard of Honour at this year's Lord Mayor's Show in honour of The Rt Hon, The Lord Mayor, Alderman Clive Martin, OBE TD DL.

Sgt Dave Alleyne
83 Sig Sqn on Parade at the Lord Mayor's Show 99

The Lord Mayor's Show is the world's largest unrehearsed procession, a celebration through London to mark the beginning of the Lord Mayor's term in office. This year's theme was 'The Best in Britain' and all proceeds went to Dr Barnardo's. The Guard of Honour comprised 38 OR's and OCdts with the Parade Commander being 83 Sig Sqn's Capt Liz FitzPatrick. A very successful parade if you didn't mind missing the footy (England v Scotland!) and putting up with nosebags ..... so who can't count then!

TAVRA OPEN DAY - DUKE OF YORK'S HQ
30 OCTOBER 1999

Well done to Cpl Sid Ahluwalia who headed up a professionally presented recruiting drive at the Duke of York's annual TA Recruiting Day. Two stands attracted the attention of the public and the promoting of the R SIGNALS began. The display of a Radio Det, Lanward Det and Euromux Equipment from 36 Sig Regt (V) drew many enquiries with over 30 names taken and the promise of follow up visits to drill nights.

CHRISTMAS PARTY
LAST BASH AT THE DUKE OF YORK'S

Cpl Jay Eastwood organised an outstanding Christmas party to see out our last days at the Duke of York's Headquarters and her hard work was much appreciated by all. It was an evening of much merriment, drinking and dancing. The night was a huge success with over 80 party goers in attendance, many of whom made it to the 6am close. The Squadron seized the opportunity to say goodbye to a number of 'old favourites' - WO2 (SSM) Jim 'Silver Fox' McMahon, Maj Mike Jackson, SSgt 'Dinger' Bell and WO2 Brenda Prater. We wish them luck in their future endeavours. Many tears were obviously shed at the fact that this was the last party at the D of Y, roll on the first at White City!

MILLENNIUM WEEKEND CROWBOROUGH
15-17 JANUARY 2000

The Squadron and the Regiment were out in force over the weekend of 15-17 January 2000, in order to support a Regimental Millennium extravaganza. The CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison, had tasked her permanent staff with arranging a 'weekend to be remembered'. It kicked off with the Regiment converging on Crowborough Training Camp where they were greeted by the Trg Maj, Maj Tim Cooper who, though accused of wasting good Friday night drinking time, insisted on allocating all personnel to teams. A leisurely 8am breakfast (the RSM drew a line at it being served in bed) led into the day's activities. This consisted of ten stands that were cleverly designed to inflict maximum amounts of cold water, dirt and wind chill factor on every competitor. There were also a few cuts and bruises thrown in for good measure. The favourites by popular vote were 'Resupply', 'Prisoner Escape' and the 'Assault Course - with a difference'. They involved moving heavy kit along a river which was strewn with obstacles, walking blindfolded through a wood, and carrying eggs over an assault course.

WO2 Rat White demonstrating the dismount from the abseiling stand with the assistance of NRPS SSgt 'Old as the hills' John Mackins

Capt Dave Parr's Team reigned victoriously beating Capt Liz FitzPatrick's Team by that all important one point - WELL DONE to all those who took part and those who organised stands. After a short break for personal admin the Officers enjoyed the company of the Seniors in their Mess for a few drinks before joining the rest of the Regiment for a smoker. The Squadrons did themselves proud with fine examples of both acting and singing talents. It was agreed that PSI SSgt 'Dez' Eldridge has missed his calling to the stage. A few Officers and Seniors were in for a rough ride, but most escaped relatively unscathed as nothing 'career limiting' was actually said. We are hoping though that the YofS might take the hint and start producing slightly shorter admin instructions! LCpl Pearl Sethna (of 41 Sig Sqn) led a particularly amusing Kangaroo Court for Sgt Matt Cahill, who was somewhat ineptly defended by his supposed mate Sgt Dave Alleyne. We are also keen to find out exactly what Cpl Payne of the LAD expected the AQMS, WO2 Andre Scrivener to do with that banana?! After the smoker, the tone for the evening was set by SSgt Dez Eldridge and the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner when they were cast as opponents in a Sumo Wrestling competition. I'm not actually sure who came off best, but it was rumoured that 'the PSI was throwing the Adjt around like she was a muppet' - yes 41 Sqn, we do read your Squadron rag! The night then flowed with dancing and 'refreshments' into the small hours. A big thank you to everyone who organised the event, what a night!!

Unfortunately a great night is invariably followed by a bad morning, made even worse by a PT session which was organised for 7.17am. Having gathered our bodies, it was time to gather our thoughts as the Padre led a service of reflection. The weekend ended with a traditional round of potted sports. Varying degrees of skill were displayed on the football pitch, hockey pitch, tug of war and volleyball court. Great fun was had by all and the weekend had been a tremendous success. There was a general consensus that all training weekends should be like this, however, the CO and Trg Maj felt that there is such a thing as too much fun!! Shame!

CLASS THREE TRADE TRAINING CAMP - WHITBURN

A trade training camp was held at Whitburn over the period 22 January - 6 February 2000 for initial class three training in all R Signals trades. For those of you who have never experienced the delights of Whitburn, it is situated between Sunderland and South Shields on the Northumberland coast. The chilly North Sea can be seen immediately behind the firing butts on the ranges and it is a great place for bracing early morning runs along the sea front (that is unless you have consumed too much of the local brew the night before). Several members of the Squadron joined others from the Regiment, and some guest attendees from 60 Sig Sqn in Aylesbury, to attend this fifteen day camp. Sgt Marcus Rashid (ex Kings) and Sig Bill Staples (ex Queens Lancs) had a go at the technicians course. Sgt Marcus Rashid took it in his stride while Sig Bill Staples decided that it was all too difficult and opted to have a go at the officer selection instead (Looks like the secret is out)!!

Cpl Brent Jefferson (rear) awaits his turn to come to grips with the 3.5 KVA Onan generator while.

Cpl 'I have finally made my mind up' Brent Jefferson, ex RMP, ex REME and now R Signals, headed the driver electrician course with Cpl Roman Marczak (ex RMP) and Sig John Schofield (Manchester University student) to keep him company. On the Tele Op RR course, Sig Paul Winch and Sig Wesley Rodgers did extremely well and can now blow up a 40ft Clark mast with the best of them. All in all, the camp proved a great success, and we look forward to the next one in June this year.

ROYAL SIGNALS INSPECTION TEAM (RSIT)

No sooner had the excitement of the Christmas and Millennium period died down, when we were faced with the sobering thought that the dreaded RSIT inspection was almost upon us. To be fair, we had been given plenty of notice but, as with many things, distance had provided an illusion of comfort. Our Foreman of Signals, SSgt 'Gazza' Clapham, had been overheard muttering on about this, whilst staring moodily into his beer glass, during the many functions over the festive season. However, a cunning plan had been hatched by the technical brains of the Regiment to thwart the best 'nit-picking' efforts of the RSIT team. The regular technicians, including the Squadron Foreman, were to be centralised to enable them to descend on the relevant Squadron prior to the inspection and ensure that all was well. This plan appeared to have worked, judging by the positive comments from the RSIT team members on the day, and the large turnout of TA personnel who were buzzing around their various comms vehicles with a confident and optimistic attitude. It is hoped that this euphoria will not be punctured when the report eventually arrives, and that the boys from Corsham, led by Capt Marcus Sullivan and FOS Andy Marston-Weston, will have been suitably impressed.

POTENTIAL OFFICER SELECTION WEEKEND

To assist in meeting the Officer recruitment target for the Regiment, a potential officer selection weekend was held at Holcombe Moor Training Camp, North of Bury, over the weekend 4-6 February 2000. 42 Sig Sqn provided five potential officers as well as being tasked to provide the admin support. The event was organised by the Regt 2IC, Maj John Miller, and the potential officers were put through a demanding programme of command tasks, group discussions, essay writing, general knowledge, exercise planning and physical fitness. They became more than familiar with the famous Krypton Factor assault course and have still got the bruises to prove it. They were chased over this by the unfortunately named Cpl Joy, who is a regular Para trained PTI attached to 42 Sqn from 216 Air Assault Sig Sqn, based in Colchester and who proved invaluable as a member of the DS staff.

Potential Officers flanked by Cpl Joy and the RSM,
WO1 Rod Cowan. Sig Gibbons, Sig Staples, LCpl Pennington,

Finally, as we go to press, the Squadron looks forward to four days skiing in the Cairngorms next week. Our Sqn 2IC, Capt Dave Titheridge, leads a Regimental expedition to the Rocky Mountains for two weeks in March. We have a stocktaking board for a hand-over of Sqn Comd's shortly. We are being inspected by the Investment in People Team on the same evening as we have a 'Bring a Boss' night. Last, but by no means least, we have a Regimental Comms Exercise to warm us up for the Brigade FTX, Ex Spring Eagle. Who says life in the TA is dull!!!

EXERCISE SILVER OUTLOOK

On Saturday 15 January I found myself standing outside the entrance of Anzio Camp near Leek surrounded by the early morning mist. It was cold, the weather was miserable and in my discomfort, so was I. As my mind wandered and I looked around trying to probe through the mist in an effort to recognise some useful landmark or friendly face, I allowed myself a fleeting thought of where I would rather be and who I would like to put in my place. However, as the sun began to break down the mist, I glimpsed the beauty of the Staffordshire Moors and the Peak District beyond. Then it dawned on me that Leek was one of the many towns and cities that provided the historical 'homes fit for heroes' following the Great War. Confronted by the ghosts of the past, this poignant thought brought me crashing down to earth and put my own feelings firmly into perspective and my gloomy thoughts dissipated as quickly as the haze. For a while at least it became noticeably warmer and my own spirits were revived, but perhaps this was merely because I was feeling much more positive about the weekend ahead and more importantly about myself, but I digress. Ex Silver Outlook was a well-planned weekend exercise that was designed primarily to address the management and leadership skills of all Regimental Officers and SNCOs. It also provided the new CO, Lt Col Stephen Potter, an ideal opportunity to meet most of his senior staff and to communicate his vision and philosophy for the future. 'Quality not Quantity' was the message that came firmly across, which had to be combined with style, good leadership and effective but manageable training programmes. The way ahead was firmly set and established 'under provide and over deliver' but its success now very much depends on this important message and principal reaching all ranks throughout the Regiment. How this is achieved is now down to each Squadron and the CO emphasised the importance of C2 – communication and commitment - to reinforce his message.

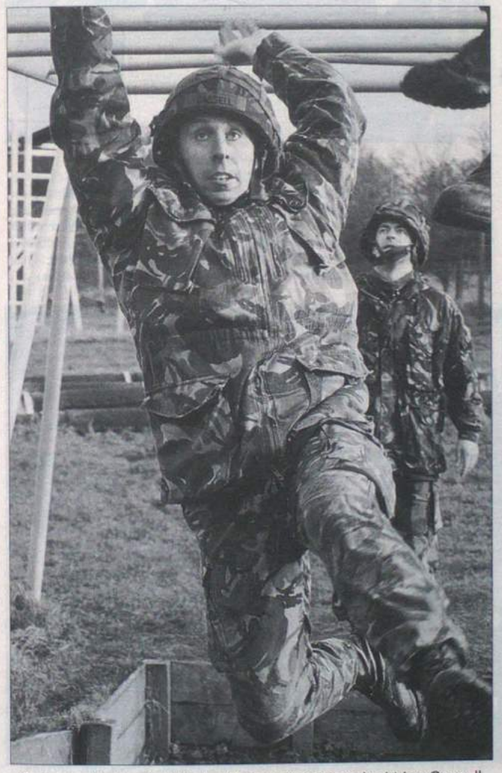
The weekend itself opened with a series of important briefings from the CO and his Training Team. These were combined with a series of syndicate tasks that were designed to reflect and address current training, manning and equipment problems. Syndicates were tasked to tackle these areas and to basically come up with some new ideas based on old themes.

On the second day nominated syndicate members had to present their master plans and many humorous analogies were delivered to reinforce messages even though some rebounded remorsefully on their hosts. My own particular favourite was the fireman's shiny axe parallel presented by WO2 (FofS) Pete Stowell and the humorous response by WO2 Mick Clarke stating that an axe doesn't need to be shiny for it to work! I do believe that both protagonists agreed that while we are not prepared to accept low standards, achieving high standards is difficult, so a compromise has to be reached to find an acceptable maintenance level that, with limited manpower resources, is achievable. Coming a close second was Sgt Mick Macdonald's response to the news that the Regiment would soon have its own recruiting web page on the Internet. He asked, quite innocently, if it would be open only at Weekends? We even discovered during the Equal Opportunities briefing given by Capt Dave Tarrant, that size does really matter even if sexual orientation doesn't!



Swinging the lead - Lt Peter Ayre pretending to be Lt Ian Cassell

At this point I feel I must declare that these humorous interludes took place at the closing stages of the weekend and therefore came after the equally humorous command tasks and the assault course race between the officers and sergeants messes. Clearly the intense physical activity prior to the syndicate briefings had sharpened the minds quite effectively and removed all traces of alcohol from the social get together the night before. Much to the chagrin of the officers, those tireless warriors, the Sergeants, thrashed them soundly over the assault course and are now looking forward to the re-match next year. The command tasks provided different challenges and I just can't erase the disturbing pictures of intertwined bodies of all shapes and sizes and at all angles either dangling precariously over hedges, ditches, and oil drums, out of my mind – I'm just relieved I wasn't roped in! I am sure though that a Training Risk Assessment or Law exists to say it shouldn't be allowed! However, as a source of entertainment it couldn't be bettered. The weekend may have started on a personal low but it certainly ended on a very high note with all participant's dispersing to their respective TAC's armed with positive messages and plans for the future. In closing just to keep you up to date with my Y2K changeover problem, I am now attempting to cope with the change but I remain to be convinced why such a change is necessary!

RECRUIT AND RETAIN

On Saturday, 11 December, our first recruit intake since July took their first tentative steps towards their Phase 2 training at Blandford. Fifteen recruits who had just successfully concluded their Phase 1 Training proudly paraded in the Training Hall at Canley TA Centre to receive their prized badges and other awards from the CO, Lt Col Stephen Potter, who was also the inspecting officer.

Many parents, relatives and friends watched the parade from the sidelines and happily shared this special occasion by lending their support and encouragement. The importance of this support and encouragement was acknowledged by the CO following the parade when he addressed the recruits, their guests and instructional staff and paid tribute to all their efforts following this first important step towards becoming a fully trained TA soldier. During the parade the award of Best Recruit was presented to a jubilant Sig Peter Cater who celebrated later with his equally proud and overjoyed parents.

RING THOSE CHANGES

Once again the Regiment has had to adapt to the changes in personalities that are commonplace in every military unit. In December we said farewell to LCpl 'Nobby' Styles who sadly leaves the Army to join the legions of civilians and belatedly welcome his replacement LCpl Ashley Hawkes who apparently (according to the Chief Clerk) is an ardent Coronation Street fan. On the NRPS side a belated welcome is also extended to SSgt Kevin Cardberry an SDR casualty from 5 RRF who replaced SSgt 'Uncle Bob' Heaselgrave. Bob retired in November after serving both the Regiment and the TA with distinction for many years. I know he will be missed by his many friends and colleagues throughout the Regiment but hopefully he will retain his connection as an Honorary Member of both the Sergeants Mess and his Squadron. In February we also bade a particularly sad farewell to our outgoing QM, Maj Rod Gladwin and wife Shirley. Rod was dined out of the Officers Mess during the Burns Night Supper on Saturday, 12 February, and gave a traditional poetic farewell speech. A special welcome has been extended to his replacement Maj Jim Coffey fresh from 30 Sig Regt. Jim who everyone knows is a boxing enthusiast apparently missed the Tyson fight when he went to make a cup of tea! Finally some changes have also taken place amongst our dedicated civilian staff. These unsung heroes are often overlooked in this column but I hasten to add not deliberately. To rectify this unintentional anomaly and to make amends for the future a special welcome is extended to Mr Pete Frizwell as the new MT Driver and to Lindsay Kane who is employed as the Registry Clerk in RHQ.

CARING FOR THE COMMUNITY

The cheque presentation at 95 Sqn

Way back during the Summer months members of 95 Squadron raised a Three Peaks Challenge team in aid of the Macmillan Nurses Appeal and successfully completed the challenge, albeit a little slowly. Macmillan Nurses have a tremendous reputation and respect for providing palliative care for those who are terminally ill with cancer and their families. Their aim and charter is to provide total care for patients and their families at a time when care and symptom relief is more important than treatment and they rely heavily on charitable contributions to help them achieve this standard of care. Even though the Macmillan Appeal is well supported throughout the Regiment it was with some relief that by the end of the year all contributions from 95 Sqn's sponsors was collected. The magnificent sum of £350 was raised and Maj Jo Fathers presented this to Mr Ian Musty the Appeal Director at Sundorne TA Centre.

THE VISIT OF THE COMMANDER 143 BRIGADE

On Tuesday, 25 January, the Regiment welcomed the Comd 143 Bde, Brig John King on a formal visit to RHQ and HQ Sqn at Canley. The purpose of the visit was for the Comd to see for himself how well the unit was establishing itself in Coventry and to receive a Regimental update.

The Comd was met by the CO and the RSM and was then given a full Regimental Brief by the CO and the Regimental Operations Staff. Following the formal briefings the Comd was handed over to OC HQ Sqn, Maj Rick Logan, who gave the Comd a guided tour of HQ Sqn and the LAD. Here he met many members of the LAD and HQ Sqn and shared one or two humorous exhanges with Cpl Si Marsden, LCpl Simon Brown and LCpl Tracy Brand. This successful visit ended with the Comd being entertained by the Regimental Officers and Sergeants at a special supper in the Sergeants and Officers Mess.

EXERCISE TRANSGLOBE

Capt Helen Molyneux who serves with 89 Sqn is an avid follower of any adventure training pursuit and has already reported on her earlier exploits on the Transglobe Sailing Expedition. The expedition, which lasted over a year, has now concluded and Helen has submitted the following article to close another exciting chapter in her life with the TA.

Ex Transglobe was a tri-service round the world yacht race using 3 Nicholson 55s, HMSTC Adventure (Navy), Broadsword (Army) and Racer (RAF). The race started during November 1998 and finished in December 1999. It had been split into nine legs with a full crew change for each leg. I had taken part in Leg 1 Antigua to Panama over Christmas and New Year 1998 – 99. The prize giving ceremony was held on Saturday, 22 January 2000, in the presence of HRH The Princess Royal at the Royal Naval College Greenwich. The ceremony itself was held in the spectacular surroundings of the Chapel, and consisted of a brief description of each Leg. This was followed by presentation of cups to the winners of each leg and medals to all crewmembers. Although the Army had won Leg 1 I had to receive my medal from the President of the RAF Sail Training Club as I had been part of the RAF crew. The overall results were very close run. Both the Army and Navy had accrued 22 points, with the Navy coming Third and the Army Second (calculated on the number of legs won) and the RAF won narrowly with 21 points. Following the ceremony, we made our way to an adjacent hall for a champagne reception with a light buffet (lots of smoked canapés). HRH mingled with the guests and met many crewmembers and skippers. Once the champagne had finished and the Princess had departed, we made our way down to the bar, which was situated in the cellar under the Chapel, for a disco and more champagne. An excellent night was had by all, reminiscing and comparing sailing stories and 'our worst moments at sea'.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

The Regiment bids a fond farewell to the outgoing CO, Lt Col A. Whittle and his wife Pam and wishes him all the very best in Corsham as SO1 Comms. After a fond farewell we would like to wish a warm welcome to the new CO, Lt Col P. J. Grogan and his wife Alison. We hope they have a fulfilling tour with the Regiment.

OPERATIONS

Planning is now hotting up in RHQ with the Brigade Exercise almost imminent (well it's in the summer) and WO2 (YofS) Chris Nutt and SSgt (FofS) Andy Burns are busy studying comms plans and map traces for the annual exercise. This goes along with the endless recces to Scotland. Ops would like to say farewell to SSgt Jill Summers who is leaving the Army and to wish her well in her chosen path. To replace her, in comes SSgt Tim 'I can sing, dance and play musical instruments' Abbott along with his wife Judith who join us as NRPS from Aberdeen.

This has once more been an exceptionally busy period for the Squadron. On the social front the traditional round of Christmas festivities were held and the PSAO was concerned as to whether his drill hall would ever reappear from its guise of 'Club TAC'. The Squadron held a supper party to bid farewell to the outgoing CO, Lt Col Alan Whittle who has now departed for pastures new. The new-year has seen training renew with a fresh vigour. One of the highlights of this training being, a visit by a group of Shakespearean Actors to the training weekend to enable them to get into character! A full report of the visit will appear in the next issue.

1999 was a year of tremendous change for the Squadron and contained a number of achievements for which all should take credit. We have seen departures of Maj John Duggan, Lt Catherine Cox, SSgt Lindsay Warren, Sgt Roger James and most recently Capt Brain Carney the Squadron PSAO. Although change brings a degree of uncertainty, it also brings new and fresh ideas. Sgt Dave Jones, Lt Andrew Henderson and Capt Andrew Rance have this year joined 53 and are all making positive contributions to the Squadron. 1999 saw some notable successes, such as the Lanyard Trophy in which the Squadron were a key contributor to the Regimental Team. The Squadron were also commended for the quality of the service delivered whilst supporting 160 (W) Bde at Otterburn with Mould tasking.

The November parade is the most important in the calendar. The two locations Stratford Upon Avon and Stourbridge did the parade in style with the SSM and 'The Honour Guard' carrying the sword of peace at Stratford Upon Avon. Stourbridge Tp had 100% turnout on parade, continuing the proud heritage of their predecessors, the Queens Own Warwickshire and Worcestershire Yeomanry. Ex 'Hoar Frost' is the annual dinner in the field with the Officers and SNCOs serving the meal. This was preceded by a very active time on the range at Swynnerton, followed by an OBUA attack at first light Sunday, a very effective test for OCdt Huw George who is doing his Basic Officer Cadet Training. In the last weekend of the training year, Stourbridge Tp laid on a 'small' dinner for the departing CO and also the Deputy Mayor of Dudley. The silver was on display along with the famed 'Pear Blossom' made by Karl Faberge. The 69 people who sat down listened to a speech from the OC, Capt Paul Fowler-Smith, and watched while the Troop presented a brandy glass to LCpl Andy Foster who is emigrating to the USA.

93 SIGNAL SQUADRON (V)

Sqn Comd Maj A. Unwin
SSM WO2 (SSM) N. Reid

To 93 Sig Sqn (V), based in Blackburn, Exercise Three Crosses is an annual shake down mobile exercise enabling troops to gain experience in map reading, voice procedure and detachment drills. It is run in conjunction with a long distance walk organised by the East Lancashire's Long Distance Walkers Association in which, in exchange for safety cover, those troops not involved in the exercise can take part in the walk itself. The distance is approximately 28 miles and is a triangular course between three points, which are marked by ancient crosses high on the moors.

The area is bleak and usually the rain is horizontal. The detachments, organised by SSgt Robin Fitzpatrick and Sgt Mick Clarke, deploy in the early hours of the morning, which this year dawned cold but dry and bright. Everything progressed well with detachments finding their locations, setting up, passing drill traffic, closing down and moving onto the next grid reference. Sgt Mick Rutter, our REME fitter and Sig Wendy Ambrose were keeping an eye on road discipline and the mechanical condition of the vehicles. Following one of the checks they were flagged down by a civilian to be told that a walker had been taken ill and had collapsed about a mile from one of the check points. Using their own set he radioed in the report then deployed to the scene to give assistance. On receipt of the report the control station alerted the civilian organisers who were able to be updated by Sgt Rutter who had arrived at the location of the collapsed civilian. A 999 call had been made due to the persons deteriorating condition but because of the remoteness and inaccessibility of the location, the emergency services decided to call out the regional air ambulance helicopter based at Blackpool airport. By this time other personnel from the unit had arrived to assist and prepared an emergency-landing pad for the helicopter. Within a short space of time the air ambulance had arrived and taken the casualty to the nearest hospital. Towards the end of the Exercise the unit was given the sad news that the person, a middle aged male, had died from a heart attack shortly after arriving at the intensive care unit. Without doubt the action taken by Sgt Rutter and others from the unit had ensured that as little time as possible had been wasted, a fact recognised by the deceased persons family and the Walkers Association.

This was a perfect example, if one is required, of the support that can be given to the civilian community from which the TA is drawn, at no extra cost to the public purse. It also brought home to those taking part in the exercise how crucial communications can be in a real life situation.

96 SIGNAL SQADRON
Sqn Comd Maj R. Bowden
SSM WO2 (SSM) C. Taylor

96 Sig Sqn (V) has had a busy couple of months. December saw the traditional Christmas Exercise 'Cold Comfort' held at the Royal Engineers training area at Chickerell Camp, Dorset. Much to the relief of a worried OC, this time no-one ended up in Casualty – which is three down on last year. Even SSgt Convery failed to perform and this year selfishly failed to amuse the Squadron and didn't put his head through the ceiling. This year's format was to have taken the form of an Inter-Troop Competition, there was a watermanship stand using British Army Mk5 assault boats with outboard motors courtesy of our friendly 225 (R Mon RE) Fd Sqn of Royal Engineers. Six sappers made the long trip down to Wyke Regis to help run the watermanship stand. There was also to be half a day on the ranges. However, no-one had guessed that we would find ourselves in a force eight gale and this time the wind had nothing to do with LCpl Mullins. The first to go was the watermanship with the Sappers declaring that white water and safety do not mix. This was much to the concern of LCpl Gray who was extremely disappointed not to be going on the water. At least that is what we thought he was saying.

The next to go was the Ranges. As the figure 11 targets (and nearly Capt Barker) started to snap in the wind we considered that it might not be such a good idea. However, what really swung it was the thought of LCpl 'Gripper' Flynn on the firing point being caught by the wind. The fear of what damage an out of control 'Gripper' could do once he started rolling was enough and we hastily abandoned the ranges. A hastily improvised trip to the Tank Museum at Bovington nearly didn't happen. However, no sooner had Sgt Pollock asked, 'What is the chemical safety rule?' then the stampede was on and it was down to the museum. The dinner and evening's entertainment produced no trips to hospital although at one stage it was feared that Sig Myrie would explode under the duress of an overloading of Christmas Puddings. Yes it was a shame that he didn't win the pudding eating competition with the Royal Engineers but I somehow feel that if he had won then a comedy moment might have been lost.

Our congratulations go to Sgt Julie Brookes and LCpl Steve Tuck on news of their engagement and forthcoming wedding. Good luck for June 2000. Apparently there is no need for a shotgun at this stage. January also saw the very successful - if rather predictably named - Exercise Millennium Warrior at Sennybridge. The Squadron hosted our cousins 67 (QOWWY) Sig Sqn - an estranged part of our Regimental family whom no-one discusses - and some members of HQ Sqn for what proved an extremely enjoyable OBUA Exercise at Cellini Village, Sennybridge. With dry training during Saturday and a night shoot on Saturday evening, the weekend was capped by a superb joint assault between 96, 67 and HQ Sqns on Sunday. The highlights perhaps being Maj Dickie Hall's valiant attempts at defence by sitting on the head of anyone who attempted to enter his defended attic area in one of the houses. The prospect of having the modestly proportioned Maj Hall sitting on the head of anyone naïve enough to stick it up into his loft deterred most, but not Sig Cocker who now has the flat head to show for it. All in all, a very enjoyable and successful Exercise.

MAJOR 'BOB'S' 20 YEAR AMBITION

When young 'civvy' Bob Ward walked through the doors of 46 Sig Sqn nearly 20 years ago, little did he realise that one day he would be the Squadron Commander. That dream came true in January 2000 when he rejoined 46 Sqn as OC after two years serving with 49 Bde as the SO2 G6 CIS:

'Becoming OC has been my ambition for many years and it is a wonderful feeling to have achieved it after all the hard work and exams. It proves that hard work pays off, and you can get to the top if you are prepared to 'go for it'. I hope that some of the recruits joining now will follow in my footsteps. The next two years are going to be fantastic for 46 – after all I have been planning the training for 20 years!'

NEW YORK, NEW YORK
SO GOOD I RAN ROUND IT TWICE!

That was the verdict of Sig Stuart 'Legs' George when he ran the New York Marathon recently along with the 32,000 other runners. Sig George came in at 3 hours 25 minutes and managed to raise over £2750 for Cancer Research. The highlight of the event was running through all the districts of New York such as The Bronx, Queens, Brooklyn, Manhattan, China Town and Greenwich Village to name but a few. 'I really enjoyed it and am now looking forward to the Chicago Marathon later this year.' Well done 'Legs' – keep up the good work! The Squadron's congratulations go out to Cpl Fiona Harrison on her recent engagement to Cpl Dave Parnell (ex-Squadron member).

Now that the festive season and the millennium parties are well and truly behind us 64 Sqn are looking forward to a challenging and active year. Our first Squadron Weekend Training Session, Ex Spurn Adur began with our departure from the TAC at Manor Top on 21 January 2000 heading for Proteus Camp. On arrival at the NAAFI complex we were briefed and then split into groups of four in preparation for the weekend training.

Our Saturday training consisted of five individual stands set out on the Proteus training area: Detachment Sighting and Setting up drills, Ptarmigan Interest period, NBC, Medical and a Command Task. SSM, WO2 'Micky' Rooney was given the job of running the Comd Task, which he did to great effect. The groups were given respirators, which had black masking tape over the eyepieces so that no one could see what tasks they were about to be given. As the groups fumbled around on their hands and knees using a rope as a guide, Mr Rooney put all sorts of obstacles in their way. The look on the soldiers' faces was a picture when they took off the respirators and realised that they had taken so much time to cover a small clear area of no more than a few feet. The day's training came to a close with the Squadron successfully completing the CFT (4 Miles or 6400 Metres). At 16.5p per meter they were all reminded that they had secured at total of £525 of their Bounty Money at the half way stage. This kept them in good spirits.

Saturday night the Squadron held its belated Christmas Party. The theme for the function was a Toga evening. Although SQMS Dave Burton had gone to the trouble of preparing the NAAFI and securing a large number of sheets only eight individuals had the nerve to attend in costume. The evening's entertainment was a great success and culminated in a Creswick Curry special prepared by our Chef, hairless hero Cpl Roy Creswick RLC. Our Sunday training consisted of a Radio Exercise, Camp clean-up and return to the TAC. Since our last WIRE Notes we have had to say a sad farewell to 2Lt R. Grieve who joins the Regular Army, 2Lt T. Howes who has taken eight months out and departed to Uganda but will return in September 2000 we hope.

HANDING OVER THE STAFF OF POWER

We said farewell to another stalwart of the Squadron recently. WO2 (SSM) Nigel 'Avre' Caldicott handed over the SSM's Stick to WO2 (SSM) Vickie Hardy who returned to the Squadron after two years with the Brigade Specialist Training Team in Chilwell. WO2 Caldicott, who is a 'Scenes of Crimes' Officer with Notts Police was extremely sad to leave us but was extremely pleased for his successor, Vickie who he had recruited in 1985.

WO2 Caldicott has served for nearly 34 years with both the Regular Army and the TA, and has been very active in bringing in recruits to the Squadron. He has stated that he hoped to carry on doing so. A small ceremony was held on the 18 January to mark his departure. John Leverton, member of the local branch of the Royal Signals Association and a keen militaria collector brought along a vintage Austin K9. Dressed as an RMP WO1, he arrested the SSM and drove him away. However, the roles were quickly reversed as it transpired that Nigel had learned to drive in a K9! We wish him Good Luck and look forward to seeing him later in the year at his dining out.

WO2 (SSM) Hardy takes the reins

The new SSM then took over the helm. WO2 (SSM) Vickie Hardy is a resource manager for IBM and is looking forward to her latest challenge as the Regiment's first female SSM. Vickie is a keen footballer, who plays for Ilkeston Ladies FC. She has also taken part in many inter-Squadron matches in the past. She recently married Barry, who unfortunately is in the Royal Engineers TA, but we will not cast it up too often. Good luck in your new role.

BEWARE OFFICER CADETS ABOUT

The Squadron now has two new officer cadets. Adrian 'Cheetah Semen' Matthews and Simon 'Bolt Head' Young were both successful at a TCB just prior to Christmas. They have now unanimously been christened Boys 1 and 2. We are waiting to see what happens next (purely out of curiosity)!

CONGRATULATIONS, WHAT'S ON AND CHARITY NEWS

Congratulations to Lt Amanda 'La La' Moody and her husband Nev on the birth of their daughter Amy. We hope to see you soon. Members of the Squadron have commenced technical training at TCWs in Ripon. We look forward to the TA National Open Day on 25 March. The bright ideas Troop is on the task! The Squadron has started planning various charity events in support of the Regimental Charity 'Hope And Homes For Children'. Among the events being planned are:

A team in the Greater Notts Bike Ride - 50 miles around the County.
A team in the Robin Hood Marathon.
A sponsored Slim by the OC Maj David Tomlinson.

TAKING TURNS ON WATCH

Two Derby Territorials are praising their military bosses after they hit the perfect job-share plan. The couple were devestated when it looked like one of them would have to give up being a part-time soldier. When their unit called both felt duty bound to get on parade but it soon became impossible to find help to look after their two children. So the Ryan-Gilbanks, both Sergeants, were delighted when 46 Sig Sqn's Commanders said that they could take turns on watch. Sgt Carolyn Ryan-Gilbank, from Chaddesden, said, 'It's the perfect solution. Our Commanders know that they can always rely on one of us turning out. We even go on different two-week summer camps, so that we can make absolutely sure that one of us is at home looking after the children. The Territorial Army's solution to our problem was very enlightened. They have ensured that we are even more committed to soldiering than ever. Our unit has a lot of parents with busy home and work lives. The couple's children, Dominic and Jessica, are proud when their mum and dad put on their uniforms and know that their parents military role is important.

HIS TIMER'S RUNG AT LAST

Britain's oldest army chef is set to hang up his ladles after nearly 40 years with the Territorial Army (TA), in Nottinghamshire. Roger Huckerby was past peeling his millionth spud when he reached 62 years of age, on 14 December. He said that just as he was getting the hang of it the bosses at 38 Sig Regt (V) had told him that it was time to turn off the boiling pans for the last time. He added that he would be going into action for one last big event before he left Triumph Road-based 87 Sig Sqn. He said, 'I'll be keeping a very close eye on folks in the kitchen when they're cooking for my farewell do. I don't mind what they give me as long as it's British steak and it's done right. The hardest thing I'll have to do on the night is say goodbye to my friends in the TA. They're the best.'

SSgt Huckerby, a food industry worker from Newbold, began his military cooking career when he was called up for National Service in 1959. He joined the TA's Army Catering Corps in 1961 after being demobbed. Since then he has become one of the reserve force's finest chefs. He has helped show the way in catering for dozens of young soldiers. He has prepared some of the finest cuisine in some of the country's best equipped kitchens for up to 1,500 dinner guests at a time. He has kept hundreds of cold and hungry troops going, through miserable weather, cooking field rations on an open flame. SSgt Huckerby's last military task will be to return to his unit next year to receive the fourth bar to his TA medal for outstanding and loyal service.

HORFIELD ANNUAL DINNER – 4 DECEMBER 1999

The Squadron continued with the pre-beat up to Christmas with the Annual dinner. RHQ, HQ and 57 Sqns all attended the event. The dinner passed by with much praise. However, the after dinner speeches thoroughly exhausted everyone's drinks so that the bar didn't know what hit it. The drill hall was soon transformed from dining hall to night-club, where everyone proceeded to imbibe in the Christmas spirit into the early hours.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS (BRISTOL)

It was nearly an eventful New Year for the Regiment with preparation for Operation Surety ongoing over the build up to the Millennium. However events were to prove that 39 Sig Regt (V) was not going to deploy for the New Year so although a little disappointed most elected for the more traditional form of celebration. RHQ entered a period of mourning at the departure of the Adjutant Capt Bobby Davis (formerly Scott) to pastures new in Civ Div. However the new Adjutant Capt Nick Peet fresh from 30 Sig Regt and JCSC was given an extremely warm welcome on his arrival in the middle of Christmas Party week. It is with regret that Regimental Headquarters will soon bid farewell to Margaret Harris as she moves on as part of the SDR TA reshuffle. We will all miss her hard work and ready smile, thanks Margaret.

REGIMENTAL TRAINING WEEKEND 3
14-16 JANUARY 2000

Capt Peet had a busy start to his tenure with the task of organising the Young Officer Training weekend at Blandford as well as a Regimental Dinner on the Saturday night. The Training consisted of an Armd Bde HQ siting and defence TEWT running concurrently with a Radio CPX exercise in the RSS on Saturday. Sunday morning was filled with a situation exercise similar to the Tp Comd Cse, Ex Crowded Hour followed by an introduction and discussion group on Mission Command. All went well thanks to the efforts of all of the DS as well as the Regt YofS WO2 (YofS) Mark Whiting. The weekend was made all the better by the attendance of Lts Weir M. and Weir E. and Yates and OCdt Velasco from 32 Sig Regt and Lt Andy Peploe from 1 (SC) Sig Sqn, our thanks for their enthusiasm and effort.

BOUNTY PICK UP WEEKEND – 27-28 NOVEMBER 1999

As the year ended it was the last opportunity for the members of the Squadron to qualify for their Bounty. The Squadron deployed to a cold and wet Yoxter Ranges on Saturday morning. Although the weather was not conducive for shooting those who fired managed to pass their APWT. That evening HQ and 57 Sqn came together to hold a joint Christmas dinner, where in true tradition the officers and seniors served the troops. This was followed by Ken the caretaker's excellent sound system (some should tell him that Elvis has died and went to Heaven). In the morning the Squadron dragged itself to Hallen under the supervision of the PTI's to carry out their CFT. There was a good proportion of the Squadron who started to regret the amount of food and drink consumed the previous evening.

EXERCISE BORDON APPROACHES
15 – 16 JANUARY 2000

The LAD organised a collective training weekend for all ES personnel within 43 (Wx) Bde. The Exercise was based at Bordon, Hampshire. The aim of the Exercise was to give the TA tradesman some practical and interesting tasks. On arrival at Longmoor Camp on Friday evening each of the Units was split up into composite teams under the control of a Corporal. The team leader was given a brief and left to prepare his team for the following days events. On Saturday the teams deployed to the Recovery Heath at Bordon where they undertook various recovery tasks and a Warrior APC pack lift. The teams also were able to enjoy the historic vehicle museum and have a rare opportunity to shoot on the SAT range. On completion of the day's training everyone retired back to Longmoor to enjoy a hard earned beer or two whilst reminiscing on the days events. The training on Sunday changed tack from Trade to Military where everyone was tested on their basic ITD knowledge. The training culminated in a gun race over the assault course, where some amusing methods were seen on obstacle crossing. The weekend was rounded off with a prize giving where the SO2 ES, Major P. Roach presented the prizes.

EXERCISE BRONZE LYNX - 29 – 30 JANUARY 2000

Bronze Lynx was an Exercise where the Squadrons had an opportunity to practice the command and control of their Radio dets. HQ Sqn as always took on the anchor role for this Exercise, with elements based at Colerne and the TAC. During the Saturday three teams from the Squadron, travelled around the countryside receeing likely points for the radio/BATCO Exercise on the Sunday. Contrary to popular belief they did not visit every Pub that was a checkpoint, as that would have been physically impossible. On the Sunday a team from the LAD took part in the Exercise, unfortunately they were with 5 Sqn so this meant an hour and a half trip to their first checkpoint. Needless to say this did not detract from the enjoyment of the day.

5 (QUEEN'S OWN OXFORDSHIRE HUSSARS) SIGNAL SQUADRON (BANBURY)
Sqn Comd Maj R. D. Stone
SSM WO2 (SSM) R. E. Phillips

The Queen's Own Oxfordshire Hussars have returned to the City of Oxford when a detachment of 5 Sqn moved into Slade Park TAC on Tuesday, 8 February 2000, with Capt Ruth Empson as the Detachment Commander. The Officer Commanding 5 (QOOH) Squadron, Maj Robert Stone says that this is a real boost for Oxford and in particular the Squadron. This will enable us to widen our net for recruiting and fulfil our ever increasingly important role. Interested in Joining? Contact the PSAO, Capt Bob Sheldon on: 01295 262178 or 01865 780156.

POSTING IN AND OUT

The Squadron bid a sad farewell to Cpl Steve Oliver on his posting to 33 (Lancashire & Cheshire) Sig Regt for duty with 42 Sig Sqn. We, however, welcome LCpl Alan Gribben from 34 (Northern) Sig Regt (V).

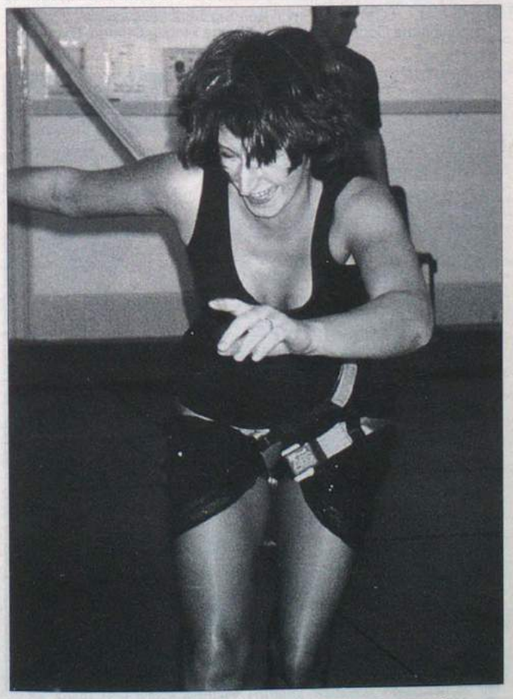
MOBILISATION AND FTRS

The Squadron welcomes Cpl Nick Hawkins our RLC Chef back from a tour of duty with the Royal Regiment of Fusiliers in Germany and Bosnia. LCpl Sean Buckley RLC Chef deployed on SFOR 1/00 on 23 January 2000. Sgt 'Paddy' Ferguson, Systems Technician, is currently on a twelve month FTRS with the Royal School of Signals.

THE MILLENNIUM PARTY



Cpl Sammy Durno (Nee Morgan) on the Bar Bungee Run

The long awaited Millennium Party planned for 2 January 2000 went ahead on the correct date, 31 December 1999, following the cancellation of Op Surety. SSgt Paul Johnson had spent the whole year coercing people to purchase draw tickets with the opportunity to win a substantial cash prize. Following an excellent night of games, drinking, dancing, lesser prize wining and fireworks the committee announced the name of the winner – Capt Chuck Robertson the Squadron 2IC won £814.00 cash and he was not there to ring the bell!

The Squadron would like to thank SSgt Paul Johnson, Cpl Steve 'Fireworks Man' Brady, Kevin 'Hoppalong' Durno, LCpl Mark William, Danny Palmer , Dean Smithson and Sig Clare Goodwin for an excellent year's entertainment culminating with the Millennium Party. The new Committee under the guidance and Chairmanship of 2Lt Simon Durtnal have to work hard to do better!

COMMUNITY WORK

As part of our move into Oxford and an attempt at getting some free PR the Squadron Volunteered to assist the Oxfordshire Countryside Section clearing heath land at Shotover Park in Oxford. The plan was basic – cut down some trees and burn them!! There was no shortage of volunteers thinking they would be let loose with chain saws – no such luck – bow saws and axes with a great dollop of elbow grease. Sixteen eager men and women under the guidance of the management staff of the Countryside Section set to work at 1000 hours on a bright Saturday Morning. After two hours the elbow grease was getting thin and the eagerness failing, nevertheless after refreshments the promise of a visit to the local pub brought back a new lease of life. The event was covered by Central TV and the Oxford Times.

EXERCISE BRONZE LYNX

On a blustery weekend in January the bold cavalry of the Middlesex Yeomanry carried out a partial re-enactment of the Battle of Balaclava, including the Charge of the Light Brigade. The re-enactment was different insofar as the horses were present in a metaphysical sense only. Furthermore, the notoriously poor communications between commanders in the Crimea were replaced with Clansman HF, MOULD and DUST (nearly as old but usually slightly more trustworthy). The more things change, though, the more they stay the same. The Commander of the cavalry was one Lord Lucan, and for the purpose of the Exercise SSgt Mark Gilfrin took his place. SSgt Gilfrin, before he shaved off his moustache, was universally known within the Squadron as Lucan due to his resemblance to the more infamous peer. Another interesting coincidence is that the commander of the 1Infantry Division at Balaclava was the Duke of Cambridge, who was also the first Regimental Colonel of the Middlesex Yeomanry.

The Exercise was thoroughly successful, and the course of history was not changed. The blustery weather inspired the Commanding Officer to set a challenge for each detachment to construct a kite using locally available materials and to also use it to create a /wave antenna. The consequence of this task was a sequence reminiscent of the old TV show 'The Great Egg Race'. The only facet that the Squadron was without was the appearance of a slightly over-excited German Professor explaining the interaction of Gravity, Drag and Wind etc. The OC, Maj Mike Lansdown, decided that the results of this experiment would be made available on a need to know basis ie: you readers do not need to know. The Squadron is now gearing up for a busy spring season of exercises and a major recruiting drive (an effort to recruit more soldiers not more majors). More from the Middlesex Yeomanry in the next issue, Charge!

EXERCISE BRONZE LYNX - by Sgt Dave Gresswell

57 Squadron deployed to RAF Locking as part of 39 Sig Regts annual Bronze Lynx Exercise. This year the emphasis was on Data, HF and MOULD communications. The Saturday was to be mainly Data backed up by HF comms in the Sqn Comd Post. Deployment went smoothly on the Friday night, with 12m masts being erected in record time despite the gale force winds! This thankfully left plenty of time for a beer or two before breakfast!

Saturday - After a slow start the Data Communications were up and running and messages based on the Charge of The Light Brigade began flowing smoothly (although we are not sure how Lord Lucan managed to get in on the act). With all the troops fully employed in four COMCENS plus the SCP. Our CO, Lt Col John Crackett decided that the SNCOs needed something to keep them busy! Their task was to build a kite made out of stores available on site that not only would fly but was also required to support an HF antenna. Armed with plastic bags, mast sections, cable trunking, tape, staples and even the SSM's Gortex Trousers, our intrepid SNCOs set about constructing their kite, after six attempts it has to be said they failed miserably (I suppose the 'they' should be 'we'). Saturday night brought us a Squadron Social and Quiz Night, we were joined at this point by our DEs who had been working under the direction of SSgt Dave Williams back at Horfield. One of the hardest questions to be answered was 'To the nearest TEN years, when do you expect the refurbishment of Horfield TAC to commence?' needless to say it could not be answered. The prize of new Squadron T-Shirts went eventually to Gloucester Tp (no surprise of course).

Sunday morning bar stocks depleted and Squadron GPF much better off, found the squadron split into 5 Mobile Detachments that were to take part in a Treasure Hunt style Comms Ex. This was in the main a success, however, we suspect that most Det's were operating from the sea front car park in Weston-Super-Mare. Still home for tea on Sunday afternoon with two more Specified Days towards Bounty in the bank (so to speak)!

It has been a busy time for the Squadron since the last edition. The TAC Annual Dinner took place at the end of November when the Squadron said farewell to Maj Glynn Nash, who served for 27 years, rising through the ranks to be commissioned in 1989. He finished as Squadron 2IC before assuming command of HQ Sqn. The dinner was also time to say farewell to our Honourary Colonel, Col John Bryant, who has been our Honourary Colonel since 1993. Both received our sincere thanks, best wishes and momentoes as befitted the occasion. Congratulations go to Capt John Cullen, our PSAO and Cpl Sue Palfrey on recieving the Lord Lieutenant's Award and Cpl Kerri Hill who received her Efficiency Medal at the same ceremony. Congratulations also go to Sgt Richard Sharp, Cpl Kathy Ashley, Cpl Dave Jones, LCpl Paul Wylde and LCpl Helen Winters on their recent promotions. The first member of our civilian staff to leave us, due to SDR, is Johm Turkentine who has been a great asset to our Cheltenham and recently also the Gloucester Detachment. Despite being ex-RAF the troops did not hold it against him, and he was accepted as one of the team from the beginning, we wish him all the best for the future.

REUNION

The second Annual Kent & County of London Yeomanry Reunion Dinner was held on 13 November. We managed to surpass last year's turnout with the grand sum of 147 attendees and ranks ranging from Signaller to Brigadier. The OC, Maj Hugh 'Long Words' Robertson, gave a rousing speech regarding the 'Kents' striding forth into the new Millennium with gusto and panache, which was well received by all and sundry. The dinner was followed by the rantings in the bar of too many 'old' soldiers. The question 'Do you remember?' could be heard from all four corners of the bar and many an old sweat was trying to convince serving members that the TA really was better in their day. Then with the necessary phone numbers exchanged the reunion had finished with everyone promising to return in the year 2000.

LONDON DISTRICT FOOTBALL COMPETITION

The KCLY football team had done it again, reaching the final of the London District Football Cup. This being the 13th time in the last 16 years. Our opponents were 562 Sqn, RLC. The venue was the Artillery Barracks at Woolwich on a cold and breezy morning, 19 December. The game was a fine tempered affair with us seemingly playing uphill for 90 minutes. We spent the whole time fighting to level the score, with a sterling effort from the Team Captain, Cpl Mark 'Gooner' Pearce. At the end of normal time the score was 4-4. After extra time the score remained the same, so it was the dreaded penalty shoot out. The outcome was that we lost 4-2 on penalties and so must launch another onslaught for the trophy next year. Thanks go to PSAO, Capt Barry 'I'm a Gooner as well' James for organising the whole competition, which ran extremely smoothly. A special thanks goes to Capt Robert 'Bobbeeee' Andrews who announced his retirement from the team at the beginning of the game after 18 years loyal service, having played in most positions from goalie to striker and umpteen London District Cup finals. Congratulations to the player of the Tournament, RSM 'Kinkladze' Godwin

APPOINTMENTS

A new era dawned on 11 January 2000 with the Squadron parading en masse for the OC, Maj Hugh 'Long Words' Robertson to say farewell to SSM, WO2 Keith 'Snoozy' Wrate, who has served with the Squadron for a little over 16 years. There was barely a dry eye in the house as he left the drill hall en route to his new employment as OC Regimental MTT. Then it was time to say hello to the newly promoted SSM, WO2 Stuart 'Ginge' McHenery, who joins the Squadron hierarchy after an extremely successful tour as Troop Staff Sergeant at 884 Sig Tp in Brighton. Congratulations go to 2Lt Alex 'Where's my watch' Downing who takes command of 890 Support Tp, 2Lt Richie 'Crome Dome' Woodhams who moves from 890 to take command of 887 Sig Tp and Sgt Kev 'What cap-badge?' Hancock who takes the role of Troop Sergeant at 884 Sig Tp.

LONDON DISTRICT CROSS COUNTRY

The Squadron entered a team into the London District Cross County Competition on Sunday 16 January. Unfortunately due to unforeseen circumstances one of the team members was unable to run so each of the team ran as individuals. Congratulations go to Cpl Triss 'Mr Magoo' Swain who came ninth overall.

EXERCISE AUTUMN BELL I -15-17 OCTOBER 1999

As part of the preparation for the Millennium's Operation Surety, elements of 2 Sig Bde were despatched to various locations around the country. 71 Sig Regt's, 887 Tp led by Lt Penny Bulley, with support from 890 Tp, was located at Horse Guards Parade in Central London. We set off for Chelsea Barracks on the Friday night ready to move directly to Horse Guards Parade at 6.00am on the Saturday. Our convoy skills were tested to the extreme as we negotiated the Friday night Central London traffic. Thanks to some magnificent work by Sgt Dave Pryke, we arrived at Chelsea in one piece. Saturday morning approached and members of the Troop headed off to Horse Guards Parade, under the watchful eyes of the Squadron 2IC, Capt Keith Duffy-Penny and PSI, SSgt John Lynch, in order to 'establish comms', before the public descended upon the area. Once comms were in place we were able to start our shift system. This proved a little more difficult than normal, as we had to transfer between Horse Guards Parade and Chelsea Barracks for meals. However, some fine driving by LCpl Ian Liscoe ensured that the disruption was kept to a minimum and the traffic (both signals and vehicular) flowed smoothly throughout Saturday. The checking of the antennas also proved a bit more problematical than normal, as they were located on the roof. Luckily there were no faulty coax cables to trace on this Exercise. Sunday morning arrived and again it was all hands to the pump to ensure that our NCRS trailers were fully laden with the kit with which we had arrived, before the public again mounted a full section attack on our location. Once again we planned our escape in the finest detail and were safely on our way back to Bexleyheath by the time the cameras were clicking. It was agreed that a successful time was had by all and we had achieved our objective. To dismount our NCRS kit, set up in a Central London location and communicate with other stations around the country.

NEWS FROM THE SQUADRONS

2 (CITY OF DUNDEE) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

Sqn Comd Maj Eric Blyth TD
SSM WO2 (SSM) Andy Waterston

The past few months have been particularly busy with a wide range of training activities and social events occurring. With all the activity there is always going to be highs and lows. Sadly, the Squadron lost Cpl Alec McLeod, who fell to his death in a tragic climbing accident whilst abseiling with friends in Glen Doll near Dundee. On 23 October the Squadron bade farewell to SSgt Phil Skene, who had been employed as the SPSI Technician for the past three years and was dined out of the Squadron and Corps on completion of 22 years service. He is pictured below with Capt Bill Naismith, 2 Sig Sqn PSAO who recruited SSgt Skene into the Corps 22 years earlier in the Leven Recruiting Office.

We welcomed back Sig Jason Honeyman from his six month tour in BATUS Canada, he has already been seen badgering the training wing for yet another FTRS tour. At this time of year like many other units the Sqn is deep into the preparation phase of the Xmas and Millennium festivities, not to mention the preparation for the many visits due to the Sqn over the coming months. The following paragraphs are personal accounts from LCpl Scott McDonald and LCpl Murray Sutcliffe who were involved in activities outwith the normal ITD or Comms training weekends, proving that life with 2 Sig Sqn is anything but dull!

EXCHANGE WITH HMS GRAFTON – 18-20 SEPTEMBER 1999
by LCpl McDonald

Diary of Events

19/9/99 - Early start for those involved in getting the ship underway, due to depart 0730hrs, a nice leisurely breakfast for me, then down to the MCO to get introduced to RS Wilkinson, Garry Curtis and Stan Mathews. After a quick briefing of how the day should go I was taken on a more in depth tour of the ship. The Ops Room was suitably dark with lots of impressive looking glowing screens, then up to the bridge to be introduced to the Captain and to get my only breath of fresh air for the next 24 hours. We were still in the Thames and were not due to reach open water until 1400hrs. Back down in the MCO I was shown the range of comms equipment that they had at their disposal and got suitably jealous over their push-button tuners and the fact that I wouldn't once need to trudge outside into the wind and rain to alter an antenna. However, I was looking forward to incorporating a lot of frequency changes throughout the exercise for the benefit of my colleagues in Dundee. The reason for my trip was as part of a Crosspol for a JOCOMEX which began with voice being established in 5 minutes and two-way secure RATT tested and 'Booming in 5's' within 45 minutes.

Stan started the comms with Cpls Sally Purvis and Lesley Bruce, leading to some reminiscing about good old Croydon as it was Stan's home town and Sally had spent a couple of years down there. I finally managed to drag Stan away from his on-air affair with Sal and get a shot on the Tele-type. However my excitement was short-lived when I discovered that there was no message store and I would have to type on-line. After a few spelling mistakes and typing errors I was soon bashing away at the keyboard like an old pro – all be it an old pro with failing vision, dyslexia and arthritis in both hands. However my colleagues at the TAC were very understanding .

1200hrs already and time for a lunch break, so I left Stan and Sally to continue their reminiscing.
1230 hrs and the weather report comes in warning of severe gales and a sea state of 8, which didn't sound that bad until we were also advised to take our sea-sick pills now.
1235hrs quick trip to Doc's office to pick up my dose of sea-sickness pills.
1400hrs Ship pushes out into open water, not rolling about too much, but the moving keyboard does little to improve my typing. Shift change has taken place and it is now Johnny on the keyboard, comms are still up and going well.
1600hrs The ship is starting to roll around a bit more, but the pills seem to be working.
1800hrs Back in comms after frequency hopping for 45 minutes, however I've missed tea, but a kind young WREN offers me her pot noodle and a cup of tea!
2000hrs I knock off for the day while another shift change occurs both at the TAC and on board ship. Manage to get a quick report from SSgt Bob Tasker and LCpl Murray Sutcliffe about the Squadron's weekend at Whitburn before I retire to the mess. Watch a few Videos and down just enough beers to ensure a good night's sleep no matter what the weather.

0700hrs Up and ready to catch the transfer boat to Portsmouth, due at 0800hrs. Call in to MCO to see how the Exercise is going, everything seems under control.
0800hrs Transfer boat going to be late so I have time to snap a couple of photos before departure.
0900hrs Back on solid ground, caught the train back to London with my supply of sea-sick pills at the ready for the next time. Definitely a worthwhile and interesting experience which I would do again if given the chance.

THE ANTHONY NOLAN BONE MARROW TRUST

Recently members of 2 Sig Sqn (V) deployed to assist The Antony Nolan Bone Marrow Trust in their annual Perthshire Marrowthon. This is a 28 mile sponsored bike ride in and around the Perthshire area. Thirteen members of the Squadron deployed to provide HF safety communications and marshalling cover for the duration of the race, using a variation of the Squadron's High Tech Communications equipment. A good day was had by all and the event was a success raising some £2000 for the Trust.

As ever there are a lot of comings and goings. Firstly, we offer a warm welcome to SSgt Paul Davis, his wife Tracy and family, Cpl Charlie Henson, Sig Andy Yates and Sig Lucy Corlett we hope you enjoy your time in Papa Tp. Unfortunately there are some goodbyes too. Farewells go to SSgt Norm Finnegan, his wife Heike and son Jason, Cpl Vinnie Walsh and Cpl 'Woz' Wright congratulations to you and your wife Denise on the birth of your daughter Megan. Best of luck to you all in your new units. The Troop has had a few promotions too, six altogether you know who you are lads a big well done. A BIG congratulations to Cpl Henson and his new wife Debbie and to LCpl Scott Rose and his new wife Kelly.

After a well deserved Christmas and New Years leave Papa Tp was hard at work with preparations for 2nd Line and RSIT inspections in February. The OC Squadron has given the troops the incentive to get a good RSIT report by granting the detachment with the best report a long weekend. There is a very competitive atmosphere in the garages with the odds favouring one of the systems vehicles. Congratulations and well done to LCpl 'Polly' Pollitt, Sig Dunc Excell and Sig 'General Jackson' Eden on their recent promotion. Also, well done to Sigs Glyn Hayes, Steve King, Andy Yates and Scott Roberton for coming off the board.

CORPS SKI TRAINING ZELL-AM-SEE AUSTRIA
by Cpl Rowles

This year's Corps championships for Giant Slalom and Slalom, was awarded the honour of 4 Bde Sig Sqn's presence - although 1Div did try to steal our thunder on the apres-ski slopes. Lt Paul 'Racing Snowplough' McTurk was team OC with Cpl Stu 'Shakespeare' Rowles, Cpl Nigel 'The Eyes' Stiff, Sig Gus 'The Buckle' Crawford and Sig Dan 'How young!?' Tooke. Of all the prestigious awards that the Squadron won the most valued was for 'best wipe out' (take a bow Cpl Rowles). Cpl Stiff was unlucky in crashing out on a few of his slalom runs but still managed fourth place. The cold weather must have affected our kit because 16 Sig Regt, with their 'Gucci' kit managed to win overall but watch out next year 16!

This month I would like to start The WIRE notes by congratulating the following people on promotion to Lance Corporal. Sigs Glen Hislop, Sean Brierley, Dinny Dinsdale and John Ritchie. However commiserations to Sig Brierley who only managed eighteen working days before losing his new stripe. Many Congratulations to LCpl Lee Peacock on the birth of his daughter in November. After a long and well deserved Christmas leave it was straight into the thick of things with inspections, exercise planning and preparation for an uncertain length Bosnia tour starting in June. During the recent CGS's visit Sgt 'Stavros' Wood arrived to collect his COMBRITFOR Commendation in the wrong kit and in the rush to get changed he picked up a speeding ticket which he threatened to give to the General since it was obviously his fault!

Sgt 'Spike' Hughes receives the COMBRITFOR Commendation for his work on the initial deployment into Kosovo

Luckily he didn't but well done to him and to Sgt 'Spike' Hughes and Cpl Steve Gill for their Kosovo Commendations. That just about concludes The WIRE notes for this month all we have to do now is stop the lads from hiding under their panzers while we get the second line results so that they can prepare for RSIT.

The year has started for the QM's Dept as fast and as furious as the end of last year finished with every one busy preparing for the Squadron's next adventure abroad. (The Squadron's next tour to the Balkans is in June of this year.) At present the RQMS is busy on his RQ's course, with which the Department wish him all the best and are looking forward to the RQ arriving back and saying, 'That's alright I am qualified now.' Cpl Stu Rowles is busy at Blandford on his Corporals course and the department hope that everything is going well for him. Finally, congratulations to LCpl Jase Hawksworth and Sig Fiona Francis on their recent selection for promotion - you both deserve the promotion for the hard work that you have given to the Squadron.

Despite the heavy workload the department still manages to do various sports with Sig 'Dumb and Dumber' Humphreys playing football (well spending half the game in the goal mouth waiting for the ball) and Cpl 'Sillydago' Sirignano and Sig 'Butch' Slingsby playing rugby.

Cpl Rob Sirignano hard at it as usual!

There was even time for the Cpl 'Magoo' Maguire to get away (yet again) and compete in skiing and preparing for the Lanyard Trophy. However, the heavy workload leading up to Christmas did not stop the MT from taking part in the festive session. The MT would like to welcome Sig (now LCpl) Molyneux, Sig Shirkey from 3 Div and Sig Reason from Blandford.

Farewells go to LCpl (now Cpl) George Callander and family on their new posting and Sig 'Morgs' Morgan to Civ Div.

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE
Tech SSgt SSgt Dave Patrick
Tech Sgt Sgt Mick Hanson

The Tech workshops would like to welcome Cpl Daz Offord from 1 Div and Sig's 'Mong' Armstrong and 'Morph' Murphy who have joined the workshops from 216 Sig Sqn, we hope that you all enjoy your stay. Farewell goes to Cpl Shaun Middleton who at present is in Blandford on his Corporals' course before starting his T1. The problem that Shaun leaves is who is going to keep an eye on Cpl Guy Keyworth, there is a strong rumour that Shaun has handed this task to Cpl Dan Taylor. The Department awaits the return of Sgt Mick Hanson who has taken over from Sgt (now Staff Sergeant) Dave Covey not only in the workshop, but also as the person who must spend his time on a course.

7 ARMOURED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL SQUADRON (207)

Sqn Comd Maj Andy Bristow
RSM WO1 (RSM) Colin Milne

Following the re-organisation of the squadron into our operational ORBAT, a series of reports this issue from the new troops immediately prior to our deployment and re-rolling as HQ MNB(C) and Signal Squadron (207).

HEADQUARTERS COMMUNICATIONS TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Adam Corkery
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Sloane

The beginning of the new millennium has dawned on 207 Sig Sqn but before looking forward to the next year, let's look back on the last two months in the illustrious Bravo Tp. First of all we would like to welcome a few people to the Bravo Clan. First of all LCpl 'Brummie' Hines who has just arrived for his final year in the Corps; LCpl 'Jonno' Johnston from 1 Div, Sig 'Nigel' Smith from 30 Sig Regt and a welcome back into the Corps to Sig Daz Jardine. Just prior to Christmas, the Troop was recognised on the sporting scene firstly in canoeing at the BFG championships where Sig Matt Epton and LCpl 'Glenda' Dick achieved first and second in the intermediate single race and, aided by the OC, Maj Bristow, achieved Gold in the team event. And more . . . The Corps Ski Championships where a great success with good results for the team of Lt 'I've got an Audi TT' Corkery, Lt 'A Tp Andy' Hill and Sig Paul Wraight. The countdown is now almost at an end before our deployment to Kosovo and with it, a chance for a bit of relaxation with no vehicles left to look after. Finally congratulations to Sig Stevie Sharman and LCpl Paul Hines on their respective engagements, and farewells to LCpl Pete Ashcroft - the very best of luck in civilian life, and to Cpl Adam Harvey on posting to Tac P.

ROVER TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Andy Hill
Tp SSgt SSgt Andy Buckle

The new millennium started for the majority of us on UNTAT in Sennelager with the second UNTAT to follow a week later. Our preparation for deployment was a swift, intensive and cold one with everything the Squadron owned being packed into boxes, vehicles and ISO's. With vehicles from units all over Germany pooled to Hohne, the pressure mounted as the date of the vehicle move to Emden drew closer. With the old Alpha Tp now re-rolled and renamed Rover Tp, we all bundled into cars and headed for Celle for a day out 'Go-Karting'. It was good to see that there are a few budding Michael Schumachers and also worrying that these were outnumbered by Ayrton Sennas! Ask Sig 'Lurch' Wilson what a hairpin is and he'll say it has something to do with girls! We would like to welcome LCpl Stu Codack and Sig Lee 'I'm off to where?' Holt to the Troop - we hope you like hilltops! Finally congratulations to Cpl 'Pants' Underwood and LCpl 'Keanu' Ross on them now wearing their new ranks.

SUPPORT TROOP
QM Capt (QM) Dave Wilson
RQMS WO2 (RQMS) Eric Udell

Due to our impending operational deployment, the Department, along with the remainder of the Squadron stood down for the festive period from 10 December until 10 January, following the usual round of celebrations and bashes. An occasion worthy of note was the department's sherry and mince pies event when our newest boys, Sigs Tug Wilson and Ross Ardley carried off their outstanding performances as both Santa and his Pixie helper respectively - nice tights Ross! On return from Christmas leave, the Squadron had restructured and the QM department is now split under the new ORBAT into Technical Support Troop on the QM(T) side and QM(A) has been engulfed by HQ Support Troop.

Millennium bug faults appear only to have affected personal bathroom scales - all sets, both mechanical and digital, appear to be reading about 4lbs heavier than before Christmas! Return to work was closely followed on 12 January by deployment to Sennelager for UNTAT training- this was welcomed by all who attended and a big thank you to 1RHF who not only took on the admin support but also the training support with some excellently orchestrated scenarios combining comedy and information.

Congratulations go to Sig Bart and Shirley Simpson on the birth of their son in February. A final and special mention must go to Sgt Al 'final leg of career' English who, as always has overseen the preparation of accounts, paperwork transactions, rewrite of the ET and preparation of the MCCP with the same fine detail as always. Al unfortunately leaves the department, Squadron and Army on completion of his colour service shortly after our deployment - we wish you and your family the very best for the future and thanks for all your hard work.

THE ROYAL SIGNALS
ALPINE SKIING CHAMPIONSHIPS 1999
by Sig Paul Wraight

7 Armd Bde made their presence felt at this years alpine ski championships held in Zell-Am-See in Austria. The weather had its say on the first day of racing with almost white-out conditions and minus 15 degrees Celsius temperatures which resulted in cancelling all races that day. The rest of the racing days were clear but still had sub-zero conditions which everyone felt; nevertheless high spirits and enthusiasm made it an enjoyable event in everyone's eyes. The team did quite well, particularly only having three racers and only two days of training prior to racing. Lt Andy Hill started us on a winning streak with a bronze in the Individual Men's Giant Slalom and then to follow was Lt Adam Corkery who gained a Silver in the Individual Men's Slalom. The team also won Silver in the Team Giant Slalom. At the end of the competition the final Corps seedings were announced with Lt Adam Corkery in third place, Sig Paul Wraight in sixth and Lt Andy Hill in nineteenth.

1 MECHANIZED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (215)

BENGAL TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Muir
Tp SSgt Sgt Storey

Bengal Tp arrived back at work after a refreshing leave bright eyed and bushy tailed for a new millennium. Sigs Colling and Lindley were sent on a 432 Commanders Course, and passed with flying colours. Well done to them. Meanwhile all eyes were down in the Troop, as preparation began in earnest for the annual RSIT inspection. Hard work and dedication paid-off as we walked away with an impressive array of gleaming reports. A big pat on the back and congratulations to the whole Troop for such a significant success.

The end of January saw the beginning of a phase of exercises, aimed at ensuring the units battle readiness. Ex Black Swan, Black Triangle, and First Try, all went extremely well, with the exception of Ex Black Triangle, where, due to mechanical failure and bad luck, half of the 432 fleet was VOR'd. Hard work and perseverance saw most of the vehicles back on exercise shortly, and many thanks to all those involved. A tough three weeks on exercise paved the way to a hard-earned week's leave, ready for a brigade exercise in February/March.

Congratulations to Sigs Angus, Clarke, Dickie, Green and Murray on their promotion to Lance Corporal. Also to Cpl Scott on promotion to Sergeant, Lt Muir on promotion to Captain and on his engagement to his lovely girlfriend, Deb, and to LCpl 'Grandad' Renwick on passing his course - second time lucky! We also say goodbye to Capt Muir, SSgt Gosney, Cpl Bird, Cpl Mace, Sig Murray, Sig Griffith, Sig Cattell and LCpl Monger as they are all posted out shortly. Goodbye to Sig Wilson, who has been on attachment to us from Blandford for four weeks, before starting his radio systems trade training. Rumour has it that this will be his first choice posting. Welcome to Sigs Lindley and Podesta, having recently joined the Troop. Goodluck to Sig Giroux on his PTI's course. He has been training hard in front of his mirror, on the sun-bed, and apparently now has shares in Brylcreem.

Also in November 1999, a few members of the Troop were lucky enough to catch a week's sailing, Ex Baltic Dragon, aimed at novice sailors to develop team building skills and cohesion within members of the Squadron. The first day consisted of the obligatory safety briefs and basic crew instruction below and on the upper deck, followed by some practice `bumps and grinds`. With all going well we headed off to our first port of call at Cowes for the introduction sail and to leave behind the kind but ever watchful eye of JSASTC Gosport. With the days being short of light at this time of year we started at 0530hrs finishing at around 1600hrs when last light fell. Sailing took place around the whole Solent areas and covered the whole syllabus of the competent crew course with all the members coping with the not so nice weather we had thrown at us ending the week with a severe Gale Force 9. The highlight of the week was Ricky 'It's rough as ten t*' Kinsella's nerves rattling louder than the wind every time the boat heeled past ten degrees. Week Two the skipper and mate swapped over, the only drama was leaving Portsmouth harbour when we made a turn to windward and the mainsail ripped right through the third reef stitching. We limped back to Gosport, fitted a new one and stayed the first night there. LCpl Andy 'Stugeron' Cathro was the only real casualty as he spent most of the day overboard feeding the fish and Sig 'Chippie 'Oh my god we are going over' Pomfret took the nervousness award for the week, with much the same weather as the week before, severe Gale Force 8 - oh the days of winter sailing.

SABRE TROOP
NORMANDY BATTLEFIELD TOUR

In November 1999 ten Junior NCOs from across the Squadron spent the weekend in Normandy on a battlefield tour of the D Day landings. The tour began with an early start on Saturday morning followed by a minibus drive to Portsmouth to catch the ferry to Le Havre. Whilst on board we made use of the conference room facilities to do some study prior to walking the ground itself. The topics included the Pegasus bridge landings, the 3 Div landings on Sword beach, and the Omaha beach landings as depicted in 'Saving Private Ryan'.

Once in France we drove to Caen to visit the Memorial Museum and to book into our accommodation. The evening was spent enjoying the night life of Caen, with LCpl Dave Cathro and LCpl Phil Chadwick doing their bit to revenge the beef ban by inflicting themselves on the local women. The following morning we visited Omaha beach itself, walking the ground shown in Saving Private Ryan, and also saw the American war cemetery also shown in the film. At the British cemetery in Bayeaux, LCpl Andy Campbell visited the grave of his great uncle who was killed during the landings.

The ferry crossing home on the Sunday night was eventful with LCpls Andy Hill and Neil Smith performing in the children's dancing competition to the bemusement of the onlooking civilians. At the end of a busy weekend everyone had learnt more about the Normandy landing and are busy planning the next battlefield tour location.

12 MECHANIZED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL SQUADRON (218) REAR PARTY

by LCpl Nairn
OC Rear Party Capt Wilson

With the Squadron on deployment to the sunny Balkans, it was up to the rear party to ensure that the transition from an Airborne Squadron to a Mechanised Squadron was as painless as possible. The first job that ensued was the redecoration of Squadron Headquarters for which we enlisted the help of Cpl 'Where's my Zimmer Frame?' Griffiths as his extensive knowledge of painting dated back a few years. By the end of the job, more paint was on the floor than on the walls, much to the delight of Capt Richards. As soon as we thought our work was finished for the six months, we were then tasked with the immediate removal of the squadron from Arnhem Barracks to the old Logistic Battalion barracks, just 300m's down the road. To top this off we only had two weeks for this task, with just six or seven of us capable of lifting and carrying equipment we sent a SOS to the School of Signals.

'Please send us 25 willing volunteers.'
'To Blandford and the men that were sent a big thanks.'

Anything that was not glued, nailed or screwed down was rapidly moved to our new home in the old Log Bn site. Shortly after moving, two of our new buildings decided to flood due to the plumbing being so old! Making it more appropriate for the Marines to be based there, thankfully for us there wasn't too much damage so the clear up was easily dealt with, if still a bit smelly.

Due to quite a few months having passed there have been some postings in and out. Therefore, we would like to say hello to 2Lt Maskell-Pederson who has already managed to get a grip on things. Cpl Jo Biddle who being heavily pregnant at the time still managed to help out in the Squadron office which allowed Cpl Richie Symes to relax even more than normal! Hello also to LCpl Dale Petty who has brought with him the knowledge of ASV 432's (so he keeps telling everybody). Sig Dave Hammond who has joined the MT and has yet to fill in an FMT 3 much to our surprise. Finally, to Sig 'Taz' Swindells who was overjoyed to hear that he was going straight out to Banja Luka from training. Unfortunately, we also have to say goodbye to Capt Wong who joins the AAC (Air taxi service) and also to our QM, Capt Burrows. We would also like to say congratulations to Cpl 'Where's my lump gone?' Biddle on the birth of her baby boy Christopher. We would also like to congratulate LCpl 'I must have left my uniform in Bosnia' Robertson who has had a baby boy Joshua. Also a big slap on the back for Cpl Paul Starkey on his recent promotion. I hope that things will begin to settle down now and we can look forward to a well-deserved break over Easter.

238 (LONDON) SIGNAL SQUADRON

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS
Sqn Comd Maj Steve Hunt
SSM WO2 (SSM) Ewan Hall

The Squadron has entered the new millennium with the future of Chelsea Bks, a little uncertain. The prominent and distinctive Chelsea flats still stand empty awaiting their fate whilst speculation surrounding the remainder of the barracks continues. All said, the Squadron should remain in Chelsea for at least the foreseeable future unless, of course, we go full circle and return to the delights of Hounslow where those with a passion for aircraft spotting can satisfy their hobby until their hearts are content.

After an uneventful Y2K, over the New Year, the Squadron returned in energetic mood after the long Christmas stand down. There were a number of the Squadron who stayed in London for the millennium celebrations down by the River Thames and from all accounts it was a sight worth seeing

The Deputy Commander London District, Brig D. R. d'A Willis CBE paid his initial visit to the Squadron on Thursday 20 January 2000. The aim of the visit was to provide the Brigadier with an initial brief on the role of the Squadron within the Army Communications and Information Systems Group (ACISG), the Squadron's State and ceremonial commitments and the presentation of a GOC 2 Div commendation. SSgt Andy 'No problem' Cannadine was presented with the GOC's commendation by Brig d'A Willis in the Squadron function room immediately after the Camp Commandant's brief. The GOC 2 Div commendation was presented to SSgt Andy Cannadine in recognition of his selfless act following an explosion on the 'Lord Trenchard', a Joint Services Sailing Centre yacht, berthed in Poole Harbour. SSgt Andy Cannadine's prompt action and disregard for his own safety was instrumental in helping to save the life of the yacht's skipper, who had been badly injured in the explosion.

SSgt Andy Cannadine being presented with the GOCs Commendation from Brig D R d' A Willis CBE

The Squadron, as a whole, got off to a good start on the sporting front in 2000. Led by Maj (Tfc) Dave 'Never stop till you drop' Gilchrist the Squadron won the LONDIST Badminton Competition and now entered the Army Champs on 21 February 2000. It looks like the Squadron team has regained its rightful place in LONDIST but our thanks do go out to 36 Sig Regt (V) who have helped us out over the recent months. Our Cross Country team paired up with 31 Sig Regt (V) PSIs to gain a very respectable and somewhat unexpected third place in the LONDIST Cross Country Champs held in early December. Capt Dave Thomas (31 Sig Regt) and much of the team, still reeling from the surprise of qualifying, set out on a rigorous training programme and despite the interruption of the festive season managed to perform extremely well at the Army Champs - well done. The Squadron said farewell to an extraordinary JNCO in Jan - LCpl Mick 'DIY' Breydin. LCpl Breydin was one of those individuals who was capable of preventing Chelsea Bks from falling down with a couple of planks of wood and some nails. His contribution to the Squadron Bruno Bar, the SHQ rogues gallery and many other matters will long be remembered. The Squadron extends a genuine 'thanks' to LCpl Mick Breydin for all his efforts.

MIKE TROOP
Tp Comd Capt (TOT) Bob Nicol
Tp SSgt SSgt Andy Cannadine

The start of December saw the TOT, Capt Bob Nicol, having the odd heart murmur due to the Y2K deadline being almost upon us. Sgt Chris Jacob's reply of, 'Don't worry, only 40 more units to check for compliance - shouldn't take more than a day' was wearing a bit thin with the TOT. Well done to LCpl's Bull, Ford and Sig McGuire for just about finishing on time. The rest of the ACISG section under the watchful gaze of Sgt Chris 'whip cracking' Jacobs, were again rushed off their feet trying to clear the countless number of computer faults that kept cropping up.

The PA team were again off to Sandhurst for the Sovereigns Parade. This time, however, things didn't run quite as smoothly as usual. The generator used to power the PA system decided to pack in halfway through the inspecting officers speech. Luckily the PA team consisting of Mr John Aked, Del Tyrrell, 'Mac' MacArthur, 'J-J' Johnson and with the able assistance of LCpl Bull (such a jack of all trades but...) were well prepared and had alternative sources ready and waiting in the wings. To say that the PA crew are stretched to the limits is an understatement. They even have duties of gardeners at RMA Sandhurst. Mind you the tyre ruts in the Academy's grounds were their own fault.

Finally births, deaths, marriages and promotions. Congratulations go out to Cpl Dean 'have your cake and wear it' Spiers and wife Tracy on the birth of their son Nathan. Also to Cpl Mick Ambler and LCpl Keith 'Sorry I can't do it then, I'm playing cricket for the Army' Ford on their well deserved promotions. On a sadder note, Cpl Gordon McNeillie has left us for a sunnier climate in Cyprus. The block just won't be the same without ABBA blasting out at 4 o'clock in the morning. Finally, congratulations (and thanks for the beers) go to SSgt Andy Cannadine for recently being awarded his GOC 2 Division commendation.

RADIO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Andy Wilson
Tp Sgt Sgt Simon Schofield

Radio Tp welcomed the new Troop Commander after his extended leave from his last unit. Life in Chelsea Barracks has been quiet and we have had time to bull our boots and press our No 1 Dress for the upcoming season. We even had time to say farewell to LCpl Mick 'Del Boy' Breydin as he goes back to the real Army in NI. Mick's farewell speech will be remembered by all for some time to come. The Millennium, in London, was something to see especially for those with quarters at Victoria as it was not too far for them to get home at 6.00am!

RECRUITING, ARMY COMPETITION 2000

For those who don't know and have been living in a hole in the ground or in a box during Jan, the Army has launched a recruiting campaign to entice civilians into the fold. We have had many requests for assistance like acting as Rent a Crowd for AFCO Norwich where we all had to look like civvies interested in joining the Army, whilst the recruiters dished out Operation Kenya Competition applications for the press. The ruse did not fool anyone as the press' first question to Sig Mags 'Sniper' West was 'So, how long have you been in the Army then,' and this was after Cpl 'Steptoe' Storey gave a brilliant account of how his son, Sig Toby 'What's a long wait then' Green, had done a Duke of Edinburgh award and wanted to join the nations finest. We also assisted AFCO Croydon with providing a stand of interesting Signals memorabilia, where interested persons could come and see what the Corps do for a living. You can guess that was far too easy. After a couple of hours waiting we saw only one person. Sig '006 1/2' Parker was then dispatched in his No1 dress to the town centre. His mission was to drum up some business but sadly, after a few phone numbers and wolf whistles from appreciative girls, he was unable to sign any one up. LCpl Daz 'love handles' Pond had even less luck. All he could do was chat up Sgt Schofield's wife and get her to enter the Operation Kenya competition. No £250 this year then!

4 DIV BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIPS 2000

'What on earth were we thinking' went across every ones mind as we arrived for the 4 Div Basketball Championships at Aldershot. Here was our Radio Tp team with blue vests borrowed by LCpl Lee ' White men definitely can't jump' Lester, with various forms of Bermuda shorts and issued trainers. All the other teams had first and second team basketball kits and Gucci Basketball trainers. We thought we would dazzle them with our skill and panache especially with SSgt Si 'Stick Boy' Hadley coming out of retirement, yet again, for one more match. We were, of course, grossly over rating our potential, however, it was like the Harlem Globe Trotters against Eastbourne under 11s - and we were Eastbourne!

OSCAR TROOP

Tp Comd Maj (Tfc) Dave Gilchrist
Tp SSgt SSgt Karen Ripley

Now that the silly season is over and the last remains of mince pies and sherry have been consumed on night shift, mostly, it has to be said, by Cpl Chris Vallance (Val), we can all look forward to the new year with interoperation. After what the last couple of year's have thrown up for us, then no hurdle should be too hard to overcome.

The first hurdle to overcome was the introduction of a new shift pattern (of sorts). This mainly affected the civilian CO4'S and was introduced on 5 January 2000. The change was brought about by the reorganisation of the COMCENs and the loss, over the next calendar year, of all five Sergeants within the Troop either through end of service, natural wastage and in the case of Sgt Karen Ellams, a change of CEQ. The Tp OC, Maj Dave Gilchrist and his ever faithful sidekick CO2 Mr Tony Davis, along with their personal bodyguards, gave a very thorough brief to the civilian staff and union officials in December regarding the changes and how it would affect the civilian staff. The constraints of leave, courses and illnesses will put a strain on the civilian element especially as there will be no military personnel to cover. This did not seem to go down too well but when the probability of rather large amounts of overtime cropped up, the atmosphere changed instantly. Mr Ray Cooney started doing cartwheels over the GOC'S desk. His chief ally, Mr 'Dutch' Holland, rang his wife immediately to tell her that they could now go on holiday to America, Africa, Australia, Bahamas and Bali. All Dutch has to do now is sort out his leave for the next 18 months - in advance.

Since the introduction of the new shift pattern the CO3, Miss Donna Wilson has been inundated with leave applications from everyone trying to get their leave in first. Some people are now looking as far ahead as 2002. She is currently on R + R in the Chelsea and Westminster hospital on the advice of her doctor. The sporting year got off to a flyer for the Troop when they won the Inter Troop badminton competition. The sportsmen and women of the Troop are very eager to get their hands on the trophy this year.

HELLO'S AND GOODBYE'S

The Troop would like to say a fond farewell to Mr Kevin Osborne, more affectionately known as OZ, after almost two years here. His home made cooking will be sorely missed by Sgt 'Chalky' White who is also proving after the Christmas period that you can wear Bergen's on your belly as well as your back. A warm welcome from the Troop goes out to Cpl Annette McChesney who has recently arrived from 16 Sig Regt. Finally, all the military members of the Troop would like to take this opportunity to wish all remaining TELE OP DATA'S around the world all the best for the New Year and good luck in the future, as this time next year there will probably be no more of us left.

243 SIGNAL SQUADRON

ACISG BATTLECAMP – by Sgt Jim Robertson

Exercise Bruno Warrior was the name given to the annual ACISG Battlecamp which this year was organised by members of 238 Sig Sqn (SSgt Si Hadley and Sgt Si Scoffield). The Camp took the form of a comprehensive range package at Hythe and Lydd range complex. The troops were accommodated at St Martins Plain Camp on the outskirts of Folkestone. The training programme began by refreshing and testing the troops on their basic weapon handling skills leading onto some more advanced techniques on the use of the pistol. Also included was some Bayonet work which was an unforgettable experience for all involved. As the week progressed the Exercise troops moved onto the more unusual ranges which Hythe and Lydd have to offer, such as the Street close quarter battle range and the car ambush.

On the Thursday evening the troops carried out a number of leadership tasks on the watermanship area of the Lydd complex, this was followed by a barbecue and a few skits laid on by the Sections. On the Friday morning the Exercise concluded with a round-robin which included the attack on the Skills House, the assault course followed by a pistol shoot and a presentation of trophies and certificates for best fire team and top shots. To all involved, the Exercise was a great success and our thanks go to 238 Sig Sqn for putting together a great two weeks. See you all at Sennybridge in May.

T TROOP NEWS – by Sig Ronaldo Warwick

On Wednesday 19 January 2000 the unit took part in a friendly 5-a-side football match against the Chefs from Tidworth, we managed to field two teams of players Foreman 'Fat Controller' Sanderson, WO2 'No Uniform' Smith, Sgt Allwork 'except on Friday afternoons', Cpl Andy 'No Uniform' Shepherd, LCpl Ian 'Maccum' Pearce, LCpl Oliver 'Never sober' Gray, LCpl Mike 'Gringo Geek' Joyce, LCpl Claire Sheehan, LCpl Ian 'Froggy' Welsh, Sig 'Ronaldo' Warwick and Geraint 'Civvy' Jones. The matches consisted of two seven minute halves. Everyone gave their best with great enthusiasm and good fun was had by all. Of the four games played we did manage to win at least one but we had to admit the Chefs had the better of the day.

ARRIVALS/DEPARTURES

The Squadron would like to welcome four new members SSgt (FofS) Epps, Cpl Daz Dales, LCpl Ian Pearce and last but not least Sig Simon Sydney Hill. We bid farewell to WO2 (FofS) Ty Sanderson who has left the Squadron and the Army for civvy street. Good luck Ty.

CHANGED YOUR ADDRESS?

DON'T FORGET TO LET US KNOW, SO YOU CAN STILL RECEIVE YOUR COPY OF THE WIRE

249 SIGNAL SQUADRON (AMF(L))

Sqn Comd Maj D. B. Hudson
SSM WO2 (SSM) K. Marsh

Since the last time that the Sqn appeared on its own page in The WIRE we have completed a tour of Bosnia, squeezed in some well-earned leave, before re-deploying to Norway on Ex Hardfall 2000. There have been many promotions and postings in and out, of particular note are the selections for promotion of Sgt Phil Render and Cpl (Local Sgt) Mick Hatton - both unexpected, but hoped for, and well deserved. Other promotions are: To Corporal, LCpls Jones, Samuel and Noviss. To Lance Corporal, Sigs Ellis, Welburn, Tierney, Rutherford, Vallance, Sustins, Huggett and Dudley. Congratulations to you all.

THE SQUADRON CHRISTMAS PARTY - by Cpl Clarke

'Got a lot of Moneypenny, fancy a bit of Pussy Galore' So read the orders, following the Rugby, for Bond and his fellow agents to gather at the exclusive XL club. There was gathered a fine array of Secret Agents and Bond 'Girls??' for an evening of fun and frivolity. The cloakroom experienced the first problems - trying to find place for Agent Stokoe's flippers and Agent Samuel's Oxygen tank.

A lot of effort had gone into the costumes, of particular note was Agent 'Austin Powers' Botwright, whose costumes was only eclipsed by his arch enemy Anti-Agent 'Mini-me' Bailey who won best costume, only to be disqualified when he admitted to not dressing up and that he was only there for the free food.

The evening continued to go well and was finished off in fine style (polite cough) by Agent Berry's off the cuff strip - which went a long way towards helping the XL staff clear the dance floor and the rest of the club. Finally, an array of female underwear was found by the club staff. Names inside were Tones, Berry and Scott. Please re-claim at your convenience.

IMPERIAL CANCER RESEARCH - by LCpl Douglas

In the February edition of 'The Wire' we reported on a 24hr fund-raising event for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund that had taken place whilst the Squadron was deployed with 20 Armd Bde in Bosnia. The event involving 36 people (from a variety of units) using step, cycling and rowing machines was well supported by all based in HQ MND(SW). On completion of the event the, normally, hard work of collecting money from those who had pledged it proved remarkably easy.

We returned to UK with a sizeable amount of Deutschmarks which was quickly translated into £2091.53. The next step was to take our 'wedge' and present it to the nearest Imperial Cancer Research Fund Office in Tolworth. For obvious reasons not all of the 36 team could be there to present the cheque. So four members of the Squadron, who had taken part in the event, sallied forth to hand it over. In Tolworth we were met by Mr Simon Pugh, who runs that particular office, and after he had been given a short description of the event we gave him the cheque.

It was by no means the largest or smallest amount ever raised, but every penny was appreciated and extremely well received. The work of charities such as these often goes unnoticed, unless you are unfortunate enough ever to need them. I would seriously consider organising another event after the success of this one. For anybody considering such a thing, it is very easy to organise and extremely worthwhile. Finally, two further cheques arrived in the New Year which brought the final total raised to £2231.55. Thank you to all those involved in the event and those who remained true to their pledges and handed over the cash.

NOVICE SKI AND SURVIVAL COURSE - by Cpl 'Loddy' Jones

On arriving in Norway for the first time my worst fears were realised. There was snow everywhere, it was freezing and I really was going to need the mountain of equipment I had been issued on joining the Squadron. Thoughts like 'It can't be too cold can it?' soon dispersed as I found myself severely underdressed in just a smock and T-shirt. Well you live and learn.

On arrival at Mjolfjell Camp, our home for the foreseeable future, we were issued with yet more kit and these very long items I now know to be skis. The next day myself and my fellow non-skiers met our Military Ski Instructors (MSI). Cpl 'See its easy' Samuel gave us an excellent demonstration which had me thinking 'Well, that doesn't look too hard'. WRONG! I soon wondered why I was sat on my butt in the snow after trying the seemingly simple manoeuvre of standing up.

Sgt 'Tony' McBean - On the skis, now try moving

It was not a total disaster and as the week progressed our skiing ability improved - well sort of. We could now stand up for a short period of time anyway. Moving on from that to a night out was a step up again. Deployed in four man tents, or should I say very small man tents. It was here that we came to understand the phrase 'tent Rhino'. Four people dressed as Michelin men trying to do their admin in a tent designed for pygmies would test the most organised of field soldier. Following our cramped accommodation we moved to the comparative luxury of a ten-man tent. This mini-deployment was topped off by the ice-breaking drills the next day. Cold doesn't even get close.

Cpl Si Upcraft feels the shock of the cold

Redeployment, back to camp and night out in Voss followed. Sunday brought the issue of yet more kit and preparation for the second deployment phase. A night in the pygmy tents was followed by a night in snow-holes. Basically digging all day and all night to sleep in, if you don't mind enclosed spaces. Then, in order to qualify for the second S in NSSC, we moved onto the survival night. We had everything demonstrated from fire starting and brushwood shelters to sheep slaughtering - not popular with me as I'm a Welshman. Essentially all the skills required to survive in the Arctic. It was not that cold as building the brushwood shelters and cutting the wood to keep the very large fire going was enough to keep anybody warm. No sleep and little food meant that everybody was pretty tired by the time we returned to Mjolfjell on Friday morning, as if that wasn't enough we had to take part in a 12km ski race on Saturday, 6km uphill, followed by a mad 6km descent, it was not for the faint-hearted. This was followed by an apparently obligatory toga party at Mjolfjell on Saturday evening. As I write the course has not finished as we are deployed on the Winter Warfare phase of it. I can say that the course has been immensely enjoyable and a worthwhile experience for all.

COLD WEATHER WARFARE INSTRUCTORS COURSE
by Sgt Raybould

The CWWI course is the highest cold weather qualification that any rank can attain whilst serving with 249 Sig Sqn (AMF(L)); and for our sins (or are we just lucky?) myself and Sgt Pete Lawn were put forward to be the chosen ones. Once qualified we would be expected to advise the OC Sqn on all matters of cold weather operations and training. It also allows us to run the Sqn's Novice Ski and Survival Course (NSSC) which is required by all members of the Squadron to enable them to deploy to the Arctic and carry out their role. Having been brought back from Bosnia early to attend this course, it had already got a big tick in the box from Pete and myself. That initial euphoria was short lived, as when we arrived in Norway there was no snow and things didn't look promising for our course. After ten days of struggling by the D/S to stick to the programme, they decided to move us to a glacier near Jondal where we would be guaranteed snow and therefore be able to achieve the training objectives to gain the qualification. Once there we had more snow than you could wish for, however, we then had to put up with winds sometimes in excess of 60 knots. It all seemed a bit like out of the frying pan and into the fire. However, after spending many nights out and every possible chance on skis we had not achieved all the objectives, which left everyone concerned in a bit of a dilemma. It was therefore decided to bring the whole course back on 9 January 2000 to complete the remaining objectives such as ice breaking and snow holes and I'm pleased to say everything went very well. Sgt Pete Lawn and myself are now qualified CWWI's and looking forward to our first challenge, which will be the Sqn's NSSC in February 2000.

FAREWELLS

The Squadron says a farewell to the following people SSgt Dave Whiting who now leaves the Army after completing 22 years Service good luck with your new career and LCpl Nikki Dean who is posted to Arborfield as a 'Gym Queen' congratulations also on passing your PTI Class 2.

PROMOTIONS

Congratulations go to the following Squadron personnel for their recent promotions Cpl Julie Bateman, Cpl Mark Sheath, LCpl Ruth Harkness and LCpl Dave Hunter.

NVQ PRESENTATION TO THE SQUADRON

NVQ Presentation to 251 Signal Squadron at Bicester (L–R): Maj John Oakes, Mr Robert Boreland, Mr Ian Mathews, Brig Foxton, Mr Alan Westgarth, Mr Ernest Spears, Mr Derek Keen

Brig Foxton, Bicester Garrison Commander, visited Bicester COMMCEN (a Detachment of 251 Sig Sqn) on the 25 October 1999 to present four members of staff with their National Vocational Qualifications (NVQ) certificates. Bicester is a very busy COMMCEN whose main customer is the new Defence Logistics Organisation. It has taken the recipients of the award over six months to compile and prepare their submissions for assessment and accreditation. The four COMMCEN staff who received their certificates were Mr Robert Borland, Mr Ian Matthews, Mr Alan Westgarth and Mr Ernest Spear. The recipients who are all communication officers are the first in the Squadron to obtain NVQ qualifications in Operating and Maintaining Telecommunication Equipment at Level 3.

GOSPORT HALF MARATHON IN SUPPORT OF THE BABY TINA APPEAL
by Cpl Sheath

Whilst on night shift in the COMMCEN one Saturday which is not renowned for being the most exciting place in the world I decided after reading an article in Women's Own about the plight of a baby called Tina who had survived a tragic house fire with horrific burns to the body, (in fact over 80%) to raise some money for her treatment which was only available in America. For a while her life was in the balance as her lungs were severely damaged by smoke. With the Gosport Marathon approaching I decided to participate and to get sponsors for the race. The day of the race arrived and I completed the race in a time of 1 hour 45 minutes. Even though at the end of the race I had cramp in both of my legs I felt some achievement knowing the money which had been raised was going to such a worthy cause.

SIGNALS TAKE TO THE SADDLES

11 Soldiers and Officers from 259 Sig Sqn saddled up to take children and adults from a local disabled home horse riding for a day. 20 children and young disabled adults from the Margarita Liasidou Home in Paphos travelled to Happy Valley with their helpers for a fun packed day horse riding with a BBQ lunch at the 259 Signals Jimmy Club to follow. 'This is a wonderful opportunity for the children and adults to do something different and made for a very special day.' said Mrs Ismini Liasidou Saul who runs the care centre, 'They have all had a wonderful time.' 2nd Lt Sarah Covey-Crump organised the event as part of an on going local community relation's project adopted by the Unit. The hugely successful day was made possible thanks to the expertise from the Riding for the Disabled Association who provided instructors and two ponies. Volunteers from the Episkopi Saddle Club also assisted and provided one of their horses. The other members of the team from 259 Sig Sqn were Capt Katie Caie, SSgt Jim Duncan, SSgt Rachel Kidby, Sgt Dave Street, Sigs Wil Le Cras, Andrew Wells, Guy Thomson, Nick Kervell, Sue Taylor and Ronald Fletcher.

101 LOGISTIC BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS & SIGNAL SQUADRON (261)

Sqn Comd Maj Mark Baines
SSM WO2 (SSM) Paul Brown

BACKGROUND

101 Log Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (261) was formed while deployed on Op Agricola during the summer of 1999 as a result of the Strategic Defence Review. The Brigade traces its history back to the D-Day Landing, in Normandy, where 101 Beach Sub Area supported the 3rd British Division landings over 'Roger' and 'Queen' beaches in the Sword Sector. The new communications unit evolved from 604 Sig Tp and was designated as 261 Sig Sqn, which re-activates that Squadron number previously used in Cyprus in the early 1960s. The distinctive Blackadder badge previously worn by 604 Sig Tp is now worn throughout 101 Log Bde. It originated from a logistic base set up during the Gulf War named after the Blackadder TV series.

ROLE

This new independent Signal Squadron supports HQ 101 Logistic Brigade which itself has evolved from the Combat Service Support Group (UK). The formation provides third line logistic support throughout operational deployments and also provides the basis of a Joint Force Logistic Component or a UK National Support Element (NSE) HQ. At present the Brigade includes 9 Sup Regt, 10 and 27 Tpt Regts, 22 and 33 Fd Hosp, 4 Fd Amb and 84 FMed.

ORGANISATION

The new Squadron is currently organised into an SHQ, Radio and Support Tps and will also have a Trunk Tp when new CORMORANT equipment comes into service. The full establishment includes five officers and 135 other ranks and those excellent people in the R SIGNALS MCM Div are now busy filling many of these posts - so get your preference postings in now! Equipped with Landrover mounted VHF and HF radio (including WOTAN equipment for passing data), the unit is already busy taking on exercise, RAAT and sporting commitments.

RECENT ACTIVITY

The Squadron returned from a successful tour on Op Agricola in September 1999. The unit had detachments in Greece, Macedonia, Albania and Kosovo and had a very busy tour, particularly during the refugee crises when great efforts were devoted to building a series of tented camps eg Stenkovic 1 shown on photograph. The Brigade open day in November provided an opportunity for Sgt Pete Mullen and Sigs John Bromhead and Sam Yardley to be presented with some of the first Kosovo medals by DCinC LAND.

Over the next few weeks the Aldershot bars were frequented by most of the squadron, fresh with all of their war stories, not least the mention of Cpl Tim 'Woodlouse' Bishop's new idea of Arctic Warfare.

EXERCISE QUANTUM STRIDE 1999

After a months welcome leave, the squadron returned to work sporting new found beer bellies and empty bank accounts, only to learn that the SSM had organised a Battle Camp for the following week. This kicked off with a 24 hour survival phase, which was enjoyed by one and all, especially Sig John 'the firebug' Bromhead setting his boots on fire, and having to spend the rest of the week with his 'Mark 1' Matterhorn held together with Cam string. (Next year John, take a spare pair of boots.) Onto the next phase, and the unit was split into three sections, which is where the problems began! After being issued with their six-shooters and Stetsons, the three Sections made their way to their harbour locations, with the notable exception of Section 2, who were last seen heading for the M3 under the expert direction of LCpl Tony 'tin-ribs' Willis (Where were you going Tony?)

Over the next three days, each Section was asked to perform various tasks, like moving from one location to another and digging holes! Some of the better Sections were allowed to conduct COP and re-sup tasks, however this caused more problems than solutions, with Section 1 failing miserably to collect their rations on several occasions! After three days of low morale and admin grenades, the three sections met for the final assault. Section 1, led by LCpl Graham Chambers were doing well, up to the point where the enemy opened fire, where it all went pear-shaped - again! Better luck next year lads, see you for the debrief in the pub!

WOTAN DATA RADIO SYSTEM

The unit has been issued with the WOTAN DRS, which has provided many an opportunity for various members of the troop to be sent on the Harris training course. Fat lot of good that did, as our Tech Sgt Col 'The Beer Monster' Bentley and Cpl Ian 'Who?' Galloway have both been prominent by their absence since September! Now, after several attempts to bluff our way through it, we have been tasked to train the RLC and Medic units from 101 Log Bde! (Suppose we better learn how to use it ourselves before March). After a small lesson in the classroom, ably conducted by LCpl Dave 'What's this?' Howie and hindered by 'The Beer Monster', the members of the Troop were deployed on the local training area to test the system. Unsurprisingly, it all went Pete Tong, with Sig John 'the firebug' Bromhead setting fire to one of the PC's, and not one data message being passed. No change there, then! The main effort of the training deployment of the system was to see how quickly the operators could break the kit! Having proved that civvy kit is definitely not 'Squaddie-proof' WOTAN has been left dormant since Christmas but, after a quick dusting off, it returns with a vengeance later this month to educate the RLC, medics and engineers in the fine art of losing comms on HF, an art which, until now, has been the exclusive right of the Corps. No longer will Sporadic E and Sun spots be accepted as an excuse!

EXERCISE WESSEX WARRIOR

Ex Wessex Warrior supporting 1 BW on their TESEX on Salisbury Plain was the next mission for the former fighting 604th. The Exercise started with the Troop's own Tiger Woods demonstrating his ability to swerve a golf ball around his body and knock himself out leading to an entertaining afternoon in the local hospital, well done Sig Lee 'Tiger' Mason. The week progressed with the operators being used as chauffeurs for the staff officers who seemed to expect our Land Rovers to keep up with Challenger 2 racing over the plain at 60kph (nice try Sig Andy 'Wah man' Holden).

OTHER NEWS

As the Squadron grows the OC is entering sports competitions whenever a team can be raised. This began with the Corps Cross Country where Maj Baines, SSgt Dave Wright RLC, Cpl 'Taff' Lean, Sigs Dale Richardson, 'Chopper' Harris and Paddy Grierson achieved a creditable fourth place in the Minor Unit Competion. The girls team press-ganged every available female in the unit including Cpl 'Titch' Gorstridge RLC and Sigs Emma Redfearn and Ruth Kennedy who ran bravely to put the unit on the scoreboard. Congratulations to Sig Gav Holloway getting his first and LCpl 'Simmo' Simpson getting his second. A quick hello to WO2 (RQMS) Jim Alger, Sgt Jim Turnbull, Cpl Taff Lean, LCpl Ronnie Cuthbert, and Sig Carl Conley. Also Goodbye to LCpl John Abbot on promotion and posting to Blandford as SOinC's driver!

As this goes to press Lt Lucy Thirsk is leading an intrepid bunch of skiers in Bavaria and Cpl Bishop is preparing a different set of bold explorers for some seriously wet adventure training in Wales. The Squadron has a series of exercises throughout this year leading up to the Cambrian Patrol in October and a deployment to OMAN scheduled next year.

81 SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

CHANGE OF COMMAND

As a result of SDR, 81 Sig Sqn (V) left the command of 21 Sig Regt (Air Support) on 1 September 1999 after seven years as part of the Regiment. This was a unique unit with 21/2 regular Squadrons and 21/2 TA Squadrons which had worked effectively embracing the 'one concept army', what a pity to go backwards once more. This also ended a long association with the Regiment having supported them in BAOR, on the four clutch airfields since the late sixties. Thank you 21 Sig Regt for your help and friendship over these years.

The Squadron is now under 2 (NC) Sig Bde as part of the Army Communications Systems Group (ACISG). We moved over the short distance to Corsham on 27 September 1999, and we have been made most welcome. As well as continuing our current role, exciting new avenues are opening up and we look forward to them with increased enthusiasm.

CO 21 Signal Regiment (AS) hands over the Squadron flag to the CO ACIS

During our annual planning weekend, we held a small parade on Sunday 28 November 1999, to mark the occasion of our move to 2 (NC) Sig Bde. The parade was held on the square at Basil Hill Barracks, Corsham. Brig S. G. Hughes, Commander 2 (NC) Sig Bde took the salute and presented SSgt Bob Maxted, the Sqn PSI, with his LS&GC medal. He also oversaw Commanding Officer 21 Sig Regt (AS), Lt Col John Terrington, hand over the Squadron flag to Commanding Officer ACISG Lt Col Carsy. The Garrison Padre, Rev M. McKnight, held a short service after the presentation.

SSgt Bob Maxted receives his LS&GC Medal from Brig Hughes

The Squadron's first deployment since the move was 854 Tp deploying to the Falkland Islands to work on a number of projects on Mount Pleasant Airfield (MPA). This was part of an ongoing task to improve and replace the ageing communications infrastructure on MPA. Exercise Falkland Sound was the final deployment of the year for the Squadron, which has already completed valuable work in Germany, Cyprus, Ascension Islands and Gibraltar. The Exercise involved elements of 854 Tp deploying to MPA between 26 October and 18 November 1999. During the exercise the Master of Signals, Maj Gen Sprackling visited both the Squadron and the Joint Communications Unit Falkland Islands (JCUFI). He met two detachments of the Troop that were involved in installing 7.5km of fibre cable around the north of the airfield and took time to talk to all members of the Squadron.

Each day, the Tp SSgt, SSgt Paul Masheter, would ask for a list of predicaments and highlights from the previous day. Labelled as 'Magic Moments' here are a selection: The medical centre staff were overworked taking care of an unexpected ailment. Explanations had to be made in letters home as to how we had packed and worn our thermal underwear, yet managed to get mild sunburn. A new member of the Troop, inexperienced in laying fibre cable was on the fibre cable drum, feeding 2000m of cable into the duct. After 20mins, the det comd asked how much cable had gone into the duct. Reading the scale on the cable itself can identify this. The reply was 'one thousand nine hundred and ninety nine metres'. Laughter followed, as 1999 was actually the date the cable had been manufactured and not the remaining cable length! It wasn't all hard work and a number of trips known as BFT (Beveridge Falkland Tours), were organised by SSgt Beveridge, our Falklands Liaison Officer (FLO). Party 1 followed in the footsteps of the Scots Guards to Mount Tumbledown, not satisfied with the 8km walk they decided to walk to Stanley and finished the trip by visiting the war memorial.

On a trip to Martha's Beach our CTR (Close Target Recce) skills were used to crawl up to the penguins, one of the team narrowly missed getting covered in excrement from a similarity inquisitive penguin with better CTR skills. Party 2 took a trip to Darwin, Goose Green, and then on to San Carlos with a gruelling four hour round trip in the back of a four tonner along potholed and bumpy roads. However, the journey was well worth it for the panoramic views and the visit to the war memorial at San Carlos where so many of our young soldiers lost their lives. When the Troop was leaving there was a presentation to FLO who was overcome by the engraved tankard given in appreciation for all of the stimulating event's organised by BFT plc. Unfortunately, the tankard was dropped during the presentation. However, SSgt Beverage said that he would treasure the dent forever.

With the Army Element nearing the end of its roulement, we would like to thank the purple efforts of the RAF and Navy for a most enjoyable tour of these barren lands. Even with our imminent departure, there are several welcomes to be made. Firstly to the new Ops Offr, Capt Phil Day and then to Asst Ops, Lt 'Tour Dodger' Gunson, filling in for Capt 'Can't Hack It' Nichols who has returned early to Herford. A special welcome is reserved for the most popular man on the islands, 2Lt Bill Calderhead. I am sure his popularity has nothing to do with the fact that Burns Night has just gone and he is one of only two bagpipers on the Island. The past months have seen a scorchingly hot Christmas and Millennium pass with more leave than we knew what to do with. Two whole days is an awful lot down here!

ROLL-OF-HONOUR

SSgt Mal Pavier, Sgt Shaun Arundel, PO Russ Ashmore, Sgt Karen Baker, Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener, Sgt Chris Leader, JT Tony McLoughlin, JT Paul Keating, Sig Matt Rees, LCpl Lenny Lenagen. At 0815hrs on Saturday morning ten members of JCUFI gathered at Heli-ops to take part in the second of the Wandering Atom Walks (aka Wandering/Bimbling Idiots). The purpose of this little walk in the mountains was to reach the summit of Mt Usbourne (the highest peak in the Falkland Islands) and visit the remains of aircraft and vehicles abandoned during the Falklands War. Before leaving SSgt Pavier, told us that the second leg of the walk wouldn't be possible due to an unfortunately early Heli-pickup on Sunday, but this didn't dampen our spirits. We took off at 0900hrs for our base camp on the lower slopes of Mt Usborne, arriving at 0930hrs. We quickly offloaded the bergens and put up the tents then set off on the first leg of our walk. We hadn't even begun when Sgt Chris Leader managed to find a hole to bury his leg in less than 5m from the tents! After the obligatory mickey take we began our climb. From the bottom it didn't look too bad or too far a walk to the summit but we were soon going to find out how wrong we were. The entire trip to the top of Mt Usborne was uphill and not a gentle climb but in most places a 60 to 70 degree slope, which made it murder on the old calves and lungs of those less fit! To make matters worse no sooner had we reached what we thought was the top, we saw another mountain had grown in front of us and we had another section to climb. After the third false peak we finally saw the top which couldn't have come sooner, we had climbed the 2500 feet in an hour and twenty minutes which wasn't bad going. We all signed the book to say that we had survived the climb and joined the list of people to have already done so. From here it was just a case of walking along the ridgeline and admiring the view, that was until we came across a small lake just below the ridge. A number of the more adventurous party members shot off down the hill (literally) backsides to the ground, for a spot of skinny-dipping. The rest of us followed them down with myself and a few of the others eager to follow suit. After recovering from the shock we quickly got out and dressed just in time before Sgt Karen Baker turned up. She quickly disappeared around the corner and went for her own solitary swim before we set off back towards camp.

We reached the valley floor and decided to try and do the second days walk seeing as we had completed the first part in four hours (which included a kip on the side of the mountain for 20 mins) and headed off in search of the wrecks. The first we saw of them was the remains of an aircraft in the distance. After looking around at several rusty remains, posing for photographs and a good rummage around we made our way back to the campsite. For the rest of the evening we sat around our imaginary campfire (no trees here!) telling war stories before we got our heads down for the night. Endex was at 1100hrs on the Sunday which let us have a bit of a lie in before we struck camp and got ready for the taxi (sorry Sikorsky) to come and take us back to MPA and a much looked forward to spell in our beds.

RADCON - by Sig 'CockaRocha' Roche

Firstly, I would like to say a big hello to the new members of the Radcon crew from all the 'Rocketeers'. Their names are Cpl 'Wilf' Williams and Flt 'Joe Pesci' Hamilton, also the 'Rocketeers' would like to say good luck to Cpl 'Austin' Dawson, who has now left us to pursue his career at Blandford. Well it's about half way through the tour with the joint 'All Arms' and the 'Signals', and everything is running as smooth as can be. Since being seen in the eyes of the hierarchy as one of the fittest troops in JCUFI, Radcon decided to enter a team into the 'Pembrook Half Marathon' which was on the Sunday 5 December. It consisted of LCpl 'Lenny' Lenaghen, Tpr 'Nelly' Porter and last of all me, Sig 'CockaRocha' Roche. The day was a standard Falklands day, consisting of high winds, lots of rain and altogether very cold. To show how fit Radcon really was 'Nelly' and I decided to run in boots and combats. The going was tough but everyone finished within two hours with the exception of a certain individual who finished in an ambulance (the author). Although the team came last, I think, Radcon proved that they had the most 'bottle'. It was an exhausting but enjoyable day out.

As you all know when the festive season arrives everyone starts to get silly (even the seniors) and on 21 December the seniors challenged the juniors to a game of football, in which three of the 'Rocketeers' participated. These were Cpl 'Austin' Dawson, Tpr 'Madjock' McCue and Tpr 'Soon-to-be-civvy' Williams. Because Radcon were playing the juniors won the day with a 2-0 score, where both goals were scored by 'Madjock' McCue, or so he says. Christmas Eve saw the next instalment of the football extravaganza with the 'Combined 5-a-side football tournament'. A team was entered from Radcon which consisted of Cpl 'Austin' Dawson, Sig 'Brickybutt' Burrell, Cpl 'OddBall' Collier, Sig 'Ginge' Turner and Tpr 'Soon-to-be-civvy' Williams. Four games were played as a qualifier with the top two teams going through to a final draw. Radcon faced the 'RIC'(0-5 win), 'JSSU'(0-7 win), 'MRS'(0-11 win) and 'Clerks'(0-27 win). With 'Austin' Dawson on form with his Demon right foot and 'OddBall' Collier unstoppable in goal the 'Rocketeers' were on for a dead-cert trophy. Radcon were not allowed to go into the finals because the scores above were made up and Radcon actually got hammered in all four games. Christmas day was next to become a day full of fun. In the morning there was 'It's a knockout' and in the afternoon there was a get together for all JCUFI, which involved a barbecue and lots of beer. The 'Rocketeers' were only able to supply two people for the 'It's a knockout' which were Sig 'St. Helenian' Brydon and LCpl 'Mini-me' Hutchinson. Unfortunately the team that they were in, had trouble getting to grips with the game or so they say, what with 'St. Helenian' Brydon hitting another player's head with a dustbin and some other crazy things happening it was a great competition. After the 'It's a knockout' there was a 'Tug of war' competition and while this was going on the barbecue got underway. There were two teams in the competition, the seniors verses the juniors (seniors were feeling brave again). Two of the junior team members were on loan from the 'Rocketeers'; they were Sig 'St. Helenian' Brydon and Gnr 'Action man' Stevenson. They were tough and ready for the challenge, but unfortunately they weren't quite up to it because the seniors beat the juniors with two straight pulls. After all the fun and games there was lots of food and beer to be drunk with lots of socialising.

On Wednesday 29 December, there was an event that the 'Resident Rapier Squadron' (RRS) had organised called the 'Rockhopper Challenge'. They invited everyone to participate and so the 'Rocketeers' entered a four-man team, which consisted of LCpl 'Cowman' Cowley, Sig 'Ginge' Turner, Tpr 'Nelly' Porter and Gnr 'Vasquez' Boyle. The day was hot and this made the 12km hike hard work for the four 'Rockateers' but they tried their hardest. There were four stands beginning with a First Aid scenario where 'Ginge' had trouble applying the KY jelly to the unsuspecting, injured female (or so his team mates said). The second stand was a falling plate competition where all the team members had to shoot down ten plates in as little time as possible and with as little ammo as possible. Setting the standard the 'Rocketeers' pulled off an excellent score. The third stand was an observation stand and the team had to look in a certain area and locate as many items as possible in a certain time. Unfortunately due to the 'Cowman's' old age he was as blind as a bat and spotted almost nothing. After all the running and all the stands were finished the scores and places were told and the 'Rocketeers' came first (again according to the author who, at best, has an unreliable ability to remember the truth).

On Wednesday night a group from Radcon had the chance to go Go-Carting at the MPA course. There were six of us in total; they were Sgt. 'Bowser' Lawson, Cpl 'Austin' Dawson, Sig 'Brickybutt' Burrell, Sig 'CockaRocha' Roche, Sig 'St. Helenian' Brydon and Tpr 'Soon-to-be-civvy' Williams. The races all started well with the exception of the last qualifier (which happened to have three 'Rocketeers' in it) which was stopped on the first lap due to dangerous driving. After a few qualifiers the top drivers went through to the semi-finals and due to a poor draw the three people that went through were all in the same race. After a flying start Radcon had the first three places and were looking set to get into the final, but because of no team orders the three drivers were not satisfied and started to get competitive. On Lap 4 of a 7 Lap race 'St. Helenian' got a little over excited and forgot to turn the wheel. Because of this she went flying through the tyres and along the grass. Also being a women driver didn't help because she decided to keep accelerating instead of braking. At this stage the other two drivers were laughing that much that they were overtaken by the last place driver. The final eventually started and unfortunately Radcon's hopes were resting on the only player that got through and that was 'Bowser', but after ten laps of racing Radcon were able to keep proud with 'Bowser' coming in Second. There was a podium with a bubbly award and 'Bowser' (being heavy handed) tried to open the bottle using an unconventional method and a wall. The evening was really good and appreciated by everyone. The millennium was the next thing to turn up and unfortunately because I had to work I'm not going to talk about it.

The last thing I am going to talk about is the final senior challenge, feeling brave again they decided to take the juniors on at basketball. The start was drawn out and both teams were unable to score against each other, but after 13mins 'Rocketeer Roche' decided to play for the other team and put it in the juniors basket. After the 0-0 score line was broken it seemed easy to score and at the end of 40 minutes the score was 22-18 to the juniors, so once again the seniors had to settle for first losers.

THE RAFT RACE
ROLL OF HONOUR
SSgt Mal Pavier Sig Ali Moore Potter SAC Paul Redford
Sgt Shaun Arundel Sig Martyn Sig Claire Brydon

Where else to start than at the beginning, so here we go. It was a normal day in the COMMCEN (normal as can be for C Watch) when Sgt Shaun Arundel entered our boudoir to see if anyone was interested in the Stanley Raft Race, so as the old saying 'never volunteer' goes, we volunteered - Dur! The first thing we had to do was decide what we where going to use to build the Raft. After a few ideas bouncing around, it was decided to get in touch with 1435 Flt to see if we could scrounge an old Tip Tank from a Tornado. With the many thanks to 1435 Flt this was acquired, all we had to do then was to get the Tip Tank from 1435 Flt to Gull Pond for a test run, easier said than done!

It took a four tonner and the brute force of the raft crew and Cpl Kev Woodcock along with WOM Louise Evans to complete this little mission. Once at Gull Pond and the Tip Tank was in the water we gave her the name of TITANIC II. We all know the tragic end of the TITANIC, which of course, yes you know what's coming, after much fun trying to get on it and falling off, it sprung a leak, so that was that, back to the drawing board. It was with the hard work of SSgt Mal Pavier and Sgt Shaun Arundel who made and put together a new raft called the 'Unsinkable I' (just classic names we come up with). So back to Gull Pond for Test Two, which was a great success. It was then back to the workshop to put a few final touches to the raft, including a paint job, which Sig Martyn Potter and SAC Paul Redford offered their artistic skills.

The big day arrived. We got to Stanley and were in the water by 1330hrs. Once in the oggin (just for you naval lovers) the fun started, we had a few eggs and a bag of flour, for defence purposes only, then the gun was fired and it was off. We stormed ahead, with the help of SSgt Mal Pavier shouting 'STROKE 1 2 3', which got very boring after the third time, so we came up with a more fitting pace keeping chant, which unfortunately I can't mention. We left all the other rafts sinking or in our wake as we crossed the finishing line. Unfortunately we where disqualified by the judge for having a twin hull raft, which I must add there was nothing in the rules about how many hulls you could or could not have. We didn't let that spoil our fun and celebrating our win.

JCUFI AND B TROOP – A NAVAL VIEW
by WO (Radio Supervisor) Phil Jackson Royal Navy

I arrived here after a four year sentence in COMMCEN Whitehall, where the mundane life of a City commuter was instantly cast aside. As the resident 'Matelot' for the past six months, it has been refreshing to remember that there is still a discipline only the Army can instill in a military environment. Teamwork, comradeship and getting the job done. I cannot help but smile when I hear the USM (WO2 Dave Rook) taking charge of the situation of the moment in the Unit Headquarters. Having lived in combat clothing for the duration of the tour it will seem odd (for about a minute) returning to Naval uniform from April 2000 when I join HMS Invincible. I will have a job explaining the only time is 'one two three one' to my new Commanding Officer. The words 'weak and unmilitary' or 'lightweight' will never be the same!

JCUFI Bravo Tp is Tri-Service to the core, with RN, RAF and Army communicators working side by side and, more importantly, learning of each other's procedures. It has had Cpl Cathy McDonald working as DSO of her shift, a job she has carried out exceptionally well; Sigs 'Red' Stables and 'Taff' Evans (who could not keep the secret that they got engaged on Millennium Night), 'Potts' Potter and Ali Moore all getting to grips with the Naval Shore Telecommunications Network message handling system, and, eventually liking it. 'Red' managed a spot of sea time on HMS Dumbarton Castle, affectionately known as 'Bouncy Castle' - something to do with the weather. She even profited by a trip to Montevideo - more time off…. 'Potts' spent more time running up mountains or around Stanley than in work. Can't say I blame him! COMMCEN life in the Falklands can be fairly quiet at the best of times as the system is predominantly accessed by the end user. There are relatively few addressees that require a paper copy. It speaks for itself when a MINIMIZE was enforced for the duration of Exercise Cape Petrel - only 12 signals were passed to the COMMCEN for onward relay!! The COMMCEN also acts as a relay station for HM Ships and Royal Fleet Auxiliaries at sea, so the RN operators have taught the Royal Signals (and the RAF) personnel how to cope with maritime traffic. 'Jointery' was a reasonably new term to me, but we have proved it can and does work. Each service has its whim, but it is without doubt that jointery is here to stay. Notwithstanding the principal tasks we are here to carry out, it was a pleasure to see all ranks of all three Services enjoying themselves on a 32-mile sponsored event from Goose Green to MPA last November in aid of Children in Need. We didn't get a mention on TV, but it didn't really matter because we all knew that we had achieved a never-to-be-repeated fun event that raised a substantial amount of dosh.

In honesty, and on a personal note I will not miss the land mass of the Falklands. I will, however, miss the people from the top down, that made JCUFI August 1999 - February 2000 what it was. Bearable and enjoyable. My personal thanks goes to those SNCOs (they know who they are) who turned an unfit, ageing Warrant into someone who could eventually say 'I feel better for that'. Fingers crossed, finance permitting and the strike of a pen from the CO, a few members of 1(UK) ADSR will be able to join HMS Invincible later in the year, helping out with the comms during an Exercise - I can't say where - some of you might get jealous. That's JOINTERY!!!

CHARLIE TROOP
Tp Comd Lt L. J. Henderson
Tp SSgt SSgt M. Pavier

Since getting to the Falkland Islands, Charlie Tp has participated in many morale boosting social events. These included the Charlie Tp tour meal at the local restaurant, Ronokes, on 14 December. Most of the Troop attended as well as a few waifs and strays from the rest of JCUFI. The smokers were anti-socially separated at one end of the table. The meal began with much rejoicing from the fat boys, who knew that it was an 'all you could eat' affair and everyone ate heartily. Yet another successful night! Another outing took place at the new XL bowling alley on 23 December due to a power outage at JCUFI lines. The joint efforts of UHQ and Charlie Tp comprised of four teams of varying numbers. The quality of the contenders was of such a wide ability that the scores ranged from the high to the unbelievably low. Each team was given two games in which to prove their skills, and most improved with practice. Special mention goes out to Cpl Loates on his fine winning total, and also SSgt Mal 'Can I use the kiddies gutter rails?' Pavier on his gallant attempts to hit those elusive pins. A fun time was had by all. Thanks to all those concerned, who arranged and organised all the aforementioned events, and lets hope Charlie Tp can organise a few more in the Millennium, so more tales can be revealed in the next copy of The WIRE…

STANLEY RELAY RACE 9 JANUARY 2000
by Sig Chris Beazley

It was on Sunday 9 January that we all gathered outside the MPA guardroom ready for the start of the MPA to Stanley Relay Race. It seemed that luck was on our side as the weather had come to our assistance. The sun was shining and the wind was behind us all the way. Plus we were going to get a top three place due to there only being three teams. Our JCUFI B team consisted of WO2 (USM) Dave Rook, SSgt (UQMS) 'Chalky' White, Sgt Andy Collins, Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener, Cpl Louis Cleary, Sig Chris Beazley and Sig Matt Rees.

We were a little worried about the task ahead of us. 35 miles is a long way! Not to mention getting over the night before. Our team Strategy was easy, run for 10 min and then change over to the next mug. The dubious honour of starting came down to Sgt 'Kitch' Kitchener. He had the job of at least keeping in touch with the other two 'racing snake' teams. All the changes went along very smoothly with some really good times being put in by all. The miles were steadily being eaten up but the gap was still quite a large one. Stanley was getting closer by the minute. We all managed to fit in three legs each before the finish. It was decided to cross the line together in true 'Team Spirit' fashion finishing with a time of 3hrs 34min, that is an average of 6min 5sec per mile. It looked a bit like 'The Magnificent Seven Run Again'. Just in time for beer and birthday cake provided by the Stanley Running Club. A great effort was put in and a great day was had by all. We can all now say that we had the third fastest time ever in the MPA to Stanley Road Race.

Congratulations are due to the JCUFI A team consisting of Maj Chris McIntosh, SSgt Mal Pavier, FSgt Wiseman, Cpl 'Woody' Woodcock, LCpl 'Lenny' Lenaghen, Sig Martyn Potter and Sig 'Murf' Murphy, who won the race in an earth shattering time of 3hr 7min.

COMSEC MONITORING TEAM (UNITED KINGDOM)

ARMY

OC Capt Kenny Kendrick
YofS SSgt (YofS) Al Campbell

'IT'S GOOD TO TALK, EVEN BETTER TO LISTEN'

The Team is based in Warminster and is made up of an OC, Yeoman and six operators. The Team's mission is to provide COMSEC training and support to Land based units, this is achieved by monitoring insecure communications and back-briefing on exercises, courses and presentations. The Team is just completing a three month UK road-show. If you were not one of the lucky ones to receive the presentation then give us a call, it can be arranged. The Team are fortunate enough to do a fair bit of travelling and get involved with some strange people doing some strange work.

BRITISH ARMY TRAINING UNIT SUFFIELD CANADA
by Cpl 'Scotty' Hoffman

The luxurious location of BATUS was visited four times throughout 1999 by various members of the Team. The 4-man team which deployed on the August 1999 exercise comprised of Capt Kenny Kendrick, Sig 'Colonel' Krikorian, Sig Kurt Muller (not German - honest!) and myself. After enduring the long 9-hour flight to Calgary and the equally laborious 3-hour drive to Suffield the Team was ready for action. It started with a PT session at half six in the morning conducted by the Boss, (he has lost his marbles). A couple of days were spent getting the obsolete equipment working and scrounging for a generator that could not only be lifted by only two men but also that actually worked, and of course more running and PT. This was then followed by seven days of communications monitoring which proved both successful and beneficial for both the training Battle Group and ourselves. Life on the Canadian prairie was made bearable with all of our creature comforts, however, one member of the team preferred the front of the Landrover to the tent. (He is the oldest member of the deployed team but no names - no running). After completion of the exercise, whilst the boss did his de-briefs, we all cleaned and packed the kit ready for the next deployment in May 2000. A couple of days in Calgary visiting the local attractions preceded a 9-hour flight back to rainy UK. Another deployment successfully completed. Roll on Medman 2000.

HER MAJESTY'S SHIP OCEAN - by LCpl 'Renne' Stuart

Late September 1999 I began my two month cruise (deployment) around the Mediterranean sea with the Fleet Electronic Warfare Support Group (the Royal Navy COMSEC Team). The first leg of the trip was somewhat strange for the Navy in that it was a 36-hour drive to meet the Navy's newest Troop Carrier, HMS Ocean, which was docked in Marseilles. After a few days exploring the public houses of the city the ship set sail (a nautical term) for Alexandria in Egypt to take part in a multinational exercise 'Bright Star 1999'. This involved 40 Commando Royal Marines doing various things nautical and indeed saw the Commandos doing various things on land. They also practised procedures with forces from Greece, Egypt and the old favourite the US of A. Monitoring was conducted of HF, VHF and UHF nets, this was to determine how much exploitable information was given away in clear. After four weeks at anchor in Egypt working 12-hour days it was off to Marmaris in Turkey for some well earned R&R in a 4 star hotel. One week and a huge hangover later it was time to set sail for Istanbul and take part in a short exercise. This again involved elements of the Royal Marines doing nautical operations with the COMSEC monitoring team listening for any breaches of security. At Endex the Team deployed to Istanbul for three days shore leave to see the sights. It was then on to the final destination of the cruise (deployment), Piraeus in Greece. The journey involved the practising of Action Stations and the defence against air attacks. Finally all the exercises of the trip had finished we were let loose in Greece. With Athens only ten minutes away a good night was had by all. The cruise (deployment) came to an end and in good Navy travelling tradition I flew back to UK courtesy of the RAF. Back to reality in Warminster. My thanks to the Royal Navy for a good cruise (deployment) and the Team look forward to more in the future.
(Boss's note: This was the third deployment onto a Royal Navy ship of a Team member since February).

COMMUNICATIONS ELECTRONIC SECURITY GROUP (CESG)
by Sig 'Colonel' Krikorian

In recent months the Team has supported CESG on a number of tasks. This has involved members of the team living in hotels in large towns and cities around the country, it's also meant living in the field as well. (Why do CESG don black woolly hats in the field'?). The nature of the work is unmentionable but like any COMSEC task it involves round the clock monitoring of communications. The tasks can sometimes be outside the normal scope of work of the team and have been and no doubt will continue to be interesting and challenging,

EXERCISE WESSEX WARRIOR - by Cpl Iain Duncan

The Team are committed to supporting the Battle Group Training Unit which in turn conducts Ex Wessex Warrior at least eight times a year. The Exercise is a free play battle of wits between the resident Combined Arms Training Centre Battle-group and the Battle-group being tested on the Exercise. The Team monitor a number of missions and any information gained is debriefed to the SO1 BGTU, who in turn debriefs the BG Comd. This has meant the Team becoming very adept at analysis and tracking the passage of information across the BG. A recent development was the Team deployment in support of the Coy Battle-runs which take place prior to Ex Wessex Warrior. One chilly night in early December the three Team members deployed, Capt Kenny Kendrick, Cpl 'Scotty' Hoffman and LCpl 'Renne' Stuart were either in bed sleeping or on shift. The OPFOR arrived and mistook the Team vehicles for BG Main HQ. After a rather one sided fire fight which involved Cpl 'Scotty' Hoffman leaping around the inside of the tent in a rather animated fashion whilst still in his sleeping bag (dodging thunder-flashes apparently), a rather menacing voice politely asked the Team to step outside the tent. Cpl 'Scotty' Hoffman duly ordered LCpl 'Renne' Stuart to go outside and find out what was happening, meanwhile the Boss was still in his sleeping bag in fits of laughter as 'Renne' piled down the stairs out of the vehicle. LCpl 'Renne' Stuart opened the tent flap and disappeared at a great rate of knots before he had chance to explain who he was. The Boss by this time had regained his composure and a few words reverberating from his sleeping bag had the enemy retreating to find the exact location they were meant to be at. Needless to say all three of them survived albeit with a few injuries. The Boss with aching ribs, Cpl 'Scotty' Hoffman with aching dancing feet and LCpl 'Renne' Stuart with aching pride. The Coy Battle-runs and Ex Wessex Warrior continue to produce some enlightening results, continue to give the younger operators a valuable insight to Combined Arms Operations and keeps the equally young OC on his toes!

EXERCISE ULU RAJAH - BRUNEI - by SSgt (YofS) Al Campbell

The Team were tasked to provide COMSEC support to 2 RGR on Ex Ulu Rajah, nothing exceptional in that except that it was in Brunei, Yahoo. After suffering the usual round of injections three members of the Team deployed to Brunei in November. Accommodated in Medicena Lines, Seria, the home of the Training Team Brunei proved to be a lot more comfortable that being in Sittang Camp with open sided buildings with no air conditioning and mutant mosquitoes. The Team passed the first few days doing admin and conducting a COMSEC awareness presentation, it also involved being taught how to play volleyball to a Gurkha standard and drinking Tiger beer, not to mention devouring vast amounts of Aludam (spiced potatoes). Cpl Iain Duncan enlarging his ever expanding waist line some more. Phases 1 and 2 passed off without incident and then came the time to deploy into the jungle. We were duly dropped off courtesy of the AAC onto one of the highest features of the Labi Jungle. The AAC informed us that they would be back later to drop off the Gurkha RRB. We set about building bashas and erecting hammocks. Cpl Iain Duncan having to set his hammock six feet above the ground, by the time he got in it, it cleared the deck by all of six inches. Evening came and still no sign of the Gurkha RRB. Mid-morning came and still no sign of the RRB, this called for drastic action. Yeoman 'Magellan' Campbell and Sig 'Colonel' Krikorlan set off for the OPFOR RRB which was about 2kms down a well established track. Anyway after a message was sent back to the HQ the RRB arrived some hours later, complete with the crew and five very bedraggled chickens. You've guessed it, this was going to he dinner for the next five nights. The Team were well located to monitor 2 RGR using an improvised antenna called the 'Hutan'. The Gurkhas use this extensively during any jungle deployment and it proved to be an excellent receive antenna during our deployment, needless to say I have fetched one back to UK to have a fiddle. Ex Ulu Rajah was a productive and enjoyable deployment for members of the Team and we hope this has proved the flexibility of the Team, always ready to deploy anywhere around the world the more exotic the better of course and I may even let the Boss do the next one, if he is still young enough to travel!!! Many thanks to all in Brunei for their hospitality especially the QM, Capt Campbell (no he is not my dad).

BOSS'S FOOTNOTE - by The Boss

As you will appreciate the Team get up to many adventures, some involving military agencies and some civilian, I know that very few of you Operators out there know of our existence. It is a worthwhile job, you get face-to-face with many varied audiences and get to put in some air miles at various times of the year. I have three soldiers who are due postings in the coming year, volunteer to join us you will enjoy it, but please get a C+E licence first. Interested? Call on 943812232.

JOINT SERVICE SIGNALS UNIT
RAF DIGBY

SITUATION GENERAL

Life continues at its usual frenetic pace here at Digby. We have just had the pleasure of undergoing a Unit-wide Reorganisation, and although the cynics amongst us may consider it re-inventing the wheel things seemed to have settled to some level of normality. We are now also in the proud possession of a new Army head honcho as well. Lt Col Stu Sharman arrived from 14 Sig Regt and has taken up the post of Chief of Staff. He has swiftly dropped into the Digby routine by ensuring he is never in his Executive suite office, but leaves an impressive mess on his desk to give the impression he is at least in the building.

1 SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Calum Clark
Sqn CoOrd SSgt Richie Maddock

The Squadron has changed significantly due to the Unit reorganisation, with lots of coming and goings. Congratulations go to Sgts Jon Simpson, Paul Waters and Allan Martin on their selection for Supervisor Radio training. Though there is a general feeling that Sgt Simpson will have to seriously improve his social (drinking) skills if he is to successfully pass the course ! The most important outcome of the re-org was the creation of the most Gucci office in the world EVER! The 1 Sqn Flight Commanders office now rivals the CO's for its sheer level of plushness. The reasoning behind such a lavish work environment (plastic plants are en route I'm assured) is still unclear. The duty rumour is that WO2 Phil 'Old git' Sandford recently returned from overseas, is feeling his age and couldn't possibly work in a normal office. Apparently he honestly requires an ergonomically designed desk the size of a tennis court and a reclining leather chair with built in massage function for his bad back, hmmm yes and you also have lots of hair left as well...

Last but obviously-not least, a loud sigh of relief was heard when the Sqn finally got rid of Lt Stu 'Lord Lucan' Whittley, who is posted to 2 Sig Regt. He did manage to squeeze in a few goodbye drinks (and even bought a few) between returning from another dodgy trip abroad and disappearing off to play yet more Corps rugby.

C Watch SSgt Rob Hare

The reorganisation of the Unit resulted in the Watches coming under the umbrella of two Flights, with A Flt looking after A and C Watch. No sooner had the reorganisation taken place and before individuals had a chance to get to know each other, the festive season descended and various functions were hastily organised. A Watch descended on the Sheriff's Lodge in Nottingham and had a superb evening drinking mead, impersonating Robin Hood and basically celebrating Christmas in true medieval fashion. C Watch opted for a more sedate function at Sleaford Golf Course, courtesy of SSgt Rob Hare, who is a member of the Club. He assures us that no discounts were offered. Needless to say, the 19th hole was incredibly well used

TRAINING FLIGHT - by Cpl Dusty Miller

OC WO1 Paul Skeith

It's been a long time since this department submitted any WIRE notes, and as is typical of the Army, the 'New Boy' in the department has been lumbered with the job. So who are the personalities that make up the Trg Flt. WO1 Paul Skeith is still in overall charge, but is away skiing (RAF Skiing Championships ... Hrmphh!) The perks of being the man in charge eh? Flt Sgt Phil Curtis, constantly busy, sorting out NVQs for the lads and lasses within the unit. SSgt Frank Dalton can always be seen at his computer (trying to find out how to turn it on, and when he does, who's got the record at pinball). PO Jeff 'Yank' Harrison looks after the colonials at Digby (when he tears himself away from Solitaire) and Sgt Mark 'Chad' Chadwick is currently away penguin spotting. A quick mention to CT Clive Stevens, Sgt Sim Morley and Cpl Pete Best who are much in demand instructing the various computer systems here at Digby. Flt Sgt Martin Tomlinson (now a ripe old age of 52) Sgt Neil McQuoid and Sgt Sue Wright are making sure the various trades at JSSU keep up their skills. A fond farewell goes to Cpl Eric Herron on his promotion, and posting to 2 Sqn. I'm pretty sure that Sgt Sim Morely is missing Eric's vocabulary. In the form of a replacement, the department welcomes Cpl 'Dusty' Miller from GDT.

4 SQUADRON – by WO2 Mark 'Squirrel' Jordan

Sqn Comd Maj Denis Weir

4 Sqn has also fallen under the Unit reorganisation, leaving us with a cadre of nine people in UK, with 60 plus deployed on Operations at any one time. The OC has been gallivanting about, visiting 'his' detachments allegedly spreading wellbeing and bonhomie. However, his most recent 'visit' resulted in him sunning himself on a beach for two days, while the guys he was supposed to be visiting were snow-bound. The 2IC, Capt Sam Harrild, is busy preparing for her JCSC (and meeting dashing Cavalry Officers) along with running ops and the wives club, though not necessarily in that order. Anyone good at essays? Our Squadron action man, Cpl Matt Collins, is impressing 'madamoiselles' in Val d'Isere with his skiing and snowboarding prowess, having escaped the confines of Digby yet again.

We all enjoyed our Xmas 'do' in Lincoln at which Cpl Paul Randle played the part of 'Widow Twankey' at the Chinese restaurant he had booked for us. SSgt Danny O'Brien, between bouts of resettlement, has been manfully administrating all nine of us, aided and abetted by LCpl Gary Zelnis, who has recently been making a bid for stardom by representing his AGC at Basketball.

The Training element of the Squadron headed up by SSgt Mark Finch and Sgt Tas Wake have been very busy assisting our latest arrival Capt Charlie Roberts, who is heading up a quick reaction team, ready to be deployed anywhere world-wide at a few days notice. At the moment, the team is moving vehicles in foreign countries for repatriation to UK. We welcome WO1 'Bear' Kelly to our select gathering.

LOGISTIC SUPPORT GROUP (LSG)

QM Capt (QM) J M Standen
RQMS WO2 (RQMS) 'Fluffy Teddy' Dalton

The LSG is a department combining the QM's dept, MT and RAF stores, which provides the total logistical support to a Joint Service Operational unit. The key word is flexibility, an attribute that soon becomes second nature and the phrase improvise, adapt, overcome takes new meaning. We have gone through much turmoil and changes in the 18 months since the unit was formed; a formation of a jointship, move of squadrons and numerous last minute notice Operations. However, we the 'loyal' of the LSG battle on, ably led by Capt 'I'm just off on another exotic holiday, lads' Standen. In recent months there has been much to celebrate, the arrival of Sigs 'Arfa' Daley and 'Sicknote' Hinchliffe, from our School of Excellence, along with the arrival of Sgt 'Bill em' Ellis our RLC attached from BOD Donnington, the posting of LCpl 'BAOR Champion' Sherriff and subsequent promotion and the promotion of LCpl (now Cpl) 'RQ's son' Edment.

Now that we are all refreshed from our Christmas break and that the only Millennium bug that was encountered was of the flu variety, we can look forward with glee to what the year has to offer. With deployment, exercises and adventurous training in the offing, many questions have to be asked, for instance will Cpl 'Charlie' Chaplin be able to make it through the year without setting fire to himself? Can Cpl Kev Johnson's jalopy make it through the six months he has got left in the Army? Will Cpl Craig Edment's arms grow longer, or his pockets shorter, so he can get a round in? Can WO2 (RQMS) Russ Dalton get yet another medal by instalments? How many exotic holidays will the QM, Capt John Standen, be able to fit in? The most burning question of them all, will Sig 'Arthur' Daley go anywhere without getting lost? We will have to wait for the answers. We welcome back Sig 'Arthur' Daley from his detachment in Bosnia, that is if he manages to find us, Cpl Dave Ellis from his detachment in the sun and say 'have a good one' to SAC 'Clippo' Clipson on his forthcoming detachment to Turkey.

OC Capt Charlie Roberts
Tp SSgt SSgt Maria Lester

On arrival at JSSU (D) in October, Capt Charlie Roberts was faced with the prospect of forming a new tri-service mobile contingency force. The emphasis was to be on military and driver training, as many of the operators may not have worked with Landrovers and 9 x 9 tents. All this was to be achieved in three weeks, but fortunately a lot of work had been completed by the Training CoOrd team led by SSgt Mark Finch. The new team formed up on the first of November to under go two months of intensive training. The team was a model of 'jointery' with a full range of beret colours. The package was kicked off with a week's military training, covering the basic Det skills required. This was an eye opener for some that had not had to leave the confines of the office since completing basic training. Most learnt a lot and it was a chance for others to brush up on their field skills. December provided a chance for the team to deploy to theatre to pick up some now redundant vehicles. In addition, the team got involved in 'lending a hand' to the Troop, including the installation of six new port-a-loos and a new rubbish pit. We were also able to help out when the main generator failed in the middle of the night during a snow blizzard - not something I really wanted to get out of bed for! Other than that it provided an opportunity for SSgt Maria Lester and JT David Mowbray to shop at every EFI and PX in theatre. On our safe return to JSSU (D) we then had to start the planning for collecting the vehicles from Marchwood. The training period has now finished and the members of the team have returned to their parent Squadrons, leaving Capt Charlie Roberts behind, with a small team to plan the new and improved training package for the next team which forms up in March.

ROYAL SIGNALS ALPINE SKI CAMP

The ski season has again started early for members of the Royal Signals and the British Army Ladies Ski Team (BLAST). Approximately 40 skiers and 24 snowboarders gathered at Zell am See, Austria, for the eleventh Royal Signals Alpine Ski Training Camp and Championships over the period 20 November - 17 December 1999. Despite the heavy operational commitments over recent months, it was pleasing to see such a healthy turnout with nine units being represented. It was a particularly commendable effort by the team from 20 Bde HQ and Sig Sqn (200) who attended the Camp despite only having returned from Bosnia four days previously!

Under the organisation of Sgt Dom Graham, the snowboarders joined the Camp for the first time this year. After a short training phase, they held the inaugural Royal Signals Snowboarding Championships on the slopes of the Kitzsteinhorn Glacier. The Kitzsteinhorn Glacier offers the guarantee of snow and skiing but with the penalty of some severe winter weather conditions. Temperatures as low as -20°C and strong winds were regularly encountered, nevertheless enthusiasm and high spirits ensured that trainers and trainees enjoyed the challenge.

The now well established Ski Training Camp and Championships were run very smoothly by SSgt Andy Brown and his team of trainers. The three week Training Camp allowed all the skiers to substantially improve their skiing techniques. The fourth and final week was taken up with the Corps Championships with racers competing in both Slalom and Giant Slalom disciplines. Congratulations to Cpl Tony Orange of 16 Sig Regt for winning the Men's Alpine Combination title, Lt Fiona Stewart of 14 Sig Regt (EW) for winning the Ladies Alpine Combination title and 16 Sig Regt for winning all the team awards.

Members of the Winning 16 Sig Regt Team

Finally a special mention to SSgt Andy Brown who is currently in his last few months in the Army. He has been a dedicated winter sports athlete within the Royal Signals for many seasons and during his career has been the Army Alpine Champion twice. The Corps and the Army ski scene will lose a great character and competitor when he leaves the Army in February 2000. However, as a second career he plans to coach aspiring ski racers professionally, so if we want his expertise next year we may need to pay him! Many thanks SSgt Andy Brown for all your hard work, over the years many skiers have benefited from your knowledge, experience and talent. The Royal Signals Alpine Ski Camp will be held next year in Zell am See over the period 20 November - 15 December 2000. Skiers and Boarders are welcome at any time over that period and those who are interested in attending should contact:

SNOWBOARDING

SIGNALS SNOWBOARDING CHAMPIONSHIPS ZELL AM SEE, AUSTRIA 3-11 DECEMBER 1999

The first ever Royal Signals Snowboarding Championships were held at the Austrian resort of Zell am See on the 3-11 December 1999. This year the competition attracted 25 competitors from the Corps. It was the first time that snowboarding had been introduced into the Royal Signals Alpine calendar, a year after the first Army Snowboard Championships. As snowboarding is a new sport within the Army, it was important to encourage new soldiers to take up the sport. The amount of first time snowboarders at this year's camp was 15. The rest of the competitors were made up of people who had either been on holiday to snowboard, or had done a few days dry slope tuition.

The journey to Austria started with a dreaded P&O crossing from Dover to Calais in Force 9 winds. Most of the competitors felt a little worse for wear once they arrived in Calais. All minibuses then made their way to Zell am See where they were met by camp organisers Maj John Dakin and SSgt Andy Brown. The teams arrived some 21 hours after setting off from the UK. The week of training for the snowboarders involved novices completing four full day's tuition. Rip Star Snowboard School in Kaprun supplied tuition. Race Day was to be on Thursday at the Glacier in Kaprun. Course designer was none other than the British and Austrian team snowboard coach.

Having a breather – Zell am See

Some of the natural novices during the first few days included Sig ' I like wearing ladies boarding jackets' Buyers 37 Inf Bde, Sig Thomas 11 Sig Regt and Sgt 'Tibsy' Tibbetts JCU (NI). Most of the novices were quick to pick up the moves through some excellent tuition by instructors Sven and Michael. The hardest part of the week for some individuals was learning all the snowboarding terminology. Crashing was mandatory for the first few days while people were getting used to the basics of turning and stopping, Many having trouble with the latter. After Day Two, all the competitors were bruised and battered but the spirit in the camp was still high.

Day Three of training saw the group venture from Zell am See to the Kaprun Glacier for their first introduction to the dreaded T-Bar, reported to be one of Europe's biggest and longest. It proved to be a real tester for the novices and some intermediates. Sgt 'Cindy' Mellor, 37 Sig Regt, found this T-Bar just too long becoming one of its victims just ten metres from the top on more than one occasion. Due to censorship her words cannot be published. For many people it was the first time they had been on a glacier above 12000ft and from the top the views were outstanding. Day Five was race day and conditions were not in our favour, winds threatened to cancel the race and it was decided to get the first run underway as soon as possible. First person to tackle the course was Sgt 'Dede' Watts 233 Sig Sqn; his first run time of 35.32 was the benchmark for the rest of the competitors to beat. After the first run some of the novices looked like they might spoil the party Sig Elston and Cpl Pritchard both 222 Sig Sqn placing high up the order with excellent first run times. Leader after the first run was LCpl 'Ros' Pierson 21 Sig Regt closely followed by Sgt 'Dom' Graham 11 Sig Regt. Sgt 'Pam' Mitchell 11 Sig Regt leading the female novice category.

By now, the weather was setting in and the winds were picking up. This caused problems with the electronic timing system by setting it off all the time; this slowed proceedings up a little with people having to run again. All competitors managed to improve on their first time runs, this was pleasing as it showed personal improvement. The battle for First place was all but over, when; LCpl 'Ros' Pierson managed an outstanding time of 27.35 for the second run. The battle for second and third was now a three way battle between Sgt 'Dom' Graham, Lt 'Beer monster' Kemp 259 Sig Sqn and Sig 'Johno' Johnson 3 (UK) Armd Div. In the end, it was only two seconds splitting the three of them over two runs with Sgt Graham taking Second and Lt Kemp Third.

Novice honours went to Sig Elston, with Cpl Pritchard in Second and LCpl Perrin Third, all three having excellent first and second run times. All proved that after a week's tuition they could compete well with the intermediate snowboarders. In the afternoon, a Dual Slalom course was designed for people to go head to head against each other.

This proved a good way to settle some grudge matches between individuals. One of the best matches was between Cpl 'Burton' Cattle 11 Sig Regt and Sgt '007' Doak 264 Sig Sqn. The final score was 2-1 to Cpl Cattle but we all feel this rivalry has a long way to go before things are fully settled between the two. The Dual Slalom races have now been introduced into the World Cup Snowboard events and it is planned to introduce this type of event in time for next year's competition.

All snowboarders thoroughly enjoyed the week, and all thought the training on offer was well put together by the snowboard school. All competitors have requested to be entered into next year's camp to improve skills they have already learnt. If this is so then snowboarding within the Royal Signals looks like blooming. The next step, for those who were selected, was to represent the Royal Signals at the Army Championships on 22-27 January 2000. Selection for the Army snowboard team took place at this competition. Overall the week was a great success and judging by the sport's popularity it looks like snowboarding within the Royal Signals will only grow from this. It is planned to run the competition at next year's Royal Signals Alpine Championships. If anyone is interested in learning how to snowboard or would like information about Royal Signals Snowboarding they should contact Sgt Graham at Blandford Camp Ext. 2585.

BRITISH ARMY SNOWBOARD CHAMPIONSHIPS STUBAI GLACIER AUSTRIA 22-29 JANUARY 2000

The annual British Army Snowboard Championships were held at the resort of Stubai, Austria over the above dates. This year saw nearly 80 competitors competing at both intermediate and novice level in both Inter Corps and unit competitions. After a very successful competition in Zell am See, the Royal Signals entered two teams to participate in the Inter Corps event. Each team consisting of four people. Expectations and team spirit were high at the beginning of the week with good conditions for racing. Wind was a real problem on top of the glacier and coupled with the cold air caused many people to experience just how cold temperatures can get in the depths of winter. By the middle of the afternoon the weather had turned so bad all slopes were closed, and people were advised to get off the mountain.

The competition started early on the Tuesday morning with the Army top 15 boarders being seeded. Sgt 'Dom' Graham (11 Sig Regt) was first name out the hat and promptly made his way to the toilet for a severe bout of nerves. (Nothing like the captain leading by example.) Conditions in the morning favoured the lower seeds, as the course was well prepared. Sgt 'Dom' Graham making full use of the conditions to finish the first run in Eighth place. His time seemed to settle the rest of the team as both LCpl 'Sicknote' Pierson (21 Sig Regt) and LCpl 'Goaty' Crawshaw (4 Armd Bde) had excellent runs finishing Third and Seventh respectively. This was good news for the Corps Team as they finished the day in second place behind the Royal Engineer A Team.

Day Three the weather surprised us all, especially LCpl 'John Ketley' Perrin who had predicted more snow and wind (this proved to the team that he should stick to his day job). As the weather lifted it enabled racing to commence in earnest. The Giant Slalom was next event with the course moving onto a more difficult slope. The Royal Signals A Team faired well with LCpl Pierson finishing both runs in Third Place. The rest of the first team did well with Capt 'Stu' Boyne (1 Sig Bde) placing Thirteenth and Sgt 'Dom' Graham placing in Twelfth. Capt Boyne produced one of the best starts of the week by rolling a complete 360 out of the start gate; this did have no effect with the judges and scored no extra points for style. While the main competition was being held there was the opportunity for the up and coming stars to shine in the novice race. Two of the favourites for this event both came from the Royal Signals, Sgt 'Pam' Mitchell (11 Sig Regt) and Sgt 'Jelly' Smith (204 Sig Sqn). Both had excellent runs with Sgt Mitchell becoming the Army Ladies Champion and Sgt Smith becoming the Army Novice Champion. A great achievement for both, after a week's snowboarding

The final day saw the competition move onto the much awaited Boarder X event. This race works like a BMX race with four competitors going flat out on a prepared course of jumps, banks and turns. First two boarders to the bottom progress to the next round. Small amounts of contact are permitted (no crowbars allowed), but to protect individuals for nasty knocks individuals have to wear safety helmets. LCpl Pierson was now recognised as a real threat to the Royal Engineers team winning the trophy and now had the extra pressure of a wanted bounty on his elimination from the competition. The rest of the team were not living up to the form books with only Capt Boyne and Cpl Pritchard making it into the quarterfinals. Sgt Graham accepted defeat at around 1400hrs, as the Royal Engineers won the Overall Corps Championship. The Corps flag was being flown in the final with LCpl Pierson a favourite, having beaten the current Army Champion in the semi-final. The final was fiercely contested with all four competitors going flat out for victory, so much so that Cpl Moore (RMC) dislocated his shoulder and was air lifted off the course. This misfortune allowed LCpl Pierson to finish in second place, thus boosting his overall-finishing place to Second.

SAILING

EXERCISE CENTURY SAIL - By Sgt Jo Richmond

When someone asked me if I wanted to go on exercise over Xmas/New Year I thought the Army had gone totally off its head. On further investigation, however, the exercise was to be a Joint Service Sail Training Expedition taking place in the Canary Islands. After much grovelling, the Boss said I could go, due to the lack of jobs the team had on over that period. The crew of 12 was picked from applications from all three services. I was to be the only Royal Signals body on the boat. I hadn't met any of the crew before, so when SSgt Nick Perkovic AGC rang to ask if I would like to meet up in the Union Jack Club, the night before we were due to fly, I agreed. So four of the crew met up in the Union Jack bar on Sunday 19 December. After a couple of Cokes and a few salty sea dog tales, we had an early night (not) as we were due to drive down to Gatwick at six in the morning.

We met up with the Skipper (Sgt 'Boggy' Marsh REME) and the rest of the crew at Gatwick and headed off for breakfast in the bar as the flight was delayed by two hours. We eventually arrived at Arrecife, Lanzerote early evening and met the off going skipper who told us where the boat was moored. After a short taxi ride we arrived at Puerto Calero and our home for the next three weeks - HMSTC Sabre, a 55 foot Nic. The other two girls, both RAF, and myself were 'stowed' into the fore peak, along with the bloke crab (honorary girl for the trip). After a crew meal and a few 'get to know each other' drinks we retired for the night to our bunks.

Tuesday 21 December was spent alongside preparing the boat and getting rations in. We finally set sail on Wednesday 22 December for the island of Fuerteventura, not much wind but a good chance to start on the suntan. Next day it was off to Grand Canaria, sailing overnight, still no wind, unfortunately the engine failed but as we had two REME VM's on board it didn't take too long to fix. Xmas Eve and Xmas Day were spent alongside. Some of the crew spent time sitting in the sea quaffing champagne as Xmas Day was very hot, although one of the guys went one better and drank champagne whilst underwater, yes it is possible in diving gear! Sunday 26 December saw an early start for a 60 mile passage. For once we had decent winds, so the sails were up and down like a....? Arrived at Santa Cruz on Mon for a bit of ship maintenance. Tuesday 28 December - a long 130 miles uphill slog back to Lanzerote, arrived there on Wednesday afternoon. Another recce for hot showers, to no avail, so a swift 'shower in a can' followed by a few in the local Irish bar. Left early on Thursday back to Puerto Calero so half the crew could return to Blighty! The watch personnel were reallocated, with only three per watch, not many for a 55 footer. Red Watch consisted of Watch leader WO1 John 'Herr Flick' Bransom REME, SSgt Nick Perkovic AGC and myself.

We spent New Years Eve in Puerto del Carmen, after a great crew meal at what had become our local scran platz. The crew arrived back on New Years Day in dribs and drabs, the last two returning at 10.00am rounding off their festivities with a swim in the sea. The crew slept until 1700hrs, then tea and prep the boat for sailing. We left at last light with mega-hangovers for a 250 mile passage. Sunday 2 January was spent at sea, with a 'no duff' hat overboard (the skipper's Xmas pressie), trying to turn the boat and drop the spinnaker with only three on watch proved very interesting. The mate tried out his diving skills to retrieve a rope wrapped round the prop. The day continued in the same vein with a big rip accidentally put into the spinnaker, so with the spinny put to bed for the rest of the trip, it was time to adapt and overcome. Monday 3 January - arrived at Santa Cruz, La Palma, three out of the five guys on board got whistled at by a very dodgy local in a black car. Me and the other girl felt exceedingly safe at this location and ended up doing CP for the male members of the crew. Tuesday was spent on a long passage over to Tenerife, destination Playa de Las America's (of 'Tenerife Uncovered' fame). We had been warned that the local marina had a downer on Brits, so the mate in his best 'Herr Flick' German accent managed to get us a berth for the night. A riotous run ashore visiting all the tourist spots. Wednesday 5 January – and we were off to Gran Canaria. There was no wind, so the engine was on again. We arrived late evening so a quick shower, hot for the first time all trip, then a quick night cap and bed. Thursday saw us with 24 hours alongside. The weather closed in forcing us to spend the afternoon sat in a bar holding on to the fixtures and fittings whilst the owner battened down the hatches. A great night out at a local hotel, this place won the best 'heads' of the tour.

Our departure on Friday was delayed due to a heavy depression sitting over Gran Canaria. We eventually left at last light with very heavy seas and Force 7 winds. Sleeping between watches was very interesting, having to try and jam yourself into your bunk to stop rolling around. We eventually got into Puerto Calero, Lanzerote at 2300hrs on Saturday 8 January. Sunday 9 January saw the big degunge of Sabre. I spent a happy couple of hours up to my elbows in grease servicing two of the winches. This was after exhaustive attempts by the male shipmates to get me doing 'girlie' clean up jobs below decks, not very PC guys! By 1830 everything was shipshape, kit packed, cold showers and the last sun-downers onboard. After a great crew meal at the local we all went down town for the last beer session, Endex called. Monday 10 January - The crew had problems getting up, luckily the taxis to the airport weren't due until 1200hrs. The flight was delayed, again, but we eventually arrived at Gatwick at 2000hrs. We had sailed a total of 943 miles in three weeks, a long slog. With much swapping of phone numbers and promises to sail together again as soon as possible we all disappeared into the night back to our various units. It was hard to get back into the swing of work again on Tue, not least trying to stop talking 'Nautical Speak, but hopefully the next sailing session isn't to far away - Boss any chance of some time off over Easter?

ROYAL SIGNALS OPEN SQUASH CHAMPIONSHIPS 1999

Blandford was again the venue for the 1999 Royal Signals Squash Championships and although the attendance was down on the previous year the standard of play was higher than ever. The competition, was played over three days, 16 -18 November 1999 and was organised by WO2 SSM Richardson.

The Open Competition went according to the seedings up until the semi-finals, SSgt Dave Gallagher again met WO1 FofS Steve Bason in what was to be another familiar semi-final bout – WO1 Bason lost 9/7 9/4 9/0 for a change, he is the semi-final king. The other semi-final was between WO2 SSM Dean Richardson and Lt Olly Gardner. WO2 Dean Richardson made easy work of Lt Gardner 9/5 9/1 9/3 to set up a very interesting final. The Men's Over 35 competition went, once again, according to seedings and WO1 Bason and WO2 Richardson had comfortable games to reach the final. The over 35s was like re-newing old encounters from the past, and the match was initially a close fought battle, however in the fourth game, WO1 Bason felt slightly older than WO2 Richardson and lost 9/1. The final results being 9/3 1/9 1018 9/1. Having just had the hardest game of his life (of course) and with only 30 minutes rest, WO2 Richardson then had to play his Open final match against SSgt Gallagher, and a betting man would have put his money on the No 1 seed SSgt Gallagher to win. Stranger things have happened, and WO2 Richardson making very few mistakes finally won in three straight games over a more lethargic SSgt Gallagher 9/4 9/4 9/2 to become the Open Champion, for the first time, so a clean sweep for WO2 Richardson in both competitions.

The final of the Plate Competition was between the only Gurkha entry this year (How old is he?) Hari and Sgt 'Taff' Williams from 3 (UK) Div HQ & Sig Regt, with Sgt Williams winning 5/9 6/9 4/9. The Unit Competition was played as a league system with the runners-up being 11 Sig Regt. The Inter Unit winners were 3 (UK) Div HQ & Sig Regt. An excellent three days of squash and all player are congratulated for taking part and playing well.

INTER CORPS SQUASH

The Corps team selected to play in the Inter Corps Championships at Winchester this year were:

No 1	SSgt Dave Gallagher
No2	WO2 SSM Dean Richardson
No3	Sgt 'Scan' Humphries
No4	Lt Olly Gardner
M	WO1 (FofS) Steve Bason
M	SSgt Ian Piears

The competition was over three days, 22 - 24 November 1999 and having gained promotion to Division 1 last year, the standard of play was going to be extremely high and that much tougher with some Corps teams fielding up to three Army players. However, the Team's main aim was to remain in Division 1, especially as the gossip on the ground was that the Royal Signals was the Team to go down. The arrival of Sgt 'Scan' Humphries was an added bonus and bolstered up the middle order. Sgt Humphries, normally the Corps No2 was handicapped with a knee injury but fitted in nicely at No3, not quite being up to the same form as the in form Dean Richardson. Things did not get off to a good start on Day One, however, and the only Officer in the team decided to nip into work for two minutes at Bulford and was late for the first match. We then went on to lose that 5-0 against the RLC, not that Olly Gardner was to blame of course. The RLC are the current Inter Corps Champions and were again to be the 1999 winners. Later on we played our second match against the REME 'A' team winning 4-1 which was a satisfactory result as REME 'A' eventually came Third overall. The team went from strength to strength on Day Two beating both the Army Air Corps and the Royal Engineers 'A', 3-2 and 4-1 respectively. SSgt Gallagher had an epic against the Army Air Corps No 1 finally losing 3-2 and 10/8 in the fifth. WO1 Bason also had a five setter against the Royal Engineers No5 winning 9/1 in the final game. This set the team up well for the final days play against the AGC 'A' team. The AGC were fighting to remain in Division 1 and all matches went to four games except for SSgt Ian Piears who won in straight games. Inevitably the AGCs fate was confirmed and Royal Signals won 4-1 sending them down to Division 2. The Royal Signals were Runners-up in Division 1, which was last achieved some 12 years ago and all the players performed extremely well and must be congratulated on their excellent performance.

NOTES FROM THE AO's DESK

Branch News: After 20 year in office, 'Chippy' Wood has stood down as Secretary of the Harrogate Branch. Elected at the Branch AGM to succeed 'Chippy' was Bruce Graham, who can be contacted at; 5 Meadow Way, Harrogate HG1 3LG. The Australia Sub Branch has closed in its present form. In its place is a trial 'get together' of members at the annual ANZAC Day Parade in Sydney in April. Life Member, Gerald Lee plans to write to all members in Australia inviting those who propose to attend the parade, to contact him regarding an informal get together. Anyone who is interested, but does not receive Gerald's letter, should write to him at: 20 Cairncross Place, Port MacQuarie, NSW 2444. Unfortunately, ill health has forced Jimmy Logan to hand over secretarial duties of the Poole Branch to Tony Curnow. We wish Jimmy all the very best and thank him for his time in office. Tony can be contacted at: 61 Creekmoor Lane, Poole BH17 7BW. Frank Robinson has stood down after serving the past 18 years as Hon Secretary of the Lincoln Branch. Thank you Frank for your hard work and cheerfulness, hope we shall still see you at the annual Reunion at Blandford. We welcome Maj (Retd) Derek Wood MBE as the new secretary. Anyone requiring details of the Lincoln Branch should contact Derek at; 'Woodlands', 38 Arden Moor Way, North Hykeham, Lincoln LN6 9PP, tel: 01522-800607. Frank Dempster is trying to get a new branch started in Berwick upon Tweed. Anyone interested in joining should contact Frank at; Jireh Low Cocklaw, Berwick upon Tweed TD15 1UY, Tel: 01289-386687.

Royal Hospital Chelsea: This years Founder's Day will be held on Thursday 8 June. The In-Pensioners of the Royal Hospital will be revewed by HM Queen Elizabeth, The Queen Mother, who will be accompanied by HRH The Duke of Kent KG. Attendance is by ticket only and the few we have been allocated are with those Branches in and around London. The Governor's Review, a full dress rehearsal for Founder's Day will take place on Tuesday 6 June. Any member may attend and no ticket is necessary although there will be no parking facilities. Those attending should enter the Royal Hospital by the Chelsea Gate and be seated by 0930 hours. For security reasons, those intending to attend the Governor's Review are asked to inform this office. No medals should be worn at either event.

ALDERSHOT BRANCH

Our Autumm Luncheon was also the occasion of our AGM. This had been postponed owing to our Dinner to celebrate our 50th Anniversary having been held in April. The Luncheon brought a record attendance. It always is an enjoyable affair as we are joined by so many friends and members of neighbouring Branches. For the use of his Mess, newly and most tastefully refurbished, we have to thank Joe Fairbairn, Garrison Sergeant Major and Serving Member of our Committee. He and his able and willing Staff made the day.

More than a dozen Members, including our President, Gen Henry Hild MBE and his wife Janet, attended the Corps Carol Service in London, afterwards enjoying the hospitality of RHQ in the form of sherry and mince pies in the Church Hall. Having travelled considerable distances, a number of the party then retired to enjoy a congenial supper at a local restaurant.

Our February gathering was a fitting introduction to the Millennium when nearly 30 Members and guests met in a Surrey village for lunch at a traditional English hostelry. There was much merriment. The venue was arranged by Col 'Paddy' Verdon OBE, Membership Secretary and a stalwart of our Committee. 'Paddy' and Barbara recently moved to a village which, though north of 'The Bull', at Gerrards Cross, is still south of Watford, so we anticipate that they will continue to cheer us with their company at Branch events.

Following a Music Night and our Spring Luncheon, our Annual Quiz Night will be held on Wednesday 17 May. There will be a small charge to cover the cost of the buffet. Our Treasurer, Peter Sharpe (tel: 01252 333643), or Secretary Jane Knight (tel: 01628 626468) will be pleased to furnish details. We usually have a large gathering and welcome both individuals and teams of four from other Branches and serving units near enough to attend. The Quiz is held at the Aldershot Garrison's Sergeants' Mess under the expert arrangements of Jo Fair bairn, (Signalmen and Subalterns afraid of Sergeants Major should not be deterred). This is a fun night. You don't have to be a genius!

BRADFORD BRANCH

We are still ticking over with a small attendance, our members enjoy coming to the meetings. We now have a new member, Terence Clayton, who served in the Royal Signals from January 1959 to 1965, we are pleased to see him at the meetings. We regret to announce the death of Eric Lorriman on 10 December .

The next celebration will be the Golden Wedding of our Secretary Norah Houldsworth and her husband Jack, which took place on 18 March. They both served in the Royal Signals during the war. Jack was a militia man who was called up in July 1939 for six months. However, it stretched to nearly seven years, most of which was served abroad. After being evacuated from Dunkirk, he was posted to the Middle East before the 8th Army was formed. After Alamein he went on to Sicily and Italy, landing unopposed at Calabria. He then went on to Monte Casino. He spent the last winter of the war in the Apennine mountains and finally finished the war in Trieste returning home overland, having served with 13 Corps as a Corporal/Linesman.

Nora volunteered for the ATS with her twin sister Mary in February 1942. After training as Telephone Switchboard Operators they were posted to a small village in North Yorkshire called Well for thirteen months. The next three years were spent on the HQ Northern Command Switchboard. At York they were billeted in the Infantry Barracks at Fulford.

Having known each other before the war Jack and Nora met again when they were de-mobbed. They have retraced their steps through Egypt-Alamein, Sicily, Monte Casino and numerous other places. Jack is Treasurer for the Dunkirk Veterans Association and Nora is Treasurer of the WRAC Association (ATS) and is a very active member. Fifty happy years.

BRISTOL BRANCH

We are pleased to say that Bristol Branch still thrives, with 44 'paid up' Branch members, and an average of 16 members attending our monthly Branch meetings. These are held on the last Thursday of every month, except December when we hold our Annual Christmas Dinner on the first Thursday of the month. We have maintained a fairly full programme of activities during the year, including visits to a local brewery, and to the local RAC Control Centre. Recently we have retired to a local hostelry for an informal game of skittles, and paid a visit to the Police Officers Association, also for an evening of skittles. On one evening, after our formal Branch meeting, members and wives were given a most interesting talk by the local Community Beat Constable on the subject of crime prevention in the home and car, and this was followed by a Scenes of Crime Officer (SOCO to television addicts) who described the ways in which 'clues' are left by criminals, and how they are detected by the SOCO teams. Interest was so high, that on this occasion absolutely no one left early!.

Two day trips were included in our programme, including a day in Windsor Castle to view the absolutely fabulous restoration that has been carried out since the 'Great Fire'. We timed our visit to witness the 'Changing of the Guard' ceremony - a spectacle enjoyed by all. The most outstanding visit however, was a Branch visit to RHQ at Blandford. We hired a minibus and took a party of 16 members and wives, and I can only say that our reception was outstanding. A programme of visits to various departments was laid on for us, including of course a guided visit to the Museum - a must for any ex Signaller! We finished with an excellent lunch in the Sergeants Mess, followed by a tour of the whole site. I know that this visit involved a great deal of organisation, and our thanks are due to a number of people, but especially to the Commanding Officer 11 Signals Regiment and to the Association Admin Officer, Mr Peter Cuckow.

Our year ended with an excellent Christmas Dinner, attended by 36 members and guests, and at which we were delighted to welcome as our principal guest Lt Col (Retd) Bob Peake BEM, our Area Rep. Below is a copy of a photo showing Lt Col Bob deep in earnest conversation with Branch Chairman, 'Chick' Cheetham.

DORSET BRANCH

Once again our AGM was held on Blandford Camp on Sunday 21 November 1999. Breaking away from tradition, the venue was held at the Gurkha Restaurant, Humph Bahadur's, where we were all treated to some fine and I am sure all would say, very delicious food. A big thank-you goes to Capt (Retd) Mick Nevill for his organisation and very good choice of venue. The meeting itself was productive and a few major changes have taken place. Due to the untimely death of our president Col John Francis, who will be sadly missed by all, the Chair was passed over to Maj (Retd) Pat Lafferty and in stepped Maj (Retd) Tom Friend MBE to take over from Pat as Branch Chairman. The Secretary remains in the capable hands of Dave Walker BEM, and the Treasurer remains with spend thrift Maj (Retd) Dick Hougton. As one point of order during the meeting, I suggested that why don't we have a group photo for the next AGM and publicise the Branch more in The WIRE. Yes, I got the job as spokes person and news editor (Fleet Street here I come), but I don't mind, it's the only way I will get my name in The WIRE; (Kev Falconer). Whilst the meeting was going on, the ladies were entertained in the bar area with a demonstration of Aromatherapy and all the wonderful bits that go with it. The meeting was followed by the plentiful buffet style Gurkha curries and kormas washed down with very reasonable drink prices in the bar. After the meal had been eaten it was the turn of the new president, Pat Lafferty, to welcome everyone and to mark a very special occasion for Jimmy Wilde, our Standard Bearer. After 30 years of loyal service, Jimmy has decided finally to lay down the colours and retire from the post. The occasion was marked with the presentation by Brig P. J. Evans CBE, the Area 5 Vice-Chairman, of a bronze statuette of the 'Jimmy' to Jimmy, who for once, was lost for words. On behalf of all the Dorset Branch and I am sure all standard bearers, we wish you, Jimmy, all the best in your well earned rest and a huge thank-you for the dedication and loyal service to the association, long may it continue. The post now remains vacant and is in need of filling, should there be anyone willing to take up the standard then please get in contact with Dave Walker care of the Royal Signals Museum. The last of the thanks go to Lin Falconer and Liz Garside for their persuasive talents in raising a staggering £100 for the Branch funds through selling raffle tickets. Should any ex-member wish to join the Branch, then we meet in the Sergeants' Mess Blandford Camp on the third Tuesday of the month.

EASTBOURNE BRANCH

The Branch held its Annual Dinner in the Royal Engineers Club in Eastbourne on 23 October 1999. Some 45 members and guests attended. Our official guests were Col Andrew Carter and his wife, Debbie, from RHQ and Maj Brian Howe and his wife Sue. Brian commands 56 Sig Sqn (V) which is based in Eastbourne. The Dinner went very well indeed and everyone enjoyed themselves.

Eastbourne Annual Dinner
Standing: Chris Deadman (Chairman),
the late Brig Frank Clarkson, Col Andrew Carter, Brian Howe, Lt Col Ron Brodie (Secretrary)
Sitting: Debbie Carter, Gwen Field (nee York) (Treasurer), Sue Howe

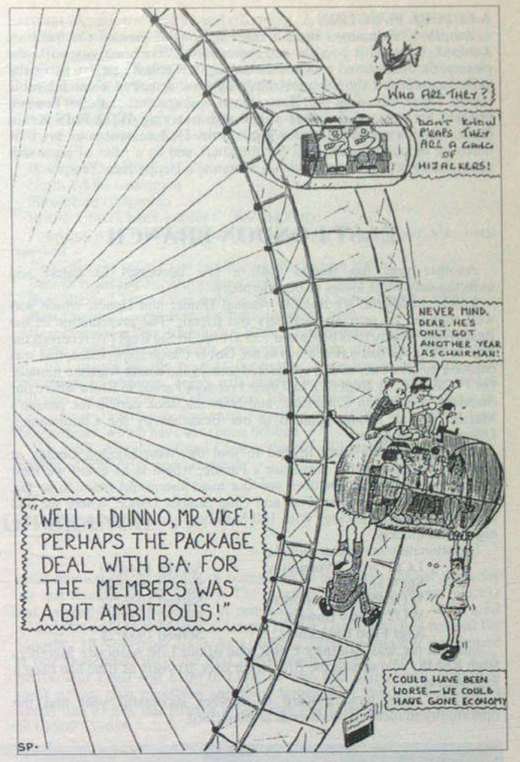
On a sadder note, less than two weeks after he presided at the Dinner, our President, Brig Frank Clarkson, passed away. The Branch was well represented at his funeral at Hailsham. The Branch Standard together with the Royal British Legion Standard from Hailsham were paraded. He will be sadly missed by all members of the Branch.

EAST KENT BRANCH

Despite Donald Crisp's cartoon no member was seen amongst the VIP Guests on TV at the Millennium Dome Celebration, but we are sure that most will have organised an enjoyable and less hyped up way of their own to see in the New Year. Since then the days have been drawing out a bit but the flu bug (if not the Millennium Bug) has been at work.



There should have been over 60 members sitting down to lunch in the County Hotel after the AGM but Jean Saunders, the Dickasons and John Raymond were all prevented from coming as a result. Never the less there were over 60 at the meeting, though some had planned not to have lunch. The chief guest was WO1 (Corps RSM) Geoffrey Hodgson, who after the AGM gave a very informative address on present Corps matters.

The Corps RSM was heard to say,
'It's a new post gentlemen but you don't have to bow.'
(L-R): Vincent de Rose, Marion de Rose, John Ballantyne, RSM Hodgson, Donald Crisp (Chairman),
Maj Gen (Retd) John Badcock (Hon Sec),
Bill Lovett (Hon Treasurer), Lt.Col (Retd) Mike Barrett OBE

The Corps RSM post had only been established for a month and so we were very lucky to have him with us. The Branch has now had two new Master of Signals, two SOinCs, and now the Corps RSM to its Xmas Lunch or AGMs. A delicious meal followed by another successful raffle making over £73 thanks to Marion and Vincent de Rose, finished off a very enjoyable event.

NEW MEMBERS

We are delighted to welcome John and Gail Batty of Aylesford. John served in the TA from 1959 to 1972 in 872 Locating Battery (two years), 329 Sig Sqn for six years and 44 Sig Sqn for the last five years. We shall look forward to seeing them at a future function.

A FUTURE FUNCTION

Sunday 13 February - Branch Ten Pin Bowling Annual Competition, Ashford, Kent. This popular and therapeutic Branch activity will take place at the AMF Bowl which is the same place as last year. No particular skills are needed though most have by now acquired a considerable talent. Those attending our Xmas lunch will remember Peter Foakes, brought his son and daughter-in-law and a serving WO2 FofS Kevin Moir. He was presented with a Branch tie. He has written to say how much he enjoyed meeting all the members and as a Man of Kent will wear .the tie with pride, and wishes everyone a Happy New Year.

EAST LONDON BRANCH

Another year has passed with a few successes to report and unfortunately some losses of our Members.

Firstly, in March, we had our Annual Dinner and Dance, which was well attended by over 80 Members and friends. The presentation of the Best Troop Trophy took place and 755 Troop, 36 Sig Regt (V) received the cup. In May, we had a coach trip to the Dover Castle Experience, this was enjoyed by all of us, with a conducted tour of the secret wartime tunnels. On 17 July, 36 Sig Regt (V), had their Freedom Parade in Ilford where our Standard, along with Cambridge and Norwich, took part in the parade's March Past, an honour granted to our Branches by the Commanding Officer, Lt Col Allan.

In September we were invited to join the West London Branch at Chelsea Hospital on the Governor's Parade, which is an event we look forward to every year. October saw our most successful function so far, when we held our Annual Fish and Chip Supper Dance, where we had live-music for the dancing. With 140 Members and friends attending, the night went quickly.

Unfortunately our losses include:

LCpl 'Jock' Wornham	Served 1946/49
Sgt Gabbitas	Served 1940/46
WO2 Peter Gunn MM	Served 1926/52
WO2 Harry Bowers	Served 1937/67
SSgt Fred Backhiuse	Served 1938/74

Last but not least, Johnny Cubit, one of our Life Associate Members from REME, who served the Branch for over 20 years as if he had been a Full Member.

We can now look forward to another successful year and the opportunity to meet all our friends at Blandford.

GLASGOW BRANCH

The Branch held a social evening (no business discussed), on Tuesday 14 December 1999, attended by members, their families and friends. A very enjoyable event with a number of items donated for the raffle. It is amazing where the members and friends manage to find so many items to donate. 'Big John' was having fun with his asides, that no prizes were coming his way, or his colour tickets were not forthcoming. To his astonishment his numbers then came up thick and fast. He then, with shouts of encouragement from the Members, generously declined to accept more prizes, and had them put back into the draw, to the cheers of the assembled Members. This was the last meeting of 1999, our next will be in the new Millennium, when we hope to increase the membership, having put our Branch on the Teletext Association list. We are again indebted to the ladies of the Branch, Betty, Pat, Ivana, Annice and Isobel, who provided the buffet.

Saturday 22 January 2000 was the night of the Burns Supper held in the TAC Jardine Street, attended by 37 Members and friends, Bill Taylor the Branch Chairman presiding.

The Top Table at our Burn's Night Supper

Bill opened the proceedings by welcoming everyone and then said the Selkirk Grace. The Haggis was then carried into the room by Branch Member Jim McMillan accompanied by Brian Warren the Piper, but Jim forgot the knife, and had to make a mad dash to the kitchen to retrieve one. The Fairin' was Scotch Broth, Chieftain o' the Puddin' race Wi' Neeps and Tatties, Tipsy Laird and Bannocks and Kebbuck. John Barleycorn in decanters, and as there were ladies present, wine was also on the table. Bill MacNamara gave the 'Address to The Haggis' waving the large kitchen knife. Those sitting close by, ducking their heads unless they wanted to risk losing an ear.

In the absence of Capt Lynch, who was to propose 'The Immortal Memory', Bill MacNamara, a fervent Burns fan, stepped into the breach, to give a potted version of the life of the Bard. Ann Warren gave us a fine rendering of songs without musical accompaniment and occasional chorus by the company. 'The Twa Dogs' with Jim McMillan as Narrator, 'Lush' by John McNab and 'Caesar' by George MacFarlane who waved a model dog, and barked every time his turn came to recite his piece of the narrative, between two dogs discussing their masters. 'The Toast Tae the Lassies' was given by Jim Prentice, it raised a few laughs and although English, having been a domiciled Scot for over 52 years, his rendition was accepted and applauded. Brian then gave a few well known tunes on the Pipes being rewarded with the quaich of whisky from the Chairman and applause from the company. Ivana Muir, Branch Secretary, gave the response to the 'Toast Tae the Lassies'. This she did with aplomb, and a good deal of giving the male population a few feminine thoughts, having a few digs at Members of the Branch, all done 'tongue in cheek' with a grin, and was of course being encouraged by the females in the company. Bill McNamara recited 'Tam o' Shanter' being applauded for his efforts, as it is quite something to memorise in its entirety. Wendy McNab then gave a rendition of Robert Burns 'To A Mouse', 'Yee, sleekit, tim'rous beastie……' surprising her husband by stroking his hair, as 'Big John' who is over 6ft 6ins slid down in his chair. He had no idea his ever loving was going to do this party piece. Can you imagine John who was a WO2 RQMS being timorous? Has Wendy really tamed him? Bill Taylor then thanked everyone for contributing to an excellent evening, and for those attending. He also wished to thank Jim McMillan, Jim's sister Elizabeth and her daughter Irene, for their help in the kitchen and as table waiters, also all those who helped in any way to make the evening a success. After singing Auld Lang Syne the company adjourned to the WO's and Sgt's Mess for further refreshment before calling it a day. The Chairman and Members wish to thank Lt Col J. K. McKee MBE and WO1 RSM A. B. Hilborn for use of the Officers and WO & Sgts Mess for the night, it was much appreciated as the numbers attending were too small to fill the large drill hall.

HULL BRANCH

The year started with our AGM and the usual silence fell as the Election of Officers approached. The Treasurer, Ernie Glover, had to step down due to illness and our thanks go to Ernie for his work over the years. A new Treasurer was elected and our thanks go to Chairman - Mr Roy Drewery, Hon Secretary - Jim Brown and our newly elected Treasurer - Mr Bill James, for steering us through 1999.

We had a varied year with members heading off to Arnhem during June. Those members who attended the Blandford Reunion wish to thank Peter Cuckow and all at RHQ for making it the best yet. July saw us heading to the 'Kohima Weekend' at 2 Div York. (The 2000 Event promises to be one to remember.) Our monthly luncheons have been well supported and the various hostelries we have visited have ranged from Five Star to best forgotten. We would like to thank Bill and Peggy James for inviting members and partners to their home for a very enjoyable buffet (five stars). The luncheons serve to bring together members who for various reasons cannot attend our evening meetings which keeps them up to date on RSA Events. In November members attended the Hull Remembrance Parade, the Standard was paraded by Mr Walter Raywood and a wreath was laid at the Cenotaph by Mr Jim Brown.

At the end of November the Annual Regimental Dinner was held at the Halifax Barracks and our thanks go to Sgt Stuart Keys and his staff who served us with a first class four course meal with wine. Also to WO2 Alan James our grateful thanks once again for his hard work and support of the Branch. Unfortunately the OC (49WR) Sig Sqn (V) Maj David Sixsmith was unable to join us as our guest due to carrying out operational duties. We wish him a safe and happy tour and hope he will be able to join us in 2000.

Thanks to all members for their support during 1999. If you live in or around the Hull Area and are a retired or serving member of the Corps, you are welcome to join us at the Halifax Barracks on the first Thursday of each month at 2000hrs. For more information contact the Branch Secretary, Jim Brown on 01482 655963.

LINCOLN BRANCH

Born in Boston, Lincolnshire in 1946, Terry Stubbings was educated at Boston Grammar School. He joined the Army in January 1962, serving in the Royal Signals, starting at the Army Apprentice College, Harrogate for the first three years. (Intake 62A) He served in 3 Div HQ at Bulford Camp, and 222 Signal Squadron in Sharjah. In 1970 he went into the Parachute Regiment until leaving with the rank of Sergeant in 1978. The following years saw several changes of career, from Pub Landlord to HGV Driver, to Motor Cycle Training Instructor. This latter occupation brought Terry to Lincoln to open a business in 1993.

The role of Town Crier was revitalised in Lincoln in 1990 and in 1994 Terry took on the role, and has remained Town Crier since that summer. During the following years a lot of effort has gone into developing the role of Town Crier. Quite a lot of work is done in conjunction with the Mayoral Department and Lincoln Tourism. A good deal of charity work for local organisation is also undertaken. Some commercial work, which tends to pay very well, is also done. A little of this is local but the majority is away from Lincoln and therefore undertaken for purely financial reasons. Terry also gives talks on the subject of Town Crying through the ages, to any group who requests it.

Approximately six times a year Terry enters Town Crying Competitions around the country. Last year (1999) Terry achieved the following:

Blackpool International Champion (Second time in three years)
North Wales Champion
Shropshire Champion
British Open Championships Second Place.

Together with his wife Trish the following awards have also been received:

Best Dressed Town Crier and Escort, Shropshire 1999
Best Dressed Escort, Shropshire 1999
Best Dressed Town Crier and Escort, British Championships 1999
Best Dressed Escort, British Championships 1999
Best Dressed escort, Llandudno 1999, North Wales Championships

These competitions continue every year and are utilised to help put the city of Lincoln on the map as far as the other towns and cities are concerned. In addition, Terry will shortly be opening a web site, which will also promote the city of Lincoln. Engagements continue to come in, with about 25 already onboard for the year 2000, as well as four competitions, which have also been booked.

All in all, the role of Town Crier to the city of Lincoln gives a huge amount of both pride and pleasure.

LOUGHBOROUGH BRANCH

The Loughborough Branch, of the Royal Signals Association, held their Annual Dinner Dance on 20 November 1999 at the Carillon Rooms, Loughborough. 80 sat down for dinner, which was followed by dancing to The Terry Stewart Band. They came from all over England, (Cheltenham, Southport, Bristol, Worthing, Cornwall, Bracknell, Derby) as well as our local Branch Members and friends. Some of the ex-Signals hadn't seen each other for 30 years, and most had served some time during their Army career at Garrats Hey, Woodhouse Eaves. One of our Branch members, Geoff Fletcher from Southport, was married that morning to Vivien and they both attended the dinner, so apart from the usual reunion of old friends, it turned out to be a very special night for our last reunion of the century. The evening was a tremendous success and naturally there were lots of reminiscing amongst us all. We are all looking forward to next year's Annual Dinner Dance which is booked for Saturday, 18 November 2000. As a profit of £200 was made it was agreed at our December meeting that the Branch donate £100 to the RSA Benevolent Fund and £100 to LOROS who had helped and supported some of our past members and their families. If anyone reading this would like to join our Branch please ring our Chairman, Ben Banyard, on 01509 557686.

NORFOLK BRANCH

We of the Norfolk Branch have been undergoing a very sad time with the loss of two of our members:Gordon Royall and Brian Robinson. in particular Gordon was one of our most active members and a stalwart of the Branch. Both funerals were attended by several Branches in Area 3, along with their Standards. At Gordon's funeral there was in excess of 400 mourners and eight Standards from various Branches which showed how popular he was. The Norfolk Branch would like to thank all those who gave their support to us during this very sad time.

At our December meeting a surprise was sprung on our Secretary, Brian C. Gibbs, when the Chairman, Frank Mortlock, suddenly rose to his feet and presented Brian with a Honour Membership Certificate signed by Association Chairman, Maj Gen Alan Yeoman, along with a beautifully written letter from the General. Brian thanked the Branch for this very much appreciated honour and said that the years he had spent as the Branch Secretary had been both rewarding and enjoyable, and that though he had many regrets about standing down from the position, he felt that it was time to move over. However, he still intends to be very active in the Branch. and will give it his support. In conclusion the Branch would like to thank the TA Centre Stewards, Kevin and Nancy Barnard, for their support to the Branch over the years, also Mrs Dorothy Gibbs, who has been the raffle lady over the years, with her winning smile at functions and meetings extracts the money from members and guest alike to swell the Branch funds. Long may she continue to do so.

Chairman-Frank Mortlock presents Brian C. Gibbs with his Honour Membership Certificate

NORTHERN IRELAND BRANCH

Our December meeting took the form of a social evening therefore no Branch business was conducted Once again we are indebted to Debbie Wolfe and Kim Greer for their work in providing a very acceptable spread. As usual at Christmas, under the direction of Branch Welfare member, John McAreavey and assisted by other Branch Members, incapacitated ex-Signallers and Widows of Signallers were visited with gifts, the objective being to let them know they are not forgotten. On conclusion of a short January meeting we had the pleasure of hearing a most interesting speaker. Mr David Russell, ex-RAF and a Prisoner of War of the Japanese told us in most graphic and sometimes amusing terms of life as a prisoner of the Japanese.

On Saturday 22 January. Harry Stanley and Edgar McCall represented the Branch at the Royal British Legion Lunch and AGM in the Tullyglass House Hotel, Ballymena. This contact between the two organsations is useful. Once again, join us any third Wednesday of each month in Clonaver TAVR Centre, Belfast.

POOLE BRANCH

In the late 1970's Jimmy Logan, a lineman by trade, completed his Regular Army service. His last appointment was that of RQMS/MTWO 7 Sig Regt, and he settled in the Poole area with Eve and their family. Within a few months, missing military life, he started local enquiries and advertisements for ex Corps members and found about 30 interested persons. Very conscious not to take from the Bournemouth or Blandford areas, he then sought permission to found a Poole Branch. Meetings were held in local public house's but eventually transferred to the Royal British Legion Club at Broadstone. Jim undertook the duties of Secretary and maintained that position for over 20 years until the end of 1999. Despite ill health over the past 18 months he never missed a meeting and organised, as always, our Christmas dinner. This was held on 17 Dec 1999, with Brig 'Paddy' Evans CBE presiding. Some 54 members/friends enjoyed a wonderful evening and tributes were paid to Jim and Eve, before a suitably inscribed framed print of 'the Cable wagon' was presented to him.

Jim, who still intends to come to our monthly meetings, then handed over his duties to Tony Curnow. Tony can be contacted on 01202 770906 and new, eligible members are always very welcome to our meetings which take place at the Broadstone RBL club on the first Tuesday of each month at 7.45pm.

SHAPE BRANCH

by WO1 (RSM) M Rouse

The SHAPE Branch of the Corps Association can be seen seated on 10 December 1999 prior to the commencement of their traditional Christmas Lunch and drinking competition held at the SHAPE Officers Club. The Association being ably presided over by Lt Col Fish who with a small, but dedicated, inner cabinet organises numerous sporting and social activitics throughout each and every year. The Association itself is subscribed to by the vast majority of serving/retired members of the Corps here in SHAPE but is unusual, due to the fact that most members are still serving in the Corps. Special thanks for organising the Christmas Lunch must go to Sgt Mick '2 left feet' Conception, with entertainment and laughter provided by SSgt Pat Millar.

WEST LONDON BRANCH

Our Christmas Party was a great success, with a record attendance. For the second year running it was held at Hounslow Barracks by courtesy of the Duke of Wellington's Regiment. There was live music and dancing and a quiz and a raffle. 'There was eating and drinking and much merriment and a good time had by all'. Our thanks go to the Committee and the Ladies Section for their hard work and able organisation which contributed to making this occasion such a pleasant one.

31 SIGNAL REGIMENT ASSOCIATION

Christmas and the Millennium celebrations seem to be a long time ago, but some of the memories are still lingering. Our trip made in conjunction with the Reading Branch for Christmas Dinner on the Watercress Line was very successful. Our thanks go to Alan Foot for getting us all together.

Our last notes for The WIRE showed a couple of 'iffy' characters, thanks for all enquiries. I can confirm that it was John Eversfield and not John Lennon. Congratulations to ex-SSgt Len Clark on being awarded the Queen's Volunteer Reserve Medal. A fitting reward after many years service in the Regiment. Len and his wife, Linda, attended Buckingham Palace on 21 March.

A reminder that our Annual Dinner will be on 15 April in the Central Mess, Duke of York's HQ. Our trip to Brusssels is on 26-28 May, but more about that next time.

REUNIONS

EX-WHITE HELMETS

We maintain a list of ex-White Helmets for social purposes, details are very sketchy for soldiers still serving. If you were a White Helmet please contact Ilene on Blandford Military (94 371) 2365, so that we can up-date our records.

12th, 15th & 18th AIR FORMATION SIGNAL REGIMENTS ASSOCIATION

The next annual dinner of the 12th, 15th & 18th Air Formation Signal Regiments Association will be held in the North Stafford Hotel, Stoke-on-Trent, on Saturday April 15th. All ex-Air Formation Signallers, and their wives, will be welcome. More details from the Association Chairman, Mr G. D. C. Evans (01249-460428).

The meeting of the Southern Chapter of the Association will now take place at the Delaware Pavilion, Brighton, on Thursday, 6 April (not the 13 April as reported in the December Wire), assembling at 11.00hrs. Again all Air Formation Signallers will be welcome. Further details from Paul Quinn (01325-482471).

As in previous years, the 12th, 15th & 18th Air Formation Signal Regiments Association will combine with 19th Signal Regiment Association and the Royal Signals Amateur Radio Club to set up a display and working amateur radio station at 21st Signal Regiment's Open Day at Colerne on Saturday, 8 July.

BEVERLEY EX-BOYS ASSOCIATION

As the year 2000 is the 50th Anniversary of the formation of 6 (Boys) Training Regiment, we are arranging a Reunion Weekend in Beverley on 7-8 October 2000.

This will take the form of a visit to the Museum of Army Transport at 3pm on the Saturday. There is a cafeteria and bar where refreshments can be obtained and the museum is well worth a visit. This will be followed by dinner, in the evening, at the museum's Montgomery Centre, which will be open from 6pm with a bar. On Sunday, 8 October, a church service will be held in Beverley Minster. This should bring back memories of the long march, with the band, every Sunday morning to the Minster.

Since forming the Association in August 1998, we have 128 members at the present and numbers are still growing. In an effort to find more 'ex-boys' the Branch Secretary, Tony Hull, has broadcast on several local radio stations in the Midlands including Radio Nottingham where our member, Dave Shakespeare, was able to visit the studio and take part in the broadcast. So far this has produced a couple of new members and we are hoping to follow this up with more local radio stations in the north.

Anyone wishing to join the Association or obtain further details of the 50th Anniversary Reunion should contact Tony Hull at: 8 Ferncroft Gardens, Bournemouth, BH10 6BZ. Tel: 01202 770261.

KOREAN REUNION

To mark the 50th Anniversary of their departure from Hong Kong, 27 (Comwel) Inf Bde Sig Tp is holding a reunion on at the OC's house in Lymington, Hants.

SATURDAY 26 AUGUST 2000

Carlton Television are producing a programme on the life of Sir Norman Wisdom and are anxious to trace his former good friend Patrick Dickinson. They served together in the Corps at Cheltenham during WW2. Anyone who can help is asked to call Linda Regnier on (020) 7612 7581.

AN APPEAL FROM THE NATIONAL EX-PRISONER OF WAR ASSOCIATION

The Association are certain that thousands of British POWs were not returned by the Russians. They would very much like to locate former signallers who were based at Allied Forces HQ in Italy in May or June 1945, or anyone who sent any signals concerning POWs in Europe around the same time frame. Anyone who can help is asked to call their Historian, Mr Phillip D. Chinnery, 10 Lambert Avenue, Langley, Berks SL3 7EB. Tel: 01753 541085.

Can anybody help Cfn Darren L. Donkersley with the current whereabouts of Jo (Joanna). She used to go to Prince Rupert Boarding School in Rinteln and lived in Nienburg, Germany in the 1980s. Darren had a surprise meeting with her in Herford in 1993 just before he moved to Fallingbostel. Should anybody know where to contact her please could they write to Cfn Darren Donkersley at the following address:

Support Squadron SQMS (A)
Multi National Division (South West)
Headquarters and Signal Regiment
Operation Palatine, BFPO 553

CAN ANYBODY HELP?

In 1947, from May to December, Mr R. L. Hughes was staioned at Lubeck in Germany, at Waldersee Kasserne. A member of the Royal Signals, he was attached to 10 Royal Hussars.

Were you there at the same time?

If so, Ron Hughes would love to hear from you. Contact him at: Ivy Cottage, Alger Street, Ashton-Under-Lyne, LANCASHIRE, OL6 9LQ. Tel: 0161 344 1454 E-mail: united@strayduck.com

Life Member Chris Edwards is seeking the current whereabouts of his former pal David Booth. David came from Sheffield and served with Chris in the White Helmets in 1969. Anyone who can help is asked to call Chris on 0191-285 6740.

Anyone who can help with 50 Div Signals or 72 Field Regiment Signals in the British Expeditionary Force and North Africa between 1939-1945, please contact Susan Hill on 01642 700792.

Mr Elrick Gair is seeking the present whereabouts of his former friend Peter Crook, who served in the Corps in the 1950s. Peter was a commissioned officer and came from Felstead, Middlesex. Last known address was in Chelmsford. Anyone who can help is asked to call Mr Gair on Tel: 0207 624 4540.

Former Sig Alfred Gerald Daines is seeking the whereabouts of his old friend Sig Jimmy Byrne, with whom he served during WW2. Jimmy was born in Manchester and enlisted at Derby in March 1941. Alfred would also like to make contact with the former Sig Thomas Paine (who married a girl from Paignton, Devon) or anyone else who remembers him. Anyone who can help can contact Alfred either through his daughter on e-mail: sheila@ray01.fsnet.co.uk, or through Jim Preston on Tel: 01376 563 985.

Dear Colonel,

I am currently engaged in research into the Battle of Trasimere (20-30 June 1944) in Italy. I have written to all the Regiments involved with the exception of the 4th Reconnaisance Regiment (part of 4th Division) and the 56th Reconnaisance Regiment (part of 78th Division).

I understand that the Tactics Wing of the Signals Training School handled the Reconnaisance Corps personnel after it's creation (source British Army Handbook 1939-45).

I wonder if you could help me to contact any of the soldiers who fought with either the 4th or 56th Recce or any Royal Signals personnel who were involved in the battle.

Yours Sincerely.....

Dear Sir,

I find The WIRE very interesting to follow the events of the Royal Signals. I am so proud of our Corps. I have enclosed this photo of Winston Churchill, taken whilst he was on a visit to Iceland in 1941, to visit the 49th Infantry Division, (The Polar Bears). I thought it might be of small interest to any of your readers who may have been there at the time.

Yours Faithfully.....

Dear Sir,

In the October, 1999 edition of The WIRE magazine you published a letter from Ken Bunston. In this he explained that he was attempting to organise yet another reunion of old comrades. This time it was to be a 50th anniversary reunion for No 1 Independant Selection Squadron, Royal Signals who had served at Gallowgate Camp, Catterick in early 1950. He had recently decided to extend this to include those who served with the Squadron at Beverley thus, I was looking forward to the event. In his letter to The WIRE, he reminded us all that we should, '…get off our butts and try and contact our old comrades of yesteryear'. Time, he said, was running out for many of us and we should make an effort to do just that. Sadly, Ken will not make his re-union as he suddenly passed away on 23 November, 1999.

Ken and I first met in December, 1950 when as newly qualified OWL B111's (Operator Wireless and Line for the new boys) we assembled in Aines Lines at Catterick for a draft to the newly re-formed 3rd Divisional Signal Regiment in Dovercourt, Harwich. We spent some ten months there in Baker Troop, he was Crew Commander Baker 2 and I had Baker 3. We pooled our pay, shared a civilian suit, shirt and tie and occasionally girl friends. This period cemented a friendship that has lasted almost fifty years. Since we both left the Corps, he in 1975 and I in 1978, we have kept in very close touch meeting up two or three times a year and a telephone chat most weeks. When either of us felt down we would phone the other recall a few anecdotes about times long gone, have a laugh about someone or something and our spirits would be lifted. This is what true comradeship has meant to me.

I shall miss him dearly but thankfully, I have a number of other ex-Corps people with whom I have a close and regular contact and the same spirit of comradeship exists. I would like to think that his final plea in his last letter to The WIRE was not ignored and could well serve as a epitaph and that we will, '…get off our butts and make an effort,' make contact with those friends of yesteryear and maybe go one step further and actually attend the 2000 Reunion at Blandford, I do hope so.

Yours Sincerely.....

Dear Sir,

May I, through The WIRE, pay tribute to Lt Col Don Herring, author of the book 'Jimmy's Apprentices'. An outstanding pictorial record of ex-Boys of the Corps. To those who haven't yet bought it. Do so, it will awaken many memories. Many Thanks. My best wishes for 2000.

Dear Sir,

It gives me great pleasure to forward the cheque for £1,000, a donation to the Royal Signals Benevolent Fund from the Old Comrades of the Eighth Army Signals/1647 Association past and present.

Our final reunion dinner on 23 October 1999 voted unanimously that this final balance should be donated to the Fund when our account was closed down. The final reunion was a great success with 28 Members and guests at table and a considerable number of regrets, with donations, were received from Members unable to attend.

A copy of the Menu card may be of interest and is enclosed. The toasts were made with due solemnity and there was many a moist eye in the silence following the penultimate toast.

Yours ever.....

I'll bet when this is over some bloody general will ask for a reunion!

Dear Sir,

I read with interest Mrs Vickers' letter in the December edition of The WIRE about her brother, Matthew Kelly, who served with 3 Air Formation Signals in Greece. I have known of her quest for some time but only now is the veil of time starting to lift.

The first RAF Squadron (30 Squadron equipped with a mix of Blenheim fighters and bombers) was dispatched to Greece immediately after the Italian invasion on 28 October, 1940, and was in action six days later.

3 Air Formation Signals was formed from 2 HQ Signals and did not arrive in the Middle East until March 1941. Not surprisingly the war diary of 3 Company (in Greece) did not start until 5 April 1941. The Company, commanded by Maj Aubrey B. Moore, left Greece during the period 24-27 April and arrived in Egypt on 29 April.

Mr W. Iorwerth Hughes served with the unit and he has recently written to me to explain that 3 Company, 3 AFS, originally went to Greece in November 1940 as 3 Company, 3 L of C Signals. To assist in the Air Formation Signals role, 15 Wing Signal Section (who had formed part of 1 AFS in France in support of the Air Component of the BEF) was dispatched from England to join them. To quote from his letter,

'...From memory I would say that it was mid-April that the detatchments were recalled to base. The enemy was advancing fast and our position became precarious. I think it was one in ten who were to stay behind and become prisoners of war. We all drew lots and those with a cross on their slip of paper stayed behind and the remainder made for the beaches of the Peloponese'.

It is interesting that the war diary makes no mention of members of the unit being required to stay at their posts until capture was inevitable but, in the turmoil of the time, perhaps understandable.

At the time of embarkation the unit consisted of Coy HWQ, 32 Dr Sect, 85 Tele Op Sect, 15 Wing Sig Sect, 19 Op Sect, 5 Constr Sect, 11 TM Sect and, surprisingly for an Air Formation Signals Unit, 57 WT Sect.

Yours Sincerely....

Dear Sir,

As a frequent visitor to the Isle of Wight I was intrigued by the story of 100 year old Reg Randall BEM (pages 522 – 590) which appeared in the December edition of The WIRE. It tells the story of his arrest of a WW2 saboteur Mrs D. O'Grady. I therefore made some enquiries into this episode and the following may be of some interest to your readers.

42 year old Mrs Dorothy O'Grady was tried in camera at Winchester on 16-17 December 1940. She was tried on a count of nine separate charges, was found guilty of seven and was sentenced to death. However, an appeal was made, also heard in camera, at the Old Bailey on 10 February, 1941. This resulted in the quashing of two capital charges and her sentence being reduced to one of 14 years. Ironically the original papers being prepared for her appeal were lost when a German bomb destroyed the chambers of her defending council, Mr Scott Henderson. Mrs O'Grady served the full 14 years and returned to the Isle of Wight in 1955. Her husband, a retired London Firemen, who had returned to the service following a wartime appeal was completely unaware of his wife's activities. Until the day she died Mrs O'Grady never gave a reason for her behaviour.

Adrian Searle's book, 'Isle of Wight at War' gives a full account of the Mrs O'Grady story.

With regards.....

Gerdes - Cpl Roger Keith 'Scouse' Gerdes served with the Royal Signalsfor 22 years finishing his service in 1993 at Harrogate. He passed away on 30 November aged 49 years. We extend our heartfelt sympathies to Mrs Gerdes and her family.

Whiles – Tony Whiles it is with great sadness that we report the death of Tony Whiles, who passed away at home on 21 December 1999. Tony was Secretary of our Branch and a founder member. The news of his death is a shock to all Branch Members, he was the backbone of the Branch. Tony served in the Corps from 1951/53 as a Lineman, but his whole working life was with Communications, 37 years with Post Office Telephones, which later became BT. The funeral service was held at Sutton Coldfield Crematorium on 6 January 2000 and was supported by Branch members led by Chairman, John Mobbs. Tony's coffin was draped with the Union flag, beret and Association Wreath. The Branch Standard was carried by Arthur Thomas accompanied by Standard Bearers from Royal British Legion (Tamworth) and The Staffordshire Regimental Association. The chapel was filled by family and friends, many from The Royal British Legion, where Tony was a loyal and active member. Our condolences go to Tony's children, Stephen, Christopher, Andrew and Susan. Our final tribute to Tony was on our Wreath, which read:

Farewell Tony
Look down on us
From the 'Certa Cito' Branch above
Till we all meet again
God Bless

Harris – Sgt J. Harris, it is with regret that RSA Glasgow has to announce the death of one of the founder members of the Branch, Sgt John M. B. Harris. He was a life Member of the RSA. John died in Gartnavel General Hospital Glasgow, on Wednesday 26 January 2000 at the age of 76. He suffered a massive heart attack after being admitted for treatment for a duodenal ulcer.

John served in the Corps from 1942 to 1947. His service included the UK, Italy, Africa and Holland. He was attached to the Parachute Regiment, in the Air Landing Brigade Royal Artillery Anti Tank Unit. He landed at Arnhem, was wounded in the leg and taken prisoner. He was a POW for nine months. John held the 1939/45 Star, France & Germany Star, Italy Star, and the War Medal 1939/45. John was a respected member of the Branch, known as 'the wee para'. He was well known for his work for raising funds for the Erskine Hospital, and encouraged anyone who would listen, to help if possible for the cause. He will be sadly missed for his cheerful patter. The service was held at the North Dalnottar Crematorium Clydebank, conducted by the Rev Jim Smith TD, chaplain to the Forces and Padre of 15 Para.

The coffin with a single wreath and John's red beret on top, was carried in to the chapel to the sound of the pipes, played by Pipe Major David Ritchie, playing 'My Home' and 'The Skye Boat' song. During the ceremony he played 'Highland Cathedral' and ended by playing 'Flowers of the Forest'. The Parachute Regiment Association Members paraded with three Standards. The Royal Signals Association Glasgow Branch Chairman, Bill Taylor, with twelve Branch Members paraded, to honour this comrade we had come to know so well. The Rev Jim Smith gave the eulogy, in which he mentioned that John on leaving the Forces, was employed by the CIS as an insurance agent. He was a man who was community minded, he also said that John was willing to help anyone, and having grown vegetables and flowers in his allotment, on many occasions gave the produce to those he felt needed it. The Padre mentioned John's charitable work for Erskine Hospital, always thinking of what good he could do in the Community, (I was informed that he and some others had collected in excess of £10,000 over the years, by standing outside supermarkets with collecting cans. For donations for Erskine Hospital.) Many times John had to be persuaded to leave, as he would stay until the stores closed if possible. John leaves a widow Helen and two married daughters, Christine and Helen. The Chairman of and Glasgow Branch Members extend their sincere condolences to the family in their sad loss.

Smee - Maj Stanley B. Smee sadly passed away December, 1999. He joined the TA prior to 1940 and as he had completed and passed an Electrical Engineering course he enrolled in the Royal Signals with the 8th Army -The Desert Rats, from 1940-46, rising to the rank of Major. He was mentioned in despatches for Distinguished Service in May, 1946. After the war he resumed his career with Phoenix Assurance Co Ltd. (now Royal & Sun Alliance) where he became the Property Investment Manager until he retired in July, 1979. He will be very much missed by all his family and his many friends.

Douglas S. Baikie - 'Dougie' Baikie died suddenly in Aberdeen on 6 February 2000, aged 54. Born in Edinburgh he enlisted in Royal Signals in 1961, when he left school. That year he joined the Army Apprentice College at Harrogate, where he trained as a Telegraph Operator. In 1963 he volunteered for Airborne Forces. The same year, when he passed 'P' Coy at Maida and Parachute Training at RAF Abingdon, he was posted to 216 Sig Sqn (Para Bde Group). At that time, although just 5' 6' tall, he was sturdy in build, extremely fit, and possessed a healthy Scots aggression to accompany his wiry red hair. In 1964 the uprising in Cyprus saw 16 Para Bde Group, supported by 216 Sig Sqn, in the front-line between Greek & Turkish armed factions. 'Dougie' served throughout the operational tour, for which he was awarded the UNFICYP Medal. In 1965 he joined 1 PARA on a tour of Bahrain and the Persian Gulf, during which the sun turned his reddish complexion even redder. For this operational tour he was awarded the GSM (1962) with clasp S. Arabia.

He married Joyce in 1966 and they had two sons. Jamie was born in 1974, and Duncan in 1978. Tragically, Duncan died in 1991 aged 13, when a valve in his heart failed.

In 1968 'Dougie' was awarded the Dennis Cup, a Squadron trophy, for the best all-round soldier in the rank of Corporal and below. Throughout the late 1960s and early 1970s he was a regular member of the Army Cross-country Running Squad, as well as representing the Squadron and Brigade at distance running. When 'Dougie' led-off and set the pace for Squadron road-runs, the toms knew that much pain was on the way! He also had a good reputation as a Radio Detachment Commander during these years. In 1971, newly promoted Sergeant, he served with 16 Para Bde HQ & Sig Sqn in Lurgan, on a tour of the Province. At the end of this operational tour he was awarded the clasp N. Ireland, to adorn his GSM. In 1974 he was promoted to Staff Sergeant, and in late 1975 to WO2 (SSM). He carried out his duties as SSM with relish, continuing to lead-off the Squadron road-runs. Disbandment of 16 Para Bde in 1977 meant that 'Dougie' was the final SSM of 216 Para Sig Sqn, before it too became history. So, after 15 years wearing a red beret, he had to leave Para Signals on a posting to Germany. He served in 21 Sig Regt at RAF Wildenrath, and later at 22 Sig Regt in Lippstadt. Soldiering outside the Para Brigade was not something that 'Dougie' enjoyed, at all.

For years after 1981 'Dougie' disappeared from OCA view, although we did hear he was a Radio Operator on North Sea Oil Rigs. I met him briefly in 1996, on his way off-shore through Shetland. I thought he looked smaller and wider than I remembered, but the years take their toll on everyone. He now wore small NHS glasses, which glinted above a full (ginger) beard streaked with grey. Yet his 'patter' was unchanged, and he was still a stroppy wee Jock. He spoke with feeling about the state of the oil industry, his particular job, and the failings of civvy street. He was most forceful when talking about his finest, happiest days - when he was with 216 Para Sigs. I can still hear him proclaiming, 'Never Never Craphat, always ex-Para!!' I could only agree. Ex-Paras, who knew 'Dougie' from his days in 16 Para Bde, will be sad to hear of his passing. His funeral was attended by Mick Granitza, who had the 'ABI' to take a red beret with him, to dress the casket. This small act was much appreciated by Jamie Baikie, who said he saw it as a fitting and final tribute to his father. His old comrades in Para Signals send their sincere condolences to Jamie and to Joyce. Farewell, DSB.

Potter – Sig J. W. D. Potter who died in April 1999, served with 'E' Section, 1st Para Bde, 1st Airborne Div, in Africa, Italy, Germany and Arnhem. He was captured and sent as a POW to Stalag XIB. He leaves behind his wife, Margery and his son and grandson, who both also served in the Royal Signals.

Lorriman – Eric Lorriman had been ill for some time. Some of the members of the Bradford Branch of the Association attended the funeral. Eric was very proud of his 8th Army connections and up to its closure, he was Chairman of the Pudsey Branch of the 8th Army. Association. He served as a Corporal/Linesman with 50th Div at Alamein and returned to the UK for D Day. Most of his time was spent with a light Ack Ack Regiment. He leaves behind a large family of children, grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren.

Kirby - Maj (Retd) C. F. (Bill) Kirby, MBE, TD. Bill Kirby died aged 97 on or about 20 February. He deserves a very good obituary. He was a master at Christ's Hospital where he ran a highly successful Signals Platoon from the mid-1920s to something like the mid-1960s. His enthusiasm and expertise in tactical signalling inspired very large numbers of ex-Christ's Hospital Boys to volunteer for service in the Royal Signals. Many of them gained regular commissions and an even greater number became wartime, national service and TA Officers.

One of his 'boys' was the cable officer of 2nd Inf Div in Kohima. In the 1960s and 1970s others were heading up the introduction of Clansman, responsible for the development of Bruin and commanding the Army's first satellite ground station. At least four Royal Signals Regiments have been commanded by ex-Christ's Hospital Officers trained by Bill Kirby. During WW2 Bill was, I believe, the Chief Instructor at 2 Operator Training Battalion. These are but a few examples of the largely unsung impact he made on our Corps. Col John West and others he could recommend would know more about Bill Kirby's earlier career and the war years. My own experience of his individual style of leadership began when he returned to the school in 1944 to carry out tests on crossing mud as part of invasion preparations (probably for Walcheren?), resume teaching biology and in his spare time, revitalise the JTC Signal Platoon. His arrival made an astonishing impact. It seemed that within weeks of his return he had recruited the Signal Platoon to Company size and kitted it out with signalling equipment scrounged from all over.

He was a polymath, a great eccentric with a dry sense of humour that appealed to the young. He seemed to know about everything. He taught us heliograph, lamp signalling, telephony, fullerphone, radio theory and HF operating, mended the wirelesses, took Morse in his head at 25wpm and taught cable laying like no one else. He made it fun. When it came to 'Cert A', the infantry bit, he allocated three weeks off signalling for a crash course and we all passed. I have clear memory of the whole platoon doing words of command en bloc with him conducting like a choirmaster from the other side of the rugby pitch. We did voluntary Morse in our spare time. When you got up to 12wpm you were allowed to be a proper radio operator. Our grounding was so good that I was a long time in the Corps before I met anything really new in tactical signalling.

He eventually retired from teaching and the reserve Army and spent a long and honoured retirement in a walled off part of his old laboratory, surrounded by radios, bee-keeping kit and fermenting barrels of mead. The school marked his 80th birthday by a formal dinner attended by some 500 people, many of them with Corps connections. He never married but his other family was enormous.

(Following Col Jarrett's comments above, we received the following enhancement and publish it in its' entirety - Editor).

Bill Kirby's first involvement with the Signals was in the Cambridge University OTC during the early 1920s. He was studying medicine, but was persuaded by the then Headmaster of his old school, Christ's Hospital, to return there as a Biology Master. It was then that he formed the Signal Platoon in the Christ's Hospital OTC modelled on the Cambridge version.

During World War 2, after the Operator Training Battalion, he was chosen to work in Army Research, specialising in improving cross-country performance for both men and machines. He once addressed a War Office Committee, 'Good morning. I am Bill Kirby. I study mud!'

Of the older generation, mention should be made of two other Royal Signals 'Old Blues': Maj Gen Tony Tighe, who became Signal Officer in Chief and Col Tommy Grigg, who commanded 4 Signal Regiment and was later Officer IC Records. Neither was actually in the Signals Platoon at School, but both followed Bill Kirby's lead into the Corps and kept in close touch with him afterwards. When he finally retired from the Cadet Force, at the age of 70, he was awarded a particularly well earned MBE, for services to the Royal Signals and to the Army.

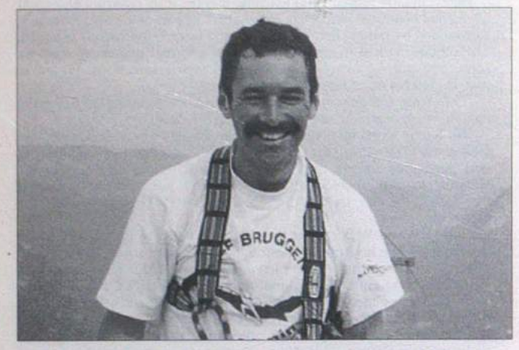
Casson – H. C. Casson, born on 29 October 1926, had high hopes of a military career. Like many young lads, during the Second World War, Harry was keen to join the Army despite, at fifteen, being underage for full military service. He discovered that he could apply to become an Army Apprentice and having passed the necessary exams and attribute tests, at the recruiting centre in Liverpool, he was accepted for training in 1942. Initially he joined the General Service Corps as a Boy A/T at the Army Technical School, Chepstow, to undertake engineer training. However, in mid 1942 his father, who was then serving in the Royal Corps of Signals, claimed him. In August 1942 he was posted to Catterick Camp where he joined the Boys' Training Company. In July 1943 he qualified as an OWL, but shortly afterwards he became ill. Unfortunately he was graded unfit for further military training and this keen, popular young soldier had his hopes dashed. In September 1943 he was given a medical discharge and reluctantly began a second career outside the Army eventually founding his own business. Happily his military story does not end there (ex-254 Boys are a very tenacious group): in 1990 he was discovered to be living in Waterlooville. By good fortune this led to him becoming reunited with his boys service colleagues, many of whom remembered him. He and his wife Janet attended a 254 Weekend Reunion and have kept intouch ever since. Harry is remembered with honour. A number of his former 254 comrades attended his funeral and are much saddened by his sudden death. We extend our deepest sympathy to Janet and his family.

Forrester - Sgt Colin Richard Forrester, it is with great sadness that 7th Signal Regiment, based in Bradbury Barracks Krefeld, must report the untimely death of Sgt C. R. Forrester. Colin Forrester was a member of the Regiment's Technical Maintenance Troop and had served with the Regiment since September 1997.

Sgt Forrester joined the Royal Corps of Signals in April 1991 and completed his basic training in Catterick with 11th Signal Regiment and subsequently training as a Telecommunication Technician (Radio) with 8th Signal Regiment. After completing his training he was posted to 216 Parachute Signal Squadron, Aldershot and successfully passed the selection process and parachute training in 1993. He was to serve with the Squadron until 1996, deploying with 5 Airborne Brigade on a United Nations Mission to Rwanda in 1994. He is remembered in the Squadron for his enthusiasm, vitality and fitness, this being especially noteworthy in a Squadron that prides itself on these characteristics. He represented the Squadron at cross-country and in the Lanyard Trophy (an endurance competition), and also canoed and rock-climbed in his spare time. After successfully completing his final trade course at the Royal School of Signals in Blandford, Sgt Forrester joined 7th Signal Regiment at Krefeld, with whom he served until his recent disappearance. He will be remembered as an intelligent, intense and determined man who proved his worth time and time again. He represented the Regiment at cross-country, long-distance walking, endurance competitions and orienteering. He deployed with the Regiment on Operation Agricola, in March 1999 and remained in Kosovo until November 1999. It was during his post-operational tour leave that Sgt Forrester completed the Day Skipper's Course improving his sea navigational skills prior to an attempt to cross the Channel.

An enthusiatic and accomplished canoist, it was widely known that Sgt Forrester had hoped one day to be able to row single-handedly across the Atlantic. Sadly it would seem that he died during a practice attempt, preparing himself for just such a crossing. On 31 December 1999, Sgt Forrester's Kelepper canoe was washed ashore on the Dutch coast and his body was later recovered on 16 February 2000.

Our thoughts are now with his family and friends. He will be warmly remembered in 7th Signal Regiment and the Royal Corps of Signals as a remarkable character, whose determination and spirit of adventure was an inspiration to all who knew him.



Collins - SSgt Paul W. Collins it is with much sadness that the untimely death of former Sgt Paul 'PC' Collins was announced on 19 February 2000, following a long and courageous fight against Leukaemia.

'PC' joined the Corps in May 1973 as a Driver Lineman; following training he was posted to 22 Signal Regiment. 'PC's' subsequent 22-year military career saw service in a variety of Royal Signals units in Germany and the UK. 'PC' was an accomplished sportsman and gained representative honours at cricket, athletics and rugby. It is without doubt, however, his prowess on the rugby field is what he will be best remembered for. A hard uncompromising player with fitness levels of the highest order, 'PC' played at all representative levels in the Army. He had the honour of captaining the Corps XV on many ocassions and was a proud member of the first Royal Signals unit team, 7th Signal regiment, to win the Army Challenge Cup in 1984.

'PC' retired from the Corps in July 1995 but continued his association with the Army by accompanying his wife Tina, a Captain in the the QARANC, on a tour to Hong Kong. Tina and 'PC' subsequently moved to Camberley in May 1998 when Tina became the Matron of the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst MRS.

Throughout his career 'PC'made many friends, they were not just confined to his rugby colleagues, due to his caring nature, easy humour and general love of life. He remained fiercely loyal to the Corps and a great ambassador for the Army. The number who attended his funeral in Aldershot on 25 February bear testament to the huge respect and love that he had gained throughout his life. He will be sorely missed but leaves a legacy in his determination to promote awareness and research into the treatment of Leukaemia, which will be continued.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to his wife, Tina, who displayed so much courage and determination during 'PC's' final battle.

Brydon - Sig Montgomery Brydon it is with great regret that the Glasgow Branch of the Royal Signals Association, of which he was a life member, announce the sudden death of one of it's founder members. Monty, as he was affectionately known, died in St. Margaret's Hospice, Clydebank, on Saturday 4 March 2000. He had originally been taken to the Western Infirmary, Glasgow, for tests and was then admitted to Gartnavel Hospital, Glasgow, for further tests. It was then discovered that he had a tumour on the liver. Monty was then transferred to St. Margaret's Hospice where he died peacefully a week later, at the age of 68.

Monty served in the Corps from 21 July 1949 to 12 August 1951. His service included the United Kingdom and a spell in Egypt with 3 GHQ Signals Middle East Land Forces. He was a Driver in the service and after leaving the service, he continued in that career. A well liked and respected Branch member, his forte was to sell as many football cards as possible at the Branch meetings, to raise money for Branch funds. Monty was also a keen member of the Branch attending the Annual Reunion at Catterick and subsequently at Blandford. Also visits to 32 (Scottish) Signal Regiment's (V) Annual Camp. His last visit was to their Camp at Cameron Barracks in Inverness in September 1999. As mentioned in the December 1999 issue of The WIRE, he, being a Driver by trade both during and after his service, had mastered the technique of driving the lorries with the trailer at the front between the cones, with aplomb. It was one of the tests we had volunteered to take part in during our visit. As the sole passenger in my car, he was very good company on the long journey from Glasgow to Inverness, both going and returning. He mentioned to me that his wife Margaret would not believe that he had not had a cigarette for over two hours, between a stopover on the journey and our arrival.

On leaving the service Monty was employed by the then Clevland Oil Company, driving oil tankers. He also became a Glasgow taxi driver and then finally a chauffeur with Glasgow District Council. He retired at the age of 60 owing to ill health. He was a keen gardener and although his garden was on a steep slope, he had had it terraced and made to look very attractive, even in September, when I saw it last.

The funeral service held at the North Dalnottar Crematorium, Clydebank, was conducted by Rev. Lee of St. Margaret's church, Knightswood Cross, Glasgow. The Minister gave the eulogy with a good deal of knowledge of Mont's background. The chapel was packed with relatives, friends and neighbours. The Chairman of Glasgow RSA, Bill Taylor, along with twenty Branch members and Bill MacNamara, the Branch Standard Bearer, parading the Branch Standard, attended the service to honour a much liked friend and comrade.

Monty leaves his widow Margaret, two daughters, Sandra and Margaret, his sons William and John and his grandchildren. The Glasgow Branch extend sincere condolences to the family in their sad loss, and the Members have also lost a good friend who will be missed at meetings.

RETENTION – WHERE TO CONCENTRATE OUR EFFORT?

by Maj P. D. Peel R SIGNALS

What is left to be said about retention? We have had working groups, focus groups and discussion groups yet we still seem to be losing our soldiers as fast as we can train them. I believe that we probably now have a very good idea why our soldiers are leaving. What I sometimes feel we lack is an equally clear understanding of where we should concentrate our efforts to retain our soldiers; especially at Squadron and Regimental level where little can be done to influence such issues as pay and terms of service. This letter represents my personal view on where that focus should be, coloured by my experience of a 6 month tour in Kosovo.

For me, retention is all about motivation. Put very simply, motivated soldiers should have no desire to leave the Army and thus by motivating them, you retain them. Not particularly ground breaking I appreciate, but central to my line of reasoning. As an aside, I believe talking about motivation starts you off on a much more positive footing than talking about retention. Instinctively I feel I can do a lot more about motivating soldiers than I can do about merely retaining them. For me the word 'Retention' has too much baggage and evokes feelings of defeatism and helplessness.

If one accepts that retention is about motivation, then the issue becomes one of how to motivate our soldiers. Whilst there are some distinct differences between what motivates a soldier and his civilian counterpart, especially when it comes to the battlefield, there are also many similarities. This link enables us to draw on the work of the social scientists that have researched motivation in the workplace. Fortunately for us their work is reasonably accessible and you do not have to delve too deeply into the 'psychobabble' before coming up with something useful.

Whilst at RMCS Shrivenham, I stumbled across some work on motivation that made particular sense to me by Frederick Herzberg. From his research, he grouped the factors that he believed influenced motivation into two categories. These can be seen in the diagram. The first category he called motivators, which he claimed were the factors that led to extreme satisfaction in a job. In this category he placed achievement, recognition, the work itself, responsibility, promotion and personal growth. The second category he termed hygiene factors. He defined these as the, 'physical or psychological aspects' of a job. In this category he placed such things as company policy, supervision, relationship with supervisor and peers, salary, personal life etc.

To my mind, the real value of Herzberg's work comes next. He came to the conclusion that if you want to motivate someone you need to focus on strengthening the motivators and that you cannot motivate people by concentrating on improving hygiene factors alone. By improving hygiene factors you might lessen someone's dissatisfaction with a job but would not be able to motivate them to do a job. So for example, you might give your soldiers every night off guard, you might pay them more, you could free them of 'over-bearing' supervision and even be the best boss in the world but this will not get them jumping out of bed to do a monotonous and uninteresting job. It will purely mean that they are less 'hacked-off' with their lot. This factor also explains why financial retention incentives don't have such pulling power.

Frederick Herzberg - Work and the Nature of Man

So if we want to motivate our soldiers, and thus retain them, Herzberg believes we need to focus on his motivators. We need to challenge our soldiers in order to give them a sense of achievement. We need to give them recognition for that achievement. We need to make their work more interesting, give them more responsibility and ample opportunity for personal growth and promotion. If we can do this, then in theory we will start to win the retention battle.

My own personal experience as the Adjutant at 3rd Division, and in Kosovo at the time of writing, bears out Herzberg's work. In the Summer of 1993, 3rd Division Signal Regiment returned from Germany. For the first 12 months back in the UK, the Regiment's Ptarmigan Squadrons went into an almost endless round of exercises on Salisbury Plain supporting brigade CPXs. To ensure coverage across the Plain, the Trunk Squadrons were prevented from moving and thus soldiers spent the majority of their time stuck in one place, monitoring a very stable system. There was no challenge in their job and the soldiers' sense of achievement was minimal. These exercises were also going on at a time when promotion had effectively been blocked because of the Option Whisky redundancies. The combination of these two factors ensured that the requests to 'sign-off' flooded in.

The Regiment worked up a retention action plan that initially focused on all of the 'wrong' things. In Herzberg's terminology, we tried to win the retention battle by focusing on improving the hygiene factors. We looked at cutting down the guards, giving people Friday afternoons off, giving them better welfare facilities and free trips into Salisbury in the evenings. We couldn't influence pay or soldier's living conditions but these were also considered. This didn't stem the flood and we were eventually forced to put a Ptarmigan Trunk Squadron into light care and preservation in 1994 due to shortages in manpower.

Around this time, the remaining trunk squadron started its training for a deployment to N. Ireland and the Regiment as a whole started to get onto more overseas trips to places such as Cyprus, Belize and Sardinia. Promotions also started to come through again. Slowly but surely, we started to win the fight to retain our soldiers. We stumbled over the solution but had no real model to explain the turnaround. Herzberg would explain it by pointing to the fact that we only started to make headway when we focused on his motivators. Improving soldiers lifestyle purely made them less dissatisfied with their lot. When we cut out the boring static exercises and started challenging our soldiers and giving them a sense of achievement, we began to win the retention battle.

I believe we are still falling into the trap of focusing in the wrong areas. I recently caught sight of a questionnaire designed to draw out why soldiers were leaving. Needless to say nearly all of the factors on the questionnaire were hygiene factors: money, disruption, lifestyle etc. Factors which, if redressed, would lessen dissatisfaction but once again not motivate soldiers towards their work. I recently interviewed a very bright and positive Lance Corporal who said he wanted to leave so he could have his weekends to himself and get more privacy. He said he was also tired of the number of tours he was doing. I asked him, if I were to guarantee him privacy, no guards at weekends and no more tours for two years whether he would extend his service. In theory, I had met his grievances and therefore surely he had no reason to leave. He declined my offer and slowly what I believe were the real reasons he had decided to leave, came out. As he later recognised, he was no longer getting any sense of achievement from his work which consisted of seemingly endless days spent in radio rooms working on ancient equipment on 'operations'. He felt he was going nowhere; he felt he was just marking time.

The boring 'Garrison style' jobs we have taken on in the Balkans are also no ally in our attempts to give our soldiers a sense of achievement. When assessed against Herzberg's motivator factors it can be seen why:

Achievement. I feel there is little challenge in the work that our soldiers do on Peace Support Operations. Six months spent on a radio detachment or in a radio room can be a real 'killer' for motivation. And it doesn't happen overnight, it creeps up on soldiers and before you know it you have lost them; a kind of 'death by a thousand cuts'. Despite the best will in the World, forced inactivity becomes institutionalised and the only challenge becomes one of maintaining standards in a long battle of endurance against boredom.

Recognition. Lenny Henry used to have a line worked into his routine asking why the police didn't stop you when you drove well. They would stop you for speeding or dangerous driving but would never pull you over to tell you how well you 'took a corner'. It has almost become an unwritten law of life that Signallers only get noticed or recognised when something goes wrong. The phone goes dead, the lights go out, the food's cold – we get recognition but sadly the wrong type. When we do get praise, it can often feel phoney especially if our own personal sense of achievement doesn't match what is being heaped upon us.

The Work Itself. As mentioned before, there is little excitement to be gained from being sat in static locations, with old equipment or doing other very low value 'command support' tasks. All of this is a far cry from the army recruiting posters.

Responsibility. We preach mission command but I still don't believe that we practice it. To my mind everything points towards the old adage that 'an Officer will gladly give up his life but not his career'. I feel that the Army is not a place where mistakes are tolerated. On Balkan tours it has also been my experience that there is often not very much responsibility to go around. As soon as you have worked out detachment commanders for rebroadcast stations and the radio room supervisors, there is precious little left.

To return to my central message, I believe the retention battle is a 'motivation battle'. We can give our soldiers days off, get them off the front gate guard and fight for better pay and conditions for them. But if we really want to retain them, I believe we must concentrate, first and foremost, on giving them a sense of purpose and achievement. Doing this on operations in the Balkans can be hard. Therefore if we want to turn the corner in the retention battle at the macro level we need to get our soldiers away from 6-month tours spent mostly monitoring equipment and doing low value command support tasks. They want, and deserve, something better. In this respect, it is pleasing to see the drive being put behind the commercialisation of the communications infrastructure in the Balkans.

Having put my head above the parapet, I would be grateful for any comments people might have on this, my attempt to steer a course through the retention swamp.

244 SIGNAL SQUADRON

ALPHA TROOP AMF(L) - by Cpl Paul Annetts

Tp Comd Capt W. R. Holbrook
Tp SSgt SSgt D. Sheerin MBE

The normal beginning then for the usual WIRE notes routine, let's say goodbye to a few members of the Troop: In no particular order then, seeya's to SSgt (YofS) Scott 'Pieman' Logan, deserting the Troop to be Sqn YofS, 150 yards up the road at 220! LCpl Daz Daniels who's off to the sunny delights of 14 Sig Regt, on promotion, Mr. Dave Marlor who by now will be skipping down civvy street, and finally to our illustrious backbone, Sgt Tim Tomkinson off on his, cheers easy crypto and then YofS course, hats off fellas. Into the Troop fold we welcome LCpls 'Elts' Eltringham from JCUNI, 'Spud' Evans from 16 Air Assault Bde, Sig 'Blodwin' Owens from the factory and finally Sig Matt Simpson from 15 Sig Regt.

Well it was back to Earth with a bang after the habitual self abuse of the New Year and the anti-climax of the Millennium.....no bugs in sight. We were greeted on the first day with a briefing from the CO telling us, that due to health and safety regulations, we could no longer work in the asbestos filled, rain leaking, electrically shorted, unheated and badly lit hangars, as we had been doing for a number of years. So although the order from the CO not to do any work was greeted by some with whoops of joy, with only three weeks remaining until we deployed to the barren Arctic wastes of Norway, Alpha Tp felt the heat turning up! The same decision a few weeks later and we would have probably found us cart-wheeling down the streets of Colerne, but in good old Army tradition we adapted and overcame – (worked like stink when our kit was de-contaminated really!) and deployed in a ready state.

Thanks go out from all the novices to Sig Andy Day who, when as courier, stopped their pocket contents from swelling. Whilst doing a unit pickup at Donnington for 100 Recco Reflectors (Avalanche locators-about 8cm long) was almost palmed off with Rover reflectors – Land Rover Reflectors!! Well spotted Andy, obviously the Lance Corporal in you trying to get out – MCM Div take note.

Exercise Hardfall 2000, is the UK element's Cold Weather environment training exercise. Starting on 30 January 2000, two courses were running concurrently, one with the AMF(L) Log Btn on which the lads from the Troop were participating and one run by 249th Sig Sqn, on which I was fortunate to be instructing, with the females and attached personnel on this course. With different levels of success, everyone was qualified to deploy North. A special mention must go to Cpl 'Scouse' Alston who completed the 12km ski race well ahead of all other novices, and beating myself (resident MSI!) by a margin of approximately one minute. Personally, I blame it on the fact people didn't like the idea of a Scouser where they couldn't see him so allowed him in front so they could keep an eye on him, not that I'm one to whinge! Another mention must go to Sig 'Taff' Charnley who was awarded a certificate for most morale on the course!- it didn't stop there as he got frost nip where only 'Taff' can.....due to the lack of pants in temperatures of -14°C.

Although initially sharing accommodation with a fellow Corps unit, when 249 Sig Sqn had their main body arrive, Mjolfjell a small hamlet East of Voss was not big enough for the both of us. The Troop acquired a hostel a few kilometres down the road where it was possible to accommodate the Troop in it's entirety. With mountains, snow and blue sky the continuation training days were enjoyable, not mentioning the real log fire, piano and a couple of cases of Double Ice that ensured the evening debriefs were cosy.

Finally, a short anecdote on how not to cut hair; As word spread around the tight camp at Mjolfjell of the Troop barber, my room seemed to take on the look of a down trodden hair salon. I, Cpl 'Vidal' Annetts, resident hair guru (not!) had the boss, Capt Holbrook, and the Troop Staffy, SSgt Daz 'RQ' Sheerin MBE, (who has just been selected for promotion), arrive for, 'Just a trim please.' Successfully completing the Troop Staffy's hair, a practice, for the man who writes my CR, I was engaged in lots of banter on how I would screw it up and cut too much off - I reached for the scissors. Whether it was all the skiing, I'm not sure, but I ended up cutting a little too wildly. Seeing the funny side the boss allowed me to use the clippers on a No. 4. In the low lit room I inadvertently picked up a No.2 guard and only realised after the second stroke...oops. Thinking things could get no worse I decided not to tell Capt Holbrook and continued. It was the boss who informed me 30 seconds later that the guard had fallen completely off. I had dealt one monk making, Rabi resembling, unguarded clipper blow to my boss's head!!!!!- right on the crown – I felt sick. The accommodation block was rocked by laughter, none of it was mine or the boss's. Four days later he met the new Comd of AMF(L), Maj Gen Holmes and DCinC Land – only a three star! – he wore his hat on both occasions. By the way I'm writing these notes from the Army Correction Centre and I'm on course for a F4 CR. The Troop will be in Hungary on Ex Ardent Ground 2000 by the time you read this.....its a hard life!

7TH SIGNAL REGIMENT KAPE TOUR 2000 NORTHERN IRELAND

By Lt Caroline Evans

This year's KAPE was rather unusual, not simply because it was the first of a new Millennium: It was a somewhat historic visit, as the Royal Signals' 'Jimmy' had not been sighted on a recruiting tour in Northern Ireland for at least eleven years. Lt Caroline Evans led a team of five enthusiastic volunteers, consisting of Cpl 'Snowy' Blezard, LCpl 'Paddy' McFarland, LCpl 'Glen' Moffat, Sig 'Tropo' Jay Preston and Sig 'Canada' Dave Whitehurst.

The Team went over with the Royal Signals Mobile Presentation Team, and the workload was divided into two areas: The RSNIPT took on the schools presentations, while the KAPE Team had their work cut out, promoting the image of the Royal Signals, as well as the Army in general, taking display caravans to five towns around the province.

The team were very well looked after by CSM Simon Nichols from the Irish Guards, who provided a useful running commentary about local places of interest (Daft Eddy's, The Dirty Duck etc). He also proved invaluable for fielding the numerous queries for more information about the Royal Irish Home Service, as despite the Royal Signals badges and posters all over the caravan, few people recognised at first who we were. We also had help from a close protection team of four Royal Irish, in civilian clothes. These provided local knowledge, as well as being experienced recruiters themselves. Belfast provided the 'in at the deep end' type start we were looking for, with some colourful comments from passing six-year-olds, and the odd taxi using us as target practise for his trigger fingers.

Ballymena was a great deal more welcoming the following day, as in spite of the weather the people were happy to stop and talk. One elderly fellow who had obviously been celebrating something for a while was happy to share his experiences of life as a Para Engineer during the war. He obviously wasn't used to seeing girls in uniform as, after peering somewhat blearily at Lt Evans, he was heard to enquire, 'Is that a wee boy or a wee girl?'

Coleraine was by far the best day. We took the large caravan, with 349s for the children to play with. It was half term, so hundreds of relieved and exhausted mothers dumped their children with us, to give them a rest. There we're also a number of teenagers who showed a positive interest, and they certainly held suitable academic qualifications.

LATE NEWS.....LATE NEWS.....LATE NEWS

The RSMPT and the KAPE Team joined forces on Wednesday evening, to host a group of fifty or so AC17 Cadets at Palace Barracks. The cadets were shown the latest Royal Signals equipment, and were given the chance to ask plenty of questions about life in the Army. They were particularly interested to hear about the first hand accounts of life in Kosovo and Macedonia, as all the KAPE members had deployed there on Operation Agricola last year.

The final two days covered Newtownards and Lisburn. Newtownards, or 'Ards' as the locals called it, was a friendly market town with plenty going on. Having been banned from getting a haircut prior to the tour, Sig 'Tropo' Preston went for a free 'number one' at CSM Nichols' wife's shop. As the RSMPT had no schools visits that day, the KAPE team borrowed their two IARRCIS terminals, linked up for emails. Lisburn proved particularly popular, as the caravan was set up opposite the YMCA cafe, where we were introduced to the delights of Bacon Sodas, Potato Bread and the Ulster Fry, a guaranteed artery clogger! CSM Nichols impressed us all with his BMX stunts, and LCpl Moffat won the prize for finding the youngest recruit (his cousin's daughter).

It was a highly intensive week, very much a KAPE Tour rather than with the emphasis on recruiting. The RSNIPT were there for that side, as they had the target audience, having access to schools. It was very rewarding, and certainly showed how important it is for the Army to keep in touch with the civilian world. It took very little effort to start talking to passers-by, who were always willing to stop, and one could see immediately how people relaxed when they found a person behind the uniform. This sort of tour may not boost recruiting figures dramatically, but we could all see how much good it does for the reputation of the Army, simply by breaking down the barriers and going out and meeting people.

'JIMMY'S APPRENTICES'

by Lt Col (Retd) D. P. Herring

Review by Col (Retd) C. J. Walters

Lt Col Don Herring was a TOT and served in the Corps until his retirement in 1982. His career commenced in October 1943 when he joined the Boys' Training Company at Catterick.

Don's book is a pictorial record of all the Apprentice Boy intakes that joined between the years 1942 and 1948. He has obtained photographs of all intakes and listed them by name. Such famous names are on display as Ribchester, Pavey, P. Sharp, Soward and Grigsby. He also gives a brief history of Boy Entrants to the Corps and the trades they could train for.

There is a tribute also to the 254 BTC Old Boys Association. This is a must for anyone of that era and is available from the Museum Shop at £7.99.

A SIGNAL HONOUR WITH THE CHINDITS AND XIV ARMY IN BURMA

By Robin Painter.
ISBN 0 85052 707 4 - £19.95

Review by David Horsfield

A special relationship often develops between those in charge of training Officer Cadets and the eager young men embarking on a military career, whether this is in time of peace or the conscripted service of wartime. Robin Painter was one of my Cadets in Mhow in Central India in 1942. Robin was an outstanding Cadet, passing out top of his course, an achievement that projected him immediately into a most difficult assignment that he did well to survive. In the few years from his schooldays to the end of his service in Burma he had marvellous variety of experience. Above all his story illustrates how a young officer, still in his teens found himself in totally strange circumstances of geography, language, removal from military support and separation from all superiors - and survived. It also illustrates well the severe threat from debilitating and life threatening illness, which was all part of the Burma war. Formal training provided little assistance in the circumstances that he faced, particularly the preparatory training given to the majority of the Wingate Troops. He was thrown back on his own resources in what a Pakistan General, in different circumstances described as 'cave man soldiering'. Wars often produce the unexpected. This book illustrates for young and old the excitement or worse of recognising imminent disaster and the satisfaction of delivering oneself and one's soldiers from the apparent jaws of death.

ON ROYAL SIGNALS AUTHORS

Maj Gen D. R. Horsfield

I have beside me ten books by Signals authors of the Corps, all of whom, but one, I have known well. Three concern Brig Ralph Bagnold, desert explorer, inventor of the Long Range Desert Group and in due course a Fellow of the Royal Society. His sister was the established writer; Enid Bagnold so writing was in the family. Two are by Maj Gen Tony Deane-Drummond, whose military exploits were of commanding interest to a wide audience. The remaining five, good stories though they may be, are principally of Royal Signals interest. Any idea that these are written for financial gain is very wide of the mark. There is family interest and there should be greater interest within the Corps. The question their authors have to face is this. How many thousands of pounds will it have cost them in the final assessment after the book has been put on the market and sales have dried up? The authors I have read have good tales to tell and all are plainly proud of the Corps that they have served. Can more be done to promote these books? Even asking for a book from a library increases its sales.

MEMORIES – PART TWO

by Mr B. Spencer

We were allowed a respite after the initial landing on Sicily so the group went to the small town of Avola. Here our billet was the Fascist HQ (with Mussolini's portrait glowering down on us) and the local telephone exchange across the street. When we first went into the exchange, someone suggested we try and find out if it was working. Picking up a cord plug I inserted it into a socket on the panel and a pleasant female voice came from the headset, 'Pronto.' Not knowing the language or the response I withdrew the plug. Later we found out it meant, 'Ready,' and she would connect you to the person you wanted to communicate with. At any rate, at least we knew that it was working. A retired teacher, who lived in part of the building, could speak fluent French so, with our school French, we fraternised with the rest of the locals in the evenings – gathered on seats outside. The campaign was coming to an end, when our next move was to the fields on the hillside above Catania. Waking in the morning between the vines was a pleasure, as you just stretched your arm out and picked a big bunch of black grapes for starters before breakfast. The farmer had said that it was OK as he didn't have anyone to bring in the harvest.

Being Infantry trained and Combined Operators instructed we were ready for anything and we were given an assignment which meant going down to the harbour to board a motor torpedo boat. The vessel bounced along at speed for hours, about a quarter of a mile from the coast until we came, in darkness, to a boulder strewn wide shore at the foot of some cliffs at the top of which was the resort of Taormina. A faint sound of music came from the Commandos HQ. They were already on their way across the Messina Straits to ascertain what the German intentions were, now that most of their still effective forces had managed to retreat to Italy. Information we had been given was that the Germans, on a previous occasion had followed the Commandos without them knowing back to their base, some catacombs, and killed them by throwing in hand grenades. We were there to ensure it didn't happen again. The music high up stopped, a signal they were returning, the only sound was the breaking of the waves on the pebbles. A short while afterwards came a pad, pad, pad of their feet on the wet sand, as they carried their canoes and ran to climb up the steep pathway to the top, then silence again. Would the Germans commandos come? Every man felt tense as we positioned ourselves round boulders, with revolvers at the ready to aim at anything that moved at the water's edge. Time dragged till at last in the early light of dawn we were told to stand down and return to the boat; after a sleep we arrived back at Catania.

Makeshift plans were being made in a hurry for the invasion of Italy. The information from the Commandos was that most of the German forces were pulling away from the coast to a more strategic line, leaving Italian Marines etc to do the defending. A landing craft transport was ready for sailing in the harbour as our Section went aboard. Officer IC, Sergeant, Corporal and three Operators, with No 18 sets strapped to our backs. There was also a soldier with a mine detector. There was limited space for standing, as in the middle was an American Jeep for reconnaissance purposes. Around this were military police, cyclists and all manner of specialist personnel who would be required to take control and operate as soon as the invasion started. As usual it was dark when the convoy set off at a steady speed till we turned to starboard and went straight for Reggio Di Calabria on the 'toe'. The sounds of whistling and whirring shells was heard as they flew overhead, fired by the 8th Army artillery from the outskirts of Messina. Getting nearer the Italian coast it was apparent that some property had been hit and there was plenty of smoke about. Our officer was looking for a particular landmark to guide us onto the landing beach, but not seeing it he asked the coxswain to proceed further up the coast. As we passed a promontory a machine gun suddenly opened up with red and white hot bullets hitting the side of the craft and ricocheting into the air. Immediately the boat was turned to go further away and the Officer IC said to the coxswain to return to the place we'd started from. 'If we don't find it this time,' he said, 'You can get out and walk, I've other people to drop off.' We did find it in broad daylight, the ramp went down and seven of us trooped off. The craft quickly pulled away. A few shots rang out from a dry river bed with its exit lined with a high wall which curved round to the back of the beach on either side. As one man, we all flattened down on the edge of the lapping water, half in and half out. Ready cocked revolvers appeared and were pointed at the top of the wall opposite us. We waited for something to happen. After a while the officer motioned for the Operator to start his Mine Detector and walk slowly up the beach, nothing was found. The Officer then proceeded to follow him stepping into his footprints, we all did likewise, in Indian-file. As we reached comparative safety against the wall, and to break the tension a bit, I softly sang 'Following my father's footsteps, following my dear old dad.' Suddenly from out of the blue came the screech of six mortar bombs, one after the other in quick succession, landing right on the waterline we had just left. Thank God we had moved when we did or it would have been the end for us. The waterproofed sets were opened up, when round the corner from the river-bed came two Italian marines, with their hands on their heads. They were followed by a Scottish soldier chivvying them along with his rifle. His khaki jacket was opened at the front and high up on his chest I saw a round red bullet-hole. 'You've caught one Jock,' I said. 'Yes, third time unlucky, maybe I'll get a bit of home-leave with it.' Pushing his prisoners past us, they disappeared out of sight. The Sergeant then asked the Corporal and I to find a place for the signal office. Luckily we found one next to the promenade with a substantial sloping exit/entrance nearby. General Montgomery, with his caravans etc came ashore a few days later and signed our diary. You could say that we were part of the first service people to return to the mainland of Europe after its recapturing in part, from the enemy. George Formby, soon afterwards, gave us an impromptu entertainment on the two small fishing boat keels which I got ready for him, with Beryl his wife on one, and him on the other. 'Eh, it's turned out nice again,' he began. Meanwhile a few soldiers came up to hear him play his 'uke' and then the Italians from the prom came down. I don't think they knew what he was singing about but at the end they gave him plenty of applause. The Western Brothers did their singing comedy pieces at a later date, just before the Section loaded into a truck and travelled the long road to Taranto in the instep of the 'heel' of Italy. (This was their equivalent of our Portsmouth). We had a flat in the city centre and it was good to go out and window shop, not too far, we had to be cautious. After a week of relaxing, the officer told us we had to catch up with the main army who were now going up the Adriatic coast, but instead of the truck he had decided to go by train which had just been repaired – as it would be quicker. Arriving at the station we discovered a smallish carriage coupled up, having three compartments, no gangway and no toilet. It left, six to a compartment, in a cloud of steam. We travelled through the countryside which made us feel more relaxed. We were even able to open the windows with the leather strap attached to them, to take in the fresh air. After about an hour what appeared to be a river, in the distance, came into view and the train stopped. The door opened and the Sergeant told us to sit one at each window and two in the middle, not to move but to remain seated. When he'd gone the train moved slowly towards the 'river' but upon getting near to the edge we found that it was not a river but a ravine! The pioneers had been able to cut a lot of nearby trees into logs to build two pylons, one each side of the stream, with the criss-crossed logs. On top of these were 'bailey bridges' and railway lines which took us across the ravine. It looked and was a brand new construction and we were the guinea pigs to try it out. Very slowly the engine ran onto the bridge. There was the sound of creaking logs, as the weight compressed the wood, then a slope developed down to the middle. The engine tried to go up the other half but failed and we were suspended in the middle. I looked at my rigid mates and they were scarcely breathing, in my own mind I recalled the old cinema films. You know the ones, where a train travelling at speed went on to a trestle bridge which suddenly collapsed causing the train to hurtle off the end into the valley far below. At the same time I was devising a quick means of escape through the window. The driver decided to reverse and was successful in returning us to the starting line. 'Everybody out!' shouted one of my mates, as he got hold of the door handle, 'One more try,' the Sergeant shouted outside and we were off again with a bit more speed. This time the driver went straight through to the other side. The watching Pioneers gave a big cheer, we opened the doors and scrambled out fast lighting our cigarettes as we went, to calm our nerves – the air turned blue.

The journey continued uneventfully until we reached a large railway junction at the city of Foggia with an airfield nearby. A bit further north was a place called San Severo with a small opera house which was to be our 'billet'. Our sleeping quarters were in the boardroom, a beautiful ceiling painted with cameos of principle performers in the different operas could be appreciated as you lay on the floor. The Officer had his own office in one corner of the room and one day as Billet Orderley I was surprised when the door opened and in came some top American Officers. One of them stepped forward and asked me to bring our Officer to confer with General Eisenhower, who was in charge of the American Armed Forces in the area – the son of the Commander in Chief of Allied Forces. This I did and as I listened it transpired that the Americans wanted to take over the opera house as their HQ, to organise the bombing of the Rumanian oilfields and would the message be reported to the British Command. The 8th Army were now at the Sangro River and the winter weather was making things difficult for crossing the swollen torrent of water to fight on the other side. We Operators were doing shift work on the Fullerphones, taking messages from and to the Army HQ. We did have an interlude and that was to meet other Beach Signal Groups at a rendezvous some miles away towards the coast. Here we celebrated the downfall of Mussolini and the defeat of Italy with a splice the main brace drink of rum which was neat, in a mug. Not being used to this strong drink it had quite an effect on me. I think they kept filling it up without me knowing. Someone then spoke and said that they wanted volunteers to join the partisans in Yugoslavia, would you like to join them? 'What do I have to do when I get there?' I enquired. 'Well they operate from one of the islands and go on missions to the mainland to blow up bridges and German convoys etc. You will go with them and when you get back you give a report back to HQ here of all that went on, over the radio.' 'It sounds just like a holiday, but no thanks. I can't speak the language and it means more seawater crossings and I'm just getting my land feet going again. The Americans put on a wonderful concert back at the opera house with American and Italian artistes, including an opera singing star, chorus, dancing girls etc. It was during the tenor solo that the lights went out, total blackout, then somebody in the stalls produced a torch and shone it on the evening dressed soloist. Other people followed suit till the upper circle were focussing their torches on the tenor, who continued to sing. All of a sudden an inflated condom descended from the ceiling and wafted down very slowly. Whilst it descended all the torches moved away from the singer to the condom to follow its descent. There was some nurses sitting together in the boxes and they were laughing their heads off. As soon as it landed the lights came back on – a Yankie prank no doubt, still everybody had a good night out.

The time came for us to vacate the opera house and arrangements had been made for us to catch an empty ammunition ship returning to 'Blighty' from a port not too far away. Unfortunately the crew was not happy about our being there, the only extra food they had was tins of 'bully beef'. So for our slow journey back we had fried 'bb' for breakfast, mashed dried potatoes with 'bb' for dinner, 'bb' sandwiches for tea and 'bb' leftovers for supper. We hoped to be in 'Blighty' for Xmas but it was New Year's Eve and we were still in the Channel, so as there was no alcohol on board we celebrated by each having a glass of water and a spoonful of Andrews Liver Salts! It was a moving experience, but it was good to be nearly home and getting ready for D Day.

THE GERMAN ARMY SIGNAL SCHOOL AND TECHNICAL COLLEGE FOR ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING - FELDAFING

By Maj A. Duncan MBE

I felt it was about time that this little known outpost of the Corps, situated in the beautiful countryside of Bavaria about 50km south of Munich; in sight of the Bavarian Alps and surrounded by some of the most famous of the Bavarian Lakes was brought a little more to the attention of the Corps as a whole. I would have liked to follow the normal Wire Notes structure by welcoming 'Bob' and saying farewell to 'John (Digger)' someone or other and his wife 'Linda', however, this is rather difficult as I am the only UK representative here working in what is commonly known as an ISODET (Isolated Detachment). I think this means that after all these years I am at last trusted to 'work without supervision'. However, I have my doubts. I am not sure if these are the first ever Wire Notes from our sister school here in 'Freistadt Bayern', but there have been a number of significant and really quite exciting events here at the school which I believe are of interest to us all.

THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE GERMAN ARMY SIGNAL CORPS

The celebrations for this most prestigious event took place on 2 July and the Corps was extremely well represented by the SOinC(A), the Corps Pipes and Drums and a parade flag party provided by 16 Signal Regiment I was personally delighted to be so well supported by the Corps and as you would expect their support was warmly welcomed by our German colleagues, whose hospitality is worth experiencing at first hand, and the addition of such an international flavour served to significantly enrich the overall tone of the day. The initial parade, consisting of over 700 troops, took place in 32 °C and it was to the great credit of all concerned that they all survived intact. The extreme heat in fact melted the SOinC's Sam Browne, and shoe polish (mine was less important). Cpl Hunt please contact Mrs Avril Duncan on the use of a well know product to remove the polish stains from our No 4 Dress at short notice, and I hope you have brought the equipment back up to scratch.

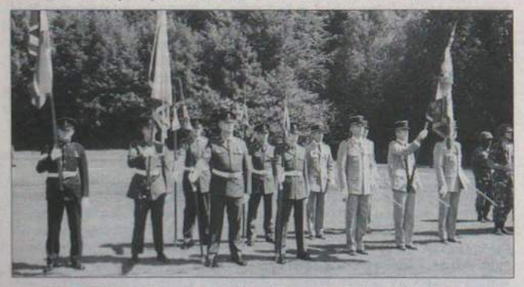
The Corps Pipes and Drums entertaining the assembled guests before the Parade

The parade was followed by a quite outstanding display of German Army Signals Equipment, past, present and future and throughout the day the assembled over-1200 guests were entertained by the Pipes and Drums. How they also survived the heat in full Highland Dress will remain, for me, forever a mystery. I believe a lot a water was consumed?



The 16 Signal Regiment 'Flag Party – showing The Colours

During the afternoon, the SOinC(A) planted a tree on behalf of the Corps as a symbol of how we would wish our co-operation in the future to grow. I must confess that this 'wonderful' idea was at first received with a degree of puzzlement. However, the fact that the French SOinC followed suit and that both trees are now shown to the wide variety of visitors to the school only serves to demonstrate that some of the most far fetched ideas can sometimes work out for the best.

SOinC(A) Germany and SOinC(A) UK - Zusammenarbeit

The day was rounded off with a party in the local Town Hall in Weilheim. Copious amounts of beer were consumed and the Pipes and Drums once again provided an outstanding finale to the day.

THE SECOND INTEROPERABILITY COURSE FOR NATO OFFICERS - FELDAFING 26 - 30 JULY 1999

The second Interoperability Course for NATO Officers took place here in Feldafing during the last week of July. The course involved officers from seven nations, including Hungary and Poland two of our new NATO partners, and for the second time this year it was a real pleasure for me to welcome a strong British team. The course actually takes place in English and we were this year supported by some quite excellent presenters from a wide variety of agencies (have to be more careful with this word in case it causes confusion) including SHAPE, NATO C3, MOD (GE), MOD (France) and a number of multi-national Corps and Divisions. The UK representatives included DCIS(A), Force Development, RSS Area Systems Group and last but very definitely not least the Bowman Military Team. The course was a great success, especially the addition to the programme of one or two visits to the cultural centres of Munich City Centre (Hoflbrauhaus) and the Andechs Brewery. Once the hangovers have cleared, perhaps we can look forward to next year.

The Interoperability Course for NATO Officers 26-30 July 1999

SIXTY YEARS ON

20th Century Grand Tours for Officers of the 5th Divisional Signals

Maj Gen D. R. Horsfield OBE

In 1938 the Division barely existed when James Yule and I, two members of our Q Course of seven Young Officers, joined the Signals unit in January 1938. For most of our time we were the only two officers living in the Mess. Nothing has changed our belief that our posting stemmed from the fact that the Unit, then in Scarborough, had reached the final of the Hospitals Football Cup and wanted reinforcements. James and I had both been Soccer representatives of the RMA Woolwich. Beaten in extra time I was tasked, with the help of James with training a team of four for the first Army Motor Cycle Trials. Our experience at that point was limited to the few hours training on such machines during our Q Course. We were the only team containing two officers and claimed third place in the Championships with the two of us amongst the first ten individual places. We were on strange ground down in Aldershot, so were well satisfied with our achievement.

Meanwhile our preparations for war included no Divisional training. Brigade training was limited to a three-day Exercise each summer, governed by the pace of marching infantry. War was very close when James and I proudly put up our second pips on 26 August. Nine days later war was declared, reservists and others were posted in and I, aged 22, became a Company Commander. In the next fortnight we moved out of Catterick's Le Cateau Lines to a tented camp we created nearby, at Gandale and then back to Hooge Lines. At each site we dug slit trenches. On the evening of 19 September I was instructed to be ready to move 'to the Tropics' by midnight four days later. Uprooting oneself, preparing for new things and putting in good order all that would be left behind was an almost impossible task at the pace required. I managed one full day at home for farewells. By 28 September we were at sea. It was not until 1947 that I was to see England again.

The comparisons between my war years and more recent conflicts highlight the astonishing changes which have taken place in my lifetime in transport and communications. At no time in nearly eight years was I able to talk by any means to any of my family in the UK. When the Mediterranean became closed to our shipping, the sending of a letter could expect to receive a reply after some three months. Air travel, except for operational purposes only became possible after the war ended. So the Grand Tour went on, Egypt, Ceylon, then Singapore Rangoon and Java each in turn closed before we reached them by great good fortune. Directed back to Bombay and across to Calcutta I was flown into Burma to command what there was of General Slim's Corps Signals at the age of 25 for the retreat back into Assam and thence to India. There was much of interest and much to learn in all these travels. There was also much to enjoy too for those lucky enough to survive in good health.

James Yule, who remained with the 5th Division had a different story. He was amongst those sent to Norway in 1940 where he was a Brigade Signal Officer. As a casualty from a train crash he became a prisoner of the Germans. His Grand Tour was of prison camps for five years, finishing up in Colditz.

CATTERICK & THE 5th DIVISION 1938-39

By Maj Gen D. R. Horsfield OBE

Early in 1938 our Course members found themselves allocated to Signals units with the expectation of becoming familiar with all the functions and activities of real soldiering. Two of us were in for a surprise. We were allotted to 5 Divisional Signals in Scarborough. Driving there to learn more we were told that by the time we were due to report the unit itself would have moved to Catterick, so it was seemingly joining us rather than the other way round. Reporting in due course to the hutted Le Cateau lines there was remarkably little unit to be found. There was no Company to serve a Divisional Headquarters. The last of three Gunner Sections had just left with its Artillery Regiment and there was only one Brigade Section. James Yule and I were the only two officers living in Mess. Being one place above him in the Army List I could claim to be the senior dining-in member for what that was worth. When it came to allocation of duties I took over the command of 13 Brigade Signal Section, not that I remember anyone to take over from. James had to be content with looking after nine men and giving support to 7th Royal Tanks. The matter of immediate importance was that the unit had won its way to the final of the Hospital Cup in Scarborough. Was it by chance or not that we had been selected for this posting. James and I happened to be two Soccer colours from Woolwich, he an expert and I a temporarily converted rugger player. Can such qualifications affect ones posting? I have been suspicious of posting organisations ever since. We lost the match on a scorching hot day after 45 minutes each way followed by extra time.

Our charming Commanding Officer, George Henderson had another priority. He had been severely wounded in France and after evacuation to Switzerland, spent much time recovering from the loss of an eye. Later in his service he had been an early, if not the first, manager of the Royal Signals Display team with its showmanship involving a mixture of both horses and motor cycles. 1938 was mechanisation year and there were to be Motor Cycle Trials to help promote vehicle mastery in place of horsemanship. This was of immediate interest to our Commanding Officer and his two new officers were to train the team of four. With only the brief School of Signals training to build on there would be plenty of work to do. There was Stowers, a Display Team Sergeant to help us. My Brigade Signal Section had men with plenty of skills, being composed in large part by long service soldiers who had completed a five year tour in India. There was apparently much truth in the ditty which started 'You'll get no promotion this side of the Ocean.' Here was an excellent operator, recently from overseas, who was plainly a leader. He was a valuable all round athlete and had achieved a good level of education either in the army or before. Nevertheless, there was considerable discussion and tooth sucking before it was agreed that he should be promoted to the rank of Acting Unpaid Lance Corporal. Many of his kind became officers when war broke out and gave valuable service. I hope he did well too. We worked hard and regularly to meet the Motor cycling requirement. The moors close at hand with steep hills, minor streams and varied surfaces was right on our doorstep. The course when set would have long sections with demanding time limits for completion mixed with test sections of hill, stream or bog which should be ridden without loss of balance for maximum points. There was a small penalty for putting one foot down for a prod, more for greater foot work and no points for absolute failure. Some practice was needed too in the preparation of our machines and quick roadside repairs. In the end we carried off both the team and individual Northern Command Trophies. One prod of the foot on the two circuits of the course prevented me from avoiding all deductions.

The Army Trials were in Aldershot with advantage to the local teams in knowledge of both the type of terrain and the local geography. Even so we achieved second place and at a later date I was invited, on my personal record, to become the officer in a group of twelve to compete in the Scottish Six Days M/C Trials. This was a great experience with many interesting people encountered. It took us from Edinburgh up to Fort William, out to Mallaig and several other places of note. It was a pity we were not to be mounted on the faithful Norton 16H which we knew so well. In fact we were used for trials for competitive selection of a new type of machine for the Army. Norton, Matchless, BSA and Triumph were the manufacturers involved. I drew Triumph who gave us poor support or may have been given too little warning. We were only able to collect our machines at the Midland factory at the last minute, riding directly to Edinburgh to check in. All vehicles in those days had to be run in at moderate speeds for the first one or two thousand miles. Otherwise they were liable to seize up. The Triumph 350cc side valve engine lacked power, but even the other makes we had were no match for the mounts of the civilian entries. We were up against class performers and would have liked to claim modest places amongst them. Nevertheless I had followed one piece of military advice which was, 'get known for something'. I was a motor cyclist! Though the task set me by Col Henderson was an unusual one I believe it had certain merits. To be given something important to do for the sake of the unit and to be left to carry it out unsupervised could have make or break ending. If it works out right, it is good for all parties.

Catterick Camp life had much to offer. Having left the major Signals area we were now much more part of the Garrison with friends from every arm of the Service. The Club was the centre of much social activity as it was in Aldershot. Nobody would have forecast that in a dozen years time both would be gradually fading away. Tennis Tournaments were popular and Saturday evening dances well subscribed, the Morritt Arms at Greta Bridge also being much favoured. The Lake District was within easy reach and the local countryside was magnificent. Trips home to Benson near Oxford were easier to fit in. At this time high quality cars of a certain age had little second hand value. I was the owner of a 2 Litre Lagonda and driving was a pleasure.

My private expedition training continued even if the military side lacked purpose. On one occasion I owned up to Harold Taylor that my poetic horizon never got further than Kipling, Wavell's 'Other Men's Flowers' and the like. His comforting reply was, 'I charge extra for reading poetry.' However, there is one jingle that remains in my head, though the author's name escapes me;-

When I was young and Hitler small and Goering hadn't left his hangar
I went to Norway having bought a ticket on the Arganaut,
A vessel advertised to call at Bergen and Stavanger.

This is precisely what we did, Nigel, myself and CP the adopted Godfather. I do not remember Bergen, a Hanseatic Port and ancient capital of Norway as being large, but perhaps we only explored the seaboard. The steep sided grassy slopes of the fjord were spectacularly green and the whole picturesque in its very best sense. As we travelled it became apparent that this was no place for speed. Many of the roads were not metalled and as is their way became ribbed and very rough on the car until one learned that increasing speed to a suitable point meant that one rode the top of the ridges in reasonable comfort. On one occasion a greasy stretch caused us to slide disconsolately into a ditch. We were prepared to some extent by having brought a rope and by attaching one end to the car and waving the other at the few passers by, one of them got the message and towed us out. On the mountain roads another hazard appeared to be large herds of goats. In places where the road dropped sharply away on the valley side we were worried for their safety. In fact they were no problem. We found that they were superbly agile so that they were impossible to hit and that if one moved slowly they flowed round the car like a liquid. We came to enjoy their cheese. In Oslo we felt at ease and at home, making contacts readily. Memories in Norway and Sweden are much of trees, lakes and fine views. Plentiful trout were enjoyed long before fish farms made this delicacy easy to come by. In Stockholm the lingua franca for us was German which was the second language at the time in Sweden. Stockholm seemed to be far ahead of Britain in planning its city and creating new buildings of style. On we sent south past the great lakes to cross to Denmark at Helsingor.

This was the time of Chamberlain's fateful visit to Hitler in Bonn and there were surprises in store for us. In a central square that evening yellow posters were being scattered about with the words displayed, 'Krisen Akut,' and, 'Chamberlain rejser hjem,' which even we could understand. Our Prime Minister's visit to Hitler had failed. Reporting to the British Consul the next day we explained our Service connections and our previous intention of driving home through Germany. What should we do? Well, he said, Germany is plainly off and the port of Esbjerg would not be safe. If war is declared the ferry would be stopped and you would be taken off. Your only option is to drive all the way back to Bergen, which will be a convoy port in war. Catch a boat there. This we did. By the time we arrived at Newcastle, the heat had gone out of the situation. There was some signs of trench digging about, the first sign we were to see of war preparation. Back at work there was no strengthening of our unit for a real job. We became an extra Depot Regiment for the training of additional recruits with drill instructors loaned to us from various infantry battalions. I was myself borrowed by the Signals Training Battalion to help increase the flow of new Signals operators. I still did part time with my Brigade Section as time flowed by. There is little to record about preparations for a forthcoming war. I do not recall any efforts to consider what shape it might take or what we should be doing about it. Perhaps another ghastly trench war was envisioned and this was a thought to be stifled. The Royal Tank Corps as it was then called was moving, with all too little help, in the right direction and others might be making modest progress. Thank goodness the creation of good new aircraft was not thought too provocative to our eventual enemy as improvement to the Army might have done.

Our summer manoeuvres showed our dismal state. The event took some three or four days at the pace of marching infantry. Laundry vans and other lorries had been hired to provide essential transport as garrison vehicles were too few. Bren gun carriers were represented by small cars decorated with yellow flags and the only anti-tank protection was the Boyes rifle, an outsize version of the soldier's personal weapon and in short supply at that. Only an enemy could have taken encouragement from what went on. So the story continued with lingering false hopes of peace for a further year. Leave was not restricted but uncertainty prevented forward planning so I signed on for two weeks amongst 4,000 metre mountains in Zermatt, which proved to be my farewell to Switzerland for many years. The response for skiers had been poor because of other peoples doubts and I found myself guided in a party of three with Jeanette Kessler, one of our leading racers and Ripley Oddie, her fiancée. I could not have had better company. There was no mountain transport working in the spring, so the ascent of Monte Rosa, for example, was a two-day affair with a night spent in the Betemps Hut. We ranged far afield though less strenuously than Harold Taylor might have wished. The remaining few months to the war were eked out happily enough, perhaps too much so for the several sincere friendships which were suddenly to be severed by war's declaration.

ROYAL SIGNALS IN THE SAS DURING THE EARLY 1950s

By Colonel (Retd) D. D. Ranft

Much has been written concerning the exploits of the SAS during the Second World War. After the war, in October 1945, HQ SAS and the 1st and 2nd SAS Regiments were disbanded, as no role could be foreseen for then in peacetime. However, the SAS was resurrected in the 1950s, and their subsequent exploits have become well known, but how did this resurrection come about? In their excellent book 'Re-enter the SAS'* the authors comprehensively cover the fortunes of the SAS in the early 1950s. The communist uprising in Malaya started in 1948, and two years later a need was seen for a special force to be raised to undertake prolonged deep jungle penetration. In August 1950 the first squadron of the Malayan Scouts was raised under Lt Col Mike Calvert. By the end of 1951 there were four squadrons, and the Malayan Scouts became 22 SAS Regiment. The teething problems of the early days of this regiment are graphically described in this book, but little mention is made of the Royal Signals contribution in providing radio communications in very difficult conditions.

The first Royal Signals Officer with the Malayan Scouts was Capt (now Major (Retd)) Wilf Batty, who had the difficult task of setting up a communications system from scratch. The initial problems were legion: lack of a lightweight HF radio for long range jungle communications: resistance from staff in senior HQs to the priority demands of this new unit: the fact that although there was a war going on the Senior Staff HQ and REME workshops were working peacetime hours (closed at weekends): and the inexperience of some of the Royal Signals men in infantry skills, such skills being essential when spending weeks at a time in the jungle.

I was the first Royal Signals Officer to serve with 22 SAS Regiment. We were not without our faults. A proper selection system did not exist then. The regiment was a mixture of experienced wartime SAS men and at the other extreme, a few 'chuck-outs' from other units. Discipline was lacking at times. I could tell a few interesting stories about the 'goings-on' at this time, but The Wire is not the place!

Radio communications between jungle patrols and base camp were achieved by using the WS62. The WS62 was a valve set (no transistors in those days) intended to be powered by a wet battery, which of course was completely impracticable in jungle conditions. However, REME produced a modification whereby the WS62 could work off three WS18 dry batteries. Each of these batteries weighed 9lbs (If I remember correctly), so the poor Signaller had the radio (40lbs?) plus 27lbs of batteries to carry. Fortunately the load was usually spread within the patrol.

Radio communications were by HF skywave. Ionospheric conditions in Malaya were such that HF communications were usually impossible between about 1800hrs and daybreak due to atmospheric interference, and the foibles of the skip distance. When the day's march was over the Signaller had but a short time to erect his antenna and make contact with base, using CW.

This short article is intended as a tribute to those Royal Signals men who served with 22 SAS Reginant in Malaya in the early days of 1951/52. They had a difficult task. Their radio equipment was unsuitable for jungle conditions and yet they performed magnificently. I would very much like to hear from any of those who served with me at that time. Col D. D. ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE OF SCIENCE EXERCISE SHRIVENHAM CHIMANIMANI 9 JULY 1999 – 1 AUGUST 1999

By Capt W. D. J. Wilson R SIGNALS

Ex Shrivenham Chimanimani was a trekking expedition to the Eastern Highlands of Zimbabwe. The expedition fulfilled a requirement that military undergraduates at RMCS organise and participate in an adventurous training expedition during their degree course. It also coincided with the completion of the second year exams and offered a welcome break from academia to the six expedition members: Capt's M. E. Burton RA, D. K. Francis RA, P. R. Griffiths R SIGNALS, W. D. J. Wilson R SIGNALS, Lt S. Gough R SIGNALS and OCdt A. Kavanagh GSC.

The expedition members arrived in Harare over a three-day period and after conducting initial arrival administration we were all glad to leave the capital behind. We initially headed East towards Nyanga National Park, where we spent three days acclimatising and conducting a series of day walks. The culmination of this 'build-up' training was to climb Zimbabwe's highest peak, Mt Inyangani (2592m). This proved to be an excellent walk with breathtaking views over looking the entire National Park and even into Mozambique.

Despite being in the middle of the Zimbabwean winter the temperatures were uncomfortably high to walk in the afternoons. As a result we took full advantage of the activities provided by the National Parks Authorities. One such activity was a horse-riding trek, which proved to be anything but gentle. By the time we returned two hours later I wished we had not claimed to be accomplished riders. A more relaxing pass time was fly-fishing in one of the numerous dams. We were told that the area was renowned for its trout and as a result we decided to hire some rods, and fish for our supper. Needless to say nobody caught anything. It was not until the next day that we were told by a South African couple that it was out of season and that there were no fish in the dams yet. Somebody saw us coming…

Due to the fact that it was dark by 1900hrs the evenings were mostly spent by a fireside cooking excessive amounts of fillet steak (at the cost of off-cuts in the UK), admiring the stars and nursing blisters/fisherman's elbow/saddle sores from the day's activities. One exception to this was when the thatched roof to our 'A' frame lodge caught fire. OCdt Adam 'Fireman' Kavanagh performed some heroics by climbing onto the roof to contain the fire, whilst Capt Donald 'Budgie' Francis was last seen soaring at 15000ft providing top-cover. Fortunately nobody was injured or no serious damage was caused despite Lt Simon 'Firestarter' Gough's best efforts.

Communicating with a Zimbabwean Signals Corporal, Nyanga Village

Although Nyanga and the Eastern Highlands are a popular area for Zimbabweans to visit it is relatively unspoiled by foreign tourists. Thanks to this and having an ex-pat (Capt Francis) on the expedition we were able to benefit from 'local rates', making our stay very affordable. Additionally the locals were very friendly and not in the slightest bit pushy, unlike some African countries. It was with some reluctance that we left Nyanga for the main trekking phase of the expedition.

Any reluctance we had before leaving Nyanga was soon displaced when we arrived at Chimanimani. The prominent Chimanimani Mountain Range and forested slopes provided an impressive but daunting sight. The following morning we made our way to base camp where we were to start our ascent to the plateau from which we would be conducting the remainder of our walks. Our intended route of Banana Grove soon gave way to a long and steep climb up Long Gully after OCdt Adam 'Pathfinder' Kavanagh showed some promise of becoming an Officer by taking a wrong turn. Once we reached the plateau an awesome sight greeted us: we had traveled half way across the world to…Sennybridge.

Lt Simon Gough demonstrating 'classic' abseiling in Chimanimani

Despite the unfortunate parallels between the scenery in the Eastern Highlands and Wales the next four days proved to be immensely enjoyable and challenging. After spending our first night by the Southern Pools we conducted a series of walks including the Saddle and Skeleton Pass both areas which were used extensively by guerillas crossing over from Mozambique during the civil war. We also climbed Mt Binga (2436m), Mozambique's highest peak, from the Zimbabwean side. This was an extremely arduous climb, which on completion provided spectacular views of both Zimbabwe and Mozambique. By the time we descended from the plateau back to base camp we all felt suitably drained and looking forward to eating something other than noodles, soya and piri-piri sauce. With only one more night before we were due to leave Chimanimani the unthinkable happened: it started to rain. Having been assured by Capt Donald 'You Don't Need Waterproofs Lads' Francis that there was less than a 1 in 100 chance it would rain I was suddenly very pleased I had ignored his advice. The 20-mile journey from base camp to Chimanimani turned out to be an experience, which I would rather not repeat. Parts of the track were washed away exposing sheer drops and elsewhere the track had turned into a sheet of mud, offering little to no grip to our rear wheel drive minibus. By an enormous amount of luck, some intricate rope work by Lt Simon 'Look I'm

The JSMEL' Gough and a South African families Land Rover we were able to continue to Hot Springs for a well-deserved break.

Our next stop was Masvingo, another National Park, where we intended to carry out some more day walks and hopefully see our first game. We decided that the best way to combine the two aspirations was to hire a guide and go on a game walk. Our guide finally turned up 20 minutes late with an AK47 slung on his shoulder (in case we came across poachers) and looking less than happy at being awake at 0620hrs. He was even less impressed when he heard that we wanted to go on a long walk and not a game drive! Despite early mornings allegedly being the best time to see game we saw disappointingly little. As we were paying the guide by the hour we were surprised to realise he had taken a 3km detour so that he could go to the toilet. Although he could sense our disapproval he was not expecting to have to make the time up by tabbing the rest of the way round. By the end of the game walk/tab our guide was relieved to get rid of us and although we gave him a tip, we did not see him again. A far more rewarding way of viewing game turned out to be on horseback. Within 20 minutes of setting off we had already seen wildebeest, warthog, zebra, eland, dyker, ostrich, baboons and a variety of other animals. The highlight of the ride was, however, sitting 5ft away from two rhinos grazing. An experience non of us will forget in a hurry!

The remainder of the trekking phase of the expedition was spent in similar circumstances in Matopos and Hwange National Parks where we were fortunate to see almost all of the game we had hoped to including elephants, giraffes, hippos and crocodiles. We also had an encounter with a baboon who decided to steal some of our food. Having already got away with a bag of potatoes we decided to leave him a sandwich laced with extra hot piri-piri sauce, garlic and pepper to discourage him from returning. Although we did not see him again we did hear him…

The last few days of the expedition were spent on R&R at Victoria Falls. The 'big city lights' were a welcoming sight after spending nearly three weeks 'in the bush' with very little civilisation. Although Victoria Falls was noticeably more expensive than the remainder of Zimbabwe it was still relatively cheap and offered the opportunity to participate in some more adventurous pursuits such as white water rafting and bungee jumping. We also had the opportunity to go to Zambia to buy souvenirs at a fraction of the cost of those in Zimbabwe and, of course, see the Falls themselves.

In conclusion, Ex Shrivenham Chimanimani was a very successful expedition. The expedition achieved its aims and provided all members with invaluable experience in organising and running expeditions. Zimbabwe is an ideal country to organise adventurous training in thanks to the low cost of living and the number of National Parks, which offer such a variety of countrysides and the number of additional adventurous training pursuits available.

ADVENTUROUS TRAINING – PAID PERK OR VALUABLE INVESTMENT?

INTRODUCTION

Since 1969 the Principal Personnel Officers (PPOs) of the three Services have recognised Adventurous Training (AT) as being an important part in preparing Service personnel 'to stand up to the shocks and strains of war'. It was not until 1971, with the inception of the Joint Services Charter, that AT in the Services was defined. The same definition was reaffirmed, in April 1992, by the Executive Committee of the Army Board (ECAB), who agreed that AT should be defined as:

'A form of outdoor training for service personnel requiring participation in challenging pursuits, by inference those which contain an ever-present risk to life and limb, and calling for, from those taking part, some or all of the qualities of fitness, physical and moral courage, initiative, powers of endurance and interdependence.'

From this definition, the Army developed the aim of AT which is:

'To develop, through challenging pursuits and within an outdoor environment, leadership and the necessary qualities to enhance the performance of military personnel during times of peace and war'.

HISTORICAL DEVELOPMENT OF ADVENTURE TRAINING

Military personnel have always been associated with AT undertakings. Since early Victorian times the Military have been at the forefront of a tradition of exploration and travel. The Victorian passions for knowledge and collecting, in parallel with the desire to pit themselves against the elements in demanding recreational pursuits such as mountain climbing, may well have developed the philosophy of AT. The perception soon grew that participation in outdoor pursuits was both formative and educational.

The beginnings of 'outdoor education' were seen in the UK as early as the 1830s with the foundation of natural history societies in schools, and the use of fieldwork study techniques by Universities. By 1883 young people were also becoming involved in outdoor activities outside formal education through organisations such as the Boys' Brigade and, from 1908, the Boy Scouts.

The impetus for recreation in wilderness areas continued, and was further encouraged by such events as the first ascent of the Matterhorn in the early 1900s and the polar exploits of Shackleton and Scott. By the 1930s, with the development of public transport, city dwellers were wishing to exercise their 'right to roam'. With the mass trespass of Kinder Scout in 1932, a whole new recreation was born which led to the development of the National Park System and the formation of both the Ramblers and Youth Hostel Associations.

Far reaching effects for AT in the services came from the training developments made in World War 2. Not only was there a requirement to train servicemen to survive in mountain, arctic and jungle conditions, but also to develop less traditional forms of leadership training. The Highland Fieldcraft Training Centre at Spean Bridge in Argyllshire was one such development. Lord Rowallan, after whom a Potential Officer Development Company at the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst is named, had a highly refreshing approach to Officer Training: 'Develop character first and military leadership will follow'. He put this into practice at Spean Bridge where courses were deemed 'arduous, challenging and unconventional – but highly successful!'

The first specific AT Centres appeared in the form of the British Kiel Yacht Club in 1945 and by 1951 was established as the Kiel Training Centre at its present location in Holtenau. Soon afterwards the Army Outward Bound School was founded at Tywyn, and in 1960 the Winter Warfare School was opened at Silberhutte and The British Outward Bound Centre was established in Norway. By the mid seventies the services recognised the need for a joint approach to AT and the Joint Service Training Centres were fully developed.

ARMY ADVENTURE TRAINING

GENERAL

Following the approval by the Executive Committee of the Army Board (ECAB) in 1992 of the recommendations made in 'A Review of Adventurous Training', AT became formally recognised as a mainstream training activity. Due to a lack of available funds a structure of four inter-related and progressive levels of training was established. Whilst the aspiration to fully fund all AT still exists, the situation continues whereby some training is fully funded, and mandatory, and some remains voluntary and part funded by the participants. The Army training levels are:

Level 1. This is mandatory AT for recruits, or leadership and initiative training (L&I Trg) for apprentices and officer cadets, as part of the Common Military Syllabus. Arborfield apprentices enjoy two weeks L&I Trg within their course, whilst Bassingbourn trainees enjoy a five day AT camp during Week Nine.

Level 2. This is participation in annual group adventurous training at sub-unit level as directed by Formations. Such training should last for at least seven days and has a laid down syllabus. Level 2 AT should be conducted by 20% of the Field Army, as directed by Commands.

Level 3. This relates to voluntary participation in both external (out of Theatre) and internal (in Theatre) AT expeditions. This level requires substantial commitment by the individual, not least financially. Currently, the minimum contribution expected from participants is a third of the total expedition cost.

Level 4. This level relates to formal course training at either an Army or Joint Service Training Centre, or training organised by qualified Joint Service instructors out of Centres using a JSAT approved course training plan (CTP) to qualify novices to proficiency level.

AIMS OF ARMY ADVENTURE TRAINING

There are four general aims of AT as laid down by DITP(A), relating to the different levels. They are as follows:

'The Aim of Level 1 AT is to give basic skills training, appropriate to the respective group, in at least one recognised AT activity.'

'The Aim of Level 2 AT is to develop in individuals some of the qualities of fitness, physical and moral courage, initiative, powers of endurance and leadership through group participation in challenge pursuits, and to identify and select suitable individuals for further training'.

'The Aim of Level 3 AT is to promote the opportunity for groups of volunteers to test their abilities and expertise at the highest possible level against the challenges available in their chosen activity'.

'The Aim of Level 4 AT is to provide progressive levels of skills and knowledge to enable selected individuals to lead or instruct service personnel in the approved JSAT activities.

THE ELEMENTS OF ADVENTURE TRAINING

ADVENTURE

'The aim of Army AT is to develop, through challenging pursuits and within an outdoor environment, leadership and the necessary qualities to enhance the performance of military personnel during times of peace and war.' In other words, AT has the same aim as all other training mediums but utilises 'adventure'. The Concise Oxford Dictionary provides the following definition of 'adventure'…. 'an unusual and exiting experience; a daring enterprise; a hazardous activity'. Much has been written on the benefits of 'adventure' by pioneers such as Kurt Hahn, Lord Rowallan, and later Lord Hunt and Roger Putnam. These men were among the most influential to recognise and foster the use of outdoor pursuits as a versatile training vehicle, which could be moulded to suit the needs of a variety of user groups, including the Armed Services. But it is a passage by Colin Mortlock that most succinctly expresses what AT means to the majority of its participants and providers. Here he describes the archetypal adventure situation:

'… a person has sudden fear of physical harm and no longer feels complete master of the situation. He feels, however, that he can, with considerable efforts on his part, and given luck, overcome the situation without accidents. He accepts that his skills are about to be tested. He is conscious of a definite degree of uncertainty as to the outcome, and feels, as it were, poised on a knife-edge between success and failure. If he succeeds he has experienced adventure. He had found himself in a situation which becomes firmly etched upon his mind – perhaps forever. He has feelings of satisfaction, if not elation, about the result. The degree of satisfaction and pride is proportional to the scale and intensity of the adventure'.

It is the 'adventure experience' which is at the heart of the Army's AT ethos and which will lead to the enhancement of a soldier's performance during peace and war.

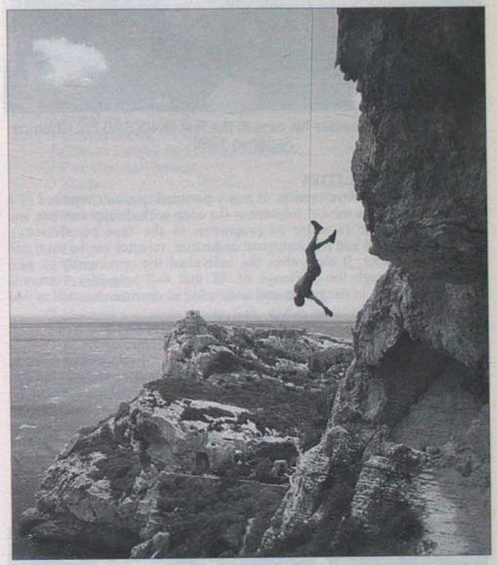
FEAR RISK AND DANGER

The relationship between the three AT principles of fear, risk and danger can be easily confused and it is important to ensure that both leaders and instructors have a clear picture of the balance required. Fear is a primal emotion which is rooted in instinct but developed through learned experience. Overcoming fear can produce strong feelings of satisfaction, confidence and self-esteem. It is this facet that should be utilised in AT. By learning to overcome fears soldiers become better at coping with fear in the future. The 'adventure experience' relies on the emotion of fear, without which adventure becomes recreation. Fear extended to terror, however, is not adventure and can be a very negative experience. The term 'apprehension' probably best describes the level of fear required for an 'adventure environment'.

If the emotion is fear and danger is the object of our fears, then risk is the action that we take to prevail. Risk is the uncertainty of outcome that produces the challenge in AT. If an individual or group is not aware of the risk then there will be no training value. For example: 'The group took a risk crossing the glacier in the afternoon'. If the team did not know that it was dangerous to cross a glacier late in the afternoon then, in their minds, there was no risk and therefore no training value, just great danger! Risk is in the eye of the beholder and therefore there does not necessarily need to be real danger for a student to feel he is taking a risk.

Within AT, danger is seen in two forms, real and apparent, which have a critical distinction. For example, 'real danger' occurs when the consequences of a fall whilst rock climbing would lead to injury. 'Apparent danger' occurs when the consequences of a fall are not dangerous (the student is on a safety rope), yet real apprehension is part of the experience. Abseiling is an excellent example of an 'apparent danger' activity. Typically when abseiling, the student is attached to a safety rope and is operating within a highly controlled situation, yet the apprehension felt is immediate.

Due to the intensity of the emotions involved, the soldier needs only a limited exposure to fear, risk and danger in order to have experienced 'adventure'. This is particularly pertinent with novice groups where the apprehension starts to build well before the activity, and only subsides once complete.



COMPETENCE

Within an AT environment, risk is offset by the competence of the individual. Adventures are both personally specific (based on personal competence) and situation specific (based on situation risks)'. Therefore instructors and leaders need to take account of both competence and situation in order to gauge the correct level of challenge in order to provide an 'adventure experience'.

LEADERSHIP

The 'real time' practical experience in leadership that AT activities offer soldiers should not be underestimated. Decisions cannot be evaded, as often those decisions are forced by the situation in which the leader finds himself, and are required to counteract danger. For many junior officers and NCOs, leading a Unit expedition is their only opportunity, outside of military operations, to experience an environment where their leadership is tested against a true risk to life and limb. Often AT is the only environment where a junior commander has true independence of decisions and the sole burden of command.

Often, the instructors and leaders are challenged by the leadership responsibilities as much as the students are challenged by the risk of the AT activity. It is because of these opportunities for leadership that outdoor pursuits should be embraced as a vehicle for training.

Capt Neil Stace awaits his race in the first MND(SW) Ski Champs Sarajevo 1998

PERSONAL QUALITIES

AT leads to the development of many personal qualities required of a soldier. It develops mental robustness (to cope with disappointment and setbacks), humour (a sense of proportion in the face of adversity), initiative, physical and psychological endurance, reliance on the team and trust in the leader. It also offers the individual the opportunity to gain confidence through the challenge of AT that will help him overcome difficulties found in dangerous and unfamiliar environments, such as war fighting.

THE TEAM

During military operations soldiers are commonly required to work in teams. These teams are often thrown together at short notice and have to operate under duress. AT provides a powerful medium for experiencing the nature of the team, particularly during multi-day expeditions. Having experienced the well observed pattern of group evolution for themselves (forming, storming, norming and performing[2]), soldiers are better equipped to get together as a team in times of crisis. Furthermore, group activities engender a sense of belonging. Through shared experience, particularly involving the physical and mental challenges of the 'adventure environment', the team develops esprit de corps.

THE NATURE OF THE ACTIVITIES

Outdoor pursuits lend themselves easily to the creation of a challenging 'adventure environment'. Indeed, it is the exhilaration and enjoyment of personal challenge that draws exponents to these pursuits and maintains their enthusiasm; facing the challenge becomes addictive. The established activities which the services recognise for the provision of AT are mountaineering, rock climbing, canoeing, skiing, sailing (off-shore), gliding (including hang gliding and paragliding), sub-aqua diving, caving and parachuting. This list should not be considered as exclusive, nor should every aspect of these pursuits be regarded as AT. Applications to undertake AT activities through service schemes are considered solely in the light of their own merit and assessed as to whether the aims of AT will be achieved.

THE 'PULL FACTOR'

Well structured AT provides the soldier with a fulfilling experience which is both exhilarating and enjoyable. As a result, there is a great demand for AT from the participants themselves. When recruiting, the Army advertises life in the services as an 'adventure experience' and consider previous personal development training, such as the Duke of Edinburgh Award Scheme or Queen's Scout Award, as a positive factor in the selection process. Personnel have the expectation that their 'quest for adventure' will be fulfilled within the Army. Therefore, the provision of AT is seen as a 'pull factor' in the battle for retention of Army Personnel.

THE TRAINING GAP

Military training is aimed at producing operational effectiveness. However, there are some facets of operational performance that cannot be undertaken during normal training courses. Therefore, there will be a 'gap' between what is required operationally and what can be achieved in training. This is known as the training gap' and can be defined under two headings:

a. Realism. Realism is often the factor that differentiates training from operations. Trainees cannot use live ammunition on a two sided exercises so the operational aspects of combat are missing as safety constraints are imposed to minimise risk. Actual conditions that operations will need to be conducted in cannot be forecast very accurately. Exercises test skills, systems and structure, they rarely put the participants under the 'real time' duress of fear.

b. Resources. During training courses, resources such as time, facilities, money and equipment are often limited; therefore only the basics are taught and tested. Personnel are expected to gain 'experience' elsewhere in order to become ready for operations.

AT can help fill the training gap by providing both the realism of the environment of risk and the resource of time, as at Unit level AT is often conducted partly over weekend and leave periods. As AT provides relatively inexpensive training, scarce resources such as money, facilities and equipment can be best utilised to provide efficient, worthwhile training. AT can therefore further reduce the training gap.

Sig Nicola Burnip trains as part of the R. SIGNALS and ARMY Marathon Canoe Teams in Monmouth

TRANSFERABLE SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE

Many of the practical skills and experiences acquired while undertaking AT are transferable to the soldier's primary role. Navigation, campcraft, water safety, rope-work, meteorology, first aid etc are all skills which are relevant to the soldier, as are the experiences of enduring physical hardship, undertaking expeditions, organisation and administration, foreign travel, leadership, teamwork etc. Transferable skills and experience are another facet of AT whose value cannot be overstated. In terms of Defence Budget, such skills and experience are gained cheaply, compared with the cost of adopting formal training to cover these elements.

SUMMARY

The Army sets great store by the resilience and flexibility of its soldiers. AT provides three major factors that make it a valuable training medium, they are:

a. Development of soldiers in preparation for War and Operations.
b. Excellent retention factor.
c. Cost effective.

AT must seek, through exposure to physically and mentally demanding activities, to develop character and leadership and it is important for the focus of Unit level AT to be on developing the soldier, not the skill alone.

COME ON 'F'

By Captain Edgar Harrison Royal Signals OBE MC

Foreword by Col (Retd) C. J. Walters Director, Roval Signals Museum

This article by Edgar Harrison is a personal account of his time during training. He was a member of the legendary 'F' Company at Catterick. 'F' Company eventually became Boys Training Company from which sprang such organisations as the Army Apprentices' School, Harrogate and The Junior Leaders Regiment at Denbury. 'F' certainly has good pedigree! Edgar went on to an illustrious career which included early service as a soldier in China with the Foreign Office Wireless Service for five years. In 1941 he was selected for special service with the SIS (M16) at Bletchley Park from where he was commissioned. During the war he trained agents for field deployment and saw service in many countries including Norway, Greece, Crete, Egypt and Russia. He parachuted into Yugoslavia and was extricated by submarine. He met up with the Long Range Desert Group of Ralph Bagnold (also Royal Signals) in Sudan and he served on the Russian Front. Edgar was discharged from the service in 1946 on medical grounds and joined the Diplomatic Wireless Service in which he served until 1975 when he retired. During this time he served in Japan, India, Singapore, Russia, Beirut, Delhi, Singapore and UK. For his final appointment he was Director of the Service. I had the privilege of recently interviewing Edgar when he also presented me with a copy of his autobiography which covers 'The First Sixty Years of My Life'. There could not be a more unassuming and charming character who has given his all to his country. In so doing he has been awarded BEM, MBE, OBE and MC, but so unassuming is he that it was virtually impossible for me to determine the reasons and actions behind these awards.

Who knows how many times 'Come on F ' raised the efforts of boys competing against men on the sporting fields of Scotton and the Highlands. Suffice to say this cry certainly contributed to the fact that the prestigious, Mackworth Trophy remained in the possession of F Company continuously whilst I was associated with this most illustrious of all Royal Signals units.

How does one commence a short history of 'F' when my knowledge of the Company extends only to the period 1926 to 1933. I shall try. In 1925/26 the Royal Signals moved from Maresfield in Sussex to Catterick Camp in North Yorkshire. When settled at Catterick it became the Signals Training Centre (STC) commanded by Brig Clementi-Smith. The whole comprised the Depot Battalion, the Training Battalion, School of Signals and Mounted Wing. My concern is principally with the Training Battalion (TB) comprising D E and F companies and particularly with F Company. Apart from F Company, all recruits joined the Depot Battalion aged 18 and over and, after three months soldiering, joined either D or E companies or the Mounted Wing depending on their trades. Fitters, Instrument Mechanics, Linesmen and Despatch Riders went to D Company (some Linesmen went to the Mounted Wing). All Operator Signals went to E Company. Numerically the Depot Battalion was by far the largest followed in strength by E Company, D Company, F Company, Mounted Wing and School of Signals. These six units competed annually in athletics, cricket, hockey, rugby and soccer for the Mackworth Trophy. So to F Company.

I have no idea who dreamed up the idea of offering apprenticeships into the Army by open competition. All I do know is that it was a brilliant idea which resulted in the Corps attracting and training intelligent boys. All boys had to be of British parentage, and the thrice yearly examinations were held in the UK, India, Far and Middle East. Usually 150 places were up for grabs and the Corps took between 12 and 16 of these boys in December/January, April/May and August/September. I was an April 1929 entrant having come 23rd in my examination.

On arrival at Catterick we were posted to No. 3 hut and remained in civilian clothes while we were measured up for our uniforms and footwear at the Tailor's shop adjacent to the Mounted Wing. We also had our hair cut at the Hairdressers next door to the Tailors. While still in civvies we were taught how to make and unmake our beds and the basics of marching drill. After some two weeks we were uniformed and kitted out and awaited our numbers. It was widely rumoured our squad would be the first of the 232s and so it turned out. Fraser - 2320048, Godwin 2320049, me 2320050 and so on. Amongst the kit issued was a length of half inch white tape. This was cut up in appropriate lengths, each stamped with our numbers. These numbered tapes were then stitched by us on to our blankets, uniform, underwear, shirts and socks. Visits to the QM stores resulted in us being kitted out as hereunder:

1 Cap stiff with brass badge and chinstrap
1 Fatigue Cap
1 Cap comforter
1 Tunic with brass buttons, dog collars and epaulettes
1 Pair Trousers with braces
1 Pair Breeches
1 Pair Puttees
2 Pair Boots
1 Canvas Shoes,
1 Canvas Fatigue Jacket with buttons
1 Pair Canvas Trousers
3 Shirts
2 Pair Drawers Short
2 Pair Drawers Long
3 Pair Socks
1 Leather Belt
1 Whip
1 Pair Spurs
1 Housewife with needles, thread and wool
1 Hold-all containing knife, fork, spoon, razor, shaving brush, tooth brush and button stick
1 Brass nameplate stamped with name and number
1 Kitbag
1 Groundsheet
1 Greatcoat
1 Pair Woollen Gloves
2 Hand Towels.

Having achieved a certain amount of expertise in marching, we marched to Hipswell Post Office and sent home our parcelled civilian clothes. Now, under the tutelage of Sgt Carpenter and LCpl Birkett we were inculcated into the many facets of soldiering. So much to learn - bed making, laying out of kit, trumpet calls and whistles - of which more anon, similarly with hut duties and much else. Probably for the first time in our young lives we accepted responsibilities and real discipline.

So, to trumpet calls and whistles which, between them, were to play a major part in the time we spent in F Company. Our first trumpet call of the day was Reveille 0615hrs in summer and 0700hrs in winter (during Spring Drills in Summer Reveille was at 0545hrs twice weekly). This was followed by Orderly Room, Post, Stables, Retreat, Defaulters and Last Post. All parades were ordered by whistles as was 'Lights Out'. Lance Corporal Boys were responsible for the series of whistles. Three whistles indicated ten minutes to parade time, two whistles for five minutes to parade time. Then 'On Parade'. A loud whistle and cry of 'Lights Out' indicated it was 9.30pm and bedtime. We 'stood to our beds' nightly at 9.00pm. Sgt 'Pedlar' Palmer was the Trumpet Major and there were two Boy Trumpeters of whom one was named Stokoe, I think. We became familiar with the calls and whistles in a very short time.

Until a squad 'Passed Out' they were virtually confined to No. 3 hut under the watchful eye of LCpl Birkett. Our daily routine went something like this. Reveille, wash and dress and make one's bed. Breakfast came next and then we tidied up our hut (each boy had a task on a roster which rotated weekly). This being satisfactorily completed, we were marched to the Training Battalion square to carry out various drills and disciplines - quick and slow marching, forming and unforming fours, opening and closing order, wheeling, saluting and whip drill. After about an hour we marched back and, depending on the day, attended education classes at the School of Signals of which more anon, or PT at the gymnasium adjacent to St Martins church or boxing at the 'Blood Tub' in the Mounted Wing. All kinds of sporting activities were indulged in on the Scotton and Highland playing fields.

Apart from Saturday and Sunday afternoons, there was little if any spare time. So much to learn. How to clean our badges and buttons without staining our uniforms, how to bone our boots and burnish our spurs, to darn and sew and put on our puttees properly. Our progress in these skills owed a great deal to the boys in our squad from the Duke of York's School, Dover and the Queen Victoria School, Dunblane. They were so helpful.

Education, all recruits to the Corps were expected to obtain a Third and Second Class Certificate. Boy Apprentice Tradesmen were expected to obtain a First Class Certificates and, exceptionally, Special Certificates. Promotion beyond the rank of Sergeant was denied those not possessing First Class Certificates. Once one had obtained a First Class Certificate it was no longer compulsory to attend education classes. Religious Instruction (RI) lessons were given to all boys. I am not sure if they were monthly or weekly. The vast majority of F Company were Anglicans, many attended Confirmation classes and were duly Confirmed by the Bishop of Ripon. St Martins Church Choir owed much to F Company boys. They practised with the Corps Band every Friday and were given an extra two day's leave annually. Two other boys, that elected to pump the organ, were also given the extra leave. Church going on Sundays was compulsory and was not much liked because of the parading beforehand although we boys admired our be-medalled SNCOs, WOs and Officers with their Great and other war decorations. Rain on Sunday mornings was welcomed as Church Parade was then cancelled.

After three months intensive training the great day came. Sgt Carpenter pronounced us fit and ready and we were paraded before the CO of the Training Battalion to show off our paces as it were. After completing the intricacies of marching and drill, individually we marched to the CO, whip saluted, gave our number, rank, name and trade, whip saluted again, about turned and marched back to our squad. I shall never forget my elation on the day I 'Passed Out'. Returning to No. 3 Hut, we were congratulated by Sgt Carpenter and told we should read that day's Company Orders carefully. We did and discovered we had been posted to either Hut No. 2 or Hut No. 7 depending on one's trade. Fitters and Instrument Mechanics to Hut 2, Operator Signals to Hut 7. After a fortnight's leave we returned in late August to commence trade training. I, with most of our squad, went to Hut 7.

I have briefly touched on leave. We were allowed two weeks in August and two weeks in December the latter covering Christmas and the New Year. While at Catterick we were strictly confined to camp limits bounded by Hipswell, Hunton and 'the pole' of the latter more anon. Being thus restricted leave was eagerly awaited. A week before the commencement of leave 'F' Company orders contained the names of all boys going on leave, their destinations and the amount of money they would be paid after deduction of their railway fares. Every effort was made by the boys to appear really smart and well turned out for their leave. This entailed the wearing of civvy boots, nickel spurs and a length of half inch fawn tape wound around the bottom of the puttee. We were of course dressed in our best tunics, breeches and puttees. Our civvy boots and nickel spurs were obtained by a weekly deduction from our pay. While at home we could wear civilian clothes or our walking-out uniform. One thing we had to remember was to have a short back and sides haircut before we returned from leave.

Sport, as mentioned earlier 'F' Company had a deservedly great sporting tradition with the winning of the Mackworth Trophy the hallmark of success. Although we were always competing against men three or four years older than us, we more than held our own in most events. The principal sports were athletics, boxing, cricket, hockey, soccer and rugby. We were not allowed to box against those in man's service. The venues for sporting activities were Scotton for athletics, cricket, hockey and soccer and the Highlands for rugby. While there was some organised training, boys who were interested in sport were expected to be individually and collectively motivated enough to train in their spare time. As a Company we excelled at athletics and rugby, and were fair to middling at the other sports. The climax to our sporting season occurred in September with the final athletic meeting of the year. On occasions the Mackworth Trophy was decided on the last race - the 4 x 440 yard relay - with Sgt Carpenter running the last leg, to cries of, 'Come on Carpo,' we invariably won. My contribution to this meeting was in the 100 yard relay, the individual 220 yards and the long jump. At the latter in 1932, I set an Army Junior record.

'F' Company prided itself on the excellence of their rugby teams year in and year out. In addition to playing against D and E Companies, Depot Battalion, Mounted Wing and the School of Signals, we also played against public and grammar schools. In respect of the public schools, Ampleforth always provided the toughest competition and regularly defeated us. Then came the great day in 1932 when for the first time, we defeated the school on their own soil. It was indeed a dramatic victory. The custom at Ampleforth had been that, after the game and showers, we were given a meal accompanied by a pint of beer. On this occasion, however, the beer was omitted! I wonder if we ever defeated Ampleforth again. While credit must be given to a number of persons for the excellence of 'F' Company's rugby sides, the principal credit must, I think, be given to Maj F. R. Cobb who commanded 'F' Company 1926 - 1930, of whom more anon.

Officers Commanding:

Maj F. R. Cobb 1926 - 1930
Capt H. E. Rance 1930 - 1932
Capt D. C. Holland 1932 - 1936
Capt T. Boileau 1936 -

My training at Liverpool Post Officer 1930 - 32 meant that I knew little or nothing of Capt Rance, I was however fortunate enough to have two wonderful Commanding Officers in Maj Cobb and Capt Holland. I left Catterick in 1933 and so have no knowledge of Capt Boileau.

Maj Cobb, a bachelor, put all his energies, heart and soul into the well being of 'F' Company. Into all of us Boys he inculcated pride in the Corps and in particular 'F' Company. Nothing less than giving one's all was expected from all the Boys. In many respects he ran 'F' Company as a public school – we moved from hut to hut as we acquired skills and seniority, the equivalent of lower and upper 5th and 6th Forms. Lance Corporal Boys equated to prefects and wielded certain disciplinary powers particularly over under-age smoking and bad language. I was possibly the youngest of all apprentice tradesmen and very naïve about life in general. I well recall Maj Cobb coming to No.3 Hut about a month after I arrived in Catterick. After telling us how privileged we all were to be in the Royal Corps of Signals, the pride of the Army, we in 'F' Company were the cream of the Corps. Never ever were we to let the Corps down. The motto of 'F' Company was 'Stick together and muck in.' He made a point about the habit of soldiers having themselves tattooed and went on to say that no 'F' Company Boy would do such a thing, (I have never seen a tattoo on an ex-Boy). Then came a chat about self-abuse that went completely over my head, the older boys later told me what he was talking about!

Maj Cobb and Capt Holland were particularly interested in sport, at which 'F' Company excelled. We were encouraged to train at Scotton and elsewhere and to take pride in the past and present achievements of the Corps both in the UK and abroad. The Corps magazine, The WIRE, allowed us to follow avidly the progress of favoured units in athletics, Army Soccer and Rugby Cups, and in India the Durand Cup. Small sections in China also achieved success. In the 1937/38 season a team largely drawn from the Shanghai Signal Section won the prestigious Tsz Ling Cup, beating the much favoured top Chinese team 3-2. This was the only occasion that a foreign team won the trophy.

So far I have only touched upon the real reason that 'F' Company was created. It was, of course, formed to turn out first class soldiers and tradesmen. I am competent to comment only upon my own trade – Operator Signals. Unlike today, with its tendency for specialisation and compartmentalisation, 'F' Company strove to turn out all-rounders and succeeded in their aims. At the end of my training I was a competent signaller in Visual (flags and lamps), Line and Wireless Telegraphy. I had passed an Equitation Course, under the famed CSM 'Snaky' Young and could lay cables. Competence had also been acquired in equipping and operating a telephone exchange. I also had a Second, First and part of the Special Certificate of Education.

As Operator Signals, a large part of our training took place at Liverpool GPO ('K' Company, commanded by Capt Coombs, RE). We were accommodated at Seaforth Barracks, the Depot Battalion of the King's Liverpool Regiment and commuted daily by train from Seaforth and Litherland Stations to Exchange Station in the city. I should mention here that, before we could be accepted at Liverpool, we had to acquire a Group E standard of excellence in our trade. At the Post Office our instructors were a school-master and a school-mistress who brought us up to the Post Office standards of excellence in Sounder Telegraphy, Inker Reading and Punching. The latter was the making of perforated Morse tapes. Until we achieved the required standards we were not allowed into the Instrument Room (IR) to work the 'live' circuits. We were tested weekly in the schoolroom and to give you an idea of the excellence required we were given a Sounder terminal at which we were expected to receive 30 telegrams in 30 minutes and then send the telegrams back in 30 minutes, both procedures without errors. A similar standard of excellence was required in Inker Reading and Punching. We were also taught Post Office counter work in as much as it affected the telegraph side. Capt Coombs came to the schoolroom every Friday to pay us out. Our pay included monies for our train fares and meals in the Post Office canteen. We took considerable pride in our appearance at Liverpool and Capt Coombs was rightly proud of us. So much so that while I was there in 1931/32, he arranged for us to be prominent at the service of the laying of the Foundation Stone of the Anglican Cathedral. There were sufficient numbers of Boys at Liverpool for us to compete at athletics, boxing and soccer against Post Office and Telegraph Boys, the Cabin Boys of the large liners, then regularly calling at Liverpool, and the local schools. Although usually outnumbered we gave a good account of ourselves and frequently the Liverpool Echo commented on our prowess.

To ensure that we did not get out of touch with the army equipment regular visits were made to a Territorial Army unit at Chester Castle. There, two Royal Signals, regular army Sergeants rigorously tested us. The results of these tests were passed on to 'F' Company. On our return to Catterick emphasis was placed on wireless training, principally the 'A' and 'C' and 120 watt sets. With the latter set we regularly worked Bere and Soike Islands. The 1922 Irish Agreement had allowed us to hold on to these islands which guarded the entrance to Cork harbour. We did not like the weekly chore of the charging and toting of the large number of batteries needed to run the 120 watt set. Exercises with the 'A' sets were of short distances. Those of the 'C' set were over much greater distances and, with the latter, we practiced and understood the art of direction finding (DF).

Equitation Courses for apprenticed tradesmen started in 1932. Although I took one of these courses in 1932 I am not sure whether it was of three or four months duration. I think the latter. We had to be at the Mounted Wing by 6am each morning and this meant an early call at 5am. For the first fortnight of the course we were taught how to look after horse and tackle and to 'muck out'. After this we were given an individual horse, complete with tackle, to look after. Mine was named Sinbad – I found out why he was so named after experiencing his habit of rolling when jumping. Our instructor, 'Snaky' Young, who with his horse Baby, was to represent both Corps and Country at the highest level, saw to it that we acquired competency in the saddle and a knowledge of horses. I like to think he was proud of us when we 'passed out', after demonstrating our skills in the Mounted Wing riding school and down the famous 'lane'. Riding down the latter with crossed stirrups was hairy.

It would be an understatement to say 'F' Company turned out tradesmen of the highest standard. All Boys entered Man's Service with a Grade 3 Trade Certificate and the vast majority also had First Class Educational Certificates. Class 2 Trade Certificates were within their capacity but they could not be obtained until after a year of Man's Service. In my case I obtained Class 2 at the age of 19 and my Class 1 before I was 21.

Leaving 'F' Company was a wrench. I can never put into words the debt I owe Maj Cobb, Capt Holland and my instructors at Catterick and Liverpool. My posting was to Tidworth (F Troop Cav Div Sigs) and as I waited with my kit for the bus to take me to Darlington station, Capt Holland drove up in his car and said, 'Jump in and I will take you to Darlington.' On the way he said how impressed he was with my all-round abilities and that he had marked my papers accordingly. In that I gained commissioned rank in Section VIII of SIS and became the Principal Signals Officer of the Diplomatic Wireless Service, I do not think that I disappointed him. Come to think of it, I cannot recall any ex-Boy I met after the 1939/45 War who reached a rank less than Sergeant. One became a Brigadier, one a Colonel, quite a few Lieutenant Colonels and a large number of Majors and Captains.

I mentioned 'The Pole'. This was a flag-staff atop the highest point above the Bellerby Firing Ranges. From it a red flag was flown when firing took place on the range. 'The Pole' was about three miles from 'F' Company lines and it was often incorporated in punishments for minor offences such as – 'You will run to the Pole and back and then report to the Orderly Corporal when you get back.' Many are the Boys who did 'The Pole and Back'. There was a generally acceptable time for the run of under one hour.

The comradeship engendered in 'F' Company ensured that an ex-Boy could always expect assistance from other ex-Boys, regardless of rank. This particularly applied when they moved from one Signals unit to another and in Civvy street. I experienced the helping hand when I moved from Tidworth to Peking, Shanhaikuan, Tientsin, Shanghai and Hong Kong signals Sections and 3rd and 2nd Divisional Signals.

After thoughts:

Under discipline I should have mentioned that, during Maj Cobb's tenure of 'F' Company, corporal punishment was frequently administered. Principle offences attracting this punishment were, under age smoking, bad language and being late on parade. Lance Corporal Boys usually laid the charges and, if found guilty, a Boy would receive, in ascending order - Admonishment, three days or five days CB. After being given CB, CSM 'Hoot' Gibson would take one to one side and offer the alternative of 'strokes'. This offer was usually accepted and the guilty boy would write in his own hand the following: I, No……Boy A/I respectfully request the favour of his Officer Commanding that he be given strokes in lieu of CB.' Having accepted the petition, Maj Cobb, accompanied by CSM Gibson, would take the boy to the 'F' Company hut nearest to the Orderly Room. There the strokes would be administered by the CSM on the bare bottom followed by handshakes all round and the boy would return to duty. I do not recall any boy receiving more than five strokes. The pain from the strokes usually lasted two to three days.

Under Recreation I should have included debating, the performance of plays and the participation in Tattoos. My abiding memory of debating is of a motion put forward by Boy A/T Thomas Baron Chatfield that the South Wales miners played as significant a part in the winning of the Great War as did the armed forces. Welsh steam coal was the world's best and gave our ships the edge especially the Royal Navy. Clean and almost smokeless coal undoubtedly played a major part in the Royal Navy's achievement of superiority over the enemy during the Great War. Incidentally, Chatfield's father was then RSM of the South Wales Borderers at Brecon. Two plays were put on while I was in 'F' Company both by R. C. Sheriff. 'Journey's End' lingers longer in my memory. This was well acted and produced. One incident in the play still brings a smile to my lips. Boy Stanford, playing the part of one of the nervous/frightened soldiers, takes out a cigarette and strikes a match to light it. Stanford a non-smoker, had no idea how to light a cigarette, he held it in his hand and kept striking matches, holding the flame to the end of the cigarette and he thought that was all that was needed. When it came to puffing the cigarette it was, of course, not alight. Whilst soldiering and gaining proficiency at one's trade played the major part in our training at 'F' Company the additional skills of debating and the performance on the stage resulted in a more accomplished tradesman entering man's service.

Mention must also be made of 'F' Company's participation in two Tattoos in 1932. The first was on the Knavesmire at York where we enacted the 'Battle of the Toy Soldiers'. We played this for five nights and one matinee. It was very well received, so much so that we were invited to the Terry's chocolate factory where, in addition to receiving a box of chocolates, we were allowed to taste others of their products. We were also initiated into the processes of chocolate making. After that we were given a grand tour of York Minster.

Our next tattoo was in Roundhay Park Leeds where we enacted 'A Grand Slam'. For this, 52 Boys, our complete complement, dressed up to represent each of the playing cards in a pack. Bidding took place over the loud speaking system and, after doubling and re-doubling, a grand slam was bid and made. It was so well done that we were asked to give a separate performance for the bridge players in that part of Yorkshire - this we did. Our reward was to be taken round Burton's clothing factory and a Foundry. At both places we were given a good meal. Captain Holland commanded 'F' Company at this time.

ARNHEM REVISITED

Lewis Golden

My wife and I hope to return to Arnhem in September. It will be the fifty-fifth anniversary of the ill-fated operation which was mounted in 1944, code-named 'Market Garden'. One British and two American airborne divisions were to seize and hold the numerous river bridges which had to be captured if Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery's plan was to be realised. He envisaged an armoured thrust sweeping through Holland into Germany so as to end the war that year. The British Division was the 1st Airborne Division, comprising the 1st and 4th Parachute Brigades and the glider-borne 1st Airlanding Brigade. With the support of 1st Polish Parachute Brigade it had the task of seizing the road bridge across the River Neder Rijn at Arnhem, the furthest away, some sixty-four miles into enemy held territory, from the position of the land forces which were to relieve it. The operation failed; but in that perverse way which characterises the British Army, that failure is celebrated as much, if not more, than its greatest successes.

The pilgrimage to Arnhem this year will be led by Maj Gen Tony Deane-Drummond, now aged 82 and the most senior in rank of the ageing survivors of the battle. As one of the company commanders in my unit Maj Deane-Drummond, as he then was, had a remarkable escape soon after he was taken prisoner at Arnhem following upon a strenuous period of fighting. Escape was in his blood. As a Lieutenant he had taken part in the very first parachute operation by the British Army. That was in 1941, and the object had been to blow up a viaduct in the north of Italy. The operation succeeded but all the parachutists were captured. On his third audacious attempt Tony Deane-Drummond got away to Switzerland and found his way back to us in England. At Arnhem he achieved the well-nigh impossible : for thirteen days and nights he stood hidden in a shallow cupboard in a room which was being used by the Germans to interrogate prisoners, and when the enemy left he escaped. A very tough individual.

'There were no Jews at Arnhem,' was the monstrous sneer broadcast over the radio from Germany by William Joyce, the infamous 'Lord Haw Haw', who was later hanged as a traitor. Joyce's assertion was a groundless lie which would have been believed by only the most unthinking of his listeners, for obviously he had no means of finding out how many Jews were serving with airborne forces. But his words were still fresh in my mind when my wife and I visited Arnhem in 1979, thirty five years after I had landed there. I noticed that the counter assistant in the Post Office was wearing a silver Magen David. No, he was not Jewish but his sympathies lay with Jews. That reminded me that we were in the country in which Anne Frank had lived her short life, and in which Rembrandt often portrayed Jewish subjects. Even the Airborne Museum, now established in what had been the Hartenstein Hotel in the adjoining village of Oosterbeek, the building which 1st Airborne Division used as its headquarters during the battle, shows the Dutch concern for their Jewish citizens, for a photograph of the rounding up of Jews by the Nazis is prominently displayed, as is the record of the consequent protest by their non-Jewish countrymen.

There were, of course, many Jews in 1st Airborne Division, and possibly some also in the supporting 1st Polish Parachute Brigade. For example, there was the Royal Army Medical Corps surgeon, Capt Lipmann Kessel, who remained behind with our wounded when we eventually withdrew across the river, and who operated on Brig John Hackett, commander of 4th Parachute Brigade, saving his life after the German doctors had written him off as too far gone. Then there was Lt Col Eddie Myers, commander of the Royal Engineers units, who swam the river to make contact with the Poles. A friend of mine comes to mind: Lt Dennis Kayne who was serving in one of the battalions of 4th Parachute Brigade. Then there are the fallen. A visit to the Arnhem Oosterbeek War Cemetery is a reminder of their names :-

Capt J. M. Henry	Parachute Regiment
Pte B. Haikin	Parachute Regiment
SSgt J. A. Z. Susskind	Royal Engineers
Private A. L. Taylor	Dorsetshire Regiment
Sgt R. Franks	Glider Pilot Regiment
Sgt T. A. Rubenstein	Glider Pilot Regiment
Sgt E. Simion	Glider Pilot Regiment

Pte G. A. Emanuel	Parachute Regiment
Pte H. Zimmerman	Somerset Light Infantry
Tpr W. B. Chevinsky	Reconnaissance Corps
Flt Lt R. M. Singer	Royal New Zealand Air Force
Ldg Airman R. J. Eden	Royal Air Force

They rest along with so many in unnamed graves marked 'A Soldier of the 1939-45 War'. How many Jews lie in those graves? Maybe none, perhaps several. As the inscriptions on the graves record, they are 'Known Only To God'.

The highlight of all pilgrimages to Arnhem is the Sunday morning memorial service conducted in that beautiful cemetery, often attended by the Prince of Wales as Colonel-in-Chief of The Parachute Regiment, and by the Queen of The Netherlands. It's a most moving experience, made more so by the schoolchildren who stand by the graves and, at an appropriate moment, tenderly lay a bunch of flowers beside each one. Bidden by their teachers they observe the extreme youth of most of the fallen, as the grave-stones record. Today these children are the grandchildren of those who first discharged their solemn duty immediately after the end of the war. The memorial service has no specifically Jewish content, but possibly because I once voiced a complaint about this the band now plays Bruch 's Kol Nidre during the wreath laying.

I was then a Captain, my role at Arnhem was that of Adjutant, 1st Airborne Divisional Signals. Although only 21 years old I had experienced more action with Airborne Signals than any other Royal Signals Officer, for as luck would have it I was the only one who had served in all three of the previous airborne theatres of war; in North Africa in 1942 and 1943 with 1st Parachute Brigade; in Sicily in 1943, again with 1st Parachute Brigade; and in Italy later that year, with the glider-borne guns, 1st Airlanding Light Regiment. All that experience was as nothing at Arnhem, for early on I was ordered to take command of a sector of the perimeter defences in the grounds surrounding the Divisional Headquarters building, and there I stayed for the duration of the battle. Nevertheless it was to me that men in my unit turned at one of our annual reunions, when the need for a Royal Signals account of the battle of Arnhem was thought to be warranted in order to refute the story that communications had been a complete failure; and I wrote 'Echoes from Arnhem' which was published in 1984, now out of print but available in the Reinhart Library or, if one is patient, through one's public library.

Approaching the subject with no preconceived notions I went to the War Diaries which units were required to file monthly and which are available at the Public Record Office at Kew Gardens. Here I read much of the vast array of books on operation 'Market Garden'. I soon tracked down the origin of the myth that communications had been a complete failure. It stemmed from the book 'Arnhem' written by the Divisional Commander, Maj Gen Roy Urquhart, ghosted by Wilfred Greatorex and published in 1958. Authors who wrote subsequently seem to have repeated the myth without questioning its authenticity. Similarly damning was the film 'A Bridge Too Far'. At the premiere I was sitting behind Maj Gen Urquhart and Maj Gen John Frost who, as a Battalion Commander, had been the hero of the hour at the bridge; and after the film ended I asked them why Signals had had a bashing. They both assured me that the film was not meant to be a documentary, so I should not worry. Nevertheless it was a documentary, and I did worry; but I consoled myself with the thought that in 1946 another film of the battle had been made. It was called 'Theirs is the Glory'. With some of those who had got back as the actors, it was authentic and had not made Signals a scapegoat.

Why did Maj Gen Urquhart slay Signals in his book 'Arnhem'? Might it have been that he made his statement, '…the communications were a complete failure,' to justify, possibly even subconsciously, the decision he took the day we landed to leave Divisional Headquarters, to go off in search of 1st Parachute Brigade which was advancing towards the bridge? That decision nearly cost the Divisional Commander his life. He found himself surrounded by the enemy, had to lie low and was therefore not in command of the Division during the first two vital days. His absence gave rise to friction between the two Brigade Commanders, 'Pip' Hicks of 1st Airlanding Brigade and 'Shan' Hackett of 4th Parachute Brigade. One of them had to assume command during Urquhart's absence. The trouble was that Hicks had landed on 17 September, Hackett on 18 September. Hicks was much the older man but junior to Hackett in service as a Brigadier. I happened to have been in the Operations room in the Hartenstein Hotel and had witnessed the argument. It was embarrassing.

Although very much less drastic than had been feared at the time the operation was planned, when signals had remonstrated with the divisional staff that its sets were not powerful enough to cope with the task being put upon them, the weakness some of the time of some of the radio links contributed to the lamentable outcome of the battle; but there were many more telling causes. Chief amongst them was the refusal of the commander of the whole airborne force, Lt Gen 'Boy' Browning, to accept his Intelligence Officer's report before the Operation was launched of the build-up of Panzer units around Arnhem; and the shortage of aircraft which meant that only two Brigades, 1st Parachute Brigade and 1st Airlanding Brigade, could land on 17 September, with 4th Parachute Brigade having to drop the next day and the Poles even later. Yet all fades into insignificance when one reflects on the real cause of the failure of the operation: the inability of the relieving force to make headway against a determined enemy. Even with communications which were less than perfect the message was got through to the relieving force that it had to arrive on time if the bridge was to be held. This it could not do, not because the need for its urgent presence was not known and appreciated but because it was quite unable to make quick enough progress. The relieving force was 30 Corps, consisting of the Guards Armoured Division with two infantry divisions, 43rd and 50th, following on behind, and it had been entrusted with the task of advancing some sixty-four miles in four days or less, with only one access road available to it and no means of getting off that road. Small wonder that it failed. Enemy action simply kept cutting the road, so impeding the advance. Even with help from units of the American airborne divisions, given with great courage and vigour, 30 Corps just could not make it; and in retrospect it justified the suspicion reputed to have been voiced by Lt Gen Browning, that it was 'A Bridge Too Far'

My wife and I duly took part in the 55th pilgrimage to Arnhem. It was a particularly memorable occasion because, being apparently the final official pilgrimage, its programme was extended and did not end as usual with the service of remembrance at the Oosterbeek military cemetery, a melancholy annual tribute to the fallen. Instead, on the afternoon of that day, Sunday 19 September, we surviving veterans of the ill-fated operation in 1944, which was to have opened the way into Germany and end the war that year, piled into a hundred or so old army vehicles for a 'Trip of Honour, through the villages west of Arnhem which had seen so much of the fighting. In the words of the Dutch organisers '... in this way the inhabitants of Oosterbeek, Wolfheze, Renkum, Heelsum, Doorwerth and Heveadorp can once more express their gratitude and respect to the brave men who tried to liberate The Netherlands from the Aggressor in 1944' and '... it is the last possibility for the veterans to show their appreciation towards the population of Renkum for the hospitality which was offered them during the annual commemorations of the Battle of Arnhem'.

Just as it was on the equivalent Sunday in September 1944, the day we had landed, it was a beautiful warm sunny afternoon. We donned our red berets, put on our medals and set off. As we motored along at a little more than a walking pace we were given a quite overwhelming reception. The whole population seemed to be at the roadside or leaning out of windows, waving and applauding and shouting, 'Thank you f or what you did.' and, 'God bless you.' Many hands reached out to try to touch ours. One lady who was confined to a wheelchair drove it recklessly into our path so that my Jeep had to stop and receive her greetings. I thanked her for looking after us, but she would not hear of it. 'You gave us hope,' she said, and we blew kisses to one another as my Jeep moved off. Tragically hope was all we had given, for the death and destruction caused by us and the Germans during the battle had left the Dutch with even greater hardship when we withdrew than before we had landed. But for those who were suffering under the Nazi terror, hope was everything. Certainly the warmth of the greeting from the very young to the very old, with only time for split second eye contact as the convoy moved along, was astonishing. I was not alone in having difficulty in restraining my tears. Never have I been so moved.

Back at the Hartenstein Hotel in Oosterbeek, now the Airborne Museum but during the battle in 1944 the headquarters of 1st Airborne Division, we formed up behind the Band of the Parachute Regiment for a farewell parade, marching past the leader of the pilgrimage, my old comrade Maj Gen Tony Deane-Drummond, who took the salute along with the Burgomaster of Renkum and other dignitaries. The crowds lining the route this time were even more dense and demonstrative. As we passed her by a little girl thrust a spray of carnations into my hand. It was all again a moving experience. We carried on to the Town Hall, some 800 metres distant, where we were dismissed. Suddenly the celebrations were at an end. It was a nostalgic moment, for few of us would be likely ever to return. I am nearly 77 years old, and one of the youngest. It had been a fond farewell.

'BEVERLEY BOY' REMINISCENCES

Capt (Retd) B. J. Podmore

This is the story of a Regimental Boy and his Unit, No. 6 (Boys) Training Regiment, Normandy Camp, Beverley, East Yorkshire. It covers just over two years service which was the average service of a Boy Entrant.

My reasons for writing this article are I suppose three-fold. In my interest and research into our Corps history I have discovered that there is very little reference to Boys' Service in general and in particular no mention at all of Beverley and No. 6 (Boys) Training Regiment. Regrettably our Corps Museum has nothing on display in the way of written material or artifacts. The little that has been written is in some instances not factually correct anyway. I am therefore trying to rectify the situation. I have tried to be as factually correct as is possible bearing in mind the period of time that has now elapsed. What is very good news is that The Ex-Beverley Boys' Association has now been formed. More about that at the end of this article.

The year was 1955 and the month was July. At this time No. 6 (Boys) Training Regiment had just vacated Normandy Camp for the pastures of Newton Abbott, Devon. The whole unit had dispersed on 'End of Summer Term' leave and would then be reporting back to their new home. I as part of 'man-service' entry 255 had been left behind for final documentation before we embarked on our Trade Training courses at the Signals Training Centre, Catterick (Drivers, DR's to Ripon). The Unit had been a Boys Company prior to the move from Richmond to Beverley in 1950 and then re-named 6 (Boys) Training Regiment. They in turn had been a successor to F (Boys) Company at Catterick. I can still recall on that day in 1955, sitting and waiting in the billiard room, next to the NAAFI, for the Bedford (TCV) QL to arrive and convey us to the railway station at Beverley and then on to Catterick via the railway stations at York and Richmond. Wondering what lay ahead for me as a future Telegraph Mechanic (X trade) in The Royal Corps of Signals. There was one consolation I suppose. I had, by virtue of attaining the rank of Boy/RSM, been appointed to the rank of Local Lance Corporal. A policy I am given to understand still exists today for Junior Soldiers of more senior rank. (Can I hear mutterings of never held the rank of 'Signalman?') My Trade Training course was to be at 2 Sqn, 1 Training Regiment, Kemmel Lines. But that is another story. I was to return back to 2 Sqn later in my service to be 'demobbed'.

I had joined 'The Regiment' on 5 May 1953 at the sprightly age of 15 years and 3 months having left school that April. Pay was 2/6d a day, a total of 17/6d per week of which 7/6d was taken back for 'credits' and if not used up on kit deficiencies, barrack damages etc, was given back to you at end of term. 4 May had been my enlistment day in which I had made the last of several visits, with my father, (ex-2 Batt Grenadier Guards) to the Recruiting Office at Bethesda Schools, Bethesda Street, Hanley, Stoke-on-Trent. A Colour Sergeant of the South Staffordshire Regiment was to oversee my 'signing on' for six years with the Colours and three years on the reserve' and of taking the Oath of Allegiance. I then made my way to Beverley by courtesy of British Rail. We were all met at Beverley railway station by a Cadre NCO who turned out to be the (R) Recruit Troop Sergeant. Some recruits were already on the 3-tonner having travelled via York. We spent six weeks in 'R' Troop on basic training (the last intake to do that at Beverley.) R Troop moved to Selby as a separate unit at the beginning of the Autumn Term of 1953. You were not allotted your Regimetal Number until completion of your Basic Training and therefore I was referred to as NYA (not yet allotted) Podmore. My Regimental Number was to be 22776277.

The Regiment had three squadrons. There was HQ Sqn which consisted of permanent staff (Cadre) then the Boy Squadrons of 'A' Sqn (Arras lines) with A & B Troops (later changed to A, B, D & E Troops). 'B' Sqn (Aisne Lines) with D & E Troops (later changed to J, K, L & M Troops). I was posted to 'B' Sqn, D Troop, (later became J Troop). Later on we had epaulette flashes and I remember that J Troop was dark blue and M Troop was orange. In the latter part of my time spent there I remember my Troop Commander was a National Serviceman, 2Lt Maudsley. The Troop Sergeant was Sgt 'Freddie' Freeman and the Troop Corporal was a chap called Whittingham, a re-enlistment into the Corps, who after demob from the Corps at the end of WWII had become a London Transport bus driver. K Troop commander, also a National Serviceman, was a 2Lt Dixon. Both these Officers left the Regiment on demob, at about the same time as I. After being promoted to Boy Warrant Officer (B/WO) rank you ceased to belong to a Troop. There were only ever two Boy WO's at one time so therefore whoever was B/RSM there would not be a B/SSM in the same Squadron. The OC of 2 Sqn was a Maj Williams. The SSM was a man called 'Pop' Rider. He was a big chap but 'Pop' by name and nature. He, like a number of other married Cadres, lived in the 'hutted' married quarters that were situated to the left of the camp entrance (opposite the Guard Room.). The quarters followed a contour of a semi-circle leading on to a group of brick buildings (there were not to many of them on the camp) that formed the classrooms. The Admin Officer if my memory serves me right was Capt Fyffe and he was also in charge of the Band/Corps of Drums. The camp had two gymnasiums and they were quite large. There was a WO1 of the Army Physical Training Corps in charge with Regimental PTIs as assistants. I do recall that the SSM of 'A' Sqn was Tim Holt, a man I was to meet up with again in 1957 when he came as RSM to 3 GHQ Sig Regt at Episkopi (Cyprus). I was to remain in 'B' Sqn for the duration of my Boys Service. I remember the new regimental numbers of the Regular and N/S (the 230s) being published on Part 1 Orders and that caused some excitement at the time. We were all either 22537s, 22569 or 22776s. All Boy soldiers were of course subject to Military Law and Queens Regulations. The punishments were the same as a 'Man Soldier' ie: Detention, CB (jankers/defaulters) with one additional type of punishment which was only administered to Boy Soldiers. This was the dreaded 'strokes'. A bamboo type of cane used to strike you across the buttocks. You always paraded for OC's Orders in Denims. If strokes were to be administered it was the duty of the SSM to carry out the punishment in front of the OC. You were bent over a table/chair, fully dressed. It was always the common practice to wear the issued US BDs on these occasions just in case you got the strokes. They were the garments that were 1157 issue and had to be worn underneath our Denims to assist in keeping us warm in winter. If the strokes were to be given on CO's Orders then they were carried out by the RSM but you wore PT kit. You were marched out after the CO had stated your punishment, wearing Best SD, straight into the RSM's office. If strokes were to be administered you changed into PT kit, Best Boots and grey socks (turned over at the top of the boot) and then marched back in again for the punishment.

Training was split into two categories, Education and Military. The training day was also split to cater for both. The RAEC were responsible for the former and at that time the establishment was one Officer and a number of Sergeants (long before it became an all 'commissioned' Corps). Most of the SNCOs were teachers completing their National Service. The Officer I recall was a Capt Edwards. He had risen to fame as an international rugby player and played full back at that time for Wales. I was later to meet up with him again in Birmingham in 1976 for at that time I was still a serving soldier in the Territorial Army. He was by then a retired Colonel and was the organiser of a seminar by UK Land Forces in support of the Reserve Forces. There was no trade training as such. The only thing I can recall in connection with communications was the Amateur Radio station in our lines. I never saw it in use but it was housed in one of the 'Spiders' in 'B' Sqn Lines.

Our uniform consisted of two issues of SD, one Best, one 2nd Best, with buttoned up collar and SD cap. The cap badge was the second pattern issue with King's Crown. We wore Collar Dogs and initially were issued with the first pattern type. (I make these references to 'patterns' for I have an extensive collection of Corps memorabilia by way of cap badges, collar dogs and Div Signs etc). I had enlisted after the death of King George VI but before the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. They were later changed to the second pattern. I do have a photograph of myself in uniform wearing that mixed insignia. The Boy WO's/NCO's all wore miniature rank insignia. The small 'Tapes' (which later were adopted on the new issue No.2 Dress) were worn by ranks below B/WO. B/SSM's wore the Staff Sergeant's crown. The B/RSM (Tara) had for his 'Tate & Lyle's' the Collar Dogs of the General Service Corps. I still have mine and they have the 'Kings Crown' One particular part of our dress that I remember was the way the 'Chinstrap' was positioned on the SD cap. It was brown, had two brass buckles and one 'stud.' This was a brass rivet. It had to be positioned so that, as one looked at it from the front, 'Jimmy' had to be 'Kicking the ball' (on a 252 if it was not) We wore the 'Catterick Rose' on each sleeve. No Training Regiment colour 'flashes' were worn on the sleeve unlike those that were worn by the remaining six Training Regiments (triangle for Cadre and rectangle for trainees (except 7TR)). The shoulder title, R SIGNALS, was of brass and worn on each epaulette. The standard issue web belt was worn with SD. I do have photographs of the Regiment (pre 1953) taken on the drill square at the E Yorks Depot and in Beverley town which show all Boy soldiers wearing black leather belts. Boys below the rank of B/Sgt were allowed to wear the good conduct stripe. This was commonly known as the 'dodger.'

In 1954 our then Colonel-in-Chief, HRH The Princess Mary, Princess Royal visited the Regiment. One part of the schedule was to 'Review' her Boys (that were how she referred to us). This was done by first 'Trooping the Colour' a drill manoeuvre, which we were quite familiar with. It was part of our general training and used for ceremonial purposes throughout Northern Command. It was done in precisely the same way as the Queens Guards do it today. The parade consisted of two Guards, one from each Squadron, (No's 1 & 2) and each Squadron, on a rota basis, took its turn to be 'Escort to the Colour' All Boy WO's/SNCO's held 'Officer' ranks. The B/RSM was the Lieutenant Colonel, and Parade Commander. His dress included the Sam Browne (no pace-stick, just standard walking cane) and on formal parades he carried the regulation officer's sword. The officer's insignia were superimposed on white material and worn on the epaulettes. The Boy rank remained in situ. Other 'Officers' carried as their 'swords' the 18" bayonet and did the appropriate sword drill with them. We competed between each Squadron and Trooped the Colour on an annual basis for the 'Hedon Sword'. This sword had been presented to the Regiment by the nearby village of Hedon. I wonder where that is now?

All our kit was of standard issue and on the same scale of issue as man service. However, we were not issued with BD's or berets. We did have issued u/s BDs (as previously mentioned) FSMO (Full Service Marching Order) was laid out on top of lockers all squared off with plywood or very stiff cardboard. We had to scrub the wood on our issue boot brushes. The clothes brush was exempt for it had on it a red varnish finish. Our 'KIWI' polish tin lid had to be polished and void of any paint. Socks woollen (grey), shirts KF (khaki flannel) Vests white PT (not the red one) etc were also 'squared off' The white hold-all for holding washing gear etc was scrubbed white. The Ammo boots had 13 studs on the sole, highly 'spit and polished' all over. Your Best pair of boots had their studs burnished smooth for 'bed & room inspections'. Cardboard and 'boners' plus brasso or Duraglit and Kiwi polish were the tools of our trade. The electric irons worked overtime. We were not allowed 'box pleats' on our SD but our overcoats were 'pleated square' at the pockets and also at the rear (Guards fashion). Mess tins received the same treatment as the kiwi polish tin. The 'Fire Points' in the billets were scraped with razor blades or sharp knives to get them to a true wood colour. In the Billets the stirrup pumps were 'black-leaded' (so were the two cast iron coal stoves). The two red fire buckets had to have their water free of dust. Blotting paper was used to get the water clear. Obviously with the strict regimentation that was part of our life, some decided that enough was enough and took all kinds of steps 'to work their ticket' One favourite trick was to start 'bed wetting'. It got so bad at one stage, with the odour etc, that they were all put in a separate billet. You can imagine how that appeared to us if we had to venture near to them. Food was still on ration. The margarine was cut into one inch squares and floated in water to stop melting. We only had evaporated milk at meal times and this was watered down. As Boy Soldiers we were entitled to an issue of food at morning tea break. This always consisted of those hard milky type biscuits (two) with one mug of fresh milk. The mugs were the standard issue white one-pint pots. We referred to it as the free NAAFI break.

Annual camp took place each training year, rotated on a Squadron basis. The two years that I took part, 1953 and 1954 (there was not a Camp in 1955 due to the move) it was held at Zetland Camp, Marske-by-the-Sea, North Riding of Yorks. I do not know about the history of the camp but I do know it contained a mortuary and that it had been converted for use as the guardroom (the 'slab' was still there). I still have good memories of evening passes to Redcar and Skelton. It was an all canvas camp in respect of the Boy Soldiers living accommodation. The first job on arrival was to fill the paliases with straw.

There are some 'personalities' I can recall which cannot be missed out. The CO was Lt Col R. A. Connor (sadly I believe he passed away in 1994). The Adjutant was a Capt Galbraith (big moustache) and I think he had a brother also serving in the Corps. The RSM, whose name was Thompson, was a small stocky chap with a very well waxed moustache. He was one of two Cadre members of staff who always wore the old style OR's SD as Working Dress (the same as issued to Boy Soldiers.) The other person was SSgt Jenkins, the disciplinarian of the Regiment. He was the Drill Sergeant and any Boy Soldier earmarked for promotion would certainly attend one of his D/D (Drill & Duties) courses which was of four weeks duration. The QM was a Maj Brandon, Officer IC M Troop was Lt F. C. Lockwood who I believe went on to serve and retire in the rank of Lieutenant Colonel Then there was the Provost Sergeant, SSgt 'Slip' Moloney. I last saw him in 1956 whilst I was passing through the Depot Regiment at Saighton Camp, Chester, en-route for the Middle East. I can recall RQMS Ewer. I was to meet him later in my service when in 1959 I was posted from 15 Signal Regiment at Episcopi to 8 Signal Regiment (Cadre). I was entitled to married quarters and he was to oversee that for me. He had retired from the Corps and was a Civilian on the married 'pads' staff at Catterick. His 'striker' at Beverley was SQMS Redmond. I think I am right in saying that Maj Brandon and the SQMS were ex 'F' Company Boys. One of the Troop Sergeants in 'A' Sqn was a SSgt George. I was later to meet up with him in 8th Signal Regiment, at Catterick (1961) where he was SSM of 1 Sqn (trade upgrading). He was one of three persons to give me a character reference for the Police Service. One of the other referees was a Cyril Northgate, a Civilian Instructor at 3 Sqn, Kemmel Lines. An Ex Beverley Boy, (22776...) Cyril had not long completed his six years in the Colours and had joined the training staff. We had on Cadre, Sig Halfyard (N/S) the Kent cricketer and Cpl Jennings who had been posted in after repatriation as a POW from Korea. His story is told in the book by Philip Warner, 'The Vital Link' a history of our Corps from 1945 - 1985.(I think and hope I have the right Jennings). Johnny Prescott, who went on to become a British heavyweight boxer, was a Boy in 'B' Sqn. A chap called Cullen was a B/RSM (he was from Stoke-on-Trent). When I joined the Regiment a chap called Cottillard was the B/SSM of 'B' Sqn (a Channel Islander, I think). Mick Hall a Channel Islander (we had a few of them and Shammies) was also a B/RSM. I followed on from him in that rank. Mick was to serve with me and his brother Dennis in 3 GHQ Sig Regt (later redesignated 15 Signal Regiment). Dennis Hall along with Phil Weatherall were with me on the 'Quicksilver' Tour of 1956.

The Regiment had a good Corps of Drums under the control of Capt Fyffe. In 1954 with other Boy Units of Northern Command the Regiment formed a PT display team to take part in that year's Command Tattoo. It was held in Roundhay Park, Leeds. We appeared on TV and I remember Princess Margaret taking 'The Salute' on one of the evening performances. We were all moved to The Army Apprentice School Harrogate where we were accommodated and administered for the duration. I cannot remember whether it was Hildebrand or Uniacke Barracks we were housed in. I know that it was the barracks sited opposite the Apprentice School (not College in those days) and the Infantry Boys Battalion was resident in the Barracks at that time. (they had recently moved from Tuxford). The School RSM, WO1 Lonsborough, Coldstream Guards gave us instruction on drill and display formation sequences. I have reason to believe that he was the Father of the British Olympic swimming champion Anita Lonsborough. I did notice some time ago whilst reading in The Wire about the article on the Apprentice School at Harrogate Re-union. It made reference to him attending. The uniform for the Tattoo was, red PT vest, white shorts, pumps and socks. I can remember that we doubled into the arena each time to the tune of the 'Swedish Rhapsody.'

Our training year was split into three Terms, Winter, Summer and Autumn. The leave quota usually worked out at about three to four weeks at the end of each term. You entered 'Man Service' as near to seventeen and a half years of age as possible. Each Boy on joining the Unit was allocated a 'Man Service Entry ' course Number, ie: in my case 255.

I have made two nostalgic return visits to Beverley, one in the summer of 1989 and the second took place in 1997. The Normandy Camp had been demolished and replaced by a large housing estate. The only remains of any identity of the Camp was that the leader road onto the estate was named Normandy Avenue and it more or less followed identical contours of the main road that went through it. The quarry was still in place and the Mental Hospital could still be seen at the point which had been at the rear of the camp adjacent to the Drill Square. On the 1989 visit the only remains of the adjacent Victorian Barracks of The East York's Regiment Depot were the partly demolished Victorian Married Quarters. They had been situated next to the main entrance to the Depot and formed part of the wall, which engulfed the Barracks. A very impressive set of buildings. On the 1997 visit I spoke to a lady who was manning the Service Station at the site near to both Barracks. Her family had been the owners for many years. She recalls the 'Boys' and particularly mentioned a name or two. One thing that she also mentioned was that the old Victorian entrance to the East Yorks Depot Regt, had been earmarked and approved for preservation. Apparently one night the structure was demolished without authority. Although the law took its course it did not bring back what would have been a reminder of the military history of Beverley. So hence as already mentioned there is no trace of either Barracks or Camp. All that does remain is the very old brick wall that served as the 'dividing line' between both Barracks. This wall started in front of the Regimental Barbers Shop and the RP's accommodation in Normandy Camp. Along side of it were the 30yard range (on the E Yorks side) and the MRS. A large Morrisons super store has now been built on the site of the Depot East Yorks Regt. At the entrance they have on display, in two glass cabinets, various dress, regalia and badges of the East Yorkshire regiment and its successors. I went on to serve in the Corps until the end of my regular engagement in January 1962.

Finding myself in the preceding years on The 'Quicksilver' Tour of 1956, Suez campaign (Operation Musketeer). That was the time when we had to change the speed of the creed 7B teleprinters from 50 Bawds to 45 bawds so as to work the Royal Navy on the submarine depot ship, HMS Tyne. This ship had been converted to comms complex. Then there was 3 GHQ Sig Regt later redesignated as 15 Sig Regt (and EOKA) 8 Sig Regt (2 Sqn) I maintained my continuous service in our Corps by joining the Territorial Army immediately I left the Regular Army. In 1962 I joined the Staffordshire Police (still on demob leave). I was allowed by my Chief Constable to serve in the TA and should have joined the RMP in accordance with QR's. A long story but I managed to remain in the Corps (my trade had a lot to do with it). My last Unit was 30 Engineer Brigade & Signal Troop (V) based in my hometown of Stafford but now sadly disbanded under the Options for Change. I went on to serve until 1984, Commissioned from WO2 and thus completing 31 years continuous service. I am a life member of Royal Signals Association, Secretary of the Shropshire Branch of the Association, a licensed Radio Amateur, call sign G0VNU & G1ONZ and a member of the Royal Signals Amateur Radio Society (3252). I went on to serve in the Police until 1988 when I had to retire, at the age of 50, on medical grounds. This was all due to a spinal injury occurring whilst on duty.

The two photographs displayed with this article are of Man-Service entry courses 254 and 255 (Easter 1954 & Summer 1955). My course, which has been previously mentioned, was 255. I am seated on the front row and to the immediate right of our CO, Lt Col R. A. Connor R. Signals. RSM Thompson for some reason known only to him was AWOL. On the CO's immediate left is Paddy Henderson the B/SSM of 'A' Sqn. I think I am correct in saying, that the person standing in the second row from the back and first in from the left, is the Association Branch Secretary for Guernsey, Eric Le Quesene (22776...). I can name a few more but there is not the space at this time. The second photograph (254) is the course that Mick Teague (to whom I make reference to later) was part of it. He can be seen back row, second in from the left. The B/SSM to the immediate left of Lt Col R. A. Connor is Rex Clothier, B/SSM of 'B' Sqn. There is a Boy WO missing and according to tradition it should be the B/RSM. Unfortunately I cannot remember exactly who that could have been. Although a couple of names do come to mind.

Perhaps in the not too distant future and following current practice, there may be a chance that a barrack block or building at Blandford will be named 'Beverley.' Can anyone reading this article manage to 'pull some strings' to achieve this? It would make a very loyal servant of the Corps and many others (I am sure) very happy and ensure that the name 'Beverley' which was so much part of our lives and Corps history will live on forever.

I made reference at the beginning of this article to the formation of our ex-Boys' Association, which has the full recognition of RHQ Royal Signals. This great happening can not go without mention of those who are responsible. A lot of hard detective work and appeals via the media by Tony Hull and Mick Teague have made it all possible. We had our first re-union in September 1999 at the Victory Club in London. A newsletter has been produced and at this time of writing we have over 70 members and a 'contact' list. I now have personally 'linked ' up with several of my former 'Boy' comrades some I have not seen for well over thirty years. The address of the Secretary is: A. Hull, 8 Ferncroft Gardens, Bournemouth, Dorset, BH10 6BZ.

Dear Sir,

Lt Col Terrington's article in the latest edition of the Journal ('Manning the Corps -The Challenge of the next millennium'), to my mind, does not sit well with the following article by a member of his own Regiment (Installers at the Ready' – Capt (TOT) N. Baugh). Col Terrington is of course right to talk of the Corps being '…in high demand and spread too thinly across a diverse range of tasks'. He is also right that there are '…too many commitments' but how can we reconcile this with our support to non-core (or Corps?) business such as providing communications support to static airfields? It is time the Corps examined what it should really be doing in today's army; what should our 'commitments' be? Do we really need to man static COMMCENS, airfields and depots? Do we still need a Regiment (+) in Northern Ireland? The luxury of having sufficient manpower to meet all of these commitments has long since gone. With manpower in short supply should it be used on these tasks or supporting that part of the army on the Formation Readiness Cycle?

I do not suggest that the Corps should be committed totally to operations as this in itself could be counter productive. But would this be worse than the separation and turbulence caused by trying to spread ourselves too thinly across too many tasks? It may be that the challenge offered by tasks such as working on airfield local area network installations, or the stability offered by a period in a UK static COMMCEN, provide variety in an otherwise never ending cycle of training for operations, mounting operations and cleaning up after them. If, however, this variety is only available to a subset of our manpower we are fooling ourselves as to its impact. 'Posting by exception' may have its part to play as we should not create turbulence just for the sake of meeting an arbitrary posting date. This of course would need to be carefully balanced against many conflicting needs. We must also ask ourselves do our soldiers want to remain in units based predominantly in the south of England when a large percentage of them come from the north?

Provocative, to some, but questions that must be asked. I offer no answers - simply more food for thought. Some useful work has been done in defining a new Corps orbat post SDR, but more fundamental questions must be answered before this work can be completed.

APPRECIATION

Colonel Peter Goldney

Peter Goldney who died on 17 December 1999 aged 64 joined the Corps in 1953 and served with distinction for nearly 37 years. He was a single minded officer with high principles and an unimpeachable integrity who was always willing to speak his mind irrespective of whom he might offend. He possessed considerable charm which made him a very popular officer particularly with those who served under him and his contemporaries.

Peter Goldney was born in Dalhousie, India on 1 August 1935, the son of Lt Col J. L. Goldney of the 2/4 Gurkha Rifles. Following his education at Wellington and Sandhurst he was commissioned into Royal Signals in July 1955 winning the Agar Memorial Prize for his intake. Following his Subaltern's Part 1 Course at Catterick he spent five years in Germany serving with 5 AGRA(AA) Signal Squadron in Oldenburg and then with 2nd Divisional Signal Regiment both in Hilden and Bunde. After his Subaltern's Part 2 Course he decided to follow a life time ambition to become a pilot and, following training at Middle Wallop in 1961-62, he was sent to Aden to join 653 Light Aircraft Squadron AAC. He then returned to Middle Wallop to qualify as a helicopter pilot before joining HQ 2 Wing AAC at Netheravon. He returned to the Corps in 1966 and spent a year with 3rd Divisional Signal Regiment. He successfully completed Division 2 of the Staff College and in January 1970 returned yet again to Middle Wallop as GSO2(Avionics) at HQ Director of Army Aviation. He commanded 6 Armoured Brigade Headquarters and Signal Squadron from 1972-74 before completing his second Grade 2 Staff tour with HQ NORTHAG in Reindahlen. Following his attendance at the National Defence College Course at Latimer he spent a short time at RARDE, Fort Halstead before, in 1977, taking command of 10 Signal Regiment in Hounslow. In late 1979 he started a long tour as GSO1 (EW) on DMO's staff in the MOD. On promotion to Colonel in 1983 he was posted as Colonel (GS) to C&E Division of HQ AFCENT in Brunsuum. His last appointment before retiring in 1990 was as Colonel (GS) D124 (A).

Peter was a good all round sportsman excelling at hockey at which he represented the Corps on numerous occasions between 1955 and 1967. He was an accomplished skier and took part in both the BAOR and Army Championships. However, his greatest talent lay in his ability as a glider pilot and he represented the Army in Inter-Service Gliding Championships six times between 1962 and 1971. In 1962 Peter married Penelope Gillespie, they had three sons.

Global Crossing™

One Planet.
One Network.

Global Crossing in the UK is a major supplier of integrated communications for corporate businesses, with a global IP-based fibre optic network currently spanning five continents and providing local service to 200 cities in 24 countries. Our complete range of data, voice, business Internet and secure e-commerce services is exclusively dedicated to meeting the needs of today's business, combining the highest quality technology with real value for money.

Project Managers and Assistant Project Managers

Responsible for the delivery of elements of the core network and/or tailored and bespoke voice, data and IP services to our rapidly expanding customer base. You will have the energy and experience to lead and motivate a virtual team of designers, engineers and sub-contractors to deliver on time and to cost. Formal Project Management training and experience in OR or PE an advantage.

Technical Project Managers

Responsible for the provision of technical support to project management teams, and the co-ordination of engineering and sub-contractor activity. You will have a strong technical background (probably as a TOT or Foreman of Signals) and well developed management and leadership skills.

Resource Manager

To lead a small team responsible for the day-to-day planning of engineering activity undertaken by in-house and third party engineers throughout the country. You will be skilled in balancing competing priorities, matching resources to commitments and maintaining management statistics.

Logistics Manager

Responsible for co-ordinating the provision of technical equipment countrywide from newly established stores centers in Crewe and Reading/Basingstoke. You will have a dynamic, hands-on approach and the management skills to deal directly with suppliers, manage stock levels and ensure 'just-in-time' provision to field engineers via third party couriers. Experience as a QM or RQMS would be a distinct advantage.

Build and Support Engineers

A range of positions exists countrywide for high quality, dynamic communications engineers. You will possess the motivation to work individually on tasks to implement core network and customer site solutions. Training will be given to build on your sound technical knowledge and experience. Experience with fibre optic installations and router/data systems a distinct advantage. Excellent career opportunities to Team Leader and Field Support Manager levels. Vacancies also exist at these levels for candidates with sufficient technical and supervisory experience.

We're building the communications network for the future
Build your future with us

Other opportunities also exist within the company for network managers and call centre operators.

Excellent salary and benefits package for all opportunities, including company car for management and mobile engineering positions.

MINISTRY OF DEFENCE POLICE

It wasn't the most auspicious of first meetings. PC Steve Read, of the Ministry of Defence Police, went round to offer crime prevention advice to Sgt Fergus 'Fergie' Anderson, of the Royal Corps of Signals, after his house was broken into. They got talking and came up with a fund-raising idea that helps people in two different countries, thousands of miles apart.

In 1992 'Fergie' fell in love – with Kathmandu and its people. Having been teaching Gurkhas in Catterick he applied for a job in their homeland of Nepal, attached to the Queen's Gurkha Signals. He got the job and he and his wife went to live in Nepal for five years. 'The people were so friendly and always smiling,' said 'Fergie'. However, there was poverty and 'Fergie' decided to help. His idea was to raise money for specific projects in smaller children's homes and orphanages, that didn't always benefit from the work of larger charities. So far he has raised more than £35,000 and returns to Nepal each year for a month to see what else he can do to help.

The money raising idea that the pair of them came up with is to sell personal safety alarms to women on the married quarters estates – or, indeed, to anyone who wants to buy one. 'Fergie' buys the alarms in bulk and sells them for £7, the profit going to help the children of Nepal. 'The alarms provide security to women in UK and their sale raises money for the people of Nepal,' said PC Read.

'Fergie' is due to leave the Army in July, when he intends to attend the School of Oriental and African Studies to do a Masters Degree in Development Studies. However, he won't stop thinking of schemes to help his friends in Nepal. Another of his ideas was to ask artist Jan Slater, who lives in Nepal, to paint a picture of the country that could be made into prints and sold. Jan has just completed her second exhibition of 26 paintings which, it is hoped, will be on show in the UK later this year. 'Fergie' hopes that the money raised will help the thousands of Nepalese girls who are sold into prostitution, only to be sent home after they have contracted HIV or AIDS.

63 (SAS) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

The Squadron is a Royal Signals TA unit providing communications support to 21 and 23 SAS (V) Regiments. We can offer interested individuals leaving the Regular Army the chance to use the many skills acquired during their service, whilst at the same time maintaining their links with the Corps.

You will be expected to train for a minimum of 27 days a year, this includes a 15-day camp and a number of selected weekends. You can also volunteer to parachute should you so wish. You will have an unrivalled opportunity to travel abroad and last year we exercised in eight different countries. If you are interested and live in the South East or London area then telephone 0800 163925 for further details.

THE MAN FROM MANNING AND RECORDS

By Maj S. J. Turnbull
(with apologies to all my hard working comrades in the R SIGNALS and INT Corps MCM Div)

At long last the days have begun to lengthen here, north of the Border. No longer is it dark until 10am in the morning and dark again by 4pm. However, as with the rest of the country winter still holds us in it's icy grip and the hills and frequently the rest of us, are covered in snow .In the APC the lights and heaters are on and the 'busy bees' of the R SIGNALS and Int Corps MCM Div are working away at the promotion year.

The A1 (WO2 to WO1) and A2 (Staff Sergeant to WO2) Boards are complete as I sit to write this article, the B1 Board (Sergeant to Staff Sergeant - Part 1) has begun to sit. Congratulations to those that know they have been selected for promotion and fingers crossed for those waiting on the other boards of the year. As promised in earlier articles, in this edition of The WIRE we will continue our progress around the MCM Div, with a Focus on B Wing and take an in depth look at the second stage of the Promotion Board – the Grading.

FOCUS ON B WING

Just before I start my Focus on B Wing. I feel obliged to at least acknowledge an error that crept into the last article on A Wing .I would just like to say that I very much regret having inadvertently promoted Maj (Retd) Bill Cochrane from ex-TOT to Ex-Traffic Officer. Both Bill and myself were very pleased with the number of you that were kind enough to point out this mistake .At least someone reads this article! B Wing provides for the whole life career management of Royal Signal Soldiers in the Foreman of Signals, Tele Tech (Sys), Tele Tech (Radio), Tele Mech, Dvr Elec, Dvr Lmn rostas and for those soldiers in Unspecified posts.

B WING PERSONALITIES:

OIC A Wing: Maj (Retd) Brian Campbell, The Boss of B Wing The 'Bearded Wonder' keeps a close eye on the comings and goings in the Wing. Brian has a wealth of experience in the Manning world having completed his service as the SO2 Man Con, in the former Royal Signals Manning and Record Office. He wins the prize for the most difficult daily journey to work which includes: foot, train, boat and occasionally car .It also involves enforced 'staying at home' if the weather is too bad.

AO1: Liz Mooney - Liz is the new girl on the block in B Wing, having "come up stairs" from the PPPA at the end of last year. She has responsibility for all the Corp's technicians both Systems and Radio and has got up to speed in double quick time.

AO2: Jack McLeod – Jack is our man from the Highlands. Having travelled from the far flung reaches of the country to the bright lights of the big city, Jack found himself running a desk in the MCM Div. Jack has responsibility for the Telemechs and Driver Electricians and is the team leader of the Division Ethnic Minority Recruiting Team as a fluent Gaelic speaker.

AO3: "Big" Dave Gorman – Dave Gorman is ex – RAF, but saw the light and is now responsible for Foremen of Signals, Driver Lineman (what a combination!!!) and the Corps unspecified posts (SQMS, White Helmets etc. etc.). Dave is the Division thespian and does a mean "panto" ugly sister (allegedly).

AO4: Denise Connell – Denise "The hills are alive" Connell is an ex-patriot English person stranded here in the northern waste. Like all visitors to the wild highlands, Denise is a keen hill walker (rambler!) who doubles up as Division social secretary specialising in bowling and vodka (so she says). In her spare time she is the Wing Promotions Desk Officer and my consultant on all the hard work the promotions desk officers do to get the promotion boards organised.

AA: Michelle McLean – Michelle is the quiet one, well next to Denise she would have to be! The clerical support for the Wing, she can often be found helping out especially at board time and works hard to support all the rest of the team.

PROMOTION BOARDS
Part 2 Grading -

The day of the promotion board has arrived .A select band of Officers and in some cases Warrant Officers, assemble in Glasgow to select soldiers for promotion to the next rank in the range of CEQs across the Corps.

COMPOSITION

The Composition of the promotion boards is laid down in SOinC's PD No. 6 .The principle has always been that in addition to the staff of the MCM Div, the promotion board should consist of a majority of representatives from the wider Corps. Therefore, although the composition of each board is different, each board has most of it's members from outside the APC. The Chairman of each Board is provided from the MCM Div with the Colonel himself chairing the A1 and A2 boards and the SO1 Soldier Wing chairing the others. The OIC Wing and Desk Officers provide the secretariat for the Board, but are not involved in the promotion selection process themselves. Now the sequence of events for each board is made up of a number of sessions throughout the day and will comprise grading and then selection for each CEQ. These sessions tend to alternate to give the members of the board a break between the Grading sessions, which comprise the bulk of the work for the board.

GRADING

So what exactly is the Grading process?

The first stage of each board, for each CEQ, is the Grading. During this process every candidate, that has been submitted to the Board, will be marked out of ten (range from zero to ten) and half marks are acceptable, by each member of the board. The marking is based upon the candidates CR book .The books are circulated in piles to each member of the board until each member has had the opportunity to read and score each candidate .Once that has been completed the Grading is complete.

Next the scores from each member of the board are collected and added to a master score sheet. This collection is done by the secretariat (Wing Staff) .In any instance where the difference in score, for any candidate, between different members of the board is greater than two whole points, that candidate is graded again until the scores are within the two point range (you should be aware that this figure does vary from board to board, as some board have five members whilst others only have three) .This is to ensure that there is broad agreement within the board and any anomalies are investigated and resolved by the board.

THE PROMOTEBILITY LINE

Each member of the promotion board will then be asked to nominate a "promotebility score". This can be different for each member of the board, as each member will grade differently and is being asked for a score, according to his own grading, below which candidates should not be promoted. These promotebility scores are assimilated in the same way as the candidates results and provide a score below which candidates are not considered to be suitable for promotion.

THE RESULT

The product of all this work is a series of scores. An individual score for each candidate based on the scores given by the different members of the Board and resolved to a difference of less than two whole points and a promotability score. These figures are then taken forward to the grading process. These results are taken away by the Secretariat staff and while the Board continues with grading a second CEQ, these results are prepared for the next stage in the promotion Board which is the Selection.

THE (NEW) MAN FROM R SIGNALS/INT CORPS MCM DIV

Maj S. G. Hutchinson MBE R SIGNALS

With Spring in the air there continues to be some fundamental manning changes within the Division. Firstly Lt Col Wallis is soon to be replaced as SO1 Officers by Lt Col Richardson and this will be followed by the replacement of Lt Col Harwell, with Lt Col Hudson assuming the mantle of SO1 Sldrs. In the meantime yours truly has been introduced to the SO2 Sldrs Post; the pace of life in Glasgow is never dull.

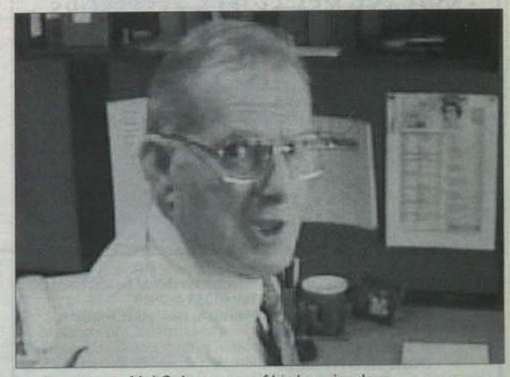
Lt Col Harwell contemplating his future as CO Edinburgh UOTC

FOCUS ON C WING

C Wing provides for the whole life career management of Royal Signal Soldiers in the Radio Sys Op, Tele Op (TG), Tele Op (Radio), Stores Accountant, RD, Linguist and Spec Op rostas. In terms of manpower responsibility it is the largest wing indeed the wing is responsible for 2% of the British Army, or so they say.

C WING PERSONALITIES

OIC C Wing: Maj (Retd) Pat Cole – is the original 'Mr Grumpy', however, he is also the resident Divisional IT expert. Having been within the Division since 1988 there is little that he does not know but make sure you catch him at the right time as he has been known to disappear with the SO1 to the darker recesses of Kentigern House to observe a strange ritual smoke inhalation.



Maj Cole on one of his happier days

AO1: Carol-Anne Forrest - Carol-Anne is the mischievous one; Adjutants watch out. Responsible for Radio Sys Op, Tele Op (TG) and Tele Op (R) Cpl to SSgt Carol-Anne presides over one of the largest areas. However, beware Monday mornings as Carol-Anne is one of our resident (fanatical) Celtic supporters and much depends on what happened the previous weekend.

AO2: Linda Campbell – Is the quiet one (at least from the outside) from the Islands; apparently there is life on Islay. She also has a passion for cats so if you are after that glamorous posting to the Far-East something feline would not go amiss.

Linda Campbell responsible for Sig & LCpl Tele Op (R) and Tele Op (TG)

AO3: Elaine Easton – Elaine is the longest serving member of C-Wing, according to scripture she moved across with Maj Cole. Elaine is responsible for the postings of all Stores Accts, Tele Op (Ling), Tele Op (Spec) and RD.

AO4: Donna McKay – Who in the Corps does not know Donna? The promotions specialist for C Wing Donna is soon to get married. However, the question on everybody's lips is will the pictures on her board remain. We wish her all the best for the future.

AA: Fiona Vincent – Fiona is the new-girl on the block but don't let her quiet and mature telephone manner deceive you as here is somebody who likes to party with a capital P.

PROMOTION BOARDS

Part 3 After Board Action - The Promotion Board has sat and the gradings are complete, the next step is to identify and inform those who are to be selected for promotion; in many respects this is the most difficult and important area of the promotion board.

Selection - All the results are plotted on a graph with the score on the horizontal and age on the vertical. The promotability line is inserted along with an ideal promotion bracket based on age and ability (the individuals' points score). The size of the bracket will be based on the number of vacancies available within a specific trade. It is designed to take a small number of young thrusters, a high proportion of those within the ideal bracket and some who fall outside the ideal bracket because of age yet still fall consistently above the Promotability Line. Those who fall within the bracket are logged, however, it is not unusual for those just outside the bracket to be selected. Reserves are also identified at this stage. All results are then consolidated on a master score sheet which forms the basis of the notification. The final list is then forwarded to the Colonel MCM Div (dependant on the board) for final endorsement.

Notification - Results will be promulgated in signal format and are for promotion in the following promotion year. The system now is that we will try and notify all units on the Friday of the following week. A full list of boards is listed below.

SSAFA FORCES Help

THE LAST LINE OF DEFENCE

SSAFA Forces Help, a leading national Service charity, needs volunteers to assist Service and ex-Service people and their families in time of need.

We care for more than 80,000 people each year. In fact, up to 14 million people are eligible for our help and that means we have a long way to go. For many undergoing hardship, our volunteers are the last line of defence.

You could join that defence force as a caseworker, friendship visitor, team leader, treasurer or fund raiser. We offer training, out-of-pocket-expenses and a great deal of job satisfaction. Enlist today. For more information contact Ann Needle on 020 7463 9223 or write to her at 19 Queen Elizabeth Street, LONDON, SE1 2LP.

CLOSURE OF 39 INFANTRY BRIGADE WARRANT OFFICERS AND SERGEANTS' MESS

The 39 Inf Bde WOs and Sgts Mess will close on 31 July 2000 and all members will then join the Lisburn Garrison Mess. Anyone who has made a presentation to that Mess and would like that gift returned is to contact WO2 (RQMS) J. B. Kay on Lisburn Mil 42943 or 028 92 609943. All unclaimed presentations will be handed over to Lisburn Garrison Mess for display.

The White Helmets

OC RSMDT Lt Col Jack Amberton
Team Capt Capt Gordon Newell
Team SNCO SSgt Paul Boughey

TEAM OVERVIEW - by Capt G. P. Newell

By the time this article is published the Team will have begun the Millennium season and already completed the first few months out on the road. This winter saw the completion of the new motorcycle build - 30 classic Triumph Tiger 750s built in conjunction with a Team sponsor, L. F. Harris. This involved four Team members working away for the best part of ten weeks hand building these machines from scratch - an awesome task! Once the bikes had arrived we trained through initial teething problems. We are now riding the new machines and look forward to unveiling them at their first official engagement, the SOinC(A)'s Opening Show on 14 April 2000.

The selection and training of new Team members went very well and our thanks go out to all the units involved in detaching soldiers to the Team. Two induction courses were run, one in November 1999, one in February 2000. Both these courses were attended by soldiers from across the Corps, all trades and all ages. Twelve new riders were selected and they all look forward to their Team 'pass-off' at the Opening Show where they will receive their white helmets from the SOinC(A).

We also said goodbye to a long-serving Team member - the outgoing Team SNCO, Sgt Donald Rawson Brebner, his wife Carol and family who move to his new job at ACIO Bournemouth. Sgt Brebner spent six years in the Team and recently handed over the reins to SSgt Paul Boughey. SSgt Boughey arrives with his wife, Trudie and family from 30 Sig Regt. The Team also congratulate LCpl V-Mal Hildreth who recently married.

MY TIME IN 'THE WORLD PREMIER MOTORCYCLE DISPLAY TEAM' - by Sgt D. R. Brebner

It all started back in September 1993 when I was asked to return to the White Helmets as the new Team Senior - I jumped at the chance and joined them in the October. When I arrived at Catterick Garrison, I had an interview with the OC, Lt Col Tilson. I knew the Team was going to move down to Blandford and to my surprise the move was imminent. Before then we had to run the last selection course on the Gandale Training Area at Catterick. We left at Christmas, it was sad to go - the training areas and facilities were superb and we knew they would be hard to replace. On arrival in Blandford we took up residence in the old 30 Sig Regt QM compound which wasn't ideal but better than nothing. We made lots of friends initially being so close to RHQ! Due to the noise of the bikes we stayed there for about a year - then we were moved to a place away from everyone - into two garages behind the guardroom.

The first season was good, I inherited talented lads that were helpful in training up the new Team members that had just passed selection. The annual programme was packed with shows all over the UK and two trips to Germany - the RASS and the Rhindahlen show at JHQ. The new Team Captain was Capt Richard Deans who stayed with us for a year. There were a number of injuries sustained - seven below- the- knee injuries - I think this was due to a number of reasons, but mainly bad arenas and quality of kit the Team were using. This issue needed to be addressed so it didn't happen the following year.

After the shows that year we ran the yearly selection course in November - the problem was where to hold it after Catterick. Eventually I managed to secure Bovington Tank Training Area. The selection course went very well and before we knew it Christmas was upon us. The Team had their leave and came back in January 1995 ready to start training for the forthcoming season. That year was another good season - better since I had done a year 'in the chair', knowing what the Team were capable of. Again, another busy schedule, some of the shows were very high profile, but as always once the gauntlet was thrown, the Team picked it up and went out to produce an absolutely storming show.

This year the Team where given a challenge to appear on the TV programme YOU BET. The challenge was that six riders had to reverse ride through a slalom course releasing Team members to build a five bike fan and cross a line in under two minutes inside the studio. This was very difficult because the studio was small and it had shiny wooden floors that had gloss paint on them. To cut a long story short during the rehearsals we failed every one of the attempts but when the live part came we did it with seven seconds to spare.

The 1996 season was an exceptional year. The Team had a new OC, Maj Keith Russell, we were running with the bare minimum of manpower and again we were inundated with shows home and abroad. The height of this season would be The Royal Tournament at Earls Court in London. Some of the other shows were the big agricultural ones around the country that had massive crowds over a three-day period. This season took quite a bit out of the lads mainly due to the manpower problem.

Now onto the 1997 season which again was low on the manpower front. Yet again it was a packed show season - there was another Team Captain, Lisa Giles. The Team received more attention as she was the first female Team Captain. There was mixed reactions initially, but soon everything carried on as normal. The Team where having a magnificent season but this was rocked by the tragic loss of the Team Corporal - Cpl Paul 'Elly' Ellson in the August. Cpl Paul Ellson was killed in a road traffic accident in a small village, Shillingstone not far from Blandford. His death effected the Team and his influence and character were sorely missed. His funeral was a sad day for us all, but he was sent away in style, and will never be forgotten. The Team has a trophy named after him which is presented each year to the person who contributes the most to the Team. During this period the Team still had a third of the show season left to perform and it made it very difficult for me to come to terms with 'Elly's' death and get the Team back on track to finish the season.

The selection course again came round and yet again it was poorly attended. The Team trained from January to April when the show programme began. During this season we performed at the biggest shows throughout the country. These included the Royal Bath and West, the Royal Show, the East of England, the South of England and the Royal Lincolnshire Shows as well as shows in Germany and Belgium. During the six years I've spent with the Team, the 1998 season and the Royal Tournament of 1999 were the highlights, mainly because of the standard of display we produced.

The end of 1998 came and we said farewell to Maj Keith Russell, who was one of the best OC's I've worked for. He was a figure you looked up to and he was there when you needed him. He loved the Team and what it stood for and I think the soldiers that served under him enjoyed it. He had a big party on leaving.

The 1999 season was strange to start of with because we had two new bosses. Lt Col Jack Amberton and Capt Gordon Newell who had arrived in August 1998. The highlight for the season was the last Royal Tournament held at Earls Court, London. This was special and the Team stole the show with their breathtaking performances. It had record crowds topping over 250,000 people over a 17-day period. The Team finished off the year with an appearance at the NIA (National Indoor Arena) in Birmingham for the International Tattoo held in the November. After that we were ready for our annual leave but just before this there was one thing left to do - sell off all the bike fleet! Out of the 25 Triumph Tigers the Team sold 17. After Christmas the Team had to wait a while for the new bikes, so we had to do with the eight training fleet that was left. Eventually the new fleet arrived and the first thing was to get them run in before we could start riding on them. This took a few weeks, but was done prior to going to RAF Sealand for our Training Camp. It went very well, better than I expected because a lot of the Team were new, out of a Team of 29, twelve were novices.

Before I call it a day I would like to thank some of the guys that have been with me throughout the whole six years - Cpl 'Gypo' Hooper, LCpl 'Scotty' Eccott, LCpl 'Fozzy' Forster and LCpl 'Tonka' Richardson. These were the Team Cadre who helped me immensely in training and keeping the riding standards high. Best of luck to SSgt Paul Boughey, my successor who has just come from 30 Sig Regt. That's all from me, thank you and goodbye.'

RSA AREA TWO - Maj (Retd) Brian Ivison

Members of Chester, Liverpool, Manchester and Shropshire Branches, and members of the Cheshire Yeomanry Association visited RAF Sealand, near Chester, on 23 March to see the White Helmets training for their new season. Despite the fact that it drizzled most of the time, the Team put on an excellent performance for the personnel of the RAF MU and the Association members.

Among the members attending was Mr Albert Osborne, who as a Royal Signals DR had served with the Cheshire Yeomanry (at the time 17 Line of Communications Signal Regiment), in North Africa and Northwest Europe. After the war ended he was posted to Iserlohn as one of the members of the White Helmets, who were reforming there. He was pleased to compare notes with Sgt Don Brebner, the present Team Seergeant, on the respective performances and related that one of their tricks was to change a side-car wheel whilst on the move. He also noted the absence of horses.

The visit was arranged by Maj (Retd) Brian Ivison, the Area Two Representative, with the present Team Captain, Capt Gordon Newell. All the members who attended would like to thank the Team for the show put on by them and wish them the best of luck in the 2000 season. We hope that the weather improves.

THE ARMY TAUGHT YOU NEVER TO GIVE UP, SO DON'T

So there you are in civvy street doing the same old thing day in, day out. But...why?...If it's the Army you're missing, then how about joining the TA? It's a vital part of the British Army.

There are two options open to you. First, you can join one of the Territorial Army Independent Units based in the TAVRA region in which you have decided to settle. An ideal route for those who wish to serve locally. Which Unit you join will depend on those available in the area you live in. Second, if you are leaving a Corps, you could retain your cap badge and become a member of either an Independent Unit as above, or a TA Specialist Unit. In either, you can maintain and develop the special skills that you have learned.

The minimum commitment as a member of the Independent TA is 6 weekends, a two-week Summer Camp and some weekday evenings. As a Specialist we ask only 2 weekends and a 15 day annual camp. In return, you will earn Army rates of pay and an annual tax-free bonus of up to £1050.

For an information brochure call 0845 603 32 32 quoting ref WI005, or send the coupon to: Freepost, The TA, CV37 9BR.

EXERCISE SNOW DRAGON 4 – by Maj Beet

Exercise Snow Dragon 4 was a Pontrilas Army Training Area Alpine and Nordic Skiing Exercise held in the Three Valleys, France, from 29 January 2000-5 February 2000. Sixteen members of the unit participated inclusive of three members of the Signals Workshop SSgt (YofS) Tim Williams, Sgt Clive Cunningham and Cpl Mick O'Connor.

The party arrived at Meribel, France, at approximately 1600hrs after travelling for 13 hours. The first port of call was the accommodation. This was based on 16 persons sharing 3xAlpine apartments, which brought home the reality of the phrase 'living in each others pockets'. We would have swung a dead cat if we could have got it through the doors. However, this was a small price to pay for being located in an area that offered over 100km of pisted slopes.

As the first day dawned the poetic Alpine scenery unveiled its enormity to us. The anticipation and adrenaline reached optimum levels as the group gathered in the foot of the valley. The group instructor checked that we were all present before commencing on our first journey to the top. Only three members out of sixteen were complete novices so for the majority it was a case of revising the art. The format of instruction during the morning and practice during the afternoon was adopted throughout the Exercise. This gave the opportunity for the more advanced skiers in the group to venture further afield and to find those cheap French cafés where a small bottle of coke is a mere £3.00.

Cpl Mick O'Connor (advanced!) exploited his time to discover his full potential and ventured into the Three Valley circuit. The other two SSgt (YofS) Tim Williams and Sgt Clive Cunningham remained on the easier slopes scaring themselves and everybody around them. Later on in the week after gaining his confidence on the 'Planks of death', SSgt (YofS) Tim Williams partnered up with 'Flash (Short Swing Parallel)' O'Connor and acted as his side-kick 'Danger Boy (Get out of my way!)' Williams. Defying the grasp of the 'Grim Reaper' on many occasions, the motley duo decided that to enter into the realms of the Super Hero, flight would be required.

As we entered into the Snow Park that consisted of hideous jumps, half pipes and other types of kamikaze take off points, we noticed that medical teams were working on three other misguided individuals. This sight would normally bring people to their senses. However, this was not the case for our representatives of the Royal Signals, Mercury needed to fly!!! 'Flash' O'Connor took to the air like a sparrow on water-skis, obviously he'd been practicing behind closed doors. He was closely followed by 'Danger Boy' Williams who's style can only be described as the winning throw at a 'Welly Wanging Competition'. After finding bruises in areas that shouldn't have bruises the idea of flight was abandoned. Towards the end of the week 'The Flying Scotsman' Cunningham joined the duo and displayed his unique 'Straight Down The Black Slope' trick, which amazed even the most advanced skiers on the slope.

On the last day we underwent the Basic Ski Proficiency (Alpine) Test. Everybody passed less the MTWO who had to retire from the slopes due to an old war wound. Overall the entire exercise was both constructive and very enjoyable. Everybody that had attended dramatically improved their skiing ability which was directly due to the excellent instruction that was given at all levels

HEADQUARTERS 1st SIGNAL BRIGADE

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

26 January 2000 was a day, which combined happiness and sadness at HQ 1 Sig Bde. Firstly, those deployed on Op Agricola were presented with the NATO Medal, Kosovo by Brig Robert Baxter followed by a photograph session.

We then carried on the day by sampling some German fare and said our goodbyes to Brig Baxter. He has now bravely joined the band of commuters, enjoying pleasurable journeys on our highly reliable rail system. He is currently holding the appointment of Director Policy-Information and Communication Services, responsible for establishing a new Directorate General of Information and Structure to advance Joint Battlespace Digitization. He now has the difficult decision to make as to which shirt and tie to wear in the morning. Scottish born Brig David McDowall MBE, assumed command of HQ 1 Sig Bde, after being promoted during January 2000. His previous posting was at the Army Personnel Centre in Glasgow, responsible for the career management of all officers and soldiers in the Royal Signals and Intelligence Corps. He is an avid supporter of Stranraer Football Club.

Brig Robert Baxter hands over to Brig David McDowall

HQ 1 Sig Bde Staff after the medal ceremony

During March, we bade farewell to Maj Jim Wood (DCOS), who moves to Bielefeld to the post of 2IC at 1 ADSR. The G1/G4 staff will miss his enthusiasm and humour on the darker side of the corridor. As an expert skier and orienteer, he will test his abilities to the full when he goes on the forthcoming Antarctica expedition, if Lt Col Jane lets him go! We hope that the new house is large enough to stash all the money on the top floor! Maj Jonathan (executive class) Turner has moved a short distance from 16 Sig Regt to take up the post. A further farewell to SSgt (YofS) John '2 pints' Broughton who also moves to 1 ADSR.

EXERCISE JAVELIN BACKSTOP

Ex Javelin Backstop was the HQ 1 Sig Bde adventure training exercise held in the Allgau region of Southern Germany. The trip was conceptualised by Maj Ben 'Ski Fit' Britton, while the planning and donkey-work was done by SSgt (YofS) John 'Scapegoat' Broughton.

The adventure started with a 400-mile mini-bus trip from JHQ to Hindelang. The tedium of the journey was relieved by fascinating conversation and a musical selection offered from the private collection of WO2 (FofS) Guy 'Absinth' Lewendon. A PX shopping stop at the US facilities at Heidelberg provided a chance to load up with lager and subsequently increase journey time courtesy of the astonishingly small bladder capacity of WO1 Martin 'Ginja Ninja' Healy. The weary travellers arrived at Haus Schwaben with only enough time to enjoy a bijou meal and move their baggage into the deceptively spacious accommodation before falling asleep, perchance to dream of the impending snow based japes.

Monday morning was spent on the gentle slopes of the Jungholz separating the men from the boys. The men turned out to be Maj Mike 'Lt George' Dooley, Capt Stu 'Boggy' Boyne and WO2 Guy Lewendon. The boys, displaying varying levels of maturity, identified themselves as Capt Jon 'Scouse Git' Townsend, WO1 Andy 'I want to be alone' Drummond, WO1 Martin Healy, SSgt John Broughton and Sgt Steve 'Bomber' Bennett. The men were proven to be only boys pretending to be men by Lt Col Bill White, a remarkable skier and ski instructor, while the boys were made to feel inadequate themselves by the old man of the mountains himself, Maj Ben Britton. The following days, under the wing of our instructors, saw movement on to steeper and higher runs; the height of the mountains only darkened by the shadow of the tall stories pedalled of an evening by Maj Mike Dooley on his skiing ability. The days included skiing on the Jungholz, Fellhorn and Nebelhorn and an evening's floodlit skiing on the Oberjoch.

On Wednesday evening, a pale stranger appeared. With ludicrously narrow skis in his hand he told horror stories of avalanche death and the joy of being probed by rescue teams in deep snow. The time had come for our compulsory cross country ski-training day by Maj 'Mr Burns' Jim Wood. So, on perhaps the most perfect day for Nordic skiing ever seen in the Allgau, we sashayed around the base of the Fellhorn looking enviably up at the white slopes and blue sky where Lt Col Bill White and Maj Ben Britton were having the time of their lives without us. The day was, nevertheless, far from wasted. We learnt that snow is cold when forced down the front of your trousers, skiing uphill is harder than skiing downhill and that skiing downhill on cross country skis is a sure way of forcing snow down the front of your trousers.

The final day back on the slopes saw two members of the 'B' team, Capt Jon Townsend and WO1 Andy Drummond, join the big boys under Lt Col Bill White for some advanced skiing. Both coped admirably and in some cases better than the original 'A' Team. There was nothing left to do on Friday evening but eat well (out), share a few beers, bottles of wine and participate in the Bohemian ritual with a bottle of Absinth. The final night's entertainment meant a quiet journey back in the mini-bus, the quiet broken by the rumbling of avalanches all the way to JHQ. Special thanks for the week go to Maj Ben Britton (The Visionary), SSgt (YofS) John Broughton (The Worker) and Lt Col Bill White (Ski Instructor). Roll on next year.

XI HEADQUARTERS 11 SIGNAL BRIGADE

Life in sunny Shropshire continues at pace. Those deployed on the commercialisation of Pan-Balkans communications continue to oscillate between the Mediterranean seaside and the UK. Busy and engrossed in their work, one hears the odd complaint of, 'I got stuck in Vienna on the way home, but never managed to get out of the Hilton,' which of course fall on deaf ears. The Commander has now clocked up so many air miles that we have agreement in principle to the loan of his own Lear Jet. The DCOS is currently staffing the case (the way things have of coming true, I should add quickly that I am only joking). The remainder continue to do the work of 20 with such efficiency (honest!) that an establishment review will surely, in the future, half our number.

11 SIGNAL BRIGADE COMMERCIALISATION TEAM PROGRESS SO FAR - by Capt (TOT) John Hiorns

As we have reported previously, we are intimately involved in the projects in both Bosnia and Kosovo to commercialise the CIS facilities in both theatres with the aim of reducing the corps manpower and equipment liabilities in the Balkans.

Since I last cast my fingers across the keys of this dilapidated laptop (Brigade YofS take note!) things have moved on at a great pace, and we now find ourselves at week 10 of a 28 week programme for both Project Myra (Op Palatine) and Project Cleo (Op Agricola). The prime contractor, BAE Systems has moved swiftly, along with their sub-contractors, and now all is going to schedule according to the dreaded project plan. Both theatres are will soon be receiving their first consignments of containers which will be providing communications to three differing levels; UK Secret (Red), KFOR or SFOR Secret (Blue) and UK Unclassified (Black). The containers will be equipped with a suite of NET Promina digital multiplexers and a Siemens HICOM exchange. Project Myra will be utilising a Hub and Spoke arrangement interconnected by the existing Cable and Wireless Picton satellites with the addition of some more satellites from BT. Project Cleo will be using a microwave bearers, with the network designed to provide diverse routing for all major sites.

Both theatres will have access to the DFTS and Patron, thus providing vast improvements in capability and providing a means to significantly reduce costs of calls made to the UK or Germany. The Blue networks in both cases will be providing secure voice communications and will also be the bearer of the IS systems OATIS and OLTIS, both of which are NT4 architecture networks modelled closely on ISIS but running a single Secret domain.

Within Bosnia there are five other mobile elements to the commercialisation, some of which are destined to provide safety communications for both air and vehicle traffic, as well as deployable mobile elements, which can link into Project Myra should units leave their barrack locations. These are being run on behalf of the DPA by BAE Systems; the successful bidding companies are due to be announced in the very near future.

The size of the team has now increased somewhat from the three original members from 11 Signal Brigade. Maj Jim Foulkes and Capt John Hiorns have been joined by Capt Al Garrett replacing Flt Lt Farid Khan who has escaped to TCW. We also have Maj Jamie Compston in Bosnia who is ably supported by two Dutch LOs. Others involved in theatre are two CPDLOs, WO2 (FofS) Colin Mackay and Capt Lloyd Bowlby, Maj Noddy Baugh from ACPO who has a team of telemechs in each theatre, SSgt (FofS) Ian Walling who is the projects FofS in Kosovo. In Bosnia we also have Maj Dennis Trayers, Capt Bill Dixon, WO1 (YofS) Hodge Arthurs and WO2 (FofS) Tosh Leyland.

One of the essential elements of the programme is the regular update visits by the Commander, Brig JRB Cook, DPA, BAE Systems and EC(CC&II). On the latest trip to Kosovo on 12 April 2000, the Commander managed to recruit two new members of the team without having to resort to another trawl through LAND. We'll do anything to get a store-man to account for all of this kit.

BRIGADE DAY OUT 3 March 2000

by: WO2 (RQMS) Steve Sadler late - Grenadier Guards

Background: The Commander has decreed that the complete Headquarters will enjoy an organised day out once every 6 months. When the last event was cancelled I made the mistake of making a little too much noise at my disappointment; one does not need a size nine hat to calculate who was to be 'jiffed' to organise this one.

Situation: Following a furtive and lengthy reconnaissance, an appreciation was conducted to ascertain the most appropriate location and format for the Brigade Day Out. The Wing O having been issued, all troops, scribes and camp followers were informed that the day was to have a military flavour and the day was to be spent comparing Medieval and contemporary tactics in Warwick Castle.

Aim: As always the aim of such days was to achieve a closer understanding of each other, by examination of each person's reaction to shared experiences outside their normal working environment(phew!). Additionally it allows cultural bonding with those from ethnic minorities (Welsh Scots and Irish). It of course was not an excuse for a 'knees up'.

Execution: General outline: We paraded at 0845hrs (late to accommodate the civilian staff!) with Cpl 'Nigel' Weir as right marker. While the Chief Clerk, WO2 Sean Flannery AGC and Cpl Phil Becall AGC fell in at the rear in excused boots mode, the camp followers stood and admired the soldiery (as they have done for centuries) and the officers perambulated (or otherwise milled around). On my command, 'Get on parade.' the remainder, Sgt Nigel Jones, marched on as a fine body of men; I must say in the Guards we do not allow any soldier to be called 'Nigel', let alone have two of them.

Right Guard: Led by Cpl 'I wonder if they have castles like this in Norway' Weir, the Scribes and Camp Followers, Right Guard en-bussed to form the second half of the convoy.

Left Guard: Led by the COS, Maj Steve Johns, the remainder of us formed Left Guard and the first half of the convoy. Driving, don't I do just about everything, I was of course directed down that long short cut – but you know what they say about officers with maps or screwdrivers.

Reserve Guard: Led by the Commander they were in readiness somewhere near the Adriatic (I think).

Service Support: Timings: Having left at 0900hrs we returned at 1630 and some sad people actually went to their offices – In my Regiment we have no need of offices for officers, we find it interferes with their polo.

Rations: Packed, boxed, cardboard (container and contents) supplemented by foraging.

Transport: The loan of two of her Majesty's civilian white Landrovers.

Maj (QM) Rab Young, AO Fin – Mrs Tina Smith, Cpl Nigel Weir, EO Fin – Miss Davina Carter, Capt Dick Gamble, WO1 (YofS) Graham Pardew, PA to Comd – Mrs Jean Vince, Maj (Retd) Rollo Rumford, WO2 (RQMS) Steve Sadler, COS – Maj Steve Johns

Conclusion: Have you ever organised a group of officers? Well try it with Scribes and Camp Followers. Wellington did not seem to have this problem , I know 'cos we were there, unlike some we are not so young in the Army List (Kipling might have written an ode on that theme). The day was a great success I am told. While the 'Ops' staff took it all far to seriously, disappointed that they could not use their paint ball guns in the castle, the Loggies spent most of the day in search of alternative fodder and lubrication to that supplied by the Sutler. The Scribes out of place in the fresh air just criticised my written word and the general organisation, while the Camp Followers as always, stood, looked pretty and uttered 'Ohs' and 'Ahs' at all the wonderful things they saw. I hear our SO3 COMSEC, Capt Dick Gamble is keen to organise the next trip; fine chap.

EXERCISE SPRING EAGLE - by WO1 (YofS) Graham Pardew

Ex Spring Eagle was Comd 11 Sig Bde's FTX which took place during 17-19 March 2000. Units of the Brigade deployed to their local areas, connected by the Fixed Trunk Bearer Network (FTBN) and terrestrial radio relay communications they effectively formed a network covering the whole of the UK.

The aim of the exercise was to establish a large Ptarmigan/Euromux network using the FTBN, in order to practise the technical communications expertise of 11 Sig Bde. Thus proving the communications for the Brigade CPX (Ex Summer Eagle 2000). The Bde HQ, consisting of WO2 (FofS) 'Pete the Rat' Stowell, (yes that's all!) deployed to Newcastle-Under-Lyme in order to manage the establishment of FTBN links. The Brigade YofS, WO1 Graham Pardew, who oscillated, between Donnington and Newcastle in order to conduct a series of briefings, later joined him managing to double the number of exercise conducting staff. The remainder of the Brigade Staff being deployed on future planning and other concurrent activities offered their verbal support and appreciation. There is no truth in the rumour it was a ploy to see how tired they could get the FofS and YofS in as 48 hour period –but it worked! Communications were established in very good time, which was no mean feat, taking into account that there were ten Trunk Nodes, a number of Euromux Access Nodes, Secondary Access Nodes and SCRA(C) deployed. This was also the first Brigade deployment since last years Camp in June. Combat Net Radio (HF) and RATT communications were also established in good time across the UK, and remained stable throughout the exercise.

The Exercise, however, was a success overall, providing all units with the opportunity to practise the revised Brigade SOPs. As expected, many lessons were learned, in particular regarding the interfacing of Ptarmigan and Euromux and procedures for In Barracks Crypto Preparation (IBCP). 600 Sig Tp (RSSST(UK)) are thanked for their assistance throughout the exercise, and all PXR points will now be used to update our SOPs prior to the CPX in April. Next look forward the Brigade CPX – Ex Summer Eagle 2000, be there or be in the Balkans!

THE DINING OUT OF WO1 (YOFS) MONTGOMERY

by WO1 (YofS) Graham Pardew

I had the pleasure to preside over the dining out of two Donnington Station Warrant Officers' and Sergeants' Mess Members on Saturday 25 March 2000, on commissioning. WO1 (RSM) Sean Beresford AGC RMP and WO1 (YofS) 'Monty' Montgomery of Sig Tp Donnington. Although 'Monty' was not actually part of the Headquarters, there are times when it has felt that he was! We thank him for his assistance and advice over the past two years; he will be sorely missed as a friend, work colleague and as a fellow living in member! The dining out was an excellent occasion due to the efforts of the PMC, WO2 (YofS) Wilf Wedge from 241 Sig Sqn. 'Monty's' after dinner speech was a classic and will be classed one of the more memorable. We can but hope that 'Monty' enjoyed his dining out as much as we did. Capt 'Clifford' Montgomery was congratulated on his commissioning and offered best wishes for the future (Where no doubt he will still be parking his feet in someone's in tray on regular occasions).

VISITS

On 8 March 2000 the Headquarters had an initial visit from our new GOC, Maj Gen A. P. Grant Peterkin OBE. After a briefing by the Brigade Commander on the role, organisation, mission and current tasking of the Brigade, the General joined all staff both military and civilian for a relaxed chat over coffee and cakes.

For the fortnight 1-16 April 2000 the Headquarters was lucky enough to have on attachment Capt Susan Aitken from Tayside UOTC; she has had time previously in 2 Sqn in Dundee. Apart from adding culture, class and style, she arrived at a very busy time and was very much thrown into the deep-end. If she was unsure about G2/G3 matters and exercise planning on arrival, she left as an expert! She was also amazed in what you can achieve by consistently working a 14 hour day. We thank her very much for her efforts, enthusiasm and enjoyable company – but there must be easier ways to earn a bounty!

COURT AND SOCIAL

We offer Maj Mark Smith, one of our TA Staff Officers, and his wife Margaret our congratulations on the birth of their son Matthew Daniel who was born 10 April 2000 at a weight of 8lb 3oz. All are well, although daddy is feeling a little tired!

HAIL AND FAREWELL

A quieter month - well one with less turmoil anyway. As our COS Maj Dick Sparshatt left us for promotion and Blandford (and now 'Richard'), our crypto NCO - Cpl Nigel Weir leaves us on promotion and Norway (and of course you are all welcome to come here on holiday). We wish them both well in their new jobs and future careers. From the small print of his posting order (that Expediency of the Service bit) Maj Steve Johns moved to be COS, a move he of course makes easily and readily; just do not ask him about Welsh Rugby and missed marathons! We welcome his replacement as DCOS, Maj Steve Hunt who joins us from the high society lifestyle of London and we wish him an enjoyable and rewarding tour. We also welcome our new Training NCO - SSgt 'Mac' McNeill and our new crypto NCO - Cpl Stevie 'Next posting Norway' Piper to the Headquarters. We wish them all an enjoyable, interesting and gratifying stay in Shropshire

NEWS OF TRAINING

NATO COMMUNICATIONS & INFORMATIONS SYSTEMS SCHOOL (NCISS) - LATINA (ITALY

Chief Training Branch Lt Col G. W. Bartliff R SIGNALS
School Warrant Officer WO1 A. Scott R SIGNALS

It's been some time since the NCISS last had a mention in The WIRE and now that many members of the Corps attend courses at Latina, we thought it might be appropriate to provide an update on life in sunny Latina. The NCISS is located approximately 50km South of Rome and 175km North of HQ AFSOUTH (Naples). The school shares a site with an Italian Airforce radar repair facility, which is 6km to the North of the small town of Latina.

The UK military staff consists of Lt Col Glenn Bartliff who is Chief of Training and the Senior British Officer assisted by WO1 Adrian 'Scotty' Scott who is largely responsible for discipline, security and various national activities. The UK military instructors are predominantly RAF. However, SSgt Keith Dwyer involved in crypto equipment repair and Sgt Chris Nelson looking after the NATO crypto account also represent the R SIGNALS input to the school. Two members of the Corps, Sgt Danny O'Neill and Sgt Dave Smith, serve with the Multinational EW Support Group at Anzio, some 20 miles from Latina. We also now have our first Royal Navy instructor involved in the Maritime CIS instruction, bringing the school UK staff up to a full tri-service representation of 15. Having already welcomed Sgt Nelson into a new R SIGNALS slot, we have recently managed to change a further RAF slot to Army and will be welcoming Sgt Pat Scantlebury R SIGNALS from SHAPE in March.

The NCISS is commanded by Col Van Den Hirk, Netherlands Airforce, with 46 instructors and 35 supporting staff. As a result of digitisation and NATO involvement in FRY, training at the school has changed dramatically in the past six years. Through the procurement of COTS products to support IFOR, SFOR and now KFOR, the school student population has increased from 1400 to almost 2000 a year with 50 different types of course from IDNX, PABX, VTC, LAN Admin, SATCOM and all NATO CIS systems. The school is both dynamic and pro-active in its training support to static commands and national units (particularly from Germany) deploying on operational tours. Using modern multifunctional computer classrooms, we are able to offer traditional training methods supported by full CBT and CAI facilities. A full information Web Page is available on NATO Cronos and will shortly be on the Internet.

NATO CIS School, Latina - UK Military Staff

New courses such as NATO Core Switch, Fibre Optic Repair, INFOSEC, MMHS (ACP 127 replacement - at last), ACE ACCIS and NATO Routers are also courses planned for the future. The school is also studying the feasibility of introducing a form of 'virtual classroom' training to allow students to carry out pre-training from their units/commands prior to attending the more complex technical courses at the NCISS.

Like many training organisations both national and international, the NCISS is adapting rapidly to changes in CIS and looks forward to a bright future in the 21st century. Members of the Corps who attend courses at Latina can also look forward to excellent training facilities coupled with the opportunity to visit the many historical sites in the area. Fortunately, we have been able to acquire a small 'hire' car from the UK Support Unit at AFSOUTH to allow UK military students the opportunity to visit the local area - please ensure your bring your driving license.

Although life in the Southern part of Italy tends to be on the slow side compared with Northern Europe, there are many beautiful and historic areas to visit, both for the UK military instructors and students. For those who attended courses at Latina some six years ago and beyond, the town has changed dramatically. We now have two large shopping areas (and two McDonald's), many restaurants and a number of English style pubs - the students particularly like the latter. Even the driving has improved with less people going through red lights!!

UK personnel are located throughout Latina in hirings and thoroughly enjoy their tours in Italy. The UK community meet on a regular basis for social activities either in Latina or the surrounding area and also enjoy the international activities with our NATO colleagues and Italian civilian staff. Members of the Corps interested in a tour at the NCISS, should be aware that the nearest school for children is in Rome some one hours drive away and our full medical and dental support is at Naples two hours drive away. This can occasionally be a problem for the new members of staff arriving in Latina.

We recently said farewell to Sgt 'Lozz' Hill on his departure to NI and welcomed his replacement Sgt Danny O'Neill. We were very pleased to receive news that WO1 Adrian Scott has been selected for commissioning and expects to depart in August. Finally, we will be saying farewell to the SBO, Lt Col Glenn Bartliff and his wife Mary who depart to the MOD in May. They have both been excellent members of the community and will be missed on their departure. We would like to welcome Lt Col Dave Turner and his wife Anne, who are apparently looking forward to leaving sunny Blandford – we wonder why?

ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE OF SCIENCE SHRIVENHAM

EXERCISE SHRIVENHAM LOIPE 2000
A NORDIC SKIING EXPEDITION TO SERRE CHEVALIER, FRANCE

On 4 January 2000 eleven personnel from the Royal Military College of Science (RMCS) Shrivenham departed for Villeneuve, Serre Chevalier, France. The expedition was split into two phases, a training phase followed by a racing phase. The main aim of the expedition was to race in the HQ Land Command Championships.

The group consisted of nine novices; hence we were expecting to enter an inexperienced team in the Championship races. Although a Nordic Skiing Expedition goes annually from Shrivenham, Ex Shrivenham Loipe 2000 was the first expedition to include females. Due to the original team being six foot tall blokes, the kit was not suitable for the three girls. So in true girlie fashion, we went shopping! An afternoon later and a slightly smaller balance of the teams' funds, we had all the gear and absolutely no idea!

Which leads into the ten day training phase. This involved daily lessons with Steve 'Ned' Kelly, a BASI 2 Instructor, who we shared with a team from 1 Battalion, The Royal Anglian Regiment. The standard of coaching we received was excellent and very much needed by all. After having been shown one end of a ski from the other we were hard into the training and the aching muscles followed suit. All of the novices soon realised that it was definitely an expedition and not a holiday they had let themselves in for.

OCdt Sarah 'knickers' Clifford - Strutting my stuff!

A hard day at the office - 'Who told them lycra's fashionable?'

Ned first taught us how to classic ski, the technique used mainly for the longer distance races. Everyone started to pick it up very quickly, except for our resident 'entertainment on skis', Bernard 'Bucky' O'Hare who on every downhill could only stop if he ran into a stationary object! With only a few days left of the training phase we were introduced to skating. This was much the same as the roller-blade training we had done prior to the expedition. This technique is used in all biathlons and the patrol race. It can be likened to Marmite, you either love it or hate it, but this can probably be attributed to the fact that you can either do it or you can't. To round off the last few days of training the patrol race team decided to practice with the required weight for the race. Unfortunately the scales they used were broken and they later found out that they had been training with twice as much weight as was necessary.

After a day of rest and recuperation, it was time to put our expert training to the test. The first race of the Championships was the 10km Classic Novice race, quite a daunting task for all, especially those who find running ten kilometres rather uninviting, mentioning no names OCdt Danny 'Shep' Sheppard! The race went surprisingly well, with the worst bit being the second teams lycra racing suits, circa 1970 that would win every 'bad taste' party. The next race was the 4 X 7½km Relay, where the first two legs are Classic Skiing and the last two are freestyle (either Classic or Skating). As well as the first team, Shrivenham entered personnel in two Ad Hoc teams with the help of a RAF Officer and two girls from the Adjutant General Corps. This race was our first introduction to mass starts. Unluckily for our Commanding Officer, Lt Col S P Owen Irish Guards, the skier in front of him proved to be a bit of an obstacle when he fell a few metres from the start. For the 15km team and individual Classic race the location for the race moved further up the valley. An earlier recce found that the snow was sheet ice in places. This proved a bit of a problem when deciding what wax to put on the skis. Wax is used to help the skis stick to the snow when going uphill. There are various different types of wax to choose from depending on the snow or air temperature and the snow condition. The team captain, Capt Bill Anderson Royal Signals was first off from the team. After lots of experimenting and sending spies out around the other teams, he came to the conclusion to put some of every wax on. This waxing technique worked so well that he ended up having trouble going down hill.

The 4 X 7½km Biathlon was the first opportunity for most of the team to ski with a rifle on their back. The concept of a rifle barrel being inches from the back of your head really concentrates the mind. The race loop was round an area of Loipe we had trained on so we knew the terrain quite well. The basics of a Biathlon are that a distance is skied to a range where five targets are fired on in the prone position, another lap is skied, then another five targets are fired on whilst standing and a final lap is skied to the finish. If a target is missed, a penalty lap of two hundred metres is done; hence if all five are missed an extra kilometre has to be skied. It is amazing how focusing that type of pressure can be.

By now, a great rivalry had been struck up with The Royal Anglian team encouraged by our shared instructor Steve 'Ned' Kelly, who had been playing one team off against the other for the whole of the training phase. The positions and times were close and the competition was building. It was all down to the Patrol Race. Preparations were thorough, even down to the home embroidered RMCS cap badges. The hard work paid off; Shrivenham was awarded the highest points for the inspection. Then it was down to the real tough stuff, as dressed in their white 'leave nothing to the imagination' lycra suits they set off on the 25km challenge. The route is only marked by checkpoints, and it is up to the discretion of the leader to decide the method that the team uses to get to them. Some of the checkpoints involve doing a Command Task, which can include anything from reading a distant sign with binoculars or firing on a tactical range. The team were going strong when they came to a down hill off-piste section, hard enough to negotiate on a snowboard, definitely interesting on cross-country skis. Lt Andy 'Kamikaze' Wyatt RLC did an impressive head-plant almost managing to knock himself out. He went on dizzily to shoot impressively on all the ranges. The Royal Anglians would have beaten Shrivenham by one second but as Justice would have it, they were disqualified along with a couple of other teams for missing out the first checkpoint. The team was rewarded with a well-earned overall place of sixteenth for the Patrol Race.

To round off an excellent expedition, the final day was spent downhill skiing, which for Bernard 'Bucky' O'Hare was his worst nightmare. All that was left was the official prize giving where the biggest surprise of the expedition came when Shrivenham won the prize for best range shooting on the patrol race. It was agreed that Lt Andy Wyatt RLC should be knocked out more often. The final results showed a very impressive second place for Shrivenham's Combined Nordic and Alpine Teams in the 4th Divisional Championships. With the obligatory minibus breakdown and big plans for our return, we unhappily set off back to the real world, well Shrivenham anyway!

THE VISIT OF SOINC(A) 7 FEBRUARY 2000

It was a bleak February day, brightened only by the dazzling wit of the OC, as he cracked timeless classic after classic to enchant the extravagant pipe puffing SOINC(A). Standing gracefully beside him, the towering and majestic figure of the SSM, powerful yet compassionate. Flitting amidst the darkened shadows darted the bronzed and elegantly cut Adonis known more informally as the 2IC.

It was after a well earned lunch break, where incidentally SSM 'Taff' Jolly embarrassed himself by stealing all the prawn vol-u-vents, that the SOINC(A) took a visit to Echo Tp who were in the process of conducting Weapon Handling Tests. From there he went on to the palace of Bravo Tp accommodation. Here he was subjected to recruits at their rawest, a scrawny bunch of men and women, who were in some cases meeting our Officer in Chief within 30 minutes of being in the Army. 'The future of the Corps is in safe hands, Sir!' cried the OC as he hurriedly ushered the SOINC(A) away whilst raising his fist to Capt Karl Jeeves, the Troop Commander. Following this awesome display the SOINC(A) moved on to witness newly promoted Capt Alex Clixby in the full throws of a map reading lesson with Charlie Tp, 'We are here……no here!'

The day was a huge success and had offered the SOINC(A) a real chance to meet Recruits, from the infant stages of training right up to soldiers who are about to pass out of Phase One. It also gave the permanent staff a chance to pass across their views and opinions of this environment. After a final wash up with the CO, Lt Col Ian Condie R SIGNALS, the big man was swiftly issued black masking tape and ushered away to Stansted airport to dig in.

Finally a farewell to 1 Squadron's longest term recruit who finally leaves us to join the REME on 21 February after passing out of Phase One over four months ago. All the best Craftsman Bell.

SOinC(A) presents Capt Clixby with his Captains slides, but advises him to keep hold of the set he's got on

RECENT CHARITY EVENTS

As well as getting on with the normal training programme Charlie Tp have also raised close to £1000 for the NSPCC. This money was raised in our 'Gym Marathon' where the Troop rowed the English Channel, ran a marathon, cycled to Scotland and climbed Everest (on a stepper!) Thankfully the totals were a combined Troop effort and not each individual doing all of the distances. This way it was a fun, but challenging event (especially as it was so soon after all the food and drink of Christmas!). Bravo Tp organised a day of Wheelchair basketball to raise funds for the Great Britain Wheelchair Basketball Association. The charity founder, Gordon Perry took the trouble to travel down to Bassingbourn armed with a number of wheelchairs which the Troop managed to fall out of on a regular basis. A competition was organised amongst the Recruits and the Training team, the rules are much the same and very quickly the Permanent staff team proved too much for the Recruits and romped home unbeaten. For everyone the day had been an insight into the challenges that face people with disabilities every day but also that with support these difficulties can be overcome. Bravo Tp managed to raise well over £1000 for Gordon's charity and he plans to spend the money to buy a nine year old boy a new sports wheelchair.

After a long drive down to the Div Champs in Sierre Chievalier, France, a weary team finally managed to move into their accommodation on Saturday 8 January 2000. Day One of our grueling training programme was to start the following day. At least it would have been grueling had any of us actually been able to ski. Day One started with some basic skate techniques taught to us by our resident expert Capt Hugh Crowther. After some five hours on the flat we were able to manage a small circuit, although the hill still had us herring boning up it even though it was only 2mtrs high. Tired and sore bodies were dragged back to the 'Frog' that night in order to drown our sorrows. This skiing on the flat wasn't as easy as it looked. Day Two consisted of more skating this time over a hilly circuit, the day was completed with a very important waxing lesson, kindly administered by 'Craig' and 'Mark' from 3 RSME. This was a much needed lesson because now as we had skating cracked, it was time to move onto the 'classic' technique. We rested our now very tired and aching bodies on Day Three ready to learn' classic' skiing for the rest of the week. With 'classic' cracked and a few range days thrown in it was time for our first race, exactly a week since arriving. We had the experts scared and running for at least a milli second, and we all managed to complete our '10km classic' without killing ourselves. An impressive result without doubt, given that a week earlier we could hardly complete a 1km circuit. The races varied through the week from 10km to the 20km Patrol Race, and in both classic and skate styles, with a couple of Biathlon races thrown in for good measure. All in all fairly physical and demanding races. So what about all this Après Ski we had heard about, yes we managed to fit a bit of socialising in. Mostly out of principle since our Downhill team-mates had decided that their bodies were definitely temples, and that they would not be socialising. Luckily for them, the Nordic Team had pretty bruised and battered bodies but no temples, and so we were able to keep the good name of ATR(B). However, I will admit that we did have an orange juice on pre-race nights. A fantastic time was had by the Nordic Team, which had been put together the day before Xmas leave, because of some last minute dramas. We worked extremely hard , pushed our bodies and lungs to the limit, and we played extremely hard which is defiantly in the spirit of Adventurous Training.

WRAY COMPANY
Coy Comd Maj Rick Licence MBE
CSM WO2 (CSM) 'Taff' Jolly

Many of the Corps are unaware of Wray Coy's role within the ATR. At present we have two Army Foundation Scheme Platoons, 1 Rehabilitation Platoon and 1 Common Military Syllabus (Recruit) Platoon. Wray Coy's primary role is the Army Foundation Scheme, which is designed for those recruits who have failed to meet the initial joining standard.

THE CORPS ELEMENT

The hierarchy is predominately Royal Signals, spearheaded by Maj Rick Licence and ably supported by CSM 'Taff' Jolly. Although the 2IC post is normally that of an Infanteer, (currently RRF), it is shortly to be filled by Capt Alun Crapper Royal Signals, who will have to learn to juggle his balls as OC AFS and Coy 2IC. Welcome and the best of luck!

WINNING THE INTER COMPANY/SQUADRON BASKETBALL COMPETITION

On the sporting front, the 'minnows' of Wray Coy are doing remarkably well. With only half the manpower of the other Coy/Sqns the Company is in the top half of the table in the CO's Cup, and are the recent winners of the inter-Company/Squadron Basketball Competition. Maj Rick Licence - who will reach his half century this year - is still showing the youngsters of this multi cap-badge environment a thing or two on the sporting front. So much so, that along with the CSM he has been selected (requested) to represent the Regiment in the finals of the Divisional Minor Units Basketball Competition. CSM 'Taff' Jolly has come out of retirement, dusted his boots down and has started playing rugby again, captaining the Regimental side and even being called up for the Corps Team (desperate times). Sgt Phil Graham and Cpl Rob Dawson are part of the Regimental Football Squad who have reached the last eight in the Army Minor Units Cup.

HIGHLIGHTS

Raised £1,200 for the Royal Star and Garter Home for Disabled Servicemen and Servicewomen. The Company was tasked to organise the Regimental all Ranks Dance. This monumental task was handed to WO2 (CSM) 'Taff' Jolly who, through years of deft ball handling, took it in his stride and produced a memorable night. All profits from the bar and draw were presented to the Royal Star and Garter Home for Disabled Servicemen and Servicewomen.

BABY BOOM

The year 2000 is to be a baby boom year for the Company with Marnie Slater due any day now, Angela Jolly is expecting in August (the CSM hasn't stopped smiling since Christmas) and the OC is to be a grandfather again, in October.

LATE NEWS

It's been a relatively quiet few months in 1 Training Squadron. On 17 March 2000, 1 Sqn had their Millennium party. A little late, one might say, but none-the-less an excellent night. With the night taking place on St. Patrick's Day, the theme was of course Irish. There were some top outfits from the Sqn 2IC, Capt Mick 'Boyzone' Boyle, Capt Karlos 'Potato Famine' Jeeves, WO2 Tony 'Santa is Irish' Slaney and Sgt Paula 'Wilmaaaa' Matheson. This month we also say a big welcome to new Troop Commanders, Lt Dave 'Bungle' Jackson and Capt Rhidian 'Get up the Hill' Jones.

ALPHA TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Dave 'Bungle' Jackson
Tp Sgt Sgt Brian Clark

This month Alpha Tp has enjoyed the delights of adventure training, where a week of cold water and spectacular views awaited them. Sig Dongre found that caves and cold water are not a combination he would like to encounter again, whilst Sig Foley found that a wet suit is a lot different to a dry suit. Sig Keightley who took well over 10mins to lower himself over the cliff edge wins no prizes for speed abseiling.

Alpha Tp says hello to Lt Dave 'JOTES' Jackson who has arrived to make the Troop office even more untidy and welcomes back Cpl 'Is my chest big enough' Mitchell. We say a short goodbye to Cpl Nuttall who enjoys Training Regiments so much he's gone to Litchfield for six months.

BRAVO TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Karl Jeeves
Tp Sgt Sgt Paula Matheson

Bravo Tp continue to strike fear into timid hearts as their bold team of training gurus continue to transform six stone civilian weaklings, into powerful, industrious and 'square and erect to the front,' young soldiers. Huge congratulations go to Sgt Matheson who is shortly to become SSgt Matheson and a warm welcome to Cpl Grandon Royal Engineers, who joins us on attachment from 28 Sqn RE. Thank-you to the NCO's of Bravo Tp for organising the Squadron Christmas function which was held on the 17 March. Curiously enough that was St. Patrick's Day as well but the SSM was still convincing in his Santa Suit and Sgt Matheson still had 'Rosy Cheeks!'

The arrival of seven Fijian recruits into the Troop has been excellent. They have settled in very well and are providing an excellent cultural mix, which is greatly appreciated; especially at Church Parade when they provide their 'Barber-shop' style singing to entertain the congregation. The Fijian recruits gave the Squadron Second-in-Command, Capt Mick 'Triathlon King?' Boyle a bit of a shock on the Week Five Drill Test. After the test had finished they approached Capt Boyle and started to do the Fijian Haka! If they hadn't passed the drill test before this, they had certainly passed it now. Who would dare tell them they had failed - Not Capt Boyle, who was already donning his running spikes to make a quick escape!

CHARLIE TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Alex Clixby
Tp Sgt Sgt Dave Honeyman

Charlie Tp has had another large manpower turnaround over the last few weeks. Leaving the Troop has been Cpl Sidney 'Meek and Mild' Cleworth, who has now begun his Class One Course at Blandford, and Cpl Dave 'New Boy' Knowler, who has been posted to ATR Litchfield for a short time to undertake recruit selection. With the loss of these two bastions of the troop, we are due to receive Cpl 'Smudge - When I was in the EOD!' Smith who has been busy working with 28 Sqn RE. Welcome also to new girl, Cpl Lindsay Payton posted in from 30 Sig Regt. The 'old guard' consisting of Capt Alex Clixby, Sgt Dave 'Go Celtic' Honeyman and Cpl 'Taff - Where's my Pension?' Baynham remain to give the Troop its continuity.

During January Charlie Tp completed a challenging gym marathon that consisted of running, cycling, stepping and rowing on gymnasium machinery. It was a fun day and Charlie Tp managed to raise £1000 for the NSPCC, which was presented at the Troop's Parents Evening on 2 March, the night before pass-off. Mrs Brenda Alexander, Community Fund Raising Manager from the NSPCC, was present to receive the cheque. The pass-off parade went exceptionally well, as did the celebrations afterwards. Sig Wesley 'Yes Sir, anything you say' Doyle scooping prizes for Best Recruit and Best Shot; Sig Gary 'Run Forrest' Oakes gaining the Best PT Prize and Sig Anthony Caswell achieving prize for Best Endeavour. The training team has now just finished a much needed training break and picked up a massive Troop of 43 recruits - fun times ahead!

DELTA TROOP
RAISE £3000 IN AID OF LEUKAEMIA RESEARCH

Recruits from Delta Tp (Intake 679) have recently taken part in an arduous and fun charity event, to raise money for Leukaemia research. Delta Tp from 1 Trg Sqn has over the years taken part in some hair-raising events and raised a substantial amount for various charities. For this particular charity event the recruits had to make their way to Calais, France (in the confines of a gymnasium!) for a GIANT SUPER MARKET SWEEP. Unfortunately for the recruits they had to make their own way there and under their own steam. The journey was broken down into a run, row and lastly a bike ride. The run consisted of a two mile run each in a relay to make up the distance from Bassingbourn to the Dover ferries port. The distance rowed by each individual was one kilometre to represent - crossing the Channel. They then finally had to cycle the remaining distance of 2km to Calais. The 36 members of the Troop raised just under £3000 for the charity and perhaps a few drops of perspiration were shed in doing it! The recruits have also competed in an inter-section competition using both there mental and physical agility. The competitions included a cross country race, their final RMT times, Map reading tests, football games, drill tests and also their APWT results. It was a close competition throughout the eleven weeks, with both Two and Three Sections lying neck to neck until the final drill test. Two Section lead by Cpl Lythe had the edge and won the competition overall. Well done, to all those who took part. The training team now look forward to starting afresh with intake 728 for another gruelling twelve week programme!!

FOXTROT TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Liz 'On her way to Wales' Allan
Tp Sgt Sgt Craig Purdon

Foxtrot Tp would firstly like to wish a big fair well to Troop Commander, Capt Liz Allan who has just been posted to 14 Sig Regt, where she will assume the role as Squadron Second-in-Command. She will be missed by the Troop and it is hoped that she manages to stay awake whilst navigating. Welcome back to Capt Craig Thompson-Smith, who returns from attachment to 28 Sqn RE and rejoins us, replacing Capt Allan.

Huge CONGRATULATIONS to Cpl Tez 'Hat' Blakeley on his promotion to Sergeant. We wish him and his family all the very best in their move to 32 Regt RA, Larkhill.

Foxtrot Tp currently consists of 46 recruits. They are currently in Week Five of training, about to undertake their Week Five Drill Test, hoping that they will be awarded their long weekend. It's been a very busy, but enjoyable five weeks. The highlight of which was the Week Three activity when the Troop went bowling at Stevenage. It was a really good night, with recruits and permanent staff letting their hair down. Sgt Craig 'King Pin' Purdon was the star of the night with a score of 65 (massive or what!), which was beaten by all but one of the recruits. I don't think there'll be many calls on Sgt Purdon's answering machine asking him to play in the major league.

ROYAL SIGNALS PASS OFF PARADE ATR BASSINGBOURN
by Capt Liz Allan

With the band playing, the sun shining and the proud parents and friends clapping, it was time for another Pass Off Parade for the Army Training Regiment Bassingbourn. Three Troops passed off which included Royal Engineers, Infantry from the Queen's Division and the 22 members of Foxtrot Troop Royal Signals.

The Army is a small organisation and often as people are posted from unit to unit they are reunited with old friends and colleagues. This time it was the turn of the Parade Commander, Maj Rick Licence MBE and the Inspecting Officer, Maj Gen A. E. G. Truluck CBE late Royal Signals. The two had served together 14 years previously as Regimental Sergeant Major and Commanding Officer respectively, of 3 Division Signals Regiment, then based in Germany. Maj Gen Truluck was greeted on to the parade square by his old Sergeant Major, (now Officer Commanding Wray Company) where he inspected the troops.

Foxtrot Troop, Royal Signals, commanded by Capt Liz Allan with her Troop SNCO, Sgt Craig Purdon, were second to be inspected and despite the long wait there were no light-headed recruits. After inspecting the troops, Maj Gen Truluck then took the salute on the march past, which gave the recruits a chance to stretch their legs. The presentation of the prizes followed, with each prize winning recruit marching out in front of the spectators to have their prize presented to them by the General. The prize winners in Foxtrot Troop included Sig Alun Dyde for Best Recruit, Sig James Wilby for best at Physical Training, Sig Robert Gilbey for Best Shot and Sig Daniel Edge for Best Endeavour. Following the General's speech, thanking friends and family for their support, it was time for the troops to march off. The final march past is possibly the most moving moment for the proud parents and friends, many of whom have never seen their sons and daughters so well turned out.

Pass Off Day is without doubt the most enjoyable day of training for both the recruits and permanent staff and is a fitting end to their Phase 1 training. This day was made extra special with a late Commanding Officer being presented the parade by his former Regimental Sergeant Major, just like the good old days! (Rumour has it that a large dent was made in Maj Rick Licence's malt collection the evening prior to the parade. However, these rumours are yet to be verified).

FIRST IMPRESSIONS - by AT Jordan Powell

When I first arrived at the Army Apprentice College I was shown to my accommodation by one of the senior apprentices. Although he was a senior apprentice he couldn't have been more than fourteen years old! This instantly stuck in my mind. What was this place going to be like? Then I got a bed space opposite an absolutely huge bold Geordie, who looked about twenty, and had such a strong accent it took almost a week before anyone could understand anything he said. Fortunately I had to change rooms, as there had been some mistake, and I was saved from his endless mumblings about something or other.

It did not take long before I had settled in and our training was underway. The first seven weeks were a mix of Drill, Skill at Arms, First Aid, Map Reading and Fieldcraft. The majority of this training was conducted by our section commander, Cpl Bob Ayres (SB) from 2 PARA. He arrived after the first week of induction by which time we had been led to believe that he was a psychopathic, mad para whose reputation was infamous. When Cpl Ayres, or 'Psycho Bob' as we have now come to know him, arrived he was a lot of what we expected. However, as our training progressed he became more approachable, which gave us a feeling that we had earned his respect. Our first seven weeks peaked with Ex Milk Teeth, our first exercise, on which we put into practice everything we had learnt. Before we knew it the exercise was all over and it was time to go on leave. This, I felt, was an achievement as this was supposed to be the make or break point of our training. On return to camp, after a refreshing week long drinking session, we were treated with a bit more respect and given a few privileges such as civilian clothing!

The second half or the term saw the start of our education in the form of maths and Military Studies. These lessons quickly got very boring and with only the thought of External Leadership to keep us motivated we soldiered on. External Leadership involves one week in Wales going Hill Walking, Rock Climbing and Canoeing. More than this it is a good break from the College. The week was great, especially the walking expedition, as it snowed on the first which created some excellent opportunities for some snowball section attacks and just generally throwing ourselves around the Welsh hillsides. This more or less brings us to the end of the first term and the mid point of our training. Only fourteen more weeks to go!

EXERCISE DRAGONS TEETH - by AT Boothman

After a kit inspection and dinner we departed camp equipped for the long three nights that were to follow. We all tried to get some sleep on the coach, but were a little anxious about what lay ahead. We arrived at the drop-off point and following a quick session of battle prep we deployed as a Troop to find our harbour location. This was the first time that the Troop had gone very far with full kit, and you could see that people were finding it very difficult. Once we had occupied the harbour area some of us were given our first responsibilities as apprentice tradesman section commanders and Section 2ICs. We coped well with our tasks and the first night went smoothly, but I still had the same old stag duties. After being briefed on timings and locations the following morning we were tested on camouflage and concealment, target indication, judging distance and observation. The next day we watched a fire and movement demonstration, after which we completed our own fire and movement tests, under the direction of Cpl 'Smudge' Smith and Sgt 'Waggy' Wagstaff. In the afternoon we were given a brief on the concept of orders, before receiving a brief set of orders for the tactical occupation of a new patrol harbour.

After we tabbed to our new harbour location we completed our harbour routine, stood to and went on our first tactical night patrol with actions on light and different movement formations. On the final day we bugged out at 0415hrs. It was freezing cold and our ponchos were stiff with ice, we got to our ERV and began our administration tests. Everyone was very cold and so were made to do exercises to keep warm. Following an extensive litter sweep of an entire wood, where each of us collected a sandbag full of other people's rubbish, we tabbed back to the pick up point. Our exercise was over and everyone is now looking forward to Ex Sarah Sands.

REMEMBRANCE OF WO2 (PC) PAUL COLLINS

On Tuesday 29 February 2000, a short service of remembrance was held by Padre Moss in the Blandford Garrison church in respect of the late WO2 Paul Collins R Signals. It was a sombre period for old friends to pay their respects to a dear friend who had passed away . Paul was a great character who was well respected by all who remembered him when 30 Sig Regt was based at Blandford. Our thoughts and condolences are sent out to his loving wife Tina and also to Paul's family

EXERCISE LIGHTNING FOLLY

Lightning Tp have recently conducted another weekend exercise on Salisbury Plain introducing soldiers to the delights of living in a basha. Unfortunately for the Troop cadre the weather was incredibly mild for early March and we did not see any rain at all. The young technicians under the guidance of most of the re-traders enhanced their military skills at some of the more demanding stands including mine clearance, unarmed combat and the mandatory survival stands. A special mention must go to Sig 'Frankie' Smart for the way in which she dispatched the section chicken without a care in the world.

Having participated in all the stands and having cooked themselves a gourmet meal from their 24-hour ration packs, the potential technicians embarked on their night navigation exercise. The sight of a tech with a map in their hands instilled fear into SSgt 'Chippy' Chapman and Cpl 'Dad' Delaney (the resident Radio Relay Ops). Spookily all of the techs managed to find their way around the course and were in bed before midnight. Slumber was short lived with a rather rude awakening at 0500hrs by the Tp OC demanding to know where the location of the ERV and the soldiers to take him there. The re-traders were the only soldiers to question why the ERV was a mile away from the harbour area. The exercise concluded with an excellent morning on the ranges with the soldiers being introduced to the 9mm Browning, followed with a tab back to the armoury.

EXERCISE LIGHTNING FOLLY - by Sig Brown

Lightning Folly was an interesting exercise. I have never been on an exercise where we have to look after and care for an innocent chicken – only to kill the poor little thing the following morning! Then again it did defecate down my jacket (revenge is sweet)! We had the privilege of handling the Browning 9mm pistol under the watchful eye of SSgt 'Chippy' Chapman, which made a change from firing the SA80. The best part of the whole exercise was the Unarmed Combat stand instructed by LCpl 'Chelsea' Reynolds. We were taught a variety of techniques from disarming weapons to pressure points, followed by a two-minute battle with an opponent. It's something I'd like to have another go at given the chance. Fortunately, the weather held out for the night navigation, which was a good job because I think we'd have got more lost had it been raining. Over all Lightning Folly was a worthwhile experience enjoyed by most people there.

EXERCISE LIGHTNING FOLLY - BATTLEFIELD UNARMED COMBAT

by Sig Marsh, Lightning Troop

On Friday 10 March 80 members of Lightning Tp, 3 Sqn deployed to Salisbury Plain for Exercise Lightning Folly. Various stands were set up of which one was the Battlefield Unarmed Combat stand instructed by LCpl 'Marquis de Sade' Reynolds of Lightning Tp, and assisted by Sigs Dent and Marsh.

Before the exercise got underway on the Saturday Sig 'It hurts' Dent and Sig 'Vikki' Marsh were taught the basic skills required for the days activities and were to act out a scenario in which Sig Dent would attempt to mug or restrain Sig Marsh with a pistol. Sig Marsh would then disarm and contain Sig Dent using the techniques taught by LCpl Reynolds. Throughout the day all eight sections were taught a series of defensive manoeuvres. They were shown a few pressure points, a variety of restraints, and at the end of each lesson the section had a quick grappling session using as many holds and pressure points they could remember from the lesson. The only casualty, Sig Nichols, was evacuated to Blandford with a shoulder injury and consequently missed out on the fun. All in all it was apparent that each member of each section (and the demonstration puppets) enjoyed the Battlefield Unarmed Combat and at the same time benefited from the new skills they had learnt.

DRIVER TRAINING

Mr Norman Harrison, HIO Driver Training at 11 Sig Regt congratulates Sig Pitamber Thapa, QGS, on passing his driving test first time after only 13hrs of tuition. His instructor was Mr Dave Moyes of Driver Training Partnership. The average time for a Ghurka soldier to pass their test is 28hrs. Sig Pitamber arrived in Blandford in January to train as a technician.

OUTSTANDING SPORTING ACHIEVEMENTS

Sig Helen Caplin is shown here with some of the trophies she has amassed during her time in Lightning Tp. Not only has she recently qualified as a Systems Technician but she has managed to enjoy all sports available to her here at Blandford, excelling in most! She has represented the Squadron in the Harrogate Cup Competition in basketball, netball, swimming and athletics and due to her outstanding ability she was selected to represent the Regiment at most of these disciplines. To begin the list of her accomplishments Sig Caplin competed with the Regimental basketball team which achieved the runners up position in the 5th Division Championships and was selected for the Army Championships. She has been selected to represent the Corps in netball and cross-country running. As an exceptionally talented cross-country runner she has been a prominent member of the very successful Corps Team. She is currently the 5th Division Junior Champion and was awarded the Junior Female Runner-Up in the Army Cross-Country Championships. More recently Sig Caplin competed in the Blandford Tower Half Marathon and went on to win the Individual Junior Race. She was also a member of the successful Royal Signals female team. Sig Caplin has had an outstanding tour at Blandford and for someone so young she is a role model for all the young soldiers.

ARMY MILLENNIUM CHAMPIONSHIP 2000

by Ishwor Prasad Gurung

The Army Martial Arts Championship 2000 were held on 18 March in the P & RTC gymnasium, Aldershot. More than 100 participants from different units and battalions took part in Martial Arts events which included: Tae Kwon Do (WTF & ITF), Karate, and Pattern Shows with and without various sorts of weapons.

15 soldiers from the Regiment, including our Tae Kwon Do Master - Cpl Harka Gurung took part in the competition. Everyone participated in the coloured belts category in both the Sparring and Pattern Show competition except Cpl Harka who was part of senior belt category. Although it was a first time for all of us in such a competition we all fought and achieved our best performances in the respective events. At the end, we managed to win the entire individual and team events and received trophies as 5 Division and Army Champions in the coloured belts categories. Tulsi Shahi, Milan Rai and Ishwor Prasad Gurung, Ratna Gurung, Bal Krishna Rai, Pawan Sherchan, Emett and Rolle won various Sparring and Pattern Show competition events. Deepak, Ratna, Gopal, Prithi, Bhim and Mekhman also took part in the competition from 11 Sig Regt. All the winners received prizes from the President of the Army Martial Arts Association, Brig G. O. Hopkins. Master Cpl Harka also officiated a different competition.

Even though it was the team's first competition they achieved outstanding results. It certainly was an unforgettable and encouraging experience in the world of Martial Arts. The team has shown plenty of potential for the future and the whole Tae Kwon Do squad would like to thank the Regimental Martial Arts OIC, WO2 Tasker for his contribution to our team in providing various arrangements and encouragement throughout our training period.

HARROGATE CUP – BASKETBALL COMPETITION

by WO1 G. Waters

The Harrogate Cup got off to a new start with the Inter-Squadron Basketball Competition which took place in the Garrison P&RT centre over the period 22-24 February 2000. Each Troop played two games in the preliminaries and Lightning Troop, 3 Sqn emerged the favourites, winning both the A & B strings. On Wednesday 23 February the third place playoff was contested between both teams from 1 Sqn, Kohima Tp versus Fighting Rhino Tp. The Rhinos held off a very offensive Kohima Tp with some good skilful play by Sigs 'Space Jam' Rutter and 'Herbie' Hancox. The semi-finals were also competed that evening - the first with a very convincing win by Lightning (A) over Beaufighter Tp 24-5. Sigs Way and 'Jock' Miller played magnificent, impressing the NBA scouts. The second semi-final contest was Lightning (B) vs Iron Tp. During a closely matched game Iron Tp edged Lightning by a score of 8–7. Sigs Barton and Royal are to be congratulated for motivating the 2 Sqn Team. Thursday 24 February, Beaufighter Tp managed to stop Lightning (B) in the fl playoff – preventing a 3 Sqn landslide. The referees had a hard time to keep up with the speed of play from one key to the other and Beaufighter eventually emerged victorious with the score 6-5.

Lightning v Iron Troop

The final was expected to be a close shave between Lightning (A) and Iron Tp but Sigs Way and 'Jock' Miller had different ideas, penetrating the 2 Sqn defence with some superb passing and shooting. Mid-way through the second half Iron Tp had to substitute Sig Barton with a leg injury. The 2 Sqn team were not able to capitalise on some golden rebound opportunities hitting their fair share of the ring and backboard. Lightning Tp were the clear champions with an outstanding win 33 – 7. After the final whistle was blown, the prizes were presented by the Commander RSS, Col K. J. Hatfield who praised all players and officials for a magnificent sporting competition. The three days was also a time to scout for the Regimental Basketball Team who picked up a few strong players to go on and compete well in the Inter Unit/Divisional games.

WESTHAVEN PRE-SCHOOL INVASION BY 2 SQUADRON

by Sig Wilkie 2 Sqn

When I first arrived at Westhaven Pre-School, I had imagined a derelict building. The crew from 2 Sqn selected for the task included WO1 Fisher MBE and Cpl 'Trigger' Smith. After a recce of the site they realized the amount of work that was required, increased the size of the working party and lengthened the time scale until completion (so no change to MOD projects then). 20 tins of brightly coloured paints would ensure that rooms would be greatly improved. Sig 'Prim and Proper' Lucking and Sig 'Grafter' Wilkie suggested that one of the rooms should be a Beach theme. Sigs 'Jock' Aitken, Clark, 'Moaning' Moaghan and 'Nail file' Foster set about painting the sand, clouds and the biggest sun going which brightened up the room with it's glowing smile. It created the exact atmosphere that we had hoped. Bright and cheerful was exactly what they were going to get! What made it even better was that there were always a couple of kids around to voice their opinions - thankfully they liked it. There was a real buzz in the air after we had finished that room and already plans were underway for the next. Suggestions ranged from dinosaurs in a tropical rainforest to Star Wars. In the end we decided that the last room was so bright (perhaps a little too bright) that we ought to go for something a little different (subdued). We settled on a starry night, interspersed with cartoon characters to make the room a bit more interesting. Sig 'Bonkers' Bladen led the charge with paintroller in hand and within a day it was done and looking the business.

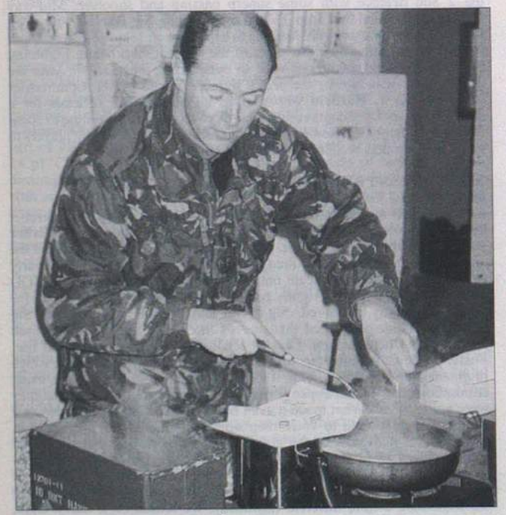
WO1 Fisher MBE had the ingenious idea of bringing along an OHP and some cartoon sketches. We projected them onto the wall so they could then be traced and painted. When we had finished, we had Rugrats, Buzz Lightyear and a whole host of other children's characters plastered all over the walls. Overall, the five days we spent decorating were good fun, and it also brought a lot of people together in achieving this goal. The most rewarding experience was seeing the little children's faces light up when they saw the completed rooms. I'm sure it is now the best painted Pre-School in England!

EXERCISE CATTERICK CRUSADE

2 Sqn deployed on Ex Catterick Crusade on a very cold Friday afternoon in the middle of February for an informative weekend of low level tactics and basic field discipline. The Squadron comprised of six Sections of Phase 2 soldiers, led by eager JNCO Volunteers who were determined to command the best Sections. The daunted look on the faces said it all as the sections were met by the 'Screaming Skulls' (or Troop Cadre) who were also keen to get the show on the road. The 'show' started with Platoon orders. After overcoming the first and by far the most arduous task of finding the correct bergen, the sections set off to find and defend their first objective - the Harbour Area! Everything during daylight seemed easy and straightforward. Then there was darkness! Even the most mundane task of getting onto the metal track (which had now disappeared) at the edge of the wood, looked like an extract from a Keystone Cop video.

The following day consisted of a series of stands which were instructed by the cadre. The training was beneficial for all concerned. The Exercise finale was a series of command task stands, with points being awarded for best section. (Won by Section 6 – Iron Troop). Best field soldier went to Sig 'Gunny' Ellis of Beaufighter Tp, who was highly impressive throughout the Exercise for his admin skills, which were later dampened when he mislaid the trophy!

The SSM, WO2 Neil 'Hockey Hot Legs' Fisher, showed us his skills as a chef (which is why he is a SSM in the Signals!) and even tried to get the lads to taste his culinary delights. The delights came in handy for propping up the Landrover on the recovery stand.



BLANDFORD CYBER CAFÉ

At last the Royal School of Signals has caught up with the internet age! The 25th February saw the Grand Opening of a Cyber Café in the WRVS lounge in the Semaphore Arms. The project team, Maj Louise Tomkins and Lt Col (Retd) MacDonald, ensured that in spite of a number of roadblocks (wrong paint or faulty routers?) the Café was able to open as planned. Now, thanks to funding which was available to the RSS at short notice, soldiers can improve their computer literacy and surf. The café is open Mon to Fri and on Sundays and terminals can be booked in fi hour and 1 hour slots at a cost of only 75 pence per fi hour. So next time you are at the RSS keep in touch with email and surf the net for the latest edition of course exam questions!

DEMOLITION OF ANSON and BENBOW ACCOMMODATION BLOCKS

For the many soldiers of the Corps, past and present, who have 'done time' in the Anson and Benbow accommodation blocks - some good news for you all! Both blocks are being raised to the ground as part of the modernisation plans for Blandford garrison. Formerly built in the 1960's the towers have been a talking point for all of us who have had the pleasure. Benbow was finally laid to rest in January 2000 and Anson is scheduled to follow by the end of the year. Go to it!!

11 SIGNAL REGT LADIES HOCKEY

by Sig 'Tiggy' Burke-Smith

It is Wednesday 29 March and we are at Aldershot awaiting our first game against the SEME Ladies team. Just to put you in the picture we, 11 Signal Regt Ladies, are here to play in the Warrior Army Cup. The weather, of course, is miserable. We drew 2-2 against the SEME Ladies in a warm-up match. SSgt Graham, who was a defender in the match, made an outstanding run from our defensive position down to the other end of the pitch taking out all of the opposition players along the way to finish nicely with a goal.

Next we played 22 Fd Regt RA. We beat them 4 – 0. It was midfielder, SSgt Nicky Thomas, AGC, who led the way during this game scoring all four of the goals. However, this would not have been possible without the efforts of Sig Amanda Wright and Sgt Pam Mitchell who were constantly storming through the other teams midfield and defence. At the end of the first very productive day, we were through to the semi-finals – higher than our expectations. The next day the team rose bright and early in anticipation of the first match of the day at 1000hrs against Haslar. They were a good team and put our defence and midfield through a bit of hard work. We did however, have Sig Donald in the midfield running around like the Energizer Bunny and WO2 (QMSI) Helen Sleightholme kept the ball away from our goal. We went on to win this game 1 – 0 with Sgt Angie Sparling and SSgt Thomas engineering a lovely goal. This win put us through to the finals - can you believe it? We couldn't!! The match was against 3 Div who fielded a very strong team. Moral was high and we were hoping for a good game.

This was one of the toughest matches that I, as an inexperienced player, had ever played. However, with some amazing goalkeeping from Sig Ali Sabiston (she even saved a penalty flick) we managed to keep the score to a respectable 3 – 0 in the opposition's favour. As a final note I would just like to say thank you to SSgt Moore and WO2 (SSM) Fisher for helping us with the coaching and for looking so professional on the sidelines.

3 SQUADRON FOOTBALL COMPETITION - by Sig Simpson

On 27 February, sixteen 5-a-side teams turned up on a wet, cold Sunday morning to play in the first annual 3 Squadron Football Tournament, the brainchild of LCpl 'Chelsea' Reynolds of Lightning Troop Cadre. The competition format was a knockout with the first round winners going on to play for the 3 Squadron Cup and the losers competing for the highly honourable Lightning Plate.

Sadly the 'Troop Cadre' team weren't informed of the regulation team size and tended to play with five, six or sometimes seven players. However, their sporting efforts were in vain after being knocked out in the semi-finals by 'The HotShots' 7-0. The other semifinal was played by the pre-tournament favourites, the 'Celtic Warriors' (pronounced Keltic as not to offend its mainly Scottish contingent) and the 'Stav's Kebabs'. This was the best game of the competition and was finally decided on penalties by 2 excellent strikes by Sig O'Connor and team captain Sig Simpson. 'The Lightning Bolts', Sigs Thorburn, Miller, Gilbert, Stevenson, Igo, and female Sig Chivers also narrowly won on penalties eventually winning the coveted Lightning Plate.

The competition final was between the 'Celtic Warriors' and the 'Hot Shots'. The highly motivated Warriors started off impressively running away to a 6-2 lead and with only two minutes remaining felt it was time to take their foot of the gas. The Hot Shots clawed their way back to 6-5 but narrowly failed in their efforts, leaving the 'Celtic Warriors' captain Sig Simpson to collect the trophy from the 3 SQN 2IC, Capt McAnulty (who had, might I add, been a member of the permanent staff team). The members of the victorious 'Celtic Warriors' were Sigs 'Greedy' Simpson, 'Do ya ken' Hanlon, 'Wes' O'Connor, 'Scouse' Conroy, 'I made parade' Baker, and finally female "Helen" Coupe. Congratulations.

OBLIVION MARATHON 2000

On 14 April 2000 a group of Soldiers and SNCOs departed for Alton Towers to take part in a Roller coaster marathon on Oblivion, the World's first vertical roller coaster in aid of the Newman Trust (Charity No. 326429). Oblivion has a fearsome reputation with passengers accelerating from 0 to 110kph in less than a second and pulling 4.5G's. The idea was conceived in a public establishment not long before closing time and consisted of a team of twelve people on the first ride of the day and then one person on every ride until the last ride of the day.

Quote 'It was a good idea at the time' Unquote.

The Newman Trust is a registered charity who provide week long holidays for children and young adults with special needs. Emphasis is placed on selecting children who would not otherwise have a holiday. Because the Newman Trust is run entirely by volunteers all of the money raised goes directly into running the holidays. The holidays are held in four locations throughout England and there are plans to expand to a fifth holiday soon. The holidays come in two main types – outward bound or just plain fun. The fun holidays involve trips to Zoos, Theme Parks, Cinemas, Horse-riding, Swimming visits from local Army, Fire Brigade and Police units and a lot, lot more.

One of the Newman Trust children enjoying a taste of military life

The twelve man team for Oblivion Marathon 2000 consisted of Sgts Sid Barrass, Rick Davey, Dave Davis, Dom Graham, Mary Hessell, John O'Brien, Sigs James Brant, Craig Fulton, Matt Hebdon, Martin Sloan, Ian Walker and Mr Kev Hessell. Completing the team was Jackie Simpson who had to put up with us for the journey up and down as the driver and looked after us during the day at Alton Towers. Who would have thought twelve guys about to go through with a 110km/h, 4.5G(astronauts pull 3G on take-off) roller coaster marathon would whinge so much about taking a corner a bit fast! We all started off at 10a.m. on the 15 April raring to go, up the long climb to the top of Oblivion. Just as we reach the edge the carriage suddenly jolts to a standstill and we hang over a 180ft drop. 'DON'T LOOK DOWN', a voice tells us over the speakers. Then it's pure adrenaline as we hurtle towards and through a big hole in the ground and out the other side. As we exit the camera catches the emotions. We've selected the photo with the whole range, from 'Way Aye Mun, this is greet!' to 'What the hell am I doing here?!'

We then took it in turns to subject ourselves to the same delights for the next seven hours. Everyone completed around 30 rides during the day, with no injuries apart from twelve rosy faced cases of windburn. 360 rides later we all boarded again to complete a victory lap.

So far we have collected £1200 and are looking good to hit the £2000 mark when all the pledges have been collected. That is enough to take 10 Children on a holiday. A big Thank You goes out from all team members to the many people who have donated money or sponsored us. A special Thank You goes to HQ Royal Signals WO's & Sgts Mess, Humph Bahadur's Restaurant, The Dorset Steam Fair, 11 Sig Regt PRI, Mike & Milenda Lee's Tattoo Studio, Blandford Video Centre, Im-pressed Dry Cleaners and Tesco.

If you would like further information about the Newman Trust, would like to send a donation, or want to become a helper on the holidays please contact Sgt Dave Davis on (9)4371 2835.

NEWS FROM THE BALKANS

MULTINATIONAL BRIGADE (CENTRE) HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL SQUADRON (207)

Sqn Comd Maj Andy Bristow
RSM WO1 (RSM) Colin Milne

So here we are, Multi National Brigade (Centre) Headquarters and Signal Squadron (207). After almost two months in theatre the Desert Rats have settled in and begun to leave their mark (not to mention the six foot Rat at the front of Brigade Headquarters). Thanks to 19 Mech Bde HQ & Sig Sqn (209) for their help during the hand-over, we look forward to seeing you again, in similar circumstances next year! The locals must have known we were coming. Within days of our arrival, even before the follow on party of the Squadron had deployed, elements were 'getting amongst it' in Mitrovica providing comms support to the Green Jackets, amidst the rioting and CS gas. Following that, there has been much border activity and a number of search operations, in which we have been involved in one way or other. Fortunately life has begun to settle down a bit since the initial burst of activity, but the momentum remains. The focus now turns to actively encouraging the dwindling Serb population to remain, whilst also maintaining and improving MNB(C) HQ in lieu of the move to TFA. (Rumour has it that by the time you read this we will have moved in). With film nights, sporting activities and 'the Sunday night quiz', and a flying visit from Jim Davidson and Gladiator 'Rio' (Sorry guys, the RSM has confiscated the picture of Rio), life is comfortable and the days are beginning to fly. The R & R plot has now kicked in, and there are plans afoot to put in place a 36hr pass to somewhere exotic (lake Orid probably), once the weather settles and the wind drops to less than 70kph!
Has anyone seen the OC's beret……?

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Adam Corkery
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Sloane

Well, what a start to the new millennium it has been for us all. The vehicles left Germany a month before the troop but were met by 207's elite guard force in Thessaloniki. The guard force, led by its trusty leader, Cpl Andy 'No Responsibilities' Allen, then stagged on for ten days until the main body of the squadron arrived. On arrival in Kosovo, all were in high spirits and prepared for a good tour. With Rover Tp mostly deployed to the out-dets we had the business of taking over the comms for HQ MNB(C). After a week, the HQ was starting to look the part and everyone was pretty pleased with what had been achieved. Over the subsequent couple of weeks, the troop deployed on three operational readiness exercises the last of which being part of the multi-national exercise Dynamic Response 2000. All went well apart from an unfortunate injury to ED extraordinaire LCpl Si 'Juan Carlos Rimerez' Periera – we hope you're back in action soon. There has also been the arrival of a few new faces to Comms Tp and we would like to welcome Cpl Mick Clark, LCpl Mark Angus and LCpl Mike Jennings – we hope you enjoy yourselves. We would also like to thank LCpl 'The King' Ross and trusty crewman LCpl 'Smelly Feet' Bithell AKA the 'Ptarmigan Gods' for coming over to Comms Tp to help with the Ptarmigan. They reckon they deserve a couple of weeks R and R, but as they're so invaluable, we think we may have to cancel their R and R altogether! Well done guys.

ROVER TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Andy Hill
Tp SSgt SSgt Andy Buckle

With almost seven weeks gone, Rover Tp has settled down to life in Kosovo. With just a few of us living in the Headquarters in Pristina (still in tents!) the rest of us are living in luxury with either the Rear Link Detachments or one of the two hill top sites. Up at Goles, one of the hilltop sites, Sgt 'Ritchie' Richmond has created his own little empire where he looks after many soldiers such as LCpl Nikki Thompson and Sig Chris Brogan. Up at Suvi Bunar, Cpls Rob Luke and Andy Allen are left pretty much to themselves, sharing with 19 Regt RA. Under their reigns are Sig 'Lurch' Wilson (who still can't find any cows to scare), Sig Pam Dunkerly and new arrival Sig 'Where's Kosovo?' Holt.

Experiencing life with other nationalities are the seven Rear Link Detachments. Sig Khrissie Strain has enjoyed eating plenty of cabbage with the Czechs, Sig Grace Howard has enjoyed eating fish three times a day with the Swedes and Sig Stu Hill and LCpl Stu Codack have enjoyed watching late night Finnish TV. With three detachments living with the Canadians, Sig Tony Muers and 'Biceps' Sharman have been looking after the Battalion HQ while Cpl 'Ginty' McTurk has been back in UK winning yet more trophies for Army Badminton. Sigs Daz Jardine and Michelle Cowley have been looking after their recce elements while their poor aviators have had to put up Cpl 'Pants' Underwood, LCpl Tony Marsh and Sig 'I love PT' Cannon.

To ensure the out-dets have some sort of normality, Sgt Dave 'Happy with that' Alleyne and LCpl 'Fluffy' Cloughton – both from the UK, have been re-supplying them with all the essentials. Living it rough in the tented accommodation back at Brigade HQ, Sig 'Magic' McDermot has been clocking up the mileage with Capt Steve Abram, looking for deployable HQ locations. Sig Stevie Homer is now driving the OC around, while Cpl Greg Dick is acting as the Troop fleet manager. The augmentees from 1 Div Sig Regt have fitted in extremely well and are all a good laugh. We look forward to more coming out to cover the hectic R&R period.

1 (UK) ARMD DIV HQ & SIG REGT AUGMENTEES TO 7 ARMD BDE HQ & SIG SQN (207)

All arrived safely after flying backwards on the plane and then driving up from Thesseloniki. There aren't many people who can say they've done 3 countries in less than 12 hours, but again the 'Div' triumph and conquer. Sigs Trevor Raw and 'Big Phil' Lofthouse, and Cpl 'Cas' Castano are living a cushy life in Pristina, along with Cpls Boris Lynn and Nikki Dyson, LCpls Maggi Sinclair and Peter Hunsburger but not forgetting Sgts Peter Finnigan and Paul Garret. Sig 'Edshward' McSharry, and LCpls Gabriel Rudge and 'Johnny Bravo' Wakeling all went playing soldiers with the US Marines, showing them how to do it properly. LCpl 'Fish' Fisher and SSgt…yes SSgt Sinclair are driving everyone around Kosovo and around the bend! LCpls 'Prince of Darkness' Harkness and 'Taff' Lewis together with Cpl 'Smiler' Breaks are all unheard of and unseen as they are all hiding up in the hills along with Cpl 'Demi' Moore. LCpl 'Mondeo' Ford is using the hills as a holiday camp as he keeps on going back to the UK to represent the Army at Badminton. LCpl 'I love war' Pearson and Sig Kevin Wilson are enjoying their stay with the Czechs but have resorted to cooking their own food as cabbage three times a day is a little tiresome. Sig 'Hiya' Ashcroft and LCpl 'Trout' Lannie are enjoying working with the Norwegians and are working hard at getting fit - although Trout has definitely won the Golden Blanket award for staying in bed for both his days off. LCpl Nikki Roberts is at Swed Bat and has recently received some mail from 2 RRF for having a lovely voice on the net! Sigs 'Psycho' Smith, 'I love myself' Peck, 'Bomber' Mills, 'Monkey boy' Goddard and 'Dizzy liney' Evans all turned up safely in sunny Kosovo alive and well. Everyone out here is missing everyone back at Div and wish you all well.

TECHS, LINE AND POWER

Tp FofS WO2 (FofS) 'Mac' McCallum
Tp SSgt SSgt Dave Baddeley

Well, here we are in Kosovo. The Troop has been supplemented with 'willing volunteers' from 1 (UK) ADSR. One of these new recruits, Cpl Lynn, used his vast driving experience and almost drove his Land Rover straight into a minefield! Our tech guru, LCpl 'Daff - I'm the Best' Ellis, filled out his new post as Troop MT rep admirably with only one minor drawback - he's not even qualified to drive a Rover! Telemech exraordinaire, Sig 'Scouse, wannabe 'Taff' Hughes, managed to display his skills to the fullest by wiring up a mains extension using a new convention, not previously seen in the electrical world, and still wondered why it didn't work! Our days are long and hard, especially when PT starts at 6a.m. and the nights are even longer as we always seem to get called out just as the bar opens. Congratulations to the Tech football team for winning the 5-a-side Competition. The prizes included: a hand-warmer, Silver Shadow Trainers, cam cream and to top it all, the trophy was a bottle of mineral water wrapped in Silver foil - no expense spared by the QM's department! Welcome to Sgt Lee 'I'll fix all your radios' Clark, whose incredible rate of turnover is a god-send, even if they are the same radios every day!

MULTINATIONAL DIVISION (SOUTH WEST) HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL REGIMENT OPERATION PALATINE

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

CO Lt Col D. A. Hargreaves
RSM WO1 Jackson

1 April 2000 marked a significant change in the Royal Signals commitment to Op Palatine. Multinational Division (South West) Headquarters and Signal Regiment paraded for the last time in its eight year history. The SOinC(A), Brig C. J. Burton OBE ADC, presided over the disbandment parade which marked an end to the provision of life support to the Banja Luka Metal Factory and the birth of BRITFOR Signal Squadron and the Commercialisation Implementation Team. Royal Signals in BLMF can now truly focus on the provision of communications to the Division and on the implementation of CIS commercialisation, bringing Royal Signals a step closer to the desired end state of Troop strength. Accompanied by the CRSM, WO1 Hodgson, the SOinC (A) presented OC BRITFOR Sig Sqn, Maj S. R. Workman with the new Squadron Colours before meeting R Signals soldiers in BLMF and at the surrounding Hill Top Sites. That evening the Officers', WO's and SSgts of the disbanded Regiment enjoyed the first and last Regimental Dinner Night and farewelled the CO, Lt Col ' Tiggel?' Hargreaves who returns to command his 'other' regiment, 34 Sig Regt (V) Middlesbrough. Also being dined out were the Adjutant, Capt 'Hyacinth Bucket' ' Lloyd returning to 2 Sig Regt prior to JCSC 48, the Camp Comdt, Maj ' Choppe?' Aspinall to 71 Sig Regt (V) and the RSM, WO1 Jackson back to Aldershot.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS

Sqn Comd Maj S. R. Workman
SSM WO2 M. Neighbour

Life goes on apace with the disbandment of the Regiment and the formation of BRITFOR Sig Sqn. The loss of the CO and Adjt has increased the in-trays of the Sqn Comd - Maj Workman and the 2IC - Capt Lee Hendricks, however it is Capt Roddy Wilson who will feel the pain as he take's up the reins from Capt Hendricks (about time after his skive in UK). Meantime the pressures of operating a Mechanised Brigade Signal Sqn with all the kit back in Aldershot is continuing to provide a major challenge to 228 Sig Sqn in Banja Luka. SSM Mark Neighbour is suffering from rugby withdrawal symptoms, not having played yet this tour, but plans are afoot for a team to form up and take on a local side. Meantime WO2 (FofS) Lance 'The maroon Pimpernel' Marshall, currently on R&R, changed half the radio frequencies, much to the disgust of WO2 (YofS) 'Stan the man' Winstanley who returned from R&R to discover the changes.

COMMS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt T. W. Day
Tp SSgt Sgt D. Dyer

As the weather hots up in the Balkans the hill top site crews have shaved their beards off in preparation for tanning. The 'draw down' and extraction of R Signals from Ivovik and Sjertekosvic hill top sites has finally come to fruition. With the closure of the COMMCENS at TornislavGrad and Kupres imminent, SSgt 'Magpie' Dyer and Lt 'Doris' Day are putting their procurement skills to use in their relocated office; re-furnishing it into a Fagin style den! Sadly, 'Slapper' the cat's visits have been less frequent following an unfortunate incident involving electricity and singed whiskers. Sig 'KR' Kelly-Rutherford has moved to the 'village of the damned' and LCpl Ross 'Big-Daddy' Williams and Sig Paul 'The Cat' Hick are now at Lisina West. LCpl 'Greeny' Green heads for Gola P and LCpl Jim O'Mahony has packed up his skidoo driving and returned to UK for his Class One. Cpl Dave Briscoe continues his quest to deplete the worlds water table, whilst LCpl Dave Reid failed to achieve instant promotion to General after serving up Lobster and Swans eyelids to VIP visits to his site.

Congratulations to SSgt 'Dimebar' Dyer on passing his EFP at the seaside resort of Split; he reputedly spent an incredible 3DM during the three weeks he was being educated. Salutations to Sig 'Bone-crusher' McGeorge on his recent victory at the inter-Balkans wrestling championship, successfully slam-dunking five contestants from units in the former Yugoslavia. Special mention for our illustrious leader, Lt 'Doris' Day on the announcement of his engagement to Jane; she won't be marrying you for sensible conversation!

HEADQUARTERS TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt R. McCleod
Tp SSgt SSgt J. Howe

'Grounday Day' has set in at Banja Luka - 72 days and counting remaining in theatre. Early escapees include Cpl Jace 'BLMF-expert' McBain, back 1 UK Civ Div, who intends to return to Banja Luka in August to work for SFM Radio (masochist). LCpl 'Pom King' Burnside has made good his escape from theatre, virtually no one knew that he was going until he was mid-air en-route to the UK. Improved weather and obvious increased skill has reduced the tempo in the Tech Wksps, or is it the absence of Sgt Ian 'I'm so Airborne it hurts' Dickinson, who is on an extended R&R. In his absence Sgt Trev 'in my next life I'll be a Zagreb tour guide' McSween, has been holding the fort.

Following his recent promotions success SSgt Paul 'Staff Sergeant' Gardener has picked up all available 'jif jobs', including that of the SQMS. The real SQMS, SSgt Spence 'Hello civvie-street' Cave is in the UK handing over his accounts before leaving the army in July. The resulting musical chairs have resulted in Cpl Claire 'NLT' Rutter running Syscon. LCpl (Sig??) Paul 'Justin' Heywood almost succeeded in closing the junior ranks bar, permanently. Hope the face recovers soon.

The COMMCEN continues to prove that escape from BLMF is not impossible. Regular readers will remember Cpl 'MiniMe' McMullen managed to con the Squadron into a seven-week jolly, alias a Skill At Arms course in the UK, and LCpl 'Jankers' Brooks (successfully) attempted 1 Sqn selection to get away. Sig 'Tomo' Thompson returns to UK shortly for the Lanyard Trophy, along with Sig Steve 'Airborne Warrior' Andrews, LCpl Dave 'Rubb shelter' Wesson and LCpl Nick Constable. The mass exodus is joined by OC, 2Lt Ross 'Razor Wire' McCleod to attempt 'P' Company, and SSgt John 'Multitasking' Howe, to take up the appointment of Regimental YofS at 34 Sig Regt (V). Don't worry 4 Bde - we'll leave the key under the mat, and hand-over notes on the desk.

MOBILE TROOP
Tp Comd 2Lt D. A. Haslewood
Tp SSgt Sgt H. Wilcox

Passed the half way-point in the tour and morale is good. The SOinC(A) toured the squadron, allowing the troop to confirm their PhD in tent erection setting up the Tac HQ (again) and showing off the Spec Tasks, Rebro and IRO. The change to BRITFOR Sig Sqn has little impact at our level and it is business as usual, ie: more tents! Several exercises are planned for the next two months to Glamoc and Coralici. Cpl Si 'Hernroyd' Holroyd is busy preparing 228 Sig Sqn kit for back-loading. The Troop is looking forward to the resulting decrease in our workload and increase in time to concentrate on other tasks, more tents! The Troop recently deployed on Ex Market Garden organised by the best (apparently) Signaller in the Troop, Sig 'Stealth' Stone, which unlike its famous predecessor, was an excuse to spend a day falling off mountain bikes and getting sunburnt. Sgt 'Toyah' Wilcox was unable to grasp the concept of riding so ran back; must be an ex-216 thing. Our last minute volleyball team won the cup thanks to Sig 'Madmad' Kama who achieved Olympic standard after only five minutes play.

The notorious Cpl 'Yukka' Simmons is back and reunited with his twin Sig 'Leper' Soraine. Sigs 'Golden shower' Davy and Al 'Alky' Allerdyce returned from their 96hr pass, after accidentally missing their flight from Split. LCpl 'Alien-heed' Appleyard returned from holiday in Morocco with Pte 'Charlie' Smith. Sig 'Basher' Fox excelled himself during the riots by laying out an entire Italian riot squad.

MAINTENANCE TROOP
Tp Comd Maj Holmes
SSgt SSgt G. Greaves

With the snow now melted and the RTA register decreasing the MT has settled down into the last third of the tour. The department is still busier than ever attempting to please so many with so little for no thanks; no change there. The CSE show went well especially in the eyes of LCpl Mark 'Sniffer' Warrington who took a shine to the dancers hockey sticks and LCpl 'Mac' McArthur who was left with a minibus full of swag when the actors left theatre. Congratulations to Sgt Dean Whitworth who was selected for promotion and has assumed the post of MT SSgt and farewell to SSgt Gaz Greaves who has taken over at HQ BRITFOR in the black art of SQMS. The MT has two hopefuls for the forthcoming boxing tournament in the shapes of LCpl 'POL gimp' Jackson and Sig 'Clegster' Cleghorn we wish them well. With two months left to push and the transition of handing the MT over to a Dutch and Canadian contingent the Department looks forward to end of tour and the much deserved post tour leave.

ULTIMATE CHALLENGE 30KM RACE

Eleven members of BRITFOR Sig Sqn took part in the 'Ultimate Challenge' 30km race on Sunday 2 April 2000. The race, organised by the Dutch Battalion based at Sisava had 120 participants and saw an overwhelming number of the Signal Squadron finish in the top ten. The team consisted of Lt 'Doris' Day, SSgt 'Dicky' Dyer, SSgt Dean Whitworth, Cpl 'Dog' Barker, LCpl Russ Sharpe, LCpl Brett Appleyard, LCpl 'Sub' Subarna, LCpl Nick Constable, Sig Steve Andrews, Sig Ben Stone and Craftsman Coates. Special mention to Sig Steve Andrews for finishing in third place overall and also to Craftsman Coates for his exceptionally fast start which he succeeded in failing to maintain. LCpl Russ Sharpe and LCpl Kelly Thompson from Sisava COMMCEN arranged for the team to take part in the race, accommodated the guys in their chalet and hosted them at a party the night before. The team, sponsored by personnel based at 'Banja Luka Mental Factory,' raised £523.00, which has been donated to the Princess Diana Children's Hospital in Birmingham, in memory of LCpl Katie Tranter AGC (SPS).

EXERCISE SNOW DANCE (TIGER)

Ten soldiers braved the Swiss Mountains on the arduous ski mountaineering expedition in the middle of February. The expedition consisted of a mixture of soldiers from 228 Sig Sqn and other members who are currently on operations in Bosnia. From the very home of the British Army Aldershot, we set of for the journey which was to last us over 24 hours. When we finally arrived at our destination it was off to sleep for the first days activities. On the first day we split into two groups, an experienced group instructed by a Civilian instructor, Peter Cliff, and a beginners group which was instructed by 228 Sigs Sqn's very own LCpl 'Robbo' Robertson.

The experienced group went straight into safety procedures in case of avalanches, which seemed highly likely from the state of Lt Maskell-Pedersen's down hill efforts on the first day. The beginners group advanced with amazing speed, all the way down the mountain. The end of the first day ended in true expedition style with a few jars to warm the blood after a hard day's work. Both groups progressed at a great rate, with the beginners moving on to gain the ability to stop. LCpl Blanchard even mastered the art of how, without the traditional aid of a seven year old child to act as the brakes and the advanced group moving on to carry out day tours of the mountains. The main tour of the expedition had to cancelled due to poor weather which meant that both groups got to a day together, at this point it was getting harder to see the gap between the two groups. After the bad weather had passed it was back to the ski mountaineering for the experienced group and back to razzing it down the mountain at a rapid speed of knots for the beginners' group.

As with all good things it was finally the end and time to return to The UK after the 24hour drive. That's what we thought. After driving for a few hours we arrived at the border, it should have taken an extra hour but we were all happy with the progress, until we noticed the hats of the border guards. Instead of the German uniforms we were expecting they were wearing Italian. After the little diversion via Italy we saw the error of our ways and back to the UK for the ten expedition members. Finally we arrived at Aldershot, a bit later than we expected but all in one piece at least.

NEWS FROM NORTHERN IRELAND

XV HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN IRELAND & 15 SIGNAL REGIMENT

CO Lt Col G. J. T. Rafferty
RSM WO1 (RSM) Balsdon

Operating within an ever-challenging, and politically fluid environment, The Regiment continues to work hard and achieve a great deal. The past few months have been busy for all of the diverse sub-units that work together under the Regimental umbrella.....

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON
Sqn Comd/QM Maj J. Mullender
RQMS/Tp Comd Sp Tp WO2 A. Frost

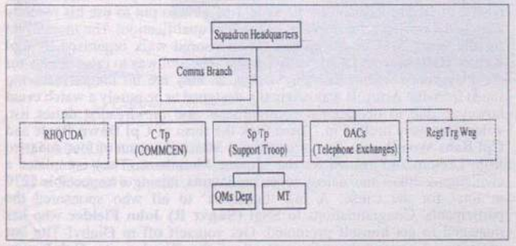
Life in the Squadron continues at a frenetic pace, with the Board of Officers, the receipt and issue of the new Rigging System, and the ever increasing supply of IT Systems. The move of the COMMCEN and Telephone Exchanges from 233 Sig Sqn to HQ Sqn went smoothly and they all now have their feet firmly under the HQ Sqn table. As a result of the move the Squadron required restructuring. The new ORBAT is shown below



The changes presented the Squadron with interesting challenges to which all members responded with professionalism and spirit. It has not been all work and no play though; personal development remains an important and integral part of the Squadron ethos. Everybody within the Squadron has been given the opportunity and encouragement to complete all courses that they require and ample opportunity to partake in Adventure Training, Military Training and sport (from Fell Running to Sailing).

CO'S CUP

The CO's Cup consists of a variety of sporting activities throughout the training year, this challenging event ensures that sport is played by all and not just the gladiators. Despite the workload all members of the Squadron acquitted themselves very well during the year in the competition (Drawing with 225 Sig Sqn on 21 points but lost out on a count back of first places). Rest assured that we will win this year.

233 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj R. P. Giles
SSM WO2 (SSM) Dunseith

Yet another hectic period for the Squadron highlighted by various visits and end of year reviews. The highlight (presumably!) for the SSM has been his marriage to Cpl Vicky Molyneax - with congratulations and best wishes from the entire Squadron. Capt Annabel Taylor has arrived (with Bruno), all the way up the hill from 39 Bde Sig Sqn, to take over as 2IC. Capt Gareth Oliver has done a stirling job standing in and has quite happily handed over the paper mountain and returned to I Troop. Battle camp is this week's priority, and as Spring is sprung the Squadron is preparing for Easter in the Province.

The NCC Team

INDIA TROOP
Tp Comd Capt Gareth Oliver
Tp SSgt SSgt Craig Marlowe

The Troop have experienced an extremely busy period over the last months with the birth of NCC Tp. The technical team are to be congratulated for their sterling efforts, especially SSgt (FofS) Andy Paton for IDA, Sgts Al Newman and John Ault for their tireless efforts and Sgt 'Selly' Selkirk for his overall installation guidance. The Tp would like to congratulate the following for being selected for promotion: WO2 Ray Neal off to 21 Sig Regt, SSgt Andy Paton to 3 Div, SSgt Si Graham to 21 Sig Regt, SSgt John 'Bouffant' Ramsdale to 1 Div, Sgt Mick Scanlon staying at I Tp and Sgt Nige Smith going somewhere.

DATA ENGINEERING SECTION

The Section would like to welcome the following new arrivals: Sgt 'Micky' Knowles, Cpl 'I love this place' MacDonald, Cpl MacArthur, the huge LCpl 'Mini me' Smith, LCpl 'George' Lucas and last but by no means least Sig Manifield. We have said goodbye to Sgt 'John Boy' Ault and Sgt 'Big Al' Newman, who spent their last six months in the Projects Section playing with the latest technology and working with numerous civilian agencies. Cpl Matt 'Jonah' Williams and his family have recently left for 7 Sig Regt, where he will probably have broken things just by coming within 50 feet of them. Our place of work was thought to be 'Matt proof' with 36 inches of concrete surrounding it, but this proved to be inadequate protection. Cpl Carl Gaber has managed to escape at last to sunny Cyprus. Overall a very busy period in the section with the three main IS Systems being upgraded at the same time.

MCKELVIE SWIMMING COMPETITION - by LCpl Waring

The inter-troop competition was with us once again, and with all the usual enthusiasm I Tp displays everyone jumped at the opportunity to join in. The competition entailed the usual events - freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke and professional drowning (butterfly) as well as the three relay events. First unto the breach was SSgt John Ramsdale, who put up a valiant effort in the 50m freestyle. He let Sig Goulty (our non-swimmer) do the 100m event, in which he managed a very creditable third. Our backstroke entry was FofS Andy Paton, who was very keen on this competition and, not wanting the Troop to finish last again, had our Captain of the Team, Sig Kenny Waring, do time trials. Cpl 'Plod' Wardle had entered to do the relay events, only to 'volunteer' for the dreaded butterfly. All the spectators were soaked by the swimmers and in the end 'Plod' finished in an excellent second. Last to go was our Team Captain ,Sig Waring in the 100m breaststroke, who having told TM Tp that he could not even swim, finished second although he had to be pulled out of the pool exhausted. Just the relays to go and the Team went into the freestyle knowing that they might finish better than last for once. The team did extremely well coming in second. The breaststroke relay was to be the Team's best relay event, with all level at the halfway stage, Sig Waring set up a good lead for SSgt John Ramsdale to bring us home in first place. With only the medley to go Cpl Wardle 'volunteered' his services once again to do the butterfly leg. We finished second in the medley, which gave us an overall win by two points; at last we'd won something. A fantastic performance by all the lads.

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE TROOP - by Cpl Micky Lake

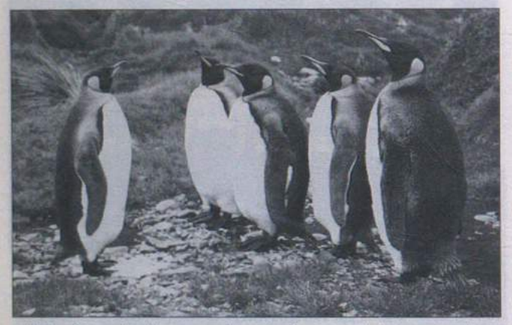
We would like to say farewell to a few members of TM Tp, Cpl Andy Carter who is off to 16 Sig Regt (say hello to Kosovo), Sig Steve Allen who is off to start a new job in Civ Div and Cpl Amanda Verrall who is off to Bassingbourn for the training side of life. We would also like to say welcome to the new arrivals that have come to the Troop, especially 2Lt Elisabeth McLellan, hope you find the Troop adventurous! Also welcome to Sgt's Nick Goodwin and Martin Farnfield, Cpl Karl Hannah, LCpls Steve Hicklin, Shaun Barton and Andy Widdup. There have also been a few promotions in the Troop, so congratulations to LCpls 'Mac' Macmillan, Ritchie Hill and Paul Harris for getting their full Corporal. Congratulations also to SSgt Daz Ware on passing his Foreman's entrance exam. A big thanks goes out to everyone in TM Tp who was involved in the Y2K which took place on 28 and 29 February, working all through the night as well as normal working hours. In the last couple of months TM Tp have been working very hard creating a new Network within the province, and at the moment we are very busy decommissioning Brinton network's province wide. This is a picture of members from TM Tp on parade looking at the new mast outside the workshops.



'Listen in you lot, I know you're not guinea pigs but some one has to test our new mast!'

225 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj J. R. Tod
SSM WO2 (SSM) Downie

The uncertain political situation has affected everyone's workload and this Squadron is no exception. Even so, life goes on and Squadron members have been kept busy on the sporting, social and adventurous training front whenever possible. The boys in blue have also reinforced the Squadron as the RAF arrived to show us how to really do things. Notable sporting successes have been achieved, including winning the CO's Cup Shooting competition and the overall CO's Cup trophy, narrowly beating Headquarters Squadron into a creditable second place. Congratulations go to all those involved that have helped to achieve this success throughout the whole year. This year's competition has started well with a success in the Potted Sports Event (Football, Hockey, Rugby and Netball). Busy operational activity meant that personnel had to pitch in to help where they could. We suspect that there are not many SSMs who can (or would) list representative Netball on their CVs!

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Helen Murphy
RQMS WO2 (RQMS) Hartley

As ever Support Tp has had a very busy period. There have been hand-over/take-over's to carry out, internal and external courses to attend and leave to squeeze in plus the normal day to day work. Recently the Troop has said goodbye to one of its characters Sgt Jimmy Fox, who after 12 years colour service, is off to pastures new in Civilian Street. In his place we have welcomed Sgt Al Bolton, who has moved across from HQ Sqn to take on the role of the Squadron Stores SNCO. Another farewell and welcome has taken place, although not in the normal manner. The Squadron Chief Clerk, Sgt Iain Frame has recently transferred from the AGC(SPS) and has re-traded into the Royal Signals and is posted to .... 225 Sig Sqn, goodbye old, hello new.

The majority of Support Tp have been involved with courses in one way or another, either in attendance as a student, as an instructor or as admin staff. Immediately after the Christmas break the whole Squadron took part in a potential leaders weekend. They bravely fought the weather and arduous conditions set before them, completing each task with confidence, bravery and agility (well, some anyway). LCpl Lafferty even 'gave up his life' in order to save his comrades by diving into the piranha infested water (actually falling into the emergency water supply tank whilst crossing an obstacle; given the freezing temperatures, piranhas may have been preferable).

GOLF TROOP

Tp Comd Capt I. R. Hargreaves
FofS WO2 (FofS) Tony Jenkins

We warmly welcome new arrivals Sgt Lyndon Box and also Cpl Ryan Lang back in after a harrowing 14 months on his T1. On the departure front, a sorrowful farewell to Cpl Dave Morgan off to Blandford to attend his T1 course. A special mention has to go out to Sgt Chris Warren who after producing his CV, has left us in some confusion. Is he going for a job in communications or was the document an example of his fiction writing prowess? Good Luck in either job!

BRAVO WATCH - by LCpl Kerry Sly

Firstly welcome to the newest member of Bravo Watch, Cpl Steve Burton who has come to join us all the way from…Alpha Watch. The Watch Manning was also bumped up at the beginning of the year with the arrival of RAF personnel Cpl Lee Cartwright and JT Danny Bradley. Congratulations on the well-deserved promotions of Cpl's Colin West and Byron Marshall. Best wishes from all on the Watch to Cpl Heather Smart and Sgt Justin Carter for their forthcoming marriage in July this year. As always the watch has been hard at work, especially in this last month with it being the end of the military year. Its been a mad rush for those who have been away on detachments etc to complete ACFTs, BPFA's, ITD's and the other necessary military tasks.

CHARLIE WATCH

A quiet period for Charlie Watch with the new arrivals and departures recently we are in a period of changing most of the personnel on the watch. Welcome back to LCpl Howard who has successfully completed his unit Fire NCO's course and is now capable of putting out chip pan fires, an obvious asset to the Squadron's safety. Also a warm welcome back to Sgt Mike Foster who has braved the four seasons of Ballykinler during a recent Regimental pre RSSC. Goodbye to LCpl Baz Keen who is posted to 14 Sig Regt where he should be able to put to use his recently achieved Conduct after Capture Instructors qualification! The main event for the watch was in the guise of a sponsored walk organised by Cpl Kenny Halliday and LCpl Andy Liddle. The aim was to raise money for the Playgroups within Lisburn Station, as they are no longer receiving funds from the Army. It was originally designed to be purely a watch event however, due to operational commitments and the dreaded duties list, volunteers were drafted in. These took the form of Cpl Dawn Poole and Cpl Babs Woodhouse. So on Saturday 4 March the team of four departed from Lisburn and headed for the Mourne Mountains. They completed a challenging 20km hike across seven mountains, raising a respectable £270 in total for the cause. A big 'thankyou' to all who sponsored the participants. Congratulations to SSgt (Supvr R) John Fielder who has managed to get himself promoted. Get yourself off to Digby! The last message of congratulations from all of the Watch is to Cpl Kenny Halliday who has finally deployed out on a detachment, totalling a whopping 19 days and most certainly earning his General Service Medal.

40th (ULSTER) SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

CO Lt Col A. P. R. Roberts MBE
RSM WO1 (RSM) C. G. McGinley

After the hectic festive and Millennium period the Regiment has quickly settled back into its routine and has been busy preparing for several exercises that will culminate with a demanding Brigade concentration Exercise in May and Summer Camp in June. January and February saw the start of a comprehensive Trade Training programme that will run throughout as well as the Regiment passing the demands and rigours of the RSIT and PRE Teams. In amongst all of this, several of the Squadrons have been able to undertake their annual Skiing pilgrimages to Scotland. March saw the Regiment deploy on Ex Millenum Muster which was our first exercise for some months and allowed personnel at all levels to blow away those cobwebs and begin our build up training for Summer Camp.

On the sporting front the Regiment has been successful in the 107 (U) Bde X-Country and Orienteering Competitions. Lt Deirdre Caldwell won the Female X-Country competition completing the 4.4Mile course in just over 26 minutes whilst the Adjt, Capt Andy Lucas, finished a credible fourth in the male competition completing the 5 fl mile course in a little over 31 minutes. This was followed by an outstanding set of results in the Orienteering competition:

Male 'A' Course Winner – Maj Robert Kelly (Ops Offr)
Male 'B' Course Winner – Lt Dave Wilson (Tp Comd)
Female 'B' Course Winner – Lt Deirdre Caldwell (Tp Comd)
Female Team Runner Up – 40 Sig Regt (V)

Lt Caldwell receiving the Winners Plaque from Comd 107 (U) Bde at the Bde X-Country Competition

SQUADRON ADVENTURE TRAINING

Yes! Its that time of year again when most of the Squadrons disappear off to Scotland to the Ski slopes of the Cairngorms and the Lecht.

EXERCISE SCOTTIE FINN – SUPPORT SQUADRON

The Snow reports were not too optimistic for any good skiing, but nevertheless off we went to try our luck. The Squadron had decided to use the STOPOVER Hostel in Grantown on Spey, near Aviemore being centrally located for all activities both on and off the slopes!

Although the snow was in short supply, the lower and top slopes were sufficiently covered to allow all levels of skiers the opportunity to show what they could do with notable performances from Cpl Lisa Irwin, SSgt Jim Hagan and Sgt's Pete Youll and Dave McCardle. After just two days on the slopes it was time for our traditional 'Aprés Ski' Dinner Night where SSgt Jim 'Any excuse to make a speech' Hagan was awarded with his Best Achievement Award.

On a slighter sadder note the Squadron would like to say a fond farewell to Dvr 'Pezza' Stitt who served his last day in the TA during the Exercise. Pte Stitt has served for almost 29 years with the Regiment and we wish him and his wife Lynn all the best for the future.

EXERCISE FIFTH FALL FINN – 66 SQUADRON

The above exercise is 66 Sqn's annual pilgrimage to the slopes of Lecht and the Cairngorms and this year we based ourselves in the Hostel at Grantown on Spey. This year the Squadron was spoilt for choice with excellent skiing conditions and an abundance of snow. This was further complimented by excellent instruction from WO2 Mick Kemp and WO2 Mark Henderson. The standard of skiing as ever varied considerably but credit must be given to Sgt Stevie Chambers who despite spending more time falling over than actually skiing persevered and was rewarded for his efforts by being voted the most improved skier. The exercise almost passed off without incident until the arrival of Lt Barry Skinner (ex-SVWO) who quickly won the prize for 'Most Comical Fall' and two broken knuckles into the bargain.

66 Sqn Advance Party in Grantown on Spey

EXERCISE JIMMY MAC FINN V – 85 SQUADRON

This year's winter adventure training took place in and around the Cairngorm area of Scotland and consisted of Winter Mountaineering, cross-country Skiing and Downhill Skiing. As ever the weather changed frequently and proved at times to be extremely testing for all especially during a number of whiteouts!! The exercise was extremely successful with too many accounts to recall both on and of the slopes and we are all looking forward to next year already.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt F. D. Guthrie
Tp SSgt SSgt R. Wallace

OPERATORS SECTION: 'THE SENDERS'

Starting off with the obligatory farewells from the operators. First of all a sad goodbye to Cpl, Dave 'Tiger' Bartlett who leaves the fold for a new life in civvy street. Tandragee Golf Course will miss his custom. Also leaving us for a new life in civvy street is Sig Lee Mellor, the 'House of Sin's' favourite little boy. Finally on the farewells roll call, Sig Si 'The Pest' Frost. All the best and have a good time at 14 Sig Regt. On the hellos front, welcome on board to LCpl Matt 'Been there' Page. A warm welcome also goes to Sig 'Slim Jim' Brown from 30 Sig Regt and Cpl Dom Garner from 20 Armd Bde. The Section is now getting back into the swing of things after the festive leave period. Prior to then, the section had a grand old shindig at the Comms Tp Xmas function. Tales a plenty, but not suitable for publishing folks. Lt Forbes Guthrie blew away the myth that Jocks are tight by donating his evening's winning to the bar and a big thank you goes to Cpl Si Vital link for organising an excellent function thoroughly enjoyed by all and sundry.

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE SECTION: 'THE MENDERS'

It has been a busy last three months in TM Section with lots of comings and goings. Welcome to Sgt Lee Calvert posting in from DISC, yes it is PT time again. Cpl Si Hurst from 249 Sig Sqn and Cpl Sein Hunter from Germany. We will be saying farewell to some of the section soon: Cpl Dean 'I will earn more than the RSM' Morgan, Cpl Gaz 'Burger King is a career' Hobson and Sgt Billy 'South Africa' Boston. Special mention must go to the recent arrival to all the System Technicians, who join us from 15 Sig Regt, time to be introduced to the black magic of radio waves.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP - GROWS FURTHER

For some time now 15 Sig Regt has supplied manning, administration and equipment resources for three Data Systems Forward Repair Teams. These were situated with 3, 39 and 8 Brigades with responsibilities in maintaining a large variety of data comms systems in province. However, due to province-wide rationalisation, these FRTs have now been handed over to their associated Signal Squadrons. Comms Tp now holds five new personnel. Cpl 'Crusty' Craddock, Cpl Oscar Searle, Cpl 'Budgie' Cree (token Yorkshire bloke), LCpl Dave 'No car' Knox and LCpl 'Smiley' Khair.

The hand-over took place on the 1 December 1999 after a lot of meetings between the Data FRT and 3 Bde Ops, training programs were set up to ensure all radio and systems technicians personnel would be conversant with both types of communication equipment. The training for the most part has gone to plan, but hard work. This will continue up until April when both teams will combine, all then able to deploy on any of their previously individual taskings. Lt Guthrie and Sgt Gaz Mathieson have been working hard to procure further real estate at Portadown, to accommodate all the additional resources. We are a little concerned, the new accommodation is sound proofed, has no windows and can only be locked from the outside.

Thanks from goes to all members of 233 Sig Sqn at Lisburn, especially FofS Goreman, SSgt Gillies and SSgt Ware, who have kept in touch and offered occasional and welcome advice. Thanks to all at 3 Bde HQ and Sig Sqn for their support before, during and after the hand-over: FofS Cowie for his specialist use of red ink, YofS Ewart for being there and SSgt Noble for his spirit level.

THE SQUADRON BATTLECAMP

The Squadron Battlecamp took place from 20 November 1999 to 5 December 1999 at Barrybudden Training Area, near Dundee in Scotland. It was organised by SSgt Bob Wallace with help from WO2 (RQMS) Andy Strudwick, SSgt 'Taff' Drew and Sgt Paul Coates. The aim of the exercise was to practice the Squadron in low level platoon tactics and to allow them to take part in field firing. The Exercise was split into two phases, with half the Squadron taking part during the first week and the other half on the second. This allowed the maximum involvement from members of the Squadron. Considering that for the majority of the exercising troops, this was their first non ITD military training for a long time, they did remarkably well. The platoons were commanded by Capt Helen Bosley (Sqn 2IC) during week one and Lt Forbes Guthrie (OC Comms Troop) during week two.

MY BATTLECAMP! - Cpl Si Link

I had been nominated as the Platoon Sergeant for Week Two of the Squadron Battle-camp. We finally arrived after being held up by bad weather, to participate in 'Wallace's World' and I suddenly realised that I had a lot to do in a relatively short space of time. I looked around and hoped that I could rely on the three Section Commanders, namely Cpl Chris Dee, Cpl Ritchie Birch and Cpl Dave Tweddell. We were deployment into a field at Cowbyres Farm (only two hours after arriving in Barrybudden). Things started off with a few lessons that evening. The following day was spent on the IBSR and then back to the farmhouse for what we thought would be a quiet night. However, the DS had other ideas and we were bugged out after coming under attack. From then on it was hectic with patrols, resupplies and anything else the DS could think of. Even though it was hard work, we all got a lot out of it and by the end of the field exercise everyone was extremely tired. On the final day we had live section attacks and withdrawals, with the Platoon Commander and I commanding reduced sections. This was exhausting but well worth the adrenaline rush of having a section of young soldiers, each with eight magazines of live ammunition, behind us. Then came the reality of cleaning weapons until late evening, but this was soon put right with a few beers and a curry to make a fitting end to the week.

EXERCISE MAORI FINN

It all started back in November 98. Keen to organise an ambitious adventure training expedition I confronted the OC, Maj MacRostie, with the question of 'What are my limits?' to which he answered 'The globe.' Excellent I thought, red rag to a bull, 'Let's go to New Zealand!'

A year later after a considerable amount of help from various colleagues in the Corps and the New Zealand army, nine enthusiastic punters left Northern Ireland bound for the Southern Hemisphere. The main activities for the trip were to be trekking and Sea Kayaking. However, additional activities such as white water rafting, power boating and bungee jumping (which I later found out is illegal in the Army) filled the agenda. Extensive coverage of the South Island was completed. The expedition started in Christchurch, moved onto complete a four day trek in Fiordland followed by a stop over in Queenstown to take part in extreme sports. The team then drove up to the north coast of the South Island to complete a four-day trek in two days across the Abel Tasman coast. Two days sea kayaking was followed by a long drive down to the Mount Cook region where we completed a demanding trek of three days up beyond the snow line. R & R was the final phase, conducted in Queenstown and most definitely enjoyed by all.

The New Zealand Army were massively helpful and supportive. The variety of activities offered to us was immense. New Zealand must be recognised as the Adventure Training Capital of the world. Don't miss out, organise a trip there yourself If you want any ideas, contact, advice drop me a line - Capt Helen Bosley 2IC/Ops Officer.

YEAR 2000

What better way than to spend the introduction of the Millennium than with your finger on the pulse in the Operations Room. Here at 3 Inf Bde HQ and Sig Sqn the entire Ops team, SYSCON and COMMCEN crew and boosted up FRT teams were poised ready to react to whatever Year 2000 fault came our way. Unfortunately the teams ended up responding to problems on the Signal Engineering Net set up for the evening, as opposed to any real-time problems. The only other problem being morale due to the continuous calls from less sober members of the Squadron reminding us all what we were missing. The RSM most generously donated considerable sums of money to charity by singing various songs down his mobile phone throughout the night. I have no doubt that he will not welcome that bill! Following a number of empty report formats that evening, activities culminated in a Champagne Breakfast where the chefs, as ever,produced enough food to feed a large starving African tribe.

SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS - by WO1 (RSM) Paul Fleming

Things in SHQ have been relatively quiet, well it was for a while as the RSM was away on his Golf Skills Course. We say farewell to the Chief Clerk, SSgt John Hughes, who leaves us on posting to MOD London, we wish John and his family all the best. That leads us on to welcoming the new Chief Clerk, SSgt Dave Palmer. Also a big well done to our two civilian staff for all their hard work over the last few months. Sue who has somehow ensured that all soldiers' leave passes and flight tickets are 100% and Lesley our typist who must have a degree in the ancient art of Scottish shorthand. Don't worry Lesley we only sponsor the province Cadre Course every four years but a big thanks from the RSM. We wish a speedy recovery to Sgt Andy 'The bunion no more' Snowdin. Valentine's day came and went for the majority of SHQ and a card was sufficient for most unless you are LCpl Karen '12 red roses' Page. However, things in Training Wing have been more hectic with all the planning and recces for the Royal Signals (NI) Cadre Course in May. Well done to Cpl Tom Stewart for an excellent performance on the Corporals' Study Day showing the other Corporals in the Squadron exactly how it should be done.

OPS /PLANS

Ops Offr Capt Gareth Lamb
YofS WO2 (YofS) 'Bill' Barnes
FofS WO2 (FofS) 'Tez' Brown

Goodbye to the Foreman, WO2 (FofS) 'Tez' Brown and family who are posted to 1 Sig Bde, good luck and thanks for all the hard work. Hello to WO2 (FofS) Bob Vowles and welcome to the pleasure dome. Also farewell to the Siteman, SSgt Ian Burton, after only a short stay he is off to JSSU Digby, good luck to you and the growing family! Also worthy of a mention is Capt Jo Stewart, OC Comms Tp who also forms part of the DCO roster, recently promoted and soon to be posted to RSS Blandford to impart some of her knowledge at SORLS. The Ops/Plans cell continues to be busy, the YofS has tried to turn the office into an adventure training cell with maps of the Yorkshire Dales adorning every spare piece of map board. The FofS is eagerly anticipating his return to German soil where food production should now be increased to cope with the expected rise in Giros consumption. The Ops Offr is currently away for three weeks on the piste and will no doubt return with great tales of daring-do. Marching Season 2000 is approaching fast and much preparation is ongoing to ensure that comms are maintained throughout the Brigade area of responsibility. SYSCON is currently going through a much needed re-vamp which will hopefully drag it into the new millennium with a bang and the BART teams continue to be heavily tasked by the Ops/Plans team to ensure that boredom never becomes an issue. On the social side, the FofS recently edged a win in golf against the YofS, but revenge will soon be had.

MOTOR TRANDPORT

MTWO WO2 Tom Hair

This has been a busy period again for the MT, especially trying to get the Troops away on leave as per the OC's policy. No one has taken the OC by his word more than the MTWO, WO2 'Do I really work here?' Hair, who managed to put an appearance in for four days in January before taking most of February off. In fact if he hadn't made a second appearance at the beginning of March to release Sgt 'Do I get a leave entitlement' Stanley to get away on a well earned golf skills course, I doubt we would have seen him until April. The Troop would like to say farewell and good luck to LCpl Andy Green and Sig 'Geordie' Harrison both leaving on promotion to Corporal and Lance Corporal respectively to 2 Sig Regt in York, also to Pte Ronnie Barker to 11 EOD and Pte Ross Milkins to 3 CS Regt RLC both on promotion to Lance Corporal and finally to LCpl Kenneth 'Biffa' McCall to 30 Sig Regt. Welcome to Sig Jay Nelson and Sig Dave McClennon and his family we hope you all settle in well. The Troop would like to congratulate Sgt 'I want to follow the MTWO to Cyprus' Stanley on his promotion to Staff Sergeant and to LCpl Amanda Rowland on her promotion to Corporal.

LCpl Amanda Rowland 'Haircut 2000'

The MTWO ran a range day in March and has put forward this photo for a new hairstyle for women in the Army. As you can see LCpl Rowland covered the center patch with black paper to prove that she did hit the target at least twice, so she says, obviously she doesn't know it should be white patches. Seeing as these are my last WIRE notes before being extradited to TSU Dhekelia to take up my new post in May, I would like to thank all the people that I have served with in 3 Inf Bde Sig Sqn in my capacity as MT Staff Sergeant and in 8 Bde as the MTWO. I have had three and a half-great years with the Signals and worked with some great people. I have made some wonderful friends, although not everyone might agree, and I wish you all well for the future and hope to see some of you over in sunny Cyprus.

KIDS CORNER PLAYGROUP/CRÈCHE CHARITY DINNER

by RSM (WO1) Paul Fleming

Just picture the scene, the OC Squadron in his element with ten ladies at the Playgroup monthly meeting
OC: 'Ladies, we are rapidly running out of money for wages due to the lack of children. Any good ideas for raising money.'
Heather Fleming: 'Why not hold a dinner and dance.'
OC: 'Great idea.'

The following day in Squadron HQ
OC: 'RSM we will hold a charity dinner on Fri 03 Mar to raise funds for the playgroup.'
RSM: 'Yes Sir.'

It was all systems go to arrange this prestigious dinner which was to be held in the exclusive Waterside Club. Then it was down to some hard sales techniques to sell the tickets which were £15 per head, but who could refuse to part with a mere £15 when the sales reps were the OC and the RSM. A wopping 80 tickets later and the selling was complete. The OC then had a brilliant idea of holding an auction after the dinner. Well it was back to begging letters for auction material, but to our surprise we received 42 lots to auction ranging from a decorative toilet seat painted by the OC's wife, a cheque for £500 from News International to Easter eggs from Nestle. The bidding was fast and furious but it was expertly controlled by Maj 'The Hammer' Thackray eat your heart out Christies. The most prestigious lots, or should I say the most ludicrous bidding, were as follows:

a.	Buzz Lightyear	Retail £25 Sold for £106
b.	Painted toilet seat	Retail £20 Sold for £110
c.	Mobile Phone	Retail £30 Sold for £55
d.	Easter Eggs	Retail £10 Sold for £35

The highlights of the evening were two water-colour paintings one painted by Capt Jo Stewart of Londonderry which sold for a whopping £160. The second was donated by the Brigade Commander, a water-colour of the Walls of Derry which sold for £120. All in all it was a great evening and a special thanks should go to the chefs and waiters who were all willing volunteers. The total sum raised was £3078.00 to keep the Clooney North Playgroup open. Well done to all those involved!

EXERCISE PELOPOR FINN - by Cpl Ian Taylor

Ex Pelopor Finn was a Royal Engineers Millennium expedition to Sabah, Eastern Malaysia on which I had the pleasure of being, as the Engineers affectionately called me, the 'Bleep'. The brief given to me at the start of October was that in early February 40 people, both military and civilian, were to deploy out to Sabah into two locations. The first location was Tawau Hills Park Nature reserve where a 12km trail was to be cut. The second location was 60km at Dammun Valley Research Center, where a team would be building two scientific observation towers 60m off the ground in two trees. Within that local area two survey teams would also be mapping the road network using GPS equipment. The Defence Evolution Research Agency would be conducting a multitude of tests on us to see the effects of arduous work in a tropical climate. I asked the Expedition IC, Capt Mark Workman (RE), what the communications plan was and what equipment they were planning to take. It transpired that that they were still in the early planning stages and I was going to be 'the man with the plan'. That was the start of a couple of very busy months devising a communications plan, requesting frequencies and speaking to other units to try and scrounge equipment. This all had to be done by the beginning of December as all the equipment was to be shipped off to Malaysia. After Christmas we had a couple of weeks training in Antrim to try and cover every aspect of jungle life and as much communications training as I could squeeze into two lessons. As a result some very quick work was required to piece together idiots guides into HF and satellite communications and training on the PRC320 and PRO 319, to which a little trip to 264 Sig Sqn (many thanks again) by myself was needed.

Next stop was Aldershot where we met up with the DERA scientists, where they carried out their initial tests to give them a base line for the expedition. Everyone's height, weight, body fat content, hand grip and fitness were recorded which was the first of many tests performed throughout the expedition. Eventually the day had arrived and we were off to Malaysia. After a 13 hour flight we arrived to be told that we were to be involved in a welcoming parade in which all drill movements would be given in Malaysian. This resulted in, as you can imagine, some amusing consequences. After being totally humiliated and as the skies darkened we deployed to our respective locations. My first job was to set up communications with the ranger station and once in and working we loaded the Bergens, which in my case included a radio, to tab 2km to the first location. The 2km felt like 20km as we were all still trying to acclimatize. Still, eventually we arrived at first base just in time for the heavens to open for the rest of the night. Typical, it could have waited five minutes until I had my poncho up. The main task in this location was to cut the 12km trail. It was not on flat ground as I originally thought but the trail was to be cut up to the summit of a mountain. Lots of up and very little down. With communications up and running the Engineers were happy for me to join them on the trail to do a recce for the next base location and also help with the hard physical work. That was me for the remainder of the expedition in one of the Engineer cutting teams, trogging up hill with the heaviest Bergen I've ever had the misfortune to carry.

By the end of the three weeks on the trail we had cleared a 12km path through the jungle, constructed three bridges and I dread to think how many hundred steps we had laid. However, it was all worthwhile and all that was left to be done was a final set of DERA tests at which I found out I had lost a stone in weight. Anyone who knows me knows that I really don't need to loose that amount of weight. I had a fantastic time with the Engineers and I would like to thank them for giving me the opportunity to assist on their expedition.

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP

by Capt Jo Stewart and LCpl Mary Anderson

Tp Comd Capt Jo Stewart
Tp SSgt SSgt Tony Taylor

Since the last WIRE notes the Troop has been exceptionally busy. We are coming up to the first marching season of the year which means that the Troop is tasked to various locations around province to provide different communications and surveillance support. There is also the annual inspections of the sites in the Brigade area and on top of all of this the whole troop is trying to get their leave in before the end of March. It has been an especially busy time for the Syscon, with some people putting in a huge number of hours. They have also had to put up with a large amount of noise and upheaval as Syscon is being renovated, however, it will be worth it in the long run. The province has been fairly quiet until recently when we had an incident in camp. Some new arrivals thought that an early morning IED was a regular occurrence in Londonderry, luckily they are wrong. With the upcoming Ex Richmond Challenge, our annual ITD camp, everybody is getting in plenty of training for their ACFT and preparing themselves for a healthy dose of Moral Understanding from the Padre.

As it seems appropriate for these articles here are a few hellos, goodbyes and congratulations. Firstly hello to Lt Ian Lowther from 7 Sig Regt who will be taking on the mantle as Tp OC which means a sad farewell to Capt Jo Stewart who is off to re-live her students days by working for SORLS in Blandford. Hello also to Sgt Tony 'Rudolph' Caulfield and his wife Kelly, LCpl Mick 'I've been in a couple of years, I can tell you' Breydin, LCpl Adele Murray, LCpl Sam Applegarth, LCpl Paul Bone and Sig Chris Howell, Sig Idris Davies, Sig Chris Fielding, Sig Stuart Plant and Sig Carl Brown. Goodbye and all the best to Cpl Eddie Stojanovic, Cpl 'Mac' MacDonald, LCpl Matt Thomas who is going on promotion and LCpl Danni 'Beast Mistress' Critchlow, we hope you both do well. Finally, congratulations to Sig Andy 'Dingle' Gibson and his wife Katrina on their recent arrival in the shape of baby Nicole, and his recent promotion to Lance Corporal and to LCpl Craig Law and his wife on their bouncing baby boy Connor. Congratulations to Sig Lee Fearon and Sig Carl Stephenson who have made the first rung on the ladder and been promoted to Lance Corporal.

THE REGIMENTAL QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

by LCpl Ball

RQMS WO2 (RQMS) Kev Tunstall

The Department would like to welcome SSgt Garth Hood, who has arrived from sunny Worthy Down and to LCpl 'Brains' Ball from 23 Mess Tin Repair Unit (Pie and ear) Bicester. We would also like to welcome back Sig 'Jack of all trades' Fowler who has been returned to the fold yet again. A big well done to Cpl 'Where is my next tape' North on passing the not so hard MPC (A) and to Sgt 'Edmund Blackadder' Porter for passing the RMQ. Lord Edmund running a range - a bullet proof vest please. A big thank you to Cpl 'Petrol or Diesel' May and Pte 'I've got more tattoos than you' Morris for giving us a well earned break and going away on leave, together, it's okay it's legal now. To LCpl Kev Rattray for investing so much time and money into the squadron bar without him the bar would have closed a long time ago. Hello again to WO2 (RQMS) 'Now you see him now you don't' Tunstall who has just got to take all of his leave in the same month, 'Off again are we Sir, Oh! Suits You Sir!' This one goes out to the lover in the department, LCpl Collin 'Cupid' Shillito and his bride to be, you know who you are! This ends our thrilling installment for this month, speak to you all again in the next issue. Note from the RQ. 'Ball, my office now!'

EXERCISE VIKING FINN - by Sig Alan Oliver

Ex Viking Finn was a 1 R Anglian led skiing exercise to Les Arcs in the French Alps. As they share the barracks with the Brigade Headquarters and Signal Squadron they kindly offered up their last few places to members of the Squadron. 'Anyone want to go skiing? It's a week off work, you stay in civvy apartments, there is no cross country skiing and there won't be any living in snow holes. Okay, okay. One at a time' It was an excellent opportunity to learn how to ski or improve on previous experience and of course there would be copious amounts of apres ski! Nine members of the Squadron took them up on the offer and they all had a fantastic week. The third group and unfortunately the one I was in had some lengthy holdups due to flight delays but we eventually arrived at Les Arcs Ski 1800. Expecting to receive the usual squaddie issue of kit we were pleasantly surprised to find that everything was very good quality and brand new, apart from being used by the previous two groups. We all looked the part now. Time to hit the slopes. We were split into groups depending on our skiing ability, the beginners with Sgt Ian Roach the intermediates with either CSgt Andy Buxton or Lt Nick Charlwood. Being a complete novice I spent the majority of my first few days falling over or shouting the following. 'Arghhh! Get out of my way!!! What do you mean STOP!!! Ouch that hurts...' But eventually everything fell into place. Cpl Andy Ward due to a shoulder injury spent a considerable amount of time clutching his shoulder and sitting in mountain cafes enjoying the apres ski a little bit earlier than most. The highlight of the week was a moonlight and torch lit ski down from a restaurant high on the slopes back to the resort. This would have been fine if it was just the darkness to contend with but unfortunately we were fed copious wine, beer and local spirits. LCpl Duncan Gourlay who had not quite mastered the art of snow boarding, especially in the dark, just used it as a sledge. Time off the slope also had the usual injuries the Sqn 2IC, Capt Gareth Lamb not only got lost on his way back from a local pub on the first night but lost his footing as well. For me the bunkbeds were a natural hazard along with any other wooden furniture in the apartment. A huge thank-you to 1 R ANGLIAN for letting us join your exercise and.....can I book my place for next year.

FAMILIES EMPLOYMENT ADVISORY TEAM EDUCATIONAL AND TRAINING SERVICES BRANCH HEADQUARTERS NORTHERN IRELAND

FAMILIES EMPLOYMENT ADVISORY TEAM (FEAT) NORTHERN IRELAND

Rt Hon Adam Ingram JP MP presents the plaque to Mrs Gillian McGhee (Senior Advisor) at the launch of the Families Employment Advisory Team

The 1998 Strategic Defence Review highlighted the concerns that service life in Northern Ireland can have for the families, one of which is employment. Spouses invariably give up jobs in the United Kingdom and then find that they cannot get an equivalent job in Northern Ireland. This results in the loss of the second income and interrupts career opportunities When a service family is posted to Northern Ireland the spouse may have concerns about personal security, suitability of vacancies and in some locations, remoteness of the married quarters and a possible lack of public transport. This can lead to a reluctance to seek employment.

FEAT was established in September 1999 and officially launched on Tuesday 22 February 2000 by The Rt Hon Adam Ingram JP MP, Minister of State. The team's aim is to provide a support network for those individuals who wish to seek employment, thus encouraging more spouses to accompany their serving partner to Northern Ireland.

The Terms of Reference of FEAT are to proactively identify employment opportunities for the dependants of serving personnel living in Northern Ireland. The team will achieve this by liasing with internal employers, external employers and agencies. Dependants will also be interviewed and briefed in Province and prior to arrival (where appropriate) the team will also visit units to speak to interested groups. This will ensure that the specific job requirements are identified. All information for job opportunities will be collated and provided to Stations. There will be a manned help desk providing a unit-based information service. Individuals can arrange to discuss their job priorities and training needs, thus capitalising on their opportunities.

The objective is to provide dedicated job opportunities information, in each location, which is accessible to every individual who is seeking employment. However, it is emphasised that FEAT has an advisory role to help spouses who are actively seeking employment. It is not going to succeed in this role without the elements of self-help and motivation of the individual who is seeking employment.

EAGLE TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Michele Hanlon
Tp SSgt SSgt Gaz Davies

As the year progresses, this month sees Eagle Tp working even harder than usual. Top priority being Ex Premier Link 1, the first of many exercises planned for this year. With UWIs, STIs and PREs on top of us like an infectious rash, it leaves very little time for exercise prep, so it's all hands to the helm, and it is a cold one at that. The thought of working in the cold is obviously too much for certain members of the Troop, with LCpl Steptoe firmly welded into his office only to be prised out for lunch and knockoff.

Congratulations go to Cpl Wayne Scarrott and his wife Joanne on the birth of their second daughter Demmi. Sig Damon Legg mentioned that his name hadn't appeared in The WIRE for some time so to put amends to it, Sig Damon Legg got married, got promoted and got himself a posting. Congratulations go to Sig Legg and his new wife and good luck at 1 Mech Bde. We have to say goodbye to Sig Nicola Burnip, who gains her Lance Corporal on posting to 2 Sig Regt. She left Germany with one last good night out under her belt with the Troop and Sig Burnip going on a mission to drink the bar dry. This proved a bit too much for Sig 'Geordie' Barber who must have started a lot earlier than the rest of the Troop and left early. Congratulation must go to LCpl John (mines a pint) Doran on his recent promotion. Let's hope at Sig Leggs leaving bash he'll last a bit longer!

New arrivals ready to soar with the Eagle include Cpl Paul Lester, wife Tracy and family, fresh from 3 (UK) Div. Also from 3 (UK) Div is LCpl Chamberlain who has already made an impact on the Squadron after just 12 hours!

HAWK TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Angie Aylward
Tp SSgt SSgt Neil Pollitt

After a busy month of UWIs, some of the Troop are now relaxing either on leave or adventure training in Bavaria on Ex Snowy Solstice. The few of us who are left behind are kept busy with more UWI preparation (Not that we are complaining!). In between leave and the Exercise we managed to say farewell to Sig 'Ally' Skene, who leaves us for the easy life at HQ AFCENT, New to the Troop is Sgt 'Gill' Ralley who joins us from RSS in Blandford; we hope she enjoys her time with the Troop. Congratulations to Sgt 'Steve' Davies on his recent marriage to Sharon, we hope she has an enjoyable stay with the Troop.

KESTREL TP - By Sig Howarth and Sig Brown

Tp Comd 2Lt Alan Foote
Tp SSgt SSgt 'China' Cooper

For Kestrel Tp, February and March has been a busy time preparing for Ex Premier Link 1 & 2 (well, for the three people who didn't decide to go on leave or skiing). Ex Premier Link 1 tested the Troop to the max and even the hardiest of soldiers were close to tears. Sig 'The Dog' Elcock has recently returned to say goodbye to the Troop, as he now has to walk around with black tape over his eyes, good luck in 264. Goodbye to Sig 'Slug' Gallagher who has now gone to whinge constantly at 2 Sig Regt. A fond farewell must go to LCpl Vickers, who has also departed the Troop to be posted to 7 Sign Regt. Welcome to Cpl 'Jonno' Johnson, and LCpl 'Tommo' Tompson (original nicknames!). Also hello to our newest sprog, Sig 'Jism Monkey' Jasjew who is hoping to learn his trade from the illustrious Kestrel Tp. (Two hopes and Bobs Dead).

Sqn Comd Maj Julian Bunce
SSM WO2 (SSM) Stan Kelly

Congratulations must go to SSgts Hook, Innes, Lothian and Thomas who came off the WO2s board. The Squadron has also had success in the Sergeants to Staff Sergeants board with both Sgt Giles and Sgt Kitchner coming off the board. Well done to all.

MY JUMP - By Sig Jo Thomas

On 14 February LCpl Nicki Roberts and myself left Hammersmith Bks to embark on a ten-day parachuting course at the parachuting centre in Bad Lippspringe. Every two weeks the centre holds courses for all BFG personnel for a DM 50 fee. When we arrived we were shown to the centre's café, Uncle Toms, where we met all the other people who were planning on throwing themselves out of a perfectly good aircraft. After an introduction to the course by the OC and SSM, we were split up into syndicates and taken away by our respective leader. LCpl Roberts and I were in Syndicate 3, where our leader was SSgt Paul Worthing, who has been parachuting for around 30 years and was very reassuring to us all.

After we were issued our kit we started on our first lesson, which was exiting the aircraft. This had us lying on the floor face down then at the word 'GO' we were to create a starfish shape while shouting, '1000, 2000, 3000, 4000, check canopy'. It took a bit of time to master but we all got there in the end. Then it was on to learn about the position we had to be in when we boarded the aircraft and how we would jump, which again took time to master. The drills that we would have to carry out if our chute didn't open were next and I knew if I didn't get anything else right I'd make sure I'd get this one right.

After two days of all the training we all expected to jump, but due to bad weather we couldn't until Sunday. So after a lot of extra training and packing of chutes and very nerve racking days. I eventually got on to the flight line and donned my orange jumps suit and parachute. We were given an order of how we had to be when jumping and made our way to the aircraft. Everyone was nervous, but when we got to 3000ft and it was time to jump I think I nearly had a heart attack. I was number six so after seeing the first five jump I was sure I would do it. I was asked to get in the door and into the position and off I went. I don't remember much of my fall, but when my canopy opened and I'd done my drills I started to relax a little and enjoy myself. I did another four jumps after that and can't wait to go again although it was a shame the weather was so bad.

BASIC WINTER TRAINING - By Sig Leona Caulfield

On 14 February Sig Stu McCrone, Cfn Lee Hart, Sig 'Pshap' Smith, LCpl Jack and myself departed for the Engelho Lodge in Bavaria for two weeks of skiing holiday or so we thought. We soon realised it was actually a strenuous exercise but apart from that small fact it was still a brilliant expedition. We spent five days on Nordic (cross country) skiing which was hard work but we knew we had the alpine skiing to come which everyone was looking forward to. The only problem was building my courage up and learning not to fall off the chair lift on to my face. I really enjoyed it, and in the future I hope to do another BWT as it is a good chance to meet people from other units and of course enjoy the après ski.

COMMAND TROOP FUNCTION - by LBdr Mik Crowson

After the majority of Command Troop had returned from near and far it was the ideal opportunity for the Troop to have a function. This started with an afternoon at the Bowling Ally where Sig 'Loopy Leona' Caulfield managed to hit more gutters than pins and LCpl 'Gaz' Pilkington spent more time on his backside than on his feet. Spirits were high so we proceeded to a Chinese Restaurant where everybody ate too much. We then headed off to the local German pubs where we danced and drank until the early hours of the morning. The whole Troop managed to be up the next day for parade bright eyed and bushy tailed but on the inside feeling slightly the worse for wear.

RADIO REBROADCAST TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Kathy Burgoine
Tp SSgt SSgt Deano Cox

The past month was quite quiet for RRB Tp with the usual preparation for the numerous exercises ahead. Mast maintenance appeared to be top of the agenda for the Troop after the techs UWI, which actually went relatively well. The old Troop OC, Lt 'Shakey' Shakespeare had a close call when he thought he was deploying on a six month tour of Kosovo in KFOR Main, but the powers that be decided to bless him with a posting to Army Apprentices College Arborfield instead. Congratulations to Cpl 'Trev' Allen on his promotion to Sergeant and his posting to 12 Mech Bde and another well done must goes to Sig 'Johnny La Mule' Carroll on passing his Football Referees Course, you never know it might come in handy one day!

Welcome back to Cpl 'Tom' Murray who has just returned to us, complete with suntan, after exercise in Kenya with the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders. Welcome to LCpl 'Jen' Teague from 1 Mech Bde and a fond farewell to LCpl 'Cockeye' Kingshott who has moved along the garages to Command Troop. Finally the Troop would like to wish Sig 'Eddie' Kerr good luck to on his CADRE course, we hope you come top.

212 SIGNAL SQUADRON - by LCpl Sharon Johns (Acting Clerk)

Sqn Comd Capt Jason Nichols
SSM SSgt Greenwood

It has been a fairly busy month with lots of preparation for Exercise Premier Link 1, 2 & 3, and the return of the long lost members of the Squadron back from their exploits in the Falklands Islands. This has been especially evident in the clerk's office, which everyone else seems to pass his or her work on to! The main culprit being Sgt 'Scholly (1 Para roll down stairs)' Martwich, who expects his work to be done whilst he goes on leave and does remedial walking down the stairs training. The acting SSM SSgt 'Arfur Daily' Greenwood, actually spent a whole week in work (did anyone get photographic evidence?), after swanning off to Denmark to play football. This man's dedication to the sport has been his downfall as after a serious accident picking up the football pump he badly injured his back and has been relegated to the sideline as the orange bowl attendant, but he talks a good game! We all hope he recovers soon. The OC rear Party - Capt Nichols has departed on his last bachelor leave en route for the bliss of married life (Don't do it Sir!). People will do anything to get off an exercise! Our best wishes go out to both his bride to be and himself. Congratulations go out to WO2 (FofS) Mick Solomons, SSgt (YofS) Mark Bentley and SSgt (SQMS) 'Chalky' White on their well-deserved promotions. We bid farewell to Capt Rob Francis on his departure to 7 Sig Regt (maybe he'll get a medal there!) and to Sig 'Jimmy' Hendricks who has abandoned ship to be posted to Civ Div and to the TA as a YofS. We are all looking forward to the return of the JCUFI personnel so that we may return to some semblance of normality and get stuck into the reformation/ welcome home party, finnaar, finnaar!

COMMUNICATIONS TROOP - by LCpl Cunnington

Tp SSgt SSgt Kleppang
Tp Sgt Sgt Wilson

The last couple of months have been a long hard haul for Comms Tp. With the reforming of the Troop and the preparation for the forthcoming exercises, which will keep us fairly occupied throughout the year (and we thought the training year would be a rest, bring back all the Op tours!), everybody has been very busy and the year has only begun! Hopefully with the hard work and determination of the lads and lasses the major preparation has been now completed and we keep our fingers crossed that every thing goes well in the forthcoming exercises. The Troop would like to welcome Sig Chris Lane and Sig Keith Candler direct from the factory. Sig 'Not a Jock' McPhie joins us from the emerald isles, Cpl Ian Brown and Sig 'Sniper' Sims both from 30 Sig Regt and SSgt 'Del Boy, me and my photos' Kleppang who we think has come from Herford. He seems to have spent most of his life here, but he says that he has come from 20 Bde, what do we believe? LCpl Dave Vakalala has seen the light and has gone AWOL from (Geeky) Comd Tp and joined the working realms of Comms Tp we congratulate him on his wise decision. Sadly we have a farewells, Sig 'Stinky' Howland has departed for the Bright lights of the City of London joining 238 (How much is a beer?) Sig Sqn, good luck in your new posting.

COMMAND TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Henderson
Tp Sgts Cpl McCallum
Cpl Carty

Well we have had a busy start to the New Year with people changing Troops and also two interesting 'It's the Knock Out' plug ups which provided a chance for those wannabe designers in the clouds, to change the shape of the BFOT for the millionth time! The manufacturers will be chuffed to bits with the money they will be saving in research courtesy of the Army! We had said our farewells to our old leader of the pack Sgt 'Adi (the stick insect)' Sims to HQ KFOR. However, it was felt that he would miss 212 so much and the chance of him putting weight on would be too great. It was therefore decided that he would stay with his favourite Squadron. Don't say that we don't look after our people (IIP). We would like to give a big welcome back to the lads and lasses who have just completed a six month tour in the Falklands Islands and also welcome back Cpl Ian Fowler on the Completion and passing of his Class 1. Finally we must wish our luck for Cpl 'Mac' McCallum who leaves us with tears in his eyes en route for his Class 1. God help Blandford and lock up yer daughters the oldest swinger is in town!

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp SSgt SSgt Matless
Tp Sgts Sgt Millington
Sgt Ribed

This year so far has been a busy one, due to most of our manpower being away down the Falklands Islands, however we have still managed to keep more generators on the road than 211! Who have a battalion's worth of ED's. The 'Gene' bay would like to welcome back Cpl Dave 'Where's the spark plug on this computer' Turton, and his Generator 'repair' Team. We would also like to congratulate LCpl Humphreys on passing his Class 1. Hellos go to Cpl 'Paper work' Blacklock. Sadly we have to say good bye to LCpl 'I smoke loads' Russel who has been the back-bone of the gene bay and will be deeply missed. The 212 Techs have been extremely busy preparing for the forth coming exercises with LCpl Ally 'Stud' Cage being stretched to his physical extreme once again, getting ready for action that others would carry off calmly. The Techs would like to welcome LCpl 'Jack' Hawkins to the Regiment, who has recently completed the Squadron induction course in Bavarian skiing, learning about life in a Div Sig Regt in Germany.

Congratulations go out to Cpl 'Wilf' Williams and his wife on the arrival of their newly born son, Dylan and we are very proud of LCpl 'Cheesy' Rodgers for being presented with the Harrogate Hockey Cup in last month's WIRE. Don't forget the beers mate! The Sqn MT/ Line Section would like to give a warm (because it's soooo cold out there) welcome back to Sgt Chris 'Trip switch' Leader and LCpl 'Monty' Montgomery back from the Falklands. We also have a very overdue welcome to Sgt Paul Millington who has come to us all 'spit shined and polished' from AAC Arborfield. Direct from MATTEL (the factory) we welcome the latest off the production line. Sigs Gail Evans and Amanda Mackenzie who are the first female 'Lineys' here in the Division.

TOUR LEADER TRAINING - by Sgt 'I want a tour not a course' Sims

The TLT course is designed to train personnel in the skills required to instruct skiing and lead ski tours. This is a new course and all qualified ski instructors now have to complete this course to enable them to continue instructing. Wanting to pursue this line of adventure training I booked myself on the course and made the 'death' journey by the bus to Sonthofen.

The first morning was the obligatory welcome and a short period of background to the requirements of the course and the aims of adventure training. Next it was the kit issue and then off to the slopes where the instructors tested our ski ability by finding the steepest slope and saying 'follow me!' (Sounds familiar!) Once we had found our ski legs the next few days were spent ski touring and learning new skills about the weather and environment in preparation for the three-day expedition. The expedition consisted of three days touring with two nights out, one night in a snow hole and the following night in a ski hut. The emphasis being on map reading in difficult conditions and putting together our newly learnt skills. The first day went very well with temperatures starting at –10°C, but once we got going we soon warmed up! Once in our final location it was snow hole time and what a bonus ours collapsed! With a few mods, we were soon cosy for the night.

The following day we toured to our hut for the night learning hut etiquette and enjoying a three course meal and a few beers. The last day we were left to our own devices and to reflect on an excellent package. The course taught me a lot about the cold weather environment and anyone wishing to pursue being a ski instructor will find this course well worth it!.

CO Lt Col I. Cameron-Mowat
RSM WO1 (RSM) S. C. Keilty

Lt Col Wakerley
is escorted out of Imphal Barracks by the Regiment

A huge spate of goodbyes have been taking place here in York over the last three months with the recent departure of the Commanding Officer, Lt Col Wakerley MBE to take up a post in PJHQ. Thursday is not a good night for a dining out, as the WOs and SNCOs found out on Friday morning. We welcome the new Commanding Officer, Lt Col I. Cameron-Mowat arriving from a tour in London.

A farewell lunch was held in the Sgts' Mess on Friday 11 February, 2000, to say farewell to the GOC, Maj Gen R. D. S. Gordon CBE, and the staff at HQ 2 Division on their pending move to Scotland. Thirteen leaving gifts were presented after the lunch, with a further seven WO1's dined out the following Friday (must be a record). We wish all our friends from the Divisional Staff a fond farewell and good luck up north.

Presentation by RSM S C Keilty to the GOC
Maj Gen R. D. S. Gordon

Lt Col Cameron-Mowat welcomes
Comd In Chief Land, Gen Sir Mike Jackson KCB MBE
on a recent visit to Imphal Barracks

Friday 31 March, 2000, saw the end of an era as the 2 Division flag was lowered, completing the move of the HQ from its home here in York for the past 17 years, to Scotland. The parade saw the GOC invite the Garrison Commander to fly the 15 Brigade flag in place of his own, in what was a very emotional moment for the 200 or so spectators. Capt Anderton-Brown, Adjutant 2 Sig Regt commanded the parade, with 30 other members of the Regiment acting as the honour guard.

ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS CROSS-COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIPS 2000

This year's Cross-Country Championships were held at Bulford Camp on 9 February, this was the first time the Championship had been held for some ten years. The Regiment entered a male team of seven, comprising of SSgt McNairn, Cpl Cadywould, LCpl Clark, LCpl Thomas, Sig Shepard, Sig Tucker and SSgt Needham, from 216 Sig Sqn, who volunteered to run for us as LCpl Wilkinson was attending his PTI course at Aldershot. Capt Tyndale competed individually in the female event. The event was run over approximately six miles with a few punishing hills to contend with. All of our runners ran well, especially Cpl Cadywould who came first in the male event, winning the Senior Men's first prize. Sig Tucker won the Junior Men's first prize and Capt Tyndale collected the Senior Ladies third prize. This gave all three runners the opportunity to run for the Army team. As a team the men finished a close fourth, and with Sig Grady posted into the regiment, a member of the Army cross-county team, and LCpl Wilkinson back from his PTI course the future looks bright for the team next season. Members of the team are now in training for next season, which starts in September, some of the team have just attended a training camp in sunny Portugal for two weeks, whilst others are using the break between seasons to compete in athletic events and half marathons. In all a good result with the team looking to do that bit better next year, so any up and coming runners should make their way to 2 Signal Regiment.

QUARTERMASTER DEPARTMENT
QM Maj B. J. Dalton
RQMS (GEN) WO2 T. S. Hague
RQMS (Tech) WO2 D. G. Simpson

Since the last WIRE the pace has not changed in the department. The new year started with the Unit's annual Logistics Support Inspection (LSI), followed by deployment of the department on Ex Key Flight. This was quickly followed by PRE and RSIT, however SSgt Angus MacPherson still managed to arrange Squadron Adventure Training to the Pyrenees for later in the year. With the HO/TO of CO's , the last three weeks have heavily involved the Department in the Regimental Board of Officers. Congratulations to WO2 (RQMS) Dave Simpson on passing his RQMS Course even though he missed the LSI. We say farewell to WO2 'Best Boots and Pace Stick' (SSM) Kev Smith an inter squardon posting to 214 Sig Sqn and LCpl Sarah Horton who left the Army for Civ Div. Warm welcomes to WO2 (RQMS) Terry Hague from the Trg Wing and congratulations to Sig now LCpl Claire Dawson posted in from 1 (UK) Div.

MIKE TROOP - by LCpl Gaz Edmondson

With everyone finally back in York after tours in the Falklands, and Kosovo life is slowly getting back to normality, despite several members of the Troop still on tour in Bosnia. It has been a busy period since Christmas with Ex Key Flight 1, closely followed by Ex Eagles Flight, allowing us all to shake out the cobwebs and to let a lot of the Troop deploy for the first time. With the RSIT team visiting in March the system technicians, ably lead by Sgt 'Bertie' Hoyle, were rushing around making sure that everything was up to speed and trying to match the Radio Technicians performance on PRE. Eventually it all went off with no major dramas.

Congratulations to LCpl Dave 'Who shall I marry this week?' Dodds, on his forthcoming wedding to Zoe. We wish them the best of luck. We say goodbye to Cpl Craig Graham who left for Civ Div, after nine years service and Cpl 'Si' Aunger who has left for Blandord to do his T1. We are preparing to say good bye to Cpls Dave Randall, Lee Rumford and John McKeown leaving for Blandford and their class ones, and WO1 (FofS) Mark Hardy who is finally leaving for a cushy job in Civ Div after a full 22 years service. We wish all those leaving the best of luck. We say hello to LCpls Russell, Holmes and Gillard fresh from the Blandford factory, all bright eyed and bushy tailed.

LIGHT AID DETACHMENT by Cpl Jobson
Regt Gen Bay Sgt Wyatt
2IC Cpl Jobson

Last year turned out to be extremely busy with Kosovo rearing its ugly head. With Sgt Andy Wyatt, Cpl Hari, LCpl Weeston, Sig Cinnamond, Sig Hughes and Sig Mitchell all going off to get a sun tan in the Balkans it left Cpl Jobson and his crew to do all the pleasures around camp. Once they had returned three wise Signallers, Sig Clegghorn, Tinker and Sworowski were selected to attend the other in the Balkans and jumped at the chance. Welcome to LCpl Syria from 30 Sig Regt and goodbye to Sig Clarke who has gone to Civ Div and Sig Cinnamond who has gone on promotion to a tough posting at RAF Digby.

214 SIGNAL SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj D. W. Somerville
SSM WO2 (SSM) K. R. J. Smith

We start by saying farewell to Maj David Somerville who is leaving the squadron on posting to PJHQ. He has served with the squadron for well over two years both on a busy exercise schedule and also whilst deployed on operations to Kosovo. His strive for excellence and enormous Ptarmigan knowledge were his trademarks and both will be sorely missed. We wish him the best of luck in the future from all of 214 Sig Sqn.

TN 021 ROMAN TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Stu Whittley
Tp SSgt SSgt Chris Symonds

The new Millennium clearout has continued uninterrupted here in Roman Tp. Our latest line of deportees includes Sigs Chris Beevers, Chris Blackett, Ben Munnings, Daz Kirkby on promotion and Sig 'Scotty' Harcus who has escaped the Army for good. Also listed as lost in battle are LCpl Col 'Combat' Nealey on promotion, and Cpl John 'Geezer' McLoughlin on posting. We have seen Cpl Tony 'Officers Bouffant' Orange, Sigs Chris 'Shady' Holmes, Leon 'Dodgy' Bradley, Wayne 'Well Untrustworthy' George, and 'Akkers' Adkins come into Roman Tp. Goodbye and good luck to all of those people who have left the illustrious Roman Tp and a hearty hello and good luck to all of those joining the Troop.

For 214 Sig Sqn the first exercise of the year 2000 was Ex Key Flight. We were given our marching orders to go to Otterburn Training Area, possibly the wettest, windiest, most dismal place on this planet, with the possible exception of Burnley. Though the deployment was given a slight humour boost when Sig 'Permanent bad hair day' Jones bogged in his Radio Relay. This resulted in the usual Troop rendition of our favourite word – 'SLAB'. The first two days were pretty much the same, we fought to stop our cam nets and tents from becoming UFOs, although we did manage to overcome the elements to set up the Trunk Node with a fair semblance of order. It was a pleasant change to see our new OC on his first Exercise actually sitting in his Node Command vehicle as opposed to being permanently in his sleeping bag as the last one had perfected. SSgt Chris 'Food Nazi' Symonds did make ours the most popular destination for attachments as he blatantly refused to feed anyone who turned up in our location. We were eventually saved from the threat of hypothermia when we were told to move south to Catterick Training Area where we were promised at least a few trees to keep the wind off. Catterick proved to be a bit friendlier although hindered with an attack by the enemy and a short NBC phase, but nothing too drastic. Mission accomplished with peace more or less restored to the area (Geordies will probably never get on with the Sunderland boys!) we heard the magic word -ENDEX! An uneventful journey back to camp without a single ambush, everybody went home in the knowledge of a job well done.

We returned to Camp for a few weeks to enjoy the slabs people had acquired on Exercise and to revel in the local nightlife, but it wasn't too long until we were off again. This time our presence was requested on Ex Eagles Flight, a combined exercise with the newly formed 16 Air Assault Brigade. The Troop deployed on a glorious sunny Sunday morning to Keevil airfield. After an uneventful cabby down to the exercise area we arrived at the airfield ten hours later and began to set up the Node home. After a plug up to the other Troops we settled into the 'dump/Node home' for the night. Bright and breezy the next morning the other Troops left for their node home locations and, once comms were established again, we waited for the exercise to start properly. In the meantime we were treated to aerial displays by the local glider club/boy racers up and down the airfield. As the forward elements of the Brigade deployed, we felt like Marvin Gaye and Ottis Reading 'watching the Hercs coming in and going out again!' As the exercise moved into full swing, we received a call in the evening telling us that the Step-up SAS/MC had arrived on the airfield and were waiting impatiently to be engineered. After two hours of our relay testing and changing every possible piece of kit Sigs Nat 'Picture in the local paper' Davis and 'Scotty (Scabby Head)' Harcus finally admitted defeat, 'We can't see him !' This was passed onto the Node Command where our illustrious leader Lt Stu 'Hear me now' Whittley rang the OSC and asked for confirmation of the SAS/MC's deployment, in the background he heard the call to the brigade and then heard, 'Oh dear' (or words to that effect!). It turned out that it had not even left South Cerney - cheers to brigade ops for that!! Following in the same vein when it came to refilling the water bowser the next day, we found to our disgust that SSgt Chris 'Admin guru' Symonds had built the entire Node home around the aforementioned bowser… Nice ! As the exercise progressed we left our 'dump' and moved to South Cerney for an overnight stay in-between phases and we got to see our SCC crew Cpl Rick Allmark and Sig Sam Stroughair in, what could only be described as, the latter stages of 'death by boredom!' Our ED LCpl Bob 'Commander comms' Thirsk also got the chance to reflect on how hard life was for his fellow EDs back at Echelon, but like the true diplomat he is, he kept his comments to himself (well nearly)!

The next morning a few members of the Troop were walking like Texas cowboys due to the fresh food. This had still been gladly received after a week of solid compo, all lovingly prepared by our resident sloppy Cpl John 'I'll harden those arteries' Galletley. After another long cabby we arrived at Sculthorpe airfield, which was surrounded by what looked like the annual meeting of the Janes' military spotters society! Our job on this the final phase of the Exercise was to test the satellite link back to South Cerney and re-establish comms. Unfortunately the sat link did not work so, as the saying goes, 'If the man won't go to the mountain.' The sat det moved to our location and shock horror the link worked. Things went smoothly from then on, the morning of the 23rd we were expecting news of the Endex on our morning brief. However, we were told that we were moving back to South Cerney and the exercise was carrying on - the entire Troop was on the verge of ripping into the OC. Big lad or not he was going to get some! Luckily for us all it was just a wind up in aid of Cpl 'Ricky' Rickard's birthday, who appreciated his cake as it didn't contain any compo! With Endex called we headed back north.

Cpl 'Ricky' Rickard's birthday celebration in the field

We are now waiting with baited breath on our RSIT reports and the details of a summer jolly, sorry Exercise, to Germany. Until the next thrilling instalment, remember 'If in doubt, Shields Up'.

TN 022 TORNADO TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Graham Wills
Tp SSgt SSgt Neil Cooper

Welcome notes go to Cpl Cox from HQ AFCENT and LCpl Nicky Burnip from 1 (UK) ADSR, Herford. February saw the start of some serious maintenance not only within the Squadron but all the Troops. With RSIT pending the Troop found little time to play and long hours and sleepless nights prevailed. As always, when you think you have done your bit, the Board of Officers quickly followed RSIT. Well at least that is classed as 'in house'.

Another tasking for the mighty Tornado sees a JNCO and Signaller having to fly back out to Kosovo to pick up a Switch. This was extremely short notice with manning unavailable from 33 Sig Regt (V) Liverpool, to whom the switch belongs. Who should volunteer to go, but good old LCpl Craig Jinks and new lad Sig Wilson. With their Switch returning from Kosovo, 33 Sig Regt (V) needed to borrow a Switch from a reliable source accompanied by the Det Commander for a short plug up as part of Ex Spring Eagle. LCpl Jase Nicholls was unanimously voted as volunteer for this first phase and quickly returned two weeks later accompanied by Cpl 'Snoz' Davis.

The Squadron 2IC organised a 'Supertom' Competition 29-30 March. The aim of this was to determine the best Signaller within the Squadron. All the Corporals organised and put into place the stands including driving skills, first aid, muscle endurance tests in the gymnasium, the assault course, SAT training, a trade training stand and even a night navex. Results are still being compiled as we speak.

We now look forward to a well earned extensive leave period to catch up on last year's entitlement, followed by preparation for the annual Race the Sun competition and then deployment to Germany for Ex Arrcade Falcon. Congratulations go to LCpl Sibley on her promotion in unit. Finally we say goodbye to Sig 'Griff' Griffiths on posting to RSS Blandford, Sig Matt Taylor on posting to 16 Air Assault both also on promotion and Sig Richie Glass who has gone to CivDiv.

TN 023 VIKING TROOP
Tp Comd Lt J. D. Noble
Tp SSgt SSgt Terry Shiels

Viking Tp started the millennium with an ever-fun ITD week, and with the results of most of the shooting, you could tell that people were still recovering from the Christmas parties. We were then thrown into Ex Key Flight spent in sunny Otterburn. It was a fast moving exercise used to shake off the cobwebs after Kosovo and Christmas, and served as an excellent opportunity for the Troop to get to grips with their tactical and communication drills all over again. Carrying on a similar theme, February brought Ex Eagles Flight where we supported 16 Air Assault Bde on their first exercise since formation. Although, on exercise, there was a requirement to maintain our wagons as March took us right into the thick of our old friends RSIT! The near future promises to bring plenty of variety with a deployment to Arizona for Ex Roving Sands (3 Jun – 11 Jul) in support of 22 Air Defence Regiment. Three weeks of exercise followed by adventure training/R&R package sounds just fine to us (unlucky 'Torpedo' Troop) VIVA LAS AMERICA!

Finally, the Troop would like to bid a fond farewell to LCpl Dan Parker who has left us for 1 (UK) Div, LCpl 'Pebbles' Pember who has moved to 7 Sig Regt, both on promotion, and congratulations to Cpl Steve Cadywould on passing his RCB. Good luck at Sandhurst in September. Hellos go to Sig Pikendra who has arrived fresh after re-trading to Radio Relay at Blandford, we hope you enjoy your time with the Troop.

TN 024 CELTIC TROOP
Tp Comd Lt Dhan Gurung
Tp SSgt SSgt Bhuddi Gurung

This has proved to be a hectic time for the Troop since its formation in January as part of 214 Sig Sqn. This is the first stage of the formation of 246 Gurkha Signal Squadron with the continuing arrival of Gurkha soldiers from 30 Sig Regt and fresh from re-trade at Blandford. The oncoming months will prove very interesting for sure.

The newly formed Celtic Troop, prior to deployment on Ex Eagles Flight

However, the formation of the Troop has not been as smooth as one would of hoped. The majority of the kit and equipment is being 'dragged', 'borrowed' and sought from around the Regiment and from the Out of Use pool at Ashchurch. All Troop personnel have worked extremely hard to ensure the Troop were ready to support the first exercise at the end of January, Ex Key Flight I. This was achieved but it was found that there is still a long way to go. Support was then given to Ex Eagles Flight to assist 16 Air Asslt Bde in their first exercise since formation. Work did not stop both in the field or on return to barracks as the Squadron prepared itself for both RSIT and the Board of Officers. The Troop now look forward to leave and the preparation for deployment on Ex Roving Sands in America.

Farewells go to Sig Munnings who leaves us for 1 (UK) Div on promotion and SSgt Buddhi who was commissioned on Friday, 7 April, he will leave us shortly for 250 Gurkha School of Signals at Nuneton. The Troop also welcomes Sigs Hem, Mek, Nirakal, Ramesh and Pitamber who join us from Blandford.

214 SIGNAL SQUADRON EXERCISE 'SUPERTOM' 29-20 MARCH 2000 - by Sig Gregory

It started at 0645hrs on Wednesday 29 March at the armoury for weapons and then onto the cookhouse for a hearty breakfast and collection of 'death packs'. Once all that was sorted it was time for the two teams to be split down – I was in Team 'A' and this is how we did it! A Section Assault written test and then off to Strensall Training Area for the real thing. The shiners like Sig 'Griff' Griffiths get 'killed off' straight away to give the newer kids a try, most did OK.

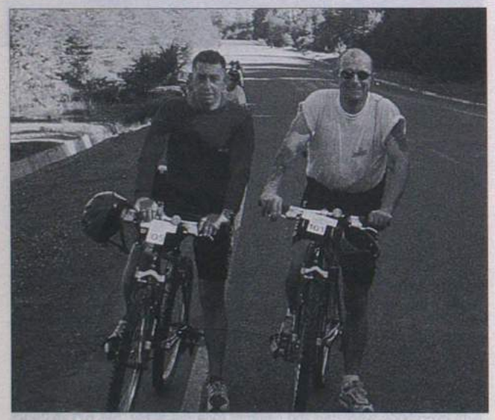
After a quick de-cam we were off to the SAT for a dawn shoot scenario in the desert with Lt Wills proving that officers can not shoot a 'barn door at 10 yards'. A bit of food and we had a go at the command tasks; tyres over parallel bars and cable drums over horizontal logs etc. All were there to stretch everybody's limited brain power! Next we were rescuing a 'special forces' recce team and administering first aid as part of a cleverly constructed stand by Cpl Rickard. To polish the day's events off, LCpl 'Kelly' Codling and Cpls Bevan and Macleod took us through, over, under and around the assault course with a lot of blood, sweat, tears and anything else into it, to get through as quickly as possible. This ends with everybody wheezing and gagging for a quick fag. Sig Bryan Jones wins the Oscar for 'most original way to descend a rope, then sprain his ankle'.

At 1800hrs it was off to Galtres Bivouac area to administer ourselves and tuck into some lovely pork casserole compo to warm us up ready for the Night Navigation exercise. This was to prove that, with cyalumes marking the points, even the best get lost. An unexpectedly quiet night under the stars, a layer of frost tempting us to stay in our sleeping bags but still up at the crack of dawn. Back at Imphal Barracks for the remainder of the events kept us extremely busy. It started with a rather taxing BATCO test and everyone proving they remember all they were taught on their basic signalling skills at Blandford??! Then the trade skills stand with a SCAM 12 race and putting up 9x9 tents keep the adrenaline pumping ready for the final push – the 'United States Marine Corps' muscle endurance test (Sir, yes, Sir!) Some upper-body overloading and a 1.5-mile run later, everyone knackered it was time to hit the showers. Finally, with the weapons in the armoury, we eagerly await the final debrief. A few lessons learnt, maybe, we all collapse in our rooms. This is of course except the die-hards like Sigs 'Vinny' Vint and 'Dan' Wales who prove that, even on this Thursday, you can still go to 'Toffs'. Just think, we now have another year to forget what we have learnt and to do it all again.

TRANS ANDEAN CYCLE CHALLENGE
2 - 12 MARCH 2000
by WO2 (SSM) K. Smith

Thursday 2 - Friday 3 March: 0745hrs Thursday 2 March and the minibus arrived. An energetic yet sombre mood hung in the air as I travelled from York to Heathrow Terminal 1 to meet up with the RSM, WO1 'Sean' Keilty and the rest of the 40 strong charity raisers. It had all begun back in June 1999 when we saw an advertisement in The Times, it read 'Ride across the Andes in aid of SENSE (The National Deaf/Blind and Rubella Association)'. After much begging and borrowing we reached our goal and raised £2000 each and were now Chile bound to spend the next ten days cycling from the small town of Puerto Montt over the Andes into Argentina to the town of Bariloche and back. The flight took us via Madrid and Sao Paolo (Brazil) to Santiago, the capital of Chile. We landed an hour behind a certain Mr Pinochet and adopted our grey man stance. The Chilean airport staff were very helpful and within an hour we were on an internal flight to Puerto Montt. We were split into two groups of 20, the RSM and myself were in Group B. Each group was then taken to its final destination, ours being the Hotel Salzburg in Frutillar on the bank of the immense Lake Llanquihue. We had been on the go for 33 hours and all we wanted were our beds. This was not to be and after a tentative brief on the next day's cycling we had an excellent meal and retired to bed in readiness for the start of the trek.

Saturday 4 March: We woke to a clear and sunny Patagonian morning. After breakfast, 'which was nice', we assembled at our bikes and chatted to our Argentinian Guides from a bike company called Bikeway who specialised in Adventure Holidays. We couldn't help but notice that Ron Hills and green issue trainers were not in Vogue this year. The first day's ride for us was an easy 35km from Frutillar to Puerto Varas following a dirt track along the lakeshore. Ever present throughout the ride across the lake was the two volcanoes Calbuco and Osorno. As the journey progressed it became evident that within our civilian counterparts there are people 'In the rear with the gear' and a few of these sporting professionals fell off their bikes at various stages. Unfortunately the RSM also fell off, however, he warned the bike for orders and never fell off again. We arrived in Puerto Varas shaking as the last 3km were along a disused rail track with the sleepers still laid. The late afternoon saw the guides take us by bus into Puerto Montt to sample the old Indian market 'which was nice'. After five minutes we had looked around and discovered that you could buy everything in the market in better condition in the high street back home, so it was off to the new shopping centre and time for a quick Big Macio before we headed back to Puerto Varas. That evening for supper we were taken to a seafood restaurant where the choice as the Chilean waitress put it was 'Beefy or Steak' or a seafood platter. We are still trying to work out the difference between Beef or Steak.



Sunday 5 March: The Andean challenge started today with a 42km cycle from Entre Lago to Salto del Indio campsite. The journey started off very flat, however, we soon started our ascent into the Andes. Lunch was spent in a lay-by at the top of this hill and after this the roads just kept inclining. We finally arrived at the campsite and helped the guides set up our tents (well the RSM and myself did) !! The campsite is named after an Indian who escaped from the Spanish and hid by the magnificent waterfall at the back of the camp. The night was spent around the campsite (dib, dib, dib) with dinner comprising of what can only be described as a Chicken pasty from Mrs Miggins Pie shop with an olive in it.

Monday 6 March: We woke to hear whining from the Civilian Corps who had been extremely cold during the night, (Gucci do not make good sleeping bags). At this point, I emerged from my Gore-Tex bivvy bag absolutely toasting (thanks QM). Breakfast consisted of a cup of coffee and a rich tea biscuit if you were lucky. This is a perfect staple diet for the days cycle of which the first 26km were all uphill to the top of the peaks, so after licking t' road clean wit tongue. We set off and once out of the campsite we started the ascent. After 4km we arrived at the Chilean border and then continued on into what is known as the buffer zone. There is a 40km buffer between Chile and Argentina, as they cannot decide where the border lies. The next 22km wound their way upwards, until lunch when we arrived at the top. As we got stuck into our lunch awaiting the arrival of the rear party, an Argentinean Interior Ministry Patrol arrived. The RSM and myself went over and had a quick chat and photo call with their Lt Walter Thompson by name that spoke exceedingly good English. He told to wrap up, as the wind chill factor would be approx –15 degrees. We soon learnt that –15 degree wind chill factor to a Argentinian is about 30 degrees C to a westerner and after a kilometres we stopped to strip back down to T-shirt and shorts before we melted. As we got further down the weather became 'Scorchio' with temperatures hitting between 35 – 38 degrees C. At the Border crossing we still had another 26km to do till we arrived at our Hostel for our fist night in Argentina, however, the route was mostly downhill and tarmac which made the going a lot easier. The Villa de la Angosturra is located on the massive idyllic Lake Nahuel Huapi, with a massive non-idyllic, loud, female American host. Dinner that evening was Chicken and chips a real treat after the last 24 hours.

Tuesday 7 March: The sunrise from the hostel over the lake that morning was picturesque and after devouring 24 slices of toast each we got ready for the days cycle. As people brought their luggage down for transfer to the next accommodation it was apparent that the uphill cycle the day before had seriously drained everyone's quads. We set off 66kms to Bariloche to be covered. We left Angosturra and after the first 3kms our muscles had stretched off so we increased the pace. One hour later we stopped for a quick NAAFI break (bananas and chewy bars) having covered 25km. Our route today took us from the North of Lake Nahuel Huapi in a clockwise direction to Bariloche located on the South side of the lake. The distance covered shows you the size of the lake and we were only covering a slight part of it. A quick dip in the lake to cool off and we carried on towards Bariloche. The afternoon leg seemed to go on forever, over tarmac road with a strong head wind. The heat of the day hit us and added to the strain. We finally arrived at our pick up point to be bussed the last few kilometres into Bariloche The late afternoon was spent shopping for the familiar T-shirt (see it, done it, got the T-shirt, starred in the film, etc). Dinner that night was to be a Vegetarian meal at the renowned Vegetarian restaurant in Bariloche. Not being vegetarians the RSM and myself had to top ourselves up with 1.5 litre bottles of Warsteiner (Argentina's premier beer).

Wednesday 8 March: After a bad night's sleep (I wonder why!!), we woke up to breakfast which comprised of four year old toast if you were lucky and coffee that made your eyeballs stand on end. We left Bariloche and the first 12km was dirt track, however, leaving Bariloche consisted of a 1: 1 hill ('hello') which soon had myself and the RSM sweating like Gary Glitter. The dirt track was a nightmare, however, it also included exciting steep and technical moves. Lunch was spent at a tributary of Lake Petito Moreno, it was late after we lost one of the group in the woods after taking a wrong turn. The afternoon was spent with another 10km on dirt track following the shores of Lake Petito Moreno until we hit tarmac with 14km to go. Our end point for the day was the Hostel at Llao Llao pronounced 'jchao jchao'. The 14km were covered very quickly and reminded me of Yosemite National Park in California. We finally arrived at the Hostel and relaxed until dinner which was amazing 'Asado Argentino', a selection of the best meats. The steak would have satisfied both Homer Simpson and Fred Flintstone.

Thursday 9 March: Today's cycle was not so daunting, we paraded five minutes before under supervision of the RSM and sized the bikes off accordingly. After several ferry journeys and passports stamped we arrived at Puerto Frias and started the climb through the cloud into the tropical rainforest. The 4km went very quickly although it was very tiring. The descent was 13km down a dirt track to the Chilean side, which was covered very quickly, with a few people taking some hair-raising tumbles. We broke through the cloud again and reached the Chilean side and again had our passports stamped. In front of us lay another 14km to the next ferry at Punta Peulla. The journey followed the course of a tributary running into the main lake and about 10km from Punta Peulla, I met two hikers from America who were walking all of South America. The dirt track meant that your arms were aching from all the shuddering and after a few kilometres your arms and fingers were numb. We arrived at the ferry port two hours to wait and the view reminded me of something out of Jurassic Park.. While we waited the two hikers arrived and we sat for part of the journey chatting to them on where hey had been and where they were going. The ferry docked in Petrohue and we unloaded our bikes for the final 23km of the day, six of which were again on dirt track. We arrived at our hostel for the night in Ensenada. The Hostel was located on the shores of Lake Llanquihue with the breathtaking view of Osorno Volcano overlooking us.

Friday 10 - Sunday 12 March: Our last day and it was obvious as nobody stretched off before cycling. Today's goal was to arrive where we had started a week ago at the Hotel Salzburg in Frutillar a stunning 80km away. The first 21km were yet again all dirt track cycling next to the Volcano on old lava and cinder. The kilometres sped away and in no time at all we had hit tarmac in the village of Las Cascadas. We dropped our bikes off and trekked to the splendid waterfall located east of the village. After some pictures we trekked back down and had lunch on the shoreline of the lake. All of us knew that ahead of us lay 60km of hills and valleys. What actually lay ahead was horrendous, the long straight roads interrupted with hills that made you drop down to the lowest gear straight away. The sun beat down and drained you at the same time. The first cyclists (of which I was one) arrived at Frutillar in an exceptional three hours, however, no one from the admin team was there to meet us and we had to wait for 1.5 hours for our dry clothing to turn up with the admin vehicle. Everyone was in by 1730hrs and we set off to get showered and cleaned up.

The next groups arrived that evening from UK and were met by a torrent of windups and horror stories about their week ahead. Dinner that night was a culmination of seafood and poultry which mixed with a few well deserved beers (and a game of pool!!) finished off a superb week. The next morning we were taken to Puerto Montt airport for our 33-hour flight back to UK. To sum it up I would say the money we raised, the people we met both in the group and on our travels, the scenery and sights we saw made it a worthwhile and just expedition. A special thanks must be given to the Associate members we swore in along the way: - Simon (Stocks & shares man), Shane (I.T.man), Julien (Financial Director) and Colin (The Architect).

3(UNITED KINGDOM) DIVISONAL SIGNAL REGIMENT

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

The recent change of appointments in the 'Puzzle Palace' has meant a change of emphasis in the RAO and the 2IC's job descriptions. The Payman, Capt Paul Corker AGC is forever on the golf course and the 2IC, Maj Nick Bateson, continues to do most of his work from the gymnasium! In fact his output is falling so greatly that we are thinking of replacing his clerical support with voice mail that tells you exactly which forest he's running in! The Commanding Officer, Lt Col Neil Couch splits his time between the Divisional and Regimental commitments while taking in parts of the globe that only you and I can dream about. The Ops Team is now led by Capt Nick Rees-Deacon who you may recognise as merely Deacon before he entered the world of wives and babies. He is being helped along his rocky initiation into the Ops world by the old steady hands:

Capt Nige 'Happy' Cullen
Capt Al 'I' ll get to the point eventually' Patterson
WO1 (YofS) '264 SAS No women's clothes' Slater

The ever presents of RHQ the RSM, WO1 'Brummy' Stoker and the Adjutant, Maj Al Long soldier on with the poor Adjt doing both the day and night shift in between baby sitting and buying the 'Spar' out of chocolate. Don't worry Al only a few months to push. I hear OC 202 Sqn might be on the cards. Jog on !!

ARMY CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS
WEDNESDAY 2 FEBRUARY 2000

As 2 February 2000 approached the prospect of beating last year's third place in the Army Championships looked unlikely as LCpl Johnson had been posted to 1 Div and both Sig Kemp and Sig Durward had packed their bags for Hereford. Then suddenly everything began to change ……..Maj Nick Bateson, the new 2IC arrived from HQ 4 Div with a car full of trainers, Maj Richard Smith was persuaded to come out from behind his HQ Arty Ops desk and low and behold Kemp and Durward decided that storming embassies was not for them. The team selection was confirmed after a league event on the Bulford ridge and with the Ladies Team also finding some new AGC blood from the Div HQ (Maj Bev Walters-Davies) and from 2Ll (Pte Watson) it looked as though it would be worth going to Aldershot after all. In the end the men were Runners Up only thwarted by a particularly strong team from 1 Para who took the title for the first time in 35 years achieving eight scorers inside 63 places. Our finishers were as follows:

25	WO2 Docherty	89	Sig Clark
34	LCpl Conlon	95	Maj Smith
50	LCpl Kemp	98	Sig Swan
77	Maj Bateson	134	Sig Durward
Total 602 Pts
141	Lt Irwin	186	WO2 Morrow

The Ladies Team also had success achieving fourth place with Maj Walters Davies leading the team in to take 14th position overall, second female veteran. Pte Watson 31, Cpl Austin-Williamson 36 and SSgt (YofS) Rouse 49 completed the scoring 4. Our other runner Sig Mates ran exceptionally well to finish 53rd. As a result of the race Maj Bateson was selected to run for the Army Veterans team in the Inter Services competition at Deepcut on 3 March 2000.

ROYAL SIGNALS CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPIONSHIPS
STOP PRESS! - CORPS CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPS

The resurrected Corps Cross Country Champs took place on the Bulford Ridge on Wednesday 9 February 2000. Following their Army success the Regimental Male team were victorious with a two point victory over 11 Sig Regt. The eight good men and true were:

5th	LCpl Conlon	6th	WO2 Docherty
11th	LCpl Kemp	14th	Maj Smith (Div HQ , very handy Sir !!)
17th	Maj Bateson	30th	Sig Swan
32th	Lt Irwin	34th	LCpl Watts

The ladies also went one better than the Army Champs by storming to third place overall. The placings were as follows:

3rd	Pte Watson	11th	SSgt (Yof S) Rouse
15th	Sig Hunt	23rd	Sig Darcy

202 SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj R. Quinlan
SSM WO2 (SSM) J. McNaught

Yet another busy period for the Squadron, with the build up for the Regimental and Divisional Exercises in the approaching months taking priority. The Christmas break was used to the full, with surprisingly few sore heads returning to work in January. It seems the 'millennium bug' was not as much trouble as everyone thought! The Squadron moved straight into business mode with the deployment on Exercise Tricorn Bull 1/00, a major event as the Squadron had not deployed as two separate Headquarters for some time following Operational Commitments. It would be nice though if the Sqn 2IC, Capt Warren, could spend more time with the Squadron and less time hassling 1 Mech Bde!

Preparations for our main Divisional Exercise in May are going well, as are plans for Adventurous Training in the Isle of Wight later this year. There have been some major changes in personnel within the Squadron during this hectic time, and we'll leave it to the individual Troops to go into that in more detail. The Squadron still awaits that influx of manpower from that mysterious, invisible Signals Regiment located somewhere to the north!

At this point the Squadron would like to extend its warmest congratulations to our SSM, WO2 (SSM) Jim McNaught on his selection to promotion to WO1 and to SSgt Chris Davies on his selection to WO2 – both well deserved.

BUSSACO TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Sean 'The Colonial' Lumley
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Social Grenade' Howson

Bussaco Tp wish a warm welcome to Sgt Steve Weate and wife Angie, LCpl John Dunwoody and wife Emma, LCpl Claire Sellings and Sig 'Chezza' Stevenson. On a sad note Bussaco Tp bid farewell to the 'Big Cheese' Sgt Chris Cheesman to 30 Sig Regt (Good luck 30 Sig Regt),LCpl Mark Parks to 40 Sig Regt (V) after successfully completing his Class 1 and to Sig Mick Warden who has left the Army for pastures new in civvy street.

The Troop would like to congratulate Cpls Bob Dryden, Don Brennan and Caroline Maxwell on successfully passing their T1 Entrance Exam and to Sig 'Big' Dave Silcock on passing his Class 2(only just). The Troop has had a fairly busy month recovering from the garage move and a Board of Officers, but still remains in high spirits. The Troop would like to take this opportunity to say farewell and good luck to Cpl 'Andy' Gleadal who is attempting his T1, also to Cpl 'Grandad (Windy)' Miller whose new job is to educate the uneducated at the Royal School of Signals at Blandford (more hair loss I'm afraid for 'Windy'. Finally to Sig 'Jay' Nelson, with new improved sideburns, who is off to 8 Inf Bde. The Troop would also like to say a huge hello and welcome to our new Troopy, 2Lt Sean 'The Colonial' Lumley who has taken over from Lt Simpson (who has been demoted to Waterloo Troop); LCpl 'Jamie' Davis from 30 Sig Regt and LCpl 'Richie' Dunwoody from 40 Sig Regt (V) – Welcome Lads!!

Congratulations to Sgt 'Mick' Brown on coming off the Staffy Board and good luck to LCpl 'H' Aitchison on his Recognition Instructor's Course. The Troop is looking forward to the Easter Block Leave which is followed immediately by fun and games in Exercise Spring Foray (The major divisional exercise of the year). A final good luck to Cpl 'Red' Davis who were pounding the streets of London on 16 April in the 2000 Flora Marathon – fun! We almost forgot about Sig 'French Boy' Gaston who now performs for the public with the White Helmets – nice one!

OVERLOON TROOP

Tp Comd SSgt D. Oliver
Tp Sgt Sgt J. Rowe

The Regimental Boxing showed members of the Troop in fine form with Sgt Joe Rowe and Bdr Larry Loates training the team. Sig Emily Knowles winning the best boxer award.Congratulations to LCpl 'OJ' Olejnik and Louise on their wedding and good luck to 'Curly' Watts and Jude Hills in their new postings as newly promoted Lance Corporal's. We also say goodbye to Mick Mathie and Craig Jackson to Civvi Street. Lt Grice to 222 Sqn. The Troop has gained three new members, Sig Andy Pell, Nick Pallis and Tony Frewin (who deployed straight out to Kosovo)

The pace of life in the Troop has picked up again with the move into the new garages and preparing for the new training year. The Troop also took time out to win the 202 Inter-Tp Orienteering Competition. With recent Exercises, garage moves and boards of officers, the joint largest armoured Troop in the Royal Signals (together with Waterloo Tp of course!) has been very busy. Despite this, we have still been able to send soldiers away recently adventurous training and out to Cyprus on Exercise Lion Sun.

The Troop would like to take the opportunity at this time to welcome the following new arrivals. Welcome to Cpl Sean Bysouth, who joins us from Waterloo Tp, Sig Bladen, Martin, Pell and Tucker from the factory, and Sig Frewin, Harper, Hodgetts and Mainka who re-join us from holiday in Kosovo. We also warmly welcome Sig Pallis from MCTC in Colchester. We all hope you enjoy your tour with armour!

On a sad note, we bid farewell to the following. Goodbye (sniff!) to SSgt Oliver who may not return from his CCE to IS Op at the factory, to Cpl 'Chico' Towers who is on his IS conversion and then off to Aldershot, Cpl 'Mick' Lynn who is playing with penguins in the Falkland Islands, to LCpl Higgins and Sig Hartell who depart into civvie street, LCpl 'AK' Akkulugadu who is posted to NI and to Cpl Miners who moves to Waterloo Tp after a brief spell with the Troop. We also say a temporary farewell to LBdr Howell and Sig Knowles who have managed to escape to a second Lion Sun within six months of each other!

WATERLOO TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Peter Simpson
Tp SSgt SSgt T. Wringe

The year has started on a very hectic note, with the extra weeks leave so kindly granted by the CO, everyone returned with 'post festive spread'. We were straight back into work mode and swiftly got down to a garage swap with 206 Sig Sqn, then from there it was a quick week in 1st Line Inspections and Exercise prep and then straight onto Exercise Tricorn Bull, January 2000. The Exercise was a massive learning curve for everyone with plenty of morale and very little sleep, but all in all a very good exercise, roll on Exercise Tricorn Bull 2/00.

Morale in the Troop is certainly lifting as more and more of the Troop are receiving their posting orders and looking forward to the big event. Welcome to LCpl 'Farquar' Smith – well 'Smudge' is just so common! Goodbye and congratulations to Cpl Andy Carter. Welcome back to Sigs Lahrici and Jackson and to LCpl 'Peda' Fildes from Kosovo, back to the reality of tent erection and er… more tent erection. Also to Sig Brown who after a few weeks of standing around is off to JCUNI to probably do some more standing around. Also, a big hello to Cpl Steve Miners who has joined us from Overloon Tp. Finally we welcome Lt Simpson who had better start drinking if he's to follow in Lt Jackson's footsteps.

Goodbyes to Lt Jackson who is off to ATR Bassingbourn, and LCpl Chris Knights who is off to 16 Sig Regt – we wish you all the best. LCpl Glen Lyon and Cpl 'Barney' Rumble are off to be the mean pair of Troop 'screws' that they are in Blandford, along with LCpl Nicky Wilkie who will be keeping the ROP's in line as an RP. Lastly, a big thank you to Cpl 'Barney' Rumble for 'volunteering' to come back in May to show us how to run Radcon. Nice one.

MONS TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Gardner
Tp SSgt SSgt Fairfield

Well it's Mons Tp but not as we know it. We have now taken on the entire Ptarmigan fleet of the Squadron with Cambrai Tp disbanded. So it's hello to all the Ptarmigan personnel from Cambrai, it's about time you earned you money and put DRASH up for a change. By the way those funny things with six wheels do belong to us, so don't be afraid to get your hands dirty, they are only Radio Relays and SAS/MCs in an air portable box. A Warm welcome goes to Sigs Blackman and Blake straight from the factory. Welcome to the real world and enjoy your stay with the Troop. Unfortunately we must say farewell to LCpl Andy Williams, who's off to York. Goodbye to Sig Eddie 'The General' Green who's leaving us for Civvy street.

So what can the Troop look forward to this next year? Well yet again there's plenty of exercises to be done, with a distinct lack of manpower again, due to the imminent deployment of troops to the Falklands. Enjoy it people, don't get cold, watch out for those penguins and we'll see you on your return in August.

On Wednesday 22 March the majority of the Troop travelled, along with the rest of the Regiment, to 14 Sig Regt (EW). The day was spent taking part in a number of different sports with the Troop well represented in all sports. Sig Jane 'Lock the Door' Darcy came second in the female cross-country, Sig Ross 'Chopper' Harley played in the football team's 2-1 victory, and Sigs Tony 'Smirnoff' Szejok, Steve 'Fat boy Slim' Smith and John 'Ratface' Evans were drafted into the volleyball team. The less said about that the better. Cpl Jim 'Brylcream' Richards had been scheduled to play golf, but swaned off somewhere and in true Richards fashion, wasn't seen until later on in the bar muttering some rubbish about a little trophy and not wanting any more Vodka. The highlight of the trip was the boxing, however the Troop's only boxer Sig 'Taff' Needs didn't box. After the boxing it was into the Bowling Alley for a game of ten-pin bowling and some light refreshment. It was at this point that Cpl Jim 'Has anyone got a mirror' Richards decided to reappear and (between falls) managed to win the bowling. The rest of the night was spent in the bar socialising with our hosts. Entertainment was provided by Cpl Richards attempts at chatting up the bar staff. He was eventually saved by Sig Ross 'Where's my beret' Harley who ended his embarrassment by putting him to bed.

All in all, a good time was had by all. The members of 14 Sig Regt seemed happy to rediscover that there was civilisation outside the hills and sheep of Brawdy and despite enjoying ourselves I don't think many of us will be rushing to get posted there.

The Troop would like to take this opportunity to say farewell to Cpl Pope, LCpl Parvin and Sig Murphy, we would also like to welcome Sigs Townsley, Needs and Szejok

INKERMAN TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Irwin
Tp SSgt SSgt Bartleet

The Troop are getting ready for a busy exercise period with the regiment and we've also lost 30 personnel to 257 JCUFI Signal Squadron. We've had to say a lot of farewells to Troop members, Ssgt Steve Bartlett his wife Debbie and son Daniel who are going to NI. Cpl Shaun Richardson and his wife Karen who are now in civvy street selling newspapers in South Wales. Also Sig 'Skopje' Scott whose gone to white helmets and Sig Jon Johnston who has gone to Radex Tp at Blandford. We've also lost LCpl 'Tinman' Shepherd to 20 Armd Bde at Paderborn. We have a few welcomes in the Troop that is LCpl Lynn Grey from 14 Sig Regt and Sig Routledge from Blandford

222 SIGNAL SQUADRON
ADEN TROOP

Tp Comd Lt E. J. Fawcett
SSgt SSgt S. Littlefield

We welcome back Lt Fawcett and the rest of the Kosovo kids to the Troop, finally the Troop is up to full strength! - but for how long? Warm congratulations go to Sig 'Lifer' Robb and Sig 'Dish' Washer who during the leave got engaged - it must be something in the water? Also in line for congratulations are Sigs 'Dodgy' Dawson, 'Formula 1' Chamberlain and 'Chumlie' Warner who have recently been promoted, well done and where are the beers?! We also say a well done to Sgt 'Mac' McNeill on his recent promotion - even more beers?! LCpl 'Reginald' Perrin leaves us temporarily to go off penguin watching with the JCUFI deployment, and Sig Milne joins civ div - Good luck. The Troop throw themselves back into work and straight out on a Troop Exercise. An interesting few days with the Troop's own version of charge of the light brigade! Sig 'What full moon?' Yule was caught short by the enemy and SSgt 'Small acres' Littlefield was 'frisked' by the clearance patrol! All in all a good shake out from the Christmas blues, lady luck was on our side and it didn't freeze.

SHARJAH TROOP

TpComd 2Lt Grice
Tp SSgt SSgt Baker

The end of 1999 saw Sharjah Tp winding down after a year of frantic activity. We returned from a successful battlecamp in Sennybridge and were then pleasantly informed of the following promotions to Lance Corporal: Andy Cornfield, Mark Anderson, Lee 'Scraf' Scrafton, Kelly Garrett and Leah Mates. Congratulations to one and all. The 'detox' period that followed the Millennium Celebrations were interrupted by SSgt Lang's leaving do in early January. He didn't surprise us when he decided to squeeze cash out of us one last time by auctioning off his 'pre-war' kit. Other departures include Cpl Lester who leaves to 1 (UK) ADSR, LCpl Morris who leaves to 7 Sig Regt on promotion and Sig Lynn. We also loose the Falklands lot for six months: Lt Johnson, Sgts Ireland and Pickering, LCpls Cornfield and Danter, Sigs Connell, Wright and De'ath. Arrivals include Lt Grice as new Troop OC, being posted across from 202 Sig Sqn, Cpl Lynn from 1 (UK) ADSR, Sigs Donna Clark, Nick Reeves and Gaz Wain from training. Welcome to you all.

OMAN TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Imogen Mulholland
Tp SSgt Sgt Andy Hayler

EXERCISE PARTHEON SHOT

The Troop's first exercise of the season found them up on the Beacon, supporting 16 Air Assault Bde. Sharjah Tp very kindly lent us Cpl 'Fixed Grin' Hawkins and Sig 'Good Job' Walker, so we banished them to the very end of the ridge in their central, with a 1.5 km walk for dinner. Who says we're not the most hospitable Troop in the Squadron? After occupying the 'Ice Station Zebra' location of three days we returned to the real world, with a week to prepare for the first squadron exercise of the year. Please Yeoman, may we go somewhere colder next time? And preferably with better visibility for Recce Cpl 'Eagle-eyes' Hoggart. What with people on the Regimental Cadre, courses and everything else, it is a bit thin on the ground in the garages. Sgt 'Lucky' Ogg is on his RSSC, Cpl 'Who' Catney has just become an RR operator and is thoroughly enjoying his long stint at Blandford on his retrade. Cpl 'PTI type' Wilson-Cochrane is just about to go on his selection course and Cpl 'Techs are for Winners' Boden has joined 257 Sig Sqn to deploy to JCUFI. Good luck to everyone who is not currently with us – we do think about you (frequently, and we laugh).

More good news on the promotions front, with plenty of Signallers coming off the board. We now have LCpls 'Short and sharp' Wall and 'Old Lady' Brady in the Troop, and not before time either. Well Done! Sad news, though – too many goodbyes. Farewell to LCpl 'Mr' Dave Wilson (timely promotion!), Sigs 'Married with Children' Barry and Carter to HQ Sqn, and last but not least Sigs 'Loud and Dangerous' Lewis 968 and Jackson. Yes – the end of an era has come. The Troop OC came back from Egypt only to find that they were on a White Helmets Selection course. The threat of separation (or rather the threat of armour for 'soon-to-be LCpl' Jacko, and 'P Company' for 968) proved just too much, and they are now the responsibility of Blandford. Hurrah – and can't wait to see your displays! A final note – this is Sgt 'Loud' Hayler's last ex with the Troop. We look forward to a leaving do in February of some magnitude!

EXERCISE COTOPAXI IRON
15 NOVEMBER – 9 DECEMBER 1999

We arrived in Quito, Ecuador after a gruelling 16hr flight and our first impression of this developing country was that it would not be the 18 – 30 holiday that we were all hoping for. The next couple of days we busied ourselves organising maps and supplies amongst the poverty-stricken streets. The active Volcano near Quito had covered most of the city and us in fine ash. It was then time for the team to get down to some work. We first set off South to visit the Volcano Tungurahua on the way to the first trek, but our driver spoke no English and directing him was futile. Near to the Volcano the local police, complete with shotguns, pistols and machine guns, had set up their own toll both for entry to view the volcano – very enterprising. A price/bribe was argued and finally agreed and we passed – the boss seemed very happy as he got the policeman to throw in his cap for the money. The views were amazing with spewing lava and ash, which was spectacular, and even more impressive at night.

At the start of the first trek we were welcomed by crowds of locals trying to sell us things and asking if we would like to hire their donkeys and guides, but being British Soldiers we refused! But by the next day LCpl Tony 'Lollipop' Richardson and Lcpl Andy 'Stillborn' Dunn and Lt Sarah Irwin went back to the start to try and organise some donkeys.

The following three days were spent trekking up to heights of 4500m amongst the breathtaking scenery. Finally we arrived at the Ingapirca ruins after 62km of tough walking with thumping headaches. With two days of admin we then headed off for the Cajas National Park to start our next treks, this time with out the donkeys. The R & R phase started with a terrifying 100m bungee jump, which happened to be the highest in South America. Words of 'I'm not doing it' from LCpl Jes 'Yes Fear' Smith and probably moans from half of the team especially from Cpl Lesley 'Pet rescue' Beck her cries soon turned into 5-4-3-2-1 bungee. After celebrating our achievements with a few beers we had a good forecast to look forward to. The high point being mountain biking or should I say bike crashing particularly LCpl Lorna 'Bothered' Moses and WO2 Dave 'Bacardi Breezer' Taylor managing to come off there bikes but Cpl Mark 'JSMEL' Corber nearly managing to fly off the cliff. Our final entertainment was the white water rafting which turned most people off of water all together by going down Grade 5 rivers and experiencing the most scariest moments especially when Cpl Gaz 'I'm sinking' Lane nearly fell completely out of the boat and was nearly swallowed up!

Just to round the excellent adventure trip up, we were all looking forward to returning to the UK but instead decided to spend another two days in Quito sleeping on the comfortable floors and one day in Houston Texas before arriving Home because of the Volcano erupting.

7 SIGNAL REGIMENT

On 13 - 17 March 7 Sig Regt and Krefeld Station held several fast and furious fund raising events to collect money for the flood victims of Mozambique. The Commanding Officer, Lt Col David Jones, expressed a desire to raise and send money quickly while concern for the victims was strong. To that end immediately after returning from Ex White Javelin, each Squadron was tasked to carry out a fund-raising event during the following week. DM11,000 was raised and donated to Christian Aid, a charity whose aim is to assist Mozambique's government in restoring infrastructure, assisting with the establishment of temporary camps and providing reconstruction kits for families of the 1 Million people affected by the flood. The Station came up with several different ways to collect money, including the Station wives who raised money, serving in the 'Coffee Pot' in fancy dress. Squadrons raised money in the following ways: an Officers and Seniors v Juniors football match where competitors were charged DM10 and spectators DM5, an auction of useless items donated by the bidders, personal contributions, an Officer and Staff Sergeant washed and ironed their troops' clothes and soldiers from Oscar were also in fancy dress raising money in JHQ, St Tonis and Bruggen and raised the Lion share of the money. To end the week the Commanding Officer and RSM, WO1 Steve Smoothy, raffled their appointments and the winners, LCpl Justin Wood was the CO and Sig Sam Clarke was the RSM. Both took a Regimental Parade on the final day of the fund-raising week (see p245/246).

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON
Sqn Comd Maj Wally Drain
SSM WO2 Steve Bovan

It has been another busy period for SHQ Troop with preparations for, and the deployment on Ex White Javelin 1/00, and preparations for the CO's admin inspections, sorting out the OTP for the Squadron, Corporals' CRs and the list goes on!

Ex White Javelin was an interesting time for A Ech CP with Ptarmigan making an unreliable back-up in case mobile phones ran out of battery power!!! Where's those 1771's! But despite unreliable comms the Exercise was a success with all aims achieved. Back in camp a Regimental fund raising week for the people of Mozambique, culminated in a Regimental parade with various people wearing ranks and uniforms they weren't really supposed to; of the most noteworthy was Padre 'SSgt' Gandiya whose efforts as right marker for HQ Sqn earned him a shouting at from WO2 (SSM) Stevie Bovan and a jailing from the Adjt, where he joined our OC – Maj Wally Drain who had been jailed earlier in the day for being 'too short and too northern'! A good day was had by all especially when the acting CO for the morning, LCpl Wood, ACC, fell the Regiment out for the rest of the day.

QUARTERMASTERS (T) DEPARTMENT
QM Capt Ray Cory
RQMS WO2 'Taff' Burdge

The Department has nearly got back to normality post the Christmas break and the Millenium has brought us the usual challenges of exercise, operations, RSIT etc. on the Kosovo front, seven accounts have been closed, only three to go, keep the midnight oil burning boys. The ESV crews have been busy with Sigs 'Chalky' White, 'Slug' Owen and 'Geordie' Ellis all getting their hands dirty competing for the best RSIT inspection report award, don't forget, the winner doesn't get slabbed. Sig Carter, nee Packman was encouraged to attend a two week skiing course which he thought was all downhill, it is noted the fresh air did him good as it is reported he has started to shave (though this is only hearsay).

Congratulations to LCpl 'Kerry' Johnston on her recent promotion, she is using her brand new stripe to good effect commanding our pack of young Signallers. Congratulations are also extended to SSgt 'Kev' Scott for managing to stay out of work for two days, word has it that he's in UK! A big welcome to Sgt 'Skip' Skipper RLC who has taken over from Sgt 'Vinny' Neil, and congratulations to Sgt 'Jock' Castle on his well deserved selection for promotion to Staff Sergeant.

REGIMENTAL MOTOR TRANSPORT
MTO SSgt Phil Hay
Tp SSgt SSgt Phil Hay

February started off quiet for HQMT, then there was a Squadron call out and, surprise, surprise, everything went according to SOP! Towards the end of February things started to get busy as the Regiment prepared for its first exercise since returning from Kosovo. There were plenty of early mornings and a fair share of late nights for the grafters in MT, particularly organising fuel re-sup with the UBRE's in Bielefeld being worked on. Monday 28 February arrived and kicked off Ex White Javelin, as always the long convoy drive to Werl provided its ups and downs with vehicles breaking down and cam nets flying around (we'll say no more QM)!! Once in the Exercise location it was all hands on deck to set up the Regimental A2 Ech, thanks are extended to Regimental Ops for ordering Ptarmigan silence, this kept the OC, Maj Wally Drain pinned to his mobile phone, whilst we grafted on everything and anything that moved. Week Two of the Exercise saw Ptarmigan silence lifted and the POL crews discovered that they were in demand, that is except for Sig 'Micky' Middleton who had more sleep than most people get in a year.

A couple of farewells in the troop, goodbye to Cpl Stu 'Jabba' Mead after a good four years in the MT, Stu started off in the MT as the store-man, once this was sorted he moved to the POL accounts and having picked up the nickname 'Stu Tischmarsh' he was rewarded with the job of Regimental photographer and latterly Squadron Barman – nice one Stu, good luck for the future. We are also losing Cpl 'GWA Bowman' who leaves us for the Regimental Gennie Bay, probably because he wants more time off for golf and volleyball! Welcomes are extended to Sig Clarke who joins us from training and Cpl Mark Knowles who replaces GWA moving in from the Gennie Bay.

FAMILIES OFFICE
Families Offr Capt Kev Jones

All is well in the Families Office, although the office is going through a change as the team are preparing for the Regiments move to Bruggen. Sadly we are losing Cpl 'Steve' Peacock, who is leaving the Army after 22 years service, he will be greatly missed by us all and the families he has worked so closely with. Also congratulations to Cpl 'Steve' Peacock on the marriage of his daughter Monika to LCpl 'John' McMahon, HQMT 7 Sig Regt, we hope they will be happy together. We would also like to welcome Sgt 'Jacko' Jackson, who has joined us from 232 Sig Sqn, we hope he settles in quickly. The main effort for the Regiment this month has been the Mozambique Fund Raiser, with all sorts of activities going on. One of these was The Custard pie Mob who are paid to hit various departments and personnel within the Regiment, this office was one of the departments, Sgt 'Les' Robinson, in his old age, was too slow to lock his door in time, therefore, he had to retire to the shower. Well that's all for this month folks, bye for now.

CHARLIE TROOP
Tp Comd Lt 'Aunt Sally' Evans
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Jock' Reid

First we say hello to SSgt 'Jock' Reid, Sgt Dave Bain, Cpl Paul Lomas and families. Also Cpl Nelly Shillito from 4 Bde and LCpl Rob Vickers from 1 (UK) ADSR we hope you all enjoy your time in sunny Krefeld. With half of the Squadron Signallers getting promoted we say goodbye and farewell to Sig 'Scouse' Kelly and Sig 'Canada' Dave Whitehurst both off to 3 Div to enjoy Bulford camp we also say goodbye to Sig 'Ski' Sosinski and Sig Andy 'Mac' Mcfarlane both of to 1 (UK) ADSR congratulations to them all on their promotions. We also say goodbye to LCpl Paul Brown and family off to 2 Sig Regt, congratulations on your promotion to Corporal. Also congratulations go out to LCpl Hopkinson on his recent marriage we hope all goes well in the future.

Now that the Troop is back from leave of some sort we are looking forward to a busy period with 1 Sig Bde exercises and RSIT. On this note the first exercise of the year has just passed. We deployed on Monday 28 February to Bielefeld. All went well at this location. The second phase of the exercise involved us doing a train move to Sennelager.

We left for the rail head at 0300hrs once we all arrived we expected to load the wagons straight away. The usual army thing happened we waited around until 0700hrs to start loadingand the train. We left the rail head at around 1000hrs that morning give or take a couple of minutes and all you could hear on the train was snoring. We were woken up around 1500hrsand unloaded the train. We then left for our first location which was a hide lots of sleep or so we thought. We were constantly practising our drills. We were in this location for about for about 24hrs before doing three moves in 48 hours. Until we were called into the network. After about 24 hours in the network the Troop had endex called we all returned safely. We are now looking forward to RSIT.

WHISKEY TROOP - by Sig J. Lafferty
Tp Comd Lt 'Allyson' Lawson
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Paul' Robson

The Troop has just recently seen a fair few departures over the past few week's so we would like to say good bye and good luck in the future to Nige (the civvi) Rowbottom, for a split second we all thought he may decide to change his mind and stay with us but at the end of the day the smell of Manchester was just to sweet for him to leave unattended. Sig Knowlden and the doormen of the saloon bar will especially miss him. Sig Jeff Townsley's knowledge of the switch will be missed, although on the Troop's last exercise he had every tech in location in the back of the wagon trying to fix the main lights which he said were not working, After working for two full days in complete darkness det comd Cpl Andy Morris thought it would be a nice idea to point out to our Jeff that in fact the lights were not broken but just hadn't been switched on in the first place. Thanks Cpl Morris for not pointing it out earlier. Sig George Spence, no matter how bad things ever were you could always guarantee that George would be walking round with a smile on his face which we are sure he will pass that on to all the young intake's down at sunny Blandford, and we are also sure he hasn't already forgotten were the G-spot is (have you George?). Cpl Gaz Barlow who has also decided to make a departure from the Army, Thursday nights will never seem the same now without one of Gaz's Quiz Nights in the Squadron bar. (Although his shoes have already been filled by, LCpl Perry Mason or as he likes to be known 'The Admiral') Finally farewell to Sgt Dunc Cupit who was not with the Troop for long but will surely not be forgotten in a hurry, this huge character within the Troop will truly be missed by all. The Troop also welcomes Sgt Kenny Macpherson, Cpl Andy Morris, their families and Sig Lewis Finlay who have all just recently joined us and already seem to be settling in quite nicely.

231 SIGNAL SQADRON
QUEBEC TROOP
Tp Comd SSgt 'Andy' Saunders
Tp Sgt Sgt 'Dean' Wilson

The Troop re-formed in February 2000 and now includes the Technical workshops run by Sgts 'Chris' Kelly and 'Tiny' Tindale, and the Soft Rover Group operators. The Troop was particularly busy during the recent Ex White Javelin with the SCRA (T) crews flying around northern Germany on spec tasks. The SYSCON crew managed to build a revamped ARRC Main HQ in quick time even though there were no staff. Sgt 'Lanyardman' Wilson and his team (mainly Quebec Tp lads) are busy training for the forthcoming Lanyard Trophy competition. A depleted team from the Troop took part in the Inter-Troop Football Competition in March and now have an unbeaten record to take forward to next month's event. Oscar Tp gave us a scare in the first game going 2-0 up in the first four minutes, but LCpl 'Twinkle-Toes' Moffat showed his mettle by leading the team through and came out eventual winners 4-2. The great come back from defeat spurred the team on and in the end we were too strong and swept all opposition away. Special mention must go to LCpl 'No Skill' Manns who won the coveted worst player of the tournament and he only played 15 minutes.

The Troop has welcomed Cpl 'Swany' Devlin, LCpl 'Funds' Evans, Sig 'Claudia' Schaffer and Sig 'Lee' Taylor who have all joined us from Radio Tp. Posted in were LCpl 'Dennis Finbarr' Long and Sig 'JP' Pearson both from training. Congratulations and 'Bye' to LCpl 'Souse' Jennings who moved to 7 Bde on promotion. Future events include the forthcoming marriages of LCpl 'Jimmy' Samuals and Sig 'Adam' Tasker.

OSCAR TROOP - 231 SIGNAL SQUADRON
MOZAMBIQUE FUND RAISER
by LCpl Matt Childs
Tp Comd Lt 'Tricky' Nicky James
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Robbo' Robertson

Before we get into what's been going on with Oscar Tp, a few hello's, goodbyes and congratulations. The Troop welcomes Sigs Pete Corr, Chris Heath, Sarah Hardy and Pete Stevens, all fresh from the factory. Also to newly promoted LCpls Phil Baynes and Sly McKay on inter troop postings, well done lads and welcome to the mighty Oscar. The Troop would also like to welcome Cpl Steve Ritchie, also on an inter troop posting. Goodbye goes out to the Troop Boss, Lt 'Tricky' Nicky James, who will shortly be leaving us for sunny New Zealand on Ex Long Look. Thanks for all the hard work ma'am, and all the best!

Congratulations to the newly spliced Sig Emily Hopkinson, on her marriage to Ian. All the best for the future, and we all hope the two of you will be happy for the years to come. Last but not least a special message of congratulations goes out to Sgt 'Cappo' Carpenter, for eventually finding his uniform and turning up for work, we hear he eventually tracked it down at the Corps Museum.

The Troop deployed on Ex White Javelin on 28 February for a two week ARRC exercise with one vital element missing……the Staff! What's the point we hear you cry, well it was the first time we had been able to practise our role as ARRC MAIN in the HIC role since out return from Kosovo, and for all the new bods in the Troop it was a well worthwhile experience that enabled them to see what the Troop and the Regiment is all about. The exercise was a success for all concerned, and the hierarchy seemed to be well pleased with the final result.

15 March, 2000, dawned clear and bright, as we all met up at Oscar Tp lines with the mission - 'To raise as much money as possible in aid of the flood relief in the Republic of Mozambique.' There was a twist however, thanks to our beloved Troop Staffy, in that we all had to turn up in fancy dress. Clear and bright it was.... and cold! (Ask LCpl 'Wiggy' Wiggins). We were all split into teams and scattered around the local area. One team was sent to JHQ, one to St. Tonis (280 (UK) Sig Sqn), one to BFHC Wegberg and the remainder stayed behind ad Krefeld. We hit a setback straight from the off in that Wegberg team were unable to collect on the station due to reasons beyond their control. Not before Sigs 'Smudge' Smith and Sam Clarke had managed to fleece the sum of DM 20 from the hospital staff though! The team had to set up shop as JHQ with on of the other teams.

A quick orders session on discovering that one of the Sqn Comds was French Maj Phil Baker, (Phillipe Boulanger) OC 232, the other Sqn Comd, Maj Wally Drain (OC HQ) was just a malingerer

The RSM can rest assured that all is in order...The End

The JHQ teams spent the whole morning running around the station ambushing people for their hard earned dosh. We knew no shame and no rank on station was safe from the ravages of Oscar Tp. The same can be said of the other locations, where the other collection teams acquitted themselves in typical Oscar style. The JHQ team stopped collecting at 1100hrs for a photo outside the 'Big House' with COSARRC and the senior RAF Officer on station. We were then let loose around HQ ARRC itself where another few hundred marks were raised, no thanks to the tight wads in COMMCEN BFG, much to the eternal shame of Cpl 'Appy' Applegarth and LCpl Matt Childs, who feel s that the honour of DTG's everywhere has suffered as a result. It was then back to Krefeld, where all the teams met up, and the dosh was combined. The money was then taken to the local Sparky Bank for changing and counting... the final total was a staggering DM 3910. Out of a Regiment total of DM 6000, we managed to raise more than half! Not bad for a morning of running about in daft cossies! All involved had a good laugh, and we managed to put a smile on a few faces in the process. At the end of the day, 'It's all for charity mate.' We can now all look forward to the Troop members all going their separate ways again in the next few months, with some of us off to Bosnia and some off to the Falklands for six-month tours. No rest for the wicked! Who knows what these trips will bring. Although there are bound to be a few stories to tell when we all get back together again next year.

RADIO TROOP

Tp Comd Capt 'Rich' Byfield
Tp Sgt Sgt Tony Downing

After such a long period of leave it has been a hard transition from civvie life back to the military jargon, but some lucky individuals managed a sledging expedition along with other members of the Squadron to Bavaria. Before any complacency set in, the Regiment deployed on Ex White Javelin, a two-week shake out which it seems wasn't long enough for the Ptarmigan troops, but as usual Radio Tp came through with flying colours. Obviously it wasn't all plain sailing as rusty Det commander Cpl 'Winnie' Whyte found out when he forgot what an inverted ' v' was for. The other Rebro commander Cpl 'Murph' Murphy decided to follow his Staff Sergeant's advice and go through a marsh to his grid. Unfortunately they both discovered that these rusty old trailers don't like mud, and the REME was sent to the rescue. HF proved a problem for LCpl 'Crappy' Crabb who struggled to put up his antennas from his doss bag. The troop welcomes Sigs Kelly 'Crippled already' Tweedie, 'Lurch' Burgess, 'Not very bright' Lightley. Farewells to SSgt 'Gorgeous' George Farrar who has left the ultimate reminder of him with his protégé 'Mini me' Bibby as he departs to 3 Div. Cpl 'Micky' Devlin who has moved across to Quebec Tp for a quieter life in his old age and 'Twizz' Twissell off to Aldershot and 101 Log Bde. Last but not least congratulations to Sgt Tony Downing on his selection for promotion to Staff Sergeant.

LIMA TROOP

It has been a busy period for the Troop over the last few months, the return from theatre went with out to much trouble apart from the loss of one of our land rovers which is know three foot shorter. Firstly the Troop would like to congratulate SSgt Dave Mitchell on his recent promotion to WO2 we wish him and his wife Petra all the best on they're new posting wherever that may be. Also the Troop would like to welcome three new baby linies from the factory Sigs, Barclay, Mitchell and Sig 'Dusting brush head' Hutton. The Troop has recently finished Ex White Javelin, were a few of the Troop members put on a cabaret for the rest. Lt 'Birds nest' Mayne was asked to go and help decam the vehicles after he pulled in about 500m of LDA quad but forgot to use the ACL and drum. A special mention should go to Cpl 'MT' Lamont, after he asked, so what sort of wires do we use then? To his credit every vehicle deployed with an adjustable spanner. A quick mention to Sgt 'Obvious and necessary' Yendel and LCpl 'Slab' Taylor, LCpl 'Dom' Reynolds, Sig 'Ears' Smith, and Sig 'I'm sure I should have my line belt by now' Jeffries, CHEERS mine's a Fosters. A final mention should go to Cpl 'I am just nipping off skiing' Dawson, lets hope he remembers that the mini bus works a lot better on diesel.

EXERCISE PISTE BACKSTOP 13 - 23 MARCH 2000

Members of Ex Piste Backstop Bavaria March

Sixteen hopeful skiers and two instructors set off on what should have been a routine journey from Krefeld to Bavaria. However, after the first pit-stop, the refuel carried out by Cpl Andy 'Benz' Dawson, as he was soon to be known, went horribly wrong. When the diesel minibus was refuelled with benz, and shuddered to a halt 2kms down the autobahn. Cpl 'Benz' Dawsons only defence was, 'I used the diesel pump'. the mistake left six members of the party awaiting recovery and subsequently four hours late to the bar.

After kit issue the party headed to the Austrian slopes for their first 'interesting' day of skiing. The group was split down into novices and intermediates as there were no advanced skiers. SSgt 'Jock' Reid drew the short straw and was responsible for instructing the novice group which included LCpl 'Wipeout' Holland, LCpl 'Manic' Mundy and Sig 'Wobbly' Whatmough. Cpl Dawson had the somewhat easier task of instructing group two which included Lt 'Doc' Farrimond, Sig 'Crazy' Sykes and Sig 'Scouse' Johnson.

The first few days were used to learn basic ski principles and manoeuvres, however after Day Two we lost Sig 'Crick' Wells to a stiff neck and Sig 'Chunder' McColm, for reasons of safety, but both were back in action very quickly. On Day Four we were joined by the 2IC of 232 Sqn, Capt Shenow, who had come to oversee operations. Due to bad weather and avalanche warnings, Saturday and Sunday became rest days and a trip to Garmish was organized by Cpl 'Kamikaze' Cansfield. A brilliant night was had by all especially Cpl Cansfield, Sig 'I'll never drink again' Anderson, LCpl 'Good time girl' Evans and Sig Conney Turner who paid a late night visit to the pool, minus costumes and accompanied by three Pathfinders from 16 Air Asslt Bde, apparently Sig 'Snogger' Read enjoyed herself also. An excellent second week skiing was had by all and saw the promotion of Sig 'Dusty' Miller and Sig 'Snowballer' McClaren to the intermediate group and the celebration of Sig 'White fang' Williams' birthday. After the two week exercise all of the students received their bsp, (basic ski proficiency) and had improved remarkably from their first day's performance. Many thanks goes out to organisers Lt Farrimond and SSgt Reid and to the Squadron for allowing the exercise.

232 SIGNAL SQUADRON
SQUADRON HEADQUARTERS TROOP

Sqn Comd Maj Baker
SSM WO2 (SSM) Carter

Firstly it is hail and farewell time, We say a sad goodbye to SSgt (SQMS) Pete Griffiths, who is off on promotion to sunny 14 Sig Regt and LCpl Simmons off (eventually) into civilian life. We wish them both all the best and hope that they get all they wish for in their chosen careers. On the new arrival front welcome to WO2 (SSM) Ian Carter from Northern Ireland, SSgt (SQMS) Ade Chapman from the Royal School of Signals, SSgt Cook from HQ Squadron and LCpl Ryall from RHQ. Welcome to all and enjoy!

On return to camp there has been a frenzy of phone calls to MCM Div (Through the correct channels of course) not to try to get out of the place but because several individuals have come off the promotion boards, Well done and congratulations to SSgt (YoS) Gaz Tabor, SSgt Ade Chapman, SSgt Shaun Cook and Sgt Steve Pulman. It's all fingers crossed for the postings now. Anyway we must dash now as we are all off on Exercise Lion Sun. We're looking forward to sun drenched photographs in the next edition.

14 SIGNAL REGIMENT (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)

CO Lt Col D. P. Meyer
RSM WO1 (RSM) Palmer

A slight change from the usual sports afternoon saw the CO, the four Squadron Commanders and the Squadron Sergeant Majors testing their marksmanship skills with the 9mm pistol, the SA80 and some clay pigeon shooting. The first problem was, the lack of Squadron Commanders with only Maj Harwood available for the duel. This left Capt Ingram, the newly promoted Capt White and Lt Reid representing the Officer's team. The second minor problem was the weather - when you can only see 30 metres it's just as well the Regiment only has a 25 metre range. First competition was the pistol shoot from various distances in a number of positions. A check of the scores revealed a second competition in the offing as a rather smug Lt 'Fraser' Reid proudly mouthed off to Capt 'Stevie Wonder' Ingram.

Lt Fraser Reid demonstrates a 'consistent' talent with a variety of weapons

Then came the easy shoot. A frame with some big targets, with big easy balloons and condoms, to be burst with an SA80 at 25m. After a quick burst of fire most frames were now draped in flaccid pieces of rubber. Except that of Lt Fraser 'Not so Smug' Reid whose target still resembled a cross between MacDonalds at the weekend and an Ann Summers party. This SA80 thing also provided a few problems for Maj 'Glenn' Harwood. He learns quickly though and was able to compare the 'new' rifle with the short chamber box Henry .45 calibre, 'We didn't need automatic at Rorke's Drift you know!!' Then we moved on to his speciality on the Clay Pigeon range. The CO led the way for the Officers, Lt Reid continued his run of bad luck scoring 0 and the Warrant Officers pulled into the lead. A magnificent 4 out of 20 from WO2 (SSM) Watson was the best score of the day.

Maj 'Glen' Harwood wins a firefight against some pretty vicious balloons at the Officers v Warrant Officers Range Day

We retired to 'The Lanes' for a few drinks and the prize giving. The trophy suspiciously engraved already was presented to the Warrant Officers as overall winners! A successful and enjoyable day thanks to the efforts of WO2 (SSM) Newton for the organisation, but especially to the two 'Trap-men' who endured long hours in pouring rain releasing clays.

226 SIGNAL SQUADRON (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)

Sqn Comd Maj Rob Meinertzhagen
SSM WO2 (SSM) Dave Watson

The Squadron has been undergoing a number of changes including the recent reorganisation of the Troops. Romeo Tp now also consists of Comms Tp together with the remnants of Hotel Tp. Several of the operators from 640 Sig Tp (EW) are also cross training with Romeo Tp whilst they are waiting for the completion of the vehicle transfer process. The Squadron has been busy supporting 16 Air Asslt Bde and is getting ready for the start of some very large exercises, combined with a very busy Squadron programme. The Squadron is also looking forward to Ex Devils Horizon 2000, Ascension Island, to train in an unfamiliar environment.

GOLF COMPETITION

The month of December was flying by, when we realised it was time to organise a Troop day out which took the guise of a golf competition. It all started at 0830hrs, at MacDonalds with a three course breakfast and then off to Haverfordwest Golf Club. A beautiful crisp winters day with snow capped mountains providing the perfect backdrop for what proved to be an interesting mixture of complete novices, Sgt Titus Reene and utter bandits, WO2 'Tiger' Phillips. First to tee off and to show the beginners the way to do it 'not' with a terrific hook was WO1 Mick Jones followed closely by WO2 (SSM) Dave Watson, who was using clubs designed for a midget (no not 'Q' Watton), preceded to slice the ball from one side of the fairway to the other. By the end of the day everyone found something they could do. Sig 'I'm not Welsh' Lloyd found the water and Sgt Titus Reene somehow found himself up a tree. Afterwards we met in the clubhouse for some sustenance and compare our scores (disasters), a fine time was had by all, with many of the Troop deciding to take up the game and others vowing never to play again!

CONGRATULATIONS

The Troop would like to congratulate FofS Huw Phillips and YofS Dick Rutherford on their well deserved selection for promotion to WO1, and finally a heart felt well done to Sig 'Bacon' Rolls for completing the SSM's parking space after only 4 months, his next project is how to breath in air without stealing it!

LEWT

Tp Comd WO2 (Supvr R) Jim Spiers
Tp SSgt SSgt Steve Brown

Light EW Troop has now finally completed the move across from 237 Sig Sqn. It has been a busy period re-organising equipment and preparing for JRRF Spearhead whilst much of our strength is away on courses. LEWT have supported both 1 and 2 Para at their respective CAST exercises across the country. Here it soon became apparent that many units have yet to grasp both the concept of EW and the benefits that friendly EW support can have. Thanks must go to 640 Signal Troop for hosting us on their air mobility training week. This enabled us to refresh the Troop's under slinging capability away from the distractions of camp and to rehearse for our increasing commitment to 16 Air Assault Bde. The week rounded off with a day's helicopter abseiling practice but unfortunately lack of aircraft meant we were restricted to synthetics. Despite having no real helicopter, the DS made enough noise to add realism to the day. The Troop welcomes a new OPSWO, WO2 Jim Spiers whilst we say farewell to Sgt Matt England who is departing onto his Supvr Radio course. Congratulations too to SSgt Steve Brown and his wife Angela on the birth of their new baby girl.

640 TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Ben White
Tp SSgt SSgt Frank Flaherty

Welcome back to Sig 'Carpet' Matzke and Sgt 'JJ' Walker (Oh we've missed you 'JJ') who have just come back from six months in Bosnia. Not forgetting a big welcome back to Sig 'I can't wait to get out of this place and join the Int Corps' Welton, unlucky Adam welcome back to 14 Sig Regt! Goodbyes to WO2 Andy Jensen and his wife Jeanette who are off to RAF Digby, Cpl Russ Ryan and Cpl Paul Pettman who have gone to Romeo Tp, Cpl Si Green who has gone to LEWT, LCpl Pete Sykes who has been posted to 30 Sig Regt, LCpl Mark Young who has been posted to 16 AA Bde. Finally goodbye to LCpl 'Mr Jamie' Young who has been posted to Civvi Street.

ROMEO TROOP

Tp Comd Lt H. J. Scott
Tp SSgt SSgt Murray

It has been a rather quiet period for the Troop, which has been involved in several demonstrations of the Beady Eye equipment and a communications training weekend. A group from Cardiff UOTC visited the Regiment and LCpl 'Stevo' Stevenson and LCpl 'Eddie' Edwards showed them how to put up a PU 12, work a range of communications equipment and also how to set up a detachment. The second day of the visit saw them taking part in a short exercise carrying out normal routine for a communications detachment. At the same time half the Troop was assisting with the Odette 'Soft' trials - Ex Littoral Dragon 6-17th March.

The Troop would like to congratulate Cpl 'Callum' Black on his promotion to Sergeant and wish him the best of luck in Northern Ireland. The Troop welcomes back the guys from Kosovo, Lt Scott, SSgt Geoff Murray, Cpl 'Stu' Latham, LCpls 'Stu' Kelly and Geoff Fawcett, Sigs 'Baz' Mceachy and 'Mike' Meghee. Also a warm welcome to Sigs '10 letters a day' Cullen and Bailey into the Troop. Farewell and the best of luck to Sgt 'Gaz' Campbell who has been transferred to 245 Sig Sqn (EW) along with Cpl 'Rus' Ryan.

237 SIGNAL SQUADRON (ELECTRONIC WARFARE)

Sqn Comd Maj Jon Dakin
SSM WO2 'Deano' Richardson

EXERCISE DEVILS HORIZON 12 FEBRUARY - 3 APRIL 2000

Ex Devils Horizon was a 237 Sig Sqn (EW) communications exercise based in Kenya. The two month deployment saw the Squadron practice electronic warfare, in theatre communications including VHF and HF equipment, providing a long range HF link back to the UK incorporating RACE equipment and providing a comsec monitoring facility against 1st Battalion The King's Regiment who had deployed on Ex Grandprix 2/00.

Once it was decided that 237 Sig Sqn would deploy to Kenya the Squadron dispatched WO2 (Supvr R) Mike Oshorne and SSgt (YofS) 'Taff' Thomas as the recce team in October 1999. They were accommodated in five star luxury hotels and judging by the postcards and photographs had a marvellous time but, in addition, they did manage to return with a comprehensive recce report. The main concern would be how would the equipment and personnel stand up to the extreme temperatures and generally harsh environments expected in Kenya. A rigorous beat-up programme was planned and involved many late nights and headaches for the Squadron Operations Team. It was a ground breaking exercise for the Squadron but it was an unique opportunity to practice live skills in a demanding environment. Once all the mandatory lessons, jabs and briefings were completed it was time to load the equipment and wait for flight confirmations. The departure date was changed, moved and eventually brought forward a week and so on 12 February 2000 some 40 Kenya virgins deployed from RAF Brize Norton destined, via Manchester and Bahrain, for Nairobi.

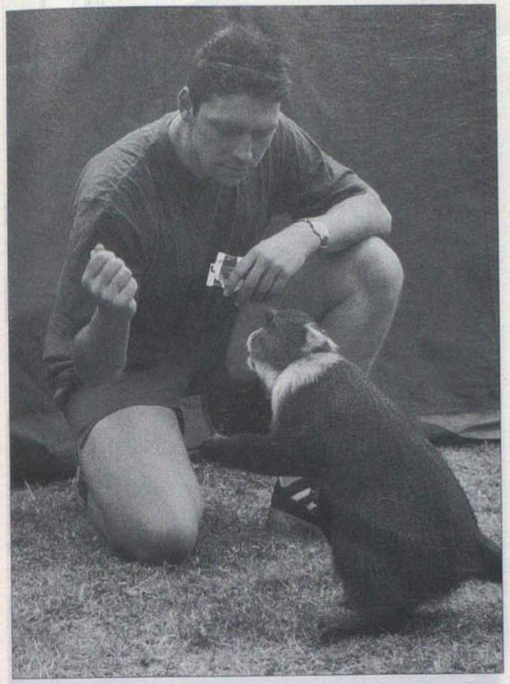
On arrival they were met by SSgt (SQMS) Glen 'Arrows' Kitchen who assured everyone that he had made good contact with British Army Training and Liaison Team Kenya (BAUSK) and everything was sorted! The whole party was transported in 'luxury' coaches, Kenyan-style, northwards to the Nanyuki Show Ground, home for the Squadron Command Post and Echelon for the next eight weeks. The accommodation consisted of two 18x24 tents situated in what is best described as a dust bowl - but what the heck, this is the African experience after all. The first week was spent moving from one tent to another in search of better accommodation. At the same time site recces were conducted and our resident Operations Warrant Officer (OpsWO) who had been on the recce party in October was navigationally embarrassed and unable to lead us to one of his pre-recced sites. The initial days were also spent acclimatising and waiting for our vehicles, freight and equipment to arrive from the UK. The searing heat and the high altitude of some 2500m made acclimatisation difficult. The initial PT sessions were torturous with several Squadron Members experiencing altitude sickness and random nose bleeds. Sgt 'Flying doctor' Hambleton was kept busy giving out sick chits and even managed to excuse himself from the training as well.

Things became worse when 1st Battalion The King's Regiment staged a relief in place with the out going 1st Battalion The Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders. The Nanyuki Show Ground designed to house 350 suddenly had over 1000 thirsty and dusty soldiers. A water crisis developed and as a result there was no available drinking water, no showers and the toilets became a health risk. The deployment of our detachments into their field locations was therefore put on hold until the drinking water crisis was solved. Within two days the Royal Engineers had tapped into a water source to provide shower and toilet facilities and 70,000 litres of drinking water arrived from somewhere? Our three detachments were then able to deploy to their field locations. The two Barracuda dets deployed to training areas at Mpala and Solio while the rebroadcast station was located half way up Mt Kenya at 10,000ft above sea level. Things quickly began to take on some order. The detachments had set up their defences, but not so much against a traditional enemy but as protection against the local tribal warriors and the extensive assortment of wild animals in their AOR's. The Mpala det resembled a medium sized Brigade communications site with field latrines, showers, eight weeks self sufficient POL, tents various and a vast array of EW antennas. The det was plagued by wildebeest with LCpl 'Moz' Morris harassed at the latrines by a pack of hyena and Cpl Dave Janvier spotting a lion whilst out running, and running and running .....

Midway through their stay the det was caught up in a major incident when a Kenyan military vehicle was involved in a RTA a few kilometers from its location. SSgt Tony Watters led a team to the assist with the situation. They were joined by a nurse who was attached to B Coy, 1 Kings and together they attended the casualties. One casualty sustained a fractured femur and required casevac by air. The remaining casualties were taken to our detachment where first aid was administered. The casualties who between them had chest injuries, a suspected fractured pelvis and various open wounds were taken to Nairobi hospital the next day. The crew were commended for their diligent work and enthusiastic approach to a situation that could quite easily have been ignored. This incident highlighted a difficult problem regarding humanitarian aid. A high percentage of the population suffer from AIDS and attending any gory scene necessarily causes individuals to query their own safety. It is a dilemma many local Kenyans have to live with on a regular basis. The Solio det had the luxury of a stand-pipe at its location although like all our dets, they had only menu A or B compo rations to eat so were fairly sick of chocolate pudding by the eighth week. Sgt Jez Ward and Cpl Richie Bretherick spent most of their off-shift time running. A combination of their scrawny physiques, the added effects of compo and their healthy sun tans meant that they blended in well with the local population!

The RRB crew were involved with their own major incident. The det commander had called in a casevac report to aid a military mountaineer who was suffering from altitude sickness and heat stroke whilst attempting to climb Mt Kenya. The AAC helicopter that was dispatched, whilst attempting to land at the RRB HLS, created such a sea of dust that the pilot was unable to see. As he attempted to clear the area the rotor hit a tree causing the helicopter to crash. The incident occurred only 30m from the RRB detachment. The pilot who was suffering from shock was treated by our crew of LCpl 'Lagger' Lee (promoted during the Exercise), Sig 'Biggsie' Hancock and Sig Louise Magill who had witnessed the whole incident. During the exercise the Squadron were fortunate to have ten places allocated to them on the 1 Kings BG jungle training phase. Here our section came face to face with Sgt 'Taff' Morgan also of 14 Sig Regt but attached to 1 Kings as a Jungle Warfare Instructor. Our jungle virgins (all volunteers!) learnt basic survival skills and jungle routine, They all returned as super slim, bearded warriors (less the girls) and were even keen to tuck into cookhouse food again.

The RRB det situated at 10, 000ft was plagued by wild monkeys that knew every trick to get anything shiney or edible. This included jumping into a moving vehicle and extracting Sgt Dave Keenan's camera. This was an act which the monkey immediately regretted as Cpl Seth 'Clobber' Campbell (19 stone super heavy weight boxer!) conducted a hot pursuit resulting in a retrieved camera and a bruised monkey.



Sig Hancock, 'Try that again and you'll have this to chew on!'

All Squadron personnel were withdrawn back to the Squadron Echelon in the build up to the comsec monitoring phase. Two Barracuda monitoring teams were deployed to Archers Post, a remote training area to the north rumoured to have the third hottest average temperatures in the world where they came under the direction of the Troop Commanders Analysis Detachment (TCAD). Echelon with our intrepid REME mechs Cpl 'The Riverside Pimp' Cleary and LCpl Daz O'Connell plus our Intelligence Corps hierarchy WO2s Mick Sheppard and 'local boy' Si Taylor remained at Nanyuki (keeping an eye on the swimming pool) so each det was effectively on a self-sufficient hard routine detail for seven days. The schedule was punishing with temperatures reaching 450C making shift work difficult for those who had to sleep during the day. The FTX finished with a series of mobile EW teams led by Cpl Janvier and Cpl Garner deploying to remote Op sites where the Royal Engineer had pre-laid BATS1M which provided an interesting early morning wake up call!

ADVENTUROUS TRAINING

Mid-way through the exercise the Solio and RRB dets were withdrawn to Ech to allow some adventurous training to take place. The whole package was the brain-wave of Lt Phil 'My head's burnt' Waddell, ably supported by Lt ' Tigger' Coleman and SSgt Tony Watters.

Ex Devils' Horizon gave 237 Sqn a unique opportunity to carry out adventurous training in a fascinating and challenging environment. By the nature of the country alone the week long package was to prove extremely adventurous and most enjoyable. The Squadron was rotated through a series of different activities during the week long package. The activities on offer were horse and camel trekking, white water rafting and a 4-day trek to one of the peaks of Mount Kenya. The wild life in Kenya was not to some people's liking particularly when asked to ride it. I am of course here referring to the camels upon whose backs we were to spend some time trekking. As the camels were brought over a ridge line down to where we were waiting the look of horror on some faces was a sight to behold. However, those expressions of horror were soon to be surpassed by sheer alarm when the camels started to express there own dismay at the sight of the future riders. I do not know which was funnier, the noise of a camel snorting or the look on Cpl Daz O'Connell's (REME) face as he announced, 'I'm not getting on that! No way!' The ride was uncomfortable and the camels were less than motivated, deciding on several occasions to refuse to camel. The camels were tied together in a chains of two or three throughout the trek which made it easy for the guides to control them. In theory that is. The camels on which PO Pip Dredge and Sig Rob Leyland were riding received the award for best comedy actors. First of all PO Dredge's camel sat down rather disgruntled only to be roused back into action by a swift whip from the guide. As camel number one regaining its composure Sig Leyland's camel decided that this was a good wheeze and followed suit. There then continued a comedy sketch of yo-yo camels which if it had not been so amusing had the potential to have been terribly painful.

Sig Rob Leyland, 'Get me off this creature!'
Camel, 'Get this creature off me!'

The white water rafting could have been more aptly named brown water rafting for the water levels were extremely low. However, the instructors kept the groups busy and entertained. The safety brief was not for the faint hearted. After a matter of seconds on how to paddle and direct the boat through the water Andreas, our instructor for the day, frightened the life out of the unsuspecting by going through a series of actions on snakes in the boat. One of the preferred actions on snakes falling into the boat is to jump into the water, but the next set of actions on was soon to dissuade against that. Actions on crocodiles!! Andreas then proceeded to go into the mechanics of retrieving one's paddle from the crocodiles mouth whilst getting it into a head-lock from which he assured us the crocodiles would not be able to escape. Of course the more discerning amongst the groups soon realised that Andreas's tongue was firmly pressed into his cheek. Some, however, were taken on more than a white water ride. To my mind the most adventurous part of the week was the 4-day trek to Mount Kenya. It is an experience the kind of which few had encountered previously, and which I am sure will remain in people's memories for many years to come. The ascent was broken into three legs, each of which took the groups between huts at various altitudes up the mountain. The biggest shock came roughly ten minutes after the start point as the effect of the altitude took hold of everybody. To operate at an altitude of approximately 2,500m above sea level is difficult but when the activity involves climbing to greater altitudes the effects are more pronounced. Having conducted a recce it was decided that an acclimatisation day would be needed on reaching McKindas hut after the second leg. The day was spent climbing to Tyndall Tarn (lake) and Tyndall Glacier. The Tarn was azure blue and freezing cold as it was fed directly from the glacier. Despite this, some intrepid explorers decided to take a dip. Maj Dakin was the first to take the plunge in his group, swiftly followed by Cpl 'Seth' Campbell who did a guided tour of all the rocks protruding from the icy waters (of which there were several). He took to it literally like a fish to water. Another daring member of the group was Sig Lou Magifi who proceeded to put on a fine show of how to keep warm in sub zero waters. I do not think that the drills were necessarily designed for glacial water as the goose bumps could be seen from 100 paces!

The final day of the trek saw the ascent to Point Lennana at altitude of 4985m. This was an achievement of which all those who made it should feel rightfully proud. We set off from McKindas Hut at 0230hrs and traveled extremely slowly up a steep scree slope for approximately two hours. It is difficult to describe the effect of the altitude when one reaches approximately 4000m, but it most certainly does not feel healthy. Headaches are common and persistent, the mere thought of food is enough to induce nausea and the gradient of the scree produced a phenomena commonly termed 'screaming calves'.

LCpl Daz O'Connell, WO2 Mick Sheppard, Cpl 'Giff' Giffin, Cpl Ritchie Bretherick, PO Dredge at Tyndali Tarn

The final few 100 metres climb were treacherous in places and not for the faint hearted. The view from the top, in spite of the biting cold winds was well worth the effort and pain involved. I believe that despite some moaning on the climb up, the satisfaction of completing such a climb exceeded any reservations anyone had. The experience was an awesome one and the sheer sense of achievement will be difficult to better. Unfortunately our expected recovery dates were put back for several days which allowed the Squadron to arrange some more adventurous training activities. The main activity on offer was paragliding under instruction from Sgt Hope. The instruction was carried out in 2-day packages which saw most individuals on a solo flight. Many were seen to be dragged down the hill on their faces as the wind direction was misjudged or on their behinds as personal weight was underestimated. But all in all fun was had by everyone and some have been bitten by the bug and are thirsty for more. The Kenyan experience was excellent and the adventurous training package complemented that wonderfully. All those who took part enjoyed themselves and will have great stories to tell those back in the UK.

Hello and Congratulations to 'New Bloke' WO2 (SSM) Griffiths and goodbye and congratulations to 'Old Bloke' now WO1 (RSM) Fisher of 35 (South Midland) Signal Regiment (Volunteers). Also Congratulations and farewell to our two new Ruperts. There was much cause for celebration on the commissioning of WO1 (Now Capt) Pip Ashworth R Signals and WO2 (Now Capt) Pierre Kennedy Int Corps.

EXERCISE LITTORAL DRAGON

This was the System Operation and Field Trial (SOFT) for Project Odette, the next generation EW equipment. More importantly it was the culmination of several months of detailed planning resulting in a Squadron deployment to support the trial. 245 Sig Sqn were augmented by personnel from 226 and 237 Sig Sqns. Other trial participants included Y Troop Royal Marines, personnel from procurement agencies, DERA, HQ RACAL.

The Squadron subsequently spent two weeks based primarily on the airfield at Blandford putting the equipment through its paces. Tests ranged from the technical capabilities to the human factors considerations. The latter concerned mainly with health and safety but also included a requirement to put Sgt Butler and his crew into NBC equipment and conduct a set-up time trial.

Lt 'Fi' Stewart looks on as Sgt Butler's detachment conducts set-up drills in NBC suits

Toward the second half of the first week the detachments were deployed to form a base-line ranging from Salisbury Plain in the North to Lulworth Cove on the south coast. The detachments varied from the Squadron's integral Armoured platforms, 237's wheeled and the Royal Marines BV206 sensors.

The deployment of the sensors gave the Squadron hierarchy the extra onerous task of regular visits to the detachments. The 'Michelin' detachment hospitality guide was an assessment of how long it took for visitors to be offered a brew and also gives an indication of the quality of the biscuits. SSgt 'Nuclear-Reactor' Newton Roberts was close to gaining a top five star recommendation, however the winner was that of Sgt Hunt by virtue of his location. The Compton Abbas airfield cafe saw everything from the POL re-supply to a Squadron 0 Group throughout the following week!

Despite the high tempo of the exercise the Squadron still had time to say farewell to WO1 Phil Ashworth who was to be commissioned and posted to 11 EOD. After several years as the Operations Warrant Officer of the Squadron, Pip had never been in a moving panzer. That was all to change, as he was sat upon by a couple of our heavy weights, put in the commanders coppola to be driven to the Sergeants' Mess, where a surprise farewell dinner had been laid on.

Sgt Butler looking better than ever!

16 SIGNAL REGIMENT

VISIT BY THE LORD MAYOR OF LEICESTER

16 Sig Regt's link with the city of Leicester began with the civic twinning of Krefeld and Leicester while the Regiment was stationed in Krefeld, prior to the Regiment moving to Rheindahlen in 1994. Furthermore, as Leicestershire is one of the counties within the Regiment's primary recruiting area, the Regiment has continued to strengthen its ties with the City. In February this year the Lord Mayor, The Right Worshipful Phil Swift, and The Lady Mayoress, Marilyn Hall JP, accepted the Regiment's invitation to be guests of honour at the Kosovo Medal Parade.

The Operation Agricola medal recipients FofS Duff (Front R) was also awarded the 'Regimental Cheesey Grin Award'

As Sig Sims receives her medal from the Lord Mayor, Maj Turner becomes increasingly concerned that there are not enough medals left over for him!

As one of his final duties prior to assuming his appointment as DCOS, 1 Signal Brigade, the Regimental 2IC, Maj Jonathan Turner, took the parade. After many early morning rehearsals and the obligatory last minute changes, the day of the parade arrived, and with it - snow! In true British 'the show must go on' style (or was it 'I am determined to be presented with my first gong' attitude of the 2IC) events moved under the shelter of 230 Sig Sqn garages. Over 160 soldiers were on parade to receive their medals from the Lord Mayor and Commander 1 Sig Bde, Brig David McDowall MBE. As well as campaign medals, several members of the Regiment were awarded medals for specific acts of gallantry or exemplary service. The parade was in recognition of the Regiment's deployment between February and December 1999 to Macedonia, Kosovo, Northern Greece and Italy in support of the ARRC on Op Agricola.

Singled out for special honours were LCpl Christian Perry and Sig Stephen Whitworth (Commander Kosovo Force Commendation), SSgt (FofS) Matthew Duff and LCpl Darren Kirby (Queen's Commendation for Valuable Service), and Cpl Duncan Windsor (Mention in Despatches). LCpl Perry extracted himself and his Ptarmigan detachment from a hostile situation in Skopje when an explosive device detonated on his vehicle bonnet. Sig Whitworth worked 20-hour days to deliver the power requirement when NATO entered Kosovo. As a member of the ATacCS team, FofS Duff was critical to the design and deployment of a C2 system at HQ KFOR in Macedonia. LCpl Kirby commanded an isolated detachment on the Kosovo border with great professionalism despite being a potential target for Serbian fire. Cpl Windsor and his team were surrounded by a mob of 1600 people while en route through Skopje, who smashed the vehicle windows and tried to drag the soldiers out. He beat off the attackers and got the team to safety. Praising the Regiment for its effort in the Balkans, the Lord Mayor said, 'The young men and women of 16 Sig Regt did a superb job as part of the Kosovo campaign. I am proud and honoured to be here today, representing the City of Leicester, to present these awards.' In a busy day for the Lord Mayor, he also presented Long Service and Good Conduct Medals to WO2 (RQMS) Mark Giles, SSgt (FofS) Bob Vowles, Sgts Haslam, 'Chalky' White, Kit Knight, 'Gaz' Tanner, 'Smudge' Smith and Cpl Mick Beeson.

With official duties over, it was time for a spot of lunch in the Sgts' Mess and a chance to relax prior to the evening's entertainment: a Regimental Ladies Guest Night in the Officers' Mess. Taking his interpretation of hosting to the extreme, Capt Nick Bruce was last seen in a corner of the bar with the Lord Mayor in deep conversation and consuming large tots of whisky behind a thickening blanket of cigarette smoke. Lt Oliver Dinnis finally realised that breaking the newly presented port decanter would not be in his best career interest after the Commanding Officer's clear advice! On the final morning of the visit the Regiment laid on a demonstration of its deployable assets. Finding the operation of a switch a bit taxing, the Lord Mayor looked intrigued, as we all were, as the Master Chef, Sgt Mickeljohn explained how to make fruit juice from a rat pack sweet. A quick shopping trip and tour of the local area, ably escorted by SSgt Paul Youd, sent our guests off to Leicester with fond memories and full suitcases. The visit succeeded in strengthening our ties with Leicester and the Midlands. Well done to all those who made it such a success.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON – EXERCISE WHITE JAVELIN

by Cpl Tipping

Another year, another millennium, and once again another busy exercise programme, kicking off with our old favourite Ex White Javelin. HQ Squadron once again provided the ERV support, with Cpl Ferguson and LCpl Smith deployed with 230 Sig Sqn and Cpl Tipping, LCpl Davies and SSgt 'I'm only part of the crew' Bath supporting 255 Sig Sqn. Last but not least, Cpl Johnson and LCpl Jowett deployed in the Radio ERV at Echelon. There were, however, a few familiar faces missing, most notably Cpl Connor due to his ERV 'refusing to work'. There were also the 'three one-armed bandits' who managed to avoid all the fun. These were Sgt 'Kartman' Rutter whose driving skills leave a lot to be desired, Cpl 'Ooh I've hurt my shoulder' Harricon and Cpl McKenna who had a strange desire to find out how far he could fall before breaking his arm.

As the first exercise of the year it was time to blow away the cobwebs and fine tune our high intensity war fighting skills. This was the roundabout way of telling us we would be moving a lot and putting up and taking down cam nets frequently. The first week was spent on training areas practising our skills, which then ran into a second week in which we were involved in a high intensity conflict. Luckily enough the 'conflict' was so intense that it was all over by Friday morning and so we set off home for vehicle turn around, weapon cleaning and a well-earned rest. We can hardly wait for the next exciting instalment of the Regiment's exercise programme.

REGIMENTAL HOCKEY

16 Sig Regt became the BA (G) Major Unit Hockey champions for the third successive year. The Regiment overcame 1 AAC at Quebec Barracks, Osnabruck. The game started well with the Regiment taking an early lead through Cpl Jamie Butt from a well-worked penalty corner routine. Shortly before the break 1AAC equalised with a similar corner penalty routine. The second half started well with an early goal from Sig Rob Brown. The score remained the same with the Regiment dominating the play until Cpl Jamie Butt and Sig Rob Brown each added another goal to make the final score 4–1. Earlier in the day the Regiment edged a well-fought semi-final win against 21 Engr Regt. With an early 3-0 lead with goals from SSgt Neil Perm, Cpl Jamie Butt and Sig McIntyre the Engineers fought back and took a 4–3 lead. However, our individual skills paid dividends and the Regiment ran out 5-4 winners after efforts from Sgt Martin Jeans and Sig Rob Brown. After winning the BA (G) Army Cup the Regiment went forward to represent Germany in the Army Cup held in Aldershot. Although the Regiment put up a good fight they went out to the eventual winners of the competition, 42 Survey Squadron RE.

HELLOS AND GOODBYES

Since our last entry we have seen some comings and goings. Firstly, we bid farewell to Maj 'Al' Thomas and his wife Sue, who went off to join Maj Gen Raper at DCSA (UK); good luck for the future. Taking over the mantle is Maj Brian Greenwood, who arrived all the way from G6 HQ ARRC; welcome to both you and Heather, and we hope you enjoy your stay. Also newly arrived are Sig 'Orb' Robin, posted to the Squadron from Colchester, and LCpl Fisher, poached from 255 Sqn.

CONGRATULATIONS

Well done to SSgt (SQMS) 'Andy' Dixon on his success at Bisley in receiving his Top 100 badge; good luck again this year. Also, a special welcome into the world for 'Baby Jessica' the latest addition to Capt 'My baby will sleep through the night' O'Rourke and his wife Jan.

EXERCISE PACIFIC FALL – FIELD FIRING CAMP HYTHE AND LYDD, 3 SECTION

The Section arrived at the Camp and soon settled into the luxury accommodation. The section members, who were drawn from all areas of the Squadron soon gelled together as a team. The first few days were basic ITDs to prepare us for the more interesting and certainly more demanding range work ahead. As a section, no one really shone in the shooting department at the beginning, especially Sigs John 'True or False' Blackman and Ian 'Firing Pin' Pirie. Morale was always high with the help of the pep talks given by our illustrious Section Commander Cpl Mick ' Start Sparking' Wood. We also had the added bonus of having 2Lt James 'what causes phosphorous burns?' Mason in our section, who had the most amazing talent of asking the most ridiculous questions. The more advanced range work brought out more characters like Combat Clerk LCpl Annette 'Spare Ribs' Orange and LCpl Verity 'GI' Gough, who both proved that they could shoot better than the men. Everyone enjoyed using other weapons like the LAW 94 mm and the GPMG, which was a favourite for both the ladies in the Section, (hmmn, wonder why?), but also for 2IC Cpl Paul 'Which way is left?' Meardon and Sig Scott 'Where is the burger van?' Hendry. The whole two weeks went very well with all members playing a vital role. This became apparent when we won the 'Best Section' award, which shocked us greatly but pleased us even more.

4 SECTION

From the start, Section 4 was labelled as the 'Biff Section' but, as the days progressed, those assumptions were soon quashed. Under the command of Cpl Steff 'voicebox' Lake and ably assisted by Cpl Ritchie 'Sniper' Widdison, the Section swiftly flew to the top of the scoring table, which is where they stayed for most of the exercise. Whilst on the ranges, Section 4 excelled in the shooting aspects, acquiring some of the highest scores during the exercise. Everyone in the Section enjoyed the two weeks especially Sig Sarah 'GPMG' Wilcock and LCpl Gav 'Show me a tank and I'll hit it' Ruckledge, who demonstrated how to fire a LAW 94 mm.

INITIAL IMPRESSIONS – by 2Lt James Mason

Fresh out of school and even fresher out of a short period of training at both Sandhurst and Blandford, I joined 16 Sig Regt to complete my Gap Year Commission. After a week or two of finding my way around the Regiment and JHQ I was lucky enough to go on Ex Pacific Fall, giving me the opportunity to brush up my rather basic military skills. The Exercise was organised by 252 Sig Sqn into four Sections and I was fortunate enough to be in the Section commanded by Cpl 'I will stop talking soon' Mick Wood. I was warmly welcomed into the Section and soon became part of the friendly banter, being a constant source of amusement due to my lack of experience. Our first few days were spent completing the relevant ITDs and zeroing our rifles (although in some cases it made little difference to our shooting abilities). Having only fired a rifle once before, I was learning everything from scratch and consequently, I was not very surprised that I was not leading the field. However, I was pleased with my progress over the two weeks and finished well above bottom of the group. I was especially pleased at achieving the highest score in the Pairs Fire and Manoeuvre Shoot with Sig 'True or false' Blackman, as neither of us had done particularly well up to this point. Having passed through the lower level shoots in the first week, we moved on to the more advanced range work for the second week of the competition. The highlight was probably firing the LAW 94 mm and also the Fire Discipline Range, which involved shooting at moving enemy targets who were using moving civilians as cover. The Exercise built up to a live firing section attack, which began by wading through some very wet and smelly ditches. It just goes to show how involved I got that I did not realise just how wet, cold, muddy and bruised I was until we arrived back at the Troop Shelter at the end. Evenings were spent with lectures covering skills needed for the next day, sorting our kit as best we could and shopping at the 24 hour Tesco just down the road (a godsend!). At the weekends we hit Folkstone with a passion as we had been banned from drinking the day before any live firing. Overall Ex Pacific Fall was a great experience. I thoroughly enjoyed myself and learnt many new lessons.

HELLOS AND GOODBYES

Goodbye and all our best wishes to the following: Cpl Matt White, Cpl Arnie Renforth, LCpl 'Witch' Southwick, LCpl Jim Dryden, LCpl Mike Napier and Sigs Dick and Hayley Danby. Posted in trying to fill the gaps are: Cpl Mark Aplin, LCpl 'Giz' Stainer, LCpl Ian Farrow, Sig 'Taff' Davies and Sig 'Ski' Kedezierski.

CONGRATULATIONS

Well done to the following: SSgt 'Jonah' Jones on his recent selection for promotion to WO2. Sgt 'Harry' Harris on passing his Sergeant's Course (apparently it was a really hard course!), LCpl Neil Frazer on eventually getting his first tape and LCpl and Mrs Matt Stowell on their recent addition to the family (is it true that she is already tucking into pork scratching's?)

EWT – by Sgt Tim Rigby

During the period 14 -25 February Sgt 'Trigger (abominable snowflake)' Rigby and Sig 'Snow Queen' Griggs disappeared from the Troop to embark on a two-week 'Bavarian swan' (Exercise Winter Training). The aim of the training was to learn vital skills such as skinning up in preparation to climb mountains, dig snow holes and live like fish fingers for the night. Tabbing up and down 'them yonder hills' wasn't quite what the little snow dwarves had expected but nevertheless Sgt Rigby's life was heartened by the constant support from Sig Griggs, who often found himself hiding under drifts of powder snow having 'crashed and burned'. Needless to say the rest of the Troop were envious of the deep tans and numerous stories of daring exploits from our two intrepid heroes.

CABLE RECORDS PROJECT – by LCpl Chris Lees

I have been involved in the recording of circuit and cable records for some time now at RAF Bruggen and firmly believed that computerisation of the paper-driven method would greatly enhance the process. So with this in mind, in my own time, I created a small database to allow quick and easy access to telephone circuit records. In August last year, during a visit to RAF Bruggen, SSgt Gorman noticed the system I had implemented and notified CPD in Blandford. A project was started between SSgt Gorman and myself to produce a Corps-wide package for all Telemech/SWS units around the globe in order to standardise the process.

In January 2000 an improved version of the package, known as ReeMan (Records Management Database) was demonstrated at Blandford. A similar package was also demonstrated and, as a result, a new partnership was formed between myself, SSgt Gorman and SSgt Elliott from 259 Sig Sqn, who had produced a huge amount of work for his own proposed project. In March 2000 the team met in Cyprus and both packages were looked at. After a week of intense work a final package, CCMD 2000, was produced. In addition, methods of training and maintenance were discussed with training being introduced at Class 3 and Class 1 level. This will be presented to CPD in May 2000 and the package will be made available to all units shortly after.

BORNEO TROOP

Tp Comd WO2 (YofS) Hartshorne
Tp SSgt SSgt Nick 'Drive time' Hawkins

Borneo Troop is responsible for the IT training of all Staff Officers from HQ ARRC and 1 Sig Bde. This responsibility required new premises and a training facility was built last year in the old RHQ building of 16 Sig Regt. The Javelin House Training Centre was officially opened in May 1999 by Maj Gen Raper CBE, Chief Executive of DCSA. The facility comprises four LAN suites, a lecture theatre and a Comms Control Suite. There is also Ptarmigan capability and the LAN suites can be transformed into an exercise HQ. Since the initial opening over 500 students have completed various courses and given lots of positive feedback. Javelin House will be put through its paces in April 2000, when the Centre becomes a fully operational HQ for Ex Arrcade Warrior. We say goodbye to Capt Pete Stoddart, Sgt George McGuire, Cpl Jim Gwinell and LCpl Dave Storey and wish you luck in your new jobs. We also say hello to WO2 (YofS) Stu Hartshorne and Cpl Robson and hope you enjoy your stay with us.

230 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj J. L. Smart
SSM WO2(SSM) A. Churchward

The Squadron, now all returned from Kosovo and Macedonia has had time to recuperate and prepare for the next challenge. Little did the Squadron know but the tide of change was just about to strike. January saw the disappearance of TN014 and its reformation as TN017. It also saw the raising of Support Tp, which carries on the tradition of supporting the rest of the Squadron as TN014 claimed to have done! SHQ has suffered a bit of a shake up due to the unfortunate parachuting accident of the Sqn 2IC, Capt Glynn Buxton. Our thoughts and those of the Regiment go out to Glynn and his family and we wish you a speedy and full recovery. The new 2IC is Nigel 'Its only 50km, who's coming' Francis-McGann who joins us on attachment from 2 Regt AAC while he waits for the Army Air Corps to build a helicopter large enough for him to finish his Pilots Course in. As if this wasn't enough, the Squadron has just learned that we are to loose our backbone, WO2 (SSM) A. Churchward to the 'the cauldron' or Regt Ops! SSgt (FofS) M Duff leaves to move a little further away, at least 800m up the road. We wish them the best of luck in RHQ and 252 Sqn respectively and thank them both for their contribution to the Squadron, Regiment and Corps on Op Agricola and on our transition back to more peaceful climes. WO2 (SSM) 'Calls a spade, a spade' Hood and SSgt (FofS) Pace will both have a hard act to follow, but when they pass their CAT 8 Skydiving/Squadron Entrance Tests, the Squadron will be well placed to carry on providing robust and resilient networks for the access squadrons!

SUPPORT TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Rebecca Knightly-Brown
Tp SSgt SSgt J 'I support Rangers' McNeill

To keep up with the climate of change, TN014 was reformed as TN017 and the prime movers were prepared for their move into Light Care and Preservation. With the change of title also came a change of command and the troop bade farewell to Lt Lucy 'It must have slipped' Thirsk. She leaves to join HQ 101 Log Bde and claims that she will double the bar intake of The Pegasus on her arrival in Aldershot. A quick hello and goodbye to Lt Ollie 'I set off airport metal detectors with this' Dinnis who came, saw, failed to conquer and left. Lt Dinnis was subsequently replaced by Lt/Capt Francis-McGann for six weeks before they managed to find another double- barrelled Officer to take over. Enter Lt Rebecca 'I would like to take this opportunity to buy my new troop a slab' Knightly-Brown who arrived from 16 Air Asslt Bde to take over just in time to rescue the Troop from marching competitions. Recent exercises to wipe away the Kosovo cobwebs have been fast and furious. The Troop has also seen many new arrivals, mostly in the form of 'baby' Techs and Sys Ops. We say hello to Sig Button, who joins us from an exchange posting in Austria, LCpl Rickards, LCpl Quinn, LCpl Kneale, Sig Edwards, Sig Jackson, Sig Priest, Sig Daniel, Sig Smithson, and Sig Winters. Congratulations to SSgt Rick 'I'll need a pace stick then' Hannah, and Sgt 'Chalky (Vertically Challenged)' White on their recent selection for promotion.

TN016

Tp Comd Lt O. Dinnis
Tp SSgt SSgt D. Coleman

TN016 were not quite so fortunate as TN015 and have been caught with a few of the changes. Lt Phil 'OPFOR' Connor, the outgoing Tp Comd has moved to HQ Sqn on promotion to Captain and is warming the 2IC's chair before venturing into civilian life in July 2000. The Troop and Squadron congratulate you on your promotion and wish you well for the future. We also say goodbye to LCpl Welsh who returns to 'Blighty' having steadfastly refused leave prior to disembarkation so that he could stay with his Troop on Battle Camp. Nominations for awards and honours to the Adjutant please! We welcome Lt Ollie 'This hurts when it gets cold' Dinnis from Support Tp and Sgt Taylor. The Troop also congratulates SSgt Coleman on his recent selection for promotion.

RAF BRUGGEN 10 MILE ROAD RACE

On Saturday 1 April 2000 (yes, it was April Fools Day!) a 28-strong team from 230 Sig Sqn, having returned a full 18hrs earlier from exercise and therefore being well rested, arrived by coach at RAF Bruggen. This year saw the Millennium RAF Bruggen Ten Mile Road Race and it was both the 21st and last year that the event would be run. To this end, units from all over the world flew in to compete. There were teams from as far away as RAF Akrotiri, RAF Kinloss and RAF Leuchars as well as local German, Dutch, Belgian and US delgates who turned in to run from SHAPE, AFCENT and, of course, the ARRC. All ranks from 1 Star to private soldier were to be found running in boots, combats, fancy dress and PT kit. This was joined by a healthy throng of local civilians which saw the number of runners exceed 900 initially and swell even further to over 1000 by race start at 14:30hrs. The day had started out well until Cpl 'Seemed like a sensible place at the time' Sutton, along with another unnamed member of TN015 (you owe me one) parked behind the team coach. The coach driver then managed to spend the next half-hour filling in FMT3s with the RAF Police after he finished his impression of the Railway Squadron's shunting efforts, unfortunately not with a locomotive! End result: Coach 1, New Tigra and New Puma 0.

The sun shone until just after the start and then the weather that we thought we had left on exercise turned up to finish the job. To say the skies opened would have been an understatement. It was however clear that having started raining at the two mile point, by the time we finished, getting in a swimming pool would have left most of us drier. The Squadron Commander led the team delegation originally with the lightly boned 2IC picking up the rear of the group (purely in the interest of keeping up morale). Commendable efforts were made by all but particular mention must go to Sig Heywood who finished in just over 1hr 1min. All in all a thoroughly enjoyable day was had and I hope that we can write similar stories (save the car shunting bit) about the Bruggen 50 in which the Squadron plans to enter a team. Any volunteers for 6 – 7 May 2000?

21 SIGNAL REGIMENT (AIR SUPPORT)

CO Lt Col Peter Gillespie
RSM WO1 (RSM) Al Jenkins

Good grief! WIRE notes time again and I still haven't managed to delegate responsibility for editing! Equally, the good burghers of Colerne are very poor at producing notes, let alone any photographs. So come on the David Baileys of Azimghur - if you're reading these notes and wondering why your own delightful fizzog isn't looking back at you - get snapping!!

COMMANDING OFFICERS HAND-OVER

In January, Lt Col (now Col) John Terrington handed the reins of command to Lt Col Peter Gillespie and headed for the open plan delights of Abbey Wood and a tour as the Land EW IPT Project Team Leader.

Col John Terrington hands over to Lt Col Peter Gillespie

Lt Col Terrington's style of command has made a marked impact on the way that the Regiment conducts its business, especially with the RAF, and has been key to maintaining the excellent level of morale across all ranks. In addition, his robust approach to the peculiar problems associated with Colerne, in particular the failing infrastructure, has ensured that the needs of the Regiment remain high in the list of priorities of the operational and regional Chains of Command. To mark his farewell, Col John was driven away from the Regiment in his very own helicopter, designed and built in the LAD. This Surgical Support Helicopter (SSH, You Know Who!) came complete with working rotors, machine guns, sound effects and subaltern power.

OC LAD Capt Peter McMillan REME gives the flight briefing

2Lts Mike Barnes and John Malcolm provide the pulling power for the CO, who has clearly reverted into Dick Dastardly mode!

We wish Col John and Heather all the very best for the future. We also wish Lt Col Peter Gillespie and Fiona, a very warm welcome to Colerne and best wishes during his tour.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Chas Date
SSM WO2 (SSM) Nick Organ

Special Notice: Phil Fluck leaves the Army shortly, after a full and wholesome career spanning many years and countless 'carefully-constructed-and-never-dodgy-deals'! The very best of luck and our sincere good wishes for the future to you and your family. May Phileus Phluck Enterprises reign high in the PHTSE-100 Index.

After an interesting few months in which we have seen garages closed and RSIT/PRE inspections come and go we have at last recovered from Christmas and settled into 'normal routine'. During this period the squadron has seen a major turn around on personnel at all levels and I would like to take this opportunity to thank those that are leaving or have left and welcome those that have arrived. On the home front the 2IC/OC PRI/Families Officer (Capt Dave Whitaker) is still working hard to fill the role of Training Officer and the SSM, WO2 Nick Organ, manages to find his office at least once a month. Well done gents the Squadron Clerk, Pte Ali Nation, is still waiting for pay of higher rank!

QM(G) DEPARTMENT

QM(G) Maj Tom Dean
RQMS(G) WO2 (RQMS) Nige Roberts

The usually steady routine within the blanket stacking Department of the Regiment has recently seen a number of changes. Firstly Capt Jeff Ashwell MBE has left the Army and he has been replaced as QM(G)/PROPMAN by Maj Tom Dean who has recently arrived from 14 Sig Regt. Cpl Paul Selby fresh back from a holiday in Croatia is also leaving the Department to join the QM(T) Dept, many thanks to Paul for all your hard work during your relatively short stay with us. Also congratulations to Sig Emma O'Neill (nee Baker) on her recent marriage to Rory and we all wish you the best of luck, for the soon to be, extra member of your family. Finally it would be wrong not to mention Mr George Wood who is retiring after working in the QM(G) Dept at Azirrighur Barracks for over ten years. Best of luck for the future George from the Department and all those members of the Corps who have worked with you over the years.

TECHNICAL MAINTENANCE TROOP

Tech Adjt Capt Lee Wookey
FofS WO1 (FofS) Ady Knight

Welcome new arrivals to TM Tp, on the Systems side Sgt 'Billy' Belshaw, Sgt 'Royston' Parr and LCpl Helena Southwick and the Radio Techs, Sgt Nikki Francis and Cpl Rob Murray and also to Sgt Andy Sergeant into the newly formed ISM team. Farewells go to Cpl 'Gumbo' Bentham to 264 Sig Sqn, Cpl Ed Chwieseni to 3 Inf Bde and LCpl Jim Harrison deployed on Op Palatine. Congratulations go to Al Cook on promotion to Lance Corporal and 'Taff' McRadish on promotion to Sergeant and posted as well. It has been a busy post Christmas period with us supporting the Squadrons on exercise's both locally and LCpl 'Percy' Purcell deploying to Norway with Alpha Tp, also RSIT and PRE running back to back didn't help matters along with the formation of the new Regimental ISM team. This was not helped by the fact that half the Troop seemed to be on leave or courses as well. We have been well represented on the sporting front with Troop members in the Orienteering, Football and Rugby teams and in training for the Lanyard Trophy. It's not all work though and the first Troop function of the year saw Cpl Johnny Nicol organising a trip to Swindon dog races, where a good night was had by all, with most people picking the winner in at least one race.

Ex Red Beaufighter III was the last regimental exercise of the millennium, and the first after the formation of 220 Sig Sqn. The ten-day exercise consisted of four days of regimental training at Longmoor Training Camp followed by a peacekeeping deployment scenario moving from the Aldershot area back towards Colerne. With a lot of new faces in TM Tp, this was the first exercise for a few people and the learning curve was steep, especially for LCpl 'Percy' Purcell who only arrived in the Regiment the day before deploying. Apparently, LCpl 'Stanley' Harrison has now been given extensive lessons on how to disconnect the binner after causing injury to SSgt 'Gorbachov' Wilson. His map reading skills will be addressed in the future, after proving to be the only person not to locate the port-a-loos ... enough said. Despite the lack of experience the exercise went well, apart from when LCpl Mark Taylor went into shock when the SSM published the guard roster and he found he'd been given a 23 hour stag.

Morale was kept up by Sgt Chris Gearing, keeping everybody entertained trying to untangle himself and his rifle from various cam-nets and also doing some intensive research into the new stores CIS terminal 'P1stJ - commonly known as Play-station. Practising his acrobatic skills, whilst tumbling along the full length of his binner, although impressive, resulted in a broken tooth and testing of the casevac system - Jessie! The Automatic Test Eqpt (ATE) on the Ptarmigan ERV kept everyone amused, not playing when too cold or too hot, if it had undergone a recent move, if it didn't feel like it, etc, a bit like Cpl 'Clean Boy' Nicol. The power men at Ech managed to survive under the control of Sgt Andy Hayes, even though the ERV (Access) was put out of action during a routine powering down of the generator at the request of the EDs. Sgt 'Scouse' Hayes could not understand the response he got to the second request to drop power some 20hrs later after the Techs had only just got the ATE working again.

Finally, the Techs want to thank the TM Tp tea-boy (you know who you are) who didn't spill a drop when failing to negotiate the binner steps. Well done, hope you recover soon. A big thanks to the chefs for the excellent standard of the food at Ech ... unlucky 220 and 244.

MTO Capt Pete Griffiths
MTSNCO Sgt MacDonald

We say goodbye to SSgt Mark Sala who departed to 220 Sig Sqn as SQMS and, secondly, to Cpl O'Neil who also moves to 220 Sig Sqn as the MT representative. We wish them the very best in the future and hope that all goes well in their new jobs. We also say goodbye to Cpl Gough on posting to 2 Sig Regt and wish him and his family all the best in the future. On the new arrivals front we welcome Capt Pete Griffiths and his family (including Ben the Boxer, who appears every time a camouflage net or hessian is out and plays with it). We also welcome Cpl Berrey and family to the fold. The last few months have been extremely busy for the Regimental MT with the collection of vehicles returning from Kosovo, followed by stores checks, servicing and repairs. This was quickly followed by the POL inspection, which was fronted by Cpl Andy Doyle who did an excellent job, ensuring that the inspection team left the Regiment happy and we await the final report. The Regiment has been busy forming a new Signal Squadron with vehicles moving between Squadrons at a great rate of knots. Having successfully completed the majority of vehicle moves it was then time for the Regiment to shake out on Exercise Red Beaufighter, ably supported by ECH.

The first packets to deploy on Red Beaufighter got away on time (well almost) and the NITO was confident that everybody would arrive on time, and safely, if they stuck to the route card provided by the MT. Unfortunately, Serial 8 proved not to be a large roundabout but indeed, a one way circuit around Farnham town centre! Special mention must go to Sgt 'Mac' MacDonald who not only gallantly battled through the traffic and the abuse from other road users but also managed to re-tacsign the route around the by pass onto the A31 thereby ensuring the majority of the packets arrived safely. On arrival at Longmoor, the vehicles were met by the RCWO, WO2 Dave Mead Male RLC, who tried to line up the convoys on the square without much success. The comment about Billy Smart's Circus was heard that evening over dinner and from now on the MT promises not to cook if he promises not to help with the line-ups.

The training over the next two days went very well with the MT running cross-country driver training set up by Sgt Charley Farley and Cpl Dan Eskdale. Everybody seemed to enjoy this as it involved one instructor, one wolf landrover, a cross country course and a student who had had a brain removal and a CD ROM replacement making them believe that they were Colin McCrae and completing the cross country stage of the RAC Rally. The middle weekend of the exercise saw HQ (V) and 43 (V) Sqns join the Regiment in the field and this time the MTO had personally recced the route and TAC signed any junction where there might be a problem. All of the packets successfully made it to the point of disembarkation via the correct route with the exception of one, but you know what they say about Officers and maps! The next four days were spent practising the new role of the Regiment with ECH successfully completing a further two moves before moving back to camp to prepare for the Regiments return. This they all did successfully via Warminster wash down and a rerun of the gunfight at the OK Coral involving 14 hose-pipes and an unsuspecting SSM!

The last three months have been a busy period for the Regimental MT with the return of Sig Chilvers from Split and the deployment of Cpl Holmes-Smith to replace him. We also say welcome to Cpl Jay who joins us from Bassingbourne and Sig Ward who joins us from basic training and wish them both a successful tour with the Regiment. February saw the Regiment undergo PRE. This highlighted a number of problem areas and work has started in earnest to rectify this before July. The MT has been busy getting people correctly qualified to do their job and has run three MHE courses and has one motorcycle course scheduled for May. A driver training package begins on 3 April running for two weeks which involves one day packages briefing on the new FMT 1000 series forms, RTA/recovery procedures and driving techniques. Individually Capt Griffiths has attended his MTO's course, Sgt Macdonald has attended his DDE course and Cpl Eskdale is at present undergoing UBRE training, all this with HASMAT to come in June.

ATTACHMENT TO A TP ON EXERCISE HARDFALL 2000 TO NORWAY FEBRUARY AND MARCH 2000 - by Sig Berry

It was about four on a Sunday morning and it was time for me to leave on my long journey to Norway. This was my first time visiting anywhere like this so I was fairly apprehensive. When we finally landed at Bergen, after the usual waiting around for hours at South Cherny, I realised that my next two months were going to be very different. My first three weeks were spent at a place called Mjolfiell with 249 Sig Sqn where I was completing my Novice Ski and Survival Course. This comprised of many various tasks, which usually involved getting cold but I still settled in fairly quickly. Nights spent in Snow holes, brushwood shelters and four-man tents, lots of digging and don't forget the superb ice breaking drills made the time fly by. In amongst all of this was plenty of ski-ing which I thoroughly enjoyed and hope to continue with. The remainder of my time in Norway was spent preparing for the Exercise and then the Exercise itself up in Bardufoss. As the RAF didn't make it, things were very quiet for us. As for the journey back, there was the mandatory twenty-four hour delay on our flight, due to 'too much snow'. I would not hesitate in trying to return to Norway and I am hoping to pass my Military Ski Instructors course late on in the year!

VISIT TO THE REGIMENT BY THE SOinC, BRIG C. J. BURTON OBE

On 29 November 1999 the SOinC, Brig C. J. Burton OBE accompanied by the Corps RSM, WO1(RSM) G. Hodgson visited the Regiment. After being greeted by the CO and RSM the SOinC was then given a Regimental update and operations brief. The SOinC was then taken a up to the Warrant Officers and Sergeants Mess to present four well deserved Long Service and Good Conduct medals to WO2 (RQMS) Merrie, WO2 (SSM) Williams, SSgt Sheerin and Sgt Jones (19 M). The SOinC also presented the Territorial Army Efficiency Medal to Sgt Mortimore, Sgt Cox, Sgt Tapley and Cpl Jones who are currently serving with 43 (V) Sig Sqn, one of 21 Sig Regt (Air Sp)'s Territorial Squadrons. The SOinC then took time to meet members of the Regiment and also congratulate the medal recipients along with their wives and girlfriends.

REGIMENTAL GOLF COMPETITION 1999 - by Sgt Al Kemp

This year' competition took place at Cumberwell Park Golf Club on 8 October 1999 with 19 players and several willing caddies taking part. The meeting was sponsored by the Regimental PRI and the prizes were presented by Capt Pete McMillan - a well known hacker from the local garage. The course was in excellent condition and the weather was perfect for the time of year. Most golfers saw this as an ideal opportunity to make the most of the course and not leave one inch of woodland or water unobserved from the occasional fairway. Throughout the course of the day various competitions were keenly contested especially the 'most golf' of which there were several punters thrashing their way wildly towards. After a 9 hole warm up and a ploughmans lunch the main 18 hole stableford competition got underway with renewed passion. The eventual winner of the 'Rabbits Trophy' with a fine score of 34 points was Sgt Steve Joyce. In addition to the trophy Sgt Joyce now holds the prestigious title of '21 Signal Regiment (AS) Golf Champion 1999'.

220 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Jim Forrest
SQMS SSgt (SQMS) Mark Sala

Since the last notes in The WIRE, 220 Sqn has moved from Laarbruch to Colerne, gone from 4 to 98 personnel in strength, equipped itself with vehicles and taken part in a Regimental Exercise. Not bad for two months work! Of course, this has not happened painlessly and SSgt (SQMS) Mark Sala is showing severe signs of hair loss. This affliction may not be due to stress however, and could be infectious as Maj Jim Forrest and SSgt Russ Ezard are both also showing signs of 'shiny head' - nothing is being said about Capt 'Kylie' Barker's barnet! Despite a thinning command element, the Scorpion has gone from strength to strength. Battling against time, lack of equipment and a lack of manpower, the Squadron managed to deploy on exercise by the end of November and acquit itself admirably. Some basic soldiering skills, such as map reading, were practised, and not before time, as LCpl Matt 'Magellan' Dudinan and LCpl Dave 'Pathfinder' Heath will testify.

Although the new Squadron is young, there is a great deal of potential in the troops and this is sure to manifest itself in the busy year to come. The exercise plot is hectic and the adventurous and military training plans for the next year should combine with trade training to make well-rounded and knowledgeable soldiers.

244 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj Ian Walton
SSM WO2 (SSM) Paul Williams

Over the last few months 244 Sig Sqn has seen major changes in just about every aspect of life; Op Agricola, the Squadron's commitment to Op Palatine, and to cap it all the formation of 220 Sig Sqn from, in the main, 244 Sig Sqn. The Squadron split began in October 1999, involving half the Squadron manpower and half the Squadron Communication assets all moving across to 220Sig Sqn. All of this caused bucket loads of work for the Squadron, especially SSgt (SQMS) Tony 'Am I the only one working?' Lee. On behalf of the Sqn Comd and members of 244 Sig Sqn, we would like to take this opportunity to welcome 220 Sig Sqn to Colerne and wish everyone who serves with them a good tour.

ALPHA TROOP (AMF(L))

Tp Comd Capt Bill Holbrook
Tp SSgt SSgt Daz Sheerin

The busiest of all the Troops, is once again bracing itself for the beginning of yet another hectic year. Starting with the Norway deployment in January it is followed, a matter of weeks later, by the Arty Ex in Hungary and then in the summer months to Greece. not forgetting a trip to Heidelburg in June to help re-config the (AMF(L)) TOC HQ……oh ya beauty! The Troop is reaching steady state after a turbulent few months with various Troop members on Ops. With the return of 'the management' SSgt Daz Sheerin, from half a tour in Split, and re-role of Capt Bill Holbrook fresh from Kosovo into the A Tp Comd's position, Sgt Tim Tomkinson the only adult in the Troop for the best part of a year was in December allowed his summer leave. Well done TT for a sterling effort and all the best for the YofS course. Goodbyes also go to Capt Andy Arthurton who leaves the Troop without getting even the smallest of snowflakes under his belt to become the Squadron 2IC in place of our old leader Capt Steve Abram.

All work and no play makes ... blah , so the Troop took time out from its busy schedule to take part in a quiet game of Quasar. After listening to the rules of no running, no bodily contact and both hands on your weapon at all time's the Troop engaged itself in the bloodiest and most riotous game imaginable, managing to break all the rules within the first thirty seconds. The Green Team was seen skirmishing up the stairs and along the corridors using cunning and good tactics. The Red Team having neither of the aforementioned used brute force and bulk to assault. Bruised and exhausted we left an hour later dripping with sweat and ready for a pint or eight.

With the release of the F board, congrats to Sigs Andy 'Conan' Day, Chris 'Got an opinion' Kirkman, Phil 'Psycho' Smith, Dave 'Brigadier' Marlor and don't forget Dave 'Lesser spotted' Shepherd (hint to MCM Div who must have forgotten him) for being selected for promotion. Congratulations also go out to LCpl 'Boggy' Marsh and his wife Ruth on the birth of their bouncing little boy Charlie ... about time you became responsible for something. The Troop also welcomes into the fold LCpl Gaz 'Spud' Evans from 16 Air Assault Bde and Sig Jo 'Blodwin' Owens straight out of the factory. We welcome back from Op's Cpl 'Wills' Williams, LCpl 'Daz' Daniels, Sig Matt 'Naughty' Mills and last but by no means least Sig 'Taff (pen-pal)' Charnley who we believe will be putting himself forward for one of those fiction writers award and correspondence courses!! Never shaken, Never stirred - The Martini Boyz ... stag on wherever you are.

BRAVO TROOP - by LCpl Bradbury

Tp Comd Lt Pete Hale
Tp SSgt Cpl Marrit

Bravo Tp has seen a huge change in recent months. October saw the restructuring of the Squadron with the MAOT and Systems crews moving over to the newly reformed 220 Sig Sqn. This coincided with many of the Squadron personnel being on exercise, so it was a very busy, and for some a stressful couple of weeks for those lucky ones left behind. Overall the reformation passed off relatively uneventfully, except for being hard done by the SQMS department headed by SSgt Tony 'Evil' Lee and his sidekick LCpl Andy 'No' Humble who, after making us CES the vehicles until the cows came home, still think that us operators are under worked and overpaid (surely they must be wrong). The only thing left to do is to thank Cpl John 'JD' Donnison who yet again is doing a sterling job in organising a well-earned Troop function to get rid of the old coffers. We're sure he's on commission with the manager of 'The Fox and Dogs'.

HELLOS, GOODBYES AND CONUATULATIONS

Welcome to Lt Peter Hale as the new Troop OC, also hello to LCpl Anne Wilson, Sig Dan Honour, Sig Andy Kennedy and Sig Scotty Megraw all newly posted into the Troop. Congratulations go to both Cpl Mark 'Smudge' Smith and Cpl Chaz 'Rocky' Charnley on their recent promotion and also to Sigs Claire Blades, Gus Sygrove, Chris Reed, Damon Chichester, Dan Crossley, Pete Sellers and Geoff Jackson for coming off the board - the beers will be greatly appreciated.

EXERCISE RED BEAUFIGHTER III - by LCpl Dunbavand

The culmination of Regimental level training for the year. All went smoothly with the exception of FofS Mark Todd and his team of technicians running around fixing all types of equipment. Eventually, with most dets fully working we deployed to Longmoor Training Area for further training at Squadron level. This proved to be an eye-opener for the newer members of the Troop who had never worked with their respective dets before. All aspects of deployment were covered from basic det drills to counter-surveillance. The counter-surveillance lesson given by RSM Al Jenkins opened everyone's eyes to the threat from equipment like OTIS and CWS. The benefits of the Mk7 cam net compared to the Mk5 were shown to all concerned, although Sig 'Monotone/Private Pile' Masters did become a little confused with the Mk6! Following the work-up training the Troop deployed into field locations to exercise our new Con Ops in support of 16 AA Bde as we moved into the Regimental phase of the exercise. All went according to plan in the main with very few major problems. Many thanks go to the MoD Police for locking both vehicles of the 14RA in at Keevil airfield after assuring the brick commander LCpl Marc 'DB' Dunbavand that the gate would be left open. After many frantic calls on the net the RAF finally came through and opened the gate. Unfortunately for the CO, Lt Col John Terrington, and the RSM, WO1 (RSM) Al Jenkins, the message about the airfield being active never reached them. If a video camera had been at hand the film would be on its way to 'You've been framed' already! The look on their faces as the slow moving train in front of them became an extremely low level Hercules on a night training flight as it rushed over them, narrowly missing them and the masts on the antenna field. All dets finally recovered back to barracks on the 25 November with many lessons learned, ready to be implemented on Red Beaufighter I in January 2000.

THE START OF A NEW MILLENNIUM - by Sig Torode

The start of the new year has been a hectic time for the Troop. Both 244 and 220 Squadrons arrived back to work to discover that both working hangers had been closed due to an asbestos hazard. So followed the next seven weeks of movement and disorder, until at the start of March the Squadron moved into their new hangers. It has however, not all been bad news. As a consequence for the first week we were not allowed to go anywhere near our vehicles, equipment or offices. This of course for some was a God send, with going on an extra weeks Christmas leave the only thing left to do! The others, however, who stayed behind were put to work moving offices and, once we were allowed near the hangers, moving vehicles and as much equipment as we could get our hands on. Things on the whole get worse before they get better and this was no exception. With exercises and inspections still proceeding, both Squadrons were forced to occupy an extremely old hanger with no lighting and worse still no heating. Thankfully the start of March saw the end of working in the cold and dark as 244 Sqn moved into an ex-Navy depot hanger. Our thoughts, however, do go out to 220 Sqn who are still relegated to the cold and dark. It is not all doom and gloom, we are delighted to gain a few more bodies to the Troop. A big welcome goes out to Cpl Stu Stanway recently arrived from 7 Sig Regt and Sig Pete Simon new from the factory. Congratulations must go to LCpls Chichester, Blades, Jackson and LCpl Crossley on their recent promotions. We would also like to say a big congratulations to Stu Stanway on his forthcoming marriage on 29 April - Good luck from all.

MILLENNIUM WINDOW
ST NICHOLAS CHURCH, BRAMCOTE

Bramcote was a small village before the last World War. It was requisitioned in the late thirties and it became known as RAF Bramcote. Various Squadrons including a Polish Squadron flew from the base. In 1947 it became HMS Gamecock with the arrival of the Fleet Air Arms. The name was given since there were cockfights in this area during Victorian times. The Fleet Air Arm, transformed appropriately the former de-contamination building into the church, and gave it the name of St Nicholas. During this time they installed a pipe organ that they had shipped across from the Bermuda Dockyard. During their time in Bramcote they also installed three stained glass windows. One of which commemorated a naval pilot Lt Mick Ryley who was tragically killed in a flying accident in 1949. In 1959 the Junior Leaders Regiment Royal Artillery was formed in Bramcote, and the name was changed to Gamecock Barracks. They worshipped initially in the church, which they had inherited from the Fleet Air Arms. It started to show wear and tear in the mid-sixties, and it was planned to have a new church built.

The new church of St Nicholas was opened by the then Chaplain General, the Venerable Archdeacon J. R. Youens QHC., on 24 November 1968. The three naval windows and the pipe organ were re-installed into the new church, where they have remained since. The Junior Leaders Regiment Royal Artillery remained in the Barracks till 1992. In the intervening years nine more stained glass windows were added. There were a series of six windows, which depicted the life of David. These were placed on the West side of the church. It told the story of David from his anointing by Samuel to the birth of Solomon. This final window has a figure in swaddling clothes in it. A stained-glassed window of St Barbara, the patron saint of the Royal Artillery, was also placed in the west side. To commemorate the time the Junior Leaders were in the Barracks, another window was placed with a bugler dressed in the band uniform. Another window was installed called the Goschen window, commemorating Capt J. A. Goschen MC, RHA. He was lost at sea on 5 December 1941. This was removed, when the Junior Leaders Royal Artillery left, and is now in Larkhill.

In 1992, 30th Signal Regiment moved into the barracks from Blandford. The church initially did not have any memorabilia of the Royal Signals. It was decided to have a Millennium Window to acknowledge the Regiment. It was planned to place the window in the empty space left by the Goschen Window. This was subsequently designed and placed in the church after the Chaplain General had kindly given us his permission. In the centre of the window is a 501, which the Regiment felt would be significant. On the top was the Royal Signals badge. It then incorporated the badges of the four Squadrons (250 (Gurkha) Sig Sqn, 256 Sig Sqn, 258 Sig Sqn and Support Sqn). The Support Squadron's badge had the emblem of the Alderney Island. The People of Alderney had given the Regiment the Freedom of the Island. The final image was the white swan, which is the symbol of the Worshipful Company of Dyers, who have adopted the Regiment.

On 17 December 1999, as part of the Regiment's Carol Service, the window was dedicated by the Chaplain General, the Rev. Dr. V. Dobbin, QHC, MA, MTh, PhD, DD, who also preached the sermon. At the service were guests from Mary Anne Evans Hospice.

(L-R): The Chaplin (Rev G Alex Potts), the Chaplin General (the Rev Dr V Dobbin), the CO and the OCF(RC) Sister Anne-Marie Eden

WELCOME TO THE NEW TROOP COMMANDERS

The Regiment would like to welcome 2Lt's Lucy 'Crazy Legs' Pim, Chris 'Orphan' Smith and Blaydon 'Did we hit that sir?' Morris. Their initial performance was hardly encouraging as they managed to write off the OC LAD's 'rally car' with a CVR(T) within their first week when they should have been doing CO's PT. Needless to say they looked very smart in their Service Dress as they were welcomed into the Regiment by the Officers' Mess!

Did we hit that sir?....Uhh Yeh I think we did!

256 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj J. W. Cooper
SSM WO2 (SSM) Tivey

ALPHA TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Owen Finnie
Flt Lt Paul Pearce
2Lt M-L Lucas
Tp SSgt Sgt Gaz Shuck

It's been a busy few months within the Troop, as the Squadron has come into its role of JTFHQ. We say farewell to Capt Owen 'Jump Ship' Finnie, who is leaving the shop floor for the delights of SHQ and his new role of '2 Ice Cream' of the Squadron. We welcome Flt Lt Paul 'Crab' Pierce, as new Troop OC, who since arrival has ensured he lives up to the Regiment's globe trotting stereotype by his 'visits' to both Senelis, France and Tampa, Florida. We say goodbye to Sgt Dave 'Condor moment' Bennet, who is leaving to become an Information Systems SNCO in Bulford, and congratulate him on his selection to Staff Sergeant. We greet Sgt Gaz 'Chair Borne' Shuck and 2Lt M. L. 'Limited Capability' Lucas to the big happy family. Elements of the Troop were involved with the French NEO Exercise in Senelis. Flt Lt Paul 'Failed Pilot' Pierce led a small team consisting of Cpl 'Mac (part time) Sergeant' MacDonald, Cpl 'Teachers Pet' Ashton, Cpl 'Slim - Steve McQueen' Scott and LCpl 'Globe Trotter' Taylor. The team was integrated with the French Signals unit, and was involved with both Airborne and Amphibious exercise play in addition to the daily red wine intake. The Troop is currently preparing for Ex Cobb Ring, the inter-operability Ex with the American JCSC in Tampa, Florida. Seven members of the Troop are deploying to Tampa under the command of Flt Lt Paul 'Blue Boy' Pierce, whilst the remainder of the Troop man the Bramcote end under the command of 2Lt M. L. 'Grounded' Lucas.

BRAVO TROOP – OPERATION BARWOOD – MOZAMBIQUE

On 29 February 2000, whilst the politicians were deciding what to do, and the South African Air Force had captured the imagination of the world's media, Cpl 'Richie Bouffant' Hay and a small team from JTFHQ, made their way silently towards Mozambique. Their mission was to access and prepare the way for any UK force that might deploy. 24hrs later this was decided and the task fell to Bravo Tp to provide the expeditionary communications package and strategic links back to the UK. Having been prepared for both Op Spearhead and Op Bell the team jumped at the possibility of a tasking that might deploy further than the camp gates.

After a busy night, a team of seven, headed by Lt John 'Part-time Captain' Dagless and Cpl Mark 'It's only sunburn' Allen, were on their way to Mozambique, with an in-theatre HF Wotan package (Wotan having been in the Regiment for less than 24hrs), and a number of Inmarsat Terminals. Unfortunately no one remembered to tell the South Africans this. After being detained for 24hrs in a 4 star hotel at Johannesburg we were back on our way, a fact Sig Tom 'This is too good to be true' Beerling found hard to adjust to, camming up ready for dinner. Though most of the team had worked on humanitarian Operations before in Albania, no one could have imagined just how poor Mozambique would be. Especially those from 21 Sig Regt who remained in Hoedspruit, South Africa, with LCpl 'Scottie - where's my PIE' Cooper, helping to man the Wotan link. The RAF were also disappointed, as they could not get pictures of themselves in the press saving lives. They did however provide a valuable taxi service for the media on the off chance that someone might have been stuck up a tree.

The package we deployed was flexible in nature and had to provide a robust network for the staff to operate. This was clearly shown with the arrival of the RFA Fort George as LCpl Bishnu and Sig Dickie Davis deployed up country to meet her at Beira. Having helped to provide immediate humanitarian aid, and with the infrastructure improving within Mozambique the team recovered to South Africa for a few days R & R at the Kruger National Park. It only remained for Sig Dan 'I'll have my photo with that wild elephant' Shore to nearly upset the largest lady in town.

CHARLIE TROOP

Tp Comd 2Lt Lucy Pimm
Tp SSgt SSgt Adam Yafai

The whirl of events continues for Charlie Tp as the year gets under way. The team is under a lot of change with the arrival of 2Lt Lucy Pim as Troop OC, and the promotion of Sgt Phil Joyce to Troop Staff Sergeant - congratulations on coming off the board. SSgt Adam Yafai is now preparing himself for the role of Sergeant Major at ATR Arborfield, having been Troop Commander for the past three months - many thanks for all your hard work with the Troop and good luck from us all in your new post. Congratulations to Sig Clarke for being the sole winner in the Regimental Boxing against 29 Regt RLC - a hard and well fought fight. Welcome back to Cpl Hay, who has just returned from Op Barwood in Mozambique. Well done to Sig Shaw, Sig Powell and Sig Niven for surviving Ex Arduous Cygnet - having been spoilt by Sennybridge's three day summer with blazing sunshine, they were rewarded with rain and snow for the field part of the exercise that is the norm for that part of Wales! A special mention to Sig Shaw for his ingenious tactics during the final attack that took even the CO by surprise! As we prepare for Ex Argon Mercury, a month long JFHQ exercise to Ghana (life's hard!), we are keeping the new Troop OC well away from any vehicles, wind up or no wind up. The driving skills of 2Lt Lucy Pim and 2Lt Chris Smith (Delta Tp) in CVRT's were rather dubious. Let nothing be said about those of 2Lt Blaydon Morris (Lima Tp) who crashed into the Regiment's prized rally car whilst in command - 'Did we hit that Sir?' was the comment! The CO listened to the tales of woe and then with a wry grin welcomed them to the Regiment!

258 SIGNAL SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj J. E. Swindells
SSM WO2 M. Webb

The Squadron Headquarters has been spread equally between the Balkans and Bramcote over the last few months while E Tp beds into the 250 Sig Sqn space in Kosovo and Bosnia. This hasn't stopped a whole host of promotions however, so many congratulations go to WO2 (SSM) Miles 'Competitive Dad' Webb, WO2 (YofS) Jim 'I think I'll wear civvies today' Knight and SSgt (FofS) Sue 'Just married' Spencer. Congratulations also go to Sgt Stu 'Shiny head' Fidler and Sgt Pete 'Do you think I'll have to work harder as an SQMS?' Crawford for their selection for promotion to Staff Sergeant. As if that was not enough, LCpl 'Then Sig' Armitage and Sig Climpson pulled off First and Second on the CO's Cadre Course for which many congratulations are due! Well done to you all.

DELTA TROOP

Tp Comd Lt Chris Smith
Tp SSgt Sgt Gaz Middleton

The Troop would like to say a hearty farewell to Capt Teri Downes and Sgt Gaz Middleton, who have moved on to pastures new in the quaint Georgian town that is Blandford. We also say goodbye to LCpl Dave Kyle and Sig Trish Walker-Scott (we wish them all the best in JCUNI), farewell to Sig Andy Cole (who is off to 101 Log Sup) and good luck to Sig John Burke (who is off to the world they call 'Civilian'). A big hello goes out to 2Lt Chris Smith fresh from Blandford, Sgt Billy 'The' Kid from the training wing, Cpl Lee Glaves from AFCENT and Cpl Pete Sykes from 14 Sig Regt (EW). On our return from East Timor the Troop has been busy with day to day troop tasks. We have also exercised with 16 Air Assault Bde where our three Inmarsat teams were:

Team 1 'The Phoenix'	LCpl Jamie Roderick and Sig Richie Maybank
Team 2	Sig Neil Climpson and Sig Jamie Cassells
Team 3	Sig Andy 'Crypto' Cole

All found themselves tabbing around South Cerney! The 501 dets Kakhi and Quince were successfully deployed, contributing to the overall command and control for the commander. The exercise was certainly deemed a success! A few weeks on and Delta Tp finds itself preparing for Op Bell (the standby crew to deploy to Antigua should Montseratt's Volcano erupt). Suffice it to say that the Troop is very busy in preparation but despite our frenzied activities we pass on our congratulations to LCpl Mark Kadlec and LCpl Matt Green on their recent promotion. Very well done to you both, although we all know that one of you only got promoted as the CO feared for his life after the Regimental Boxing night!

ECHO TROOP

Tp Comd Capt Emma 'Big Fish' Rae
Tp SSgt SSgt 'Doc - Utilize' Halliday

From the 14 February 2000 E Tp, 258 Sig Sqn became the Balkan Satcom Troop - its mission is to provide strategic Satcom communications from various locations in Bosnia and Kosovo. There are a handful of us that are the Troop's Reserves and this rear party is currently spread between Delta and Foxtrot Tps. The rear party consists of Cpl Ray 'Meercat' Jopling, Cpl Pete Watson, LCpl Stu 'Bubbles' Engelby, Sigs Gav Williams, Kelly Maclean, Martin Hannam, Gav Dowling, Graham Clutton and Duncan 'Monkey' West. This rear party will 'minimize' upon deployment of Skippy's children – ie: the crew of MOST4 Kangaroo on 4 April 2000 to Pristina. The Troop has witnessed the departure of LCpl Dave 'Squawker' Walker to JCU(NI) and Cpl/Mr Aide 'Ride the poonarni' Lowe and Sig/Mr Martin Parr to Civilian Strasse - we all wish you the best of luck!!

501 Purple - Since deployment in January 2000 the crew has changed a number of times. The original Det 2IC, LCpl Michelle 'Dog rough spice' Black, was sent back to UK mit child and was replaced by LCpl M. J. 'Sleeping Beauty' Holt who joins us for a cool 29 days. Additionally, Sig Dion 'Celine' Fotheringham has joined the det for a month before moving on to the sunnier climate of Kosovo, medal collecting. But Sgt 'Big Gay Al' Barker, Cpl Tony 'Pan Balkan!' Gallagher, Cpl Gav 'I'm Professional' Wallace, LCpl Jamie 'Ladies Man' Slade and Sig John 'Kebab' Lawrence remain in the Banja Luka Metal Factory.

The Det has gone about its business of conducting fallback plans and providing comms to the Tac HQ, as well as the backup to all satellite maintained COMMCEN in the theatre. We have deployed to Glamoc Ranges to work with the Highland Gunners; Gorjni Vakuf; and Mrkonij Grad. We have tried to deploy to Sarajevo a number of times but it seems BLMF can't operate without the 501 det being in its hangar and every time we get there, we get called back a couple of hours later! The extra time has been invested on the volley ball court and we now hold the title of 'BLMF champions of the world'. Cpl Tony 'Big arms' Gallagher has also been helping to organize a spot of rugby training in time for the sunny weather and some matches in Tuzla and Zagreb are now on the cards. The det adopted a ginger tint for a while as the lads decided to go blonde in the name of English rugby. But it went a bit wrong and the stench of cats and left handedness was obvious for a couple of weeks. The arrival of the rest of the Troop into the two theatres means that the det has had some company in Sarajevo and Kosovo. We have received visits from the OC Sqn and OC Troop as well as various dignitaries from different countries and civilian companies. The det is now looking forward to a period of R'n'R and testing the fallback plans to Sarajevo (third time lucky!), Split (gutted!), Gorjni Vakuf and to fly through the last 6 months of this tour.

MOST3 Cat - Even though the Det flew out to HQ SFOR, Sarajevo on Valentine's Day, everyone was in high sprits (however Sig Adam 'I miss my girlfriend' Toner was, funnily enough, missing his girlfriend!). Now 38 days into our tour (not that we're counting!) we have made numerous important changes: we have re-positioned the Sky dish; LCpl 'Carpenter' Rup very skillfully made a new weapon rack; Sig Mark 'Can I borrow your Freelander?' Vinten is building a MT Empire and a patio; and we've completely re-cabled the equipment achieving red and black separation. While the Det has been doing these improvements, Cpl Jeffers 'Silent Hill' Ford, the illustrious Det Comd, is attempting to complete the game on his play-station. The big question is will he finish it before the long-awaited move of HQ SFOR from Ilidza to Butmir. The Det welcomes LCpl Caz 'Must go to the gym' Burrows who we are sure will keep a watchful eye on our fitness and bids farewell to LCpl Kate 'I haven't chundered' Deal who departs back to sunny Bramcote.

501 RED - The past month has been a very busy one for the lads of the Balkan Satcom Troop's 'teeth arm'. The majority of the time has been spent on insuring that the detachment was fully equipped and maintained so that this strategic asset can be deployed in a tactical role with HQ MNB (C). The det has deployed into the field with the 7 Armd Bde HQ for a 48-hour exercise and enjoyed the experience of deploying in an operational theatre. A special mention for LCpl Aaron 'ISM' Donnelly who has invested a lot of extra time in ensuring the new 501 Syscon vehicle was ready for the following deployment. On the technical side, Cpl 'Locky' Whitelock has made enough cables to re-wire Whitehall. A big temporary 'hello' to Sig Lee Simmons who is currently doing a two day attachment with the Scots Dragoon Guards and will be buying us a crate for his name mentioned in two sets of Det's notes this issue. Finally, the Det would like to congratulate SSgt 'Backhand' Halliday and Sgt 'Lightening' Plant on their winning the inter-brigade table-tennis doubles championships, well done.

MOST3 Ibex/MOST4 Monkey - The crew of MOST4 Monkey deployed into theatre with a view of having a quiet life away from the Brigade and working at the Pristina APOD. It became apparent that the actual decision of where and when the APOD task would begin was somewhere in the dim and distant future. This left the crew of MOST4 Monkey temporally manning MOST3 Ibex in Pristina, HQ MNB (C). Cpl 'Paddy - Tpr I' Irwin, the ever devoted Ibex tech, has spent a large part of his time getting involved with the move of the Brigade up to the 'ever falling behind schedule' TFA. Cpl Lindsay 'Please let me change the shift rosta again' Howson spends her days in Syscon awaiting someone to release her to the APOD, maybe she'll be a civie before then as she has only nine months to go! LCpl 'Pickle' Nicol has a good time wielding his iron rod to his shifties, although the constant days followed by constant nights may be affecting this young fellow! Sig 'Simmo' Simmons has, at the moment been, loaned to the 501 Red crew whilst Sig Andy Doherty is back at the Regiment on the cadre course. Don't worry 'Simmo' if we do go to the APOD we'll grab you on the way out and take you with us! Sig 'Olaf' Hall is trying his hardest to be as gun-ho as possible whilst maintaining his genes of course. Then finally we must not forget our MOST Monkey det tech sitting back in the Regiment waiting the APOD go-ahead. Yep! You've got the right idea Cpl Ian 'Cush' Cushing, stay exactly where your are.

FOXTROT TROOP

Tp Comd Lt 'Mogs' Southern
Tp Sgt Sgt 'Kiddy' Fidler

It has been a busy period for Foxtrot Tp. Since Christmas the main focus has been exercise Cygnet Ocean to Diego Garcia. In the midst of our preparations we have had the usual arrivals and departures. A warm welcome therefore to LCpl 'Smelly' Dennison, LCpl 'Bergan packer' Stewart and sad farewells to Cpl 'GI' Payton, LCpl 'No fight' Howard and Sig 'Loads-a-money' Anderson.

EXERCISE CYGNET OCEAN

The weeks of preparation for the Troop level exercise in Diego Garcia finally drew to a close on 9 March as we departed Brize Norton for sunnier climes. After three days on our private Hercules and several attempts at the ultimate accolade, the 'Golden Blanket ' award (won by Sig 'Gettin' down with my bad self' Langford) we finally arrived on a thin and tropical strip of land in the middle of the Indian Ocean. The initial set up of the Exercise was in relentless rain, which seemed to contradict the promise of glorious weather, but things soon hotted up! Overall, the communications aspect of the exercise was very successful, providing ample opportunity for one to one training time on the VSC 501(E) det and the TRC 522. Attempts to run a 3-way JOCOMEX with HMS Invincible and 3 Cdo Log were not so fruitful, although Sigs 'We've tried everything' Lowe and King certainly benefited from a return to antenna and propagation basics. A very enjoyable day was also spent cross training with the Royal Marine Detachment out on the Island, part of Naval Party 1002. A sniper Observation Stand, CQB lane and Jungle Ambush drills were followed by a hair raising trip in the Light assault boats around the Lagoon, resulting in a man overboard - well done LCpl 'For Real' Lane. The exercise was thoroughly enjoyed and would not have been possible had we not been so superbly hosted by the British Naval Party 1002. Many thanks to all those who were involved in making the Exercise such a success.

EXERCISE SPARTAN HIKE 2000

At 0900 on the 7 January the Regiment's 'finest' skiers departed for Serre Chevalier, France to compete in the Divisional Ski Championships. Fortunately for those of us not so experienced at racing techniques, there was a week of race training prior to hurling ourselves down the slopes. We had one female and one male team (four in each) and the range of skiing ability was quite large. Fortunately we had our resident Ski Instructor, Cpl 'Does he do anything other than ski?' Foster who was able to bring out the racing demon, particularly in LCpl 'Freestyle' Astridge who must be commended for an absolutely outstanding performance for someone who had only recently begun to ski. Others in the team were Lt 'Nice new skis' Southern, 2Lt 'Retro' Lucas, Cpl 'Racing Snowplough' Mason, Cpl 'Big GWA' Rawlings, LCpl 'Little GWA' Dranesfield and LCpl 'Jesaaaaaas' Nicol. Despite some less than well placed initial seedings, all went on to improve throughout the racing, showing guts and determination to do well, and not wipe out at 60 mph. Some members of the team did return victorious, or at least notorious; Cpl Lucy Mason received a Chief of Alpine medal for completing a race with only one contact lens in and Cpl Stu Foster successfully qualified for the Army Alpine Ski Championships. Well done to all those who competed and good luck in the future to any budding racers the experience enthused.

FINAL FAREWELL TO THE GURKHA MAJOR QUEEN'S GURKHA SIGNALS MAJOR(QGO) GOVINDE GURUNG

by LCpl Kumar Limbu

On March 20 March 2000, QG Signals paraded in Bramcote Barracks to tow out Maj Govinde Gurung in the traditional way. The GM Sahib arrived at pre-arranged spot outside the gymnasium at 1345hrs. There, two rows of mixed ranks were waiting with garlands and bouquet of flowers. One by one, GM Sahib took the garlands and flowers with friendly chats. Then he climbed up the at the back of the decorated vehicle and stood there. He was then towed away by SNCOs and Officers lead by Comd QG Signals Lt Col M. Lithgow MBE and the GM des, Capt (QGO) Nabindrabikram Gurung and the pipe and drums. All available members of the Regiment were standing on either side of road from gymnasium to the guard room. Personnel who were standing on either side of the road saluted GM Sahib for the last time showering with flowers and cheering him up by shouting 'GM Sahib ki Jaya'. In front of the guardroom, the GM Sahib inspected the guard of honor with the didis/bahinis (families), children and of course some interested British families on looking. After that Capt (QGO) Navindrabikram Gurung was officially commissioned as the new GM. Cameras from all angles were seen flashing to catch the glimpse of a very sad day. Mrs Sabitri Gurung, wife of Maj (QGO) Govinde Gurung, displayed her talent with bravery to break the deep silence by dancing and singing, with mixed emotions, a song called '……pheri bheta hola ki nahola' (will we meet again or not), encouraging other didies to sing along for the last time. At 1425hrs GM Sahib's car rolled out of the camp and towards Heathrow.

NEW ERA OF A MILLENNIUM - by Sig Suresh Limbu

On 31 December 1999, most of 250 Gurkha Sig Sqn personnel currently serving in Kosovo apart from those few personnel on shift duty gathered for the Millennium Party organized by the HQ MNB (C) Sig Sqn at Pristina University. Readers might be aware that 250 Gurkha Sig Sqn deployed to Kosovo on Op Agricola with approximately 80 personnel in the middle of July last year in order to provide satellite communications for various multi-national Brigades within the theatre. This function was a very special occasion for everybody as we were asked to arrange curry for the night. We had our chef, Cpl Bhupendra, serving in the theatre then, so it was not a problem. The hot buffet was colorful as displayed was Gurkha, Chinese and Mediterranean dishes. Having had these delicious dishes, the main program began. Each and everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves, as they were about to enter a new millennium. Around 8pm the karaoke and disco began, people were singing, drinking and dancing. The whole atmosphere was really good. Later on, the countdown by Brig Pearson (who was the Comd HQ MNB (C) as well as the Colonel of the Regiment RGR) began, people could not wait to exchange greetings. This memorable happy New Year party ended at around one in the morning. I hope this new millennium brings peace, progress and prosperity to everyone.

OPERATION SCARAB/APPOLYON COMMS DISPLAY

by Sig Dipak

X-ray TP of 250 Gur Sig Sqn, presently holding the crucial commitment of Op Scrarab/Appolyon, which is a task of two and six hours NTM to an area of emergency to provide secure comms to military users. However, this assignment being a military aid to civilian powers, we work alongside Automatic Weapons Establishment who also provides communication with its sophisticated installations. On 22-23 February 2000, we had a joint display of our equipment and installations, at Kineton. Ironically, our assets compared to theirs seemed very limited and less cost-effective, as a result, our comms were overshadowed. This was exactly the sole motive of putting up this display to put forth the fact to our visiting VIP's consisting of many influential high ranking officers. Maj R Dean from HQ Land and our Ops Officers, Capt Aitken co-ordinated the Comms display. All the visitors were very impressed by our display and are now more knowledgeable of what we can offer. Hopefully, we will see some changes in the near future, we wait and see.

'The Display Team'

REGIMENTAL BOXING NIGHT 22 MARCH 2000

Team training started on 1 February with 22 soldiers on the books and the fitness regime commenced in the mornings only with Wednesday afternoons put aside for skills and sparring.

It was originally planned to fight RMA Sandhurst but it became apparent that their final exercise would clash and unfortunately they could not provide a team. Negotiations then took place with 14 Sig Regt and 3 UK Div Sig Regt but, again neither could produce a team for the date required. Eventually the occasion was saved by the Royal Logistic Corps team who were busy preparing for their own competitions and had a large squad with many novice Grade 3 boxers under training. Full time training commenced on 1 March and within a week the team was down to 11 with the RLC expecting to match at least 9 fights. Eventually on the day seven fights were matched together with 1 Inter-Sqn bout which meant that unfortunately Sig 'Jeff' Jeffers and LCpl 'Paul' Howard did not get to fight. The evening began with a 'black and white' demonstration of the do's and don'ts of novice boxing with WO2 (QMSI) 'Martin -Big Bad Razor' Blade arriving on a motorcycle to fight WO1 (YofS) 'Andy - Mad Dog' Campbell. The remainder of the evening saw some very closely fought contests, particularly Cpl 'Lee' O'Rourke, Sig (now LCpl) 'Matt' Green, Sig Gopal and LCpl 'Nick' Ryan. The RLC select team generally proved to be more experienced throughout and the Regiment scored one victory with Sig (now LCpl) 'Nobby' Clarke. LCpl Kamal also won on points against Sig 'Louie' Lewis in the Inter-Sqn bout. Overall the evening was a huge success and provided a rare opportunity to get the Regiment together with a single focus. LCpl 'Nick' Ryan was nominated as the 'Best Loser' on the evening.

GOODBYE TO THE PERMANENT STAFF

It seems as though everyone is deserting RHQ at the same time! Firstly, farewell to SSgt Craig Bruce, PSI HQ Sqn, who deployed to Kosovo on 30 March 2000. Secondly, farewell to SSgt Mick Johnson, PSI Mil Trg, who has embarked upon his IS Op course. Thirdly, it's farewell to the Yeoman, WO2 (YofS) Si Tyler, who departs on promotion to 21 Sig Regt. Finally, farewell to the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner, who deploys to Kosovo on 25 April as SO2 Comms in Pristina. Needless to say, there was a lunch in the traditional 31 Sig Regt (V) style to send them all off on their merry little way. A big thanks to LCpl 'Babs' Cameron, who produced a magnificent feast. As usual, lunch degenerated into an afternoon 'on the pop'. Thanks go to 'Smashy and Nicey', aka the YofS and FofS, for providing the entertainment for the afternoon, boys you need to get out more! What was the RSM up to with that melon ……..?!!

FLEET/ARMY HALF MARATHON CHAMPIONSHIPS SUNDAY 19 MARCH 2000

On a beautiful Sunday morning, whilst others were swanning around at Longmoor supporting the Regimental Teams in the Courage Trophy, the HQ LONDIST mil skills competition, the Adjt, Capt Mel Rayner and PSI 83 Sig Sqn, SSgt 'Dez' Eldridge were running hard on the Fleet Half Marathon. The Fleet event incorporates the Army and Inter Services Championships. Capt Rayner had a good run finishing Third in the Army Ladies Championships in a time of 1hr 31 mins. This put her in the Army team that thrashed the Navy and RAF in the Inter Services. SSgt Eldridge paid the price for setting off a bit too quickly, but still managed a commendable time.

THE GOODBYES, CONGRATULATIONS & FAREWELLS

Firstly, goodbye to the Squadron PSI, SSgt Craig Bruce, whose outgoing, enthusiastic approach to training the TA will be sorely missed by all. He has been an inspiration to the Squadron (although an interpreter to translate his Jockinese into English might have been of use occasionally!!) The whole Squadron wishes him the best during his six month tour in Kosovo. He will be working with the Adjt who deploys in April – good luck Craig and don't let her pick on you too much! The Squadron also sends best wishes to his wife Pamela and daughters Leona and Laurie-Ann, good luck for the future and thanks for all your support.

Secondly, goodbye to a handful of TA WO2's: WO2 (SSM) Chrissie Stanton and WO2 'Ruddy' Harding have taken the difficult decision to hang up their TA boots. The Squadron wish them all the very best for their future endeavours and hope that life as a complete civvie suits them!! WO2 (MTWO) Sheila Billing is retiring from the Regiment and the Corps and transferring to 135 Topo Sqn RE. Good luck in your new job, we hope that it all works out for you. The Squadron would like to thank all three of them for their hard work with the Squadron and Regiment over a combined total of years that is more than they would probably care to remember! (OK… it's over 50!)

Farewell to big Col, Colin Wilson, the Sqn AO, who retired from the civil service (after eight years, which had followed 39 years Army service!!) in March 2000. You will be missed by all the Squadron personnel and we hope that both you and Sheila have an enjoyable retirement, you have both certainly deserved it. Before he left, Colin was justly awarded the GOC's Certificate of Commendation. Many congratulations and well done to you Colin, and thanks for all the work that you've put in over the years. Congratulations also go to SSgt Loxley Trype AGC (SPS) who was awarded the Lord Lieutenant's Certificate of Meritorious Service on 8 March 2000. SSgt Trype is an extremely loyal and dedicated member of the Squadron and thoroughly deserves this recognition of his efforts.

HQ Sqn AO, Mr Colin Wilson receives his GOC London District's Certificate of Commendation from the Commanding Officer, Lt Col Linda Harrison

SERGEANTS' MESS DINNER – SATURDAY 1 APRIL 2000

The Sergeants' Mess held a dinner on Saturday 1 April 2000 to dine out WO2 Sheila Billing, WO2 Brenda Prater, WO2 Ruddy Harding and WO2 Chrissie Stanton. With the exception of WO2 Billing who is transferring to 135 Topo Sqn RE, the rest have decided to hang up their TA boots for a variety of reasons. The Regiment wishes them all good luck in their future endeavours and hopes that they will all keep in touch with the Regiment through the Regimental Association. The RSM, WO1 John Gibson, would like to thank his numerous bunch of helpers for making the evening possible.

LANCE CORPORAL COX SAVES THE DAY!

The Commanding Officer would like to thank LCpl Chris Cox for standing in as CO's driver whilst her Regular Driver, LCpl Dave 'Sideburns' Wynne was away on his Class 1 course. LCpl Cox did an admirable job and only forgot to pick up the CO once!!

HELLOS, GOODBYES AND DINNERS!

On Saturday 19 February, Officers and Sergeants from the Squadron sat down to a combined Mess dinner to dine out Maj Steve Baker, our ex OC, SSgt 'Nobby' Clark, our ex chief clerk, and SSgt (YofS) Steve McAuliffe, our ex Sqn Yeoman. The dinner was the first combined mess occasion for a while at the Squadron, and the evening proved a huge success. The Officers' Mess presented Maj Baker with a bronze statuette of a Royal Signals Soldier, and the Sergeants' Mess presented him with a framed picture of the Royal Signals in action. He in turn presented the Squadron with a set of Royal Doulton tea cups and saucers for use when the Squadron has visitors. He talked with fondness of his days as OC 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn. He will be greatly missed, and we wish him well in his new posting. The Sergeants Mess also presented pictures to SSgt Clark and SSgt McAuliffe. Both made a valuable contribution to the Squadron in their time with us, and we hope that full time civilian life suits them both well. With the departure of SSgt Steve McAuliffe, the Squadron has also had to say goodbye to his wife Cpl Kerry McAuliffe, so we are feeling his loss greatly. Good luck to her in full time civilian life too.

PRINCESS LOUISE'S KENSINGTON DINNER

The Combined Annual of the AER and PLK Officers' Dining Clubs dined in the Duke of York's Central Mess a week later, on Friday 25 February. Col Donald Crawford, ex CO 31 Sig Regt (V) presided over a gathering of some 50+ dining club members both old and new. The dinner is always a great occasion for the younger serving officers to meet the old and the bold (or just the retired young!!) who have previously served with the Squadron. Invariably some very interesting stories tend to get brought up around the dinner table! It was good to see Maj Bob Davies, an ex OC of 41 (PLK) Sig Sqn, and Maj Brian McAneny, currently the Tffc Offr but also an ex PSAO of the Squadron. The CO, Lt Col Linda Harrison was the Guest of Honour, and she gave her annual State of the Regiment speech.

SQUADRON ADVENTURE TRAINING WEEKEND

The Squadron deployed to 14 Sig Regt in Pembrokeshire for a weekend of adventure training in the middle of March. We drove down late on Friday night, so it was with surprise that so many people were up and ready to go early on Saturday morning. (Somebody thought it funny to forget to tell the female officers the whereabouts of the cookhouse, but they hadn't accounted for Lt Beth Pollard's keen sense of smell. She could smell bacon frying anywhere)! We were offered a choice of four sports, and then divided into four groups. Group one went deep sea fishing, and LCpl Maria Traynor proved what an adept fisher-woman she was by demonstrating that all you had to do was put out a line, and the fish couldn't wait to bite it. She would have had us all amazed at her expertise until she then asked, 'What do I do with it now? Something's pulling on my line!' The second group went rock climbing for the day, tackling those Welsh rocks as though they were mere pebbles… The other two groups spent a half day kayaking, and a half day sailing.

The Fighting 41st Kayak Display Team!

I would recommend those of a fragile disposition not to witness Sgt Nick Tuck attempting to get into a wetsuit. Laughed?…. We nearly fell out of our kayaks! Several people did in fact manage to fall out of their kayaks – not least of all LCpl Paul Starbrook, whose face was an absolute picture as he emerged from the chilly Welsh water, screaming and cursing. It is slightly concerning though that LCpl Starbrook is due to participate in our Regimental Expedition later this year, ex Cockney Mackenzie – canoeing along the river Mackenzie in Canada in June. Let's hope he learns how to keep his canoe upright before then!

LCpl Warren O'Driscoll posing in his kayak!!

The evening entertainment consisted of a bowling challenge laid down by the Sqn PSI, SSgt Alfie Kirkham. He proved his bowling prowess to the Squadron, which merely showed that he had obviously spent all his time in the bowling alley when posted to 14 Sig Regt! He expected to do the same on the Sunday morning during our Annual Squadron Go-Karting Grand Prix, but was cruelly robbed from a place in the finals by the tactical manoeuvering of Lt Debs Speakman. She decided that driving slowly around the middle of the track was better than risking a spin off and letting the PSI past her. The Grand Prix was won by LCpl Liz Bray, who received a bottle of bubbly for her efforts. Second place went to LCpl Warren O'Driscoll, and third place to Lt Speakman. (By default – it should have been Sgt 'Formula One' Ian Mackay, but he was robbed of his correct position due to a computer error).

NATIONAL TERRITORIAL ARMY DAY

As part of the National TA day the Squadron opened it's doors to the general public between 11am and 4pm on Saturday 25 March. The day was a great success, and we had over 100 visitors through the door. Members of the Normandy Veterans Association and the PLK Association visited us in order to meet the soldiers and view our modern equipment. The Normandy Veterans Association had their own fascinating stand in the drill hall, with model soldiers and artefacts from the Second World War, which proved very popular with visitors. Visitors were met by a host at a reception tent, and were then taken around the stands in a circuit. We had a working det on display with a JOCOMMEX link to HMS Grafton. They saw the Lanward vehicle, which had it's equipment dismounted and on display inside the drill hall. Visitors were able to talk over the net to a second radio detachment attending an Open Day in Croydon. Visitors were also shown stands on First Aid, NBC, field cooking, weapons, and all the equipment carried on an FFR det. 148 Cadet Det South West London Cadet Force had their own cadet recruiting stand, and hopefully managed to convince a few of the children visiting that they should join the Army cadets when they get older. 285 (Coulsdon and Purley) Sqn Air Cadets brought an airline cockpit with them, which also proved a big hit for the children who could clamber inside and pretend they were pilots!

SSgt Bob Stanton with potential new recruit Murray practising a spot of First Aid

We were visited by The Mayor of Croydon and members of Croydon Council. Our Commanding Officer, Lt Col Linda Harrison, arrived in the afternoon, to see children running round in NBC kit, and soldiers trying to work out which way round to hold a 94mm. (Not much change from a usual Tuesday night then!). Brig Verey, the soon to retire Brigadier TA on his final day in uniform, visited the Squadron and talked to the soldiers, and seemed very impressed with what he saw. Well done 41 Sqn!

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations go to SSgt 'Nobby' Clerk, QRVM who collected his medal from Buckingham Palace last week. He was rewarded for over 40 years service in the TA. He began his military career with National Service in 1958, and never looked back. He originally joined 41 Sig Regt, before we became 41 (PLK) Signal Squadron (and part of 31 Sig Regt), and has seen a fair few changes in his time. We wish him all the best in his retirement from the military.

The 56 Sig Sqn Courage Trophy Team
(L-R): (back row) Sig O'Sullivan, Lt Francis, OCdt Wood, Sig Baldwin, (front row) Sig Hulin, Sig Power, LCpl Reader

This has been a very successful month for the Squadron with our Courage Trophy team winning the Courage Best Shield at Longmoor, narrowly beating the other Regimental Team from 83 Sig Sqn who finished second. The team, comprising Lt Kieron Francis, OCdt Rob Wood, LCpl Rich Baldwin, LCpl Jo Reader, Sig Trish O'Sullivan, Sig Hulin and Sig Mark Power, enjoyed the weekend. It was a proud moment indeed when they received the Shield and their winning tankards from the GOC London District, Maj Gen Webb-Carter. However, the moment was rather lost when a certain Officer Cadet saluted with his tankard in his right hand! Clonk! The victory was made even sweeter by the crate of beer that they each received, courtesy of Courage Breweries.

Meanwhile back in Eastbourne, SSgt Willie Loch's office has been undergoing a facelift and has now been repainted to match the 2IC's office. (Although he does not get the green velvet curtains to match!) He is also planning to have a bed that fold downs from the wall for all those late evenings and early mornings he keeps telling us about. He has recently taken delivery of the largest computer in the world, which he currently hides behind pretending to work.

SQUADRON TRAINING WEEKEND 18-19 MARCH 2000

The Squadron weekend in March was our first comms exercise of the new millennium and was an opportunity to dust of the cobwebs and get back to our core business - communicating. Capt Anthony Lamb (ex infanteer) commanded a Radio Tp in a tactical exercise for the first time. Once he realised that a R Signals 'O' Gp could be held in a CP and on chairs and did not necessarily need to be carried out in the prone position with bracken tucked in his helmet, things improved considerably for him. LCpl Jo Bultler and Sgt Bob Cooper provided advice and support as Det Comds. They too had taken the opportunity to pass on their knowledge to several signallers, who were also on their first exercise. Sig 'Yakety yak' George volunteered to provide jamming support should any be needed throughout the exercise and only quietened down when told that radio silence was in force. Sig '003 & a half' Dalton and his side kick Sig Jenkins, provided LCpl Jo Butler with the opportunity to develop her command and control skills in many ways over the weekend. All said and done, the purpose of the exercise was to practice individual and det skills in a tactical environment. This was achieved and robust communications to Dundee held throughout the exercise. During the weekend, the OC, Maj Brian Howe and the SQMS, SSgt John Atherton spent many hours wandering around inspecting the various trees that had fallen over the winter. In fact, it is true to say that the 'tree knowledge' of the OC is second to none. The question is – why were they so interested in fallen trees and logs?

OFFICERS DINING CLUB DINNER – 24 MARCH 2000

The Regimental Officers Dining Club met for the second time and enjoyed a sumptuous meal in grand surroundings at Innholders Hall in the City on Fri 24 Mar 00. The Dining Club is a relatively new concept. It meets annually and is an opportunity for officers both past and present to catch up on the news and gossip in the Regt. For the second year, the Worshipful Company of Innholders generously granted the use of their magnificent Hall for the dinner, so a big thank you to the Master! The Hon Col, Maj Gen Bill Robins CB OBE, presides over the dinner and delivered an after dinner speech of perfect proportion! Aside from the normal news he did say a few words of farewell to the Adjt, who departs the Regt in Apr. Fortunately for us, she wasn't given the opportunity to reply (we had to be out of the Hall by 2300 hrs!!). The Regt UPIO, Lt Susie Sidwell, was seen scurrying around the reception manhandling guests so she could get the desired snap. Roll on next year's dinner!

NATIONAL TA DAY – 25 MARCH 2000

Like so many TA Centres, we opened our doors on 25 March for National TA Day, and about 200 interested people passed through to see what we did. Several showed interest in joining, whilst the younger variety were fascinated by the kit and equipment, modelled by Sig Steve Spilstead, the older variety kept us entertained with all their war stories. Meanwhile, OCdt Rob Wood and Sig Helen Matthews were parked down in the pedestrianised area of the Arndale Centre in Eastbourne, passing out leaflets to anyone who looked approximately the right age to join. Sig Matthews had an even more tricky job as she was also trying to avoid being spotted by her pupils form the local school, without much success. Throughout the day, 'Hello, Miss,' was frequently heard from giggling teenagers! In the evening, we welcomed local councillors, employers and the CO and RSM for a VIP look at our stands and for a dinner, once again provided by Sgt Steve Howell and Sgt Bob Shevels. Whilst the day was a success in terms of highlighting what we do to the general public, we have yet to find out how successful it was in terms of recruiting.

83 SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS) – WHITE CITY

Sqn Comd Maj Julian Carmichael
SSM WO2 Bob Stevenson

THE MOVE OF 83 SIGNAL SQUADRON FROM THE DUKE OF YORK'S HEADQUARTERS TO THE WHITE CITY TERRITORIAL ARMY CENTRE

Due to the implementation of the recent SDR, 83 Sig Sqn found itself on the road again. This time, from the plush surroundings of the Kings Road, Chelsea, to South Africa Road, White City.

The permanent staff and a few TA members of the Squadron, started to dismantle the Squadron brick by brick, working up to the date when we could start the move. By 20 March we were ready to go. However, White City TAC was not quite ready to receive us as the painters etc were still painting on the second coat of emulsion. Monday came and went still no move. Tuesday came and we were given the green light. Don't panic, don't panic came the cry from Capt Dave Thomas, the Squadron PSAO, like Jonesy from Dad's Army! Don't worry this is my fifth move in 16 years was the reply from the old war horse himself SSgt Roy Smith you should have been here for the Hammersmith move etc, etc and so on.....

The other slight administrative point of concern was that TAVRA London wanted us out by the weekend because there was a TA Open Day. So in the true spirit of the Squadron, we all cracked on. So few to move a Squadron's worth of assets was proving to be back-breaking work, and also the London traffic was proving a hindrance in time spent on the road. Who needs Pickfords when you have a handful of squaddies. Well you just get on with it don't you! By the weekend we had cleared the garages which was a result as far as TAVRA were concerned. However, we still had a fair bit to clear around the rest of the Squadron. The weekend came and went. Then the cavalry arrived in the form of a few other permanent members of the Regiment. Only a week late, but better late than never! They gave up a whole day and by the time Tuesday night had come, we only had the armoury and a few bits and pieces to move. After the drill night had finished we started to hump and dump until the last black bag was on the back of the truck. By 0400hrs 29 Mar we were clear of 'The Dukes'. White City actually seems to be blessing in disguise nobody seems to want to come and visit us anymore, the beer prices are cheaper and Shepherd's Bush Green seems to be a very good night out, just ask Roy Smith! A special thank you to Steve Berry the civilian fitter, and 2Lt Mike Zazzi who put in a lot of hard work to assist with the move.

COURAGE TROPHY COMPETITION 17-19 MARCH 2000

31 Sig Regt excelled itself at this years London District Military Skills competition held at Longmoor. Not only did we manage to enter two teams but were placed first and second in the Courage Shield. The 83 Sig Sqn team consisted of Capt Liz Fitzpatrick, Sgt Matt Cahill, Cpl Mark Bell, LCpl Jay Eastwood, LCpl Duncan, LCpl Leyland, Sig Brian Jardine, Sig Scrivens. Although we 'Kicked Arse' on all stands involving brute force and ignorance, we were left wanting on the Academics! The all important point that pushed us into the runners up slot was lost by our most junior member of the team. 'Keep your head down Sig Scrivens!'

Well done to the 56 Sig Sqn Team who triumphed, walking away not only with the shield but more importantly an extra slab of beer. Their team was led by Lt Keiron Francis. The first winners of the new Millennium will be best remembered for their introduction of a new drill movement (Saluting to the front with the right hand firmly gripped on to a tankard). Well done to all those who took part and a special thank you to HQ Sqn for running a challenging vehicle recovery stand.

32nd (SCOTTISH) SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

CO Lt Col JK McKee MBE
RSM WO1 Hilborn

Another busy period for the Regiment, visits, commissioning boards and supporting the QM's travel allowance. Successful visits by the GOC SCOTLAND and DComd 2 (NC) Sig Bde punctuated our programme. The RSM has been working long hours to ensure that the Corps SAAM receives the support it requires. The Adjt and Trg Maj were sorely disappointed by the result of the Scotland/England game and are still holding meetings of the escape committee after having lost all their bets on the game.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT
ATTACHMENT TO 1 LI (How to wind up the Adjt)
by Maj (QM) I. L. Dudding R SIGNALS

Having arrived back in December 1999 from a four month voluntary tour in Banja Luka, Bosnia, I was surprised to see a 'stray' signal from HQ SCOTLAND trawling for volunteers to act as Observer Controllers on ASCIET 2000. This exercise was to take place in Fort Stewart, Georgia, USA. 'No', I thought, my CO, Lt Col J. K. McKee MBE, will never wear it! However, being in my final year of service and with a heartrending plea it came as much surprise (maybe he knows something I don't or he has spoken to my fellow QM's!) he agreed to release me once again.

14 February found me reporting to Dreghorn Barracks, Edinburgh, to meet with the OC D Coy 1 LI, Maj Bill Pointing, where we embussed for our nine hour flight from Prestwick to Charleston, South Carolina courtesy of the Royal Air Force. D Coy found its home in the National Guard complex of Fort Stewart where we were billeted in 50 man rooms. Accommodation in the complex was basic and the latrines had open views to the side, front, rear and upwards - you could even hold hands if you so wished! A number of D Coy vehicles had been sent on earlier by sea for use in the exercise and six of these consisted of Wolf Recce vehicles - the Americans loved them!

R&R, this entitlement was taken during the first week and consisted of two days in Disney Land. Each of us contributed £70 towards the trip, which included transport and accommodation in Florida. Much fun was had by all and the general consensus was why could the exercise not be held here!

Back to reality and ASCIET 2000. Aim: To Exercise And Analyse 'Fratricide'. The first week consisted of the complex issue and familiarisation on the Multiple Integrated Laser Engagement System Equipment (MILES), M16 Rifles, Anti Armour Dragon and Viper weapons. MILES is a highly technical laser engagement system (similar to our TESEX equipment), which is fitted to the soldier by the way of helmet headband and a torso vest. The laser fitted to the weapon had one serious drawback; it could not fire through foliage! It was the task of the Observer/Controller to educate as to whether a kill was likely in wooded areas. This is where the God Gun came into its own. MILES is fitted to armour by way of a circular band around the vehicle. The laser beam attachment, like the infanteer, is fitted to the barrel of the vehicle. Infantry armour piercing weapons such as the American Viper and Dragon also contained laser attachments. Blank firing attachments and rounds were used with all weapons of all calibre. Once the weapon was fired the laser attachment emits a laser beam to the target aimed at. If the target is hit a successful kill is recorded on firers Data Processing Control Unit (small computer box) and similarly a kill and a 'tone' of four beeps would be heard by the dead infanteer. In the case of armour an orange flashing light would light up on the vehicle. In this instance both the dead soldier or vehicle would stop and personnel/crews would dismount and remove headgear showing that they had been killed. These individuals/vehicles would take no further part in that day's phase of the exercise.

All key personnel, such as Coy Comds, Radio Operators, Pl Comds and all vehicles carried a system (DIPS) that transmitted a radio signal identifying who they were and where they were on the battlefield. This signal was transmitted to the ASCIET HQ in Camp Oliver where, by way of computer graphics, the battle, including personnel and vehicles could be tracked on a large screen. It was sophisticated enough to show in which direction a tanks barrel was facing, what vehicle it was aiming at, whether it was dead or how fast it was moving and in which direction. This was also applicable to key personnel.

Exercise phases. Week one consisted of five one-day battles starting, on day one, in defence and progressing to the final day in a hasty attack. Week two was a repeat but conducted at night. ASCIET Control was based out of Camp Oliver, which was some 40 miles from Fort Stewart. Full field conditions were imposed throughout the five day battles and sleeping under your poncho and being woken up by Racoons, Alligators, Boar, Rattle Snakes and very vocal frogs made it all most interesting! Friendly forces equipment consisted of MI A1 Abraham Tanks, M2 Bradley Fighting Vehicles equipped with TOW Missiles and 25mm cannon, AMTRAC Armoured Personnel Carriers, HUMMV Line Backer Vehicles equipped with Stinger missiles, Kiowa Warrior, Cobra and Huey Helicopters, USAAF aircraft, RAF Tornado's and our six Wolf Recce Vehicles (which incidentally hold the land speed record for Fort Stewart Training Area (as recorded on screen))! (Official Speed Limit 15mph - Wolf 65mph!). After a fortnight we were sure the Americans were convinced this was the slowest they could go!!

Albeit late in my career and having never worked with the infantry I found D Coy 1 Bn 1 LI an excellent outfit to work and socialise with. I thoroughly enjoyed their unique style of training and camaraderie and thank Bill Pointing and his Company for an excellent and enlightening experience (maybe he should never have been shot). This was a tough, highly successful and rewarding exercise where the British Infantry again showed their high level of skill, competence and professionalism. The soldiers worked with, not only our greatest allies, the United States, but with equipment and personnel most soldiers can only dream of.

ARRIVALS

We bid a hearty Highland welcome to our new(ish) PSI, SSgt John 'I'm English' Leach. John is no stranger to the Regiment having served with the 61st (City of Edinburgh) Sig Sqn (V) as PSI. An excellent all rounder his knowledge of the T.A now includes such diverse subjects as the plague and ovine reproduction.

CONGRATULATIONS

A well-deserved award of the LS&GC was presented to Cpl Andy Dickens by Brig Munro, Commander of 52 Bde at Aberdeen; this is a testimony to Andy's lung and liver capacity in the pipe band. Also to be congratulated is Sig 'Cabbie' Henderson just returned from a tour in Norway with 249 (AMF) Sig Sqn – he came back for four days and promptly left for the Azores on a sailing expedition with the RAF – never a dull moment. Welcome back to Sig 'I've got a Jag' Bruce recently returned from a skiing exercise in Austria – our photograph shows Sig Bruce being given instruction on how to buy a round.

A wee hello to all our friends serving with the big Army, they include Sigs Melia and Bogart in Bosnia, SSgt Lyn Bertram also moving to Bosnia and of course our cunning linguist Sgt Nige Allen speaking Serbo-Croat with a Scouse accent.

ELGIN TROOP

Our latest venture up in the far North is the establishment of a troop in Elgin with Capt Linda Duncan as Troop O.C. ably assisted by Capt Mick Granitza and SSgt Davey Shand – they are working hard to recruit new members and are already in the public eye with a very detailed press report of Capt Granitza's life story. Finally – congratulations to our OC on her attempts to give up smoking – keep it up ma'am even if you do suffer from the secondary affliction of Ursine Migrainus.

WINTER WARRIOR OR SKIING SCOTSMAN? - by Sig Bruce

During February I was lucky enough to take part in an annual winter exercise - 'Winter Warrior' which takes place in the Austrian Tyrol. The beginners course is intended for those who have never skied before involving cross country, downhill and touring - the objective is to reach 'Bronze' standard in all, and have a lot of fun on and off the slopes. The course culminates in a variety of races over some hair-raising slopes. The daily routine involved about four to five hours of tuition and up to three hours free ski if you skip lunch and smoking breaks. Physically it was fairly demanding with an abundance of pulled groins, aching thighs and bruises all over not to say the late evening sessions at the bar. Other activities included swimming and mixed sauna (why do Brits get so embarrassed about nudity?), ice go carting, après ski (lederhosen, swinging from the rafters, cow bells, schnapps, etc), karaoke night (I did a couple of German songs for some free schnapps and some duets much to the amusement of the crowd). I was also able to get in a half day of snowboarding with expert instruction from the Chalet boys Bill and Ted (.... excellent).

On the course, there was a lot of hilarity at my continual attempts to foster Austrian-British relations in my rusty German - but at least I can now count on the Chief of the Vienna Police as one of my closest friends and have made some younger friends for the future. Some of the more sordid accounts will need to require counselling in due course. Fellow attendees will, I'm sure, look back on my mix of colourful trousers that demonstrate after all that Britain is not a fashion-free zone. I will personally remember the variety of friends I made on the course (Giz, Smudge, Scotty aus Tyrol, Rick et al) and wish them all the best if this article makes it to The WIRE.

I'll look back on this Exercise as an experience not to have been missed. The organisation and tuition was superb with a good mix of individuals from chefs through to lawyers, through to nuclear physicists. If you are interested in one of the courses next year I would thoroughly recommend it - within the two weeks all but a few were good skiers thanks to expert instruction. Hopefully by then we will also move into the realms of air travel, as the 34hr rail & bus journey from Aberdeen is a bit too long!

52nd (LOWLAND) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

Sqn Comd	Maj R. J. H. Sutherland
SSM	WO2 (SSM) K. A. Swan

The Squadron has had a busy period with a lot of people coming and going. To start off with, there was a new addition to the Squadron's extended family as Sergeant (now Staff Sergeant – another reason for congratulations!) Steve McVey and Sgt Carol McGurn have had another baby. Hopefully everything is going well and there are not too many sleepless nights as a result. On more conventional changes, the Squadron will have a change at its head as Maj Roddy Sutherland moves to HQ Squadron as its new Squadron Command and Capt Donald Gordon takes over. The Squadron 2IC will be the newly promoted Capt Lewis Smith. Congratulations and best wishes to all these people in their new appointments. Maj Sutherland has already been making enquiries as to whether he can draw a brown coat from the clothing store to help out in some of the roles that his new Squadron personnel undertake! The other aspects of Squadron life have been a successful trade week held at the beginning of March when many personnel expanded their knowledge and passed trade boards, thereby gaining further qualifications. To all those with the resulting increase in trade pay – try not to spend it all at one go!

There has also been an enjoyable challenge in the shape of an Inter-Troop Military Skills competition, Ex Golden Boot. Lt Milne Weir led his Troop to success; hopefully some of the same success will follow him as he leads the Regimental Shooting Team at the up-coming Corps SAAM. The team had a successful training week and not even the freezing weather of Inverness and Cultybraggan Ranges could dampen their enthusiasm. We await the result with interest and wish them well. Another person to be congratulated is the Squadron's Yeoman (or should that be Yeowoman?) of Signals, Helen Jephcote who was promoted to WO2 at the beginning of March. With the Squadron now having WO2 Karen Swan as SSM and now Yeoman Jephcote being the first female Yeoman in the Regiment, nobody can say there isn't an equal role for women in the Army.

CARNETHY HILL RACE

On a blustery but mercifully sunny Saturday morning 12 Squadron members led by Lt Phil 'Sans Pantaloons' Donegan and YofS 'Jeph' Jephcote prepared to deploy to the Pentland Hills in order to provide comms safety cover for the 30th Carnethy Hill Race. A service which 61 Sig Sqn (V) has been providing for 17 years. Preparation and loading at the TAC went smoothly, the only awkward point arising when it came to selecting the two 'fortunate' individuals who would have to make the only unassisted ascent to one of the race peaks. It was somehow refreshing that in these days of equal opportunities, the only two non Royal Signals soldiers were selected for this task! At the race start, the admin and First Aid tent were set up and the radio sets deployed to their alpine locations. As the competitors assembled, the Excon staff looked on in disbelieving wonder at these odd individuals who were actually paying to run up very steep hills. The disbelieving wonder turned to sheer terror when the CO arrived and enthusiastically remarked that it would be a good idea to put in a Squadron team next year. By 1600hrs the race was over, the dets returned to Excon and packing was underway. As the tired and muddy hill runners passed the Squadron land rover it was left to Sgt 'Flat caps n whippets' Garner to announce gleefully to all present that England had won in Paris. The whole Squadron looks forward to providing comms for the CO when he runs in next year's event!

CHAMPAGNE SUPPER

This event ranks alongside the Brit Awards, the Queen's Birthday Party and London Fashion Week. 80-odd trendsetters assembled at Chesser Crescent on the evening of Saturday 19 February 2000 for an evening of food, drink and verbal entertainment. As with so many other events this year, it was Maj 'Mayhem' Murray's last appearance as a serving officer. 'Mayhem' used this occasion to 'set about' the guests with tales of blanco-ed boots and '37 pattern webbing. His verbal tirade was interrupted only by the raffle, organised by Maj 'Shankers' Shankland saw a distribution of a number of unusual prizes, the best of which was a rather suspicious looking sausage won by Maj 'Soprano' McLean. The event was a welcome return for the CO, Lt Col McKee MBE, who had presided over the event in his past life as OC 61 Sig Sqn (V). There was an element of 'Christmas past' in the shape of the former CO, Lt Col Allan Lapsley who floated between guests with all the panache of a career minded TA staff officer. The RMO, Capt Nicolette 'Cough please' Mason is to be congratulated for her imaginative impersonation of a very drunk doctor falling down after leaning against an unlocked door.

33 SIGNAL REGIMENT (VOLUNTEERS)

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

CO	Lt Col R. J. Steed MBE
RSM	WO1 (RSM) R. D. Cowan

Since the Christmas stand down and the dawn of a new millennium there has been little let up in the workload of 33 Sig Regt (V). First weekend back and it was off to Warcop for the final CMT of the training year, followed closely by the RSIT team inspecting 42 Sig Sqn. The trade training course at Whitburn Camp the following week proved to be very successful, as was the Regimental Officer Selection weekend, which almost resembled P Company selection. We now have a number of young potential officers to lower the average age of the Mess! In between breaths the Regiment is preparing for annual camp in Germany in June, along with the build up training and exercises – is there no let up? Finally, our thanks and goodbyes go to WO2 (YofS) Jonas, WO2 (RQMS) Beggs, SSgt Hoolachan, SSgt Hutton, SSgt Henley, SSgt Weston, Sgt Goodwin, Cpl Wilkinson and LCpl Robertson who are either moving on to Regiments new or are leaving the Corps. A warm hello and welcome go to WO2 (RQMS) Forshaw, SSgt Simms, SSgt Allen, SSgt Faulds and Sgt Richards.

There has been strange goings on in RHQ over the past weeks, the CO seems to have been bitten by the 'IIP bug', but instead of the normal reams of paper, we had Ptarmigan Training for the CO's inner cabinet, ie: the Training Major, Carl Storey, the Adjutant, Capt John Harrington and the CO's driver, LCpl Scott Wilson (Why am I doing Ptarmigan training?). (See picture of gruelling training for the answer).

Ptarmigan Training with a difference!
Capt John Harrington, LCpl Scott Wilson and Maj Carl Storey

The next surprise from the CO's office was that all MOD civilian employees were invited by the CO to go on a team building exercise in Wales along with the permanent staff. In the best spirit of adventure training, and ably led by the Adjutant (even if he doesn't know a footpath from a county boundary) the staff of Angela, (the green gaitered high heeled AO 55 Sig Sqn), Jo Down (Asst Adjt the blonde bombshell), Andria Crowe (redundant typist), Lyn Williams (the well kitted AO from 80 Sqn), Lillan Hall (best Caernarfon bargain shopper AO 42 Sqn), Irene Taylor (AA the Barbara Windsor of RHQ), Eddie Buchanan (AO RHQ, the only time he had his head above water was when he went for a dingy ride with the ladies!), set off for a gentle walk in Snowdonia, accompanied by the CO, to ensure no slacking or disappearing off to the pub! As the gallant band set off for the summit of Snowdon (oh didn't I tell you we were going up the short route to Snowdon). In pouring rain, low cloud and mist, the day certainly tested us all to the limit. Well bedraggled but having enjoyed ourselves, it was one of the best day's out, and certainly put the exploits of the other teams in the shade. They took pity on us the next day with a RIB ride to Puffin Island.

RHQ has been involved in a number of visits both in barracks and in the field recently. During Exercise Spring Eagle Brig His Grace the Duke of Westminster visited the Regiment, and in particular 55 and 80 Sig Sqns. Whilst leaving the 80 Sqn location, the CO escorted the Brigadier to his next location and the Brigadier drove his own Landrover Discovery. As they left, a member of the Cheshire Hunt, that was in the area and knew the Brigadier said, 'Gosh, it's the Duke, he must be driving an incredibly important person, who is it?' The RSM replied, 'The CO madam!'

UPDATE FROM THE SQUADRON

Farewell to Maj Micah Cummings who has moved back to his roots in Manchester with 42 Sig Sqn, the Squadron all wish him the very best. The Squadron has a new OC, Maj Bill Wyper, who is congratulated on his promotion and moves from 2IC/MTO to the dizzy heights of command. We also welcome Capt Bob Muir from 59 Sig Sqn, into the post of 2IC/MTO. With sadness we also say farewell to WO2 (RQMS) Harry Harper on his retirement from the TA after 29 years, Harry will be missed by all the Squadron. Congratulations on commissioning for WO1 Tony McFarlane, but he has to take a drop in standards by being posted to 59 Sig Sqn. The PSAO, Capt Tom Ponton, seems to be settling in to the position, but he has to be put back into his box when every now and again he forgets he is no longer the QM. Capt Derek Deegan is now well into the job of QM. He has a considerable advantage to most QM's who have served with the Regiment in that being a Kirkby lad, he at least understands what most of the population are saying. The SSM, WO2 P. Williams, will be taking a team to the Corps SAAM in the very near future and we hope to bring you an article and photos of our successful team in the next issue. The Echelon Club has reopened after a face lift, and the Squadron is now taking advantage of the better decor and atmosphere, the 43 inch TV has helped, with the Squadron watching the sports channel, especially the Rugby, when Scotland beat England much to the delight of the OC, PSAO and Master Chef (all 'Jocks').

HANDOVER/TAKEOVER SQUADRON COMMANDERS

At the beginning of March, we said farewell to the Sqn Comd, Maj Ian Kelly, and welcomed our new Sqn Comd, Maj Micah Cummings, in his place. Ian had the distinction of being the only infanteer to command a Ptarmigan Squadron and will be best remembered for writing an excellent and accurate Squadron history as well as designing and supplying our Regimental Flash from his military memorabilia business. Ian goes on to pastures new and a rumoured staff appointment with 11 Sig Bde at Donnington. Prior to this, he has been lucky enough to be selected to attend the staff officers course in Canada, and all ranks of the Squadron wish him well in this latest endeavour. Micah Cummings is returning to 42 Sqn, where he has served most of his TA career, after a two year spell in Liverpool commanding HQ Sqn (now 55 Sig Sqn). His last appointment with the Squadron was as Troop Commander - Access Troop and we are delighted to welcome him back as the new Squadron Commanderd. Micah is the headmaster of a local school and finds that dealing with soldiers is not vastly different to dealing with his pupils, if anything, the pupils are much better behaved.

Maj Ian Kelly, in the white trousers, hands over 42 Sig Sqn (V) to Maj Micah Cummings in the Squadron Officers Mess

ROTHIEMURCHUS LODGE (24-27 FEBRUARY 2000)

The Squadron had a most enjoyable four days skiing in the Cairngorms at the end of February 2000 and managed to arrive when the snow was deep, crisp and even. Rothiemurchus is a Tri-Service and Reserves outdoor centre in the heart of the Scottish Highlands just outside Aviemore and is an ideal base for a ski trip. As well as skiing, it also offers climbing, fishing, sailing, wind surfing, hill walking and clay pigeon shooting, literally something for everyone. The Centre now has its own dry ski slope which is ideal for beginners to master the basics before launching themselves onto the Cairngorm slopes and falling about in public. LCpl Sue Heaps distinguished herself by breaking her ankle on getting out of the minibus as she arrived. God knows what she would have done to herself if she had made it to the slopes. Apart from this setback, the trip was a great success and everyone who attended (30 personnel) could ski with varying degrees of success at the end of the weekend.

OPEN DAY 25 MARCH 2000

The Squadron opened its doors to the public on 25 March 2000 as part of the TA National Recruiting initiative. A variety of stands designed to demonstrate Royal Signals trades were provided and nearly sixty members of the general public came through the gates throughout the day. A Freelander Land Rover 1.81 was on offer as first prize in a national draw for visitors to all TA Centres in the Country. The Squadron managed to acquire one in black, from a local dealer, which set off the front of the TA Centre a treat. Unfortunately, anyone connected with the TA was disqualified from entering the draw but it proved a popular attraction for the public, who assumed there was one on offer per TA Centre!

OTHER NEWS

February and March continued to be busy and productive months and as well as the events already described the Squadron took part in the following:

Board of Officers (27-3 March 2000)
Hand-over/Take-over stocktaking board for change of Squadron Commanders.

Regimental Comms Exercise (4-5 March 2000)
Run up for Exercise Spring Eagle at the end of March 2000.

Bring a Boss Night (14 March 2000)
A most successful evening during which soldiers were able to tell their employers what they actually do in the TA and then host them to dinner.

Investment In People Review (14 March 2000)
The Squadron was selected by HQ Scotland (lucky us) to be visited by an IIP Assessor as one of the units representing the District.

Exercise Spring Eagle (18-19 March 2000)
Comd 11 Sig Bde Exercise with participation from 33, 34, 35, 36 and 40 Sig Regts. The Squadron deployed to Winter Hill and the W. Yorkshire border.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

Finally, as well as saying farewell to the Sqn Comd, Maj Ian Kelly, we lunched out two more stalwarts of the Squadron at the beginning of March. SSgt Martin Henley, our long suffering SPSI, and Eric Griffiths our long serving senior civilian storekeeper. Martin Henley has completed his last tour with the Regulars and is now working for a Communications Cable Company. He is to become a part time soldier and happily will be joining the Squadron in the near future. Eric Griffiths has been our senior storekeeper for sixteen years and is almost part of the furniture. He is a real Mancunian and a great character. Sadly he has reached the 65 year marker and has to stand down for a younger person. Martin Henley's replacement is SSgt Sam Faulds, fresh from 2 Div HQ & Sig Regt, and all ranks wish him a rewarding and enjoyable tour with the Squadron. Eric Griffiths' replacement is not really new at all. LCpl Sharon Blythe, our stores accountant, successfully applied for the job and has now taken over the whole job as a soldier and a civilian. It is always sad to see people go but we wish Martin Henley, good luck in his new career and Eric Griffiths a long and happy retirement.

CENTRALISED MILITARY TRAINING

The first weekend training after the Christmas break saw the Squadron attend the Regimental Centralised Military Training weekend, 6-8 January at Warcop. Designed mainly to achieve Individual Training Directives the weekend was made more exciting by including Stages 4 and 5 firing. Although cold everyone enjoyed the weekend.

Is this Sgt Lek Rajmekis leading the way into the NBC Chamber or a new version of Blind Date?

MAINTENANCE WEEKEND

Our recent weekend 22 and 23 January was used to prepare for the forthcoming RSIT inspection. Plenty of good work was carried out and the Squadron looks in reasonable shape at this time. We now look forward to the Regimental and Brigade Exercise hoping to be at least Battleworthy!!

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES

With the loss of all regular technicians, we were recently grateful for Sgt Paul Jones to arrive on six months FTRS with the Regiment.

We recently welcomed back Lt Paul Knight from his six month tour in Kosova. We have now said farewell to Capt Bob Muir who has taken up the role of MTO and Capt Alan Richardson who has retired to RARO. WO2 (FofS) Ian Outterson returned from Kosova and has now moved onto new pastures to be replaced by SSgt (FofS) Andy Owen.

TERRITORIAL ARMY OPEN DAY

The Squadron used the recent TA Open Day to establish a foothold at Aintree Barracks TAC, where we are moving to in the near future, due to the closure of Deysbrook Barracks. The new accommodation was the home of 55 Sig Sqn prior to SDR and many members of that Squadron now serving with 59 Sqn are looking forward to returning.

EXERCISE SPRING EAGLE

We recently took part in a 11 Signal Brigade Ex. Many new members of the Squadron took the opportunity to enhance their skills in new trades.

EXERCISE PRONTO CALL

The first full Regimental Exercise was soon upon us after RSIT with a deployment to the grounds of Cholmondeley Castle North of Whitchurch. The Squadron was nicely entrenched in a courtyard on the estate when the atmosphere was shattered by the arrival of the RCP. Cpl 'Bermy' Birmingham, at this stage, had to fight his way out of his 'green maggot' and had been seen to be imparting his vast knowledge of Radio Relay to OCdt 'Twinkle Toes' Southworth. Many 'bags' were ruffled by the arrival of the RCP but not the 'bag' of SSgt 'I've got the scar' Langley. 'I'm going to get my 12 hours in whether the CO and RSM are here or not'. A good exercise was had by all with many lessons learnt.

CATCH THE WIND

It takes a special kind of individual who will actually volunteer to suffer serious discomfort, loss of dignity and cope with a huge range of hazards, including the RSM's jokes as well as over exposure to the elements. All of this is in the dubious but honourable cause of securing a place in the Lanyard Trophy Team. It begs the question - who in their right mind would happily give up a weekend lying in a comfortable bed, surrounded by the security of a warm blanket while watching the rain, sleet and snow hammer against the protective window outside, just to venture over Dartmoor and other training areas at the bleakest time of the year? Well I could name the complete intrepid and adventurous team of potential gladiators, but I will resist the temptation and restrict this story to the key players and the comic interludes. Dartmoor in all of its hostile but magnificent landscape is hardly a place to catch the wind blowing through your protective clothing - it catch's you and either carries you along at a comfortable pace or places an immovable barrier making it almost impossible to proceed. Worse of all it makes the 20kg of kit that you are carrying feel like a ton! But that did not deter WO1 (RSM) 'Geordie' Marshall and his team of doughty warriors when they commenced their training in late February and have since continued over many training weekends. He was assisted by two physical stalwart's and veterans of the competition in the shape of WO2 (FofS) Pete Stowell and SSgt (FofS) Neil Trengrove who inspired (or more accurately put the fear of god in them) other team members by tabbing along at cheetah like speed. The rest of the team was formed from volunteers from each of the Squadrons.

Familiar faces, that frequently grace the pages of 'The Wire', from previous competitions and other exhausting adventurous and military skills pursuits were apparent.

Capt John Middler of orienteering and cross country fame, LCpl David Jones an Annapurna Dragon veteran who joined the training in preparation and hopeful selection for Ex Pioneer Dragon in America, WO2 Pete Mouland who rises to any challenge and three girls who give rise to the claim that they are more than a match for any fella in the Regiment, Cpl Louise Cantrell, Cpl Wendy Geddis and Cpl Teresa Skeehan. The training itself, like the eventual competition, is extremely tough and requires a high level of physical fitness as well as stamina, personal courage and sound map reading and first aid skills. Spirits during the training amongst all team members and guests have remained high even during the low times, that although funny at the time for those onlooker's, placed great and additional demands on the afflicted. Especially Sgt Kevin Bannigan who found himself negotiating what he thought was a shallow stream only to find him-self waist deep in bitterly cold water & silt. Not to be dissuaded from this setback he quickly picked himself up changed into dry clothing and cracked on. A similar thing happened to Cpl Teresa Skeehan, who was also negotiating a stream and slipped on a turf of grass. To recover from her fall she laid on a deft display of her ballet talents by performing an evasive pirouette – unfortunately this did not prevent the water flooding into her boots and her subsequent scream was carried by the wind many miles over the Moorland! The stage has almost been reached for the final team selections, these will take place in the near future but no doubt while many will be jubilant others will suffer great disappointment – we will keep you posted on the outcome.

unnerving experience. To add some free-falling fiend dropping through a cloud like a missile to my list of fears and dislikes would end my life, as I know it!

However, who am I to cast doubt on an activity that makes normally sane people climb into an aircraft with a pack of curtains strapped to their back and with a cry of 'Geronimo!' leap into the unknown just for fun! Judging by the number of individuals who have scrambled for places on a series of special parachute courses organised by the RSM, there is no shortage of willing volunteers keen to have a go and a brave group of them did just that during March at RAF Weston on the Green. Following two days of intensive ground training our intrepid volunteers, which included Sgt Colin Richards, Cpl Ray Blanchette, LCpl Simon Brown and LCpl Paul Spicer, were flown to a height of just over 3000 feet in a Islander to participate in their first jump, which for posterity and fun was also captured on video. The first jump was by static line and Sgt Colin Richards described it as a strange and startling but exhilarating experience that he is now keen to repeat – take my advice Colin keep your feet where they should be, firmly on the ground!

Cpl Ray Blanchette meanwhile earned himself a dubious nickname after his instructor discovered to his horror that the handles to release his reserve chute were tucked inside his harness. The instructor called him an 'Horses Ass' and was quickly nicknamed 'Trigger' by the rest of the group. It could have been worse Ray, they were going to call you 'Muffin'. Joking apart, as the course progressed, confidence and technique improved considerably and most students were able to complete up to eight jumps. At the end of the course all returned to the unit with many stories to relate and with a great sense of personal achievement and

GET OFF MY CLOUD

Having already expressed a degree of bemusement but admiration of those intrepid individuals who freely give up a relaxing weekend at home with the family to engage in some serious physical team building stuff. You will not be surprised to learn that I have completely mixed up feelings for those who willingly jump out of aircraft at 3500 feet! As far as I am concerned the only things that legitimately fall from the sky are rain, aircraft (provided they manage to get up there in the first place) and bird droppings. I have to declare that none of these fills me with any degree of excitement as exposure to the elements and bird droppings leave me feeling wet, cold and miserable and I find flying an unnatural and

REGIMENTAL ORIENTEERING COMPETITION

On Sunday 20 February teams from all Squadron areas less 58 Sqn, descended on Coombe Abbey County Park in Warwickshire to participate in the Regimental Orienteering Competition. Most teams were clearly anxious this year to beat the favourites, 89 Sqn, who have warded off all comers for the past seven years. Was this year going to be an exception, regrettably for the other teams involved unfortunately not. The team entered by 89 Sqn was as strong as ever and their personal skills and experience won the day with exceptional performances from all team members that ensured the triumphant team lifted the Regimental Trophy once again. As well as the Regimental Trophy award other awards included the award of Regimental Champion to Cpl Tony Griffiths, Runner Up WO1 (RSM) 'Geordie' Marshall, Female Champion Lt Janet Lawrence, Runner Up LCpl Sue Joyce, Best Officer Lt Col Stephen Potter, Best Male Veteran Sgt Colin Marshall, Best SNCO SSgt Phil Weaver, Best U21 Sig Sarah Bell and finally Best Female Veteran LCpl Louise Cantrell. To all award winners we extend our congratulations and to all participants very well done! Finally a special thank you is extended to Capt John Midler and SSgt Dave Arnot for organising such an excellent competition and great day out.

NATIONAL TERRITORIAL ARMY DAY

Another great day out promised to be the National TA Day that took place on Saturday 25 March. The advertising was vast, posters and leaflets were distributed and radio announcements took place at regular intervals during the two weeks prior to the day and special directional signs were erected. Our hopes for a good attendance were high especially as there was a special inducement to the public this year in the guise of a free raffle of a Freelander and various Gortex items as well as the promise of a VIP day out with the TA. We set about the mammoth task of transferring our TA Centres into exhibition centres with a wide range of attractions, static displays, interactive displays and freebies to give away. The dan arrived and we eagerly anticipated swarms of local residents to engulf our Centres so we could show them what we do and hopefully encourage many to join our ranks. As usual the weather turned against us and this had a direct impact on attendance. Nevertheless a steady flow of visitors came through the gates although most were children and they enjoyed, in many cases, special one to one treatment. More importantly perhaps is the news that we have gained up to 15 recruits throughout the Regiment and also gained some valuable post TA Day publicity from the local press who attended. So while admittedly not as successful as last year we can claim a measure of success, which after all has made it all worthwhile! To end on a humorous note on Sunday 26 March an unnamed Squadron not far from Rugby, with its external signs still on display, received another ten visitors - each was given a free pen together with an apology!
PS – who won the Day out with the TA?

THE RIGHT PLACE

The myth that serving in a TA unit leads to a career void was firmly laid to rest when the results of the last Promotion Boards were released and as a result a record number of Regimental hopefuls were selected for promotion to Warrant Officer 2 and Staff Sergeant. It gives the Regiment great pleasure and delight to congratulate the following on their selection for promotion: SSgt (FofS) Andy Gilpin, SSgt (FofS) Neil Trengrove, SSgt (FofS) Chris Wilson, SSgt Mark Rosenworth, Sgt Mark Evans, Sgt Dave Taylor. Their hard work and endeavours while serving with the Regiment have bore fruit and most, if not all, are now waiting eagerly to see if their future postings will provide the final bit of icing on the cake.

REGIMENTAL ROUND-UP

Many other events and activities have taken place during the last couple of months including notably another Recruit Pass off Parade, Regimental Trade Training at Donnington, and a Battlefield Tour in Germany: All of these events are reported on briefly in the following article. It's always a pleasure to report on another successful recruit pass off parade and the first pass off course of 2000 was no exception. The parade took place on Saturday 19 February with eleven proud soldiers completing their Phase 1. During the parade the CO presented the award of Best Recruit to a delighted Sig Dan Ivory.

The CO presenting the award of Best Recruit to Sig Dan Ivory

Trade training next with an innovative one week crammer course that took place during the week 12 – 20 February at Donnington and which promises to set the pattern for future trade training. The week was run under the control of a special training team headed by WO2 (YofS) Phil Tonks who was ably assisted by SSgt Andy Egan and SSgt Andy Lloyd. The week turned out to be hugely successful with 36 out of 43 personnel passing their trade tests outright. This has gone some way to redressing the deficiencies in certain trades throughout the Regiment and as a result a further course is being run in September – so if you are reading this and you still require your Class 3 trade qualification contact your SPSI now! Attendee's on the course in September can rest assured that they are unlikely to experience SSgt Lloyds culinary swills only his morale boosting sense of humour, but 11 Sig Bde on the other hand are apparently looking forward to the training team doing a spot more landscaping on their behalf! Finally a group of fifteen from the Regiment engaged in a Battlefield tour in Germany during the period 26–31 March. The tour covered the Battle of the Bulge and by all accounts provided stories that were both horrific and thought provoking. As one of the group members LCpl Steve Bell reflected when he stated that it was difficult to imagine, when you are surrounded by the natural beauty of the Ardennes, the bitter hand to hand fighting and major battles that took place in this vast area and the lives that were lost as a result. The road to freedom from tyranny and repression is costly and we must never forget the sacrifices made in that noble and just cause that gives us the freedom we enjoy today!

APPROBATION OF MARKET DRAYTON

On Sunday 9 April, 95 (SY) Sig Sqn shared the honour with other Yeomanry units of the Approbation of Market Drayton. This honour was granted to the successor units of the Shropshire Yeomanry, two troops of which were raised in Market Drayton in 1795. On a cold, overcast but dry day the Squadron under Comd of Maj Jo Fathers attended the dedication Church service and marched proudly through the streets of Market Drayton with other Yeomanry units. Taking the salute in the presence of many other dignitaries was the Lord Lt of Shropshire and the Mayor of Market Drayton. In attendance were the Hon Col, Col Brian Foxon and the CO, Lt Col Stephen Potter. Following the parade a civic reception was held in the Royal British Legion Club in Market Drayton. Here all involved in the parade enjoyed a light lunch in the company of all the dignitaries.

WELCOME AND FAREWELL

We wish to welcome Sgt Del Parkinson as PSI Cambridge, Sgt Mick Eades as PSI Southend, currently on a Board of Officers in Bosnia (who says regulars do not deploy on Ops within TA Regiments), Sgt John Aloysious Kelly (thanks Lorraine!) as PSI Trg, Maj Jim Sykes as Trg Maj, Mr Carl Sykes as EO FSA(son of Trg Maj?) and Mrs Sharma as AO HQ Sqn. We hope you all have a good time with the Regiment. We say a sad farewell to SSgt Si Hill who is off to Weymouth to run a Hotel, Sgt Gaz Tuff on promotion to 2 Sig Regt, Maj Gary Mason as SO2 Comms and Tennis, 1 UK Div, Mrs Higgs on retirement, Mr Alan Byrne and Sundeep on a SDR civilian reshuffle and not forgetting the unforgettable Mrs Iris Burton who retires after many years of being the fount of all knowledge as AO, HQ Sqn. You will all be sadly missed.

VISIT BY DCOMD 49 BRIGADE

Due to the impending move of the regiment from LONDIST to 49 Bde on 1 Apr 00, the DComd 49 Bde, Colonel Abraham, kindly visited RHQ and HQ Sqn at Ilford recently. During his visit he received a regimental brief by the CO, Lt Col Jackie Allan TD, followed by an Ops brief by Maj Mike White TD. After informal introductions of the regimental officers, Colonel Abraham presented TDs in the WOs and Sgts mess to Majs Dave Watson and Mark Baker. Maj Dave Watson started his career in Bedford TA Centre and progressed through the ranks to WO1(SVWO), being awarded the TEM along the way. After commissioning he took up various appointments in 54 Sig Sqn and eventually commanded HQ Sqn at Ilford. He recently took up the appointment of Adjt on FTRS. Maj Mark Baker started his career with Liverpool UOTC in 1979. After commissioning he served with various units within the Royal Anglian Regiment, eventually commanding a company at Bury St Edmunds. Under SDR he transferred to 36 Sig Regt(V) as OC RRTT and now commands 44 Sig Sqn at Grays and Southend.

HEADQUARTERS SQUADRON

Sqn Comd Maj P. J. Minshall
SSM WO2 (SSM) A. C. Wells

It is some time since HQ Sqn featured in the august pages of The WIRE, and since the last appearance there have been many changes to the management of the Squadron and in the way we do business. After our attendance on Annual Camp in Germany in September 1999, we returned to start the busy winter training regime of a TA Signal Regiment and quickly settled into the routine of work, work and more work with the occasional interlude of play. In November three members of the Squadron went with the Regimental Adventure Training expedition to the Pyrennes, a full report of which is elsewhere in this issue. In March this year, three members of the Squadron participated in the Regimental Skiing expedition to Germany and WO2 Terry Butler took part in an RLC Sailing Expedition to Cyprus. Sgt Kevin 'Super Angler' East of TM Troop and SSgt Tony Dale the LAD PSI competed in the Army Angling Championships. All of this, combined with the monthly Regimental Golf Days and Mondays off, definitely 'stops jack being a dull boy', for the permanent staff at least.

Work has to intervene, somewhere, and as normal the winter schedule of Comms Ex, Trade and Recruit Training weekends along with RSIT, PRE, Stocktaking, Regimental Audits etc and other mandatory inspections have continued, some more successfully than others. In addition the Squadron paraded as part of the Redbridge Remembrance Commemorations on 15 November, this parade was marked by the unique event of the PSAO (who has to remember that he has a uniform, let alone Service Dress) actually marching with the Squadron.

Talking of stocktaking, the Quartermaster, Maj Phil 'Whirlwind' Daisey has been up to his old tricks, those out there who know him well will need no further explanation – however for the uninitiated, you basically take one quartermaster add a Regiment which needs a good stock taking and clear out and mix the two together (or alternatively light the fuse and stand well back) the result is a powerful mix of invective, hot air and hard work eventually followed by a period of rationale and calm (he has to sleep sometime!) - followed by more of the same. In the end it all proved worthwhile and allows the Regiment to go forward with a clean sheet for the future (however, if you are an SQMS you can now have nightmares about next year). Of course the RQMS, WO2 Tony 'Days to Do' Gaston is overjoyed as he looks forward to the joys of resettlement and Civ Div.

Any unit is the sum of the personalities within it, and HQ Sqn is no different, the last six months saw the departure of Maj Dave Watson TD as OC to be succeeded by Maj Peter Minshall in December. Dave was supposed to be retiring from the TA, and got an almighty send off, certainly his going away party will live in the memories (of those who can remember it!) for a long time he was having nothing to do with this retirement business and promptly moved upstairs on an FTRS commitment for six months as Adjutant. We welcome Capt Gordon Shelley (back into the fold) as Sqn 2IC/QM(V), and the outgoing FSA, SSgt Gordon Cameron, back as the incoming RAOWO, WO2 Gordon Cameron. We lost a highly regarded and long serving Squadron member when Sgt Jahan McCready decided to retire after nearly 15 years service - we wish her best wishes for the future with the family and new job.

EXERCISE SPRING EAGLE 17 – 19 MARCH 2000

Over the weekend, 17-19 March, the Regiment participated in 'Ex Spring Eagle', an 11 Sig Bde Exercise that covered significant areas of England and Northern Ireland. The Regiment established a Euromux network in the Colchester area and also provided an interface with the 11 Sig Bde Ptarmigan fixed trunk network and kilostream links to Northern Ireland and the North of England.

The weekend saw the hand-over/takeover of Regimental Sergeant Majors. Everyone within the Regiment wishes bon voyage and congratulations to WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton,, who was all ready to hang up his pace stick when the CO, Lt Col Jackie Allan TD, summoned him to the office and closed the door. 'Oh dear,' he thought, 'a last minute dressing down,' but no, she was delighted to tell him that he had been commissioned and was posted to 11 Sig Regt. WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton said, 'I have really enjoyed my time with the Regiment which has been at times challenging but very rewarding. Many Regular soldiers underestimate the value of the TA, but I have been very impressed with the commitment that the soldiers demonstrate.' The Regiment welcomes his successor, WO1 (RSM) Dougie Eaglesham, who joins the Regiment from NCO Leadership Wing at Blandford. The weekend provided an excellent opportunity for him to meet many of the key players and get an idea of the concept of trunk communications and how the Regiment performs that function.

Hand-over/Takeover of RSMs
(L) WO1 (RSM) Eaglesham, (R) WO1 (RSM) Stanton

The Regiment's new Training Major, Maj Jim Sykes and the regular Foreman WO2 (FOS) Phil Holland had a helicopter cabby to visit SSgt Sue Baker who had been deployed to Altcar Training Area for the exercise. Maj Sykes was duly impressed with her excellent efforts to co-ordinate the elements of 33, 36 and 40 Regiments at her location. The TM then went on to comment on how memorable it had been to fly at such height over the Liverpool and Everton Football grounds (SSgt (YofS) Tony Martin remarked that he thought Training Majors were used to hovering at about 40,000 feet). To round off an interesting weekend, the Deputy Commander 11 Sig Bde, Col Roger Davenport TD, visited the Regiment at Colchester TA Centre where a large part of the Regiments assets were located.

JUNIOR NON COMMISSIONED CADRE

The Regiment held its annual cadre course over the weekends 26/27 February and 4/5 March, and utilised two different locations. Although the course was initially loaded with the unlucky number of 13 students, this was reduced to the lucky eleven when two soldiers had to depart early.

The first phase was held at STANTA and consisted mainly of theoretical training, though some foot drill was delivered to the students, giving Sgt Nigel Back the opportunity to demonstrate his excellent instructional qualities in this discipline. The course then dispersed to their separate TAC's, no doubt waiting with bated breath for the second, and final, weekend. After five days to catch their breath the remaining students were met at Colchester TAC by the welcoming arms of SSgt Jim Pollitt and Sgt Tim Gamble, and an early start on Saturday morning seen the course depart for the training area to conduct the field exercise. After completing various military command tasks the students moved on to the BCFT under the strict supervision of Sgt Back, who again showed that he was the right man for the job. This was swiftly followed by the IS phase, which was held within Colchester TAC and proved to be a bit of an eye opener for some of the soldiers.

On completion of the field training the course formed up for the final parade which was taken by the RSM, WO1 Bob Stanton. Congratulations go to Sig (Now LCpl) Price who was awarded the coveted Top Student accolade by the new Training Major, Maj Jim Sykes, and his efforts were duly rewarded with promotion.

STOP PRESS!!

Belated, but sincere, congratulations go to WO1 (RSM) Bob Stanton on commissioning and Sgt Nige Back on promotion to Staff Sergeant. All ranks within the Regiment wish them, and their families, all the very best in the future. Nige – three mentions in The WIRE and you get the beer in, you know the score!!

EXERCISE COCKNEY WALTZ II 2–12 MARCH 2000

by Sgt 'Kev' East

Thursday 2 March saw all nine of us literally wedged into the minibus and en route to Austria. A rough ferry crossing delayed our progress by some hours, but we were all kept amused by WO2 'Drew' Johnston's stories of how to ski properly – that said, we never heard the ski instructor say get into the egg position once! After arriving in Garmish for our overnight stop, we enjoyed the hospitality of some Americans in their equivalent of the NAAFI. They tried teaching us their dancing techniques but, surprisingly, all the Brits insisted on the traditional Squaddie two step, especially WO2 'Steve' Kentish who maintained that his American cousins were all 'mighty impressed by it'!

The following morning everyone was up bright and early and we headed off to Mayrhofen, where we were met by perfect weather and snow; everyone was now keen to hit the slopes. Once skis and boots had been fitted our instructor, WO2 'Andy' Aspinall, had to assess everyone's skiing style so that could see just what he was up against — and boy what a challenge he had on his hands!! On the first day WO2 'Andy' Aspinall compiled a video of the days activities, which consisted of much falling and various dodgey snow ploughs and parallel turns. This formed the entertainment for the evening when we all (me included) sat laughing at one particular fool skiing like something out of dumb and dumber until the instructor pointed out I was that particular fool — well, I could only improve..

We took it in turns cooking for each other, with two people providing some form of culinary delight for the rest of the group. This was a challenge in itself, as some people had never cooked for one let alone nine. That said, most of the food was edible and no one went hungry. The rest of the week was spent learning how to improve our ski technique and attending lectures on various subjects such as the weather and ski equipment. As the week progressed WO2 'Andy' Aspinall also tested our nerve and courage by inserting various small jumps, obstacles and challenges to the routes. These challenges generally ended with great hilarity at the expense of somebody's dented ego. Sig 'Vinnie' Wootton performed one of the best jumps and actually managed to sit down in the air with his legs straight out in front of him — a sure bet you wonn't land on two feet!

Mayrhofen had one of its many festivals taking place during our stay, and the streets were full of bands, stalls and people. We felt it would be rude not to join in with the locals in their celebrations, and hit the streets with Sig 'Emma' Burton fooling most of us with her impression of Dolly Parton, complete with blonde wig and hat. We had been following the new Basic Ski Proficiency Course and at the end of the week it was time for our big test. Nerves were plentiful, with everyone trying to remember to 'hug a tree', not let our arms drop, plant our poles and stay on two feet. We all gained our award and sure enough, WO2 'Andy' Aspinall was right - even on video we looked better, although Sig 'Emma' Burton still skis like Lady Penelope and Sig 'Ian' Heseltine can still lick snow with the best of us! After a week of various weather conditions, from bright sunshine to blizzard conditions, we set back for good old 'Blighty' with everyone full of tales of our adventures and achievements. A good time was had by all, and our thanks go to SSgt Smith for organising the whole trip.

REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

RHQ has seen a number of visits over the past period, but one in particular stands out, and that is the visit to Redditch of the Armed Forces minister Mr John Speller MP. The Minister's visit coincided with the National Territorial Army Recruiting Day, which took place on Saturday 25 March 2000. After a Regimental brief given by the CO, he was escorted to the Kingfisher Centre by the CO, 2IC, Adjt and RSM, to meet the Soldiers of HQ Sqn at the recruiting stand on a busy shopping day. There Mr Speller had the opportunity to speak to members of HQ Sqn and the local public In addition RHQ has seen some personnel changes, saying goodbye to the (RSM), WO1 Joe Cox, now known as Capt 'Anthony' Cox and saying hello both to WO1 (RSM) Mo Fisher and to Maj Tim Pender-Johns, who takes over the vacant Training Major post.

Sqn Comd Maj J. Riley
SSM WO2 J. Krikorian

Fantastic, brilliant, great fun, were just a few of the comments being made by a group of 17 professional actors who attended training with the Squadron over the weekend of 21 to 23 January 2000 at Leek Training Camp. I received a request from 'Teddy' Kindell, Director of the Redditch Theatre, who wanted his cast of actors to undergo some military training to assist them with a modern version of the play 'Macbeth'. This was an interesting project with good training and public relations potential. A training programme was designed and the actors arrived for their Basic Recruit Training at Leek Camp on the Friday Evening. Reveille was at 0600hrs on Saturday, which came as a shock to the group and comments like, 'But it's still dark,' fell on the deaf ears of Sgt Matt Bellamy who had volunteered to wake everyone. After a hurried breakfast, equipment and rations were issued and the actors were transported onto the training area for a demanding programme. The group were detailed into two sections with Sgt Andy Bennett and Cpl Glen Draper leading Section 1 and Sgt Matt Bellamy and Cpl John McCarthy leading Section 2.

The morning started with weapon training, followed by field-craft and section attacks. The sections were also shown how to construct a bivi and cook a 24hr ration pack. Sgt Andy Bennett who then supervised each section on bayonet practice demonstrated the use of a bayonet. One female member of the group was so enthusiastic when impaling the bayonet into the dummy that the tip of the bayonet broke off. The comment, 'Never mess with a woman,' was heard coming from her smiling, satisfied grin. The training went on into the late evening with night movement and reaction to enemy contact. By the time weapons were returned to the armoury the actors had been on the go for over 14 hours and they were tired but still full of enthusiasm. They were allowed a lie in on the Sunday until 0630hrs. The ladies were the first to arrive for breakfast but the men had to be woken up, which was a pleasure for the instructors who seemed to enjoy this task. The Sunday training programme consisted of drill and assault course practice. The weather had been dry all weekend but very cold, so much so that there was a thin layer of ice on the water at the rope swing obstacle, but this was soon broken when a few of the actors went in.

Sgt Andy Bennett (left) supervises from a safe distance whilst the actors demonstrate the use of a bayonet

Once the training had finished the actors all said how much they had enjoyed the weekend and how valuable the training had been. Prior to the weekend the actors had commented on how little they had known about the TA but they now understood it's role. The enthusiasm and the way the actors responded to the training was commendable, they were receptive and eager to learn which impressed all the DS. The instructors stated that it had been a pleasure to teach this group and I believe that they also gained valuable experience from the weekend, learning new skills on how to adapt and respond to a group of 'civilians' eager to learn about the TA. The group are all professional actors, who have starred in TV shows such as the 'Bill' and 'Clocking off' and most have performed in stage plays around the country. The Squadron had certainly made an impression on these young budding stars and a tremendous opportunity had been made possible to promote the TA. The Territorial Army needs to promote itself to the local community and become more active in local events if it is to be recognised and accepted. This event achieved this and more.

Hard to imagine these two women had volunteered to rough it with the TA and experience how to live under a makeshift shelter They had a starring role in the forthcoming play as the 'witches'

SSM WO2 (SSM) M. H. Walker

The Squadron has been surprisingly busy the early part of this Millennium. In particular an OBUA Exercise, Ski-ing excursion and a major Squadron social. My field reporter at SENTA was Cpl Danny Harford whose exclusive report will be attached. The ski princess who can give us her piece on the piste is Cpl Catherine Smith. The Squadron Social Draw held in mid-January was expertly organised by the brothers Sgt Mick and Cpl Andy Clarke with the versatile Cpl Catherine Smith. Our OC, Maj Dickie Hall took the opportunity to invite our new CO, Lt Col P. J. Grogan and his lady wife to the event, which they enjoyed immensely. Lots of prizes were won and exchanges done on the night and a great evening was had by all therefore our thanks go out to the above-mentioned organisers. The shooting season is upon us again and the 'dead-eyes' are getting selected and pruned for the main forthcoming competition events, the Corp SAAM in April and the 143 Bde SAAM in May. We had a very good shooting weekend in February where the potential shooters were weeded out and scrutinised by the Regimental Shooting Officer, Capt Mal Cooper and the Squadron Shooting NCO, Sgt Dickie Fisher. I have the honour to humbly announce that yours truly, WO2 Ray Campbell, has been chosen with Sgt Mick Clarke, Cpl Pete Buka, Cpl Andy Clarke, Cpl Catherine Smith, Sig Neil Pearson and OCdt George to represent the Regiment.

At the time of writing the Squadron is getting geared up for the planned TA Open Day on Saturday, 25 March 2000. We have had the meeting and the briefing with the set-up, and the final rehearsal is upon us soon. Our hope is to high-light our existence in the Stratford/Warwick area and hopefully as a bonus attract the correct type of recruit.

EXERCISE BOTHIE DRAGON II 12-20 FEBRUARY 2000

On the 12 February a small party from 67 Sqn (Stourbridge TAC) headed North for the Regimental ski trip to Aviemore in the Cairngorms of Scotland. We met up with members from HQ, 96 and 93 Sqns en route, the conditions getting progressively worse (for driving) the further North we got. This meant that what could have been a ten hour journey became a 14 hour journey, with speeds of less than 30mph in the Highlands, and lots of pushing required to get the minibuses up to our home for the week, Rothymurchus Lodge. However, after getting the DS minibuses up the hill as well, we were greeted with beer and a Sunday morning lie in (8am!).

The snow already looked promising on Sunday with the need to piste (level out) the snow on the Lodge's own little dry slope. Once we'd had our kit issued a few of us, eager to get our skis on, were more than happy to do this. Cpl Catherine Smith fell for a pair of ski boots in Doug's shop at the Lodge and decided to buy not borrow, nice boots though! Then in the afternoon the instructors did an assessment of our skiing abilities (or not) to decide which groups we'd be in. In the evening we did what would become a ritual (weather permitting); in the minibuses, off to Aviemore to try the beverages and test our vocal chords wherever there happened to be a Karaoke.

Due to high winds and closed roads, our first day of skiing instead turning into a day of swimming in Inverness, followed by ski lectures/presentations back at the Lodge. Fortunately this did not happen again. Although due to it still being windy on Tuesday, even the Gun Barrel (a long downhill straight) was hard work - head down and tuck in - and we still had to use our poles to push our way to the bottom rather than get blown back up the hill! Sig Jo Dean got promoted to the Intermediate Group, joining Sig Liz Mansell and Capt Fowler-Smith was promoted to the Advanced Group (although he started to regret it towards the end of the week). Catherine managed NOT to get demoted from the Advanced group. Meanwhile LCpl Fred Smart, Sig Sarah 'Smelly' Kennedy and Rct Janet 'Paddy' Dornan can ski - even if they don't always listen to their instructor - and now have first hand experience of après ski!

Throughout the week we had all manner of weather, including sunshine, with mostly good skiing conditions - we could have easily been somewhere a little more exotic than Scotland. By Friday the Exercise was starting to take its toll on some of the group, and Sarah's bruises started to cover the whole of her body, but this didn't stop us from making the most of our free-skiing day on Saturday (once the mist had lifted) before driving back to our respective TAC's (and the prospect of our comparatively mundane civvy jobs!). A good week was definitely had by all.

EXERCISE 'MILLENNIUM WARRIOR' (JANUARY 2000)

This was an OBUA training exercise held in the Sennybridge Training Area, over the weekend of 7-9 January 2000. Involved in the weekend were 67 and 96 Sig Sqns, The aim of the weekend was to train and practise the Squadron's skill in Operations in built up areas. This was a challenging and fun exercise and there was a great deal learned by everyone. Saturday was split down into three phases, clearance of buildings, fighting in tunnels and sewers and building entry. First we were given a comprehensive brief of Cellini village and a film on OBUA, then we were let loose. Our first phase was the building clearance. Making full use of the purpose built training house we practised room clearance, with the help of the trusty rock grenade. After successfully clearing the building to the satisfaction of the DS we were despatched to our next phase.

The Tunnels: This involved us getting from Point 'A' to Point 'B'. Unfortunately our first effort led by Sgt Mick 'Pathfinder' Clarke resulted in us going from Point 'A' to Point 'A' without even a glimpse of Point 'B', so emerging into daylight only to find that we were back at the start resulted in several strong words exchanged mostly at Sgt Clarke remarking on his parent's possible marriage at the time of his birth. Once more we entered the tunnel only this time we were more successful.

The Blackout House; This passed without any great incidents and we emerged happy to see that it was indeed still daytime, but this phase was still not over yet. One last task and that was us finished.

The Sewer; we dropped into the sewer one by one and crawled, duck walked and bumped our way to the exit. After turning the last corner the exit could be seen by everyone except me. I was at the rear behind Cpl Andy Clarke (Yes they are related). Everyone was shouting that they could see daylight. The only thing I saw was a full eclipse of the sewer, that was until Cpl Clarke was lifted out and I was then bathed in beautiful sunlight. I emerged like a mole that had been underground for days. That over and done with we moved on to our final phase.

The Building Entry; Here we were introduced to different methods of entering a building other than by the front door. We were also warned not to try any of this at home as wives are generally not impressed to find a grenade lobbed through the window followed by her hubby and several squaddies spraying the room with lead. After a spot of compo dinner, we were given orders for the next day's assault of the village. It was then time to prepare for the next task.

The Night Defensive Shoot; Once the ammo was issued it was time to be positioned in the trenches for the shoot. We were told that the targets would be lit by white light to enable us to engage. The shoot started very slowly until people gained more confidence and then all hell was let loose. Now when a target appeared, twenty rifles trained in on it and engaged. Even though hits were not recorded, I'm sure that the persistent wooden targets were scared into submission. Now it was time for some shut eye before the assault on the village.

The Assault on The Village; Form up for the assault was at 0630hrs on the road leading into the village. A cold night and frosty morning made it an interesting move to the form up point due to many people over shooting the location due to them practising their ice skating techniques. The two Squadrons were to assault and clear a side of the designated street each. 96 Sqn engaged and assaulted the first house, then it was 67's turn. We leap frogged like this until 67 Sqn had reached their final objective. Capt Barker of the enemy decided to wait in a connecting tunnel between our present position and the final objective. He was hoping to sneak back into our present position. Unfortunately for him we remembered out training and posted a guard by the mouse-hole, which prevented him from surprising us. Meanwhile 96 Sqn had problems taking their final objective due to the DS over preparing the defences. Finally they succeeded, after a bit of trouble from a persistent non-dying sniper. This just left 67 Sqn with their final objective, which was taken and secured.

During the final assault 3 Section of 67 Sqn thanked our PSI, SSgt Eric 'Stop stealing my kit' Head in the only deserving way and he was engaged by ZULU style volley fire. After a quick debrief and tidy up it was time for the Squadrons to depart and make their way back to their respective TAC's. It is only left for me to thank all those involved in the organising and running of the phases for without them the weekend could not have been as successful as it was.

EXERCISE HIMALAYA DRAGON
SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 1999
by Cpl John McCarthy

During the months of September and October 1999 over 180 climbers from all ranks and all Regiments and Corps of the Army completed the largest ever Level Three adventurous training expedition to Nepal. Ex Himalaya Dragon was the British Army's Millennium Expedition. It's objective was to place a military team on the top of every one of the eighteen trekking peaks in Nepal. Of the 180+ personnel 25% were from TA units, four of which were from 37 Sig Regt. I was fortunate enough to be one of those selected. The eighteen months of preparation included obtaining the required minimum qualifications ie: Summer Mountain Proficiency (getting wet in Wales), and Winter Mountaineering Introduction (getting very cold in Scotland). I also raised over £300.00 in sponsorship by mountain biking the Yorkshire Dales Way, selling raffle tickets and the usual extortion of the lower ranks. I was able to obtain several thousand pounds worth of sponsorship from a very generous local corporate sponsor, 'CMR Consultants', a local company specialising in providing businesses with tailor made packages saving money on phone and energy bills. They became the sponsors of my team, which successfully completed Kongma Tse peak at 5,800 metres.

After arriving in Kathmandu the various teams organised themselves and departed towards their different destinations. Ours was the Khumbu region east of Kathmandu involving an internal flight to Lukla, the third most dangerous airport in the world. After almost boarding the wrong plane (on the plane/off the plane!) we eventually came in to land on a runway less than 200 metres long, carved into the side of a mountain and sloping at a 30 degree angle. It was a religious experience. After landing, just when we though it was safe, the plane taxied and hit a stationary helicopter with it's wingtip.

During the next 11 days we climbed over 3000m trekking through amazing scenery and sleeping in small villages. The diet was very repetitive and bland, never quite containing enough calories or protein. The trek became progressively harder as we gained altitude with the lowering amount of oxygen in the air. With only two pairs of underwear and socks and only one opportunity to shower for four weeks I was driven to strip washing in glacial streams. The water was close to freezing and certainly revitalised the body, reaching parts even Heineken never knew existed. The night at high camp (5400m, almost 3 1/2 miles high,) I found uncomfortable with ice inside the tent and very little sleep due to a constant headache and difficulty in breathing. On several occasions I coughed up large solid lumps with blood, which caused obvious concern.

The attempt at the summit the next day was incredible. We started at 0600hrs in sub zero temperatures. It was extremely hard going due to the altitude, even taking photos or drinking left us breathless, I was stopping every 20 paces to catch my breath. The top of Kongma Tse peak - 5,800m is approximately double the total heights of the three highest peaks in England, Scotland and Wales - Scafell Pike, Ben Nevis and Snowdon. The amount of oxygen available is less than 1/2 that at sea level. After returning from the peak I was suffering the effects of mild/moderate acute mountain sickness. My heart rate was 99bpm and oxygen saturation 60 % and I had difficulty with co-ordination and concentration but after losing several hundred metres altitude it improved.

Cpl (Superman) John McCarthy poses on top of the World
He said that he did it the hard way and actually climbed the mountain instead of flying

During the next eight days we trekked across mountain passes and glaciers to Gokyo peak 5350m, then descended back to Lukla for our return flight to Kathmandu. A few days good food and sightseeing were enjoyed before flying back to Blighty. During the flight back to the UK I started experiencing severe stomach cramps. They continued to become worse whilst returning on the motorway, resulting in stops every half an hour allowing me to empty the contents of my bowels and stomach. I didn't know whether the bottom was falling out of my world or the world was falling out of my bottom. The food poisoning was quite severe; it was a full week before I was farting with confidence. Despite the exhaustion, stomach problems, weight loss, headaches and severe body odour it was a once in a lifetime, awesome experience. The Nepalese are incredibly friendly and the views breathtaking. I would strongly recommend trekking in the Himalayas to anyone.

In appreciation of the welcome and support provided by the people of Nepal the Army is establishing a long-term medical project to supply doctors to the country from universities in the UK. The expedition has also provided detailed medical research into some of the effects of high altitude on the body, details of which are held at the Royal Geographic Institute in London. It is hoped that later expeditions will benefit from this study. I would like to take this opportunity to thank everybody in HQ Sqn who made the expedition possible by sponsoring me with your hard earned money, and of course the powers that be that thought it was a good idea to get rid of me for a month.

EXERCISE GROUND FORCE
CHURCHILL HOSPITAL, OXFORD

Forget Charlie Dimmock and Alan Titchmarsh, a team of ten enthusiastic members of 5 Sig Sqn renovated an internal garden at the Churchill Hospital in Oxford 'Ground Force' Style over the weekend 26–27 February 2000. The project was dreamed up by the PSAO and instigated to raise public awareness of the formation of the Oxford Tp at Slade Park TAC. Sir Winston Churchill served in the Regiment and was Honorary Colonel until his death, his three brothers and many other famous ancestors also served with the QOOH, so the link with the Churchill Hospital deemed good enough reason to carry out the project and attract media interest.

The team led by Sgt David Jarvis Cleaver (JC), a landscape gardener, who designed the garden and Cpl Kevin Durno, a joiner, started out early Saturday morning to clear the old slabs, overgrown bushes, weeds and debris from the area and prepare the ground for his new design to include curved pathways, new plants, decking and a pergola. The nursing staff and patients had a full view of the events for the whole weekend and saw the transformation of the garden into a safe and comfortable area to sit out during the sunny days to come. The event, as hoped, attracted the media with all the Oxford Newspapers sending reporters and photographers, but the coup was Central TV covering the whole weekend with interviews at the start and completion of the garden. They also filmed the whole event using a time delay camera so we were treated to a 'Ground Force Style' TV Report on the local evening news the following week. The Osler Chest Unit League of Friends provided the funding for the project. Sister Jo Riley said the finished garden is wonderful and that she had not seen a bunch of men and women work so hard and enthusiastically.

EXERCISE DREAMING SPIRES

On Sunday, 27 February 2000, the Squadron held a navigation exercise using Land Rovers to complete a route identified by cryptic clues using BATCO. Navigation skills and driving standards were critical to the event and teams penalised for any breaches of the Highway Code, checkpoints missed and questions answered. All teams completed the course in the allotted time, or did they, some of the answers to the questions were suspect indicating that maybe not all the check points had been visited. To compete the course, the participants had to find the Squadron 2IC in his inconspicuous (bright yellow) command vehicle which proved more difficult than expected. As a result, observation and special awareness training will be given to Squadron personnel, not to mention refresher training on what a no entry sign means and how to navigate a roundabout.

Sig Claire Goodwin with the Best Endeavour Award

Sig Claire Goodwin joined the Squadron following the 1999 National TAC Open Day. She has achieved a great deal during her first year by attending Annual Cap, 95% of the Training Weekend and the TA Phase 2 Recruit Course. In addition she has gained her Class 3 Radio Operator Trade. This must rate as an excellent success for a TA Soldier during such a short period of time. On top of this she has a full time job with a Mobile Vone!! Company.

The last few months have seen the squadron concentrate on completing the Winter trade training cycle. The one training weekend other than an RTW, was the Squadron exercise based on Operations in Built-up Areas (OBUA), Ex Horfield Warrior. The Squadron PSI (Ops), SSgt Tony Ward had spent months organising this event and called in numerous favours from his regular army contacts. It was to become an exercise to remember, it was also the first chance for our new Honorary Colonel, Commodore I. R. Pemberton RD DL RNR to visit the Squadron in the field.

EXERCISE HORFIELD WARRIOR - by Cpl 'Wing Nut' Ewing

During the weekend 25-27 February the Squadron deployed on a FIBUA Exercise designed around a Peace Support Operation (PSO) such as Kosovo scenario. Friday night saw us move to Pilning Ranges on the outskirts of Bristol to meet up with our transport to the exercise area, Chinooks courtesy of the RAF! It was to be the first trip in a helicopter for many of the Squadron, (especially under a tactical scenario) and many a nervous face could be seen in the dim light. The RAF arrived on time and with no time to consider those nerves the first party with FFR underslung took off for SPTA. On arrival at the exercise area, we made our way to the first nights location, a wooded area next to the field latrines! As you would expect after not much sleep an enthusiastic and very noisy enemy attacked us at first light. A hasty withdrawal to our ERV approx 2km away followed. During the withdrawal a member of our section received a broken leg (Ex Play, inflicted on him by SSgt Tony Ward our kind PSI (Ops), who in the dim light picked the heaviest bloke in the Squadron to be the casualty, an accident he said)! Improvised stretcher quickly made, on we went with only a little cursing on the way.

Commodore Pemberton meets Sigs Bishop and Laing, accompanied by the OC

Saturday morning consisted of numerous lessons and demo's on FIBUA training. It has to be said the instruction itself was of the highest standard, SSgt 'Spats' Brodie and Sgt Martin Blanchard (Royal Artillery) are to be congratulated. They put so much enthusiasm into their instruction that it was infectious and enjoyed by all. In the afternoon we had the chance to practice all that we had been taught in the morning. This training was then followed by a final brief from the PSI and we moved off to our night harbour area. During the hours of darkness we mounted three recce patrols to try and establish the strength and location of the enemy in the village we were to attack the following morning.

Sunday 0500hrs - Reveille and pyro issue (Lots, exact amounts withheld in case QM reads this article!). 0600hrs we moved off to the FUP, to our surprise we then came under sustained artillery fire from the village. 0620hrs our own artillery opens up, simulated by 40lbs of PE expertly laid by SSgt 'Blinds' Ward! That was our signal to attack, for the next one and a half hours all hell let loose, leap froging from building to building and it must be said improving as we got into the swing of it. Then finally the enemy strong hold was in front, ground floor as we found to our cost filled with barbed wire and a GPMG at every first floor window. Entry was gained eventually to the first floor and soon after the DS called a halt. The good guys had, as in the movies, won the day. Exhausted but on a high we sat down and listened to a constructive and detailed debrief from our DS before breakfast.

Once cleared up, and to round off the weekend's training, every one got over their fears of heights and confined spaces on the confidence course. Later as a finale everyone had the chance to throw Molotov Cocktails. Bristolians seemed extremely efficient at this practice, wonder why! A great weekend was had by all, again our thanks to the organisers and DS.

EXERCISE BRAGGEN'S REVENGE

Late on a Friday evening in February, 47 Sig Sqn inserted itself into a Security Force (SF) base in a simulated UN protected enclave near the town of 'Basingrad' on the border between the warring factions of 'Berksovia' and 'Hampovo'. The faction 'players' were kindly provided by servicemen from RAF Northolt and ACF cadets from Uxbridge, based at Honeycroft Hill. During the following 48 hours, in scenarios devised from incidents in the Balkans, soldiers of 47 Sig Sqn set up VCPs carried out numerous patrols and responded to various incidents in support of the local police. Troops were inserted by helicopter and carried out a Cordon and Search Op on an isolated farm making several finds of explosives and light weapons. Other incidents included a simulated helicopter crash, hysterical (unhappy not funny) onlookers and determined journalists. The nerve centre of the whole operation was the Ops Room, capably manned by Sgt 'English Bob' Young and LCpl Sophie Spittle. SSgt Dave Lambert stood in as the SQMS proving himself to be a natural ration granddad and a dab hand with the mk1 broom.

The Squadron provided escort duties for VIPs, with mixed results. Sgt Dave Strevens' escort patrol was ambushed three times whilst making a determined effort to reach their VIP. Another important task was the clearance of explosives from railway lines, allowing desperately needed food and medical supplies to be moved to where they were most needed. The vehicle checkpoints were busy, as local irregular militia were very active in moving weapons and explosives around the enclave in support of their ethnic cleansing activities. The consequence of this was that the troops had to handle large numbers of prisoners and refugees and it was not always easy to tell which was which. Sgt Lawrence 'Forrest' Vincent-Edwards took the opportunity to practise some distinctly old fashioned interrogation techniques on the prisoners (see you at the Hague)! The most dramatic incident was a riot on Saturday night, when a crowd of locals, fuelled by alcohol and whipped into frenzy by a local politician, tried to storm the SF base. The Squadron reacted quickly, and the no-nonsense approach of the soldiers on the ground left the rioters in no doubt that the troops meant business, and were prepared to respond with force if necessary.

On Sunday morning, the Squadron was tasked to carry out a thorough search of a factory belonging to the aforementioned politician. The aim was to identify and arrest a suspected war criminal, and also to establish whether the factory was being used in the manufacture of armaments. The troops surrounded the factory and a heavily armed search team went in. After a short firefight three militiamen were dead, one suspected war criminal was in custody and a number of weapons were recovered. The politician was summarily arrested for harbouring a war criminal. This action marked the end of the Exercise, and the Squadron returned to base having successfully curtailed the ethnic cleansing activities of the militia, arrested several troublesome characters and generally given a chance for the peaceful majority to return to a more normal life.

There was a palpable buzz as the troops cleaned their weapons and packed up their kit, although the lack of sleep was beginning to tell. Adrenaline had been flowing and everybody had their own war story to tell. The weekend was rounded off with a quick beer in the 47 Club before returning to friends, family and normality. Finally a MID for Sigs Clarke and Choudhury who joined the exercise directly from passing out at the Royal Signals Recruit Course. Also a big thanks to the RSM Paul Anderson, WO2 (RQMS) Mick Ginty and WO2 (YofS) Mark Whiting for all their support and for giving up what would otherwise have been a free weekend for RHQ personnel.

CROYDON CENTENARY PARADE

This year celebrates the centenary of the Sharpshooters. To mark this momentous occasion we joined with our 'sister' unit, C Squadron of the Royal Yeomanry, for the Centenary Parade through Croydon on Saturday, 4 March. This was the first time that the Royal Signals element of the Sharpshooters had been able to bear arms through Croydon, C Squadron being awarded the Freedom in 1993. It was a fine crisp sunny day which commenced with the obligatory drill practice at early o'clock within the TA Centre. The parade commenced with an inspection from the Sharpshooter's Honorary Colonel, Julian Radcliffe OBE TD on the parade square within the TA Centre. We then commenced the marching element of the parade through Croydon High Street, lead by the band of the Royal Yeomanry. A rather interesting concept for all participants having to literally dodge the shoppers along the pedestrian precinct outside Marks and Spencer. The GOC London District took the salute on the steps of the Town Hall at which point we then returned to the TA Centre for an address by the GOC. A thoroughly enjoyable day was had by all participants and we can't wait for the next one in 2001!

NATIONAL OPEN DAY

This year TA National Open Day was held on 31 March. The Squadron displayed several stands at our two local Town Centres of Bexleyheath and Brighton. Both sets of displays were well received by the general public, with many enquires. The open day this year was the high point in the Regiment's recruiting drive, we managed to acquire six potential recruits from Bexleyheath and 16 from Brighton. True to tradition the Squadron managed to field the majority of its personnel in different kinds of military attire, ranging from Blues to Combat 95. The day was viewed by most participants as a reminder to the public of who we are where we are and what we do and the benefits of signing up.

We are gradually getting used to their way of life – sleeping in muddy cold wet fields in the middle of winter – they don't appreciate the finer side of cosy NCRS trailers do they! Or the instant 'where is the whitener' cuppa. Never-the-less we felt it would be rude to say NO when they invited us to play 'enemy' on two of their Exercises recently – good infantry time for us – not so many chances these days-so off we went. Weekend Round One –Sgt Hancock, Sgt Foy, Cpl Birch, Sig Blaber, Sig Thomson – blatting some rounds into 'our' enemy. Knowing where the enemy is coming from makes it all the more fun. The Signallers amongst us learnt quickly, but not as fast as Sgt 'Where are my teeth' Foy who played the part too hard and fired his cocking lever through his lip and teeth. How DID he do that! It only hurt when you make me laugh he said. True squaddie humour!

On the second weekend SSM McHenery, Sgt Ridgwell, Sgt Vincent, LCpl Cox, Sig Reeve and Sig Cooke joined us for a fire and manoeuvre exercises- Fighting In Woods and Forests. We quickly learned that close quarter work requires faster rates of fire and Automatic fire was the order of the day. Sgt 'Rambo' Ridgewell seemed invincible bounding through the trees. Sig 'Sapper' Reeve relearns the art of tree climbing but being seven foot tall gives him a head start doesn't it! LCpl 'I left the map in the rover' Cox was nominated as the duty Clansman battery carrier for doing what he does best, 'No Sir I'm not asleep'. Other Troop news we must mention LCpl 'PTI' Foxwell on his recent engaged – he is still grinning! Sgt 'Caravan-Kev' Hancock has been presented with two Caravan History books from troop subscription – he will get his own back though now he is appointed as Troop Sergeant! The inseparable Cpls Sturman and Shannon working hard in the catering dept created the worlds biggest cheese straw for SSM 'Stu' McHenery on his leaving-do from the Troop on promotion to Squadron Sergeant Major.

VISIT FROM THE COMMANDING OFFICER

The Commanding Officer visited the Chelmsford TA Centre to witness the Handover of the Squadron from Maj Simon Palmer TD to Maj Craig Tallents. The Squadron hopes that Maj Palmer has settled in RHQ in his new post as the Regiment Ops Officer.

NEWS FROM THE SQUADRONS

2 (CITY OF DUNDEE) SIGNAL SQUADRON (VOLUNTEERS)

Sqn Maj Eric Blyth
SSM WO2 (SSM) Andy Waterston

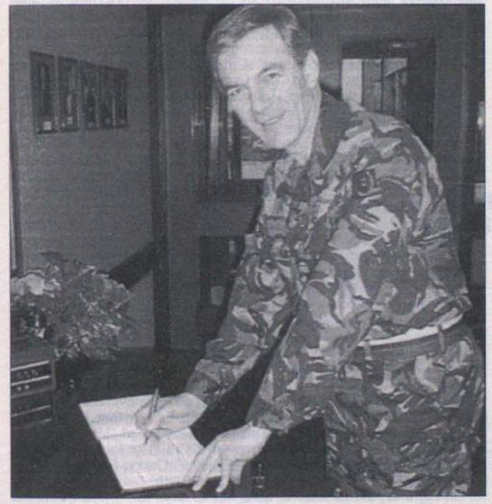
The past three months has been a busy time for the Squadron, with visits from all Comd levels. It has not, however, been all spit, polish and presentations. The visit to the Squadron by the new Dep Comd 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Col C. J. Laurence TD (V) just happened to coincide with the time honored tradition of celebrating Robbie Burns. The Dep Comd joined the Squadron's Officers and Sergeants' Mess members at their annual Burns Supper on Saturday 22 January 2000. After an aggressive stabbing of the haggis by SSgt George Cowan there then followed an excellent selection of Burns Classics, most memorably Capt Andrew Bruce's flawless recital of Tam 'O' Shanter (without a note in sight). All, including the incoming Dep Comd 2 (NC) had an excellent evening. As already mentioned the Squadron's Visitors Book has taken a bit of a pounding. The visitors included GOC Scotland, incoming and outgoing Commander 51 Highland Brigade and outgoing Comd, Brig C. J. Hughes CBE. Below the new Commander 2 (NC) Sig Bde, Brig N. C. Jackson MBE can be seen adding his signature to the already long list of visitors by signing the Squadron's Visitors Book.



In true Squadron fashion promotions were handed out at the unit's Xmas function and congratulations are passed to LCpl's Rod Hamilton and Barry Gayton on promotion to Corporal and to Sig Sean Townsley on promotion to Lance Corporal.

EXERCISE SNOW LION 2000

Exercise Snow Lion is an Army alpine ski championship held in Scotland each year. The Exercise this year was held over the period 14 – 18 March 2000. A member of the Squadron who shall remain nameless (2IC) decided to enter a team from 2 Sig Sqn (V) without telling anyone. A week prior to the event the Squadron was on an adventure training weekend – skiing, which was lucky. The team was picked and briefed accordingly – NOT! The team consisted of Maj Eric 'bouncing' Blyth, Capt Joe 'Nameless' Meade, Sgt Daz 'Eddie the Eagle' Collins, Cpl 'Tosh' McIntosh and LCpl Garry 'Snow Plough King' Bertie. The team left sunny (ha, ha) Dundee on Sunday 12 March to take over the accommodation – well, half the team anyway (Sgt Collins and LCpl Bertie). The other half would be joining us later – as it turned out, much later.

The seeding races started on Tuesday with Capt Meade and LCpl Bertie taking part. Somehow Garry with his snowplough tuck seemed to go down the seeding (I did tell him he'd be better off staying in bed). Joe didn't have the best of days and he slipped further down the seeding list. Wednesday was a great day for skiing (despite the really bad hangover) and snow conditions were perfect, not too many rocks poking through. The course was set – Giant Slalom, just a matter of tucking up and making every gate. Joe had a good run, followed by Daz. Luckily for the other racers, Garry had decided to clear the course a little (excellent snow plough turns Garry, but its a race). Last came number 163 – he certainly looked the business! Three – Two – One – GO! 'Whoops' was the cry from the Boss as he maneuvered his way down the slope. His first fall came around Gate 10 when his right ski decided to leave the course. His second fall at Gate 14, he was awarded nine out of ten for a triple somersault followed by a double pike. At the finish the Boss looked quite chuffed with himself and went to tell everyone in the vicinity of his great achievement after only three days of skiing.

Saturday was Race Day. This was the one, all the training over and one race left. Race positions were given – Joe 108, Daz 132, Garry 193, 'Tosh' 223 and Eric 230. The course was set and was extremely long. Joe gave a good account of himself and came in at 1.10, Daz not far behind with 1.12. Garry gave his usual faultless display and effort with 1.28. We needed 'Tosh' to do a sub – 1 min to have any chance of a team trophy, the pressure was really on. After his seventh toilet visit it was his turn to do his bit. With pressure being piled on by Team Captain Joe, 'Tosh' headed off to the start. After the usual barracking by the rest of the team off he went, but minus his usual self-confidence. Down through the first few gates no problem, looking good with his winter woolies on, and size 11 Dr Who boots! Then came the tricky bit of the course and this is where it all went wrong. A civilian entered the course whilst he was in mid tuck/semi snowplough (so he says), losing vital seconds off his pretty average time of 1 min 12 seconds (for a ski instructor). A little while later it was the Boss's turn. He was looking a little more relaxed than during the last race and maneuvered his way through the gates without too much difficulty and finishing with a respectful time (not disclosed, strangely).

As the team sat at the prize giving ceremony it was very noticeable that our table was the only one of about 40 tables with no silverware. Not too downhearted, it was decided that next year was going to be our year and we must start training much earlier.

20 ARMOURED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL SQUADRON (200)

Sqn Comd Maj I. G. Standen
RSM WO1 (RSM) S. Lawes

Since returning from post Op Palatine leave the Squadron has spent a busy few weeks shaking out into our new garages and push starting some reluctant AFV 43's. Is there light at the end of the tunnel? The Squadron welcomes Sgt Corcoran, Cpl Robins, LCpls Sheppard and Nix, Sigs Light, Cannon, Ashdown, Hancock, Brown, Jones and Holmes and congratulates WO2 (YofS) Bill Walker on his selection for promotion, and Capt Rhidian 'Does this mean I'll have to be responsible now?' Jones on his third. The Squadron welcomes its new 2IC, Capt Ben Fitch, last seen cutting his rover free from the perimeter barbed wire of the HQ in the middle of the night during his first Brigade Exercise, and bids a sad farewell to Capt Nick O'Kelly, who conveniently forgot to load the camera with film for his own leaving photos!

CORPS' SKI CHAMPIONSHIPS - by LCpl Mat Coverley

We arrived in Zell-am-See in Austria on the Friday night ready to race on the Monday. LCpl Tony Ramwell and Cpl Si Harris needed the practice so they arrived a week earlier. On the Monday the weather had deteriorated so much that the officials cancelled the race. The day was spent on the smaller slopes drinking hot chocolate and Glüwine. Tuesday was when the action started, and as the previous day had been cancelled, we raced twice in one day which meant a late finish. At the end of the Championships the team won the minor units competition, second in the Slalom and second in the Combined Units. The overall seedings for the members of the team were as follows: LCpl Tony Ramwell was seeded fourth, LCpl Mat Coverly was seeded ninth, Cpl Si Harris was seeded twent-first and Lt Rhid Jones the Team Captain was seeded nineteenth. All gained very good positions ready for the Divisional Championships.

1 (UK) ARMOURED DIVISION SKI CHAMPIONSHIPS
by LCpl 'A' Doyle

After a very successful Corps' Championships the team was ready to take on the best of 1 (UK) Armd Div in Les Contamines in South France. Prior to this we underwent our own pre divisionals in Chamonix. LCpl Tony Ramwell took the team through a rigorous week of ski race training. Chamonix was the perfect resort for this with its bustling nightlife skiing. After a couple of days on the piste we had our legs back in and a hangover or two to boot! On Sunday the 16th we departed Chamonix for Les Contamines and the Divisional Championships. Day One was the Giant Slalom seeding in which everybody moved up the ladder especially Sig Ross Phillips who did especially well considering lack of race experience. After the GS seeding we had the actual race in which I took a nasty fall in the first race but managed to pull it out of the bag for the second. Cpl Si Harris was being his usual self and consistent results got him further up the seedings. Lt Rhid Jones was adamant that being team captain meant that he should win every race! LCpl Tony Ramwell was struck down with a bout of Asian flu and couldn't match his previous times but did well considering. Following the GS came the Downhill in which the Team Captain, who swapped his brains for guts, managed a splendid time to shoot further up the seedings. The Slalom followed the Downhill in which I did well, romping home fastest out of the team, LCpl Ramwell was still suffering and Cpl Harris firmly believed that reverse pirouetting was the way forward! Finally we had the Super G which fazed us all except for Lt Jones who came home in a very good time to take 49th in the individual combination. Congratulations to the team who came a convincing second in the minor units and first in the minor units Super G. We left Les Contamines in good spirits and we are already planning next year's competition.

EXERCISE VINCENZ DASH

'Mad Dogs and English men go out in the mid-day sun', however, only mad Irishmen dream up ideas to run from Banja Luka to Paderborn! The watery summer sun in the Metal Factory made a fine backdrop to such a bold idea. Two months later at 6am on a very wintery morning the idea seemed more stupid than bold. However, Capt Crowther led the lucky eleven out the gates of Banja Luka Metal Factory to begin the epic 1250km (actually it was 1456km thanks to the cunning Slovenian road system!).

Exercise Vincenz Dash began life in Autumn when 1 RHF planned to undertake an identical charity event to their base in Fallingbostel. Never one to let a challenge go by, Capt Crowther picked up the gauntlet and began convincing the lucky volunteers how they would enjoy a run back to Paderborn. The object was to raise DM 17,000.00 for a portable incubator for the St Vincenz Krankenhaus, Paderborn. The unenviable task of coercing people into parting with their hard-earned cash was gainfully accepted by the likes of LCpl 'Oz' Osmond who definitely showed a flair at relieving soldiers from their D Marks. Likewise, on the home front, the rear party was working hard and commandeered some sizeable funds from some generous organisations. Meanwhile the training sessions continued unabated, thanks to the mundane and ritualistic routine that is Op Palatine and to the inventiveness of the PTI, LCpl Douglas of 249 Sig Sqn (AMF (L)). Within no time, it was 3 December 1999 – our final night in Banja Luka. Half the team were quietly getting ready for the early morning start, while the other half had pushed forward to the hand-over point in Croatia. As six o'clock struck on the morning of 4 December, the team began its long haul back to Barker Barracks. The first leg was accompanied by the OC, Maj Standen, who set a nice comfortable pace for Sig Hayley Armour! From then on we were on our own, as the team found its running legs, the racing snakes forged through Koserac, Prijedor and onto Bosanski Novi well within the allotted time. As Sig 'Sprinter' Flannagan stormed into Croatia he met our second team – the admin bus (NOT) headed up by SSgt 'Yucca Brothers' Yates. It would set the tone for the next five days – admin was just not their forte!

Undeterred by some very changeable weather we had ticked Bosnia and Croatia from our list within 24 hours and were heading into the foothills of the Alps. Morale remained high and progress was steady; maintained, no doubt, by an endless supply of Twix and Nutri grain bars donated to us by the NAAFI and supplemented by a wholesome McDonalds meal whenever we could spot the golden arches!!! By the halfway point we had successfully broken the back of the Alps along with our own backs and legs were beginning to ache. Some people just 'grinned and bared it' with the help of some 'Airborne-power' (Cpl McFaul); some assured the team that 'it was all in the mind' (Capt Crowther) and some overcame it by layering their legs with Deep Heat and running backwards (it was very funny Sig Flannagan). The longest stretch was through Germany, so far we had made each checkpoint by eating into out nights sleep but it was worth it. Credit must be given to the police forces of Croatia, Slovenia, Austria and Germany who religiously, at about 3am would confront our bivvies with questions of vagrancy. Luckily a combination of pidgeon German, the luck of the Irish, Jedi Mind Tricks and scruffy fax paper from the various embassies was enough to send them on their way with quizzical smiles and bids of 'Good Luck'. At 2130hrs on Thursday 9 December, with a couple of hours to spare, the exhausted runners ran through the gates of Barker Barracks and straight into the NAAFI for a few well deserved beers and a warm reception party of champagne before heading home for some hot baths. A gruelling six days had been very successful. The anecdotes surrounding this venture, like the niggling injuries, are far too numerous to mention in detail but they will provide many a smile throughout the Squadron for some time to come.

A fitting conclusion to this excellent achievement was held on Saturday 11 Dec 1999 when the team ran/limped/hobbled through Paderborn to the KinderKlinik to present the portable incubator. The event was followed by a warm reception that poured due praise onto all involved. The team included Capt 'Don't worry its all physiological' Crowther, SSgt 'Yucca Brother' Yates, Cpl 'Badge of Courage' McFaul, Cpl 'Mo' Morrison, LCpl Moss, LCpl 'Stray Dog' Osmond, LCpl 'The Journalist' Daley, Sigs 'Pete & Hayley' Armour, Sig 'Chicken' Curry, Sig 'I'm more a 200m sprinter man' Flannagan and Sig Hepworth.

On a serious note, Ex Vincenz Dash was no mean feat. 1456km over five countries in the middle of winter takes a lot of guts, determination, luck and a massive sense of humour. All those who took part definitely showed those qualities to the full. Bosnia can be rather stagnant and soldiers can leave without any sense of achievement for their efforts. I know that the soldiers who returned from Bosnia on foot – tackled something that most others thought was 'mad' and completed it successfully. Well done to all concerned, no doubt I will come looking for you on my next crazy venture. A final Thank-You to all the units that contributed to Vincenz Dash – your donation has gone to a very worthy cause.

33rd ARMY BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIPS 2000
by Sig Jones (Serving Army Champion)

Yet again Army bowlers descended on Leeds for the 33rd Army Bowling Championships. Another huge turnout from all across the globe mixing veterans and serving members, 154 men and 16 women all trying to be the champion. The competition was broken down into singles, doubles and a team event. All the individual scores being added together for the all events with the top six going onto a round robin final. A fantastic effort from everyone with Allan Smith (V) proving to be too good to be stopped by averaging 205 over the whole weekend followed closely by Sig Jones and Kev Horton (V) both with a 203 average. A lot of good games and series where rolled but by far the highest was Mark Anderson (V) hitting a 279 game and a 711 series (three consecutive games).

Results:	Ladies Masters Champion	T. Cavill	714
	Men's Masters Champion	A. Smith	1146
	Serving Army Champion	S. Jones	4679
	Unit All Events Champions	SEME(A)	8447

ALPHA TROOP - by Sig Hepworth
Tp Comd Capt R. Jones
Tp SSgt SSgt M Payne

The rain begins to pour down signalling the return of 20 Armd Bde HQ and Sig Sqn (200) from it's operational tour to Bosnia in December 1999. We begin by reassembling 800m of garage space whilst preparing all vehicles and kit for exercise. With wagons in desperate need of their crews due to a four month deployment to Bosnia, we set about our work. Our first problem was lack of vehicles actually on the road and our second would be the lack of manpower. With a lot of teamwork and effort we deployed for a week of training within six working weeks of our return. For everybody this was a good chance for hands on training and the exercise was concluded with good results leaving us well prepared to deploy with the staff officers the following week. With this final hurdle out of the way we could get back to our vehicles and maybe the odd sports afternoon. The Troop is soon to be losing Capt Jones - the Alpha Tp morale officer, the Squadron barman - Cpl Rushton, LCpl Nolan - the shandy man, Sgt Cade, Sig Kath Blatcher and finally Sgt Steve Mayell. They will all be missed within the Squadron and we wish them the best in their future postings.

BRAVO TROOP - by Sig Flannagan
Tp Comd Lt P. N. Randell
Tp SSgt SSgt J. Crabb

The troops back from another Op tour of Bosnia were eager to get started back at work. This consisted of moving garages and offices from Barker Barracks to STC and getting crews back to wagons for some sorely needed maintenance. With bums to seats, the Troop started prepping the wagons for the inevitable onslaught of exercises which were about to start. With a lack of commanders, drivers and new faces having to learn the hard way, we were able to deploy on our first Exercise having been back at work for only six working weeks since our last Op Tour. The results of this exercise left the Troop with a good base to work from when we inevitably had the staff with us the following week. After being praised by our OC for a job well done we were able to get back to working on the vehicles, having sports afternoons and going on a well organised brewery trip. The Troop has gained a new face in the form of Sig Steve Cannon who is working hard on the Admin wagon. Also we are losing LCpl Steve Bowring, Sig Sarah Booker, LCpl Davey Carnbell, LCpl Andy Moss and Sig Stillie. Best wishes and good luck for the future.

SUPPORT TROOP - by LCpl Crawshaw
Tp Comd Maj (QM) M. Bohanan
Tp SSgt SSgt H. Cappelman

Support Tp have had a very busy period since the unit returned from Bosnia. The QM's Dept have moved from Barker Barracks to join the rest of the Squadron in Antwerp Barracks. As well as being on Exercise Mailed Might and Mailed Maestro the QM's Dept have been busy planting flowers and painting floors. I would like to congratulate Sig Daniel Bishop on going four months between RTA's, the longest period since joining the army, and for coming second on his all Arms Storeman's course. The Troop would also like to say good-bye to LCpl Micky Gorton (RLC) who will be missed just because of his dry sense of humor. Also a good bye and farewell to Sig Booth who has been posted to 1 (UK) Armd Div. We would also like to give a mention to LCpl Mooney because of the amount of work he does (not), Cpl Tyrrell who deserves a mention just so that he can put his hand in his pocket for a change and get the beer's in. Just a quick mention of RQMS Beech because this is the first chance I have had to welcome him to an extremely busy QM's Dept.

MAINTENANCE TROOP - by Sig Albiston
Tp Comd Capt C. Crowther
Tp SSgt SSgt M. Yates

Life in the gene bay has been pandemonium recently, with the mad rush of exercises. However, as usual the amazing Ed's have coped outstandingly despite losing two of their star players, Sig Currie and Sig Maxwell, who are out in Kenya chasing wildlife or something. The arrival of Sig Smith has seen a working rise of body piercing and strange habits. The gene bay is empty most afternoons except for all the junk that Cpl Plant has acquired, as most of the Ed's are out limping around Sennelager training for the Lanyard Trophy. Finally congratulations to LCpl Gaz Manningham on the late arrival of his new motor which will lead to the sad parting of his old shed, never mind someone will buy it Gaz (try the line bay).

4th ARMOURED BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS AND SIGNAL SQUADRON (204)

CO Maj A. H. Campbell-Black
RSM WO1 (RSM) D. W. Craig

SUPPORT TROOP
QM Capt Pete McElwee
Tp SSgt SSgt Paul Buckley

The past few months have been a busy time for the Troop, with Sgt Jim Lyons demanding that all ITDs were completed before the end of March, and the OC that every one was to take their leave before April. Sgt 'Horrid' Ives our URS Sergeant was over the moon when told that all leave had to be taken, this would enable him to visit his girlfriend and therefore would not have to spend up to three hours per night on the phone. Is it true that you have shares in BT Cellnet? On the 22 March the Officers, Warrant Officers and Senior NCOs of the Squadron along with members from the Brigade (not forgetting the Garrison RQMS, Mr Jim Kimber) bid farewell to Capt Martin Smith MBE, Sgt Gordon Quigley and their families. The evening was enjoyed with some excellent food, washed down with a small amount of drink. (Yes we have seen the advert on television with regards to alcohol)

ADVENTURE TRAINING

In March Sgt Jim Lyons held an Adventure Training week in Wertach (Southern Germany). Sgt Mick Pryce, Sig Daz Burdon, Sig Fran Francis, Sig Leroy Thewlis, Sig Steve Custy and Sig Billy Conley all left for a well-earned break from the busy life within the Squadron. Day One was a laugh for the first timers, when asked to shuffle forward some went backwards and the rest of us went everywhere. There were legs every where. By mid week we were getting to grips skiing, Sig Daz Burdon thought he was the 'Eddie the eagle of the 2000's' and was throwing himself off mountains: you could not stop him and the only way he could stop himself was to turn into a human snowball. Everyone had a good time and some of us have even agreed to do it again - it certainly beats working for a living.

WELCOMES & FAREWELLS

The Troop would like to give a warm welcome to the following and their families: Our new QM, Capt Pete McElwee, Sgt John Pozzi, Cpl Chris Heap, Cpl Colin Teale, LCpl Gameson, Sig Gordon Tait and not forgetting our new chef from the Green Howards, Pte 'Slops' Murtagh. Enjoy your time here and remember you only get back what you put in.

It is always a sad time when the Troop have to say farewell those who have decided to say goodbye to the Army or those that are posted and we have had to say farewell to a few: The Troop wish the following and their families all the best for the future. Capt Martin Smith MBE, Sgt Gordon Quigley, Cpl Sean Middleton Cpl Stubby Knowles, Cpl Stu Reynolds, Cpl Gordon Nimmo and Sig Nige Wilcox's.

CONGRATULATIONS & PROMOTIONS

We would like to congratulate Sig 'Angge' Angus and his girlfriend on the birth of their son Christopher. Well done to you both.

The past few months have seen some promotions in Support Tp with Capt Martin Smith selected for promotions to Major, WO2 (RQMS) McNaught to WO1, SSgt Paul Buckley to WO2, Sgt Spike Hughes and Sgt Jim Lyons to Staff Sergeant and LCpl (now Cpl) Pete Dugmore. Well done to all of you, who said that you will never get promoted in an Armd Bde HQ & Sig Sqn.

PAPA TROOP - by LCpl Craig Eden
Tp Comd 2Lt Dave Hill
Tp SSgt SSgt Paul Davis

It has been another hectic period for the Troop since returning from Christmas leave. This year started with a concentrated few weeks of preparation for second lines which was made all the more difficult with most of the guys away on courses for the Squadron's deployment to Bosnia in June. With second lines out of the way we then faced RSIT, so every effort was made to do all the second line jobs as the Ops team had set a challenge, the best reports for each vehicle (type) crew would receive a long weekend. The Troop won best 436, LCpl Scott Rose and Sig Jim Findlay, well done Scott and Jim (that's a crate for the Troop), the Troop also received best 439 for Cpl Lee Robertson and best rover det was won by Sig Lucy Corlett. This year has also seen three of our guys get promoted, myself (LCpl Craig Eden) and Sig Scott 'Robo' Robertson to Lance Corporal and LCpl Marcus 'Polly' Pollitt to Corporal (that's three more crates)! Two guys where posted from the unit Sig Neil 'Mal' Mallaburn to 249 Sig Sqn and Sig Stu Plant to 15 Sig Regt good luck lads, also LCpl Robertson moved to Oscar Tp. Oh, we went on an all-inclusive mini exercise Monday to Thursday, which was fun! So as this edition comes to a close, the Troop is either away adventure training, on courses, or with the remainder staying behind and holding the fort.
